Twinkles

With three-dimension movies in the offing, maybe we'll learn whether these picture purists are fighting or fooling.

Everything looks easy for the democrats except raising campaign funds. Mr. Common Man, can you spare a dime?

If all the government department reports were laid end to end, we doubt that we could find anybody to read them, even then.

For, to bring the matter home, nobody reads even the local city or county budget.

"KPDN, the Pampa Daily News station, at the top o' Texas." And let's keep Pampa at the top in more ways than geographical.

Musing of the moment: Texas Rangers in "talls"; Rangereettes at the Centennial—truly, new days are upon us. It isn't enough to know that at a speed of 30 miles per hour you travel 33 feet before your mind reacts to an emergency and at least 40 feet more before you can stop your car. The other fellow is probably coming at you at this or a higher speed, and his mind may be slower than yours for one cause or another.

Brevitorials

THE FIRST cry of an infant, strangely piercing in the quiet of a crisp, star-lit winter night, affords one of life's greatest thrills—especially if it is a first child. Ending a suspense which impresses with startling vividness the pain and discomfort which mothers experience in childbirth, such a cry, stretching into the torrent of indignation as the umbilical cord is tied and the ways of modern civilization are assumed, is more musical than a symphony, more satisfying than most other human joys. True, a similar cry a few nights later, on a similarly star-lit night, reminds one that silence is golden. But with that first cry of an infant is repeated the age-old question—whence life?

Memories of wise-cracking days in college Bachelors' Protective associations seem trivial when fatherhood is achieved. And WORDS, like every new father, has a deep sympathy with, mingled with some contempt for, the "old bachelors" who imagine they are "well off." ... Walking the floor with a young baby isn't exactly pleasure, but when it is YOUR baby it is another matter and, looking ahead, baby days will be all too short.

PARENTHOOD IS essential to a complete appreciation of life and living. The sacredness of human life as an ideal must begin at birth, and continue as a deep, deep home life, to make it effective as a public policy. Unfortunately it is that the artificialities of our time render us insensitive to the fact that every soldier sent into battle is somebody's boy. And 36,000 human lives lost in automobile accidents in 1935 reflect upon our civilization, and upon our appreciation of motherhood.

A few ounces more than 8 pounds—not intrinsically valuable chemically but precious beyond price humanly—what is the future more horrible as science mixes its poisons? More miserable, as mankind fails to harness depressions? Or more satisfactory living, more pleasure, more accomplishment as civilization tames the wild forces which rear human lives?

EVERY NEW father, we suppose, resolves to be a pal to his son, to ease the lad's pathway through life without entirely removing its toughening reverses, to re-live his own happy boyhood days by taking the boy on hikes, through Boy Scout camps, to woods, and to hunting or fishing excursions. We feel sure that most fathers, had they the time, would thus recreate their youth, and that they would feel pangs of regret in sharing the young life with schools and boyhood companions. ... But modern fathers are busy, they are "joiners," they lose many of the finest joys of fatherhood through "lack of time." We learn this, not from the fathers, but from the boys.

Every boy is entitled to a father of whom he is not ashamed. Many boys are disappointed, often without the father realizing it. We know, for boys talk about their fathers and we hear them regret that daddies are too busy to teach them things they wish to know—things which no school, no young companion can teach as well as wise father. ... But boys are much like dogs. They are keen judges of character. They are not awed by wealth or position, and no man stands higher in their esteem than he can merit "on his own." Every father can be a hero to his son if he has the stuff of which real heroes are made—sincerity, honesty, ability to be a comrade, willingness to understand the spirit of boyhood.

THE WEE YOUNG man down at our house is very articulate as to things generally, which we assume includes thanks for all the gifts and attention he has received. First visitor was Mrs. Raymond Harrah and his first letter was received from Mrs. F. E. Leech. In return for all these kindnesses, he promises to "do something about this football situation with Amarillo" as soon as his long fingers can be wrapped around a pigskin. But he is fashioning a wisecrack for the bunch down here at THE NEWS who photograph.

Panhandle Oil, Gas Allowables Hiked

OIL INCREASE WILL BE 1000 BARRELS HERE

DEMAND IN PANHANDLE FIELD RECOGNIZED BY COMMISSION

AUSTIN, Jan. 21. (P)—The railroad commission today raised allowable production from Texas oil fields to 1,066,992 barrels daily effective Feb. 1. It was 1,368 barrels daily less than the bureau of mines' market demand estimate. The basic allowable Jan. 1, was 1,015,146 barrels but revisions during the month boosted the permitted flow to 1,044,600 barrels on Jan. 15. The proration basis for East Texas was changed from a stipulated percentage of the hourly potential to a flat rate of 432,264 barrels daily production. It was a slight decrease compared with the January allowable of 2.7 per cent of the hourly potential, which permitted production of 433,618 barrels on Jan. 13. Production in East Texas starting in February would be permitted on a "certain per cent" of each well's potential, to be calculated after each individual well potential has been determined from the new potential map. An initial allowable allocation of 500 barrels was made for the Rodeo area, an interstate field which has one well in Cass county, Texas, and several in Louisiana. Allowables for other districts were (in barrels): Panhandle, 58,800, increase of 1,000; Moore county, 1,500, no change; North Texas, 56,500, increase of 1,000; Osborne area, 1,000, increase of 500; Poard county, 500, no change; West Central Texas, 50,000, increase of 700; West Texas, 134,318, increase of 11,233; East Central, 49,207, increase of 6,975; Southwest Texas, 116,329, increase of 11,612; and Gulf coast, 163,083, increase of 14,468.

Waiting List Is Discontinued at Public Library

Use of a waiting list system at the Pampa public library was discontinued today by order of the library board.

While the waiting list was an accommodation for some persons needing certain books for club work, the plan was unsatisfactory in general and will not be continued. The board will meet soon to purchase a large order of new books. Book lists and reviews are being studied by members. Taxes paid for 1935 are beginning to make funds available for the new year. Mrs. C. P. Buckler was re-elected president of the board yesterday. Mrs. B. E. Finley was returned as vice-president and Mrs. James Todd Jr., librarian, as ex-officio secretary of the board. A special study is being made of books on Texas for purchase in this Centennial year to add to the state shelf.

REWARD OFFERED

A $50 reward has been offered by Charles Clark for the name of the person who stole four wheels and tires and the axle from his trailer located at 900 West Foster avenue last night.

The loss was reported to the police, who are working on the case. Three of the tires taken were Good-year brand and the other a Gates tire.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rittenhouse are the parents of a daughter, Nancy Jane, born at Worley hospital Sunday morning. She weighed 8 pounds 12 ounces.

I Heard...

A. N. Burleson in a reminiscence made this morning. He told of early days in Pampa, where he was the city's water supply, hauling water from the well where the city hall now stands to the homes in Pampa. He was also town marshal, but lasted only two weeks before resigning. Mr. Burleson revealed that he had twice moved the Pampa Daily News, once from the rear of the First National bank to the rear of the then First State bank and from that position to the former location where the Smith building now stands. One load moved the equipment. At that time the paper was owned by Joe Smith.

GAS FLOW TO BE GREATER IN FEBRUARY

Sweet Gas Allowable Hiked But Sour Gas Flow Will Be Curbed Next Month.

AUSTIN, Jan. 21. (P)—The railroad commission today set the allowable production of sweet gas for February in the East Panhandle zone at 199,045,000 cubic feet daily and in the West Panhandle at 625,803,000 cubic feet. Authorized production of sour gas in the Panhandle was 378,693,000 cubic feet daily.

Allowable production of sweet and sour gas for February in the state outside the Panhandle was set at 375,505,000 and 9,695,000 cubic feet daily, respectively. The new allowances give the East Panhandle an increase of 17,871,000 cubic feet daily in sweet gas over January and the West Panhandle an increase of 17,251,000 cubic feet. The Panhandle sour gas production was ordered cut 141,803,000 cubic feet daily.

A Citizens Traffic Reporting committee, whose names are secret, and who include both men and women received instructions last night from the city commission and from Don Conley, chairman of the traffic advisory committee. These citizens have received cards which they will use to report traffic violations which they observe. The cards filled out with stated information, will be used by the police officers in trying to improve traffic conditions.

A study of local accident sites is being made by J. R. McKinley, building inspector and former traffic officer. A map is marked with colored tacks to show locations of mishaps. One of the corners with most tacks is that at the southeast corner of the city hall grounds, although the crashes have been minor in most instances. The south Pampa traffic signal corner is another dangerous point, especially late at night after the light is discontinued.

City Manager C. L. Stine made recommendations last night for repairs at the city fairground in preparation for the heavier spring and summer consumption. He urged that the next WPA allocation, expected in early summer in addition to the fairground projects, be used for building ground storage of 5 to 10 million gallon capacity. A pump bowl must be bought for one well and well No. 1 lowered 10 feet into the sand to increase flow.

"Not Guilty" Is Verdict in Trial On Driving Charge

A jury in 31st district court this morning returned a verdict of "not guilty" in the trial of W. R. James, charged with driving while intoxicated at McLean last July 13.

The jury was out about an hour. It included Joe Loper, J. M. McCreiter, Will Lealey, W. P. Ridner, J. G. Daulton, J. W. Ivey, Glenn B. Ritter, Lee Waggoner, Curtis Lancaster, P. F. Britten, J. E. Carter, and E. S. Crane.

At noon today, a jury had been selected for the trial of J. G. Wingfield, indicted for driving while intoxicated.

The jury: Ennis Jones, W. H. Davis, Allen Wilson, Bill Shield, R. H. Kitchings, W. M. Finley, C. F. Murphy, Milton Carpenter, Sam Irwin, G. T. Cole, J. C. Wilson, W. M. Banta.

The instrument was admitted as evidence over defense objections. E. T. Miller, chief defense counsel, began an attack on the method through which the alleged confession was obtained.

Sheriff Bill Adams testified Hamlin had insisted that the statement contained nothing that would reflect on his slain wife.

The witness said three persons told him of seeing men at the Hamlin residence during the defendant's absence from Amarillo prior to the homicide.

Hamlin appeared recovered after suffering what a physician termed an epileptic fit in the court room yesterday afternoon.

Frank Johnson has taken out a permit for a $4,000 residence on Mary Ellen street overlooking the city park. He sold a house built nearby to Principal L. L. Sone.

Buster Kaufman, city architect, is working on plans and specification for buildings at the city fairground park. They include a grandstand display building, and gymnasium. One of these will be selected for work after the rack track is completed and fence built. The grandstand will likely be next.

Confession of Hamlin Is Read

PARWELL, Jan. 21. (P)—George S. Hamlin's purported confession of the hammer slaying of his wife at Amarillo last January was read to the jury in his murder trial here today.

The instrument was admitted as evidence over defense objections. E. T. Miller, chief defense counsel, began an attack on the method through which the alleged confession was obtained.

Sheriff Bill Adams testified Hamlin had insisted that the statement contained nothing that would reflect on his slain wife.

PRINCE OF WALES DID NOT WANT TO BE MONARCH

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

Executive Assistant, (P) Foreign Service

Again for Britain have come echoing words from the ages the fateful word, "The King is dead; long live the king," and upon the comparatively youthful shoulders of her favorite son has fallen in these troubled times the crushing burden of sovereignty over the greatest empire the world has known.

For Edward, Prince of Wales, these words, which have ushered in and out an endless line of English rulers, spelled double tragedy. They robbed him of a beloved father who had been his companion and guide since the days of bed-time stories; they thrust him upon a throne which he would much prefer not to occupy.

The Prince long had let it be known that he did not want to be king. He would have preferred that one of his brothers rule, for by every inclination he is a country gentleman—just plain David Windsor, citizen in ordinary.

He is conscientious and never will shirk the duty which, through birth, he owes to the peoples he loves, but to David (the name by which his family calls him) Windsor belongs the heart of this wholly lovable, unpretentious, outdoor chap, who had rather be with his men on the roundup on his "E. P." ranch at Pekisko, Calgary, than playing the role of royalty.

Palaces and regal splendor mean little to him for himself. Often he has gone about his heavy public duties as Prince of Wales though yearning for the great outdoors—his ranch, his farms, his cattle, his horses and his sports.

Palace just "digs" Even when in residence in London his home has reflected the character of David Windsor. He has lived in great York House, which adjoins beautiful old St. James' palace, abode of many famous royal predecessors. But to him it has been just his "digs."

There are some 30 rooms in York House, though it is doubtful whether David Windsor knows exactly how many there are. It never mattered to him for he has had no interest in any except two—his bedroom and his sitting room.

