Four die in crash of Amtrak Eagle

MARSHALL, Texas (AP) — The Amtrak train Eagle derailed in a wooded, rural area Saturday, killing at least four people, while at least 23 others were hospitalized and 25 were reported missing, authorities said.

Harrison County Sheriff Bill Oldham said the "lack of a good (passenger) manifest" has led to confusion about the number of people missing, injured and killed. He said the manifest showed 163 people on board, including 145 passengers and 18 crew members.

Oldham said the crew was taking a head count at the time of the derailment.

A ticket agent said the train, bound for San Antonio, Texas, from Chicago, had been running late, but its speed at the time of the accident wasn't immediately known. One passenger said the train had been speeding to get an ailing passenger to a doctor.

"We have no information on the cause at this point," Amtrak spokesman R. Clifford Black said in Washington.

Rescue workers were trying to recover a log in the locomotive that should have recorded the train's speed just before the accident, said Missouri and Pacific spokesman Willard Schultz.

"It happened so quick," said passenger Adah Sarbee of Lakeville, Ind., who was en route to Tucson, Ariz. "There was no warning. We were going along and heard this terrible crash — glass was flying."

Oldham, in charge of removing dead and injured from the wreckage, said Saturday evening that four deaths had been confirmed while at least 25 were missing.

Some witnesses said a few passengers were seen walking away from the accident and getting into cars on a nearby highway, which added to officials' confusion over how many people were missing.

A Missouri-Pacific Railroad crane was sent to the scene to lift the overturned cars and check underneath them, he said.

At nightfall, Missouri-Pacific Railroad workers were using heavy construction equipment to pull the cars apart.

"They need to pull them back so that we have some room to lift them up and see what the situation may be underneath," said Willard Schultz, a spokesman for the railroad. "It's going to take us all night."

Funeral home employees stood by at the scene and giant spotlights were brought in to illuminate the wreckage. Nearby residents were brewing coffee and making sandwiches for the rescue workers.

Earlier, Jim Pears, administrator of Marshall Memorial Hospital said four bodies had been brought to a temporary morgue there and that authorities had told him there were six more bodies at

Security tightened for Reagan's visit to 'freedom front'

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Exceptional security was set up around Korea's high-tension demilitarized zone for President Reagan's unprecedented journey to peer across the border at North Korean outposts and praise American infantrymen for serving on the "front lines of freedom."

While military readiness always remains high at the border area, exceptional precautions were taken for Reagan's safety, the first trip by an American president into the DMZ. Security checks were tightened at military posts, and camouflage netting was hung at several sites to prevent North Koreans from getting a good view of Reagan.

Reagan planned to fly by helicopter early Sunday, Korean time, 26 miles north from Seoul to Camp Liberty Bell, an American outpost just south of the DMZ, for a prayer service with U.S. infantrymen.

From there, Reagan was to travel in a heavily armored limousine into the 2.5-mile wide demilitarized zone separating Korea into two countries, and meet with troops at Guardpost Collier, one of two guard posts in the American-patrolled sector of the DMZ.

The trip is part of Reagan's effort to underscore the deep U.S. commitment to South Korea's security.

White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said Reagan would use the occasion to speak out against "hatred and oppression" represented by North Korea.

Speakes said the president would tell the troops, "You are on the front lines of freedom" and "I congratulate you on your noble task in the defense of freedom."

While former presidents Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter visited with troops near the DMZ, Reagan is the first president actually to enter the barren zone, according to a U.S. military spokesman.

At Guardpost Collier, Reagan would be three-fifths of a mile from North Korea's foremost military outpost.

The military spokesman said, however, that the American-patrolled sector of the DMZ was "very quiet" and that the last exchange of gunfire there with the North was two years ago.

"We're looking for a good, safe trip," said the spokesman, who declined to be identified. He suggested that North Korea knows better than to attack Reagan because that with "the United States government and all the rest — the consequences are there."

The United States has 39,000 troops in South Korea, with upwards of 1,500 men stationed at the DMZ.

Reagan arrived in security-conscious South Korea on Saturday on the final leg of an Asian trip that also took him to Japan. The president will return to Washington on Monday.

The demilitarized zone, stretching 151 miles across Korea and 2.5 miles wide, has divided the peninsula since the Korean War armistice was signed 30 years ago.

United Way final report set Thursday

Pampa residents missed in this year's United Way drive are urged by campaign officials to make their contributions before the last report meeting for the fall campaign on Thursday, Nov. 17.

The final report will be from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. Thursday at the United Way office on the second floor of City Hall. At that time, officials hope the 1983 campaign will have reached its goal.

Campaign total after last week's report meeting was $196,543.69, or 79 percent of the goal of $250,000. Several businesses are still midway in their campaigns, including Celanese.

United Way officials reported awards will be made to the division chairmen at the United Way board meeting at 4:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 28, at Citizens Bank and Trust Co. Division tallies now stand at $34,484.10 for Civic and Professional, $33,562.51, Commercial, $28,446.40, Oil and Gas, with the Industrial Division standing at $75,554.68. The General Division tally is $24,496.

Fifteen organizations are supported by Pampa's United Way. These include Salvation Army, American Red Cross, Meals on Wheels, Genesis Houses for Boys and Girls, Satellite Center, Pampa Senior Citizens Center, South Side Senior Center, Pampa Family Services, Warm Springs Rehabilitation Hospital, High Plains Epilepsy Association, Day Care Center, Boy and Girl Scouts, Southwestern Diabetic Foundation and the U.S.O.

Fight for transplant was worth the effort, says baby's father

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Ashley Bailey's father said he would spend the same amount of time, energy and money that went into trying to find his daughter a suitable liver donor.

The 14-month-old girl from the West Texas town of Clyde died Friday morning after a 10-month wait for a liver transplant. In spite of a national radio address by President Reagan in July, no suitable donor could be found.

Gov. Mark White also rallied around the blond, blue-eyed Ashley, issuing a call for more contributions to her hospital bills. Family friends, meanwhile, raised more than $100,000 through bake sales and golf sales.

"It was worth it, knowing that there was hope, the chance for a transplant," Greg Gossett, Ashley's father, told the Fort Worth Star Telegram. "I say go for it and spend every minute of the time you can with that child, keep pushing. If there's a corner out there to look behind, go for it. We feel we didn't miss a corner."

Gossett, however, said Ashley could have probably been saved if the public had been more aware of the need for liver donors.

"Hopefully, some other family won't have to go through what we've gone through," Gossett said at a news conference, his eyes filling with tears.

"Some kind of public awareness has got to come from this because that's why Ashley is no longer with us. I don't want to see somebody else go through this because it's pain — pure pain," he said.

In Minneapolis, nine-month-old Joshua Brooks, of Lauringburg, N.C., underwent a liver transplant Friday, but officials said heart complications and last-minute kidney failure threatened the success of the operation.

The transplant was done on the same day Ashley died, but it could not be determined whether the liver the Brooks baby received could have benefited Ashley, had she been in good enough health to withstand the surgery.

Dr. John Najarian, chief of surgery at University of Minnesota Hospitals, said Friday, "The irony of the situation is that on the very day we're going to be doing a transplant on a child just about the size of Ashley Bailey, a donor is available today — the day of her death."

"So that's really quite sad," added Najarian.

Gossett, 24, said Friday that on three occasions he learned of livers that would have been available for transplant if hospitals had known of Ashley's condition. Finding a liver was particularly difficult in Ashley's case because she weighed less than 15 pounds for most of her life, said Dr. Robert Squires.

Since Ashley was 4 months old, her parents have spent most of their time hospital waiting rooms in Texas and Minnesota.

Four indicted in assault

Four Pampa residents have been indicted by the 223rd District Court Grand Jury in connection with an incident Oct. 30 in which Pampa Police officer Mark King was injured.

Cecilia Kotara, Jeffery Frank Allen, Mark Odell Kotara and James D. Parker were indicted on charges of aggravated assault on a police officer.

On Oct. 30 King and officer Chris Lockridge answered a complaint about a loud party about 12:47 a.m. in the 100 block of North Nelson.

According to the police report, when the officers went to the house, they were verbally, then physically assaulted by several of the party-goers when the officers were attempting to talk to a resident of the house about the volume of noise coming from within the house.

One of the members of the party allegedly began swearing and yelling at the officers and then swung at one of them, according to the police report.

Several others then joined the attack on the policemen. The officers called for reinforcements to help control the crowd.

King reportedly was knocked unconscious and suffered a cracked bone. He and Lockridge were both taken to the emergency room at Coronado Community Hospital, where they were treated and released.

Four adults and four juveniles were arrested as a result of the altercation.

Sales tax picture bit brighter

By LARRY HOLLIS
Staff Writer

State Comptroller Bob Bullock sent rebate checks last week to cities collecting sales tax payments for their use. The checks were sent a week early because many taxpayers paid by the 20th of last month, as all will be required to do this month under a new law.

Pampa will receive a check for $172,039.42 for sales tax collections made in September, an increase of $100,288.43 over the $71,750.99 the city received last month. The new payment is still lower than the $191,146.57 sent to the city for September collections in 1982.

The new total, however, did show some improvement in retail sales. Pampa's decrease in sales tax collections for the year at 17.99 percent instead of the 19.09 percent it had recorded by August.

Total 1983 payments to date are $1,297,831.51. For 1982 comparable payments had been $1,582,559.45, Bullock reported.

Other cities in Gray County also recorded an increased payment over last month's checks. Lefors will receive a check for $606.05 for September collections; last month it earned only $579.95. The new payment also showed an increase for payments in September, 1982, when $528.34 was sent to the city by the state. Total 1983 payments to date are $5,449.10, a 1.81 percent increase over comparable payments for 1982.

McLean will get a payment of $3,294.41 for September collections, an increase of $2,228.66 over last month's payment of $1,065.75. However, there is a decrease from the $3,516.06 payment received for September, 1982. Total collections for the year are $22,793.87, a 4.30 percent decline for the $23,817.09 for the comparable 1982 period.

In Carson County, Skellytown and White Deer both showed big gains in payments. Skellytown has a payment of $4,564 for September this year, more than tripling the $1,417.08 payment received last month. This month's check is more than $1,500 above the $3,005.42 received for September, 1982. Total yearly payments to date are $24,337.48, a 28.11 percent hike from the $18,996.81 earned for the same 1982 period.

White Deer has a check coming for $5,716.71, a 682 percent jump from the $838.26 check received last month. The new check also has an increase of $1,819.89 from September of last year. Total 1983 payments to date are $25,807.62, a 3.95 percent rise from the $24,826.08 collected for the same 1982 period.

Canadian in Hemphill County followed the same trend for increased payments from August, receiving a payment of $21,525.73 for September. Last month it had a check for only $7,669.14. The new payment, however, is down nearly $9,000 from the September, 1982, check for $30,420.03.

Yearly total to date is $157,649.22, a 35.34 percent decline from the $247,642.27 collected for the comparable 1982 period.

In Ochiltree County, Perryton also showed the big increase for collections over August, gaining $89,401.68 for its September collections check. This is a 326 percent hike from the $27,431.43 check for August. The new check is also more than $3,000 above the $86,656.47 received for September, 1982. Total for the year to date is $556,064.52, a 22.62 percent decrease from the $718,634.80 recorded for the same period in 1982.

Miami in Roberts County will get a check for $6,300.96, nearly three and a half times above the August collections of $1,855.52. This month's check also is more than $2,000 higher than the $4,173.64 received for September of last year. Total collections to date for this year are $23,736.88, a 7.57 percent jump over the $22,067.28 for the 1982 period.

NEW CHAMBER DECAL - Pampa Chamber of Commerce has mailed out its new decals to Chamber members. The new decal replaces the old sign with a hat atop a Texas map. Chamber members decided to replace the old decal to make it easier to recognize current members. Some businesses have been displaying the old decal without having renewed memberships. The Chamber is composed of businesses and individuals who band together to develop business activity in the city and to support the community, Chamber Manager Floyd Sackett said.

Chamber forming new committees

The Pampa Chamber of Commerce is currently forming committees from members to organize activities for the coming year.

"I stated at the annual banquet that two major goals of the Chamber for 1983-84 are communication and service," President Marion John said. "In order to achieve these goals, we must have the participation of every willing Chamber member. One of the major ways in which members can participate is by serving on a committee or committees."

Chamber members have received a brochure outlining the functions and purposes of the 17 committees existing within the Chamber operations.

"To be effective the business community must present positive policies and programs to government, to leaders in other fields and to the public," John stated.

"These policies and programs are hammered out in work sessions of volunteer committees composed of dedicated, knowledgeable and interested business leaders. The real leadership and clout needed to supplement the programs must come from the business men and women themselves," he said.

John is encouraging members to study the committees and indicate preferences for those in which they feel they can be of service.

Chamber committees include Agriculture and Livestock, Aviation, Civic Improvement, Conventions and Tourist Development, Education, Environment and Energy, Fine Arts, Fire Prevention and Safety, and Free Enterprise.

Others are Highway and Transportation, Industrial Community Relations, Legislative Affairs, Membership, Oil and Gas, Public Relations, Retail Trade Cabinet, and Sports and Recreation.

"Though serving on a Chamber committee is strictly voluntary, encourage members to become active in developing policies and programs which will help shape the future of the Pampa community and area," John said.

Members are asked to inform the Chamber office of their preferences in the next week to 10 days, John said.

Smokeout Thursday

The Great American Smokeout, an annual event sponsored by the American Cancer Society will be observed in Pampa and across the nation Thursday, Nov. 17.

Several events have been planned locally, some serious and some not so serious, on the day when the cancer society urges smokers to go a full 24 hours without cigarettes.

A "topless kissing booth" will be set up at the Pampa Mall and booths will be at different locations in town to take the pledges of persons who want to quit for a day. Some companies and schools will attempt to create environments conducive to quitting through an "adopt a smoker" plan in which nonsmokers will adopt a smoker for a day and try to lead them on the path to smokelessness.

"Adoption" papers are available from Smokeout Chairman Jim Finkenbinder, Public Education Chairman Ed Sweet or Public Education Chairman Jo Love.

Volunteers of the American Cancer Society will be at the Pampa Mall, banks and various stores to offer tips on quitting, as well as moral support. Would-be quitters will receive buttons and stickers saying "It ain't Easy, But I'm trying."

Sales tax rebates

Wheeler completed the trend for larger payments to area towns. Mobette received no check for August collections, according to the report from Bullock. But this month's payment will be $1,042.77. The new payment is an increase over the $924.22 received for the same month last year. Total payments for the year to date are $12,623.92, a hike of 21.92 percent for the comparable 1982 period.

Wheeler had a collection rebate total of $6,239.34 for September, more than doubling the $2,789.29 paid from the state for August collections. The new check is down more than $3,000, however, from the $9,266.83 received for September, 1982, sales taxes. Payments for the year to date total $51,288.02, a 27.42 percent drop from the $70,663.74 for the same period last year.

"We're sending these checks early because 134,000 Texas taxpayers paid before the deadline," Bullock said. "This kind of cooperation among taxpayers is helping us avoid new and higher taxes. It's obvious this change will help local governments put these tax revenues to work faster in their cities."

Starting this month, all taxpayers will be required to file sales tax reports by the 20th of the month instead of by the last day of the month.

The earlier deadline set by the Legislature will bring in $500 million more the current state budget without a tax increase, Bullock said.

the scene. Another 21 people were admitted to area hospitals.

Black initially said at least nine were dead, but later said he was wrong. "I earlier gave you nine and I've since been told that's inaccurate and I can only confirm four. And I'm told that may change," he said from Washington.

Other passengers were treated and released by medical teams at the scene of the accident, about 9 miles north of the East Texas city. Authorities said most of the victims were riding in the rear of the train.

Oldham said 101 passengers were taken to a National Guard armory, where they used pay telephones and watched football on television while they waited to be taken by bus to Dallas and San Antonio.

Edward Smith of St. Louis, Mo. told the Marshall News-Messenger that a passenger had suffered a seizure about an hour before the derailment and the train had sped up to get her to a doctor in Marshall.

Three passengers said they had seen workmen walking or running from the tracks just before the derailment.

"I heard a little noise and I saw a couple of guys working on the tracks," said Gary Larson, 39, of Minot, N.D. "I saw them walking away. They knew what was coming. The next thing I knew, I grabbed the seat in front of me and we were being dragged through the dirt."

said railroad crews were repairing spikes in the tracks Saturday morning.

Black said the No. 21 train left Chicago at 5:20 p.m. Friday and passed through Springfield, Ill., St. Louis, Mo., Little Rock, Ark. and Texarkana, Texas and was due in Dallas at 1:05 p.m. CST. Part of the train was scheduled to leave San Antonio for Los Angeles later today as the "Sunset Limited."

Harvester band competes for state marching title

The band will march and play in Austin

Members of the Pampa High School Harvester Marching Band are in Austin today to compete in the first University Interscholastic League state marching band contest.

Preliminaries for Class 4-A schools will be held Monday at the Toney Burger Center in south Austin, with the Pampa band scheduled to perform at 1:15 p.m.

Finals for the class will be conducted Monday evening at the University of Texas Memorial Stadium, with the Harvesters performing at 8:25 p.m.

The 116 students left Saturday morning, with a stopover in Fort Worth last night before traveling to Austin today for the first UIL state marching contest, according to PHS Band Director Charles A. Johnson.

The local band will be competing with 30 to 40 other Class 4-A bands from throughout the state. Judges will be looking for expertise in playing, marching execution and general effect, Johnson said. Five judges will rate the band in preliminaries, with five different judges conducting judging for the finals.

Of the 10 judges, nine are directors of university bands, Johnson said.

"I feel like we have a really good chance," he said. "The students have really been working hard, and they're really excited about it. They have worked a lot for it themselves. It's going to pay off. They're all good students. So we're going to do our best and expect good things."

Johnson said the band has received good support from parents and other townspeople.

At UIL Regional events earlier at Borger, the Harvester Band received Division I ratings from all three judges. Regional contests use three judges instead of the five being used for state judging.

In addition to participating in competition, students will tour the state Capitol building and visit the LBJ Library. The trip will offer educational opportunities for the students outside of the contest. Band members will remain in Austin Tuesday for the tours and to watch Class 5-A and 3-A bands compete.

The band will return to Pampa early Wednesday morning.

Accompanying the students are Johnson, Kevin Robertson, assistant band director; Sam Watson, elementary school band director; Mrs. Jane Steele, PHS vice principal; and Band Booster officers. A number of parents are expected to attend the state competition.

Here's What Congress Has Done To Your Money Market Investment Options.

As of October 1, Congress has allowed financial institutions to streamline money market accounts and offer interest rates with no regulated ceiling. At Security Federal, we think it's a good move. It allows us to help you customize your investments according to the terms you need and the rates you can earn.

You can pick your maturity date to the day.

We can now offer a series of money market accounts that range in time of deposit from 91 days to 60 months. And many require only $100 to get started. This means you can determine the exact day of maturity of your investment on deposit, and be assured of the safety offered by Security Federal. It's convenient, secure and offers competitive rates that are compounded daily.

But there's something to watch for.

With these relaxed regulations, you may also be subjected to some very unusual interest rate offers. It is possible to offer an extremely high interest rate for a short amount of time in order to attract depositors. However, this may unduly encourage customers to pick the wrong investment. It may sound better than it really is.

So watch the rate advertising carefully. And if you have any questions, call us. We'll be glad to explain our options to you.

So here's what Security Federal promises.

We'll continue to keep your best interest in mind. Our money market accounts are designed to be safe, offer competitive rates, compound daily and be convenient.

We didn't earn our customers' confidence by making big promises. We've done it by offering a full range of financial services and working for the long run.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Our opinion

City passed up needed change

Last week Pampa city commissioners had the opportunity to make themselves more accessible to the general public - and again rejected that possibility.

Commissioner Jay Johnson, the youngest member of the commission, presented a motion to change the regular meeting time from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month.

He stated the current meeting time limits input from citizens since many cannot afford to take off from work to attend the sessions. He also said the morning meeting time prevents many from considering running for the office of city commissioner because of inability to take off from work without suffering some hardship.

A later meeting time would help alleviate the inconvenience for many residents who might want to attend the sessions, he said. It also might open up the commission to persons other than those who are retired, semi-retired or working in jobs where they can't take a morning off without much hardship or inconvenience, Johnson said.

The motion failed to gain a second. Other commissioners would not even discuss the motion, preferring to keep silent. Mayor Calvin Whatley's comments were limited to expression of his personal preference for the current meeting time and to comments that the public had not attended previous night sessions, anyway.

In the past, commission members have commented the meetings are meant to discuss city business and thus should be held during "business hours." Other comments indicated they were fearful a later meeting time "would last into the night" or would interfere with their attendance at civic clubs, concerts or other similar activities.

Contrast the Pampa commission with the Lefors City Council. Councilmen hold their sessions at 7 p.m. Suits and ties are rarely worn, making their meetings appear less as a business meeting and more like a citizens' meeting. More than just receiving citizen input, of late they have actually been actively seeking such input.

The board of trustees of the Pampa Independent School District holds its meetings in the evening, as do most other area school boards. This, despite the fact their meetings do not coincide with general "business hours."

The main factor in determining the meeting time should not be how many would attend, but instead how many could attend.

Are Pampa city commissioners really interested in receiving much citizen input?

If so, then meeting times should be more convenient for larger numbers of citizens who might want to attend, rather than just being convenient for commission members and a very few others.

Decontrol needed immediately

Over the last four months, nearly 4 million U.S. households have been contacted by more than 1,000 door-to-door canvassers of the Marxist Citizen - Labor Energy Coalition (CLEC). Ostensibly, their purpose was to build a grassroots drumbeat to stop Congress from deregulating natural gas; and they were highly successful, to the detriment of all energy consumers.

