Senate Leaders Drive For Tax-Cut Approval

said a decision will be reached early in the week on whether the amendment will be offered.

It was understood the provision might guarantee each major party's presidential nominee $18 million in a national election and a third-party contender $6 million.

The money could be raised by allowing each taxpayer to indicate on his tax return that $1 of his payment should be used for the campaign-financing fund.

Long got a similar plan enacted in 1966 with the strong backing of then-President Lyndon B. Johnson. But a coalition of Republicans and a few Democrats succeeded in nullifying it in 1967 after a Senate floor battle lasting six weeks.

In a major test on the tax-cut bill Saturday, the Senate turned down 53 to 13 an attempt by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., to eliminate more than half the benefits of the 7-per-cent investment credit.

President Nixon is counting on restoration of this credit to help greatly in the drive to make American companies more competitive in world markets.

Nelson proposed that the credit be limited to the first $1 million of new machinery and equipment, or to a maximum $70,000 credit against taxes due.

This would have reduced tax cuts for business from this restoration to $1.7 billion, compared with $3.6 billion for an unlimited credit.

As the tax bill came to the Senate floor from the Finance Committee, it contained $15.5 billion in reductions for individuals and businesses over the three years 1971-73.

But the Senate already has voted to expand this total by about $4 billion, chiefly by raising the personal income tax exemption to $800 in 1972 instead of $750 as voted by the House.

Group Against Drug Abuse To Hold Meet

Pampa's Task Force against drug abuse will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday night at First Presbyterian Church to structure a permanent organization and define a plan of attack on the narcotics problem locally.

Don Lozier, temporary chairman of the Task Force, noted that the desired response from community organizations fell short at the first meeting in October. The group that did get the program underway at that time hope for a bigger attendance at Tuesday's meeting.

Once organized adequately, they plan an in-depth study of the drug problem in Pampa. Lozier stated, "At present most of the effort in this direction is aimed at symptoms. We hope to get at the cause."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate resumes work today on an expanded $19.5-billion tax-cut bill with leaders driving to win final passage by Wednesday.

The biggest obstacle to that goal could be a Democratic proposal for federal financing of presidential campaigns, which could be expected to touch off a bitter battle between money-starved Democrats and well-financed Republicans.

But the Democratic leadership isn't sure that rider will be offered.

U.S. Aid Program Expiring Midnight

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. foreign aid chief John A. Hannah says the time has come when "the American people, through the Congress, better face up to whether or not we're going to play a role in the world."

"I don't think the United States can be a drop-out," added Hannah in an interview conducted as Congress debated what to do about the foreign aid program.

The Senate voted Oct. 29 to kill the annual aid bill, then reversed itself after strong administration urging and passed a two-bill aid package last Thursday. In the House, Foreign Affairs Committee Chairman Thomas E. Morgan said he hopes to pass a new bill this week.

Meanwhile, legal authorization for the aid-administering Agency for International Development is slated to expire tonight.

Administration and congressional statements differ over how soon AID's thousands of employees here and abroad would have to go payless in the absence of new legislation.

Dr. Hannah, former Michigan State University president who has headed AID since early in the Nixon administration, said both the economic and the defense-related aid in the administration's $3.4-billion request are in the American interest.

On foreign economic assistance, he said, "I'm convinced that the first interest for most Americans is what's my city or my state going to be like for my children and my grandchildren?"

"This is a shrinking world," he said, "and it ought to be clear from what happened in the last 30 or 40 years that what happens to any significantly large segment of the world's population is going to have a profound effect on what happens to the United States."

He said there is no assurance that U.S. aid will guarantee peace or foreign gratitude, "but we can be reasonably certain that the chances are better if we do what we can to help well-intentioned people to help themselves more—the direction of putting the primary emphasis on better lives for people."

On defense-connected aid, Hannah said a drastic cut would accomplish the Communist goal of collapsing South Vietnam's Thieu government now that "we have about reached the point where Vietnam may be able to stand on her own feet."

Another fight could develop over various proposals to add to the tax bill riders increasing Social Security benefits.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., floor manager for the legislation, said every effort will be made to keep such riders off the bill, since Social Security will be considered later in connection with the House-passed welfare-reform bill.

Long said, however, that a presidential campaign-financing rider is being prepared along the lines of one he sponsored in 1966. He

Thousands Of Miners Still Remain Off Job

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Thousands of miners refused to enter the pits today despite union and management agreement on a new three-year contract designed to end the longest coal strike since 1949.

Spot checks at major mines in West Virginia and the soft coal district of Western Pennsylvania showed no mines operating.

Reports on how many miners, if any, were returning to work in the 18 other states affected by the long walkout were not immediately available.

Miners who remained off the job said they would not resume work until they hear details of a new pact signed by negotiators for the United Mine Workers and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association in New York early Sunday. The industry says the pact will boost production costs $1.2 billion a year.

"One more day ain't going to kill us now that we've been off 44 days," Bill Martin, president of UMW Local 6149 at Amigo, W. Va., said Sunday night.

Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr., who helped negotiate the new contract, admitted its pay increase provisions were out of line with the federal Pay Board's guidelines of pay boosts of 5.5 per cent, but he said he was optimistic the miners will get what the contract calls for.

Moore said he will personally seek approval by the Pay Board.

Mariner 9 Expected To Send Back Close-Up Photos Today

By BILL STOCKTON

AP Science Writer

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Mariner 9 spacecraft has sent back 64 more pictures from Mars, but man's first close look at the red planet was blurred by a huge dust storm.

Scientists at California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory said that with but one exception the new pictures showed no discernible surface details through the huge dust cloud swirling around Mars.

And they were unable to pick up again a Martian feature photographed by Mariner Friday while the spacecraft was 651,000 miles from Mars.

The picture appeared to show a crater 100 miles wide, with sand dunes radiating out a thousand miles, in Mars' western hemisphere south of the equator.

But scientists said it could also be a picture of turbulence in the atmosphere.

During a 37-minute picture-taking session Sunday in its second orbit of Mars, Mariner passed over the area, but the crater and streamers couldn't be seen.

