Water Plan To Get New 'Look'

Board's Decision Good News for West Texas Area

West Texas and Panhandle officials and water conservationists were jubilant today over announcement by the State Water Development Board that it plans to make further study of the West Texas area's future needs.

The water board executive director Joe G. Moore said Wednesday two of the chief topics of re-study would be in the critical area of irrigation in West Texas and the section of the plan dealing with inter-basin water transfer.

The catch-all plan, designed to take care of Texas' water needs until 2020, received its most heated criticism in West Texas.

Residents of the South Plains and Panhandle felt they were being ignored in the plan. Critics pointed out Northwest Texas had more land under irrigation than any other part of the state and yet no mention was made about how to take care of the area's needs.

Other critics did not like the idea of shifting water from one part of the state to another, such as from the Highland Lakes in Central Texas to San Antonio or from East Texas to the Rio Grande Valley.

Moore said a number of alternatives had been thought of at the 20 public hearings, and that the board hoped to come up with an alternative plan "within six to 12 months."

"No plan could meet the preferences of every individual in the state," Moore said. "Some of the suggested alternatives are irreconcilable with each other."

Moore said four proposals will be considered to get additional water for West Texas, but emphasized that this does not mean they will be carried out. (See WEST TEXAS, Page 3)

Set Top Rate

They set 5 per cent as the top rate that banks may pay on time deposits under $100,000. The old ceiling on these "consumer-type" time deposits was 5.5 per cent.

It was hoped that by holding down the interest banks pay certain depositors, the banks would not be forced to charge borrowers higher interest rates.

Johnson called this, the skyrocketing interest rates facing borrowers, one of "the most dangerous threats to a sound and healthy economy."

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board also set new rate ceilings Wednesday for some 4,500 savings and loan associations (S&Ls). They may now pay 4.75 per cent tops on pass book accounts, with certain exceptions for some geographical areas and for S&Ls already paying higher rates.

The S&Ls ceilings and the ceiling on consumer-type time deposits in commercial banks are effective Monday. The ceiling on consumer-type time deposits in insured mutual savings banks is effective Oct. 1.

Time deposits are made under an agreement that the money will be left in the bank for a certain time period and the depositor must pay a penalty for early withdrawal. They are not related to ordinary savings accounts, which may be withdrawn at any time, and on which the maximum permissible interest rate remains 4 per cent.

Scientists Destroy Crippled Surveyor On Doomed Flight

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Scientists early today destroyed the crippled Surveyor 2 mooncraft after all hope vanished for salvaging its lunar softlanding and picture-taking mission.

Project Control at California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory fired the spacecraft's 8-to-10,000 pound main retro rocket at 3:34 a.m. CST, apparently causing the vehicle to disintegrate.

A JPL spokesman said the Canberra, Australia tracking station reported losing contact with Surveyor 2.

Scientists had attempted repeatedly Wednesday and early Thursday to ignite an unresponsive steering engine which would have stabilized the tumbling spacecraft and made a softlanding possible.

The final attempt to activate the vernier engine was made at 2:04 a.m. CST when the craft's battery was signaled to direct five two-second bursts, South Vietnamese people from followed by a single 20-second burst.

The violent tumbling motion prevented Surveyor's solar panel from locking onto the sun and recharging the battery. Without power, it could not send signals.

Officials also expressed concern that the repeated attempts to fire all three vernier, or steering, engines simultaneously would "speed up the tumbling rate" and possibly damage the television camera and other equipment aboard Surveyor.

Mission Control at California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory predicted a lunar impact of 9:43 p.m. CST tonight.

The braking and landing process would have started about an hour before impact.

The target area is in the Sinus Medii—or Middle Bay—along the lunar equator visible from earth. It is about 900 miles in diameter. (See SCIENTISTS, Page 3)

Goldberg's Proposal Dependent on Reds

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The United States today formally offered to end the bombing of North Viet Nam and withdraw its forces from South Viet Nam if the Communists take corresponding action.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said in a major policy speech to the General Assembly that the question of Viet Cong participation in Viet Nam peace talks would not be "an insurmountable problem."

In Saigon today South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky said he would be glad to appear before the United Nations if he is invited.

Goldberg put three concrete proposals to the Communist North Viet Nam regime and said more may follow from the "not inflexible" position of the United States.

"We do not ask of North Viet Nam an unconditional surrender or indeed the surrender of anything that belongs to it," Goldberg said. "Nor do we seek to exclude any segment of the South Vietnamese people from peaceful participation in their country's future."

"Let me say affirmatively and succinctly what our aims are. We want a political situation, not a military solution, to this conflict. By the same token, we reject the idea that North Viet Nam has a right to impose a military solution."

"We seek to assure the people of South Viet Nam the same right of self-determination—to decide their own political destiny, free of force—that the U.N. Charter affirms for all."

"And we believe that reunification of Viet Nam should be decided upon through a free choice by the peoples of Viet Nam." (See TROOPS, Page 3)

House Approves Reserve Duty Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill to let President Johnson call up to 198,000 reservists and National Guardsmen for active duty.

Johnson did not ask for the authority and there was no evidence he would use it. He would be empowered to call up reserve troops as individuals without declaring a national emergency.

The power was incorporated in a so-called "Reserve Bill of Rights" approved Wednesday night with its main purpose the blocking of a threatened merger of the Army Reserve and National Guard.

The callup provision was added to the bill by the House Armed Services Committee after key members of the Senate protested that the reserve forces had become a draft haven for some youngsters.

The critics said young men with enough "pull" were allowed to enlist while others not so fortunate were drafted and sent to fight in Viet Nam.

According to its sponsor, Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., the House-passed bill is aimed:

—At 133,000 men assigned to reserve and guard units who have served less than four months on active duty.

—At about 65,000 who are not members of organized units, have not had at least 24 months active duty, and have not completed their overall reserve duty obligations of six years.

The Senate had forced the House to act after writing into the $56 billion defense appropriation bill a reserve callup provision that could have affected as many as 472,000 men. As of June 30, the reserves of all kinds totaled 920,000. (See CRUSADE, Page 3)

U.S. Thunderchiefs Claim One of Greatest Viet Nam Air Victories

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchief pilots shot down two Communist MIG jets and crippled three others over North Viet Nam Wednesday in one of the war's greatest air battles, U.S. military spokesmen said today. The pilots sighted 19 enemy planes in all.

Two American planes were shot down during the raids, but spokesmen said they were lost to ground fire and not in encounters with the North Vietnamese jets. The dogfights occurred in "Mig Alley" between Hanoi and the border of Communist China.

U.S. Marines supported by flame-throwing tanks, planes, artillery and offshore naval guns meanwhile pushed North Vietnamese ground troops from a heavily-fortified village just outside the demilitarized zone (DMZ) and swept onward today.

Fighting in the region has raged for five days between the Marines and the crack North Vietnamese 324B Division. The Reds finally were pushed out of their An Dinh-Gia Binh fortress 425 miles north of Saigon and less than 1,000 yards from the edge of the neutral zone separating the two Viet Nams. Late Wednesday, the Marines drove into the village hurling grenades and firing rifles and automatic weapons from the hip. U.S. planes fired rockets and dumped bombs and napalm into the area while 7th Fleet vessels seven miles away poured tons of explosives into the complex from their big guns.

The Communist troops fought back from a tunnel, cave and trench network until not a hut was left standing and thick black smoke covered the complex.