Ironically, CLEC's "allies" in this drive were the multi-millionaire independent wildcat natural gas drillers who have been making quick fortunes from the expensive discovery and sale of the only category of gas that is now fully decontrolled - deep gas which is selling at from $8 - to - 12 MCF. Without the price controls on "old" gas, their prices would drop more than 60 percent.

And with de-control, more than 3.8 trillion cubic feet (TCF) of gas production would no longer be "shut in" by artificially low price ceilings on "old gas." That's the equivalent of nearly 2-million barrels a day of oil, or almost 15 percent of present oil use. This is why natural gas deregulation would drive all energy prices down.

Energy analyst Milt Copulos of the Heritage Foundation warns that without full deregulation, "America's consumers over the next six years will be forced to pay as much as $157-billion more for natural gas than they would under de-regulation... (and) will see their bills rise by as much as 24 percent a year." Oddly enough this was confirmed on October 24th by CLEC who predicted that (under present controls) gas will rise by 21 percent in 1984.

Unfortunately, that is exactly what CLEC, which thrives on the politics of envy, wants. Its real purpose is to "piggy-back" on this emotional issue to generate funds and new members to support what has become a $12-million Marxist - Socialist political action group whose intellectual guru and co-founder, radical - socialist Michael Harrington described CLEC's "Democratic Agenda" as follows: "As socialists of the democratic Left, we stand for fundamental change, for socialism, and for every immediate gain which can be achieved by the largely nonsocialist mass movement."

CLEC's President, William Wimpinger (head of the International Machinists Union), put it more bluntly, "once we can... be in a position to determine what the 'public interest' is, then anyone who abuses it can be prosecuted. If we have to nationalize some irresponsible corporation, that is what we do to make it conform to the public interest."

The approach of CLEC is simple: pick issues with a strong emotional "consumerist" or "populist" slant, then use these issues to entice naive voters to join their broader Marxist cause.

Thus, when Trefor Murch, a Republican school teacher in Ankeny, Iowa, who had seen his natural gas prices rise more than 25 percent the year before (under controls), was approached by CLEC "volunteers" to oppose natural gas deregulation, he quickly "donated" $15 on the spot to support the coalition's anti - decontrol efforts," the WALL STREET JOURNAL reported.

In Massachusetts, one of the components of CLEC, Mass. Fair Share was canvassing in August and September but with more urgency, that organization is in deep financial trouble, over half a million in debt, and owing the state over $100,000 in delinquent payroll taxes it has fraudulently used to keep its radical politics going.

Yet, few Massachusetts gas consumers who were canvassed this fall knew that Fair Share, like CLEC, is resolutely Marxist. Bill Thompson, one of Fair Share's founders, and a member of CLEC, said of this new kind of radical activism, "no Ho Chi Minh, Kim Il Sung, or Che, we tried to get back to the real everyday things, to a calm style. We switched issues from Vietnam and Cambodia, (to natural gas and toxic waste)..."

CLEC and its component groups like Mass. Fair Share use these "hot" consumerist issues to fund the Midwest Academy, a "community organizing training center... to produce people skilled in social action and organization... to unite people in step - by - step campaigns where our collective strength wins concrete improvements and beins; the job of redistributing social wealth and power." To overthrow the free market system. Its founder is Heather Booth, a co-founder of CLEC, whose Midwest Academy colleague, Steve Max, describes the natural gas drive as part of "emphasis on constant small victories with only slight attention paid to the long-term self-interest of members."

In other words, even if their "victories" turn out to be economic defeats (as all Marxist "victories" do), the important thing is the "self-interest" of national Marxist community organization.

Thus, on January 29th, 1981, the day after President Reagan de-regulated crude oil prices, CLEC predicted that gasoline prices would "soon reach $2 a gallon," and oil industry profits would soar. Instead, gasoline and heating oil prices are now 10 cents less than in January 1981, and the spot market price of crude oil has dropped from $38 per bbl. to $28.80 - and oil industry profits have plunged. Which is to say, de-control was precisely the "protection" the consumers needed from constantly escalating OPEC price hikes, government-imposed shortages, and excess oil profits.

Indeed, the oil glut caused by de-control is now acting as a "market cap" on natural gas prices, and is forcing the re-writing of virtually all major natural gas pipeline supply contracts. This is why economists are nearly unanimous in their conviction that the best thing for all consumers would be to de-control all natural gas as quickly as possible.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Nov. 13, the 317th day of 1983. There are 48 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Nov. 13, 1956, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that segregation of the races on public buses is unconstitutional.

On this date: In 1805, a Viennese butcher, Johann Georg Lahner, concocted the recipe for a new kind of sausage, which he called the "frankfurter."

In 1875, football uniforms were worn for the first time in a game between Harvard and Yale in New Haven, Conn.

In 1937, NBC formed the first full-sized symphony orchestra exclusively for radio broadcasting.

In 1938, Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini became the first U.S. citizen to be beatified.

Ten years ago: The U.S. Senate approved the Alaska pipeline bill and sent it to President Richard Nixon for his signature.

Five years ago: The staff of the Federal Trade Commission proposed that used-car dealers be required to disclose defects in their vehicles and state plainly what warranty protection is provided.

One year ago: President Reagan lifted sanctions against companies participating in the Soviet natural gas pipeline to Western Europe.

Guild backing big problem

The Newspaper Guild has endorsed Fritz Mondale as its presidential candidate. Actually, the leaders of the Newspaper Guild endorsed him - the membership was not consulted. Many members of the guild are very angry that their leaders took a position in the presidential campaign.

I thought there would be jubilation in the Mondale camp when the Newspaper Guild gave the nod to their man. But it was just the opposite.

"This is an absolute disaster," said one of Mondale's people. "We've been blindsided." "How can you say that? The Newspaper Guild is a powerful union and its members control much of the news fit to print. You should be thrilled they came out for your boy so early."

"The members didn't come out for your boy - the guild officers came out for him, and the rank and file are mad as hell. Do you know what is going to happen? The members will clobber Mondale just to prove they haven't gone in the tank."

"I didn't think of that. You don't believe they would purposely slant their stories against him, just to assert their independence?"

"They could do something worse - ignore him. And if they do write about him they'll be harder on Mondale than anybody else. If they are not, their editors will think they're following the Newspaper Guild party line."

"I think you're right," I said. "I frankly don't believe a Newspaper Guild should support any presidential candidate. After all, what can a president do for the press, anyway? The worst candidates have given us our best stories, and the best ones haven't given us any stories at all. Why do you think the guild officers stuck their necks out?"

The Mondale man said, "We suspect someone from the other side was behind it."

"When you say the other side are you talking about Mondale's Democratic rivals or the Republicans?"

"In a presidential primary everybody is on the other side."

"Perhaps you're overreacting."

The Mondale aide said, "The last time the Newspaper Guild supported a presidential candidate was in 1972 when they came out for McGovern. Look what happened to him."

"I forgot McGovern. Funny enough after they endorsed him, McGovern complained he never got a decent story in the papers again."

"It isn't funny. The same thing could happen to Mondale."

"I guess your best bet would be to repudiate the guild endorsement. After all, you don't have to take every political blessing that comes along."

"It may be too late. We should have turned it down when it was first offered to us. Now it's going to be hard to get the rank-and-file guild members to stop leaning over backwards to show they don't support Fritz."

"I notice where many guild members have already notified their leaders that they don't support Mondale. Isn't this a good sign?" I asked.

"Yeah, but those reporters will go even farther out of their way to show they mean it. No matter which way they go now, it's a no-win situation for us."

"There must be some way you can get a fair shake from the newspaper people, in spite of the fact they endorsed you."

"Any ideas?"

"How about this one? Why doesn't Mondale announce 'If I am elected president, I will let the press go to Grenada?'"

College stands on principles

"I am the government. I'm here to help you. I want to be your friend." That was probably the gist of the Devil's proposition to Daniel Webster. Today we're hearing the same tempting refrain. But the intelligent and honest should give that proposition the same bit of healthy skepticism given: "It won't hurt." "The check's in the mail," and "Honest, I didn't do it." Fortunately, there are still some principled Americans who will tell government bureaucrats just where to get off.

One modern American example of such principled courage can be found in the administration of Grove City College, located in Pennsylvania, due north of Pittsburgh. Established in 1876 as a coeducational college, Grove City does not feed at the federal trough. Its tuition is about $4,800 per year, half that of most private colleges. And in a time of academic red ink, Grove City is operating in the black. It has always maintained a nondiscriminatory sex and race policy while such Johnny-come-lately, "liberal" colleges and universities as Harvard and Yale have a history steeped in racism and sexism.

You'd think Grove City College and its president, Dr. Charles S. MacKenzie, would be applauded by federal officials for their success, but you'd be dead wrong. Grove City has been subjected to government harassment and prosecution, and now they face a test before the U.S. Supreme Court.

The problem is that since Grove City does not accept government money; they tell edict - making government bureaucrats to get lost - most specifically, the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS). Under the provisions of Title IX of the Education Act of 1972, HHS wants Grove City to sign a letter of assurance that it is in compliance with federal laws which prohibit sex discrimination. Grove City refuses, contending that it does not engage in sex discrimination, never has done so, and finds the government intrusion offensive.

In fact, judges trying the case at lower levels found Grove City NOT guilty of any sex discrimination. But HHS wants Grove City to sign a letter of assurance - of - compliance letter, which will put it under government control.

Grove City College told the bureaucrats to go play in traffic, because they didn't receive federal funds. But the bureaucrats, reaching down real low, said, "Yes you do! Some of your STUDENTS receive federally guaranteed loans, and hence Grove City is a recipient of government money." Grove City administrators argued that those were loans, grants, or Social Security survivor benefits made DIRECTLY to the students. And the federal bureaucrats laughed in their face.

There is nothing less than a form of insidious government encroachment that we all should condemn. If Grove City College loses, it will mean government has doubled, tripled, or quadrupled its control over all of us. Anyone who does business with Social Security recipients, veterans, welfare mothers, etc., can be interpreted as receiving federal funds and as such come under the control of HHS.

By LARRY HOLLIS
Staff Writer

"When I left school, I started working around McLean. And, of course, about all there was to do there was farm work," said B. "Jiggs" Cooke, public works director for Pampa. Not wanting to work farms, he moved to Pampa to work "temporarily" with the city until he could find something else. "But I've been here ever since," he said, smiling. Cooke retires Wednesday after working "temporarily" with the City of Pampa for "37 years, seven months and seven days."

He began his service with the city on Sept. 23, 1946, as construction inspector for the Department of Engineering. He worked in that position for "just a little bit less than two years."

He then began a series of promotions and job changes which gave him quite a bit of experience in the operations of the city.

He was appointed as street superintendent with the Street Department, which lasted about three years. Then he was promoted to field engineer "for a long, long time."

"We were putting in paving, water lines, sewer lines," he said, and he was in charge of inspecting the work for the Engineering Department.

His next appointment was to assistant city engineer, "if titles mean anything."

"Right after that deal I went back to field engineer" as a survey party chief, he noted. Then he was promoted to assistant director of public works "around 1956 or 1957. It's hard to keep all these years in mind."

Cooke served in that capacity until he was appointed director of public works in 1960. He's held that position for the past 23 years.

But he managed to take on other duties during the same period. He was appointed temporary city manager "a couple of times" while Pampa was between city managers. He has also served as purchasing agent, traffic engineer and temporary water superintendent.

"I've worked in all departments except fire and police. And tax. That's the only three I haven't had anything to do with," he said, a slight smile upon his face.

He was born in McLean and attended schools there. He didn't go to college. "I never was lucky enough to do that. I had to go to work."

He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II. He was also sworn in for the Korean War, "but I never went in. We were going to start a Seabee group, but never got it done."

After the war, "I followed the oil patch for a while" while living in Southwest Texas. He then moved to Pampa in 1946.

The city then had about 12,000 or 13,000 people. "We've expanded some since then," he said. Over the years he has watched the city grow and develop its streets, buildings and parks.

"Actually, the majority of (my) work is maintenance work. That's on everything the city owns" - buildings, streets, parks, whatever. "If the city owns it, we maintain it," he said. Others may lay the streets or construct such buildings as the fire stations, the library and the M. K. Brown Auditorium, but then the maintenance becomes the city's responsibility.

"The thing that stands out most in my mind is the parks system. I've been real proud of it through the years," he stated.

When he first began employment with the city, about the only park was Central Park, with the Lions Club Park being near completion. He worked with getting the Central Park system expanded and developed and saw other parks added throughout the city.

"They all followed as the town developed. We tried to develop the park system with it," he said.

Now there are "about 17 parks" in the city. "They're all over the place."

He noted that people generally have been cooperative with getting the parks going. One of the more popular elements to the parks has been the development of the hike and bike trails which wind through several of the parks. People use them for walking, jogging, bicycling or similar activities. While most often used in summer, they still attract many to get out of doors even in the winter.

Also added to the parks have been playground equipment, picnic facilities, baseball fields and tennis courts.

Hobart Street Park has been developed to include the use of overnight camping facilities for travelers in campers and vans. The park has received much praise from visitors who have stopped off in the city, with some taking time to write letters of thanks to the city and to the newspaper.

Many of the improvements have resulted from suggestions from residents and from the cooperation of various groups in the city.

"That's the good part about having this job, working with people," he said. "The bad part is vandalism. I hope people will wake up" to see how much damage and how many problems it causes for others when they tear up a building or destroy property.

"I think the best change that has been made is the Sanitation Department," Cooke said. When he first worked for the city, four-men crews would haul off trash and garbage in open-bed trucks. "It was kind of bad."

Now one man can do the work of four with the mechanized truck trash pick-up systems. "It's so much nicer and easier to do, cheaper," he said.

The dump ground operations have changed, too, he noted.

"We used to burn it out there; just dump a load and set it on fire," with all the resulting smells and smoke. Now the city has a sanitary landfill. The trash is covered in pits with dirt, eliminating much of the odors and the smoke.

"I think about the most unpleasant time of year to work for the city is 'the winter,'" he said. Its cold weather, and snowstorms creates problems with the roads and traffic and makes outside maintenance harder.

"I think the most pleasant time is summer, when people can enjoy the parks."

During the years he has seen quite a few city officials come and go. "I believe Calvin (Whatley) is the 13th mayor" he has served under, he said. "Mack (Wofford) is the tenth city manager I've worked for." He said he wanted to thank those he has worked with.

Has he enjoyed becoming a Pampa resident?
"I sure have," he said. "Ninety-nine percent of the time has been a pleasure."

He said most of the time if you treat people fairly and work with them, they "turn out to be pretty pleasant."

He married his wife, Izlon "Cookie" Rosson, a McLean girl, in 1937. They had three children. One son, Harold Lewis Cooke, is a lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army, stationed at Fort Riley, Kan. "He's been a career man since 1945," he said. A daughter, Mrs. Paulette (Malcolm) Hinkle, lives here in Pampa. The Cookes have three grandsons and one granddaughter.

Another son, Joe Gaylon Cooke, was lost at sea on May 21, 1964, while serving as a Navy pilot in the Philippines.

How did he get the nickname "Jiggs"?
"I don't know, really," he said, chuckling slightly. "It's just been with me a long, long time."

He mentioned the old Maggie and Jiggs comic strip as a possible source. For some reason, one of his sisters started calling him Jiggs, "and it just stuck."

Upon his retirement, he looks forward to doing some traveling with his wife. "Never had time to do that much before," he said. He plans to travel mainly in the states, "visiting kinfolk and seeing places we haven't had the opportunity to see."

His first stop will be to see his son and family in Kansas for Thanksgiving.

When he has time off from work, he has enjoyed hunting and fishing. He hunts quail and pheasant here in the Texas Panhandle and in Kansas. "We go to Kansas every year" to hunt, he said.

Most of the fishing will be down at Rockport on the coast. "There you just fish for whatever happens to be there," Cooke said. "Really, I just like to fish," with no particular kind of fishing being a favorite.

He said a group of guys in the Engineering and Water Departments "want me to start playing golf. I've never tried it much. It might be interesting."

"I guess about the last and final thing I would like to say is to see more people get involved in the city government," he said. He urged citizens to attend meetings, let elected officials know their views and get active in the operations of the city.

After Wednesday he won't be attending city commission meetings "as a public official, but I hope to do so as a private citizen," he said.

He works until noon Wednesday to complete his years of employment with the city.

A reception will be held for the public works director from 10 a.m. to noon Wednesday in the City Commission Room at City Hall.

Then he will begin his retirement.

'Small growth' firms hit hard

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market has dealt out some harsh treatment of late to the shares of small "growth" companies.

While market indicators dominated by the big-name blue chips have held relatively steady since mid-summer, what Wall Street calls "emerging growth" stocks have been heading almost straight downward.

The net asset value per share of the T. Rowe Price New Horizons Fund, a large mutual fund that specializes in this category of investments, fell 6.9 percent in the third quarter of the year. Over the same span, Standard & Poor's 500-stock composite index barely budged, declining 0.1 percent.

New Horizons' value fell an additional 8 percent in October, noted Dennis Sherva, an analyst at Morgan Stanley & Co. Like several other analysts who specialize in following the fortunes of young companies, Sherva uses the fund's ups and downs as a kind of emerging growth stock index.

"It is a good window on this sector of the market because it is large ($1.4 billion), and its assets are invested in about 160 stocks, making its portfolio statistically representative," Sherva said in a recent research report.

"Probably of greatest usefulness is the relatively long record of the fund, which stretches back to its start in 1960. The 23-year time span covers several major market tops and bottoms, periods of high inflation and low inflation, and years of economic calm as well as turbulence."

It was mostly calm and little turbulence in the market this past week, with trading subdued by elections on Tuesday and the Veterans Day holiday on Friday. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials posted a 32.01 gain to 1,250.20, breaking a four-week losing streak.

The New York Stock Exchange composite index rose 2.05 to 95.82, and the American Stock Exchange market value index was up 5.37 at 218.79.

Big Board volume averaged 76.08 million shares a day, down from 83.31 million the week before.

The New Horizons fund's performance record shows that small growth stocks enjoyed a dramatic rise through the late 1970s and the 1980s until this summer. Even with its recent setback, the fund reported a 183.4 percent gain over the five years through Sept. 30.

At the peak a few months back, many observers thought enthusiasm for would-be "blue chips of the future" was getting excessive.

"The downdraft in emerging growth stocks dampened a number of the speculative excesses that had begun to develop," Edward Mathias, New Horizons' president, said in the fund's third-quarter report.

"We consider this tempering of enthusiasm a most healthy sign. It reduces the risks of a violent market decline and again sets the stage for good investment performance."

Sherva, for his part, said he remained "cautious" about the near-term outlook for emerging growth issues. "However," he added, "we believe this is just a correction in a bull market and expect to see a renewed buying opportunity sometime during the next few months."

How to Manage Your AT&T Holdings After the Breakup.

Introducing The Telephone Exchange Fund-AT&T Shares.

(A Unit Investment Trust)

Now you can continue to have an equity investment in the Bell System after the reorganization with all the convenience of a unit investment trust. You can tender your AT&T stock now for an interest in a portfolio that will only hold shares of the new AT&T plus the seven regional phone companies that the divestiture will create. Instead of the paperwork burden of owning securities in eight different companies you own a single investment, which should simplify most shareholders' bookkeeping.

Retain investment flexibility (you can redeem your units to the sponsor at any time after the divestiture at the then current market value)

For six months following the divestiture, if you decide to redeem your Units in the Fund in exchange for Bell System securities you will receive shares in these companies in any combination you wish, without a fee.

Tender shares currently held in your IRA, Keogh, or SEP plan for Units of the Fund.

Features of The Telephone Exchange Fund.

As a holder of Units of the Fund you will be able to:

Receive a pro rata share of the net dividend income from the securities held by the Fund (or have your dividend automatically reinvested). Dividends will be paid monthly.

Exchange your AT&T stock the easy way for units representing a portfolio that will hold shares in the new AT&T and the seven new regional companies.

To receive a copy of a prospectus containing more complete information including fees and expenses, call the number below or return the coupon. Be sure to read it carefully before exchanging your AT&T shares.

Congress approves spending bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, acting to make sure government operations continue uninterrupted, approved Saturday emergency spending legislation that congressional leaders say is assured of winning President Reagan's signature.

The Senate, with virtually no discussion, passed the measure on a voice vote and sent it to the White House. Earlier, the House voted 173-136 in favor of the compromise stopgap bill worked out by congressional negotiators during day-long bargaining on Friday.

To get Reagan's approval, the conferees whittled down additional education and social spending sought by House Democrats to about 10 percent of the nearly $1 billion initially sought.

Passage of the measure and the president's signature, expected Monday when he returns from a trip to the Far East, means that departments and agencies covered by the bill — including the White House — will be carrying on business as usual at the start of the week.

Much of the government has been technically without money since midnight last Thursday, but there has been no impact on federal operations because Veterans Day, followed by the weekend, gave federal workers three days off.

"I know this package will be accepted by the White House and will be signed by the president," Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., the senior Republican on the House Appropriations Committee, told his colleagues.

Still, there was scattered grumbling about the measure.

House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, who had pushed the $1 billion increase in domestic spending, said the final trimmed-down figure of $98.7 million in additional domestic spending demonstrated the "unbalanced set of priorities the nation has experienced for the past three years."

As Republicans offered scattered shouts of "vote, vote," Wright reminded them, "On another day we shall resume our fight" to reverse the budget cuts Reagan has urged on Congress.

Other legislators decried the pork barrel that had been tucked away in the legislation. Legislation that must be passed, such as the stopgap bill, often becomes an attractive vehicle to which members of Congress can attach pet projects.

For example, at the behest of Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., the bill included $6.4 million — to be refunded by user fees —

Some paratroopers pull out of Grenada

ST. GEORGE'S, Grenada (AP) — The Army sent 700 paratroopers back to the United States and U.S. and Grenadian officials signed part of a $3 million U.S. aid agreement, much of it to replace Cuban doctors and teachers kicked out of the country.

