...named Celanese manager

Celanese Manager Appointed

G.E. (Gene) Steel has been appointed manager of the Celanese Chemical Co. plant here, it was announced today by company officials.

Steel returns to Pampa from Corpus Christi where he has been director of the company's Corpus Christi Technical Center.

He succeeds John Fritsch who transferred to Charlotte, N.C., this month as director of knitting operations of the Celanese Fibers Co. The appointment becomes effective Feb. 1.

Starting his 15-year Celanese career as a chemist at Pampa in 1957, Steel later moved to the personnel department as supervisor of personnel services in 1960. He was transferred from Pampa in 1962 to Cumberland, Md. as personnel assistant at the Celanese Fibers plant there. Subsequently, he served as supervisor of labor relations at the Narrows, Va., fibers plant and supervisor of employee relations at the Bay City, Texas, chemical plant.

In 1966 Steel returned to the Pampa Plant as industrial relations manager and remained here until 1968 when he moved to Bay city in the same capacity. He was named director of administration at the Corpus Christi Technical Center in 1969.

Active in civic affairs, Steel served on the Pampa school board in 1967-68, and was director of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce in 1967-68. After moving to Corpus Christi he was vice president of the Coastal Bend United Fund in that city. He received the Adult Order of the Arrow award from the Boy Scouts of America in 1971 for his work with that youth group.

Steel also is listed in the current volume of "Who's Who in the South and Southwest," and is currently serving as president of the Coastal Bend Texas Manufacturers Assn. and director of the state organization. He has been a member of the Corpus Christi Chamber of Commerce since 1969.

Born in Anson, Texas, Steel has a B.S. degree from Texas Technological College in Lubbock where he majored in chemistry. He and his wife, the former Anne Akers of Anson, have three children.

Steel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H.T. Steel, 1802 Ave. N, Anson. His wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F.L. Akers, 1402 Ave. K, Anson.

No Death Penalty For Skyjacker

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The U.S. attorneys office says it will not seek the death penalty for the hijacker of a Braniff airliner at Love Field in Dallas Jan. 12.

Billy Eugene Hurst Jr., 22, of Houston, is charged with air piracy and interfering with a flight crew in the performance of its duties.

"Although this was a serious offense, we do not feel we would be justified in asking for the death penalty since the hijacking did not result in any serious injuries," Asst. U.S. Atty. Frank McCown said.

Hurst hijacked the aircraft on a flight from Houston to Dallas, let the passengers deplane at Love Field and then held the crew as hostages for seven hours. He requested $1 million, parachutes, survival kits and ordered to be flown over South America.

Demos Plan To Answer Union Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Democrats plan to answer President Nixon's State of the Union speech with a live televised phone-in program Friday featuring five House members and four senators.

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., will serve as anchorman on the panel.

The two top House Democrats, Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma and Majority Leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana, will sum up at the end of the hour-long live program. Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, who gave the Democratic response in 1971, won't appear this year.

Besides Eagleton, senators on the panel include Frank Church of Idaho, William Proxmire of Wisconsin and Lloyd Bentsen of Texas.

The program will be carried by the ABC, CBS and NBC television networks and the noncommercial Public Broadcasting Service at noon EST Friday.

U.S. Senate Holds Hearing On Welfare

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee resumes public hearings on the House-passed welfare-reform bill today with most members still apparently opposed to the new family assistance provisions.

Administration officials seemingly are resigned to the likelihood of a committee decision next month knocking out President Nixon's family aid plan. They voice confidence the full Senate will restore the gist of it.

Men of the life insurance industry and organizations for the blind were to testify today.

In addition to welfare reform, the bill increases many Social Security benefits including a 5 per cent across-the-board boost and also tightens the two big government health programs, Medicare and Medicaid.

The welfare reform section would establish a guaranteed annual income of $2,400 for a poverty-level family of four and would aid the working poor for the first time.

Conservatives on the Finance Committee say bringing in the working poor would almost double the welfare rolls.

They contend that although the $2,400 figure might not be too costly, it would soon be raised to levels that would strain the treasury.

Committee Chairman Russell Long, D-La., a strong foe of the Nixon welfare plan, says it fails to discourage cheating and would not encourage persons on welfare to get jobs and leave the rolls.

Long has prepared his own substitute proposals. One would put federal tax collectors to work pursuing runaway fathers who cross state lines after abandoning their families.

Pampa Entry To Vie For State Honors

Members of the City Hall staff were busy today putting final touches to Pampa's entry in the 27th annual Texas Conservation Awards Contest being sponsored by the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce.

Pampa will enter the category of beautification of drainage areas into park plots with color photos and the story of how the projects were promoted locally.

Pampa's entry will go into the Region I entry list. Regional winners will then compete with four other regions for the state championship.

The state championship awards banquet will be held Saturday, May 13, in Fort Worth. Dates for the regional banquets will be announced later.

City Manager Mack Wofford said today Pampa's entry material in the contest will be forwarded to Fort Worth before the Feb. 1 deadline.

President Calls On Congress To Reject Political Pressure

U.S. Lawmakers Hear Nixon's Union Address

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon urged a Democratic Congress today to reject "the intense pressures of a political year" and enact an array of stalled administration measures, an enlarged defense budget and a "new technology program" to promote research and create jobs.

In a 4,000-word State of the Union address, prepared for delivery at a live-broadcast joint session, Nixon said he and Congress should close ranks "in making sure that legislation the nation needs does not become hostage to the political interest of any party or nation."

The President, an announced candidate for a second term, said he wants a bigger defense budget and a "new technology program" to encourage research, create jobs and make American industry more competitive abroad.

He promised to unveil later in the year a plan to finance public schools without burdening the property-tax system.

Nixon's delivery of the message coincided with the beginning of his fourth year in office.

Otherwise, Nixon said little about new initiatives but stressed instead that Congress should act on "more than 90 major administration proposals" such as welfare reform, government reorganization and revenue sharing that have been hanging fire for a year or longer.

In a companion 15,000-word written State of the Union document, the chief executive warned over his past arguments on behalf of the pending bills.

In his written presentation, Nixon said his planned visits this year to Communist China and the Soviet Union "will mean that our differences have disappeared or will disappear in the near future." The important thing, he said, "is that we talk about these differences rather than fight about them."

"It would be a serious mistake," he continued, "to say that nothing can come of our expanded communications with Peking and Moscow. But it would also be a mistake to expect too much too quickly."

Discussing home-front reaction to the Vietnam war, Nixon wrote: "There has been a tendency among some to swing from one extreme to the other in the wake of Vietnam, from wanting to do too much in the world to wanting to do too little. We must resist this temptation to overreact."

For the United States to withdraw from international responsibilities "would be to make a dangerous error," he said.

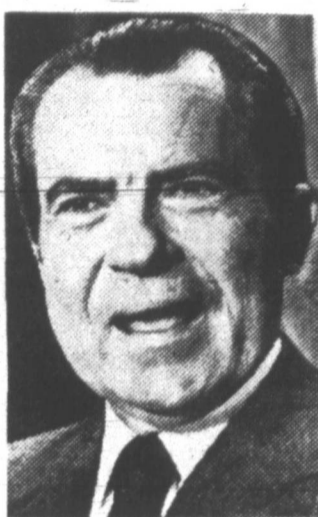

If anyone had doubts the political season is at hand, Nixon erased them at the outset of his speech for the joint session.

At a time when at least 10 members of Congress are vying for Nixon's office, he said:

"There are more candidates for the presidency in this chamber today than there probably have been at any one time in the whole history of the Republic..."

"I know the political pressures in this session of the Congress will be great... There is an honest division of opinion, not only between the parties but within the parties, on some issues of foreign policy and domestic policy as well."

