Philippine Plane Hijacked To China

Major Powers Urged To Outlaw N-Weapons

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union called today for the five major powers—including Communist China—to meet in an effort to outlaw nuclear weapons.

Communist Party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev, in a 50,000-word keynote speech opening the 24th Communist Party Congress in the Kremlin, outlined a program to guide Soviet foreign policy. He named six "basic concrete tasks," including:

—A ban on nuclear, chemical and bacteriological weapons, an end to weapons tests, and conferences of the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain, France and Communist China for complete nuclear disarmament.

—A world conference to consider general and total disarmament, with preliminary agreements to reduce military expenditures.

—Eliminate the hotbeds of war in Southeast Asia and the Middle East by promoting political settlement in those areas "on the basis of respect for the legitimate rights of states and peoples subjected to aggression."

—A move toward collective security in Europe with the "recognition of the territorial changes that occurred in Europe as the result of the Second World War." This would be preceded by the dismantling of the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance and its Communist counterpart, the Warsaw Pact.

—An implementation of all U.N. decisions to end colonialism and a condemnation of all racism.

—An expansion of relations with states which want to help conserve the environment, eradicate disease and help in space exploration.

Speaking in a subdued tone before the 4,963 delegates from all over the Soviet Union and a number of other nations, Brezhnev denounced American policy in Indochina and the Middle East but said "an improvement of Soviet-American relations would be in the interests of both peoples and for a stronger peace."

He said, however, that "in recent years the U.S. administration has taken a more rigid stance on a number of international issues, including those which have a bearing on the interests of the Soviet Union (thus making dealings with the United States much more difficult.)"

Four Americans Reported Aboard Commercial Jet

HONG KONG (UPI)—Five young Filipinos armed with pistols, a carbine and scissors forced a Philippine Air Lines (PAL) jetline to fly to Canton today, the first time a plane has been hijacked to Communist China. At least four Americans were among the passengers.

The twin-jet BAC111, on a domestic flight from Manila to Davao City, had 44 passengers and five crewmen aboard when hijacked. It first flew to Hong Kong for refueling and 20 of the passengers were released there before it made the short flight to Canton 90 miles away. The plane was expected to continue to Peking, the capital of Communist China 1,500 miles northwest of Canton.

The U.S. Embassy in Manila identified four Americans as passengers, and said it did not appear they were released in Hong Kong. They were Mr. and Mrs. Russel E. Ebersole of Jersey City, N.J., George W. Drysdale of Waukegan, Ill., and Eldred Fewkes of Burley, Idaho.

One of the passengers released here, Carlos G. Platon, 30, a Filipino attorney, said he talked with one hijacker, "a 17-year-old Filipino who looked like a university student."

Platon said "I asked him why they wanted to go to China. He said it was for ideological reasons. They were armed with two .22 pistols, another gun, a pair of scissors and a carbine."

"Oh boy, the passengers were scared," Platon said.

He said four of the hijackers were Filipinos while the other appeared to be Filipino-Chinese. He said they were between the ages of 17 and 25 and belonged to "some young radical group, some rebel group" in the Philippines.

A Hong Kong Airport official, J. F. Pickering, talked with the hijackers, who at first agreed to release all the passengers before taking off for China but later decided to hold some of them as hostages. The airport radioed Canton's White Cloud Airport for clearance and weather conditions, but the PAL plane took over before the clearance arrived.

The passengers who were released were forced to sit under the wings of the plane until it started moving for the runway to take off.

The PAL hijacking was the first to Communist China. An earlier attempt to take a plane to China was attempted on another PAL plane in 1962 but the DC3 was forced down on the Nationalist Chinese island of Quemoy.

There have been several Asian hijackings in which the planes were taken to Communist North Korea.

Calley's Defense May Ask Jury To Reconsider, Change Verdict

By H.D. QUIGG
FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—Lt. William L. Calley Jr., prisoner No. 179, arose before dawn in the army stockade routine today and prepared for an afternoon in court listening to arguments why a jury of battle veterans should spare his life.

Three years and 13 days after he led an American infantry platoon into My Lai, the stubby, 5-foot-3 first lieutenant was convicted by that jury Monday of the premeditated murder of at least 22 screaming and pleading Vietnamese women, children and old men.

The verdict was what the government has asked the six-officer jury to return for the "summary execution in cold blood" of unresisting civilians in the hamlet where the Americans had expected to meet a bitter enemy, the 48th Viet Cong battalion.

The prosecutor, Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel III, had asked the jury—five combat veterans of Vietnam and one of World War II and Korea—to be "the conscience of the United States Army, the conscience of this country" in a finding of premeditated murder.

At 4:33 p.m. on the 14th deliberation day they delivered. Under the uniform code of military justice, the verdict makes a sentence of life imprisonment or death mandatory, and the same jury that convicted must deliberate again on a sentence. But another section of the code says a three-fourth vote—five jurors in this case—is necessary for life imprisonment, and a unanimity of six for death.

The apparent conflict of making the life sentence mandatory, if death is not voted, and then requiring it be voted by five was scheduled as the subject for heated morning session argument with the jury absent. The defense contends a vote of less than five would be a hung jury and that another panel would be required for sentencing.

The jury returns for the afternoon session of "mitigation and extenuation" argument by the defense on the possible sentences. George W. Latimer, 70, said he probably would urge the jurors to reconsider—as is their privilege—and change the verdict downward so a lesser sentence could be brought. He will not call witnesses.

Santa Fe Railway Announces End Of Passenger Train Service Here

By ALETHA DAVIS
Santa Fe Railway officials posted a bulletin in the Pampa Depot at noon yesterday announcing an end to the era of passenger train service in Pampa. A service area residents have used since 1905.

The conclusion of the two passenger trains per day service by the San Francisco Chief No. 1, westbound and the No. 2, eastbound.

The trains will leave Chicago and San Francisco on final runs April 30 as a result of the Railpax bill passed by Congress in October, 1970 and signed into law by President Nixon. The National Passenger Corp. was set up to preserve a skeleton of rail network between 21 pairs of major American travel centers.

The new deal eliminates Pampa, Amarillo, and other

Panhandle cities from use of passenger service.

Area residents will now have to travel to Dodge City, Kans., in order to board a train to Chicago and points east or to West.

The new route travels north from Albuquerque to Trinidad, Raton and into Kansas.

T. C. Naron, agent for the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Co. in Pampa, stated yesterday that he knew nothing of company plans other than the posted notice announcing passenger service elimination here.

He stated that up to 35 freight trains passed through Pampa in any 24 hour period, depending on shipping requirements.

He would make no comment or speculation on the effect the Railpax plan would make concerning personnel changes here, pending notification from Santa Fe.

"All I know is on that posted notice which is there for anybody to read," he commented.

Amarillo passenger service will be stopped, effective the same date, according to notice received at the local depot there.

Pampa To Join TML Fight On Labor Bill

Pampa will join other Texas cities in an effort to defeat a bill pending in the House of Representatives at Austin described as "the single most detrimental piece of legislation which affects cities."

City Manager Mack Wofford and City Attorney Bob Gordon will fly to Austin for a hearing at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday on H.B. 547 which, among other things, requires (1) that cities and other governmental units, including the State, bargain collectively with their employees, (2) establish compulsory bargaining procedures, and (3) create a Public Relations Labor Board as an agency of state government.

The city manager said at noon today Mayor Milo Carlson also will attend the Austin hearing tomorrow night.

The hearing will be before the House State Affairs Committee and will be conducted on the House floor.

The Texas Municipal League

is fighting the proposed bill "tooth and nail."

City Manager Wofford received a special delivery letter this morning from Richard D. Brown, TML executive director, asking Pampa to send representatives to tomorrow night's meeting.

Brown said in his letter to Wofford:

"In other states which have enacted similar schemes, virtual chaos in the public sector almost invariably has been the result. The best interests of the public most surely would not be served by H.B. 547."

"Moreover, there is a very serious question as to whether the best interests of public employees themselves would be preserved under this proposed bill."

The TML executive director urged city officials to telegraph House Speaker Gus Mutscher and James Sluder, chairman of the State Affairs Committee and "express your adamant opposition."

Police Chief Announces Appointments

Chief of Police J.B. Conner today announced the appointment of another patrolman effective April 1, and the appointment of Patrolman J.J. Ryzman, a member of the department for 11 months, as detective.

James Daniel Laramore, 24, native Pampa and graduate of Pampa High School, will assume duties as patrolman, bringing the sworn personnel number to 20, according to Chief Conner who added that the provision for an extra patrolman was made in the approved 1971 budget by the City Commission.

Laramore and his wife reside at 603 E. Foster. He is a veteran of the U.S. Army where he served as an M.P., according to Conner.

J.J. Ryzman has been a member of the department for 11 months, coming to Pampa from Farmington, N.M. where he was a member of the police department. Other experience includes association as a county deputy in Colorado.

Dallas Dist. Atty. Asks Solons To Postpone Penal Code Action

By TEX DEWESE
Strong opposition to adoption of a totally redrafted Texas Penal Code, now before the State Legislature, was urged by Dallas County Dist. Atty. Henry Wade yesterday as he addressed a near-capacity audience at the March membership luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce in Colorado Inn Starlight Room.

Wade charged that many proposed changes in the penal code are detrimental to effective law enforcement and asked all interested Texans to write their state representatives and senators and let their opposition be known.

The man known as "Mr. District Attorney in Texas" then outlined a number of his reasons for calling on the Texas Legislature to postpone for at least two years any action on the proposal to allow time for all interested parties to make an in-depth study.

"Instead of immediate action by the legislature," Wade said, "I would ask that the bill not be acted upon until the next session of the legislature which convenes in January of 1973."

Wade charged that enactment of the bill would result in severe reduction in the length of criminal sentences and cited these examples:

Under the proposed code, the authorized minimum punishment for murder with malice, aggravated rape, aggravated robbery, sale of heroin, etc., would be a fine of $1.

