PART OF LOOT FOUND

Pampa Brothers Jailed On Burglary Charges

Two Pampa brothers have been jailed on burglary charges and part of the approximately $8,000 loot taken in four local burglaries committed in February and March had been recovered Saturday, according to Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan.

Sheriff Jordan said the cases, involving burglaries at the Pampa Lumber Co. and National Auto Supply Co. on Feb. 25, Gibson's Discount Center on March 1, and the I.W. Tinney Construction Co. on March 12, were broken with the aid of city police and Texas Ranger Bill Baten and the cooperation of Dist. Atty. Guy Hardin.

Complaints Filed Against Suspects On Drug Charges

Sheriff Jordan also commended the work of Pampa Patrolman James Samples in connection with information which led to the final arrests of the two suspects.

Being held in county jail are Earl E. Kerr, Jr., 21 and David A. Kerr, 23, both of 220 Eshom. They surrendered Friday to sheriff's officers after they learned burglary warrants had been issued for their arrest.

Sheriff Jordan said Patrolman Samples' alertness in taking down the license number of a car parked near Gibson's Discount Center on the night of the March 1 burglary, ultimately led to arrests of the two Pampa brothers.

The sheriff said a telephone tip resulted in discovery of some of the stolen goods in a shack five and a half miles southeast of Pampa, along with additional evidence which he said pointed to the suspects. Deputies D. L. Day and Buster Collins made the recovery of the goods Sunday.

The nearly $8,000 worth of loot in the four burglaries included electric drills, floor Sanders, hand tools, guns, ammunition, rare coins, collector's guns, antiques, hunting knives and equipment and a varied supply (See BROTHERS, Page 2)

District Attorney Guy accepted complaints filed by Pampa Police against two suspects held on possession of suspected hashish and a pipe converted for use in smoking the substance Friday afternoon.

The two were located by officers at a local drive-in. A search of the automobile and the subjects, revealed what was a narcotic, hashish, pipe and a packet of hashish.

Governor Smith Will Dedicate New $3.5 Million Air Terminal

By TEX DEWEESE
Many Pampans and residents from the surrounding area will be among thousands attending dedication ceremonies this afternoon at the new $3.5 million Amarillo Air Terminal.

The formal dedication by Gov. Preston Smith is set for 2 p.m. to be followed by a ribbon-cutting ceremony and open house until 6 p.m. Parking at the terminal will be free.

Monte Rosenwald, chairman of the Amarillo Airport Board, said visitors from over the entire Texas Panhandle and from Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas and Colorado are expected.

"This is not just an Amarillo project," Rosenwald said Friday afternoon as a Press Preview tour of the terminal was conducted, "it is a regional air terminal which will serve cities like Pampa, Plainview, Borger, Hereford, Tulia and the host of towns and communities in the Top O' Texas area."

Amarillo city manager John Stitt told us, "it is something of which the entire Texas Panhandle can be proud."

The old Amarillo air terminal will go out of business at midnight tonight and beginning Monday the new terminal will be handling all air traffic in and out of Amarillo.

Airport chairman Rosenwald was master of ceremonies at a Saturday noon luncheon honoring airline representatives, government officials and airport concessionaires who helped in development of the terminal.

John H. Shaffer, Federal Aviation Administrator, spoke at a pre-dedication banquet attended by 800 persons last night in the terminal upper lobby.

City Manager Mack Wofford said he will officially represent Pampa at today's airport dedication ceremonies. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Wofford. The city manager said

Governor Scores Political Victory Over Ben Barnes

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas legislators plunged into — and then out of — their biggest tax crisis of the session in four whirlwind days last week, and in doing so handed Gov. Preston Smith his most dramatic political victory ever over Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes.

Smith threw the legislature into a turmoil Tuesday by announcing he would not sign the $904 million pending tax package unless the legislature trimmed down its size.

He tossed verbal barbs at the legislature for spending too much money and raising taxes those barbs flew toward Barnes.

But with Speaker Gus Matscher as the principal mediator, the tax crisis was solved Friday when the legislature finally approved a bill repealing a 2 cent per gallon gasoline tax. That cut the size of the tax bill to $622 million, and gave Smith a significant political prize.

"He can now say he's the governor who got taxes reduced that Ben Barnes tried to raise," said one observer.

Matscher himself indicated that feelings between Smith and Barnes had become so heated over the tax issue that Matscher had to act as "referee" in the negotiations.

Regardless of the political implications, Texans now face considerably smaller tax increases than they faced a week ago.

LBJ, Statesmen Back U.S. Role In Europe

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon rallied support from former President Lyndon B. Johnson and 24 former diplomatic and defense officials in a strong bid to defeat a proposed unilateral reduction of U.S. forces in Europe.

In separate statements issued by the Florida White House, Nixon said the troop cut would be an "error of historic dimensions" and Johnson said it would "endanger what we have achieved in the past and shatter our hopes for the future."

Nixon's blast, signed by 24 elder statesmen from four previous administrations, was aimed at Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield's amendment to cut U.S. troop strength in Europe by half—from 300,000 to 150,000.

Neither Nixon's statement nor Johnson's mentioned Russia's call for negotiations toward mutual cuts in European troops and armaments.

"At this point in time, it would be an error of historic dimensions for any of the North Atlantic Treaty allies to reduce unilaterally the military forces maintained in Europe for the common defense."

"As the most powerful member of the alliance, the United States bears a responsibility for leadership."

"Let us persevere to carry forward the policy of this nation under five successive presidents representing both political parties, confident that our united strength will promote the enduring peace we seek."

Johnson's statement, which the White House said was drafted by the former president after he was advised of Nixon's, said:

"I have seen the President's statement opposing at this time a unilateral reduction of military forces maintained in Europe for the common defense. I am totally in accord with that statement."

"American steadiness in support of NATO for more than 20 years has not only helped to bring security and progress to the North Atlantic community, it has also encouraged movement toward reconciliation with those toward the east. Unilateral reduction of our military forces in Europe would endanger what we have achieved in the past and shatter our hopes for the future."

Nixon's statement, his first public utterance on the Mansfield amendment, was signed by 24 men who served under Presidents Harry S. Truman, Dwight D. Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy and Johnson.

Nixon met Thursday with 11 of the group. Acheson circulated the statement for additional signatures.

Former Defense Secretary Clark Clifford, who served under Johnson, refused to sign, the White House said, as did James Douglas, a deputy defense secretary in the Truman administration.

Poll Shows Close Vote On Europe Troop Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield urged the administration Saturday to seize upon a Russian offer to negotiate a reduction of forces in central Europe. He said the talks could and should start next month.

At the same time, Mansfield accused the White House of "overkill" in its opposition to his proposal to cut the 300,000-troop U.S. garrison in Europe by 50 per cent by the end of 1971.

Mansfield shied away from predicting that he would win in Wednesday's showdown vote on his plan. A UPI poll of senators completed Saturday showed a very close division, with administration supporters holding a slight edge of committed senators and with the outcome resting in the hands of less than two dozen who have not reached or have not announced a position.

The survey indicated that at least 37 senators were prepared to vote for the Mansfield measure, 40 members were against the plan, 38 for it in principle, 18 undecided, three whose views were unknown and one absentee. Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., recovering from a stroke,

The issue is so closely contested that one member, freshman Sen. Glenn Beall Jr., R-Md., who is recovering from an appendectomy, is preparing to get out of his sickbed if necessary to vote against the amendment.

Meeting with reporters in his Capitol office, Mansfield faulted the state department for saying it would "study" Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev's proposal Friday to enter into exploratory talks on reducing free world and Communist forces and armaments in central Europe.

"They'd better get away from studying it," Mansfield said. "I would suggest that instead of studying a proposal, the meaning of which is plain on its face — that the response from the state department and the White House should be in the affirmative and that a definite date should be set for the beginning of negotiations."

Mansfield also disclosed that, despite the adamancy with which the administration opposes his legislation, no one in the administration had sought to convince him not to offer the legislation to return 150,000 troops by the end of the year.

Postage Rate Hike Takes Effect Today

It will cost you more to buy postage stamps when you go to the post office tomorrow.

Postmaster Carl V. English said Saturday increases in most postage rates would become effective today as the new United States Postal Service began its task of achieving self-sufficiency required by the Postal Reorganization Act.

English stated that general postage rates had not been increased since 1967 when Congress passed what was to become its final legislative act in this respect.

He pointed out that, earlier, requests for rate increases were proposed to Congress in 1969 by both President Johnson and President Nixon. In addition, President Nixon proposed an increase again in 1970, although none of the proposed increases was acted upon by Congress.

English explained that the new increases — authorized on a temporary basis until the newly created Postal Rate Commission can make recommendations to the Governors of the Postal Service on permanent changes — will raise first-class letter rates from 6 to 8 cents an ounce, and airmail letter rates from 10 to 11 cents an ounce. Post cards will go from 5 to 6 cents each and airmail post cards will go from 8 to 9 cents each.

The increases will be borne more by business than by individuals, the postmaster pointed out, since about 75 per cent of first class and airmail is from commercial mailers.

In addition to increases in first-class rates, second and third class went up today. However, English said, the full increases proposed by the Postal Service will not be put into effect on a temporary basis, in second and third class, since the postal reform legislation contemplates that such increases be phased over 5 years — or ten years for nonprofit organizations — provided Congress appropriates the necessary funds to ease the transition to full rates.

Because of the phasing provision, the increases for second and third-class mail generally are only one-fifth of the total increase proposed by the Postal Service.

No changes will be made in the rates for parcel post, which is the principal component of fourth-class mail. However, initial increases will be made in the "book rate" which is classified as fourth class.

The new temporary rates also make changes in other postage rate categories and special delivery and registered mail.

The Postal Service advised the public in February that it intended to make the temporary increases in the Postal Rate Commission did not make the recommended decision within 90 days of the request by the Postal Service.

Recently the Rate Commission confirmed it will not be able to make a decision within the 90 days, today, Sunday, May 16, was selected as the date on which the rates would become effective.

When the domestic changes go into effect, there will be conforming increases in letter rates to Canada and Mexico, Postmaster English said.

Pampa School Board will review teachers' salary schedule, discuss school realignment possibilities and personnel recommendations during the May trustee meeting Monday night.

Personnel changes included for discussion in the board's agenda for the 7:30 p.m. meeting at Carver Center were resignations of 21 teachers and one cafeteria employe and employment of a secretary, cafeteria employe, a physics teacher and an assistant coach.

The board is also expected to approve Pampa Classroom Teachers' Association's air conditioner recommendation, discuss stadium seats, tennis courts, and the vocational building progress.

Smith

As it now stands, the most expensive of the new taxes will probably be a three-fourths per cent hike in the general sales tax, but Texans have become so accustomed to sales tax hikes that this one is not expected to stir up much comment.

Other features remaining in the tax bill include an increase of one per cent in the motor vehicle sales tax, a $1.70 cent per barrel beer tax hike, a 3 cent per package cigarette tax raise, and a $1.25 per $1,000 valuation increase in the corporate franchise tax. The beer tax increase is expected to be trimmed to 70 cents a barrel, however.

