

FARMING ON FAITH IN BULA

By RICK WHITE
Managing Editor

BULA — Heavy spring rains sprouted optimism that dryland cotton farmers in this southeast Bailey County community would harvest their best crop in nearly a decade.

"It was the best start since 1989," said Charles Heffington, manager of the Bula Gin Co. "Everything was up and looking good."

But a series of June storms packing destructive hail and high winds have left the crop forecast a little cloudy.

"Every time it rains, it hails a little bit and it's just pecking away at it," said Heffington said. "We've got plenty of rain, but now I kind of get scared when I see a cloud."

About 45 percent of the cotton has been wiped out by hail and wind damage, according Heffington. Most farmers have switched to grain sorghum or sunflowers.

Top talent featured at 4th of July sale

One of the pioneers in Tex-Mex music will headline the entertainment for the annual Joe's Boot Shop Boot Tent Sale, scheduled July 3, 4, 5 and 7.

Johnny Rodriguez, whose hit Pass Me By vaulted him into the spotlight in 1972, will perform live on the Joe's Boot Shop stage Friday, July 4, at 2:15 and 4:15 p.m.

Rodriguez will also appear at the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture's annual "4th in the Park" from 8:30-10 p.m.

Both performances are free to the public, as are all the performances by the entertainers in Joe's annual lineup. The sale begins Thursday, July 3, with music starting at 10:30 a.m. and continuing til 6 p.m. Thursday's performers will be Bobby Sanders and Texas Tradition and the Home Cookin'

Band, featuring Johnny and Jill Mulhair and Kim Blakey.

The sale continues Friday with Johnny Rodriguez, Texas Tradition and Home Cookin'.

Saturday's lineup features five fiddlers: Bob Boatright, Frankie McWhorter, Jimmie Young, Ricky Boen and Valerie Moss Green, as well as Texas Tradition and Home Cookin'.

After taking Sunday off the Tent Sale returns Monday, July 7, with the ever-popular Jody Nix and the West Texas Cowboys. Texas Tradition and Home Cookin' will also perform.

All performances are free to the public and those who attend are also welcome to free Pepsi at Joe's. The Leal's Ranch Wagon will be on hand, with fajitas, barbecue and tamales. Food is free with each boot purchase.

In its 14th year, the Joe's Boot Shop Tent Sale continues to grow and draw huge crowds to Muleshoe for the 4th of July celebration. In addition to specials throughout the tent, the store and the Country Junction, Joe's will give away more than $2,000 in merchandise over four days, with drawings every hour.

Home Cookin' has become one of the most popular area bands, with the talents of the Mulhairs and friends. Johnny recently saw his name in lights, with a nomination as the CMA's producer of the year for his work with the LeAnn Rimes hit Blue in his studio in Clovis. Blakey, a native of Clovis, NM, returns with his talents on the guitar and fiddle as well as lead vocals.

Texas Tradition is the compilation of five talented performers with a vast background in country music.

After years of being on the road and band after band, Bobby Sanders and Larry Sullivan combined their desire to put together a band that showcased their talents as singers and allowed them to sing the style of music they loved — Texas honky tonk.

Sanders, a native Texan, started as a contestant on Ted Mack's Amateur Hour. He went on to perform with the likes of Buck Owens, Buddy Rich, Merle Haggard, Red Foley and many others. He has also performed with the Bellamy Brothers and Asleep at the Wheel.

Sullivan was born in Indiana and idolized George Jones and Haggard. His powerful tenor voice led him to the hotspots of Nashville and performances with Jones, Roy Clark, Boots Randolph, Johnny Paycheck, Verne Gosden and many more.

Oklahoma native Benny Council is the band's steel player and also brings a long list of experience with him. Young, also an "Oakie," is a member of the Western Swing Hall of Fame and has performed with Webb Pierce, Lefty Frizzell, Hank Williams, Ray Price and many others. He is the band's fiddler.

