Bucs Lead 3-2 In Games Won

Pirates, 5 Yanks, 2

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Pittsburgh Pirates moved to within one victory of their first world championship since 1925 today when Gil McDougald's second-inning error paved the way for two unearned runs and a 5-2 triumph over the New York Yankees in the fifth game of the World Series.

Harvey Haddix received credit for the victory but Elroy Face, brilliant relief hero of the Pirates, came out of the bullpen in the seventh inning to choke off a Yankee rally and then shut out New York in the eighth and ninth. Face has "saved" all three Pirate victories in the series.

Pirates First: Virvon fouled out. Howard Groat flied to Cerv. Clemente bounced to Kubek who threw him out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees First: Hoak made a rare handed pickup of McDougald's bunt and threw him out. M. is grounded out. It was a hit for Cerv and an error for Hoak. Mantle was purposely passed. Skowron struck out. No runs, one hit, one error, two left.

Pirates Second: Stuart rifled Edmar's first pitch between McDougald and Kubek for a single. Cimoli forced Stuart at second. Burgess doubled. Hoak grounded out. Kubek who threw to McDougald dropped the ball for an error. Cimoli scoring and Hoak going to second. Mazeroski doubled, scoring Burgess and Hoak. Edmar was taken out and replaced by Arroyo.

Yankees Second: Howard doubled. Richardson grounded out. Haddix grounded out. Howard scoring. Groat threw out Arroyo. One run, one hit, no errors, none left.

Pirates Third: Groat doubled. Clemente singled, scoring Groat. Stafford replaced Arroyo. Stuart popped to McDougald. Cimoli flied to Mantle. Burgess grounded out. One run, two hits, no errors, one left.

Yankees Third: McDougald grounded out. Maris hit a home run. Cerv grounded out. Mantle walked. Skowron flied to Clemente. One run, one hit, no errors, one left.

Driver Killed Near White Deer
Alton G. Anderson, 26, of Route Sweetwater, Okla., was killed Friday morning when he failed to negotiate a curve on highway 60 some six miles west of White Deer.

Sgt. E. G. Albers of the Texas Highway Patrol, said the fatal crash occurred on the curving stretch of highway at Cuyler Lake.

Nixon Charges Demos Will Up Taxes, Prices
By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press International
BILLINGS, Mont. (UPI)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon intended his campaign against Sen. John F. Kennedy today with a charge that a Democratic victory in November would inevitably lead to "higher taxes and higher prices."

Starting a campaign day at a street rally in Billings, and ending on the way to Denver and Salt Lake City, the Republican presidential candidate said Kennedy was advocating spending programs that would cost Americans billions of dollars more than they now spending for federal government.

He said higher prices and increased federal taxation were the result of the Republican presidential candidate intends to make his campaign against Kennedy progressively rougher, and this strategy apparent in statements over the weekend.

He made a particularly sharp attack on Kennedy's farm program in LaCrosse, Wis., Saturday, envisioning farmers going to jail or paying heavy fines for violating stringent quota systems necessary to make the Democratic plan work.

In a statement issued Sunday night in Billings where Nixon spent a relatively quiet weekend nursing a mild cold, the vice president said, "My opponent is inventing issues where in fact they do not exist." He said spending programs envisioned by the senator would involve "return to runaway inflation or increased federal taxation on the American people."

The chief Nixon target this week was California and her 22 million people. (See NIXON, Page 2)

Week Gets Off To Bad Start
A fire that consumed some 500 bales of hay Sunday morning saw Fire Prevention Week in this area get away to a poor start.

The hay burned on the Sam McLaughlin farm, one-half mile north and three miles east of Laketon.

Fire Chief Ernest Winborne said the McLaughlin told him that he was burning trash and that the flames were blown to the hay stack and he couldn't extinguish it. Firemen could not save the hay and concentrated on saving the barns nearby.

Estimated cost of the fire was in excess of $500.

Soviet Leader Would Welcome 'Summit' With Election Winner

Communist Bloc Ready For Finale

Arms Cut Is Big Objective

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The Soviet bloc and its allies today lined up Nikita Khrushchev and one of his best friends in Africa to close out the summit phase of the U.N. General Assembly with attacks on the West and demands for arms cuts.

As the fourth week of the assembly session opened leaving President Sekou Toure of Guinea readied a two-hour address that was expected to side with Soviet arguments on the Congo.

Toure, educated in Moscow and Prague, arrived in New York last week from his West African capital at Conakry after having visited Moscow and Peiping for "friendly" talks.

Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir, a onetime Milwaukee, Wis., schoolteacher was listed as last speaker in the day's general debate.

Khrushchev asked to be first speaker at a night session on disarmament to espouse again his "total and complete" disarmament plan.

He lined up support from Czech and Bulgarian speakers to buttress his arguments against planned counter-attacks by Canada and the United States which insist that before there can be disarmament there first must be foolproof inspection and control.

Guerrillas Keep Fidel Army Busy
HAVANA (UPI)—Hundreds of anti-Castro guerrillas still are operating in Cuba despite government reports that 149 have been captured in month-long military operations in Las Villas and Oriente provinces, informed sources said today.

The Cuban army announced that 102 rebels and 32 "sympathizers" were rounded up in the Sierra de Escambray in Las Villas. It said a large quantity of U.S.-made weapons, including machineguns and anti-aircraft and anti-tank guns, was confiscated.

An American, identified only as Tony Salvard, was reported captured along with 14 others in an "invasion force" which landed in Oriente last week from the United States.

Premier Fidel Castro promised to report by television and radio to the Cuban people today on "the operations of the group of gangsters and Yankee mercenaries that landed in Oriente Province."

Today is a national holiday in Cuba—"Grito Yara"—commemorating the 1933 revolution. (See GUERRILLAS, Page 3)

MEN FROM NIGERIA MEET IKE — Prime Minister Abubakar Tafawa Balewa of Nigeria and other high officials from that nation met with President Eisenhower in the White House last week. The President has invited representatives of all newly admitted U.N. members—15 African states and Cyprus—to meet with him Friday, his 70th birthday anniversary.

'Sunday Bomber' Hits Again In New York

NEW YORK (UPI)—Police doubled their vigilance in public places and pressed a full-scale hunt today for a phantom "Sunday bomber" who twice has set off blasts in the heart of the city.

The latest homemade bomb exploded outside the New York Public Library Sunday, nine blocks from Duffy Square where a similar explosion injured six persons the previous Sunday almost to the minute. There were no injuries in the second explosion.

A hole one foot deep and two feet wide was torn in shrubbery outside the south end of the library, 100 feet from the corner of Fifth Ave. and 40th Street.

Windows were smashed as high as the fourth floor of several nearby buildings. The library suffered no damage.

Police ordered increased patrols of public places and a search for several suspicious persons seen in the area shortly before the explosion, including a man with a "frightened look on his face and long black hair."

This description came from a woman who was leaving the library when the explosion occurred. Another man sitting in an automobile parked nearby said he saw several suspicious youths standing near the 40th Street side of the huge library.

Police described the explosive as a low-grade of black powder, apparently wrapped in paper and similar to the bomb which shattered the Sunday calm of Duffy Square a week ago. The Duffy Square bomb did more damage and resulted in the injuries to six persons.

The library was a favorite target of George Metesky, the "mad bomber of Manhattan" who was caught in 1957 after setting 31 homemade bombs in 15 years. Metesky now is in a mental institution.

Texas Fliers Due In Pampa
An invasion of at least 50 private planes — all friendly — will arrive in Pampa at 4:30 p.m. tomorrow for the first overnight stop in Pampa of the All-Texas Air Tour.

The Chamber of Commerce Aviation Committee will have buses and autos meet the incoming aviators at Perry Lefors Field from where they will be taken to hotels. The fliers will leave at 9 a.m. Wednesday for their next stop at Childress.