All the new levies will go into effect July 1 after Smith signs the bills into law this week.

Settles Big Issue

Despite the tax feud between Smith and the legislature last week, Smith's decision to finally accept the revised tax package settles the major question of the session, and will apparently clear the way for adjournment May 31.

Most political observers early in the session had predicted the lawmakers would need at least one — and perhaps several — special sessions before any tax compromise would be reached.

That prediction was based on the presumption that Senate liberals could hold together the 16 to 17 votes they claimed to have for a corporate profits tax. But when the vote came on that tax, it was defeated 16-15, and the Senate liberals never got another chance to reopen the tax battle.

It was one of the few times in history a major tax bill has been passed without going to a House Senate conference committee.

Armed Forces Day Passes Unnoticed

By United Press International The 22nd annual Armed Forces Day passed largely unnoticed Saturday. Most scheduled events drew only light attendance and some observances were missing from the calendar of events.

Some Armed Forces Day programs concentrated on American prisoners of war held in North Vietnam. One of the largest turnouts was in Torrance, Calif., a suburb of Los Angeles, where about 75,000 persons watched 10,000 soldiers, sailors, Marines, airmen, National Guardsmen and reservists parade for two hours. The POWs were the theme of the parade.

Between 700 and 800 antiwar demonstrators held a rally in a park across from Ft. Dix, N.J., but did not confront military police. Army helicopters hovered overhead. About 8,000 civilians visited Ft. Dix.

The loot recovered Sunday included pistol containers for guns listed as missing from Gibsons; tools, gloves, one case of chocolate drink, tape players, and other items reported stolen from the businesses.

Gibsons was probably the greatest loss, said the Sheriff. A pair of 30-30 rifles, collector's items, about $650 worth of ammunition, besides binoculars, tools and hunting equipment was taken, totaling between $3,000 and $3,500.

W. Tinney Lumber, burglarized on March 12, reported vandalism and the theft of floor Sanders, electric drills and hand tools, amounting to about $1,000.

Pampa Lumber Co. reported about $1,000 worth of hand drills, tools and pipe cutters stolen and National Auto Salvage reported a four-speed transmission for a sports car stolen as well as tape players and radios from cars.

Airport officials say the new terminal is the only facility in its class equipped with four jetway boarding devices. TWA, Braniff, Continental and TI will use jetways.

Parking for about 900 cars will be available at the terminal. Areas will be designated for short-term and long-term visitors parking and for employe parking. During the open house today, all parking will be free.

The terminal is joined to Interstate 40 by the newly constructed Airport Boulevard which was built at a cost of about $1,750,000. The terminal is about 10 minutes from downtown Amarillo via I-40. The flow of arriving and departing passengers is separated into two levels at the terminal to reduce congestion.

Colors of the Panhandle landscape are incorporated in the interior decoration of the terminal. Browns, golds, beiges and off-whites predominate.

The terminal, owned by the City of Amarillo, will be self-supporting. Revenue generated by the terminal will pay its operating costs and retire bonds sold to finance construction.

Congressman Bob Price Presents Award To Canadian Businessman

CANADIAN — Congressman Bob Price Saturday presented the Texas Small Businessman of the Year Award to Charles F. Vignal of Canadian. The award is presented annually to the top small businessman in the state by the Small Business Administration.

"In just ten years Charles Vignal has turned a $19,000 investment in a town of 2,200 people into a business with nationwide customers purchasing almost $1.5 million of wood products annually. This is real individual initiative and enterprise," Price said.

Vignal was one of the founders and is now President of Canadian Millworks, Inc. The company imports and manufactures certain types of building materials.

"I have always supported the Small Business Administration and other government loan programs of this type because they give more people the opportunity to participate in the free enterprise system which is the backbone of our nation," the 18th District Congressman said.

Price noted that Vignal was selected for the award by five Regional Small Business Advisory Committees in Texas. "These committees are composed of successful businessmen who know what it takes to make a small business grow and prosper. This makes the award even more special."

Congressman Bob Price said last night he plans to introduce in the near future a "tax sharing act" instead of the

GREEK POWER
 SPRINGFIELD III. (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has been given a dozen "Greek Power" golf balls "guaranteed to stay in the fairways no matter how hard you hit them."

Rep. Pete Pappas, R-Rock Island, presented the balls Tuesday following Agnew's address to a joint session of the Illinois General Assembly.

"Do they have mercury-chrome centers?" Agnew asked, referring to his recent erratic drives that have struck spectators.

DDT SUBSTITUTE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government environmental protection officials have given the Forest Service permission to use a new substitute for DDT which kills several costly insect pests without a lasting chemical hangover. Forest Service spokesmen said the insecticide, Zectran, is a "highly selective" and nonpersistent material which generally breaks down into harmless elements less than two days after use.

Red Cross News

By LIBBY SHOTWELL
Executive Secretary ARC

The Annual Meeting of the American Red Cross for Gray County is over for another year and we can truthfully say that his was one of our best events. Thanks to West Texas Division for sending us Tom Hawk for our guest speaker and for paying his travel expense. Tom is an old friend and all who heard him were aware that we had a real talented and experienced man who spends his time telling everyone about the Red Cross and its work. Many do not realize the great scope of our organization with the fine Field Directors stationed at every base in the United States and Overseas who take the Red Cross messages and relay them to the military where the serviceman is stationed; for the Blood Centers where life giving blood is processed and handled for every community's use; for the Disaster Services that we give to families who have a need for assistance both on the emergency and on the rehabilitation work after the disaster with no repayment to chapters or to the Red Cross; and again for the work of the Red Cross in the POW program. Mr. Hawk stated that men with money cannot do what the Red Cross can with helping our POWs and that a break through might be forth coming soon. He stated that a glimmer of hope has been seen from the enemy and that now 12 lines were allowed in letters home instead of the six allowed before. We were very fortunate in having Mr. Hawk speak to us and our friends will be looking forward to next year's annual meeting.

We have lost one of our Red Cross Volunteers, Miss Susan Welch who is moving to Plainview with her family. Susan came by our office and gave us her uniform and told us good-by. We hope that you will continue your Red Cross work, Susan in Plainview.

Mr. Terry Duenkel and Standard First Aid Class at the Duenkel Funeral Home and the names will be entered next week. Terry also is carrying a Mobile Unit in his personal car. Thanks Terry, for your interest in First Aid.

The elementary schools are filling friendship boxes to be sent to the Papago Indians in N.M. these last weeks of school. Baker Elementary with Mrs. Cox as Teacher-Sponsor have completed their boxes and they are ready to be mailed. Thanks boys and girls for sharing with those less fortunate than you are.

Do not forget that registration of City Pool for the summer swimming will begin Monday at 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and will last all week. Registration will be held in the Red Cross office this year. Please do not come in the morning as we are busy doing our other work at that time. Classes will begin June 21st and last 6 weeks with each session lasting two weeks Monday through Friday.

JEANE DIXON Your Horoscope

SUNDAY, MAY 16 Your Birthday Today: This year is somewhat uphill but requires vigor and is highly productive. You find and defend your principles rather than seek material gain. Emotional ties are tested either strengthened by experience or rejected to make room for other relationships.

ARIES (March 21-April 20): What occurs this Sunday depends partly on how big a chip you carry on your shoulder. You are almost certainly sure about something. Don't permit casual acquaintances to distract you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Today's happenings will require you to get and give help. Select time to give terms and go ahead. Think about the coming week and what can be done in your career regular work.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Even though it is Sunday, in the course of your day you may encounter a way of getting a real bargain in material property. Look about your neighborhood get acquainted with newcomers.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Indications are that you fix upon a purely personal shorter-term project and are unlikely to let anything else take your attention. Others may mistake your hesitance to a word of impatience.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): Exemption from routine doesn't quite mean real freedom of expression — it's easy to say too much about things that are not fully defined.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Attend community customs, but let it go at that. People are settled in their grooves, unwilling to be jolted or coaxed out of them. Another time promises better; wait.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Quite a variety of choices come home to most. Whatever you promised to do for or about young people, do it, with little alternative open to you. Keep matters peaceful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Economy of energy and means is the key factor in your daily living. People want more than you can lend or give. Preserving healthy self-interest will not spoil friend, ship.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Gently does it direct candor, yes, but leave intact the sensibilities of associates. Serious reflection is essential.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You ought to meet the challenge of the day of being so deep into your own concerns that you don't respond readily or well to their suggestions. Concentrate on things which are best done singly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Sustain your share of the community's expressions of faith, then take it easy to conserve energy. There will be plenty of mental stimulus without asking for more.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Conventional surfaces persist in good order, but you must follow intuition rather than logic. Preserve a healthy appearance while you cope with moods and incidents which are quite stressful.

MONDAY, MAY 17 Your Birthday Monday: Your persuasive talents develop this year and should be used to establish a superior base from which to operate. Take nothing for granted while retaining your optimistic philosophy. Monday's natives are endowed with tolerance and capacity for industry, almost without career doors to them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Open your mind to matter which opens most circumstances. Cooperation is available where you are prepared to carry your full share of a venture.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Financial deals have a way of getting complicated. Lending to others, almost without exception, brings repercussions nobody anticipates. Wait until you are sure you have a firm GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Sometimes adhering to traditions and rules makes sense, but other times a more approach. Pace your efforts, avoid haste and fatigue.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): The sympathetic side of your nature fills many needs — stay on the optimistic side whenever there is a possibility of the initiative in your work situation.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): Provocation is a natural element in your present environment. How you react to it is of importance to you as well as important to your immediate future.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Trifles and misadventures, neglected and misplaced articles and inconvenience, but may inspire you to a general reorganization.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Drop old habits which are known to upset or annoy sensitive people. Do not get anything good from time and energy spent being a nuisance, so change your ways.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Belated recognition for past efforts arrive. Accept comments within the limits of their sources, then make your own way as planned.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Fresh leads open and you likely follow them for a considerable distance. You learn much from a venture that begins now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): It is far better to straighten out details and complete existing programs than indulge in partially organized new ventures. Be kind to yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your enjoyment of the day depends on whether or not you get involved with the cross-currents of competition and other people's projects, and how well you are able to manage them.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Ask for whatever you are sure you have earned in investments, — increases. Diligent application should bring useful practical results.

CLEVELAND (UPI)—A school board policy of requiring pregnant teachers to take a leave of absence five months before the expected birth survived a challenge in U.S. District Court Wednesday.

The policy was called unconstitutional and discriminatory in suits filed by two junior high school teachers.

Judge James C. Connell dismissed the suits, saying "The demands upon teachers which subject them to the possibility of violence or accident and injury are greatly magnified in a condition of pregnancy."

ST. JEAN VIANNEY, Sue.—Yvon Dumont describing the scene of the giant cavern May 4 which buried more than 40 homes in a 300-foot deep crater: "It is so still. There is no noise. The sun is shining, but at the bottom of that pit there are the bodies of 26 of my friends who will probably stay there forever in the mud."

