Gold Star Awards Are Among Many Won By Youth of County

The highest honor which can go to a Four-H club boy or girl, the Gold Star award, was presented to two Eastland County youths Saturday at the annual Eastland County 4-H Rally held in the Eastland High School auditorium.

MOORE about... EASTLAND

by Virgil E. Moore

We who enjoy the legitimate theater can certainly look forward to a wonderful week Friday the Junior Class will present "Papa Says No" and Saturday the Sam Houston College

Junior Play Is Friday

The Junior Class will present a three act comedy, "Papa Says No," Friday at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Young ladies of today are inclined to have minds of their own, so exciting results are bound to occur when wealthy, dictatorial Mr. Page decides to end his daughter Janet's romance with Jack Prescott by taking her for a trip to Florida.

When Jack finds out what is happening, things begin to look complicated for him. So what does he do but take a plane to Florida. To prevent Mr. Page's knowing he is there, Jack masquerades as a waitress in the hotel coffee shop. All of which would be just fine, except for nosey Miss Luella Watts, a guest at the hotel. A very lucky incident occurs that solves the difficulty to everyone's satisfaction and complete enjoyment.

Tickets are being sold by the Junior Class members. They are 50 cents for adults and 35 cents for students and will also be on sale at the door Friday night.

Kerman Bond, band director, will direct the play. Members of the cast are Elton Williams, Katy Williamson, Clinton Ray Humphreys, Judy Inzer, Sandy Taylor, Seba Williams, Perry Miller, Jerry Hallmark, Patricia Fullen, Gaila Walters, Nancy Beck, Jamie Stamey, Laura Harris, Clarence Mayers and Rosemary Jones.

Eastland Co. Bond Sales In March Total $226,762

Eastland county bought $226,726 in Series E and H bonds during the month of March, according to a recent report from the Treasury Department.

The county lead all other counties in the district except Taylor, which reported sales totaling $1,380,000.

Nolan county sales amounted to $143,248, coming in third in the district.

Sales in the Fort Worth area, including Eastland county, totaled $2,535,814, representing the second highest amount of any area in the state. The Houston area was first.

Sales in Texas increased over 10 percent during the first three months of 1958, compared to the same period in 1957. Bond sales for March, alone, increased 11.7 percent above sales for March, 1957.

City Trucks to Aid In Clean Up Drive

The City of Eastland announces plans this week for special service to aid in the clean up campaign being sponsored here by the Civic League and the Rotary Club.

The following letter was mailed to all local citizens:

"The Concentrated Clean Up—Fix Up—Paint Up—Campaign, is in full swing during the month of April and May. As has been the custom each year, the City employees will concentrate their full time and efforts during the week of May 5 through May 10.

"We will have two flat bed trucks, plus the regular carbon truck picking up trash, brush and small rocks that can be handled by two men. But in order for the City to do a better job in picking up the brush and trees, it should be cut up so that it can be easily loaded on one of these flat bed trucks.

"We will start Monday morning, May 5th and we will pass each residence ONLY ONCE. It will be impossible for our trucks to make a second trip to each house, so please have all trash prepared either on the curb or in the alley by this date where it can be reached. The small trash can best be handled in a box or other container.

"Remember to have all trash out and ready to be picked up by Monday, May 5.

"Thanks for your cooperation."

Refreshments will be sold in the concession stand, and the admission price is 50c. Children under school age will be admitted free. Tickets are now on sale.

Commissioners Hear Reports of County HD Agents

Eastland County Commissioners had something different Monday—a meeting with little to do.

Commissioners heard reports from two Home Demonstration agents and listened to Mrs. Marene Johnson, Eastland postmaster, report on rural mail route roads. Mrs. Johnson praised commissioners for their aid in seeing that the mail is delivered. She also pointed out some spots where rural postmen have been having trouble.

MYSTERY FARM—This is the first of a series of aerial photographs of Eastland County farms which will be published in this newspaper each Tuesday. In all 52 farms were photographed. Not even the editor knows whose farms were selected. The first person who correctly identifies the picture will receive two passes to the Majestic Theatre. And the owner of the farm will receive a free mounted enlargement of the farm if he calls at the newspaper office.

Teenagers Will Play Organized Ball Here!

Eastland's teenagers will play baseball this year. That much was assured last night at a well attended meeting of the Teenage League in the Texas Electric Service Co. conference room.

Officers of the Association were named, managers for both teams volunteered, committees to re-work Firemen's Field were named, and a sponsor for the older boys stepped forward.

M. G. Cartwright was chosen president of the league, Gerald Ables was named vice president and Lois Dunlap is secretary-treasurer.

Cartwright will manage the 13-14 year old boys and Ables the 15-16 year olds. Both will have at least two assistants. The Eastland National Bank will sponsor the older team and buy new uniforms and equipment at the cost of from $250 to $300. The 13-14 year olds still have uniforms left over from last year's team, with the exception of one uniform.

The YMCA stepped forward to pledge their financial assistance, saying a minimum of $50 would be forthcoming. And the Quarterback Club added another $200 to see that boys don't reach a dead end on their 13th birthday.