Crusade To Pray Given Senate Ax

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate emerged empty-handed today from its first foray into the controversy over prayer in public schools. But Sen. Everett M. Dirksen said his "crusade" for voluntary prayers will continue.

"The next time we will be better organized throughout the country," said the Illinois Republican Wednesday after the Senate turned down his proposed constitutional amendment. It was designed to allow voluntary prayers where public school officials permit. The Supreme Court rulings were against a state-sanctioned prayer in New York and a state-

Appointments Put State Department At Full Strength

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson put the State Department top echelon at full strength Wednesday and provided a logical successor for Dean Rusk if and when the secretary resigns.

The President's designation of Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to succeed George W. Ball as undersecretary of state and appointment of other men to the No. 3 and No. 4 posts, gave Rusk his first full term since June.

Katzenbach's appointment, which caught official Washington by surprise, appeared to have no policy overtones. The 44-year-old father of four is known as a team man.

His presence in the highest ranks of U.S. policymakers was not expected to produce any radical shifts and was likely to give Johnson another strong voice at state.

Eugene V. Rostow, former dean of Yale Law School, who Johnson named to the No. 3 job—undersecretary for political affairs—is rather an unknown quantity to most officials and diplomats here. Rostow succeeds Thomas C. Mann, who resigned last June.

Foy D. Kohler, ambassador to Moscow, was Johnson's choice for deputy undersecretary of state for political affairs. Kohler is regarded by his colleagues as an "old pro" who knows all the ropes. He succeeds U. Alexis Johnson, who is now ambassador to Japan.

The job shift for Katzenbach will mean a $5,000 pay cut. His new salary will be $10,000 a year, an amount Ball listed as "the most impelling" reason for his resignation.

Katzenbach's arrival in the department, subject to Senate confirmation, was difficult to assess.

Johnson told newsmen he knows the soft-spoken Katzenbach as one of the most selfless men in government service who willingly took on his new assignment at his President's request.

'Big 3' Hikes Prices On '67 Model Cars

DETROIT (UPI)—General Motors Corp. hiked prices on its 1967 cars an average of $56 today, joining Ford and Chrysler in a price pattern that could boost consumer spending a billion dollars.

Johnson Regrets Auto Price Hike

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson expressed regrets Wednesday over the increase in new car prices and ordered a high-level study of its impact on the already overheated economy.

Johnson noted at a news conference that he had appealed to the nation's auto makers recently to absorb the cost of newly required car safety features without raising prices.

"But they are free to make their own prices, and they did," he said.

At his direction, the President said, the Council of Economic Advisers is "analyzing what effect it will have on the economy." Meanwhile, he made a new plea for wage-price restraint.

"I just hope that all the leaders of industry and the leaders of labor in this country will not increase prices or increase wages beyond their increased productivity," Johnson said.

"Because when they do this it makes problems for the rest of the nation. We are trying to do our best to practice restraint."

boost consumer spending a billion dollars. The price hikes by GM, which produces about half the cars sold in the U.S. each year, ranged from $29 to $89 for various models, less than Ford's $52 to $347 range and Chrysler's price hike range of $39 to $359. It averaged $56.

Like its competitors, GM said the higher prices were necessary because of safety items and other equipment which were made standard on 1967 models. They previously were optional.

But the higher prices, whether justified or not by the safety features and other improvements, could push consumer spending up nearly a billion dollars, based on anticipated sales of about 9 million 1967 model cars.

The new models go on sale Sept. 30. Only American Motors Corp., which produces less than 2 per cent of U.S.-made cars, has not yet announced its prices.

President Johnson had urged car makers to hold the price line despite new safety features. He told a news conference Wednesday he "had hoped that these businessmen could have foregone the necessity of increasing prices."

"I asked that they do that," Johnson said. "But they are free to make their own prices; and they did. We are now analyzing what effect it will have on the economy."

The administration fears a dose of higher car prices could fan the inflationary fires which Johnson is trying to extinguish. Unlike Ford and Chrysler, GM said its "passenger car price adjustments are less than the 1966 option prices for those items made standard equipment in 1967 plus an adjustment for the cost of product improvements."

In computing their price hikes, Ford and Chrysler used the 1966 retail price of the formerly optional items. Price tags on options generally carry a 40 per cent profit.

GM said its new cars have 29 "new or improved safety items" including collapsible steering columns, dual master cylinder brakes, safer door locks, more padding and better warning lights.

The list, or "sticker" prices, are retail prices suggested by the manufacturer. They do not include radios and many other optional items which car buyers choose when ordering an auto.

Washington sources speculated on the possibility of the Senate Commerce Committee holding hearings next month to determine if auto price increases are inflated and unfair.

Chrysler said Wednesday it will raise the prices of its cars an average of $92 a car, with increases ranging from $39 to the suggested cost of a Dodge Dart convertible to $359 for Chrysler "300" hardtops. The price of the sporty Charger was reduced by $12.

off the family's private beach produced no discoveries. The murder weapons have not been found.

—More than 100 persons close to the Percys have been questioned in the case. Authorities planned to question still more, including a writer from the West Coast who was a house guest for about two months.

—The report that a green station wagon was seen pulling away from the vicinity of the Percy home about the time of the murder proved to have no bearing on the case. Police said the driver has been found and had a legitimate reason for being there.

Fingerprint May Provide Police With Clue to Percy Girl's Killer

CHICAGO (UPI)—A clear fingerprint lifted from a piece of broken glass appeared today to be the best clue thus far uncovered in the mysterious murder of Valerie Percy.

The fingerprint was taken from a piece of glass cut from a French door on the Percy's suburban Kenilworth estate by an intruder who beat and stabbed Miss Percy to death in her bed early Sunday.

While crime investigators searched the mansion for the third time Wednesday, the victim's father, Republican senatorial candidate Charles H. Percy, left with the remainder of his family for an indefinite period of "seclusion and rest."

Kenilworth police chief Robert Daley said the fingerprint "quite possibly" is that of the killer. The print was reported to have been compared with those of the Percy family and employees, and did not match.

There were these other developments: —Police said they could not comment on a report that a stranger was seen on the grounds of the Percy estate four hours before Valerie was murdered.

Highlights And Sidelights

AUSTIN — Far-flung operations of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department have been placed under new administrative leadership.

Commissioners have named J. R. (Bob) Singleton as executive director. He replaces J. Weldon Watson who resigned last June.

Singleton had been serving as director of Region IV with headquarters in La Porte.

He picked Robert G. Mauermann, Region V director at Rockport, as his chief deputy.

In his first press conference, Singleton said he is considering recommending a change in the Commission's controversial policy on shell dredging.

He did not disclose exactly what he has in mind but said any such proposal would be "in the field of broad policy." His own close observation of dredging operations, he added, have convinced him that the Commission's 1963 and 1964 orders permitting shell dredging up to 300 feet of live reefs under result in "extremely insignificant" oyster kill.

This issue has been heatedly debated between dredgers on one hand and fishermen and conservationists on the other since the old 1,500-foot - minimum-distance - from - reef policy was abolished.

A statewide tour of department facilities, particularly the parks — is planned by Singleton in order to familiarize himself first-hand with problems and needs.

Singleton declined to express his views on "closed door" meetings of the three-member P-W Commission. However, he did say "The commission sets policy. . . My duty is to implement and carry out that policy."