MISSING COP BATH, England (UPI)—Detectives are hunting for Police Constable Peter Plod, a 6-foot-5 plywood dummy policeman stolen during the police ball.

Canonero II Outruns Eastern Fleet For Preakness Victory

By RAY AYRES
UPI Sports Writer
BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Canonero II, the scorned invader from Venezuela, smashed Pimlico's track record in a brilliant head-and-head duel with Eastern Fleet to win the Preakness Saturday and move close to the Triple Crown of the American turf.

Now the Kentucky-bred colt who was once sold for $1,200 needs only to win the Belmont Stakes on June 5 to become the first horse since the great Citation in 1948 to win all of the "Big Three" — the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness, and the Belmont.

After the Derby two weeks ago, when he won as a complete surprise, there were many who said his victory was a fluke.

But Saturday Canonero showed them all as he stormed a mile-and-three-sixteenths over Pimlico's kite-shaped track in 1:54, a new track record, and in the bargain whipped Eastern Fleet in a duel of courage as both completely outran the rest of the 11-horse field.

Canonero's time was three-fifths of a second under the track record held by Nashua as he finished 1 1/2 lengths ahead of Eastern Fleet, Jim French was a distant third, getting the nod over Sound Off in a photo for the show position.

The largest crowd in Maryland racing history — 47,221 — had expected the unheralded colt to stage another stretch rally. They had bet him with confidence and roared with surprise and approval when jockey Gustavo Avila challenged for the lead early and battled head and head with Eastern Fleet.

Eastern Fleet, who had finished fourth in the Kentucky Derby, never gave up, although he was no match for the winner in the closing strides.

Canonero II paid $8.80, $6.20 and $4.00. Eastern Fleet paid $8.20 and $5.20 while Jim French returned $3.20.

Five other colts since 1948 have won the first two jewels of the Triple Crown only to fall in the Belmont Stakes and complete the triple. The owners of Canonero II had planned to start their horse in the Belmont win or lose here. Now their presence will jam that New York race track.

Victory was worth $137,400 and the colt has now won $315,089.

The inquiry sign was lit after the race, but Canonero II was not involved in the claim of foul. It was Eastern Fleet, who broke over sharply at the start and caused a slight jam at the starting gate.

Canonero II, who had to be blindfolded at the start of the Kentucky Derby, was the last horse to be loaded into that gate but this time he was not blindfolded. He came out of it like a shot, soon settled into full stride and was ready for his remarkable journey.

Cinder Leo and Go Moon, the latter the Sunland Derby champion, lead the tough field gathered by J.B. Montgomery for 1971 competition. His barns also house many good two-year olds.

The trainer who shocked Sunland Park by amassing a record-smashing 120 victories to win the gold cup, W.A. Thompson has in fold such track terrors as Tux's King, Richardine, Barlaris, Misty Quill and Raging Waters, each specialists in their own distances.

J.J. Pletcher, trainer for J.H. Rose, has a tough contingent headed by Reprobate, Jeanees Lark and Randis Joy. The latter took the 1970 laurels at the Riley Allison Thoroughbred Futurity at Sunland Park.

Trainer Paul Smith has a large number of horses under his wing, including the popular Fast Gas, a four-year-old multiple-stakes winner who has been named the top sprinter at Sunland the past two seasons.

Victory was worth $137,400 and the colt has now won $315,089.

The inquiry sign was lit after the race, but Canonero II was not involved in the claim of foul. It was Eastern Fleet, who broke over sharply at the start and caused a slight jam at the starting gate.

Canonero II, who had to be blindfolded at the start of the Kentucky Derby, was the last horse to be loaded into that lenged for the lead early and battled head and head with Eastern Fleet.

Eastern Fleet, who had finished fourth in the Kentucky Derby, never gave up, although he was no match for the winner in the closing strides.

Canonero II paid $8.80, $6.20 and $4.00. Eastern Fleet paid $8.20 and $5.20 while Jim French returned $3.20.

Five other colts since 1948 have won the first two jewels of the Triple Crown only to fall in the Belmont Stakes and complete the triple. The owners of Canonero II had planned to start their horse in the Belmont win or lose here. Now their presence will jam that New York race track.

Buffalo Coaching Staff Full Of Good Cheer With 30 Letters

CANYON — West Texas State University's new football coaching staff has received a signed national letter of intent from each of its 30 football recruits.

The Buffalo coaches had earlier signed the players to a Missouri Valley Conference letter. The coaches made short tours May 5, on the national letter signing day, but mailed the majority of the national letters and scholarship agreements to players. Those contracts and letters have now been received back in the athletic office.

Eight of the recruits earned various all-state honors this past season.

Bruce Davis, the all-state linebacker from Odessa Permian, and Tascosa's David Herber head the list as both were named to the Class AAAA all state team.

Davis, 6-1, 195-pounder, played for New Buffalo head coach Gene Mayfield at Odessa Permian High School. Herber is a 5-10, 190-pounder. He is the first Tascosa Rebel to be named Most Valuable Player in two sports — football and baseball.

Other all-state players are tackle Gerald Chisholm, center Jim Jeffers, center Kurt Kinsinger, running back Johnny Lisle, running back Jimmy Jackson, and quarterback Robert Edwards.

Jeffers, 6-2, 206-pounder, earned all-state honors in New Mexico for state champion Hobbs. Kinsinger, 6-0, 182-pounder, played center and linebacker at Liberal, Kan., and was second team all-state.

Lisle was a two-year all-state running back for Rule. The 6-1, 187-pounder won the Class E 100 and 220-yard dashes at the state meet last week. He has a 9.7 clocking in the 100 to his credit.

Edwards, 6-1 and 165, was the Class B all-state quarterback for Sundown. Chisholm, 6-5, and 220, was second team Class A all-state for Sduan and Jackson, who scored 44 touchdowns in his career at Kress High School, was named to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram's Class A all-state defensive team.

Gibson Overcomes Rain And Mets In Houston Astrodome

HOUSTON (UPI) — The biggest problems for Bob Gibson this year are the New York Mets and the rain.

Gibson, 4-3, has lost twice to the Mets and Tom Seaver 3-1 and has had three games washed out by rain this month.

"If you're having a drought around here, all you have to do to cure it is schedule me to pitch outside and I'll take care of that," Gibson said after beating the Astros 4-2 Friday night in a place immune to rain, the Astrodome.

Gibson, who had not won in three weeks, started the month being rained out against Montreal in the seventh inning with the score tied 2-2. Then he was rained out of his next start in Philadelphia May 6, lost to Seaver (3-3) May 7, and was rained out Wednesday at Montreal.

The Astros had chances against him early. They loaded the bases in the first inning, had two runners in the second and scored.

"You can't be sharp when you pitch every seven or eight days," Gibson said, referring to his three walks in the first three innings. "I had plenty of power but I couldn't get the ball where I wanted it."

The Astros, who have lost four of their last five, said Gibson was tough when he had to be — with men on base. He got Doug Rader with the base loaded in the first and again with two on in the third.

Gibson also broke up loser Jack Billingham's budding no-hitter with a two-out single in the fifth. Then the Cards scored three runs in the sixth.

Dick Schofield's two-out, two-run double was the big hit. It was the third important hit this week for the 36-year-old bonus boy out of high school. Only Willie Mays, Hank Aaron, Ernie Banks and Hoyt Wilhelm are left from those days.

The Houston runs came as result of two pinch hit doubles, one by Marty Martinez in the seventh. He scored on a ground out and a wild pitch.

Rich Chiles, batting 400 this season and 4-for-7 as a pinch-hitter doubled in the ninth after a walk to put runners on second and third and the run scored on Roger Metzger's grounder to second.

Kenneth Sellers, who was signed as a spit-end, is considered a top prospect. The 6-1, 170-pounder ran the 440-yard dash in 47.7 and led Crowell to the Class A state championship last week. His 47.7 in the 440 came at the regional meet earlier in Lubbock and he ran 47.9 to win the quarter at Austin.

Vega's Ronnie Fangman, who earned all-district honors two years before this past season, also competed last week in Austin. He placed second in the hurdles. Fangman, 6-3, 195-pound back, missed the final five games this past football season with an injury.

Three other players, besides Edwards, were signed as quarterbacks. They are Mike Wartes of Hereford, Canyon's Swatzel and Fletcher Furman of Independence, Iowa. Wartes, son of the head Hereford High School coach Larry Wartes, was an all-district performer.

Stars Start To Fill Ruidoso Down's Stalls

Don't mention the names of such outstanding trainers as C.W. "Bubba" Casco, Jake Casco, Wayne Lukas, J.B. Montgomery, W.A. Thompson, J.J. Pletcher and Paul Smith, to name a few, and the picture is pretty sharp that Ruidoso Downs has attracted top stables for its 1971 meet which gets underway Friday, May 21.

"Bubba" Casco, last year's leading trainer at Ruidoso Downs, is back with a strong stable of quarter horses and thoroughbreds, including both futurity colts and older horses. His father, Jake, who had four of the top ten qualifiers in the Sun Country Futurity at Sunland Park, has a solid string, headed by the Sun Country winner, Duplicate Bid.

Wayne Lukas has assembled a potent array of contenders, with the star attraction being the two-year old Darling Bid, who brought the top price of $58,000 in last year's All American sale.

Tee-Off Tid-Bits

By HART WARREN

Fall, fell, Spring sprung, now summer has summed. Did you ever see a prettier day than Thursday? This is just another example of lady luck for ladies day.

Joe Houck, professional at Huber Golf Course in Berger, had a beautiful day for his annual pro-am and had a real fine turnout.

SHORT STROKES

Nice to see Euster Carter out last week — reckon that was his debut?

79 shots — 13 years old — Ask Randy Watson how it feels — good round Randy.

Congratulations to Gip and Marge Gipson for their efforts on winning teams in the Hunley Hills Pro-Am — Marge, do you feel like Avis?

Try a little harder, they do. Gips team won with a 59 low ball — Marge had a 60.

Margaret Lockhart nearly made an ace on No. 16 — too bad, but a birdie 2 is still great.

Marjorie Fritsch is still giggling about her round of 37-40-77.

Another medical man has been bitten by the golf bug — Dr. Malcolm Brown was out and took lesson No. 1. Good to get you out Doc.

After playing several of the area golf courses Pampa County Club is still the best we've played this year.

Next week-end is the UniRoyal Tourney, May 22-23. Don't forget your tee-off times.

Are Fish Fast Swimmers? A Clearing Of The Unknown

Not many anglers have time to think about how fast a fish swims when he's hooked, but one thing is sure — he's probably going as fast as he can.

How much speed do fish develop? There's a wide variation between species, and even within a species, as far as ordinary travel, top speed and highest sustainable speed are concerned.