The dust, if that's what it is, was kicked up in late September when high winds apparently began blowing over Mars.

The one picture with discernible features taken Sunday showed Mars' south polar cap with frozen carbon dioxide. Scientists were elated to discover that the photograph seemed to show a series of ridges first detected in 1969 when Mariners 6 and 7 flew within 2,000 miles of Mars, taking photographs.

The experts wonder whether the carbon dioxide is frozen over mountain ranges, blanketing them as snow blankets mountains on earth, or whether they are ridges in the carbon dioxide.

Mariner 9 will pass over the area later during its 90-day mission and scientists hope for a better look if the dust is gone.

Ground controllers said a six second burn of the spacecraft's retrorocket at 9:44 p.m. EST today will move it to within 862 miles to Mars at the low point in each orbit, a drop of five miles. This will enable the 210 foot base antenna at Goldstone, Calif., to receive data more efficiently.

Mariner 9 was placed flawlessly into orbit Saturday night with a 15-minute engine firing.

Dr. James Fletcher, National Aeronautics and Space Administration administrator, said Sunday that data Mariner 9 obtains on the dust storm might be useful to the Russians if two Soviet space probes believed near Mars are to attempt an unmanned landing. The Soviets have been silent about their missions, but speculation is that Mars 2 and 3 will attempt soft landings.

There is speculation the dust and wind could interfere with a lander, especially if it used a parachute system.

Is Hughes A Free Man Or Held As Prisoner?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Times said today that a federal grand jury in Miami has been told that reclusive billionaire Howard Hughes bearded and with grotesquely long fingernails, was the object of a plot to free him from a Nassau hotel if he was being held against his will.

The plot was told of the alleged plot by Peter Maheu, whose father, Robert A. Maheu, is currently fighting a court battle contesting his firing last December as chief of Hughes' Nevada operations, the Times said.

The newspaper said many of the allegations made by Maheu were denied by a Hughes spokesman.

The newspaper said Maheu told the jury: "At the time of the plot last December, Hughes was a 6-foot tall man weighing only 94 pounds, with a beard to his chest, hair to the middle of his back and fingernails and toenails from six to eight inches long."

The plans to spirit Hughes away from the Britannia Beach Hotel in Nassau never came off because Maheu's investigators found no evidence that Hughes was ever at the hotel, to which he reportedly moved from Las Vegas, Nev., last Thanksgiving.

The Hughes Tool Co. rents a ninth-floor penthouse suite at the hotel and there are recurring reports that it is the industrialist's new hideaway. Maheu said he doubted that Hughes was there now.

A six-foot-long, three-foot-high mahogany box was seen by Maheu's investigators in a hallway of the Hughes' penthouse.

James Whitten, an attorney for the criminal division of the U.S. Department of Justice in Washington, D.C., asked Maheu if he felt the box could have contained a body placed on ice, the Times reported. It said Maheu replied: "It could have been anything."

The grand jury is probing whether the Maheu investigators illegally transported listening devices from Miami to the Bahamas, violating a 1968 federal law against private wiretapping and bugging, the Times said it learned from a source close to the investigation.

Maheu gave this account to the grand jury, the Times said:

During two weeks last December, eight persons hired by him, two associates and six men from a Miami investigative firm, went to Nassau to verify that Hughes was there.

If they located him, and heard him calling for help, the men were to notify local authorities. If the authorities were unwilling to take action, his men would have done whatever was necessary to free Hughes.

A doctor was waiting to examine Hughes and a boat was obtained with which to take him from Nassau if he wanted to leave.

Maheu said there was no indication that Hughes was at the hotel. Room service orders obtained by his men indicated Hughes' usual diet was not being delivered, he said.

Since then, up to three of Hughes' five secretary-valets have been out of the Bahamas for long stays, leaving too few behind to provide the round-the-clock service the billionaire had in Las Vegas.

Hughes was under the guard of security men hired by Maheu when he disappeared from his top floor residence at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas. His departure, according to some sources, was handled by International Intelligence Inc.

Board To Review Pay Of Teachers

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Phase 2 of President Nixon's anti-inflation program barely under way, the Cost of Living Council called a session today to decide whether to rescind a last-minute exemption allowing car prices to go up without advance notice.

The council said Friday that companies required under Phase 2 regulation to clear price increases in advance with the government could boost prices without notice to cover the cost of wage increases due their workers between now and the first of the year.

But Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. urged the council Saturday to reconsider.

Grayson also predicted that any adverse effect that uncertainty over Phase 2, which began Sunday, has had on the stock market would clear up by the end of the week.

Pay Board Chairman George H. Boldt, appearing Sunday with Grayson on the CBS interview program "Face the Nation," said the board will meet Tuesday to decide whether teachers and other groups may collect retroactively pay raises frozen during the wage-price freeze period that expired Saturday night.

But Boldt declined to predict what the board would decide. "We're going to consider it," he said. "There's a chance of anything, of course."

The board already has ruled against allowing general retroactive pay raises, but has agreed to consider individual cases on their merits.

Grayson promised Saturday that, if the Cost of Living Council approves his request to rescind its earlier ruling, the Price Commission would change its regulations to "assure that these requested price increases are reviewed within 72 hours."

He said Sunday that the 72-hour limit would apply to all price-increase notifications, not just those that would be exempt under the Cost of Living Council's ruling.

Under present regulations, companies with annual sales of $100 million or more must report proposed price increases to the government in advance. Such increases may go into effect within 30 days after notification if no ruling has been made.

Smaller companies may raise prices without notice, but can be ordered to rescind them if the government decides the increases were too large.

Meanwhile, the Senate resumed work today on a tax-cut bill proposed by President Nixon to spur the economy and boosted by Congress to provide additional tax relief for individuals.

In other weekend developments:

Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, returning from an overseas trip, said the United States is prepared to let the dollar float on the international money market for "almost an indefinite period."

Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, estimated in Detroit that 96 per cent of his union want labor's five members on the Pay Board to "stay in and fight from within." Some labor leaders have urged that organized labor boycott the Pay Board and withdraw its support from President Nixon's policy.