Committees were named by Cartwright to get work on Firemen's Field done. Larry Kinard was put in charge of the Lighting

Gray Matter

By JOE GRAY

The clop, clop of a horse's hoof hasn't been heard on the pavement of an Eastland street in a long time now. But it hasn't been so long though that since a horse used to make the ice route in Our Town.

The first time I ever went with my father to buy ice we bought it from an ice car on the tracks of the T and P. The ice was shipped in from Fort Worth and cars of it were set off on a siding four or five blocks west of the passenger station.

In those days we would pay a dollar a hundred for a piece of ice and were glad to get it. Most of us had our own ice hooks and we'd put the ice on the running boards of our cars and bring the cold stuff home to store away in the ice box or to use in making some homemade ice cream.

Later the electric people here built their own ice plant just east of the Magnolia bulk plant. I think they now use the site of the ice plant for storing utility poles and other supplies of that nature.

Deliveries were made from horsedrawn wagons to all sections of town. The horsedrawn cart for house-to-house delivery hasn't been improved on yet.

As a small boy I used to watch the icemen make his rounds in our neighborhood. Some of the icemen I was well acquainted with. It was a job that high-school athletes liked to take in the summertime as it helped keep them in condition for the football season.

The plant manufactured the ice in 300-pound blocks, each block divided up into 100-pound units and each of these basic units further divided into 12 1-2 pound units. These units were division marked on the ice where

Delores Tanner Returns Home to Present Play

Dolores Tanner, director of Sam Houston State College's touring comedy, to be presented Saturday night in the Eastland High School auditorium "Roadside," has long been an enthusiastic admirer of the Southwest's playwright, Lynn Riggs.

She became acquainted with Riggs' plays, including "Roadside," while working with the Hedgerow Repertory Theatre near Philadelphia. It is her considered opinion that Riggs never received due credit for his play "Green Grow The Lilacs" on which the smash musical "Oklahoma" was based. Miss Tanner feels that Riggs has never been wholly accepted in his native Southwest and her aim is to publicize the playwright in every way possible.

At Hedgerow, which produced many of the Riggs plays when he was first gaining prominence, Miss Tanner played in "Rancor" and "Cheerless Night" in addition to helping stage other plays by him.

In directing "Roadside," Miss Tanner's main requirement has been to produce "simple and best life behaviors and the joy of life."

"I want vitality and generosity in stage," she announced at the outset of rehearsals. Her approach to the show has been toward revealing its true nature as a risible fantasy in western life.

Former Eastland Woman Elected WSCS President

Mrs. C. Keith Beyette was elected president of Woman's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist Church of Fort Worth in a recent meeting at the church.

She will be installed at a luncheon at 10 a.m. May 6 in Memorial Chapel of the Church. Mrs. C. E. Dewees, president of Fort Worth District West, WSCS will be installing officer.

Elizabeth Perkins Beyette is a graduate of Eastland High School in 1936. At the present time is serving as vice-president of the Fort Worth City Federation Clubs, and is president of the Fort Worth Alumnae Chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta. She has been president of the Bible section of the Fort Worth junior Woman's Club and as president of Beauxarts Club. Her daughter, Emily Jean graduates from Polytechnic High School this year and has been elected to the National Honor Society. She is also a member of the Science Organizations of her school and will attend North Texas State College in September.

Mrs. Plummer Is Elected Head of Midland Club

Mrs. G. A. Plummer, former Eastland woman, has been elected president of the Midland Woman's Club which fits into her position as executive officer of 15 women's clubs in Midland, more than 15 years.

The attractive grandmother learned how to handle the president's gavel as president of the Modern Study Club last year. Her presidency experience also includes being president of the First Baptist Sunday School Class department.

This year she was alternate director to the executive board of the Woman's Club, representing the Past presidents club of which she is a member.

Besides having experience with the president's gavel, she also is good with bookkeeping and mathematical figures. This is one reason, she laughingly explained, for her being elected treasurer to the Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club in 1952 and following with the same office in the Welcome Wagon Oldtimers Club in 1957.

Her first election as treasurer came soon after she had moved to Midland from Eastland where she had lived 25 years. Her job for 11 years in Eastland had been with the Eastland National Bank, so she says the club thought she would be a good selection as treasurer.

K. B. Tanner, father of Dolores Tanner, who will direct the play, flew to Huntsville with Mr. and Mrs. Don Russell over the weekend to see "Roadside." Tanner admitted he was not completely without bias, but he praised the production very highly.

The penmanship and artwork in the letter are certainly something to see. And this letter is signed, the writer identifying himself as Atlas Wilson. We checked our phone book and city directory and cannot find an Atlas Wilson listed. This could be a pen name. If it is we certainly have no objection to using it, but would like for the writer to make himself known to the editor. A phone call please...

it would cut easy. A few chips with an ice pick and the ice broke along the natural lines of one of these basic units. So if the customer wanted 100 pounds all the iceman had to do was chip off one of the 100 pound units and the ice was ready to put into the customer's icebox. These units weighed the correct amount.