Information gathered by the fishing department at Mercury outboards shows that most anglers tend to overestimate the speed a hooked fish swims. One of the latest species is the barracuda, and they have been experimentally clocked at 27 miles per hour. It's doubtful if other fast species, such as tuna, wahoo and marlin, exceed this rate. Brown trout swim at just over five miles an hour, while striped bass have been checked at 12 mph.

Experiments have shown that fish swim by alternately contracting muscles on each side of their body, in effect pushing themselves against the water. How long the fish is, and the rate at which its tail oscillates, determine the speed.

Vertical fins, such as the dorsal, anal and caudal, are used mostly for balance. Paired fins, generally the pectoral fins, are used for steering.

Some of the flat fishes, such as flounders and rays, move by undulating their bodies in a flattened sine wave. Visualize this movement as a flag held horizontally in a stiff wind.

Some fish, such as angler propel themselves by jetting streams of water through their gills. Many other species use this same method to assist them in turns, along with body and fin movements.

Generally speaking, most species of freshwater fish are capable of extreme speed for only a short distance. This is helpful in securing food, or escaping from another predator. And, undoubtedly, when a fish is hooked, it calls upon reserve strength to make a final slashing run through the water in a desperate bid for freedom.

Colonels Even Series At 3-3 In ABA Playoff

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—The Kentucky Colonels, behind Cincy Powell's 31 points and 17 rebounds, fought off a rally by the Utah Stars Saturday to win 105-102, and even their American Basketball Association playoff series at three games apiece.

Powell, who vowed he would get revenge for a sneak punch thrown in a fist fight Wednesday night, scored 25 of his points in the second half.

The Colonels broke a 101-101 tie with a pair of clutch free throws by reserve forward Walt Simon and added to their margin with two more foul shots by Louie Dampier.

A free throw by Red Robbins with seven seconds to play cut the final margin to three points. Substitute Dick Nemeke let fly a three-point attempt for Utah, but it was off target and Powell claimed the rebound to freeze out the final two seconds.

Dampier collected 22 points and rookie Dan Issel 21 for the Colonels, who held the upper hand until just before the end of the third period.

Utah, sparked by Willie Wise, maintained a narrow lead until Dampier converted a three-point play with 2:42 to go in the game to tie the score, 100-100.

Utah was paced by Wise with 34 points, veteran Zelmo Beatty with 27 and Robbins with 18.

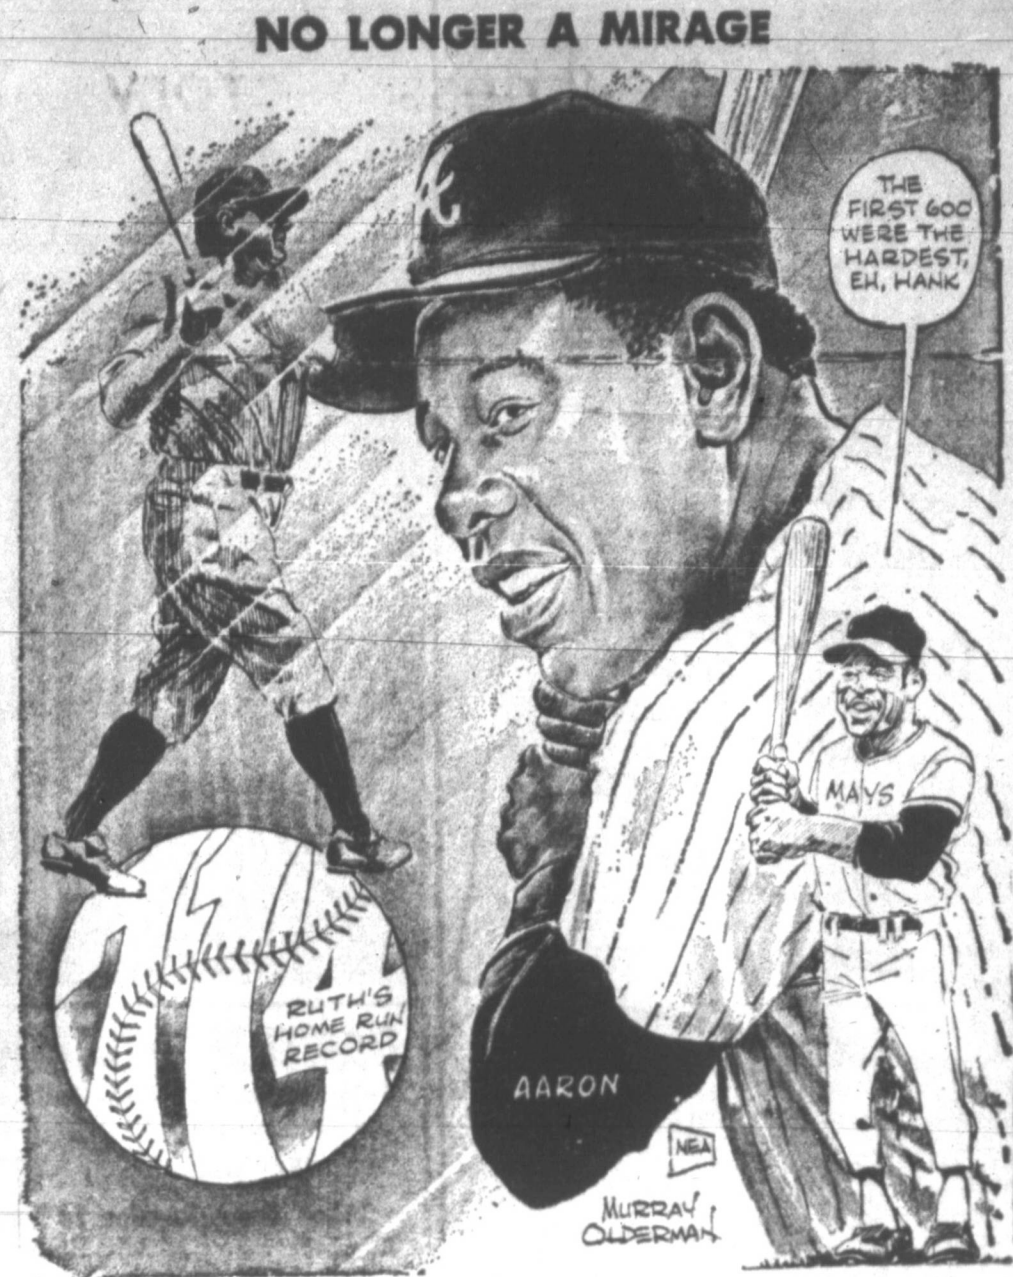

The Colonels did a superior defensive job on Utah's guards, limiting them to a total of 22 points. Meanwhile, Kentucky got 38 points from its backcourt trio of Dampier, Daryl Carrier and Mike Pratt.

Kentucky's chances looked dim when Issel, their big gun throughout the playoffs, drew his fifth foul and left the game with 7:23 left in the third quarter. Coach Frank Ramsey waited until 6:44 remained in the fourth period before sending Issel back into the game.

The series returns to Salt Lake City for the seventh and deciding game Tuesday night.

Gordon Wood Honored By Johnson As Outstanding Texas HS Coach

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (UPI)—Gordon Wood of Brownwood High School, the winningest coach in Texas high school football history, was honored Friday by former President Lyndon Baines Johnson and other well-known Texans as a "God loving, church loving, country loving" man.

Wood has won seven state championships during his 26 years of coaching football. That total is more than any other man to coach schoolboys in the state.

Johnson spent most of his 15 minutes on the speaker's stand praising Wood. But he also found time to mention Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, his years in the Presidency and Texas football Coach Darrell Royal.

Wood, called his honor "unreal."

Wood said for years he watched Johnson on television. He said it would be easy to get egotistical with all of the attention.

"For this to happen to a poor old country boy like me, it just doesn't make sense," he said.

The coach said his key to success was simple: "If you can get the coaches to believe in each other and the players to believe in each other, then each group to believe in one another, then they cannot be stopped from being the best."

Johnson admitted he has not spent much time in the public eye since he left the White House. But he said he was happy to appear for such a man as Wood.

He said if Wood or the boys he coached were in control of the nation, "There would be little to fear. It is good to be with a group of God loving, church loving, country loving people."

On his lack of public exposure since leaving office, Johnson said he is following advice given by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower when Eisenhower left office.

"I'm just going to sit on the front porch on a rocking chair. After several years, I will think about rocking," he said.

Johnson gave Barnes a long pat on the back.

"While you may be No. 2 in Austin," Johnson told Barnes, "I know that you are No. 1 in Brownwood and with the President."

A crowd of over 5,000 attended at the Brownwood coliseum.

Russians To Play Basketball In Amarillo Civic Center Coliseum

The Amarillo Chamber of Commerce Sports Committee will sponsor the Russian Olympic Basketball team on a visit to Amarillo tomorrow night.

The Soviet Olympic team began an extensive tour of the United States in which they will be playing many exhibition games.

The team will be playing tomorrow night in the Amarillo Civic Center Coliseum against a team made up of several semi-pro players and possibly the senior members of the 1971 West Texas State University basketball team.

John Spannuth, formerly director of the Amarillo Aquatic Club and now on the National AAU staff in Indianapolis, is working with local officials to arrange the Amarillo game.

SHAVING STROKES

10-How to Relax

Let me say that you need a certain amount of tension to make a good golf swing. You want to be firm and you want to be nervous enough to be alert and strong. You must convince yourself that being under pressure can help you play better. Any pro champion will tell you emphatically that it does.

However, the average player tends to let too much tension interfere with his game. He thinks every shot is the end of the world and he is so tight he isn't able to make a smooth, relaxed pass at the ball.

What can you do to ease excess tension? Mainly, it's handled mentally. Again, you have to become sure that pressure isn't necessarily a bad thing — it's what you do with it that counts. Then there are a few little physical things you can do to ease tension. Here's one that helps me.

Relax your grip as you address the ball. Sometimes you will be gripping the club so tightly that your forearm muscles tighten and so does everything else in your body, all the way down to your legs. Relax your grip — take a moment to drop your hands and regrip the club if it makes you feel more at ease — and the rest of you will relax too.

President's Daughter Sets Wedding Date

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Tricia Nixon's wedding will not be televised live, in keeping with the private sentimental occasion.

But the nation's viewers will have a chance to see some of the highlights of the June 12 rose garden wedding on TV news shows following the nuptials.

Tricia has been making her decisions—with the help of her fiancé, Harvard law student Edward Finch Cox—and announcing them as she goes along. But the style of her wedding dress, designed by Priscilla of Boston, is being kept a deep secret until the wedding day.

Compared to the weddings of her immediate predecessors, former President Lyndon B. Johnson's daughters Luci, Tricia and Lynda Bird, Robb, Tricia pre-nuptial planning and partying is low key. But it is expected to pick up a momentum this week when relatives and friends around the country begin receiving their invitations.

Although she does not claim to be the domestic type, she is taking her future hostess chores to heart. She has indicated that in her place settings in china (Lenox "Blue Tree") and her silverware (Lunt's "Eloquence"), she wants to be able to serve 12 for dinner.