AG RULES — Not only may a county cut its tax rate when the reason for the tax disappears, but, according to Attorney General Waggoner Carr, it must. He pointed to the law which prohibits the use of tax funds for any purpose other than for which it was levied.

Carr also held that, while a city may prohibit the sale of alcoholic beverages at any time, it may not prescribe a lesser penalty for such an offense than is provided by state law.

A district court has exclusive jurisdiction over all suits on behalf of the state and county for the collection of penalties on delinquent personal property taxes, although the county court may have the power to share jurisdiction in a suit against property for the actual taxes, Carr ruled.

BIG BEND AIRPORT PLANNED — Federal money will be available for building an airport adjacent to Big Bend National Park for commercial and general aviation, confirms Charles Murphy, Texas Aeronautics Commission director.

Daniel Beard, National Park Service Southwest regional director, said $450,000 is expected to be provided by the U. S. government.

Money will go to land acquisition, planning and designing and actual construction. T.A.C. will supervise the work, including awarding of contracts, Murphy said. State will have to pay the cost of constructing terminal facilities and auto parking accommodations, as well as airport operation.

Texas funds are not now available and will require legislative appropriation or transfer from other source. Arizona's share of the Grand Canyon airport constructed under similar terms was about $160,000.

STUDY RESULTS — Attorney General Carr reports that a two-month study of Texas Highway Department records reveals no indication or evidence of price fixing among asphalt producers' sales to the state.

Carr's staff made the study at the request of DeWitt C. Greer, state highway engineer. Request followed the filing of lawsuits in other states alleging antitrust violations by asphalt producers.

PROGRAM HAS BOOST — Texas' marketing program got a big boost when John C. White, Commissioner of Agriculture, received more than $45,000 in donated equipment to be used as traveling showcases.

These contributions from farm commodity groups, individuals and industry signaled a "new era in Texas agriculture, marketing and education," White said.

Gifts included two large trucks, two power generators, two mobile trailers, exhibit material and operational funds.

Miami Rancher Sentenced In Shooting Of Wife and Relatives

A former Hemphill County rancher was sentenced in 31st Judicial District Court yesterday to six years in the penitentiary at Huntsville.

Monroe Helton, 31, entered a plea of non contendere to two charges of intent to commit murder with malice aforethought in the shooting of his wife, Dixie Helton and his father-in-law, Rayburn Hines, on Sept. 15, 1965, in Miami.

Hines was accused of entering the home of his wife's parents in the early morning hours of Sept. 15 and shooting his wife, mother-in-law and father-in-law. The shooting was apparently the aftermath of marital trouble between Helton and his wife, who had filed suit for divorce and moved into the home of her parents.

The shooting victims have reportedly recovered satisfactorily from their wounds.

Helton had previously been tried by a Roberts County jury on the charge of shooting his mother-in-law, Ruby Rayburn. He received a three-year sentence in the penitentiary on the charge of assault with intent to murder without malice.

All sentences are to run concurrently with credit for jail time of one year and six days already served.

The case tried by Judge Lewis M. Goodrich yesterday in Gray County Courthouse was moved to this county on a change of venue Aug. 23, 1966.

Dirksen brought an evangelical fervor to the three-day prayer debate, and he did better than some senators had expected when the time came to vote. By a 51 to 36 vote, he succeeded in substituting his proposal for a routine Senate bill. But the subsequent 49 to 37 vote in favor of his amendment was 9 votes shy of the two-thirds margin required for a change in the constitution.

Plans Revived To Establish School

Another step in reviving plans for an area vocational school was taken at a discussion meeting held yesterday afternoon in the Pampa Junior High Cafeteria.

Attending the meeting were school and chamber of commerce officials.

The discussion yesterday was in preparation for a meeting with a committee from the Texas Education Agency in Austin to be held at 8:30 a.m. Oct. 3 in Pampa Junior High School Auditorium.

All business firms in Pampa and the surrounding area will be contacted as to their present or future employment needs, according to Cameron Marsh, who conducted the meeting yesterday. Bill Mackie, shop instructor, with two assistants, are compiling a list of all business firms in this area.

Leaky Radiator Gives Clue To Broken Gas Meter

A trail of water from a broken car radiator provided investigating officers with a clue, which led to the arrest of a driver of a pickup, which allegedly broke off a gas meter yesterday in an alley near East Wynne and Atchison.

Ray Gene Richtie of Lubbock was cited by city police for failure to control speed to avoid an accident.

Norman C. Henry, district manager of Pioneer Natural Gas Co., reported to city police a gas meter had been broken and a blue pickup truck had been reported parked near the alley earlier. Investigating officers Charles LaFever and Bill Robinson said they followed a trail from the broken gas meter until the car ran out of water.

Returning to the accident scene, they found a blue pickup truck with a broken radiator had also returned.

The accident was reported to the city police department at 9:15 p.m. yesterday.

DWI Bonds Set

Two charges of driving while intoxicated were brought before Justice of Peace Nat Lunsford this morning.

Laurin James Derrick of Dexter, N.M., was arraigned on a DWI charge with a bond set at $1,000.

He was arrested by city police at 1 p.m. Wednesday in the 1400 block of W. Wilks, according to a police report.

A bond of $500 was set for Tom Floyd Wills, 1005 Neal Rd., on a charge of DWI, after he had allegedly bumped the car of Roy Donald Watts, 732 S. Gray, repeatedly while it was waiting for a change of traffic light. The incident occurred at the intersection of Wilks and Hobart, police said.

each piece of steak, then roll up, jelly roll fashion, tightly as possible. Turn seam sides up and fasten them in place with skewers. Draw openings together tightly by lacing the skewers together with heavy cord; tie ends. Place stuffed steaks in a deep roasting pan, seam sides up. Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Combine tomato juice and beef bouillon cube, heating it so cube will melt; add Burgundy. Pour sauce over meat; cover and bake one and a half hours, pouring sauce over meat occasionally. Uncover and continue baking for another half hour, basting meat every ten minutes. To serve: Untie and slice.

PARTY SHRIMP

Cooking time for party shrimp in skillet is about 3 minutes. With every ingredient ready ahead of time, you also could make it in a chafing dish while guests watch.

Saute 1 pound of raw shrimp, shelled and deveined, in 2 tablespoons of melted butter or margarine in a large skillet or over direct heat in a chafing dish blazer pan just until tender — about 2 minutes. Pour on shrimp a mixture of 1/4 cup of creamy onion bottled salad dressing, 1 teaspoon of soy sauce and 1/4 teaspoon of dry mustard. Stir in 3 tablespoons of either sherry or cognac. Cook over high heat, stirring gently.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Fall is finally here. Rain, cool weather and leaves falling remind us that summer fun and light cooking is over.

Weekend meat counters promise various beef roast cuts to amaze shoppers. Peck, bacon, Boston butt, chops, hams, loin roasts, smoked steaks, and specialties are available in most areas.

Broiler-fryers hold the poultry-protein spotlight again another week. For an economical, good tasting meat, chicken is hard to beat.

Beans, carrots, cucumbers, celery, and onions lead the vegetable list for weekend shopping. Lettuce, peppers, potatoes, radishes, squash, sweet potatoes and tomatoes are also in bountiful supply.

It's the start of the fall fruit season, and apples, grapes, and pears are widely offered.

Nationally, fish sticks and portions, and canned tuna are the fish buys for the weekend.

Meat Quiz

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
A. Veal sirloin roast.

