Khrushchev Offers No Hint On Reaction To Proposals

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev offered no clue today to his reaction to the latest Anglo-American proposals for breaking the deadlock on a nuclear test ban treaty.

Western diplomats believed the proposals had broadened the scope presented to him Wednesday by ambassadors Lord Kohler of the United States and Sir Humphrey Trevelyan of Britain.

The diplomats doubted that the new initiative would lead to any breakthrough in the nuclear talks at Geneva.

Renewed Leftist Shelling Breaks In Plain of Jars

VIENTIANE, Laot.—Renewed leftist shelling of neutralist positions on the Plain of Jars was reported today against a backdrop of mounting Communist claims of a U.S.-inspired rightist buildup.

An International Control Commission (ICC) team made another on-site flight to the Plain of Jars on the plan in the continuing diplomatic effort to find a solution to the crisis.

Western observers considered the situation highly dangerous, with indications that the Pathet Lao's rightwing forces might be pulled into the area, which heretofore has been held only by the neutralists and pro-Communist Pathet Lao.

The fresh outbreak of shelling resulted in the Pathet Lao attacking a neutralist position at Lat Hoang for an hour Wednesday night. Lat Hoang is located on the road from the Plain of Jars airport to the important town of Xieng Khouang.

If the report is true, the shelling was the first break in the shaky cease-fire that has prevailed in the critical Plain of Jars region since Sunday.

Aide from the ICC team's visit to the plain, there will be no development here in the diplomatic maneuvering for a settlement.

Diplomats looked to the visit to Moscow by U.S. Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman for the next move.

Reports from Washington and London said Harriman's mission was to remind Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev of his pledge to President Kennedy to Phnom Penh Premier Sihanoula Phnuma's coalition government in power.

Rain Prospect Still Holds Over Texas

By United Press International

Heavy showers struck North Texas today and a wave of coastal storm air began rolling back the shower lines. Early tonight fog hung over the Panhandle.

The Weather Bureau said warming would continue across North Texas today, with shower activity spreading to the extreme northern sections.

But the prospect of more rain remained for the state, as the warm air intermingled with cooler air on its way north raising widespread cloudiness.

The most rainfall in the 24 hours ended at 6 a.m. was at Rockwall, which reported 1.00. Frandall got .45, Longview .25, Larkanna .23, Fort Worth .21, Dallas .21, Tyler .04 and Austin .02.

Overnight lows ranged from 43 at Lubbock to 76 at Corpus Christi.

High winds and hail swept across Erath County south of Comstock. Scattered scattered thunderstorms raked much of North Texas for the third consecutive day.

Temperatures hit the mid-90s again Wednesday in South Texas. Both Laredo and Brownsville reported 94 degrees. But it was only 71 at Fort Worth, Lubbock and Wichita Falls.

Two Youths Die In Auto Crash

PANHANDLE (SP)—An early morning car wreck between a Panhandle and White Deer took the lives of two Amarillo youths.

According to highway patrolman Paul Little, in charge of the investigation, the accident occurred sometime this morning on Highway 60, six miles east of Panhandle, when the car, driven by McCaskey and Gerald D. White, were in, overturned into a ditch.

A passing motorist saw the wreck and reported it to White Deer police at 7:50 a.m.

Little, partner Bob Leage and Carson County Deputy Sheriff Charles White were contacted and proceeded to the scene after notifying the Panhandle-Amarillo section at Panhandle.

McCaskey was dead when the ambulance arrived but White is still alive and was taken to Highland General Hospital in Omaha where he is in critical condition.

Little reported that the youths were from Amarillo. McCaskey, 16, of Dallas and Amarillo, identification on his person, he was assumed to be from Amarillo, and approximately the same age as his companion.

Attempts were being made this morning to contact relatives of the youths.

Weather reports state that a heavy fog was blanketing the highway at the time of the accident. Little reported it had not yet been determined whether the youths (See DEATHS, Page 4)

Thailand Glad To Get U.S. Combat Troops

BANGKOK (UPI)—Thailand today welcomed the prospect of a patch of about 3,000 U.S. combat troops in this country's next month as a timely shot of morale in the wake of growing tension in Communist-threatened Laos.

Observers pointed out, however, the troops will participate in a previously planned war games sponsored by the Southern Area Treaty Organization and will not actually be stationed in Thailand as they were last year.

The officials made it clear they feel there is not now a need for stationing U.S. troops in Thailand. They officials said the situation in Laos today and a year ago are different.

Edwin Albers Is Outstanding Science Student

Edwin Albers, 2122 Beech, has been named the outstanding graduating science student of Pampa High School and will receive a Texas Chemical Council award in recognition of this accomplishment.

The selection was made by faculty members of the school's science department. It was made on the basis of scholarship, imagination, scientific aptitude, and completion of at least two years of science and two years of math.

The Texas Chemical Council award will be a high quality slide rule, engraved with the student's name and recognition of his accomplishment.

It will be presented on May 1 by J. T. Sanders, industrial relations manager of the Celanese Chemical Co. here.

Skelly Speakers Praise Pampa Business Climate

Skelly oil officials and personnel were honored at an Appreciation Day Luncheon in Comstock, Tex. today, when some 300 persons heard two top company officials discuss oil industry problems and praise Pampa for having a community climate conducive to the well-being of employees and taxpayers.

The Texas Chemical Council award will be a high quality slide rule, engraved with the student's name and recognition of his accomplishment.

The luncheon was a combined meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and Pampa Lions Club.

Fred Nesbidge, chairman of the chamber's Oil and Gas Committee, was master of ceremonies.

MUSIC was furnished by Maxine Mullin at the organ and Joe Wulfe, director of music at First Baptist Church, was featured soloist.

Immediately following the luncheon, many of the guests and other Pampans went to Comstock for a tour of the Skelly gasoline plant there.

The two luncheon speakers were Howard H. Belov, Skelly vice president of manufacturing, and W. P. Whitmore, manager of production for Skelly, both in Dallas, Okla.

Whitmore spoke on oil industry expansion and stated that current reports by the Kennedy administration to modify the percentage depletion provision of present tax laws would place an increased tax burden on oil and gas producers.

"I am greatly aware of the adverse effect the proposed changes will have on the producing segment of the industry," Whitmore said. "Recent testimony before Congress reveals that the proposed tax changes will impose $280 million a year of additional taxes on oil and gas producers."

"This is equivalent to draining about 100 million barrels of oil from the reserves, 15 billion barrels of gas reserves."

Whitmore stated that Skelly needed a tax to expand and reduce the depletion of production in the oil and gas industry.

"Each of us here today will be affected by the oil industry but as a public duty — should I thank our friends and neighbors understanding this question and realize its importance to them. Also, our own business and Senators' local laws, how are we affected today?"

In closing he said the oil industry will be a major contributor to the country's energy for a long time to come. A recent study by the staff of Resources on the Future, a private non-profit organization sponsored by the Ford Foundation concludes that over 100 percent of the energy needs of the United States in the year 2000 will be supplied by oil, natural gas and natural gas liquids."

Belov spoke on "People and Profits."

"You can have one without the other," he said. "This is a chicken and egg proposition. I don't know of anyone who has ever had one without the other. If it comes from a hardware store, we have it. Lewis Edge. Ady."

City Commission Plans Ordinance For Election to Change Charter

The City Commission last night approved a motion to have an election drawn up, calling for an election to make certain changes in the city charter.

The ordinance was acting on a petition presented by 800 signers at the first of this year.

The petition requested that an election be held in order to amend the charter providing for election of the four commissioners at large rather than by wards, as it is now done.

The petition stated, however, that the commissioner should live in the ward for which he is elected.

Commissioner Jim Nation said that in spite of the questions that have arisen as to the legality of the signatures, he had studied the document, and he was convinced it was legal.

He suggested that the ordinance be drawn in such a manner as to be effective even if the petition should be proven invalid.

He added that since the people had asked for the election, "they are entitled to it."

Commissioner L. P. Fort disagreed, saying that he felt as long as there was any doubt as to whether or not the election could be contested, it would be safer not to hold one at all.

He said he did not feel it would be serving the people well to lead them into a "doubtful election."

The Commission agreed unanimously on this request.

Lights Request Read at Meeting

At last night's City Commission meeting, City Manager Harold Schmitter read a request from Northwestern Public Service Co. concerning the installation of mercury vapor lights on Highway 10 from Hobart street, east to the city limits.

The ordinance calling the election will be drawn up and placed on the agenda for the next meeting.

The company had agreed to place the luminaires on steel poles, anticipating the widening of Highway 10.

However, since the bond issue failed the company requested that they be allowed to use existing pole lines, and leave the poles in the same location until such time as Highway 10 is widened.

The Commission agreed unanimously on this request.

Restoration of Peace Sought for Laotians

LONDON (UPI)—W. Averell Harriman flew to Moscow as President Kennedy's personal envoy today to try to enlist the Kremlin's help in restoring peace and stability to Laos.

Western hopes for peace in the Southeast Asian kingdom rose on the undersecretary of state's urgent mission. He carried a message from Kennedy to Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, and planned talks with Soviet Minister Andrei Gromyko.

American sources said Harriman's principal task was to remind Khrushchev of his personal promise to Kennedy to help maintain the independence and neutrality of Laos.

Harriman also was to stress the responsibility of the Soviet Union as a co-guarantor of the 1954 Geneva accords on Laos, in making every effort to restore peace and stability in the south-east Asian kingdom.

Britain is the other co-guarantor of the Geneva conference which ended Laos' civil war, guaranteed the country's independence and neutrality, and set up the coalition government now threatened by renewed fighting.

The fighting between neutralist and pro-Communist forces in Laos slackened off this week under a shaky cease-fire, but the Western Allies still regard the situation as dangerous. A Communist takeover in Laos could open the way for Red penetration of most of Southeast Asia.

Payments Slated To Cover Losses On Wheat Crops

Substantial payments will be made this year in Gray County to cover crop losses by drought and freeze hit the area.

Serious damage to wheat occurred in December, January and February when drought and freeze hit the area.

It is expected that 95 percent of the total liability will be paid by insured producers in the county.

Jordan said: "The uninsured farmers are going to be the worst hit," he added, "and what bothers me is that could have been prevented themselves with crop insurance."

Several policyholders have filed claims so far, according to Jordan, and more are expected within the next few days. Adjusters are now in the field to determine exact crop losses.

Payments will be made as soon as harvest becomes general and final claims processed, Jordan stated.

Port Arthur Man Asked to Run For AFL-CIO Prexy

ATLANTA (UPI)—Rep. J. D. Wellton, former Port Arthur, city councilman and labor leader, has been asked to run against Hank Brown as president of the Texas State AFL-CIO. It was learned today.

Wellton, 48-year-old freedom legislator, confessed that he had been approached by leaders of several craft unions over the state to oppose Brown.

Wellton said he would have to wait until after the current session of the 38th Legislature ends before making a decision.

"I am committed to the people that elected me to the House and plan to close out this session before I make any decision," he said.

However, the Port Arthur lawmaker indicated that he was strongly interested in the proposition.

Infant Found In Garbage Can

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—Mrs. Ossie I. Walters told police today she found a newborn baby in her garbage can.

Mrs. Walters said she went to her back yard this morning to empty some garbage and heard a whimpering cry. She lifted the lid of the can and found the infant.

A spokesman for Robert B. Green Hospital said the infant was a girl and appeared to be in good condition. The child was believed to be a day-or-so old.

The infant is white, the hospital said. Mrs. Walters lives in a Negro section of San Antonio.

Just Fired 'Em

No Count-Downs On First Rockets

ROSWELL, N.M. (UPI) — The intricate count-down in launching modern missiles was unheard of on New Year's Eve of 1930 when Dr. Robert H. Goddard fired a missile in his first success. It went up less than half a mile but helped earn for the scientist recognition as the father of modern rocketry.

Charles W. Mansur, now an aerospace engineer for the U.S. Army at White Sands Missile Range, N.M., was an assistant to Goddard.

"There was no such thing as a count-down in those days," Mansur said. "When we were ready to fire, we fired!"