She also has noted in a local bridal registry that she would like to receive Worcester flameproof ovenware in a "strawberry" pattern and has her eye on some 100-year-old gold-rimmed service plates with the crest showing an animal head and the motto "Benevolent Universe" in case any friends are interested in giving her china for a wedding gift.

Tricia admits she has been studying history books for details on past White House weddings. She laughs when she is reminded that the president indicated he would like her and her future husband to spend their honeymoon in Communist China.

Church Wedding Ceremony Unites Mary Jane Rose, David S. Johnson

Mary Jane Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Ralph Rose, 505 N. Gray, and David Stith Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace E. Johnson of Austin exchanged wedding vows in a double-ring ceremony Saturday in the First Baptist Church of Pampa. The Rev. Dan C. Cameron officiated at the 3 p.m. service.

BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a long candlelight gown designed by William Cahill of English net over peau de soie with a wedding band neckline and a bodice appliqued in intricate patterns of Viennese lace leaves. Self buttons and loops formed the closings of the long tapered sleeves and back bodice.

A camelot headpiece was designed in the fabric of the gown. Her English silk illusion fell to the length of the chapel train. A ballerina colonial bouquet of bridal pink and white roses nestled in stephanotis blooms was carried by the bride.

ATTENDANTS

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Vicki Martin of Pampa. Bridesmaids were Miss Ann Hearn of Lubbock, Jo Whyman of Houston, Miss Martha Myatt of Pampa, Miss Susan Rossey of Abilene, Miss Judy Allen of Austin and Mrs. Steve Williams of Lubbock.

The attendants wore long gowns designed with mortar Chiffon bodices with sapphire skirts. The empire waistlines were defined in floral Viennese lace. Their mortar horsehair picture hats were applied in matching lace scrolls, and their shoes were of matching sapphire blue peau de soie. The bridesmaids carried nosegay bouquets of Spring flowers lighted with blue corn flowers and baby's breath.

Steve Williams of Lubbock served as best man. Groomsmen were Bill Zapalac, Randy Burch, Robert Callier and Rick Nabors of Austin; Drake Farmer of Fort Worth and Pat McKean of Lubbock. Ushers were Rex W. Rose, brother of bride and Tom Johnson, brother of the bridegroom.

A myriad of candles, fashioned in arched form, and garlanded with salal foliage filled the background. Similar arrangements of candles and greenery decorated the choir rails. An arrangement of gladiolus, carnations, daisies and baby's breath decorated the altar. Tall arrangements of mixed white Spring flowers with cascading smilex decorated the bridal path. Compote, cherub arrangements of mixed Spring flowers were used on the guest register tables.

The vocalist was Mrs. Robert Horsman of Chula Vista, Calif., with Miss Eloise Lane as organist. Selections were "During an Meinem finger" by Schumann, "I love Thee" by Grieg and "O Perfect Love" by Barnby. Mike Burt of Lubbock played "Trumpet Voluntary" by Purcell for the processional and "Trumpet Tune" by Purcell as the recessional.

The bride's mother wore a soft green Alaskine gown with the headdress designed to match the embroidery of the dress. The bridegroom's mother wore an Alaskine two piece pale pink dress with matching accessories.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Pampa Country Club with musical selections by Jerry Whitten at the organ. The bridal table was decorated with a floor-length white satin cloth. Hand-made colored flowers covered the seven-tiered wedding cake and a tall five branch silver candelabra held nosegay arrangements of mixed colored Spring flowers to complete the decorations.

Guests were registered by Pam Martin and Lynda Gunn of Pampa. Also assisting in the house party were Carol Miksch and Devon McKinney of Lubbock.

Immediately following the reception, the bride and bridegroom departed for Tan Tara Resort on the Lakes of the Ozarks. The bride wore a three-piece knit pant ensemble with yellow accessories.

By Annalyn Van Gurea

DEAR ABBY: My parents were happily married for 32 years. Then my mother died. It wasn't sudden. She had a terminal illness, and it was a blessing when she finally went.

Two years later Dad married a lovely widow who had been my mother's dearest friend. My sisters and I (all married) were very happy to see Dad marry again. Now, the Problem:

Dad and his new wife are living in the lovely home Dad and Mother built and furnished some years ago. They are using the same furniture, even the king-sized bed Mother and Dad shared for so many years. Just the thought of it upsets me, so I told Dad he ought to get another bed. He thought I was joking, and he laughed about it. I wasn't joking, Abby, I was serious. I am still terribly upset knowing that Dad is sleeping in that bed with another woman.

Don't get me wrong, I really like Dad's new wife, but not in my mother's bed. Am I wrong to feel this way, or shouldn't Dad get another bed?

UPSET DAUGHTER
DEAR DAUGHTER: If it doesn't bother your father, or his new wife, it shouldn't bother you. Don't mention it again. It's mind over mattress.

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and just had my sixth baby. My husband is 23. I had him talked into getting one of those operations men have so they can't father any more children. It's called a "vasectomy." Then the day before he was supposed to have it done, some guys at work told him he was a fool to risk losing his manhood. The way my doctor explained the operation to me, it could be done right in the doctor's office and it wouldn't hurt my husband's manhood at all. How can I get this through his head, Abby? We can't afford any more kids and I am worn out from those I have. Thank you.

COLORADO READER
DEAR READER: Tell your husband to quit listening to the guys at work and to listen to a doctor who will tell him that a vasectomy in no way reduces a man's manhood. And it takes more of a man to protect his wife against unwanted children than to take his chances.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been separated (not divorced) for 11 years. Each year on the anniversary of our marriage we celebrate together. We have grown children and two lovely grandchildren. We have been celebrating the whole 21 years that we've been married, but I have had friends tell me that this is wrong. They say since we are not living together, we should not celebrate our wedding anniversaries. I say as long as we are still married and not divorced, we can celebrate if we want to.

STILL CELEBRATING
DEAR STILL: You don't need permission or approval from your friends to celebrate your wedding anniversary, even though you're separated. So if it pleases you, go ahead and celebrate, and more power to you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NEEDS HELP IN SYRACUSE": He who eats until he is sick, must fast until he is well.

Forum Club Has Officer Service Of Installation

Twentieth Century Forum Study Club met for the annual luncheon in the home of Mrs. Joe Franklin to conduct the last meeting of the club year.

Mrs. Homer Johnson, program chairman, announced the course of study for next year as "Texas, Land of Contrast."

Mrs. Holt Barber used the poem, "The Covered Wagon," by J. Van Dolzen Pease, as her theme for the installation of the new officers. The wagon master is Mrs. McHenry Lane; head scout Mrs. Holt Barber; "log" keeper, Mrs. David Holt; treasurer, Mrs. Robert Cotter; parliamentarian, Mrs. Larry Cross; reporter, Mrs. Ernest Wilkinson; and federation counselor, Mrs. Jack Ward.

In closing Mrs. Barber said: "Life is like a journey taken in a covered wagon, with a pair of travelers on each seat."

I may sit beside you all the journey through
Or I may sit elsewhere, never know you,
But if fate should make me sit at your side
Let's be pleasant travelers — it's so short a ride."

Those attending were Mrs. Holt Barber, William Comman, Robert Cotter, Larry Cross, Joe Franklin, J. R. Holloway, David Holt, Homer Johnson, Aubrey Steele, Frank Stofa, Jack Ward, Rodney DeFever, John Warner, Floyd Weatherbee, E. J. Dunigan, Jr., an honorary member, and two guests, Mrs. Hugh D. Barton, and Mrs. Foster.

Couple Sponsor Party In Garden For Pampa Club

Pampa Garden Club members attended a backyard dinner in the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Carlson. Special guests for the dinner were the husbands of members.

Each person brought a dish of their choice and the meat courses were prepared by Mrs. Mildred Prince of Pampa and Mrs. John Stevens of Borger who served the dishes and gave a demonstration of outside cooking on an electric grill.

Gardner of the Year Award, elected by the members, went to Mrs. Mary Weaver, a longtime member of the Pampa Garden Club.

A short meeting was held and Mrs. Theima Bray was given special recognition for receiving an award at the State Convention for her outstanding service to the community. The Pampa Club received five awards at the convention.

Mrs. James Malone will hold the installation meeting in her home on Monday May 23.

Dollar: Gold's Poor Kin

The first guys who talk when something drastic happens in the monetary situation — like the current dollar crisis — are usually wrong because they are trying to influence the outcome.

We believe that is the case now. For Western Germany has stopped buying the U.S. dollar at a pegged price, and the popular refrain is that the dollar weakness abroad will not affect us here at home. With the equivalent of about 8 percent of the Gross National Product involved in the export-import, statements of that type appear to be premature.

Nationally, the total of imports and export business comes to about $75 billion a year.

Thousands of Americans traveling in other countries will find their costs are higher.

As many are aware, there is a brisk trade in gold coins. These are the forerunners of the way a change in the dollar status bears on domestic U.S. activity. For the ultimate measure of all currency is what some person will pay for it in gold.

Rather than speculate at this time as to what consequences will follow from the decline of the dollar, understanding will be better served if we were to review the series of events that preceded this week's crisis.

Going back more than a year ago, to Jan. 6, 1970, we find that the international bankers working through the International Monetary Fund has agreed to accept South African gold. Up to that time, the internationalists generally had been trying to isolate South Africa and destroy its government by destroying its economy. But the need for gold to inject some degree of confidence in paper currencies drove the IMF to accept the spurned nation's best-known product — gold.

On Jan. 9, 1970, newspapers carried the story that the U.S. Treasury had purchased $500 million in gold from West Germany. This was a 4 per cent boost in U.S. reserves which had sunk from $22.86 billion in 1957 to $11.17 billion in November, 1969.

Apparently, South Africa had anticipated the IMF decision because its production during 1969 had been stepped up to a record pace. Output in terms of current dollars was $1.1 billion, $4 million more than the previous year. This was revealed by the press in Jan. 27, 1970.

On Jan. 30, 1970, it was revealed that Japan's gold holdings stood at $3.5 billion at the end of 1969. This was the equivalent of one-third of the U.S. supply.

In the first month of the new gold agreement with South Africa, the IMF bought $98.3 million. This was revealed on Feb. 2.

By Feb. 18, 1970, President Nixon was calling for an adequate money supply and for less emphasis on gold. "It is clear that the relative role of gold must diminish," he predicted.

By April 29, 1970, gold speculation was rife, especially in Europe.

On Aug. 7, 1970, the Canadian government decided to continue subsidizing the gold mines where costs were running higher than the U.S.-fixed price of $35 an ounce. This may have been a political concession to gold communities, but it was also a sign of a continuing need for the product.

Aug. 17, 1970, the press reported a hopeful indication that foreign central banks were gathering potential claims on U.S. gold at a slower pace. For the import-export deficit had statistically narrowed. This was followed seven days later with an announcement that U.S. gold reserves had expanded $5 million in July raising the total to a 2 1/2 year high. At this point in time, American industry was in the throes of a liquidity crisis. Important firms were facing the possibility of not being able to meet their bills.