Great Race makes Muleshoe pit stop

A cherry-red 1932 Chrysler sedan owned by Dick and Brad Nelson of Shreveport, La. and dozens of other antique vehicles drew plenty of curious onlookers Thursday morning as they gathered in a lot near the east city limits.

The vehicles were part of the 1997 Great Race, a 14-year-old cross-country rally featuring pre-World War II automobiles.

More than 50 competitors stayed Wednesday night in Clovis and passed through Muleshoe the next morning.

The automobiles are taking part in a 4,500-mile trip that started June 21 in Sonoma, Calif. and will end in Jacksonville, Fla. on July 4.

The winner of the race will take home $250,000.

Carpenter eligible for bond

District Court Judge Jack Young Monday granted a defense lawyer's motion that murder suspect Joseph Doyle Carpenter should be eligible for release on bond.

Bond was set at $100,000 following an evidence hearing at the Bailey County Courthouse.

Carpenter, 34, is charged with the April 13 murder of his neighbor, 20-year-old Faviola Fabela Mendoza of Muleshoe.

He remained in custody at the Bailey County Jail as of Friday morning.

Carpenter has been held without bail since a County grand jury indicted April 18 him for capital murder.

Mendoza was found beaten to death in her home on West 20th Street. She also appeared to have been sexually assaulted.

She had moved from her native Mexico to Muleshoe in November to be with her husband.

Muleshoe Police Chief Rick Henegar said the decision to grant Carpenter bail was "dead wrong."

"I don't think he should be released because of the reasons we made the arrest in the first place," Henegar said.

The police chief also said he has concerns about the safety of both Carpenter and the public if he is released.

The motion was filed by Carpenter's court-appointed attorney, Daniel W. Hurley of Lubbock.

Carpenter agreed to live at his parents' Muleshoe home and to a 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew.

According to court observers, the fact that Carpenter has no previous criminal record and that he has lived in Muleshoe all of his life weighed in his favor.

More than two dozen witnesses and family members were in court on Carpenter's behalf, including one gentleman who reportedly would give him a job if he was released.

Statements made to investigators during a routine interview led police to consider him a suspect.

Equine test regs take effect July 1

License tags. Renew them every 12 months, and you can get just about anywhere, anytime. Get your horse tested every 12 months for equine Infectious anemia (EIA), commonly called "Coggins" or "Swamp Fever," and you can take your animal just about anywhere, anytime. After six months of requesting voluntary compliance with the EIA testing requirements, inspectors from the Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC), the state's livestock health regulatory agency, are ready to start checking test papers July 1.

TAHC inspectors will drop by randomly at fairs, events, rodeos, roping competitions and trail rides to ensure that all equine (horses, donkeys, mules, asses or other members of the horse family) have been tested within the past 12 months for the viral disease, EIA. Owners or riders are to have with them either their animal's original EIA test document, called a "VS 10-11" form, or a copy of the form that has a second, original signature by the issuing veterinarian.

An EIA test within the past 12 months is also required when equine are privately sold, explained Dr. Terry Beals, TAHC executive director and state veterinarian. He said sellers and buyers can decide who will pay for the test, which runs around $20-25 for an accredited veterinarian to draw and submit a blood sample, complete the necessary test record, and the cost of the laboratory work.

"When equine are sold at livestock markets or at regularly scheduled horse auctions, the test is not required, but the buyer will be informed that the health status of the animal is uncertain," said Dr. Beals. For several months earlier this year, TAHC commissioners and an appointed ad-hoc committee representing the equine industry struggled with this issue, he said.

Until 1997, about 80,000 Texas horses were tested for EIA each year. In the first five months of 1997, January through May, nearly 100,000 equine were tested during the EIA testing regulation "phase-in" period when voluntary compliance was requested, said Dr. Beals.

For information, call Carla Everett, public information officer at the TAHC, 512/719-0710.

Cotton

Nearly every field has suffered some damage, Heffington said. Still, many farmers left cotton in the ground hoping it would recover.