While in the city, the aviators will be guests at a dinner dance at the Coronado Inn's Starlight Room at 7 p.m. tomorrow.

Approximately 140 are expected for the dinner dance. E. O. Wedgeworth, chamber manager, said today. Of that number, at least 85 will be fliers from other cities. Mayor Ed Myatt will be master of ceremonies at the dinner.

Entry Deadline
Wednesday has been set as the deadline for entry in Pampa Value Days, Frank Smith, chairman of the Merchant's Activities Committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, said today.

The project will be held Oct. 20-21-22.

U.N. Rushes Troops To Katanga District To Halt Riots, Killing

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — The United Nations command rushed Ethiopian troops by emergency airlift to the Katanga region of Katanga Province today to put down rioting that has taken the lives of at least eight Europeans.

The reports said some of the Europeans appeared to have been tortured before they were killed.

Here in the capital, army strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu was expected to crack down on deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba who toured the city Sunday calling his followers to rally around him.

But so many top politicians have defected from Lumumba's ranks that Mobutu was reported considering recalling parliament to install President Joseph Kasavubu's appointee, Joseph Ileo, as premier.

Most of the defectors have cited Lumumba's dependence on the Communists and his appeals to Moscow and Peiping for aid as their reasons for quitting him.

JFK Warmly Welcomed At F. D. Roosevelt Shrine
WARM SPRINGS, Ga. (UPI) — Sen. John F. Kennedy won a warm Southern welcome today at this health shrine where Franklin Roosevelt worked and died. He marked his visit with criticism of Vice President Richard Nixon and a health program of his own.

Thousands of Georgians, mixing with wheelchair patients in the piney woods outside FDR's Little White House, gave Kennedy a heartwarming welcome.

The Democratic presidential nominee spoke from the steps of the clapboard house on a hillside.

If it comes from a hardware store, we have it. Lewis Hardware.

In Unrehearsed Talk On 'Live' TV Show

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev, preparing to return Thursday to Russia, welcomed today a summit meeting with the winner of the American presidential election, "whoever he may be."

Khrushchev said furthermore he was "sure" that such a meeting with Vice President Richard M. Nixon or Sen. John F. Kennedy would take place.

The Soviet premier appeared for more than two hours Sunday night on the live television program "Open End" and did not refuse to answer any of the unrehearsed questions. His replies to interrogator David Susskind were largely repetitious and long-winded and his mood ranged from the jocular to the angry.

But he made these points: —Called for an arms embargo under which "no state should sell any nation arms." From the line of questioning he indicated he specifically meant an embargo of arms to African nations. "Why give them arms," he said. "Better to give them bread and machines."

—Gave his "categorical" pledge that the Soviet Union will never start a war—"So you can sleep in peace."

—Rejected heatedly President Eisenhower's challenge to a worldwide plebiscite on whether men prefer Communism or Western democracy.

—Said it was a "wild idea" that Berlin could lead to nuclear war but insisted Russia would sign a peace treaty with East Germany. He said West Berlin could continue to live under capitalism with its Western contacts.

—Insisted the RB47 bomber was shot down over Russian territory and refused the idea of an international arbitration body making an inquiry.

—Said he was going home Thursday.

Khrushchev was scheduled to make tonight what is expected to be his last major address to the United Nations General Assembly at this session.

He was expected to concentrate on disarmament, charges of "aggression" against the United States and a call for "immediate independence" for all colonial areas—an idea he again advanced Sunday night.

Khrushchev will fly back to Moscow on a Russian jet plane instead of returning on the liner Baltika.

One Killed In Train Crash
MEMPHIS, Tex. (UPI)—A Fort Worth and Denver passenger train rounded a curve and smashed into the rear of a freight train today, killing one railroad man and injuring three others.

The dead man was C. E. Hargis, 62, of Amarillo, the engineer of the passenger train. The injured included his fireman, F. E. Lovelady, a conductor, Dave West, and a dining car porter, L. B. West. Four or five passengers were shaken up and bruised, but none was hurt seriously.

The passenger train rammed into the caboose on the freight, then splintered two boxcars ahead of the caboose. The wreck happened about 3:15 a.m., near U.S. Highway 287 and about 400 yards from the Memphis depot.

M. G. Monaghan, general manager for the Burlington Lines in Fort Worth, said the railroad would conduct an investigation to determine why the freight train happened to be on the tracks when the passenger train was due. It goes through Memphis at the same time every morning.

VoAg Farm Request To School Panel

Explain Need By PHS

The possibility of Pampa High School's vocational agriculture class having an experimental farm was set forth today in a report to the Pampa School Board by Jack Edmondson, assistant superintendent of schools, noting that the some 50 students in the class have no place to conduct their projects.

The class had been conducting its pig projects in the green barns at the Top O' Texas Rodeo Grounds, but recently rodeo officials have remodeled the barns into stables for rental to Pampa residents.

The youngsters have been getting a lot of cooperation from farmers of the area," said Edmondson, "but Bob Skaggs, the class instructor, feels it would be better to have all the projects together."

There was talk of contacting the City Commission about a long-term lease of a part of the property the city holds—that once was an Air Force base, some five miles south of the city.

Edmondson noted that if the property could be obtained at the former air base site, which includes a city well that would make water easily available to the project, it would be a help. However, he noted that the site is well away from the city, while the rodeo grounds are close by "and that is where the class holds its four yearly shows."

The board advised Edmondson to look into the cost of the construction of pig pens and report back as to where such an installation could be located.

The board also entered into a lengthy discussion on placing all printing, forms, report cards, etc., up for public bid by interested firms.

Gene Green, board chairman, said after Edmondson had told the panel of the various difficulties involved in preparation of the printed materials, that he believed it was the board's duty to place everything up for bid, since "we are dealing with the people's money and it could be this could save on printing costs."

Edmondson, when asked the annual cost to the school for printing, said, "About $3,000."

He again noted that some of the printed items pay for themselves through advertisements and that this does not involve school board finances.

Green, asked if all the printing could be lumped together and put up for bid at one time, Edmondson said, "Hardly."

"Some of these forms are copy righted by the firms preparing them. They have been worked up over the years and we feel that they are what we require," explained Edmondson.

Green then suggested that those interested in bidding on different printing needs of the school system be informed of what is required and the problems involved in printing of school materials.

The board also approved the yearly audit, but tabled the matter until the next meeting until members of the auditing firm can meet with the board and explain some of the questions board members would like to have answered.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 1960-61 business recession will be the "acid test" for the textile industry, states the Value Line investment survey.

It will provide a way to determine whether this industry has strengthened its fundamental position enough to substantially lessen the extent of profits erosion during a business downturn.

But, Value Line points out, the textile business has made important progress toward this goal in the last five years.

The industry's capacity now is in much better alignment with overall demand because of the elimination of many marginal producers and a shift in the makeup of the population toward building up the young adult market.

While the business picture seems to have a way to go before it completes its "adjustment," the situation is not as bad as one might infer from much of the foreboding sentiment circulating, says Thomson & McKinnon. The next economic impetus may well hinge on the spending plans of the consumer and the government, it adds.

Reynolds & Co. recommends American Steel Foundries as "attractive investment value."

The manner in which management has demonstrated its ability to maintain profit margins in periods of adverse business conditions augurs well for record high earnings, the advisory service believes.

Bache & Co. says the oil industry's improved price trend in the third quarter should result in "reasonably good" earnings statements—particularly in comparison with poor reports which can be expected from other groups.

As the outlook for stock prices for the balance of 1960, it appears that the rather steep market correction which has taken place since January has largely discounted the adverse business news, according to Amott, Baker & Co. However, the wait-and-see policy of many individual and institutional investors, it points out, could prevent any significant rise in market prices until there is some more encouraging news, economic or otherwise.

ever-widening of drive-in installations being developed for the convenience of the American consumer.

