Charges May Be Filed Against Four Attempted Jailbreakers

Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan said this morning, "Everything is back in order and on normal schedule in the county jail," in reference to an attempted jailbreak discovered last Saturday.

Jordan said four prisoners confined in the west maximum security tank had obtained hack saw blades from a source undetermined, but under investigation. The lock on a door about 30 inches wide and four feet in height had been cut off, giving prisoners access to a vent in the top of the court house building. An attempt was being made by prisoners to saw through the Vent bars when Jordan discovered the attempted break.

"Mrs. Jordan heard sounds out of the ordinary and called me," Jordan said. He added, "When I checked up there, they were busy trying to get through the vent."

Jordan said about $250 worth of welding had the jail back in order and prisoners had been moved back into the tank.

The sheriff said no charges had been filed against the prisoners, one being held on a bench warrant for alleged prison break; two awaiting trial for burglary and one charged with forgery and passing.

Jordan stated charges may be filed when investigation ascertains when and how the prisoners gained access to the blades.

Thieu Announces Capital Penalty For Hard Drug Dealers, Importers

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu announced today a tough emergency anti-drug bill that makes dealing in narcotics a wartime crime and decreases the death penalty for importers and peddlers belonging to organized rings.

discussion and vote under emergency procedures, Thieu said "the bill lays emphasis on rehabilitation of addicts," those considered the victims of drug dealers.

While Thieu did not say so, the bill apparently was the result of U.S. government pressure to deal with the drug problem. It appeared, however, to

NASA Releases Color Pictures Of Moon Valley

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The space agency today released five strikingly beautiful color pictures taken by astronauts David R. Scott and James B. Irwin as they explored a valley of the moon at Hadley Base.

Scientists, meanwhile, continued their preliminary examination of Apollo 15's moon rocks and doctors scheduled an extra physical exam for the spacemen, who returned to earth Saturday from their 12-day journey.

The first Hadley Base pictures released show the astronauts, their lunar lander Falcon and their moon car on the stark, desolate lunar plain. The sky is jet black, the deep surface dust is gray.

There are shots of the two astronauts saluting the American flag; Irwin sitting in the moon buggy and standing beside it, and the buggy itself, surrounded by the footprints of the explorers. Rising in the distant background in four of the pictures are sections of the Apennine Mountains, their tops rounded like terrestrial hills.

A sixth color shot shows the command ship Endeavour orbiting 70 miles above the moon. It was snapped from the Falcon while the two ships were separated.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration also released nine black and white photos of similar content. It delayed release of a film clip until Wednesday.

Government Arrests Over 300 Terrorists

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Northern Ireland counted a heavy cost today for the bloodiest 24 hours in half a century of religious and political feuding.

The bill came to at least 14 dead, 94 injured and millions of dollars in damaged property.

At least 40 people have been killed in the communal warfare in Northern Ireland this year and at least 70 lives lost since a Catholic civil rights campaign renewed traditional Protestant Catholic violence two years ago.

Although a fragile peace descended with first light, now and again snipers fired on British troops. At midday, in the Lower Falls area of Belfast two soldiers fell wounded by sniper fire.

The Protestant-dominated government on Monday rounded up more than 300 suspected terrorists and Prime Minister Brian Faulkner invoked emergency powers to intern them indefinitely without trial.

He said the raids were aimed at the outlawed Irish Republican Army, which is dedicated to reuniting Northern Ireland with the Irish Republic by "bullet and bomb" if necessary.

The reaction was swift and bloody—a wave of rioting, shooting and looting. British troops were the main targets for roaming bands of guerrillas.

The death toll from Monday's fury may be higher. Some unofficial reports said 20 persons died in the street fighting in Belfast—London-derry, Newry and other towns.

"We don't know how many people may have died where the fighting was thickest and have simply been hauled away by friends," said a British army spokesman.

Fire and explosion wreaked havoc in homes and factories across the six counties of the British province, but with the dawn a semblance of normal life returned to the capital's littered streets.

In two years of rioting Belfast alone totals up property damage and personal injury claims of $39.6 million.

Many a Northern Ireland worker became jobless during the night from fire bombs.

Among the dead were two British soldiers, two boys and a Roman Catholic priest killed in a crossfire as he administered the last rites to an IRA gunman.

"It's all-out war now," an IRA leader declared Monday after a 25-year-old IRA officer was shot dead. Witnesses said he was shot by a Protestant.

Outlook Bright For Solution To City's Ambulance Problem

By TEX DEWESE

The possibility Pampa and Gray County will have a private ambulance service in operation Sept. 15 loomed high on the horizon today.

City Manager Mack Wofford told city commissioners this forenoon Metropolitan Ambulance Service of Amarillo has indicated willingness to establish a branch in Pampa.

Wofford said Metropolitan will offer a city-county ambulance service operating agreement in writing next Monday.

The proposal, he said, will be an outgrowth of a meeting attended here yesterday afternoon by the city manager, County Judge Don Cain, County commissioner Don Hinton, and LaWayne Guengerick, owner, and David Farmer, general manager of Metropolitan.

Details of the preliminary discussion were not released, and will not be available until the written proposal is submitted by the ambulance firm Monday, the city manager said.

However, it was understood the proposal will eliminate any capital outlay by the city or county. It is expected to provide that the city and county would pay a set amount in addition to charges made to individuals using the service.

Wofford said the preliminary arrangement shows the private enterprise project would mean that both city and county would be contributing at a "considerably less amount than it would cost either to operate the service.

Metropolitan has been operating in Amarillo on a private basis for five years.

Mayor Milo Carlson and other city commissioners agreed with Wofford today that the proposal, so far, seems to be the most feasible plan of operation.

County Judge Don Cain and Commissioner Hinton also indicated the solution offered to the ambulance service problem "appears to be most favorable."

A special meeting of the City Commission probably will be called to study Metropolitan's proposal.

Desertion Rate Of U.S. Army In S. Viet Breaks WWII Record

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the shrinking U.S. combat role, the army's desertion rate in the Vietnam conflict has climbed to the peak set in World War II.

The number of desertion cases in the first 10 months of the 1971 fiscal year, which ended June 30, increased to 68,449, the equivalent of 4 1/2 combat divisions. Figures for the final two months will push it even higher.

Desertion—absent without official leave for more than 30 days—has been on the rise since escalation of the Vietnam war was begun in 1965. In 1968 the desertion rate surpassed the Korean war high of 22.5 per 1,000, but until now it had been below that of World War II.

According to figures supplied by the Army, the rate of desertions for fiscal 1971 as of April was 62.6 per 1,000 men, compared with 52.3 for all of fiscal 1970. During World War II the Army's desertion rate hit a peak of 63 for 1,000 in 1944.

The AWOL and desertion rate for the Navy and Air Force is almost minuscule compared to that of the Army and Marine Corps. The Marines, however, report a decline in their desertion figures from a high of 59.6 per 1,000 in fiscal to 56.1 per 1,000 last year.

A great majority of deserters either are picked up or voluntarily return to their units. Because of the legal difficulty in proving intent of never returning to duty, most are tried on the lesser charge of being AWOL.

A Senate Armed Services subcommittee accused the Pentagon two years ago of a lack of concern and failure to deal sternly with the thousands of servicemen running away each year. In response, the Defense Department last September established a uniform policy for all the services to follow in dealing with deserters.

The Army blamed the Vietnam war for the big increase, citing some soldiers' fear of being wounded or killed in combat as the most frequent reason for running away. Most of those going AWOL did so after receiving their Vietnam orders, the Army said.

But today the casualties are down and fewer replacements are being sent to the battle zone—15,000 a month compared with 45,000 per month in 1968.

Although the desertion rate has reached a high, Army officials say they are encouraged by monthly statistics showing the number of runaways has dropped slightly each month since January.