During firings, there was an observation point about 50 feet from the launching tower where they really got a "close" look at the launching behind a cellar door dugout, Mansur said.

For two years, Goddard and four assistants developed, and perfected rockets at Roswell. They worked in a shop 35 by 50 feet located about four miles north of the city. Their 60-foot launching tower was put up seven miles away at Eden Valley.

"We were really enthusiastic and the fact that we had to start from scratch even to helping build our own machine shop did not dampen our spirits a bit," Mansur said in an interview in his modern laboratory at White Sands.

Mansur first met Goddard, who died in 1945, at Worcester, Mass. In the early 1920s Mansur attended a grammar school there, across the street from Clark University, where Goddard was head of the Science Department.

While in high school, Mansur worked as a laboratory assistant at the university under Goddard. And in 1929 Mansur went to work full-time for Goddard, whose work in experimental rocketry dated back to the beginning of the century.

"We tried to launch rockets in Massachusetts but the public protested," Mansur recalled. But the publicity aroused the attention of Col. Charles E. Lindbergh, who became interested in Goddard's work. Lindbergh, a national hero for his solo flight over the Atlantic Ocean, helped obtain money for Goddard's work from the Daniel and Florence Guggenheim Foundation.

Clark University gave Goddard a sabbatical leave and loaned machine tools and other equipment to his research. Goddard selected Roswell as the ideal location for intensified continuation of his work because of the climate and isolation.

The experiments at Roswell lasted about two years. At the depth of the depression, funds ran out and Goddard returned to teaching in Worcester, able to devote only spare hours to his rockets.

Mansur continued to work part-time in the laboratories at Clark. In 1934 Goddard called Mansur to offer a full-time job with more experiments in New Mexico. This time three of the original crew returned to Roswell.

In 1940, the U.S. Army asked Goddard's help in research on methods of getting heavily loaded aircraft airborne. Two years later, the U.S. Navy awarded a contract for research at Annapolis, Md., to Goddard and his men.

After Goddard's death, Mansur continued his work in helping the Curtiss-Wright Corp. set up a missile program. He worked for that firm for seven years before coming to White Sands as a laboratory mechanic in the Propulsion Branch.

Mansur, reflecting on the progress of rocketry during his career, said "it is unbelievable that the Federal Aviation Agency has had to issue regulations about rockets fired by amateur rocket clubs as their rockets may shoot down aircraft."

"Some can reach altitudes of five miles," he said. "Why, when we had our first successful firing on Dec. 31, 1930 at Roswell, it went up less than half a mile."

REDS INVITE BRIGITTE

MOSCOW (UPI)—Brigitte Bardot has been invited to the third Moscow International Film Festival, organizers announced Tuesday.

They said no reply has been received from the French actress, now on location in Italy. The festival will be held from July 7 to July 21, and 115 countries have been invited to participate.

PROBLEM FOR CONGRESS—Taxing income or imposing use or sales taxes on out-of-state business firms has become big business for almost every state. Newsmap shows states which tax income, those which have use/sales levies and ones which have both types. Only three states—Nebraska, Indiana and New Hampshire—do not have such taxes. Because interstate commerce is affected, Congress may be called upon to clear up states' taxing powers in this area.

Colombia

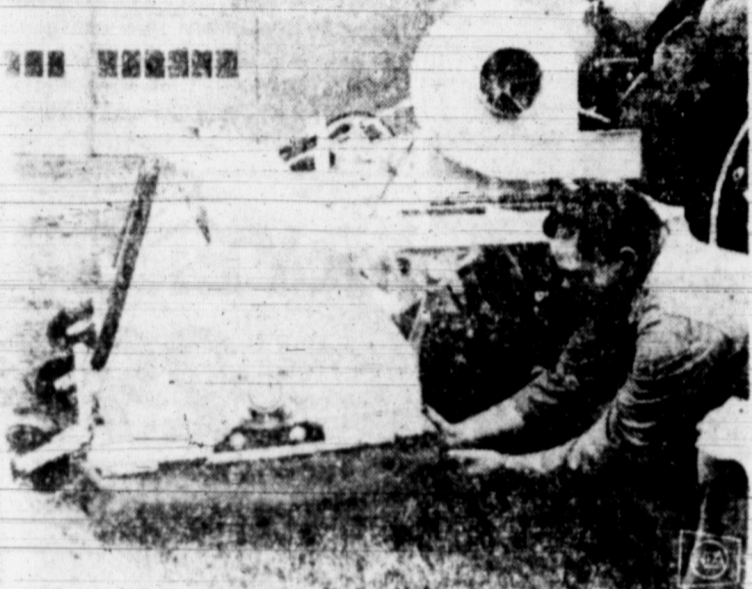

Assignment: Latin American

EDITOR'S NOTE: The foreign news analyst of United Press International has just completed a 25,000-mile assignment in Latin America where the United States has committed $10 billion over 10 years in the Alliance for Progress. Following is the first of his five dispatches on the complex problems facing this program and these people.

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
BOGOTA — In sprawling Ciudad de Techo, a half-hour's bus ride from the center of Bogota, the brown face of Leopoldo Cristacho wears a look of mingled pride, frustration and worry. The pride is in his new home. The frustration: over the job still to be done. The worry—a matter of simple arithmetic which tells him he cannot pay for it, despite low interest rates and payments of only $12 per month. Nature endowed Colombia richly. It has lush agricultural lands still open only to the airplane or the jeep. It has minerals, gold, platinum, emeralds. Vast jungles remain to be explored. But it also has an exploding population which increases at the rate of nearly three per cent per year and which threatens to strip its industrial gains. An unskilled peasantry hoping to escape the handiwork and poverty of the countryside crowds in upon the cities to the still greater poverty of the crowded shacks which crawl ankle up the mountain sides. Unemployment is increasing and inflation has boosted the cost of living nearly 25 per cent in the last four and a half months. More than 60 per cent of the people are illiterate. Hopes For Progress — In Bogota, Colombia's cloud-swept capital, 8,500 feet high in the Andes Mountains, there is vast government good will toward the United States and the idealism contained in the $20 billion ship-

Leopoldo Cristacho is a 350-per-month policeman, recently removed from a Bogota slum with his wife and four children to Ciudad de Techo, a huge housing project under the Alliance for Progress. It lies, whitely in the sun and dust now, only partially completed. But eventually it will provide homes for 85,000 people who now live 8 and 10 to a room in the unsanitary hopelessness of the slums which press in upon Bogota from all sides. Cristacho and his family formerly lived in a two-room flat which cost him $5 per month. It had no lighting, hot water or plumbing facilities. His new home will have all of that. The plumbing has been installed, but neither the water nor the electricity has been connected. Cristacho figures his expenses at $12 per month for his mortgage, $10 a month for improvements, $10 for clothing and around $30 for food. Like his government, he is over his budget. Heads Government — Present head of the government is President Guillermo Leon Valencia, a courtly man with a greying leonine head of hair, the son of one of Colombia's great national poets. In an interview with this correspondent, he described Colombia as an "open window" ready to exhibit the fruits of the Alliance for Progress, but, he added, a window which still is mostly empty. "But upon the Alliance," he said, "depends the future of all of South America. Either democracy will flourish or the whole continent must sink into misery and chaos. In that event, a Communist take-over is inevitable. But, great as are Colombia's problems, a start is being made. U. S. Ambassador Fulton Free man presents a partial list: 31,175 houses started in 1962, 155 classrooms built, 300 started and contracts let for nearly 1,200 more; 24 public-health centers built, and 36 million pounds of food distributed under "Food for Peace." And thoughtful Colombians cling to the belief that if any South American nation can achieve Alliance goals, theirs is the one.

BEATS THE WEEVIL PROBLEM—Ready for field testing this summer, experimental vacuum-beater, above, picks up larvae-infested cotton flower buds that have fallen to the ground, pulverizes them with a flailing mechanism, and blows the debris back on the ground. Its use would eliminate the hand-gathering used at present to clear infested fields. Machine's designer, Eddie C. Burt, Agricultural Research Service engineer, readies the machine for tests at Boll Weevil Research Laboratory, State College, Miss.

Red China Disapproves Of New Malaysian Nation

By ARTHUR J. DOMMEN
HONG KONG (UPI) — Communist China, which always objects to intervention by other countries in Asian nations' affairs, has made known its disapproval over the prospective new nation of Malaysia. State Chairman Liu Shao-chi has expressed the opinion that the proposed Malaysian federation is a "trap of neo-colonialism." Millions of Chinese live in the territories which will form the federation next Aug. 31. Peking's official opposition to the plan appears to be devised more to appeal to sympathetic actions and to stir up trouble than to prepare the ground for any forcible obstruction, either diplomatic or military. Creating Fiction — In the opinion of Communist observers, Peking can make use of the conflicting currents surrounding Malaysia to foster just the proper degree of friction among neighbors whose previous relations have been peaceful. Peking's stand is carefully phrased to make maximum advantage of Indonesia President Sukarno's well-known feelings on the subject. Thus, Liu Shao-chi's speech at Denpasar, Bali, on April 18, stated according to the official New China News Agency: "The Indonesian government opposes the neo-colonialist scheme for Malaysia and supports the people of North Kalimantan in their struggle for independence and freedom. The Chinese government and people resolutely support the just stand and great efforts of President Sukarno and the Indonesian government, and are convinced that such efforts will surely achieve satisfactory results." Smart Diplomacy — To have said merely that the Chinese government opposes the Malaysia scheme would have been to throw away a diplomatic opportunity of the first order. Quoting Sukarno approvingly further, Peking's aims much more efficiently. By declaring its opposition to Malaysia, Peking also carries sympathy with the Chinese in Singapore, who face the prospect of being a minority in the emerged federation government by a Malay-stock government. To potential sympathizers in the Borneo territories, Peking speaks of Malayan Prime Minister Tengku Abdul Rahman's "ambition to reduce Brunei, Sarawak and North Borneo to colonies of the Malayan federation." The men in Peking are confident that the new federation will be open to infiltration and subversion by Red agents, and that the lack of experience in self-government will expose the new nation's potential economic and political stability to undermining.

CHINA RELEASES PRISONERS
TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China announced today it has released 146 more Indian prisoners of war captured during border fighting last winter.

A BOW TO PROGRESS—Sen. Spessard Holland, D-Fla., right, shakes hands with the 100-year-old Billy Bowlegs, seldom-seen chief of the Seminole Indians. They met at Lake Okeechobee at dedication of new levees and locks for Florida's flood control district. Beside Bowlegs is Billy Osceola, descendant of famed Indian leader Osceola who was captured during the Seminole wars and died in prison in 1834. The Seminoles, incidentally, never have surrendered to the United States.

COMMITTEE REPORT DUE — These divisional drive chairmen of the campaign to build a community nursing home in Pampa will receive progress reports at a meeting tomorrow morning. From left: Lynn Thames, Arthur Teed, Mrs. Jack Osborne, Mrs. James Brown and A. J. Carubbi.

Dispatchers Attend School

Police Chief Conner and the Pampa police department's three radio dispatchers were in Amarillo today attending a police communications school sponsored by the Texas Department of Public Safety.

The Pampa dispatchers at the meeting were Anna Neal, Leota Pollard and Mary Walker.

The conference for Panhandle area police personnel was held in the Holiday Vic Mon Hotel.

Deaths

went off the road in the fog, were forced off by an oncoming car, or fell asleep while driving.

The car was badly crushed and it could not be definitely determined which of the pair had been driving, although the body of McCasety was found closer to the wheel.

The pair had either tried to protect themselves, attempted to jump clear of the car, or had been asleep, as neither of them was behind the wheel of the car when found.

Report Meeting Slated Friday

The first progress report meeting of the Nursing Home General Solicitation teams will be held at 10 a.m. Friday in the campaign headquarters, 109 N. Ballard.

According to campaign officials, all team captains are to call their team members and remind them to attend this report meeting, whether they have anything to turn in or not.

Arthur Teed, executive committee chairman, said "our committee will make its report tomorrow morning also and it should be a very big one, considering how long it has been since our last one and the tremendous amount of work we have put into the prospect cards."