The drive-in bank, where the customer can make a deposit, withdrawal, loan payment or cash a check without leaving his car is the most common retail application of these installations today.

While the convenience factor is weighted for the customer, banks derive some comfort in that lobby traffic at peak periods is reduced and independent units are provided that may be opened before and remain open after regular banking hours.

Protective features of these banking windows are attracting wider applications in other retail establishments, according to Raymond Kooztz, president of Diebold, Inc., manufacturer of vaults, safes and other bank and office equipment.

Drug stores, dry cleaners and utilities, among other retail operations, use these windows to solve similar problems while providing protective features not generally available.

Retail clerks, like bank tellers, now are protected by a sheath of bullet-resistant glass and bullet-proof steel, as well as alarm systems, all of which serve to reduce holdups drastically.

Retailers, as well as bankers, find that these drive-in installations reduce time for transactions, and that real estate is used more efficiently, especially in the downtown areas, according to the Canton, Ohio, executive.

A recent survey indicates some 900 new shopping centers will be opened this year, averaging one bank branch a center and at least one drive-in window a branch.

And during the next 15 years, 8,000 new shopping centers are expected to be opened, indicating the scope of the future market in banking.

It may not be too far off, according to Kooztz, "when a person can drive into town to pick up his license plates, pay his taxes and utility bills, return library books, pick up a prescription, take the family out to dinner, and see a movie, without leaving his car.

Government Has Backlog Of Oil Cases

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
 United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government has 16 major anti-trust cases pending against oil companies.

This was disclosed in a summary prepared by general counsel Donald A. O'Hara of the National Petroleum Association for members of the refiners' organization.

Nine of the cases are before the Federal Trade Commission and seven are being prosecuted by the attorney general. O'Hara said there had been no important developments in any of the Justice Department cases since the government suffered a sharp defeat last spring in the famous Tulsa price-fixing case.

He said the FTC case load, concerned primarily with price fixing, price discrimination and kindred marketing abuses, was reduced from 11 to 9 when the commission dismissed charges that some refiners sought to monopolize oil and grease business through equipment loans and other services to independent retailers, such as auto dealers.

In six of the pending FTC cases, O'Hara continued, the commission makes three general charges: Creation of commission or consignment stations is a legal fiction to permit the supplier to control the retail price of gasoline; granting of temporary voluntary allowances or other discounts to certain dealers in violation of the Robinson-Patman Price-Discrimination Act; cutting prices in one area without reducing them elsewhere.

O'Hara said there had been no decision on area-wide price reductions but he pointed out that the Supreme Court held such reductions illegal in the Anheuser-Busch case.

Topping his summary was the famous "Cartel" case brought eight years ago during the Truman administration. This accuses five major companies of raising domestic oil prices by restricting imports and at the same time hurting domestic production with excessive imports. This case, reduced from a criminal to a civil charge, is still in the pre-trial stage.

On the FTC docket, O'Hara cited a Pure Oil Co. case and remarked that it "may have a greater impact on oil marketing practices than any other pending case."

Pure is charged with selling gasoline to all its Birmingham, Ala., dealers at a tank wagon price which allegedly permitted them to post a retail price 1 cent per gallon above unbranded competitors. This was less than the price charged other Alabama dealers. An FTC examiner upheld the charges and recommended an order which, O'Hara said, apparently would require a uniform, nationwide price.

He said the order would prohibit Pure from discriminating "by a price reduction in any market where Pure is in competition with any other seller, unless it proportionately reduces its prices everywhere for the same quantity of gasoline."

In 1855, Joshua Stoddard of Worcester, Mass., received a patent for the first calliope in history.

Inveterate Lawbreaker Sought By FBI

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Charles Francis Higgins, an inveterate lawbreaker known as "Spider," was placed on the FBI's list of 10 most wanted criminals today.

The 54-year-old fugitive has been on the loose since July 28, 1959, when he broke out of a Colorado prison where he was serving a sentence for robbery.

Higgins has a record of violence both in prison and out. The FBI warns he is probably armed and must be considered "extremely dangerous."

The wanted man is described as a "fast-traveling and elusive escape artist with a violent nature and many aliases." He has arrest records in California, Florida, Michigan and Missouri as well as Colorado.

His violence has cropped out in such episodes as the attempted shooting of a taxi driver, an effort to kidnap a man and two elderly women during a get-away, the stabbing of a fellow prison inmate and a plot to smuggle guns and dynamite into prison for an escape attempt.

Before the arguments begin, the court will announce which of several hundred appeals filed during the summer will be accepted for review. Most will be rejected.

The first two cases to be heard today test the constitutionality of the so-called "membership clause" of the Smith anti-Communist act. The court attacked this issue last term but scheduled it for re-hearing.

Discussion Of Constitutional Amendments On Jaycee Agenda

A discussion of the four constitutional amendments coming up for Texas voter decision Nov. 8 will be featured at the weekly meeting of the Pampa Jaycees tomorrow. The speaker will be Arthur Lamb, Amarillo attorney.

Lamb's talk will be based on the fact that in a national election year all voters are concerned with national issues, while issues that tend to be ignored. Since it is natural for voters to say "no" to these talks are being given to community and civic clubs throughout the state to insure that the public will be well informed on election day.

Amendments No. 1 and No. 2 are of a non-controversial nature. Amendment No. 1 pertains to the establishment of a hospital district for Tarrant County and Amendment No. 2 has to do with the payment of interest on bonds issued for the purchase of land by war veterans.

Amendment No. 3 will be of interest to voters all over the state since it involves the readjustment of salaries for our state legislators.

Amendment No. 4 has attracted considerable interest throughout the state since it pertains to a law to curb the loan shark activity in Texas. This amendment is

Truman Politics In Texas For Kennedy At Texarkana

TEXARKANA, Tex. (UPI)—Former President Harry S. Truman campaigned for Democratic presidential nominee John F. Kennedy in Texas today and charged a Republican administration with "an Alice in Wonderland approach to government in perilous times."

In remarks prepared for delivery at a noon luncheon in Texarkana for Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., Truman said "with the Republicans, things are never what they seem at all. And they are not what you would expect."

The 76-year-old former chief executive accused the Republicans of doing "quite a propaganda job" of the voters in 1952. They told

Administrator Quits Post At Houston

HOUSTON (UPI)—Dr. Henry A. Petersen, the controversial president of the Houston School Board, announced 90 minutes before the midnight filing deadline Sunday night that he won't seek re-election.

Dr. Petersen, who has served on the school board for nearly 23 years, said he wanted to devote "more time to my family and grandchildren." He has served on the board longer than any other person.

Six more candidates filed for the four vacancies on the board before the deadline Sunday night, making a total of 29 in the school board race.

Dr. Petersen is known politically as a conservative and bitterly opposed integration of Houston schools. But it was during the past year, while he was president of the board, that integration actually started in the public school system here.

Under direct orders of Federal Judge Ben Connally, Houston's first grades were desegregated by about a half dozen Negro students. The school board, under Petersen's leadership, fought integration in the courts, taking their case several times to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Senior Citizen Day At Fair

DALLAS (UPI)—Texas' senior citizens were honored today at the State Fair of Texas, which observed Golden Age Day and Jubilee Day.

The Jubilee Day celebration was in honor of fairgoers who attended any of the first five State Fairs from 1886 to 1890. As part of the Golden Age Day commemoration, all persons 65 or older were admitted free.

Mayor R. L. Thornton of Dallas and other prominent senior citizens were scheduled to speak in a special program at the Hall of State Auditorium, and a lunch was planned in the Women's Building Texas for persons who attended the first Fair 75 years ago.

The nightly "Shower of Stars" program in the Cotton Bowl will feature a performance by 17-year-old James (Texas Shorty) Chancellor, the world's champion fiddler, and an appearance by singer Nelson Eddy.