Soviet Infiltration In Arab World A Mixture Of Success And Failure

CAIRO (AP) — Communist infiltration in the Arab world is a mixture of success and failure. It has given the Russians a big voice in the area, but it hasn't done the Arab Communists any good.

For 15 years the Soviet Union has been the main supplier of arms to many Arab states. Thousands of Soviet technicians, army officers and diplomats roam about freely in some Arab countries.

The Soviets have undertaken a mammoth construction scheme in Egypt and Syria. Egypt's billion dollar Swan High Dam, its near-billion dollar iron and steel complex at Helwan are examples.

The Soviets have gained strong footholds in the Middle East and at the northern gates of the African continent. But there is a growing trend in the Middle East toward rejecting local Communists, their ideology as well as their physical presence.

The 74-hour red coup in Sudan last month aroused so much resentment in Egypt and Libya that vigorous efforts were quickly mobilized to quench it. After Maj. Gen. Jaafar el Numairi was restored to power, he ordered a ruthless hunt for all Communists in his country.

Sudan's Communist party, although officially banned, counted more than 20,000 followers and was considered the largest and best organized in Africa and the Middle East. The failure of the coup has reduced its strength substantially.

Numairi's crackdown on the Communists and his execution of the Sudanese party's top leader angered Moscow, which attacked Numairi violently in its newspapers. Numairi expelled Soviet and Bulgarian diplomats from his country, recalled his ambassador to the two Communist countries and sent his defense minister to Peking to discuss economic and military aid, previously supplied by Moscow.

At the onset of the coup, the Soviet ambassador to Egypt, Vladimir Vinogradov, was reported to have called on President Anwar Sadat and urged him to support the rebels. Sadat is said to have reacted angrily, telling the ambassador he could never do so.

Hours later, Boris Ponomarev, a secretary of the Soviet Communist party, met Sadat in Cairo and again appealed for support for the coup. Informed sources say Sadat replied that communism could never be accepted in the Arab world, and he would fight it unflinchingly.

Libya's leader, Col. Muammar Kaddafi, publicly attacked Arab Communists and declared he would oppose communism throughout the Middle East.

Sadat differentiates between friendship with the Soviet Union and acceptance of Arab communism.

Because its stakes in the Arab world are high, the Soviet Union seems to have toned down attacks on Numairi and pressure on Sadat, and decided to drift with the Arab currents for the moment. Experienced observers of Communist trends in the Middle East say Moscow has always realized the futility of trying to implant communism in the Arab mentality, which is basically religious and conventional.

AFL-CIO Council Voices Support For Wage And Price Restraints

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The AFL-CIO Executive Council has pledged to support across-the-board federal wage and price controls if President Nixon deems them necessary to aid the economy. "We are prepared to cooperate with mandatory government controls, if the President decides they are necessary, provided such controls are enhanced and across-the-board," AFL-CIO President George Meany declared Monday following a meeting of the 95-member council. In a statement, the council opposed curbs on wages without some restraints on prices, profits, interest rates and other corporate income. "Wages are only one factor in the cost of any product, and actions which would freeze only wages and not other cost factors would create economic chaos," the council said in a statement which Meany read to newsmen. "As a result of 2 1/2 years of gross mismanagement by the Nixon administration, the country is in an economic mess," it said. "We will do our patriotic duty, but we will not be the scapegoat for the economic failures of this administration." About five million workers are unemployed and several million others are employed less than full time, because industry is operating at only 73 per cent of capacity, Meany said. He said the executive council is calling for: —Release of $12 billion in public works and other funds approved by Congress but frozen by Nixon. —Full funding of government programs for low and moderate income housing, education, health care and pollution control. —An increase in the federal minimum wage to at least $2 an hour. —Lowered interest rates to increase money and credit to expand the economy. The executive council also issued a statement urging the Nixon administration to reject tax programs which "erode" federal tax revenue and "move the tax structure further away from the principle of ability to pay." Meany said some administration spokesmen don't seem to realize "what unemployment means to a fellow who's out of work and has to support a family." "They're full of talk about how things are going to get better," the labor leader said. "I can't sell that to my members."

Borgeran Found Not Guilty Of Murder Charges In 1970

Truman Smith, Borger, was found not guilty to charges of murder in connection with the shooting death of Allen Greer, Borger, after a jury deliberated three hours in Stinnett's 84th District Court yesterday. Smith was charged with the May 6, 1970 shooting of the Borger radio and recording personality. Defense attorneys for Smith introduced evidence special army training had conditioned Smith to think Greer was the enemy after the latter allegedly knocked Smith to the ground the night of the shooting.

The items were recovered after Anderson told officers he had sold them for $6 after removing them from the garage. Thieu declared that the bill was presented to the National Assembly "with a view to preserving public health with an ultimate end of saving the race." "The present bill," he said in a statement, "evidences the determination of the Republic of Vietnam to eradicate the narcotics evil which is spreading at such a rate that it's becoming a danger for mankind." Thieu said the bill covers control of intoxicants, narcotics, opium, heroin and other dangerous drugs. "In addition to increasing the penalties provided in the existing laws," Thieu said, "the present bill prescribes several new sanctions, especially harsh for people who peddle, import and illegally hoard narcotics—these people being considered as seeking to poison other people." "The death penalty shall be ruled if the offender belongs to an organized group. The bill also provides for a special procedure to bring the case to court for urgent trial, as is the case for wartime crimes."

Four New VEE Cases Reported, Two In Humans, Two In Horses

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Four new cases of Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis (VEE) were reported Monday, two in humans and two in horses. The total brings the confirmed cases in humans to 60 with the newest ones reported by the Texas Health Department in Cameron and San Patricio counties. The two cases in horses bring the total of confirmed ones to 86. All of the confirmed cases have been in 12 South Texas counties. VEE is fatal about half the time in horses but resembles a mild virus infection in humans. Federal officials said Monday the aerial spraying attack against mosquitoes which carry the disease should be completed in Texas and Louisiana this week. In all, about 9 million acres will have been sprayed, they said. Meanwhile, a vaccination campaign in horses continues today with most of the action in Mississippi, Florida, Arizona and California. Similar campaigns are just about completed in Texas, New Mexico, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Arkansas, officials said.

USDA Says Cotton Production In 1971 Increases Eight Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Based on Aug. 1 field conditions, the nation's cotton crop this year will be barely large enough to take care of demand by U.S. mills and meet exports during the 1971-72 marketing season. The Agriculture Department announced Monday the year's first cotton production estimate, 10.9 million bales, a gain of eight per cent from 1970 output of 10.1 million. Although some improvement was indicated in yields, an average of 452 pounds per acre compared with 437 last year, much of the gain in outlook is the result of a larger acreage for harvest, some 11.6 million acres. That is some half a million more than the 1970 crop. Officials say the revised carryover supply of cotton at the beginning of the new marketing year which began on Aug. 1 was about 4.25 million bales, the smallest reserve in 20 years. The cotton industry and USDA had been hoping for a production this year of around 12 million bales, enough to cover 1971-72 demand and build up the reserves. A new cotton outlook report is scheduled for Aug. 20. It is expected to show that total cotton use in 1971-72 down slightly from last season's 11.5 million bales, mainly because of some shrink in exports. If the Aug. 1 production forecast holds true, that would point to a further reduction in cotton carryover supplies a year from now. However, the Crop Reporting Board pointed out in its report Monday that the historical differences between the Aug. 1 estimate and the final production tally has varied over the years from 28,000 to nearly 1.8 million bales. That means the monthly cotton estimates for 1971 output are almost certain to be modified. However, it would take an increase of around half a million bales to meet the expected demand.