Texas Docks Idled

Texas docks were idle today following a strike vote by West Gulf Coast locals of the International Longshoremen's Association.

Most of the locals reported Sunday unanimous strike votes after talks between ILA union leaders and the West Gulf Maritime Association broke down in Galveston this past weekend.

About 7,000 longshoremen are expected to be idled between Lake Charles, La., and Brownsville, Tex.

However, there are few vessels on Texas waterfronts caught in the squeeze since maritime shippers have had weeks to prepare for a strike.

A Galveston Wharves Board spokesman said its had only one ship in port but it isn't affected.

At the Port of Houston, a spokesman said about a dozen ships would be initially affected by the strike but they would probably sail elsewhere.

"Most of these vessels are foreign flag ships and I expect many of them will go to the West Coast to load cargo since longshoremen are back to work there," the spokesman said.

The Mexican oiler Alvaro Oregon tied up at Brownsville had no need of longshoremen and a seagoing barge loaded with wheat from Beaumont planned to sail for Vera Cruz, Mexico, if she could not unload today.

Longshore gangs hurriedly loaded milo on board the S. S. Delta Argentina and unloaded zinc from another vessel at Corpus Christi before the waterfront closed.

Beaumont had only one ship in port, the S. S. Oswego Liberty, which is being picketed by the Masters, Mates and Pilots association in a dispute over the use of foreign crews on foreign ships operated by American shippers.

The ILA bargaining team reportedly turned down a offer of a $1.50 an hour increase covering wages and fringe benefits over a three-year period in talks late Saturday.

A nationwide longshore strike was called Oct. 1 by ILA president Thomas Gleason but most West Gulf Coast locals refused to walk out, some saying the Presidential wage freeze prevented them from getting raises anyway.

22 Texans Die In Accidents And Shootings

An auto accident in San Antonio snuffed out three lives and injured four persons to pace the weekend violent death toll in Texas.

Twenty-two persons lost their lives this weekend according to a tabulation by The Associated Press which began at 6 p.m. Friday and lasted until midnight Sunday.

Eleven died in traffic, nine were shot to death, one was fatally stabbed and one died in a fire.

Hershel Maness, 37, was found shot to death in a Houston ditch Sunday.

Police said Gregory L. Williams, 18, of Atlanta, Ga., was shot to death last night following a narcotics dispute in a Dallas park. Police charged a 17-year-old youth with murder.

Police in San Antonio said a man ran into a west side bar Sunday night, shot 34-year-old Felix Arrellano to death, ran outside in an awaiting car and fired several more shots into the air before driving off.

U.S. House Faces Tough Decisions On Election Bills

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House, arguing over how to reform federal election-spending practices, faces tough decisions at almost every turn this week with a parliamentary maze of three fat bills and a pile of amendments.

All sides agree only that their actions could make a significant impact on the future of American politics, the shape of federal campaign-financing mechanisms, and the election-time income of all print and broadcast media that thrive on political advertising.

Major disputes are certain to erupt over moves to impose new restrictions on labor union activities, over efforts to apply advertising-rate requirements on newspapers, and over how far down the elective line to clear longstanding legal obstacles broadcast debates.

At the center of the fight is the 1925 Corrupt Practices Act.

City Manager Back From Florida Meet

City Manager Mack Wofford was back at his desk in City Hall today after returning from the International City Managers Association conference last week in Hollywood, Fla.

Wofford, who attended sessions on Municipal Services, said the meetings were most informative.

The Pampa city manager said the conference delegates heard Ralph Nader point out the inefficiencies of government and listened to Sen. Hubert Humphrey tell what's going on in Washington.

Graham Watt, deputy mayor of Washington, D.C., was elected president to succeed City Manager John Stiff of Amarillo who served in that capacity during the past year.

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP)—Existing methods could save 90 per cent of the 20,000 babies who die annually during their first year from congenital heart defects, a heart specialist says.

"These babies can be salvaged, made healthy, and they are not cripples," Dr. Mary Allen Engle of the New York-Cornell Medical Center said Sunday at the American Heart Association convention.

Too often, she said, hospital staff members say, "Well, we'll wait and see how he does," not realizing that some heart defects must be treated as emergencies.

Dr. Engle said nurses, obstetricians and family doctors must learn to recognize quickly the symptoms of heart defects and contact specialists immediately.

Ex-nun can't shake 'stigma' of past

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old ex-nun. I have been out of the convent for two years and am now in my fourth job. I do office work and am well trained for it, but here is my problem: When I am asked about myself, I have always told the truth, and as soon as it is learned that I am a former nun, I am viewed with curiosity, suspicion and in some cases, contempt. The fact that I was a nun fascinates people (especially men), and wherever I go, I am questioned about it. I would like to forget it, but once someone knows, I am sunk.

I like this new job and want to stay. So far I haven't mentioned my background. I don't want to lie, but I don't want to pour out my life's story too soon because the truth might prejudice people right off the bat. Can you advise me?
 EX-NUN

DEAR EX-NUN: Your problem is your excessive concern over what people will think about you when they learn the truth. Don't try to second guess them. If they're "fascinated" with the fact that you were a nun, so what? That's their problem. Don't make it yours.

DEAR ABBY: More than 25 years ago, I rescued two battered, unwanted babies from a 20-year-old mother and a cruel 22-year-old stepfather. The young mother tried to force her mother to take them, but her mother had a large family and refused to take on such an added burden. [The boys were two and three at the time.]

Finally the young mother put them out, and told them never to come back into that wretched little apartment over someone's garage. When darkness fell, a neighbor told me that these children were huddled on her back steps, like abandoned puppies, dirty, hungry and asleep.

I took the boys and asked their mother to let me keep them and she agreed gladly with no more emotion than one would show giving away some unwanted kittens. She promised to make the break clean and to never contact them in any way. The town was so bitter toward her and her husband, they left town.

The older boy has been a trial and heartbreak to us. I took him to psychiatrists, and psychologists. They all told me that his personality was damaged by his early mistreatment. He was hysterically nervous, a chronic bed-wetter, prone to steal, and a victim of screaming nightmares. He spent ten months in a juvenile ward in a state psychiatric institution, which didn't seem to help him.