In order that the iceman would know how much ice the customer wanted each morning the customer would place a sign provided by the ice company in the front window, front door, or some conspicuous place, showing how much was wanted. These signs were adjustable in that they were 12 1/2 pounds up to as much as 100 pounds.

To pay for the ice most customers bought ice coupon books and left them hanging next to their iceboxes for the iceman to tear out the number of coupons to pay the ice.

Most of the ice wagons that worked out street were one-horse wagons. One horse can pull a awfully heavy load as long as he doesn't have to pull it up any hills. These horses get pretty smart as time passes and they learned their routes. They used to stop at exactly the same spot every day. For example, when the iceman made deliveries at our house he usually got the Robeys, the Fergusons, the Perkins, from the same stop. The horse knew this and he would wait until all three houses were worked before he would move. But while the iceman took the block of ice to the last of these three houses he was going to work on any given day the horse moved up, without being told or without anyone at all getting him to move, to the next stop and patiently wait for the driver-iceman to make the next delivery.

This is one reason a horse is more effective on house-to-house delivery, where all houses in a neighborhood are to be serviced, than any form of transportation that has replaced the horse-drawn carriage. A horse can think; an automobile can't.

Actually, it wasn't the automobile that ran the horse out of the ice delivery business. Horses were used right here in Eastland in this type of work until about the time of the last Great Depression, perhaps sometime in the thirties. I'm almost sure they were still in operation by the time I finished high school, 1931, and if I remember correctly, Buzz Daniel used to deliver ice from a horse-drawn cart. Raymond Overby used to deliver ice and he isn't so much older than I am. He delivered while he was still a student in high school to help keep himself in shape for football.

Almost all of the athletes of the 20s and early 30s worked for the ice company at some time or other. Handling 100-, 200-, and 300-pound blocks of ice is splendid conditioning.

Finally, through the mechanical refrigeration managed to do what the auto couldn't do, run the ice wagon out of business.

As more and more people bought electrical boxes and made their own ice it became unprofitable to deliver by horse. For a while the ice company tried to take care of its remaining customers by auto truck, but finally that too became unprofitable and the only way for ice customers to get ice was to go after it themselves. That's the method used here for a long time.

We kids used to welcome the sight of the horse-drawn ice wagon and in the summertime we used to sit on the curbs watching the iceman make his rounds and the horse take care of the stops without anyone telling him when and where to stop.

Although the ice wagon is the forever gone relic of another era, faded into the past like all the other outmoded things of history, we who used to love to see the iceman cometh can think of one thing to say about the ice of that day.

Your ice today may be made right at home in your own machine but in those days we had ice made of distilled water. That's something we can't say about our ice today.

out any of the "sickness" which usually is apparent when the play is produced farcically.

"Our production of 'Roadside' is slanted toward revealing what the playwright intended—an unsophisticated story of healthy and free people; a burlesquing of the American court system and the eternal conflict between the freedom-loving cowhand and the farmer," she stated.

Before going on the road, the production had a three-day run at Sam Houston State College.

Miss Tanner has wide experience in all phases of theatre work. As an actress and technical worker with Hedgerow Theatre, she was a member of the company for 16 years, working under Jasper Deeter, who founded the theatre.

A newcomer to college teaching circles, she is currently in her second year as assistant professor of speech and drama at Sam Houston. In addition to directing one show annually, Miss Tanner is the department's technical director. Her wide range of experience in set building, lighting and other stage work has been invaluable to the department.

Theatre has been Miss Tanner's life since she first became associated with Hedgerow in 1938. Born in San Luis Potosi, Mexico, she was reared in West Texas at Eastland, where she was graduated from high school.

Following her college career at Texas State College for Women, where she majored in speech, she tried teaching in secondary schools for two years before deciding definitely on a career in theatre.

At Hedgerow, she became a member of the Repertory, and later a corporate participant when the theatre became incorporated. Under Deeter's direction, the Hedgerow Theatre became known as America's foremost Repertory Theatre. When Hedgerow closed temporarily three years ago, Miss Tanner returned to Texas to take a master's degree in history and criticism of the theatre at the University of Texas. Her thesis was biography of Jasper Deeter's life.

Since coming to Sam Houston, Miss Tanner has handled technical supervision of such productions as "You Can't Take It With You," "Merchant of Venice," "Arms and the Man," which she also directed, "Ladies in Retirement,"

"Twelfth Night," and "The Beautiful People."

With the production of "Roadside," Miss Tanner will be completing her work at Sam Houston. At the end of the current school year, she plans to return to Hedgerow, which is scheduled to reopen. It was Hedgerow, incidentally, which reproduced successfully "Roadside," and kept it in repertory for several years after it had failed on Broadway in the early 30's.

The play is being presented by the Eastland Quarterback Club.

Chasing the Fire Trucks-

... is an old American custom, even an international tradition. It all started when the first fire wagons drawn by hand and horse were invented years ago. This foolish pastime has grown with the years until today it is not only a nuisance but a problem of gigantic proportions. Such a practice costs many lives and thousands of dollars in property values every year. Why do we do it? Nobody knows. Its silly, folks, so let's quit it, thereby leaving the streets and alleys open for the boys who fight our fires.