These two to sleep and a place where he could get his feet up and read or chat contentedly with his pals, puffing his favorite briar pipe. His rooms were not elaborate; just such as any other ordinary chap would have—some favorite books scattered about; pictures of his mother and father and sister on his desk; a few easy chairs just suited to their owner.

Now David Windsor becomes king-emperor and moves into the wonder palaces of the English monarchs, thrusting behind him his "digs," his Canadian ranch, and all the rest of the private life which he has held dear.

Fought in Trenches The prince will bring to the throne a wealth of equipment for his great task. His training for kingship began in the cradle, and has continued intensively until the present time.

He got his first real insight into life when as a mere stripling he went to the British front in France to fight along with the rest of the flower of Britain's manhood. A good soldier he was, too.

There were many who tried to dissuade the royal heir from endangering his life. They discovered

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 21. (P)—A theory that a pistol was fired aboard the giant airliner "Southern" before it plunged 17 persons to death in an Arkansas swamp held the attention of investigators today.

Discovery in the wreckage of an automatic pistol and a piece of metal with a hole through it about the size of a bullet served only to deepen the mystery of what happened aboard the ship.

Edward VIII Succeeds George V

The new title, King Edward VIII, was used for the first time today when parliament met to swear allegiance to the eldest son of King George V, above, who died yesterday afternoon in the 36th year of his reign. Edward, shown left is the first bachelor king since 1760. The funeral of King George will be Tuesday, January 28 in St. George's chapel of Windsor castle. The body will lie in state in Westminster hall from Thursday until the time of the funeral. At the present time it is in Sandringham, the place of death.

Cantor's Girls Are Threatened

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21. (P)—The Examiner said today Eddie Cantor, screen comedian, was the target of a recent extortion plot which threatened his five daughters unless $5,000 were paid.

The Examiner related two extortion letters were received at the Cantor home in Beverly Hills on successive days several weeks ago. The first demanded "35,000 or else." The second instructed Cantor to take $5,000 in an old shoe box and place it himself beside a mailbox on a certain corner in Los Angeles.

Cantor's daughters were reported under guard in the East.

KING GEORGE DIES AND SON TAKES THRONE

FLIES TO LONDON TO ASSUME SCEPTOR OF FATHER

BY G. H. ANDERSON.

LONDON, Jan. 21. (P)—A new king, Edward VIII, took up the rule of the British empire of nearly five hundred million people today. The man whom the world has known as the Prince of Wales discarded royal precedence to fly from the bier of his late father, King George V, in Sandringham house to the capital.

He made the 100-mile trip in his private airplane and was the first British monarch to travel by air. Four hours later the new ruler met the privy council in an ancient ceremony at St. James' palace. He made his declaration and received the oath of allegiance from the councillors, who served his late father.

The council, which was in session just under an hour, heard Edward intone this age-old declaration: "I, Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David, do solemnly and sincerely, in the presence of God, profess, testify and declare that I am a faithful member of the protestant reformed church by law established in England, and that I shall, according to the true intent of enactments which secure the protestant succession to the throne of my realm, uphold and maintain said enactments to the best of my powers, according to law."

Edward followed the precedent of centuries in hastening to St. James' palace to take the scepter dropped by the dying king.

But his adherence to precedent ended there. Previously, other crown princes had traveled by coach, by ship, by train, and finally by auto. But today, the 41-year-old Edward had reached St. James less than 12 hours after his father breathed his last. The total trip occupied only two hours.

After his entrance into St. James', through streets lined with thousands of subjects, the new king went to Buckingham palace to see his brother, the Duke of Gloucester, with whom he talked for half an hour. Gloucester is ill with a cold.

Afterward he went to York House, his official residence as the Prince of Wales, to attend a meeting of naval, military, police, and royal household officials to discuss the arrangements for the ceremonies of the next few days.

Gas Fumes and Exposure Leave Man Unconscious

Found lying by the side of a bunk house near Skellytown early this morning, Bob Murphy was brought to his home here and later taken to Pampa-Jarratt hospital suffering from exposure and "balancing" of gas fumes.

Mr. Murphy, who is drilling a number of wells on the Schafer ranch near Skellytown, visited the wells until after midnight, when he decided to stay at one of the bunk houses instead of returning to Pampa. He apparently turned the gas too low or did not have sufficient ventilation.

Attending physicians say he apparently awoke and was able to stagger to the door before losing consciousness. He was found about 5:30 o'clock this morning. How long he lay unconscious in the cold is not known. Fear of pneumonia necessitated his being taken to the hospital.

SUICIDE BULLET TALKED IN CRASH

DALLAS, Jan. 21. (P)—The Dallas News says the plane so close to invalidate suicide clauses in insurance policies, might have plunged the 17 passengers of the luxurious American Airlines plane to death in a boggy Arkansas swamp last week.

The paper, in an exclusive story, cites a recent department of commerce order that doctors to pilots' cockpits must be locked during the flight of airliners, in substantiation of its theory that a passenger aboard the plane committed suicide and carried 16 others to death with him.

The News said Airline officials were investigating that angle. Three factors were included in the paper's theory that the person brought wholesale death into the plane so close to invalidate suicide clauses in insurance policies.

They were listed as: "1. A pistol, apparently belonging to neither pilot, was found in the wreckage.

"2. One body was found ahead with that of the pilot and co-pilot, indicating some third person was in the control room.

"3. One of the passengers, it was learned exclusively by the News, had made two attempts to take out additional $25,000 policies on his life after boarding the plane."

Douglas plans have been closed, the paper said, but not locked from the passengers' compartments. At the front of each plane an electric sign flashes automatically when the altimeter shows the plane is at a certain height to warn passengers to strap on belts in preparation for a landing. A study of the bodies showed all had been prepared for a landing.

House Praises Royal Monarch

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (P)—Col. Edward M. House, a frequent visitor to Buckingham palace in the World War era, made the following comment today on the death of George V: "The death of King George V closed the career of one of the most notable figures of modern times."

"He was not only a great monarch, but he was a great gentleman, beloved by his subjects through the world and respected by all mankind."

John Darden left today for Tyler, where he will be associated in the practice of law with his father, Judge J. W. Darden.

BOY SCOUT SUSTAINING PLAN

If Boy Scouting is an investment in manhood, in good citizenship, in obedience to law, in enlightened parenthood, it is a movement which ought not to require a campaign every year.

Parents of boys are eager that their sons may be good citizens and that they may have clean youths with which to associate. Parents of daughters have an equal stake in the kind of boys who associate with their girls. All citizens have a common interest in good citizenship.

The sustaining club plan adopted for the Adobe Walls Boy Scout council takes into consideration these facts. It recognizes that while ability to pay may fluctuate somewhat, the desirability of supporting the work is constant. A pledge, once made, ought to be self-renewing without the formality and time loss of a campaign. Any change in the pledge—increasing or decreasing of the annual investment—ought to be voluntarily made by the friend of boys and Boy Scouting.

The campaign opening tomorrow is, therefore, a "drive to end drives" insofar as city-wide campaigns are concerned. In the future, far less work on the part of the finance committees ought to be required.

While the plan may seem visionary to those who have not seen it work, it has a record of success which proves its value.

Furthermore, it is important to know that Scouting now is a program which lasts from boyhood (9-year-old Cubs) to death. Adults can find pleasure in the Scout movement as long as their interest in boys remains. It is not merely a supporting function, but an activity function. Success of the sustaining club plan ought to be easily possible here and elsewhere in the council.

CAPITOL CHATTER

BY CHARLES E. SIMONS

AUSTIN, Jan. 20.—The possibility that federal control of the oil industry might again threaten, took some of the edge off reports... as far as railroad commission officials were concerned... of the extension of the Rodessa field into Texas from Louisiana.

The extension, should it develop, may offer a definite test of the ability of oil producing states to control their affairs with the situation acknowledgedly complicated because Louisiana, where major development of the field has centered, is not a signatory to the oil states compact.

Some reports are that the railroad commission has shown little concern over the problem but in this it may be whistling through the graveyard. A person reputedly close to the commission has suggested the Texas regulatory body might simply follow Louisiana in the matter of setting allowable for wells in the field.

This procedure, observers generally believe, would be fraught with danger. They point out that the per well allowable in East Texas, heretofore the sore spot of the oil industry, has been curtailed until it has reached what many believe is the irreducible minimum.

"What would be the attitude of the East Texas operators if they were forced to curtail their production to an average of 40 barrels a day while operators in the Cass county area of the Rodessa field, a few miles distant, were allowed 500 barrels a day? was one question asked.

Wells on the Louisiana side are allowed 500 barrels daily.

A large group of East Texas operators has become vocally insistent that the allowable for that field be given a sizeable increase. Several hundred appeared at the last statewide prorating hearing of the commission to present their demands but the action was of no avail. The commission ordered a further decrease in the allowable.

The East Texas attitude, however, found a champion in Commissioner Lon A. Smith who refused to sign the order authorizing the cut, drafted by Chairman Ernest O. Thompson and Commissioner C. V. Terrell. Smith said emphatically he believed the East Texas field was being discriminated against and should have been given a substantial increase in allowable.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—It was a good thing the Democrats had a speech on the program for their Jackson Day dinner. Otherwise, most of the guests wouldn't have been able to take their minds or eyes off the Hon. J. Bruce Kremer.

To tell the truth, there was even more inter-table and intra-table whispering about the Hon. J. Bruce than there was over the stiff fact that the dinner was costing $50 a plate.

He was stuck right in at the head table between the president and the vice president of the United States and nobody could have been more conspicuous unless he had hung from one of the magnificent chandeliers by the slack of his pants.

Once upon a time Mr. Roosevelt had publicly frowned upon the various Democratic national committeemen who had moved here to become lawyer-lobbyists and cash in on their political acquaintanceship and prestige—and it was around that time that Committeeman Kremer of Montana and others resigned.

Of course J. Bruce was chairman of the committee which organized the dinner, but efforts to learn how he landed that post or his seat at table proved all in vain.

Many other lobbyists were there and most of them were looking enviously at Mr. Kremer. Also, social climbers, favor-seekers, politicians, hick congressmen, and a host of jobholders were there because they feared their absence would put them on the bad books of the patronage pic-counter.

It takes all kinds to make a political party and elect a president. (The Democratic National Committee, for instance, is loaded with "Old Dealers"—McAdoo of California, Talmadge of Georgia, Paddy Nash of Chicago, Taggart of Indiana, Ruby Laffoon of Kentucky, Howard Bruce of Maryland, Ely of Massachusetts, Hague of New Jersey, Chavez of New Mexico, Shuping of North Carolina, Ewing of Utah, Byrd of Virginia, and many others who don't exactly click with Roosevelt liberalism.)

Roosevelt's speech was worth at least part of the admission price. You can judge its content for yourself, but hardly deny that this is the most effective, appealing, and brilliant gent who has been in presidential politics in many a long year.

This was a fighting man and it was easy to see him as a refined replica of Andrew Jackson.

Next day, when Jim Farley auctioned off the national convention, you found Kremer and Arthur Mullen, the celebrated lobbyist and ex-committeeman from Nebraska, sitting right in the middle of the Democratic National Committee, from which they were commonly supposed to have been barred because of their lucrative business activities.

It seems that J. Bruce had a proxy for the national committee-woman from Alaska and Mullen had one from the committeeman from Hawaii.

BARBS

With a new air-conditioned bed, it is said, blankets can be kicked off in the winter. Now for a machine that will spray crumbs between the sheets.

America did a good job when the doughboys went overseas to protect its allied loans. At last reports, they were as hale as ever.

It's an ill wind, etc., and American Automobile Association agency managers may no longer be bothered by farmers seeking corn-hog checks.

A possible comeback, if the girl friend selecting from the menu begins to get out of hand, might be, "What's this, a Jackson Day dinner?"

The president's recent attack on money-changers may bring a situation in which a timid citizen, with only a $20 bill, can starve in a big city.

The Ethiopian campaign has been on for some time now, and the only explanation Il Duce can show for it is an inch or so more on the chest.

Another Rooseveltian tirade against money changers and Timothy Timid will drop his job as cashier at the penny arcade.

PAMPA AND BORGER TO SETTLE DISTRICT CAGE SUPREMACY FRIDAY NIGHT

TURKEY WILL INVADE COURT ON THURSDAY

HARVESTERS PREP FOR TOUGHEST GAMES OF SEASON

The Harvesters will not play one strong team this week—they will play two.

Turkey, Thursday night, and Borger, Friday night.

These are the two teams, exclusive of Lubbock, Plainview, Friona and Abertown, and possible others, that are said to be as good as, if not better, than the Pampa basketball team.