The younger boy did better, spending four years in the Air Force. He married a nice little girl (I'll call Anna) and they moved in with us. While my husband and I were on vacation a few months ago, their natural mother came to town and locked the boys up. Anna became very friendly with her, and now for the shocker: Anna and her husband have just become parents of a baby girl, whom they named for that woman! I was stunned, crushed and amazed.

We have signed notes for them, given them money, and treated them as our own children. Please ask a psychiatrist, why, why, WHY?
 NUMB

DEAR NUMB: Intensive psychological studies are necessary to determine what motivates people to behave as they do. On the face of it, it's hard to believe that this young couple didn't know how you would react, which leads to the natural conclusion. They didn't care.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ZOFTIG" IN ATLANTA, GA.: I don't want to spoil your day, but your normal weight for the rest of your life is what you weighed when you were 25 years old.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, NOV. 16

Your birthday today: Opens a broad gate to an easier pathway upwards if you will see and seek simplicity in thought and deed. For the most part, whatever serves no real or practical need fades out. Today's natives are adaptable, usually industrious.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Find the humor in all of today's strivings and shortcomings. You have plenty of company.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Stick to a simple course of no more than normal routine. Others may insist on pursuing complex schemes—let yourself out of them.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Allowing for the moods of all concerned, follow the most direct route you can find today. There's plenty to do.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Toward the future is the main direction for you to look now. Your expectations of cooperation tend to be optimistic, perhaps unrealistic.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Precautions are quite in fashion. You'll be glad you played it safe. Avoid recriminations as you go.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: A sense of adventure finds fulfillment in your day's activity. Even well set habits of work provide satisfactions.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Be attentive to the emotional needs of those you love, let no crisis build needlessly.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: More responsibility comes to you. Put a ceiling on what you promise for time as well as the extent of your commitment.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Personalities and exaggerated pride together may hinder your productivity if you let them.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Today's action tests your capabilities and flexibility in adapting to different ground rules. Keep trying.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Money questions defy ready solutions. Where you can postpone, do so.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Visit or renew communications where you have let slip family ties or neglected old friends.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Beyond The Protests

While none of the feared environmental calamities occurred, the test of a nuclear warhead a mile beneath the surface of Amchitka Island in the Aleutians may still be considered a disaster by many people. To them it is one more example of the inability of the ordinary person to influence the actions of his government.

Numerous impassioned statements have appeared in the nation's press, both before and after the event, many of them in letters to the editor. There have been references to the "contempt" of the United States for world opinion, its "incredible arrogance," its "warmongering" and so on.

Yet the test protesters carried their fight all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, which met in extraordinary Saturday session to determine if the environmental unknowns were great enough to warrant a postponement of the blast. Previously, a lower court had ordered the government to make public certain classified information concerning the environmental hazards.

Can anyone imagine the Soviet judicial system entertaining such a suit from private citizens, even if courts in that country had the power to overrule acts by the executive branch of the government?

Russia tested a warhead larger than the Amchitka one. How many Russians were even aware of the test, much less protested it?

Our "arrogance" notwithstanding, there remains a rather distinct difference between the United States and the Soviet Union, a difference worth defending.

As Prof. Richard E. Pipes, director of the Russian Research Center at Harvard, has remarked, "Only a very profound change in the structure and government of the Soviet Union will affect their foreign stance, not our arming more or less."

The same truth applies to the so-called People's Republic of China.

The President decided, on the basis of the facts which only he is in a position to have, that the test was necessary for the security of the United States. The Atomic Energy Commission, on the basis of a quarter-century of experience with atomic energy, was confident that the test was safe to conduct.

Most Americans continue to place more trust in their government than in those whose first reaction in every situation is to condemn the government.

A Step Backward?

Prof. Paul Samuelson, 1970 Nobel Prize-winner in economics, writes that he was amazed to learn that his economics textbook was being translated into Swedish.

In Sweden, he asked the publisher, "Why did you bother? All educated Swedes know English."

The publisher replied, "Our students are losing their English. They are better than early generations when it comes to the speaking vocabulary needed to travel abroad. But where grammar and subtler vocabulary are involved, there is a falling off in their mastery of the language because they are no longer drilled at school in the way they used to be."

Samuelson says he found this incredible until another person gave him the clue to the puzzle.

Actually, no one likes to study for exams in a text outside his native language. I didn't like it in my time, nor did my father before me. But today, what students don't want to do, they don't have to do.

Now the deterioration of English among Swedish students hardly counts for much in the world's weighty concerns, yet it is not just in that country that what students don't want to do, they don't have to do.

It will not be many years before we discover what else besides linguistic proficiency has been lost in this educational revolution.

The Pinboy's Dilemma

Question Box

QUESTION: There is a great deal of fuss and fury over "academic freedom" among school teachers, college professors, and the students in our schools and colleges. They all seem to mean something different by these words. Just what is "academic freedom?"

ANSWER: Perhaps the confusion arises because there really is no such thing as "academic freedom." Freedom is not divisible, nor modifiable. It either is, or it isn't.

The definition of freedom which The News accepts is that of Andrew J. Galambos, because it fits the facts and we have not yet been able to find any exception to it. He defines freedom as "that societal condition that exists when every individual has full (100 per cent) control over his own property."

That requires another definition—that of property. Again, Mr. Galambos' definition of property is used because of its great utility. He defines property as "individual man's life and all non-procreative derivatives of his life." The first derivatives of his life are a man's thoughts and ideas, called primary property. From his thoughts and ideas, man acts.

Ownership, or control of one's own actions is called liberty. From ideas and actions, man generates further derivatives of his life—those tangible goods he produces or acquires through voluntary exchanges or as gifts. These are called secondary property. All are derived from a man's life and when all individuals have 100 per cent control over their own property, that condition is freedom.

So-called "academic freedom" then would depend on whose property is being controlled and by whom.

If the student wishes to acquire knowledge of a certain subject and makes a voluntary exchange for that knowledge, he has the right to determine what he will accept in exchange for his own property. Where a student's parents pay for his instruction, it is their property being exchanged, and they, having control of their own property, determine what they will exchange for it.