"It looks a little ragged, but I'm leaving it," said Tommy Kirk, who has 600 acres planted, mostly dryland. "It's trying hard more than anything."

Because of all the moisture — most of Bailey County has received at least 8 to 10 inches this year — Kirk believes his crop can recover.

Despite the damage, he hopes the clouds keep coming. Then, at least farmers have options, he said.

"Without moisture, there's no chance at all to make a (cotton) crop," said Kirk, who has farmed in Bula since 1964. "At least if we get some rain we have choices. We not always right, but you don't find that out until later."

Kirk remembers it was just a year ago when Bula didn't receive its first rain until June 24.

By that time, all the dryland farmers had already plowed under cotton and planted alternative crops.

"You have to learn to live through the bad ones," Kirk said.

The Bula area has had its share of bad ones lately, with only one dryland harvest — in 1994 — in the last five years. Drought was the biggest culprit the last two years.

In 1992, Bula had a beautiful crop working before an October hail storm wiped out every single plant just weeks before harvest.

Kirk said you have to live on faith to get by, but he wouldn't have it any other way.

"I don't know if I could be any happier doing anything else."

Water district riding wave of future with new web site

The High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 has launched an official site on the Internet's World Wide Web.

The provides links to information about the Water District, its programs and activities, water conservation information and other water-related web sites.

The High Plains Water District's web page is at the following address: (<http://www.hub.ofthe.net/hpwd>).

First appearing on June 9, the web site provides detailed information about various Water District programs and activities, such as the agricultural water conservation equipment loan program, the proper capping of open irrigation wells, the pre-plant soil moisture survey, and tailwater abatement.

Other links offer information about the High Plains Water District's organization, Board of Directors, and staff; the Ogallala Aquifer; news and meetings; and water conservation tips.

An electronic version of The Cross Section containing articles and graphics from the current issue of the Water District's monthly newsletter, and a precipitation enhancement page are currently under construction on the Water District's web page. These links should be fully operational in the next few weeks.

"Having a home page on the Internet allows more people to learn about the High Plains Water District, its water conservation programs, and other water-related information. We invite the public to use this web site to gain additional information about the District," said Carmon McCain, Information/Education Director.