The Harvesters beat the Borger Bulldogs seven points in the Perryton tournament, coming from behind to win after Borger had led three-fourths of the way. Borger doesn't count that game. They point out, over there that it was the beginning of the season, and that the Bulldogs didn't take the game very seriously.

At any rate, Borger beat Amarillo more than Pampa did. According to the comparative scores, Borger is two points better than Pampa. The Harvesters swamped the Sandies 24 to 9, and the Bulldogs crushed the Invaders 24 to 7. Pampa has beaten Panhandle twice, so has Borger. Any way one wants to figure it, the Bulldogs and the Harvesters are rated about even.

Looming more powerful from this distance than the Bulldogs are the Terrible Turks from Turkey, coached by Al Duncan, former Pampaan. Last season, Duncan brought his Turks to Pampa for two games during the Christmas holidays. The Harvesters lost the first game 25 to 24, and won the second 18 to 15, after leading 17 to 10 at the half. So, the two teams are even as far as games lost and won are concerned.

But here's where Duncan has the edge in statistics: Back from his last year's first string he has four regulars—Lipscomb, Yarbrough, Coker and Young; the Turks have wallowed Crowell, heretofore perennial district champions, twice, and they are at present undefeated.

Coach Odus Mitchell has only one 1935 first-string back, Stokes Green. The others, excluding Moose Hartman who never played basketball before this season, came up from the Gorillas.

After Turkey and Borger, the Harvesters will play a six-game schedule which will include games with Borger, Lubbock, Amarillo and Plainview. By that time, the district supremacy, Borger is the only team that looms as a serious challenge to the Harvester machine.

If the Pampa boys can dispose of the Bulldogs in the two conference games by convincing scores, they should win the district title.

Thus far this season, Coach Mitchell's system of practice has been unrequited. There have been no scrimmages. The boys practice shooting and run plays in work-out sessions.

Lloyd Waner Is Critically Ill

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 21 (AP)—Laid low by pneumonia, little Lloyd Waner, whose ability to sock a baseball has won many a hard fought game for the Pittsburgh Pirates, had a different kind of a fight on his hands today.

"We will know definitely today," said his physician, Dr. Leonard C. Williams, adding there was no immediate cause for alarm.

The Pirate outfielder's illness was diagnosed as pneumonia Saturday but his condition was not considered serious after he responded to treatment with serum sent here by airplane. Yesterday the infection in the right lung cleared up but the pneumonia had settled in the left lung, Dr. Williams said.

Last night the physician said Waner was making satisfactory progress. Previously the patient's condition was described as "critical."

The crisis, Dr. Williams said, was due today or tonight.

Wiffy Cox Beat Bill Mehlhorn

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 21 (AP)—Wiffy Cox proved today a seven on a par-four hole should never discourage a golfer.

Cox had such a hole yesterday and still beat Wild Bill Mehlhorn, Louisville, Ky., in a play-off for $750 first money in the Sacramento open golf tournament.

The Bethesda, Mo., professional suffered a seven on the 43-yard fourth hole after hooking his second shot into a hedge. He came back on the 545-yard thirteenth to hole a 75-yard approach for his eagle.

Mehlhorn, tied with Cox at the end of 72 holes Sunday, struggled along almost even with the former sailor to that point and although he tried gallantly thereafter, doing his best to sink an ace at the short eighteenth, he never caught up.

One Hold Used In 2 Falls As Sonnenberg 'Wins' Show

Gouging, Biting and Hair-Pulling Are Enjoyed

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT, Associated Press Staff Writer.

DALLAS, Jan. 21 (AP)—Two noted brethren of the wrestling fraternity, Augustus Sonnenberg and William Edwards, recognized in their rowdy moments as Gus and Billy met in combat here last evening.

The crowd was terrific, the applause colossal and the action stupendous.

Everyone left happy and obviously satisfied—except the gentleman with the puzzled facial expression.

He was the gentleman in seat three, row eleven, section E—the gentleman who timidly thumbs the book all evening. He understood from other gentlemen and ladies who elbowed him out of the arena that Mr. Sonnenberg, once known in some states as the champion of all the heavyweights, had "won."

Not for the life of him could he fathom that for not more than 30 minutes before he had seen Mr. Sonnenberg violate enough rules in the book to disqualify him for his next three bouts. The muddle cleared somewhat when the gentleman with the rule book recalled that Mr. Edwards also had committed several breaches of the regulations.

Mr. Sonnenberg must have won on a foul, he reasoned.

The first fall brought out exactly one hold, a wristlock used by both combatants to spill the other on the mat. Mr. Edwards' favorite hold, a firm grasp on Mr. Sonnenberg's thatch of curly hair, drew throaty bores from the crowd. The gentleman hastily turned the pages of the book but could find the "hold" neither under "hair" nor "bores."

Mr. Edwards also introduced two new "holds," the bicep bite and the mouth-stretcher. He used the first effectively in mauling his way out of a difficult position while under one of Mr. Sonnenberg's hair-like stretches. He used the mouth-stretcher a moment later to avoid considerable embarrassment.

He had the ex-champ in his lap, slipped his hands into Mr. Sonnenberg's mouth and pulled in opposite directions. Hardy had the old Dutchman's mouth stretched to the limit of fun, (as yet unlisted in the rules book) before Mr. Edwards bent one of his fingers back almost to the wrist.

To cap it all, Mr. Edwards waited until Mr. Sonnenberg had sought safety in the ropes and then reached over in a very illegal manner and used the ropes and a chiropractic headlock, in a combination of headlock and an occasional eye gouge, to send Mr. Sonnenberg into considerable misery.

The man with the rules book brightened when the referee disqualified Mr. Edwards and gave the tottering Mr. Sonnenberg the fall. After all, the rules plainly state that "restrictions include seizing hair, flesh, ears, and clothing; twisting of fingers and toes; striking, kicking, gouging, hair-pulling and butting and any grip that endangers life or limb."

The second fall was the first fall remodeled—and a trifle shorter. Mr. Sonnenberg tired of the illegal tactics and got in a bit of an eye gouging himself and finally ended it all by knocking both referee and Mr. Edwards from the ring with a flying tackle as they stood talking in the ropes.

The referee pulled himself together after the count of about 70, was shoved back into the ring and gleefully lifted Mr. Sonnenberg's hand.

The gentleman gave his rule book to the peanut boy on the way out.

LeFors Profs Beat McLean's In 51-31 Rout

By putting through a last period barrage of shots, the Pirate Profs of LeFors last night came from behind and swept into a commanding lead to defeat the Tiger Profs of McLean, 51 to 31, in the "rubber" game of their series.

The Pirate Profs had a one-point lead going into the second period. They increased the advantage at the half, leading 25 to 18. Looping shots from all angles, McLean jumped into a 28 to 26 lead at the end of the third stanza. It was in the last period that the home team started making baskets from all positions.

Coach Bill Bronson led the scoring for the night with 23 points. Smith, center and guard, was a close second, looping 10 field goals for 20 points. McCluskey, other forward, went scoreless but his deadly pass was responsible for many field goals shot by Bronson and Smith. Hill, guard, added 4 points and Pongberg, other guard, got two.

"Hokey" Stratton, former football and basketball star who is ineligible for conference play because of the eight-semester rule, was pressed into service by the McLean Profs because of the illness of Murdoch, regular center. Stratton showed his ability by making 15 points and leading his team's attack. Later, forward, followed Stratton with 12 points. McHenry and Allen each hit the basket for field goals while Foster went scoreless.

The teams played wild basketball most of the way but at times the defenses cracked wide open to make scoring easy.

RULES COMMITTEE OF GRID COACHES BODY TO MEET SOON

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21 (AP)—The rules committee of the American Football Coaches association decided today to meet in Pittsburgh Feb. 1.

The committee meeting here will offer any suggestions agreed upon to the national football rules committee.

Sutherland, one of the east's ranking coaches, is known to favor letting the regulations largely alone for awhile "and let the coaches get used to them."

It will be the first meeting of the coaches' rules committee in Pittsburgh. Tuss McLaughry of Brown, president of the association, accepted today a field worker on the federal writers' project.

The writers' project, a federally-sponsored work, will consist in the collection of information concerning the history, topography, historic landmarks, education, fine arts, literature, ethnology, folk-lore, customs and traditions, every part of the United States. This information will be published in a work to be known as The American Guide, in five volumes, each volume covering a certain region.

Four counties, Gray, Wheeler, Colliergeworth, Donley, will be covered by Mr. Emerson.

Mr. Emerson's services on this project were especially desired by the local director at Amarillo, as he is ably qualified for the work, having had two and one-half years experience on the Pampa Daily News.

CARDINALS TO HAVE 10 SET SUBS ON CLUB

YOUNGSTERS MAY BE IN FRONT LINE SPOTS

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 21 (AP)—Unless they gaze upon the mound, fans this summer may look "round and round" without seeing a veteran St. Louis Cardinal substitute.

Except for pitchers, the Cards have no veteran reserves for 1936 at any position. And managers possibly may be in two, or even three, front line spots when the season opens.

This is first time such a condition has existed on the Cardinal team since it stepped into baseball's front ranks a decade ago. It may set a precedent for any major league club.

Leaving out pitchers, here are the veterans:

Collins, first base; Frisch, second; Durocher, shortstop; Gelbert, third; Medwick, left field; T. Moore, center; Pepper, Martin, right; Virgil Davis, catcher. Catcher Bill DeLoach, now in the hospital, is not considered because of his illness.

Pitchers are Dizzy and Paul Dean, Haines, Hallahan, Walker, Heuser, and F. Becker.

Rookie Johnny Mize, with only a few months experience in the majors, has a chance of being the Cards' regular first baseman. If Mize whips it up during training season the Cardinals might think seriously of taking the Giants' offer for Jim Collins.

Manager Frankie Frisch hopes to play more often this season than last, when he was in only 89 games. But Frisch will be 38 years old in September and may pass out as a regular if a younger player shows enough promise to take over the job.

With Delancy ill, the Cards are less likely to trade Catcher Virgil Davis than they were last fall, but there's still a possibility.

If he should go there would be four rookie catchers, Ryba, Ogdowski, Clark and Nelson. They are among the 15 Cardinal farm graduates who will get serious training camp attention.

Consultants on Texas Guidebook In Area Chosen

AMARILLO, Jan. 21 (AP)—Persons to be consulted on questions expected to rise in the preparation of the Amarillo section of the Texas guidebook, Works Progress administration project for writers on relief, have been named by J. Frank Davis, state director of the Writers' Project.

Members of the committee will be consulted in connection with the various phases of the research during the preparation of the guidebook. Each has been selected as an authority on some special topic.

Those who will be consultants on the comprehensive manuscript were announced by A. A. Meredith, director of WPA district 16, as follows:

- History, L. F. Sheffy, Canyon.
- Folk-Lore, Albert H. Law, Dalhart.
- Architecture, Guy Carlander, Amarillo.
- Catholic Church, the Rev. R. E. Lucey, Amarillo.
- Protestant Churches, the Rev. G. H. Bryant, Texline.
- Agriculture, P. C. Bennett, Vega.
- Art, Harold Bugbee, Clearendon.
- Bibliography, Mary Moss Richardson, Canyon.
- Music, Ralph Smith, Hereford.
- Wildflowers, Mrs. L. A. Wells, Amarillo.
- Public Health, Dr. B. M. Primer, Amarillo.
- General consultation, Gene A. Howe, Amarillo.

Brownwood Emerson, for the past three months project clerk on Pampa's three WPA projects, will begin to Amarillo tomorrow to begin his duties as a field worker on the federal writers' project.

The writers' project, a federally-sponsored work, will consist in the collection of information concerning the history, topography, historic landmarks, education, fine arts, literature, ethnology, folk-lore, customs and traditions, every part of the United States. Aggies Hammer Out Victory Over Frogs; Ponies Beaten

CO-CAPTAINS OF 1935 GRID TEAM ELECTED

J. R. GREEN AND PHILIP NOLAND HONORED BY SQUAD

J. R. Green, end, and Philip Noland, guard, were elected co-captains of the 1935 Harvester football team at a meeting yesterday afternoon.

Instead of naming a captain at the beginning of the season, a different player was named for most of the games. At the close of the season the boys were to select their permanent captains.

The two players led in the voting all the way. Their work in handling the team in hard games was outstanding and ability was rewarded with the captaincy. Both players were regulars on the 1934 Harvester team.

Sweaters were ordered yesterday and will be given players who make their grades during the first semester, which closed on Thursday.