"However, there are great national problems that are so vital they transcend partisanship. Let us have our debates. Let us have our honest differences. But let us join in keeping the national interest first. Let us join in making sure that legislation the nation needs does not become hostage to the political interest of any party or nation."

PRESIDENT NIXON

In explaining the scant number of fresh ideas he was submitting, Nixon said, "There is ample precedent, in this election year, for me to present you with a huge list of new proposals, knowing full well that there could be no possibility that they could be enacted even if you worked night and day."

"Saying 'I shall not do that,' Nixon contended he was limiting himself to "only vital programs which are within the capacity of the Congress to enact, within the capacity of the budget to finance, and which I believe should be above partisanship."

The President, after painting a glowing picture of developments during the first three years of his term, said anew: "We must now go on to build a generation of peace."

But he added that until an international arm-reduction agreement is reached, "we must maintain the strength necessary to deter war."

But he added that until an international arm-reduction agreement is reached, "we must maintain the strength necessary to deter war." He went on: "Because of rising research and development costs, because of increases in military and civilian pay, and because of the need to proceed with new weapons systems, my budget for the coming fiscal year will provide for an increase in defense spending."

Details will be announced Monday when Nixon submits his budget for the 1973 book-keeping year that begins July 1.

That budget presumably will disclose some details, too, of the President's plan for "major initiatives to stimulate more imaginative use of America's great capacity for technological advance, and to direct it toward improving the quality of life for every American."

For the moment, Nixon only promised "a new program of federal partnership in technological research and development—with federal incentives to increase private research, and federally supported research on projects designed to improve our everyday lives in ways that will range from improving mass transit to developing new systems of emergency health care that could save thousands of lives annually."

Nixon said the answer to increased foreign competition "is not to build a wall around America" but to improve U.S. technology and productivity.

As a sort of bonus, he said, the technology program will "put to use the skills of many highly trained Americans—skills that might otherwise be wasted."

Woman's Body Found In Odessa

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — Officers, searching an uninhabited area within Odessa, came upon a body tentatively identified today as that of Mrs. Gloria Sue Nix Green.

It was the latest chapter involving a series of mysterious slayings of women in this far West Texas area.

The body was found at 3:15 a.m. after Ector County Sheriff A.M. "Slim" Gabrel telephoned shortly after midnight from Aztec, N.M., where he had been questioning Johnny Meadows, 24, formerly of Odessa.

Meadows was being held in Aztec on various charges and was wanted in Odessa and had been questioned in Odessa about the disappearance of Mrs. Green.

Sheriff Gabrel said he will start extradition proceedings against Meadows.

Mrs. Green, 26, described as "extremely attractive," disappeared from the offices of the O&L Oil Well Service Co. about 2:30 p.m. last June 17.

Her disappearance set off a massive search by helicopter, airplane, automobile, horseback and foot because of the previous mysterious disappearances and murders.

Officers searched today from midnight until about 3:15 a.m. when they came upon a mattress at the side of the road.

Bullock Doesn't Want Orr To Hold Two Jobs

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) —

Secretary of State Bob Bullock ruled today there is a conflict of interests between Texas Democratic Party Chairman Roy Orr's political post and his new job as a Dallas County Commissioner.

He said he would not issue Orr's commission as a $27,600-a-year county commissioner until he resigns as party chairman.

"Yesterday, Mr. Orr indicated that he will resign his duties as State Democratic Executive Committee chairman within 30 days. As the legal questions that have been raised will be rendered mute by his resignation, I do not feel it will be necessary at this time to request an attorney general's opinion," Bullock said.

"I will issue the commission as Dallas County Commissioner upon this resignation," he added. According to Randall Wood, head of the secretary of state's elections division, a county officer cannot legally perform his duties without a commission signed by the governor.

Wood and several others on Bullock's staff have been briefing the law on conflict of interests for several days.

Bullock said the research "indicated that a legal question definitely arises under the common law."

"There is well-grounded common law precedent that no person may legally hold two offices whose duties are incompatible. Both the county commissioner and the State Executive Committee chairman have definite statutory election duties which could prove incompatible in some circumstances," Bullock said. "A county commissioner has numerous responsibilities in setting up and conducting the general election, including the establishment of election precincts, the appointment of election judges and clerks, and the opening and canvassing of elections," he said.

The SDEC chairman also has election duties, Bullock said, including acceptance of applications for places on the primary ballot. He also helps canvass Democratic primary returns.

Hog Cholera Affects Goal Of Production

WASHINGTON (AP) — An outbreak of hog cholera in Texas has dealt a severe setback to the goal of swine producers and the Agriculture Department to free the nation of the disease by the end of 1972.

Now, the department says, it may be mid-1973 or later before the country can officially be described as free of hog cholera.

Nixon Expected To Sign Campaign-Spending Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says the campaign-spending bill, hailed on and off Capitol Hill as heralding an end to secrecy about giving and taking political cash, meets President Nixon's objectives for reform.

A few hours after Congress sent the bipartisan compromise legislation to the White House Wednesday, deputy presidential press secretary Gerald L. Warren said he expects Nixon will sign it into law expeditiously.

This would mean America would have the first presidential-campaign spending limit in its history, new political-financing disclosure rules covering all federal office seekers, and the most sweeping election reform law in half a century.

It would end "the short, unhappy life of the TV blitz," said Russell Hemenway, head of the reform-seeking National Committee for an Effective Congress, and would be "a crucial first step toward cleansing politics of the secrecy, duplicity and special interest influence which has sown widespread cynicism and doubt among the American people."

Reform advocates on both sides of the House's political aisle rose to applaud the goals of the Senate-approved compromise Wednesday. Then the congressmen passed it 334-19.

Under the bill's media-spending formula, a presidential candidate's radio-TV budget this fall would be restricted to $4

Private Group Makes Recommendations To '72 State Legislative Session

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

The famous debates of the Texas Legislature in the past over state spending have been nothing but discussions of who gets the privilege of paying the tax bill.

That's the decision of one of the state's most dependable and reputable research organizations, the Texas Research League, which has been trying to tell state legislators their short comings for years.

"The Texas appropriation system virtually excludes the majority of the legislators from the decision-making process and prohibits any meaningful debate over spending issues," said a recent special report from the league, a privately-financed organization that spends its time and money trying to show state and local governments a better way to give taxpayers their money's worth.

The governor made numerous fiscal recommendations and the Legislative Budget Board, made up of Senate and House experts on legislative spending, recommended a total budget of $6.7 billion. The House took these recommendations and passed a two-year spending bill $231 million higher. The Senate then took the House bill, and all the previous recommendations, and passed a bill that was $374 million higher than the Budget Board recommended. A 10-man conference committee, named ostensibly to iron out difference between the two houses, finally arrived at a compromise bill two days before the session ended—$413 million more than the Budget Board recommendation.

"In this system the cost of government grows higher at each successive step," the league report said of the 1971 legislature's action. "The House Appropriations committee and the Senate Finance committee are prodding into competition for increased spending commitments. Instead of limiting itself to reconciling differences between the two chambers, the 'free' conference committee usually adds a variety of individual increases to the total."

The League pointed out that the 181 legislators just two days before the end of the session had more than 200 changes in it that most of them had not seen previously. This included 97 changes that increased the cost of the bill $65.5 million—of which none of these had been debated in either the House or Senate. There were 129 changes that increased the cost of the bill $29.7 million above the amounts approved by record votes of the House and Senate.

Then there was $113 million in "hidden spending," the League said.

This included 144 "riders" or special provisions written into the final bill by the 10-man conference committee that called for specific appropriations outside the bill's provisions, that authorized "open end" or "estimated to be" appropriations.