The withdrawal of a battalion from the 82nd airborne division left 2,300 U.S. servicemen on the Caribbean island, where a U.S.-led invasion ousted a leftist military council which took power in a coup a week earlier. At one point, 6,000

U.S. troops were on Grenada. The battalion flew home to Fort Bragg, N.C.

In Washington, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said the remaining troops will be sent home "well within the 60-day period set by Congress" under the War Powers Act, but he refused to give a date.

U.S. and Grenadian officials on Friday signed an agreement to repair roads, the first part of the civilian aid program.

Ted Morse, deputy director of the U.S. Agency for International Development mission in nearby Barbados, said the $3 million program was aimed at immediate needs, and that officials were studying the island's long-term needs.

The departure of Cuban doctors has hurt health care on the island, especially in the backwoods, and Morse said that $1 million would be spent on medical projects.

Cubans also taught on the island, and $185,000 will go toward education.

John Walsh, a U.S. spokesman here, acknowledged that much of the aid was designed to fill the

Peace Corps volunteers might come here for as long as nine months to fill the jobs of 32 secondary schoolteachers from the "East Bloc," said a U.S. spokesman who requested anonymity.

Morse said $1.1 million would be spent on projects for electrical power and water supplies.

Starting Monday, 120 Grenadians will be hired to resurface and patch roads.

Morse said, explaining how the aid will begin.

Hotel owners, businessmen and taxi drivers complain that the severely pitted, narrow and winding roads on the lush, hilly island hurt development of tourism.

Morse said East Bloc aid to Grenada totaled between $15 million and $20 million dollars, most of it for building a $33 million airport at Point Salines, which the Reagan administration said would serve Soviet and Cuban warplanes.

U.S. officials refused to say whether they plan to provide aid to finish the airport.

Charlie and Sue Snider needed a building that could hold hundreds of rolls of carpeting in an attractive atmosphere with plenty of room for displays of the many other carpets and floor coverings available to their customers. They also needed convenient office space and workshop and storage areas that were both accessible and easy to secure. Our new concept of construction adequately provide the variety of beauty and efficiency.

J&H Investments came to us with an idea for a retail building to house the new Curtis Mathes Home Entertainment Center and the new Big Cheese Pizza. They had an excellent location and needed a building that provided security, storage and workshop space and an inviting showroom for the home entertainment center as well as easy access from both sides and drive through facilities for the restaurant. With their ideas and plans, and our assistance in design, their new Sawatzky building meets their needs.

Otis Nace and Ruth Osborn came to us with very different plans. They needed flexibility and "store front" convenience for a multi-use professional building. They also needed security features and wanted to make their new building an attractive addition to the downtown area...something they and their many tenants and clients could be proud of. We were delighted to design and construct a building to meet their specifications.

We'd like to congratulate

Terrorism expected to increase in coming year

NEW YORK (AP) — Terrorists today are less committed to their political causes, run greater personal risks and have fewer chances of success. Yet more people are dying in terrorism attacks.

"This year, 1983, is going to be probably the bloodiest year for which we have any statistics," said Brian Michael Jenkins, terrorism researcher at the Rand Corporation.

Jenkins says the bombs are bigger, the kidnappings more daring and the threats of mass-scale, high-technology extortion more real as terrorists become more willing to kill large groups of people. The starkest example is the 239 American servicemen killed in last month's suicide truck-bombing in Beirut.

"In looking at incidents with 10 or more fatalities, we have had more already this year than in 1980-82 combined," Jenkins said.

He said this was in line with the theory that hard-core terrorists are not so much fanatical believers in a cause as societal losers with nothing more to lose.

"I'm inclined to think that anyone who would commit an act of terrorism is mentally ill," agreed Norman Antokol, a spokesman in the State Department's Office for Combating Terrorism. "Such a person would obviously have an antisocial personality."

Jenkins said terrorists' acts were no longer necessarily aimed at changing a political situation or effecting changes in society the way they were in struggles for independence in Israel, Cyprus, Algeria or Kenya earlier in this century.

Increased security — the United States alone spends $200 million a year to protect its diplomats — make it less likely that terrorists will escape after accomplishing their violence, Jenkins said.

"What's important for us is to make sure terrorists don't get what they want," Antokol said. "We have to continue to make it clear that all such a person is going to get is prison or death."

Jenkins also said the public that once might have been mobilized by political violence was less likely to be sympathetic to today's more brutal crimes.

"Terrorists have been unable to translate the consequences of terrorism into concrete political gains," he said. "Nor have they yet revealed a convincingly workable strategy that relates terrorist violence to positive political power. In that sense, terrorism has failed."

Yet terrorism has grown in recent years. The State Department says there were 746 incidents of terrorism throughout the world last year, up from 709 in 1981 and only 142 in 1968.

After fewer than 150 deaths from international terrorism in 1982, Antokol said, there will be more than 300 this year in Beirut alone — from the Oct. 23 bombings of the U.S. and French military installations and the April bombing that killed 52 at the U.S. Embassy.

Jenkins said this year's total of deaths from international terrorism will be about 500. He said deaths in "local" terrorism — "Irishmen blowing up Irishmen, for instance" — will total from 2,000 to 5,000.

"Despite their failure, terrorists persist in their struggles. Why? Are terrorists irrational or simply slow learners? Probably neither, but they are capable of self-delusion," Jenkins said.

He said studies showed that terrorists "wage fantasy wars," thus allowing themselves to commit acts of violence that would otherwise be immoral.

"In fact, cut off from most normal contacts with society, having only each other to talk to, terrorists live in a fantasy world," Jenkins said. "Their organizations are extravagant assertions. They imagine themselves to be armies and brigades. They believe themselves to have legions of supporters or potential supporters on whose behalf they claim to fight, but their constituencies, like their military formations, are largely imaginary."

Bombing tightens Capitol security

WASHINGTON (AP) — The debris is gone, but the dust hasn't settled from a bomb that rocked the Capitol nearly a week ago.

The aftershock of the Monday night explosion, which blew a crater in a wall just 30 feet from the Senate chamber, is being felt by tourists, reporters and members of Congress who still wonder whether their workplace is safe.

Among the immediate effects of the bombing were these:

— Tourists, who once could enter the building from about 10 entrances, found only four of those doors still open to them.

— After finding a public entrance, they faced longer lines because a metal detector was just inside the door. Previously, detectors were only outside the entrances to the House and Senate galleries on the third floor of the building.

— Visitors to the galleries were asked to remove their overcoats and open their sport coats for inspection before passing through the gallery metal detectors.

— Special entrances at both sides of the building were reserved for news media use, but for the first time, reporters and camera technicians had to go through metal detectors.

— Tourists who wanted to meet their senators had to make an appointment. No longer could they stand in the corridors outside the chamber and mingle with the lawmakers because those hallways were sealed off to the public.

But Rep. Robert A. Young, D-Mo., chairman of Public Works and Transportation subcommittee, said these measures were "inadequate and inconsistent."

Young has scheduled a hearing Tuesday on the new measures. He has called witnesses from the FBI, the Capitol police, along with the Capitol architect and the sergeant at arms, to testify.

One Senate Republican official, who spoke on condition his name not be used, said the FBI spent considerable time after the blast interviewing Capitol police on the security system that had been in place.

"They (FBI agents) were absolutely amazed at how little real security we had up here," the official said. But he added the agents were more familiar with the much tighter White House security.

At the White House, however, the public is only invited to tour the building. In the Capitol, tourists have a permanent invitation to watch the legislative process as it unfolds in committee rooms and the floors of the House and Senate. Given that difference, the Capitol's security presents a more difficult problem.

Byrd on Bucks Investments that generate income

This week we are beginning a new series on investing. We will begin today by discussing investments whose purpose is income.

Income is of immediate interest of many investors who wish - or need - to supplement their regular earnings by additional income from their investments. Primary, but not only, among this group of investors is the retired individual - inflation eating into buying power—who finds need for additional income from his investments.

Various types of securities are available that will produce income. So it is important that the investor identifies in his own mind how much income he wishes to obtain from his investments and how much, if any, risk he is willing or able to assume. With that clear in his mind he is now in a position to make a decision on his investment.

Before going further let's take a moment to review some ideas we have discussed earlier.

These terms and what they mean should become part of the investor's vocabulary. First, dividends are paid by corporations to the owners of their stock - common or preferred stock - and then only when declared by the board of directors. Dividends are paid to equity holders. Interest, on the other hand, is paid to the company's creditors. It is paid on the company's debt to holders of its bonds or debentures or other notes. Remember, we said we can invest two ways; we can own (equity or stock) or we can loan (debt or bonds).

Yield refers to the amount of cash dividends or interest paid out on a particular security. It is generally expressed as a percent of the security's current market price.

For example, if a stock is selling for $10 a share and pays you $1 per share per year, your current dividend is 10 percent. If a bond whose face value is $1,000 pays you $100 per year interest, your current yield is also 10 percent. Get the idea?

This is all fine and simple if the stock's price stays at $10 per share and the bond's price remains at $1,000. This seldom happens. What if the stock's value rises to $20 and they do not raise the dividend - they continue to pay $1 per share per year? Now, you have a stock paying a dividend giving a current yield of 5 percent to anyone who might buy it at this price.

You, however, are still receiving a 10 percent yield based on what you paid for the stock, $10. Now you have an investment decision. If you sold your investment, which pays you $1 a year in dividends you would receive $20 which you could reinvest. Is there an investment in which you could place your $20 (that meets your safety requirements) whereby you could earn more than the $1 per year? If the answer is yes, then you have an opportunity to increase your income.

More on this next week.....

Computers stand guard Electronic devices replace night watchmen

HOUSTON (AP) — Computer-controlled locks and sensors, spawned from space age electronics to protect the nation's most sensitive complexes, are replacing the traditional uniformed night watchman in scores of office buildings in Dallas and Houston.

Major office buildings in the two Texas cities are wired to a computer system that can detect opened doors or windows, monitor elevator movements and record which offices are occupied and by whom.

The unsleeping, electronic brains also can detect fire, control air conditioning and lights, and even keep a record of when, where and how long a person works.

And in most cases, the computers monitoring the buildings are miles away, sometimes even in another city.

These are all elements of a new era in building security, an era that is demanding tougher, more dependable protection against an increasingly dangerous world.

A Houston company, Kastle Security Systems Inc., currently is monitoring the security in 10 buildings in Dallas, 38 in Houston and one in Denver from a computer-filled room on Houston's west side. Each of the buildings is wired to the customers' specifications and then hooked to a telecommunications system connected to the Kastle computers.

Other security companies are using similar computer-monitored systems. All use techniques that were first developed to protect the White House, government libraries and sensitive office complexes.

"The secret is making security innocuous for people who are supposed to be there and a deterrent for people who aren't supposed to be there," says Hunter Knight, vice president of operations for Kastle.

Under the Kastle plan, buildings are custom equipped to provide concentric circles of security, each circle protected by increasingly tougher and more sophisticated electronic elements.

Knight refuses to give details of specific buildings but outlines a general system. Access to the buildings' public areas, such as the lobby, is controlled during selected hours by magnetic locks that can be opened or closed automatically by the computer, he says.

Plastic cards, resembling credit cards, are the electronic keys to the doors. These cards are embedded with bits of copper wire that create an identification pattern when the cards are electronically scanned. The pattern for each card holder is stored in the computer. The computer also is told where in the building a card holder will be permitted to go.

A person requesting admission to the building puts his card through a scanner beside the outside door. If the computer program shows that the card is valid, then it sends a signal which opens the magnetic lock and the cardholder is admitted into the building lobby.

If the card holder wants to go, for instance, to the 12th floor, he must put his card through a scanner at the elevator bank. If his code permits him to go to the 12th floor, the elevator will go there, but no where else.

Once he has gained access to the 12th-floor, the person must use the card to open a door to the specific suite where he is entitled to go. And once inside the suite, his access may be limited to the specific office or even to a specific file cabinet or drawer.

Thanks to you it works...

THE KINGDOM OF CHRIST

"...who hath delivered us from the power of darkness, and hath translated us into the kingdom of his dear Son" (Colossians 1:13.) These words of inspiration are a praise of God for His greatest of all accomplishments, the salvation of the soul through Jesus Christ. The translation into the kingdom occurs when one obeys the gospel of Christ thus entitling him to "the inheritance of the saints in light" (Colossians 1:12; Ephesians 1:18). This inheritance is for all who have received the remission of their sins through the blood of Christ.

But there are those who would question the existence of Christ's kingdom now, saying that it is to be established at some future date. But if there is no kingdom now, then there is no remission of sins now because the Colossians had been translated into the kingdom by virtue of having received the forgiveness of their sins (Colossians 1:14).

Further, the saved people (those having their sins forgiven) were added to the church (Acts 2:47). Things equal to the same thing are equal to each other, so we would conclude that the church and the kingdom are one and the same thing. Jesus said, "But I say unto you, I shall not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, until that day when I drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom" (Matthew 26:29). This statement was made in connection with the Lord's Supper. Yet, we find later that the Lord's Supper was being observed in the assembly of the church (I Corinthians 11:17-34).

Make no mistake about it. Christ's kingdom exists today and it is the church of Jesus Christ. There is one body and that body is the church (Ephesians 4:4; Colossians 1:18). The church is the kingdom which shall be delivered back to God when Christ comes again (I Corinthians 15:20-28).

Wilderness battle divides East Texans

By T. LEE HUGHES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — From communities nestled amid the magnificent Piney Woods of East Texas, Bobby Calhoun and James R. Jackson came to Capitol Hill to battle.

The issue was one woven into the very fabric of their lives: whether to set aside some 64,000 acres of East Texas national forest as a wilderness haven, thus barring the harvest of timber from the property.

Calhoun, a pulpwood contractor in Kennard, has worked the forests of East Texas for 35 years. He started in the business at age 8, hauling pulpwood with a mule. Now he hauls it with equipment worth $350,000, employs ten men and does contract work for a variety of companies.

Calhoun told a House Interior subcommittee he fears what the removal of 64,000 acres of timber from potential harvest could do to his business.

"My company can't survive, and my employer and my community won't exist if wilderness areas are going to take away our livelihood," Calhoun said.

Jackson, on the other hand, is a land surveyor, school teacher and a spokesman for the Wilderness Club of Cleveland, Texas. North of Cleveland lies one the proposed wilderness areas, the Big Creek area. And Jackson outlined its bountiful natural attributes with pride.

"It has beaver ponds, clear spring-fed creeks, the twayblade orchid, the spring coral root orchid, indian pipes, greed dragon, the green rein orchid, the three birds orchid, several spiranthes orchids, walter's violet, mottled trillium, the crane-fly orchid, wild blueberries, to name a few," he informed the subcommittee.

Jackson wants Big Creek and the other acreage designated as wilderness so nature can go its way undisturbed by timber cutting. He told congressmen, "From my experience, over 90 percent of the local people contacted about the (proposal) are in favor of it."

Last week's subcommittee hearing on the issue also attracted some of the heavy hitters of both the timber industry and the environmental movement — the president of the industry-supported Texas Forestry Association, a vice president of the National Audubon Society, and a representative of the national Wilderness Society.

They are locked in a battle that is often waged with the jargon of both environmentalism and commercial forestry — terms such as "viable gene pools," "ecosystems," "clear cutting" and "high density timber."

But despite the complexities, the issue still pretty much comes down to, as Rep. Charles Wilson of East Texas put it, "How much is enough?"

For the timber industry, enough is no more than 9,000 acres in three separate parcels — in the Little Lake Creek area of Sam Houston National Forest, the Big Slough area of Davey Crockett National Forest and the Turkey Hill area of Angelina National Forest.

These are areas recommended for wilderness designation several years ago by the Agriculture Department, whose U.S. Forest Service manages the national forests for a wide range of uses, including timber production.

Environmentalists, however, want Congress to set aside seven times that — about 64,000 acres of wilderness in 10 parcels dotted across East Texas.

These would include the three areas supported by the timber industry, though in enlarged versions, plus acreage in the Alabama Creek area of Davey Crockett National Forest, Indian Mounds and Chambers Ferry areas of Sabine National Forest, Upland Island and Jordan Creek areas of Angelina National Forest and the Four-Notch and Big Creek areas of Sam Houston National Forest.

Their designation as wilderness areas would prevent them from being cultivated for timber by the Forest Service, which elsewhere in the East Texas national forests alters the natural balance between hardwood and pine trees to promote the development of highly-sought pine timber.

Legislation designating the entire 64,000 acres as wilderness is being sponsored by Rep. John Bryant, a freshman Democrat from Dallas, in a move he has pitched him against fellow Democrat Wilson, a five-term veteran from Lufkin.

Most of the 64,000 acres lies in Wilson's East Texas district; not a single acre lies in Bryant's. Carlton Carl, Bryant's press secretary, said in an interview that doesn't matter.

"We are talking about national forests, public lands that belong to all the people in the United States," Carl said. "... They don't belong to the people in (Wilson's) district any more than the people in our district."

Wilson, however, is opposing Bryant's legislation, contending, like Calhoun, that it poses a threat in a region whose economy is heavily dependent on timber.

When timber is sold from national forests, a quarter of the revenue is turned over to counties where the timber is harvested for use in supporting roads and schools.

Timber-related industries also provide jobs in those counties, jobs which stimulate local economies.

"Those desiring larger areas of wilderness say (the effect) would be negligible," Wilson told the subcommittee. "I assure you it is not negligible to those living in the area."

Wilson is sponsoring legislation that would designate as wilderness only the 9,000 acres supported by the Forest Service and the timber industry.

That, and the Big Thicket National Preserve in Southeast Texas, managed by the National Park Service and targeted for nearly 85,000 acres, is enough wilderness for the region, he says.

The preserve is not really wilderness, however, in that development of park facilities is barred in wilderness areas but not the preserve, Duncan Morrow, a Park Service spokesman, said in an interview.

A wilderness designation "says in effect this land shall be held forever wild, there will be no intrusion," Morrow said.

And environmentalists say that the only other real wilderness area in Texas is in the Guadalupe Mountains National Park in far West Texas, too far from the population centers of Dallas, Austin, Houston and San Antonio to be accessible to residents there.

Residents worried over possible waste dump

DELL CITY, Texas (AP) — Residents here are concerned over a state announcement that a patch of ground near the town is one of two sites being considered for burying low-level radioactive waste.

People in the small agriculture community 150 miles east of El Paso say they primarily are worried about what the radioactive waste might do to their water supply — so precious in arid West Texas.

At a meeting Thursday night, which drew more than 250 Dell City residents, state officials tried to ease the concerns.

"It's just not that hazardous," said Tom Blackburn, director of special programs for the Texas Low Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority.

The state's search for a waste site has been narrowed to the site near Dell City and one in Dimmitt County between Eagle Pass and Laredo. The 640-acre site in Hudspeth County, about 17 miles southwest of Dell City, is on land owned by the University of Texas.

Wastes to be buried at the site include clothing worn by people working with radioactive material, medical syringes and vials used with tracer materials in X-rays and tools used at nuclear reactors. Some wastes from nuclear power plants also would be stored there in the future.

The major fear of the 495 Dell City residents is that radioactivity would seep into the ground water supply.

Blackburn said the water level below the proposed site is at least 1,000 feet down.

Oil & Gas News

Desk and Derrick speaker

Charles Buzzard, chief administrator of the Gray County Appraisal District, will be guest speaker at the 7 p.m. Monday meeting of the Desk and Derrick Club of Pampa at the R.C. Inn, formerly Stroud's Family Restaurant. Formerly chief appraiser for the Wheeler Appraisal District, Buzzard has held his present position here for the past year. He has also served as an appraiser for the City of Pampa and the Pampa Independent School District. He will discuss "Valuation of an Oil and Gas Producing Property" at the Monday evening meeting, dealing mainly with oil property determinants and elements that are critical to the actual appraisal of an oil property. Buzzard also serves as an instructor for the State Property Tax Board, teaching valuation of oil and gas properties. Visitors are welcome. Reservations should be made with Connie Ball at 665-1816.

The breakup of AT&T Opportunity calling?

That's what millions of investors are asking today. For answers we'd suggest you read our new research overview that discusses the AT&T breakup and its consequences in considerable detail. You'll learn what the estimated per-share breakup value is and how we feel the combined dividend return compares with that of other investments. Also discussed is the outlook for the parent AT&T and for the seven regional phone companies. But most important, our team of analysts spell out in clear terms what stance they believe investors should take with regard to AT&T at this time, taking into account the new arenas in which AT&T will be competing and the higher risk/reward ratios that will prevail. ## Thanks To Simmons & Simmons, I Don't Have Time For My Eyes Don't get me wrong, I think taking care of your eyesight is just as important as the next guy. In fact, that's why I went to Dr. Simmons & Simmons in the first place...to see about extended wear contacts. I know a lot of stores have them. But I figure for something as important as my eyes, I needed an eye-care specialist to make sure I get the best fit possible. And besides, for one fee, I got a thorough examination, the right type of lens for me, a good fit and check-ups to make sure I'm getting the best wear possible. Now that I've got my extended wear contacts from Drs. Simmons & Simmons, I've got more interesting things to do with my time than worrying about my eyes...see what I mean?

TOUCHDOWN !!—Pampa end Paul Mason signals a touchdown after hauling in a four-yard scoring pass from quarterback Robert Knight in the first quarter against Berger Friday night. 30-6!

Harvesters humble Berger to close season

BORGER—Well, it wasn't like winning the district championship, but it was the next best thing. With Anthony Scott and Eugene Smith combining for 323 yards rushing, the Pampa Harvesters routed archrival Berger, 30-6, Friday night to close out the season on a winning note.

Pampa finished with a 5-5 record, the closest the Harvesters have come to a winning record since 1979. Pampa was 4-3 in District 1-4A play.