If a teacher has knowledge he is willing to impart to others, that is a derivative of his life, and is his property, and he has the right to determine what he will accept in exchange for making that knowledge available to others and under what conditions.

The owner of a school, which is his property, has the right to determine what sort of instruction he will offer in his school and on what terms. If he can find teachers willing to instruct and students who want the instruction on those terms, he will have a successful school and all parties having full control over their own property, will remain in a condition of freedom.

Under a tax-supported, coercive school system, the student and the teacher retain a degree of freedom. The student can attend a different, non-tax-supported school; the teacher can teach in a non-tax-supported school or seek other employment. But they, along with everyone else, MUST pay taxes for schools that are controlled, not by themselves, but by bureaucrats; so they no longer have control over their own property and they are not free.

Under such conditions there is no freedom, "academic" or otherwise, for anyone. There is only the power of the bureaucrat.

Legal Plunder

"But how is this legal plunder to be identified? Quite simply. See if the law takes from some persons what belongs to them, and gives it to other persons to whom it does not belong. See if the law benefits one citizen at the expense of another by doing what the citizen himself cannot do without committing a crime." Frederic Bastiat, "The Law," 1850

By ROBERTS. ALLEN

For Whom Does Red China's New UN Delegation Speak?
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—One overriding and crucially momentous question looms over the Red Chinese Delegation now holding forth in the United Nations.

Just who do these experienced and wily Peking emissaries represent?

Who is setting their policies and giving the orders? Which of the deadly warring cliques, fiercely feuding civilian and military factions and rival power-seeking moguls are calling the tune—and for how long?

The answer to this profound enigma is of supreme importance because it may well determine the fate of the world—whether there is peace or war, and if there is peace, what kind? A peace of free and democratically ruled people, or the iron-fisted totalitarianism that prevails in Russia, China and their satellite subjects?

Ostensibly, the Chinese delegation represents the Peking government. But who and what is that government?

Is it civilian, military or a combination of both? Is seemingly indestructible Premier Chou En-lai the top man ruling in the shadow of the patently fading and innocuous Chairman Mao Tse-tung? Or is Chou the "front man" of a "committee" consisting of powerful regional military chiefs and younger technicians and party leaders?

Considerable evidence points to this latter likelihood. But no outsider really knows. "China watchers," analysts and other authorities have theories, deductions, speculations and premises on what is transpiring behind the bamboo curtain but, in reality, no more than that.

Some of these "experts" frankly admit that.

One of the best of them goes even further. He is convinced that even the furiously contending and maneuvering Chinese don't know.

In other words, the vast subcontinent of 800 million people is still in the throes of the ferocious "cultural revolution" that Mao Tse-tung unleashed some five years ago. The outward violence of the maniacal "Red Guards" and other berserk elements has subsided—or been forcibly suppressed by the military in a number of areas.

But the convulsions of that immense upheaval are still vibrating throughout the Communist party and military power structure—with the outcome still conjectural.

Enigma Wrapped in Mystery
Those seemingly in power

today may be gone tomorrow. A graphic illustration is Communist party vice chairman Lin Piao, one of China's ablest military commanders, long-time close henchman of Mao Tse-tung, and until a few months ago his publicly proclaimed heir-apparent.

Now Lin apparently has fallen into disfavor with whoever is the ruling clique and has become, in effect, a non-person—as is the practice of fallen chiefs in Communist countries. Not only has Lin disappeared from sight and sound, but in various ways the controlled media are besmirching and denouncing him.

That fate has befallen other once high-placed functionaries.

With Lin Piao have vanished four of his top military leaders, and some senior members of the Communist politburo. Whether these mysteriously effaced generals and party rulers were on that military plane which inexplicably crashed deep inside Mongolia Sept. 12 is still known only to Peking—and very likely Moscow, which isn't talking.

Clearly it was a convulsing event. The next day the Chinese air force was grounded—and still is. That extraordinary move was soon followed by the even more dramatic cancellation of the annual National Day Parade and official banquet—all without a word of explanation.

While little more than the general outline of the fateful power struggle is known, some significant details have been established, as follows:

Chou En-lai appears firmly at the helm in foreign affairs, with the approval of the military. He may also exercise a lot of authority in other matters. Of all the top Chinese leaders he is today the most prominent in the public eye—including Mao Tse-tung who is only occasionally referred to in the media and then merely ceremoniously.

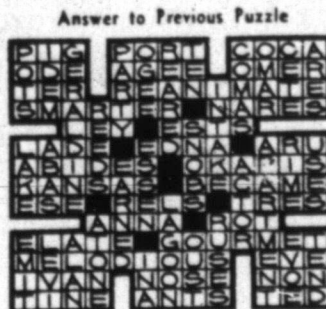

The Red Chinese army is definitely the most potent and entrenched power wielder. This is particularly the case in key provinces such as Yunnan, in the huge and densely populated southwest. It is highly revealing and important that most of the powerful province-level military chiefs are still in place and obviously in full control in their bailiwicks.

The Maoist cult is strikingly declining. The aged and ailing party chairman is trotted out now and then for ceremonial purposes—as happened during the visit last month of Emperor Haile Selassie. But there is no indication Mao wields any authority. That is definitely in other hands.

Performers Air Views On Secret Of Success

By JANE KADINGO
What are they really like? Are they really that handsome and charming off stage?

Who doesn't let these questions run through their mind as they sit in the audience enjoying a performance.

The glamour of the stage is always present and it's hard to picture a performer as part of the "real" world. Even in this "put-down" age, we imbue the actor, the singer, with an aura of glamour, they're handsomer, more charming, more romantic than the man we face at the breakfast table each morning... or those we pass on the street!

At least, that is how the female mind works.

Always intrigued by life upon the stage, I couldn't resist the chance to find out something about it when I came face to face Friday, in a local store, with two of the men who performed here Thursday night with Dorothy Warenskold's Musical Theater. They were spending an "off day" in Pampa, before going on to another performance in Raton, N.M.