After the regular appropriations bill was passed, the legislators approved several individual spending bills, which had not been considered in the overall budget.

The league makes three recommendations to the 1972 special session, the 1973 general session and future legislative sessions.

—The recommendations of the governor and of the Legislative Budget Board should be combined into one proposed budget presented legislators "that represents a realistic spending plan which identifies issues and priorities and permits a reasonable estimate of new revenue needed before the legislative session begins."

—The Senate and House committees drawing up respective appropriations bills should have sufficient staff to "price tag" the prospective spending increases under consideration.

Worry Clinic

By George W. Crane, Ph. D., M. D.

Hans and Mark evolved a new language which even their parents failed to understand. Onomatopoeia explains some of their primitive words, plus the other inclusions in their unique vocabulary. But this is also how our savage ancestors developed their tribal dialects.

CASE S-576: Hans and Mark, aged 16, are identical twins.

"When they were little," their mother explained, "they played together a great deal. And developed their own language."

"Daddy and I often couldn't comprehend what they said but they seemed able to understand each other perfectly."

"When they went to kindergarten, they also communicated easily with each other, but their teacher and the other children often couldn't comprehend what they were saying."

"For they apparently developed their own language."

"And as I have thought more about it, I think this must be true of twins."

"For parents let them entertain themselves much of the time, figuring they have a playmate of their own age."

"So twins probably fail to receive as much spoken language from their parents and other adults."

"Thus, they create a spoken language of their own which is very meaningful to them but not understood by others, even in their own family circle.

They would trill and sing, just like their adopted canary parents, except their voices were deeper.

When young twins are in the playpen together, one twin may notice that the other emits a certain sound when it falls and suffers a little pain.

Or it may detect a different note when its twin sibling is hungry or angry.

So it seems to evolve a language based on common toddler situations and spontaneous cries or vocal.

Onomatopoeia refers to formation of words in imitation of natural sounds, as buzz, hiss, tinkle, etc.

This was one of the early bases of primitive language, supplemented quickly by the word "mama," plus animal cries of moo, ba-a, oink, woof, meow, quack and a few dozen other sounds that symbolized the creatures that uttered them.

"Ow" is another early inclusion in mankind's basic vocabulary.

Hans and Mark thus evolved their own spoken vocabulary, largely from early imitation of each other's vocalizing.

People In The News

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Julie Eisenhower says she has more respect for the draft evaders who went to jail than those who fled the country.

The President's younger daughter told newsmen Tuesday that the evaders who went to jail "took their punishment."

Mrs. Eisenhower was here to tour the federal center for disease control.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Harold Stassen plans to attend the Republican National Convention this summer, but not as a candidate.

Stassen, who unsuccessfully sought the GOP presidential nomination in 1948, 1952, 1964 and 1968, said in a telephone interview Tuesday that he will ask permission to make a presentation to the convention's platform committee.

He said he would support President Nixon for re-election.

"What I'm concentrating on this year is encouraging the very young to be active, including particularly Republican congressional candidates between the ages of 25 and 30," he said.

Stassen, 64, is a Philadelphia lawyer.

TOKYO (AP) — An official documentary film on Emperor Hirohito's tour of Europe last fall will be shown in Japanese theaters Feb. 1, but pictures of the protests demonstrations in the Netherlands have been censored, the Imperial Household Agency reported today.

The agency would not say why the scenes were cut out.

Officials said the film will be shown abroad later, but no date has been set for that.

'Gimmick' Insurance Outlawed But Still Sold

Editor's Note: "Gimmick" life insurance policies, which allegedly milk Texans of high premiums in hopes of big profits, recently were outlawed by the State Insurance Board but are still being sold. This is the first in a series of four stories exploring the problem in depth. A hearing on the matter is set for Austin Jan. 27.

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Ever awoken in the night with a chilling sensation in the pit of your stomach—the sudden awareness that you've been flim-flammed?

Thousands of Texans who paid sky-high premiums for certain life insurance policies in the hope of making lots of money say they have suffered that feeling.

"At this point we feel that Texas is a big 'sucker state,'" an indignant East Texas woman wrote the State Insurance Board.

Larry Teaver, the board's chairman, says the agency has received thousands of similar complaints.

He calls them "gimmick policies."

The "gimmick" is this: The policies are sold not as insurance but as "investments" in insurance companies. Prospective customers often are told only a certain number of policies—5,000 is a common figure—will be sold. And they are told a percentage of the companies' profits—usually 25 to 30 per cent—is reserved for buyers of the special policies.

excess of normal for an ordinary whole life policy, which is all Teaver says the "gimmick" policies really are.

One company's Approved Policy form specifies a premium of $900 a year for $7,500 worth of coverage for a 35-year-old man.

That's $120 per $1,000. If you knock off the $155 charged for an "endowment" feature, the rate still would be $100 per $1,000.

Board actuaries say a 35-year-old should be able to get a whole life policy for $17.87 per $1,000.

Does a man who pays $900 a year for a policy in hopes of making a profit get his money's worth?

"I don't think there is any question they have," said the firm's vice president and general counsel.

He refused to discuss rates, however, because every company's policies are different and he wasn't sure he would be "comparing apples to apples and oranges to oranges."

Another company charges 35-year-olds $42.59 per $1,000, well above what actuarial tables say is justified.

An elderly couple said they paid $800 apiece for a year's premium on a $20,000 policy for each of their three grandchildren, aged 3, 13 and 15.

John Stephenson, head of the insurance board's life policy approval division, said a $900 premium for a 35-year-old man was "pretty typical" of "gimmick" policies.

"They justify that, saying you are going to get big dividends. But the dividends are all in the future, all in their imagination right now. These companies are operating in the red, and so far they haven't paid any dividends. That's typical. That's the majority of them," Stephenson said.

Chances of earning large dividends, he added, "are pretty slim."

"Policies at those rates cannot be sold unless there is misrepresentation, because the price is too great," Teaver said.

Unlike its power to set rates for car and house insurance, the board has no authority to tell a company how much it can charge for a life insurance policy.

The idea, said Stephenson, is that competition will hold the rates down.

Failure to pay dividends is a frequent source of complaints to the insurance board about "gimmick" policies.

An Ohio-based company sells policies accompanied by "certificates of participation" promising to divide 25 per cent of its profits among holders of "fully participating policies" when it has sold 25,000 such policies.

But the firm's 1970 financial statement to the insurance board flatly declared that all profits are destined for the pockets of stockholders, not policyholders.

The company did pay some dividends to Texans in 1970. It collected $319,047 in premiums on $16.9 million of life insurance in force. It paid $5,033 in dividends, mostly applying them to renewal premiums.

Another company collected $2.2 million in premiums last year and reported paying $31,207 in direct dividends—just over one per cent of premiums. Its after-tax profits totaled $208,000.

Asked about his company's dividend prospects, an executive of the firm replied that the insurance board prohibited such predictions.

Teaver warned in an interview that agents' dazzling predictions of profits often blind prospective policyholders to the fine print.

Today In History

Today is Thursday, Jan. 20, the 20th day of 1972. There are 346 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1965, President Lyndon B. Johnson was sworn in for his first full term in the White House.

On this date: In 1265, England's Parliament, representing the English counties, met for the first time.

In 1801, John Marshall was appointed chief justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

In 1887, the U.S. Senate approved the leasing of Pearl Harbor in Hawaii as a naval base.

In 1936, King George V of Britain died and the Prince of Wales succeeded to the throne as Edward VIII.

In 1941, Franklin D. Roosevelt became the first U.S. president to be inaugurated for a third term.