All the players on the squad who make their grades will be given either a regular or reserve letter. Time played in conference games will determine the type of award.

The same system of naming captains will be followed this season unless some player stands out as a leader. Coach Odus Mitchell said this morning.

Sports Roundup

BY EDDIE BRIETZ, Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—Howard Jones is busy denying reports he will resign at Southern California. Also, Midwest scribes who are having a fine old time shifting Clark Shaughnessy all around the country can forget about it. He's sitting pretty at Chicago and likely will continue to do the same for a while.

When he turned down those Harvard overtures, Chicago not only kicked in with a nice raise, but gave him a full faculty professorship for life. Which means he'll collect from Chicago as long as he lives, and stays at Chicago. Not many coaches in a better spot.

When they presented Coach Elmer Layden with a silk topper at the Notre Dame testimonial dinner, Toastmaster Warren Brown cracked: "I believe this is the first time a Notre Dame man has worn a high hat and I hope and trust it will be the last."

Owls Rap Mustangs For 42 to 26 Win

(By The Associated Press.)

The Texas Aggies appeared in the Southwest conference basketball win column today for the first time this season and the Rice Owls remained a serious threat in the title race.

The Aggies, three-time losers, hammered out a 26 to 19 victory from the Texas Christian Frogs last night at Fort Worth while the Owls opened a last fall offensive to beat Southern Methodist, 42 to 26, at Dallas.

Rice's victory put the Owls in second place. Texas and Arkansas are tied for the top position. The Aggie win left Baylor alone in the cellar with three losses and no victories.

The Aggie-Frog game was a nip and tuck battle. The Aggies jumped into a 9-3 lead in the opening minutes but the Frogs slowly sliced the margin and knotted the Owls at 11-all shortly before the first half ended. The Aggies, however, managed to lead 15 to 14, at the intermission.

Sam Baugh shot a field goal as the second period opened to put the Frogs in front the only time. Baugh continued to find the basket, but the Frogs were unable to stop the sharp-shooting Aggies.

Southern Methodist opened with a sudden spurt that put the Ponies ahead, 11 to 6, but the Owls, led by Kelley and Steele, warmed up to the situation and shot their way to a 16-15 advantage at the half.

Jack Steele led the Owls' last half offensive with four field goals and took scoring honors with 14 points. Harry Witt and Wade Owen did a good job of feeding the ball to the Frogs, but the Owls completely ruled the second period.

Blanton led the Mustangs' scoring with 11 points.

LEIF HENIE, brother of Sonja Henie, Norway's world champion figure skater, has, with the privilege of a brother, disclosed something of pretty Sonja's long distance courtship by many and various young men.

Persistence, plain and simple seems to be the sterling trait of admirers whom Sonja has never met.

"Her most ardent lover is an American, who for a long time has sent her three letters every week, and who says he will continue to send her letters until she consents to marry him," declares brother Leif.

He refused to name this particular suitor. In the matter of Americans, however, rumor—never idle as regards Sonja's eventual marriage—persists in mention of Jeff Dickson, American sports promoter in London and Paris.

But there is also a German chap who sends Sonja a letter every fortnight with the regularity of ordinary devotion, Leif hastens to explain.

Loves Labor Lost

He writes 16 pages each time but he uses Gothic letters which Sonja cannot read. And there are letters every day from all countries from men who want to marry her.

But Sonja most likely will make up her mind before long and settle the matter.

"This is the last winter season for Sonja," Leif points out. "She wants to marry and to live in the United States in Paris and compete in the Olympic games at Garmisch-Partenkirchen and also the European championships in Berlin. After that she intends to retire from active competition and limit herself to exhibitions."

"Sonja is not tired of competition, but Mother is. Mother neither sleeps nor eats for three or four days before each competition.

"How many prizes Sonja has won so far I can't say off-hand, but there are three that are highly valued in the bank vault. I guess there must be about 300 cups and 50 medals."

The next world champion to succeed Sonja? In the opinion of Leif Henie, from his observation as Sonja's brother, it will be none other than Cecilia Colledge, England's hope for the future, who was runner-up to Sonja for the world title.

Foreign Determination

While Olympic officials feel that the figure skating scene which will represent the United States at Garmisch-Partenkirchen is very likely the best ever to wear the red, white and blue shields in the winter Olympics, they entertain no illusions about winning individual championships while Sonja Henie of Norway and Karl Schafer of Austria are still in competition.

Miss Maribel Vinson of Boston, eight times national figure skating champion, has improved greatly in the past two years and stands head and shoulders above her rivals in this country. She ought to give a good account of herself, but there is little likelihood that she has improved sufficiently to challenge Norway's Skating Queen.

Some day Robin Lee, 16-year-old senior figure skating champion, may wear the Olympic crown, but he, too, does not figure to do more than press Schafer at the present time.

A 15 per cent increase in retail business was registered in Birmingham, Ala., during 1935.

LETTERS ARE PRESENTED TO IRISH ELEVEN

100 PLAYERS, PARENTS AND GUESTS ATTEND GRID BANQUET

SHAMROCK, Jan. 20.—Awarding of letters to members of the Shamrock high school football squad and presentation of the coaches' trophy to Robert Trostle, stellar Irish tackle, were highlights in the annual football banquet Saturday night when more than 100 players, parents and special guests attended.

The coaches' trophy, awarded by Garrison Rush and John Walker, went to Trostle on a basis of training, attitude in practice and in games, and his ability on both offense and defense. Trostle was an almost unanimous selection as all-district tackle.

Election of a captain for next season was postponed until interscholastic rules have determined what players will be eligible for next season.

Letters presented were: Jerry Grady, Milton England, Wilson Usrey, Doyle Fuller, Co-Captain Ross Mills, James Brothers, Floyd Seago, E. P. Schogovover, Robert Trostle and Weldon Rook, linemen, and Leamon McEntyre, Clay Rook, Archie Skidmore, Neal Davis, James Shortt and Co-Captain Dale Wells, backfield men. The Dale brothers were unable to be present at the banquet.

A crowd of more than 100 attended the well appointed affair, including members of the faculty, their wives and husbands, and a few outside guests in addition to members of the football and pep squads.

The Legion hut was attired in the Shamrock high school colors of green and white, while the programs and table favors carried out the banquet theme, "Streamline Tour with the Irish." Miniature streamline cars were table favors which toy trucks held abt candles which lighted the table.

SIGNS OF SPRING
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Jan. 21 (AP)—Tornadoes and robins spell an early spring to Meteorologist C. E. Hadley. Dearly windstorms such as have struck the southland, recently don't generally come until March, and their early arrival, Hadley believes, foretells an early spring. Less scientific but more pleasant is the presence of hundreds of northbound robins here.

Church Societies Meet For Study And Business Monday

SECRETARY IS NAMED IN McCULLOUGH WMS CIRCLE

Business and study were on program for Isabelle McCullough circle of the Methodist Missionary society, meeting yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. E. C. Casey. Mrs. V. N. Osborne was elected secretary for the year, to complete the list of officers.

After the opening prayer by Mrs. A. M. Rogers, a song was led by Mrs. H. C. Boyd and a poem read by Mrs. C. W. Tolle. All joined in the lesson discussion on Stewardship.

Refreshments were served to a visitor, Mrs. G. O. Harris, and Misses G. A. Harris, Ben Ward, V. L. Robinson, E. L. Campbell, John W. Foster, A. A. Smith, A. McClelland, J. E. Beard, W. Vandever, and those on program.

Why a Christian? Is Sermon Topic For Evangelist

"Maybe you are not called upon often to give a reason for the hope that is within you, but living in a college town I am often called on to tell just why I am a Christian," said the evangelist, George R. Davis, last night in beginning his sermon at the First Christian church.

"One of the greatest challenges in America today is for men to elevate the 'almighty dollar' to the place of divinity. Jesus said, 'Man shall not live by bread alone.' Could you wake up in the morning without a dime or a meal, could you walk the streets in rage looking for a job and still keep your faith in Christ?"

"I am a Christian first of all because Christianity is the only religion that reaches out to all classes. The rich and poor, the wise and simple."

"Why do I belong to the Christian church in preference to any other? Because the Christian church takes the Bible as its only rule of faith and practice. We don't talk about creeds or experiences. We ask men to take the word of God, forget their traditions and ideas and open the book and do what they find there."

Special musical numbers tonight will include another selection for the vibraphone and voice, "The Rains Came," which will be sung by R. L. Allison while it is played by Howard House on the vibraphone. This will also be the picture that is drawn for tonight.

Standard Cakes Are Sold by Club Woman

"Since getting my white butter cake standardized in November, I have sold $5 worth of cakes," said Mrs. Clyde Klum of the Bell Home Demonstration club.

"I gave one cake for a Christmas present and it opened the path for the sales," continued Mrs. King.

Mrs. King has purchased an oven thermometer, two cake cooling racks, and two square cake pans of excellent material. These articles completed her supply of standard equipment required in making cakes for marketing.

Luncheon Is Served To Wheeler League

WHEELER, Jan. 21.—League members of the Methodist church enjoyed a fellowship luncheon Sunday. Bennie Adams and Martha Alice Wiley were hosts. And the meal in the church dining room the group attended the evening service.

BLACK-DRAUGHT RELIEF IS PROMPT AND REFRESHING

It's a good idea that so many people have—to keep Black-Draught handy so they can take a dose for prompt relief at the first sign of constipation.

"I have used Black-Draught a long time, about as long as I can remember, and have a package on my shelf now," writes Mr. Sherman Shedd of Eversville, Tenn. "I take Black-Draught for constipation which causes headache, a bad, tired feeling and for biliousness, bad taste in the mouth and sluggish feeling. Black-Draught, taken about two nights, clears up this trouble and I get all right."

Black-Draught is made of medicinal herbs, and is finely ground, but no other nature in their natural condition. It is a gentle laxative that men and women like so well because of the refreshing relief it brings in constipation troubles. (Adv.)

Going to China

Though Oriental to her long, polished fingernails, Hollywood's beautiful Chinese actress, Anna May Wong, above, has never been in China. But that won't hold true for long, since Miss Wong is en route to the land of her ancestors, where she may appear in Chinese-produced plays. She was born in Los Angeles.

Bridge Club Has Valentine Party

Mrs. H. C. Berry entertained Monday Contract club with a Valentine party at her home yesterday afternoon. Bridge tables were arranged with red and white appointments, and these colors were repeated in the refreshment course.

Class to Serve An Oyster Supper

An old-fashioned oyster supper will be served by Friendship class of First Methodist church in the church dining room Friday evening from 6 to 9 o'clock, with the public invited.

Jacket Dress—Flattery Collar

There are many things about this charming jacket dress that will make you just adore it.

The soft pretty collar carries down into the bodice, and in a subtle way diminishes breadth through the waist and the hips. This model is equally smart with or without the jacket.

Black crepe combined with white crepe in the original.

Printed crepe silk with plain toning crepe would be very smart.

This woollens are excellent too for this easily made model.

Style No. 1676 is designed for sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46-inches bust. Size 36 requires 5 1/2 yards of 39-inch material with 1/4 yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Our New Spring Fashion Book will enable you to have smart clothes for less money. It's just full of new ideas.

Blind Senator's Widow in Race

Voicing the hope that she can "trot right along in pa's footsteps," Mrs. Thomas E. Schall, widow of Minnesota's blind senator, is shown at her ironer as her candidacy for the U. S. senate seat vacated by Schall's death was announced. Politics has been a large part of her life for 20 years, she explained, and declared that, as an old-style patriot, she would continue Schall's attacks on the administration.

DEATH SPLITS SENATE TEAM, BUT MRS. SCHALL CARRIES ON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Schall is "pushing 60" and she's never made a speech. But she has decided to run for the senate seat left vacant by the recent death of her husband, Senator Thomas D. Schall, republican, of Minnesota.

"I know Tom would like it," she explains. "And congress has been my life for 20 years. I want to go on with it."

She figures she'll campaign just about the way her husband did, provided she gets the nomination in the Minnesota republican primaries. She will stay in Washington, however, till the primaries are over.

Then—"If they want me, I'll come. If they don't, no hard feelings."

She accompanied Schall on every campaign since his first one in 1916. She did the driving and put up cards in country store windows.

When she saw a crowd she would step up and say in her soft voice: "Tom Schall's speaking down the street. Come on along and hear him." And they'd come.

Now, if nominated she'll do all of it; drive, put up cards and speak. "I'm land poor," she says, "but I'd rather have the memory of those years with Tom Schall than all the money he could have left me. We went places, knew people, and took part in public life."