Sunday's attendance at the Fair was 184,894, slightly more than the 184,749 persons who attended on the same day last year. Attendance to date is 399,726.

The principal talk of the evening was made by Paul Endacott, president of Phillips. W. W. Keeler, executive vice president, presided as toastmaster. Guests included wives or husbands of the honored employees, department heads and other top Phillips officials.

Twenty-five year honorees included: Luie S. Thygeson, Cleo Coffey, Louis J. Perry and Hubert M. Stone—all of Pampa; Thomas F. Kenney of Perryton; George W. Williamson and John P. Hendrickson, both of Skellytown.

Hit-Run Driver Kills Boy Cyclist

HOUSTON (UPI)—A 13-year-old Negro boy was struck and killed Sunday night by a hit-run car while riding his bicycle on the shoulder of a road near his home.

Dead was Levi Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Booker Wright.

Witnesses said the car carried the boy's body on the hood nearly 400 feet. Then, witnesses said, the driver backed up quickly, dumped the body onto the street and raced off.

Police said the boy was riding his bicycle about 10 feet from the pavement on the shoulder when the car swerved out and hit him from behind.

Super Sleuths Can't Even Arrest Anyone

By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The weather, unfortunately, was too warm for a trench coat, but by turning up my jacket collar I was able to look appropriately inconspicuous as I sidled into the building on Pennsylvania Avenue.

After a furtive glance down the corridor to make certain I wasn't being followed, I pressed the "down" button by the elevator door and stepped back into the shadows, pretending to be preoccupied with a hangnail.

It was a clever ruse designed to mislead any international criminals who might be lurking about. I really wanted to go up. The trick worked, too. At least, it fooled the elevator operator.

It took only half a minute for the elevator to respond to my signal but to me, standing there exposed in the open lobby, the wait seemed like 30 seconds.

"Even, please," I said cryptically, using the code number which meant I wanted to be taken to the 11th floor. The operator looked baffled for a moment, but got the message. Giving me a hard look, she reversed directions and blasted off, muttering to herself.

In a trice, I was despoiled outside a small conference room and in another trice I was face to face with Messrs. Marcel Sicot and Jean Nepote, secretary general and deputy secretary, respectively, of the International Criminal Police Organization (Interpol).

What happened after that was just a gradual process of disillusionment. It was enough to destroy a man's faith in television.

Messrs. Sicot and Nepote, who have their headquarters in Paris, are in town for the 29th annual Interpol conference being held here this week. Since the sessions are closed to the press, they thoughtfully held a news conference to help quench the curiosity of us journalists.

Right away, M. Sicot disabused us of any notion that Interpol maintains a staff of super-sleuths who go slithering around the globe solving crimes that had baffled the local gumshoes.

Interpol, he explained, is mostly a clearing house for information that might be of interest to police in its member countries. It couldn't arrest anyone even if the culprit walked in and confessed.

This was so blatant a contradiction of what I had been seeing in a TV serial based on Interpol that I suspected M. Sicot was pulling our legs. Thinking I might trap him, I asked whether he had ever seen one of these shows.

M. Sicot promptly favored us

Truck Driver Burned To Death

HOUSTON (UPI)—Billie M. Jordan, 32-year-old Negro truck driver, was burned to death Sunday when his truck caught fire after being struck by an automobile.

Driver of the car was Mrs. Emilia Saucedo, 28. She was charged in Justice W. C. Ragan's court with murder by auto and was released in bond.

Police said a witness, identified as Hugh A. Knox Jr., 50, said Mrs. Saucedo's car ran a red light and struck Jordan's truck.

Both vehicles overturned and the truck caught fire immediately. Jordan was trapped in the wreck and his body was burned beyond recognition, Mrs. Saucedo was not seriously hurt.

Yarborough On Kennedy Panel

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. John F. Kennedy has named Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., to his natural resources advisory committee.

Kennedy's headquarters said Yarborough was named because of his special interest in water and conservation problems.

"The committee will have an important role in the campaign clarifying issues in this field, which have been retarded and neglected by the Eisenhower-Nixon administration."

"The committee will then make the recommendations for an action policy on natural resources for my administration," Kennedy said.

UF Nearer Goal After Meet Today

Reports received this morning at the Pampa-Lefors United Fund coffee report in Cabot Auditorium of the Hughes Building, pushed the donations and pledges to $17,675.81, according to Mrs. Elsie Gee of the United Fund office.

This leaves the halfway mark well away and Melvin Munn, chairman of the drive, is beginning to wonder of the campaigners will reach the 50 per cent mark of the $68,746 goal by Saturday, which had been his hope.

A report at 11:30 a.m. today from Mrs. Gee pushed the total to $17,844.11.

The campaign has been hard pushed since its beginning Oct. 30, and drive leaders and volunteers have determined to expend every effort to reach the goal not later than the Oct. 31 deadline.

Fashions designed to light up the evening this autumn are done in rich, glowing fabrics and colors. The ensemble, an American favorite, is done (left) in red silk satin. Sheath dress with wide, set-in band at waistline is topped by cut with three-tier sash belt, deep V neckline and wing cuffs. These are all full cut lined in a harmonizing flower print. Party dress with demure look (center) actually has its full share of sophistication. It's done in bright red silk satin, has full, stiff skirt. The girl who dotes on a sheath will love this one (right). This is an easy, elegant dress in brocaded gold silk lame. It's cut with three-tier sash belt, deep V neckline and wing cuffs. These are all Raffaele designs. Because they are both practical and pretty, anyone of them could be indispensable to a fall wardrobe.

Dear Abby... Star Ardor Is Out Of Order

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A young couple married in our church last day. When it came time to kiss, he held it so long the person had to tap the groom on the shoulder to tell him to break it up.

Everyone giggled and a holy sacrament was turned into a one-act comedy. Should the pason have led the groom? Shouldn't the bride have pulled away before it got that mushy? How could this have been avoided?

DEAR ABBY: I really got mad when I read Howard's letter calling girls "deceitful" because they padded themselves a little. If a girl doesn't have naturally curly hair, is she "deceitful" to get a permanent? And if a girl doesn't have naturally red lips, is she "deceitful" to use a little lipstick? A better example yet: Is a girl "deceitful" to take a bath and put on deodorant and pretend she doesn't perspire?

DEAR ABBY: Your viewpoint of that other executives' wives the subject of husbands taking secretaries out to lunch should be appreciated. The claim there's nothing "wrong" in it is me bristle. I disapprove but almost ashamed to say so because I am called absurd, insecure just plain childish.

DEAR ABBY: Recently my husband's aunt and uncle from Canada overnight guests at our home. They brought their own bed linen, and wash cloths. This has happened to us before. Is it custom of that country? We expect to visit them next spring. Do think we are expected to do something?

DEAR ABBY: This is not a custom in Canada (or anywhere else). Your relatives probably carry their own linen for personal reasons. Don't take yours when you visit them.

Death Mars Top Pro Grid Action

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press International

The death of Howard Glenn, a 24-year-old lineman for the New York Titans, marred an otherwise exciting weekend of professional football.

Glenn, a 245-pound offensive guard from Vancouver, Wash., died in a Houston, Tex., hospital Sunday night from head injuries suffered in the Titans' 27-21 setback at the hands of the Houston Oilers.

On the playing field, Sunday's games in both the National League and the AFL had a touch of the Frank Merriwell script.

The Green Bay Packers upset

the champion Baltimore Colts in the biggest surprise of the six-game NFL program; the New York Giants and San Francisco Forty-Niners both won in the last minute of play; and the Philadelphia Eagles scored their winning touchdown with six minutes remaining.

Green Bay gave Johnny Unitas a hard time by intercepting four of his passes and beat the Colts, 35-21, and Charlie Conerly hit Frank Gifford with a 44-yard scoring pass to give the Giants a 19-17 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers.

