POSITIVE THINGS ABOUT MULESHOE

CofC Leads Park, Clean-Up Effort

Unless you are living in a vacuum, you are probably well aware that many good things are going on in and around Muleshoe -- and that the city is pulling together in an effort to make major changes.

One of the positive things is the planned kickoff of a major 'Clean-up' campaign, expected to get underway Friday, May 1.

After a lot of planning and preliminary work, the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture is heading up the city-wide clean-up campaign.

Designed to last through the entire month of May, and just before the tourist season, when hundreds to thousands of tourists from across the nation start driving through the City of Muleshoe, the campaign has been designed to leave a good look for the tourists, as well as for our own local residents.

Fred Clements is heading up the campaign for the city, and has already been in the process of contacting owners of business property along Highway 84.

Old trees will be cut down and hauled away, lots will be cleaned up, and trash and grown up weeds will be removed. Clements already has permission to remove junk items, and the city will be moving down tall weeds.

Both the city and state have agreed to fully cooperate in the effort, as they will be doing more spraying of weeds.

City Code Enforcement Officer Della Snell has been working closely with the CofC and many letters have been written to property owners to secure their permission to remove junk and debris, such as mobile home shells, from the residential areas.

Toni Eagle, manager of the Muleshoe CofC, says this effort will take the cooperation and assistance of everyone in the city. She urges schools, clubs, city and county organizations, to 'Adopt A Lot,' and agree to keep it clean and beautify it.

If you know of problem lots, or problem areas, call Code Officer Snell at the Muleshoe City Police Department, 272-4569; the Muleshoe City Hall at 272-4528, or the CofC at 272-4248.

Newly designed black and white trash containers will be spotted throughout the city, and will be provided by the designer, Roy Farley, at a low cost.

As tourism is the number one industry in Texas, Mrs. Eagle commented, "If we can get the people (tourists) to stop and open their car door, the chances are they will leave money here. And, if our city looks attractive to them, they will probably stop to look around."

YES youth will be available to help in the clean-up, and although they are paid for their services, they should prove to be invaluable, especially to older persons.

Tim McCormick is heading up the Residential Area Clean-up; Fred Clements, the Business District; Marjorie Merritt, the Beautification; and Toni Eagle and Della Snell have combined their efforts on Lot Clearing and Publicity.

RV PARK

Another CofC project nearing completion is the planned RV Park. Mrs. Eagle said an acre of land has been donated for the RV park location. It is adjacent to the Bailey County Civic Center, behind Robert D. Green Inc., and has all utilities on the land except for a sewer.

At least six places for RVs will be in the initial Park, and if a need is shown for additional parking, the park can be expanded.

Agriculture Discussed At Lions Club

Members of the Muleshoe Lions Club and their guests had a special treat Wednesday at noon when they heard Stan Ray of Texas Tech University, Lubbock, discuss 'International Agriculture.'

Ray, 22, is a junior at TT where he is studying agricultural communications as an agricultural education major. He is a native of Robert Lee.

As a member of the Future Farmers of America, he was chapter president and Area II President for two years before serving as a 1983-84 State Vice President of the 59,000 member Texas FFA. As a state FFA officer, he travelled over 20,000 miles throughout the state motivating young people and representing agricultural youth.

He spoke of the cultural differences in Europe, and of the difference in women, food, and the speed limit.

Ray said his overall impression of European people while touring that country boosting the FFA programs was that they were all very friendly, although the countries were approximately 20 years behind the times.

According to Ray, most of the people did not feel that they needed modern conveniences, and that, even though Europe produces 40 percent of the world's agriculture.

The speaker reminded that modern technology only started going to Europe with the onset of World War II, and at that time, some of the farming slowly began to change to mechanization, with control for insects and disease in crops.

SEAFOOD A SPRING FOOD FEATURE -- Excellent supplies of farm-raised catfish, gulf coast seafood and canned fish are coming in just in time to match Texas' yearning for seafood as the weather begins to warm. Retail prices range from about $1.50 to $2.70 per pound, depending upon location in the state. Farm-raised catfish supplies are excellent and should hit their peak in April. Church Sponsors Golden Cross Bike Rally

Each year the First United Methodist Church sponsors a Bike-A-Thon to raise money for Golden Cross. Golden Cross is a fund set up to provide health care at Methodist Hospital for those who cannot afford to pay.

It's time to pedal those bikes again. In the past church have had a Bike-A-Thon where participants rode 10-25 miles at so much money pledged for each mile. This year you won't have to pedal as far as in the past (unless you get lost) because this year they are going to have a Bike Rally instead.

What is a Bike Rally, you ask? For starters it's lots of fun! You will ride your bikes to various locations across town, searching for clues and answering questions to gain points and lead you along the route. There are a possible 100 points to be earned and best of all, Trophies will be awarded for first place in each category. Better yet, you don't have to be the first one back to win the trophy because the points are based mostly on the questions and clues that you answer along the route. So Slowpokes--this year is your chance to bring home a trophy.

Each participant will need a pledge sheet for them to use to keep up with the pledges they get. They must take the pledge sheet to the Rally to be eligible for a trophy. The pledges can be from anyone--they don't necessarily have to be FUMC members. Instead of pledging per mile the pledges will be based on points to be earned.

There are a possible 100 points. So if they pledge ten cents per point and you earn all 100 points, they will owe $10.00. Likewise, five cents per point would be $5.00 etc. Some might want to make one time donation of five or ten dollars, etc., regardless of the number of points you earn.

Also there will be a trophy awarded for the most pledges collected. So get on the phone, go see your next door neighbor,

Texas A&M scientists emphasize importance of lean beef to cattle industry

COLLEGE STATION -- Fat is out, lean is in and cattlemen who don't know the difference may find themselves out of business, say beef researchers at Texas A&M University.

"The survivors in the beef industry are ready to produce the beef products that are meeting health guidelines and responding to consumer demands," says Dr. H. Russell Cross, an animal scientist specializing in lean beef studies. "The 'new breed' of beef producer is listening to and working closely with health professionals to produce a product that will be a positive contribution to the health and well-being of the consumer."

The new beef product has been in development the past few years through genetic research, said Cross. It meets the American Heart Association dietary guidelines for limiting total fat and cholesterol, he added.

Cross, Dr. Jeff W. Savell, Dr. Gary Smith and other researchers of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES) at Texas A&M conducted the National Consumer Retail Beef Study (NCRBS) with the assistance of the Beef Industry Council and The National Cattlemen's Association.

"The most significant result of the study was that consumers believe that beef products are too fat," Cross reported, adding that the consumers' definition of leanness is related to the fat left on their plate, not differences in marbling. He said the image of beef was improved as more trimmable fat was removed.