Q. Where does it come from?
How is it identified?
A. It comes from the loin-leg section of the calf, which corresponds to the sirloin section of beef. This cut weighs from four to six pounds and contains portions of the hip and backbone. The lean is light pink in color and there is no marbling. Texture of the lean is very fine and fairly firm, almost velvety in appearance. The bones are porous and soft, some with a reddish tinge.

Q. How is it prepared?
A. By roasting. Veal has very little fat, and it should be covered with bacon strips if the fat covering is at a minimum. To roast, place on a rack, with fat or bacon-covered side on top, in a shallow, open roasting pan. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) until roast meat thermometer registers 170 degrees F. Allow 30 to 35 minutes per pound for cooking time.

Medicare Questions And Answers

SERIES (2)
 Q. How much of my medical bills will the supplementary medical insurance plan cover?
 A. You pay the first $50 of your total bills for the year for doctors' visits, surgeons' fees, and other services covered in the supplemental plan. After that, the plan pays 80 percent and you pay the remaining 20 percent.

Q. What types of doctors' bills are covered?
 A. Bills for home and office visits and visits paid to you in a hospital or other institution, also surgeons' and consultation fees are covered.

Q. My doctor says that I will have to pay his bill first, before I collect from Medicare. Is this true?
 A. Medicare provides two methods for the payment of doctor bills. It is up to the doctor and the patient to agree as to which method of payment will be used. Under one method, the doctor can bill you and have you send in the claim with his receipted bill, or he can agree to send in the claim, get reimbursed for the part covered by Medicare, and bill you for the remainder. Under either method, Medicare will pay 80 percent of the reasonable charges — to the patient, if the patient has sent in the claim and the receipted itemized doctor bill — to the doctor, if the doctor has sent in the claim. The only difference in the two methods is that if the doctor sends in the full charge to the patient will claim, he must agree that his full charge to the patient will not be higher than what is determined to be the reasonable charge for the services. He will then collect from that patient the remaining 20 percent of the reasonable charge and any amount of the $50 deductible still owing him.

Q. Who decides what are reasonable charges for physicians' services under Medicare?
 A. Intermediaries — Blue Shield organizations and private insurance carriers — who serve under contracts with the Federal Government to receive and pay Medicare bills, determine what are "reasonable charges". They apply two criteria set out in the law:
 1. The customary charges for similar services generally made by the physician, and
 2. The prevailing charges in the locality for similar services.
 The reasonable charge by a specialist will naturally be higher than the charge for the same service by a doctor who is not a specialist. Also, the reasonable charge may be higher than the customary and prevailing rate if there are special circumstances.

Q. How often do I have to pay the $50 deductible under the doctor bill insurance part of Medicare?
 A. Just once a calendar year. But if your medical expenses are less than $50 in some year, or if they do not go over $50 until the last three months of a year, the expenses in those last three months can count toward the next year's $50 deductible.

Foreign News Commentary
 By STANLEY R. PARKER
 United Press International
 STUTTGART, Germany (UPI) — The specter of an army which refuses to fight unless its wage or other demands are met is causing uneasy stirrings in West German military circles.
 The problem, albeit a theoretical one, has risen with the news that the Public Services, Transport and Traffic Union (OTV) has received government permission to recruit members among West Germany's professional soldiers, sailors and airmen.
 The highest Bundeswehr (armed forces) officer, Gen. Heinrich Tretner, was so incensed at the Defense Ministry's move in allowing the union to campaign among the military that he gave it as a reason for resigning.
 Members of the Bundeswehr are forbidden to strike.
 But just supposing, say the worriers, that a leader of the union arose who was nerved enough to defy the government and call for a strike over certain grievances.

Texas Professors Are Key Figures In Space Effort

AUSTIN (UPI) — Two University of Texas professors are key figures in the effort to eventually land astronauts on land instead of water.

Dr. Lyman C. Reese and Dr. W. R. Cox of the civil engineering department of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration the past three years to delve into the impact problems of a spacecraft.

The two professors have conducted their research primarily in a second-floor laboratory on the campus.

They used small models spherical in shape and designed to stimulate heat shields. Information recorded when the models impact with the ground is forwarded to NASA, which uses the information to compute the amount of gravitational force an astronaut would undergo in such a landing.

Citizens Dislike Virginia's Talk

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI) — It's not that anyone here is afraid of Virginia Woolf. They just don't like her using such language.

The Springfield Citizens Council for Decency, unable to stop the showing of the movie "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf," says it will abide by a city attorney's opinion.

City Atty. Don Busch said earlier some parts of the film were obscene, but he did not feel he could prohibit its showing because its dominant theme was not obscene in the definition set down by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Dear Abby....
 Short Jaunt Will Do A World of Good

DEAR ABBY: My wife and my mother don't get along. Mother lives with us but she is no trouble to my wife as we have a lovely modern home and hired help to do the work. Mother is in her early sixties, dresses well, is immaculately clean and in good health. I admit mother likes to argue, and has to have the last word, but my wife could "handle" her better if she wanted to. Mother sometimes speaks her mind about the way we are raising our children. My wife calls this "meddling."

Apparently my parents think I am old enough to be engaged because they gave their consent to my marriage, but they still do not trust me. We are not allowed to see each other more than three nights in a row, or to stay out past midnight.
 Abby, our wedding date is three months away!
 In view of the fact that we are engaged and our wedding day is so close, do these restrictions make sense?
 NEW ENGLANDER
 DEAR ENGLANDER: They make sense to your parents — but not to me.

IN THE MIDDLE
 DEAR IN: It is possible that your wife is not "sick" — she's just sick of your mother. Give them a vacation from each other by sending one of them on a little trip. When two women can't live peacefully under one roof, they generally raise it.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and my fiance is 19. We have been engaged for five months.
 DEAR ABBY: I am a 30-year old bachelor who needs some advice. I recently met an attractive young woman in whom I could be very much interested. There is only one thing wrong with her. She talks all the time. I can't seem to get a word in edgewise.
 I like so many things about this girl, but I don't think I could stand to live with such a talkative person.
 She is 29 years old. Do you think there is a chance of slowing her down, or breaking her of this annoying habit? I don't want to take any chances.

DEAR ABBY: How does a girl know when a boy really loves her?
 LISA
 DEAR LISA: He expresses a desire to make her his exclusive permanent property. But he doesn't expect to take possession until they both sign the contract and he can present her with the keys to his heart — on a ring!

NEW WAY TO BE SUDDENLY SLIM, COMFORTABLE, TOO
 Los Angeles — Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim and yet completely comfortable. If you're more than 13 pounds overweight, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.
 Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. grille constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the sheer nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A featherstitched panel down each side of this grille will contour your hips if they are a problem.
 The grille itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a new power net consisting of nylon, acetate and spandex. It's so comfortable, but has such slimming strength, it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation.
 "Suddenly Slim", in both grille and panty versions, is the peak achievement of the California designer-genius, Olga. They are available in our area at

Top Area Game at Lefors

By RON CROSS
Sports Editor

It probably wouldn't be wise to run out of gas or want a cup of coffee in either McLean or Lefors Friday night. Most likely everything will be closed by 7:30 p.m.

Most of the folk in these two towns will be at Pirate field Friday night when Lefors hosts the Tigers in a non-conference football game.

Both teams will go into the game healthy but there will probably be a few unwholesome football players when the game ends.