John Brodie threw 18 yards to R.C. Owens as the clock ran out in San Francisco's 14-10 triumph over the Detroit Lions, and Norm Van Brocklin heaved 11 yards to Tommy McDonald for a late score that produced Philadelphia's 31-27 win over the St. Louis Cardinals.

In the two other games, the Chicago Bears thought they had a romp against the Los Angeles Rams but had to beat off a desperate late rally before winning, 34-27. And even the weak-sister Washington Redskins looked good in beating the Dallas Cowboys, 26-14.

The young American league got into the thrill-a-minute act, too. A 98-yard kickoff return by Jetstream Smith started the Oakland Raiders off on a third-period scoring spree that upset the Dallas Texans, 20-19.

HARVEY HADDIX
... Pirate lefty goes after important win

Rebounding Bucs Send Haddix To Series Hill

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, confident they've won the "big one," send battle-tested Harvey Haddix to the mound in the fifth game of the World Series today while manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees ponders starting rookie Bill Stafford in one of the most daring gambles in the history of the classic.

All even at two victories each after the Pirates' 3-2 victory in the tense fourth game of the Series Sunday, the teams close out the New York phase of the Series today before another crowd of about 70,000. The Series will resume in Pittsburgh on Wednesday and the seventh game, if needed, is scheduled for Thursday.

Few Inches Difference

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bill Skowron, Yogi Berra and Bob Cerv today regretfully accepted the full significance of that adage that "inches decide baseball games."

All three members of the New York Yankees realized they could have won Sunday's fourth World Series game against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

If Berra had beat out his rally-killing double play grounder in the first inning.

If Skowron's disputed toss to second base on Smoky Burgess' grounder beat the sliding Gino Cimoli in the fifth inning.

If Cerv's towering blast to centerfielder Bill Virdon in the seventh was inches longer.

If Skowron's ninth inning poke down the rightfield line hadn't curved inches foul at the last second.

Skowron shouldered all the blame for his fielding play in the fifth inning that led to the Pirates' winning three-run rally.

"Nobody hollered at me where to throw," the dark-haired first baseman explained. "I wouldn't have heard 'em anyway. I made up my mind to throw to second the minute the ball was hit."

"I thought the throw would beat the runner and it was close. It could have gone either way."

Of all the Yankees, Berra was most downcast over Sunday's defeat that tied the Series at 2-2. And he was equally bitter over being called out on the tag end of the Pirates' crucial double play in the opening inning.

"I was safe but the umpire (Dusty Bogges) called me out," Yogi growled. "He's the boss, so what can you do?"

The man on the spot, as Stengel pondered the ramifications of the move overnight, was the 22-year-old Stafford, a tall, skinny right-hander who didn't join the Yankees from Richmond of the International League until August 15.

Stafford won three games for the Yankees and lost one but he showed remarkable poise in addition to his hard stuff and Stengel apparently is willing to take the risk that he won't choke up in the biggest game of his life.

Haddix, the "man who pitched the perfect game and lost it," is a little left-hander with a wide assortment of low-breaking curves and sliders who figures to be troublesome for any free-swinging team like the Yankees. He had only an 11-10 record, a 3.98 earned run average and a pitched four complete games this year, but is the type pitcher who often in the past has risen to stardom in Series games.

With Faddix on the mound, the Yankee lineup is expected to be pretty much the same as on Sunday except that Elston Howard is likely to replace Yogi Berra as catcher and Roger Maris, who's got a "cold bat" after a wide series start, may be shifted out of the third or fourth slot to second in the batting order.

Old Deal Comes Back Again To Haunt Yanks

NEW YORK (UPI)—A deal who drove in the winning Pirate runs with a two-run single in the fifth inning. And later, as Elroy Face fought to protect a slender one-run lead by riding to Vernon Law's relief in the seventh, it was Virdon's dazzling catch of Bob Cerv's lofty clout to the right centerfield wall which saved the day.

Virdon charged the coal black wall, out where it says 407 feet in huge green letters, and picked off Cerv's shot. Then he tumbled to the ground but arose in time to whip the ball back to the infield as Bobby Richardson tagged up and went to third and pinch runner Joe DeMaestri held at first. They both died there, however, and the Pirates had squared the classic.

"My arm grazed the fence and I guess I relaxed a bit because I thought I was going to run right into it," the quiet Virdon said later in the locker room. "Maybe that's the reason I slipped."

Mississippi Sets Sights On Top Collegiate Spot

By United Press International
United Press International

Mississippi may find itself alone in the running for college football's No. 1 rating next week after Syracuse, Ohio State and Iowa have finished playing their toughest opponents of the season thus far.

The Rebels presented coach Johnny Vaught with his 100th victory during the weekend and are overwhelming favorites to start him on his second century of triumphs in a breather against Tulane.

Syracuse, the defepending tidbit which survived close tussels with Kansas and Holy Cross in its last two starts, tangles with Penn State this Saturday in a battle of eastern giants. The Nittany Lions knocked Army from the unbeaten ranks with two touchdowns in the last period.

Ohio State handed Illinois its first setback in another major upset but now faces a threat to its chances for a Big 10 title from Purdue.

Wisconsin, now 3-0, tries to duplicate the feat against the Iowa Hawkeyes, the Big 10 leaders, in another conference clash.

Mississippi, bidding to jump from second place to the top in the national ratings, scored all its points in the first half, victimizing Vanderbilt, 26-0.

Syracuse wasn't sure of winning its 20th straight regular season game until the last 11 seconds when quarterback Dave Sarrette tossed a 23-yard touchdown pass to Ernie Davis for a 15-6 win.

Ohio State, rated No. 5, won its fourth straight by toppling fourth-ranked Illinois from the undefeated list, 24-7.

Iowa, No. 3, staged a fourth-quarter comeback to gain its Big 10 lead with a 27-15 triumph over Michigan State.

Sixth-ranked Navy beat Southern Methodist, 26-7; eighth-rated Missouri downed the Air Force Academy, 34-8, and Minnesota's ninth-ranked Gophers edged Northwestern, 7-0.

light a Southwest Conference slate, that sees all eight teams in title play.

The Hogs, whipped soundly by the Bears, 28-14, meet pre-season favorite Texas in Austin Saturday afternoon. If the Razorbacks win, it will put them back into the thick of the championship race. A loss will virtually eliminate the club.

The Longhorns, 24-0 victors over Oklahoma in their annual battle in the Cotton Bowl, are favored by 10 points to hand the Razorbacks their second straight defeat.

The Bears, listed as the pre-season "dark horse," travel to Lubbock to play Texas Tech, winless in conference competition; Texas Christian meets Texas A&M in College Station, and Rice and Southern Methodist get their first taste of conference play in Dallas.

Tigers Eye Richards

NEW YORK (UPI)—Paul Richards of Baltimore, probably the most sought after man in baseball, has been approached about taking over both the general manager and field manager's job with the Detroit Tigers, the United Press International learned today.

The 51-year-old Richards is a leading candidate for "Manager of the Year" honors on the basis of Baltimore's surprising climb in their 17-0 loss to the University of Houston.

Dunham, Miller, Robison Hurt

Lubbock Monterey downed Pampa, 19-6, Friday in Lubbock, but going by the last half, the Harvesters only lost 7-6 and had two other TD's halted by a crucial penalty and a pass interception.

The Harvesters, a team that can ill afford to lose players, lost three more against Monterey. Wingback Lucky Dunham separated a shoulder, Halfback Robby Robison fractured a hand and Halfback Sheriff Miller came up with a painful charley horse.

"In comparison with Tascosa, we made more mistakes against Monterey, especially defensively," Coach Babe Curfman said today. "They really hurt us on the wide stuff," Curfman pointed out. "Larry Taylor, our regular cornerman was out, and they killed us on that end. Randy Haralson did a good job of stopping them finally but it was too late."