Who didn't feel a warm response Thursday night when Tom Jepperson sang "It Ain't Necessarily So," and who didn't feel a romantic stirring within when Gene Brundage sang "Some Enchanted Evening."

These were the two performers I met... and they are just as handsome and charming off stage and on, with a dynamic enthusiasm for their work.

What about their glamorous life?

What about their glamorous life?
"One night stands aren't so glamorous," they said. "This is a very headless business, but I wouldn't be in anything else."

A touring group does not always of the best of dressing room facilities, they pointed.

"We've dressed in everything from kitchens to school hallways, with sheets hung up for privacy," they laughed.

But they have seen the country... during this 8-week tour, they have performed, starting in California, in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Before they came to Pampa, they had, in eight days, appeared in Orange, Irving, Greenville, Temple and Kilgore. Working their way back toward California, they will make about three more appearances before ending the tour.

Is this the fulfillment of a life-long dream? Not for either one.

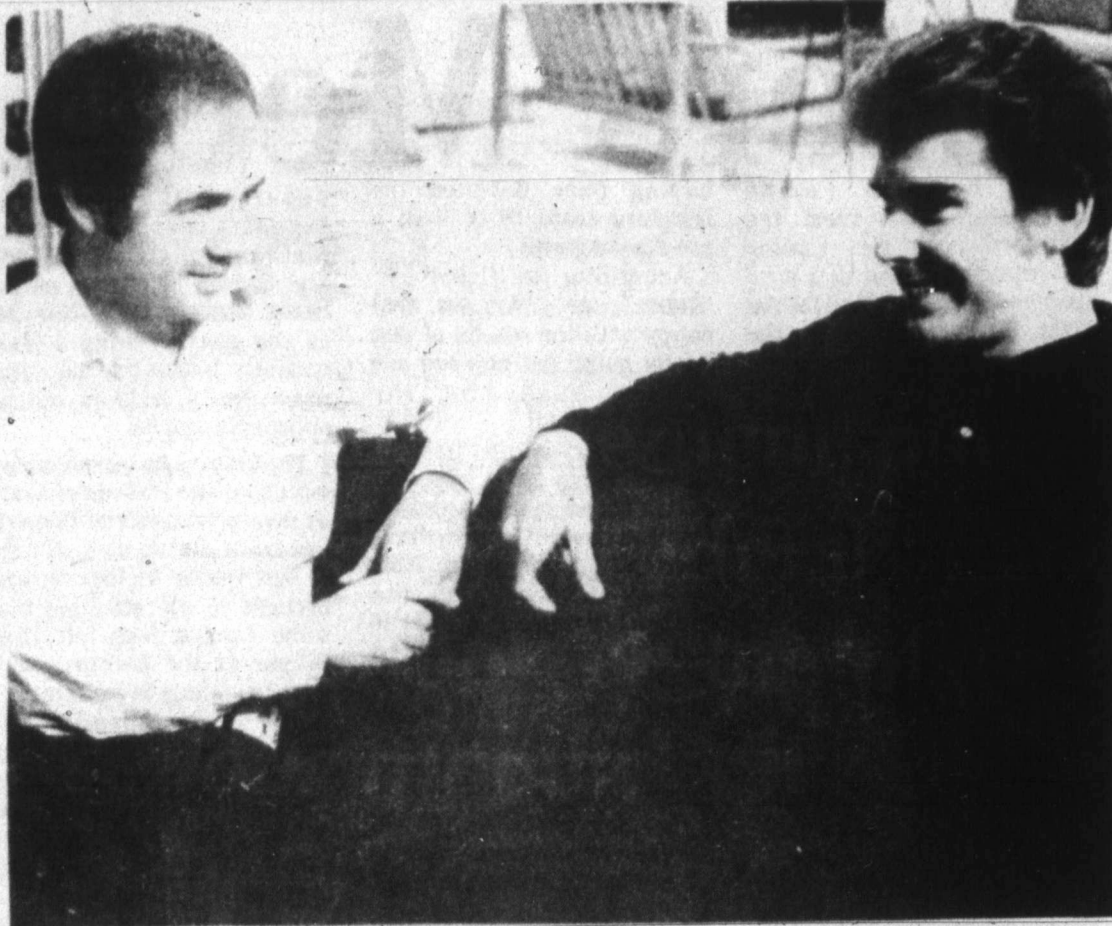

In college, Gene Brundage majored in English, and has tried his hand at being a medical technician, a stock broker and at personnel work, before turning to singing professionally five years ago.

And Tom Jepperson wanted to be a physicist or an electronic engineer.

"Luckily I changed my mind at the last minute," he laughed, explaining this is his eighth year of professional appearances.

What they have in common are families with a musical bent... Brundage's sister was a professional dancer and his father was an artist. Tom Jepperson's grandfather was a composer, his father was a singer and several aunts were professional dancers.

Both are natives of Los Angeles, with somewhat "crossing careers." Opera is Brundage's first love, which he studied for several years in Frankfurt, Germany.

Fat Stock Show Has New Arena

Horse Show exhibitors at the 1972 Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show will find a new show judging arena and additional stalls, reports W. R. Watt, Stock Show president-manager.

The facilities will be housed in a new 36,300 square foot steel building on the show grounds at Amon Carter Square just north and adjacent to Barn No. 7. The new unit has been designated Barn No. 8.

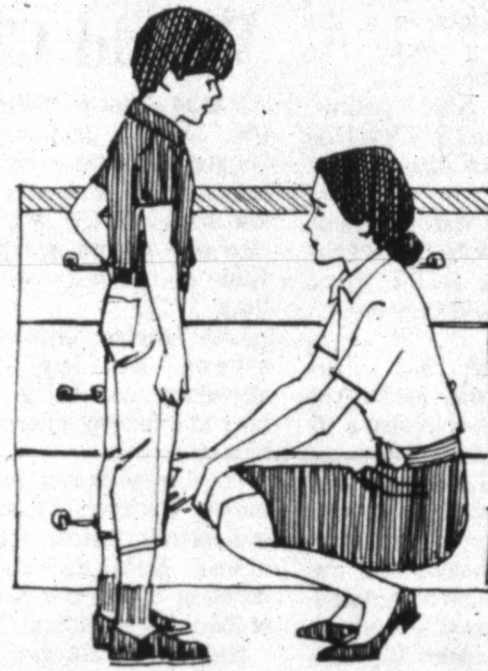

Included in the building will be a 150-by-67-foot judging arena, flanked by approximately 1200 permanent stadium-type seats and 100 stalls for horses. Construction is underway with completion scheduled prior to the 1972 show, Jan. 25 through Feb. 6, Watt said.