In the area attraction of the week the Pirates (0-2) are a hungry football team and wanting to prove themselves while

McLean, expected to be an also-ran this year, is now expected to give Wheeler a fight for the district 2-A title.

Too, the Tigers are rated third in class A by the Amarillo Daily News and have a lot to win for.

Pirate coach Jack York allowed Wednesday as how the Tigers would probably be the toughest team his boys would face.

"Right now I'd say they are tougher than Wheeler," York said, adding, "we are healthy, but they are big, strong and fast."

The Pirates fell to Wheeler, 23-0 and last week lost to a good Canadian club, 14-8, but had six starters out by injuries.

McLean started things whirling by downing a good Shamrock team, 6-0 and last week ripped Boys Ranch, 28-0.

The Tigers have the area's second leading scorer in Raymond Baker, who tallied three touchdowns last week and has 22 points.

Another non-league game, but one that holds plenty of interest unfolds at Wheeler where the favored Mustangs host the Groom Tigers.

Revenge will be in the eyes of the Mustangs, (2-0) because it was these same Tigers who unseated them last season for the 5-B crown.

Groom (1-0-1) is still a member of the 5-B conference and a good one. The Tigers have scored five times this season and have had five different boys do the scoring, making for versatility.

The Mustangs have been led thus far by fullback Fred Goad, who has tallied four times, added a conversion for 26 points. Wheeler has the 1965's second best scorer, Bobby Vanpool, who has started slowly and has two touchdowns this season.

In other area games Perryton hosts Dalhart in hopes of winning No. 2. Canadian plays at Follett in hopes of their third straight win and the No. 1 rated team in Class A, the White Deer Bucks area a four touchdown favorite over Sanford Fritch.

On The Sports Front

Bud Wilkinson

The most significant development in college football over the past decade or so is the remarkable improvement in the passing game. It seems to me that it must be about 90 per cent more effective than it was 10 years ago.

On offense, the name of the game hasn't changed. Ball control is still the key to victory. But the technique of accomplishing it has changed dramatically.

Ten years ago, the secret to ball control was the ability to gain three to four yards on a running play — on any down, in any situation, anywhere on the field. That was 10 years ago.

Today, if you can't complete a good percentage of pass plays on any down, in any situation, anywhere on the field, you can't expect to win against a good team. In my judgment, it's just about that simple. You have to be able to complete passes to win. Gone is the day when an incomplete pass frightened and loosened the defense.

This development of passing, of course, has had an equally significant effect on defensive play. Tremendous pressure now is placed on the defensive backs.

If they can't cover well, particularly the "detached" men — the flanked backs and split ends — you can't beat the good teams. That's because the effective teams today can — and will — pass.

Again, this wasn't true 10 years ago. The defensive backs didn't have to be as quick and perceptive as today, and didn't have to be in such ner-perfect position on every play. The passing wasn't that precise.

If the receiver was open, the odds were one to five that the passer wouldn't hit him. If the passer did hit him, the receiver would drop one out of eight.

It's foolish to even hope for that kind of gift on defense today. Unless the defensive backs really do a superior job, the receivers are open. And, unless the defensive line puts great pressure on the passer, he will hit the receiver almost every time.

It is not too difficult to understand why passing has progressed so tremendously. Throwing and catching the ball, along with kicking, are the only truly enjoyable, fun phases of football practice. The passers and receivers honestly do enjoy their practice. Therefore they improve rapidly.

Additionally, they can practice the year 'round without coaches present. Passers can improve their accuracy and receivers can improve their ability to run their patterns and catch the ball. Together, they can perfect their timing. It may look like a game of catch, but it is more than half the offense of a great college team today.

I am not suggesting that the running game has lost importance. Good teams always have had strong running games and always will have, but today the fine teams must be capable of handling both forms of attack.

In the nationally televised NCAA game of the week last Saturday, Southern California used well-blended running and passing to control the ball 39 of the 60 minutes and win; Texas stayed in the game all the way because its defense prevented a Southern California breakthrough "home-run" touchdown.

But the Longhorn defense couldn't consistently put pressure on the passer and the defensive backs couldn't quite cover the Trojans' flanked backs and split ends. The Southern California receivers were open most of the time, and when they were, quarterback Troy Winslow hit them.

I can remember well my early years of football when, on third down and two yards to go, a call for a pass would have been termed lunacy. Today, I'm not surprised when it's called in that situation on the ten-yard line — either ten-yard line.

There always will be a degree of uncertainty and danger surrounding a forward pass but these obviously are days when the risk has been reduced by the technical ability of the throwers and receivers. As a result the game is more fun to play and more interesting to see.

Dodgers Fail To Up League Lead

By United Press International

The pennant wheel that had been spinning so merrily for the Los Angeles Dodgers came to a halt today as they lost to the Pittsburgh Pirates, 2-1, in a regular rotation for the last month since Bob Buhl went to the bullpen and it was just his turn," said Mauch in explaining his choice of Wise, who added that he had great stuff and threw 80 per cent fast balls.

The loss cut the Dodgers' National League lead to 1½ games when a victory would have increased their lead over the Pittsburgh Pirates to 2½ games — and all but eliminated the San Francisco Giants.

Had-Way Paved

The Giants had paved the way for the Dodgers to take a 2½-game lead when they beat the Pirates 6-5 in an afternoon game on pitcher Juan Marichal's ninth-inning homer.

But Wise out-dueled 16-game winner Claude Osteen, striking out six and walking two en route to this fifth victory against six losses. The Phillies snapped a 22 tie in the sixth inning when Dick Groat singled, went to third on a throwing error by third baseman Dick Schofield and scored on Tony Taylor's squeeze bunt.

Richie Allen's 39th homer of the season, tying him for the NL lead with Hank Aaron, produced the Phillies' first run and singles by Allen and Harvey Kuenn a walk and an infield out added the second.

The Dodgers scored both their runs in the second on Jim Lefebvre's double, Lou Johnson's single, an error by Allen and Osteen's single.

The Dodgers and Giants are idle today, so the Pirates have a chance to gain a half game on both by beating the Atlanta Braves. The Dodgers resume their schedule with a double-header against the Chicago Cubs on Friday and the Giants play again in Houston on Saturday.

Marichal's first homer of the season earned him his 23rd victory and the Giants' a "life" after the Pirates took a 5-3 lead in the top of the ninth. The Giants tied the score at 5-5 on Jay Alou's single and Tom Haller's 26th homer and Marichal followed with his homer.

The victim of all three blows was relief pitcher Elroy Face.

Juan's Fine Record

Marichal's 23-6 record this year gives him a composite 91-35 "win-loss" mark and a .722 percentage over the last four seasons. The only pitchers in Giant history with comparable marks over a similar period were Carl Hubbell with 92-38 and Christy Mathewson with 115-39 for .747 from 1908 through 1911.

The Braves whipped the St. Louis Cardinals 4-0 and the Chicago Cubs defeated the Cincinnati Reds 9-3 in Wednesday's other NL games. In the American League, Baltimore beat Kansas City 10-8, Detroit nipped California 2-1 and Cleveland defeated Minnesota 6-2.

Injuries Hit Harvester Camp

The worst thing that could happen to the Pampa Harvesters is have injuries start hopping up.

The worst has happened. Two starters are out and a third probably won't start against Dumas' No. 1 ranked AAA team Friday night when Pampa travels to Demonland.