The Harvesters did a good job on pass defense, allowing Monterey only four yards passing and also stopped the Plainsmen's trap plays, which Tascosa used so effectively two weeks ago against the Harvesters.

Staunch defensive play by Duke Garren, Charlie Geise and Dickie Willis kept the Monterey middle clogged but in the end — and around the end — it was a different story.

The biggest thorn in Pampa's side was Quarterback James E. Ellis. Not known as a ball carrier, the red-haired Monterey signal caller carried 14 times for 160 yards, scored two touchdowns and set up the third.

Curfman planned to send his depleted forces through a regular workout this afternoon while working in some new faces in the Harvester backfield.

In place of Robison will be Taylor, and Mike Stewart, a quarterback by trade, will move into Dunham's wingback slot. Curfman planned no big changes in the Harvester line.

Pampa plays perhaps its most bitter enemy Friday night when it travels to Amarillo for a game with the Sandies, upset 14-7 by Tom S. Lubbock last weekend, A. E. M.

Price Cut In New Homes, Autos Seen As Trigger To More Buying

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More and more, home builders are complaining that business isn't what it should be.

"The demand just isn't there," says William Levitt. In his new project at Belair, Md. Levitt will start construction only on as many houses as he has orders.

The head of a federal financial agency offers this advice to builders: "Pay a little more attention to what the consumer wants—sell a little harder." This high official and several others think price cutting by builders, auto-makers and other industrial leaders would trigger a wave of consumer buying and put new snap into the economy, which is now stalled but at a high level.

From two housing sources comes essentially the same piece of advice for builders: Start building for the people you've been neglecting.

Martin L. Bartling Jr., president of the National Association of Home Builders, told a group of builders "we're missing a great big hunk of the market" by not paying enough attention to prospective buyers in the low and middle income brackets. According to Bartling, a Knoxville, Tenn., builder 38 per cent of the population has incomes of under $4,000 a year but less than 6 per cent of the builders sell houses for less than $14,000.

A suggestion that builders can boost sales by selling to minority groups, especially Negroes, is made by Manufactured Homes Magazine in its current issue.

The magazine surveyed minority housing in nine cities: New Orleans, Chicago, San Francisco, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Ohio, Atlanta, Indianapolis, Cleveland and Detroit.

Lewis, the state flower of Montana, takes its name from Meriwether Lewis of the Lewis and Clark expedition. The pink flower ranges from Montana to Arizona and is better known as bitterroot.

Five-Point Africa Policy By Kennedy

By WILLIAM THEIS United Press International

(UPI) — Sen. John F. Kennedy Saturday night offered a five-point program to reverse what he charged has been the Eisenhower administration's "disastrous error and neglect" in Africa.

The Democratic presidential nominee, stumping the bluegrass state, on a one-day tour following his second television "debate" with Vice President Richard M. Nixon, said the GOP Africa record has brought a "steady decline in American prestige" and a "steady growth of Soviet influence" in that continent.

Kennedy's program for Africa was issued as a statement rather than a speech. In his Kentucky addresses Saturday he endorsed the current tobacco program and told Nixon to look at Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's "far greater indictments" of America before accusing Kennedy of downgrading this country.

The Kennedy camp was pleased about the outcome of Friday night's TV appearance against Nixon.

Kennedy was understood to feel that he was put at some disadvantage in discussion of the Quoy-Matsu policy problem on the theory that Nixon made "an emotional" argument whereas the senator stuck to the military opinions that the islands in themselves are scarcely worth defending.

The Reaction To Force

Have you ever noted how government seeks to help people, and in the process hurts the very people it intends to aid?

The lesson should be learned, and presumably will be learned after sufficient injury, that the use of law and force to compel some to pay for the errors or problems of others is always wrong and never works out as planned.

For example, take the present Urban Renewal program. Rest assured the socialist mentors who advocate this idea are not promoting it either in anger or hatred of the human race. What they want to do is to provide better housing and better buildings for poor folks. Certainly, that in itself is a laudable ambition. It would be marvelous if poor folks could live in better places and have more comforts and conveniences.

So, to bring off the idea, Urban Renewal is introduced. Only recently, even some of its most staunch supporters have grown aware that the program is doing exactly the opposite of what was intended. Instead of providing better places for low income groups, it is reducing the number of low income places people can rent or buy.

Thus, Urban Renewal is at the root of a housing shortage among low income people, the very people the government wanted to help in the first place.

Let's take a second example. Here is the government thumping the drum for a higher minimum wage. If either Nixon or Kennedy is elected, both are pledged to push up the minimum wage from $1.00 to a higher figure. $1.25 is usually settled on in the minds of many people as being "about right."

What is the purpose of pushing up this wage? It is to benefit the low income earner, of course. It is planned to increase his take-home pay, to make things better for him all around.

Good Money After Bad

We don't suppose the people in Latin America had anything to do with it.

Nonetheless, with the absurd policies followed in our State Department, one cannot help but wonder if they might not have figured out the whole thing and set us up for a patsy.

Castro's posturing and plundering in Cuba has created a most unhealthy atmosphere for American prestige in Latin American affairs. How does America plan to overcome this blotch on its Central and South American escutcheon? How does America plan to do anything?

The answer is always: "Spend more of the taxpayers' money." And thus the American Committee of 21 Latin American countries which has recently met, had uppermost in their minds the expedience of the moment, and had to ask the question: "How much will Uncle Sam pay so we will continue to love him in the face of the Cuban crisis?" Not that it was put in so many words, but that is certainly the reason and purpose for the conference.

In 15 years, since the end of World War II, American taxpayers have been plundered of $4 billion which has been distributed among South and Central American nationals.

If the immorality and folly of this program isn't immediately apparent, we ought to pause with raised hat in memory of our departed dollars whenever we think of Cuba. During these 15 years, American taxpayers gave or loaned to Cuba $80 million. It should come as no news to anyone that that money is now completely wasted.

Of course, it was spent in an effort to influence the Scarras, the Batista and even the Castro regimes, so these political rascals would love us. None of them ever ing that kind of help. The minimum wage law will cost us much employment. And the loss will occur right at the point the government means to help out... among the low income people.

Interesting, isn't it? Or, let's take the income tax itself, designed, as most of us know, as a "soak the rich" measure. Very well, who gets "soaked"? It is the little fellow, the imagined recipient of all the goodies the government planned to steal from the "rich."

How is this possible? Isn't it true that we have a graduated income tax which takes progressively more on the basis of higher income? Sure, it's true.

But the higher income people are the ones who invest their savings so that the tools of production can be made and so that men of less means can have good jobs. So, what has been the result of "soak the rich" via the income tax? Poor people have been injured, since there are now fewer jobs than would have been available to them had the "rich" been left alone to produce and invest to their full capacity.

Here's one final illustration. We are all familiar with the government's many-sided effort to aid the farmer. Farm prices are subsidized; farmers are bailed out when they run into debt; soil is banked; farmers are paid for non-production and non-work; farmers get a guaranteed market.

All of this is done to help the farmer. But is the farmer better off? No, he is not. Why? Because, to provide these things for farmers, city people are attacked and looted. Well, then, can't it be said that the farmers are better off and the city people worse off?

Not quite. For farmers want the things produced by city people. And when the government makes things difficult for city people in an effort to help the farmer, it actually makes it more difficult for the farmer to get the things he wants from the city.

It's too bad, but this is the way things work. Government has no business meddling in the economy at all. Whenever it starts in to "help" someone, it is always time for the person to be "aided" to take cover.

Who among us can foretell with certainty that an uprising similar to Castro's might not occur at almost any time in almost any Latin American country? If and when such a thing would occur, would we not be in the position of kissing our money goodbye once more?