"At night we'd come home and surround Tom—the three children, too—and argue out public issues. We'd all talk at once, all of us trying to convince the others, and of course, not succeeding."

Her eyes shine as she recalls incidents about her husband, the blind senator who was a bitter critic of the present administration. She is small with soft gray hair fluffing about her face. Her features show the signs of strain since her husband died. But the weeping is over, and she seems glad to have set her hand to the political plow.

"If I am elected I'll go on with the issues he championed. I want old-fashioned-American patriotism. I don't think we need an amendment to the constitution, for instance. That document seems sacred to me. The time may come when the public will want it, and when they do I'll act as Tom did—as a representative of the people. I'll vote for it."

"I will probably make a wide campaign among women's groups. I have a great faith in women as voters. They don't seem so easily swayed," Mrs. Schall feels that if she reaches the senate there will be times when she'll want to speak her mind. The only woman member at present is Hattie Caraway of Arkansas, noted for her silence.

"After all," she says, "I campaigned in the early days when plenty of meetings were held in saloons, and you know, no 'nice lady' went into a saloon on those days. But I did. I went with Tom. And I never had an unpleasant experience. Political life isn't half bad."

Club Girl's Work Has Value of $62 With Small Expense

"I am pleased with my net earning of $46 in club work," wrote Margaret Tignor of the Sunshine 4-H club in her club history for 1935.

Ten plants of preserves was the goal set for all cooperators in farm food supply, and Margaret had 26 plants, together with 85 quarts of fruits and vegetables, which was all valued at $27.70. Her expense was $7.

As a cooperator in bedroom improvement she made a candlewick bedspread, a linen dresser scarf, a linen towel, and a pair of pillow cases. She won $12.50 in prizes on these articles in local and district displays.

She made three cotton dresses as part of her club work as wardrobe cooperators.

The materials used in the bedroom improvement and wardrobe work cost $9, and the articles are valued at $21.80. The valuation placed on all club work is $49.50, plus the $12.50 earned in prizes, and the expense for the year is only $10.

Fathers' Night Is Announced at B. M. Baker School

Tuesday of next week has been set as the date for the annual fathers' night program of B. M. Baker Parent-Teacher association, it was announced today by Principal J. A. Meek.

The program will be at the school building, with Supt. R. B. Fisher as the only speaker. Entertainment will be included, with special thought to pleasing the men who will be guests for the evening.

All parents of pupils at the school are urged to be present, and the fathers are being given special invitations.

CLASS PARTY TONIGHT

The young people's class in First Methodist Sunday school taught by E. N. Dennard will be entertained this evening at 8 at the home of Miss Josephine Lane, 709 N. Frost. All members are invited, and each may ask a guest for the party.

The average member of the 1936 Kentucky general assembly is a 46-year-old lawyer.

COMMITTEE TO PLAN SALE OF BADGES NAMED

Club Council Begins Centennial Badge Program

A sales organization for distribution of Texas Centennial badges here will be formed in the Council of Women's clubs, it was decided at a called council meeting yesterday afternoon.

Mmes. Bob Robinson, Glen Pool, S. A. Hurst, and G. C. Walstad were named by Mrs. Raymond Harrah, president, to serve on a committee to plan for sales here of the official Centennial badges. All clubs in the council have voted to assist in the sale.

Discussion of the plan for selling the emblems, by which the clubs will share in the profits, occupied the entire meeting hour.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

EFFECTIVE RESTRAINT

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 21 (AP)—Mrs. Cathryn Cook, 31, a nurse, complained to court officials that her husband, Charles, made a practice of taking her false teeth in order to keep her home quiet.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

DEATH CLOSES THEATERS AND MUSIC HALLS

SPORTS EVENTS IN LONDON POSTPONED AS KING DIES

LONDON, Jan. 21. (AP)—Millions of British subjects, with a mingling tumult of emotions, mourned today the death of King George V and hailed the new sovereign, Edward VIII.

A steady stream of mourners filed in out of St. Paul's cathedral and Westminster Abbey to kneel and pray.

All London's theaters, music halls and cabarets were closed for the day. Countless sports events were postponed. Hursi park announced that the race meetings tomorrow and Thursday were called off. Greyhound races were cancelled.

Plumes of funeral black and crepe mantled the doorways of shop-windows, lending a sombre tone to the city, otherwise sparkling under the most brilliant sunshine of the new year.

An unprecedented rush of orders for mourning apparel swamped West End stores.

All courts were closed.

An ice hockey match between the United States Olympic team and the Wembley Lions, scheduled for tonight, was postponed until after the Olympic games in Germany.

Great crowds, bare-headed and talking quietly, massed outside Buckingham Palace.

The new king's equestrian, Sir John Laird, was the earliest arrival at St. James' Palace, coming to prepare the palace for the dramatic afternoon scene when Britain's new "flying monarch" was to take the oath of accession.

The British Broadcasting company suspended all broadcasts for the day, except for gale warnings and shipping forecasts. Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's address to the nation will be the only evening event for the radio.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS

The United States Civil Service commission has announced open competitive examinations as follows:

Assistant animal fiber technologist, $2,600 a year, assistant animal husbandman (sheep breeding), $2,600 a year, Bureau of Animal Industry, Department of Agriculture.

Chief industrial economist, $6,500 a year, Nautical Labor Relations board.

Certain specified education and experience are required for these positions.

All states except Colorado, Iowa, Maryland, Minnesota, Vermont, Virginia, and the District of Columbia have received less than their quota of appointments in the apportioned departmental service in Washington.

Full information may be obtained from O. K. Gaylor, secretary of the U. S. Civil Service Board of Examiners, at the post office.

LUMBERJACKS WIN

SAN MARCOS, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Stephen F. Austin lumberjacks, defending champions of the Lone Star basketball conference, opened loop play last night with a 46 to 31 victory from the Southwest Texas Teachers. Massey, Stephen F. Austin center, led scoring with 17 points.

NEVER MIND THE LADY

by David Garth

Chapter 29
It was around fifteen minutes later that there was a knock on the door and the knob was rattled impatiently. Puff jumped up quickly, her lips forming the words: "Who is it?"

"George Fox, I guess," he said, looking at her in surprise.
She skipped discreetly across to the door of the bath, touched her lips with her forefinger in warning, and then closed the door behind her.

Willett smiled slightly. Hurray for the United States Senate; he'd forgotten about that. Her action made him feel a party to backdoor intrigue.

He went over and opened the room door. Fox and two other men were standing there.

"Hullo, George!" he greeted. "This is a surprise. The Ambassador from Wayback! How are you boys?"
They grinned tensely at each other and shook hands. The other two men brushed by Willett and went into the room.

They looked keenly around and suddenly one of them uttered a triumphant exclamation and picked up Puff's cigarette case from the table. It was a thin gold thing with a small vanity mirror set in platinum on the cover.

Terry regarded them unfavorably.

"Who are those birds, George?" Fox closed the door behind him. "They're private detectives, Terry. They want to ask you a few questions. Allaire West has disappeared, and her father has an idea you know something about it—"

"And he does," said one of the men, holding up the case. "This is no man's trinket. There's been a woman here. Where is she, buddy?"

"Wait a minute," ordered Fox. He turned to Terry.
"Don't get angry, son. Allaire's been missing two days. Have you any idea—where she is?"

"Disappeared?" repeated Terry. Something seemed to chase up and down his spine. "Disappeared?"

The detectives were inspecting the room. One of them started for the bathroom door. Willett acted swiftly and headed the man off. Puff put him in a rotten position. "Hold on!" he said, "who asked you?"

"Oh—! So that's where she is!" "Terry—!" It was Fox's voice, despairing, disappointed, the voice of a man stricken.

"It isn't Allaire," said Willett steadily.

"Yeah? We'll believe it when we see her!"

"It isn't Allaire," repeated Willett steadily. "I give you my word."
"Well then, what's the harm if we see who it is?"

"Because," said Willett, "it's none of your damned business."

"That don't suit me—" began the detective, but Fox stepped in.

"I know Mr. Willett and he's a straight shooter. If he says it isn't Miss West—it isn't. I'll take the responsibility with Mr. West."

There was a brief discussion. Clearly the operatives thought it their duty to make certain, but finally they left.

"Pardon it, Terry. We're all worried sick. Allaire disappeared right after you left the house the other night and Ray had an idea you knew something about it. You don't so well have to start over again. Let's go. You're needed."

In the taxi Fox explained swiftly. He'd come to New York to warn Ray West that LaMarr was contemplating blackmail. He found LaMarr had already seen him.

"That business at the docks has come up, LaMarr's threatening to release the story—"

"What kind of a story?"
"Hildez died of his wounds, Terry. That changes things. And nobody could prove why Allaire shot but you."

"The hell he died!" He pulled through. Probably back double-crossing everybody right and left again.

"But Terry—how could you know?"
"I don't get it."
"You left town. Hildez was still flirting with death then."
"Oh," said Willett. "That's right, he'd forgotten. They thought he'd left town on the 'Parajalbo.'"

"And I let the case slip past." Fox shook his head wearily. "We can't prove LaMarr wrong and Ray hasn't enough time to take the chance. LaMarr wants thirty thousand dollars right away. What I can't figure is why LaMarr approached me before he went after Ray. That's both-erred me, something funny about it."

Willett laughed shortly.
"It's simple. He wanted to be sure of how much you knew. You probably appeared on the scene just as he was about to spring this story and he wanted to make sure nobody could catch his bluff."
"Bluff?"
"Willett put a hand briefly on the attaché's knee."
"Let me take care of this, George."

then Ray's glance fell. He shook hands with Terry.
"Can you help us, George said you knew all about the facts of this rotten business?"
"I know enough," said Willett. "Where's LaMarr?"
"He's coming here soon. I'm about ready to pay him off and get rid of that worry at least."
"Ray looked doubtful."
The front door bell pealed dis-istantly up the hall. Ray looked at his watch.
"LaMarr," he said.

Chapter 30
RUNAWAY
There are several noteworthy features about the town of Carteret.

First, of course, was the way in which the town had held its rustic integrity against the onslaughts of state highways.

Then there was that statue in the square—note-worthy because very few towns had their own private heroes; usually there was a Minute Man, or a World War veteran, that symbolized Heroism as a whole.

And again a person sensitive to those things might be able to assimilate the spirit of bugle calls, marching men, families burying their silver in mint beds as the guns of the invader drew near, and snowy-poled slaves leading fine saddle-horses up to porticoes of one morning—all those things, in short, that exuded from the fine old house and colonial gardens in and around the town.

Conceivable, indeed, that a person might come here on impulse to dream, and forget for the moment an outside world that seemed to be going around in circles.

It had been impulse that started Allaire off that night—the impulse of a girl who couldn't possibly have sat one of her mother's lengthy state dinners like the torrid Trigger Fish of the Arundel Bar.

Not that she knew where she was going, but she wanted to be on her way with the hum of a powerful motor at the top of her shoe and the rush of wind past her ears. It wasn't until she had worn off the first edge of her speed that she had her idea.

Drop over to Carteret sometime he had invited ironically, and take a look at a new marker in the churchyard. It said something about "The storm is over now—"

In the swift flow of anger he had intuited that her evening on the docks had an association with a new marker in a Virginia churchyard. Feminine curiosity did the trick; she turned her wheel for Carteret and the next morning she had investigated markers under the kindly guide of an old minister who introduced himself as Doctor Ross.

He was a venerable, kindly man with faded blue eyes behind pince-nez.

"The storm is over now. The stars are out and the night wind is fresh and sweet," Lawrence Willett?

"Lawrence Willett?" she repeated. "Was he Terry's father?"
The minister looked at her with sudden interest; Terence Willett knocking around footloose would seem to have made the acquaintance of a very attractive girl.

"Yes," he said. "He died recently of fever down in South America where he was working on an engineering project. Terence brought him back home."
"It was his father then," she murmured. "I don't understand, but I wish—I'd known."
"Why?" asked old Doctor Ross curiously watching this grandly alive young person as she stood among those who had departed.

"Terry came to see me. I wasn't very nice to him, Doctor Ross."
"I'm sorry to hear that," he said gravely. "Terence needed sympathy when he left here. Not routine words, but stimulating and inspiring understanding. He loved his father and yet he felt that he had been a failure as a son. Why, I don't know."

"She was silent for a moment. She said she didn't see how she was associated with the death of Terry's father."

"Wouldn't you care to tell me about it?" he invited gently. "Come on up to the house and tell me about Terry."