In 1953, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower took the oath as the 34th American president.

Ten years ago: Antoine Gizenga, first vice premier of the Congo, who had been dismissed from his post, was returned to Leopoldville by United Nations forces.

Five years ago: Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, visiting Vietnam for President Johnson, questioned the progress of the war effort.

One year ago: Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird said expanded U.S. air activity in Cambodia was crucial to the success of American troop withdrawals from South Vietnam.

The president of an Ohio-based firm hung up on a reporter after telling him, "Young companies and smaller companies such as ours do not feel we have been treated fairly by the press."

He referred the caller to an Austin lawyer.

The firm's 1970 report to the Texas Department of Insurance showed a $1.4 million aftertaxes profit.

Teaver mentioned one company several times in an interview as a purveyor of "gimmick policies."

But an executive of the firm said he felt policy holders had been treated fairly.

"As far as we are concerned, we have been more than honorable in the way we have handled them," he said.

High premiums, big promises and low returns—that's the history of most "gimmick" life insurance policies, according to State Insurance Board experts.

"Gimmick" is board chairman Larry Teaver's term for the "certain participating policies" outlawed by the board Dec. 1.

The policies are sold through "limited enrollment" schemes in which customers are told they will share part of a company's profits as part of a special class of policyholders.

"This type of policy has a very poor batting average over the years... I'm talking about the companies that offer it and the policyholders being dissatisfied," said Ted Becker, managing actuary of the insurance department's life division.

Dear Abby

The cost of moving from a dream castle

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Your comment to "Lady Dreamer" reminded me of a cute saying I'd like to share. "The neurotic BUILDS dream castles. The psychotic LIVES in them, and the psychiatrist collects the rent."

MRS. L. P.

DEAR MRS. L. P.: A competent psychiatrist doesn't "collect the rent" for anyone's dream castles. Instead he helps his patient find a dwelling he can actually LIVE in. And his fee is more appropriately the cost of moving.

DEAR ABBY: We have a very surly, selfish son in law who is married to our only child.

She is a wonderful girl and we love her very much, but we just can't understand him. He treats our daughter all right as far as we can see, but he treats us terribly.

When we invite the two of them for supper, she usually comes alone. She's embarrassed, but confesses she couldn't get him to come with her. When he does come, he eats fast and wants to run away right after the meal is over.

We have given them a lot of financial help. We bought them a nice little house and are helping them furnish it. We even bought them a second car.

I was in the hospital for two weeks and he never came to see me once. He didn't even send me a card!

Would it be childish for us to treat him like he treats us? I mean stop all financial help? I wouldn't want to hurt my daughter, but someone should teach this fellow a lesson.

HURT

DEAR HURT: Any financial help you gave him was undoubtedly more for your daughter's sake than his. Don't reward his indifference and rudeness with generosity, but be careful how you "teach him a lesson" or your daughter might wind up paying for the lesson.

DEAR ABBY: I am a school teacher. The other day another teacher told me in the presence of the school nurse and some office secretaries, that she had seen a woman shoplift a purse in a local store.

I asked her if she reported the incident to anyone, and she said she had not. I then told her that I thought she had an obligation to report it.

A discussion followed. One person agreed with me. Another said, "If that woman was stealing, she must have been very hard up and needed to steal so it would have been unkind to report her."

Another said, "I'd have minded my own business because if I made such an accusation and wasn't able to prove it, I could be sued for slander."

Now I'd like your opinion, Abby.

AN EX ANGELENO

DEAR EX: I would have reported it. To quote Edmund Burke (again), "All that is necessary for evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing."

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Tall Boy" who was tired of having people ask him, "How's the weather up there," hit home with me because I, too, was tall in school. Being a girl it was even worse.

When kids would ask me how the weather was up there, I'd give them the answer my Dad suggested: "Why don't you grow up and find out?"

That shut them up. And they respected me more for telling them off instead of pouting.

LUNCHES AT HOME—Frankfurters with a crunchy, spicy cornmeal coating lure youths to the table for a different weekend lunch at home.

Frankfurters On Stick Appeal To Youngsters

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

A meal-on-a-stick for weekend lunches at home is a change of pace from cheese or tuna sandwiches. These are frankfurters dipped in a cornmeal batter, skewered with a cooking fork or wooden skewer to cook. Touches of instant minced onion, dry mustard and garlic powder add a mild zip to the crust. Serve with relishes, brownies and milk.

SPICY CORN DOGS
Two-thirds cup enriched cornmeal
One-third cup all-purpose flour

1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon instant minced onion
1 egg, beaten
2 Tablespoons vegetable oil
1/2 cup milk
1 1-pound package wieners
Chili sauce

Combine cornmeal, flour, salt, garlic powder, mustard and onion. Add egg, oil and milk. Coat each wiener with flour and insert onto tines of cooking fork or wooden skewer. Dip into cornmeal mixture, coating all sides. Fry a few at a time in hot, deep fat (375 degrees) until golden brown. Serve hot with chili sauce. Makes 8 to 10.

Shrimp Toast Makes Versatile Snack Food

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Looking for something different to nibble with hot soup or salad lunch? Try Shrimp Toast. It is also a good way to make use of stale bread. This recipe may be doubled or tripled to cut into quarters or halves for bridge snacks.

SHRIMP TOAST

8 slices stale bread
1/2 pound uncooked, deveined shrimp
6 canned water chestnuts
1 egg
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 teaspoon powdered ginger
1/2 teaspoon sugar
2 envelopes goldenseasoning and broth
1 tablespoon cornstarch
Salad oil
Use thinly sliced bread several days old. Trim all crusts from bread slices. If fresh dry out at low temperature (200 degrees) oven. Cut shrimp into very small pieces. Finely chop water chestnuts. Beat egg until bubbly. Mix shrimp, water chestnuts, onion, ginger, sugar, seasoning and broth, cornstarch and egg. Spread one heaping tablespoon shrimp mixture over each slice of bread. Heat 2 inches oil in a heavy saucepan or deep skillet until hot or until deep-fat thermometer registers 400 degrees. Fry bread with shrimp side down for about 40 seconds. Turn over bread and fry for about 30 seconds until bread is golden brown. Drain on paper toweling. Cut into quarters or halves and serve as an appetizer with a cool drink, as an accompaniment to hot soup or with a salad.

Hungarian Food Is Exciting Treat

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Paprika burst upon the world's gastronomic consciousness in 1859. That is when the Palfy brothers of Szeged, Hungary, invented a machine to remove the veins and seeds from the dried pods. They created something new, delicious and very Hungarian, the mild "noble, sweet-rose paprika."

Before that time, paprika strong and bitter, was a peasant seasoning, being cheaper than pepper. It was often used as a medicine. But with the Palfy's refinement, it became a mild condiment, known always as Hungarian and the world adopted it with enthusiasm.

We learned this from an old Hungarian friend, George Lang, who was born in Hungary but for many years has been a distinguished food and restaurant man in the United States. Yet he is still ardently in favor of things Hungarian. Recently, his book, "The Cuisine of Hungary," was published, a blockbuster of a Hungarian's love of Hungary's food and history. It contains also a raft of authentic recipes, many of which native-born cooks do not know about.

"Incidentally, in my native country, cookbooks are actually reminders only because every girl has been taught to cook by her mother. The books suggest new ingredients, new seasonings for old-time dishes. They are not basic the way ours are," Lang explains.

He has been vice-president of Restaurant Associates, is consulting editor for Time-Life Foods of All Nations cookbooks and writes for Gourmet and New York magazines and Encyclopaedia Britannica.

"We live in an age when more or less all are finding new sensational slants to life. We demand new experiences that will make us forget our old traditions. But we also remain cautious carousers. Cautious—but still questing," Lang says.