FOR THIRD TIME Mutscher Giving Deposition Before Federal Grand Jury

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Gus Mutscher, Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives, appeared twice Monday before a federal grand jury and is scheduled to talk again today. He was one of several top Texas politicians called before the grand jury Tuesday. The body is investigating the collapse of the Sharpstown State Bank and a widespread insurance stock scandal. Also talking to the grand jury Monday were Dr. Elmer Baum, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, State Rep. W.S. Healy of Paducah, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee and a longtime power in the House, and two of Mutscher's top aides, Rush McGinty and F.S. Schulte. Also scheduled to appear today is state Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth. The state officials, along with Texas Gov. Preston Smith, made large profits in the stock of National Bankers Life Insurance Co. of Dallas in 1969. The stock was bought with loans from the now defunct Sharpstown State Bank. In a civil suit filed in January in Dallas, the Securities and Exchange Commission filed depositions which suggested that the politicians were given the opportunity to make the large profits in exchange for support of legislation which would have allowed the bank, owned by Frank W. Sharp, to escape scrutiny by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. Also Monday Sharp gave a deposition to investigators of the SEC in the federal courthouse here. Sharp had been scheduled to give depositions both in Dallas and Houston. U.S. Dist. Judge Robert M. Hill of Dallas had ordered Sharp to appear in Dallas for a deposition requested by the SEC and by attorneys for J. Quincy Adams of Dallas, another defendant in the SEC civil suit. Hill modified his order Monday to provide that lawyers for Adams will get a chance to question Sharp after Aug. 17. Until that date, Sharp must remain in Houston to answer questions for the federal grand jury. Sharp pleaded guilty last month to several banking and securities violations and was assessed a three-year probation sentence. He also was granted immunity from further prosecution in return for his testimony. The SEC lawyers will continue to question Sharp today, they said Monday. U. S. Atty. Anthony J. P. Faris said Monday he anticipates no indictments would be returned by the grand jury this week. He said from 10 to 15 other witnesses are yet to testify before the grand jury. One of the witnesses due to testify Wednesday is State Sen. William Patman of Ganado, who opposed the two banking bills pushed by Sharp.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am in the middle of a nightmare and don't know where to turn. First let me explain that I have always been a decent, church-going man and have never in my life cheated on my wife. (Before this.) She's a fine woman and we have a wonderful family.

I was laid off from my regular job, so I went to another state and found a job there. I was very lonely and got mixed up with a young girl. I foolishly didn't tell her I was married. We became more and more involved, and I even gave her an "engagement" ring. (I must have been crazy.)

Now the girl says she's pregnant, and we have to get married right away. I certainly can't marry her, and she refuses to get rid of the baby because she considers abortion "murder."

If the girl's father finds out I am married he will kill me. If I run out on the girl and am caught they will put me in jail. I am making good money at this job which I desperately need to support my family. So, Dear Abby, how do I get out of this mess?

—ALL FOULED UP
DEAR ALL: First, make absolutely sure that the girl is pregnant. If she is, I doubt if you'll be lucky enough to get into a nice safe jail. You must tell your girl friend about your wife. Then you must tell your wife about your girl friend. Then tell a lawyer the whole story. And pray.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think we should let Laurie, our 10-year-old daughter, spend the night with some of her little girl friends who have older brothers?

One of Laurie's friends has a 15-year-old brother and another has two brothers, 11 and 14. They are neighbors, but we really don't know the parents very well.

This argument comes up about every weekend, and Laurie ends up crying because we don't let her go.

Please help us decide.
ON THE FENCE
DEAR ON: Don't let Laurie stay overnight anywhere unless you know the parents, and are assured that there will be adequate supervision for a 10-year-old. Most teen-aged boys regard their little sisters as "pests," and have no interest in them or their friends, but one can't generalize. If I sound like a "Dirty old Lady" it's because I'd rather be safe than sorry.

JEANE DIXON

Your Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 11
YOUR BIRTHDAY, WEDNESDAY: This year you must diversify, create reserve vocations to follow part time if need be. Some lost causes and wastes are very useful learning opportunities and fields in which romantic attachments may flourish. Wednesday's natives seldom are satisfied with conditions as they find them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You'll be proud and well rewarded for your last and presence of mind. Take a complete change of scene and mood for a quiet, solitary evening.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): The stress of Wednesday is part of creating brighter conditions Thursday. Put your entire energy into doing things you really believe in, can support emotionally.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Feelings run well ahead of thought. You may blurt out something awkward, spoil a deal — and live ever so much better off. The goal is to live comfortably with yourself afterward.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Wear your favorite attire, cheer up, seek the romantic and sentimental in everything you do.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Expect little from anybody; be moderate and keep doing the best you can. Attend neglected bits of routine, tag ends of information to retrieve, errands to complete.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Being obstinate is a luxury; be sure you have adequate reason and can prove some point by doing so.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your sense of justice leads you into action beyond your plans. Avoid overdoing — divert some of your restless energy into tending obligations you've let slide.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Two sharp words plus two more may add up to a schism wherever competition or jealousy has been building. Seek better ways and means of settling such matters.

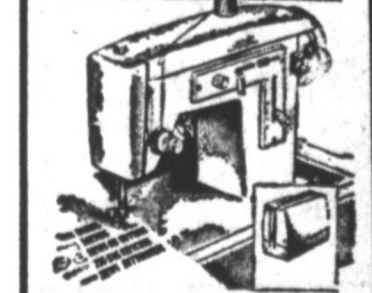

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You may not like what you hear about yourself, but it will help you to listen and speculate as to what you have done to provide such commentary.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): For lack of a good excuse or definite information you may have to let things go on exempt from your guidance for quite a while.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Younger people, freshly rising puzzles create pressing inconvenience. Write off your last time as experience.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Where people come to disagreement or a standstill, let them alone. Make plans for your own solitary ventures and proceed.

Investment Analyst Predict Long Skirt To Win Battles

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Call it midi or longuette, the triumph of the longer skirt by any name is inevitable.

And with the ultimate victory of the calf-length hem, American women for perhaps the first time will enjoy a panorama of flexible fashion in which nearly anything goes and apparel decisions are dominated by mood.

So says Joanne Howard, investment analyst for ISI Corp., San Francisco, who makes stock recommendations in the apparel field to the ISI Group of Mutual Funds.

Mrs. Howard acknowledges that longer skirts "didn't make it last year — but I don't think anything in the way of big change would have made it last year."

"The consumer was just too uncertain about a lot of things, including fashion. If 'hot pants' or mini skirts had been introduced last fall, I don't think they would have made it, either. The timing wasn't right."

In a period of uncertainty, economic or otherwise, the consumer — especially the female — turns to compromise, Mrs. Howard says.

"The pants suit was an ideal compromise for her," she notes. "With it, she didn't have to worry about skirt length—she knew she would be able to wear the pants after the skirt controversy is resolved."

"Things have changed now, though. Pants suits are not being purchased as dressy apparel — they are returning to the category of sports wear, and this will increase as women turn to the longer skirt."

Mrs. Howard feels too much was expected of the consumer in the conversion to the midi; the longer skirt required time for acceptance.

"It was such a drastic, dramatic change — from mini to midi," she notes. "Fashion experts accepted it swiftly, of course, because they like rapid change. But the consumer could not accept it immediately — none of her friends were wearing it. For a time, there was hardly anyone to wear the acceptance of the miniskirt was a gradual accomplishment too, Mrs. Howard recalls, which "succeeded the same way I believe the long skirt will."

"It started in England and crossed the Atlantic. The fashion-conscious in New York discovered it, then those in California went for it. Finally, the Midwest got the message. And this is what is happening with the longuette or midi.

"You hear a lot of knowledgeable people claiming the controversy has been resolved at the knee. But that's just where it has landed at present, in the country over-all. In terms of what's happening, well-dressed women in New York, and fashionable working women, are wearing the longer skirt. I think it will be an accepted thing in California this fall. It will probably take another year to really make it in the Midwest. But it will make it."

So what will happen to the midi?

"The mini will live. It will still be available and will still be purchased. For many women it will be sports apparel. But — and this is heartening — it will be worn by women that really look good in it. Most older women could never wear the mini," she declares.