"The barn is being built primarily for horse events, and to expand conveniences for exhibitors," Watt added. "However, the facilities will be used continuously throughout the Stock Show, including some cattle judging events and livestock sales."

Fort Worth is recognized as host for one of the largest horse shows in the United States. "The 1971 Fort Worth Horse Show attracted 1,700 horses from 36 states, Canada and Saudi Arabia," said Douglas B. Mitchell, horse show superintendent. "The number of entries has increased about 10 per cent per year." Exhibitors of horses collected $39,119.15 in premiums in 1971.

The new building will have covered walkways between it and Barn No. 7. The facility will bring show accommodations to a capacity of about 1,000 horse stalls, not including the 140 stalls which house Stock Show Rodeo bucking horses.

"Construction of the building will be such that many diversified activities can be held other than during the Stock Show," Watt said. "The suspension roof over the arena will be equipped with sky lights and abundance of artificial lighting. I'm sure there will be year-round use."

Harvesters Meet Hereford

The Fighting Pampa Harvesters will meet the Hereford cows this coming Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. in Dick Bivens Stadium for the first Bi-District game the Harvesters have competed in, in the past 21 years. The 1950 team fell to Wichita Falls. This year the Pampa team has the advantage of having once defeated the Hereford team 20 to 7 in a pre-season game.

According to Robert E. "Swede" Lee, "We are real happy with the results of last week's game but now we are getting ready for the Bi-District clash."

The Harvesters have a championship team with a lot of depth and running ability. Perhaps the first time we have had this depth since 1950. DeWay Cudney was the Pampa quarterback in their 10 and 1 season in 1950 and talking to the players on that winning team the News found, "He didn't run very much. Ours was mostly a passing game."

The Harvesters of 1971 do have the passing game when it is needed but the running department carries the biggest threat. Richard McCampbell, Jonny Roth and Garvin McCarrell as the backs and big Dale Ammons as the general bring a good many bruises to the unsuccessful tacklers on the opponents squads.

The fans could learn a lot by watching the Harvester team as none of the District Champs lost heart during the half time of last week's victory. It was brought to our attention that some Pampa fans left Dick Bivens at the halftime with Pampa trailing 14 to nothing. In their minds the Harvesters had lost. The team proved they were up to the challenge and gained over 140 yards in the third quarter to gain the lead and eventually the title.

Tickets for this week's clash with Hereford are $3 for reserved seats, $2 for general admission and $1 for students. Students may purchase their tickets for 75 cents by buying in advance the High School.

Change Lew To Karen

Although the name has changed from last season to this, the leading scorer in the National Basketball Association still is the same. Last season, he went under his given name of Ferdinand Lewis Alcindor. This season, he is using his Islamic name of Kareem Abdul Jabbar.

As Alcindor or Jabbar, the 7-foot-2 Milwaukee center is the most imposing figure in the league. He reinforced that Sunday night, pouring in 46 points—the high in the league this season—in leading the rampaging Bucks to a 125-114 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

In other NBA games, Phoenix trimmed Cleveland 119-105, and Los Angeles beat Boston 128-115. Milwaukee's victory was its eighth in a row and raised the Bucks' record to 5-1. Their only loss was to Boston on Oct. 29.

Last season, with their towering pivotman leading the way, the Bucks compiled a 16-game winning streak en route to a 171 start. Later, they won a league record 20 games in a row on their way to a regular-season 66-16 record and the Midwest Division championship. Then, they captured the Western-Conference title and their first NBA crown.

Now, with their center again dominating the scoring, the Bucks already have opened a five-game bulge in the Midwest Division.

Against Philadelphia, Jabbar scored 18 of his points in the last quarter to blunt a 76er comeback bid. Billy Cunningham topped Philadelphia with 32 points.

Los Angeles' Wilt Chamberlain, the greatest scorer in the league's history, collected only three points against Boston.

United States Wins World Cup Top Honors

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus hugged the solid silver international cup presented to the low scorer in the 19th World Cup golf championships and said he wished "it didn't exist."

Lee Trevino, onetime $30-a-week driving range attendant, was being served beer and having cigarettes lit by a billionaire.

The United States' two premier golfers finished mutilating teams from 45 other nations Sunday, shooting a 21-under-par total of 555 at PGA National Club.

Nicklaus' rollicked home with a personal 17-under-par 271.

"The individual award should be eliminated from the world cup," said Nicklaus, who blazed through rounds of 68-69-63-71. "It's a team tournament and no one person should be allowed to steal the show."

South Africa was the runner-up, limping home 12 shots behind the Nicklaus-Trevino powerhouse at nine-under-par 567. New Zealand won two strokes farther back in third.

Gary Player had led the South African challenge for two days with 69-67.

John D. MacArthur, tournament host and one of the world's 10 richest men, climbed to the podium and delivered Trevino's requested beer. Lee then had MacArthur light him a cigarette.

Nicklaus trails Trevino by more than $20,000 in the U.S. tour dollar derby. Both plan to enter the Heritage Classic at Hilton Head, S.C. and the Disney World Open at Orlando, Fla., during the coming weeks.

Nicklaus won the PGA championship on the same 7,096-yard course in February with a seven-under-par 281 aggregate. In the World Cup, he was 10 shots better.

"The little British ball we were allowed to play made most of the difference," he said, "but I have played awfully well the past three weeks."

Jack won two tournaments in Australia before the World Cup, but the three victories combined—although worth mountains of prestige—added only $11,000 to the Nicklaus war chest.

Dallas' Defensive Unit Helps Defeat The Eagles surprising Bears within a game of first-place Minnesota in the National Conference's Central Division and sliced the Skins' lead over Dallas in the East to one-half game. One game is the largest margin any division leader holds with five weekends of action yet to come.