Scott and Smith, closed out their high school careers with brilliant performances. Smith bulldozed his way to three touchdowns and 161 yards while Scott scampered for 162 yards and helped set up two Pampa scores with two long runs.

Who would have figured such a lopsided score? Pampa hadn't scored in its last two games and Berger was riding a four-game winning streak.

Pampa had 21 first downs to go along with 369 yards total offense. Pampa's defense, led by Swasey Brainard, Ricky Poole, Danny Sebastian, David Carter and Bill Fritz, recovered three fumbles and held Berger to only eight first downs.

Pampa marched to touchdowns on its first two possessions, and the Harvesters made it look easy after taking over both times in good field position.

Borger gambled on its possession and lost, trying for a first down on a fourth and one deep in its own territory. Pampa took control on the Berger 29 and Smith crossed the goal line five plays later from the one.

After a Borger punt traveled only 19 yards, Pampa found itself in good field position again on the Bulldog 39. With Smith going inside and Scott going outside, the Harvesters were off to the races again.

Eight plays later, quarterback Robert Knight hit Paul Mason with a four-yard scoring pass in the end zone. Devin Cross booted the extra point to make it 14-0 already with 3:22 to go in the first quarter.

Pampa added one more score in the closing seconds of the second quarter after Borger's Charles Tillman dropped Cross' punt and Pampa recovered on the Bulldog 35.

Aided by a pass interference call on Borger, the Harvesters marched to paydirt in 10 plays with Smith going over from the one.

Pampa led 20-0 at halftime, and added two more scores in the second half on a 37-yard field goal by Cross and Smith's third TD of the night.

Pampa's final drive, coming with 7:22 left in the game, was the masterpiece of the night.

Pampa's Swasey Brainard squashed a Borger scoring threat when he recovered

Junior Bowie's fumble near the Harvester goal line.

Pampa took over on its own four and immediately drew an offsides penalty that set the Harvesters back to the two. That's when the fun started.

Smith broke loose for 22 yards to the Pampa 24, then two plays later, it was Scott's turn as he scooted to Berger's 45 before he was brought down.

On the very next play, Knight lofted a long pass to David Hinkle, who made a diving catch on the Bulldog four. Two plays later, Smith scored from the three with a minute to play.

Borger's lone score came early in the fourth quarter when Bowie went on an 82-yard scoring jaunt. Bowie rushed for 126 yards in eleven carries to lead Borger, which finished at 4-6 and 3-4.

"It was a great win, especially for our seniors," said offensive coordinator Gary Cornelien. It will be something they can look back on and remember for a long time.

"The kids were as disappointed in their play the last two weeks as the coaching staff was, but they proved they had what it takes.

"We controlled the game. The offensive line was coming off the ball real well. We hadn't been able to move the ball as consistently as we did since the Perryton game."

Groom ends season with 29-7 setback to Claude

CLAUDE—Tim Knox led two touchdowns to jump Claude off to a flying start in a 29-7 District 1-1A football triumph over Groom Friday night.

Knox grabbed an 11-yard touchdown pass from Shawn Farrar. Knox came right back to post a 20-yard touchdown run.

Groom's Rex Ruthardt trimmed the difference with a one-yard run. It was 15-7 when Wesley English kicked the extra point.

Pirates bow to Booker

LEFORS—David Godine scored two touchdowns and kicked two extra points in sparking Berger to a 20-12 District 1-2A football decision over winless Lefors Friday night as the two teams completed their seasons.

Godine opened the scoring with a two-yard run and kicked the extra point. Shane Pinkard passed to Kike Mauney for a 30-yard touchdown. The kick failed and the winners led, 13-0, at halftime. Godine struck from nine yards out and kicked the extra point in the third quarter for a 20-0 edge.

Lefors got on the scoreboard with a nine-yard run by Russell Taylor and a five-yard run by John Winegard.

Booker was 7-3 for the season and 0-1 in district. Lefors was 0-10 and 0-7.

Perryton falls

DUMAS—Muleshoe rallied to edge Perryton, 10-8, Friday night in a Class 3A bi-district football game. All the scoring came in the final quarter.

Mike Morton gave the winners a 7-0 lead with a 17-yard run, but Perryton bounced back to take an 8-7 lead on a three-yard run by Roger Cox and a two-point conversion pass to Wayne Buxton from Monty Langford.

Vinson booted a 22-yard field goal to win the game for Muleshoe.

Wheeler rolls by McLean

McLEAN—Wheeler spotted McLean to an opening touchdown and then blanked the Tigers the rest of the way for a 34-6 win Friday night.

Darren Grimes, a 185-pound junior, led the Mustangs' charge by bursting for a 59-yard touchdown jaunt to tie the score, 6-6. McLean had scored first on Craig Lee Morris' four-yard run.

Grimes followed with a 24-yard touchdown run to put Wheeler in the lead for good.

Wheeler had 389 yards total offense and 13 first downs while McLean had 329 total yards and 16 first downs.

Wheeler advances to playoff action with a 9-1 won-lost mark. Wheeler's only loss this season was to Shamrock, 23-0, the second game of the season.

McLean stands at 4-5.

Mean Green rolls, 27-7

MONROE, La. (AP)—North Texas State quarterback Greg Carter passed for three touchdowns and the Mean Green defense took advantage of six Northeast Louisiana turnovers to beat the Indians 27-7 Saturday in a regionally televised Southland Conference football game.

The victory gave North Texas a 4-1 record in the SLC and a giant step toward the league championship and the Division I-AA playoffs.

A North Texas victory over Texas-Arlington next Saturday would tie the Mean Green with Northeast Louisiana for the SLC title.

Tenth-ranked in I-AA, North Texas is 7-3 overall, while No. 2-ranked Northeast—its eight-game winning streak snapped—dropped to 8-2 overall and 5-1 with the defeat.

On its first possession of the game, North Texas drove for a 20-yard Tom Bresnahan field goal, then collected two Indian fumbles to take a 17-0 lead in the first quarter.

Mean Green defensive back Mike Hughes recovered both fumbles, the first on the NLU 39-yard line. Three plays later Carter connected with Carlen Charleton on a 37-yard scoring pass.

Later in the period, Hughes fell on a wide pitchout at the Northeast 34 and, again, three plays later Carter fired 20-yard scoring strike to Richard Buckingham.

NLU played the game without starting quarterback Rodney Horn, who was out with an injured thumb.

NLU's Glenn Egan, who had nine tackles, was named the game's defensive player.

Panhandle rips Stinnett in bi-district contest

PAMPA—Quarterback Todd Lamberson threw for 165 yards and two touchdowns as seventh-ranked Panhandle defeated Stinnett, 21-10, Friday night in a Class 2A bi-district playoff game at Harvester Stadium. Stinnett took an early 3-0 lead on David Luman's 22-yard field goal, but Panhandle went ahead 7-3 in the first quarter on a one-yard pass by Stacy Rusk. Panhandle made it 21-3 at halftime when Lamberson hit Kevin Powers on a nine-yard scoring pass and Tim Sorrells on a 13-yard pass in the second quarter. "The second quarter was a big one for us," said Panhandle coach Stocky Lamberson. "We had the wind in our favor and it helped us score twice." Stinnett scored in the third quarter on a one-yard plunge by Mark Dalton. "Our defense did a good job against them," Lamberson said. "Their only score came on a trick play that got a receiver open for them." Lamberson said linebacker Benny Ray Hicks, safety Tim Sorrells and noseguard Bruce Skidmore were the defensive standouts for the Panthers. Rusk rushed for 132 yards on 27 carries to pace Panhandle's rushing attack. The Panthers, now 10-0-1 for the season, will face unbeaten Hamlin (11-0) Friday night in an area playoff game at Plainview. Hamlin edged Hale Center, 15-14, in another bi-district game. "Hamlin has a real explosive offense and a big defense," Lamberson said. Panhandle had beaten Stinnett, 17-0, earlier in a regular-season game.

Schoolboy roundup Highland Park hurdles first playoff obstacle

Highland Park halfback Erik Mays dashed for two touchdowns and gained 168 yards in 31 carries as the top-ranked Scots blasted Dallas Samuell 27-14 in a high school football bi-district playoff game Friday night. The Scots, heading up The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll, climbed out of a third-quarter slump with the aid of Mays' 10-yard scoring run that culminated a 97-yard, 15-play drive. In other Class 5A playoff action, fifth-ranked Converse Judson whipped San Antonio Clark 24-21, eighth-ranked Stafford Dulles blasted Austin Reagan 15-9 and tenth-place El Paso Irvin squeezed by El Paso Bel Air 22-20. The majority of ranked 5A teams faced Saturday playoff games, with second-place Beaumont West Brook teamed up against Aldine MacArthur, third-place Plano facing Dallas Pinkston, fourth-ranked Temple against Longview Pine Tree and fifth-ranked Odessa Permian playing Hereford. Also Saturday, seventh-ranked Houston Waltrip squared off against Houston Waltrip and ninth-place Brazoswood played Austin LBJ. Scots fullback Ron Jones and quarterback John Stollenwerck rambled through huge holes opened by lineman David Richards en route to Mays' TD. He made an end run around from the 10 as David Sweeney's kick put it at 24-14 with 11:01 left in the game. The Scots held Samuell without a first down, and then ran out the clock on a 7-yard drive that ended with Sweeney's 38-yard field goal. Highland Park controlled the line of scrimmage in the second half, gaining 211 yards to Samuell's 20 and mastering the ball all but five minutes. The Scots drove 75 yards in nine plays from the second-half kickoff to go up 17-7. A 24-yard scoring run by Stollenwerck, with 8:54 left in the third quarter, was set up by a 16-yard dash by Mays and a 21-yard screen pass from Stollenwerck to tight end Collin Durran. The Spartans closed the gap after Alfred James ran it 65 yards to the Highland Park 28. Six plays later, quarterback Marcus Camper sneaked in from the one and Shawn Newsome's kick made it 17-14 with 5:32 left in the quarter. Earlier, Samuell's Donald Brown took the game's opening kickoff and fled for 56 yards before Glenn Evans dragged him down with a touchdown-saving tackle at the Scot 44. But seven plays later, Judson padded its lead with 6:06 left in the half when Tomasai connected on a 25-yard field goal to give the Rockets a 10-6 lead. Clark opened the second half by covering 65 yards in six plays to take a 13-10 lead with 7:26 left in the third period. A pass from Jesse Garcia to Alan Drum for 19 yards and a 25-yard run by Grant Morris ate up most of the yardage. Garcia and Morris combined on a 9-yard strike and John Tippitt added the PAT that put Clark ahead. The Judson defense forced he Cougars to punt deep in their own territory, giving the Rockets a vantage point on the Clark 39-yard line that set up another TD. A pass interference penalty against Clark knocked off 32 yards on the first play, then Pryor chunked off the remaining yardage for the score. Tomasai added the extra point for a 17-13 lead that put Judson ahead for good. The Rockets added an insurance touchdown with 10:38 in the final period on a 24-yard drive that included a 1-yard pass from Watters to Pryor, two Pryor runs for 6 and the 17-yard touchdown run.

Tomasai added the extra point. In Class 4A, top-ranked Fort Bend Willowridge bombed Katy Taylor 35-7, No. 2 Cleburne shut out Fort Worth Brewer 57-0, fourth-ranked Jasper ripped Liberty 41-0 and fifth-ranked Lubbock Estacado smashed Lubbock Dunbar 21-13. Third-ranked Bay City did not play. Sixth-ranked Allen stopped Dallas Lincoln 55-0, No. 7 Wichita Falls Hirschi lost to Burkburnett 22-15, eighth-ranked Carrizo Springs froze San Antonio South San West 30-0, No. 9 New Braunfels stymied Hay Lubbock Estacado 23-0 and No. 10 San Angelo Lake View stymied Snyder 35-14. Class 3A action saw first-ranked Littlefield lambast Dalhart 49-0, third-place Dingerfield humiliate Clarksville 43-0, No. 4 Pflugerville fall to Brookshire Royal 14-7 and sixth-place Sanger slip against Springtown 30-7. Other 3A play saw seventh-place Post defeat Frenship 25-0, No. 8 Ballinger bombard Fabens 28-0, ninth-place Kaufman edge Alvarado 16-13 and No. 10 Van Vleck vanquish Bandera 27-7.

Collins: No honor code in Southwest Conference

DALLAS (AP)—Thurman Collins Jr. is no ruby from the front porch of a backwoods Mississippi delta cotton patch. He doesn't wear overalls and suspenders and hunt coon all night and sleep all day. In fact, Collins looks like he's right off Madison Avenue. He shines in a coat and tie. And he has just the right touch of gray in his hair and a charming enough smile to be modeling the garments he wears. So much for the looks. Now what kind of professional job can he do? "This former Mississippi State quarterback under Darrell Royal can X and O you to death. Proof positive is his 59-30-3 record as a head coach. Collins came to Dallas from Southern Mississippi where he was 48-30-2. He beat his old school seven straight years. Ole Miss lost to him three times. He was a big fish in a small pond. Now he's a big fish in a big pond. But he has been happier. He'll be quick to tell you he loves Southern Methodist University (where he is 19-1) and lauds the treatment he has received from the school. But he'll tell you even quicker he has been unhappy with "some of the things that go on" in the Southwest Conference. And for a downhome guy it's been something of a shock. "There's not a closeness and I don't mean buddy-buddy," Collins said. "You just don't have any conversation unless you go to a conference meeting or call a coach when he resigns." Collins said the "crowning blow" occurred recently when Arkansas Athletic Director Frank Broyles directed to the media what went on at a conference coaches' meeting about recruiting. "That's the worst thing that has happened to me since I've been in coaching," Collins said. "I still can't believe it happened. We even asked the Commissioner (Fred Jacoby) to leave. I told Frank on the telephone how I felt. Nothing in this conference is sacred." Broyles was subbing for Coach Lou Holtz at the meeting. To Collins, it was a perfect example of the "every man for himself" atmosphere that exists in the SWC. To him, there's no code of honor like there was in the South where you look a man in the eye and stand behind what you say. He had thought being in the SWC was going to be "something special," especially since he was coming from an independent college. He has discovered the cold, hard steel of throat-cutting in SWC athletics where football has become big business. Collins said he is learning about the media, too. "It's been different and educational," said Collins, who had a more relaxed relationship with the press at Hattiesburg, Miss. "I've learned a lot more about the media and I think I'm opening up more. I'm saying more," he said. "Of course, sometimes I open my mouth when I shouldn't." Collins has also been strayed by some of the SMU alumni although he's lost just one game in two years. He's been the target of criticism for accepting a tie against Arkansas last year and going for two points in a 15-13 loss to Texas. "I can live with my decisions," said Collins. "I have been getting some feedback. One retired minister in California ended his letter with three words, 'Damn, Damn, Damn.'"

NFL roundup New Orleans shoots for first place

The New Orleans Saints, a last-place team only two years ago and never a playoff team in their 17-year history, shoot for first place Sunday when they visit the San Francisco 49ers. And the Pittsburgh Steelers, with the National Football League's longest current winning streak and a three-game lead over Cleveland in the American Conference's Central Division, gun for their seventh straight victory against the surprise team of the year, the Baltimore Colts. Elsewhere, it's Seattle at St. Louis, Tampa Bay at Cleveland, Miami at New England, Cincinnati at Kansas City, Detroit at Houston, Buffalo at the New York Jets, Dallas at San Diego, Denver at the Los Angeles Raiders, Philadelphia at Chicago, Green Bay at Minnesota, and Washington at the New York Giants Monday night, the Los Angeles Rams visit Atlanta. Only twice in their history have the Saints won as many as seven games — in 1978 when they were 7-9 and in 1979 when they were 8-8, their best record ever. In 1980, though, they crashed to 1-15 and in 1981, team owner John Meacham hired his buddy, Bum Phillips, to be their coach. Now the Saints are 6-4 — they've never been 7-4 — and are tied with the 49ers and Rams for first place in the National Conference West. They're coming off an emotional 27-10 victory that dropped Atlanta, the division's other entry, to 4-6. The 49ers lost 20-17 to Miami last Sunday. "I have no idea who's going to win this thing," Phillips said of the NFC West race. "I'd just be talking. But I believe when it's all over this will be considered one of the strongest divisions in the league. "We're the only division besides the AFC Central with four teams instead of five, so we're all at a disadvantage because we don't get a chance to play a fifth-place team twice." "Everybody in the division has a shot at winning, that's for sure," said 49ers Coach Bill Walsh. "I haven't looked at anybody else's schedule, but we have a chance of winning every game we have left. It could be a cakewalk, or we could end up having two teams in front of us at the end." The game brings together the Saints' defense, the best in the conference, against the 49ers' offense, the best in the league. Candlestick Park has been a most unfriendly home for the 49ers of late. Since beating Dallas 28-27 in the NFC title game that preceded Super Bowl XVI after the 1981 season, San Francisco has won only one of 10 home games. The 49ers have won 18 of the 28 games between the clubs, most recently 32-13 in New Orleans a month ago. The Steelers' six-game winning streak is their longest since a 12-game run during their Super Bowl seasons of 1978-79, when they won their last eight in the first season and the first four the following year. Pittsburgh, 8-2, with the league's No. 1 defense, will be tested by the Colts' rushing offense, the best in the NFL. Baltimore has won five of the past seven games and, at 6-4, shares second place in the AFC East with Buffalo, one game behind Miami. The Colts have won their six games by a total margin of 21 points, and none of the victories has come against a team with a winning record. The Seahawks, who have won their two games since Dave Krieg replaced Jim Zorn as the starting quarterback, are 6-4 and tied with Denver, one game behind the Raiders in the AFC West. The Cardinals, who have given up a league-high 314 points and whose rushing

SEE WHAT YOU'RE IN FOR BEFORE YOU GET IN.

The best way to find out about today's Army is to ask. And the best place to ask is at the new Army Recruiting Station in Borger, Texas. Recruiters are there to answer questions. About the 300 skills the Army offers, many of them part of the new technology, and most of them with civilian job application. About the salary (which starts at more than $570 per month), with food, housing, medical and dental bills paid for. About the pride, and how you feel when you're trim and fit and doing an important job. They're there to answer questions: All you have to say is, "I'm just looking." # NBA roundup Mavericks, Spurs building Texas rivalry

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
Associated Press Writer
The Dallas Mavericks, early leaders in the Midwest Division, and the San Antonio Spurs, winners of the division the last three seasons, are building a spirited National Basketball Association rivalry in Texas.

On Friday night, however, Gervin was held to 15 points and got off only 14 shots.

"Once George gets the ball, it's a 70-30 chance that he'll make it," said Elston Turner, who along with Blackman shot out Gervin for the final 19 minutes of the game. "So the way you do it is not let him get it."

But Dallas Coach Dick Motta said he believed Gervin, who is closing in on 22,000 career points, just had an off-night.

"To be honest, we played just as good defense on him in San Antonio," Motta said. "But tonight wasn't one of his nights. So he gets 15 instead of 40."

After an opening scuffle under the boards between centers Artis Gilmore and Pat Cummings was settled, Dallas used 19 first-half points from Blackman to lead by as many as 12. But the Spurs closed the deficit to five at halftime and scored the first eight points of the second half for a 65-62 edge.

The Mavericks scored six straight points after leading 101-100 to take control of the game. The Spurs outscored Dallas 61-36 but committed 19 turnovers to nine by Dallas.

"We just have to start concentrating and get tough down the stretch," said Gilmore, who had 23 points and 15 rebounds in his league-leading 301st consecutive start.

Lakers 119, Suns 105
Mike McGee scored 26 points and Earvin "Magic" Johnson added 22 points and 15 assists as Los Angeles won at home against Phoenix.

The Lakers took a 62-46 lead at halftime and increased the lead to 20 in the third quarter. The Spurs couldn't come back although they rallied to within eight points.

Maurice Lucas led Phoenix with 23 points.

76ers 106, Kings 100
In Philadelphia, Julius Erving hit 14 of 18 shots and scored 36 points as the 76ers rallied from a five-point deficit at halftime to defeat Kansas City.

Erving had 10 points in the third quarter, when Philadelphia outscored the Kings 31-23 to take the lead for good. The 76ers never trailed after Bobby Jones made it 69-68 with 2:44 left in the period.

Celtics 126, Pistons 118
At Boston, the Celtics maintained the best record in the NBA at 7-1 as Larry Bird scored a season-high 39 points and Robert Parish added 28.

Boston outscored the Pistons 45-31 in the first period as Bird scored 16 points. Led by Kelly Tripucka and Isiah Thomas, who scored 26 and 25 points, respectively, Detroit fought back to lead 80-79 in the third quarter, but the Celtics responded with a 23-9 spurt to regain control.

Nets 107, Bucks 103
At East Rutherford, N.J., the Nets snapped Milwaukee's four-game winning streak as reserve guard Kelvin Ransey scored 10 of his 14 points in the fourth quarter.

A 10-2 spurt by Milwaukee at the start of the fourth quarter gave the Bucks an 82-79 lead, but a three-point play by Darryl Dawkins capped a 9-0 run to put the Nets ahead.

Junior Bridgeman led all scorers with 30 points for Milwaukee, while Albert King led New Jersey with 18, including 10-for-10 from the free throw line.

Knicks 116, Clippers 99
Bernard King hit 11 of 16 shots for 23 points and Ernie Grunfeld was eight for 10 for another 16 as New York won at home against San Diego. Bill Cartwright, who also had 16 points for the Knicks, scored 10 of them in a four-minute span of the third period when New York outscored the Clippers 16-2 to extend an 11-point lead to 81-56.

The Clippers, who have lost 18 road games in a row dating back to last Feb. 17, got 24 points from Michael Brooks.