TOKYO (AP) — More than 700,000 foreign residents were registered in Japan at the end of 1970, with North and South Koreans and Nationalist Chinese accounting for 94 per cent, the government announcer Americans totaled 19,045.

And what about "hot pants"?

"Hot pants — short-shorts — may be around for a while but they are going to be a novelty item," Mrs. Howard observes. "I can't see them being worn as a dress is worn. They are fun for parties and the like — and they certainly are selling. But they have limited application and I can't see many women wearing them to work."

Mrs. Howard says the new freedom and flexibility in fashion are "not only great for the consumer, but can be wonderful for the retailer, too."

No Giant Quarterback After Tarkenton Quits

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer
Pro football lost its second glamor quarterback in less than 48 hours Monday afternoon, when New York Giants signal-caller Fran Tarkenton left the club and returned to his Atlanta home because he could not reach a contract agreement with owner Wellington T. Mara.

"I can't play football without a contract," Tarkenton said Monday night. "Nothing else is involved except the contract. I cannot accept the offer they made me."

Tarkenton, 31, reportedly earned $100,000 in 1970, when he led the Giants to a 9-5 season, their best since 1963.

Tarkenton joins New York Jets' quarterback Joe Namath on the sidelines. Namath continued to recuperate at New York's Lenox Hill Hospital following surgery Sunday morning to repair torn ligaments and remove damaged cartilage in his left knee.

Dr. James A. Nicholas, the Jets' team physician and the orthopedist who has performed all four of Namath's knee operations, speculated that Namath might be able to return to action for the Jets' game against the Baltimore Colts Nov. 14.

"It's earlier than we'd like him back," Dr. Nicholas said. "The longer you give a thing like this, the better it will be in the long run."

"But if our game with the Colts on the 14th is a must type of thing, I don't think there would be any way of keeping Joe out of it."

Tarkenton could be back on the playing field long before Nov. 14. He emphasized that he is by no means retiring. "I didn't care to play the exhibition season without a contract," he declared.

Does he want to play football this year?

"I wouldn't have gone to camp if I didn't," he replied.

Mara, the Giants' owner, revealed that Tarkenton had asked for "a high, six-figure loan" for his various business and philanthropic enterprises as part of his contract.

"The loan is the real stumbling block," Mara said at a news conference in Houston. "I tried to work it out, but my legal advisers told me there was no way we could do it."

Whenever Tarkenton returns, it will not be soon enough for Giants' Coach Alex Webster, judging from the team's exhibition opener against the Houston Oilers Monday night in the Astrodome. Houston scored two quick touchdowns before the hometown fans, built up a 21-3 lead by halftime, then coasted to a 35-6 romp over the Giants.

Houston wide receiver Charley Joiner caught eight passes for 132 yards and two touchdowns, one a 56-yarder from veteran Charlie Johnson, the second a 19-yarder from rookie Lynn Dickey.

With Tarkenton out of action, veteran Dick Shiner did most of the quarterbacking for New York, whose offense could manage only two Pete gogolik field goals.

In Monday night's other pre-season contest the Philadelphia Eagles turned two blocked punts to their advantage and defeated the Oakland Raiders 25-24 in a West Coast game.

Linebacker Bill Hobbs blocked two of Mike Eischeid's punt attempts. The first went through the end zone for a safety, and the second went for a touch down when linebacker Ike Kelley fell on the ball in the end zone.

Eagles' quarterback Pete Liske threw a TD pass to Lee Bougness and rookie Happy Feller kicked three field goals completing the winners' scoring.

Oakland scored on three touchdown passes by Ken Stabler, filling in for injured Daryle Lamonica. Two went to Eldridge Dickey, and the other to Clarence Davis. George Blanda kicked a field goal for the Raiders' final three points.

Tarkenton was not the only NFL veteran to leave his team Monday. Green Bay Coach Dan Devine lost starting offensive tackle Lance Peay, when the five-year veteran walked out of camp after an argument with Packer assistant coaches.

"I'm extremely disappointed that Francis has chosen to disassociate himself from the squad," Devine, who coached Peay at the University of Missouri, said. "I'm sure he did what he felt he had to do. However, his departure leaves us in a real bind at offensive tackle."

Dick Himes, Bill Hayhoe and Pat Houlton are expected to vie for Peay's spot.

20-Year Jinx Moves With Giant Baseball

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer
Twenty years ago Wednesday, the New York Giants trailed the Brooklyn Dodgers by 13½ games in the race for the National League pennant. The Giants then reeled off 13 consecutive victories and eventually beat the Dodgers 5-4 on Bob Thomson's dramatic three-run homer in the ninth inning of the third game of a three-game playoff.

Today, the roles—and the teams—locations—are different. The Dodgers, now playing in Los Angeles, are in second place... but they are moving up fast on the fading Giants of San Francisco.

Monday night, the Dodgers sliced San Francisco's National League West lead to 4½ games—the smallest margin since July 7—with a 6-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals and Bob Gibson.

In the only other major league game Monday, an American League afternoon contest, the Boston Red Sox outslugged the Detroit Tigers 12-11.

The Dodgers, who have trimmed the Giants lead in half since falling nine games back on Aug. 1, blasted Cardinal pitching for 15 hits, including four each by Wes Parker and Willie Davis.

The Dodgers, one of the few teams to hold a lifetime edge over Gibson, pounded the Cards' ace for 14 hits in seven innings in beating him for the third straight time this season and the 20th time in 34 career decisions.

Parker doubled following a Cardinal error in the second-inning, before Duke Sims belted a two-run double. After the Cards tied it on Dal Maxvill's two-run single in the bottom of the second, the Dodgers again took a two-run lead in the third on singles by Bill Buckner, Davis, Willie Crawford and Parker.

State Play Opens For Pampa Little Leaguers

Pampa's American League Little Leaguers will be playing tonight in the state tournament being held in Waco at 5:30 p.m. The Little Leaguers advanced to the state finals after defeating Levelland, winner of area 26, in the regional playoff game 5 to 2.

The State Tournament is a single elimination affair and if Pampa should lose this afternoon they will be eliminated from further competition. A victory however, will send the young Pampans into action Thursday, Aug. 12. In order to win the tournament the team will have to win a total of four games.

NO SPRING CHICKEN but still not gone to pot, Boston shortstop Luis Aparicio, the American League All-Star shortstop, still goes to his right better than the average 37-year-old.

'Satchel' Paige Happy About His Induction

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) —How good a pitcher was Leroy "Satchel" Paige in his prime, when the doors to major league baseball were closed to him because his skin was black?

In his prime he would have been an easy 30-game winner in the majors—easy. It's almost impossible to even think anybody ever was as good.

The question lingers in the aftermath of Paige's induction Monday into Baseball's Hall of Fame. And it may never be answered to the satisfaction of all since Paige didn't pitch in the majors until he was 42.

When he hooked up on the tour with major leaguers there was no contest. Even Joe DiMaggio and Ted Williams said he was the best. The most amazing thing about him was that he was smart pitcher. He had everything a pitcher should.

Willie Walker Came To Texas To Play Football With WTSU

CANYON, — Willie Walker heard tell of fine football being played down in Texas and came to find out four years ago. He had heard correctly, but now he is one of the reasons for that fine playing.

Center James Hankins, who ended spring drills in the number one position, is a converted offensive tackle. He is backed by sophomore Dewayne Sexton and Mike Cases, another sophomore who was moved from linebacker late in the spring.

Walker, whose home is Freeport, N.Y., was a husky raw-boned youngster when he reported to the West Texas State Camp four years ago on a tryout basis as a fullback.

At night end, Aubrey Warren started at the end of spring drills. He has standout speed and improved as a receiver. He is backed by red-shirt sophomore Attila Vegh.