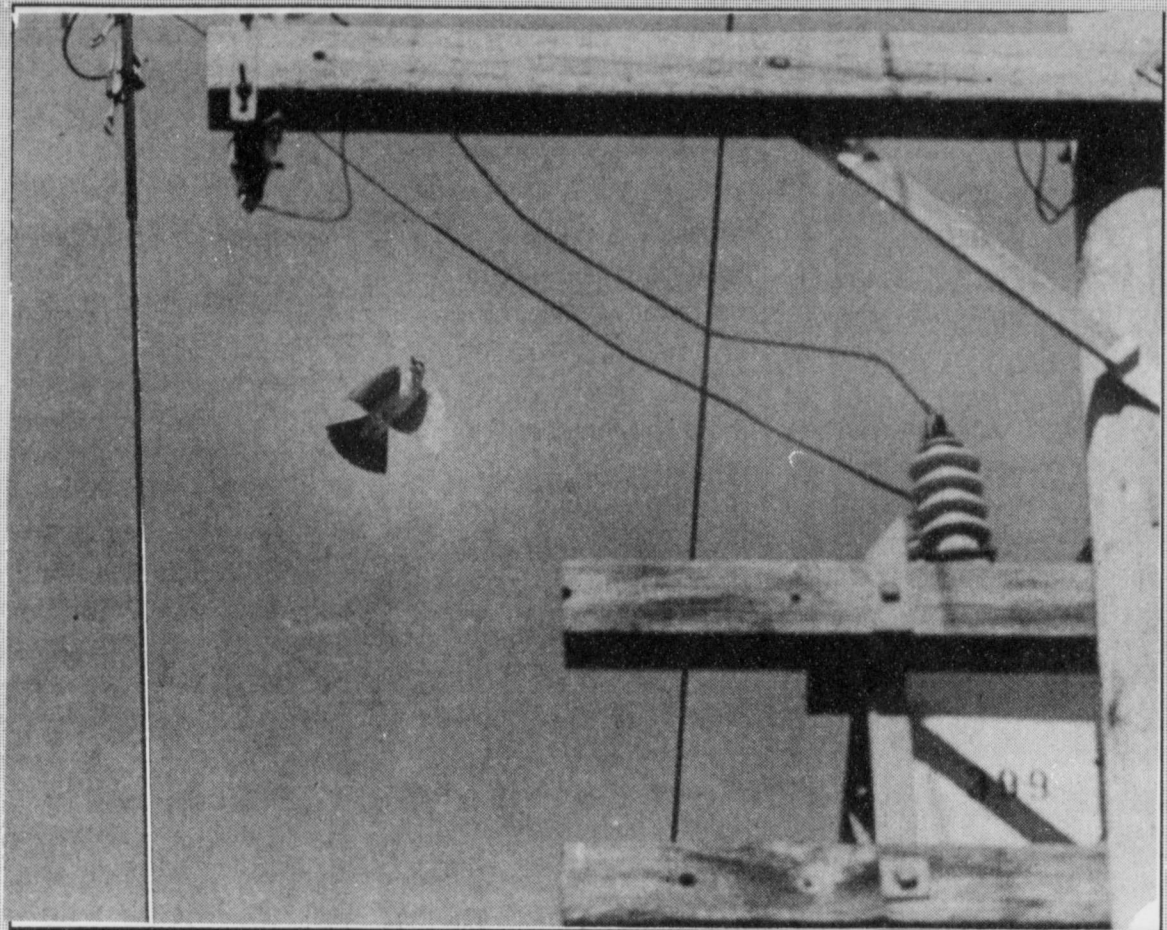

"As we expand our information services to include a World Wide Web site, we also realize that not everyone has access to the Internet. Therefore, the Water District will continue to publish The Cross Section, technical reports, brochures, and other printed materials. Both the on-line and printed information is designed to educate the public about their water resources and the methods to conserve them," he said.

In addition to the web site on the Internet, you can e-mail the Water District at (HPWD@worldnet.att.net).

"In addition to normal day-to-day correspondence, we have already had several Cross Section changes-of-address via e-mail," said Lynn Moseley, Information/Education Assistant. "E-mail is just one more way to communicate with the Water District office."

Additional information about the High Plains Water District's web page is available by contacting the Water District office at (806) 762-0181.

Combest opposes EPA ruling

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Rep. Larry Combest (R-Lubbock) expressed extreme concern for President Clinton's backing Wednesday of Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) dust standards, with science that was made up out of "thin air."

As House Agriculture Committee vice chairman, Combest's congressional hearings highlighted scientist's own criticism of EPA for being unable and unwilling to verify any health effects from the smallest of dust particles.

"Scientists have in effect told the EPA their tiny dust particle rule is made up out of thin air," said Combest. "I am extremely concerned that this costly and pointless plan to control dust in the air makes our way of life in agriculture a major loser. The president is unwisely backing this change in Clean Air rules that essentially says EPA now knows these tiniest of dust particles are out there, but they have no scientific reason to believe they are in any way harmful in the air. If even some of the American people might feel they will not be overburdened by a new costly change in EPA regulations, they are in for a rude awakening. I will do everything I can to counter this bad policy and bad science."

Combest noted that objection to the EPA tiny dust regulations has met strong opposition from both Republicans and Democrats in Congress, who have threatened to block the costly regulations.

Webb, a drummer, rounds out the Texas Tradition lineup.

Young will also perform as one of five fiddlers on the Joe's stage on July 5. He joins legends Bob Boatright and Frankie McWhorter, as well as rising star Ricky Boen and talented newcomer Valerie Moss Greene.

Anchoring the fourth day will be Jody Nix, whose twin-fiddle format and traditional western swing sound packs the Joe's Boot Shop Tent Sale year after year.