"Efforts to reduce the fatness of beef without sacrificing eating quality should be a common goal of all meat and animal scientists," Cross said.

Doing favors for others is habit-forming, in both directions.

talk to your friend across the alley, beat down the doors and get all the pledges you can!!!

Participants will meet at the First United Methodist Church at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, May 2. Instead of competing individually, you will compete in teams of two only. So find a friend to ride wity you, give them a pledge sheet, and let's have some fun! If you can't find someone to ride with go anyway and you will be paired up with someone.

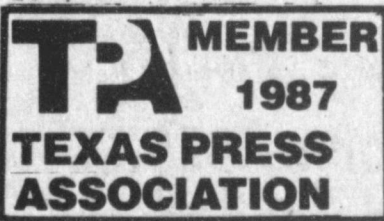

Also, the Bike Rally is open to anyone who wants to ride. You are asked to encourage all of your friends to join in the fun and help the Golden Cross Fund. You will be required to have at least $5.00 in pledges to compete for a trophy.

For your pledge sheets or if you need more information you are asked to call Susan or Jimmy at 272-5901.

Miss Donaldson, Bickel United In Marriage

Miss Twila Romaine Donaldson became the bride of Bradley Harold (Cheyenne) Bickel in a candlelight ceremony Saturday, March 14 at 7 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Farwell. Bro. Pat Riley, pastor, read the double ring vows. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Donaldson of Farwell and Ms. Helen Bickel and Benny Bickel, both of Muleshoe. Vows were exchanged before an archway with seven candles decorated with lemon greenery and multi-colored flowers of pink carnations, teal blue baby breath. White wedding bells hung from the center of the archway. Floral baskets of white gladiolus, pink carnations and teal and ivory baby breath were on either side of the staggered seven candle candelabras. Zelda Ellison of Lockney, aunt of the bride; and Kevin and Carolyn Wiseman of Snyder sang "If You Say My Eyes Are Beautiful", "To Me", "Together", and "The Lord's Prayer". Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white antique satin illusion and English net featuring a Victorian neckline. The fitted bodice was accented with silk Venise lace motifs and pearls, and legmutton sleeves. The dropped waistline was attached to a full flowing skirt with a ruffle and lace hem holding a chapel length train. The bride chose a garden hat with a waist length veil, with seed pearls and a pearl and silk flower decorative piece at the back.

Her cascading bouquet consisted of white roses with steph., teal silk baby's breath and pink pixie carnations with grapevine ivy. In keeping with tradition, she carried an old handkerchief which belonged to her maternal grandmother, for something old. Something new was her dress and veil, something borrowed was pearls that belonged to her grandmother, Dorothy Donaldson, and something blue was the traditional blue garter, made by her grandmother, Dorothy Donaldson. She wore pennies in her shoes minted in the couple's year of birth. On the way to the altar the bride presented her grandmother, Mrs. Dorothy Donaldson, with a long stem red rose and her mother with a red rose. On her way out she presented the groom's mother with a long stem red rose.

Dana White of Farwell, cousin of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Sherilyn Thigpen of Farwell and Terestia Moore of Lubbock. Jessica Isam of Austin was flower girl.

All of the bride's attendants were attired in Teal taffeta off the shoulder gowns with spaghetti straps accented with a bow at the waist and were tea length. They also wore shoes to match. They carried a single long stem ivory rose with teal ribbon. The maid of honor carried two long stem ivory roses with teal ribbon.

B.H. Bickel, grandfather of the groom, of Muleshoe served as best man. Groomsmen were Trent Hysinger of Lubbock and Hector Garcia of Muleshoe. Jarod Lee Amstead of Duncan, Okla. was ring bearer. Ushers were Joe Donaldson, cousin of the bride of Wolforth; Richard Carpenter, cousin of the bride of Farwell; and Steve Claybrook and Scott Bickel, brothers of the groom of Muleshoe.

The groom wore a black tux with black cummerbund and bow tie and his corsage was an ivory rose. His attendants wore black tuxes with teal cummerbund and teal bow tie. Their corsages were ivory carnations.

Jennifer Decker of Guymon, Okla., cousin of the bride, registered the guests.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. Members of the houseparty included: Linda Geries, David and Carolyn George, Myrna Lingnaw, Cynthia Thigpen and Dorris White.

Servers were Jennifer Decker of Guymon and Angie White of Farwell, cousins of the bride. The three tier ivory wedding cake was decorated with teal roses topped with a Precious Moments bride and groom. Punch and coffee, teal napkins with crystal punch bowl and serving plates completed the setting.

Following a wedding trip to Purgatory Ski Resort, the couple will make their home in Plainview.