He impressed the Buffalo coaching staff at that time enough to put him on a scholarship. Although he bruised bodies when he ran into them carrying the football, he didn't out run many tacklers.

Opposite Walker at the other tackle is returning regular Joe Fiola. Backing them are sophomore Walter Adams and sophomore Billy Taylor.

Partly because of his lack of great quickness and partly because of his strong blocking, Walker was moved to tight end and red-shirted one year. For the past two seasons he was the starting tight end.

The guards are solid with regular Gary Ruston and letterman Steve Jones getting competition from squadman Greg McCoy and sophomore Ronnie Bassett.

Emergency Appendectomy Knocks Trevino Out Of Golf Competition

TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES, N.M. (AP) — Golfer Lee Trevino was reported in good condition today after undergoing an emergency appendectomy performed at St. Anne's Hospital here.

He said Trevino would be hospitalized about one week.

Trevino, professional golfer's lead money winner this year, was stricken Monday evening after returning from Socorro where he held a clinic at the New Mexico Junior PGA Tournament.

The El Paso, Tex., native was visiting the area to do some fishing but took the time to give some instructions to the young golfers.

The operation was performed by Dr. D. E. Stoops of Truth Or Consequences, and Dr. Leonard R. Becker of Albuquerque. Surgery began about 2:30 a.m., EDT, and lasted about 1½ hours.

Trevino has won $197,219 in PGA events this year, and also captured the United States, British and Canadian Open titles. He won the three tournaments within a period of four weeks.

"He's doing very well. He tolerated surgery very well," Dr. Stoops commented early today.

Since the British event, his playing has been off and just two weeks ago failed to make the cut at the Westchester Classic in New York. At that time he said he was tired and planned on taking a short rest which included some plans to spend time fishing.

Office Fishing Gear May Be Sneaking Success Story

CHICAGO (AP) — Have you ever dreamed of sneaking past your boss with your fishing gear so you could get a quick start on a vacation or a weekend without arousing comment?

Only a few spanking new products, most being new versions or improved types of old lines.

One fishing equipment manufacturer has made it possible. Among dozens of new products displayed at the American Fishing Tackle Manufacturers Association annual trade show was a seemingly ordinary attaché case.

Dozens of new baits and lures were shown in soft and hard plastic materials as well as minnow and plain, and some with small propellers and other metallic gimmicks.

In fitted compartments were a four-piece spin-casting rod and reel, an open-face spinning reel and four-piece rod, plus several spools of monofilament line.

One new lure exudes a fish-attracting scented substance when it's been in the water a few minutes. The scent in the lure will last one season, the manufacturer says.

The case and equipment will sell for around $100 when it reaches the market later this year.

There were several new electronic water depth and temperature rigs; power driven fish scalers; power driven ice cutter for the winter fishing enthusiast; inflatable rafts, kayaks, speed and sail boats, camping equipment; firearms and other hunting needs; and dozens of other accessories for outdoor living, recreation and sports.

Charles (Chuck) Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. O. Cox and Allan Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark received the coveted Eagle badge, the highest award in Scouting, recently in a ceremony held in Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church in Miami. Scoutmaster W. E. Cox presided at the meeting, and presented Bob Price, Representative of the 18th Congressional District as the honor guest and speaker. Congressman Price stressed the importance of each individual giving of their time and energy to be of service to their fellowman. Price presented the awards to the two boys. Scoutmaster Cox was presented with a plaque by the Eagles expressing appreciation for his help and unselfish giving of his time and energy that made this meeting possible. A plaque was presented to Fred Dunn, superintendent of the Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America, for his contribution to Boy Scout Troop No. 79. County Agent Vic Joyner and Hobart Fathes gave talks complimenting the Scouts on their achievement. The two Eagles also received God and Country Boy Scout awards at the morning worship service of the First United Methodist Church. This is the highest award given to Scouts by the church. It is an award given in recognition of their Christian Faith and dedicated service to the church and community.

British Losing 'Scruples' In Metric System Switch

LONDON (AP) — The British are losing their scruples, and it has nothing to do with morality. The scruple is a unit of measure, on the way out along with drams, grains, ounces, pounds, hundredweights, pecks, quarters and bushels. This is part of the movement to adopt the metric system, and a forecast of things to come in the United States if Congress agrees to a recommendation of the Commerce Department. Most of the measurements known as imperial are gradually giving way here to the metric system, which is easier to figure because it splits things by decimals. For example, 10 meters make a decameter and 1,000 make a kilometer. The imperial measurements being abandoned by Britain are in some cases the same as U.S. measures, in other cases not. A foot is 12 inches, in both countries but the imperial gallon used in Britain and Canada is about a fifth larger than the U.S. gallon. In Britain, gasoline eventually will be sold in liters rather than gallons. This is already the way it's done in Europe. Britain is doing the shift to metric gradually, and there is no present intention to do away with the pint measure for beer and milk. The metric system would use half a liter, slightly more than a pint, but the common man isn't willing to make this swap. Metric enthusiasts believe the pint eventually will become an anachronism, however. The government's Metrication Board is confident Britain will be substantially a metric country by 1975, or 10 years after the nation began going metric. To date some segments of industry are completely metric and other sections as far from it as ever. Metrication has hardly hit the ordinary shopper as yet. Many packages list weights or volumes in both imperial and metric measures, but goods specifically metric won't become really noticeable in stores until next year. No dramatic changeover will come as in February when the British switched to decimal currency from their old pounds, shillings and pence. There's no word of any butcher, fishmonger, or confectioner selling by the kilogram—2.2 pounds. But you can buy cloth at quite a few places by the meter instead of the slightly smaller imperial yard.

Young Earners, Keep Out

Referring to the federally administered Social Security program, Paul L. Poirot, Editor of The Freeman, wrote penetratingly:

"The only way the government can provide a windfall for the oldsters is to fleece the youngsters."

Truer words were never written. In a more political vein, but bearing witness to the growing burden of Social Security taxes (more crushing for many people than income taxes themselves), Rep. John W. Byrnes of the Ways and Means committee, in recent testimony against HR 1, a bill to further raise Social Security benefits and taxes, said in part:

"We simply must give as much attention to the burden we are imposing as to the benefits we are dispensing. I believe we have gone about as far as we can or ought to be imposing payroll tax burdens. We simply must remember that the income a worker can currently devote to future contingencies is limited by his ability to meet the immediate needs of his family. If the cost of Social Security cuts too deeply into daily living requirements, people will begin to make unfavorable comparisons between current costs and distant benefits. If the time ever comes that current workers are unwilling to bear the cost of providing benefits to current retirees, the Social Security system will be in real danger."

Just how fiscally unsound the whole scheme is, as well as the fact that young working people today can never hope to recoup in future payments anywhere near the amount being arbitrarily deducted from their wages in Social Security taxes, was made more than plain by Shirley Scheibla (author of "The Poverty Is Where the Money Is") in an article in the July 5 issue of Barron's, the National Financial and Business Weekly.

In the article, entitled "Memo to Young Workers — The Burdens of Social Security Now Greatly Exceed the Benefits," Miss Scheibla shows that the same amounts of money, invested in any reputable insurance policy, would pay far greater and surer dividends than Social Security.

Under present law (not counting the tax increase proposed by HR 1), Social Security taxes for a person, now 18 and starting work, will come to $19,720 for his working life in 46 years. Add to this the modest interest of 5 1/2 per cent the money could earn in interest were it left under the worker's control and was banked, and the total comes to $85,724. Add to this the further fact that the employer is forced by law to match the worker's "contributions" (thus reducing the employer's ability to pay higher wages), and you come to the astounding total of $171,448 that the government will collect in Social Security taxes during the working life of a typical worker.

And, for this amount, the Barron's writer shows, the worker could buy a private insurance annuity to pay him $17,316 a year for the rest of his life, of a total of $224,242.