By Sept. 24, however, the Treasury department reported that U.S. gold stocks fell $117 million in August to $11.8 billion. On Oct. 25, the news was that U.S. gold reserves had tumbled $223 million in September, lowest point in 11 months.

Nov. 10, the U.S. Treasury sold the last of its marketable silver. For 194 years, this metal had served as a kind of secondary gold.

On Jan. 25, of this year, the Treasury reported that U.S. gold reserves were down to $11.072 billion (a decline of $406 million in December).

As headline readers know by now, the year-long dwindling of U.S. reserves was the forerunner of deep concern over the dollar that surfaced on the first day of this week.

We have offered this year-long, blow-by-blow account of the gold battle in order that individuals would have some basis in fact for estimates of what the trend is. The evidence offers no support for President Nixon's theory that the role of gold "will diminish." What affects the dollar affects the country, and gold affects the dollar.

Right Of Dependency

One of the great political and social forces is the economic fact of welfare — the simple truth that many governments are going broke in trying to meet welfare costs despite unprecedented new local, state and federal financing.

Another problem is created by court decisions that permit welfare recipients to shop among states for the greatest assistance benefits. Further pressures are apparent on all sides as students, hippies, strikers and even well-paid welfare officials themselves tap tax-dollars as a source of income.

Those diligent officials who try to correct abuses soon find that some of their greatest resistance comes from the entrenched welfare bureaucracy itself. Finally, the biennial quest for political issues always finds welfare a fertile field.

All of these and many other forces have converged to support the so-called Family Assistance Plan that would "guarantee" minimum income to most needy Americans.

Most of the national debate this year will likely focus on the financial aspects of the Family Assistance Plan, as it has in the past. On this score, a good case can be made against the dubious wisdom of solving a fiscal welfare crisis by adding millions to assistance rolls and billions of dollars to the cost of the program.

However, it is important to remember that the philosophical issue of guaranteeing a federal income to all needy families who indicate a desire to work, and to those who do work but do not make an adequate income is as important as the dollar issue.

We would not help the needy people nor are we helping the aspirations of the United States by establishing welfare as a right equal to all of the other "guarantees" of citizenship. I would tend to lock these people and their children into permanent dependency on government, and into permanent poverty. It also would erode initiative and the American concept that poverty often is the crucible of success, not its antithesis.

Americans are compassionate and generally will agree to help their fellow men who are genuinely in need because of misfortune. We would be doing exactly the opposite, however, by extending to them the "right" of dependency upon the federal government or any government as the employer of the first resort.

GLOBAL VIEW:

Kremlin Cool To New Left

By LEON DENNEN
NEW YORK (NEA) — Revolutionary "dissent" is easy and safe to practice in a democratic society.

It is different in the Marxist-Leninist dictatorships. Treason is the name of the game there.

In the United States, young extremists who refrain from acts of violence roam the streets of Washington, shout obscenities, browbeat timid congressmen and intimidate government workers.

They are cheered on by ambitious senators who hope to get the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972.

But no one is allowed to practice dissent for long in the totalitarian countries ruled by Marxist-Leninists.

Thousands of students, young workers and intellectuals now languish in Soviet Russia's lunatic asylums, jails and concentration camps because they dared voice their disagreement with the Kremlin's rulers.

Nevertheless, a majority of the young extremists preach the Marxist-Leninist doctrines — although many of them come from wealthy families and are what the French call "fils a papa" (rich man's son).

They are quick to protest against real or imaginary restrictions on freedom in democratic society, but are strangely tolerant of the regimented life in the Communist countries. Bored with affluence, their sworn objective is the destruction of capitalist society.

A large section of the radical left wing youth therefore regard Soviet Russia, which ostensibly established "Communism" in accordance with Marxist-Leninist precepts, as their natural political ally.

In this regard mutual dox Moscow appreciate these sentiments?

There was a time when the Kremlin leaders regarded the New Left in the United States and elsewhere in the West as a "revolutionary potential" capable of embarrassing the capitalist democracies.

Now their attitude is ambivalent. They seem to have realized belatedly that any "revolutionary youth movement" that Moscow is not in a position to control fully can also be a threat to the internal stability of the Communist countries.

In other words, although the Soviet leaders view the disruptive activities of the left-wing extremists in Western societies with satisfaction, they are also apprehensive lest the "anarchist" contagion spread to their own sphere of influence.

Thus, the ultra-leftists are now berated for having abandoned the Marxist-Leninist concept of the class struggle.

"There is nothing new about the ideas of the New Left," writes T. Yemelyanov in Literaturnaya Gazetta. They were advanced by Bakunin, Nechayev and other Russian anarchists in the last century.

Bakunin was the father of the slogan that "the passion to destroy is a creative passion." And it was the murderously intolerant Nechayev who preached in his famous catechism:

"The revolutionary despises public opinion and all pretensions to morality. Everything that glorifies revolution is moral to him. Everything that interferes with it is immoral and unjust." Sound familiar?

Lenin borrowed many of Bakunin's and Nechayev's terrorist methods when he was creating his Communist dictatorship.

However, once in power he soon realized that anarchism was a greater threat to his regimented totalitarian society than to the Western democracies.

The Soviet attitude towards Western radical left-wing youth resembles the position of a man who watches with malicious satisfaction as the house of an enemy burns. He is even prepared to add fuel to the flames. But he is at the same time apprehensive lest the fire spread to his own property.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Rev. Joel's problem is shared by thousands of clergymen. Young mothers, please heed the advice herein. For many boys end in prison because their mothers thoughtlessly predisposed them to anti-social behavior. Scrapbook this Case Record or mail it to young couples who are soon to have a new baby. And use the "Rating Scales below!"

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE Q-554: Rev. Joel, aged 34, has a problem.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I am sometimes embarrassed at the christening of babies.

"For the parents often foist inappropriate names on their infants.

"Some doting mothers will thus give a boy baby a very girlish name, which I know will fetter him all throughout his school days.

"And others concoct what they deem to be musical names by putting together nonsense syllables.

"So could you alert your millions of readers to the importance of starting a baby out in life with a good, solid name?"

Name Psychology
In one of our Chicago suburbs, a chemist foisted the name of "Carbon Petroleum" on his son.

I'm not joking
And I have seen boys who became chronic fighters because their mothers gave them sissy names, like Evelyn, Faye and Nancy! Imagine!

With our 5 Crane children, we started off the firstborn with George Washington Crane IV, since that had been continued in a direct line for 100 years.

Then we shifted to solid Bible names for the rest, as Philip, Judith, Daniel and David.

Philip named his large brood, in order, Catherine, Susanna, Jennifer, Rebekah, George, Rachel and Sarah.

Judy named her four Methew, Peter, Deborah and James.

As middle names for our last three boys, we inserted the maiden names of their mother and two grandmothers which helps in genealogy research.

So they are Philip Miller Crane, Daniel Bever Crane and David Goodrich Crane.

Our eldest son was a Marine jet pilot who died in a plane crash, but his name was not subject to nicknaming, though the family did refer to him as G-4.

He was rather artistic and made a number of drawings that were used in my newspaper Quiz Column, with that insignia to identify the artist.

Alas, nicknames can sometimes spoil an otherwise attractive first name, but our boys were lucky in Phil, Dan and Dave.

Sometimes boys who are saddled with sissy nicknames then relish sandlot nicknames like Butch or Spike or Slim or even Peewee and Fatso.

So it is psychologically wise to christen your child with the name of some laudable figure in history or the Bible.

For this often encourages the child to emulate the lofty deeds of his earlier namesake.

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb

Exercise, but Cautiously

Dear Dr. Lamb — I signed up for a weight-loss class, not knowing it was going to be a two-hour course. The very first night, everyone did one hour of exercise, rested 15 minutes, did 40 more minutes of more strenuous exercise, and then had a five-minute unwinding period. No one inquired about our age or physical condition. It seems to me this is a very taxing and possibly dangerous program. I realize they expect adults to use their own good judgment but when you're there it's human nature to try to keep up with the rest and the thought of into overdoing. More and more losing weight can seduce one of these classes are being offered in the communities. What is your opinion about this? Is it safe?

Dear Reader — My opinion is that no one should begin an exercise program of the type you described in any of the various so-called health spas or health club facilities without a physical examination and an O.K. by his doctor. Some young people often have heart defects which should suggest caution about exercise. This is why high school students usually have to get a letter or an examination from the family physician for normal high school athletic events.

An exercise program (particularly in adults, and if they happen to be middle-aged adults, it is even more important) should start at a relatively low level and gradually build up. Peak exertion even for individuals in reasonably good condition can be dangerous in the older age group.

I cannot condemn too strongly the indiscriminate use of exercise by nonmedical people and particularly for a population in which heart and vascular disease is so common. I am a great believer in the proper use of exercise, but what you have described and what so many of these so-called health clubs offer is not proper exercise. It is dangerous exercise.

Dear Dr. Lamb — What are your comments on the Pill? Does it promote more and better sexual activity or does it just upset normal body health at the expense of not becoming pregnant? It would also be a great benefit if the Pill would cure V.D. besides preventing P.G.

Dear Reader — The Pill has probably relieved a lot of anxiety, at least until more concern arose about its effect on people's health. I don't believe that I can enlarge much on the present warning statements marketed with the Pill.

I can't disagree with your idea that it would be nice if the Pill cured V.D. After all, gonorrhea is now the second most common infectious disease we have, being outranked only by the common cold.

Perhaps one day a vaccine will be developed that will eliminate all these problems. It is too bad venereal disease is

Plan To Divert AEM Funds To Commissary Killed

Robert Allen

WASHINGTON — Acting on some blunt congressional advice, the Pentagon has abandoned its plan to divert hard-won funds from the Safeguard anti-ballistic missile into the Army's scandal-scattered commissary system.

The plan was quietly proposed by the Army early this spring. Involved was a reprogramming of $42 million in money appropriated last year for research and development on the controversial Safeguard AEM. In such reprogrammings, the Pentagon can shift approved funds from one object to another by notifying the cognizant congressional committees.

In this instance, the Army wanted to put together $150 million from such diversions to provide additional financing this year for the Army maintenance and operations account. One of the projects in that category was extending the hours at Army commissary stores.

The proposed shift of funds from Safeguard into the pot which would, among other things, assist the commissaries, was particularly unfortunate. Safeguard funds have been under attack in the Senate and House for a couple of years, and some congressional leaders have been bloodied in the battles to defend them. Irregularities in the commissary system have been under scrutiny by congressional investigators.

It should, therefore, have come as no surprise to Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird when the proposed Safeguard reprogramming came under fire in the Senate and House. The Army is trying to find other funds which can be reprogrammed into the $150 million pot.