So, in the face of these ridiculous policies, the Latin American countries have gotten together again to find out how much more loot Uncle will channel to them. We can't tell what the sum will be, of course. But we do know that Congress recently authorized half a billion dollars as a sort of good-will endowment for the Latin American countries to get their heads together and to demand something more substantial.

Senator Mike Mansfield has called the half billion an "earnest" of our "intention."

The conference was held at Bogota. It had a five-point agenda when it convened, and thus far we don't know what has come out of it. But the five points it hopes to reach give a clue to the direction of thinking and planning at Bogota.

These breathtaking vistas of luxury for Latin-American politics include the following: 1. Measures should be strengthened to improve Latin American development with American capital. 2. Technical and financial programs should be introduced to encourage American aid to agriculture. 3. Measures are to be considered for setting up universal prices and controls of all farm commodities and farm markets to ensure "social stability" for Latin American countries. Note: the above involves American price supports for Latin

You Can't Buy The White House (The Arizona Republic)

Former President Truman is a practical and seasoned politician. Even he, however, found it difficult to stomach the ruthless political steamroller, greased by the Kennedy millions, which rolled over the Democratic convention at Los Angeles.

Never before has an American family set out deliberately to buy the White House. The Kennedy millions — mostly made from whisky, along with the organized razzle dazzle of the whole Kennedy clan, put together the most effective and unprincipled political bandwagon since the days when "Honey" Fitzgerald, Jack Kennedy's grandfather, ruled the political roost in Boston, Massachusetts.

Speaking at the University of Virginia during the primary campaign, Mr. Truman, a former Democratic president referring to a would-be Democratic president, spoke for the whole nation when, as it was reported, he declared, "I have no objection to Senator Kennedy's Pope, but I do object to Senator Kennedy's pop, Pop Joe Kennedy, who is trying to buy the White House for his little boy."

It was Senator Kennedy himself who injected the religious issue into this campaign. Sensible Americans had hoped it would not become a factor, but Kennedy has deliberately exploited his religion. In speeches in Wisconsin, in West Virginia, at the convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington last April, in his acceptance speech at Los Angeles and in numerous interviews since the convention, he has appealed to voters not to persecute him because he is a Catholic. Nobody has persecuted Jack Kennedy, and it is unlikely that anybody will.

Why won't Jack Kennedy be frank enough to admit publicly that it was his Catholic friends who gave him the nomination? The five big states were for Kennedy. Mayor Wagner, who led the New York delegation, is a Catholic. Governor Lawrence of Pennsylvania, who turned Pennsylvania over to Kennedy, is a Catholic. Governor Mike DiSalle of Ohio, who gave the entire Ohio delegation to Kennedy, is a Catholic. Governor Pat Brown of California, another Kennedy state, is a Catholic. The delegations from these five states, led by Catholics, put over Kennedy's nomination.

Why should Jack Kennedy be ungrateful, and hypocritical? These influential politicians had a perfect right to be for Kennedy if they so chose. The very fact that these men have been elected to high office shows that the American people do not let religion influence their political voting. When they were running for office these men didn't go around whimpering that they were being persecuted. The people in these five states believed that these candidates were good men and they voted for them regardless of religious beliefs.

The truth is, Jack Kennedy has deliberately set out to make a martyr of himself on the Catholic issue in order to get sympathy and to glamorize himself as a candidate.

Jack Kennedy has been shouting and crying persecution, but if anybody else says anything about his religion, then that is "bigotry." Well, we think it is bigotry to inject religion in this campaign. It has nothing whatever to do with the real issues on which the American people are going to vote. Anybody who uses religion either as a shield or a sword is guilty of bigotry, and the greatest offender in this nation at the present is Jack Kennedy himself. He never misses a chance to keep the religious issue alive. It can't be kept out if Jack Kennedy himself is going to bring it up every time he makes a speech. Such hypocrisy seldom has been practiced in American politics.

We are not opposed to Jack Kennedy because he is a Catholic. We do not believe many Americans will be opposed to him on that basis. Certainly nobody has ever accused this newspaper of being anti-Catholic.

We are opposed to him because he is completely lacking in administrative experience to assume the responsibilities of the presidency in the handling of foreign policy and domestic issues.

We are opposed to him because he never has given an indication of deep-down convictions about American freedom or the rights of individual citizens. We are opposed to him because as a senator from Massachusetts he has represented minority pressure groups instead of the people of his state. He is the darling of the AFL-CIO (COPE) and the ADA, who boast that he always has voted for them 100 per cent, and his record proves he has. No man who is under such complete obligation to left-wing pressure groups should ever be elected president of the United States. We are especially opposed to him because he allowed Walter Reuther and his man Friday, Chester Bowles, to write the radical Democratic platform and then he accepted it without a single protest. This platform was a socialist manifesto and the most radical political platform ever presented to the American people by either of the two great parties. Walter Reuther is the avowed socialist, but that doesn't seem to make any difference to Jack Kennedy. And, last, we are opposed to having the White House put up for political sale. It is obvious that the Kennedy family intends to get into the White House, no matter what it costs and no matter what concessions have to be made to do it. Pop Joe Kennedy will continue to pour out his millions in an all-out attempt to "put his little boy in the White House."

PROPOSED 50-100 PER CENT INCREASE IN SPACE BUDGET TO FACE NEXT PRESIDENT IN EARLY '61

WASHINGTON — The new President taking office in January, regardless of who he is, is already certain of having to decide one crucial space problem. Neither presidential candidate has yet been told about it, but the National Aeronautics & Space Administration has concluded that its next budget should be increased from 50 to 100 percent over the $316 million Congress voted this year.

Two separate budgets proposing such huge boosts have been submitted by NASA authorities to President Eisenhower. Whatever he does about them, the final decision will rest with his successor — who is certain to make extensive revisions in the budget the President will send to the new Congress before quitting office, Jan. 20.

That's what Eisenhower did in 1953 to the budget he inherited from former President Truman. These unannounced budgets, as drafted by Dr. Homer Stewart, NASA planning director, are:

$1.4 billion, approximately 50 percent more than the current budget, to speed up most of the existing space programs, but adding no new ones. Under this budget,

Many Are In No Shape For Sports

Another football season is here, and millions of Americans are physically unprepared for it.

Football is a rough, tough game for players and spectators alike.

The players realize this and hold spring and fall practices to ready themselves. During the summer they strengthen their muscles with the hard, outside jobs, and do all sorts of exercises to build up necks, ribs, legs and heads.

Even after all this, players wouldn't think of playing football before dressing themselves in lightweight suits of armor, and seeing to it that a doctor and stretchers are near at hand.

The spectators — folks like you and me — do nothing in the way of getting ready for the football season, although the game is just as punishing to us as to the fit young men on the field.

We go straight from our desks or homes to a game to enter the battle of the stadium. To get there we fight traffic for an hour or more, buckle the parking situation, and more often than not walk a mile to the stadium.

Half the time we go in pneumonia weather, subjecting our unhardened bodies to snow, ice, sleet, rain, and polar winds. We sit in this atmosphere for hours, defying Nature to carry us off through lips blue with cold, with chattering teeth, and numb legs and feet.

Does anyone really believe that a halfback takes that much punishment during a game, even if he carries the ball every other time and leads the blocking the rest of the time?

And how about the struggle to get a hot dog and cup of coffee at the half? A fullback gets a good going-over every time he hits the line, and a center takes a beating every time he snaps the ball, but don't tell me it is any worse than the punishment handed out around the refreshment stands.

The action around the refreshment counters at half-time is much like that of the running of the bulls at Pamplona. Ten deep, the customers shove, claw, butt, push, elbow, knee, and ram their way toward the dogs and java.

Those fortunate enough to reach the counter and be served usually are tripped or thrown off balance on the way out, and get back to their seats half-scalded and panting for breath.