Seniors L. D. Rowden, Ted Heiskell and Glen Lewis are all suffering with Heiskell the only one with a chance of seeing action.

Lewis has a painful hip pointer while Rowden reinjured his back Tuesday in practice and Heiskell, the Harvester full-back, is moving slowly from a charleyhorse.

The Harvesters held hard scrimmages Monday and Tuesday, concentrating on Dumas' ground game and their own offense and defense.

But Wednesday was spent without contact, as was today for fear of someone else being side-lined via the injury route.

Dumas (2-0) has yet to be scored on. The Demons waxed Palo Duro of district 3-4A, 14-0 and last week edged Phillips, 6-0.

Pampa put up a good fight in downing Perrinton, 20-14 but fell last week to sixth-ranked Wichita Falls Rider, 20-0.

The word is out at Dumas that the Demons are expecting a "breather" this week in the Harvesters.

The two teams have met twice since 1944 and both times Dumas has won by a considerable margin and with three regulars injured Dumas fans may know what they're talking about.

Rowden will be replaced by 165-pound senior Sherman Mitchell while Gene Kincaid, 150-pound junior will probably fill Lewis' spot. If Heiskell can't go, then David Schaub, a swift 138-pound junior will.

Injuries Crop Up Among SWC Teams

By United Press International

By Scooter Monzingo, one of the sophomores, on which University of Texas Coach Darrell Royal has used as a base to build for the future, fractured his upper arm Wednesday in a pass defense drill and will be lost to the Longhorns for the season.

Monzingo put on a fine defensive performance last Saturday in Texas' 10-6 loss to Southern California.

Dumas, Bucks Are Rated First by UPI

DALLAS (UPI) — Brazosport, Corpus Christi Miller, Gainesville, Athens, Bishop, Mineola, Grand Saline, Spur and Clifton International's Top 10 Texas schoolboy football ratings this week.

They took the place of Spring Branch Memorial, Longview, Sulphur Springs, Nacogdoches, Decatur, Edna, Round Rock, Rotan and Dublin—all of whom failed to live up to expectations as the season moved through its second week end of action.

San Angelo in Class AAAA, Dumas in AAA, Sweeny in AA and White Deer in A all held comfortably to their No. 1 berths and Amarillo Tascosa in AAAA, Iowa Park in AA and Forney in A held firmly to their No. 2 spots. Bridge City in AAA, dropped from second to eighth after being pelted by AAAA's Nederland 36-13.

Memorial fell 20-17 to Miller, Longview was tied by Arlington High, Sulphur Springs bowed to Athens, Nacogdoches to Huntsville, Decatur to Iowa Park, Edna to West Columbia, Rotan to Spur and Dublin was tied by Springtown.

The departures brought on a wholesale switch of positions below the two top spots with the winning teams generally advancing from one to three notches from their ratings of the opening week.

Three of the defending champions are still in the ratings. Brownwood now No. 2 in AAA, Plano No. 3 in AA and Wills Point No. 10 in A.

The injury occurred Wednesday when Monzingo hit the ball. Royal said another sophomore, Denny Aldridge, from Winters, Tex., would move into the safety spot against Texas Tech this Saturday.

Most workout around the southwest conference were routine Wednesday, but at SMU there were some new faces in the offensive backfield.

Larry Jernigan moved into the No. 1 halfback spot in place of Paul Loyd, who received a mild concussion in the Ponies' game against Illinois.

Jernigan will start Saturday against Navy in Dallas, as will Jim Hagle at tailback Hagle has recovered from injuries which slowed him during the pre-season.

Losing Long Time Coming for Joe Frazier

By SANDY PADWE

PHILADELPHIA (NEA) — It was back in 1962 and Joe Frazier was having some trying problems with his belt buckle. "I couldn't close it," he said, smiling. "My mother was too good a cook."

So Joe would walk self-consciously down the crowded neighborhood streets, past the guys leaning against the build-

The Baylor Bears went through a rugged workout in preparation for Saturday's encounter with the University of Colorado. The Bears polished their potent passing game as well as workout on short yardage situations.

Coach John Bridgers said guard Dwight Hood and tackle Benny Brott would probably miss Saturday's game.

The Rice Owls, who open their season Saturday against Louisiana State, conducted a light workout Wednesday, and coach Jess Neely planned a night workout tonight to get his club used to playing under the lights.

In Fayetteville, Arkansas, Coach J. T. King said he would not use safety Guy Griffin or tackle Jim Arnold against Wednesday, saying "it seems like we know what to do."

The Arkansas' defense spent most of the afternoon working on pass defense.

Texas Tech emphasized passing under pressure and goal line defense as it readied for the first conference game of the young season against Texas.

ings and the girls standing on the corners.

Naturally, a few girls would look his way and giggle and a few guys would make remarks. "It wasn't really bad," Joe said. "But I was fat. There was no way of hiding that. So I decided I was going to lose weight and a good way to do it would be boxing. I went into the Police Athletic League program and that's how I learned."

Joe Frazier learned how to and a half away from a championship fight.

Frazier's last test was a big one against Argentina's Oscar Bonavena in Madison Square last night. He lost.

Nearly two years have passed since Joe is now a professional heavyweight. He has fought 12 times and won 11 times, all knockouts.

"I figure," he said very matter-of-factly, "that I'm a year business."

Joe says, "Yancey tells them about the fight and they can vote yes or no."

The corporation, which started Frazier on his career after the Olympic games, now has more than 50 stockholders.

"The price," Joe said, "has gone up, though, from $250 to about $1,000."

"I plan to stick with the corporation. You just don't up and leave people who helped you get started. They're good people."

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself to more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Where the Dollars Go

Washington may have tossed a dollar across the Potomac, but the man now in Washington tosses dollars even further—out of sight. Perhaps the saddest point of all is learning that this means not only out of sight of tax payers who provide the coins but also out of sight of those who are supposed to be catching them in the far corners of the world.

J. U. Dacus of La Verne, Calif., got it straight from one intended "catcher's" mouth when his grandson brought a young lady who was an exchange student from a foreign country to visit. He talked to her at length, inquiring if it was necessary for our country to be sending all this foreign aid to her country.

"In order for my country to have a livelihood, no," she answered, "we are self-supporting. We need none of your aid monies, but this money is forced on us."

Now," she said, "let me tell you what becomes of your aid monies. It falls into the hands of a few big politicians. The people, as a whole, never know that this money comes to our country. It goes into the pockets of big politicians. Your tax payers are being played for a big bunch of suckers. I can't see for my life how you take it. You need to go off a strike and quit paying taxes till your government stops such a waste, for you are only making millionaires out of just a few men in my government, and this is the God's truth."

No doubt many would like to follow the young lady's suggestion. It may require such rash tactics to get the tax makers to see now roundshouldered the taxpayers have become as compared to once upright citizens. We would hope that our "protectors" might show more faith that people will take care of themselves and less force in exacting their dollars for their partial care and dubious aid for those in 95 other lands.

Someezing to Zinc About
Researchers at the University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry have discovered what they consider significant, if not serious, shortage of zinc in the nation's diet.

The average American is apparently only getting 80 to 85 per cent of the necessary amounts of this metal, deficiencies of which have been connected with wound-healing ability and vascular and respiratory diseases.

This comes on the heels of warnings from other doctors about the dangers of an increasing level of lead in the environment as a toxic byproduct of an industrial society.