Against this, and under even the most ideal of conditions, the best that the worker can expect to collect in Social Security payments after he retires is $80,888, including benefits for a wife and widow.

Are Consumers Fools?

It is axiomatic that where control of use cannot be exercised guarantee of results cannot be assured.

For example — to reduce the entire question to its stark absurdity — if Mrs. Smith bakes an apple pie and sells it to Mrs. Jones, thereby losing control of the speed at which it will be eaten, it would be foolhardy for Mrs. Smith to attempt to guarantee that the pie will last a specified period of time under such conditions.

Admittedly, that is an oversimplified example in point; nevertheless, the same logic applies, and is valid, in the cases of household appliances and other products. With different people using products in different ways and for varying periods of time on a daily basis, how can anyone be reasonably expected to foretell how long a vacuum cleaner will continue to function? A radio? An electric iron?

Clearly, the degree and frequency of strain to which an appliance is subjected, whether it is properly taken care of or not, etc., will affect its longevity. And, just as clearly, since a manufacturer has no way of controlling how an appliance is used after it is sold to a consumer, a law requiring him to state, and guarantee, just how long an appliance will last approaches legislative tyranny.

Yet, in spite of what should be obvious even to lawmakers, according to a recent bulletin of the National Federation of Independent Business, Inc., just such a federal law is being proposed by Rep. Melvin Price of Illinois in the current hysteria of "consumerism."

Under regulations and guidelines established by the National Bureau of Standards, "manufacturers of durable consumer goods, including household appliances would be required (under the law) to state the expected performance — life under normal use."

But, and here is the key question, just what IS "normal use?" Certainly, the use of a vacuum cleaner 15 minutes a week by Mrs. Smith, with a two-room apartment to clean, would not be "normal" for Mrs. Jones, with an eight-room house to keep tidy.

The tragedy of such bureaucracy-padding, cost-increasing laws, is that they are simply are not needed to protect the consumer — even if they were capable of performing that feat.

Consumers are not fools, the beliefs of the "consumerists" to the contrary notwithstanding. Word of a product that fails to perform satisfactorily gets around, just as knowledge of a better product also makes the rounds. And a manufacturer who attempts to foster off an inferior product soon gets his comeuppance.

The free market is not perfect in operation. People being fallible, no one expects it to be but the fact remains that, subject to the free choices and discipline of the consuming public, as it is, it is the best system ever devised by man.

PROFESSORS FOR FREEDOM AND ORDER

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The radicalization of many colleges and universities in recent years threatens scholarship vital to the nation and endangers the profession of teaching at the highest level. Fortunately, a number of responsible educators have joined together to form an organization to define the proper role of the academic community and to maintain standards of order and decorum.

This organization is UPAO, University Professors For Academic Order Inc. Its president is Dr. Julius van der Kroef of Bridgeport University, a leading authority on Indonesia. The vice president of UPAO is Dr. Charles A. Moser of George Washington University, a prolific scholar in the field of Slavic language studies. On the board of directors are professors at Georgetown University, Oregon State University, University of Minnesota, University of Mississippi, Purdue University, University of Arizona, University of West Virginia; and other leading public and private institutions.

In a recent report on the work of UPAO, Prof. van der Kroef said the organization has a mission "to assist in the restoration of shocked public confidence in the academic community." He warned that "A radicalized contingent of graduate students is now entering the academic profession in rapidly growing numbers and on some campuses the effect of the steady influx of radical junior faculty has already been apparent for some time."

Prof. Vander Kroef, Dr. Moser and their associates are scholars who believe in academic responsibility as well as academic freedom. Dr. van der Kroef has gone on record as saying that "our merchants and manufacturers, our fellow citizens who are craftsmen, farmers and laborers, and who, whether we like to admit it or not, assist in generating most of the wealth which makes possible our own professional roles, deserve to know that irresponsible campus hooliganism, masquerading under some currently fashionable ideological garb or other, is as abhorrent to us as it is to them."

The members of UPAO are well aware that the troubles facing higher education arise in several quarters. It recognizes that some university administrations are refusing to exercise traditional disciplinary controls, this neutral, "non-involved" position by an administration creates conditions for faculty-student confrontations and the breakdown of civilized order on the campus. It gives extremists an opportunity to use the campus as a revolutionary power base.

At the same time, UPAO is concerned about the attempts by New Leftists to control meetings of professional associations by totalitarian methods.

Dr. van der Kroef has called for new procedural ground rules in such organizations that provide for the uncompromising maintenance of public decorum during conference addresses and for clear warnings that any attempt to shout down speakers, stage "guerrilla theatre" disruptions, and so on, would not only result in the institution of legal proceedings on breach of the peace or other charges, but also would lead to the expulsion from the professional organization involved and to the department from its future conferences.

It is clear that countermeasures of this nature are essential if higher education and its associated organizations are not to be paralyzed by disruptionists. The members of UPAO are to be commended for their clear-minded and courageous efforts. The word "courageous" should be stressed, for on a number of campuses it takes physical courage to oppose the mobs organized by New Left professors and students.

UPAO is a worthy organization and should have chapters at every college and university in the country. Interested faculty members and administrators can get in touch with UPAO by writing the organization's national office, 3216 New Mexico Ave. NW, Washington, D.C. 20216.

I've Determined What They Both Don't Like

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Mavis wants to know if a coronary heart patient needs the same Florida climate in winter, as a high blood pressure victim. So study my answer carefully. For a coronary patient may not have any significant elevation of blood pressure. Cool air may actually be a boon to his heart.

CASE R-532: Mavis, G., aged 29, is a nurse.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "Daddy is a heart case. He has had two slight coronary attacks already so friends have urged him to spend his winters in Florida. But in our physiology class when I took nurse's training, I recall that a warm climate was prescribed for high blood pressure."

"So would that also apply to coronary causes? For Daddy's blood pressure is not abnormally elevated."

Heart Psychology

Heart patients need both psychology and medicine. The psychology will relieve their minds and thus reduce their faster pulse, plus their higher blood pressure. In a coronary attack, the one essential need of your heart is more oxygen! All our medical treatment of such a patient is directed toward a richer blood supply to the heart muscle, plus an increase of its oxygen content.

Nitroglycerine tablets under the tongue thus dilate those two coronary arteries that supply the blood to the heart muscle fibers. Morphine or other sedatives reduce the apprehension and slow down the pulse rate, thereby helping the hampered "motor" (heart). And a richer oxygen mixture in the air also benefits that injured heart. Cold air contains more oxygen than warm air!

Airplane pilots can also attest to the fact that a plane can take off easier in cold (as well as dry) air than in warm or moist air. For cold air is relatively "thicker" and thus gives more buoyancy to the airplane.

Fish in farm ponds also are likely to die if those ponds have partially filled with mud from the spring and fall freshets that drain plowed fields. By hot mid-summer, if the depth has been reduced to only 4 or 5 feet, the water grows so warm that large fish suffocate from lack of oxygen!

Cold air thus benefits the coronary patient via more oxygen but tends to raise blood pressure via constriction of the skin's capillaries.

You high blood pressure folks are urged to spend the winter in a warm climate so your surface vessels will dilate till your skin looks pinker. Your blood pressure then drops.

It's like the situation where city fire hydrants are turned on in summer to let kiddies frolic in the streaming water, for then pressure in the water mains goes down.

And if too many citizens also turn on garden hoses, the faucets on the top floors of highrise apartment buildings may hardly drip any water at all! This is a simple analogy of what happens in warm weather to the pressure in the blood vessels of a hypertensive patient. Air conditioners are thus excellent medical aids in summer for patients with coronary heart trouble, for each breath of such cooler-air brings more oxygen into the lungs. But warm weather and southern vacations in winter, are good for hypertension patients.

However, with our modern heating, your home offers you Florida temperature even when it is far below zero outdoors! So a Florida trip is not as medically important today as 50 years ago in the days of a single living room "base burner," fueled with gas or coal.

(Always write Dr. Crane in care of The Pampa Daily News, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and coins when you send for one of his 25 cents to cover typing and printing booklet.)

MOUSE NAMED MICKEY

It may all have started with a mouse named Mickey, but the great movie organization of the late Walt Disney is in a different category now with their steady stream of motion pictures and outstanding television productions.

During this time when most Hollywood motion picture studios are finding the going a little more difficult and are scrambling for some sort of recognition and survival, the Disney Studios are nothing less than a show business "Fantasyland." Unlike most other studios, the Disney organization continued to prosper even after the loss of its founder. It has enjoyed success while many studios crumbled.

The G-rated Disney nature films may not be the most intellectually stimulating material produced in the maze of film footage, but the public obviously likes the Disney approach, and that's what counts. More important, the public trusted Walt Disney, and this turned to loyalty, which is something few other movie industries, if any, are able to claim.

In recent years when movies in general turned to message movies and such racy content as nudity and strong language, the Disney organization stuck to its guns and achieved the kind of financial success others envied. Perhaps they should have taken the hint from the always big Disney box office sales: the public is tired of watching on the screen what they see all around them every day. It has become almost a cliché that Disney films are virtually the only ones you can take a child to without being embarrassed by what you see.

Walt Disney rendered a great service to Republic USA for many years. The heirs to his organization have followed his principles of entertainment. So, if you're looking for a source of entertainment, but don't want to spend your hard-earned money on trash, go see a Disney film. You'll be pleased and surprised.

Menstruation at 57

Is Most Unusual

Dear Dr. Lamb—Is it dangerous to still menstruate at the age of 57? This is my case!

After two years of irregular menstruations, it stopped last year. I thought it was the end of it but I menstruated again this year. Volume and duration were normal, except that I felt somewhat swollen for two weeks before. I feel fine, have a pap smear test done every year. Do you think it would be safer to consider a hysterectomy in order to try to prevent cancer? My mother died from cancer of the uterus at the age of 60.

Dear Reader—It is most unusual to be menstruating at that age. This would suggest that you could still get pregnant and you are past the age of any documented successful pregnancy. I think anyone with that type of history should see their doctor and have a complete examination. I don't wish to alarm you but bleeding is not always a menstrual period. Some women bleed from fibroid tumors, which are not malignant, but it is necessary to have an examination. Unexplained bleeding can also be more serious.

Regardless of how recently anyone has had a pap smear, unusual bleeding should be cause for a return visit to the doctor at once.

I am not enthusiastic about hysterectomies to prevent cancer. If there is something wrong with the uterus, then it should be considered. Otherwise a regular checkup is a better solution.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Two of my patients have requested me to obtain information from the National Institute of Health relative to restoration of sense of taste. Could you give me the specific mailing address?

Dear Reader—There have been a large number of requests for this information, which I guess speaks for itself about the number of people who need to spruce up their taster. The original information indicating doctors could obtain a kit from the National Institute of Health to test patients was in the Medical World News report of Dr. Henkin's work. It is this method which has successfully restored taste for a number of patients. It is a fairly new development. I would suggest that any doctor wanting a kit should write to Dr. Robert I. Henkin, Chief, Neuroendocrinology Section, National Heart and Lung Institute, National Institute of Health, Bethesda, Maryland. I hope his information will end up leaving a better taste in a lot of peoples' mouths.

Violence In Streets Due To Break Out Again In Fall

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) —

We are not done with the explosions of violence in the streets. The peace groups hope to gather again in Washington this fall as they did in May. They and others will find one reason or another to pester the two national conventions in 1972.

President Nixon's festival of renomination at San Diego surely will be an inviting target. And, here and there, the nation's seething black ghettos may blow up under the goad of rising unemployment. A good many after-the-fact studies of American violence have been made. Their usefulness as history is unquestioned, especially when concerned with specific outbreaks in the past decade. Their value as analysis is less certain.

The impression most of these reports leave is that "protest" — against the Vietnam war, poverty, discrimination, brutality — is at the root of the violence. The evidence is not convincing. Some episodes of violence, in scope, were indeed clear acts of protest. But many escalated into great waves of destruction, drawing in large numbers of people who would never have initiated a "protest." Thousands later looked back upon their own acts with puzzlement.

What emerges, really, is a kind of two-stage phenomenon. In the first phase, protest is a key factor spurring violence. But, depending upon the tangled elements of a given disturbance, at some point a human explosion takes place, and violent acts having little if anything to do with protest spew forth in profusion.

British author Colin Wilson, who has studied violence in some depth in his work, "A Casebook of Murder," probes this phenomenon: "Human violence is not necessarily a protest. It is not necessarily directed AT something. Human beings are like volcanoes. Civilization has tried to turn them into extinct volcanoes. Seismic disturbances are likely to cause them to erupt. But to imagine the eruption is a kind of roar of anger is as naive as the savage belief that volcanoes are angry."

Wilson does not accept the proposition that the black riots in U.S. cities in the middle and late 1960s were protests pure and simple. Protest was there, he says, but it was just the seismic disturbance that touched off a deeper eruption. He adds: "They were erupting because there is molten lava down there, and any crack in the surface layer will let it out."

Obviously, Wilson's notion that human beings have a core of violence is neither new nor unique with him. Recently, Ramsey Clark, former U.S. attorney general and a current favorite of some American liberals, indicated in extended private conversations his own belief that this core exists. He talks not of capping it, but of somehow eradicating it altogether.

There is nothing settled about the idea. Many people may argue that humans have no such built-in urge to violence. Yet, to stand with Colin Wilson on this issue is to make some kind of crude sense out of what this present era calls "mindless violence" — seemingly senseless, unmotivated killing, maiming, burning and other destruction. A dip into history shows, actually, that this kind of behavior has been a commonplace since the dawn of civilization.

The molten lava lies perilously close to the surface. "Civilization" is a thin crust, too easily torn away. Those who presently exalt rage, who urge its release as "cleansing and healthy," are toying with volcanoes. Bottling it up is what genuine civilization is all about.

Viet Bloc Wants Wide Open Vote In Election

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) —

After the Oct. 3 presidential elections in South Vietnam, a strong bloc of very influential (anti-Communist) Vietnamese officials plans to launch a drive to amend the constitution of the republic to make it possible for other Communists to run for office.

It is believed that these men will attempt to extract a pledge of support from President Thieu for this plan as a part of the price for their support for his re-election.

These men, including some of the most powerful figures in the Saigon government, believe that giving Communists the right to run for office is the only way to end the war and bring peace to their troubled country.

They are confident today, as they were not two years ago, that in fair and open elections the Communists, running openly as Communists, would be defeated hands down.

They are much less confident of the results if the Viet Cong Communists parading as non-Red liberals or as conservatives.

"Once this change in the constitution is made — or perhaps while the drive for a change is getting under way — these men hope to induce the Saigon government to negotiate in Paris with the Communists on recognition of Communists and candidates and freedom for peaceful political activities in South Vietnam as part of an over-all peace package.

These men have no objection to a "coalition government" if (and only if) it is a coalition resulting from open elections. They are not prepared to accept diplomatic agreement as part of a compromise arrangement to end the war. That artificial sort of coalition, they believe, would open the door to North Vietnamese subversion from within and end all hope for democracy and freedom in South Vietnam.

The projected proposals would not be all one way. Before Communist parties would be recognized, they would be required to disarm their armies and armed guerrilla forces in the south and give up military force and political assassination as means for attaining their ends.

Just how this is to be accomplished is not clear.

Historically, even a solemn signed-and-witnessed agreement has never been binding in fact on underground subversives.

There are three reasons why these men will wait until late this year to push this constitutional reform:

—They don't want to disrupt the lower house elections in August or the presidential elections in October.

—President Thieu at present is much too suspicious and cautious to agree to any such plan.

—They expect that their group will gain a great deal of additional strength in the August and October voting. This will add considerably to their leverage with Thieu, assuming that he is re-elected, as seems likely at this time.

Pan American Games Turning Into Cloak And Dagger Stuff

CALL, Colombia (AP) — Who was the seniorita in building 3 at the Pan American Village who yelled "Don't do it!" "Don't do it!"?

The Pan American Games moved into the second week yesterday not as a sports carnival dedicated to international brotherhood but more like something out of a cloak-and-dagger television serial.

The Cubans reportedly have secret agents posted at every exit to prevent more defections (the count is said to be up to seven but the Cubans admit to only three).

The Cubans say the United States has CIA agents under every bed. Manuel Gonzalez Guerra, chief of the Cuban delegation, insists the United States has imported CIA secret police moving around Cali like "sharks after a sardine."

The latest rumor is that a Cuban woman athlete lies dying in a hospital from poison. Police can't confirm it.

So it goes.

The sinister Hollywood atmosphere deepened over the week-end with the mysterious death of a man named Domingo Gomez, veteran Cuban trainer who plummeted to his death from the roof of the Cuban headquarters, Building No. 2, Saturday morning.

Was it a suicide? Was it an accident? Was he pushed? Conflicting inside stories are a dime a dozen. The official PanAm press office first called it a suicide, then retracted the statement when, after seven hours, the police said it was an accident.

Only one person knows. That was the woman in building 3, housing the Canadians and Brazilians, who at least half a dozen persons say they heard screams:

"Don't do it!" "Don't do it!"

At the moment the body hit the ground, two Puerto Rican volleyballers, walking only yards away, say they looked up and saw two men on the roof.

What were they doing there? And there are those Brazilians, in Building 3 across the court, who vow they heard the man cry "Down with Fidel!" as he fell to his death.

But Brazilians speak Portuguese. How could they understand Spanish so well from the lips of a falling man?

Who was Gomez, anyway? The press release only said he was the father of eight and had been with Cuban team five years.

One inside report is that it was he who helped Cuban athletes defect. One, by Cuban admission, is at the Panamanian embassy in Bogota and two others—a male and female fencer—had vanished in thin air.

It's said that Gomez was the man who administered to the wounds of a Cuban athlete, caught fleeing the main exit and given a tremendous beating by his capturers.

For this deed, one informant insists, he was taken up on the roof and tossed overboard.

Another theory is that he was one of Fidel Castro's secret agents who had informed on defectors or potential defectors and was done in by people he betrayed.

Radio and Television

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If the rest of the "Good Life" company survives this week, Larry Hagman will be back on the small screens next month playing a butler.

The actor, son of Broadway's Mary Martin, starred for five seasons as an anxious astronaut controlled by a beautiful genie in "I Dream of Jeannie."

This time out he is a fed-up young stockbroker who chucks the middle-class life to go into domestic service with his wife.

In the NBC comedy episode currently in production, Hagman uses a battery-powered wheel chair. Props, lighting equipment, life and limb are imperiled as he shoots around practicing stopping, starting and—most unpredictable—turning.

Rocketing out of one scene,

Hagman skidded to a halt against the metal base of a big klieg light to announce that he was happy to return to a comedy series. Last season, following the demise of "Jeannie," Hagman was in great demand for guest shots on other series, roles in movies-for-TV, and even found time to direct a theatrical film. But he never had any FUNNY STUFF.

Hagman had a deal for another series, and "The Good Life" idea turned up a week before the studio's option ran out. Since it is based on Hollywood Comedy writers' ideas about how the very rich live, it is almost as much of a fantasy—but without camera tricks—as was "Jeannie."

The millionaire (David Wayne) and his sister (Hermione Bradeley) dine alone at opposite ends of a table so long they must shout to converse. There is a lot of heavy, overstuffed furniture, dark family portraits, George IV silver and, of course, a Rolls Royce. Hagman, the novice butler, is in striped pants, morning coat and a gates-ajar collar "Very uncomfortable, it digs holes in my neck and makes ingrown hairs."

"We had a little trouble with etiquette," Hagman said. "Most of the writers grew up in the Bronx or some such and had never run into a butler outside of the movies. They'd write a direction like 'Albert serves the food.' It isn't as simple as that."

"I grew up in a family that had servants including butlers—I've been around servants all my life—and somehow we got the proper procedures straightened out without calling in an expert."

Report Coming Wednesday On Corn Production

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is nearing the end of its count-down for one of the most important crop reports of the year, the announcement on Wednesday of how much corn the government expects farmers to harvest this fall.

Private estimates put the crop at 5.4 billion bushels, which would be more than 600 million bushels larger than the record 1967 production. Last year, after blight, corn borers and drought had their way, the output dropped to 4.1 billion bushels, compared with a July estimate of 4.8 billion.

This year the July estimate was eliminated because of the uncertainty over blight. The August estimate will be the first by USDA on 1971 output. Thus far, according to department reports, blight damage has not been severe on a national basis.

Officials are taking care to qualify the estimate to be announced Wednesday.

Nader Now Attacking Commerce Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans should resign because he sides with big business rather than the public, says consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

"I happen to think... that Secretary Stans is not a public official by any sense of the term, that he really should resign immediately," Nader said Sunday on CBS' "Face the Nation."

Mrs. Nixon Plans Five-State Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Richard M. Nixon will make a five-state, three-day trip next week to focus attention on federal lands being turned over to local government for park and recreational use.

The White House announced the trip today.

She will be promoting the President's "Legacy of Parks" program in Virginia, Michigan, Minnesota, Oregon and California.

At each stop, Mrs. Nixon will participate in ceremonies presenting certificates of transfer to local officials for the park land and will make a tour of the areas involved.

The trip starts Monday, Aug. 16, in nearby McLean, Va., where 230 acres of federal property owned by the Department of Transportation will be turned over to the National Park Service for use as walking trails, bicycle paths, and baseball park and picnic area.

It will end Wednesday, Aug. 18, in California, where 372 acres of federal land at Border Field in San Diego and Imperial Beach will be transferred to the state of California for recreational use.

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia has started bottling Coca-Cola after two years of delay attributed to Communist hardliners, but newspapers reported it will cost 25 cents a bottle, four times the price of a domestic cola called Kofola.

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Presentations of the nobel prizes will be held this year at the Pentecostal Church in Stockholm because the traditional concert hall site is under repair, officials said.

So it goes.

DISNEY WORLD CASTLE'S topmost spire is functional as well as decorative—it is lightning rod insurance against central Florida's frequent thunderstorms.

Disney World Has 5,500 Jobs For 'Short-Haircuts'

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Walt Disney World has 5,500 vacant positions to fill with short-haired clean-cut people before the giant amusement complex opens Oct. 1, says the Disney employment relations manager.

"For girls, it's minimum makeup, natural hairstyles and color, says Tom Eastman. "For guys, no long hair. That's what we are."

Eastman said Disney casts its employees in roles, and there is no place for long-haired people in the $300 million fantasy world. "It's like writing a play," he said. "You write in certain characters that you want to look certain way. You can't change their appearance without changing the play."

Most of the jobs are service posts and not high-paying positions, he said.

Waitresses will receive $1 an hour plus tips; nonrestaurant service employees $1.70 an hour and up.

"We've done extensive wage studies throughout Florida," he said. "Our scales are comparable if not better than anything in the state."

"We're not in the business of blowing the economic situation all out of proportion."

The Disney employment center here is staying open seven days a week and may send representatives to Miami, Tampa and Daytona in search of job seekers.

More than 50,000 people have applied and been interviewed so far, he said. He said no potential employees have resided when told to change their grooming.

With the jobs come liberal fringe benefits and a chance to be promoted, he said.

"What we do, boiling it all down, is make people happy," he says. "That's a wonderful thing. It can make you feel pretty good when you get up in the morning."