Red Raiders routed by Mustangs

IRVING, Texas (AP)—Quarterback Lance McIlhenny dashed for two touchdowns and tailback Reggie Dupard rushed for 151 yards Saturday to keep No. 7 ranked Southern Methodist's major bowl hopes alive with a 33-7 Southwest Conference victory over Texas Tech.

With scouts from the Sugar, Sun and Liberty Bowls in the Texas Stadium press box, the Mustangs advanced their overall record to 8-1 and 5-1 in SWC play.

Tech dropped to 3-5-1 and 3-2-1. McIlhenny scored on a three-yard run as the Mustangs built a 9-0 halftime lead.

But Tech cut the deficit to 9-7 on Tim Smith's one-yard run to cap a 94-yard drive on the Red Raider's first possession of the third quarter.

Dupard then gained 61 yards on an 80-yard drive and scored from a yard out. Jeff Harrell hit a short field goal, and McIlhenny tallied on a 7-yard run to put the game away.

Jeff Atkins, the second half of the Mustang tailback tandem, had 131 yards on 22 carries and scored from a yard out in the fourth period.

Two punts of only 28 yards each by Dennis Vance helped the Mustangs to both second quarter scores and a 9-0 halftime lead.

McIlhenny scored on a three yard run after he passed 10 yards to Ron Morris and 33 yards to Marquis Pleasant.

Longhorns hold off Texas Christian

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—Texas' offense was its own worst enemy Saturday for a half, until Coach Fred Akers told the No. 2-ranked Longhorns to "suck it up."

Meanwhile, the Texas defense — No. 1 in college football — shut out Southwest Conference foe TCU and extended to 20 quarters a string in which it has allowed only one touchdown.

TCU, which has won only one game and tied two this season, had only 20 yards total offense and one first down on a penalty at halftime, but led 14-3 on an 80-yard fumble return by linebacker Robert Lyles and a 66-yard interception return by safety Byron Linwood.

After freshman Jeff Ward's second 33-yard field goal, fullback Ronnie Robinson, playing one week after he separated his shoulder, ignited Texas' comeback with a 40-yard scoring run.

"We came in at halftime, and I saw a lot of guys crying their hearts out," said Robinson. "There were a whole lot of guys really hurting in there. I decided right then that I could go. I'm just glad the doctors gave me the OK to get in there and that I was able to do something."

Texas also scored in the third quarter on an 8-yard run by Michael Brown, which finished the scoring.

The victory was Texas' 16th straight over TCU and extended its season record to 9-0.

"At the half, we knew we had some settling down to do, across the board," said Akers. "I told them with 30 minutes left, we had to get together, suck it up, believe in each other, and get it going. It was necessary to regain some offensive confidence, a first step toward reestablishing our football team offensively."

Akers added, "We tried not to put Robinson in the ball game, to protect his shoulder. But the doctor told us he could play if we needed him — and we needed him. He got the good play."

Playing without two of its top four rushers, its top two offensive linemen and its No. 1 punt returner, Texas used a 20 mph wind to score 17 third-quarter points.

A 30-yard punt into the wind and 12-yard return took Texas to the TCU 40. Robinson broke off left tackle, pulled away from linebacker Gary Spann and scored. An unsuccessful 2-point conversion try left Texas still trailing, 14-12.

John Thomas of TCU fumbled a towering Texas punt at the TCU 12, and Don Holloway recovered for

TCU. On third-and-6 from the TCU 8, quarterback Rob Moerschell bobbled the ball but got off a pitchout to Brown, who scored with 49 seconds remaining in the third quarter. Moerschell ran for two points behind Brown's block.

TCU took over on its 45 with 4:33 left, and quarterback Anthony Guiley guided the Horned Frogs against the nation's top-ranked defense to the Longhorn 11. On fourth down, however, cornerback Fred Acorn dove and tipped away a possible touchdown pass to Dwayne May near the Texas goal.

Aggies victorious over Razorbacks

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP)—Texas A&M's Kevin Murray threw four touchdown passes — three of them in the third quarter — and ran 34 yards for another score in the fourth quarter to rally the Aggies to a 36-17 victory over Arkansas Saturday, dimming the Hogs' bowl hopes.

The loss dropped the Razorbacks to a 5-4 record and marked the first time in seven tries the Aggies had beaten Arkansas team coached by Lou Holtz.

The Aggies evened their record at 4-4-1. The Razorbacks were trailing, 9-3, at the half, but Murray hit Shay Walker with a 14-yard touchdown pass early in the third quarter and 2:34 later threw 11 yards to Jimmy Teal for another score.

The Aggies now are 3-2-1 in Southwest Conference games and Arkansas dropped to 3-3.

Bears blast Rice

WACO, Texas (AP)—Alfred Anderson dashed for two touchdowns to ignite a 28-point, second-period Baylor outburst and the Bears trounced the Rice Owls 48-14 in Saturday afternoon's Southwest Conference football.

Baylor's offense was sluggish early and could not cross midfield until Anderson ran 6 yards to the Rice 48 with 35 seconds left in the first quarter. Two minutes later, Anderson burst 25 yards for a touchdown and he scored from 12 yards out just two minutes after that.

By halftime Baylor, 7-2-1 and 4-2-1 in SWC play, led 28-7 on Ralph Stockemer's 9-yard touchdown run and Cody Carlson's 18-yard scoring toss to Gerald McNeil.

Rice, 1-10 and 0-8, had taken a 7-0 lead on Kevin Trigg's 1-yard run in the first quarter. The Owls' first rushing touchdown since Sept. 24.

In the third quarter, Carlson found Bruce Davis for a 69-yard TD pass and Stockemer took a Tom Muecke pass 19 yards for a score. Freshman quarterback Eddie Burgoyne gave Rice a 3-yard rushing touchdown.

Reserve quarterback Phillip Massey wrapped up the scoring with a 3-yard touchdown run for Baylor late in the fourth quarter.

Assassination prompted scorn for Dallas

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) — Hardly had the echoes of gunfire faded in Dealey Plaza when the storm began.

A city of hate, they cried, in a state too big, too rich, too proud, too violent and surely peopled by lunatics, extremists, bigots, rednecks and coarse oil millionaires.

"There is something rotten in the state of Texas," asserted the periodical Nation.

"It is, of course, entirely true that President Kennedy could have been assassinated anywhere, but he wasn't. The terror was not loosed upon us all from Tulsa or Albuquerque or Shreveport: it happened in Dallas."

The date was Nov. 22, 1963, and suddenly it was no longer fun being Texan, whether native born or adopted. A young president had been murdered on the streets of Dallas, and the state as well as the city came under instant siege.

Nobody in his right mind actually held Texans or Dallas responsible for instigating the assassination. But some did imply that Texans should bear partial responsibility because of the nasty political atmosphere that existed in Dallas at the time.

Supreme Court Chief Justice Earl Warren, among others, suggested that a "climate of hatred" in Dallas might have inspired Lee Harvey Oswald to violence.

Among those who disagreed was former Texas Gov. Price Daniel, who, in the traumatic days after the shooting, said:

"During the past 10 years, Oswald spent more time in Russia than in Texas. Library records show that his reading material was pro-Communist. He certainly was not a product of Dallas, having lived there less than two months, a far shorter time than in New York, New Orleans, San Diego, Moscow and Minsk."

"It does not seem possible that an objective sociological study of the influence of this man's environment would have been confined to a city where he resided for such a few weeks."

It was true, however, that a small but noisy right-wing group jostled and, at upon Lyndon and Lady Bird Johnson when the late president, then a U.S. senator, campaigned in Dallas in 1960.

And no one could deny that Ambassador Adlai Stevenson received similar treatment when he came to town in 1963 on behalf of United Nations Day.

The president's position in Texas was shaky and he had spent five months planning his trip with Vice President Lyndon Johnson and Gov. John Connally. Kennedy had barely carried Texas in 1960 and had lost Dallas County to Richard Nixon. Kennedy wanted to insure the 25 electoral votes from the vice president's home state in 1964. Besides, the Democratic Party needed funds and a $100-a-plate dinner was planned in Austin to help raise them.

An incidental issue was a feud between Johnson and U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough over patronage and other senatorial prerogatives. It was not a reason to make the long trip, but having Yarborough travel with the presidential party was meant to show unity.

On Nov. 21, handbills were distributed in Dallas with convict-style photographs of Kennedy and the caption: "Wanted for Treason."

The next day, a full-page ad appeared in The Dallas Morning News. Something called the "American Fact-Finding Committee" demanded to know why the president had "ordered the Attorney General to go soft on communism."

One recent morning, Stanley Marcus ushered two newsmen into his office high atop a downtown skyscraper and discussed his city then and now and the changes that have occurred since "Dallas' darkest hour."

"Change means many things," said Marcus, the crown prince of specialty retailers and the guiding force behind the Neiman-Marcus mystique. "I think what has happened is that Dallas has matured."

"Take a look," he said, pointing down to the glittering banks, office buildings, plazas, and hotels that have sprung up in recent years.

"I think it is significant that the financial balance was not hurt."

He said the influx of people from other parts of the country also tended to "water down" or "lessen" the influence of rightist and redneck dissidents.

The city's image two decades ago was distorted, he said, by the combination of a noisy "redneck" community and a wealthy, highly articulate "North Side" group which supported ultra-conservative Dallas congressman Bruce Alger.

Anybody who disagreed with them about Kennedy was called a communist, Marcus said. "It was an easy way to put people down at that time."

"I'm sure I've been called a communist because I didn't agree with the establishment."

He said it's "hard to blame a city or a county" for the attitudes and atmosphere of 1963, "except for what the leadership did or did not do."

The Johnson and Stevenson episodes exposed a dark side of Dallas that went largely unchallenged by either the establishment or the local press, Marcus maintained.

"We didn't stand up to the extremists... or challenge the bigoted groups," he said.

Across town, District Attorney Henry Wade, who prosecuted Jack Ruby for Oswald's execution, recalled the tragedy of November 1963 and declared:

"I don't think any sensible person could blame the city for the killings. Some elements of the press painted Dallas as a bastion of people who wanted Kennedy killed, but it just wasn't so."

He pointed out that few blamed Memphis for the murder of Martin Luther King or Los Angeles for the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy.

"If you had any great hate of Dallas, you wouldn't have 100 new companies moving in here each month," he observed.

Perhaps one can assume 20 years later that Dallas not only survived its darkest hour but awakened and responded to the "climate of hatred" that flourished in its midst.

It is ironic that the Dallas Cowboys, whose popularity was almost nonexistent 20 years ago, is now called "America's Team." And it is equally implausible that this "city of shame" is now one of the leading convention cities of the world.

But the greatest irony of all remains the final exchange between Nellie Connally, the wife of the Texas governor, and the smiling president seated behind her in the open limousine.

Relieved and delighted by the large, friendly reception, Mrs. Connally turned to Kennedy and said:

"No one can say Dallas doesn't love and respect you, Mr. President."

"You sure can't," he replied.

Seconds later, the motorcade swept past the Texas School Book Depository.

later assail the city's "excited rightists" in Look magazine. Said he:

"Had Nikita Khrushchev or Fidel Castro conspired to kill the President, they could have found no better than Dallas — a city where the blame would automatically fall on our own lunatic fringe."

Shea maintained among other things that Dallas civic leaders, while "an intelligent and dedicated group," viewed their leadership in a narrow sense.

After a honeymoon trip to Lake Tahoe, Calif., the couple will live in Pampa.

Homecoming mums progress

HOUSTON (AP) — Homecoming mums are a Texas tradition as firmly established as high school football. But Houston school officials think the corsages are getting out of hand.

There was a time when a homecoming mum was made of one flower and a couple of colored streamers.

Today, they're more likely to be made of a half dozen flowers, 6-foot streamers, balloons, bells, miniature plastic goal posts, megaphones, glitter, lace, feathers and lit with battery-operated flashing lights.

They can be eight inches wide at the top, stretch nearly two feet long — without the streamers — and weigh up to eight pounds.

"I really don't know how they walk with them on — very carefully I guess," said Jackie Jacobs of Edith's Florist in the suburb of Pasadena.

But adding all the extras also boosts the price. Single mum corsages still can be bought for about $10. But the average price now is $40, with some of the floral extravaganzas going for $100.

"One football player walked in and said he wanted one for $75. It blew me away," said Jim Carlisle, head floral designer at Wademan's Flowers in Houston. "We made him one with 10 mums. It was his money."

Jeanne Henson, assistant principal at South Houston High School, thinks the trend should stop.

"They are getting out of hand," Ms. Henson said. "Some of these mums go from their shoulders to their waists and cost $60. What are you going to do if your best friend buys his girlfriend a $60 mum? The kids are trapped."

The florists don't agree.

Mick Rich of Simmons Florist said Texas homecoming season is like "adding six holidays to a year or having three or four weddings in one weekend."

All you do is put your mind to it

By DONNA BRAUCHI
County Extension Agent

The cost of a pack of cigarettes may not seem like much, but the total expense of smoking can be very high. Women's death rate from lung cancer has tripled since the 1960s. The U. S. Surgeon General now predicts that it will surpass the death rate from breast cancer and become the leading cause of disease-related death among women.

In addition, cigarette smoking is a major threat to a woman's ability to bear healthy children and increase new risks of heart disease and peptic ulcers. Most women realize the danger smoking holds for their health and the health of their children, and they know it costs them a lot of money.

Another significant "hidden" cost of smoking is the higher premiums that smokers must pay for insurance. Savings on life insurance for non-smokers can now be as high as 20 percent, because the company takes less risk in insuring someone who does not smoke. Life insurance industry studies show that death rates from lung cancer, pneumonia and influenza are 15 times higher among smokers than non-smokers. Smoker's death rates are also two to three times higher than non-smokers' rates.

Non-smokers can also receive discounts on disability and auto insurance. Since non-smokers suffer less illness and disability than smokers, several companies charge them less for disability insurance. Non-smokers also have fewer automobile accidents, so some companies offer breaks in auto coverage.

In addition, National Fire

Protection Association records show that nearly 18 percent of fires in one and two family dwellings are related to smoking and cause a large number of deaths. Because of this, discounts on homeowners' policies are now being offered to non-smokers by some companies and the trend is expected to broaden and continue.

Many women especially, say they can't give up cigarettes because they will gain weight. If you're one of those, keep in mind most people who quit do not gain weight. According to the National Cancer Institute, studies show that about one-third of the people who quit do gain; one-third actually lose weight, often as a result of a combined exercise and diet program. Also remember that giving up cigarettes is far healthier for you than adding a few extra pounds. It would take the addition of more than 75 pounds to offset the health benefits a normal smoker gains from quitting.

Most smokers want to quit, they just don't know how. Successful methods for quitting are as different as the people who use them. Some people can quit "cold turkey," some must gradually reduce their smoking, some plan a special program, or receive professional and medical help. Some successful quitters have given up cigarettes by replacing them with new habits or by using some gimmick. Whatever the method, the key is to quit and quit again until the habit is licked for good.

The following methods suggested by the National

The couple plan to marry Dec. 16 at the Northside Church of Christ in San Antonio.

Miss Welch is to graduate from Abilene Christian University in May 1984 with a degree in elementary education. Glaeser is to graduate from the university at that same time with an accounting degree.

Altrusa welcomes district governor

Altrusa Club of Pampa welcomes an official club visit from Governor of District Nine, Altrusa International Inc., Sue Powell of Dallas. A noon luncheon is to be conducted in her honor Nov. 14 at the Coronado Inn.

Powell became a member of the Altrusa Club of Dallas in 1968 and since that time has served her club as corresponding secretary, director for two terms, second vice president, first vice president and president during the club year 1973-74. She also served as program coordinator and chaired several committees.

Currently serving as governor of District Nine, Powell served as secretary, second vice governor, governor-elect, program coordinator for two bienniums, Area I chairman and as general conference chairman in 1971 in Dallas.

At the International Convention in San Francisco, Calif., in 1971, Powell served as co-mechanics chairman. She was a member of the credentials committee at the International Convention in Brighton, England in 1975. At the International Convention in Kansas City, Mo., in 1977, she also served on the elections committee. She was elections committee chairman at the International Convention in Vancouver, British Columbia in 1981.

Powell is presently employed as the staff services supervisor at the 2620 Building for 11 attorneys. Prior to this she worked part time for Maloney and Maloney, attorneys while holding the office of secretary-treasurer of National Drug Abuse Education Program Inc. She is also co-owner with her husband of Catalog Publishers Inc., Cold Type Inc. and Smoking Control Centers of America.

She is a member of Scofield Memorial Church and she enjoys doing needlepoint when time permits.

Narcotics Anonymous organization opens in Pampa

By JULIA CLARK
Staff Writer

Most of us know how the police and community drug awareness groups fight drugs and drug addiction, but what about the recovered addicts and those who want to quit drugs? Most don't know where to turn to find someone who really knows where they've been and where they are now.

There is a place and there are people right here in Pampa who are willing and can help. The place is a private home. Andy, a recovered addict, lives there. She knows an addict alone is in trouble, but addicts together will stay clean.

So, Andy turned to her friends in Alcoholics Anonymous to get the word out: A self-help group called Narcotics Anonymous (N.A.) gets together at 4 p.m., each Sunday at 316 N. Ward.

Andy explained N.A. is a non-profit fellowship or society of men and women for whom drugs has become a problem.

"We are recovered addicts who meet regularly to help each other to stay clean. It is a program of complete abstinence from all drugs. There is only "One" requirement for membership, the honest desire to stop using (drugs)."

N.A. has no strings attached. The organization is not affiliated with any other organizations; there are no leaders, no initiation fees or dues, no pledges to sign, no promises to make to anyone. The program is not connected with any political, religious, or law enforcement groups, and is not under internal surveillance at any time. Anyone may join regardless of age, race, color, creed, religion or lack of religion.

Pampa had an N.A. program a few years ago. Some people from outside Pampa came in and formed a group.

No one in the current group knows for sure what happened, Andy said. However, the official story said it was a local distribution point for drugs. A meeting was raided, people were busted, and the organizers were never heard from again.

Andy said there are no drugs or alcohol allowed in her home. The people who attend the meetings in her home have only one desire: to stay clean.

She said she learned from her experiences, "as a using addict, I only existed; I didn't live. I didn't know how to enjoy life as other people do."

Andy went into treatment more than 2 1/2 years ago. She said she got her "act together" with the help of recovered addicts and now she has committed her life to helping addicts.

"We have learned from our group experiences: those who keep coming to our meetings regularly stay clean," she said.

According to a booklet published by the N.A. World Service Office, Inc., addicts have learned complete and continuous abstinence is the best ground for growth. In close association and identification with others in N.A. groups, their chances for recovery and complete freedom in a changing and creative form are enhanced a hundred fold.

"Quality and not quantity is the most important aspect of abstinence. Emotional sobriety in reality is our goal, not mere physical abstinence," Andy said.

Holiday plan sends CARE 'gift of life'

NEW YORK (AP) — This holiday season, why not send more than just a greeting. Send "A Gift of Life," suggests Dr. Philip Johnston, executive director of CARE, the International aid and development organization.

The CARE Holiday Gift Plan will enable your holiday gift to go further than any other you can give," he said. "It will travel to the needy in 35 countries in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East, where CARE programs help people to survive and work toward self support."

The organization is able to stretch donor dollars by combining contributions with those from the U.S. government, foreign governments and private companies here and abroad.

Addicts' personal stories may vary, but they all have one thing in common: drug addiction. According to those who are recovered addicts, there are two things which make up true addiction: obsession and compulsion.

Obsession - that fixed idea that takes the addict back time and again to his particular drug or some substitute, to recapture the ease and comfort he once knew.

Compulsion - that once having started the process with one "fix", one pill, or one drink, he cannot stop through his own willpower.

All addicts face the same alternatives: either go on as best they can to the bitter ends - jails, institutions, or death; or find a new way to live. Fortunately, today addicts do have the choice - they can find a new way to live, not just exist - through the N.A. program.

From the start of her recovery, through N.A. programs in other cities, Andy said she found as much identification as she needed to convince herself that she could stay clean, by the example of others who had been recovered for many years.

"I want to pass along that hope, that recognition, belief and faith, which we call empathy, which created the atmosphere in which we could feel time, touch reality and recognize spiritual values long past lost," she said. Andy brought her new hope back to her home town - Pampa.

The N.A. program is growing in numbers and in strength. Never before have so many clean addicts, of their own choice and in free society, been able to meet where they please, to maintain their recovery in complete creative freedom.

Recovered addicts have one problem which likely wouldn't occur to the "straight" people: intense opposition from their former suppliers, Andy said.

According to figures put out by the Pampa Police Department: the sale of narcotics is big business in Texas. Billions of dollars a year exchange hands in the narcotics world.

Texas has two of the three key air transshipment areas in the country for international narcotics traffic - Dallas - Worth and Houston International airports, Pampa Police Lt. Glen Cardin told those attending a drug task force meeting earlier this week.

Andy said drug suppliers don't like the idea that their market is going to dry up if the anti - drug programs succeed. Programs such as N.A. pose a threat to them, she said.

Andy said she is aware there are those who will try to discredit N.A. through her past, however, she insists, "I am clean. I will stay clean, and as long as I can help just one other person stay clean, it's worth it."

In spite of the opposition, Andy said, "so long as I keep my thoughts on my recovery, living and enjoying life without the use of drugs, and so long as I can help just one person along the way, I have nothing to fear. My bags are packed, if I die for this cause, it will not have been in vain."

An open N.A. meeting will be held at 4 p.m. today at 316 N. Ward.

Am I an addict?

The following questions were written by a cross section of addicts in the worldwide fellowship of Narcotics Anonymous. Remember alcohol and marijuana are drugs, too.