"For some strange reason she felt she would like to tell this gentle old man all about it. She had an uneasy feeling that she had made one of those silly, inane gestures she detested, so she accompanied him up on the wide shady verandah of a house garnished with ivy and latticed with honeysuckle.

He waited in silence for her to make up her mind and finally she decided and impulsively told him of her meeting with Terry Willett and the quick, breathless evening that had followed.

"After that—there isn't much to tell, Doctor Ross. I—well, I'd been looking for somebody like Terry Willett a long, long time. A strong man going some place and not afraid of anything on earth. And I would have flung myself at him, I really think—" she flushed deeply. "—if he'd given me the chance. He walked out on me without a word, without a thought, just ambled on as though his life was nothing much and the people who preserved it came a dime a dozen."

"It isn't the fact of saving his life," she said earnestly. "I mean I don't want to be crowned a little tin heroine. But I knew he was trying to do something and I felt as though I'd had a hand in helping him. My father once made a satiric remark about a pioneer woman shooting at Indians from a covered wagon. He thought it funny but it wasn't funny—it was true. I did want to feel that—"

She stopped and laughed with embarrassment. "Heaven, I must sound like an idiot. Doctor Ross, you're a dangerous person. I never talked like that to anyone before in my life. Excuse it, please."

She jumped up, but he put a winning hand on her young arm.

"Don't go, my dear. I know what's wrong. You are in love with Terry Willett and you won't admit it."

She almost gasped.
"Why, Doctor Ross—! Please, isn't that just a little bit far-fetched? It would make a very romantic dime novel in an ink-blotted magazine, but—it's not so."

"Well," his features crinkled into a smile. "I don't see why it shouldn't be. I think Terry could make some woman very happy. I like that young man immensely. Don't you really like him too, my dear? Just a little, perhaps?"
"But—"

"But—what?" he asked, as she fell silent.

Allaire uttered a little sigh. "Oh—you're right, I'm afraid. And I hate to admit it. I've fought against it but I wanted to see him again, and when he came I sent him away. Everything's ruined and lost and soiled," she exclaimed passionately. "I'm so darned tired of all this."

He shook his head.
"Why is everything ruined, and lost and soiled?"
"Oh, it just is. I'd never get that same feeling as when I saw him for the first time. And here he probably hates me. So there you are, and I've wasted enough of your time bleating like a stricken high school sophomore."

But she didn't rise even though she seemed as though she were about to do that very thing. She sat where she was and knit slim dark brows in deep thought. Clearly, my lady was a bit disturbed.

"I don't believe," the minister said thoughtfully. "That Terry would ever deliberately disappoint anyone. Perhaps you never thought he might have something to say."

"I know he didn't say anything," she said flatly. "And I don't want to be in love with a person who's a disappointment."

"Perhaps," Doctor Ross commented gently, "that is why Queen Elizabeth never married."

Allaire's head came up with a start.
"You talk like everybody else," she said regretfully. "I'm snooty? I'm not. Can't a woman have ideals—?"

"Can't a man?" he returned evenly, and held up a quick hand. "Please do not mistake me. I think you are a very fine person and you are trying to be sincere with yourself. Pride is a priceless thing to have if held within bounds, but inordinance can blind and defeat. Men like Willett don't answer whistles, my child. Why don't you find him?"

Her lips parted in amazement. "Chase after him, you mean?" she was close to being wrathful.

"Things worth having are worth pursuing, but Terry would never know he was being pursued. One of the arts of women is to pursue the man she wants and all the while make him think he's pursuing her." He chuckled drily.

"Your hallowed white hairs, Doctor Ross," she said severely, "conceal a schemer's brain, I fear. So you think I am all wrong and ought to be ashamed of myself?"

"No. I say you want Terry Willett and therefore you should go after him."

"Never," she declared. "Not in a million years."

President Sends Condolences To Family of King

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. (AP)—Universal expressions of regret that a "good king" had passed away were heard in the capital today as the nation's leaders sent condolences to the family of George V.

President Roosevelt sent a telegram to the new king, Edward, as well as to Queen Mary, and to the governors general of the British dominions. Secretary Hull sent messages to the prime ministers of Britain and the Dominions.

To Edward, who twice visited the white house as Prince of Wales, the president messaged:

"It is with deep sorrow that I learn of the death of His Majesty, your father. I send to you my profound sympathy and that of the people of the United States, in whose respect and affection he occupied a high and unique place. I had the privilege of knowing His Majesty during the war days and his passing brings to me personally a special sorrow."

To the widowed queen, the chief executive cabiled:

"Mrs. Roosevelt and I extend to Your Majesty and to the members of your family our heartfelt sympathy and join you in mourning the loss of one whose high qualities of kindness and wisdom have been so powerful an influence for universal peace and justice."

Third Victim of Kerosene Blast On Farm Is Dead

DALLAS, Jan. 21 (AP)—Burns suffered in a kerosene explosion at a Stangeville farm house caused the death today of Wesley Riley, 37, the third fatality from the blast.

Early this morning his daughter, Minnie Riley, 13, succumbed to a fatal five-gallon open kerosene can and poured some of the fuel into the stove.

The explosion occurred last night when Riley, thinking the fire in the kitchen stove was not hot enough, lifted a five-gallon open kerosene can and poured some of the fuel into the stove.

Flaming oil was sprayed over the family, which had gathered in the kitchen for supper.

Mrs. Clara Riley, wife of the fatally burned man, was severely burned about the face, arms and parts of her body.

Brinkley Fights To Regain Kansas Medical License OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 21 (AP)—The six-year-old fight of Dr. John R. Brinkley, former Milford (Kan.) physician, to regain the right to practice medicine in Kansas centered here today before the United States circuit court of appeals.

In the absence of the former "goat gland" specialist, who now has his offices and a radio station at Del Rio, Texas, his attorneys had ready for presentation many legal arguments to support an appeal from the Kansas medical board ruling of 1930, revoking his license to practice medicine.

Opposing the appeal were Robert T. O'Neil, special attorney for the Kansas medical board, and William C. Ralston, special assistant Kansas attorney general.

Dr. Brinkley, who has been the center of one of the most violent legal and political storms in Kansas history, was quoted yesterday as saying he would like to attend the hearing but "heavy practice prevents my leaving Del Rio."

Pampans' Relative Dies in Amarillo A message telling of the death of Gaye Criger of Dumas, in an Amarillo hospital last night, was received by relatives here.

LOUISIANA TO GIVE VERDICT ON HUEY LONG

VOTERS TO PASS ON HIS MACHINE AND POLICIES TODAY

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 21 (AP)—Louisiana voters registered a post-humous verdict today on the policies and political machine of the late Senator Huey Long.

A slate of Long followers was opposed on the democratic primary election ballot by a ticket pledged to "restoration of local self government."

A successor to Long, a governor, congressman and other officials were to be chosen. Nomination is equivalent to election.

Judge Richard Leche, administration candidate for governor, was pledged to "carry on the work" of Long.

With cool but fair weather forecast, a record vote was anticipated. Some thought the total would be above 400,000 because of the Long-sponsored abolition of the $1 poll tax.

Both factions predicted victory by overwhelming majorities. The spirited campaign has been marked by talk of "bloodshed," vote stealing, troops, murder plots and congressional investigations.

The anti-Long forces contended Governor O. C. Allen planned to "steal" the primary through his controlled election machinery.

When Long was shot fatally in the 33-story state house at Baton Rouge last September, there were few to dispute his rule except bitter but impotent and unorganized minorities.

Confusion in administration ranks followed his death. Governor Allen is a candidate for Long's unexpired term ending Jan. 3, 1937. He is supported by Frank Looney, Shreveport attorney.

ABOUT NEW YORK BY GEORGE TUCKER NEW YORK—After years of writing of New York, I'm getting to be like the fellow who occasionally whacks himself on the top of the head—it feels so good when you stop.

I mean, of late I've been asking myself what Broadway is and it's disturbing to find that I don't know.

If a stranger were suddenly to bob up and demand an explanation, I suppose I'd describe it as an area that began with Rector and ended with the House of Morgan, for Broadway never extends beyond the present. But that definition at best would be superficial.

Perhaps things here are too transitory. New York's complex changes so rapidly that what currently confounds and amazes will be ancient history tomorrow.

What apparently is to be a fascinating journey but before nightfall we emerge into the same old phony street. . . . A street of chorus girls who love their old mothers and who nurse broken hearts while waiting for Prince Charming to rescue them from their night life world.

Dallasite Elected

W. V. BALLEW. The National Federation of Sales Executives elected W. V. Ballew as its vice-chairman at a recent meeting.

The primary aims of the National Federation of Sales Executives are (1) to provide the sales side of business with a national voice, (2) to develop a wider and more influential fraternalism among those engaged in all managerial phases of selling and marketing.

Association membership is available only to clubs, associations, societies or other groups concerned with sales and marketing or the teaching thereof.

The first annual meeting will be held in Chicago in June of this year.

FACTORY DESTROYED HOUSTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Globe box factory here early today, damaged several houses in the neighborhood and, for a time, threatened to develop into a widespread conflagration.

Damage was estimated at $50,000. Three alarms were sounded and 22 pieces of fire apparatus manned by 100 firemen assembled.

OPPOSITION TO FARM-AID ACT IS POWERFUL

MEASURE LIKELY NOT TO BE SPEEDED THROUGH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Powerful opposition was voiced in the senate today to speeding the administration's new farm plan thru amendments to an appropriation bill which already has passed the house.

Some democrats as well as republicans demanded the plan should be considered "on its merits" as projecting a plan to attain AAA's separate legislation.

Administration men have been objecting through cash benefits to farmers who cooperate in a soil conservation program, but authoritative sources indicated today that the president's advisors were not all in complete agreement.

High officials were called to a White House conference. They included Secretaries Wallace and Morgenthau, Attorney General Cummings, and legislative leaders.

Chairman Jones (D Tex) of the house agriculture committee and Senator Bankhead (D Ala), who were among those summoned to confer, had prepared soil conservation-crop control bills for immediate introduction.

Jones had said the bills were much the same, though his measure included a domestic allotment plan.

Bankhead had said his legislation would be in the form of amendments to the soil conservation act of 1935 and that he would ask that it be considered as amendments to the first appropriation bill to come up for debate.

With planting scheduled to begin in the far south within a few weeks, Bankhead and others felt this was the best way to get the new plan in operation in time.

Senator McNary, republican leader, was one of those who demanded the plan should be considered "on its merits."

"I don't believe in legislation on an appropriation bill," McNary said.

Today I write of something new and strange to New York, but I must hurry. Tomorrow it will be a bone picked clean by every urchin in the street.

MacArthur wired: "Congratulations. I'm always glad to see a radio actress make good on the stage."

This was typical MacArthur humor, and I was telling it about the office when a smart copy boy said loftily, "I heard that on the subway this morning."

The wire then was only eight hours old, and hadn't been chronicled by any of the Broadway scribes. Don't ask me where he got it.

If there were columnists in ancient Rome, one wonders what thoughts filled their minds as they strode the Appian Way, wrapped in their flowing togas, snaring gossip from the passing Caesars and lean-faceted senators.

Perhaps an innate sixth sense warned them that the Broadways they knew would some day come down to the dust, just as this Broadway will a thousand, three thousand, ten thousand years hence. What then will have become of the metropolis between the rivers?

Curious figures will poke among the ruins. And one of them, consulting a crinkled parchment chart, will suddenly cry, "Sink me, Aesop, if here isn't where Tex Guinan had her 300 club!"

It may be like that.

Bankhead had said his legislation would be in the form of amendments to the soil conservation act of 1935 and that he would ask that it be considered as amendments to the first appropriation bill to come up for debate.

With planting scheduled to begin in the far south within a few weeks, Bankhead and others felt this was the best way to get the new plan in operation in time.

Senator McNary, republican leader, was one of those who demanded the plan should be considered "on its merits."

TUESDAY EVENING, JANUARY

The Little Harvester

EXAMINATION PERIOD STARTS TOMORROW; NEW PLAN TO BE FOLLOWED THROUGH THURSDAY

Students Will Have No Time Out of Classes

Mid-term examinations will begin tomorrow afternoon and will extend through Thursday. The examination periods will be one and a half hours in length.

All students will be required to be in their classes and study halls through Thursday even if their tests may be over. The rule on cutting classes will be applied. This way of holding examinations was decided upon in order to keep down general disorder prevalent in the halls and around school under the old plan.

Third and four hour classes will have examinations Wednesday afternoon; first and second period classes will be examined Thursday morning; and the fifth and sixth hour classes will meet Thursday afternoon.

Students will not attend school Friday, as teachers will be busy making out grades.