Penalty for some types of rape by force would be reduced from a death sentence to 12 years.

Penalty for robbery by force would be reduced from life to 12 years.

Penalty for sale of heroin first offense would be reduced from life to 12 years.

Under the proposed code, theft of property under $50 would be handled in Corporation

Court (Traffic Court), and the maximum penalty for such offense would be a fine of $200. This provision would make theft under $50 a profitable proposition."

Wade said livestock and other owners of animals should be concerned to note that the proposed penal code abolishes present penal statutes concerning animal thefts and includes such offenses under a general theft statute which severely reduces all penalties for theft.

The district attorney also charged that the proposed code would permit the possibility of much earlier parole than is now available.

"For example," he said, "it would be possible for a criminal to serve a 30-year sentence in as little as one year."

Wade went on to say:

"The proposed code contains criminal defenses which are not presently available. These defenses would create additional jury trials and make it more difficult to obtain convictions."

He charged that the proposed code reduces to statute form permissive policies toward hardened criminals.

"These policies, if adopted, would force the emptying of our Texas Department of Corrections and turn the State of Texas into an unlicensed penitentiary," he stated.

In conclusions the Dallas district attorney said:

"These same policies have been in vogue in California during the past four years and the penitentiary population there has steadily decreased, while California's per capita crime rate has soared to become the highest in the nation."

"Texas does not need such a distinction."

U.S. Jets Attack Enemy Positions

SAIGON (UPI)—American fighter-bombers today attacked a North Vietnamese artillery position inside the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) within firing range of the South Vietnamese command base at Dong Ha.

The U.S. command also reported Communist troops carried out ground attacks against four American units and eight shelling and shot down three U.S. helicopters Monday and today.

Two GIs were killed and 30 wounded in the ground attacks and three Americans died and five were wounded in the helicopter crashes. Casualties from the shelling were termed light.

Four Youths In Gray County Jail On Charges Of Possessing Drugs

Four youths, three from Canyon and one listing a Hereford address, were in Gray County Jail today on charges of possessing dangerous drugs and narcotics.

A tip to police yesterday resulted in the arrest of the group.

The four were arraigned after police found six "bids" of suspected marijuana (about one ounce each) in plastic bags, and nine "bids" of suspected LSD in the console between the seats of the car in which they were passengers.

Placed under arrest were Clarence Decker Parkhill, 19,

Canyon; Michael Ray Robbins, 17, Canyon; John Richard Winningham, 18, Canyon; and Richard Neil Hartline, 17, Hereford.

Arresting officers were Assistant Chief George Wallace, patrolmen J. J. Ryman, John O'Dell and Bryan Stafford.

The suspects were arraigned shortly before noon yesterday before Justice of the Peace E.L. "Ed" Anderson who set bond at $6000 each on a felony charge of possession of marijuana; and $2500 bond each on a charge of possession of LSD, a misdemeanor.

Charges were filed in County Court this morning.

Manson, 3 Followers Sentenced To Death On 27 Murder Counts

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A jury which believed it was protecting society from a dangerous influence Monday decreed death for Charles Manson and his women, who were dragged shrieking from the courtroom before the verdicts were read.

None of the four ever expressed any remorse for two nights of death and carnage in August, 1969, when pregnant actress Sharon Tate and six other persons were knifed and shot and their blood used to smear the words "death to pigs" on the walls.

It took the seven men and five women on the jury 10 days to reach a verdict on the guilt of Manson, Susan Atkins, Patricia Krenwinkel and Leslie Van Houten, but only 10 hours to sentence them to death on all 27 counts of murder and conspiracy.

"We made our decision early," juror Marie Mesmer, a retired drama critic, told newsmen, "but we argued all the points so everyone would have a say-so."

Jurors Grim-Faced "Charles Manson is a dangerous influence on society," she said. "I think I can go home with peace of mind now, knowing I have protected society."

The defendants, whose outbursts during the trial which lasted nine and a half months, cost nearly $1 million, and often caused them to be removed from the courtroom, came into court giggling and smirking.

Manson had shaved his head and the girls had shorn their waist length tresses into close-cropped pixie cuts.

As the grim-faced jurors took their seats, Manson called out truculently, "I don't see how you can get away with not letting me put on a defense."

Defendants Shout
"You have no authority over me," he told the jurors.

"Half of you aren't as good as I am."

He was led out by bailiffs before even hearing the verdicts.

As death was decreed for the cult leader, the young women all began shouting.

"You've judged yourselves," Miss Atkins cried, lunging toward the jury box. She was restrained and led out.

Miss Krenwinkel echoed: "You're removing yourselves from the face of the earth. You're all fools. There never has been any justice in this courtroom."

"Your system is just a game in which you all make money," Miss Van Houten shouted.

It took Court Clerk Gene Darrow more than 20 minutes to read the verdicts. The names of the victims were never mentioned.

Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older told the jury if it were in his power he would award them a medal for serving on the jury, which was sequestered longer than any other panel in history.

He stepped from the bench and shook hands with each juror, calling them by name.

Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi said he believed the mainly middle-aged jury was "shocked and outraged at the savagery which came in the dead of night."

The mutilated bodies of the honey blonde actress, hair stylist Jay Sebring, coffee heiress Abigail Folger, Polish playboy Voltyck Frykowski and teen-ager Stephen Parent were strewn about the grounds of the Tate estate, all shot and knifed to death.

Grocer Leno LaBianca and his brunette wife, Rosemary, were killed the following night in their home some 20 miles away.

Star prosecution witness Linda Kasabian, who was given immunity for her testimony, said Manson ordered the slaughters to ignite a race war from which he believed his own clan would rise as leaders.

A fifth defendant, Charles "Tex" Watson, was not tried with the others because he successfully fought extradition to California until long after the trial began. After his arrival here, he was committed for a time to a state mental hospital.

He was discharged last month and is awaiting trial. Many of the same 85 witnesses the state called against Manson will have to be recalled to testify against Watson, who allegedly physically killed at least two of the victims.

FOUR JAILED ON DRUG CHARGES — Four youths, three from Canyon, and one from Hereford, arrested by Pampa Police yesterday morning, were jailed following arraignment on charges of possession of dangerous drugs and narcotics. The youths, ranging from 17 to 19 years of age, were apprehended by police yesterday morning on E. Francis. (See related story on Page 1) (Staff Photo)

Band Competes In UIL Events

Pampa High School Harvester Band will compete today in the sight reading contests of University Interscholastic League in the Amarillo Civic Center and will perform three concert numbers.

Concert selections are "The Patriots," "English Dances," and "Theme and Fantasia," which will be directed by Harris Brinson, PHS band director.

Since the band received a Division II rating in UIL marching contest last Fall, they are not eligible for a sweepstakes award, which is a Division I in concert, sight reading and marching.

The Concert Choir's UIL rating March 18 was a Division I in concert and Division II in sight reading. The Girls' Choir received a Division II in concert and Division III in sight reading. Boys' Choir rating in concert was Division I and in sight reading, a Division II.

TAKING LIBERTIES WITH MAE WEST is the apt title of this whimsical sculpture getting a critical once-over from cleaning women prior to the opening of an exhibition in London.

Five Texans Saved After Ship Sinks

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (UPI) — Five South Texans are among 11 crewmen who survived Sunday when the giant American tanker Texaco Oklahoma sank without warning with her crew of 42 near Cape Hatteras, N.C. The Liberian tanker, "Sasstown" rescued the 11 from a red life raft and took them to New York City after the tanker broke up in gale-forced winds and sank within minutes. The Texans are identified by a Texaco spokesman as Wayne E. Conner, Willie Jacquet, Antonio Perello and Estes Toson, all of Port Arthur, and Roy R. Johnson of Beaumont. A complete list of the missing crewmen was not immediately released. The survivors said the 34,994-ton vessel, the largest in the Texaco fleet, simply broke in two and went down in churning seas up to 15 feet. They said the ship sank so quickly no other life rafts were put out. Coastguard helicopters were continuing the search today but no debris or other survivors were sighted. A huge oil slick marked the area, which is often referred to as "the graveyard of ships."

Tribunals Asked To Reconsider Decisions On Vagrancy Statues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Monday ordered federal tribunals in North Carolina, Texas and Florida to reconsider decisions that state vagrancy statutes are unconstitutional. The brief order cited a decision handed down earlier this term that after state criminal proceedings have begun, federal courts should interfere only in unusual circumstances. In the North Carolina case, a special three-judge federal court in Charlotte had ordered police to destroy files on "hippies" they arrested in 1968 under the vagrancy statute. The cases were dropped but the 18 youths argued that prosecutions could be revived at any time and police "harassment" had driven them from a home they had leased. The Texas law says "vagrants" include people "known as tramps," people leading a livelihood, "every common gambler," "every common prostitute," people without a sign of support and even those "who advertise and maintain themselves... as clairvoyants or foretellers of future events." A special three judge federal panel held unconstitutional the parts referring to common gamblers, common prostitutes, "companies of gypsies," people who beg or hire out children, foretellers of events and those who associate habitually with prostitutes and habitual loiterers.

Antonio Perello Jr., son of one of the survivors, Antonio Perello of Port Arthur, said he was "thankful and happy" to hear his father was all right. "It's just great he is one of the survivors. But we did know a lot of the men on the ship and we feel kind of bad because some of them had been guests in our house just before the departure." The ship was en route from Port Arthur to Boston with 230,000 barrels of oil. Apple and Gravity It was during the year 1906 that the philosopher, Sir Isaac Newton, while sitting beneath an apple tree in his mother's orchard in England, conceived the idea of gravitation from seeing an apple fall from the tree. Noted Tobacco Usage On Nov. 15, 1492, Christopher Columbus noted in his journal the use of tobacco among the Indians of the New World. This is the earliest reference to the use of tobacco.