- 1) Do you avoid people and - or places that do not condone your usage?
- 2) Do you spend your money on drugs rather than food and other necessities?
- 3) Do you think that everyone in the world is crazy except yourself?
- 4) Do you wonder why some people don't want to use?
- 5) Does the thought of running out of drugs leave you with a feeling of impending doom?
- 6) Do you guard your supply?
- 7) Do you get more drugs when your supply is running low or as soon as you run out?
- 8) Do you like to use alone?
- 9) Have you tried substituting one drug for another, thinking that "one" particular drug was your problem?
- 10) Do you neglect your responsibilities because you'd rather get high?
- 11) Do you use because your family drives you crazy?
- 12) Do you condone doctors for "legal" drugs, telling yourself that it's okay to use them because they aren't illegal?
- 13) Do you have more than one prescription at one time with different doctors?
- 14) Do you use something to help you get going in the morning, or to slow you down at night?
- 15) Do you use illegal or "hard" drugs and think there is nothing that can be done to kick the habit?
- 16) Have you ever been in trouble with friends, family, school, jobs or the law because of drug - related incidents?
- 17) Have you been arrested for drinking or drunk driving?
- 18) Do you steal drugs or money to buy drugs?
- 19) Do you have more than one hiding place for your drugs?
- 20) Do you have empty alcohol containers in your vehicle?

- 21) Did you smoke your plant before it was two feet tall?
- 22) Do you steal your friends' drugs?
- 23) Do you fight over the cotton shot, or the biggest line?
- 24) Have you ever shot or snorted your best friend's morning (wake-up) high?
- 25) Have you ever sharpened a needle on a match box?
- 26) Do you collect paraphernalia?
- 27) Do you take drugs that you don't prefer?
- 28) Do you do things while under the influence that you would not do while straight?
- 29) Do you hide your drugs, even if you live alone?
- 30) Have the good times gone from your using?
- 31) Have you searched other people's medicine cabinets?
- 32) Do you think you must be high to have a good time?
- 33) Do you ever question your own sanity?
- 34) Do you lie about what or how much you use?
- 35) Do you use drugs to overcome your fear of people?
- 36) Have you considered suicide?
- 37) Are you preoccupied with getting high?
- 38) Have you tried to control your using?
- 39) Do all of your activities center around drugs?
- 40) Are you ashamed of your using?
- 41) Have you ever over - dosed?
- 42) Have you ever tried to quit and failed?
- 43) Do you choose your friends by the drugs they have?
- 44) Do you think you might have a drug problem?
- 45) Do you want to stop using, but can't do it alone?

Only you can answer these questions; if you answer yes to five or more, you may want to find out what it is like to live without drugs.

If you can get serious about the things that have and are happening to you and admit you are having a problem with drugs, you can find help in the fellowship of Narcotics Anonymous.

Meetings are conducted at 4 p.m., Sundays, at 316 N. Ward. No drugs, but caring, loving, sober and clean people working together to stay that way will be there to help. We don't have to use today, WE HAVE A CHOICE!

I visited my local Diet Center at the North Pole, and with the advice I was given; I lost the weight I needed to lose.

"Serving the Top O' Texas 58 Years"

Robert Reed reflects on success

By DEE DEE LARAMORE
Lifestyles Editor

Robert Reed was a bit disconcerted when first asked if he thought he was a success. "Well, I don't know," he answers in his educated, carefully measured way. "It depends on how you look at it. Success is a long continuum. Is it success when you look in the future and you don't know what your next job is going to be? But then I look at the past, and that's successful. And I'm happy with what I'm doing today. Yes, I suppose so ... as long as I can pay the rent."

Today through Dec. 3, Reed is appearing at the Country Squire Dinner Theatre in Amarillo as the advertising executive husband who wants to be a playwright in Alex Gottlieb's play "Wake Up Darling." His wife is an aspiring actress, but it is the characters who come in and out of their lives that "make" the comedy, Reed says.

"Comedy is much harder than drama," he explains. "Drama comes from inside yourself and bounces off the other people. It's easier to make an audience cry, because as long as you are truthful on stage they are going to empathize with you. There's more tempo in comedy, more work and more interplay between the actors. There's a lot of technique that all has to work together."

Reed is a native of Muskogee, Okla. His stage career began while he was a high school student participating in forensics and one-act plays. At that time, too, he was working on the radio station there as a disc jockey, newsman and writing copy. While in college he participated in radio and stage.

He remembers once getting in trouble while as a disc jockey at a classical radio station. It seems he had problems pronouncing some of the names.

He broke into the television business through "good tune" he said. But many things lead up to that break, he adds, like education, being at the right place at the right time and having the right tools to work with.

He is most familiar to millions of television fans as Mr. Brady in "The Brady Bunch." But he has also made himself known through his performances on such series as "The Defenders," "Mannix," and "Nurse."

His "big break" came when he appeared as a guest on "Father Knows Best," a performance which led directly to his selection to play a young lawyer in "The Defenders."

He has received Emmy nominations for his performances in "Rich Man, Poor Man," "Medical Center — the Third Sex," and "Roots." Most recently he has appeared on segments of "The Loveboat" and

"Acting is learning about people," Reed reflects. "I am an observer of people. It takes psychology to be able to act. You not only watch what people do, but you have to get inside of them and understand them, to know why they do what they do. When you do this, you have to grow," he said.

"But actors are also prone to become vain, pushy and egocentric. It comes from the area in which you function. Say you are a star of a television show. You get your own parking spot, you get a big salary, you get recognition, you even begin to have a say in who the directors are. You get used to all this and then you expect it. That's when you have to have somebody kick you in the bottom," he adds.

In the future, Reed says he plans to learn more and profit from his mistakes. He has an interest in directing and producing, also. "Anybody would like to have control of a piece," he says.

He'd also like to take a chance as a producer. "I'd like to try it," he says, grinning. "It's the best way I know to make an actor tolerant of a producer."

Performances of "Wake Up, Darling" are scheduled at the Country Squire Tuesdays through Sundays through Dec. 3. Buffet opens at 6:30 p.m. with the performance beginning at 8 p.m. (Sundays, 7:30 p.m.). Reservations may be made through the theatre box office at (806) 372-4441.

Peeking at Pampa

"Busy! Busy! Busy!" best describes last week's calendar. Let's review it!

Members of the Texas Hospital Association know that Pampa has more programs going for its senior citizens than some of the state's largest cities.

Pampa received some worthwhile recognition in Austin last week when Travis Plumlee conducted a workshop on geriatrics in Texas. Travis spoke on programs available to Pampa senior citizens. From the second session on, it was standing room only to the halls. He received numerous invitations to explain Pampa how - tos to institutions and groups in other Texas cities. He's been asked to chair all educational meetings for the society. That's not all, he spent the past week in Austin attending FHA and American Cancer Society board meetings... another Pampa booster we can be proud of!

Sue (Mrs. Jimmy) Barnes was honored with a going away party at the Pampa Nursing Center recently since her husband has been transferred down state. For ever so long, Sue spent each Tuesday and Wednesday, often until after 7 p.m., making residents of the center beautiful with hairdos and permanents. Debbie Stapleton is the new cosmetologist there. Margaret Mason, also a cosmetologist, renders the same service three days a week at Coronado Nursing Center. Lots of kind words of appreciation go to these three ladies!

At Coronado Nursing Center, Vera Esson, 89, is described as a darling, a joy to be around, a pleasant ray of sunshine. Vera is dressed early each morning in bright-colored clothes that must match and with full makeup that includes eyeshadow.

Another attractive, well-loved resident is Ruby Cunningham, 86. Ruby, neat and well dressed at all times, sports a new short, curly perm.

Attention, pie lovers! Take a pie and join the fun of a pie supper at Pampa Nursing Center, Nov. 18, from 6 to 8 p.m. You are all invited to participate right along with the residents, staff and their families.

True to habit, Mildred and Dr. Raymond Laycock — and hundreds of others — enjoyed the Christian Church Bazaar last Saturday. A couple of male bazaar "peddlers" included Max Louvier, with his famous peanut brittle and James Washington with his wooden doll furniture and toys. Reports were glowing.

A houseful of dressed up ladies attending 20th Century Club's annual guest day tea at the spacious ranch home of Jessie (Mrs. Fred) Vanderburg. Jessie greeted guests in a cheerful bright red dress. Phoebe (Mrs. Wiley)

Reynolds held the attention of the group with a review of a Pearl Buck book. Ann Campbell's guest was her daughter - in - law, Martha. Donna Burger looked smashing in cinnamon red suede. Also seen were Elaine Eddins, Ginger Loeffler, Judy Taylor and Coelle McKay.

Jim Cline and Lori Miller won prizes for the best costumes at the ESA sorority Halloween costume dance, a fun time for all. Jo Ann Stevens was event chairman. Before Thanksgiving, all ESA members will sell pecans, almonds and walnuts to support their many service projects.

The faculty of Clarendon College, Pampa Center, honored Janyth (Mrs. Charles) Bowers with a going away party recently. Janyth's replacement as coordinator of the vocational business school, Jan Johnson — she's Jack Bailey's sister — will be commuting from McLean.

The vocational business school is beginning Phase I, the first of three segments of a general business course. Pat (Mrs. Bob) Johnson with years of valuable teaching experience to her credit, has taught in the business school for four years.

Henry Veach had the thrill of taking his little six-month-old grandson, Brendan Mark Zedlitz, on his first airplane ride. Other riders on the trip to Muleshoe to visit with Brendan's great grandparents were Grandmother Barbara and her daughters Beth and Brenda. Henry is a member of the Pampa Pilots Association, Gray County Airport Board and is chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Aviation Committee.

Happy belated birthday wishes to Dot (Mrs. Dick) Stowers, Roy Sparkman and Mary Fatherree. Little Tammy Miller, daughter of Debbie, celebrated her 11th birthday with a skating party.

Larry Kilbreth and Robert Ellison participated in the district convention of Toastmasters Clubs of West Texas in Odessa last weekend.

Berniece and Paul Musgrave recently attended an Atlas convention in Anaheim, Calif. Retha (Mrs. Ray) Jordan, a daughter and two granddaughters spent six days in Washington, D.C. with activities planned for every minute.

Tomorrow it's off to College Station for Margie Gray, county tax assessor - collector. She will attend a school on upcoming tax changes.

Pat (Mrs. Paul) Boswell attended a teachers' meeting in Waco. Las Vegas visitors included Larry Mayo, T. W. Bartlett, Ramona and Bill Hite, Sara and Doug Carmichael, Jane and David McDaniel, Virginia and Bob Carmichael played grandparents to their hearts' content with little Lee while Ann visited Sara's parents in Wichita Falls.

Spotted Around Town... Dina (Mrs. Bob) Howard, who has a knack for classic dressing, made a smart fall fashion statement in brown from head to foot. Debbie Minyard, a teller at the drive-up window of a local bank, wore a blouse of outstanding color and fabric interest — an attention warranting, bold shade of blue in a silky fabric.

Another day Ruth Ann (Mrs. Art) Holland wore a dress of equal description in the rosiest shade of ultrasuede.

Spied Jimmie (Mrs. Roy) Bourland in a coat of a just-right shade of green — perhaps ultrasuede. Eloise (Mrs. Deck) Woldt has a warm, gracious manner supported by a contagious smile. She does seem to know EVERYBODY!

Former Pampans Cassie and Larry Browning had loads of fun greeting old friends and being welcomed back to the area. Although they live in Panhandle now, and Larry works in Amarillo, they plan to spend lots of time in Pampa.

During the coming week, do try to be kind to your enemies. Remember, you helped make them! Think about it...

I'll see you next week!

Dr. Lamb Diet for arthritis

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like your opinion about a diet for arthritis. Some people say that you should avoid tomatoes, potatoes, eggplants, bell peppers and foods they call nightshade plants.

And I have a friend who has degeneration of her spine and she is on a high-calcium diet. Then I have heard that certain vitamins will help your arthritis.

If there is a diet I could follow, I would rather do that than take medicine. If I drink milk and use cheese like my friend does, will the calcium build up and cause my arthritis to be worse?

DEAR READER — There is no valid data to show that avoiding any of the "night shade" vegetables will improve osteoarthritis. Osteoarthritis is degenerative arthritis and is related to degeneration of the joint surfaces. In fact, anyone who lives long enough will undoubtedly have some of this form of arthritis.

Now, your friend probably has osteoporosis. That is dissolving bones, and people who don't get enough calcium in the diet are more likely to have this problem. It is not the same thing as osteoarthritis. But a person can have both, which adds to the confusion.

If you did have both, taking calcium would be fine because it would help the osteoporosis and would not harm the osteoarthritis. But don't expect to help the osteoarthritis with calcium.

Perhaps the most important dietary consideration for the patient with osteoarthritis is to use calorie control to avoid excessive body weight. The more a person weighs, the more damage will occur to the weight-bearing joints.

Makin' things for Christmas

All aboard for pine board train

By STEVIE BALDWIN

Toy trains and Christmas just go together. It's as simple as that. Few other things can match a child's fascination for things that go. And few toys are so fondly remembered in later life. I know one elderly couple who still hauls out the old wooden locomotive every year — it makes a great Christmas decoration for your fireplace mantel.

You can bring back the classic charm of yesteryear when you set this delightful and inexpensive choo-choo under the tree.

The Old-Time Iron Horse is so authentic you can practically hear the shrill toot of the whistle, the pssst of the steam, and the grrrinding of the wheels along the track. To board this train (pun intended) all you need is a little time in Santa's workshop, and a few pine boards.

Most of the car parts (walls, beds, connectors and roofs) are cut from 1/2-inch-thick pine. The wheel supports are cut from two-inch-thick pine, and are drilled to accommodate the axles, which are lengths of 1/4-inch-diameter wooden dowel rod.

We used cove molding and 1/4 by 1/4-inch wood stripping for the roof trim. The ladders and gates are made from 1/4- and 1/2-inch-diameter dowel. You can purchase pre-made wheels, or cut them from standard one-inch-thick pine.

Most hobby shops carry a variety of pre-cut wooden parts for projects like this one. If you do not have access to a lathe or electric sander, you may wish to purchase a smokestack and pegs to serve as the whistles (shown on the engine and caboose).

The engine boiler can be turned on a lathe, starting with a length of 4 x 4-inch pine, or you can purchase a short length of decorative porch or bed post at a home improvement center.

To make the passenger car, cut two sides, two end walls, one bed, one connector and one roof. The bed and connector should each have a tongue-shaped extension at one end. Drill a hole through each of the tongues, and cut window openings in each of the sides, and a door opening in each of the end walls.

The two wheel supports are shaped like rounded "W's." Attach the supports and the connector to the underside of the bed. Drill two axle holes through each support, and insert an axle through each hole. Add wheels, and glue a plug over each axle end.

Attach the side and end walls, centering them over the bed. Then, add the roof. For the roof trim, glue a length of cove molding along the center line, and a length of the small stripping along each edge.

Drill four shallow sockets in a straight line near each end of the bed to accommodate the gate posts. Cut lengths of dowel for the gate posts and crossbars. Drill a hole near one end of each post, and insert a crossbar through each set of posts. Glue the gates into the sockets.

Parts for the other four cars are cut and assembled much like the passenger car parts. We've designed an engine, coal car, box car (with sliding doors installed between lengths of wood stripping), and a caboose. Load the whole train with fun, and deliver it with joy on Christmas morning.

Our step-by-step, fully-illustrated plans include full-size patterns that iron right onto the wood, plus detailed instructions for making each car.

please specify Project No. 1850-2. Send $3.95 to Makin' Things for Christmas, Dept. 79065, P.O. Box 159, Bixby, Okla., 74008.

Dear Abby

Mom isn't thankful for misfit son-in-law

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My daughter recently married a man who does not fit into our family. She lives in another state, so it isn't a problem most of the time. She has invited herself and her husband to our Thanksgiving dinner, and now I am a nervous wreck thinking of having that person she married as a guest in our home.

It will ruin the whole family affair. We will have to count the silver and other valuables after he has been here. I would love to see my daughter and don't want to hurt her feelings, but we just can't stand the thought of her husband being here.

Is there any way to handle this, or am I in a corner?
TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: Before I can give you a helpful answer, I need to know: Is your son-in-law a known thief, or do you merely suspect that he is capable of stealing valuables from your home? If he has already stolen some silver and other valuables from you, surely your daughter is aware of it, so it would be appropriate to share your concern with her.

Although you say he doesn't "fit" into your family, he is now part of it, so if you would "love" to see your daughter, you had better make her husband welcome even if you have to lock up your valuables and use plastic tableware on Thanksgiving.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the woman whose dream was to go to bed with her boss. Don't!

When I started my new job, I was very much attracted to my boss and actually dreamed about what kind of lover he would be. I wanted that man in the worst way. Finally, a few months later, I got my wish.

We were involved for a few months, during which time I found out that he was selfish and inconsiderate. As a lover, on a scale from 1 to 10, he was barely a 1.

Fortunately, my husband never found out and I learned my lesson. Dreams like that are always better than reality.
WIDE-AWAKE IN DALLAS

DEAR ABBY: We have a big decision to make. I am nearly 15 and Jerry is 20. We have been in love for a year and six months, and we want to get married.

My parents don't want me to see him, and now they tell me if he doesn't stay away from me they will get a court order against him.

Jerry and I came up with this solution: If I get pregnant and get my parents to OK the marriage, Jerry can go back into the Army and get all my medical bills paid, plus he can make $1,000 a month, and we can make a life together.

If we don't do this, my parents will succeed in breaking us up, and we love each other too much to let that happen.
What should we do?
JERRY AND ME

DEAR J. AND ME: Forget that "solution." What if you become pregnant, and instead of "OK'ing" your marriage, your parents charge Jerry with statutory rape?

Cool it. If your love is real, it will survive until you are old enough to do as you please without parental consent.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to respond to "Nursing Mother," who has trouble finding a comfortable place to breast-feed her baby away from home.

A breast pump that extracts the mother's milk into a sterilized bottle is a simple solution. It is a convenient method of feeding a baby anywhere at any time.

Tips for addressing Christmas cards

These days, many of us are interested in etiquette in its various forms. Christmas provides many opportunities to practice social amenities, particularly in the addressing and signing of Christmas greeting cards.

Of course, you and your family may prefer to sign each card individually and informally. Many people, however, choose the "personalized" greeting card — that is, the one on which the sender's name is imprinted. In that case, the correct form for both your signature and the recipient's address may be a puzzle. And, adding to the confusion may be all the changes in relationships that have emerged recently in our society.

When one's wife has a title and her husband does not, or her title ranks "higher" than his, what's the order of address?

It seems a few pointers are needed. The Greeting Card Association, Washington, D.C., advises the following:

If both husband and wife have titles, the senior title should appear first: Colonel Mary Alderman and Major George P. B. Alderman.

If the titles are of equal importance, the husband's name usually goes first: Mr. and Mrs. Alderman. However, if no titles are used, either name may come first: Mary and George Alderman or George and Mary Alderman.

When children's names are included, the father's name should lead: as in, George, Mary, Eleanor and Joseph Baker.

When writing to single individuals, regardless of sex, titles are usually omitted. The names appear simply as Stephen Cooper and Mary White.

A widowed or married woman uses her husband's name first: Mrs. Harry Forrest; whereas a divorced woman uses her first name: Mrs. Harriet Forrest.

When just the last name is used, referring to the whole family, add an "s" without an apostrophe: The Morgans.

Where officers of the Army, Marines and Air Force are concerned, titles with grade of Captain and above are normally used. The Navy, on the other hand, uses titles with the grade of Lieutenant Commander or above.

In all the Armed Services, officers of junior rank use "Mr." with the grade and organization under the signature: Mr. James Mornes, Second Lieutenant, U. S. Marine Corp.

For both Protestant clergymen and Roman Catholic priests, the proper address is the same: The Reverend Daniel Blakney. If he has a degree of D.D. or L.L.D., he is, The Reverend Dr. Daniel Blakney.

If you're mailing a Christmas card to a child with the same name as his father, address it to Master Wayne Gagnon. The "Master" will mean that young Wayne gets to open his mail — a big treat for a small child. A young girl to whom a greeting is sent should be addressed as "Miss."

Don't hesitate to pen a note signed with your name below the imprinted signature: it adds warmth which is always desirable. Imprinting one's address on the reverse side of the envelopes is recommended.

Last, but not least, don't forget the zip code. With the great deluge of greetings that the holidays inspire, forgetting the zip may delay your Christmas message.

At Wits End

By ERMA BOMBECK

Can you believe that Christmas is just six weeks away?

I know, it seems like a long time, but not when you celebrate Christmas the way I do. I'm one of those people who plans a back-to-basics Christmas where gifts are made by love, baking is done from scratch and tradition lives in my heart.

Do you know I even make out a checklist and a timetable every year? Organization is the only way you come out even.

Here's the one for this year which I've just set down.

FIVE WEEKS BEFORE CHRISTMAS: Start knitting three sweaters for children, alternate working on quilt for Mother and needlepointing bookmarks for stocking-stuffers. Work on hand-carved nativity scene, and take family picture for Christmas card.

FOUR WEEKS BEFORE CHRISTMAS: Gather walnuts for fruitcakes. Bake and freeze 15 or 20 of them as gifts for special friends. Start making felt stockings for children in neighborhood with their names in sequins.

THREE WEEKS BEFORE CHRISTMAS: Gather children around hearth (or video game) and ask for input on the Christmas newsletter, writing down anything that can be reported on a religious holiday. Make name tags for gifts using dried material gathered and saved from last summer. With dried materials that are left, make scented potpourri to top of gifts. Start collecting old milk cartons to use for candle-making. Start making Christmas tree ornaments by crocheting stars and starching them.

TWO WEEKS BEFORE CHRISTMAS: Buy rolls of inexpensive paper and design and make own wrapping paper. Make large Della Robbia wreath for fireplace by preserving and waxing own fruit. Duplicate Christmas carols for group you are assembling to tour neighborhood. Decorate extra rolls of toilet tissue in bathroom as a snowman by painting black eyes, adding a black belt and top hat, and adding a plaid scarf out of sewing scraps.