Teachers have been assisting students in their home rooms in the making out of next semester's program. Particular stress has been placed upon the necessity of seniors being sure of their grade points before deciding upon their schedules.

Monday morning at 8:45 each student is to report to his home room, where programs for the second semester will be checked.

Home rooms will remain as they are for the second semester.

CLASSES HEAR SPECIAL TALKS BY LOCAL MEN

Speakers Deal With Subjects Being Studied

Talks by Pampa business men and by Superintendent R. B. Fisher were heard by students in regular class sessions last week.

Dr. R. A. Webb spoke before classes in the science department and in the junior high school Wednesday. Dr. Webb compared the human body with an automobile engine, pointing out that it is as necessary for a person to keep each part of his body functioning properly as it is for the automobile owner to care for his machine. He also discussed ways of preventing the spread of tuberculosis and spinal meningitis.

W. F. Frazer talked to the advanced arithmetic classes about property insurance in Pampa. He explained how rates are determined on various types of property.

Crime and its prevention was discussed by Mr. Fisher when he talked to E. N. Dendard's civics class Tuesday. He compared crime statistics in Russia, England, and the United States and explained methods now being used in attempting to prevent crime in these countries. He showed the students pictures taken while he was in Russia last summer.

Program Given At Ward School

High school representatives staged a program at Sam Houston ward school Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.

A girls' quartet composed of Martha Price, Dorothea Roseberry, Betty Ann McTaggart, Teresa Campbell, and Catherine Barrett, accompanist, were introduced by Louise Roseberry, who was in charge of the program.

After the quartet numbers, Janice Purviance gave a reading, which was followed by songs by the boys' quartet, composed of Mickey Ledrick, Rex Rose, Tom Rose Jr., and Arvo Goddard. Harry Kelley entertained the audience with a few of his imitations.

The final number was a play presented by Maxine Wheatley and Howard Zimmerman.

One-Act Play Roles Subject of Meeting

Plans for work in preparation for the one-act play troupe for next year were discussed at a meeting of candidates for roles held at 4 o'clock yesterday.

"Dust," which was read by Ben Guill, dramatics teacher, in assembly last Wednesday, will be the play used this year. The play, which deals with the pioneer spirit surviving dust storms as it did through earlier hardships, was written last summer by Mr. Guill and Archer Fullington.

STUDY DIALECTS For the last two weeks Mr. Guill's public speaking classes have been studying the Negro and Italian dialects.

To obtain the correct Negro spirit the pupils practiced on Negro sermons, many of which were given effectively.

To perfect the Italian dialect the students are giving Italian poems, the favorite being "Between Two Loves."

Examination Schedule Is Announced

The program for final first-semester examinations, which start tomorrow afternoon, follows:

Wednesday 1-2:30—Third-hour classes. 2:30-4—Fourth-hour classes.

Thursday 8:45-10:15—First-hour classes. 10:30-12—Second-hour classes. 1-2:30—Fifth-hour classes. 2:30—Sixth-hour classes.

Students who are scheduled for study halls will be expected to be present as usual. There will be no free periods or releasing of students from school during the examination period. There will be no school Friday, since teachers will need that day for grading.

COLLEGE HEAD WILL ADDRESS FACULTY HERE

Dr. J. A. Hill To Be At Meeting of Teachers

Dr. J. A. Hill, president of West Texas State Teachers college, will be the main speaker Saturday morning at the second general faculty meeting, to be held in the city auditorium at 10 o'clock with the high school faculty in charge.

Dr. Hill will speak on character education, the subject of the program arranged by Miss Anne Louise Jones, of the high school English department.

A group of high school students, under the direction of Delmer Ashworth, will stage a class room demonstration after which Mr. Ashworth will give a discussion.

Miss Helen Martin will direct the musical numbers which will open the program.

Four other meetings are scheduled for the remainder of the year, the various schools taking turns in planning the programs.

Girls Learn to Apply Bandages

Girls' physical education classes here are being taught practical physical training. While they have learned to play many games for both enjoyment and beneficial exercises, they are now being taught bandaging. Each girl is asked to bring gauze to class, and under Miss Kathleen Milam's instruction she learns how to apply bandages in emergency cases.

The girls are being given health lectures on subjects such as tuberculosis and the prevention and cure of colds.

Written examinations will be given this year in physical education just as in other subjects.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION TEACHERS SEEK TO GIVE TRAINING SUITED TO STUDENT'S INDIVIDUAL NEED

Instruction Offered Is of Varied Nature

Modern ideas in physical education are being used in the work of Pampa high school under the direction of Miss Kathleen Milam and Harry Kelley. The ideal of the department is to offer a modern but temperate program which is suited to the needs of the students. Such a program, of course necessarily pays attention to the needs of the individual.

The department gives courses in tumbling, all sorts of games, and various types of exercises for both boys and girls.

ATTENDED BAYLOR U. While attending Baylor university, at Waco, Miss Milam participated in many sports events. She entered the swimming meet of the Women's Athletic association of the Southern conference several seasons. While in school, she taught riding, archery and swimming.

From 1931 to 1935, Miss Milam was a member of either the long-term or the summer faculty of her alma mater. Last summer she was acting-head of Baylor's physical education department.

Miss Milam, prior to going to the university, spent one term as a student in Baylor college, at Belton, where she taught swimming. She has an A. B. degree from the university and has almost completed work on her M. A.

For two years Miss Milam was director of health education in the Y. W. C. A. at Waco. She is a member of Beta Beta Beta, a national honorary scholastic fraternity. She was twice president of the Women's Athletic association.

HERE FIVE YEARS Harry Kelley, boys' physical education instructor, is well-known in Pampa and especially so in the high school. In addition to physical education, he teaches mechanical drawing and directs the boys' quartet.

Baseball League May Be Formed For District One

A high school baseball league will probably be formed with Class A teams of District One as members, it was learned here yesterday.

Plans are being rounded out for the number one sport of the country to be played by Panhandle high school diamond artists. Baseball has been played for several years in some of the other districts of the state, but this sport has never become firmly established in the high schools of this section.

Sports officials of Amarillo and Pampa school have agreed that the sport could be of great value to the schools, and an agreement has been made to establish a baseball league. An investigation is being made to see what other teams in the district are interested in the league. A schedule will be made out in the near future. Coach Bill Anderson is in charge of baseball for Pampa high school.

STUDENTS MAY CHOOSE FROM NEW SUBJECTS Schedule for Second Term Has Added Electives

Several subjects that have not been offered thus far this year are scheduled for next semester. Among these is salesmanship, a good course for students interested in clerking and commercial work. Frank Monroe is teacher of the course, which will come at the fifth hour. Since the course is being offered for the first time, it is not yet affiliated.

Another interesting half-year course will be girls' glee club, at the sixth hour. Sponsors are Miss Angela Strnad and Mrs. E. L. Norman.

A beginners' band will also be started next semester under the direction of Winston Savage. Fifth-hour classes will be held in the band room.

Texas history, a valuable course to every Texas student, will be taught by Ernest Cobe at the second hour. This class promises to be an interesting as well as educational one.

Debate, offered for the first period, will be under the supervision of Doyle F. Osborne. This subject will give activity credit.

Trigonometry will be taught by W. N. Anderson at the third period. This course is especially recommended for students who enjoy mathematics and those who have previously had the other courses offered in high school.

TENNIS TEAMS WILL USE NEW LOCAL COURTS

Change Necessary to Make Room for Auditorium

High school tennis players will soon start practice on city courts. The tennis courts must be abolished for the construction of the new high school auditorium.

According to B. G. Gordon, tennis coach, the high school players will use the soon-to-be-completed municipal courts.

The tennis prospects look good this season. Both girls' and boys' teams will have the services of some of last year's lettermen. Returning for the boys there will be Ralph Lefty Hamilton, Wayne Winkler, and Edgar Wyatt. Two of the trio of last year's men are lettermen from the 1935 team: Bill McBride, Bill Steele, W. J. Brown, Edgar Wyatt, Wayne Winkler, Harold McMurtry, and Howard Wood.

Sandwiches, fruit punch, and red and green pop corn balls were served to the group.

Sociology Students Have Class Debate

Last Thursday morning, in Mr. Cobe's sociology class, a debate was held by the entire class on whether or not the United States should join the League of Nations.

Mr. C. T. Hunkapillar was a visitor and after the debate was ended she talked to the class about modern social problems.

The sociology class has had several such debates on social problems during the semester.

Journalism Class Visits News Office

Journalism students visited the Pampa Daily News office last Tuesday at the fifth hour. Explanations of the operation of the linotype, job press, and other mechanical devices in plant were given by members of the NEWS force. Many terms were explained, and the students were later honor guests at a surprise test on what they had seen.

Local Girls Win At Volley Ball

Pampa volleyball girls defeated the LeFors team here Friday afternoon, winning five out of six games. Pampa players and their scores follow: Mary McCallum, 13; Erma Kincheole, 12; Meiba Williams, 11; Jackie Bragg, 7; Thelma Seeds, 7; Frances Nash, 5; Geraldine Hyatt, 5; Sarah Bradford, 3; De Ann Heiskell, 1; Bessie Belle Davis, 0.

The girls are steadily improving and working hard toward winning the championship in the district meet.

A Chance To Help

With final examinations starting tomorrow, students should remember that their co-operation will be appreciated by the members of the faculty.

Certain rules for the examination period have been announced but some students may not understand why they are not given the privilege of doing as they please.

A teacher does not feel that he should give one student a privilege which he cannot extend to all other students. Naturally, this would not work out well, and students should not make it necessary for teachers to actively enforce rules.

Students should remember that examination time is an even busier time for teachers than it is for them. The teacher's time is valuable, and it should not be necessary for him to be forced to waste that time dealing with the student who always has an excuse for running around in the halls when he should be in the classroom. Nor should he lose time because of the student who makes it a point to be absent when his examination time comes.

Teachers are busy this week not only with examinations, but also with efforts to help those students who need assistance in completing their work in order to pass. They are trying to be helpful while doing a great amount of grading and other work. Students should keep this in mind and make every effort not to hinder faculty members in their work.

Every student can co-operate also by planning his schedule for the next semester now. Teachers will be glad to help whenever possible, but students should consider the teachers' convenience when asking advice—A. M. T.

More Books Added To School Library

New books received in the library, Miss Latimer said yesterday, include "Junior and Senior Declarations" by Johnson, an excellent selection stressing Texas history and Centennial material; "The Cowboy and His Interpreters," by Branch; "The Odyssey of Cabeza de Vaca," by Bishop; "Opportunity Ahead," by Ernst, a selection of unusual careers, each written by an eminent member of that profession; "Essays of Our Day," by Ward; "Book of Holiday Plays," by Shay; "Modern Plays," by Law; and "Exploring With the Microscope," by Yates.

Group Entertained At Barrett Home

Bernice and Lois Barrett were hostesses to a group of friends at an "informal" party Thursday evening.

Guests included Cleo Lee, Mary and Florine Crocker, Wilma Webb, Inez Hawkins, Rita Holmes, Frances Coffey, Billy Scott, Garland Pierce, Raymond Baxter, Carl Brown, Bill McBride, Bill Steele, W. J. Brown, Edgar Wyatt, Wayne Winkler, Harold McMurtry, and Howard Wood.

School Chooses Favorites Soon

Details of the coming beauty and popularity contests will be announced next week, staff members said yesterday. The rules will be carried in the next issue of The Little Harvester.

All class pictures were completed last week, the only pictures yet to be made being the activity pictures. The staff agreed to have these pictures made by the middle of February. Those activities that do not come until later, of course, cannot have pictures made until that time.

All teachers who have activity pictures that they would like to have in the annual yearbook are asked to report to Mrs. Hol Wagner, faculty adviser for the staff.

declamation contestants will be coached by Mr. Guill, who directed the one-act play "Snakescreen," which won first place in the state finals two years ago. "Dust," written by the speech instructor and Archer Fullington, will be used as the local one-act play this year.

Sets Novel Record

Believed to have written more books than any living author, G. B. Burgin of Highgate, London, is pictured at work on his 114th novel. He has just celebrated his 80th birthday and has turned out at least two novels a year for 56 years.

Gorillas Slated For Battle With Tigers Thursday

The Pampa high school Gorillas will play the first team of LeFors Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. The Gorillas have shown constant improvement since the first of the season.

The apemen won their game with LeFors last Wednesday evening when the cagers from LeFors appeared upon the local floor. Doyle Enloe, showing the same fight and love for the game as his older brother, Morris Enloe, a former Harvester, proved himself an asset to Coach Dendard's team as he scored 11 of the locals' 28 points.