Questions About Social Security

(Have you a question about social security? Address it to: Howard L. Weatherly, Branch Manager, Social Security Administration, 400 West Kingsmill, Pampa, Texas 79065. You will receive an answer in this column by mail.)

By HOWARD L. WEATHERLY
Q—I injured my back several weeks ago. My doctor advises me I will be out of work for six or seven weeks. Should I file for disability?
A—No. By definition, your disability must be expected to last at least a year or result in death. However, if you should find later that your injury will be of longer duration, you should contact your social security representative.

Q—I am receiving disability benefits and my nine-year-old daughter is receiving benefits on my record. Is she eligible for a larger benefit as a disabled child?
A—No. She can continue to receive benefits, however, regardless of her age, as long as she is disabled.

Q—The Veteran's Administration determined I am 50 per cent disabled. Is this sufficient to establish disability for social security benefits?
A—Not necessarily. Social security disability is not based on a percentage. Also, since different laws are involved, a separate determination would have to be made by the Social Security Administration.

Q—Can a disabled wife draw benefits on her husband's record if she is under age 62 and has no children in her care?
A—At present there is no provision for payment of social security benefits to a disabled wife.

Business Eyes Growing Senior Citizen Trend In Market Support

By DEAN C. MILLER UPI Business Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—The men with computer minds and keen eyes for sales figures in the corporate ledger are starting to pay more attention to oldsters.

While it's true that nearly half of the country's population is now under 25, and the youth trend is growing, it also is true that some 20 million Americans aged 65 and older spend at least $40 billion annually. Because of earlier retirement, more liberal health benefits and medical breakthroughs, their numbers also are growing.

Senior citizens now account for about 10 per cent of the national population, 7.5 per cent more than a century ago. More and more companies are starting to cater to the oldsters. The Colonial Penn Group, Inc. specializes in servicing the insurance, travel and temporary employment needs of people aged 55 and up. Two Ex-Officials Serving Five-Year Prison Sentences

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Two former Washington aides walked into the U.S. marshal's office Monday and surrendered themselves half an hour before noon to begin serving five-year prison sentences for promising government loans for a price.

Albert Fuentes Jr., 40, and Edward J. Montez, 41, were convicted in December, 1969 of conspiring to take 49 per cent of a San Antonio ornamental ironworks in exchange for a $100,000 Small Business Administration loan.

Their appeal was recently rejected by the U.S. Supreme Court and U.S. District Judge Adrian A. Spears of San Antonio set noon Monday as the time by which they were to surrender.

Fuentes and Montez were indicted mainly on the basis of a congressional investigation headed by Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex. At that time Fuentes was special assistant to SBA administrator Hillary Sandoval and Montez was a former Gonzalez aide. Montez was critical of Gonzalez Monday.

"When you sacrifice your family for a man and then he forgets all those people that helped him when he was in need of help, that is very bad," Montez said.

"Henry B. Gonzalez will live with this on his conscience 'til the day he dies," said Ruben Montemayor, Montez' attorney.

The investigation of the two men was triggered by a complaint of the ironworks owner, Emanuel Salaz, to Gonzalez. The representative then held a number of hearings to gather information concerning Fuentes and Montez.

Spears heard their case in 1969. At that time both men were given two five-year sentences each to run concurrently.

The 5th Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the guilty verdict and the case was appealed to the Supreme Court.

Phillips Named General Manager Of Ideal Stores

Thomas McMaster, chairman of the board, Allied Supermarkets, Inc., today announced that John Williams, vice president and Kansas division manager, has been temporarily assigned to Allied headquarters on a special project reporting directly to Revonol Duryea, president. Williams will head a store operations task force within the Michigan division.

Named as Kansas division general manager, replacing Williams, is Steve Phillips, presently division operations manager.

Phillips started with Allied Supermarkets in June 1949 as a stock clerk in the Oklahoma division, rising through the ranks to store manager. He served in this capacity in numerous Oklahoma locations, transferred in December 1958 to the Wrigley Division in Dallas, where he was subsequently elevated to administrative assistant to the division manager. He was transferred to Liberal in August of 1962 where he assumed the responsibilities of Personnel Manager, which he carried until his appointment as division operations manager in 1965.

"True, it's almost as hard to buy an individual malpractice insurance policy today as to find a colony of whooping cranes," Tucker said. "Dozens of companies have quit the business because they couldn't break even in it in spite of rate boosts of 50 to 400 per cent."

"These group plans are really 'risk control' agencies," Tucker told United Press International. "It takes months to set one up so that it can have the machinery to screen the risks and make the operation sound and profitable."

The plans control risks in two ways. First, doctors and lawyers are screened by their own professional societies to determine if they are proper risks and restrictive rules are laid down. For example, doctor and an internist, is told firmly he cannot suddenly branch into specialty for which he hasn't proper training and still get malpractice insurance. Lawyers also are screened and given certain rules to observe.

Second, the group screens all malpractice claims filed against members, deciding which claims should be settled out of court and which should be firmly resisted by the society, the insurance company and the doctor or lawyer involved.

Operating with the slogan, "complete Stock Auto Parts," Dixie has in the store such items as mufflers and tailpipes; starters; generators; shock absorbers, fuel pumps; brake shoes and starters.

All automobile accessories are available.

Professional and backyard mechanics are reminded that for the best in replacement parts on any model of any make automobile, give Dixie a call! If they don't have the part or accessory in stock, they will be happy to make quick and special orders.

Years of successful business in Pampa testify to the quality of merchandise and service offered by Dixie Auto Parts and Supply. The friendly people at Dixie's specialize in pleasing their customers. Call or go by 217 S. Cuyler or 1421 N. Hobart.

DIXIE AUTO PARTS — Ed Henley, manager of Dixie Auto Parts, invites everyone with motor troubles to stop by either store location for new parts to remedy the problem. If the part isn't in stock, he says, it's only as far away as the phone. Special orders are everyday service at Dixie. (Staff Photo)

New Computer Makers Boast Machine Can Think Like Man

By LeROY POPE UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—Can the electronic computer be made to think after all?

When the first computers were built more than 20 years ago they were popularly called "electronic brains," but the scientists soon warned that computers are only super calculating machines. They certainly can't think.

But now a firm in Colorado Springs called Casyndeckan says it has developed a computer information system that is "the first automated extension of the human thinking process."

If you want to be technical, that isn't an actual promise to make a big box of electronic gadgets think like the human brain. However, Casyndeckan's founders, Charles Bowling and Prof. James Russell of the U.S. Naval Academy, promise a result about equal to that.

They call their new information system Zeus-Athena after the Greek father of the gods and the goddess of wisdom. They say it enables computers for the first time to process data conceptually as the human mind does, which comes very close to thinking.

They also claim Zeus-Athena can retrieve data conceptually — selecting related data and weeding out the irrelevant as a human researcher would, something no computer has done up to now.

Bowling and Russell say the key to Zeus-Athena is their Universal Set Theory by which information is not classified according to its own field but to many fields. They spent 18 years working out the system. They claim Zeus-Athena can go far beyond other methods of computer problem solving for business, science (including medicine), government and education.

Another company seeking to make "thought" part of the computer is Datran of Vienna, Va. Datran says computer simulation now has been refined so that it can reach logical conclusions about the future. Datran primarily is interested in getting government permission to build a data communications network using microwave, laser and cable techniques to enable computers to talk to each other without telephone channels. Edward Berg, Datran vice president, thinks predicting the future, which requires the computer to exercise advanced logic, will be a big part of the market.

The "cookie pushers" are out and more than half of the 30,000 boxes of cookies have been sold. If anyone has not been contacted and would like some cookies, please call the Girl Scout office, 669-6862, and the cookies will be delivered. The progress of the cookie sale is being charted on the "cookie thermometers" at the First National Bank and the Citizens Bank.

Before the cookie sale several Senior Girl Scouts who distribute complimentary samples at both banks in Pampa were: Cathy Collinsworth, Marilyn Miller, Carol New, Mary Beth Karr, Lou Ann Fulcher, and Annette DiCosimo. The newly acquired camp near Clarendon has a new name. Continuing with the theme of Coronado and his search for the seven cities of gold, the Camp Development Committee has selected the temporary name of Camp Cibola. Unit sites, the lodge-dining hall and other camp buildings will have names related to Coronado's explorations in this area.

More than 500 fathers and daughters attended the Highland Neighborhood Juliette Low Event at St. Vincent de Paul Gymnasium on March 19. Master of ceremonies was Mrs. Jack Ormand Miller. The flag was presented by Junior Troop 75. Following the flag ceremony, Junior Troop 71, under the direction of Mrs. Carl Lawyer, sang "America." After a singing invocation by Mrs. Charles Walsh and Senior Troop 2, skits were presented by Brownie Troops 16 and 44. Troop 16, under the leadership of Mrs. Wade Gilbert sang four songs, each in a different foreign language. Mrs. Earl Crouch's Brownies sang "Frere Jacques" in French while sitting around a mock campfire. Special award certificates were presented to the husbands of leaders, assistants, and committee members by Mrs. Richard Stowers.

A slide presentation on camp was given by Mrs. Phil Tate. Miss Celia Fowler, council executive director, presented Mrs. Tate with a gift in appreciation of her services to the council as a member of the speakers' bureau.

Anyone desiring to do volunteer writing, drawing, or speaking, please contact the chairman of the Public Relations Committee, Mrs. Carl Brugger.

Brownie Troops should begin making plans to attend the District II and III Brownie Revel to be held at Camp Mel Davis May 8. The outdoor day will be sponsored by Senior Troop 2, Pampa. The registration form will be included in the April issue of the Council bulletin, "Coronado Trails."

In individual troop news, Brownie Troop No. 7, Mrs. E. W. Holland, leader, made tray favors for the Eastridge Convalescent Home. Brownie Troop 83 made Hawaiian leis which they wore to the Father-Daughter Banquet. Mrs. Waffer Hill is the leader. Mrs. Donald Gandy took the girls in her Brownie Troop 89 on a "penny hike." In this activity, a coin is flipped to determine the direction to go. On the hike the girls gathered sand for their egg shell gardens.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our son, 23, spent two years in Vietnam and came home in '68 with lots of medals. He has been a wonderful son in every way and has never given us any trouble.