STENNIS UNHAPPY—Laird was personally advised of the congressional reaction to the reprogramming in a confrontation with Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee. Stennis, who has fought many battles for the Pentagon, made it clear that he was not ready to defend the Safeguard diversion.

Stennis told Laird that the Pentagon had gone too far with the reprogramming concept. He recalled the five or six weeks of Senate debate on Safeguard last year and said it looks bad for the Pentagon to be saying now that some of the Safeguard funds are not needed.

The Pentagon, said Stennis, is using the reprogramming in proposed shifts of funds from one project to another.

Laird agreed that reprogrammings are something of a problem. In the case of Safeguard, he said, funds will be available because almost half the budget year was already gone last fall when Congress finally gave the spending go-ahead.

To the usually courtly Stennis, the proposal still did not make good sense.

How, he asked, could lawmakers explain on the floor of the Senate, that Safeguard funds were being diverted, especially in view of all the adverse publicity about operations of the commissaries? Laird said he got the message.

SKIRT FULBRIGHT—In the same discussion with Stennis, Secretary Laird strongly urged that military assistance funds for nations of Southeast Asia not be separated from the rest of the defense budget and handled by other committees.

No names were mentioned, but the meaning of the secretary's comments was clear. He did not want those military support funds to come under the jurisdiction of Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., and his Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Since 1967, military aid for Southeast Asia has been authorized as a part of the defense budget under legislation cleared through the Armed Services Committee. Last year, however, Stennis said he wished the defense authorization was not cluttered up with matters of that sort.

If Stennis and his committee should fail to provide for the support programs vital in Southeast Asia, they would come under the annual foreign aid bill which is handled by Fulbright and his strongly anti-military foreign relations committee.

So Laird told Stennis, without elaboration, that any change in committees would be a great mistake.

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

U. S. Dollars A Narcotic

By PAUL HARVEY
The recent and continuing dollar crisis demonstrates that foreigners, even as home folks, get addicted to American dollars.

Even as with heroin, Americans on welfare can't get enough and won't do without.

Europeans hate the Yankee dollars which have supported their habit, but they can't break their habit. Let's help them.

Uncle Sam's bank account is overdrawn. He has been printing and disbursing more dollars than he has gold "in the bank."

So foreign countries are saying our dollars aren't worth so much any more.

Now they are trying to give us less in return for all those Yankee dollars they have accumulated.

Thus has our nation's half-century of generosity boomeranged. Selflessly, we sent dollars to other nations as loans and gratuities. We hurried with dollars to heal the hurts from a typhoon in Pakistan. We invested billions of dollars establishing manufacturing in other countries. We spent billions sending American troops over there to protect those countries and other billions maintaining those troops.

Thus over the years those countries accumulated vast stockpiles of American dollars.

But those dollars don't buy as much either there or here any more. Some places, marks on pounds buy more goods or services than do dollars, so some nations toy with the idea of demanding we "make good" our dollars with gold, though both we and they know we can't.

While international monetary values are re-established at more realistic levels, let us learn from this experience.

As military intervention in the affairs of other nations has become impractical, so has dollar-diplomacy been overdone.

The important reevaluation which would be of most lasting benefit to them and us requires that we revert to a period of enlightened isolationism.

And don't let that word frighten you.

After generations of British monarchs had conducted limited military campaigns along the boundaries of their influence until the British Isles began to sink under a burden of debt, our nation's father, George Washington, tried to warn us against "entangling alliances."

It was the readiness of English kings to spend men and money in ceaseless military campaigns against other kings which haunted the men who drafted our nation's Constitution. In every way they could think of, they sought to place both the sword and the purse beyond the unilateral reach of the Chief Executive.

The Indochinese war is precisely the kind of debilitating conflict which our nation's founders sought to prevent.

It is tragic that we had to spend so much blood and so much treasure to relearn what we might have learned from the misadventure of others.

When Congress seeks to employ its appropriations power to restrict the battlefield deployment of troops, it is properly within the prerogatives which were purposely designed to restrain kingly behavior.

Paradoxically, members of Congress who were arch-interventionists a decade ago are now leading the prudent withdrawal.

not commonly spread by some other means other than through sex. It would certainly relieve a lot of social stigma and cause people who need medical help to seek it earlier without fear.

Who knows, it might even result in stimulating enough effort to develop a vaccine.

Panhandle Water

Clean Water Essential
 Texas voters will be going to the polls May 18. Publicity being given to the liquor-by-the-drink and welfare fuss is obscuring one of the most important decisions facing Texans. All Texans should be aware of Constitutional Amendment No. 4 that will be on the ballot this coming Tuesday, May 18.

Amendment No. 4 is being referred to all over the state as the "Clean Water Amendment." Passage of the Amendment is vital to every citizen in the State of Texas.

The "Clean Water Amendment" allows Texans, particularly cities and towns, to get on with the important task of cleaning up our rivers, streams, lakes, boys, and coastal streams.

A number of people have asked this columnist about Amendment No. 4. They want to know why it is considered so important to the people of the state. Briefly, it would provide state assistance for construction and improvement of sewage treatment plants. This assistance would be in the form of loans to local governments.

A lady asked me what I meant when I used the term local government. I explained it to her by listing Panhandle, White Deer, Claude, Groom, Skellytown, McLean, Miami and Pampa as local governments. This was an explanation she understood. I asked her if she ever wondered where the water from her kitchen sink, washing machine, bath tub, commode and lavatory went. She knew that it had to go to a sewage plant of some sort. I asked her if she knew where the water went to after it went through the sewage plant. She didn't know. There are a lot of other things concerning the use of water that thousands of people — men and women — don't know. They just take everything for granted and assume that the people who run the local government are taking care of whatever needs to be taken care

 Our thanks to Ronnie Rice and Melvin Rainey for supporting our 4-H Clubs by purchasing calendars for each of the 4-H Club members in Gray County for the calendar year of 1972.

Felix Ryals tells me they have received at the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District No. 3, twenty-three applications for well drilling permits for both Carson and Gray County — seven of these wells will be drilled in Gray County. A number of them will be drilled just across the line in Carson County. Seems like every time after a severe drought, we have a rash of new applications for permits to drill wells. This might be one way to get the country developed into irrigation.

J. D. Skaggs, a member of the Panhandle Water Conservation District board and the Farm Home Administration board, tells me the FHA approved just this week a loan for trumatic irrigation sprinkler system. Also, the Farm and Home Administration approved a loan for the development of an irrigation well in the McLean vicinity.

Alfalfa growing in the McLean area has jumped by leaps and bounds since our feedlot development created such a good market for alfalfa.

Bob Keowne, Farm Home Administration supervisor, Clarendon, advises me they have approved only six loans in Gray County under the emergency provisions as provided since our extreme drought conditions set in. We think this speaks highly of the local Production Credit Association and the local banks for the fine job they are doing

4-H Corner

By JANA Cole and RICHARD GUGGISBERG
 Monday starts the Hazardous Occupations Exemption Tractor School. The school will start at 5 p.m. with a safety demonstration by a representative from Farm Bureau, Ben Bullard. This 1st meeting is open to the public and is an excellent demonstration in Farm safety.

The rest of the week will be devoted to maintenance and operation. The last day, Saturday, will be the driving test on a designed course.

The school is for 14-15 year olds and there's no charge.

This past week Gray County 4-H'ers were busy participating in the 4-H Chocolate Sales Campaign. The money from this project will be used both locally and to help build a State 4-H Center. Everyone has been very cooperative, and all 4-H'ers are working hard to sell their quota. As an extra incentive, there are prizes being awarded to top salesmen.

Cindy Youngblood, Lisa Friend, and Doris Carlton attended a district 4-H Council Workshop in Amarillo, May 7-8.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Everyone knows a lobbying group never, never, never acts in its own interest, but supports (or opposes) legislation solely because the bill is (or is not) in the public interest.

Thus did the recent testimony of Robert H. Jost, an official of the American Trial Lawyers Association, smack-of-heresy.

For he told the Senate Commerce Committee his group opposed enactment of "no fault" auto insurance because lawyers would lose a lot of fees from damage suits.

Nobody believed that, of course. The idea that lawyers might be litigating accident liability cases primarily for the money is ridiculous on the face of it. Everyone knows that seeing justice done is reward enough for a lawyer.

Nevertheless, other ATLA officials felt constrained to rush to Washington and set the record straight. Which they did, assuring the committee they opposed the measure because it was "not in the public interest."

Yes, and let me assure you that this same altruistic spirit prevails in the lobbying by various groups against reforms in the federal income tax.

Take, for example, tax accountants, whose livelihood flows from taxpayers too exasperated or benumbed to prepare their own returns. Seemingly, they might have a materialistic reason for thwarting tax reforms.

Actually, however, they are as unmercenary as lawyers. You practically have to force a fee on them. All of which was explained to me by Sam Fineprint, president of the Fineprint Tax Service and Aluminum Siding Co., who helped me with my return this year.

"Legislation that would simplify the income tax to the point where no accountants are needed definitely is not in the public interest," he said.

Cities Service Gas Co. Files For Rate Increase

OKLAHOMA CITY, — Cities Service Gas Company, a subsidiary of Cities Service Company, has filed with the Federal Power Commission an application for a rate increase of approximately $18 million annually. The application covers wholesale rates for natural gas sold to resale to homes and industries in 493 communities in the company's service area.

The area includes western Missouri, Kansas, and northern Oklahoma, plus a few communities in Nebraska and Texas.

"The increase represents an additional cost of about five cents per thousand cubic feet of gas," company spokesmen said. "This is an average of about a dollar per month for the residential consumer."

The company said that the commission has been requested to make the new rates effective May 23. However, based on past commission practice, the new rates will probably become effective October 23, 1971.

The application, spokesmen said, is necessary because of "substantial increases in the cost of virtually every aspect of the company's pipeline operations." Specifically, the application cites increases in the cost of purchased gas; in-

Hollywood In Review

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Carroll O'Connor plays the part of Archie Bunker, television's favorite bigot on the "All in the Family Show," but deplores Archie's prejudices.

"There's no question about it," O'Connor said. "Archie is a bigot."

"He's not a philosophical bigot. He's an inherent species who learned his prejudices from childhood. Archie is a reflexive figure. I think there's some hope for him but probably not much."

O'Connor is a pleasant, intelligent man born in New York, educated in Ireland who lives in Hollywood, Manhattan and Rome.

In researching the role of Archie Bunker, O'Connor delved into the personalities of friends and acquaintances. As well as drawing on his own experience with the clichés of bigotry, finding what humor there is in the casual slur, the blind animosity, the ignorance of hate.

"I know a lot of Archie's," the actor said. "He's a composite of a half-dozen men I know."

"The producers are liberal with me as far as the script goes. I can throw in my own infections and ideas."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite house action Wednesday, the possibility remains that unless the Senate acts before May 20, the U.S. Postal Service will not be able to pay its 733,000 employees.

The House approved a supplemental appropriation bill that includes $960 million for the post office but it also carried money for the controversial supersonic transport, and the Senate could easily bog down in another filibuster on the SST issue as it did last year.