Jody is one of only two performers not original Texas Playboys that was asked to play on Bob Wills final album For the Last Time. Jody followed in the footsteps of his father Hoyle, who started the West Texas Cowboys.

Moving from the drums to the fiddle and the front of the stage following the death of his father, Jody has created a mix of pure traditional western swing and true country music.

A MORNING OF REFUGE

Wildlife Refuge manager Don Clapp at the start one of several nature trails

FAST FACTS

Created in 1935, the Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge is the oldest national wildlife refuge in Texas . . . The refuge covers 5,809 acres and includes three sink-type lakes . . . . . The biggest attraction is the overwintering of sandhill cranes . . . The refuge office is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The park is located 20 miles south of Muleshoe on Highway 214.

Still plenty to see in summer

Even though he's a wildlife officer, like most of us, Don Clapp doesn't get out of the office enough.

Clapp said with all the rain this spring, the Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge is as green as he's seen it since arrived in 1987. Still, two of the three lake in the 5,089 acre refuge are less than 50 percent full.

Even though the fall and spring are the best time to visit, a summer visit is still worthwhile.

The early morning hours or just before sunset offer are the best opportunity to see native wildlife, which includes bobcats, badgers, coyotes and more than 200 species or birds.

The biggest attraction remains the sandhill cranes, which use the reserve for overwintering habitat.

Editor's note: This is the fourth chapter of Hank the Cowdog, a book about the adventures of Hank, who is head of ranch security; Drover, his mutt sidekick; Slim a ranch hand; and Loper and Sally May, who own the ranch

Hank the Cowdog
CHAPTER 4
THE CASE OF THE DANCING COWBOY

Goats Don't eat Ketchup Bottles

By John R. Erickson

(In the previous chapter, Slim, a ranch hand, has decided he doesn't want to go to a dance on the ranch for several reasons, including that his hair has been partially burned off by an explosion while he was burning garbage. Hank the Cowdog is disappointed that Slim is passing up a chance to ask Miss Viola to the dance, because Hank likes Miss Viola. She likes dogs and especially likes him. But Hank's disappointment with Slim doesn't keep him from accepting an invitation to spend the night with Slim, especially when Slim offers him a can of sardines.)

I raced to the pickup. Slim hadn't gotten there yet to open the door but that was no big deal to me. Hey, if they don't open the door, I can always jump through the...

Bonk!
... window, if it happens to be open, but when it's not I'll usually wait for somebody to open the door, uh, door. Which is what I did this time. I want in no big rush.

Slim came along at his usual pace — cold molasses. At the pickup door, he leaned down and looked me in the eyes. "When the winder glass is rolled up, pooch, you can't jump through it."

Yes, I knew that.
"And what makes you think you deserve to ride up front with me anyways?"

Well, I ... at the time it had seemed ...
"You're just a dog, did you know that? Just a dog, and you're five bales short of a full load of brains."

I, uh, didn't know how to respond to that.
"You snap at ashes and you run rabbits and you try to leap through winder glass, and Hank, you're just dumb." He reached down and scratched me behind the ears. "But so am I, so I reckon you're pretty well matched." He opened the door.*n

"Get up, Einstein, we've got work to do."
I leaped into the pickup and took my position of honor in the seat. Then he called for Mister Stub Tail, who had come back down from the machine shed, the treacherous little ...

He came in a slow walk and had to be lifted into the pickup because of ... something. Short legs, tired blood, stunted growth, lack of ambition.

He took his place in the seat between us. Slim fired up the pickup and of we went on a new and exciting adventure.

"Where are we going?" Drover asked as we turned east on the county road.

"Because I answer that, Mister Weasel, I want some information out of you."

"Really? Gee, I hope I know the answer."

"You know the answer."

"Oh good. What's the question?"

"The question is, why did you suddenly vanish when Loper came down to the trash barrel?"