He met a sweet girl a year later and they were married. The marriage lasted seven months, and a divorce was agreed upon. Now he has met another girl (also very nice) whom he wants to marry as soon as his divorce is final, but he doesn't want to tell her he has been married before. I told my son that this is no way to start a marriage, and somewhere along the line she'll find out and be hurt. My son claims if he tells her, she won't want him.

He wasn't raised that way, Abby. I think this girl should know the truth, but if I tell her I may lose my son. What steps shall I take?

—WHERE TO TURN

DEAR WHERE: Start by trying to convince your son that he must tell his fiancée the truth, and if she won't have him because of his previous marriage, he's ahead to know it now. The very basis for lasting marriage is the willingness of both parties to accept the other as he is! If your son is not mature enough to realize this and refuses to listen, he stands to be a two-time loser in short order.

DEAR ABBY: I just read your Confidential to M.C.: "You were right. I was wrong. Next time a long-haired hippie-type approaches me for a handout, I'll not refuse. I'll give him a dime on the chance that he wants to call his mother—collect."

Abby, I don't know what M.C. wrote, but please don't back down. I'm sure you must have cheered every working person in San Francisco with your first suggested reply to panhandlers, ("Nothing doing, Buddy. Earn your own bread").

I work in downtown San Francisco, and it is impossible to go out for lunch without being approached two or three times for a handout. I don't object to blind people asking for donations, or even the street musicians who at least are giving something in return for the money they get, but I resent able-bodied young men and women who approach everyone wearing clean clothes, and ask for a handout.

Californians are paying such a staggering amount for welfare, anyway, this is the last straw.

—"WORKING STIFF"

NEW OFFICIAL — Mrs. Gene Hinds, left, incoming area vice president of Joyce-Ettes, visits with the outgoing area vice president, Mrs. Roddy Haley of Perryton during a Sit-In' Hen Dinner hosted by Perryton Joyce-Ettes. Ten Pampa Joyce-Ettes attended the program with Mrs. Hinds presiding as regional coordinator. She will be installed at the state meeting.

Pampa Women Plan Project For Girlstown

Anyone planning to contribute handmade gift items, crafts, or baked items to the Pampa-sponsored bazaar for Girlstown may deliver them Wednesday to 1937 N. Wells according to Mrs. Lonnie Loter, project chairman.

Others coordinating the project to donate all proceeds to Girlstown, Berger, are Mrs. Wayne Couch, Mrs. Jerry Thompson, Mrs. W. E. Combs of Pampa and Mrs. Ann Chapman of Miami.

Towns, which will be represented by the 200 items to be displayed April 3 and 4 will be Pampa, Lockney, Panhandle, Amarillo, Miami, and Enid, Okla.

The project started with the five individuals wanting to make handcraft items to help the 16 girls living in Girlstown in Berger. Since then the program has grown to more than 20 items pledged for the project. Displays will include unusual gift items of china and tile painting, needlework, decoupage, ceramics, antiques, oils, crafts of all kinds and baked sale items.

WHY MAKE A BIG THING OUT OF TRASH?

MAKE IT A SMALL THING

You'd never guess it, but the above little bag holds a week's worth of trash for the average family. It fits in the drawer of a Whirlpool Trash Masher*. Everytime you toss cans, bones, bottles or paper into the bag, just close the drawer, push a button and the trash is mashed to 1/4 its size. A key lock keeps kids from tinkering with it. A chemical deodorizer sprays trash when you close the drawer. The bag can be taped and is weatherproof. Come see it!

"You'll either have to forget about having long nails, or stop watching those Sunday afternoon hockey games!"

THE BUSINESS of this campus would appear to be business. Students sell handmade jewelry, pottery, leather work and similar craft items at San Francisco State College, two years ago the battleground of a violent student-police confrontation.

Invisible Moon
The term "new moon" is often loosely employed. Actually, the new moon is invisible and it is not until the second or third day after the new phase that the crescent moon can be seen after sundown.

Won But Lost
Owo presidential candidates failed to be elected to the office although they received the largest popular vote in the election — Samuel J. Tilden in 1876 and Grover Cleveland in 1888.

Thanksgiving
The first official Thanksgiving Day under the new republic was celebrated on Nov. 26, 1789, following its proclamation by President Washington as a day of national thanksgiving for adoption of the U. S. Constitution.

Largest Animal
The blue whale is the largest animal ever known — and that includes the dinosaurs of old. Blue whales reach about 110 feet in length and weigh up to 125 tons; the elephant, largest land animal, rarely exceeds seven tons.

The "utopian" community of New Harmony, Ind., was founded in 1825, with a communal philosophy proclaiming absolute equality of property, labor and opportunity. The colony's 1,000 inhabitants ranged from the highly idealistic and hard-working to the lazy and unprincipled, but it failed within two years because its government lacked authority. The World Almanac notes.

"Go" for Concorde:
French President Georges Pompidou will come out publicly in favor of France's continuing development and production with England of the supersonic jetliner Concorde, government officials say. Now that the American Boeing SST is out of the picture, France feels the Concorde can benefit from increased sales to airlines. Elysee Palace insiders say the French president has been seeking assurances from the Americans that Washington will put no obstacle in the way of Pan American and TWA buying the Concorde.

Another French Veto?
Talk is mounting among British officials of another French veto—camouflaged this time—against Britain's entry into the Common Market. The French suddenly have injected the question of sterling as a reserve currency and want agreement on this before Britain joins. The British say the issue is so complex that it could hold up Britain's entry indefinitely. They hope to iron out the question during French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann's visit to London in May.

Precedent Breaking Emperor:
Emperor Hirohito, who has ruled longer than any living sovereign, plans to establish another precedent this year by visiting for the first time the Hiroshima memorial to the 76,000 victims of the world's first atomic attack. Ultra-nationalist organizations oppose it on the grounds the monument is a humiliation of Japan because of its inscription. In effect, the inscription says World War II was a mistake which should never be repeated. Hirohito and Empress Nagako will visit Western Europe this autumn, the first time a ruling Mikado has ever left Japan.

Responsibility of Power:
New Turkish Premier Nihat Erim once called for diplomatic ties between pro-Western Turkey and Communist China. It's different now, Erim told friends after he was asked to form a new government that it was easy to propose action as a private citizen but not so easy to carry it out as a public figure. Erim is strongly internationalist, but diplomats say he would hesitate to offend the anti-Communist army generals and the United States, a major source of aid.

Program On Leukemias, Lymphomas To Be Presented At Amarillo Club

A program on Leukemias and Lymphomas will be presented to the Potter-Randall County Medical Society on April 12, 6:30 p.m., Amarillo Club, 112 W. 7th, Amarillo.

Led and moderated by William C. Levin, M.D., Professor, Department of Internal Medicine, University of Texas Medical Branch, Galveston, the panel will include Robert N. Cooley, M.D., Mary Ellen Haggard, M.D., and F. Lamont Jennings, M.D. Dr. Royce Laycock, Gray County unit, cancer crusader, has been invited to attend.

In a unique format developed by the Texas Division of the American Cancer Society, the Traveling Speaker Teams consist of leading physicians from Texas medical schools and hospitals. This is the seventh year that the American Cancer Society has sponsored teams to visit meetings of county medical societies. Subjects discussed by earlier panel members were Oral Cancer, Colon-Rectum Cancer, Female Genital Tract Cancer, Breast Cancer, Skin Cancer, and Lung Cancer, with a total attendance of 5,000 physicians.

Doctor Levin will speak first on "Perspectives in Leukemias and Lymphomas."

Mary Ellen Haggard, M.D., Professor, Department of Pediatrics, University of Texas Medical Branch, Galveston, will cover "Acute Leukemias of Childhood."

F. Lamont Jennings, M.D., Professor and Chairman, Department of Pathology, University of Texas Medical Branch, Galveston, will center his discussion at this meeting on "Problems in Lymphomas."

Robert N. Cooley, M.D., Professor and Chairman, Department of Radiology, University of Texas Medical Branch, Galveston, will join Doctor Levin in covering "Clinical Staging of Lymphomas" and "Management of Lymphomas."

"Physicians have been invited to attend this meeting from Carson, Castro, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Gray, Hansford, Hartley, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Lipscomb, Moore, Ochiltree, Oldham, Parmer, Potter, Randall, Roberts, Sherman, and Swisher Counties," Dr. Wilbert E. Scott, President of the Potter-Randall County Medical Society, has announced.

The program will be one of vital concern to most physicians. The American Cancer Society has predicted that, in 1971, there will be 19,000 new victims of leukemias, and 15,000 deaths. Leukemias strikes both sexes as well as all ages. This disease constitutes approximately half the cancer cases of American children between ages 3-14, where cancer is the leading disease-death cause. Lymphomas, which include Hodgkin's Disease and Lymphosarcoma, will claim the lives of 18,000 with 24,000 new cases estimated in 1971.

In addition to the concentrated panel discussions, the American Cancer Society sponsors education for the medical profession through films, exhibits, and lectures at medical meetings, including 10 clinical research fellowships in Texas and cancer programs in medical institutions, the total Professional Education Program annually costs more than $250,000 of funds raised by volunteers in Texas.

WHATEVER THE MERCURY READINGS may be in other parts, spring is obviously at hand in Rome. One artist, preparing for the tourist season early, is already out with sketch pad in the Piazza di Spagna, where quick portraits go to visitors for less than $5.