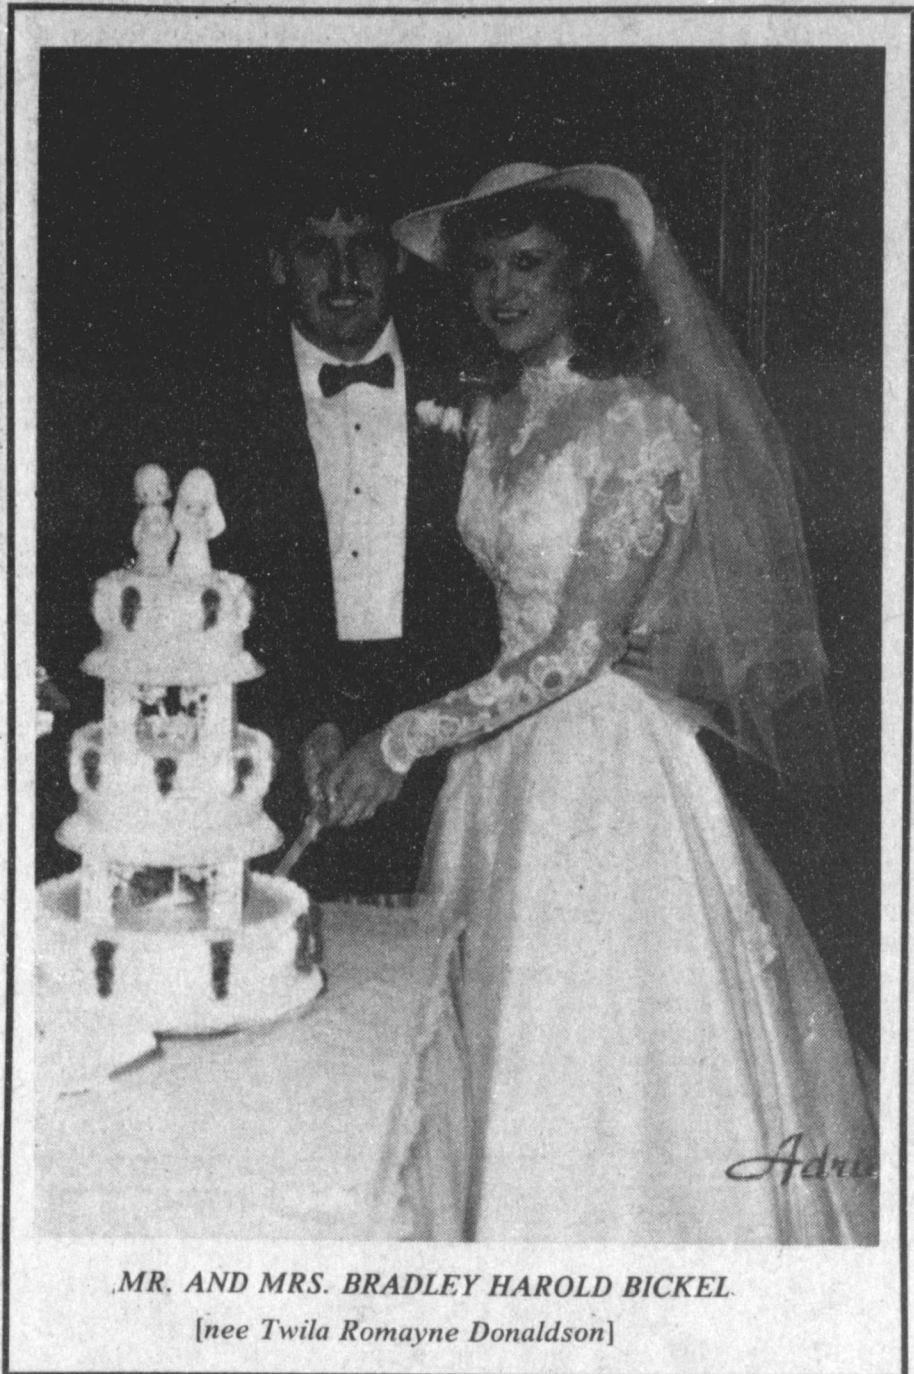

The bride attends Wayland Baptist University and is employed at the University Book Store. Bickel attends Texas Tech University in Lubbock and is employed at Dominoes Pizza.

Out of town wedding guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Joe Childs of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Windy Williams and Lori of White Deere, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Decker, Jennifer and Jeff of Guymon, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Larry Donaldson, Joe and Jay of Wolforth, and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Robison and Scott of Durango, Colo., Mr. and Mrs. Lee Diver of Lubbock and Gerald and Teresa Umstead of Duncan, Okla.

The groom's father hosted a rehearsal dinner at the fellowship hall on Friday night. A meal consisting of brisket, beans, salad, rolls and cheese cake was served.

Library News

by Anne Camp

I would like to thank all who came and visited during Library Week and bought books from the sale. The remainder of these books will continue to be for sale for another week. "I believe the Study Club did very well, but if anyone missed it, they can just go on back and browse and buy". The bid on the encyclopedias went to Joy Glover. She was delighted to get them.

I would also like to thank the news media for all the good publicity we had before and during Library Week, and I would like to thank the ladies of the Study Club for sponsoring and working at the book sale. Then too, I would like to thank everyone who brought crocheted collars for the display case. Thanks so very much!

Appreciation goes to the boys and girls who brought their History Fair projects to show at the library. These projects may now be picked up.

The library has a new video program on the IRS-W-4 form and how to prepare it. We now have about 36 children's videos that may be checked out over night for home showing, and we will be happy to book movies for club and church meetings, if you turn in your request a week ahead.

STEADFAST...OVER THE LONG HAUL...THAT'S US!

We know that most banks are pretty much alike. Some have more branches than others, while all offer the same kinds of accounts, the same basic interest rates, the same financial programs. If there's a difference between banks, it's got to be the way a bank takes care of its customers.

And here's where we lay claim to the successful growth and dependability of our bank .. in the professional, prompt, attentive and interested service we like to give every customer of ours.

Regardless of whether you keep your checking account with us or make us responsible for watching over a multi-million dollar business, we're steadfast over the long haul! We Love Muleshoe!

Heavy equipment for levelling the land has been donated, and welders, a ditcher, and pipe have been volunteered.

In speaking of imports and exports, Ray told his audience that the U. S. is the second largest importer of ag products in the world.

Even with European farms being very small, and most of the larger farms being no larger than 60 acres, 14 percent of the population of Italy is involved in farming, nine percent in France, ten and a half percent in Austria -- and only two percent of the U. S. are involved in farming.

He also said it's very hard to find a steak in Europe as Europeans are not geared to beef. They lean toward pork and poultry, he added.

Ray told the Lions that everybody involved in import-export should sit down at the table and work out some rules that would be fair to everybody.

Lion President Troy Stegmoller introduced guests, Jay McKay, Wanda Wiley, Gayle Turner, Dewey Moore, a prospective member, and Clea Williams.

He also announced a director's meeting for Friday noon, and briefly discussed the possibility of purchasing a PA system for the Civic Center meeting with "that other club that meets on Tuesday." The proposal was tabled for further checking.

State Senator Bill Sarpalus sent a large Texas flag with a certificate stating it flew over the state capitol on Texas Independence Day in the Sesquicentennial Year, 1986.

Larry Hagman sent an autographed script from 'Dallas' with an autographed picture and a bogus $1,000 bill.

Received from Lady Bird Johnson was a pen with President Johnson's insignia.

Michael Landon sent an autographed copy of 'Highway to Heaven' and Robert Redford sent an autographed, illustrated book, 'The Outlaw Trail.'

Also, numerous other items have been donated by local merchants and artists. Included are airplane and helicopter rides.

All during the day at the Civic Center, the Jennyslippers will be operating a concession stand. Available will be barbecue plates, sandwiches, hot dogs, nachos, drinks. Chairs and tables will be available to sit and eat and visit, and to watch the auction as it progresses.

There will be a three night limit at the RV park to avoid permanent parking in the RV park, except in the case of unusual circumstances. This was explained as being someone with illness in the family and needing longer parking privileges.

Also, as their is no 'dump site' for RV's, a dump station will be built at the RV park.

On-site signs will be constructed, designating services and activities available to the visitors.

Mrs. Eagle said many offers for beautifying and maintaining the location are coming in.

Assisting with the project, which is expected to be open and operational by July, is the City Parks and Recreation Department; th Muleshoe City Police and the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture.