No coach would allow his players to sit on a bench as hard as the seats provided for the spectators. Or as cold. Or as narrow. Each spectator is allowed a few inches of freezing concrete, and when the game is over, all he faces is a stiff-legged descent down miles of steps, a long walk to his car, and hour of creeping out of a parking lot, and then an hour or so of bumper-to-bumper travel on the highway.

The punishment is twice as severe when the spectator's team loses. And it so often does.

Thought for today: American paleontologist Fairfield Osborn said: "We do not live to extenuate the miseries of the past nor to accept as incurable those of the present."

Pegler Has Mused On Futility Of Crusading

I called up John T. Flynn to refresh my facts about the time Tom Beck, of Collier's, fired him for making a speech against our involvement in Roosevelt's war and, to my surprise and disappointment, John said, "Oh gee, Peg, I hardly remember now—"

I said, "Sure you do, John. You made this speech and that bum saw you in the elevator going down to lunch and he said 'Well, you certainly put your foot in the brass drum this time.' And then he said, 'You're fired,' and Will Chenery, the managing editor, called you in as you were cleaning out your desk and whispered that he could still throw you some money if you would write along Beck's party line under a false name."

John said, "Something like that, but I haven't thought of it for years."

"And you told Chenery, 'My name is Flynn. Communists change their names, and Hollywood trash, but Collier's hasn't got enough money to change mine.' You remember now?"

"Well," John said, "that was about the way of it, but I don't let it bother me. Why are you so keyed up about it after all this time?"

I said, "I have been reading reviews of a book called 'View From the 38th Floor' or something like that and that rat in the book is a dead ringer for Tom Beck."

"Is that so? I haven't read the book or the reviews. I haven't thought of Beck for a long time."

"John," I said on a querulous note, "whatsa matter with you? Have you banked the fires?"

John said, "Well, maybe I have. I decided to quit scolding and just try to instruct and explain. I do a quiet radio broadcast for a very good list of stations, like clients of a newspaper columnist, and I get more mail and people seem to understand me better than when I was writing at the top of my voice to warn them. You can't save the world if people don't want it saved. It is easier on my emotions. I feel better. I take a little toddy toward evening and we lead a nice, calm life. Have you ever thought of that?"

I had not. But since then I have mused upon the futility of the crusade, of constant attack in journalism. It is out of style.

John was a great crusader. His white plume was an inspiration in the fight against F. D. Roosevelt's mocking-fraud against morals, religion and mankind. But his fine, historical books, "Country Squire in the White House," "The Roosevelt Myth" and "The Road Ahead," sold like anvils in Tiffany's while the lickspittle Harvard fakers who pushed the communist line were feled by the best-seller racket and subsidized as long as they lived by book royalties on dozens of editions. True, Collier's went down, but a hundred other magazines still publish the line.

Flynn was a fighter, he was. When he was a kid city editor on a little New England paper whose owner kept messing around in the composing room as John was trying to make up page one, John finally turned him around and roused him clear across the room and out the door.

Sure, he was fired. So was MacArthur.

As I look back over the battlefields of this long fight, I see strange landmarks.

I see the Hyde Park shrine with no cross on the stone where the pagans put it up to Americans to hush their voices at the grave of Roosevelt's dog, Fala. I see his widow at the Democratic convention lumbering artfully into the focus of the big teevee companies, which miss no chance to prepare her for defecation in the same pantheon with Fala, with room reserved for Jimmy and Elliott when their turns come.

I note that Congress is receiving entries in a competition by "Liberal" artists for a grand memorial of 30 acres in the capital at Georgetown what expense to be paid in the sweat of those who toil.

I recall the riots in Detroit and Flint (where the Reds threw the master switches in the city power plant so that unconscious surgical patients were trapped in the dark on the tables) and in San Francisco, New York and Washington. But I see John III Lewis, too, consecrated a historical labor statesman.

I see Hollywood more impudent and prosperous than ever, with traitors scurrying the American soldier. I see the stricken face of Joe McCarthy with his baby girl in his arms, ostracized and doomed because he pointed the finger at traitors in the State Department and the Pentagon and named them. I see Dave Dubinsky struggling in the controlling councils of my own country and read factions of syndicate stuff out of Washington praising Adlai Stevenson and sneering at Nixon because he is Alger Hiss by the heels.

And I pray for the composite resolution to realize that John Flynn is right: that I can't will but may live a little more happily a little longer writing quiet explanations. And let posterity learn the hard way.

Interest In The Great Plains Conservation Program Mounting

The increasing interest in the program who has just finished Great Plains Conservation Program is one of the more agreeable B. Rapstine who operates three quarters of a section for Dr. R. E. Mohler of Kansas. This farm is located approximately six miles northeast of Groom. Dr. Mohler signed a three-year plan under the GPCP in July. Rapstine has operated this farm for Mohler for many years and is doing a very good job in getting a complete conservation plan applied on the farm.

Kennedy Offers 'Non-Socialistic' Health Program

By WILLIAM THEIS
United Press International
WARM SPRINGS, Ga. (UPI)—Sen. John F. Kennedy today accused Vice President Richard M. Nixon of medical "election-year hypocrisy" and offered his own six-point health program at this rehabilitation center made famous by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Democratic nominee, fresh from a Sunday of campaigning in Ohio, said his program is one to "prevent socialized medicine" — not create it.

Kennedy's speech was prepared for delivery at the Little White House, where Roosevelt worked and, on April 12, 1945, died of a brain hemorrhage.

It marked Kennedy's deepest campaign penetration into the South and the beginning of a grueling day taking him into South Carolina and then to Pittsburgh, Pa., and New York City. He flew to Warm Springs early this morning from Louisville.

The three miles of diversion terraces that have just been completed will stop the erosion on 466 acres of crop land.

Under a program plan the personnel of the Soil Conservation Service assist the Gray County Soil Conservation District in working out a conservation plan on the farm or ranch. This is done either with the owner or an operator who has legal control for the period covered by the plan.

There are 24 items covered under the program, any of which may be included in any one plan. Some of the more important items covered by the program, which you as a farmer or rancher might like to use, are: terraces, ponds, water wells, fencing, brush control, grass seeding, and irrigation systems.

If you are interested and need further information, contact the personnel of the Soil Conservation Service, the County Agent, or a member of the Gray County Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors.

Fresh trouble is looming in the Middle East. The surprise recalculation last week between King Hussein of Jordan and Premier Abdul Karim Kassem of Iraq when Jordan recognized the Baghdad revolutionary government caught United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser napping.

The alignment between Jordan and Iraq spells potential danger for Syria. Iraq never has abandoned its ambitious plans for an alignment with Syria and has reiterated them several times since the overthrow of King Faisal. Diplomats believe Nasser now will tighten his grip on Syria, and this could mean real trouble.

Nixon, JFK Far Apart As Final Weeks Near

By United Press International
Sen. John F. Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon entered the crucial last four weeks of the presidential election campaign today far apart—geographically and in lack of approval of the other's programs.

Kennedy was booked for his deepest campaign penetration of the South with stops in Georgia and South Carolina. His grueling day also will include trips to Pittsburgh and New York City.

Nixon, on his way to vote-rich California Tuesday, scheduled speeches today at Denver and Salt Lake City. He will devote Tuesday through Friday to his first major campaign swing in his home state.

The vice presidential nominees also were plunging into the fray with increased vigor. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson sets out today on a 3,500-mile tour designed to restore Democratic strength in the eight states of the once solid South. His GOP opponent, Henry Cabot Lodge, was at San Francisco.

Kennedy, buoyed by the reception he received in northeastern Ohio Sunday, flew this morning from Louisville, Ky., to Warm Springs, Ga., where President Franklin D. Roosevelt died April 12, 1945.

The Democratic presidential nominee used the visit to F.D.R.'s "Little White House" as the occasion to accuse Nixon, in a prepared speech, of "election-year hypocrisy" in the medical field, and to offer his own health program.