"For example, everyone thinks of gypsy music, romantic Budapest and chicken paprikash. These are areas of life everyone seems to read about and talk about. Now I really think my book makes it easy to experience the thrill of gulash, paprikash and strudels. These are all part of Hungarian living. In my book I have written the recipes simply and straight-forwardly, adjusted them to the American market.

"Hungary is situated on the thresholds of the East and the West.

Lang pauses, then smiles warmly: "You'll love it. It's exciting. And there is lots of noble sweet and rose paprika in it."

Famous Linz Dessert Originated In Austria

By Cecily Brownstone
Associated Press
Food Editor

Linzzer Torte is a famous dessert specialty that is said to have originated in the Austrian city of Linz.

LINZER TORTE

1 cup unblanched whole almonds
3/4 cup (1 1/2 quarter-pound sticks) butter
1/2 cup sugar
2 egg yolks
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1 1/2 cups unsifted flour, stir to aerate before measuring
1 cup red raspberry jam

Finely grate almonds, about one-third at a time, in an electric blender, or use rotary hand grater; set aside.

In large bowl of electric mixer, cream butter and sugar; beat egg yolks, then lemon rind, vanilla, cinnamon and cloves. Stir in grated almonds and flour until well mixed. Measure 1/2 cup of dough for topping; wrap in wax paper and refrigerate.

With fingers press remaining dough into a round cake pan (9 by 1 1/2 inches) with a removable bottom so that dough covers bottom and sides of pan making a shell about 1/4-inch thick. Spoon raspberry jam over bottom of shell, spreading evenly. Chill.

LINZER TORTE—Here is a rich short crust flavored with almonds and spices, and a filling of raspberry jam.

Remove reserved 1/2 cup of dough from refrigerator and roll between 2 pieces of wax paper to form an 8 by 3-inch rectangle. Remove top piece of wax paper and with a knife, cut rectangle into 6 strips, each 8 inches long and 1/2-inch wide. If dough is too soft to handle for next step, refrigerate on wax paper until firmer—10 to 15 minutes. Use a spatula to lift strips. Place 1 strip across center of torte. Place another strip across the first to form an X. Form an X on either side of the first X.

overlapping end tips and pinching off ends of strips to fit pan.

Run a knife around the top of the pan to loosen the part of the bottom that extends above strips. With your fingers, press this down into a border.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until browned—40 to 50 minutes. Cool on rack about 10 minutes, then place on a can so that rim drops off torte. Cool completely. Store in a tightly covered tin box. Cut into wedges to serve.

Koufax Suprised At Record Vote

NEW YORK (AP) — Election to Baseball's Hall of Fame surprised Sandy Koufax, excited Yogi Berra and interrupted Early Wynn's tomato-picking.

Wynn, a 300-game winner who had failed three times previously to be elected to the shrine that houses the sport's heroes, was notified of his election while picking tomatoes at his home in Nokomis, Fla., near Sarasota.

Wynn was grateful. "I'd been hoping for it," he said, "but I didn't want to build up my hopes too high. It's like being placed up there on a pedestal, not like getting a gold watch for your longtime efforts. It's recognition I was waiting for for a long time."

But, said Wynn, he would have been happier if the honor had been bestowed when he first became eligible. "I don't think I'm as thrilled as I would have been if I had made it the first time," he said. "Naturally, I'm happy. So is my wife. We have had a long wait. I was disappointed the first year and disappointed the second year. The third year I just struggled it off."

"I would have liked to have joined Stan Musial, Ted Williams and Walter Johnson as players who gained the honor the first year they were eligible."

Koufax did exactly that, becoming the ninth player to make it his first year of eligibility. Others who did it were Jackie Robinson, Bob Feller, Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Honus Wagner and Christy Mathewson.

Koufax was surprised by the honor, embellished by a record vote total.

"I'm a little surprised I got as many votes as I did," Koufax explained. "I didn't have as many good years as some others in the Hall and I thought that might count against me."

Koufax pitched for the Los Angeles Dodgers for 12 years before an arthritic elbow ended his career. But it's the last four that made him a Hall of Famer.

From 1963 to 1966 he had records of 25-5, 19-5, 26-8 and 27-9 with earned run averages of 1.88, 1.71, 2.04 and 1.73. He also pitched a non-hitter each year, including a perfect game in 1965.

And that made him, at 36, the youngest player ever to be elected.

"This is the biggest honor I've ever been given, not just in baseball, but in my life," said Koufax.

Berra was even more excited.

"My fans and friends were really pulling for me," said Berra, who missed out by just 28 votes last year when he was eligible for the first time. "My kids are happy about it, and I feel great."

Koufax led the balloting with 344 votes while Berra received 339 and Wynn 301. A record 396 votes were cast with the players needing to be named on three-quarters of the ballots, or 297, to be elected.

Berra and Wynn, like Koufax, had considerable credentials. Berra hit 358 homers while batting .285 for the New York Yankees while Wynn was one of only 14 pitchers in history to win 300 games in a 23-year career with Washington, Cleveland and Chicago.

All three have kept some connection with baseball following their playing days. Berra as a coach for the New York Mets. Wynn as a scout in Chicago.

Rounding out the top 10 in the voting were Ralph Kiner, 235; Gil Hodges, 161; John Mize, 157; Enos Slaughter, 149; Peeewe Reese, 129; Marty Marion, 120; and Bob Lemon, 117.

Beau's Boundaries

By STEVE BOHLANDER

PAMPA NEWS SPORTS EDITOR

The Harvesters are going full bore into District competition tomorrow night with the Caprock Longhorns challenging the defending champions in Harvester Fieldhouse.

Pampa is sporting one of their best teams ever and have had a highly successful 17-4 season.

Coach Robert McPherson should be given a big pat-on-the-back award for his outstanding pre-season record and a boost by the fans for the upcoming district play.

The All-Sports trophy is coming to Pampa this year according to Whipper, the Amarillo glowworm. He doesn't always get his predictions right but he does come forth with a few block-busters.

The sporting activities are supposedly picking up in the area with a full schedule of events coming up in the next few weeks. Randy Matson will be taking on Al Fuebach in week-end competition and hopefully the Pride of Pampa will be able to defeat this arrogant Jayhawker.

Fuebach dropped a big egg last week by tying the national indoor record of 67' 1" at the Los Angeles meet that Matson attended. Good Luck this week!

Rumor has it that the 8th-ranked Heavyweight boxer will be coming to Pampa for an exhibition match to help the newly organized Pampa Boxing Club to get on its feet. Incidentally they will be fighting in regional Golden Gloves competition this coming week-end in Guymon, Okla.

The Pampa Boxing Club will fight Friday night. The matches will be inter-team at 324 Naida and all proceeds will go towards purchase of jackets for members of the club.

All tickets for the event are $1.50. Pampa fight fans will have an opportunity to see all of the Pampa boxers in warm-ups against each other as they train for the Guymon Golden Gloves Regional Championship which will be held next Friday and Saturday in Guymon.

Following the Guymon Tournament, Feb. 4 and 5 the Pampa Invitational Golden Invitational Tournament will be held. Fifteen boxing teams in the Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico area will be competing in the Pampa Tournament.

Tammee Wilhelm will be fighting against a larger male opponent this Friday night.

Maybe we'll hear from the area towns on what's new. Has anyone scheduled a donkey basketball game lately or perhaps a Chamber of Commerce would like to sponsor a charity basketball game...If so, write the News and tell us about your plans.

Harvesters Host Longhorns Friday

By RICKEY WRIGHT

Staff Writer

"It is like starting a new season," is how cager coach Robert McPherson described tomorrow night's game and those after it.