OUT OF THEIR MINDS — Clifford Simak; takes the reader into a nightmare world where goblins hobnob with Dagwood Bumstead and Don Quixote.

ENEMY IN SIGHT — Alexander Kent; a splendid story of eighteenth-century seamanship and high adventure.

THE BONDED DEAD — M.E. Chaber; called to investigate a securities theft and a murder in Miami Beach. Milo March starts on a trail that leads him to a runsoaked race jockey, a lonely, beautiful blonde and the Syndicate.

New Books On Shelves about gypsy pilgrimage, but the inner plot is much more sinister, and moves from limestone caves to bull rings.

BLUESCHILD BABY — George Cain; a novel of compassionate insight into the human condition, as seen by a black man returning from prison.

ANGLE OF REPOSE — Wallace Stegner; as Lyman Ward, a historian, unfolds the life of his famous grandmother, he discovers dramatic parallels and relevancies to help him save himself.

DOOM'S CARAVAN — Geoffrey Household; a story of counter-espionage set in the Middle East 30 years ago, by a master of adventure-suspense tales.

MAN THEY CALLED MISTAI — DeWitt S. Copp; when Rick Owen was apparently killed in a gunfight, Duane MacDonald reconciled herself to starting a new life — until the dramatic and unexpected climax decided her entire future.

Space Station

A manned structure in permanent orbit around the earth, long discussed by space scientists as a practical possibility, may be rapidly approaching realization. The Soviet launchings of a reportedly huge unmanned craft and a three-man capsule for a subsequent rendezvous were seen as steps in this direction. An orbiting station along with a space shuttle to service it are major American projects to follow the series of moon landings. As envisaged independently by artists in both countries, the projected space stations show strong similarities. The Soviet version, above, consists of tubular segments linked to a central core. The American concept, left, shown docked with the space shuttle, is designed on the same lines.

Television In Review

By RICK DUBROW HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Two series, "Civilisation" and "All in the Family," and one special, "The Andersonville Trial," are the top vote-getters in the sixth annual Critics' Consensus Awards for television achievement during the past year.

The three programs were the only nominees to receive the required two-thirds vote of 15 daily newspaper reviewers. "Civilisation" and "The Andersonville Trial" — both entries on a non-commercial television's coast-to-coast network — received 12 votes each. "All in the Family," seen on CBS-TV, got 11.

The Critics' Consensus is composed of columnists in New York, San Francisco, Chicago, Los Angeles, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, D.C., St. Louis, Miami, Houston, Memphis, Newark, Detroit and San Diego. This writer is a member.

"Civilisation," originally produced for British television traced the history of the Western world through its art. As an example of the steam in which it was held, the competing NBC-TV organization offered a preview special about it, promoting the entire series.

"The Andersonville Trial," the initial production of the new prominent "Hollywood Television Theatre," concerned a commandant charged with mass deaths in his Civil War prison camp, and faced with individual moral responsibility although he took orders from others.

"All in the Family," a midseason comedy entry which immediately created a furor, focuses on a middle-class husband-father who sees the world in terms of his political and social prejudices. Although some observers felt it would quickly fold, it caught on in the ratings of the public and will return to CBS-TV next season.

This series, by the way, has also been cited in the 1971 Saturday Review Television Awards for, in part, "introducing a lusty note of... reality into the antiseptic mores of situation comedy."

The awards of the Critics' Consensus cover the period from mid-May, 1970, to April 25, 1971. There are no categories for nominations. The only criterion is distinguished contribution to the medium. And there are no banquets or trophies because we can't afford them and don't want to listen to more victory speeches anyway. Instead, winners get letters of commendation and are expected to be thrilled to death.

"Hollywood Television Theatre," which recently offered an exceptional production of John Dos Passos' "U.S.A.," earned other Critics' Consensus attention in addition to the award for "The Andersonville Trial." Eight votes went to George C. Scott for his direction of the Civil War tale, and seven ballots commended "Hollywood Television Theatre" as a series.

There were nine votes for the author-narrator of "Civilisation," Kenneth Clark, and for the CBS-TV documentary "The Selling of the Pentagon," with CBS-TV also getting eight ballots for standing by this controversial hour. Seven votes went to NBC-TV's "Migrant," which dealt with itinerant workers, and to the non-commercial network series "The Great American Dream Machine."

The unfortunately canceled "Senator" segments of NBC-TV's "The Bold Ones," which starred Hal Holbrook as an idealistic U.S. Congressman, earned six votes. So did a "Senator" two-part program, "A Continual Road of Muskegety," based on the Kent State tragedy. ABC-TV's "Tony Awards" show, which superbly presented great moments from the American Musical Theatre, also received six votes.

Five ballots, meanwhile, were marked for NBC-TV's production of Arthur Miller's "The Price," starring George C. Scott; and for NBC-TV's "Jane Eyre," in which Scott was also the headline. Five votes were cast, as well, for Peter Ustinov's improvised performance in CBS-TV's "A Conversation with Lord North," in which he answered Eric Severeid's questions as the 18th Century British prime minister who simply did not understand America's rebellion against England's colonialism.

Drugs Become Issue Even In Grade School

By MICHAEL WIDMER United Press International Drug addiction and experimentation on the American youth scene — in recent years centered in colleges, high schools and city slums — has in 1971 become a frightening problem even in grade schools. Addicts now come in very small sizes, aged 12, 13, 14 years and even younger, but not only in the ghettos, but among children of middle and upper income families. The picture varies from community to city to suburb, but a survey by United Press International on drug abuse in colleges and lower grades yields these general conclusions:

May Taper Off A wave of drug experimentation in elementary and high schools has disturbed officials although in 1971 there are indications it may be nearing a plateau.

According to John E. Ingersoll, director of the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, "it appears that among upper college-year students there is a leveling off, if not a decline in drug use, particularly LSD and speed (amphetamines). But there seems to be an increase in high school use. Heroin is in at the suburban and city high schools, but there is not much at college campuses."

There exists a vast market in the illegal use of legal prescription drugs such as barbiturates. Even the legal use of these pharmaceutical drugs has risen in recent years to a level that is considered dangerous.

Pot Wins Friends Marijuana is smoked by more and more persons of all ages and its use has become increasingly accepted by government officials, school authorities, law enforcement people, judges and the young alike.

Alcohol remains the most abused drug in the United States today. The most conservative estimates place the number of alcoholics at six million persons in this country. Not even the widest estimates of drug addicts come close to this figure.

William Geer, principal of South High School in Newton, an affluent suburb of Boston, describes drug abuse as a "universal problem for high schools in Massachusetts, a functional daily problem in terms of a kid's health and with a marked increase in drug-related theft and vandalism."

The Palm Beach (Fla.) Post-Times concluded from a three-month survey of drug use in Palm Beach County: "The illegal drug user in the county is getting younger each year. Five years ago the use of illegal drugs was almost limited to college students or non-students of that age group. Today, there is widespread evidence, including admissions, that it goes down to grade school children."

Kids Start Early Detective Oscar Vance, who handles drug control in suburban Philadelphia (Montgomery County), said, "where kids first tried drugs at 16 or 17 two years ago, they're now trying them at 13 or 14."

A recent survey of 7,000 junior and senior high school students by the Pennsylvania department of health "indicates that 12,000 high school-aged children (in the state) currently are taking drugs and are high users of them. Of these, 39,000 are in the 12th grade and almost 5,000 are in the seventh grade."

Inspector William Palmer, second in command in New York City's 750-man narcotics squad, said, "Our biggest problem right now is mother's medicine cabinet where many drug users get their first experimental taste of the feeling of stimulants or depressants."

"After marijuana, the drug most abused by juveniles is barbiturates," said Hy Rothstein, health and physical education consultant for the Miami school system.

LSD Use Declines Dr. Larry Miller, coordinator of adolescent services at Barnhill County Mental Health Center in Albuquerque, N.M., said "the use of LSD appears to be on the decline but more and more kids are turning to prescription drugs such as addictive barbiturates."

Preliminary results of a survey conducted in 55 secondary schools (grades 7 through 12) in Houston last September indicated 4.39 per cent of the 5,900 students responding to a questionnaire had tried one of the hard drugs — heroin, cocaine, opium or morphine — in the previous half year and 2 per cent in the last seven days.

Based on the number of students responding, almost 2,000 youngsters in the 55 schools had taken a hard drug in the seven days prior to the questionnaire.

"The surprisingly frequent and widespread use of hard drugs was the grimmest finding," said Mrs. Jeff Montgomery, a member of the district committee which conducted the survey. "We're sorry we didn't go below the seventh grade because it was already there."

The Haight-Ashbury Medical Clinic in San Francisco now finds 90 per cent of its patients are heroin cases, with about three-quarters of them white and many from well-to-do families.

Year of the Junkie "In the summer of 1969 we saw two or three heroin withdrawals a week. Now we see up to 60 a day," said Dr. George Gay, clinic director.

"The scene is heroin," he said. "We call 1970 the year of the middle class junkie. Heroin is now in the suburbs — it's no longer safely hidden in the black ghettos."

There is, however, one statistical survey in California's San Mateo County — perhaps the longest continuing, quality study of drug use among the young in the country — which indicates over-all drug experimentation may be leveling even for precollege youngsters. 35,000 students in grades 7 through 12 — reveals a large jump in use of LSD, amphetamines and marijuana between 1968 and 1969 but a peaking and decrease in many cases in 1970.

20 Million Smokers Mrs. Lillian Blackford, San Mateo health and welfare statistician, said she expects that 1971 figures will show most

NO DANGEROUS WEAPON PARIS (UPI) — Police at Orly Airport raised an appreciative eye when a lovely young miss gilded past a metal detection machine en route to her aircraft.

They did a double take when the machine registered positive and hustled the bewildered girl into a room to search for weapons.

She caught her plane, however, when security men found the machine had registered the metal ribs in the lady's corset and not any hidden weapons.

students "using less, accepting some drugs as a fact of life like a social drink. I think kids now can see what a drug like speed can do. In the early glamorous years, kids had never seen anyone before who was spaced out."

Experts estimate some 20 million Americans have probably smoked at least one marijuana cigarette.

Police are tending to overlook simple possession of marijuana, and judges rarely send first offenders to jail.

"We don't believe anymore that a little pot leads to junk (heroin)," said Deputy Police Chief John McCahey of New York City. "I don't think anybody really buys that anymore, and we've got so many more serious problems to worry about."

Usually investor confidence rises with the market according to Sindlinger & Co., but the firm says confidence has dropped while the market rises and adds that this is "a very significant situation." Thus the firm terms the current correction "a good thing" because the market "was going too far ahead of all confidence levels" while investor confidence was waning.

While the market "has not looked bad going down, it also does not look very good going up," E.F. Hutton & Co., believes. The company says a "stalemate or trading range seems to be developing" and feels "it is not unreasonable to say that the breakout from this range will point the direction of the next key-market move