Health Vital To Replacement Cattle Herd

Whether buying or raising replacement heifers, health of the beef herd is vital to a successful cattle operation, says Spencer Tanksley, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Heifers can usually be bought for less than they can be raised. Buying replacements, however, increases the risk of introducing disease into the herd and makes genetic progress difficult. On the other hand, raising and breeding heifers creates an extra group of cattle to be managed.

The beef producer must optimize production while preventing losses due to disease and management problems, and usually the best program is a balance between the risk of disease and the cost of protection.

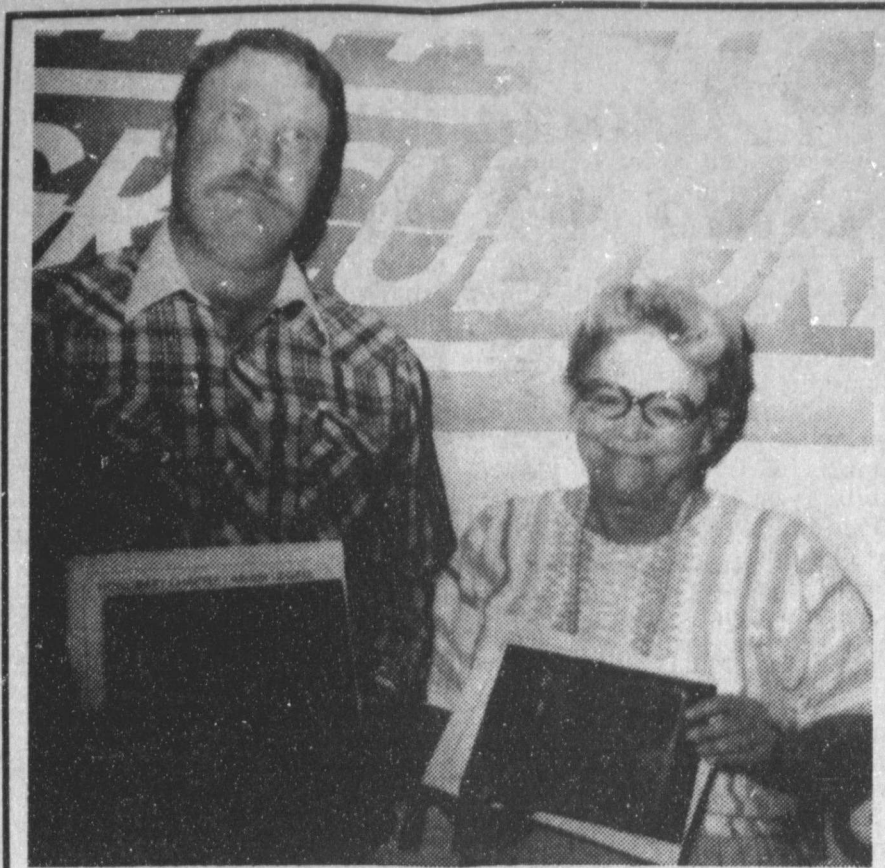

It is impossible to separate a good health program from good nutritional and reproductive programs, Tanksley emphasizes. So, replacement heifers should be chosen for reproductive efficiency, disease resistance and feed conversion efficiency.

Weaning is one of the greatest stresses put on a calf, so other stressful procedures, such as vaccination and parasite control, should precede or follow weaning by at least three weeks.

A vaccination program should be handled properly so a cattleman will not lose money, says Tanksley. Proper vaccination procedures are a must. This means reading the vaccine label and following instructions completely. Keep vaccines refrigerated, even during use, and keep them out of direct sunlight. Make sure vaccine combinations are compatible. Vaccinate animals at the right age and the right time of year. And do not use disinfectants such as alcohol with modified live virus vaccines.

For specific preventive medicine practices for the beef herd, Tanksley recommends consulting a veterinary practitioner.

Why is it that tomorrow is so full of good working hours?

A&M Aggie Muster

Held On April 21

It was both a sad and a happy occasion for the Texas A&M Aggie Club of this area Tuesday night, when they met together at the Hungry Mule Steak House for the annual Aggie Muster.

Going back to World War II, it was decreed that anytime any two Aggie's are within 100 miles of each other, they are to meet together on April 21 each year to honor their fallen, fellow ex-students.

After Gary Hooten, local president, opened the meeting, and following brief remarks by Aggie Muster Chairman for 1987, Bill Liles, Zana Huckaby was called upon to present the history of the Aggid Muster.

Zanna was recipient of an A&M Scholarship, along with other scholarships and is a student at Texas A&M University. However, she is at home recuperating from a broken neck received in a vehicle accident. She will be returning to A&M, probably for the fall semester.

Liles introduced Howard Norton of Lubbock, area representative for the Association of Former Students, who was guest speaker.

"When hard times come upon us, it's so nice to talk about something positive like Texas A&M," he told the group of more than 50 people.

Norton paced his talk with faces about the growth of A&M, including the new Clayton Williams Jr. Memorial Center which is near completion with September 5 set as a formal opening date.

Norton also gave figures on the Former Student Association and said they had collected 3.5 million dollars last year, which is used for scholarships, academically related activities and some for building funds.

However, he said that once the new center is completed, the building fund will be determined. Some funds are also used for dean relocations, operating expenses, student loans, the ring fund, public relations and other trust funds.

Norton cited a $188,000 postage bill for last year, and said the Association of Former Students pays all the expenses of the Cotton Bowl.

"Spirit and pride makes an Aggie unique," said Norton, as he told of various ways the Aggies help their former school.

Concluding the annual ceremony was Dr. Barry Cowart, who called the roll, with friends and comrades answering the roll call for their fellow members who had died during the past year.

Texas Land Commissioner

Even while the clouds of fiscal crisis hang over Texas, there has been a silver lining. Land income for the state was the only revenue source that increased last year.

While all other income sources showed a downward trend, land income was up by $326.3 million over 1985. With a budget of $12 million, we've deposited about $800 million this year.

How it happened

AUSTIN (AP) — Here are the latest figures, from the comptroller's office, on the decline in various tax revenues that has accounted for the state's $3.52 billion budget shortfall.

The first column is the estimate that was used for each revenue category in 1985, when the state's $37.16 billion budget was approved by the Legislature. The second column shows the latest estimate. The last column shows the change from 1985 to today. All figures are in millions of dollars.

	'85 Estimate	July Estimate	Change
Oil production tax	1,680.9	1,252.1	-428.8
Natural gas tax	2,040.0	1,407.6	-632.4
Sales tax	9,827.0	8,473.8	-1,353.2

Franchise tax	2,078.1	1,699.4	-378.7
Other taxes	5,219.7	5,041.2	-178.5
TOTAL TAXES	22,773.6	19,519.4	-3,254.2
Federal funds	8,208.1	7,925.0	-283.1
Interest and dividends	2,383.1	2,222.1	-161.0
Land income	973.5	1,299.8	+326.3
Other revenues	2,827.9	2,672.2	-155.7

Improved leasing policies, using aggressive management, modernizing and automating the General Land Office and suing those who haven't paid the state what they owe its taxpayers have allowed us to increase income from public lands.