The national health problem thus seems to be shaping up into one of getting the lead out and the zinc in.

Oh, the irony of it all.

An Eye to Men's Styles
This is the time of year when men who have been spending as much of their time as possible in sports shirts and slacks are eyeing the fall suits on display.

It also is the time when retail men's wear buyers congregate in New York to put in their orders for spring and summer suits. They have a season's jump on the rest of us.

It has always been thus, but the buyers' task becomes trickier as the average male gets more choosy about what he wears. As one clothing executive put it, "the old bread-and-butter" suit is gone and forgotten.

American men, it seems, are becoming increasingly fashion-conscious. They fuss more than they used to about the cut of their suits; they have a more knowing eye for color and fabric.

For instance, on a recent visit away from home one of our associates noted an unusually dressed man. He wore a white knitted cap, a golden blouse, light olive green trousers and white shoes.

Doubtless this is progress. Certainly the clothing makers and merchants find the prospect enchanting. But though we, too, like to see men well-dressed, we confess to twinges of misgiving. Things are bad enough as it is, with the ladies switching styles every season. We hope the clothing people won't be able to maneuver the nation's men into that kind of concern about what they wear.

A thought for the day—English novelist Somerset Maugham said: "People ask you for criticism, but they want only praise."

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: "Would you define the following ideologies so a sixth-grader could understand them?"

- 1. "Pure democracy."
2. "Constitutional Republic."
3. "Socialism."
4. "Communism."

ANSWER: Since it seems impossible for adults to understand these concepts, we wonder if there is any simple way to explain them for a sixth-grader. However, we will attempt to give brief definitions.

1. Democracy is a concept of each individual participating in the making of decisions, usually with the decision based on votes of a majority. This is feasible only in small groups where each individual is a voluntary participant who agrees in advance to abide by the results of the vote.

2. A constitutional republic is a system of government, designed to handle affairs of a public nature, as opposed to private, individual affairs, with a constitution defining the public matters and limiting the government to those matters alone.

3. and 4. Socialism is government ownership or control of the means of production. The terms socialism and communism mean the same to serious students, although some persons believe socialism means only government control of property, and communism means total government ownership.

5. Socialism: You have two cows, which the government permits you to feed. The government takes the milk, and lets you have part of it, giving the rest to your friends who have no cows.

6. Communism: The government owns the cows, but lets you feed them. The government takes the milk and divides it as it sees fit, allowing you to have some of the milk in proportion to your "needs." If it decides meat is better for you than milk, it will butcher the cows and divide their meat.

7. Pure democracy: You have two cows. Your two neighbors have none. They call a meeting and vote "democratically" to divide your two cows into three parts. That the cows die is of no import to them.

8. Constitutional republic: The Constitution says the government is only to protect each person's life, and property and to collect taxes for the "general welfare." The representatives of the people meet to determine why you have two cows and your neighbors have none. They have no power to take your cattle and give it to him, your neighbors. But they have power to levy a tax up to 70 per cent of all the milk your cows produce. They divide the milk among the two who have none.

9. You decide your neighbors are better off than you, each receiving as much milk as you are getting. You kill the cows, invite your friends in for a barbecue, and let the government tax someone else's milk production to feed you and your neighbors.

10. We add one more illustration: Capitalism: You own two cows, and your two neighbors have none. You sell your surplus milk and purchase a bull. Each year you get two calves. You keep the heifers to add to your productive capital, sell off the young steers for beef. You buy more cows and build a large milking shed. One neighbor sees you need hay—so he plants alfalfa and sells it to you. The second neighbor is hired by you because you have more work than you are able to handle alone. Both have money to buy milk. The latter saves some of his earnings or takes part pay in a heifer. Then he starts a dairy business as your competitor. With increased milk production and more beef being produced, the price goes down, and the whole community benefits from having more food at lower prices.

11. The six-week period in which the country suffered a strike against five major airlines also surely had some effect on the market. The airline transportation industry was crippled during six weeks by the unbridled use of union power. Neither President Johnson nor the Congress had the courage to take positive and prompt measures against union restraint of trade. The facts were not lost on shareholders. They could see that the administration was unwilling to protect lawful commerce. And when this happens, it is no wonder that gravely disturbed investors in business reveal their concern by their activity in the stock market.

12. Many times in the past, in other countries, government has scared off private investors. In some cases, government has confiscated property. In other cases, there is the threat of government demands for a bribe. Great Britain, for its part, has frightened away investors by its coddling of the all-powerful unions and by its insistence upon the carrying out of the most extravagant of welfare state programs.

13. Much the same sort of thing can happen in the United States if government does not operate in an equitable manner and in support of law and order and America's enterprise. The government cannot allow the sea to spread that business is simply a target or a victim. The responsible public must have assurance that government is behind peace in the streets and freedom from noisy, dangerous agitators. Terrorized cities can't long be prosperous cities. An America in which preachers of revolution have free rein is an America in danger of economic breakdown.

14. It is hard for the normal mind to understand this brutish and senseless destruction. But sadly enough we must accept the fact that there are living among us people who litter, despoil, and destroy as the pattern of their everyday life. Who ever heard of anybody being arrested for littering, despoiling and destroying?

15. There will be no false sense of guilt about acquiring things nor will there be a false sense of self-sacrifice. Relationships with others will be based upon a realistic sense of independence and inter-dependence. Individuals doing their own thinking and acting voluntarily to attain their honest conviction and acquire their desires know that pursuing self-interest is most constructive action. It is self-knowledge and self-honesty.

16. The natural drive in man is to acquire all possible knowledge and wisdom to create better conditions in his life. Honestly recognized and rightly identified, the acquisitive quality is most constructive. If it were not to be used to advantage man would not possess it. It is natural human life expressing itself. To deny the beauty of it or to condemn it because of its misuse would be to deny the beauty of life.

17. A pearl of wisdom acquired from reading Shakespeare: "This above all...to thine own self be true..." What could be more constructive?

The Market and the Nation

By THURMAN SENSING
One of the most revealing of national barometers is the stock market. It is peculiarly sensitive to the currents affecting the life of the nation. One of the things that it shows is the degree of confidence property-owners have in the condition of the country.

The recent falling market is, therefore, a sign of profound unease. Materially, America is in good shape. There is no lack of real wealth in this nation. Our natural resources are enormous. Our pool of skilled manpower and executive talent is immense. We have a huge domestic market with a tremendous demand for goods and services.

But something is wrong. President Johnson has promised a "great Society," but the decline of industrial averages suggests that the American people don't believe what he says.

What is it that's wrong? To begin with, there is widespread disbelief that our national life is on the right road. If there were real confidence, people would be buying shares, not selling. They would not be putting their money into short-term notes that can be cashed in quickly.

Really, it is not very surprising that the market has declined. The country has gone through a summer of terrible agitation and civic disorder. Chicago and Cleveland — two of our largest and wealthiest centers of trade — have been convulsed by lawlessness. Cadres of marchers who are phony "martyrs" have set themselves the task of stirring turmoil and virtually "breaking" these great cities. The concept of a secure, stable neighborhood is being systematically broken up.

Bands of disorderly citizens, who profess to revolutionary social attitudes, make a career of community disruption. Other citizens, who have worked and saved to buy nice homes for their families, find themselves and their neighborhoods the targets of radical disruptivists. The good people of America have been under a terrible harassment this summer.