Student

says the local presentation is one of more than 100 being made throughout the state to outstanding science students. The Council makes these awards annually, he says, to reward and stimulate outstanding scientific achievement by young people.

According to Pampa High School officials, young Albers has made an outstanding scholastic record in high school, has received the Bausch-Lomb award, and in 1962 won the following Science Fair awards: First place, Physical Division, Pampa; first place, Boys' Physical Division, Regional Fair at Amarillo; and the Amarillo Rotary Club award.

Present plans are for Albers to study Science at West Texas University after graduating this spring.

Pool Opening Slated For June 1

Pampa's two swimming pools will open June 1 for the summer season, it was announced today by City Manager Harold Schmitzer.

Hours of operation at the Municipal pool, 800 Sloan, and Marcus Sanders pool, 438 Crawford, hours between 12 noon and 1 p.m. will be 9 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 9 p.m. with the hours between 12 noon and 1 p.m. and 6 and 7 p.m. for cleaning the pool.

The summer Red Cross swimming class schedule will extend from June 10 to July 19. Fees for the Red Cross classes will be $1 per season for children under 18 and $2 per season for adults at Municipal pool. At Marcus Sanders pool the season price for the Red Cross classes will be 50 cents and $1.

The regular swimming fee charge to the public at Municipal pool will be 25 cents for children under 12 and 50 cents for all others. At Marcus Sanders Pool the price will be 10 and 25 cents.

on the agenda for discussion and vote at the next meeting of the Commission.

About 50 persons attended the meeting. Commissioner Leon Holmes was absent.

City Manager Harold Schmitzer proposed a three-hour tour of the city for all the commissioners, in order that they might see first hand exactly what some of the problems facing the group are, and what is now being done.

The council agreed unanimously to take the tour.

An ordinance was unanimously approved changing the regular meeting time of the Commission to 8:30 a.m. each Tuesday.

Wards Announces Profit Sharing, Insurance Plans

Montgomery Ward today announced the installation of a new Profit Sharing Plan and greatly improved insurance program for its employees. The new employee benefits were explained to local employees at a special meeting held at the Ward store here in Pampa by Mr. Jim Harris of Fort Worth, Texas.

The improved benefit programs will be effective for all Montgomery Ward people on June 1 of this year, Bill McComas, local store manager stated today.

The Profit Sharing Plan will be available to all present employees who have two years service and enroll in the Retirement Plan when eligible. Briefly, the profit sharing plan operates in this manner:

For each one dollar that the employees saves, the company contributes from a minimum of 25 cents to a maximum of 50 cents, depending upon company earnings. The Wards share will be invested in Montgomery Ward com-

Pampan Files Damage Suit

John McLean of Pampa filed a damage suit in District Court yesterday, naming the Panhandle and Santa Fe Railway Company as defendants.

McLean charged the railway company on 14 counts of negligence, which allegedly resulted in the death of his daughter, Amelda Houtchin.

McLean's daughter was crossing the Cabot Kingsmill Crossing, southwest of Pampa, when she was struck by a train and killed.

The accident occurred on April 26, 1961, at 9:35 a.m.

McLean stated in the charges, that no signals, bells or flashing lights were erected at the crossing.

concern a going one, a profit-making one.

"And third, there must be a community climate which is sympathetic to the aims of the business and conducive to the well-being of the employees and their families."

Belew declared if any one of these basic requirements is lacking, the business venture has less than an even chance of surviving.

Both Whitmore and Belew expressed the opinion that Pampa possessed the necessary ingredients for a climate conducive to good business relations with industry.

Speaking for both of the company officials, Vice President Belew said:

"It is with great humility on my part, and on the part of all Skelly men sitting at the table here today, that we accept what we feel to be a signal honor and a milestone in Skelly's history—the Pampa-Skelly Appreciation Day.

"We trust that we may have another 40 years of good relationships. We will do all we can on our part to make it so, and you have adequately demonstrated that you will do the same."

Foreign Commentary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Kennedy administration has taken the offensive on foreign aid.

Its biggest guns, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, and foreign aid chief David E. Bell delivered big salvos to Congress this week.

So did Gen. Lucius D. Clay, head of a special presidential force which gave foreign aid spending a hard look and made cutback recommendations some of which President Kennedy promptly adopted.

Clay praised the President for cutting his original $4.9 billion request to $4.5 billion, and he thinks there can be more gradual reductions. But he warned the House Foreign Affairs Committee against a meat-ax approach, saying foreign aid, properly administered, was an essential tool of American foreign policy.

Warns Against Cuts
Rusk in effect told the lawmakers they would be falling for the Communist line if they slashed foreign aid below requirements.

McNamara followed up by declaring that if Congress has to cut it would do better to cut his defense budget rather than foreign aid.

The declarations foreshadowed the kind of fight the administration is expected to put up. It is going to be a rugged fight. And it is doubtful that many economy-minded lawmakers will be frightened by blunt language.

Warning Could Backfire
In fact, the secretary of state's warning could boomerang. In brief, he told the legislators this: The number one objective of the Communists is to get the Yanks to go home; that foreign aid is one of the great bulwarks against communism; a visible sign that the United States has an interest in the freedom and security of foreign nations. But that those who clamor loudest against communism yell even louder for foreign aid cuts.

That didn't sit well either with opponents or supporters. The lawmakers don't take kindly to imputations that they are suckers for the Communist line, even if it comes from the mild-mannered Mr. Rusk. Hence, it was doubtful that Rusk made friends for foreign aid.

More Defense Money?
McNamara's warning was in a different category. He raised the question that for every dollar of foreign aid cut off, Congress might have to increase his defense budget.

The Clay task force took a similar view. The committee report pointed out that about $1 billion of present military aid is going to nations on the periphery of the Soviet bloc. Those nations are allied with the United States against communism. They also receive $750 million in what is known as economic aid to support their military effort. That aid is to keep their economy going. Otherwise it would collapse under the military burden they must carry.

The Lighter Side

Congressional Corneas

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Along with their other attributes, most members of Congress have very brave eyeballs.

This trait, "cornea courage" as it is called, is demonstrated when our lawmakers visit the trouble spots of the world and look upon them without blinking.

For instance, if all of the congressmen who have looked upon the Berlin wall, and been photographed in the process, were stacked end to end, they would reach from here to Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

In fact, many of them have been reaching Guantanamo unstacked. The U.S. naval base at Guantanamo has in recent weeks been even more popular than Berlin as a testing place for cornea courage.

Members of Congress who visit the base can, unless hopelessly nearsighted, go to the perimeter of the cantonment and look directly upon Communist-held territory.

Cornea Courage Medal
Last month, I had occasion to mention the Guantanamo adventures of Rep. Carl Elliott, an Alabama Democrat whose eyeballs are among the more fearless in either house of Congress.

According to a press release put out by his office, Elliott "advanced" to within 50 feet of the Cuban guards stationed outside the base.

"The Red soldiers glared at him," it said, and "he glared back." This started me to thinking that there ought to be a medal for cornea courage.

Another congressman, Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., returned from Guantanamo this week with a press release of a somewhat different sort.

Stratton made it plain that he would give Castro a hard look any time he saw him. However, he seemed to be glaring mainly in the direction of Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y.

"From Mimeograph Machines"
He said the statements the senator has been making about Cuba indicated that Keating was getting his information "straight from the lecture platforms and the mimeograph machines."

"If Sen. Keating had taken the trouble to visit Cuba instead of trying to run American C.U.B.A.N. policy from the Senate press gallery, he would never have dared to launch these preposterous charges of a new Cuban build-up," Stratton asserted.

I got the impression that Stratton was even more daring eyeball wise than Elliott so I asked him if he had glared at any of the Cuban guards.

"I glared at them," he replied, "But they were too far away to tell if they were glaring back."

Obviously, Stratton either didn't advance as far as Elliott, or else he can't see as well.

PERSISTENT BILL
GREAT BEND, Kan. (UPI) — Bill Daniels, 32, got into a scuffle at a cafe Monday. When officers arrived to break it up, he hit one in the face.

Tuesday, Judge Roy Butler sentenced him to four months in city jail and fined him $75. Daniels responded by hitting the judge in the face.

The jurist calmly added another six months to the sentence.

An American Revolution: The Story Of Spice

If spices are the hallmark of sophisticated cuisine, then the American kitchen is becoming markedly urbane. There seems to be a continuing trend, and the figures which prove the point are absorbing. Approximately ten years ago the average annual consumption of spices in this country was 126,165,000 pounds according to government sources. Last year alone, the nation's cooks stocked their shelves with nearly twice the amount for a total of 208,009,000 pounds.

The trend has been sparked for the most part, perhaps by the continent-hopping revolution which followed the second World War. Americans by the thousands discovered such dishes as pizza pie (characterized by the flavor of oregano) and, after that, so to speak, came the deluge. One survey pointed out that the sale of oregano has increased 1900 per cent within the post-war decade.

But note the spectacular increases in the use of other spices. Sesame seeds, for example, have become big business. There sale is up 290 per cent over the 1945-1949 average. Compared to a similar period the public also consumed 130 per cent more caraway seeds, 100 per cent more mustard seeds, and 60 per cent more paprika.

That rack of little glass jars is also a trend. Although some herbs and spices were packed in glass as long as thirty years ago, it has only been within the past decade that glass packaging for these savory seasonings has also become big business. As recently as seven years ago, only a limited number of spice packers were putting their products into glass. Today, every major packer markets at least a part of his line in glass.

Air and heat are the greatest destroyers of spice flavor. Spices and herbs keep best in glass containers with tight-fitting covers. The better and more tightly the jars are sealed, the longer the flavor will last. Spices are also more readily identifiable in glass, and it is easier to see when supplies are low.

It is almost impossible for the ordinary consumer to judge the age of dried herbs and spices, but the best judges are the eye and the nose. The greener the leaves of green herbs such as parsley and basil, the more likely that their flavor is full strength. The redder the color in a spice such as paprika, the more potent it will probably be in a goulash or whatever. The same may be said of the odor. The stronger the odor, the fresher the spice. It is easier to judge the color of spices if they are contained in clear glass.

There are other reasons besides world travel, of course, that have made Americans more adventurous in their tastes. For one thing there has been the backyard barbecue boom with many an outdoor chef turning to the spice shelf for inspiration. Many of them have discovered that ginger marmies naturally with soy sauce, and that bay leaf and thyme are downright indispensable for marinades—whether for meat, fish or fowl. French chefs have known about the thyme and bay leaf liaison for centuries.

However, one venerable volume on spices points out that the use of spices in cookery is comparable to the use of make-up in grooming. The expert in the use of either

Just What Teenagers Would Order To Eat With Party Beef Burgers

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
During vacation encourage your teenagers and their friends to have a beef burger party at home. But serve scalloped potatoes with corn, too. The new packaged scalloped potatoes are quick and easy to prepare and delicious to eat. Let the youngsters prepare them.

PARTY BEEF BURGERS

(8 servings)
2 pounds ground beef
2 medium onions
1/4 cup catsup
Seasoning salt
Salt and pepper
8 hamburger buns, split and heated
Divide each pound of ground beef into 8 mounds. Flatten each between squares of waxed paper to a little less than 1/2-inch. Slice onions, separate into rings. Spread eight of the patties with about a teaspoon of catsup. Add several rings of onions. Sprinkle with seasoning salt. Cover fillings with remaining meat patties, sealing edges well. Broil three inches from heat about 6 minutes. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Turn and broil about 6 minutes more or until done to your liking. Season second side. Slip patties into hot buns.

SCALLOPED POTATOES WITH CORN

(6 servings)
1 package scalloped potatoes
1 can (16-17-ounce) cream-style corn
1/2 green pepper, diced
2 tablespoons butter
2 teaspoons instant minced onion

Considerate Pie Made In Advance

This is an excellent pie. It combines three tropical products, chocolate, coconut and pineapple, and can be prepared in advance. That is an important consideration for homemakers these days.

The filling and the pie shell can be prepared a day ahead. Filling is refrigerated separately until shortly before serving.