As a result of aggressive management policies, the Land Office has deposited more than $2 billion in new revenues since I took office in 1983 — making the Land Office the second largest revenue generating agency after the Comptroller's Office.

In addition, we are volunteering to make a 13 percent cut in expenditures for fiscal year 1987. The Land Office is committed to providing a partial solution to the budget crisis without curtailing services to the public. It won't be easy, but we pride ourselves on our problem-solving abilities here at the Land Office.

Creative Living

by Sheryl Borden

Three interesting topics will be presented on Creative Living on Tuesday, April 28 at 12 noon and repeated on Saturday, May 2 at 2:00 pm on KENW-TV. (All times are Mountain.)

Lucille Romanello is the Director of Sales and Training for Tri-Chem, Inc. from Harrison, NJ, and she will demonstrate several of their products for making gifts with that special "handmade" look. She will demonstrate Spark-L-On, Sun-Glo and Chemage and show how much fun they are to work with.

Connie Moyers, Marketing Home Economist with Southwestern Public Service Co. from Clovis will share some quick and easy recipes for foods for giving. She also has some clever ideas for items to hold these food gifts, too.

Have you ever heard of high tech home ec? It's a convenience revolution that's changing the way we live. Deborah Durham is a spokesperson for Liquid Bold-3, and she's going to explain how using these futuristic appliances and step-saving home care products will allow us to zip through our standard chores in a fraction of the time.

Due to special programming, Creative Living will not be seen on Tuesday evening, April 28 at 8:30 pm, but return on May 5.

On Thursday, April 30 the show will feature information on citrus desserts, pattern alteration and insomnia treatments.

A variety of citrus frozen desserts will be demonstrated by B.J. Doerfling, Supervisor of the Consumer Test Kitchen for Sunbelt Growers in Van Nuys, CA. She will share several delicious and easy recipes for citrus frozen desserts, talk about the availability of lemons, and explain how to get more juice from a lemon. B.J. will also show how to use the lemon shells for serving containers.

There's a new approach to pattern alteration, and it's called the Repositioned Seam Allowance method. Della Portberg-Steineckert, a clothing instructor at Brigham Young University in Provo, UT developed this system, and she will explain how to make the necessary changes on the pattern pieces to accomplish whatever alterations are needed for each fitting problem.

Finally, we'll learn what can be done to evaluate and treat the problem of insomnia in the elderly.

Creative Living is produced and hosted by Sheryl Borden. The show airs on more than 95 PBS stations in the United States, Canada, Guam and Puerto Rico and is distributed by Pacific Mountain Network, Denver, CO. Viewers can request copies of printed materials offered on the show by calling on KENW-TV's toll-free telephone lines. In New Mexico, the number is 1-800-432-2361, out-of-state: 1-800-545-2359 and Portales and Roosevelt County: 562-2112. Requests are taken between 8 am and 5 pm, Monday through Friday.

THE MAGIC OF FRESH LEMONS

Lemons are "made to order" for those who love to cook creatively. It doesn't take lots of time—just the magic of fresh lemon peel and juice. Use lemons to give favorite recipes your own special touch with "de-lemon-licious" flair.

Fresh lemons are colorful, fragrant and available the year 'round. You can use the whole things—grate the peel, squeeze the juice or use decoratively. And that means versatility—more color, more flavor and greater returns for your money.

EZ FRESH LEMON ICE CREAM

2 cups whipping cream or half & half, 1 cup sugar, 1 Tbsp. fresh grated lemon peel, ½ cup fresh squeezed lemon juice, 7 to 10 lemon shells or boats, (optional)

In large bowl, combine cream and sugar; stir to dissolve sugar. Blend in lemon peel and juice. Pour into shallow pan. Freeze until firm, about 4 hours. Serve in dessert glasses, lemon shells or boats. Garnish with fresh mint leaves and strawberries if desired. Makes about 3 cups.

TO MAKE LEMON SHELLS

Cut ¼ off end of large lemon. Carefully ream out juice; reserve. Scrape shell "clean" with spoon.

TO MAKE LEMON BOAT: Cut large lemon in half lengthwise and with a shallow "V" shape cut, remove white center core. Carefully ream out juice; reserve. Scrape shell "clean" with spoon.

NOTE: Citrus shells may be make ahead and frozen until ready to use.

HERVED LEMON BUTTER FOR VEGETABLES

¼ cup butter and margarine, Grated peel and juice of ½

lemon, 1 Tbsp. chopped parsley, ¼ tsp. oregano or basil leaves, crushed, Cooked vegetables

In small saucepan, melt butter. Add lemon peel, juice, parsley and oregano; heat. Serve over cooked vegetables. Makes about ½ cup sauce.

SERVE OVER: Cooked cauliflower, lima beans, peas, summer squash (zucchini, yellow, pattypan), spinach.

VARIATION: In small bowl, combine softened butter, lemon peel, juice, parsley and oregano. Serve over cooked vegetables.

Antique Car Race Plans Pit Stop Here

The fifth annual Interstate Batteries Great American Race, world's greatest antique motor-car race, will make a pit stop in Muleshoe on Friday, July 3, 1987. It was announced this week by Tom McRae, executive director of Greatrace, Ltd., the event organizer.

He says the event will be the first time the five year old world controlled-speed classic will be racing through Muleshoe. It will be enroute to a gala Friday, July 10th finish at Florida's internationally renowned Walt Disney World.

He said the race begins at California's world famous Disneyland on Tuesday, June 30, and covers a course 3,660 miles long that crosses 10 Sunbelt states. A record $265,000 purse has been announced for the contest.

This greatest show on wheels is again sponsored by the Interstate Battery System of America, of Dallas. Other sponsors include Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., Pontiac Division of General Motors, Meguiar's Car Waxes, Disneyland and Walt Disney World.

This concentration of sponsors is due in part to the world class status the event enjoys and also to the fact that the race is offered to America absolutely free. There is never a charge of any kind for the show.

Up to 120 of the world's most beautiful antique, classic and vintage vehicles will be involved in this transcontinental contest of precision driving and endurance. All are pre-Model Year 1937 models.

Not equipped with any modern power assists or accessories such as air conditioning, these legendary old timers compete over all kinds of roads. Race officials prefer to set the course over two-lane roads that demand driving and navigating skills if at all possible. Interstates and divided highways are used only as a last resort.