ONE WEEK BEFORE CHRISTMAS: Bring in tree, string up popcorn and cranberries and decorate with hand-made ribbons. Make five gallons of Wassail punch and refrigerate for drop-ins. Phone all good friends out of town and wish them a Merry Christmas. Make little corsages out of home-grown poinsettias and give them to teachers and hairdresser. Make Christmas placemats for the family for Christmas morning using gingham and green felt Christmas trees.

The secret is organization! Let's see, where did I put that list? It was here just a minute ago, I hope I don't lose it like I did last year when someone wrapped their gum in it... or the year before that when I threw it away with a nose tissue... or the year before that when the dog did a number on it, or the year before that...

Tech professor claims many diseases related to stress

LUBBOCK — Migraines, back pains, abdominal pains and some forms of asthma and diabetes can be caused, maintained or worsened by social stresses.

The escalation of such stress-related diseases in our society has caused the medical profession to seek help from behavioral scientists in treating their patients, says a Texas Tech University professor.

Dr. William H. Quinn, a behavioral scientist and family therapist who works with physicians at the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center to provide family therapy in a medical setting, said cultural changes account for much of the stress.

He said divorce is more prevalent and anxiety is much more common than 10 or 15 years ago. He said doctors are also seeing more and more children with stress-related diseases because parents' expectations are often unrealistic and inappropriate for their child's age level.

"These changes are difficult for all family members and can influence the particular aches and pains of the patient," Quinn said.

Therefore, doctors need to be more attuned to the possible psychosocial stresses — of patient and family — behind the disease. "They need to build a rapport with the family so they can better understand and treat the patient," he said.

Quinn teaches family systems principles to residents and serves as a consultant for physicians and residents with terminal illnesses which foster family stress. He has a joint appointment in the Texas Tech Department of Home and Family Life in the college of home economics and the Texas Tech Health Sciences Center Department of Family Medicine.

"When I am called in on cases, I try to determine the family interaction patterns which influence the symptoms," Quinn said. "The patient and family need someone with whom to discuss these stress areas and help solve them."

He said stress-related maladies must be treated with "kid gloves."

"We definitely don't want to communicate any illness is 'in their head,'" Quinn said. "That is not what we mean. It is very real, but the mind has helped produce it."

For example, he said brittle diabetes and juvenile asthma can be classed as psychosomatic illnesses, although not all forms of these diseases are psychosomatic.

"A child with either disease may bring on an attack — subconsciously — when his parents are arguing," Quinn said. "The child has learned this as a means of coping with family problems and restoring family unity."

Another disease considered psychosomatic is anorexia nervosa, Quinn said. "In most cases, some environmentally-related aspect in the person's life helps create this disease," he said.

Any loss or gain in a family, including adoption, death, divorce or children leaving home, changes the family structure and family members become vulnerable as they attempt to work out autonomy and closeness, he said. Migraines, backaches and abdominal pains are some of the most common results.

When treating families under stress, Quinn said, he and the doctor must be careful not to convey blame on the patient or other family members.

"We point out that stress conditions exist, interfering with the good health of the patient and possibly everyone involved," Quinn said.

"Then, we outline ways of alleviating the stress — resolving conflicts, redefining roles or making lifestyle changes."

Quinn consults with families of terminally ill patients because long-term diseases such as cancer and heart disease cause added stress in the family, particularly with finances, demands on time and with individual family members' fear and anxiety about the person dying.

"For instance, a father can become afraid and emotionally numb around his terminally ill child. To cope, he may start staying away from home more and become buried in work," Quinn said. "This can cause emotional problems for the child and greater stress on other family members."

With these families, Quinn tries to inspire more family support, caring and confidence. He said the family needs to encourage compliance with medical treatment because recovery or stabilization is largely dependent on it.

Quinn said the key to success in treatment and control of all these stress-related illnesses lies with the family, still the primary and most important social group. He said much of the recent criticism of the family has been an overkill.

"Most people depend on and will continue to depend on some type of family as a group in which they learn about life and from which they obtain support," he said.

All-woman bank found successful

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—With feminine charm, financial savvy and expertise in judo and sharpshooting, Thailand's all-women banking operations are giving male bankers a run for their money.

Bangkok Bank has two award-winning branches staffed entirely by women and the Thai Government Savings Bank has one. Bangkok Bank Vice President Prachuab In-Odd says they are the first of their kind in Asia.

No strident women's liberation talk here — and no inhibition about using femininity for financial gain. Says Aree Supapan, one of the Bangkok Bank branch managers: "Our soft and gentle manners make for better service. To us, customers are kings."

Bangkok Bank — the largest in Southeast Asia in terms of assets — established the first all-women's branch in 1964. The thinking, says Prachuab, was that women customers would find it easier to discuss financial problems with their own sex and that more women — the traditional purseholders in the Thai family — should be elevated to senior banking positions.

The concept worked and a second branch was opened in 1978, about the same time as the government bank started its female branch. Both the branch run by Mrs. Aree and the other Bangkok Bank operation, headed by Prakob Suvantemiyia, have been consistently rated as among the most successful of the bank's 82 branches in metropolitan Bangkok.

They rank among the top in deposits, with more than 1 billion baht ($43.5 million) each, and Mrs. Prakob's operation won the "most profitable" branch award for the 1981-82 fiscal year.

The 200-women staff of the two Bangkok Bank branches includes security guards, invariably attractive and all experts with the pistol. To date, there have been no violent incidents.

Both Mrs. Aree, 48, and Mrs. Prakob, 46, stress that a key element of success is the working atmosphere in their branches. "The spirit here is more intimate. We reinforce each other tremendously, whereas men tend to work as individuals."

"I think we are better off than women in the United States. In our society we are also honored," she says. "We are bankers, members of parliament, judges... I hope some day we will have a woman prime minister."

Our onion soup beats French

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
France is, of course, famous for its Onion Soup. According to Larousse Gastronomique, the great French encyclopedia of cookery, the classic recipe calls for slowly frying onions in butter so they cook through but do not color, sprinkling them with a little flour and then cooking them in white consommé. The combination is then poured over oven-dried bread.

Or the combination is poured into ovenproof bowls and layered with oven-dried bread and cheese. A last layer of cheese and melted butter is added and the bowls are put in the oven to brown this topping.

But America, too, has a delicious onion soup. It's made with sweet Spanish onions and a creamy base. A topping of finely chopped parsley gives it color. Crunchy croutons passed with the soup add just the right contrasting texture.

For a simple Sunday night supper you may find, as I do, that this Onion Cream Soup is delicious served with grilled ham sandwiches that are accompanied by an interesting assortment of mustards. Apple pie or an apple pudding makes a fine ending.

ONION CREAM SOUP
2 beef bouillon cubes
2 cups boiling water
1 medium (10 ounces) sweet Spanish onion
¼ cup butter
2 tablespoons unbleached all-purpose flour
2 cups half and half
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Finely chopped parsley to taste
Croutons

Into a pint measure, pour the boiling water over the bouillon cubes and stir until dissolved; reserve.

Peel and thinly slice the onion — there should be about 2½ cups.

In a 3-quart saucepot over low heat, melt the butter; stir in the onion; cover, cook gently, stirring occasionally, until the onion looks transparent and yellowed — 10 minutes or longer. Stir in the flour. Add the reserved bouillon, half and half, salt, and Worcestershire sauce; stir well. Heat, stirring several times, to serving temperature. Sprinkle with the parsley. Pass the croutons.

Makes 4 servings.
Note: If you have rich homemade, clear, fat-free beef broth on hand, you will of course want to substitute it for the 2 cups of ready-made bouillon in the above recipe.

AMERICA'S OWN ONION SOUP — It's made with sweet Spanish onions and a creamy base. Croutons top it off.

American explores Indonesian cooking

Why does an American, born and raised in Vermont, leap leagues away from his background and delve deeply into Asian foods, their history and making? In the case of Copeland Marks, co-author with Mintari Soeharjo of "The Indonesian Kitchen" (Atheneum), it was living in India for some years and traveling extensively in Indonesia that made him forsake clam chowder, baked beans and apple pandowdy.

His interest in India and Indonesia began with the exquisite textiles he found there and imported to the United States. Then he became enamored of Indonesian cooking which, he writes, "is infinitely more varied than the India from which it was derived." He believes this came about because Indonesia's cuisine "boasts of four great external influences: Indian, Chinese, Arabian and Dutch Colonial."

Marks' co-author, Mintari Soeharjo, lives in Java. He himself, though he travels a great deal, enjoys calling Brooklyn Heights, N.Y., "home." There he tried all the recipes in "The Indonesian Kitchen" and there at times he gives cooking classes.

The main ingredients needed for the book's authentic Indonesian cooking are common: meat and poultry, seafood, eggs, rice, noodles, vegetables, fruits and fresh coconut. But some of the seasonings called for are sold only in special shops or by mail order.

The recipe from "The Indonesian Kitchen" we chose to test uses everyday foods and seasonings, and we found its simplicity, flavor and texture delightful. Here it is, Javanese "Perkedel" — Potato and Beef Fritters. For ease of preparation, we tried the mashed potato version.

COPELAND MARKS' JAVA FRITTERS
2 tablespoons thin-sliced onion
1 clove garlic, sliced thin
8 tablespoons peanut or corn oil
1 pound potatoes, peeled and cut into ¼-inch thick slices
1 egg yolk
½ pound ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 whole egg, beaten

Brown the onion and garlic in 4 tablespoons of the oil. Remove and set aside. Fry the potato slices in the same oil until light brown. Crush the fried potatoes, onion and garlic in a mortar or food processor. Add the egg yolk, beef, salt and pepper. Mix well.

Shape the mixture into balls the size of a walnut, and flatten slightly. Dip the fritters in the whole beaten egg, and fry them over medium heat in the remaining 4 tablespoons oil for about two minutes, or until brown. Drain on paper towels. Serve hot or at room temperature. VARIATION: Mashed potatoes can be used instead of the fried ones. Boil the potato slices in water, drain very well and mash them. Complete the recipe as indicated.

Serve Indonesian-style as a garnish for rice and noodle dishes or serve Western-style as a cocktail party hors d'oeuvre.

Federal tax dollars spent on chicken sneezing

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — These days, when a chicken sneezes or catches the flu the Agriculture Department is right there with federal aid and comfort — maybe close to $30 million worth.

Deputy Secretary Richard E. Lyng says an outbreak of avian influenza in four counties of Pennsylvania poses a threat to the rest of the $9.6 billion U.S. poultry industry.

That's why Lyng says he declared an "extraordinary emergency" to cope with the outbreak of chicken flu, including millions of dollars in federal indemnities to producers whose birds may be killed to curb the disease.

Furthermore, Pennsylvania says it doesn't have the money to pay indemnities to chicken farmers.

"This action will make federal funds and personnel available to combat this disease," Lyng said Wednesday in a statement. "It also enables USDA to pay up to 100 percent indemnities for poultry destroyed because of the disease."

Lyng said the chicken flu does not affect humans. Further, he said, "We do not expect any shortages or effect on poultry or egg prices" because of the Pennsylvania outbreak.

Officials said the current estimates indicate it might cost the federal government $28.6 million in indemnities.

Federal and state quarantines were put on portions of four Pennsylvania counties — Berks, Dauphin, Lancaster and Lebanon — on Nov. 4 as part of a cooperative disease control program.

The Pennsylvania chicken flu situation also brought reaction from the state's Republican delegation in Congress, including Sens. John Heinz and Arlen Specter, and Reps. Bill Woodling and Robert Walker.

All four put pressure on USDA and the White House to help the Pennsylvania chicken farmers. They met with Lyng late Tuesday after which it was announced that the government would pay the full amount of indemnities to farmers whose birds are killed.

The USDA officially announced the action the following day in a routine news release. It did not, however, spell out precisely the significance of Lyng's declaration of an "extraordinary emergency" in the Pennsylvania chicken flu outbreak.

And it does have special significance, Lyng later said. "If we just declared it an ordinary emergency, the way the regulation is written we would only be able to finance it (indemnities) up to 50 percent," he said.

Harvest estimates changed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is revising its estimates for 1983 harvests of corn, soybeans, cotton and other crops, based on indications as of Nov. 1.

Officials of the department's Crop Reporting Board will issue their new report later today.

Some industry observers think there will be a further downward revision in USDA's estimates for corn, and possibly for some other crops. Private forecaster Conrad Leslie, for example, said in Chicago this week that the corn harvest now appears to be around 4.12 billion bushels, compared to his October forecast of about 4.35 billion bushels.

A month ago, based on Oct. 1 indications, USDA estimated the corn harvest at 4.26 billion bushels, down 49 percent from last year's record of 8.4 billion bushels.

The government's payment-in-kind program resulted in sharply reduced plantings last spring for corn, sorghum, wheat, rice and cotton. Drought took its toll of those and other crops this year.

WHEAT MEETING

The Texas Wheat Producers Board and Producers Association are having their Annual Meeting and Wheat Symposium at the Hilton Inn in Amarillo Thursday.

The morning program begins at 9:15 a.m. with the following discussions: Wheat Exports - Problems and Challenges; and Overview of Wellness and Pending and Developing State Legislative Issues.

Following lunch, the afternoon session starts at 1 p.m. with: Wreaths Washington World and at 2 p.m. Producers Association Business, followed at 4 p.m. with report of nominations committee and election of officers.

AMARILLO AGRI-BUSINESS SEMINAR
The Eighth Annual Golden Spread Agri-business Seminar will be held from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. Friday at the Villa Inn in Amarillo. The theme is: Changing Times in Agriculture and a trade show is also included.

The program: What can you as a producer expect to pay for you utilities and energy in the next ten years? A panel discussion on utilities and energies featuring top local experts in these areas will help you determine what steps you will take to cut your costs.

What will the price of farm commodities do tomorrow? Three months from now? Texas A&M extension economists will discuss policy issues, meat, grain and fiber commodities and what can be expected in these markets in the near future.

What is going to happen to your estate? An overview of estate and tax planning providing you with valuable information about your rights as land owner.

Diversification in Agriculture is a must in the 80s. Perhaps your 1980s will be better if you reap the profits of grape growing on the high plains. An interesting program on grape growing followed by a wine testing session.

Price of registration includes a barbecue luncheon. Save $3 by registering early. The pre-registration fee is $12 while it is $15 at the door. Pre-registration forms are available at the Gray County Extension office.

NON-FARM ISSUES HURTING AGRICULTURE

U.S. agriculture is no longer an island unto itself. In fact, it is dominated by non-farm issues that have sent farm incomes into a tailspin since 1979.

"Farmers are experiencing severe financial distress largely because farm groups and their policymakers have exerted little influence over the many complex non-farm issues affecting and controlling agriculture," says Dr. Carl Anderson, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Monetary and fiscal policies and international trade of governments impact heavily on the economic health of agriculture, Anderson points out. These outside influences embrace interest rates, trade subsidies of other countries, the interationally strong dollar which discourages exports and encourages imports, tariffs, trade restrictions, inflation, economic conditions at home and overseas, foreign credit conditions and required shipments on U.S. vessels.

"National farm income has fallen sharply in recent years due to these influences, plummeting from $32.2 billion in 1979 to $22.1 billion in 1982," the economist notes. "Not only have export markets declined sharply during these years, but this country's recession and high unemployment have caused sagging domestic markets."

While domestic markets have improved some in recent months with the economy on the upswing, overseas markets hold the key to farmers' hopes, contends Anderson. Currently, about two out of every five crop acres are devoted to production for foreign customers. In Texas, more than half the cotton, wheat and rice crop are exported.

"If farmers expect reasonable earnings from a high level of crop production, they must overcome some major hurdles in international trade," Anderson says. "Yet little action is under way to deal with the things that are curtailing our exports — the strong dollar, foreign trade subsidies, trade barriers, unfair tariffs, shipping restrictions, unfavorable trade agreement and poor foreign credit conditions."

The economist believes that considerable effort should be devoted to an in-depth analysis of trade policies. This should include distributing Commodity Credit Corporation-owned commodities to foreign customers, expanding credit to foreign buyers and encouraging trade agreements with other industrialized countries.

What does the future hold as agricultural policy is concerned?

This year's PIK (payment-in-kind) program was a short-term effort to deal with the chronic surplus production problem that has been plaguing American agriculture. This program has been expensive and difficult to administer and could have been avoided by an effective supply-management program in 1981 and 1982, believes Anderson.

"This leaves us at a crossroads of market-oriented farm programs versus effective supply-management that encompasses mandatory production controls and possible marketing quotas," the economist points out.

"There's no doubt the present farm program will be changed because of its cost," Anderson says. "Whatever program takes its place must respond to non-agricultural issues of international policies affecting interest rates, money supply and the growing budget deficit. If not, the farm sector will continue to go downhill."

PINE TREES

Several calls have been received relative to what is wrong with my pine trees.

For the most part nothing is wrong with the pine trees around town. Sure, most all of them have a lot of dead needles dropping off over the last few weeks. However, for most pine trees this is a natural occurrence — they do not retain all of their needles for the life of the tree.

They retain their needles for about two to three years then as newer growth has occurred the older needles receive less sunshine and are less functional to the tree, therefore it is natural for the pine trees to drop their inner needles.

CARE OF INDOOR LANDSCAPE PLANTS

The arrival of fall weather is a signal for many gardeners to turn their interest to the interior landscape. Either plants are being brought in from outside where they have been reviving after the difficult winter season indoors, or new plants are purchased to make the long hours of confinement due to inclement weather more enjoyable.

Here are a few keys to success with indoor plants. To begin with, if you've been fertilizing your plants regularly through the summer or if you have a new plant that's been growing vigorously in a greenhouse it's usually best to leach the soil before you bring the plant in.

Do this first by watering the plants with water to which you've added one tablespoon of epsom salts per one gallon. The next day fill the pot up seven times in a row with plain water to wash out toxins that may have accumulated over a period of time and this will also wash out excess fertilizer salts.

Remember rain water is the first choice to use on house plants. Second choice would be well water and try not to ever use city tap water on your house plants.

Less fertilizer will be needed during winter — not any for most plants — but if your plants are growing vigorously and if you have a bright sunny spot for them, or if you're using artificial lights, they you may need monthly applications of a soluble fertilizer.

Make sure that you put your plants in an area where you have plenty of light. If it's a place where you're comfortable reading a newspaper, that should be sufficient light, or consider using artificial lights.

Incandescent light sources are not particularly good for use with plants, but the fluorescent, and especially the wide spectrum fluorescents, are excellent. Try to place the lights within 18 inches of the tops of the leaves.

Nov. 19 — 3:30 p.m., Panhandle District 4-H Leader meeting and District 4-H Council, District Extension Center, Amarillo. IST BARROW FEEDER MEETING

At 7 p.m. Monday at the Clyde Carruth Livestock Pavilion, Mike Graham of Pampa will present a program on management of show barrows for our Top O' Texas Stock Show to be held in March. This should be a very informative session and all 4-H members with show barrows are urged to attend.

4-H CLOTHING LEADER WORSHIP

There will be a training workshop for 4-H Clothing leaders, conducted at the Texas 4-H Center in Brownwood Dec. 3-4. Becky Saunders and Alma Fonsica, extension clothing specialists, will conduct the workshop.

There will also be outside resource people and experienced County Extension agents on the teaching staff. Enrollment will be limited and restricted to those volunteer leaders who are committed to utilizing the training they receive by training others in their home communities, counties and districts. For more information call the County Extension office 669-7429. Deadline for registration is Nov. 20.

DISTRICT I ADULT LEADERS ASSOCIATION

The District I Adults Leaders will meet from 1 to 7 p.m. Nov. 19. The meeting will begin with a business meeting followed by a program and workshop.

The program should be interesting and informative and the workshop will be helpful. The workshop will cover three topics: computers, entomology and method demonstrations. Everyone attending the meeting may choose two of the three workshops to participate in.

There will also be entertainment provided and a 75th Birthday cake furnished by the district. All counties attending will need to bring sandwiches, chips, dips and extra cookies. If you are interested in attending this meeting call the Extension office for more information.

We encourage our 4-H leaders to attend the training sessions and meetings that are offered throughout the year. They are an excellent opportunity to develop skills in many areas.

CONSERVATION IS EVERYONE'S BUSINESS

Conservation of natural resources is everyone's business. And education is the key to broad public interest and participation in meaningful conservation programs.

4-H projects and activities encourage young people 9-19 to develop leadership talents in conservation action programs. 4-H members learn-by-doing to appreciate the social and economic values of natural resources, and to identify and apply appropriate conservation methods.

The national 4-H conservation of natural resources program offers girls and boys practical opportunities to do something about air and water pollution, waste disposal, soil and forest conservation, and the maintenance of fish and wildlife populations.

The program is conducted by the Extension Service and supported by John Deere, which provides a full schedule of awards for participating 4-H members, clubs and counties.

Awards include six $1,000 scholarships at the national level, an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago for one winner in each state and a medal of honor for four members per county.

Also, a $50 cash award goes to one county in each state reporting the most outstanding 4-H conservation program. Ten clubs per state and four clubs per county are eligible for certificates of recognition.

Winners are selected by the Extension Service and awards are arranged by the National 4-H Council.

Astro-Graph by bernice bede osol

Your ability to add to both your resources and your circle of friends will be enhanced this coming year. However, you must take care not to waste your earnings frivolously.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Have fun and enjoy yourself today, but don't spend everything in your budget in order to do so. You'll later regret being extravagant. Scorpio predictions for the year ahead are now ready. Romance, career, luck, earnings, travel and much more are discussed. Send $1 and your zodiac sign to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $2 for the NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet. Reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Avoid tendencies today to take situations for granted. Even things which you usually do easily could get bolted-up if you're too complacent.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Keep your sharp logic intact today and don't indulge in wishful thinking. Problems could result if your ideas are impractical.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It might be difficult to grasp the value of money today. This could cause you to spend more than you should or to buy things you really don't need.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Do not rely too heavily upon Lady Luck today in matters affecting your career or status.