"Oh good. What's the question?"
"The question is, why did you suddenly vanish when Loper came down to the trash barrel?"
"Well, let me think here. I was worried about all that fire."
"That is a bald-headed lie, drover."
"That bad, huh?"
"Yes sir, that bad. You know very well why you left."

"Yeah, but if I told you, you'd get mad and shameful and chicken-hearted. I mean, snapping at ashes was your deal from the start. I was an innocent bystander who got involved by accident."

"Yeah, and accidents happen."
"But your leaving the scene of the accident was no accident, drover. You knew how stupid the whole thing looked and so you left me there to become the scapegoat of their laughingstock."

"I met a goat once. He ate rose bushes."
I glared daggers at the little mutt. "Don't try to change the subject."

"Just think about swallowing all those thorns."
"Don't tell me what to think. I don't care what goats eat."

"I've heard they'll eat tin cans."
"Drover, answer the question immediately."
His gaze wandered out the window. "I guess I forgot the question."

"The question, you moron, is ..." Hmmm, I seemed to have forgotten the question myself.
"Something about goats."

"Oh year, you asked me if I'd ever met a goat before." "I asked about goats?"

"You sure did, I heard you myself, and his name was Billy."

"Wait a minute, back up. Who was this Billy character?"

"He was a goat."
"Ah yes. Billy goat. I'm beginning to see a pattern unfolding here."

"And he ate tin cans and ketchup bottles."
"That's very interesting. They're amazing creatures, aren't they? Well, Drover, there's an important lesson here. If a goat can find nourishment in a ketchup bottle, many things are possible in this old world."

"Yeah, and we can all learn a lesson from that."

"Exactly." I blinked my eyes and shook my head. "I think I've been working too hard lately."
"Yeah, and being late to work is hardly working at all."

"I've noticed a certain scrambled pattern in my rain waves."
"Boy, I love scrambled eggs."

I stared at him for a moment. "And Drover, I'm beginning to suspect that talking to you has something to do with it."

Rules for good citizenship

Just as there are key rules and principles for living the Christian life—the Ten Commandments, the Beatitudes, the Golden Rule—there are also rules for citizenship and civic action. No formula will guarantee political success, but re-president after a 12-year reign of Republicans in the White House. The media hailed his administration as the next Camelot.

A short time later, Clinton was paralyzed by the gays in the military crisis and mistakes theology but it is not good politics.

In politics, the goal is 50 percent plus one. That means that we need to speak in a way that a majority of our fellow Americans will understand.

We believe the Bible is the inerrant word of God. It is without error and it tells us the answers to life's problems. But in a largely secular society, people don't necessarily believe as we believe.

When Ronald Reagan was asked why he was pro-life, he would refer to the 14th Amendment to the Constitution, recognizing that most Americans view the Constitution as a sacred document. He would explain that the 14th Amendment makes it clear that everyone has a right to life and that no one can be deprived of the right to life without due process of law.

As people who love God and who love this country, we should remember that governing is a spiritual issue about which we need to pray.

Opinion by Dr. Ralph E. Reed Jr.
Executive Director, Christian Coalition

membering these principles will increase your ability to get things done.

1) Your involvement in politics is a marathon, not a sprint. Don't think you can turn America around in one year or one election cycle. This country did not get into the trouble it's in overnight.

Consider every great social reform movement in the history of our nation. The Women's Christian Temperance Union was founded in 1837 and didn't pass its first national temperance law until 1914. The NAACP was founded in 1909, but its members didn't see a major civil rights bill succeed until 1947; desegregation wasn't achieved until 1964 and 1965.

2) An 80 percent friend is not a 20 percent enemy. There are very few people in politics with whom you will agree 100 percent of the time.

In 1995, Christian Coalition was working to ban Internet pornography. We believe that children like my 8-year-old daughter Brittany should not be able to get on a computer and with three clicks of a mouse be able to access hard-core and child pornography.