PAMPA, TEXAS 63rd Year

JEANE DIXON
Your Horoscope

YOUR BIRTHDAY WEDNESDAY: You succeed this year depends on your will, your willingness to move ahead in spirit and physically. Wednesday's natives are enterprising, self-assertive. Their vocational aptitudes lead them toward heavy equipment. Last, mass production operations, commercial development.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You are at some disadvantage for time and energy. Your patience is the first thing to expire; take break, size up the situation, then plunge back in and finish the job.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Information arrives in a belated rush; there is a pile-up of correspondence, budget-keeping or steady, unobtrusive. Do something to enrich your home life.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Circumstances are not quite what they seem at first glance—find an advantageous or experimental way of getting through.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Take the best of what is offered and be satisfied; close deals, settle accounts, retire longstanding obligations.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 23): Wednesday has a make-up-for-lost-time urgency; go at things as if they were really this simple. It works well for the time being.

Virgo (Aug. 24-Sept. 23): You receive special attention from others, for several different reasons. Assume nothing and continue your program undisturbed.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23): Wednesday deserves a steady, unobtrusive effort from you. Many outstanding matters can be completed to the satisfaction of all.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21): Much of what you hear is incomplete—wait for the full story, and while waiting remember your previous opinions and commitments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Existing schedules provide a necessary frame of reference. If you have none, find out what the situation offers and make out a systematic program.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): See that all wheels turn, being sure to take care of the thing to avoid in action taken before you're sure somebody else isn't already on the particular.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Prepare for displacements and interruptions. Sometimes preparation serves to prevent the unwanted event. Restore equilibrium promptly.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Clear communications are more important than most other factors. If you achieve real understanding, there's little problem.

Fixed Easter Date
The Council of Nicaea, in A.D. 325, declared that Easter must be celebrated by Christians everywhere on the Sunday following the 14th day of the Paschal full moon after the spring, or vernal, equinox.

Domesday Book
The Domesday Book is a record of a general survey of England ordered for taxation purposes by William the Conqueror in 1086. It is a valuable source of historical information.

Tallest Person
The tallest recorded person was an 8-foot-4.4 woman named Marianne Wehrle, although there have been claims of 9-foot-3 individuals, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

In 1961, President John Kennedy began his "New Frontier" program which granted extra government funds to education, housing and transportation. The World Almanac recalls that in his inaugural speech he urged all Americans to show renewed devotion in defense of America's ideals by exclaiming: "My fellow Americans, ask not what your country can do for you—ask what you can do for your country."

Hair Today, Gone Tomorrow

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — There has been a great deal of discussion in the sports world about Bill Skinner, a 31-year-old senior at the University of Tennessee. He is perhaps the best javelin thrower in the country but his coaches refused to allow him to compete recently when he began to grow a mustache.

In all the recent controversies of athletes and hair, many people have either forgotten or lost sight of hair's historical origins. The similarities with the Skinner case recall it.

The first recorded facial hair incident occurred in the time of Genghis Khan in A.D. 1192, in the canton of Hsi'sute.

The men of the land, true to tradition, cultivated some of the finest facial tresses in history. So, of course, did the athletes.

Until—
Until an octogenarian named Chin See became a star on the local college boulder-throwing team. He was 87 years old. He had been the canton blacksmith all his life, which contributed to his great strength in heaving boulders. He had never had time before to curl his hair, being a family man and a man of the business Establishment. When he retired from the shop at age 85 he decided to fulfill a lifetime dream and enter college.

For several decades, Chin See had thought of clipping that magnificent beard. It had been quite an effort to braid it up every morning. But as a businessman he felt compelled to conform. After a couple years in college, however, alleged pernicious influences got to him. That and the help of a new invention, the "lazor," as the Chinese called it, did the trick. He was flung off the team.

(One of the most poignant moments in history is often considered to be the moment the track coach, a Mr. No Chin See, representing the unanimous vote of the athletic department, informed Chin See of the department's decision. According to a 20th-century sportscaster, Bill Stern, No Chin See was the son of Chin Lee. "There were tears in all four of their eyes when they squinted at each other," Stern relates, "and the son said, 'Daddy, I—I've got something to tell you.' Some historians, however, believe this apocrypha.)

But for the first time since puberty, Chin See live up to the literal meaning of his name, which in Chinese is "See chin."

Predictably, baleful rumors buzzed around the athletic department: Chin See was a rebel; Chin See was an insurrectionist; Chin See was a punk; Chin See was senile; Chin See had fleas in his beard.

But Chin See did not waver, even when they said he was no team man. "I have never been team man much, but I do love teammates," said Chin See. "But I think man should be able stand up for him own self." (Skinner, perhaps having read the long out-of-print pamphlet, "The Teachings of Chin See," paraphrased that in his statement to the press.)

So every morning Chin See arose and carefully shaved every last chin-bristle with his new lazor. Then he went out before class and, in the rice paddy behind his hut, would heave his favorite boulder. Although he loved competition he loved heaving the boulder even more. He continued to do so for his own satisfaction.

"Coaches said I no can throw with smooth chin," said Chin See to a local newspaperman. "Well, I ploove them long every day. Watch this."

Soon, the coaches began coming around in the mornings and when they saw that Chin

See was breaking world records in his rice paddy, they knew they needed him back on the team. Especially since the all-Cathay meet was coming up soon.

Their dilemma was: How to hang onto team conformity and yet let Chin See participate? Then it hit them. Why not shave all team members? They did.

So it came to pass that Genghis Khan decreed that no longer would any athlete have facial hair. Chin See's fame and the fame of the team spread throughout the world. And Genghis Khan's decree was adopted all over the world, too.

Thus for all these centuries had it been.

Bruno Sammartino Is Proud To Be A Professional 'Rassler'

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—To peer at an ear of Bruno Sammartino is to look upon an object of awesome and grotesque magnificence. The shape is known as "cauliflower," but that renders a sense of the delicate which is altogether what the appendage is not. If the ear were planted, it would be a bulbous potato; if installed, a carburetor. It could also be mistaken for a gnarled fist, a pummeled nose, a flanged big toe.

There appears no place of ingress, as if it were a monolithic rock.

"Nah," said Bruno Sammartino, "it just looks like my ears are all plugged. They look ugly from the outside maybe. But there's a little pin-hole where sound goes in. What's bad would be if the drums inside were damaged."

How do the drums look? he was asked.

"Worse than the outside," Bruno replied.

"And that's what makes me mad," he added, "all the writers sayin' that rasslin is fixed and the rasslers are phony and all that garbage. Why don't they go to the state athletic commissions and say, 'Hey, Doc, where does all the blood come from?' It's not ketchup, like a lot of people say it is."

Bruno Sammartino, who recently lost his World Wide Wrestling Federation title, gazed into the wash-basin mirror at his long, rugged and, yes, kindly face that is dominated by unpretentious eyes, an authoritative nose, a prognathous jaw and those two baleful lugs on each side of his head. Nearby, a deep rumbling swallow of water did not make him flinch.

He had apologized for having to conduct the interview in the toilet room but the adjacent dressing room area was filled with that evening's combatants.

Dave McNally Hoping For Twenty Straight

By United Press International.

No American League pitcher in the last 30 years has strung together four straight 20-victory seasons but Dave McNally of the Baltimore Orioles looks equal to the task this year.

McNally, who posted 22-10, 20-7 and 24-8 records during the last three seasons, became the first Oriole pitcher to go nine innings Monday in a 4-1 triumph over the Montreal Expos. McNally allowed 10 hits but the only run off him was on a homer by Adolfo Phillips in the eighth inning.

Rivals looking for a crack in the Orioles' solid-front of three 20-game winners—Mike Cuellar and Jim Palmer also won 20 games for the Orioles last season—have found little hope for optimism this spring. The staff seems as strong as ever and pitching coach George Bamberger even has predicted that it may have a fourth 20-game winner in Pat Dobson, a 14-game winner with the San Diego Padres last season.

Red Ruffing of the New York Yankees was the last AL pitcher to win 20 games four years in a row, posting marks of 20-12, 20-7-21-7 and 21-7 from 1936 through 1939.

The Orioles took a 2-0 lead in including The Canadian Wolfman, Gorilla Monsoon, midgets Sky Low and Little Brutus, and Bruno's opponent this night, Gido Mongol, brother of Bepo Mongol.

"My eyes been gouged, my nose been busted 11 times and fixed twice," said Sammartino into the mirror. "Over this eye I got a scar with 11 stitches, on this cheek 17 stitches, or 18, I can't remember exactly, and altogether I got 67 stitches on my head, but you can't see 'em all because some are on places where I still got some hair left. And my ears—what can I tell ya?"

And all the nights, the howling nights, and all the tasting of resin on canvases, and the rubbings of ring ropes and all the bristles of armpits that shaped those fearful ears, all this was the result of 15 years as a professional wrestler, the last eight as champion, and all this came into mind now.

And for all the disparagement of pro wrestling as a con game or an exhibition or a farce or a grotesque joke, it still packs 'em in all over the country. The fans are fanatical. Twenty-two thousand of them were on hand in Madison Square Garden this particular night. Five thousand more were turned away.

"It makes me so mad," said Bruno. "The garbage they say about rasslin'. But part of it is rasslin's fault. All these guys with gimmicks. My only gimmick is my boots and tights. I'd have some gimmick if I didn't have them, wouldn't I?"

"It all started with Gorgeous George. I think. He started with the curls and the perfume and that. You didn't notice the talent before the gimmick. Nobody noticed him when he was Bog just plain George Wagner."

"I've refused to fight guys with gimmicks and I think the fans appreciate good rasslin'. And we got very loyal fans. Two weeks after I lost the title I rassled in Boston. Fifteen thousand and some plus there."

They gave me a standing ovation. I was deeply touched, very deeply touched."

Eruno is proud, he said, of being an athlete, a term not often reserved for professional wrestlers. He said, "I work on weights and techniques three or four hours a day three or four days a week. A sportswriter who is dead now, said I looked like a squatly, homely, 260-pound guy who was made up of spaghetti and meat balls. That's ridiculous. I don't brag, but my appearance is very good. And I've put a lot of training behind my body to get it the way it is now."