Every man on the Pampa team scored, and all played a fine class of defensive ball as they held LeFors to a 19-point score. Other men scoring for the Gorillas were Morrow, with 9, and Reynolds, with 4 points. Dull and McKay scored only 2 points each, but both made up for lack of scoring by their wonderful defensive play.

Science Students Are Shown Movies

Motion pictures were shown to students in Mrs. Frances Alexander's chemistry classes and Miss Alice Short's biology classes Tuesday in room 106B.

The pictures showed how rubber is made and gave interesting scientific facts about the toad, the frog, and the salamander or water dog.

NO UPSETS

The proper treatment for a bilious child

Three steps to relieving constipation

A cleansing dose today, a smaller quantity tomorrow, less each time, until bowels need no help at all.

ANY mother knows the reason why when her child stops playing, sits little, is hard to manage, constipated. But what a pity so few know the sensible way to set things right!

The ordinary laxative, or even ordinary purgatives, must be carefully regulated as to dosage.

Liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult.

The doctors use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. The liquid laxative most famous here is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Any druggist has it.

Mrs. Hickman of Miami Dies of Pneumonia Seige

Mrs. Julia Annie Hickman, 70 years 8 months, died last night at her home in Miami following an illness of a few days. Death was from pneumonia. Mrs. Hickman had been a resident of Miami for more than 38 years. Her husband, deceased in 1920, operated a hardware store there. She was a member of the Presbyterian church.

Surviving Mrs. Hickman are three daughters, Mrs. Gertrude Dial, Miami, Mrs. Elsie Dial, Perryton, and Mrs. Margaret Ellis, Panhandle; a son, Earl V. Hickman, Miami; five grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. A. B. Weaver, Ligonier, Ind.; a brother H. E. Weckesser, Miami.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Baptist church, Miami, with the Rev. L. Burrey Shell, pastor, the Rev. Joe Boyd, pastor of the Miami Methodist church, the Rev. Joe Wilson, pastor of the Miami Baptist church, and the Rev. B. F. Jackson, retired Methodist minister.

Burial will follow in Miami cemetery in charge of the C. C. Malone Funeral home. The body lies at rest at the family home.

Pallbearers will be J. G. Ramsey, T. J. Quinn, S. E. Fitzgerald, H. A. Talley, M. M. Craig, Jr., and A. J. Montgomery.

Honorary pallbearers will be C. S. Selmer, M. W. O'Loughlin, W. W. Davis, J. E. Kinney, W. E. Stocker, Dan Kliehnen, H. E. Baird and D. D. Payne.

Flowers will be in charge of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Miami Presbyterian church.

House Will Pass Bonus Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The bonus floodtide swept along with unabated strength today as the democratic leadership of the house laid plans to whisk passage tomorrow a "baby bond" payment bill that smashed through the senate yesterday, 74 to 16.

By Thursday morning, it was indicated the bill to pay off more than $2,000,000,000 of adjusted security certificates in $50 cashable bonds will lie on President Roosevelt's desk, provided the house makes no changes that require time to iron out.

The fact that yesterday's emphatic volley of aye votes was much more than the two-thirds necessary to override a veto strengthened predictions, made even by democratic leaders, that the bill would become a law whether President Roosevelt signed it or not. The house already has passed, 356 to 59, an immediate payment bill particular method of payment.

Prison Fugitive Held at Wichita

WICHITA FALLS, Jan. 21 (AP)—A suspect arrested by city police officers in the local railroad yards for loitering early this morning was identified at police headquarters as Milton Furr, given 25 years in Young county in 1933 for the murder of C. S. (Doc) Carlisle. Wichita Falls police officer.

Furr told officers he "walked away" from the power plant near Huntsville Jan. 14. His escape had evidently not been discovered as officers here had not been notified of the escape and it was six hours after they notified prison officials before the latter confirmed the escape. Carlisle was fatally wounded and his partner, Elmer McCord, who is still a member of the police force here was critically wounded, in a gun battle with Furr here in June 1933. The murder case was transferred to Young county and tried in August. Furr was given 15 years and a five-year suspended sentence for burglary was revoked to make the total 30 years.

Furr declared he was on his way back to the penitentiary when arrested and had only come here to visit relatives. He did not resist arrest.

MARKET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—Many share prices trickled lower today in the quietest stock market in more than a month.

A few divisions, such as aircraft, metals and sugars, found a following at slightly better levels at times, but the majority of leaders slipped down fractions, and a few as much as point or so.

The closing tone was about steady. Transactions in the stock exchange totaled around 1,400,000 shares. CHICAGO GRAIN CHICAGO, Jan. 21 (AP)—With speculative and commercial interest at a low ebb, grain values made no important change today.

Wheat futures held within a very small trading range, the May delivery continuing to fluctuate narrowly around the dollar mark, at which price there was some buying credited to mills. Rains likely to delay threshing in Argentina were reported, and so too was some apprehension lest any change to colder weather in Europe might cause crop damage.

Wheat closed steady, unchanged to 1/2 cent lower compared with yesterday's finish, May $1.00-1.00 1/2, corn 1/2 cent down, may 59 1/2-60, oats unchanged to 1/2 cent higher, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to an equal gain.

WOMEN GIVE UP HOPE KING WILL WED COMMONER

Edward Must Marry Royal Princess Only

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP)—With the ascendancy of the 41-year old Prince of Wales to the throne the last "hope" that he might marry a commoner disappeared today for literally thousands of women throughout the world.

For years, particularly since his visit to the United States and Canada in 1919, a torrent of letters has poured in on the blue-eyed bachelor "Prince Charming" — blushing, timid billets doux, or bold, Circé-styled "proposals."

Now, as bachelor king, the new monarch was far removed from such romantic offerings. By the law governing royal marriages in England, the king may marry only a royal princess.

Five princesses, headed by Irene of Greece and Juliana of the Netherlands, appeared to be the only ones eligible to sit with Edward on the British throne.

The others are Catherine of Greece, sister of Irene, both sisters of George II, king of the Hellenes; Eugenie of Greece, cousin of the Greek monarch, and Kyre of Russia, daughter of the Grand Duke Cyril.

Most of the new monarch's friendships, however, have been with women whose social ratings were high, but who were not of royalty. Among Edward's notable favorites as dancing partners have been Viscountess Edna, who died with five others in the crash of a chartered plane flying from Le Touquet to Croyden, Mrs. Dudley Ward, and more recently the dark-eyed Mrs. Ernest Simpson, the former Miss Wallis Warfield of Baltimore, Md.

Mrs. Simpson is one of the most fashionable Americans in London society, and is regarded in society circles as a close friend of the bachelor king.

TALMADGE AGAIN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The new deal's feud with Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia was renewed by Secretary Ickes today with the assertion that "Really I don't pay much attention to anything but my chain-gang excellency says." "I have discovered," he told a press conference, "you couldn't rely on his word and I haven't quite time to spend on him."

OAK COFFIN FOR GEORGE SANDRINGHAM, ENG.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The late King George will be buried in a simple oak coffin carefully fashioned in the workshops of the Royal estate by men who served the dead monarch for years. The wood used for the coffin is from trees felled on the Sandringham grounds several years ago.

given tomorrow morning. The body of the late king will be brought to London Thursday.

The dramatic modernity of Edward's morning flight gave way to medieval pageantry in the later afternoon.

The privy council assembled in St. James' for the so-called accession meeting at which the king makes his first official declaration and the councillors pledge their allegiance.

The meeting took place with all the pomp and ceremony of traditional ritual.

The new king, modern to the last degree, took off at 11:40 a. m. (5:40 a. m. CST) from Bircham, Newton, airport near Sandringham on the 100-mile flight to London with his brother, the Duke of York, heir-presumptive to the throne.

Although Edward flies his own plane, his private pilot sat at the controls for today's flight.

He and the Duke of York had worked with palace officials throughout the early morning, drawing up final plans for King George's funeral and the new king's formal accession.

A big crowd was assembled at the airfield to see the new monarch. They saw Edward's sleek-bodied, final plans for King George's funeral and the new king's formal accession.

Ships Furl Guns

Bells tolled and guns boomed in London and throughout the empire, signalling "the king is dead! Long live the king!"

An hour after the bell of St. Paul's cathedral began its mournful dirge, his majesty's ships, whether at home or abroad, began firing guns at minute intervals in honor of the late king.

British ship and naval establishment throughout the world lowered colors to half-mast, to remain there until George is laid to rest at Windsor.

The bells of St. George's chapel pealed at Windsor, near London, where one of the saddest tasks of her life befell the Duchess of York. The late king's only granddaughter, Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, retired last night without knowing their grandfather was dying. This was the day of influenza pneumonia, which he died of.

The new sovereign arrived at Hendon airfield at 12:15 p. m. (6:15 a. m. CST) and drove to York House, which was his official residence when he was Prince of Wales.

The body of King George V, after being transferred from Sandringham House to the village church today, will be placed Thursday on a gun carriage and taken to a royal special train for London, where it will lie in state at Westminster Hall.

MRS. FDR ACCEPTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Mrs. Roosevelt told her press conference today that she would receive Mrs. Garner, wife of the vice-president, today to accept an invitation to the Texan Centennial celebration.

Hearing on Gas Statute Is Set For January 21

DALLAS, Jan. 21 (AP)—The constitutionality of the Texas anti-waste gas statute will be considered by a three-judge federal court at Houston January 31, Federal Judge William H. Atwell announced in court here today.

The hearing set after four plaintiff companies operating natural gas stripping plants in the Texas Panhandle, dismissed their applications for temporary restraining orders against the law.

These four, and five others, were granted orders by Federal Judge James C. Wilson at Amarillo last fall under which the state was required to show cause why a temporary restraining order should not be issued against the law. Judge Wilson later disqualified himself and hearing on these show cause orders was set before Judge Atwell.

The companies whose applications for interlocutory injunctions will be heard by the Houston three-judge court are Sunray Oil company, Shamrock Oil & Gas corporation, and the Portland Gasoline company.

An application set tentatively for that time is one made by the J. M. Huber corporation.

Those dismissed today had been filed by Smith Brothers Refining company, American Natural Gasoline company, Shamrock Oil & Gas corporation, and Skelly Oil company.

Application of the Phillips Petroleum corporation will be dismissed later.

When he had the firm chin which has accounted for much of his success thus far. That chin came forward, and there was a determined glint in his blue eyes.

"What matter if I am killed?" he said quietly. "I have plenty of brothers to fill the throne. My place is here doing my bit."

This from a youngster? He has not changed in the matter of knowing his own mind and being determined, and he has not changed in his devotion to duty.

Knows People Since his war days the prince gradually has taken over many tasks for his aging father. The young man has become one of the hardest workers in the empire—day after day keeping a list of important public engagements which would stagger the average man. He has travelled throughout the empire and to other parts of the world. He has studied his peoples and their problems at first hand. He has grappled with statesmanship in every form.

Just as King George was said to know more about the empire than any other man, so his son, having reached the age of 41, is held by

Neyland Granted Right to Retire From U. S. Army

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Major Robert R. Neyland Jr., of the army engineers, who made a national reputation as football coach of the University of Tennessee, has applied for and been granted retirement from the army.

This was disclosed in war department orders issued today, relieving Major Neyland from his present assignment in the Panama Canal zone effective about Jan. 25 and directing him to proceed to his home to await retirement.

Neyland was transferred to the canal zone about a year ago after serving a number of years as football coach at the Tennessee institution during his assignment there as an instructor of the reserve officers training corps.

Only recently, new army regulations were issued prohibiting any officer to act as football coach in a civilian institution.

Reports have been current for some time that the University of Tennessee wished to have Neyland returned there. This would have been impossible, however, under the new regulations.

Including his four years at West Point, Neyland has had 23 years service in the army. A recent congressional act permits officers to retire from the service after 15 years at a small retirement pay.

HOUSE ADJOURNS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The house today adopted a resolution expressing "profound sorrow" at the death of King George of England and, without transacting any business, adjourned immediately out of respect to the late monarch. The senate was not in session today.

Here's one cigarette that writes its own advertising..

It's like this— You see I'm reading a Chesterfield advertisement and I'm smoking a Chesterfield cigarette, and all of you are smoking Chesterfields.

Now listen—Chesterfields are mild (not strong, not harsh). That's true isn't it? Then you read "and yet they satisfy, please your taste, give you what you want in a cigarette." That says it, doesn't it?

Wait a minute— It says now that Chesterfields have plenty of aroma and flavor. One of you go out of the room and come back. That will tell you how pleasing the aroma is.