BLACK BOTTOM COCONUT PINEAPPLE PIE

(6 to 8 servings)
1 lemon
4 egg yolks or 2 eggs, slightly beaten
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 can (8 1/2 ounces) crushed pineapple, drained
1 cup whipping cream
1-1 1/2 cups (about) flaked coconut
Nuttly Black Bottom Pie Crust

Grate 2 teaspoons rind from the lemon. Then squeeze juice from lemon. Combine lemon rind, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, the egg yolks, sugar and pineapple in the top of a double boiler. Cook, stirring constantly, over gently boiling water until mixture begins to thicken, about 15 to 20 minutes. Cool. Then whip cream and fold into cooled mixture with 1 cup coconut. Spoon into pie shell. Chill about 2 hours. Before serving, sprinkle with remaining coconut, garnish with whipped cream.

If a little milk has been added to the water before boiling old potatoes, the vegetable won't darken as it boils.

2 teaspoons prepared mustard
1/2 teaspoon seasoning salt
2 1/2 cups boiling water
Empty entire contents of packaged potatoes into a 1 1/2 - quart casserole. Add the corn, green pepper, butter, onion, mustard, and seasoning salt. Pour boiling water over casserole contents. Mix lightly but thoroughly. Bake in a 400 degree oven 40 to 45 minutes or until delicately browned.

A Temptingly Delightful Dessert

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
You'll welcome this light dessert for spring. The unique flavor of bananas is heightened with orange and lemon slices. Egg whites and gelatin give the dessert airiness and help set the mold.

Despite its appeal, an average serving of this Banana Chiffon Mold adds up to only 101 calories. (A medium banana supplies only 88 calories).

BANANA CHIFFON MOLD

(6 servings)
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
6 tablespoons cold water
1 cup hot orange juice
1/4 cup lemon juice

1/4 cup sugar
1 cup mashed banana (2-3)
3 egg whites
1/4 teaspoon salt
Banana slices
Soften gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes then dissolve in hot orange juice. Add sugar and lemon juice, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Chill mixture until slightly thickened, about the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Add mashed banana. Beat until foamy and well blended. Add salt to egg whites, beat until stiff; fold into banana-gelatin mixture. Pour into a 1 1/2 quart mold; chill until firm. Unmold on serving plate and garnish with banana slices.

SPRINGTIME is captured for the palate in banana chiffon mold, with orange-lemon accent.

Four Basic Food Groups Needed

Q — Please explain what is meant by the four basic food groups.

A — In order to help you get all the nutrients you need to keep healthy, you should eat a variety of foods regularly.

MILK GROUP: Some milk for everyone. Children, 3 to 4 cups; Teen-agers, 4 or more cups; Adults, 2 or more cups.
MEAT GROUP: Beef, veal, pork, lamb, poultry, fish, eggs. As alternates — dry beans, dry peas, nuts.
VEGETABLE FRUIT GROUP: 4 or more servings. Include: A citrus fruit or other fruit or vegetable important for vitamin C; A dark green or deep yellow vegetable for vitamin A — at least every other day; other vegetables and fruits, including potatoes.

BREAD-CEREAL GROUP: 4 or more servings. Whole grain, enriched, or restored.
When buying meat, consider the cost per serving — as well as the cost per pound.

Strawberries Are A Gift Of Spring

Give a gay touch to springtime dinners for family and friends alike — serve bright and cheerful strawberry custard tarts. The delicate lusciousness of the strawberry is the essence of enjoyment. Enjoy this delicious fruit often.

STRAWBERRY CUSTARD TARTS

(Makes 7 to 10 tarts)

Baked tart shells
1/4 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
1 egg, slightly beaten
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
3 1/2 cups strawberries, washed and hulled
Strawberry Glaze
Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt in double boiler top. Gradually add milk, mixing until smooth. Place over boiling water and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened. Cover and continue to cook 10 minutes, stirring occasionally.
Blend a little hot mixture into egg, then stir all into remaining hot mixture in double boiler top.

Cook over boiling water 2 minutes, stirring constantly.

Remove from boiling water. Blend in vanilla. Cool, then spoon into tarts, filling them about 1-3 full. Arrange halved strawberries on top of custard. Spoon Strawberry Glaze over berries. Chill.

STRAWBERRY GLAZE: Mix 1/4 cup water, 1/4 cup light corn syrup, and 1/2 cup mashed strawberries in saucepan. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Blend 1 tablespoon cornstarch in 1/4 cup water; stir into berry mixture and cook until mixture comes to a boil and thickens. Stir in 2 teaspoons lemon juice.
If desired, tint with red food coloring. Cool slightly. Spoon over strawberries.

Cauliflower boiled in a thin cloth can be lifted out and served unbroken.

Federal Warning Results In 250,000 Children Integrated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One year ago the federal government served notice on Southern communities it no longer would consider segregated schools suitable for children of servicemen and workers who live on federal bases.

The Office of Education now reports that negotiations which followed the warning will result in 250,000 children being enrolled next fall for the first time in schools which mix Negro and white students.

The negotiations have been long and tedious. There have been notable failures. Some talks are continuing.

But the office of education says progress is being made.

The 250,000 children do not represent solely those for whom the federal government has a responsibility. The "suitable" ruling could have affected, at the most, about 70,000 school-age children living on 360 federal properties in 17 states.

But Commissioner of Education Francis Keppel pointed out that where a community agrees to remove racial barriers in response to the negotiations, it desegregates schools in the entire district.

15 Districts Cooperate

Since the warning, 15 school districts in four states have indicated that race or color will no longer be a factor in assigning children to public schools. Immediately involved are about 12,000 so-called "on-base" children. But Keppel believes it's important to point out the larger effect of the desegregation action. And in those 15 districts, he says, 250,000 children will be going to desegregated schools for the first time.

The federal warning was backed by a two-edged threat. In areas where districts refused to desegregate, the federal government might withdraw the children from attendance in local schools. The communities would thus lose the federal funds covering them as an impacted area. In other areas which refused to budge, desegregation litigation was threatened.

Since last spring the government has taken action in eight areas to remove the children from segregated schools. In all, eight local officials refused to give assurances against discrimination. The result is that schools are being built on eight bases and will be ready for use next fall.

The action was confined to schools at the elementary level. The problems of creating on-base high schools was considered too difficult at the moment to plan for the construction of secondary classrooms. The cost and availability of teachers were among the eliminating factors.

Accommodate 4,000

Those eight on-base schools will accommodate 4,000 youngsters.

In addition, the federal government filed five lawsuits to force local communities to end discrimination. The suits were filed on behalf of the United States and covered the entire impacted area program. That is, they sought to force desegregation not only involving the children of federal workers living on-base but those living off-base. The off-base impacted area program is the much broader. Substantially larger funds flow to communities through that program.

The three-way assault is continuing in the courts, on the bases, and by negotiation.

The main hope of the Office of Education for a complete break-

Planetarium No Star For Speed

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The stars in the sky remain hidden from indoor sky-grazers who want to know when the city's new $1.2 million planetarium will bring them forth.

The big planetarium project has been plagued by one delay after another.

"Any day now," said one planetarium official, but when a newsman asked point-blank "will it be open by Easter?" the answer was "No...no, I mean I really can't say...I just can't, that's all."

Ground was broken for the planetarium in Forest Park on August 29, 1960. Bad weather in the spring of 1961 caused construction delay.

A newspaper dispatch said "planetarium work progresses rapidly...target date for completion now set for Dec. 1 (1961)."

There were delays in the building of the planetarium's $175,000 projector mechanism in Japan. At one time, heavy rains in Japan stopped operations at the Tokyo optical factory.

Then, a series of headlines as months went by:

May 9, 1962—"Planetarium Expected to Open in Late Summer."

Aug. 21, 1962—"Rains in Japan Delay Planetarium Opening."

Oct. 4, 1962—"Setbacks Delay Opening."

Oct. 30, 1962—"My Stars, Another Delay."

Nov. 6, 1962—"Planetarium Projector Arrives — At Last..."

Planetarium officials then figured the target date Dec. 1, 1962. But there was some delay in arrival of Japanese technicians needed to help set up the projector and get it operating.

While the city waited, the big projector remained packed in 13 crates weighing a total of 16,004 pounds.

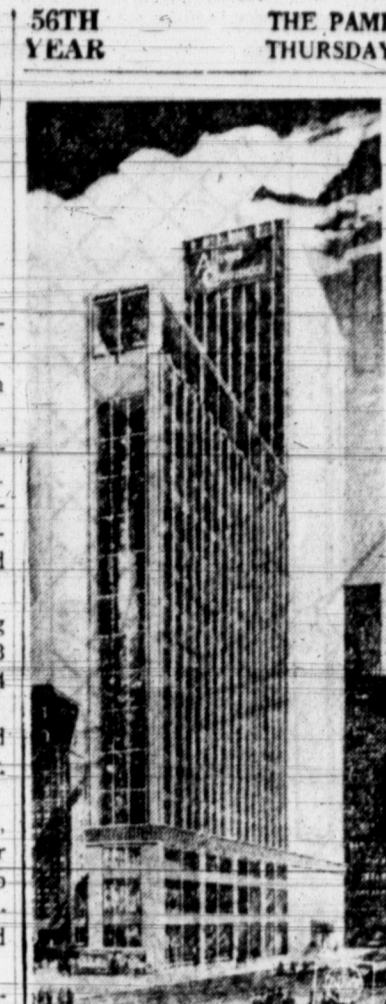

Three technicians arrived and the giant projector was installed in the now-completed building.

But the new planetarium staff, headed by 26-year-old director Charles A. Schweighauser, had to learn all about the intricate mechanism. The projector is considered one of the most complex.

A new target date for the opening was set for New Year's day, 1963.

Then, just before New Year's day, another newspaper headline—"Planetarium's Opening Pushed Back to Feb. 1."

"We're still having practice sessions," said Schweighauser. "We understand how the projector works, but we still are not sufficiently expert to put it through its paces without a hitch, smoothly. We need more practice."

NEW FACE—The Times Square building, historic New York City landmark, will be taking on a new face in the future. The Times Square building is familiar to millions for the New Year's Eve tradition of lowering the ball at midnight. It will be completely reconstructed and turned into a showcase for chemistry. The ball-lowering tradition will be continued.

down of the racial barriers is through negotiation and the courts. Building new schools is expensive.

The administration also is opposed to any change in the law which would cut off the impacted area funds from segregated school districts. The objective is to keep the schools open and keep the funds going while negotiations continue and lawsuits are pressed.

That may be the more difficult procedure and may not provide quick results. But the administration opposes action which may force a school to close and deprive all children in the area of an education.

Now see all that's new at your Chevrolet dealers

Try out all the things these four entirely different kinds of Chevrolet Super Sports have going for you, and your decision won't be whether but which.

They all come in both convertible and coupe versions with bucket seats, available in most cases with just about every extra-cost option—4-speed transmissions, high-performance engines, Positraction axle, the works.

First of all, there's the Jet-smooth Chevrolet Impala SS with all the luxury you could reasonably want (such as a new Comfortilt steering wheel, optional at extra cost, that you can adjust to your convenience). All at a reasonable Chevrolet price.

Then you have the Chevy II Nova 400 SS, a car that can give any family more run for its money. Gives you a break on upkeep, too.

Or maybe the turbo-supercharged rear-engine Corvair Monza Spyder is more your style. It's designed to handle country lanes as easily as the freeway kind.

Finally, the sports car that inspired them all, Corvette—all new and more all out than ever.

Chances are you've got your Super Sport picked out already. If not, some warm spring weather, a country road and your friendly Chevrolet dealer will help you decide, for sure!

The Thresher Tragedy

The loss of the 129 men of the submarine Thresher has saddened all America. It is a tragedy that reminds us again of the stark cost of maintaining our freedom — a cost that dollars alone can't meet. As President Kennedy said, "These brave men have joined their comrades, 1,500 of whom were lost in submarines in the fight for freedom in World War II. The future of our country will always be sure when there are men such as these to give their lives in preserving it."