Aurelio Rodriques Florida's Key Man

NEW YORK (UPI)—Aurelio Rodriques got the sign during a ball game in Florida the other day and acknowledged it. Billy Martin, the Detroit manager, wanted him to play hit-and-run. Norm Cash got the sign also. He took a short lead off first and began running with the pitch but Rodriques fouled it off.

Martin kept the same sign on and Ken Tatum, working for Boston, came in with his next delivery as Cash broke for second again.

By now Aurelio Rodriques' adrenal is pumping pretty good. He was concentrating extra hard on what he had to do. Hit-and-run... hit-and-run... hit-and-run. Only Rodriques' brain told him one thing and his body another.

Detroit's new third baseman put what he thought was merely a little extra oomph in his swing. Only a little extra.

A Home Run Instead

But the last time anybody saw the ball it was traveling like a bee-bee shot over the left centerfield wall at Winter Haven and Aurelio Rodriques, who was supposed to have played hit-and-run, had himself a home run instead.

He also had a smile a mile wide across his face after circling the bases and touching home plate.

For Aurelio Rodriques, who is Mexican and not given to worrying unduly, the big grin was rather characteristic. He comes close to being the happiest guy on the Detroit ball club.

"He's the most pleasant guy I've ever seen," says Hal Middlesworth, the Tigers' public relations director. "Always smiling and always laughing."

When Rodriques first reported to the Tigers this spring, he was pressing, particularly at the plate, and the reason was rather obvious. He still doesn't handle English that well but he reads the Mexican papers perfectly and realizes he was the "key man" in the Denny McLain deal, at least insofar as the Tigers were concerned.

Rodriques went hitless in his first seven trips this spring but is meeting the ball well enough now. There was never any question about his glove work. He can do some things defensively not even Brooks Robinson can.

"He runs better than Brooks and throws better," says shortstop Eddie Brinkman, who came over with Rodriques to Detroit in the eight-player deal with Washington. "Chi Chi could turn out to be a super player."

Rick Reichardt, a former Washington teammate, gave Rodriques the nickname "Chi Chi." "One day Reichardt said to Rodriques: 'You know the golfer, Chi Chi Rodriguez? Now you're Chi Chi.'"

The Real Goods
No matter what they call him the 23-year-old smiling third baseman looks like the goods. That's why Ted Williams hollered "Oh, no!" when Bob Short, the Washington owner, first told him he had traded Rodriques to Detroit last October.

Rodriques' initial reaction was "pretty much the same as Williams' when Paul Casanova, the Senators' catcher, telephoned him in Mexico to tell him about the deal. "You're kidding," Rodriques said.

Wicks Leaving UCLA, Chances Are Still Good For 1972 Title

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sidney Wicks and three other starters will be gone but John Wooden says it's possible. Not likely but possible.

The UCLA Bruins could continue to dominate college basketball next season, the architect of five straight NCAA titles admitted Monday.

"We shouldn't win it," Wooden said. "We'll be much too inexperienced. But we could."

However, the UCLA coach wouldn't talk about the future in the presence of Wicks and Curtis Rowe before the Southern California Basketball Writers on a day the pair went in the first round of the National Basketball Association draft. "I don't know why I should start talking about next year when we're just off a national championship and we have Sidney and Curtis with us," he remarked.

Cautious on Walton
At their final weekly luncheon of the season, the writers honored Wicks as their university division player for the second straight year. Valley State's Emerson Carr was named the College Division Player of the Year.

Wicks averaged 21.3 points a game as UCLA rolled up a 29-1 record.

Since 1962, the Bruins have captured seven national crowns and the brunt of their attack next season will be carried by 6-foot-2 Bill Walton, a member of UCLA's unbeaten Freshman club. In fact, Wooden said there was "a good chance three of the Freshmen will start."

A Tough Year
The man who has coached at UCLA for 23 seasons cautioned about expecting too much from Walton. He said not to compare him with Lew Alcindor, who brought the Bruins three NCAA championships.

"Walton is no Alcindor," Wooden said. "I don't think you're going to see another player come along who is as dominant as Lewis was. Bill is not as big or as maneuverable as Lew."

Steve Niles Picked During Fourth Round Of NBA Draft

NEW YORK (UPI)—Five Southwest Conference players and six others from Texas colleges were among those picked Monday in the 10-round National Basketball Association college draft.

Four other Texas players were picked before the pros got around to choosing their first conference player, 7-foot Steve Niles of Texas A&M, who was drafted by the New York Knicks in the fourth round.

Dick Gibbs of the University of Texas-El Paso was the first of the Texans to be picked, going to the Chicago Bulls in the third round.

Cliff Harris of Hardin-Simmons, Poo Welch of Houston and Niles were picked by Cleveland, Atlanta and the Knicks in that order in the fourth round.

Gary Reist of Rice was a sixth-round choice of San Diego, Texas Tech's Gene Knolle went to Portland and SMU's Gene Phillips to Milwaukee in the seventh round.

Luke Adams of Lamar Tech and Felix Thruston of Trinity were the eighth round picks of Los Angeles and Milwaukee. Eugene Kennedy of TCU went to Portland in the ninth round and Calvin Oliver of Pan American to San Diego in the 10th round.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Unlicensed And Free

Advertising, particularly in the printed form may be freedom's last frontier. If that sounds like a strong statement, one might reflect on the meaning of Lord Macintosh as quoted in "Freedom First," a magazine published by the Society for Individual Freedom in London.

"If advertising ever goes out, freedom of choice will go with it."

Or Harold Macmillan, Member of Parliament, in the same publication:

"Advertising is the essential defense of individualism, of private choice, of personal taste, of consumers' rights, of all things in a word, that distinguish a free from a servile economy."

These thoughts came to mind recently when we received a complaint, similar to ones received on other occasions, about the news being loaded with accounts of governmental activity.

"If you believe so strongly in individualism, private enterprise, and market place freedom of choice," goes the refrain, "why is so much of every issue taken up by news stories of what the government is doing?"

It is not only a good question, but a sobering one. And the charge is true to a disconcerting extent. Leafing through issue after issue of any newspaper today, one will find story after story in which the hand, and coercion and force of government become quite evident after reading only a few lines.

Why, then the prominence of government dominated news? To answer that question adequately one must first of all, point out what a newspaper is.

A newspaper is a medium for reporting what is happening in the community, the nation, and the world. And, regardless of whether the happenings are market place or government in nature, a newspaper, if it is to fulfill its function and keep faith with its readers, must report what is going on; not because it applauds what is happening, but simply because it happened.

And, with that understood, it really is not surprising that so much of the news has a government taint. With laws on the books, in this country alone, now estimated to exceed 56 million, and with government at all its various levels meddling in virtually every facet of human endeavor, it would be amazing, indeed, if the news were not heavily larded with accounts of government activity.

Admittedly, this is a doleful situation. But it has a heartening aspect, too. For newspapers, being one of the last remaining unlicensed enterprises in this country, report not only what the government desires to see in print but, in addition, news of government activities that makes officialdom squirm. The newspaper profession, although constantly under threat of government intervention and control, is still essentially free in this country; a fact for which we can all give thanks.

And, if one grows weary of reading about the government doing this and planning to do that, one can always turn to the ad sections, both classified and commercial, of your newspaper where the language of freedom, of private enterprise, of uncoerced exchange, comes through clear and strong. For here, with some small exceptions like around election time, the emphasis is exclusively on the private and voluntary sector where goods and services are offered for consumer consideration and choice.

The Way Of Bureaucracies

A couple of years ago the Small Business Administration got raked over the coals when it was found that it had backed more than $1 million in loans to a Bronx trucking concern with alleged Mafia connections.

Once burned and twice shy, the SBA instituted a policy of looking a bit more closely before it loaned. As a result, it is now being hopped on by Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., for investigating the "qualities and personal traits" of persons applying for disaster loans.

Tunney, who was alerted to the practice by an irate constituent who had applied for a loan to rebuild after the California earthquake, labels it "an incredible and intolerable extension of the government's investigative powers and a grievous violation of the right to privacy."

The agency defends the policy as necessary to safeguard the taxpayers' money. "Character is a basic element in making any business loan," says assistant SBA administrator Howard E. Russell.

It may be that the SBA has overcorrected. Bureaucracies have a habit of elevating guidelines into iron laws. Or it may be that it is merely exercising the normal prudence expected of any lending institution.

But the average person reading Tunney's emotion-charged, headline-making words can only conclude that Gestapo is alive and well in Washington, and be left more suspicious and distrustful of his government than he was before.

Now there was no accounting on this fiasco from 1962 to 1971, even though the deal was made directly between the federal government and the nudist camp. But more than that, the agency intends to continue the diversion payments, even though regulations do forbid it when land is sold or rented for a specific non-farm use.

The way they are getting rid of your non-accountable tax dollars now is by putting the nudist camp under the heading of "public recreation."

At least they are at last getting down to bare facts...

Officially, the Nixon administration is keeping hands off the election. But it is no secret, says Shackford, that it wants Thieu re-elected and would consider election of either of the other two major potential candidates "little short of a disaster for Nixon's withdrawal plans."

STRANGE ACTIONS BY SENATOR FULBRIGHT

Last November, Senator Fulbright sent two staff members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, James Lowenstein and Richard Moose, to Cambodia to report on U.S. military assistance to its government. In view of Fulbright's anti-war position, most observers expected a report which would corroborate these ideas.

But the opposite occurred. The report states that the North Vietnamese launched an "unprovoked invasion" and that U.S. assistance has prevented a Communist takeover.

According to the report, the Cambodian government welcomes U.S. support: "They point out that they are asking not for troops and advisers, but for material assistance, and that this help is needed not to fight a guerrilla war but to meet an unprovoked invasion by foreign forces, which are occupying parts of their country and are attempting to subjugate others."