The Caprock Longhorns are visiting to start district competition for Pampa.

Pampa now stands 17-4 for the season, yet district is just about to begin.

"It will be tough," said McPherson. "All teams will start as equals."

Pampa will have a height advantage over the Longhorns as their squad is, reportedly, small. So rebound power will be to the Harvesters'.

Also Pampa will host Caprock in Harvester country. Sometimes this can be a great advantage—sometimes it is meaningless.

Pampa probably has learned a lot this pre-district season. They obviously play better together. They do not fear passing the ball and they are unselfish enough to pass the ball to a teammate with a more advantageous angle.

Pampa is expected to have a tough row to hoe, as they are defending 3-AAAA district champions. The whole pack will be after the hide of Pampa. You can be sure the last two big losses will be brought up before the game to improve the morale of the enemy and lower Pampa's.

McPherson said, "I just push that to the back of my mind. We needed the victories, but we didn't win, so I look ahead."

"Caprock is small but, by no means a team to sneeze at. They are quick and agile. Also, they can hit with tremendous accuracy from 21-25 feet out."

Pampa was pre-season picked to win the district but according to McPherson, "It will take a lot more than just talk. We must be ready." The next game after Caprock will feature the Harvesters traveling to meet Tascoas in Rebel territory.

Both games will be played at 8 p.m. Neither bouts are games to miss!

Pampans Leading District 3-AAAA

Mike Edgar is leading the District 3-AAAA stats in pre-season scoring with his 16.4 average and Richard Bunton dropped to third after Amarillo's James McCampbell slipped in behind Edgar with a 16.2 average. Bunton is boasting a 16 point average thus far in the Harvester game season.

Gary Haynes, Pampa's terror on the courts has been hitting the basket at a blistering .574 per cent hitting 81 of 141 attempts. Greg Day of Caprock is gunning for Haynes with 115 of 215 for a .534 per cent from the floor. Richard Bunton is fourth in district with 142 of 278 for 510 per cent and Mike Edgar is seventh with a .485 per cent hitting 150 out of 309 attempts.

Donnie Cain is leading the Harvesters in the attack from the free throw line standing fourth in district with a .753 per cent mark making 58 of 77 attempts.

In rebounds Pampa and Palo Duro show the biggest strength in 3-AAAA with both teams sporting three players in the top ten. The big edge goes to Pampa however, with Mike Edgar leading the field with 226 in 21 games for a 10.7 average per game and Richard Bunton with 223 in 21 games to capture second place and a 10.6 average.

The third Pampam on the backboards is Donnie Cain with 154 in 20 games for a 7.7 average. The three Palo Duro players keeping Pampa company are: Mike Martin, 178 for 17 games; Claude

Harris, 185 for 18 games; and Fred Mitchell with 161 for 18 games.

Pampa is entering the district season with a 17.4 season mark while Palo Duro has an impressive 13.5 tally. Pampa has dropped it's last two outings and will be gunning for the Caprock Longhorns Friday night in Harvester Fieldhouse. The Longhorns have posted an 8-12 record.

Tascoas is still undecided as to whether they are going to be a threat or not as they have posted an 11-8 record and can't seem to get their consistency to an even keel.

The News' pre-season poll finds:

1. Pampa
2. Tascoas
3. Palo Duro
4. Borger
5. Caprock
6. Amarillo

The names Edgar and Bunton keep creeping up in stats and performance and Cain for consistent playing so all three Pampans may be in contention for All-State honors.

Girls High School Sports Are Discussed

District 3-AAAA coaches converged on Pampa yesterday to discuss and plan girls activities for class AAAA. Under the present UIL regulations there have been no girls activities other than tennis until now.

The meeting brought out proposals to establish girls' golf and volleyball with the girls taking part in a golf program this spring. There will be no state level competition this year but hopes are high that next year more AAAA schools will sponsor the program.

A volleyball representative from the six member school in 3-AAAA will advance to the state playoff action in 1973 but in the initial season it will be limited to district play.

Girls golf must await Texas University Interscholastic League approval before anything more than district competition can be implemented and 3-AAAA is sponsoring the statewide proposal.

A vote on the issue will be coming later this year. Girls basketball was mentioned during the meeting but some question remains as some of the schools voiced the opinion that they would be unable to field a team before the 1973 projected date due to lack of facilities and staff.

Majors Will Be Offered Tech Post

ATLANTA (AP) — Iowa State Coach Johnny Majors will be offered the head football coaching job at Georgia Tech within a week and will accept. The Atlanta Constitution said in today's editions.

The newspaper said Majors has notified Iowa State President W. Robert Parks he intends to visit Tech, and Tech officials have contacted Athletic Director Lou McCullough for permission to talk to Majors. The paper said Parks confirmed Majors was planning to visit Tech.

Tech Athletic Director Bobby Dodd did not confirm that Majors was scheduled for a visit. He said only that Majors was high on the list of candidates.

Dolphin Roundup

Krista Marlar, age 10 of the Pampa Dolphin Swim Club led the Dolphins in the "B" competition at the Odessa Winter Invitational this past weekend by placing in all 5 of the events she entered and capturing the only 1st place for the team. She won 1st place in the 50 yd. breast, 2nd in the 50 yd. free, 3rd in the 200 IM, 4th in the 50 free, and a 5th in the 100 free.

Leading the boys for the Dolphins was Richard Steger, age 8, who placed in 4 of the 5 events he entered. Richard won 3rd in the 50 yd. breast, 4th in the 25 free, and 6th place in the 50 free and the 100 IM.

Tamera Glascock, age 10, placed 4th in the 50 yd. back in "A" competition. In the "B" competition she won a 5th place in the 50 free and a 6th place in the 50 breast.

Reid Steger, age 5, had two winnings to his credit in the 6 and under age group events by taking 2nd place in the 25 yd.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — "Oh, man! So many good things have been happening to me that I just can't believe it!"

Lee Trevino, the merry Mexican from a poverty background, who added a dash of fresh color and a new dimension of pro golf, was talking about his selection as The Associated Press Athlete of the Year for 1971.

The 32-year-old Trevino, who made that lightning, unprecedented sweep of the American, Canadian and British Open titles, was named Wednesday in a nationwide poll of sports writers and sportscasters.

He amassed 118 votes to win by a wide margin over baseball's Joe Torre of the St. Louis Cardinals and Roberto Clemente of the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates, who got 31 votes apiece, and Kareem Abdul Jabbar of basketball's champion Milwaukee Bucks, who was fourth with 24.

"You've got to be thrilled any time something like this happens to you, particularly when it comes from an outfit like this, where so many people all over the country are voting for you," Trevino said before today's first round in the $150,000 Dean Martin-Tucson Open, in which he is a heavy favorite.

"I called my wife and told her, 'Honey, so many things are happening to me I just don't believe it!'"

The honor was the latest in a series of national awards for the talkative, colorful ex-Marine who burst on the national scene only four years ago and last season established himself as one of the game's greatest players and biggest gate attractions.

"I was even named sports personality of the year in England," he said. "Can you imagine that?"

Earlier, he had been named Player of the Year by the Professional Golfers Association and had been selected Athlete of the Year by a national magazine and again by a national sports newspaper.

Trevino, the grandson of a Dallas gravedigger and a former $35-a-week assistant at an El Paso, Tex., driving range, started slowly last year but finished with one of the most successful seasons in pro golf history.

He missed several tournaments because of the illness of his mother—she died later in the year—and admitted: "My mind wasn't on the game."

He wasn't eligible for the Tournament of Champions but started his drive by winning the $60,000 Tallahassee Open the same week.