Residents of Muleshoe and the surrounding countryside will see some of the most famous automobile names of the past when the Great American Race comes into view.

There will be such classics as Bentley, Rolls-Royce, Jaguar, BMW, Alfa Romeo, Lancia, Mercer, Stutz, Panhard-Levassor, Auburn, American Under-slung, plus Cadillac, Chrysler, Lincoln, Buick, Oldsmobile, Pontiac and many other historic marquees in the race.

The entire field will be escorted by a fleet of 1987 Pontiac official pace cars and it is these cars that the spectators will see first as the race approaches. The Pontiac pace cars, carrying race officials, are always at the very front of the event.

Spectators present when the Great Race arrives in Muleshoe will have every chance to see the old cars up close and personal. There are no restricted areas, no passes required and no admission charged. The contestants enjoy the favorable attention their heirloom autos bring about.

The exact route by which the race comes to Muleshoe will be confidential and will not be known to anyone until the morning it arrives. Contestants are given precise route directions, as well as speed changes and such other information only an hour before race start each day. Each is competing against a computer-written race course with the object to finish the day's race as close to computer-schedule as possible with low score winning.

For the second straight year, the Great Racers will be in the middle of a demanding race-a-day format. Each day is an entirely different race and the entrants who finish nine of the first 10 races are eligible to compete for the Grand Championship on the final day into Walt Disney World.

There is one exception to this. Cars of pre-Model Year 1915 manufacture have the option to compete in the Grand Championship Class or what is termed the "Class Brass Championship." They are running for their own purse and those who compete in Class Brass are not eligible for the Grand Championship Class.

These Class Brass cars are, in the opinion of many, among the most beautiful and unusual in the race.

Another unusual group in 1987 will be the vintage race cars, which will compete for a special prize in addition to Grand Championship or Class Brass. These cars, numbering among them Indianapolis 500 entries as old as a 1912 Mercer and as young as a 1935 Ford V-8 powered Miller. European road racers will also be spotted among the field. It looks like there will be at least a dozen of these race cars, and maybe more, says McRae.

A TOUCH OF HISTORY

Post Office Death Leaves Community Sad

By: Mrs. Cass (Frances) Stegall

In the utmost southwest corner of Bailey County, there's a little green store that has housed the Goodland Post Office for sixty years.

Seldom do you see anyone that knows where Goodland is, but a few old timers that are still living, know and remember.

In 1944, during World War II, Cass and Frances Stegall came out from Lubbock and bought the Goodland store from Loyd Gaddy. Although the post office had been established in 1924, and had several different postmasters, Mrs. Sheppard was the second postmaster, then J.A. Beatty, Worth McIlhenny, Mr. Blair, and Loyd Gaddy.

It was one of the last old general mercantile stores, selling gasoline kerosene, coal, food, ice, some dry goods and shoes, two shelves devoted to all common ailments and bolts of all sizes for the blacksmith.

The farmers brought their cream and eggs, as it was the only cream testing station for 35 miles. But, the icing on the cake was the post office - it paid 46 dollars a month. And, whoever bought the store applied and got the post office.

Since the mail route from Sudan did not make all the farmers, there were around 35 boxes in the post office. There was a farmer on nearly every quarter of land back then.

No one made the mistake, twice, of not going in to the little 4x8 post office and getting his own mail.

The mailman usually arrived at Goodland from Sudan, traveling 25 miles to the east, at the noon hour. Frances said the curtain in the post office was never pulled down and money orders, insured packages, certified mail, were taken care of before the mailman left.

The big trucks, due to rubber and gasoline rationing, would not make the Goodland store, six miles off pavement, so Cass had to go to Lubbock three times a week for supplies, and to Clovis, twice a week. That left Frances caring for the store and post office. There would always be a crowd waiting for their mail and it was nothing unusual to find money laying around on the counters for candy, pop, cigarettes and bread as they could help themselves while Frances was in the post office.

The mail carriers were angels in disguise, knowing who was sick, needing help and unable to get out. Boxes of aspirin, castor oil, Vick's Salve and turpentine were carried by the mail man and left in the boxes.

The postmaster knew everyone by their first name and most everyone by their voices. It was their business to know the conditions of each one.

Many funny things happened,

Frances recalls! A box of chicks came by mail and had to lay over for the night. It was a bitter cold night and Cass got up at midnight to stoke the old coal burning stove in the store to keep the chicks warm. Everyone who had owned the store lived in the back. Next day, when the lady came for her chicks, they were fluffy and warm, not one chick dead.

Another time, a woman ordered a fur coat from Sears-Roebuck Co. C.O.D. She wanted to pay it out by the week. Another one had some pictures make in town and sent C.O.D. to Goodland. She wanted to see them before she paid for them.

The papers, and money, were always put in the safe at closing time, around 5 o'clock for the post office. The store stayed open all hours. This one time, a

A Cowboy Patrolman Corrals Cow

It all started out as a routine night for Muleshoe City Patrolman Dewayne Haney -- just traffic stops and checking closed businesses.

Then, shortly before midnight, he was notified by the police dispatcher, Martina Valdez, that a cow had been reported at Main Street and Avenue D.

Cowboy/Officer Haney drove to Main and Avenue D, and sure enough, there stood a she/he/it! In checking with Mrs. Larry Winkler, it was found that the animal had been in a holding pen behind Winkler Meat Co. and apparently either had second thoughts about becoming roasts, steaks and hamburger, or else just wanted to take a leisurely late nite stroll.

At any rate, after Mrs. Winkler told the dispatcher her husband, Larry, was out of town and nicely asked the officer to return the animal to its pen -- he replied, "That cow's as big as my patrol car and besides that, it is wild!"

As the cowboy/patrolman was trying to decide what to do -- and the animal was more than determined that he wasn't going to do anything -- Larry Winkler came home from his out of town trip.

He and Haney arrived at a Winkler Meat Co. employee's house just about the same time, held a brief consultation, and held a midnight rodeo -- on Main Street.

After a few 'fits and starts' the animal was corralled, put back in the holding pen, and everything grew quiet again -- until next time!

man came in around 8 o'clock p.m. and wanted a hundred dollar money order. Cass felt something was wrong with the bill, he turned to check it with his magnifying glass, and when he turned around the man was gone, the bill was counterfeit.

Thou it was small, the post office served the county well. The books had to balance perfectly for the inspector that came quarterly.

The Stegalls sold to the Gipsons in 1948, and they to Robinsons and to the last postmaster, L.W. Chapman, in 1951. He served until 1987. Milton Williams has been the reliable and accommodating carrier most of those 35 years.

The first day of April, 1987, the little post office had served its term--and was officially declared dead.

To oldtimers like the Cass Stegalls, the Tommy Galts and the Conrad Williams' it was indeed a sad, sad day. Not to see "Old Glory" flying with proud colors high above the Goodland store will be missed!!

'Ancient Texans' details life and art of extinct Texas Indians

COLLEGE STATION — A copiously illustrated book on the life and art of an extinct band of Texas desert Indians is off the presses and researchers hope its layman's approach will help preserve the tribe's remaining archaeological legacy.

Hundreds of pieces of rock art virtually unknown outside Texas are at risk of loss due to vandalism, the amateur collector's chisel or changes in humidity brought on by a nearby man-made lake, says author Dr. Harry Shafer, a Texas A&M University professor and archaeologist.

Countless other pieces are already ruined or lie beneath the surface of Lake Amistad, said Shafer, author of "Ancient Texans," a work published for the Witte Museum of San Antonio by the Texas Monthly Press.

"Ancient Texans" features a fictionalized account of one such band along the Lower Pecos River.

"These bands of Indians had no written language to leave us, but they had rock art to tell us that they were people, just like us," said Shafer. The Indians occupied an area of Southwest Texas near Del Rio for 9,000 years.

For more than a century, however, passersby have left their names scrawled in shelters along the most popular trails, he said.

"Unfortunately, modern people have virtually destroyed most of these ancient people's record through ignorance, greed and even with good intentions of progress and scientific knowledge," said Shafer.

"It is disconcerting to walk into a rock shelter with deposits that span 9,000 years and see dirt piles left by relic hunters or to find a faded painting senselessly vandalized," he said.

He's Just Cyclin' Around Boosting Special Olympics

Last Saturday, an unusual bicyclist stopped in Muleshoe for a brief rest before pedalling on toward Lubbock on a trek around the United States.

Monty Palaniuk, 37, who calls home Canby, Ore., said he is attempting to convey a message, especially to handicapped persons, about the Special Olympics.

Thirteen years ago, he lost his left arm in a sawmill accident, and since that time says, "I want to bring an awareness to other amputees to show what they are capable of doing," he says. "You don't have to sit around and feel sorry for yourselves."

He says he left his home in Canby on February 28, and by the time he had reached Muleshoe Saturday morning, had traveled just over 2,000 miles. He isn't just crossing the United States, he is traveling through the states that make up the outer borders of the U.S.

On good bicycling days, Palaniuk says he is averaging from 50-100 miles per day, usually 50-70, and in adverse weather, has traveled 40 miles or under, on a bad day.

Along the way, Palaniuk says he is stopping to see the sights of America - such as Texas - as this is his first trip to this state. He spoke of the wonders crossing Arizona and New Mexico, and of nights spent under the stars. He does not always sleep outside, and occasionally even stays in a motel room.

The bicyclist proudly showed off his Oregon Special Olympics T-shirt he wears while cycling along the highway, and his hat with a foxtail, a bobcat tail and tells the story of acquiring each item. Palaniuk said he obtained the hat in Fairbanks, Alaska and the rabbit fur adorning it in Anchorage, Alaska, and the foxtail in a goodwill store in Oregon.

Clad in shorts, his legs are the color of seasoned leather. Preferring to wear thongs on his feet, the white marks on his feet covered by the thongs on the road prove his disdain for regular shoes.

His mode of transportation is a regular 12-speed bicycle with an extended brake cable. In the first little more than 2,000 miles, Palaniuk said he has had two flats, and had to replace one tire in Santa Rosa, N.M., northwest of Clovis.

A sister from the Catholic Church in Santa Rosa made the arrangements for his new tire.

Making the trip on 'faith', Palaniuk says he is funded by volunteers--and that he does not solicit funds, food or a place to sleep. He also says it would defeat his purpose if he solicited funds. "It is easy to distinguish between a helping hand and a handout," said Palaniuk, "and I don't have my hand out. When he does not have sleeping arrangements, he sleeps outside, and when he does not have food, he does without, he emphasized.

In the months ahead, Palaniuk said he will reach Jacksonville, Fla. and will be approximately one-half through with his journey. An ex-computer operator, he expects to be back in Oregon in September. "Then I'm going to sit down and write a book," he grinned.

To date, Palaniuk added, he has not met another amputee on the highway on a bicycle, and almost does not expect to. A major problem for him is strong headwinds, he added, and when he runs into heavy headwinds, has to get off, walk and push the bicycle.

Cross country bicycling is not new to Palaniuk. From August 1985 to August 1986, he bicycled coast to coast and border to border, traveling about 7,000 miles with his word of encouragement to other amputees.

This year he is promoting Special Olympics. "I can relate to the kids," he commented. "I don't get things on a silver platter, I have to work for it, just like everyone else," Palaniuk added.

Then --away he went -- on another leg of his more than 8,500 mile journey.

MULESHOE, TEXAS

A MOBILE HOME, 1922 STYLE--This is perhaps the forerunner of today's mobile home or RV. Actually, the picture was taken in 1922 and was located in southern Bailey County at the time. It was the birthplace of Lea Lucero, who is believed to be the first Hispanic born in Bailey County. He was born April 25, 1922.

First Hispanic Born In County Reminisces

Yesterday, Saturday, April 25, was a very special day in the life of a former resident of Bailey County -- it was his 65th birthday. And, what makes the date so special is the fact that he was probably the first Hispanic born in this county.

This is his story, as told by Lea Lucero of Sunnyvale, CA.:

I was born in Muleshoe Texas, in 1922 April 25.

As you can see in the picture, it (where he was born) was a horse drawn trailer, which today is known as a mobile home, or RV. My dad went into town to get the doctor, but by the time he got back with said doctor, I was already born. My oldest brother, Luis, was with my mother, and that was the beginning of my happy life. From Muleshoe, the family moved to Abo, New Mexico, where I was raised until the time I left home at the age of 11.

My mother passed away when I was two, when my kid brother was born. From there on, I have been on my own. Like I mentioned before, I left home when I was 11, bummed around until I was eighteen, when I joined the U.S. Marine Corp at Needles, CA. That was August 28, 1940. I took boot camp at San Diego, CA from Diego to Camp Elliott, from there overseas to stop the advance of the Land of the Rising Sun Imperial Japan -- and I gave it a h--- of a good shot. I am a Guadalcanal survivor, giving the ole' Marines Corp nine years. Came back to San Diego where I got paid off.

Got married, had two boys and got a divorce in 1954. Ended up in Washington state working for AEC, and met my present wife. We raised my two boys, and her two girls and a boy. Today, we have 11 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

I retired in June, 1980.