Many of our movement's good friends opposed that legislation. It finally came down to a conference committee with House and Senate members deciding whether or not the bill would go to the president. The bill cleared that conference committee by one vote. That winning vote was cast by liberal Democrat Pat Schroder of Colorado.

That experience serves as a reminder that there could very well come a time when a person that you never viewed as a friend could make the difference in whether you win or lose.

3) There is no substitute for a strong grassroots organization. You might have money, a brilliant candidate, a righteous and moral cause and sophisticated polling. But if you don't have a strong grassroots organization, you won't achieve permanent success.

One of Lee Atwater's first campaigns was for state senate candidate Carroll Campbell in Greenville, S.C. Atwater focused all of his energy on grassroots organizing in key counties and precincts. In an election in which Jimmy Carter swept the South in a landslide, Carroll Campbell won his district in a landslide.

Campbell was elected to the U.S. Congress in 1978 and then went on to become governor.

4) It is never as bad as you think it is when you lose and never as good as you think it is when you win. To be successful in politics, you can't have sky-rocketing highs and plummeting lows.

In 1992, Bill Clinton became the first Democratic by his White House. He had controversial cabinet nominees and a tax increase that was the largest in American history. His budget passed by only one vote. His efforts at health care reform blew up in his face. Two short years after his incredible victory, Bill Clinton presided over one of the worst defeats in the history of his party and the Republicans regained control of Congress.

5) Persuade, don't preach. There is a bumper sticker that is very popular among conservative evangelical—"The Bible says it, I believe it, and that settles it." It may be good

Alternatives for failed cotton crop

AMARILLO — Untimely rains, hail and wind storms have caused some cotton producers to consider replanting to an alternative crop, according to Dr. Brent Bean, agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center.

Bean said growers might consider one of several crop alternatives following cotton, such as sorghum, soybeans, sunflowers, or dry beans.

"Producers who are thinking about sorghum may have some difficulty in locating seed due to the unusually short seed supply this year," he said. Hybrid selection for late planted sorghum is an important consideration. "Sorghum planting may range from late April to early July, depending on the maturity class of the hybrid," Bean noted.

In general, a medium-to-full season hybrid should not be planted after June 15. The cut-off date for a medium maturity hybrid would be June 20 through June 30, while short season hybrids could be planted up to July 10, depending upon the hybrid and how far south in the Panhandle or South Plains the field is located.

Producers who plant late sorghum should be aware that midge infestations and other insects may be a problem, and be prepared to apply insecticides if needed, the specialist cautioned.

Cotton herbicide carryover is often a potential problem in planting sorghum. Treflan, Prowl, Caparol, Cotoran, Karmex and staple soil residues can all injure sorghum.

Soybeans may be a good replacement crop for cotton in irrigated areas, the agronomist said. Soybeans require about 80 percent of the water amount needed to grow corn for tip yields. The optimum planting date for soybeans is prior to Herbicide residues of Treflan, Prowl, or Dual will have no effect on soybeans, said Bean. If Caparol, Cotoran, or Karmex has been used, at least three or four inches of soil will need to be removed before establishing a seed furrow. Bean suggested if Staple has been applied consider planting an STS soybean variety.

Another alternative crop Bean suggested is sunflowers. Planted as late as mid-July they can still make a good yield.

"Thanks, Hank."
"Because trying to carry on an intelligent conversation with you would scramble anyone's brain waves. You see, I really don't care about goats."
"Me neither."
"Or what they eat."
"Oh, they'll eat anything."
"And since neither one of us seems to care about goats or what they eat, why don't we just drop the subject and never talk about it again?"

"Fine with me. Where are we going?"

"Insane, Drover."
"I'll be durned. I've never been there before."

"Ha! You've been there so long, you can't find your way back home."

"Yeah, and I'm already missing the machine shed."

Bruce Vladeck said. "We are excited about putting these computers in the hands of beneficiaries so they can access information on HCFA's web site. The "Computers for Seniors" program will be valuable asset for beneficiaries.

Senior centers must apply for the computers. Copies of the announcement, including application procedures, can be obtained by calling the Dallas Regional Office at (214) 767-2628. All applications must be received in the Dallas Regional Office by July 18, 1997.

The HCFA web site is located at www.hcfa.gov.

"Drover?"

"Yes?"

"Shut. Up. Now."

At last he shut up and I was able to concentrate on what we were doing and where we were going.

We drove down the county road until we came to Slim's mailbox. He pulled over and checked the box. He leafed through the contents — two grocery store circulars, a picture show calendar, an appeal for contributions from the Polio Foundation, and a giveaway offer from somebody who promised to make him rich.

He didn't waste much time on the grocery store circulars and he got a good chuckle out of the appeal for funds.

"If they're writing me for money, they have definitely come to the goat's house to get wool."

Goats? I shot a glance at Drover to see if he would pick up on it. He wasn't listening.

Good. I had heard and said everything about goats that I ever wanted to hear or say, and I didn't believe that baloney about goats eating ketchup bottles anyway.

Goats don't eat ketchup bottles.

"The Day the Squirrel Came To Church"

We had a squirrel show up at church last week. What do you mean, you did, too, and some names come to mind? That's tacky.

I had no idea that Ray Steven's "Mississippi Squirrel Revival" might have such a basis in fact. Ours would have been in Texas, of course, and the squirrel was more of a prairie dog-type

Focus On Faith

Curtis Shelburne

critter, but he was indeed in the church and none too happy about it.

I heard Mary, the good lady who cleans for us, calling, "Curtis, you maybe should come look at this!" and, recognizing some unusual urgency in her voice, I peeked around the corner. "Is that your animal?"

No, it was not. My family doesn't even own a dog right now. (And though I love dogs, in theory, and think, in theory, that people who don't like them are probably flawed characters, I've found that in practice we're not very good at caring for them. I've also found that loving dogs in theory is a great deal easier than loving the one that's destroying your back yard. So I'm quite content to be sans canine. For years I had an aquarium at the church, but I've long since decided that the best fish for me would be the electronic sort that swim back and forth across computer screens.

No, I don't keep critters at the church—canine, feline, aquatic, or otherwise.

But there he was. It took me a second to spot him, but, sure enough, there was an animal in the foyer, cowering in the corner.

I immediately had a flashback to our last summer's vacation when I spent hours one fine morning trying to coax a truly confused raccoon out of the loft and off the premises of an A-frame cabin. The good news was that this little guy cowering near the door seemed even more interested in taking his leave than I was in inviting him out.

And I did want him out. Verses from Ray Steven's song kept playing in my head reminding me that I really didn't want a squirrel playing in the sanctuary during a service.

I figured I could either open the doors and encourage him out with a gentle push of a broom, or I could just preach to him a while and carry him out comatose.

I chose the broom. It was safer for the squirrel. For the first time ever, we ran a visitor out of the church. But it'll never happen again. Show up Sunday, and you'll be welcome. No brooms.

Curtis Shelburne is minister of the 16th & D Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THE WORK-HORSE OF THE NILE!

THESE BROAD-BEAMED VESSELS, CALLED NAGGARS, CAN STILL BE SEEN ON THE RIVER NILE, JUST AS THEY WERE WHEN THE BABY MOSES WAS SENT DRIFTING DOWN THE RIVER, IN AN ARK WOVEN OUT OF BULLRUSHES, THOUSANDS OF YEARS AGO. THESE STURDY BOATS ARE LOADED WITH CARGO UNTIL THEY ARE NEARLY AWASH IN THE WATER AND SLOWLY MAKE THEIR WAY TO MARKET — IF THERE IS NO WIND, THE MEN LINE UP ON SHORE WITH ROPES AND PULL THE VESSELS ALONG — AS IN SO MANY OF THE "BIBLE" LANDS, THE OLD WAYS ARE STILL CARRIED ON IN THE FACE OF MODERN PROGRESS!