He added a couple of top 10 finishes in the next few weeks, then started a fantastic string. On successive weeks he won the Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic, missed a playoff by a single stroke at Atlanta and lost in a playoff for the Kemper title in Charlotte, N.C.

The U.S. Open was next and he stormed staid old Merion in Philadelphia with a flair and flourish, beating the feared Jack Nicklaus in a playoff and hammering it up with a toy snake and

He had a setback in Cleveland the next week when came from well back in Montreal and beat Art Wall in a playoff for the Canadian National Open.

Next was the British Open at Royal Birkdale, a seaside links that almost foiled him. But he hung on to win, despite a double-bogey seven on the 71st hole, and completed one of the game's classic sweeps.

An emergency appendixectomy knocked him out of a few tournaments and he won only once again on the regular tour, the late-season Sahara.

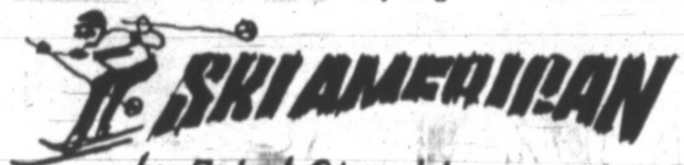

He also helped the American team to a Ryder Cup triumph over England and teamed with Nicklaus to take the World Cup for the United States in a field of teams from 46 nations at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla.

He wound up the season with $231,000 in prize money, second only to Nicklaus.

But there are goals yet to achieve for the fast-talking, quick-quipping man with the infectious grin.

"Now I want to win the Masters," he said. "That's going to be my big goal this year."

He had boycotted the Masters for the past two seasons.

23---Choosing Your Poles

By ROBEL STRAUBHAAR
Director, Crested Butte (Colo.) Ski School

There are many skiers, some pretty accomplished, who do not take full advantage of their poles. They put their hands through the straps, grab the shafts, and they forget they have poles.

Poles are, of course, used to maintain balance. Used correctly, they can be invaluable aids in turning.

If you are turning to the left, the left pole should be planted. Turning to the right, plant the right pole. The pole actually initiates the turn.

Hold your poles naturally, slightly away from your body, with the arms flexed and in front of your body. Don't drag the pole tips in the snow.

The pole is lightly planted before reaching the fall line. Accompany the planting with the turning movement. After turning, the other arm should be ready and in position to be planted.

If you remember to have your pole ready, arm raised and forward, turning will be much easier.

I recommend lightweight poles with small, finely built baskets. Bend your poles back in shape when they need it and replace baskets when they wear out.

'Viva Mexico'

While Americans have been preoccupied with cold wars in Europe and hot wars in Asia and the Middle East, with a Communist takeover in Cuba and military coups in South America, with monetary crises abroad and an economic slump at home, with internal dissent and national self-doubt as a result of the endless Vietnam conflict, a quiet and almost unheralded revolution has been taking place right next door.

Mexico is knocking on that door and saying, "Hey! Look at me!"

We are so used to associating instability with Latin America nations that it comes as some surprise to realize that Mexico is enjoying the longest period of steady, peaceful and impressive economic and political growth in its history, a period that began in the 1930s.

On the economic side, Mexico has registered a 7 per cent annual rate of growth in real terms for the past two decades. This is second only to that of Japan.

The importance of this phenomenon to the U.S. economy lies in the fact that 70 per cent of Mexico's exports go to the United States and about the same percentage of its imports come from the United States.

The Mexican peso is ranked by international bankers as one of the strongest currencies in the world. Actively seeking foreign investment, Mexico pays the highest interest rates in the world.

On the political side there has been not only stability but a steady strengthening and broadening of democracy in Mexico. This has been especially true under the leadership of President Luis Echeverria, now in the second year of his six-year, non-repeatable term.

Government is taking on an increasingly youthful aspect in a nation where half the population is under 21 years of age and 70 per cent is under 30.

Mexico preceded the United States by almost two years in lowering the voting age of 18. In late 1971, under Echeverria's initiative, a constitutional amendment was adopted by Mexico's congress to lower the minimum age for election to its House of Deputies from 25 to 21 and for the election to its Senate from 35 to 30. (In the United States, current minimum ages are 25 for the House of Representatives and 30 for the Senate.) Another constitutional reform eases representation requirements for minority parties in the House of Deputies. A sweeping fiscal reform bill is aimed at achieving a more equal distribution of wealth, which remains Mexico's chief unfinished business.

In accompaniment with this internal progress, relations between the 29 United States of Mexico and the 50 United States of America "are at a peak," says Mexican Foreign Minister Emilio O. Rabasa.

There are points of friction, as exist between the best of neighbors. One in particular is the salinity of Colorado River water which the United States delivers to Mexico. Others are the problem of migratory workers and drug traffic across the border.

It is significant, however, that "Operation Intercept," a heavy-handed U.S. attempt to curb the flow of drugs, has been replaced by "Operation Cooperation."

Also significant, in view of the constant barrage from the left about U.S. "economic imperialism," is the fact that Mexico neither feels smothered by its giant neighbor to the north nor does it ask for special treatment.

"We realize," says Rabasa, "that the future of Mexico is up to Mexicans."

There are now 50 million Mexicans, and their future is bright. No longer is the stereotyped image true, if it ever was true, of Mexico as a guy resting beneath a sombrero. The midday siesta break is a thing of the past in the country's accelerating business and industrial life.

"Manana"—tomorrow—has become today in modern Mexico.

STRAIGHT TALK

TOM ANDERSON

Every now and then some critic carps: "You're always talking about the bad things, about what's wrong. Why don't you ever talk about the good things, about what's right with our country?"

Okay, let's talk about the good things. Let's talk about Christianity, the best thing there is.

And the angel said unto them:

"Fear not, for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

And she brought forth her first born son and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes (Luke 2:7). The same (Jesus Christ) was in the beginning with God, and became flesh and dwelt among us (John 1:2, 14). Christ is the God-man, combined in one. Person forever (Heb. 7:24-13:8).

Christ was always God, but His human life began with His physical birth, even as ours. From the beginning of His earthly life, the shadow of the cross loomed over Him. Even at birth He was identified with death, for "swaddling clothes" were the bandages used to wrap the dead. Even at His birth the Holy Writ tells us that His death is more significant than His life.

HE descended that we might ascend—John 6:38 and 14:3.

HE became poor that we might become rich—II Cor. 8:9 and James 2:5.

HE was born that we might be born again—John 1:14 and 3:2, 7.

HE became a servant that we might be sons—Phil. 2:7 and Gal. 4:6-7.

HE had no home that we might have a home in Heaven—Matt. 8:20 and John 14:2.

HE was hungry that we might be fed—Matt. 4:2 and John 6:50.

HE was thirsty that we might drink of the wells of salvation—John 19:62 and Isa. 12:3.

HE was wearied that we might rest—John 4:6 and Matt. 11:29.

HE was stripped that we might be clothed—Matt. 27:28 and Romans 3:22.

HE was forsaken that we might not be forsaken—Matt. 27:46, Romans 3:22 and Heb. 13:5.

HE was sad that we might be glad—Isaiah 53:3 and Phil. 4:4.

HE was bound that we might go free—Matt. 27:2 and John 8:32-36.

HE was made sin that we might be made righteous—II Cor. 5:21.

HE died that we might live—John 19:33 and John 5:24, 25.

HE will come down that we may be caught up—I Thes. 4:16-17.

(From Western Messenger)

Christ challenged the slavery system and declared that man is the creation of God and responsible to God. Christ preached the freedom and dignity of the individual and his God-given right to come and go freely, to enjoy the fruits of his own labor, to work for himself or to sell his labor for pay.