Success comes through dedication, not through a roll of the dice.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be modest today regarding your accomplishments. Boasting is not likely to go over too well with your companions or associates.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your self-worth today will not be determined by your ability to spend as much as your more affluent friends do. Don't try to keep up with the Joneses.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Trying too hard to be your own person today has drawbacks. If everyone is going in one direction, have logical reasons before doing the opposite.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In order to be productive today, follow practical procedures. Don't try to do in one step something that takes several moves.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll do better today if you stick to managing your own affairs as best you can, rather than to butt in and try to run things for others.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your judgment might not be up to its usual sharp standards today. Take additional time to carefully think through important issues.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Others might back off from helping you today if they see you are asking them to do things you should be doing for yourself. Get going.

Marsha Clark (Hillary, GL) surprised her castmate for her birthday.

Although "Guiding Light's" CAROLYN CLARK (Lesley Ann) had planned to celebrate her 25th birthday over a quiet dinner with boyfriend Harry, little did she know what an adventure lay in store for her! After a grueling run, Carolyn was about to step into the shower and then dress for a night out, when a messenger came to the door delivering flowers from her family. Suddenly, Ellen Dolan (Maureen, "Guiding Light"), Marsha Clark (Hillary, same show), and another girlfriend not on the show burst through the flowers, grabbed Carolyn, tied her up, blindfolded her, and pulled her into a waiting car downstairs. Once inside the car, the girls - and Harry - broke out the champagne and toasted Carolyn on her Big Day. Although thrilled and touched by the surprise, Carolyn kept protesting that she desperately wanted to take a shower. Her pleas were ignored, and when everyone got out of the car, a still-blindfolded Carolyn was led onto a beautiful chartered boat and they all took a twilight cruise around Manhattan, dancing and partying for hours. Needless to say, Carolyn's 25th birthday was one she won't soon forget. "This birthday made the Patty Hearst

Actor began on live television

LOS ANGELES (AP) -- Charlton Heston began his climb to stardom on live television drama. Now, after a 15-year absence, the man best known to movie audiences as Moses and Ben-Hur returns to television drama in a miniseries about a Southern town haunted by a series of murders spanning three generations.

Heston stars as State Sen. Hugh Holmes in "Chiefs," a six-hour program CBS will telecast Sunday, Tuesday and Wednesday. "He (Holmes) basically functions as the narrator, like the stage manager in 'Our Town,'" said Heston, referring to the character in Thornton Wilder's play. "He's the observer of what happens, and he's the power behind the town."

'For Love and Honor'

By JERRY BUCK AP Television Writer LOS ANGELES (AP) -- Cliff Potts doesn't fret about going from general to sergeant in his television roles. It's common wisdom that first sergeants really run the Army.

Heston said. "It also explores social change in the South by showing how Holmes and the others deal with it." Each episode of "Chiefs" covers a different era in the small Georgia town, and in each, the protagonist is the current police chief: Wade Rogers in 1924, Brad Davis in 1945 and Billy Dee Williams in 1962.

Potts starred with Sam Elliott in the 1976 NBC miniseries "Once an Eagle" as an officer eager to get to the top. In NBC's new military soap opera, "For Love and Honor," he is 1st Sgt. Eugene Allard, a man who has an easy rapport with the men and women in his paratrooper company and an uneasy relationship with his gunnery commanding officer (Gary Grubbs). He's also carrying on an affair with an Army doctor played by Shelley Smith.

Comedy opened early on Broadway

By MARY CAMPBELL AP Newsfeatures Writer NEW YORK (AP) -- Out-of-town tryouts for "Brothers" were set for Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago. Then Carroll O'Connor, who chose those cities because Archie Bunker got high TV ratings there, decided to skip Chicago.

"So 'Brothers,' directed by O'Connor, who also plays the part of the widowed father of our grown sons, opened at the Music Box Theater on Broadway Nov. 9, three weeks earlier than planned. O'Connor agrees that it's time-consuming to both act and direct, he saw little of Boston and Philadelphia besides his path between hotel and theater. But it isn't hard if you know what you're doing in both areas, he adds.

"Some may be surprised to hear that O'Connor knows what he's doing, since he was never closer to Broadway than Archie Bunker's TV neighborhood in Queens.

"'Brothers' is the 60-year-old actor's Broadway debut, but he acted off-Broadway and in Los Angeles before Archie Bunker made him famous. And he began on the stage, at the Gate Theater in Dublin. Once, in Los Angeles, O'Connor directed and acted in a play which he also wrote. "Ladies of Hanover Tower." He and his wife of 32 years, Nancy, had moved to New York and he had started writing a second play when "Brothers" was proposed.

"Sure, I'm glad I'm directing as well as acting," O'Connor says. "When you direct a revival of a well-known play, everybody knows what it's about. When you're directing and acting in a brand new play, you've got to go by your own knowledge of plays and dramaturgy. You've got to put it together, working with the author, so that there is a workable artistic framework."

"Plays don't tell anything new about ourselves. They tell us, in different ways, things we always knew. In this play, the father's doctrine is family togetherness; just say it often enough and togetherness will do it all for you. It's a kind of doctrinaire way of raising a family we're all acquainted with. A crisis comes up and this doctrine fails."

"'Brothers' is written by a new playwright, George

Sibbald, who has had two plays produced off-off-Broadway. He is an American born in Scotland. The father in "Brothers" was born in Scotland and O'Connor uses a Scottish accent.

"Audiences can't help looking for the familiar face and voice of Archie Bunker when they come to the play," O'Connor says. "I think within the first minutes, they forget about that and get into the play."

O'Connor's first off-Broadway role was in "Ulysses in Nighttown," starring Zero Mostel, in 1958. He also was in "The Big Knife" in 1959 and "Heartbreak House" in 1963 off-Broadway. For the Los Angeles Theater Group, started by John Houseman, O'Connor acted in "Heartbreak House."

Rock 'n' roll nudging aside samba in Brazil

By RICHARD COLE
Associated Press Writer
RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Home-grown rock 'n' roll is nudging aside Brazil's traditional samba and tropical sound, and a former British school boy is leading the way.

Ritchie, who was born Richard David Court in Beckingham, Kent, England, has topped Brazil's hit parade in recent months with rock ballads sung in this country's Portuguese language.

Now he's recording them in Spanish as well, getting play in Europe and the United States.

Ritchie is the latest sensation of the rock musical movement that has exploded over the past year.

Until recently, Brazilian music had been dominated by the ubiquitous samba, romantic singers such as Roberto Carlos, and the "tropical sound" of Milton Nascimento, Gilberto Gil and others. The only rock on the airwaves was imported from England and the United States.

A year ago, young Brazilians who had grown up listening to, and imitating, foreign groups, began catching the public's ear with their irreverent Brazilian rock.

Alberto Carlos de Carvalho, music program director for the highly successful Radio Cidade Network, says the change came overnight, and now accounts for 35 percent of the network's airplay.

And the hottest property in the burgeoning rock industry is the 31-year-old Ritchie who came to Brazil 10 years ago.

His "Menina Veneno," or "Poison Girl," sold 540,000 copies through the end of August. This is not big by U.S. standards, but a double platinum record by the Brazilian music industry's reckoning.

His follow-up album, "Voo de Coracao" ("Heart Flight") reached the gold record 100,000 sales mark in only 40 days.

But Ritchie's success didn't come easily.

A decade ago he was down and out in London, an Oxford dropout playing jam sessions with the rock crowd. He had a promising start as a child in the Tormore School in Kent, and then the Sherbourne School for Boys. But his public service career clashed with his love for rock.

In 1972, he met Brazilian recording star Rita Lee, who told him rock was just being born in Brazil, and suggested he try his luck. He cashed in some stocks an aunt had given him, flew to Rio and plunged into the music scene.

But his career floundered at least in part because his strong English accent wasn't marketable in Brazil. So he gave English lessons to fellow musicians to pay his bills.

But he didn't give up, and eventually teamed with Brazilian poet Bernardo Vilhena to write songs.

Ritchie and Vilhena made a demo tape of "Menina Veneno" for a record company, but it was rejected. But a contact for CBS Records overheard it, and in a few months, Ritchie was number one on the charts.

Mary Gordon Rogers gets her own identity

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Marianne Gordon Rogers says her role as a Southern belle on the long-running television show "Hee Haw" has helped her be something more than just the wife of country and western superstar Kenny Rogers.

"It's something I can call my own and feel that it's my own identity — a feeling of being independent," said Mrs. Rogers who met her husband on the set of "Hee Haw" nine years ago.

"I just love it," she said about the show, which has been on the air since 1968. "The people are so nice. It's just like a big old family."

Rogers, whose hits include such songs as "Lady" and "The Gambler," says his wife is perfect on the show.

"She has this Southern charm that I think a Southern belle has," Rogers said one day recently while waiting for his wife to finish taping. "It's an appropriate role for her. A Southern belle, that's absolutely her."

On the show, Mrs. Rogers, dressed in a Civil War era hoop skirt, sits on a white swing and fans herself while expounding on subjects in a thick Georgia accent.

She's been on the show for more than 10 years, first as Marianne Gordon and now billed as Marianne Gordon Rogers.

The couple remembers their first meeting.

"He came by to see Lisa (Todd — another cast member), and we began talking," she recalled.

He picked up the recollection:

"I didn't see her for six or eight months, but I always remembered her. We were friends first, playing tennis. I had just been through a devastating divorce and the First Edition (his band) had just broken up. It was a reconstruction time for me, and she was so sweet."

They were married three years later and now have a 19-month-old son, Christopher Cody.

Mrs. Rogers, a native of Athens, Ga., was an actress, appearing in such movies as "Rosemary's Baby" and "Thoroughly Modern Millie."

Sam Lovullo, the show's producer, agrees with Rogers that the entertainer's wife is well-suited for the role of the Southern belle.

"I couldn't do it with any of the others (on the show)," he said. "She's just right for the part. If she were to ever leave the show, I'd do away with the part."

Gore Vidal composes acerbic prose in villa

RAVELLO, Italy (AP) — In a lemon-scented "swallow's nest" villa, Gore Vidal composes his acerbic prose.

But in Italy, he's more than just another American writer abroad: He has become the object of a blooming literary cult.

In September, Vidal was formally proclaimed honorary citizen of Ravello, capping a 35-year love affair with his adoptive town perched high above the Amalfi Drive.

French and Italian critics and readers have become smitten by Vidal's newly translated plays and novels and are heaping praise and prizes on the man they call a newly discovered American literary giant.

Italy's leading author, Italo Calvino; best-selling writer Luigi Barzini, who wrote "The Italians" and "The Europeans;" and Mirella Agnelli, wife of Fiat auto magnate Gianni Agnelli, were among the 500 people who jammed the 12th century Palazzo Ruffo to honor Vidal — the latest of the "Ravellese" artists to work in this town of 2,300.

Boccaccio wrote a few chapters of the bawdy "Decameron," D.H. Lawrence worked on "Lady Chatterly's Lover" and Richard Wagner composed part of his opera "Parsifal" here.

But none of these great artists was ever made a citizen of Ravello — the city had not voted such a measure in more than 40 years. And few Americans have ever received such a distinction from any Italian town.

Vidal is receiving some of the literary praise which has occasionally eluded him in the United States. Naples' daily, Il Mattino, called him "A hero with one foot on Earth and the other on Olympus ... A mixture of Oscar Wilde and Casanova."

Crew gives actress ovation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The "Love Boat" segment, a romance with Don Ameche, was not going well for veteran actress Luise Rainer.

"This scene is being played completely wrong," she expounded to producer Henry Colman. "We'll have to shoot it all over again later."

But Colman said he wanted to do it his way. Miss Rainer accepted his decision without argument and on the final day of shooting, received a rare ovation from the crew.

At 73, this Academy Award-winning actress retains her Viennese vivacity, as well as her fragile beauty — the soulful eyes, the sculpted cheekbones, the boyish figure. And she is as strong-minded today as she was when she rebelled against her MGM bosses in the late 1930s.

She was typical of Viennese actresses, but different from most American actresses of her day who always did what they were told.

Miss Rainer demonstrated punk on the set of "Love Boat," her first television appearance since "Combat" 20 years ago.

For 40 years, Miss Rainer has been cited as the prime example of a star whose career faded despite the Academy Award — the Oscar jinx. She won back-to-back Oscars for her role as the Broadway producer's wife, Anna Held, in "The Great Ziegfeld" in 1936, and for "The Good Earth" in 1937, in which she played O-Lan, the Chinese wife of Paul Muni.

"The Oscar jinx! There is no Oscar jinx," Miss Rainer said with a wave of her dainty hand.

"I had to flee for my life," Miss Rainer said. "I had been pushed to the limit of my existence. Otherwise I would have cracked up."

Brothers save a small Texas town

MIRANDO CITY, Texas (AP) — It's the kind of place jaded sophisticates dream of, when they've seen too many traffic jams and too many unfamiliar faces, when they start to long for some commitment in their lives.

There are only 400 people in Mirando City, one main street, two cafes, two grocery stores, three churches, a few businesses, a post office, a library and a school system. The school has 135 kids.

There are only 20 boys in the whole high school and 16 of them are on the football team that is said to be "snake-bit" this year. People "just don't know what's wrong with those boys," but they try to the home games anyway, groaning with every fumble.

The people who live here are proud of Mirando City. They tell you about the school's new field house and administration building, about the multi-use building soon to be built and the clinic it will house, about the Catholic church they built almost by themselves.

Those who live here use the short form, Mirando, when speaking of their town, as if aware of the pretentiousness of the City tag for such a small place.

If you talk to enough of them, they'll also tell you Mirando is a miracle. It was well on its way to being just another series of 'old buildings, crumbling into dust, when Oscar and Armando Mendieta came to town in 1952.

The Mendieta brothers, owners of M&S Machine Supply Co., claim they had to revive the town to have a prosperous business. If that is so, they went way beyond the line of duty.

The town's water supply, Los Ojuelos wells, three miles from Mirando, was at a trickle. The brothers bought the wells and the water system, renovated the equipment and now sell water at cost.

"It was a ghost town when we first came here," Armando Mendieta said, his quiet brown eyes smiling at the sunny street outside his window. "The buildings were falling down; nobody painted their homes. Everybody told us we were crazy for buying a business, because the town was dying."

"But when we started selling the water, they started building. We have gardens now, lawns and flowers. When we bought the waterworks, people weren't allowed to have lawns and gardens."

If that weren't enough to revive a withering community, Oscar, Mirando's unofficial mayor, has been the leading figure in a highly successful escheatment program.

The program initially began when the town's former school superintendent noticed that people sometimes wanted to buy lots in Mirando, but were unable to do so. The lots had owners, they found, at least on paper.

Mirando began as an oil town in the '20s and while it was in its heyday, people bought lots in what they thought would be the new boom town of South Texas. When the disillusioned dreamers left in the 1940s there were no buyers for their property, so they kept their titles and disappeared, making it impossible to sell the land to anyone else.

"People would come and want homes, but there weren't any lots for sale and no one could build," Armando explained.

Lots can be resold under the state escheatment law, however, if the lots are advertised in newspapers and the owners do not come forth after a two-year waiting period. Tax notices must have been sent to the owner's last known address for seven years and the taxes must have remained unpaid for that length of time. Proceeds from the sales go to the State of Texas.

Oscar and several friends went through all lot ownership records to begin escheatment, but were sidetracked to first lobby for a special bill in the Texas Legislature allowing them to continue the escheatment process.

The bill was necessary because Texas law forbids the state from selling land located within 1 mile of oil production. Almost everything in Mirando is near some sort of oil production.

When the law finally was passed, after years of trips to Austin, there still were four separate court hearings before the first lots were sold in 1980.

Thus far, 223 lots have been sold and most importantly, 12 new homes have been built. School Superintendent Jack Daniels estimates that 100 people have been brought to the community as a result of escheatment land sales and he believes Mirando will reach a population of 1,000 before 1990.

Fifteen more lots will have their titles cleared by next spring and will be sold at the State Land Board auctions in conjunction with 16 lots left from previous sales.

Prices for the lots have been shockingly cheap. They range in price from $200 to $1,500 with an average lot selling for $350. Some new owners live in Laredo and work in Mirando, while others work in Laredo and tolerate the daily 70-mile round trip to have the opportunity to live in the small, closely knit community.

Half of the lots have been sold to out-of-town, people from as far away as Houston and Kingsville. Reportedly, the lots are being bought for retirement homes, weekend retreats and investment. A Houston man bought six lots and is building a log cabin; Oscar and Armando bought two blocks to sell to their employees on the installment plan.

MENDIETA BROTHERS—Oscar and Armando Mendieta, owners of the M&S Supply Company in Mirando City claim

"Sometimes you get tired, but it has to get done," Armando said. "The town needs to grow. The school system needs tax money. If anything is done, it has to be done by us, the people here."

"Webb County Commissioners Court, who are our governing body, could care less. They come out here asking for votes, but then they forget us. We are the forgotten people."

During a cup of coffee at Lala's Cafe, the yellow wood, one-room cafe that has been Mirando's sole claim to fame, Oscar had a different explanation.

"You put so much in it that you learn to love it. You enjoy a cake you made more than one you went to the store to buy," he said.

they had to revive the town in order to have a prosperous business. (AP Laserphoto)

'Marrying judge' works fast Better say 'I do' in a real big hurry

PIPECREEK, Texas (AP) — Justice of the Peace Ed Jennings has married 'em in pontoons and back seats, atop low-to-the-ground motorcycles and lofty rafters, and in hay-filled barns and rustic fields.

Mostly though, the ex-vaudeville performer turned judge pronounces people man and wife under the gnarled boughs of his Marrying Oak.

"I just figured I could get publicity," he says with a wink. "I've been marrying people here for almost 25 years. It brings out the show business in me."

Jennings has boiled his wedding formula down to a science: you bring the license and $25 — beer optional — and he'll perform a memorable ceremony.

"My weddings are so quick that by the time you say, 'I do,' you already have," he said. "I just want to give them something to remember."

Jennings himself has 68 years of memories, encompassing his halcyon days as a music man and stand-up comic and the loss of his wife almost three years ago.

His largest wedding, he recalled, was when more than 100 bikers roared into this placid Hill County town for the nuptials of two Banditos motorcycle club members.

"They got pretty lit on my beer and then the dope they had," he said. "They just drove all their bikes up under the tree. But let me tell you, if someone's drunk before they get here, I won't marry them."

Then there was the time two of my peacocks sat above my sign during a wedding," Jennings said. "I said, 'if anyone can show just cause why this couple should not get married' and one of the birds dropped some droppings in my bald spot."

"Well, I learned in showbiz, when you get in an embarrassing situation, get everyone laughing. But it was literally the stickiest wedding I've ever performed," Jennings, who acts as Pipecreek's coroner along with his other official duties, reckons he's married about 835 couples since becoming a Bandera County peace justice in 1959.

Show business was dead, he said, and he wanted to move on. Included in the hundreds is the dogged romantic who asked Jennings to perform his marriage ceremony — three separate times.

"That old boy said that as long as the good Lord would keep making women, he'd keep marrying them," the judge said. The wooden sign imprinted "The Marrying Oak" actually dangles from four ancient trees. Underneath, a thoughtful touch, is a strip of authentic artificial turf.

"They're just like church weddings, except there's a lot more drinking," Jennings said. "The boys wear rented tuxes — you can always spot a rented tux — and we have the brides in the traditional white gowns and all the bridesmaids."

The fabled oaks aren't Jennings' only gimmick, though. In April 1969, the peace justice fined himself $18 for speeding and "got at least $200 worth of free publicity. Radio stations, newspapers — oh boy, was I popular."

Jennings still loves to circulate his official-looking "weekend wedding license."

Child shot by mistake

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — An 8-year-old girl was in critical condition Saturday after being shot by her stepfather, who said he thought she was a prowler. Quinton Palmer told police he had seen a prowler outside his house and then went to his stepdaughter's room early Friday after hearing a noise.

The hollow-point bullet from his .38-caliber pistol struck Laura Hardin in the buttocks and exited through her stomach, according to John Peter Smith Hospital officials.

Police ruled the shooting an accident. "It had to be an accident. He loves that little girl so," said Palmer's father, James Palmer, who drove to Fort Worth from Lehigh, Okla., after learning of the shooting.

Quinton Palmer said he and his 27-year-old wife, Brenda, were watching television in their bedroom about 3:30 a.m. when she heard a noise.

"I got my gun and looked out the bathroom window, and I saw a guy dodge down behind my car," said the 26-year-old man, who said he keeps two loaded guns in the family's house.

"Look, I've got implants in both eyes from my cataracts and an artificial hip. One leg is shorter than the other. Boy, am I patched up. But I still dance up a storm," he said. "I'll dance more than anyone else as long as I can stay on this earth."

"My ambition," he added with a sly grin, "is to live until I'm 92 and then get shot by a jealous husband."

Adopt a Smoker
November 17, 1983

Adoption Papers

_____ as a nonsmoker, will take it upon myself to help _____ on the path to smokelessness. For my part I will provide you with constant encouragement, fruit and peanuts if need be, and a shoulder to cry on.

It will be expected that _____ will assist me by adhering to the following suggestions:

1. Hide cigarettes, ashtrays, lighters and matches
2. Tell all your friends that you have been adopted and will not smoke on the day of the Great American Smokeout (GAS), November 17.
3. Call on your foster nonsmoker (me) in times of weakness.
4. Refrain from frequenting smoke filled rooms.
5. Repeat to yourself over and over "not smoking is a GAS."

_____ the foster nonsmoker will try to cajole the aforementioned smoker to continue on the road to smokelessness following the Great American Smokeout, but this formal arrangement will conclude 24 hours after it begins.