Now we must do our best to determine why the Thresher disaster occurred. Twenty-two more submarines of the Thresher type are scheduled for construction. More brave American seamen will be assigned to man them. It is a responsibility of the government to see to it that they have the safest, most technically perfect craft it is possible for our experts to devise. And it is vital that American industry and American workmen accept the responsibility to see to it that materials and workmanship are of the highest quality.

It is expected to be some time before we know the exact cause of the Thresher tragedy. The submarine and its crew are in a grave 8,400 feet deep about 220 miles east of Cape Cod. The Thresher lies too deep to be salvaged. The determination of the cause of the disaster can be achieved only by photographing the wreckage from the Navy's deep-diving bathyscaphe Trieste, to be brought from the West Coast to the scene. Meanwhile, a number of theories are being advanced about possible causes for the submarine's plunge into water so deep that intense pressure would collapse its hull like an eggshell, dooming its crew to a sudden death. A Naval Court of Inquiry has been convened at Portsmouth, N.H., the home port of the Thresher, to hear evidence accumulated so far. Part of the court's job will be to consider the nature of work done on the Thresher during a recent overhaul in the Portsmouth Naval Yard when cuts a yard wide were made in her hull so as to install new equipment. The cutout section was welded back in place and the weld then examined by X-ray for flaws. "To the best of our knowledge and belief there were no defects in the work," said Admiral George W. Anderson, Chief of Naval Operations. "Whether or not there were defects remains to be seen."

Was this work defective? Did some other vital piece of equipment give away? How can a similar accident be prevented in the future? Let us all hope that the answer can be found.

Vice Admiral Hyman G. Rickover, the caustically outspoken Naval officer who, more than any other single American, is responsible for our great strides in nuclear-powered seafaring, made a speech last fall that received little notice at the time. The Admiral laid it on the line for the National Metal Congress, meeting in New York. The troubles of the Navy in the construction of nuclear-powered submarines, he said, can be laid to two main causes: (1) Poor workmanship and poor quality control, and (2) Incomplete understanding of basic manufacturing and inspection processes.

Admiral Rickover was careful, in the wake of the disaster, not to relate any of his criticisms to the Thresher. "It would be improper for me to make any comment on that speech at this time," he said after the Thresher was lost.

However, some of the points he stressed last fall should be studied carefully by all Americans who have a part in our weapons production program — not only in the manufacture of nuclear submarines but in making aircraft and missiles and the countless other items in which our service-men must put their trust as they man the lines against our Cold War opponents. These contractors participating in our Defense program and the men and women who work for them must be certain that their own efforts are worthy of the men who will utilize the equipment.

Unfortunately, high standards have not always been met. Among several examples cited by Admiral Rickover as he ticked off his criticisms was this one: "Some of the types of difficulties we constantly encounter have to do with faulty welding, faulty radiography and defective castings. That is, with deficiencies in basic conventional processes of present-day technology. The press frequently reports malfunctions of advanced components or systems caused by failure of a weld, improper use of a routine process, or use of defective materials. Industry apparently considers such failures to be inevitable, since not enough is being done to correct the abuse."

All of us play some part in the nation's defense. Let us be faithful to the sacrifice of the men of the Thresher by doing our best to meet our own responsibilities as Americans.

It's The Law In Texas

LAW DAY

For the sixth consecutive year, May Day has a special significance in this country. May 1st will again be observed as LAW DAY U.S.A. This is a special day dedicated across our nation to observance of the fact that we have a government of law instead of men. It is particularly appropriate that Americans set aside this day each year to demonstrate to the world — and to ourselves — that our belief in individual freedom under law remains strong and unshakable.

Why is it that some men are able to live in freedom while others cringe under a rule of tyranny? We owe our rights and freedoms to our state and national constitutions, our laws, and our courts. In other lands, there are no rights and people are subjected to the edicts and whims of individuals unhampered by legal restraints.

Most of us tend to take it for granted that an individual is free to think for himself and that his rights are protected by law. We know without actually admitting it that our whole way of life is governed by this rule of law.

Law is the intangible force guaranteeing all of us freedom, peace and progress — ideals which have been, and are, dependent upon the adequacy of our legal system and the protection awarded the individual by our courts.

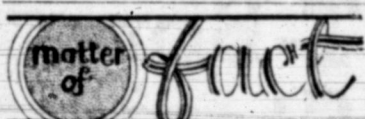

On May 1st then, this year and every year, with the nation's attention focused on LAW DAY U.S.A., it behooves us to rededicate our belief and faith in this rule of law that is the birthright of all Americans.

It is this liberty and equality under law that distinguishes our system of government from communism. Without laws and the courts, these freedoms we take so for granted would be meaningless.

Our respect for law is vital to the continued growth and strengthening of our nation; our thoughtful observance of LAW DAY U.S.A., in a real sense distinguishes America from those who today live under tyranny; it is our answer to communism. LAW DAY U.S.A. is the American way.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

HOW IT'S DONE—Ever wonder how those truck trailers get on top of those piggyback freight cars? The circuses used to roll their wagons up a ramp on the end car and then over between-car bridges until they reached the head position. The Southern Railway, among others, does it a new way. They use a crane. A truck trailer pulls up alongside the flat car and the crane lifts the trailer. It then moves over the car and gently deposits it in position.

Maneuverable Post in Space Could Survive

DALLAS (UPI)—The commander of the Strategic Air Force said Wednesday eventually the really survivable command and control structure for all U.S. armed forces might be a maneuverable command post in space. "Should such a spaceborne command post become necessary it would have to be large enough to carry all electronic gear required to gather process and disseminate operational information on a global basis," SAC commander Gen. Thomas S. Powers said in a speech before 1,000 space scientists and engineers. "Also, it would have to be capable of defending itself against any interference or attacks from the ground and space. "It is inconceivable to operate such a central command post, especially one in deep space, without a skilled crew to operate and maintain its complex equipment and without competent officers fully qualified to assume command of the strike forces whenever necessary. "Here, then, may be the first major requirement for military men in space." Powers spoke on military aspects of manned space flight at the second manned space flight meeting in Dallas. The meeting is sponsored by the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics and National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Speaking to the same group Tuesday night, Vice President Lyndon Johnson said that "to reach for the moon is a risk, but it is a risk we must take."

Midnight Ride Ignored

BOSTON (UPI) — Years later, "Longfellow immortalized Paul Revere with his poem about the midnight ride.

But in the story published in the Massachusetts Gazette on April 20, 1775 — the day after the ride ended — there is no mention of Revere.

Referring to the Battle of Concord Bridge, the newspaper said:

"Last Tuesday night, the (British) Grenadier and Light Companies... were ferried in long boats from the bottom of the Common over to Phil's farm in Cambridge, from whence they proceeded on their way to Concord, where they arrived early yesterday.

"Upon the people's having notice of this movement on Tuesday night, alarm guns were fired through the country and expresses sent to the different towns, so that very early yesterday morning, large numbers were assembled from all parts of the country.

"A general battle ensued, which, from what we can learn, was supported with great spirit on both sides and continued until the King's troops retreated to Charlestown."

The "expresses sent" were, of course, the alarm spread by Revere and his companion, William Dawes.

Center Wrap-Up

George Smith Director Pampa Youth and Community Center

A new concrete floor 105 x 60 on the West side of the Youth Center is all ready for the steel beams to be attached, which will support the roof on our new gym.

A great number of indoor sports will be housed in this new structure, including basketball, volleyball, and badminton. We had an old Board member, Frank Fata, to come by and he certainly was pleased with the possibilities this new space can provide. Have you been by lately?

By now the Ping Pong Tournament will be fully underway with such "stars" as John Thomas, Ole Karbo, Jake Webb, Gary Frasher, Bennie Shackelford, Pete Erwin, Jeff Cohane, Phillip Duncan, and David Gantz entered. They will play a best-two-out-of-three games in preliminary games with a best three out of five in the finals. A gold medal will be awarded the winner as a trophy presentation.

Monday started a new three week schedule at the Center. We are offering intermediate swim lessons for those who can swim 30 yards or have passed the advanced beginner course; Senior Life Saving for anyone 16 years of age or above; Beginners swim lessons for any age (Center members only) — of course you can join); Beginners Judo lessons and an Advanced Judo course for those who have completed the previous beginners course and a Ladies and Men's Swim class for anyone wanting to know how to swim or improve on various phases of their swim skills.

Say teenagers, don't forget the first of a series of dances sponsored by the Los Ceras Club. This is the first of a series of dances sponsored by the Los Ceras and Kit Kat Clubs. Speaking of dances we have three new teenagers taking ballroom dancing, Linda Moore, Debbie Snelgroves, and Tommy Newkirk. This brings our class up to 19.

We have added a new activity at the Center on certain Saturday nights. This is the Adult square dance club called the Calico Capers. Johnny Morrison is president of the club and has able help in Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hickman. The Hickman's meet with the Calico Capers Juniors on Friday nights and certainly deserve a bouquet of flowers thrown their way for the time and entertainment they have given our young people.

The Youth Center has a new board of directors as of April 16. They are: E. L. Green, Thelma

BACK TO SCHOOL

LONDON (UPI) — Elizabeth Taylor's three children, Michael, 10; Christopher, 8; and Lisa, 5, returned Tuesday to Geneva to school after a three-week Easter vacation in London with their mother.

Reapportionment Asked

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Harris County Republican chairman and four other persons today asked a federal court to halt congressional elections in Texas until districts have been reapportioned.

The suit asked for a federal action against Gov. John Connally, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, Harris County Judge Bill Elliott and election officials of both parties to stop the elections until action is taken on reapportionment in line with the 1960 census. The suit cited the 14th amendment, the equal protection clause of the U.S. constitution.

It cited what the plaintiffs called inequalities, including the fact that the Texas 4th District has a population of 227,735 while District 22 has the same congressional representation for 874,965 persons.

The suit, filed by GOP chairman George Bush and others, apparently bear Harris County Democratic leaders to the gun-in-seeking federal action to force redistricting. Harris County Democratic chairman Bill Kilgarlin has said previously he planned to file a similar lawsuit about May 1 if the action was not taken before then.

Stevenson Reports Are Encouraging for U.N.

By BRUCE W. MUNN.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Adlai Stevenson brought back encouraging news from Europe for the United Nations; he found a renewed interest in France in the world organization and a disposition among some of its members to pay up their financial arrears.

The U. N. money problem was widely reported to have been one of the purposes of the U.S. ambassador's trip to Belgium, Britain, France, Spain, West Germany and Morocco.

While Stevenson was on his trip, Eugene R. Black was on a quiet tour of the Middle East, talking money to financial authorities of delinquent countries. Black returned Monday to see De Gaulle, who refers to His report to Secretary General Thant "was not as well publicized as Stevenson's findings."

Stevenson said three of the countries he visited would "remedy their delinquencies" at least by the end of the year. Since France has refused to pay for the Congo, West Germany is not a U. N. member, and Britain is paid up, it was obvious that he referred to Belgium, Spain and Morocco.

Quick Response Actually, Morocco paid its share for the U. N. Middle East operation (UNEF) almost as soon as Stevenson finished his talks in Rabat. It still owes $117,823 for the Congo. Spain's overall debt to the United Nations for UNEF and the Congo is $1.6 million and Belgium's is $3.8 million.

Since Belgium wants to accept a major role in the retraining of the Congo army—a development favorable to Belgian economy through redemption of the country's prestige among the Congo-people—a payment from Brussels was expected soon. Belgium probably will bargain on the basis of damages suffered by its national and installations in the Congo.

France Won't Pay There appeared little chance while Stevenson was on his trip. Eugene R. Black was on a quiet tour of the Middle East, talking money to financial authorities of delinquent countries. Black returned Monday to see De Gaulle, who refers to His report to Secretary General Thant "was not as well publicized as Stevenson's findings."

but his advertising agency helps spot his customers' needs

Business men today meet some giant operating problems. There is seldom enough talent to help top men figure the cost-profit picture — and at the same time — keep a searching eye on customers' future needs.

Advertising's service for many years has been skilled communications: telling the public about a product — often telling it so well that buyers' demands have turned small plans into enormous industries.

Today, in addition to these creative selling techniques, advertising is of even more utility both to business and its customers through a bird's-eye view of the buying public. Market research becomes a vital management tool when interpreted by advertising professionals; statistics gain new meaning when evaluated by men with long experience in observing changing human needs and desires.

Pinpointing the wants of people originates useful production, a creative saving for our economy.

'Women On Way Up' Paid Tribute By DKG

A living symbol of service and genuine love was the tribute given to Dr. Lena Edwards at the Delta Kappa Gamma meeting recently in the Lefors Vocational Building. Dr. Lena Edwards, a colored medical missionary of St. Joseph's mission, Hereford, Texas, was the focus of the program. "A Woman Doctor In Spite of Everything", presented by Mrs. G. M. Walls. "Dr. Edwards is a successful medic; she is the slim gray-haired Dr. Tom Dooley of Deaf Smith County," commented Mrs. Walls. Mrs. Walls showed slides and skilfully narrated the life of Dr. Edwards, who exemplifies the prayer of St. Francis of Assisi "in giving that we receive". The Citizen of the Year Award of 1963 was given to Dr. Edwards for her work in the Latin-American migrant laborer camp at Hereford. The New Jersey Women's Medical Association bestowed their Woman of the Year Award upon Dr. Edwards in 1959. "Dr. Edwards, the daughter of a dentist, was born in Washington, D. C. She married a physician and reared six children, one of whom is a Franciscan friar. When Dr. Edwards decided to become a medical missionary in 1961, she relinquished a life of prestige and financial success to one of unselfish service and devotion." "Her salary is now $113 per month, and she shares the life of a migrant laborer. She has learned their language, sated their food, and worked in the fields with them to earn their respect and love. Each year about 2000 patients are treated by Dr. Edwards at her clinic. Currently she is enthusiastically directing the construction of a new clinic that will provide for twenty patients."

"In keeping with the year's theme, "Women on the Way Up", Norma Lantz prefaced her characterization by saying that she was reading a letter written by a local resident. As she read, she wanted the members to identify the woman, who was really "on the way up". Her summary depicted the vast array of achievements of Mrs. William Ledbetter, Pampa High School chemistry teacher and Science Department Chairman. Mrs. Ledbetter is the current secretary of the National Science Teachers Association and commit-

Counselor, Registrar Give Orientation To Robert E. Lee Ninth Grade Students

Ninth grade students of Robert E. Lee Junior High were guests at the PTA meeting held at 2:30 p.m. Thursday in the school auditorium. Mrs. Jack O. Miller, program leader, introduced Mrs. Ruby Capps, high school counselor and Mrs. J. T. Cornutt, high school registrar, who gave orientation messages to ninth grade students and their parents. Both speakers stressed the importance of maintaining a good scholastic record through high school and pointed out the importance of this record to the individual student for many years to come after leaving high school. Mrs. Capps also stated three rules for future high school students to remember: 1) no smoking; 2) appropriate attire; 3) presentation of an excuse for any absence. Mrs. Cornutt outlined briefly the choice of academic subjects and electives that the students need to keep in mind as they fill out enrollment cards for next year. She gave a number of helpful suggestions for students who plan to go to college and for those who do not plan to go. Both speakers invited ninth grade students to visit high school. Mrs. Cornutt will be in her office until June 15. Preceding the program, Mrs. Don Cain, vice president, conducted a short business meeting. Mrs. Jack Benton gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Robert E. Allen the treasurer's report. Mrs. J. Foster Elder, city council representative, reported that the Spring Conference will be held in Pampa on April 29-30. Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Nichols, and Mrs. J. T. Cornutt will represent the Lee unit at the banquet on April 29. Eight delegates will attend the conference meetings on April 30th. Nita Eads, ninth grade student, gave the thought for the day.

New Officers Are Named for Council At St. Vincent's

The Parish Council of St. Vincent dePaul parish met Thursday in the school cafeteria. The following officers were elected to serve for the coming year: Mmes. Thomas L. Wade, president; R. W. Laycock, vice-president; E. J. Lewis, secretary-treasurer; R. M. Barrett, parliamentarian. Plans were made for the annual tea honoring all new parishioners, which is to be held the first Sunday in May. The newly-elected officers will be installed at this time.

tee member of the International Science Fair Board. She has successfully combined the careers of home maker, author, teacher, and professional photographer. Mrs. Ledbetter has received the Altrusa Woman Achievement and Key Club Adult Leader awards. Program members were introduced by Mellie Bird Richey. Mary Reeve, President, conducted the business meeting. Hostesses were Mmes. J. T. Broadway, Panhandle; Cula Nowlin, Wheeler; Clarence Wood, Shamrock; Misses Norma Lantz, Ardelle Briggs, Lefors; Mary Dean Dozier, Pampa.

Dear Abby....

Poker Watcher Has Full House!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband works the second shift and has been coming home two and three hours late every night. Sometimes he has had a drink or two. When I question him about it he says some fellows at work showed him a place where there is a big poker game going on all the time. They serve free beer and sandwiches. He says he stops in there just to watch, and to relieve the tension of his hard day's work. We have 11 children and number 12 is on the way. How should I handle the situation?

with no ill after-effects. Have you ever heard of such an operation? Should we let her go ahead and have her friend do it? I'd like your opinion.
MRS. K.
DEAR MRS. K.: I advise you to send your daughter to another doctor — one who specializes in foot surgery. If the specialist agrees that the toes should come off, let HIM perform the surgery. The young surgeon probably means it well, but letting a "friend" perform surgery gratis could be an expensive way to save money.

WORRIED
DEAR WORRIED: Your joker is wild. Tell him to come right home after work because you need him to help YOU relieve the tension after your hard day with 11 children. He can see a full house (his!) every night.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DEE DEE: A new broom sweeps clean, and what old witch can't use a clean sweep?

DEAR ABBY: I am 12 years old and have a mother who won't buy a detergent because she doesn't like the commercial. Is this sensible?

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

JUST ASKING
DEAR JUST: It is just as "sensible" as BUYING a detergent because one LIKES the commercial. The manufacturer of that detergent your mother isn't buying would like to hear from her.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Here are two facts:

Fact No. 1: There is talk that Newton Minow, who labeled television a "vast wasteland," may soon resign as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission. Fact No. 2: The networks are cutting down sharply on regularly scheduled prime-time current events shows next season.

Are facts No. 1 and 2 entirely coincidental? Some people are wondering. For the fact is that the formula for next season's weekly prime night-time schedule seems to be "entertainment si. public affairs no."

The prospects for such an outlook became obvious several months ago, and now unhappily are firm. What, then, is the specific outlook in this area for the new fall season? To begin with: In all the scheduling of the three networks, only one "prime" hour per week on next season's 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. EST Wednesdays on CBS—is allotted every week to nothing but public affairs.

This is the time slot of the returning "CBS Reports," which will offer 22 new shows and eight repeats in 1963-64. Alternating with it is a new series, "Chronicle," which will explore a wide range of public affairs features with Charles Collingwood.

Gone will be Collingwood's present weekly program, "Eyewitness." Gone also from their weekly slots are Howard K. Smith's commentary (ABC), and "David Brinkley's Journal" (NBC). And gone is ABC's excellent "Close-up" documentary series, which has not been weekly, but still a frequent visitor. Of course, all the networks will air documentaries from time to time.

For admirers of Brinkley's Journal and Huntley's "Reporting," here is the story. Next season, Huntley will do about 10 one-hour programs. Brinkley had been expected to do 10 also, but he wants to get out on the election trail early in 1964, says a dependable source, and therefore will probably do only about six. The other four, however, will be taken over by other NBC staffers.

WHATEVER HAPPENED TO TARZAN?—Well, he's no longer chasing Jane through the jungle treetops or fighting off lions, tigers and crocodiles. Lex Barker, a former Hollywood film Tarzan, currently is in Europe starring in more sophisticated film plays, such as bedroom comedy. Here, the former ape man swings through a boudoir scene with Swiss-German actress Liselotte Pulver, in Berlin.

Shoot This Summer A great many of these 20 one-hour shows are hoped by NBC to be done this summer, even before the season begins. It seems obvious that such procedures will make their timeliness rather doubtful as the season ages. There is a reason for the advance shooting. It is this:

NBC-like CBS, is expanding its daily evening news report from 15 to 30 minutes—from 7 to 7:30 p.m. EST—and Huntley and Brinkley need the extra time once the change goes into effect. One continues to wonder, however, that other NBC newsmen were not chosen as replacements for the two news stars in their weekly efforts.

That 15-minute daily news expansion is fine, and the networks probably had their hands full with their affiliate stations trying to clear the valuable local time. But in view of the prime time failure, it is nothing to gloat about.

Britain to Stay Aircraft Carrier For Some Time

LONDON (UPI)—Britain will remain an aircraft carrier island for many more years to come with an imminent new American air strike buildup this side of the Atlantic.

New and more up-to-date U. S. planes—equipped with nuclear weapons—are to be flown to bases in the British isles over the next few months.

The developments belie earlier suggestions that the United States was planning to pull down its bases in this country.

This impression of a fade-out has been strengthened lately by U. S. plans to withdraw Thor long-range missiles from Europe, including Britain, as Polaris-carrying nuclear submarines come into operation on a growing scale.

Stroger than Ever

American atomic strike fighters will play an important part in this new U. S. move. Current assessments in London are that by Oct. 1 depleted American bases will be back to their former strength, probably even with their striking power increased.

The fighters will, at least partly, take over from the long range B47 strategic bombers which are to be gradually withdrawn.

Supersonic fighter bombers with operational ranges of more than 1,000 miles are held less vulnerable than the B47—apart from serving additional purposes.

The program for the buildup in Britain includes a new operational control and command center and other long term arrangements which are seen as an indication of planning for a long stay in Britain.

New Force Planned

Whether some of this new air strength will eventually be added to the projected inter-Allied nuclear force now in the state of preparation remains to be seen.

Foreign Aid Not Charity Says Director

By HENRY KEYS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States, says David E. Bell, is "not engaged in a charitable enterprise in foreign aid."

Bell is the new director of the Agency for International Development (AID), which disburses millions of dollars for other nations each year. Advancing U. S. interests, he stresses, is just as important a goal of the aid program as helping less developed countries get on their own feet.

Bell told a briefing for editors and broadcasters at the State Department this week that 81 percent of the money Congress voted for foreign aid was spent in the United States.

It was used to provide American goods and services for aid-receiving countries.

And, of course, that means jobs for American workers.

Present Different Problems

Overseas, the developing countries of Africa, Asia and Latin America present the United States with foreign aid problems very different to those of Europe after World War II, he said.

But U. S. objectives remain essentially the same: To help these countries become economically independent and self-supporting enough so that one day aid programs to them might be ended.

Bell said Marshall Plan aid to Europe lasted for five years and helped Europe restore the mighty capital plant that was destroyed during the war and rebuilt its economy.

In Africa, Asia and Latin America, the problem today is to help needy countries build a capital plant, to educate their people and to provide necessary technical assistance in many areas.

Many countries receiving aid from the United States and other free world countries are doing all that could be asked of them to achieve economic independence, Bell said. He singled out India, Pakistan, Nigeria and Colombia for special mention.

Some Countries Unwilling

Some other countries, however, are either unable or unwilling to help themselves, Bell said.

Viet Nam for example, has had to give priority to other, more urgent questions in its fight against Communist guerrillas. Korea, on the other hand, is not responding to aid, certainly not as fast as the United States would like, Bell said.

The United States, he said is doing all it can to persuade Western Europe, Japan and Australia to increase their foreign aid programs. Expressed as a percentage of their gross national products, their aid programs already compare favorably with that of the United States, he said.

The total of free world foreign aid programs is $6 billion of which non-American countries contribute approximately $2.5 billion and the United States the rest, Bell said.

A main U. S. objective, he said, is to get other countries also to reduce the terms on which they made aid available—long-term loans at low rates of interest, for example.

Bell said several countries had a record almost as good as that of the United States. France was even better, however, because it made a large part of its aid available in the form of grants.

United Press International
The intelligent citizen urgently needs guidance on national defense and a nuclear test ban just recently needed guidance on foreign aid and what should be done about it.
Nonpartisan, responsible guidance is what the intelligent citizen urgently needs. President Kennedy provided that kind of guidance on foreign aid when he named the Clay committee to investigate. Kennedy commissioned Clay's committee because the taxpayers seemed to be making up their minds to cut foreign aid down to size, very small size. It is the consensus here that Gen. Lucius Clay's temperate report will protect the 1963 foreign aid appropriation against meat-ax surgery under which it might have expired altogether. It probably is fair to say that the Clay committee restored much public confidence in foreign aid and in the administration's explanations as to why it is necessary.

Defense Policy Attack
Now mounted against the Kennedy administration on national defense policy in general and a nuclear test ban in particular is the kind of formidable opposition that almost brought foreign aid to defeat.
Regularly published here is a

Washington Report, sponsored by the American Security Council. It is frightening reading.
"By hook or crook," the report says, "We are abandoning the nuclear race. Frantically we pursue the nuclear test-ban treaty. Instead of catching up, we continue to negotiate."
Robert S. McNamara, during more than two years in office, has not authorized a single new weapon system. He is slowing down our technological progress deliberately. All things considered, it does not look as though under the stewardship of Mr. McNamara the United States is being equipped to forestall a nuclear and technological Pearl Harbor.
High Level Panel
What is the intelligent citizen to make of that? It is not as if the Security Council could be rushed off as a council of nobodies. It is not. The national strategy committee of the council includes Lt. Gen. Edward M. Almond, Ret.; Adm. Ben Moreel, Ret.; Dr. Robert Morris, Adm. Arthur W. Radford, Ret.; Adm. Felix B. Stump, Ret.; Dr. Edward Teller; Adm. Chester C. Ward, Ret.; and Gen. Albert G. Wedemeyer, Ret. It is not possible to laugh off, brush off or disregard such men.
The intelligent citizen cannot have access to the facts nor has he the background knowledge to form any intelligent opinion in all of this although his very life may depend on what policy prevails.
It would be helpful to the intelligent citizen, therefore, if a committee enjoying public confidence could be named to study this nuclear-test ban problem. The citizen urgently need guidance.

The Pampa Daily News AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings.

By carrier in Pampa, 35¢ per week, $1.50 per 3 months, $3.00 per 6 months, $5.00 per year. By mail paid in advance at office $10.00 per year in retail trading zone, $15.00 per year outside retail trading zone.

A Tax Is Not Insurance

"Insurance" is an attractive word. Almost everyone has some life, accident, fire, theft, hospitalization, liability, it is protection against adversity.

But the word can be used in a misleading way. And that is true of the current effort to apply the "insurance" tag to the bill—which got nowhere in the last Congress, but is up again in this one.

The courts have held that these taxes are exactly that—taxes. And so has the Internal Revenue Service, which has placed liens on "delinquent taxpayer accounts" within the Social Security System.

A Strange And Dangerous World

A number of dramatic books have recently appeared dealing with the chance of nuclear war occurring by accident, because of some mechanical or human failure that unleashed destructive power beyond the ability of man to imagine.

Extraordinary precautions, and intricate protective systems, have been developed to prevent this. One must assume that the Soviets have done a similar thing.

So, in a sense, civilization as we understand it hangs by a thread. An error in judgment, a misleading report, inaccurate intelligence—any of these could be fatal.

Everything is fallible, and the risks will always exist. The point is that we live in a strange and dangerous world. It is certainly true, for instance, that President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev possess powers unprecedented in history.

So, in a sense, civilization as we understand it hangs by a thread. An error in judgment, a misleading report, inaccurate intelligence—any of these could be fatal. One can only hope that a happier age will come.

INVITATION Bureaucrats Want More Irresponsible

Readers of this column may remember a time or two when I've mentioned government's insistent ambition to gain more and more power. To imagine government wanting to reduce the size and cost of welfare is like pretending public servants are omnipotent.

A very small, slightly spoiled child may say, "I want that candy. I have a right to that candy because I didn't ask to be born. I want that candy." The federal official indicates his compatibility with this childish line of reasoning: Americans are entitled to an adequate living. Not a word about being entitled to earn a living or retain the fruits of their labors and creative ability.

When he stated his opinion that this state could easily handle twice as many welfare cases, the government official was suggesting that those who earn could stand additional taxes to provide adequate living for twice as many who do not earn.

It doesn't take much imagination to visualize a tremendous hue and cry over a statement of this kind. Don't hold your breath! The lure of becoming a welfare case is insidious. Why buck the inevitable? You've paid taxes

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

We pull up our chair this morning in San Francisco in the famous Mark Hopkins Hotel on the top of Nob Hill after a pleasant 5-hour jet flight from New York. Two years had swiftly passed since we were last in this fabulous Golden Gate City and many changes were quickly observed.

The courts have held that these taxes are exactly that—taxes. And so has the Internal Revenue Service, which has placed liens on "delinquent taxpayer accounts" within the Social Security System.

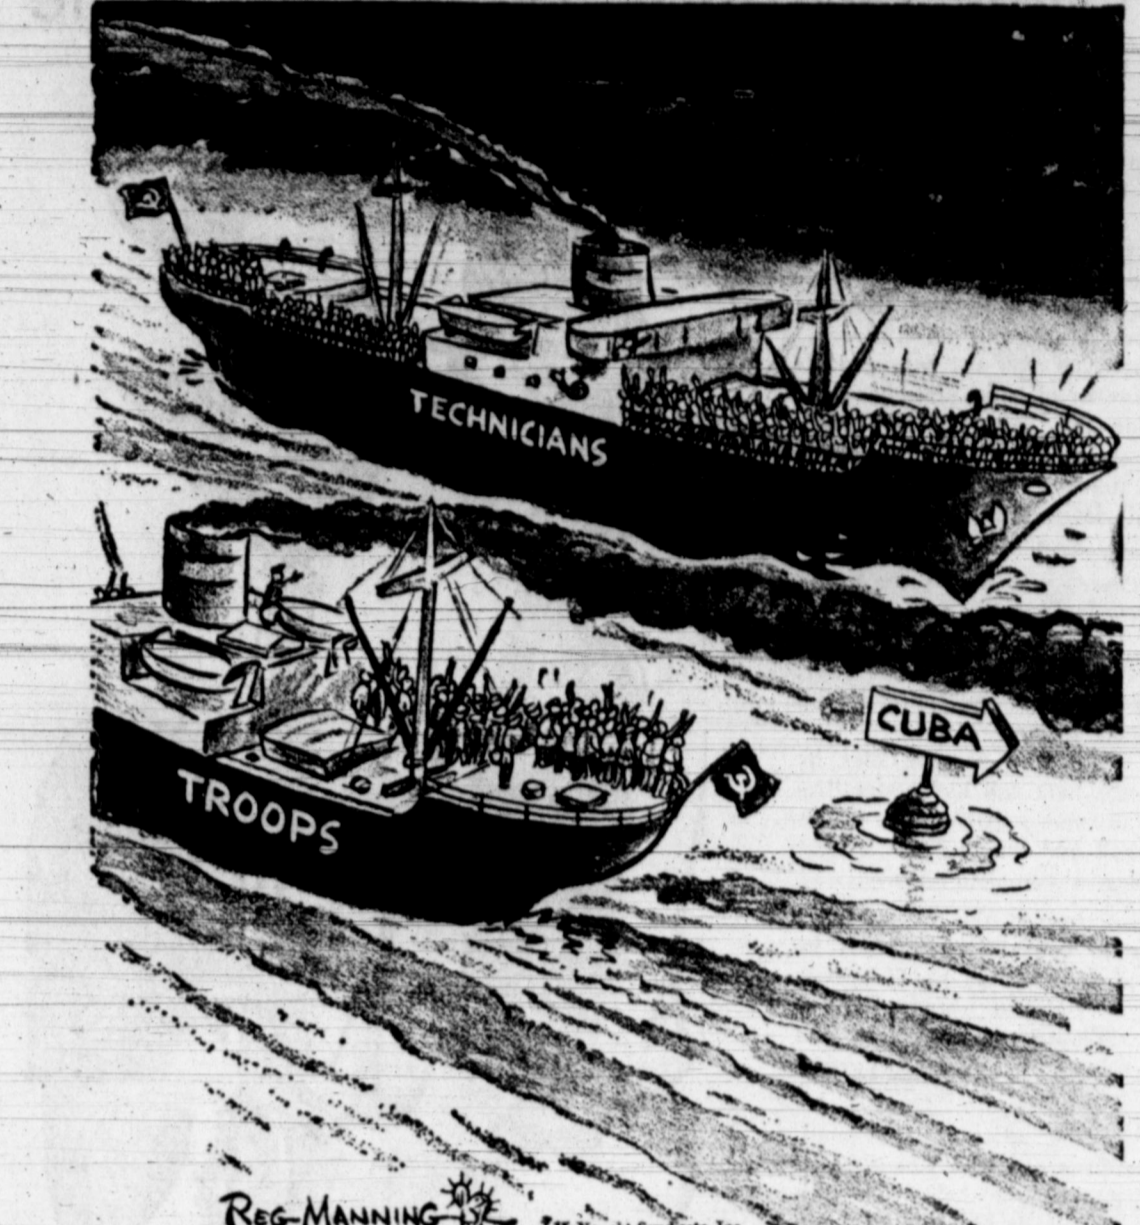

According to Ralph Bunche, under secretary of the United Nations, that Red-riddled organization was never so "indispensable" as it was in the Cuban crisis.

He said also that no war was waged by the U.N. in Katanga. That is deliberate falsification of the known and published facts. On Feb. 12, 1962, another apologist for the U.N., Carl T. Rowan, of the State Department endeavored to convince a subcommittee of the Judiciary of the U.S. Senate that the U.N. had not engaged in wanton massacre of the people in Katanga.

More inaccuracies of Bunche: the U.N. has achieved much since the admission of the African states into that organization, he said. What has it accomplished? Those so-called states have no stable governments, no knowledge of how to make profitable use of what natural resources they have.

The Doctor Says:

Many Factors Affect Tolerance of Alcohol

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT

Q—If I have one drink of whisky while I am bowling I promptly become lightheaded and can't bowl well. My teammates tell me I should see a doctor or a psychiatrist as it is impossible to get this reaction from only one drink. Are they right?

Also, a habitual drinker absorbs alcohol more slowly and eliminates it more rapidly than does a person who rarely takes a drink. Eating along with the drinking also slows the rate of absorption of the alcohol into the blood and this lessens the effect.

Q—What could cause blood in the urine after stones have been found in the bladder? A—Stones in the bladder often mean stones in the kidneys. This alone could account for your finding blood in the urine. Other causes include tumors of the bladder or kidneys (these may be benign or malignant), acute inflammation of the bladder, tuberculosis of the kidney or bladder, and leukemias.

Q—I have always been the nervous type. My hands have always shaken some but lately I have noticed my hand shakes from side to side when I get upset. Is this nervous and, if so, what be done for them?

A—From your description I would suspect that you have the palsy. You should have your doctor examine you to make sure of the diagnosis. If it is all nerves, he may want you to take a tranquilizer for a short time. If it is palsy, other measures may be required. Dr. Irving Cooper has had excellent results with a new procedure that involves localized chilling of the portion of the brain responsible for the tremors.

New Contract Hassle for McNamara: Mahon Committee Probes His 'Lance' Award

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's bitter wrangling with Congress is spreading.

On top of his still-far-from-finished clash in the Senate over the multi-billion dollar TFX plane award, the Pentagon boss has become embroiled with a House Appropriations Subcommittee, headed by Representative George Mahon, D-Tex., over a big development contract for the Army's Lance to the Ling-Temco-Vought Company of Dallas, Texas.

The solid-fuel Lance is scheduled to replace the Army's Honest John and La Crosse ground-to-ground missiles. Lance is to be more mobile, have greater fire power, longer range and increased accuracy.

Design competition contracts for the Lance were originally to go to three producers — General Electric, Chrysler, and Ling-Temco-Vought. But at the last minute, McNamara stepped in and arbitrarily eliminated General Electric.

After that ruling, the Army made its choice, recommending the contract go to Chrysler on the basis of its past performance, personnel, plant facilities and bid. Rejecting this recommendation, McNamara ordered Dr. Harold Brown, director of Defense Research & Engineering, to award the contract to the Ling-Temco-Vought Company. Its original bid was based on the work being performed at the firm's plant in Dallas.

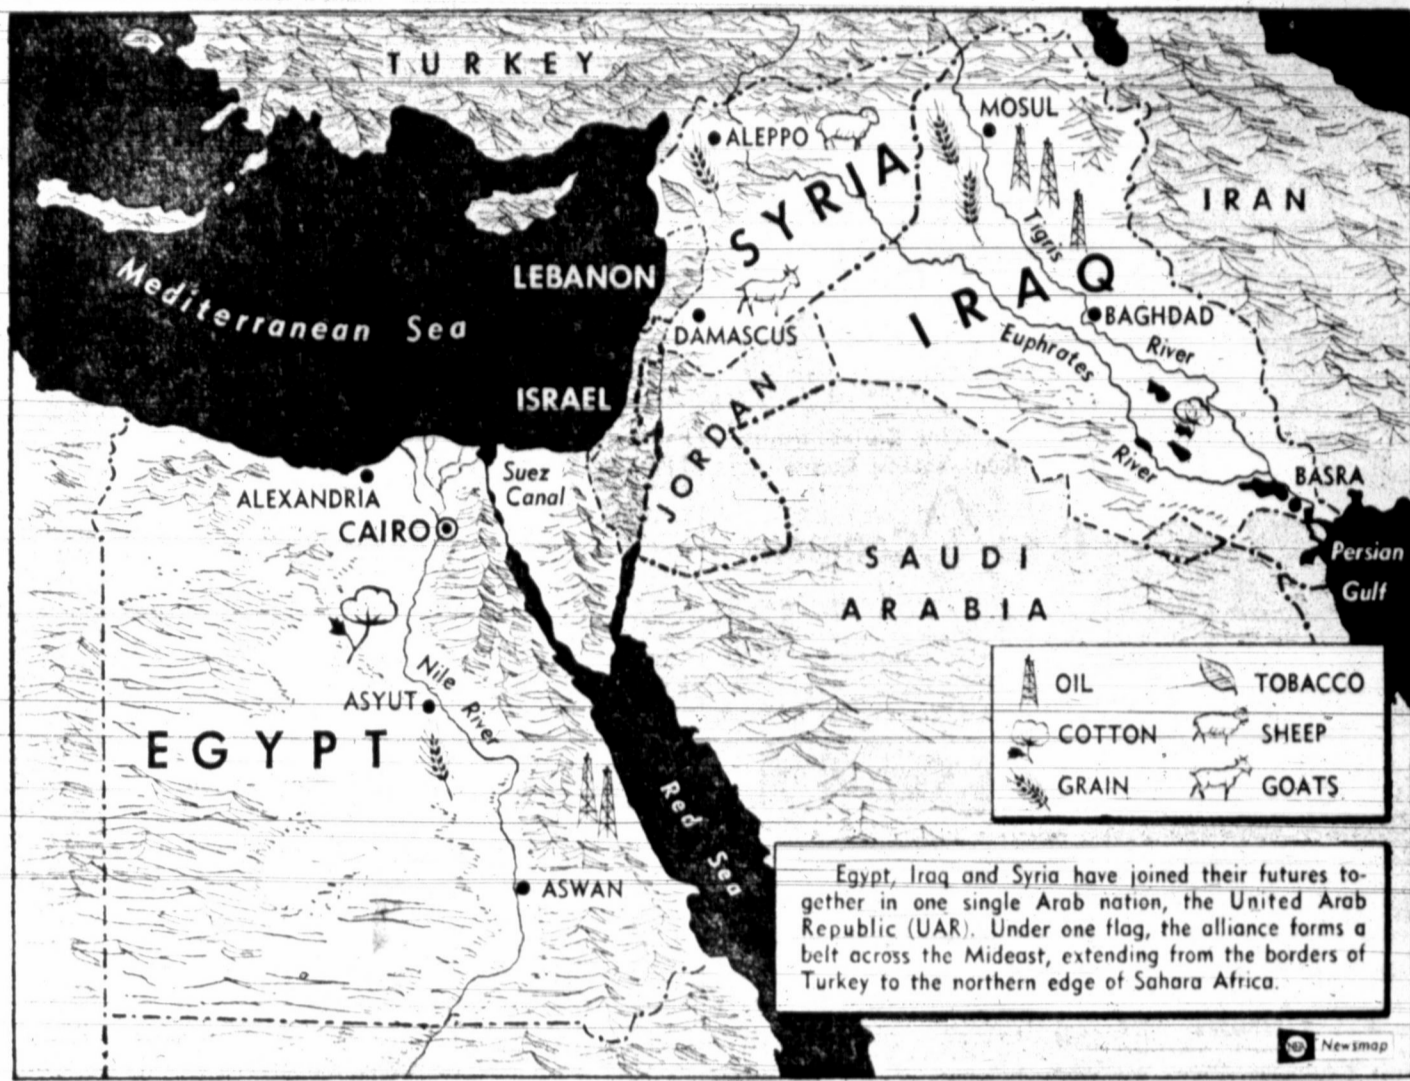

McNamara is insisting the Navy undertake a five-year program for rehabilitating a number of conventional-powered submarines as attack vessels rather than rely on a fleet of nuclear subs.

It is McNamara's contention the Navy is proceeding too fast in building nuclear-attack submarines without being sure all their bugs have been solved.

Secretary Korth and his admirals emphatically disagree. They hold McNamara's plan would be a waste of money, as the two additional nuclear submarines they want to build have a much greater overall attack capability and can operate at far greater depths than diesel-powered subs.

German Students Try to Erase Israeli Bitterness Over Nazis

By ELIAV SIMON
United Press International
JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — The meeting took place in one of the buildings on the Hebrew University campus in Jerusalem.

German and Israeli students sat facing each other across a conference table. The atmosphere was tense.

One of the Germans was speaking slowly in English, choosing his words with care. He proposed holding a joint German-Israeli symposium in Germany on the problem of anti-Semitism.

The Israeli students stirred restlessly. One interrupted the German. "Anti-Semitism is your problem, not ours. Considering that so many people in Israel have experienced the Nazi holocaust, it is morally out of the question for Israeli students to go to Germany."

The Germans offered to hold the symposium elsewhere in Europe. This, too, was rejected by the Israeli students.

Suddenly, an Israeli student jumped to his feet and shouted: "Why don't you go back to Germany? You are not welcome here!"

Turning to his students, he declared: "It is wrong for us to have anything to do with Germans. This meeting is disgraceful!"

Germans Stunned
With these words he left the room, followed by five other students.

The Germans sat perfectly still, shaken by this outburst. One of the German girls burst into tears. Soon after, the meeting broke up in a slightly more cordial atmosphere.

The Israeli press reacted sharply to the incident. Some newspapers supported the stand taken by the six students who had stalked out of the meeting. A few strongly condemned the Israeli Students Association for arranging this meeting with the Germans. But most of the press showed a more moderate attitude.

The Jerusalem Post criticized the Israeli students who had hurled insults at the Germans, who are members of a student group called the "Deutsch-Israelitisch Studentengruppen (DIS)."

This organization is dedicated to promotion of friendship between Germany and Israel. Those Israelis who disapproved of such contacts would "have done better to have stayed away," the Post said.

The German students were the first to visit Israel this year. Last year, over 1,000 came here. Their trips are largely subsidized by the German Government, a church groups, trade unions and factories. Carefully selected out of a large number of applicants, they come here well informed about Israel but are nervous about the reception they are likely to get.

All applicants about whom there is the slightest suspicion of a Nazi or anti-Semitic past are weeded out.

Growing Movement
Since the war, a growing movement in Germany, consisting of first of individual Germans with an anti-Nazi past and gradually embracing student and religious groups, has been searching for some way to bridge the gulf between the two peoples and to atone in some symbolic way for the crimes committed against the Jews in Germany.

These are not tourists in the ordinary sense. Many come to "atone." Members of a group called "action for symbolic penance" have been spending time in European countries once occupied by the Germans, taking part in constructive building projects.

In Israel, they ask to be allowed to work in border settlements where manpower is scarce.

Out of a total of 273 settlements approached, only 12 so far have agreed to accept Germans as working visitors. These 12 are "young villages" of Israeli-born "Sabras" who do not share the personal memories of older Jews of European origin who lost parents, brothers, sisters or children in the Nazi holocaust.

Ten years ago meetings such as these student groups would have been impossible. No German was permitted to enter Israel and Israeli passports were stamped "Not valid for travel in Germany."

You're Israelis Friendly
"Begeistert" — enthusiastic — is the word most frequently cropping up in letters and articles sent home by German visitors.

Fearing the worst, they are often pleasantly surprised at the generally friendly reception they get, particularly from young Israelis.

Even the older generation, though understandably aloof and cold, have in personal contacts been polite and correct. This is no doubt due to the fact that these Germans, mostly in their early twenties, were too young to have taken part in the Nazi atrocities.

This policy of "controlled tourism" approved by the Israeli government is seen by many as the first step in eventual establishment of full normal relations with Germany. But, as an Israeli official put it, "Israel is not yet psychologically prepared to receive unlimited and, unselected masses of German tourists."

Meanwhile, meetings between the Germans and the Israelis take place, though not always comfortable for the Germans. But they do not usually complain of the Israeli attitude.

"It is much better this way," said one German student, "than for us to have met with a cold barrier of hostile silence."

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Investors Research Co. says that despite the appearance of the popular market averages, "the stock market is not high."

The firm says the market is not high in relation to price peaks set in individual stocks during 1959-61 nor in relation to the level of earning power likely to be attained during 1963 and 1964. Therefore, the firm concludes investors have a distinct advantage in income investing at this time because they can also look forward to capital growth.

International Statistical Bureau Inc. sees a temporary pause in the market now that the averages are close to their 1961 highs. However, the bureau points out, "Such a pause would not imply that the year's highs have been seen." The firm believes the averages will surpass the 1961 peak but only by a small margin unless there is a greater gain than currently indicated.

Harvey Deutsch and Edward Gillard of Purcell, Graham & Co. look for the market to thrust into new high ground in the coming months, but believe that some correction or consolidation is needed to assure "a better footing for the assault." The two analysts believe public buying is creeping back into the market and although it has been confined mainly to the blue chips it could spill over into the secondary or more speculative issues.

Quotes In The News

By United Press International
KEENER, Ala. — Baltimore postman William L. Moore, shot to death while hiking to Mississippi, in a letter to Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett:

"Make certain that when the Negro gets his rights and his vote that he does not treat the white man with the contempt and disdain that, unfortunately, some of us now treat him."

WASHINGTON — Secretary of the Soap and Detergent Association objecting to a so-called "truth-in-packaging law."

"The housewife at the sink or washer is our fully competent, least costly enforcement agent against deceit."

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Pulitzer Prize winner Hodding Carter, crediting writers and journalists for contributing to today's changed attitudes in the South:

"For 100 years Southern writing has either been defensive or critical. One school presents a dream, the other, a nightmare."

AMMAN, Jordan — King Hussein, scoffing at reports he was ready to flee Jordan in the face of pro-Nasser demonstrations:

"So long as I feel I am needed, whether as king or as an ordinary person, I will remain."

GONZALEZ TO SPEAK

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., will speak Saturday to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's State Youth Conference. His topic will be "The Domestic Peace Corps. High School Drop-Outs and Juvenile Delinquency."

BOYS WITH NERVE

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Credit two Des Moines teen-age boys with nerve.

Police arrested the two youths at the scene of an accident. They were prying a hub cap off a squad car while officers investigated the accident.

SHOULD HAVE LOOKED

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A burglar threw 50 suede jackets from the roof of a store Tuesday to the pavement beside his truck.

Two patrolmen who had been investigating the truck climbed onto the roof and arrested Arceles Leavrette, 20.