He reminded us that the best way to reduce the exploitation of man by man is to embrace Christianity, Christianity, not handouts, is the hope of the world. Christ was no Socialist. He believed in the profit motive. He recognized that free men will have different talents, and abilities in varying degrees. Some, He said, would gain more with what they had, and these were rewarded with more. He even took away the "talent" of the man who did nothing, and gave it to the man who had ten "talents," as a lesson. He congratulated those who profited, and urged His followers to learn by their example.

And, He knew that charity is not charity unless it is voluntary. In Luke 12:13-14, the Christ was talking to a large crowd when a man approached him, saying, "Master, speak to my brother that he share his inheritance with me."

And Jesus replied: "Man, who is it that would make me a divider among men?" True Christian charity, He knew, comes from within and cannot be imposed by authority.

And, Jesus Christ was not a "moderate." He was, in fact, an "extremist." The "modernists" today proclaim that there is no black nor white; that sin is imaginary, non-existent; that we are to be "moderate" and "tolerant" in all things, including evil.

An agnostic is a moderate. Moderation is no virtue when one is moderately wrong or moderately sinful. Christ had this to say about these moderates—a religious type He denounced in extreme terms: "I know thy works, that thou art neither cold nor hot. I would thou were cold or hot. So because thou art neither cold nor hot, I will spew thee out of my mouth."

The Bible is not tolerant; it's "narrowminded." And so is the compass, the multiplication table, the boiling and freezing points of water, all nature, and the Kingdom of Heaven. The Gates of Hell, on the other hand, are broadminded—open to situational ethics. God, the Bible, sin, and Jesus Christ are not. They are rigid and unchanging. Just as the Ten Commandments are forever the same, a true Christian has a standard beyond change.

Some people lose faith in Christianity because of Christians they know and don't know; and because of the way so-called Christian nations act. They miss the point. Christians are not supposed to be perfect. Only Jesus is.

Your Health

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Why do some women have sagging muscles and wrinkles around their neck and upper "underarms"? I've noticed a big age difference in many younger (40-to-50-year-old) women having wrinkles compared to those 50 to 60 years of age. Why?

I'm worried about my future. What can one do to avoid or lessen the wrinkles? Does doing strenuous housework keep arms firm? Exercise?

Dear Reader—The most important factor is the skin itself. The skin loses its normal "elasticity" and, in a sense, is overstretched. Unfortunately the loss of elasticity is often a familial characteristic. If your mother tended to have this problem you are definitely more likely to have it, too.

Mistreating the skin is also a big factor. Too much sun and wind actually damages the skin and speeds up its loss of elasticity. That summer tan can also age the skin. Obesity stretches the skin and if weight is subsequently lost, the previous normal contraction of the skin may not return.

Exercising isn't really much good for this problem. It helps a little but the amount of increase in muscle size you would need to fill an overstretched skin is beyond any reasonable expectation from an exercise program.

There are some muscles under the skin in the neck that help if their tone is maintained but usually exercise does little for these either. Your family might appreciate all that strenuous housework, but it won't help or harm your skin.

Because there is no satisfactory way to eliminate the sagging skin around the neck some women and some men have cosmetic surgery done to remove the excess folds. A common method is to pull up the skin around the neck and then remove the excess skin from an incision over the back of the neck. A small scar may remain after the procedure.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I have an excess amount of skin under my chin. Is there any exercise or something else that can cure this unwanted problem? I have tried several exercises, but I do not seem to get any results.

Dear Reader—Exercise won't help much. The only thing that will really help is cosmetic surgery. You could have an incision just under the chin, the excess fat and skin removed. The fine-line scar just under the jaw is hardly noticeable.

Inside Washington

Democrats Set to Challenge Nixon on the Welfare Front

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — For obvious electioneering purposes in this year's crucial national balloting, the Democrats have deliberately set the stage for a stormy head-on clash with President Nixon over the enactment of wide-ranging multi-billion-dollar anti-poverty legislation.

Pending unnoticed in the reconvening Senate and House are virtually identical bills to extend for another two years the scandal-scarred Office of Economic Opportunity with a huge $6.5 billion budget.

With one major exception, these measures are exactly the same as the one vetoed by the President shortly before Congress adjourned last month.

That exception is a multi-billion-dollar "child development plan" setting up a nationwide system of child care and training centers. Originally a separate bill, it was written into the vetoed measure as Title V. The President flatly rejected it as unsound and impractical legislation—and was upheld by the Senate 51 to 36.

But the seeming deletion of the highly controversial Title V in reality, the Democrats are resorting to subterfuge.

Most of the vetoed child development plan is actually in the new bills—in another form.

What the Democrats have craftily done is to include the plan in the popular Headstart program by greatly expanding that to incorporate most of the activities and projects contemplated under the discarded Title V.

Obvious intent of this legislative sleight-of-hand is to "sneak over" the child development plan under the favorable cloak of the widely approved Headstart program.

Whether they can get away with this only time will tell.

Rush Tactics

The Administration has taken no stand on the scheme as yet.

White House and Health, Education and Welfare Department authorities are fully aware of what is going on. They are leaving the next move up to the Democrats—which is an open secret.

The Democrats' strategy is to rush the new bills through the House and Senate Labor Committees quickly in order to enact the embattled legislation early in this session. Purpose of the Democrats with time to produce still other bills in the event the President vetoes the pending versions.

In other words, the aim is to keep the issue alive and to bring as much electioneering out of it as possible.

Revealingly indicative of the close collaboration between House and Senate Democrats on this legislation is the manner in which the pending bills were quietly introduced.

The first measure was offered by Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., chairman of the House

Education and Labor Committee. It bore the signatures as co-sponsors of nine other Democratic members of the committee. Two days later, virtually the same bill popped up in the Senate, sponsored by seven Democrats and two Republicans—Jacob Javits, N.Y., and Clifford Case, N.J.

Foremost among the Democrats was Sen. Edward Kennedy, Mass., although he is not the leader on this legislation. The latter is Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.

While the two measures are identical in all major aspects, the House version has two additional provisions in the Headstart section—(1) specifying a fee schedule; (2) a requirement that any standards set by HEW be no less comprehensive than those established by the Federal government in 1968.

The tricky nature of the Democrats' new legislation was caustically assailed by Rep. John Ashbrook, O., second-ranking member of the Labor Committee, as "cheap politics of the basest kind."

"This is a deliberate attempt to put something over on the Congress and the people that was flatly rejected by the President as unsound and unwise," said Ashbrook.

It's deceitful and disgraceful. I'm shocked that this sort of chicanery should be tried. I hope enough members of Congress will see through this shoddy fraud and vote it down. Certainly it should be promptly and decisively.

Significantly, the second-ranking Democratic member of the committee did not join in sponsoring the legislation.

Rep. Edith Green, Ore., recognized by her colleagues as an authority on OEO matters, reportedly firmly refused to be a party to using the Headstart program as a device for "sneaking over" the vetoed child development plan.

Her disapproval could importantly affect the outcome of this new threatened showdown between the President and the Democratic politicians.

What It's All About

There is a lot more than meets the eye to that investigation announced by Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, of the disclosure of secret government documents.

Real purpose of the probe is to examine the government's security system and methods.

Tip-off on that was a little-noticed statement by Rep. William Bray, R-Ind., decorated World War II veteran and member of the investigating subcommittee. He stressed that the real aim of the inquiry is to "review the adequacy of the National Security Act, and to recommend legislation to strengthen it if that is found necessary."

Bray shrugged off as inconsequential the "latest flap" over the publication of accounts of policy meetings on the India-Pakistan embroilment. Said the legislator:
