Railroad Strike Ends In Noonday Contract

Union Wins 42 Pct. Increase In Wages

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators announced today a contract settlement providing 42 per cent wage hikes over 42 months for about 200,000 trainmen, and said pickets would be removed from 10 strikebound railroads at noon.

Settlement of the 38-day old strikes in the dispute involving all the nation's major railroads came after a 17-hour marathon bargaining session at the Labor Department. It averted a possibility of congressional intervention to halt the crippling strikes.

The agreement also included changes in ancient railroad work rules which the industry had demanded in order to increase efficiency, and which will probably result eventually in some loss of jobs.

"I'm happy to announce an agreement has just been reached on a new labor contract that would end the railroad strike," Asst. Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery said.

"It has proved once again that if negotiators will be honest with one another and be fair with each other, collective bargaining will work," said President Charles Luna of the striking AFL-CIO United Transportation Union.

"We are very happy that this long dispute has ended and that a satisfactory agreement has been reached," said John P. Hilz, chief negotiator for the nation's railroad industry.

Asked if the 42 per cent wage hike was considered inflationary, Hilz said "I guess all settlements are somewhat inflationary."

The workers involved now average $3.30 per hour. Hilz said the industry was satisfied with the work rule changes it won, and both sides pledged to work together to increase railroad productivity and efficiency.

The gradually escalating strike which started with two railroads and spread to 10 had stranded tons of grains, perishable foods, coal, autos and other goods along the thousands of miles of strikebound tracks.

Earlier, a spokesman for one of the strikebound railroads had said Congress would have to step in if the dispute wasn't settled soon.

Rev. Graham Ends 10-Day Evangelical Revival At Oakland

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Rev. Billy Graham has ended his 10-day evangelical revival at Oakland Coliseum with a discussion of earthquakes as divine warnings of the end of an evil age.

"God uses earthquakes to shake people up, out of their complacency and over-confidence," Dr. Graham told a crowd of 51,000 persons, 9,000 of whom sat on the playing field of the 42,000-seat stadium Sunday.

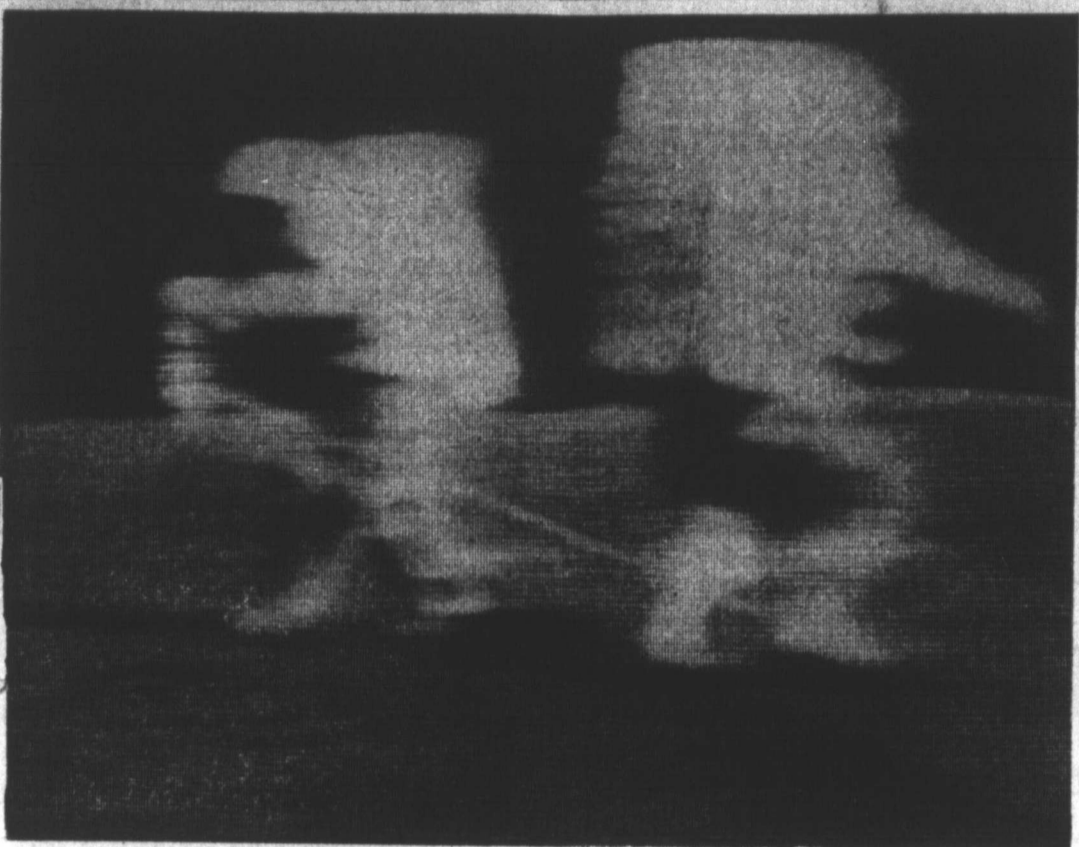

People laughed a few years ago, he said, when there were warnings that part of California could slide into the ocean. Since the recent quake in Southern California far fewer are laughing, he added.

The Bible never says that the world will come to an end, he said, but it does say the age we're in is an age dominated by evil," he said.

"Only God knows when it will end and the devil's work will cease," he said. "But it seems to many of us that all the signs He spoke of are now converging for the first time in history."

Dr. Graham said these signs included predicted famines, pestilence, an age of false prophets, and an age of violence and immorality.

"It used to be that criminals were locked up and the people were in the streets. Today, people lock themselves in their houses and the criminals who are in the streets," he said to loud applause.

Moon Walkers Exploring Hadley Rille Canyon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 15's explorers, possible possessors of primeval rock, climbed part way down the wall of the deep Hadley Rille canyon today after driving to its edge to gather rocks that may contain evidence of old volcanoes on the moon.

Upon completing their third and final scientific exploration on the lunar surface, David R. Scott and James B. Irwin blast off from the surface at 1:11 p.m. EDT.

They scooted their $8-million runabout about a mile through a "desert-like field of shallow craters to the rim of boulder-strewn canyon, one mile across and 1,200 feet deep.

They had not intended to climb down into the canyon, but they found the upper 30 or 40 feet of the wall was a gentle slope and they walked down easily that far to a terrace. Beyond that the wall dropped off sharply.

Scott and Irwin brought back more geological treasure, hoping to equal what they gathered Sunday when they discovered what some scientists believe may be rocks dating back 4.6 billion years to the birth of the solar system. The astronauts' enthusiasm was based on the fact that the rocks, found in a crater, contain several of the large crystals of the type that may have made up original lunar crust.

Scouting back toward the Falcon, Scott explained of the surrounding mountains: "They're all sunlit today. Just beautiful."

The view reminded Irwin of "one of my favorite biblical passages from the Psalms—look unto the hills from whence cometh my help... but of course we get quite a bit from Houston, too." The reference was to Psalm 121, Verse 1.

They missed a chance to gather other possible volcanic evidence when Mission Control told them to skip a planned drive to a series of craters about two miles to the north because time was running out. The astronauts started late as a result of some minor equipment problems Sunday, and they fell farther behind schedule this morning while trying to extract a drill from the surface, a factor which irritated Scott. He had expressed a desire to get on with the buggy ride to the rille.

When Mission Control told them to head from the rille back to the lunar lander, Scott sounded disappointed when he said: "No North Complex. Doggone. The really big surprise was up there."

At the canyon today parked the buggy and turned on their television camera to once again transmit remarkably clear pictures to earth.

The regime of President Jaafar el Numairi issued a statement Sunday charging both the Soviet Union and Bulgaria with intervention in Sudan's internal affairs, the Egyptian agency said.

The statement deplored the "vile propaganda campaign" against Numairi's government by the Soviet press because of the crackdown on the Sudanese Communists following their unsuccessful attempt to overthrow Numairi last month. The Bulgarian Embassy in Khartoum had been accused of a major role in the plot to oust Numairi and install a pro-Communist regime.

"We may give the Kremlin a chance to explain the motives behind the campaign against us," said one high-ranking Sudanese, "and then break all our relations with the Soviet Union."

The executions of leaders of the attempted coup was accompanied by increasing criticism from the Soviet Union and its allies, climaxing Saturday with a warning from Tass that Moscow might break relations with Khartoum. This would cut off Sudan's present source of arms, but one Sudanese official commented: "We can get arms from any other country."

Sudan Threatens To Boycott Ties With Moscow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Sudanese government has recalled its ambassadors from Moscow and Sofia and threatened to break diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union, Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported today.

The regime of President Jaafar el Numairi issued a statement Sunday charging both the Soviet Union and Bulgaria with intervention in Sudan's internal affairs, the Egyptian agency said.

Personality Spotlight Of Miss ToT Hopefuls

Introductions of contestants in the "Miss Top O' Texas Beauty Pageant" today include Sherry Johnson, "Miss Sarah's," and Sidney Mills, "Miss Behrman's."

Sherry is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Johnson, 2505 Charles. The brown-eyed Pampa High School student can prove her stated love for swimming by a golden tan which sets off her brunette beauty. Posing for her introduction picture in a brightly colored multi-print swim suit, Sherry drew approving glances from passersby at Coronado Inn poolside. She is employed by Kentucky Fried Chicken for the summer, but says she spends her off-hours water skiing, swimming, horseback riding and taking part in outdoor sports. She is 17 years old and stands five feet, eight inches tall and weighs 120 pounds. She is sponsored by Sarah's.

Sidney Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Mills Jr., 2301 Mary Ellen, has just completed studies at Pampa High School where she was active in social, academic and sports areas. The hazel-eyed graduate was named All-School Girl, Pin-Up, and cheerleader. Titles of Miss Irish Rose, Lions Club Sweetheart, Wheeler Rodeo Queen and two years of tennis highlighted her high school years. Sidney is 17 and weighs 127 pounds. The pretty blonde plans to attend Eastern New Mexico University in Portales this fall. She is sponsored by Behrman's.

County Commissioners Deliberate Plan For Public Ambulance Service

Gray County Commissioners were still in session late this forenoon in an effort to determine a plan for a public ambulance service for Pampa and the county.

A city plan for a hospital-based service was being considered. The city has proposed the service with Pampa and Gray County sharing the costs above income.

Local funeral homes have announced public ambulance service through their firms will be discontinued Sept. 15, listing financial difficulty arising from public service as the reason for termination of emergency ambulance runs.

The new contract, which the industry says will raise costs 15 per cent the first year, includes substantial improvements in pensions, life insurance and job differential pay and adds a ninth paid holiday.

It also provides a $30-per-week increase in supplemental unemployment benefits, which many workers could cash in on if threatened layoffs develop. Under the old contract, supplemental benefits amounted to

PAY RAISED BY 30% Steel Workers Avert Nationwide Walkout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Steelworkers have averted a nationwide strike by accepting an 11th-hour settlement forged around a 30-per-cent pay hike and a hefty list of fringe benefits.

But a dark lining threatened the silver cloud for many of the 350,000 workers affected immediately.

U.S. Steel Corp. turned away workers who showed up for shifts beginning shortly after the settlement Sunday night that averted the first nationwide steel strike in 12 years. And many workers could find themselves off the job during the months ahead while steel customers use up large stockpiles accumulated in anticipation of the strike that never came.

U.S. Plans To Issue Statement On Red China's Entry Into U.N.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration plans to issue this week its long-awaited policy statement on Chinese membership in the United Nations.

Officials said Secretary of State William P. Rogers will set forth the U.S. position on the issue, which promises to be a hot one at the United Nations this fall with the United States risking a diplomatic black eye in the process.

President Nixon, under his new policy of friendship toward Peking, is understood to favor seating Red China in the United Nations. He is also said to be against expulsion of Nationalist China, an old ally, from the world body.

Rogers and other administration strategists are reported to have decided on a two-thirds-vote tactic at the U.N. General Assembly which they hope will achieve this "one-China-one-Taiwan" goal—or at least will show that America is not abandoning its allies.

The general idea of the tactic is to have a straight majority vote on seating Peking and a two-thirds requirement against expelling Taiwan.

This two-thirds-vote procedure would be different from the one under which the United States has barred Red China's entry in past years. Under that, U.N. admission was deemed an "important question" and a simple majority was not enough to bring Peking in.

Support for the "important question" move has shrunk in recent times as more nation-established ties with Communist China. And Nixon's Peking trip announcement added fuel to the drive for her U.N. entry during the General Assembly session opening in September.

U.S. officials said, however, that a nose count at the United Nations still shows a majority of nations are against kicking out a member by less than a two-thirds vote.

The officials said Japan and other U.S. allies concerned about Nationalist China have coordinated their positions in behind-the-scenes consultations.

Committee OK's Price Study On Lake Salt Water

Congressman Bob Price reported from Washington today his request for $25,000 to study means of preventing salt water from flowing into Lake Meredith has received committee approval.

Price said approval also was given to a $300,000 request for planning salt water dams which have been proposed for the southeastern part of the Texas Panhandle.

Purpose of the dams would be to prevent salt water from polluting the Red River.

Both requests, according to Price, will now go before the House of Representatives for action.

Two Men Injured In Car Accident

A two-car accident four miles south of Pampa Saturday night resulted in injury to two men, passengers in one car. The driver of the second car, Sam Maples, 19, Lefors, was uninjured.

The cars were in collision shortly after 10 p.m.

Paul Robinson, 28, 545 Hartem, and Odie Delucas, 58, Wichita Falls, were treated and released from Highland General Hospital following the accident.

The Department of Public Safety is continuing investigation.

29 Persons In Texas Die Through Traffic Mishaps And Shootings

A car crammed with 15 persons collided head-on with another, killing three and injuring 12 to set the pace for the violent deaths this weekend in Texas.

By midnight Sunday 29 persons had lost their lives through shootings, drownings and traffic mishaps. The count by the Associated Press began at 6 p.m. Friday.

Twenty rode Texas highways to their deaths. The gun claimed seven others and one drowned. Another was struck by a train while walking a trestle.

State Legislator Fights In Court To Save District

AUSTIN (AP) — A member of the "Dirty 30" begins a court fight today to save his district. Rep. Tom Craddock of Midland originally sued challenging the House Redistricting Bill in his home town, but the defendants got the case transferred to Austin.

Among the defendants are Gov. Preston Smith, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin and Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. The self-named "Dirty 30" are House liberals and Republicans who opposed Speaker Gus Mutscher and the "establishment" during this year's legislative session.

Study Shows Full-Scale Seeding Can Reduce Hurricane Damage

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $50,000 study made for the government says millions of dollars in damage could be prevented by full-scale seeding of hurricanes, but officials plan only limited, experimental seeding when their Project Stormfury hurricane watch begins Wednesday.

At present, Project Stormfury has authority to seed only those hurricanes which are given less than a 10 per cent chance of being within 50 miles of shore within 18 hours after seeding. The Stanford report urges that this policy be rescinded.

From 1965 to 1969, hurricane damage in the United States cost more than $2.5 billion. Both the government and the Stanford report talk in terms of reducing hurricane winds by 15 per cent and SRI says available "Four seedings are a pretty data indicates such a reduction small sample."

Poll Shows Barnes Can Beat Smith In Four-Man Race In 1972 Election

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith would run third in a four-man race for the Democratic nomination for governor, and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes would take that nomination without a runoff, according to a poll by the Austin American-Statesman.

The newspaper said Monday that 64 leaders of the Democratic party responded to its poll. It did not say how many were questioned.

Of those who picked the order of finish, 41 said Barnes would come in first, 10 named former U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, eight said Smith and four selected Uvalde banker-rancher Dolph Briscoe.

Twenty-three said Smith won't run. Thirty-eight said Yarborough would get into the race, while 11 said he would stay out.

The newspaper mailed its questionnaire shortly after Barnes announced his candidacy for governor.

Polled were "members of the state Democratic executive committee, county party chairmen, prominent lobbyists with strong party credentials and politically astute leaders and contributors."

Barnes rated highest among lobbyists, getting 11 of 13 votes on their prediction of who would win.

Smith got only one lobbyist "preference" vote.

For the lieutenant governor's race, Sen. Ralph Hall of rockwall, bot 16 first-place votes, Briscoe and Houston Post president and executive editor William P. Hobby Jr. got six each.

Getting more than two votes for lieutenant governor were Sens. Wayne Connally, Fibresville; A. R. "Babe" Schwartz, Galveston; and Don Kennard, Fort Worth; and Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. and Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong.

Barnes got four votes to stay where he is.

Texas Stock Fraud Hurts State Democratic Party

AUSTIN (AP) — A poll of state Democratic leaders shows an overwhelming majority think the Texas stock scandal has hurt the party, the Austin American-Statesman reported Sunday.

The newspaper said 64 leaders responded to its poll. It did not say how many were questioned.

Of those responding, 57 said the scandal had damaged the party.

Fifty-nine answered a question on whether state Democratic Chairman Elmer Baum should resign. Only eight said he should keep the job, the newspaper said.

Baum and Gov. Preston Smith split a profit of $125,000 in National Bankers Life Insurance Co. stock in 1969. They bought the stock with loans from the Sharpstown State Bank in Houston, whose chairman, Frank Sharp, favored two banking bills the governor included in his call for a special session.

The loans were secured only with the stock they were used to purchase.

The bills, which Smith later vetoed, would have allowed state banks to insure their deposits with a state corporation rather than the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. This would have permitted the state banks to avoid federal bank examiners.

The U. S. Securities and Exchange Commission filed suit against Sharp, his bank, the insurance company—which he controlled—and 25 other individuals that the stock was manipulated to influence passage of the bills.

Smith and Baum are not defendants in that suit.

The American-Statesman said it polled "members of the State Democratic Executive Committee—who elect the party chairman—and county party chairmen, prominent lobbyists with strong party credentials and politically astute leaders and contributors."

BALTIMORE (AP) — A wrong number circuit which teen-agers in the Pikesville area were using for a blind date service no longer works because it "had the potential to pig up the network," the C&P Telephone Co. says.

Using the 511 number that had no approved function, strangers in the northwest district of the city were using it to talk at random, exchange phone numbers and arrange dates.

But because of its potential harm, the Chesapeake 9 Potomac apparently decided the number was being used too much and a check revealed a recording saying the caller had a wrong number.

On duty with flair, flattery and excitement the new blazer pantsuit (left) is making a hit with women who insist on wearing fashion while they work in uniform. Tailored to a professional's taste of double knit polyester the trim blazer is cut with superb fit and sports a trio of pocket flaps plus deep back side vents. Matching pants come straight or smartly flared. Princess tunic (center) is pretty to look at and practical to wear for all that bending, lifting, moving and hefting. Details that rate fashion honors include the V-neck inset band and high-rise waistband inset. It is in a luxurious ribbed-knit jersey polyester and nylon. These are by White Swan. The newest "inner" uniform for working women in white (right) is Under-Scene by Bestform. The lightweight, all-in-one body shirt of nylon gives gentle control and a super-sleek line under pantsuit uniforms. Zipper or pocket fronts correspond to outer ton.

America's Nurses Set Style Trends

NEW YORK (NEA)—Nurses, dental assistants, lab technicians and other professional women in white are the objects of a lot of fashion attention — outside and in. The legion of women who spend their working hours in uniform have served notice on the world that they're still women, still interested in how they look on duty as well as off.

Accordingly, a company that's been dressing nurses for over half a century, has designed a collection for '71 that includes pantsuits, culotte dresses, tunics and jumper looks as well as all the familiar classic shirtwaist dresses, skimmers and princess lines. And even those classic have plenty of day by day of zesty corded fabrics, body-tucking, mock turtle necks, sweaters-insets, waist-defining belts and all manner of sleeve variations.

As for pantsuits and pants-plus-tops separates they're causing their share of excitement in a movement that might be described as "Nurses Lib." While the ladies in white are much quieter about asserting their rights than their more militant and voluble sisters who make Women's Lib headlines, the right to be panted in white now has its solid supporters in hospitals everywhere. And for all the bending, lifting, moving, hefting and plain hard work that goes with being a nurse it's hard to argue against the pure practicality of pants.

First to win their way in this new direction were a group of nurses at normally conservative Queen of the Angels Hospital in Los Angeles, whose neat and appealing appearance, en masse in well-fitted pantsuit uniforms pretty well stopped any arguments or complaints.

And just as the women in white have turned to outer fashion there are some interesting undercover trends developing, too, reports the foundation experts. Rather than the inhibiting and typical bra and girdle new Body Shirts, aptly named UnderScene, are making the scene. They're mobile, all-in-one, light-weight nylon garments with gentle support and are perfect with the pant uniforms. No ride — just ease of motion and the freedom of movement so vital for the gals on the move. Many come in flame-stitch patterns, a colorful inside secret, with industrial zippers and placket fronts to coordinate with the uniform tops. It's a one-size-fits-all that really works wonders and assures a smooth, feminine line that will brighten any patient's day. And the doctor's, too.

TOKYO (AP) — Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai conferred in Peking on Sunday with Le Duc Tho, special adviser to Xuan Thuy, North Vietnam's chief delegate to the Paris peace talks. New China News Agency, reporting the meeting, did not say what was discussed.

What Should You Do In Hot Weather?

Summer heat can have a telling effect on your body and it is important to take normal precautions to reduce this effect. You must realize that you burn up just as much energy in heat as in cold. So you should keep up a normal diet. Dressing properly can help. Remember that even a single-layer of clothing helps protect you against heat reflections as well as from the direct rays of the sun.

You lose fluid in the heat and so you should drink plenty of water to avoid dehydration when you are perspiring heavily. When it is really hot, guard against heat and sun-stroke by avoiding exhausting work or exercise — even in the shade. Finally, remember that we carry many poisons for making hot summer living more comfortable.

PHARMACY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You may not categorize this as a major problem, but to me, right now, it is.

Recently my husband and I bought a Summer place. We wanted it mainly for our children's sake. For years we have wanted to get away from the city and relax in privacy.

your present, but stay home." I would like your opinion.

IN THE DOGHOUSE

DEAR IN: Not everyone construes an announcement as a bid for a gift, but if your relatives do, in the future, skip the announcements.

Now, the problem: My sister and her husband have decided that they would like a place near us. They have seven children. They now live a few blocks from us in the suburbs. I love my family, dearly, but Abby, not next door at all times!

DEAR ABBY: I am a bride and new in the office. There is an older woman over me who recently lost her husband and mother within one week.

I don't want to cause friction between families, but is there a way to avoid this situation? Or am I being selfish and unfair?

I wanted to be extra nice to her, so as I was leaving the office I said, "Have a nice weekend."

CAN'T SIGN

DEAR CAN'T: You are neither selfish nor unfair, just realistic. I agree, too much togetherness can cause any good relationship to come apart at the seams, but unless your relatives realize it (which they obviously do not) you would have to be a master diplomat to suggest it without offending them.

She looked at me real funny and said, "Come here," walked up to her and then she said, "Could you possibly have a nice weekend if you had lost your mother and husband within one week?" I said, "No, I guess I couldn't, & just didn't think." Then she said, "You will no doubt consider it rude of me for calling you down on your thoughtless comment, but it is time you learned to think before you speak."

DEAR ABBY: I just graduated from high school and made a lot of enemies without meaning to. You see, I sent out 60 graduation announcements to let my relatives know that I was graduating. I ordered the announcements through my school like all the kids do.

What do you think of this? I even went out of my way to try to be nice to her. What shall I do?

Well, it seems that a lot of my relatives took the announcement to mean they were invited to my graduation exercises, which they were not because I got only four tickets, which went to my parents and one set of grandparents.

21 IN ST. LOUIS

DEAR 21: I would first consider the fact that this woman had been through a very trying ordeal, and deserved to be excused for criticizing your well-meant — however inappropriate comment. And in the future I would try to remember to think before speaking.

One aunt said that as long as she couldn't attend my graduation, she could have lived without the announcement. An uncle said that to him an invitation without an invitation was like saying, "Send

Suspended Shelves Aid In Decorating

By AILEEN SNODDY
NEW YORK (NEA)—Do-it-yourself installations that make wall space more usable without creating clutter are a homemaker's dream. One idea is to suspend shelves from the ceiling on chains. The shelf becomes a decorative focal point and doubles as a fun buffet.

length to the outside of the shelf and hold in place with a decorative nut. According to your whim paint or cover the shelf with vinyl, wall-paper or any decorative fabric.

When starting the project first measure the length and width of the space to fill. Then consider the weight of the shelf and its total weight with objects on it, such as lamps, art objects, food servers. This helps in selecting the correct weight of chain for safety and stability.

One year ago: At least 125 persons died when a Caribbean ferry sank in shark-infested waters between St. Kitts and Nevis.

Ask your hardware or lumberyard man about this when making a selection. Welded chain (those with no noticeable link separation) is usually preferred for suspending shelves designed to hold heavier objects like television sets and stereo systems.

Suspend chains from ceiling joists. These usually run across the width of a room — every 16 inches or so. Locate joists with a stud finder, usually costing about 50 cents at hardware stores. Use suitable and sturdy hooks. Screw them into the lengths of chain to the hooks. There are different ways to attach a chain to the shelf. Drill holes through each shelf end and run each of four lengths of chain through each hole. Plug chain on bottom of the shelf. Or attach each

Richard Petty Wins Top Dollar In Dixie 500

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Richard Petty drove his trusty Plymouth to a brilliant victory in the Dixie 500 Sunday and became the third driver of record to top the $1 million mark in auto racing.

He did it the hard way, out-charging Mercury's Bobby Allison in a stirring two-car duel the final 50 miles and beating the older of the two Hueytown, Ala., racing brothers across the finish line by a car length.

The 34-year-old son of two-time stock car champ Lee Petty collected $20,560 from the $105,000 purse and ran his career winnings to $1,018,205—all of it in a 13-year association with NASCAR and most of it Plymouth cars.

With Allison riding his bumper from their final pit stop, Petty completed the 328 laps around the mile and one-half Atlanta International Speedway oval in three hours, 52 minutes and five-tenths seconds. His average speed was 129.061 miles per hour despite five yellow lights that slowed the action for 48 circuits.

Len Dawson Looking For Kansas City Precision

LIBERTY, Mo. (AP) — The arm of the Kansas City Chiefs is poised and ready to throw again.

That would be precision passer Len Dawson, starting his 15th season of professional football and still regarded by Chiefs Coach Hank Stram as "the most accurate passer in the game today."

Stram, after watching Dawson fill the air with deadly passes at the Chiefs' training camp, makes this appraisal of his No. 1 quarterback:

"I still feel Lenny's ability to hit the open receiver is the best in pro football. He has the uncanny ability to pick up the secondary receivers, and that's very important. Lenny will be our quarterback without question."

There were many who thought Dawson might be on the road down after the 1970 campaign when he had the worst yardage average on completions of his fabulous career. He completed 141 of 262 passes for 1,829 yards.

The 36-year-old Dawson, like Stram, doesn't worry about his critics. Len, who has passed for more than 20,000 yards and 195 touchdowns during his career, says he has followed the same winter training program he set up for himself in 1969.

That could be bad news for the rest of the National Football League because the Chiefs that season won football's biggest prize, the Super Bowl trophy, by whipping the heavily favored Minnesota Vikings 23-7.

"I started throwing in February this year," Dawson says. "I worked out at least twice and often three times a week right up until we started training camp. Usually, I threw about 50 passes a day, sometimes more, depending on how my arm felt.

"I wanted to keep active so that I wouldn't have any problems when we went to camp. My targets were mostly Chiefs receivers who were around at the time. Jimmy Hines was one of my main receivers."

Dawson says that, as usual, his arm is sore but he's not concerned about the arm.

"A sore arm is nothing new for me," Dawson explains. "I've gotten a sore arm all of the 20 years I've played quarterback. I have to work the soreness out just as I've always had to do. I can pass the ball all right. I just don't have the zip on the ball when it's sore, and it messes up my delivery."

"Like I said, though, it's nothing new. It'll come around by the time we play. I'm looking forward to the new season."

Dawson says he's having no difficulty with his left leg which he injured in 1969 against Boston. Torn ligaments kept him out of six games this season, and Dawson turned thumbs down on an operation because he "wanted to play." The other knee was injured last year.

"I don't anticipate any trouble with my knees," Dawson insists. "They aren't like they were before the injuries. They're loose but there's no fluid and no cartilage damage. You use your legs in throwing and sometimes when they're both taped or wapped, it restricts my quickness. I also tire quicker. I hope they don't have to be taped this year."

Dawson, aware of Stram's recent promise that the Chiefs will take to the air more often this season, thinks Kansas City's offensive line which faltered often in 1970 will be vastly improved because of heavy doses of live contact in this year's training camp.

"I've got confidence in our offensive line," Dawson says. "We've had a lot of live pass blocking for our offensive linemen and backs. That's going to help everybody because it gives the quarterbacks a chance to throw under game conditions."

As a result of the live contact, there is better timing between the quarterbacks and receivers. We have fine speed at the receiving positions."

One receiver who has impressed Dawson is Hines, acquired by the Chiefs near the close of the 1970 season after three so-so seasons with the Miami Dolphins.

Hines, known as the "world's fastest human," is listed as the No. 2 split end behind Frank Pitts, a veteran, on Stram's depth chart.

"I've been working with Jimmy," says Dawson. "He's still learning how to run pass patterns. He's come a long way. We also have some other receivers who are coming along like Lewis Porter, Major Stevenson and Bruce Bergey. Elmo Wright, our No. 1 draft choice, should help us. Guy Ingles of Nebraska also is a tough competitor."

Dawson says he's "very optimistic about this season."

"We have the talent to go all the way this year," Dawson predicts. "However, you know there's a great deal of luck in winning the world championship. You can't have too many key injuries."

Senior Golfers Ready For Annual Tournament

Over a hundred entries were signed early this morning and more were on their way according to Martin Reeves, the assistant pro at Pampa Country Club, for the Tri-State Senior Golf Tournament.

According to Reeves a field of 200 is expected for the weeklong tournament. Practice rounds were scheduled to start this afternoon and qualifying rounds were scheduled for Tuesday. Match play is to begin Wednesday with the finals to be held Friday.

TOP PLAY is not limited to age as proven by Frank Bailey of Abilene who shot an impressive 40-39-79. Bailey will soon be a youngster of 83 and has shot his age or better over 500 times. Yesterday's 79 round was witnessed by Bob Wheeler (left) and C. H. Wilkins (right).

1961 Ditka Version Shows Up For Dallas

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — What appears to be the 1961 version of Mike Ditka is cavorting in the Dallas Cowboys training camp.

It is a streamlined model, only 213 pounds, the lightest Ditka has weighed since he was a college junior at Pittsburgh. More importantly, he has two good legs to stand on, and owns a wide lead over injured rival Billy Truax for the starting tight end job.

Usually, it's been the other way around. During the past four seasons, two with Philadelphia and two with Dallas, Ditka has been plagued with pulled leg muscles.

Last year I reported at 235 and felt good and strong. But I just couldn't handle the weight. This year I feel strong again, specially in my legs. Our off season weight program was a favorable influence but my mental attitude has meant even more.

"I have no hang-ups, nothing but a positive attitude. Last year I never ran a pattern without thinking about pulling something."

Coach Tom Landry suggested that Ditka adopt a stringent off-season training program if he wanted to alter his long history of injuries.

"Tom told me I didn't have a concentrated conditioning program," he recalls. "He said the way I hit, if the other guy was in better condition, something had to give. It did. My foot, my shoulder or one of my leg muscles."

"He is in the best condition of his life," Landry praises. "He was our No. 1 worker in the off-season, along with Bob Lilly."

"Mike has never before gone through two-a-day workouts without pulling up lame. He's done everything so far and still has his legs under him. I think he'll have a great year."

If Ditka can even threaten his rookie season of 10 years ago the Cowboys would be delighted. Then with the Chicago Bears, Mike caught 56 passes for 1,078 yards. But his career has been in decline for the past six years and he caught only eight passes for Dallas in 1970.

"Listen, I've worked out four days a week since February and started on a weight program in April," Ditka says.

"No one told me I'd be here. I thought I'd do it their way, though."

"I'd done it my way before and it didn't work. Probably laziness on my part."

"The Cowboys have been tremendous to me. I owe them something. I want to repay them and it's time to start now," Ditka says.

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Let's Build America

If you have ten carpenters trying to build a house and one carpenter trying to tear it down, there is little doubt but that the destructive carpenter will prevail over the ten.

Today you see an increasing number of persons intent on tearing down the civic structure.

You see parents voting higher taxes on themselves and their neighbors in order to have more school buildings in which the state will baby-sit their children. Higher taxes rob earners of incentive, and therefore, are destructive.

You see city managers cutting themselves an increase in pay on the magnitude of $2,000 and $3,000 annually. That is destructive.

You see State Legislators proposing unemployment pay for seasonal employes. That is destructive.

You see business firms manipulating their associates into the burdens of unionism. That is destructive.

You see national leaders abruptly renouncing the objectives for which millions fought and hundreds of thousands died. That is destructive.

You see firemen and policemen splitting hairs over job assignments. That is destructive.

You see college professors preaching destruction. That is destructive.

Some intend to be destructive. Some are destructive without intention.

In one way, those who are intentionally destructive merit less disgust than the ignorantly destructive; they at least know what they are doing.

What we need today is a change of attitude. We need individuals who will look at their own behavior and who will ask themselves, "Am I adding to the destruction?"

We need persons who will pause a moment to calculate the results of their activities, who will say to themselves, "Would I want everyone to demand what I am demanding? If not, I will change my demand to that which I believe would be just for all."

We need people who will vow not to use coercive methods to achieve their wants.

We need people who are willing to pay for what they get, and who are willing to earn what they are willing to earn what they are paid.

Up Chile, Down Greece!

The vote of the House Foreign Affairs Committee to cut off all United States military aid to Greece is self defeating.

Obviously, liberal committee members who seek to punish the military government in Athens are not so fastidious about the assistance we are extending the anti-American, Marxist regime in Chile and numerous undemocratic governments in Africa and elsewhere.

Under the Administration's military aid bill, Greece would receive $60 million of arms sales on credit, $19.9 million in outright military aid, and $38 million worth of excess U.S. arms, Copley News Service reports.

Labor-Management Crisis

Citizens of the United States of America who have been focusing their attention on Vietnam and the harvest of problems that it has produced are finding themselves in a domestic crisis of equal or greater proportions.

Suddenly, many key elements of the economy that bear directly on the comfort, convenience and well being of citizens are, says Copley News Service, in a state of seige — communications, transportation, mails, key industries, education and other public service, entertainment and others.

Certainly the people of the United States sense that something is deeply wrong. Sixty-seven per cent of those queried in a poll recently said they believe the nation has "seriously gotten off on the wrong track."

Amazingly, despite the strikes and threats of strikes, only 27 per cent of the respondents listed "economic situation" as a derailing factor. Ahead of the economy were such problems as drugs, Vietnam, racial tensions, abrogations of the golden rule and lack of strong leadership.

All of these problems are, of course, serious and debilitating. Nonetheless, each is receiving concentrated attention across the land, and on an unprecedented scope.

Unfortunately, the same level of attention and worry is not afforded our serious breakdown in labor-management relations although these are at the heart of America's success story and will continue to be.

It is the human interrelationship of the free enterprise system that has made the United States unique in the world. That uniqueness has all but been eroded in recent years by declining productivity of American workers who nevertheless continue to demand a steady growth in the scale of their wages. Protracted strikes to gain that growth regardless of equities and consequences further cripple the competitive position of the United States in the world, and erode the budgets of the working man that they are supposed to help.

Yet, as the poll exhibits, the nation appears to be unconcerned, believing that some mysterious bureaucratic fiscal alchemy in Washington can solve the problem.

The end of the federal road is not pleasant to contemplate from the standpoint of either personal well-being or the free enterprise system. "Jawboning," or executive harranging, is transitory in effect. The history of wage and price controls is depressing and sinister.

Copulsory arbitration used since biblical times, has often produced unfavorable results. Nevertheless, it or some similar solution is all but upon us. This is recognized in the President's proposal to solve labor crises that affect the national welfare by binding arbitration if it is necessary.

It is certainly time to give our labor-management crisis the same serious attention that we are giving to drugs, Vietnam, racial tensions, the golden rule and leadership.

CAPITOL EYE

By BRUCE BLOSSAT President's Power Of Surprise

WASHINGTON (NEA)—President Nixon's announced decision to visit Red China before next May illustrates perfectly a president's capacity to change the content of the news and coincidentally, throw his adversaries off guard.

What Nixon has done, of course, is to use to the fullest the president's power to surprise. And at least one of his associates thinks he may do it several times more by election time next year. Says this man:

"He might very well decide to go to Moscow around July, 1972, (the month of the Democratic national convention). I think he'll have something of significance, too, on the SALT talks (arms limitation). I'm sure there will be other things.

This source thought a moment, then added, laughing: "Don't fret, he can go to the moon."

There is no quick assumption here, however, that Nixon's power to command events will be translated automatically into lasting political benefit which would enhance his 1972 reelection chances.

Some judgments in town have it that the China thing could be of fairly short-range advantage, unless it is clearly shown that direct exchanges to ending the Vietnam war. The tentative talk about an Asia-wide conference including China and all Indochina might have to become a much stronger prospect to be of enduring effect for Nixon. A Nixon friend's comment:

"If that doesn't happen, and if the visit itself turns out to be just a handshaking tour with expressions of interest in improving relations, I don't think Nixon's gain will last."

The broad conviction among professional politicians and observers is that the troubled economy is Nixon's worst handicap for 1972 — and that even the happiest outcome in Vietnam and Asia generally would not save him if unemployment and inflation continue high.

Most of these appraisers think Nixon's efforts on the economic front have been painfully sluggish while he continues evidently fascinated with the foreign issues that have always entranced him.

One would almost think the President had resigned himself to being a one-term chief executive, and was bent most heavily on making a record for history in the field he loves best and thinks most important.

In the summer issue of the magazine Foreign Policy, Zbigniew Brzezinski, Columbia University specialist on Communist affairs, runs up a "report card" on Nixon's conduct of foreign policy thus far in his presidency. He gives an "over-all weighted grade" of B.

He rates him B on China and B on Vietnam but obviously the new initiative looking toward Peking might ultimately alter that mark upward. Brzezinski accords Nixon A on the Soviet Union and A — on the Middle East.

Few but the president's most ardent partisans would give him even a passing grade on the economy. Nor would many rate him strong on other domestic matters like health care, welfare, racial issues.

Close watch on his visible conduct tends to confirm his priority interest in the foreign sphere. The China visit excites him.

For the moment, also, he may have disconcerted more than just his Democratic political rivals. Russia, bulging its muscles in the Middle East, has to be on edge. So are some of our friends, including Japan and South Vietnam. Private word is that Japan was warned months ago the China move would likely be coming, but Japanese leaders didn't believe it. Until recently, it was ruinous politically to make overtures to Peking.

Fatalistic Richard Nixon can read polls. They suggest consistently that he will never be widely popular. But maybe a place in history as "important foreign policy president" appeals to him as comforting solace.

You'll Have To Aim For His Heel

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. ORANE

Kevin and his mother cooperate very well in his daily medical treatment, as a good parent should, she treats his ailment casually though her heart often aches for him. And when he mentioned the rosier prospects if he had died the previous year, she had to swallow hard before replying!

CASE R-525: Kevin P., aged 5, has a high I.Q.

"But, Dr. Crane," his mother began, "Kevin was very sick a year ago and we finally learned that he is a diabetic. So I have had to give him insulin every day. He takes it bravely, like a little soldier."

"And now he has a doll which he treats as if it were also a diabetic, for he will cleanse his arm with alcohol and then act as if he is giving it an infection. Meanwhile, he will tell it not to worry for the shot will not hurt much."

"But Kevin is becoming a bit frustrated at my shifting around from day to day to stick the needle into an arm or leg. Recently he grumbled that diabetics are all old people, but I explained that thousands of boys and girls also have diabetes."

"One day he shocked me by saying, 'If I had died that time I was so sick, would I be in Heaven now?' and I nodded assent. Wistfully he added, 'Then I'd be able to have a basketball and play with other boys, wouldn't I?'"

"Dr. Crane, what can I do to help him adjust to his condition?"

Kevin's dilemma
Kevin's daddy is a talented pastor of a thriving church whose pulpit I had occupied that morning. A basket dinner was served following the service. And while I was visiting with his mother, Kevin came up to her, eagerly asking:

"Mother, could I eat half a slice of bread?"

His mother then mentioned that Kevin cooperates splendidly and will not even accept a piece of sugar-free chewing gum without getting her O.K. first.

She also has decided to organize a dinner party in the church for diabetic children, serving diabetic foods. This is to reassure Kevin (plus the other guest youngsters) that diabetes is not an ailment just of "old people," as Kevin fears.

I suggested maybe she could award lapel pins to all the diabetic boys and girls with the letters "J.D." thereon, meaning "Juvenile Diabetic" and thus formalize this type of club.

It is always a good idea to have child patients cooperate as much as possible in their own treatment. Kevin's mother already lets him use an alcohol swab to prepare the spot where she is to insert the needle.

But it also helps for the child to take an ice cube and hold it on the spot for a few seconds prior to disinfecting the skin with alcohol. The ice will numb the pain cells and thus act as a partial local anesthetic. Then the needle prick will not hurt as much.

Remind child diabetics, too, that many of America's outstanding sports heroes are diabetic! And that diabetics often live longer BECAUSE of their diabetes, for thereafter they must rule their appetite by their brain. Non-diabetics gorge and dissipate, thus shortening their lifespan!

(Always write Dr. Crane in care of The Pampa Daily News, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Question Box

QUESTION: — I was graduated from high school this summer. I may go to college, but I'm not sure what to study when I get there. I want to give my life to something important. In your opinion, what is the most important career any person can pursue?

Our answer: Several years ago, we studied 100 case histories of ideas that changed the course of history. Of these, more than 90 were promulgated by teachers. On that basis we state our belief that teaching ranks among the most influential of all professions.

Not all the ideas changed history for the better, of course. Some teachings were bad and had a bad effect. As you say that just because a career is important that it will result in a general benefit.

Among the important teachers of the past are such famous names as Confucius, Isaiah, Plato, Aristotle, Jesus, St. Paul, St. Augustine, Marx, Hitler etc. Some did not teach in a classroom situation, but lectured from the printed page. We believe writing, especially nonfictional writing, is a type of teaching because what else is the author trying to do except to convey information?

Newspaper work falls into this category of teaching. Apart from history, you can make a case for the importance of teaching in theoretical terms. A teacher is who sits at the spigot of knowledge. He can't exactly shut off the spigot, for some will insist on learning regardless of what the teacher does. However, the teacher is certainly in a position to speed up the learning process, to inspire the students to greater activity.

The importance of teaching is one reason that teaching as a profession should not become this treaty will be just about the monopoly of a single power.

Sitting Can Make Seat Get Broader

Dear Dr. Lamb — To end a lot of arguing in the family I would like your answer because I know I'm right though my family says I'm not. Sitting on one's seat all the time doesn't make it broader does it?

Dear Reader — It can be a contributing factor. A person who sits all the time and gets no exercise is apt to be building up fat deposits around the body. The seat is one of nature's favorite storage locations for fat. Then there is the question of muscle tone, poor muscle tone does increase dimensions — but more noticeably in the abdomen. Many people lose muscle tone in the abdomen from jobs or habits that involve sitting and very little use of the stomach muscles.

Location of fat deposits on the body is also related to inherited characteristics. One native tribe in Africa has a tribal characteristic of a very large seat, which is fat. Incidentally in their culture that is a sign of true beauty.

Fat serves as a safety factor for some people. It acts as a pillow to protect the body from external pressure. A person who has recently lost a lot of fat from their seat has essentially lost his pillow and he will notice the pressure of his pelvic bones when he sits, at least until he tub; regains enough muscle tone be comfortable.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Would you please clarify the "copper bracelet" for arthritis. So many of my friends vow it's curing them and I'm a nonbeliever. Is it or isn't it of value?

Dear Reader — Faith is a wonderful thing. There is even something magic in the healing power of the physician just because his patients believe in him. Cripples have walked from listening to inspirational music. Pink water has relieved a lot of people of a genuine feeling of discomfort. I never discount the psychic and hence healthful benefits a patient can get from faith — even in copper bracelets.

Other than the psychic benefits — which can favorably affect the course of a disease — there is no evidence that copper bracelets do anything else to cure or prevent arthritis. Arthritis has a tendency for unexplained remissions and sometimes it doesn't return — in spite of medicine, not because of it.

I don't think copper bracelets do any harm. I am only concerned that someone who should be under the care of a rheumatologist (specialist in arthritis) may not be getting the care they should be getting in prevention of deformities and crippling that can be minimized or in some cases prevented. That is the only real danger.

ONE MAN'S EXPERIENCE

Is Anti-Communism Taboo On The Tee-Vee Works

By PROF. ROY COLBY
In the past few years there have been hundreds of mass demonstrations throughout the land, protesting some phase of our domestic or foreign policy, or the "repressive" activities of some American Institution — anti-war, anti-pollution, anti-poverty, anti-university, etc.

Massive protests and confrontations with constituted authority have become a way of life in this country, it seems, with lawbreaking, violence and the denial of the rights of the public at large inevitably following.

Yet no matter how destructive a protest gathering may turn out to be, it is taboo even to hint the Communists had anything to do with it.

Atty. Gen. John Mitchell found this out the hard way. Speaking to a group of college student editors in Washington on April 23, he warned there was a "substantial possibility of physical confrontation... and physical harm" during the mass anti-war protests beginning there that weekend. Choosing his words carefully, he suggested this would probably be due to the activities of those he termed "outside elements."

This was on the six o'clock news. At 10, an Administration spokesman "clarified" Mr. Mitchell's comments by explaining that no violence was anticipated. Nothing was said about the "outside elements."

You would think the attorney general had made a headline by using the term "outside elements," wouldn't you? Not so, however. Few newsmen seemed curious as to whom he was referring. Matter of fact, you will have a hard time finding the term in some press reports of Mr. Mitchell's talk to the college editors.

Isn't this a strange state of affairs? Perhaps so, but par for the course, as I can attest to from personal experience.

A little over two years ago I was connected with a small campaign in eastern Colorado to get signatures on petitions demanding humane treatment for U.S. POWs in North Vietnam. One of the Denver networks got wind of it and arranged a brief interview for the evening news, so I was told.

That night, however, the interview didn't appear on either the early or the late news program.

The next day I phoned the TV station to find out why. At first I got the old run-around; the camera didn't function, sorry to say. How did it happen,

I asked, that the same camera worked perfectly an hour before covering the fire at the new university library? Was this really the reason, or had I said something taboo? I kept pressing for the truth.

Finally, the TV news representative admitted lamely that the decision had been made not to run the interview and that he didn't have anything to do with it.

So that was that. What reprehensible thing had I said to quash the whole interview? I mentally reviewed my statements and then it dawned on me.

At the outset of the interview, the question had been asked, "Why are you circulating petitions?" In retrospect, my response was rather naive because I didn't know about the taboo then. What I had said were words to this effect: "Communists fear two things above all else; force and exposure of their illegal activities."

"By bringing into the open the plight of American GIs being brutally treated and exploited for political purposes in violation of the Geneva agreements on POWs, the Communists may be forced to respond favorably to public opinion."

Anyone who follows closely the Communist press cannot escape three conclusions: (1) the so-called class struggle to destroy capitalism is proceeding unabatedly; (2) "liberation struggles" exist in varying stages in all free nations, including America; and (3) the inexplicable effort to weaken and overthrow the United States government, the chief obstacle to an all-Communist world, is increasing by leaps and bounds, as exemplified by the spring "peace offensive."

Hanoi has sent congratulations to the "peace" groups creating the civil turmoil, praising the "people" responsible. In the ideological jargon, "people" is the label applied to those who promote the Communist line for whatever reason.

Good try, John Mitchell. But we shouldn't raise the specter of "McCarthyism" should we, even by referring obliquely to America's self-proclaimed enemies by calling them "outside elements?"

McCarthyism, you say? What's that mean in the language of revolution? Why, that's any attempt to expose Communist subversion — taboo, of course.

Draft Proves Unnecessary

By PAUL HARVEY

All this time they've been telling us that we can't do away with the military draft because it is what's encouraging volunteers to volunteer.

Well, after weeks during which there was no military draft, volunteers are volunteering faster than before; some places five times faster!

Anybody who persists in demanding that our nation continue drafting just wants regimentation for the sake of regimentation. And that is an unworthy motivation.

For five years you and I have urged Congress and the Pentagon to get rid of the military draft.

Military service should be made an honored tradition again — instead of capital punishment for bad grades.

Recent months, military SOP has been modified, pay and benefits have been improved, and new recruiting efforts have produced results.

Selective Service canceled draft calls for July and August — the first zero draft in ten years — and one San Francisco recruiter reports enlistments up 10 percent, re-enlistments up 25 percent!

Part of the reason is the recession. When it's more difficult to find a good job on the home front, military service becomes increasingly attractive. But this cannot be the entire motivation for the increase because joblessness among veterans declined from 11 percent in February to 8 percent in June.

Yet, despite the improving job picture voluntary enlistments accelerate. U.S. News and World Report tally indicates enlistments in combat outfits running 500 percent ahead of the year-ago rate.

UPI sample surveyed recruiters nationwide and found all of them ahead of their quotas.

Asked what's bringing the men in, recruiters say civilian opportunities are less and life in uniform is better.

First year enlisted men get better pay, a guarantee of European duty if they want it, a chance to learn a skill if they want that.

These advantages, coupled with the radio-TV ads which publicized them, produced twice as many volunteers for combat jobs in four months — than the number recruited in all of the 12 months previous.

In June a year ago some 40 men volunteered. In June of this year more than 4,000 did!

With the war phasing out and the draft in doubt, the Pentagon is asking Congress to offer bonuses for enlistment in the National Guard and Reserves $500 to enlist, $1,700 to re-enlist.

That re-enlistment bonus would cost you nothing, because it is less than the present cost of turnover.

And it sure beats financing the continuing existence of 4,000 costly, cumbersome, inequitable lame-duck draft boards.

The pelican is a large aquatic bird which is a graceful swimmer and fier. Pelicans have a deep expansible pouch below their lower mandible in which fish are caught and stored. The World Almanac says, The eastern brown pelican is the state bird of Louisiana.

HERE'S WHERE YOU GET CLIPPED.

Right in the newspaper. Or magazine.
 Men will clip you. Women will clip you. Kids, too. And if your dollar volume begins to swell, swell.
 But first, you've got to set yourself up for it. Putting coupons in print media is the best way. Print lets people clip and save your message. Or file it. Or compare it. Or pass it to a friend. Or mail it back to you.
 And that's not all. Print shows your product off to its very best advantage. It flashes its color. Struts its style. Displays its beauty. Shows its use.
 Print can do lots of things for you. Even get you clipped.
 By the sweetest little grandma in town.

IN COLOR ON SUNDAYS The Tampa Daily News

JEANE DIXON Your Horoscope

TUESDAY, AUG. 2

Your birthday Tuesday: The first half of the year is expansionist with high expectations. The second half includes consolidation, reorganization, setting equipment and working gear to extra uses, diversifying work to carry added loads. Tuesday's natives present resistance pleasant surface until they meet then become quite candid in expressions of their disagreement.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Partners, associates and competitors toward entanglements; everybody with a different variety of difficulty.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Loved ones bring home some trivia. Wisdom and maturity are essential to constructive results. Keep trying.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Amid the noise, the voice of truth and hard information may not be readily heard. Get ready for a surge of activity in the coming weekend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Being sociable takes nothing away from efforts in business and career. Relatively easy going shouldn't lull you into cutting corners.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your own ideas are better than most. Just make sure all involved really understand where you intend to go.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The less detail you can attend to Tuesday, the better. Wednesday, with adequate notes, you can pick up most of the pieces a little easier.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Personal affairs displace interest in career and its chores Tuesday. Pursue social contacts diligently.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Where you have something worked out, this is a good time to install new systems, original plans, put new equipment into its first use.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Put in your bid for advancement. Job changes proper reading. Enter competition in your chosen specialty.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Come down off your high horse and have some fun while you get ready for the upcoming financial rearrangements.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Theory, wishful thinking about better systems and more effective management offer food for thought but meanwhile, back in the present moment, work must continue.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): There's a good probability you can redistribute your finances, other resources today. Involve others in your group activities.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices leveled off today after sharp early declines. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was down 5.33 at 866.66. Most of the decline occurred during the first half hour of trading.

Declines outnumbered advances on the New York Stock Exchange by nearly 4 to 1.

Analysts said the market was reacting to a series of unfavorable developments: the rail strike and possible steel strike, news that the government's leading economic indicators declined last month, and reports that the U.S. deficit for the past fiscal year was the largest since World War II.

Stocks were generally lower in all categories except for airlines, which were up, and electronics, which were mixed.

A block of 179,000 shares of Pan American changed hands at 11 1/2 off 1/4.

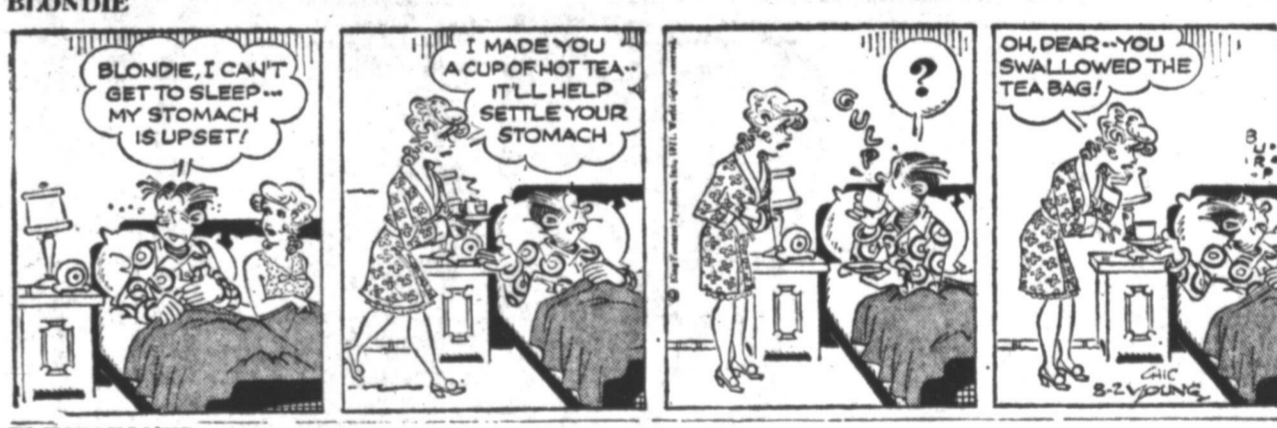

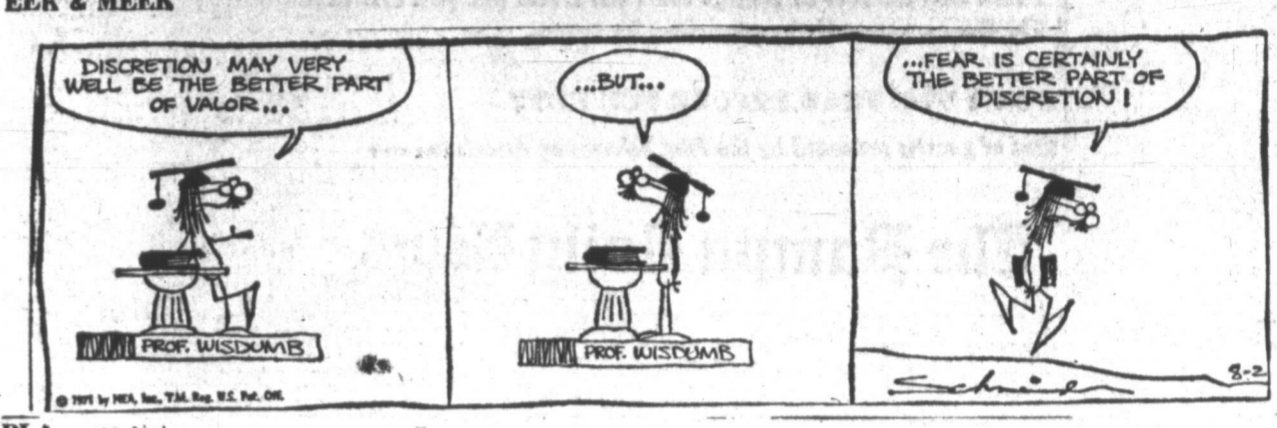

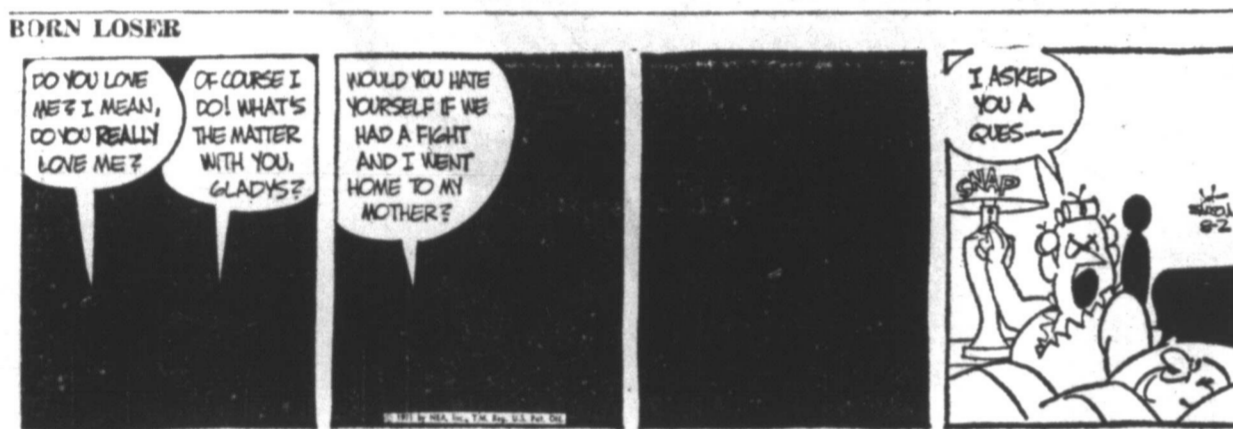

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A four-inch baby Giant Tinamou at the Los Angeles Zoo is believed to be the first of its species ever hatched in captivity.

Frank Todd, the zoo's curator of birds, said Friday the Tinamou hatched this week will reach a height of 14 inches in adulthood.

The Giant Tinamou, which resembles a partridge, is commonly found in Central and South America, where it is highly prized as food, Todd said.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Peter Stuyvesant, governor of New Amsterdam, established the first municipal fire department in the United States in 1659. The World Almanac recalls. A supply of 1,400 axes and 250 leather buckets were distributed, and a chimney tax was imposed to maintain this equipment. The department's main duty was to inspect for violations of the fire laws.

Radio & TV

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's George A. Heinemann likes to point out that he is a broadcaster, not an educator. Then he displays a vehicle constructed of parts that are educational and entertainment. His vehicle is "Take a Giant Step" a television show for children 7 to 14 years that premieres Saturday, Sept. 11. In addition, he is overseeing the development of a half-hour Monday-through-Friday show for children 3 to 6 years old for early 1972. That show, as yet unnamed, was announced Tuesday.

Heinemann, the bald, hearty, dedicated vice president of children's programming for NBC, whose experience goes back to the creation of "Ding Dong School" in 1952, spent more than a year working on the concept of "Take a Giant Step."

"When you combine education with entertainment it sends a little bit of tension through broadcasters," he said. "Entertainment-education wins awards but it doesn't win big audiences."

"The thing you must strive for is reach. Make a child reach for something, then the whole show comes alive. Suddenly, the education becomes entertaining and the entertainment becomes educational." "Take a Giant Step," NBC's Saturday morning showcase series, is basically an hour talk show for children. All of the shows will be done live from September through June, except for six shows being taped this summer for holiday weekends.

Each week the show will have a different trio of teen-aged hosts who will build the show around a theme such as beauty, machines, money, food, right and wrong, and happy-sad.

Over 10 weeks of preparation they will be exposed to various films and materials they could use to illustrate the theme. On the air the hosts will talk about the theme and call for whatever films strike their fancy.

Heinemann said the show will strive for spontaneity, allowing the kids to make their own decisions or their own mistakes. In the future children will be flown in from around the country to participate as guest hosts.

People In The News

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Lyndon B. Johnson Presidential Library had 8,772 visitors Sunday and one of them was the former chief executive.

It was Johnson's first announced visit to the library since opening day, May 18, and a record crowd was on hand. The old mark was 6,500 on opening day and since then crowds have averaged about 2,000.

Johnson took time out to sign autographs and signed his name on the cast of one youngster who had a broken arm.

Mrs. Johnson left early but was quickly replaced at the autograph table by their daughter, Luci Nugent.

CASTEL GANDOLFO, ITALY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has exchanged messages with the Apollo 15 astronauts.

The Pope told a crowd assembled there to receive a Sunday noon blessing that his message to astronauts David R. Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin was confidential.

But he said a reply the astronauts sent back through the apostolic delegate to Washington, Archbishop Luigi Raimondi, expressed "good wishes."

"Our journey is for all men and hope that the talents which God has given us will enable us to satisfy those who so kindly support our undertaking," the astronauts said.

Research Promises Safe Pills, Improved Devices For Birth Control

One is the minipill, containing only a small amount of the female hormone, progesterone, and free of the estrogen which is blamed for causing the clotting tendency in the current pill. The experiment includes putting a year's supply of progesterone in a Silastic capsule, which is implanted under the skin, there to release a tiny amount of hormone daily.

Another is the morning-after pill, a large dose of estrogen or progestin which apparently acts to prevent a fertilized egg from becoming implanted in the wall of the uterus or womb. It's been called effective even if taken a few days after intercourse to its general use.

Other researchers report high promise from injections of hormones once every three or six months.

Still others have synthesized the brain hormone that sets in motion the cycle of release of hormones essential in ovulation, the menstrual cycle, and maintenance of a pregnancy. Now they hope to make a false substitute for this releasing factor, as it is called, that would prevent the pituitary gland from sending out its hormone instructions.

And there's been interest in hormone-like substances known as prostaglandins, which have been used to induce early or late abortions, by infusion into a vein, or to induce labor when a woman is near term.

Sterilization: Last year, 750,000 men voluntarily underwent sterilization by vasectomy, the severing of travel, and about 75 per cent of people volunteering for surgical sterilization now are men, says the Association for Voluntary Sterilization.

A simplified operation for women, with instruments inserted through two tiny incisions in the abdomen, severe the fallopian tubes—pathways of eggs coming from the ovaries—and involves only a few hours time in a hospital.

Hopefully, new research will produce techniques that could be reversed with a later change of mind. One possibility is to block the male or female tubes with plugs that could be removed.

Devices: New kinds of mechanical devices that would prevent the mating of sperm and egg are proposed in some of the contract studies, but details have as yet to be kept confidential since they involve proprietary rights.

Intrauterine devices: IUD's have found some increasing popularity, and improvements in design, with one major development the discovery by Dr. Jaime Zipper of the University of Chile that the element copper exerts an anti-fertility effect.

So copper has been added to two types of IUD's—one a "T" shape, the other a "7". Dr. Howard J. Tatum of the Population Council, who designed the copper-containing T, says it appears as effective in contraceptive action as the pill itself.

EDITOR'S NOTE — Worry about the long-term safety on the pill has spurred scientists in their search for a risk-free contraceptive. On the horizon—minipills, morning-after pills and operations to reverse sterilization. The following second of two articles by AP Science Editor Alton Blakeslee on Contraception '72 details these new developments.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE Associated Press Science Editor BETHESDA, Md. (AP) —

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — President Nixon cannot be named a defendant in a lawsuit over urban renewal funds, a federal judge has ruled. A suit involving $350 million in urban renewal funds filed by the San Francisco Redevelopment Agency and Public Housing Authority had named the President among several federal officials. It seeks to force release of the funds approved by Congress but ordered withheld by Nixon.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver Carter said Friday he could not find that a federal court had powers to compel the chief of the executive branch "to take any action whatsoever." The suit has not yet been heard. San Francisco was slated to receive $16 million of the appropriation.