In late August, for example, Senator Robert F. Kennedy used a congressional hearing to harass Mayor Samuel Yorty of Los Angeles. Senator Kennedy tried to make it appear that Mayor Yorty was responsible for what lawless individuals did in the Watts riots last year. He indicated that the day may come when the federal government will take over all municipal government. Moreover, Senator Kennedy's comments were typical of those persons who try to make respectable citizens feel guilty for the primitivism and anarchy that exists among disorderly elements.

Thus the feeling is growing in the nation that the worst elements are the most favored. Under such conditions, of course, commerce could not flourish. Investors would not want to invest.

The six-week period in which the country suffered a strike against five major airlines also surely had some effect on the market. The airline transportation industry was crippled during six weeks by the unbridled use of union power. Neither President Johnson nor the Congress had the courage to take positive and prompt measures against union restraint of trade. The facts were not lost on shareholders. They could see that the administration was unwilling to protect lawful commerce. And when this happens, it is no wonder that gravely disturbed investors in business reveal their concern by their activity in the stock market.

Many times in the past, in other countries, government has scared off private investors. In some cases, government has confiscated property. In other cases, there is the threat of government demands for a bribe. Great Britain, for its part, has frightened away investors by its coddling of the all-powerful unions and by its insistence upon the carrying out of the most extravagant of welfare state programs.

Much the same sort of thing can happen in the United States if government does not operate in an equitable manner and in support of law and order and America's enterprise. The government cannot allow the sea to spread that business is simply a target or a victim. The responsible public must have assurance that government is behind peace in the streets and freedom from noisy, dangerous agitators. Terrorized cities can't long be prosperous cities. An America in which preachers of revolution have free rein is an America in danger of economic breakdown.

It is hard for the normal mind to understand this brutish and senseless destruction. But sadly enough we must accept the fact that there are living among us people who litter, despoil, and destroy as the pattern of their everyday life. Who ever heard of anybody being arrested for littering, despoiling and destroying?

There will be no false sense of guilt about acquiring things nor will there be a false sense of self-sacrifice. Relationships with others will be based upon a realistic sense of independence and inter-dependence. Individuals doing their own thinking and acting voluntarily to attain their honest conviction and acquire their desires know that pursuing self-interest is most constructive action. It is self-knowledge and self-honesty.

The natural drive in man is to acquire all possible knowledge and wisdom to create better conditions in his life. Honestly recognized and rightly identified, the acquisitive quality is most constructive. If it were not to be used to advantage man would not possess it. It is natural human life expressing itself. We have become so used to the electrocardiograph and other pieces of modern electronic equipment it is hard to imagine how we ever got along without them. The electron microscope has made it possible to see the internal structure of the bacteria which formerly were seen as mere dots through the ordinary light microscope. The conventional microscope can magnify an object about 2,500 diameters, compared with a magnification of 100,000 diameters by the electron microscope. The latter has made it possible to visualize the many viruses whose presence formerly was known only through their behavior. Some of these have a thickness of only 1-20,000,000 of an inch.

In addition to these agents of disease, the electron microscope has made it possible to study human cells in greater detail and to examine the chromosomes and genes that determine our hereditary characteristics. The electromyograph measures the electric potential of muscles. When muscles have been paralyzed this machine helps your doctor to determine how much to expect in the way of rehabilitation. ### Man's Desire to Acquire

By MILDRED PROGAR
Every quality of human nature can be constructive or destructive. The difference depends upon the conscious choice involved—the wisdom acquired by individual making the choice.

Consider the acquisitive quality of man's nature. It is, in essence, the natural drive or force of life to fulfill itself. Man seeks to acquire effective means of expressing the life within him. Rightly or wrongly, it will express.

This natural acquisitive quality is often ignorantly misused. For that reason it is defined as undesirable and condemned. Properly understood, this quality of man's nature is one of the most constructive powers in human life. It must not be condemned.

The essence of life is individuality. Human life is conscious of itself, and, once being self-conscious, must naturally become ever more so. The natural growth pattern is to acquire knowledge and expand self-understanding—and, ultimately, to improve the conditions of one's life.

The process begins within the mind of the individual—with the greatest power possessed by man—the power to think, reason and express his natural self.

When the individual recognizes the "I" of himself, constructive growth has begun—he acquires identity. The acquisition was achieved through his natural self-conscious mind. In his natural self-interest he seeks the tools to express his identity.

He realizes his ability to acquire knowledge, achieve understanding and to act with personal judgment of the value of things. He learns to acquire what he believes will bring him happiness. He becomes the inventor, the explorer, the trader in order to acquire the things that are important to him.

By remaining self-conscious, doing his own thinking, and acting from his own level of self-interest, he goes about the business of acquiring the tools necessary to accomplish what he believes is right for him. He recognizes his own area of responsibility for his circumstances and learns to control them.

Mistakes may be made, but will be evaluated as to why they were mistakes and corrective measures undertaken. The responsibility and control remain with the self-conscious, self-interested and naturally constructive individual.

There will be no false sense of guilt about acquiring things nor will there be a false sense of self-sacrifice. Relationships with others will be based upon a realistic sense of independence and inter-dependence. Individuals doing their own thinking and acting voluntarily to attain their honest conviction and acquire their desires know that pursuing self-interest is most constructive action. ## Day of The Vandals

(Hartford Courant)
The word vandalism has long been lodged in the language because of the looting and pillaging of Spain, Gaul, and North Africa, and the sacking of Rome in the 4th and 5th centuries. There is probably no nation on earth today more fittingly called the nation of vandals than the United States. One sees it on every hand, not only in the venomous racial outbursts but in the day-by-day futile, purposeless destruction of property.

It is hard for the normal mind to understand this brutish and senseless destruction. But sadly enough we must accept the fact that there are living among us people who litter, despoil, and destroy as the pattern of their everyday life. Who ever heard of anybody being arrested for littering, despoiling and destroying?

Hunt for Truth

BY M. L. HUNT
ENEMIES OF THE POOR

Those who would destroy American liberty and erect a socialist dictatorship on its ruins have always called themselves champions of the poor against the rich.

The truth is that the seekers of power through big government are the worst enemies of the poor. The poor are their chosen victims, the targets of their worst exploitation, the one group they are confident will never strike back.

A man of wealth and prestige has assets and abilities which the power-seekers would like to use. It is better for them to get such a man on their side rather than simply to destroy him and take his money.

Recent history in every Western nation is full of examples of men of wealth and prestige who have taken the side of socialism. Some have been frightened or pressured into doing so. Other have foolishly thought to benefit from personal deals with the power-seekers. Others have sought power on their own.

The man who is poor cannot make deals on this level even if his moral standards are low enough to sanction them. He cannot effectively resist a government edict, or lobby for changes in the laws. If he is ordered out of his home with only token compensation to make way for high-rise apartments under an urban renewal program, he has no defense. If there is no job for him because of government restrictions on conditions of employment, he must go on relief. When a man's home and his livelihood are at the mercy of government, he is worse than poor; he is a slave.

The carp, a member of the minnow family which can grow to a weight of more than 50 pounds and live to almost 30 years of age, is raised for food in many areas of Europe and Asia. Carp reach maturity in their second year and it is possible to produce more than 1,000 pounds of carp in an acre of cultivated ponds.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wright Investors' Service says although one can scarcely expect the 1962-66 economic advance to continue upward without interruption, there is certainly no evidence to justify a prediction of anything resembling a major economic collapse.