I hope some of the old timers will remember my dad. His name was Hipolito S. Lucero, but he was known as H.S. My dad made houses of adobe brick. My dad had only one arm, his right. That's what made my dad better than any other man of his time. There was nothing my dad could not do that a man with two arms could do. He passed away in 1944 in Phoenix, AZ.

Everybody I know, all my friends, don't believe there is such a place as Muleshoe, Texas, let alone believe I was born there.

I am and always have been a very proud Texan. I have never forgotten that first I am a Texan, then I am whatever I have to be to live my life the way I have always lived it. I have some dear friends in Texas.

I Love Muleshoe Daze Balloons Being Released

Watch the sky! Balloons, bright, colorful balloons are being released twice a day throughout this area for the next eight days.

Getting underway on Wednesday, balloons were released first in the Richland Hills area and the Old City Park.

They will also be released in other locations for the next several days.

It's all a part of a major promotion by Muleshoe State Bank, boosting 'I Love Muleshoe Daze' a gigantic celebration to be held in conjunction with the Saturday, May 2, MAC Buck drawing and Muleshoe Heritage Center Celebrity Auction.

Attached to each balloon will be a special 'Love Coupon' and sponsored by one of more than 40 local and area businesses. The coupons may be used for free gifts, prizes, discounts on merchandise, and may be redeemed at the sponsoring merchant's business.

Some of the coupons are for various discounts up to $100 off on merchandise. Love Coupons that are redeemed before May 2 will be the official registration for special drawings of merchandise from local merchants. These drawings will take place throughout the day on Saturday, May 2, and will be televised during the Celebrity Auction at the Civic Center.

Included in the special coupons are two $50 Savings Bonds and a $50 gift certificate. You do NOT have to be present to win.

Today, Thursday, balloons will be released at the New City Park and Lenau and Morrison Additions; Friday, April 24, it will be DeShazo School and Boy

Aggie scientists develop procedure for identifying mycotoxin contamination

COLLEGE STATION — A team of Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES) scientists has developed a simple procedure for identifying the presence of potentially deadly mycotoxins — poisonous chemicals — in food and feed products such as fruit and grains.

Following two years of laboratory studies by TAES, part of The Texas A&M University System, the researchers said they have developed a simple, economical field-test that can detect up to four different combinations of mycotoxin contamination.

"Until now a high degree of expertise and laboratory sophistication has been necessary to accurately detect mixtures of mycotoxins," explained Dr. Timothy Phillips, veterinary public health professor who headed the project. "Now we have a sensitive, easy to use, commercially applicable test kit to differentiate between multiple mycotoxins."

Scout Hut; Monday, April 26, it will be areas east and west of the Compress yard and in Richland Hills.

Tuesday, April 27, balloons will be released around the Boy Scout Hut and DeShazo School area; on Wednesday, April 29, the balloons will be released from downtown Muleshoe and the business district of Muleshoe; and on Thursday, April 30, balloons will be released from the old City Park and areas east and west of the Compress. The last day balloons will be released will be Friday, May 1, from the Lenau and Morrison Additions and the New City Park area.

In addition to these city areas, balloons will be released in the Lazbuddie, Oklahoma Lane, Progress, Lariat and Needmore areas today, and Wednesday of next week.

Participating merchants include First Bank, American Valley, Inc., Ben Franklin, C. R. Anthony, Lindsey Credit Jewelry, Allsup's, Bob Stovall Printing, Sears, Pay-n-Save, Higginbotham-Bartlett, Fry & Cox, Inc., Perry's, Trophies & More, Southwestern Public Service Co., Five Area Telephone Coop, Hungry Mule Steakhouse, Damon Drug, Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, Williams Brothers Office Supply and Spudnut Shop.

Texas A&M researchers study urban problems and recommend solutions

COLLEGE STATION — Urban affairs specialists at Texas A&M University are recommending ways literally to keep the sun shining brightly on one of the state's top tourist attractions.

The study involving San Antonio's River Walk is among more than a dozen special projects on urban problems handled by the university's Center for Urban Affairs. Researchers studied the issue of large downtown buildings blocking solar access to the trees and flora along the River Walk and recommended architectural guidelines to insure sufficient sunlight to the area.

Created in 1984 to put urban affairs expertise at the fingertips of Texas' cities, counties and state agencies and private groups, the center currently is examining the complex urban development issues involving government and private property owners in North Dallas.

"We put together teams of specialists — drawn from some 120 Texas A&M faculty and staff members and ranging from physicians to architects — to help solve some of the most pressing problems of urban areas," said W. G. Roessler, the center's director and a professor of urban and regional planning.

Say YES To Youth For Summer

Once again, the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture will be accepting applications for YES workers for this summer. If you are between the ages of 13-17, and would like to seek summer employment, go by the Chamber office and fill out your application.

Also, remember citizens, if you have a job or jobs that need to be done; or if you need assistance to complete a job, call the Chamber office between the hours of 8 a.m.-5 p.m., 272-4248, Monday-Friday.

These students need to work and you can use their help. Maybe it is mowing the lawn, helping you with spring cleaning, or a full time summer job. Whatever the need, YES can help -- so call.

Asking the question is much easier than finding the right answer.

The family of Raymond Gaede wishes to express our sincere appreciation for all the many courtesies and friendship extended to us while we were in Muleshoe, especially to the First Methodist Church and again to Sam & Elaine Damron for opening their home to us. The many expressions of kindness and love will always be remembered. With deep respect we all Roundup® herbicide is your best choice for killing a broad-spectrum of weeds and cover crops on all your Conservation Reserve Program acres. Make one fast pass with Roundup before planting forage grass seed or after planting, but before emergence. Either way, Roundup will kill weeds and any cover crop-roots and all. It's better than tillage because Roundup conserves soil moisture, reduces regrowth, and lets you plant into a firm, undisturbed seedbed for best grass establishment. A spray pass with Roundup leaves the stubble intact too, for better erosion protection.

Come and see us today for full details and your free copy of the Roundup Herbicide Conservation Reserve Program Local Use Guide. We've got everything you need to get with the program.

Texas A&M scientists produce lean beef through genetic research

COLLEGE STATION — Just when you've come to grips with the idea that eating red meat might not be too good for you, science has found a way to produce cattle that have less fat.

The new beef product has been in development the past few years through genetic research, said Dr. H. Russell Cross, a Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES) animal scientist specializing in lean beef studies at Texas A&M University.

Results of the study were presented in a paper released at an American Heart Association symposium for science writers. The presentation, entitled "Where's the Beef? A Light Approach," included a special meal featuring lean-beef steaks provided by Houston-based Granada Corporation, a leader in producing the genetically improved meat.