The report concludes that U.S. support of Cambodia is essential if Vietnamization is to succeed: "As a practical matter, Vietnamization is now tied to the survival of the (Cambodian) government."

In view of the significance of this support, it deserved wide publicity. But Senator Fulbright, to whom the report was delivered, apparently made every effort to prevent even a committee members from seeing it. When he finally did release the report, it was not through the usual means of publication. Instead he quietly inserted it in the Congressional Record amid statements condemning the action in Cambodia.

Whether Senator Fulbright likes it or not, the citizens of this country are entitled to know the results of this report, which supports U.S. military assistance to the Cambodians as they defend themselves against Communist aggression.

With Some Reservation
By INJUN WOODY

It is a laff that the congress is worried about there being no accounting for federal funds which would be sent to the states on the revenue sharing deal. Congress don't have an accounting now of the way funds are spent...

Let's just take one report about the feed-grain programme. The General Accounting Office, in 1962 found a seven-acre field that had been bought by a nudist club. Because it was taken out of "grain production," it received payments under the Agriculture Adjustment Act.

No mention was made of what type of production the nudist camp was engaged in. But an agricultural official said that regulations did not restrict the eligibility of such land for enrollment in the feed-grain programme and that in his opinion the land would remain eligible until the "owners" voluntarily surrendered the feed-grain base acreage.

Now there was no accounting on this fiasco from 1962 to 1971, even though the deal was made directly between the federal government and the nudist camp. But more than that, the agency intends to continue the diversion payments, even though regulations do forbid it when land is sold or rented for a specific non-farm use.

The way they are getting rid of your non-accountable tax dollars now is by putting the nudist camp under the heading of "public recreation."

"I Thought We Got Rid of Him Some Time Back!"

VIEWPOINT

Filibuster--Useful Device

By JESSE HELM

The Senate of the United States has been engaged for much of its session thus far with a perennial issue which, unfortunately, seems always to elude public attention and understanding. It is a matter which, above all, deserves broad understanding of its importance, for it represents the very basis for having a United States Senate.

It involves one of the Senate's rules of procedure, Rule XXII by number, the rule which permits a Senator, or a group of Senators, to debate on issue as long as they wish. This right cannot be terminated unless and until two-thirds of Senators present vote "cloture" — that is to say, vote to shut off debate.

In the beginning, the rule required even more — that two-thirds of the total membership of the Senate had to be present, and voting, to shut off debate. The rule was amended in recent times to apply only to those Senators present. So if only 60 Senators are present, a "cloture" vote by 40 of them now suffices to conclude debate on any given issue.

Until fairly recent years, Rule XXII was erroneously condemned by liberals as purely a Southern legislative device. The liberals were angered when they could not rush their pet schemes into law. Southern Senators were repeatedly attacked for what liberal politicians and newspapers called "filibustering." But of late, the liberals have been doing most of the filibustering — but they don't call it that. When they do it, they claim that they are merely "educating the public."

A great many Americans have unconsciously been led to accept the theory that it is undemocratic to have a rule which protects the right of the minority of Senators to delay action on any kind of legislation, good or bad. There is, of course, nothing at all undemocratic about it. In fact, the very reason for having two houses of Congress, or of a state legislature, good or bad. There hope that the rights of the minority can be protected. Rule XXII of the Senate was adopted, in the first place, to prevent hasty and unwise action by a headstrong majority. After all, it is just as important, if not more so, to block bad legislation as it is to enact good legislation.

The main fault with filibustering is that it has not been used often enough, long enough or effectively enough during the past dozen years. As a consequence, a deluge of bad laws has been dumped upon the republic in such volume as to threaten the liberties of the people. So-called civil rights laws have been enacted without sufficient thought to the awesome powers being given to arrogant federal bureaucrats. Laws have been enacted repeatedly which have squandered the taxpayers' money. Worst of all, the Congress has all but surrendered its authorities to the federal courts and to the executive branch of government.

In the beginning, it was assumed that the House of Representatives would be the headstrong branch of the Congress, and the founding fathers decided upon a bicameral Congress—that is to say, a Congress with two houses. In that concept, the Senate was intended to be more restrained, more deliberative of the two. Hence the wisely-conceived rules of procedure, such as Rule XXII.

George Washington is said to have originally doubted the need for two houses of Congress, and it is recorded that he invited Thomas Jefferson to dinner one evening to discuss the question. "Why is it," President Washington asked Jefferson, "that in establishing the national government you created a bicameral national legislature?"

Jefferson paused. Noting that Washington was at that moment pouring his coffee into a saucer, Jefferson asked: "Why is it, Mr. President, that you pour your coffee into the saucer?" Washington answered: "To cool it."

Which, responded Mr. Jefferson, is precisely why we need a Senate. It has been to the detriment of the nation that the Senate has so often failed in its fundamental purpose during the past two decades. It has failed to cool the hot waves of bad laws which should never have been inflicted upon the people.

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb
Stop Breast Cancer In Time

Dear Dr. Lamb — I hope I can save someone a lot of heartbreak by telling of my own examination of your breasts like I did. I ended up with a malignant tumor and cobalt treatment, plus removal of my breast. I could not detect it even though it filled the whole breast. To me a lump was a definite thing like a cyst, but apparently the good tissue is replaced with diseased tissue. Anyway, see your doctor for examination regularly. Wish I had.

—DUMB DORA

Dear Reader—Thinking of others when you have your problem, should win you the title of "Darling Dora." You have stated the problem very well. It is a good thing for women to check their own breasts because sometimes they do find a definite lump and can get early medical attention. BUT, as you have pointed out so well, that just isn't enough. A regular checkup with your doctor is a good preventive measure that every woman should follow.

Dear Dr. Lamb — My husband was found dead in our barnyard at 10 p.m. I was at work and the coroner said he died about 5 p.m. while doing the evening feeding. We had no idea that he had a heart condition. He was 57. Could it be possible that he had this and we didn't know it? Could we have helped him if we had been there? This has been bothering me.

Dear Reader—Unfortunately, the first warning that many people have concerning their heart problems is a sudden attack. About half of the people with a heart attack do not live long enough to be admitted to the hospital. Even complete medical checkups with a heart tracing may be normal. This is why prevention of heart disease is so important. Even a good artificial heart, if it existed, won't help the people who don't make it to the hospital. Prevention means that if there has been a weight gain since the middle 20s or other evidence of accumulated fat, it must be eliminated by diet and proper exercise. It also means eliminating cigarettes in any amount. A proper diet, a good exercise program and eliminating cigarettes and coffee would probably save about half of the people who are now having the same problem your husband had.

I doubt there is much you could have done even if he had been at his side. If you knew how to apply artificial heart massage through the chest and if someone had come along in time to help you there might have been a chance. There are a lot of ifs. Even a skilled person giving heart massage through a closed chest must produce effective circulation in about four minutes or the brain will be damaged. There is really only one good answer — prevention.

Quick Quiz
Q—Why does a golf ball have "dimples"?
A—The thin, rubberlike cover has "dimples," or mesh markings, that increase the ball's distance and accuracy in flight.

Q—What two major requirements are necessary for a player to be eligible for nomination to the National Baseball Hall of Fame?
A—Candidates must be retired and have played 10 years in the major leagues.

Return to AFL-CIO
Likely by Teamsters, ICWU

WASHINGTON — There is some substance behind those hints and intimations that the Teamsters, largest union in the country, are considering reaffiliating with the AFL-CIO.

Sentiment for that definitely exists in top Teamster ranks. Acting president Frank Fitzsimmons and his inner group privately make no secret of this. But they've got to move warily, for two reasons:

(1) The persistence of widespread rank-and-file hostility to the AFL-CIO because of its ouster of the Teamsters and its flamboyant imprisoned president Jimmy Hoffa. (2) Uncertainty over whether he will seek re-election — either as a convict or as a parolee.

Hoffa is striving furiously to gain a parole before the Union's national convention in July. His prospects depend largely on what the courts do about a pending appeal on another conviction.

As a consequence of this highly uncertain backstage situation, the convention will determine Hoffa's union future and the AFL-CIO question.

If Fitzsimmons emerges as president in his own right, it very likely will be only a matter of time before he maneuvers the Teamsters back into the AFL-CIO fold. If Hoffa continues to hold on to the presidency, even though in name only, reassociation will go glimmering indefinitely.

So the big convention in July will tell the story, and already the backstage maneuvering and politicking is in full swing.

WHITHER UAW—Primarily the creation of the late Auto Workers president Walter Reuther, the ALA still reflects much of his aggressive "social viewpoint" and militant crusading. Only a few weeks ago, the ALA allotted $500,000 for so-called "social action" grants to such organizations as the ultra-liberal National Student Association and the Leadership Conference for Civil Rights.

Also being planned is a vigorous nationwide registration drive among 18-year-old voters. Teamster Fitzsimmons has gone along with those projects as evidence of ALA unity and determination to continue its existence. But in labor circles this is viewed as largely window dressing — pending developments in the Teamsters and Auto Workers.

It is pointed out that Leonard Woodcock, who succeeded Reuther, is on excellent terms with AFL-CIO president George Meany — unlike Reuther, who was constantly wrangling with him. Also that if the ICWU jumps the traces and Fitzsimmons should follow his known inclination and do the same, there would be nothing left of the ALA but the Auto Workers.

Currently, the UAW is concentrating on restoring its financial vitality that suffered badly as a result of the Long General Motors strike.

For that purpose the union has cut its monthly per capita dues to the ALA in half — to 5 cents per member from 10 cents. It has also doubled its dues to its own members to pay off some $8 million in strike-incurred debts.

Despite the UAW's cutback in payments, the ALA has a flush treasury. It has more than $2 million in cash, and an annual income of upwards of $2 million.

Present ALA membership is 3.5 million, of which 2.2 million are Teamsters. So, while outwardly the ALA appears sound and thriving, the inside indications are that it is only a matter of time before it will be disbanded.

When it does take place, it's bound to have decisive impact on the ALA.

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

Nixon And The 18-Year-Olds

By PAUL HARVEY

President Nixon, already in gear for the 1972 presidential campaign, is planning more travel, more activism, more news conferences, more Cabinet meetings, fewer vacations.

These are "cosmetic" changes. Unless the President is to be chased out of office by 11 million 18-, 19- and 20-year olds, he'd better throw out his unwanted war into full-speed reverse.

It has been eight months since American troops went smashing across the Cambodian border, ostensibly seeking the Communist underground headquarters for the Vietnamese war.

They never did find anything like the "nerve center" they were seeking. Another monumental intelligence snafu. And though our President got our troops out of Cambodia on schedule, South Vietnamese troops have had to rush to the rescue of the Cambodian government.

This has resulted in hair-pulling intramural squabbling between those ancient enemies — Cambodia and South Vietnam — with allegations of atrocities by South Vietnamese against Cambodians! And further, though the Cambodian intrusion was intended to hasten withdrawal of American troops — it can't — because American troops must fill in back home for the South Vietnamese troops now in Cambodia.

More devastating to Administration self-respect is the deteriorating morale of the third of a million American troops still over there. Not even the Pentagon pretends any longer that "our boys know what they are fighting for."

Bob Hope was cheered by 15,000 troops at the first stop on his 1970 Christmas tour but, when he introduced South Vietnam's Vice President Ky to that audience, almost total silence. Ky was not present at subsequent appearances.

Never in any war heretofore have West Point commanders had to plead with their men to go on patrol. Nobody wants to be the last man killed in a dead-end war.

And Congress hears evidence 80 per cent to 80 per cent of our GIs have been sampling the powerful Vietnamese brand of marijuana.

Wit And Whimsy

One of the greatest perfumes of all time has never been captured by the perfumer: The aroma of steak and home fries on a spring evening.

When one's hair has turned to silver, some folk figure it's time to dye.

The custom of having the man walk on the curbside didn't originate to make it easier for him to put nickels in parking meters.

Similarly, the home front has lost its stomach for this unwinable war. Harris and Gallup surveys show a preponderant and increasing number of Americans ready to "declare a victory" and come home.

The Army, required to continue recruiting, is enticing men to enlist by promising that they will not be sent to Vietnam. So nine out of ten of our foot soldiers in Vietnam are reluctant draftees.

President Nixon's so-far announced rate of withdrawal will still leave a crumbling, grumbling force of some third-of-a-million Americans over there indefinitely.

That's too long. Mr. Nixon's political advisers may imagine that if they can revive our economy these next 18 months, we'll forget the men stranded in Indochina as we have those stranded in Korea. I won't.

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—A do-it-yourself home treatment program for boys with hemophilia is allowing the young "bleeders" to live almost as actively as normal children.

It's reducing drastically the costs to parents for treatment of children with the hereditary ailment suffered by one in every 10,000 males in the United States.

Home treatment has been used with "encouraging results" at both Children's Hospital at Stanford University and Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago, according to Dr. Jack Lazerman.

Lazerman, director of the hemophilia program at Children's, reported that Stanford's 18-month-old program has 21 boys between 5 and 16 on the do-it-yourself plan and four infants receiving medication from their parents.

The youngsters are taught to administer themselves cryoprecipitate, a portion of human blood containing the coagulating factor their systems lack. They take it intravenously by needle, just as young diabetics take insulin.

"Boys who a few years ago would have faced lives as cripples can now be almost as active as normal children," Lazerman said in the journal Hospital Practice.

"We do not recommend contact sports for them, but they can toss a football around or shoot a basketball when they want to. All our boys who are old enough ride bicycles regularly and swim actively—things that were unheard of a few years ago."

"One boy spent a month last summer backpacking with his family in the mountains; he had always been left at home before because 'the trip was too dangerous for him.'"

The program also allows regular school attendance—a change for many youths. Lazerman reported on one 8-year-old boy who was still in kindergarten because school officials thought he had suffered minimal brain damage and because he came only one day in four. On the at-home treatment, he started attending regularly, skipped three grades in a half year and scored 120 on an IQ test.

The at-home program can reduce costs from the $10,000 a year spent on many hemophilic children to $300 to $400 for emergency care and $1,000 annually for preventive care. Both figures depend upon the family obtaining most of the cryoprecipitate without cost by building up credits at a blood bank.

Crusade Launched To Eliminate Drunk Drivers From Highways

PITTSBURGH — A national consumer crusade to save the people's constitutional right to live by taking the habitual offending driver off the nation's highways was announced today by Howard H. Leighton, president of the National Association of Insurance Agents.

The first public announcement of the creation of the Consumers Insurance Information Bureau was made by Leighton in the keynote address at the 45th Pittsburgh "I (for insurance) Day" program in the William Penn Hotel here. The Bureau, sponsored by the NAIA which represents 150,000 independent agents across the country, will enlist broad consumer support for the national campaign.

"Taking the habitual offender off the road," Leighton said, "is a necessary first step to bring about a return to highway safety and help to solve an insurance crisis that is rapidly becoming unmanageable."

The biggest habitual offender of all is the drunk driver, the insurance leader said. The drunk driver was responsible for half the nation's 55,300 traffic deaths last year. He is also a prime cause for the skyrocketing costs of insurance premiums.

"The time has come to deal with the causes of accidents rather than their effects," said Leighton, "if we want to stop this mass murder on the highway."

The Consumers Insurance Information Bureau will organize a grass-roots campaign urging legislation in every state modeled after the Virginia Habitual Offender Law enacted in 1968. In the year and a half since that law went into effect the death rate dropped from 5.2 to 4.8 per 100-million vehicle miles in Virginia. The U.S. average is 5.5 deaths for every 100-million miles.

Since the Virginia law went into effect, 2,225 drivers were charged with being habitual offenders and the courts convicted 1,110, almost half of those arrested.

In addition, Leighton said, 20 of the convicted habitual offenders were later arrested for driving after their licenses had been revoked. All 20 are now serving terms of one to five years in the Virginia penitentiary.

The Consumer Insurance Information Bureau will help direct the efforts of 150,000 independent agents in generating community support for the drive against the habitual offender. The agents will promote their local civic organizations and church groups to form people's lobbies for highway safety.

The Bureau's national program will have the following specific goals:

- 1) Insist on minimum criteria for habitual offender legislation in all 50 states.
- 2) Demand strict enforcement of laws by local and state police—without fear or favor.
- 3) Urge courts to impose jail sentences rather than fines on habitual offenders.
- 4) Require periodic tests for driver health and vision.

The Bureau's long range goal is to educate the public on all aspects of insurance and to seek constructive solutions to insurance-related problems of interest and concern to the consumer.

Leighton said the habitual offender is the drunk driver, the speed maniac, the hit-run motorist, the drug addict, the careless driver who skips through traffic lights and stop signs, and the person who continues to drive after revocation of his license.

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Democrats already starting to plan for their 1972 campaign are finding the climate favorable for their sunburst of confidence about their changes of reclaiming the White House. But they are watching political barometers which indicate the political weather is subject to sudden changes. The 1970 elections gave the Democrats a lift by maintaining their majorities in the House and Senate, giving them a net gain of 11 governorships and increased power in the state legislatures.

Now they are reading public opinion polls indicating that President Nixon's administration is in trouble. The latest Harris Poll showed the percentage of voters rating his performance at good to excellent had dropped to 43 percent, the lowest point since he took office in 1969.

And the same polling organization indicated that Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine at least was favored over the President by a six-point margin, up three points from January.

At the same time, the Gallup Poll showed Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the 1968 loser to Nixon, moving ahead of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts as the favorite among Democrats and independents but still trailing far behind Muskie. The Democrats still are banking on economic issues to help them win in 1972. However, their meetings last week suggested that they feel the Vietnam War issue will be working for them if their principal spokesmen succeed in moving the party 180 degrees from the position occupied when Lyndon B. Johnson was president.

Control of Congress also is at stake next year and this is the season for the Republicans to talk of winning House and Senate majorities, a goal they have attained only twice in the past 40 years.

Republican realists are claiming no more than a chance to win control of the Senate next year. Their early choice of targets includes seats held by Democratic Sens. David Gambrell, Ga., Lee Metcalf, Mont., Clinton P. Anderson, N.M., B. Everett Jordan, N.C., Thomas J. McIntyre, N.H., Fred Harris, Okla., and William B. Spong, Va.

But they also must worry about some seats of their own such as those held by retiring Sens. John Sherman Cooper, Ky., and ailing Karl E. Mundt, S.D.

House Approves Extension Of Wage Control Authority

By FRANK ELEAZZER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House approved and sent to the White House Monday an extension of the wage and price control authority that President Nixon needed to try to halt inflation in the construction industry.

The House's voice-vote approval of the two-month extension, already passed by the Senate, came just a little more than an hour before Nixon's announcement of his construction industry action at San Clemente, Calif.

House members approved the measure after rejecting on a 183 to 143 vote a move by Democrats that the Republicans said would undermine the President's move against skyrocketing construction costs. Sponsored by Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., and other Democrats on the Banking Committee, the move would have precluded presidential use of the wage-price controls against a single industry.

Reuss said he supported Nixon's efforts to win a management-union agreement to restrain wage and price boosts in the construction industry. But he said he opposed an attempt to enforce such an agreement by law. He said it would be unfair to curb wages of construction workers alone while other segments of the economy continued on their upward spiral.

How to make your savings grow faster

Earn high interest at Security Federal

Your regular savings, plus the growth power of our compounded earnings, make your savings account add up quickly. And while money grows, Federal agency insurance keeps it safe. If you need funds quickly, your savings are readily available. That's what "serious money" is all about.

At Security Federal, we take the best care of your "serious money," paying interest every quarter, and we care about your convenience. Park free at both offices, or save at the drive up window in Amarillo. Save by mail, free, too, at Security Federal, the oldest and largest association on the High Plains.