In Sunday's other action, New Orleans upset San Francisco 26-20. Minnesota nosed out Green Bay 3-0. Dallas defeated Philadelphia 20-7. Miami edged Pittsburgh 24-21. Baltimore ripped the New York Jets 14-13. Los Angeles tripped Detroit 21-13. New England outlasted Buffalo 38-33. Oakland walloped Houston 41-21. Kansas City tamed Cleveland 13-7. The New York Giants beat Atlanta 21-17 and Cincinnati whipped Denver 24-10.

In tonight's nationally televised (ABC, 9 p.m., EST) game, St. Louis visits San Diego.

"This team is getting better as it goes along," Saint Coach J.D. Roberts said after his quarterback, Edd Hargett, threw his third touchdown pass of the day against the 49ers, a 10-yarder to Virgil Robinson with 57 seconds remaining.

Hargett, subbing for injured Archie Manning, completed 13 of 21 passes without allowing an interception, finishing with 225 aerial yards against the usually fierce San Francisco defense. He also hit Dave Parks for scores covering 39 and 22 yards.

"This is the most frustrating game I've ever been involved with," Coach Dan Devine said after the Vikings shut out his Packers, winning on Fred Cox' 25-yard field goal with 4:02 to play. Green Bay came away without a point despite drives that reached Minnesota's 16, 21, 1, 10 and 8 yard lines.

Defense also did it for the Cowboys, who recovered three fumbles, intercepted two passes, and sacked Eagles quarterbacks four times. Duane Thomas scored on runs of one and 13 yards for Dallas.

The Dolphins remained half a game ahead of Baltimore in the American Conference East, rallied from an 18-point Steelers' lead as Bob Griese fired touchdown strikes of 12, 86 and 60 yards to Paul Warfield.

The Colts, getting a pair of third-quarter touchdowns on drives directed by Johnny Unitas, beat the Jets as Ted Hendricks blocked a conversion attempt by Bobby Howfield on New York's second TD. Jerry Logan assured them of victory as he slapped down a 22-yard field goal attempt by the Jets' kicker with about four minutes to play.

The Rams moved within half a game of the 49ers in the NFC West as Roman Gabriel fired scoring passes of 14 and 32 yards to Lance Rentzel against the Lions.

Rookie quarterback Jim Plunkett shook off an early hamstring pull by throwing four touchdown passes for the Patriots as the winless Bills absorbed their ninth setback.

Oakland retained its half-game AFC West margin over Kansas City as Daryle Lamonica threw 63 and 26-yard touchdown passes to Drew Bue and Pete Banaszak plunged over twice from one yard out in the Raiders' rout of the Oilers.

Jan Stenerud's two field goals and Len Dawson's touchdown toss to Wendell Hayes provided the Chiefs with their margin of victory and kept the Browns from breaking their first-place tie with the Steelers.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

Raymond Dix is a scientific modern publisher, for he tests his newspaper features regularly. Oscar Miller thus offers the result of a recent poll of readers. They contrasted this "Worry Clinic" column with that of talented Dr. Rubin.

CASE S-519: Oscar Miller is a high school teacher in Ohio. "Dr. Crane," he began, "I enjoy your daily column and often refer to it in my classes. So I am enclosing a clipping from our Wooster DAILY RECORD, which conducted a scientific poll of readers.

"Your column and that of Dr. T. I. Rubin were run, side by side, for several weeks. A ballot was also printed on the page so readers could vote their preference.

"Your 'Worry Clinic' column won by a vote of 228 to 82."

Scientific Testing

Raymond Dix is the talented publisher of the Wooster DAILY RECORD and he has a scientific mind.

So he constantly tries to offer readers the most helpful and stimulating features in addition to local news.

Dr. Rubin is President of the American Institute for Psycho-analysis.

He also is very deft at writing, so this comparison made a very interesting contest.

Because his column had not been running as long as mine, it possessed novelty, and many people are swayed by "newness."

On the other hand, the longer appearance of my "Worry Clinic" might be argued as giving me an advantage.

But I think the main reason more readers preferred my "Worry Clinic" is the fact it covers a much wider spectrum of "human interest" topics than just sex.

For a recent count showed that I dealt with 875 different psychological problems during the past 3 years.

The usual medical columnist exhausts the various diseases after he writes 250 columns, so he then must start repeating cases about Acne, Appendicitis, Arthritis, Asthma, etc.

Even the Etiquette Columnist runs out of new items after reaching the 200-mark.

But I cover the entire gamut of psychological and psychiatric dilemmas.

Thus, I deal with child rearing, pre-marital and post wedding love problems, personality improvement, psychosomatic medicine and the wide field of Applied Psychology that helps us earn bigger pay checks.

The latter includes advertising and selling, public speaking, merchandising strategy, how to write a letter of application for a job, etc., etc.

"Yes, Dr. Crane," you may reply, "but most readers say all you discuss is sin, sex and sea water."

That's a clever alliteration but not a true picture of the 875 different cases diagnosed in this daily "Worry Clinic."

It is correct to say I do include one or two cases per week under the general heading of "Sex Problems."

However, they vary widely, for I may mention menopausal upsets of wives past 40, vs. auto eroticism in toddlers, or bed-wetting, teen-age promiscuity, unwed pregnancy, venereal disease, etc.

And I always furnish you the background factors so you can understand how and why your dilemma started.

Confucius said if you give a hungry man a fish, you feed him for one day.

But if you teach him "HOW" to fish, you feed him for 100 years!

So I try to teach you how to be your own psychologist!

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg., Mellot, Indiana 47958, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

HELPING THE POOR

DALLAS (AP) — Some 2,000 poor children were placed in jobs last summer despite a tight labor market in Dallas.

Ed Gonzales, director of the Summer Job Fair in Dallas, announced the figure.

Gonzales said conservative estimates of total wages paid to participating youngsters were about $800,000.

To qualify for a job, the youths had to be from families where no member earned more than $1,900 per year and other family income did not exceed $600.

A GAIN FOR PLASTICS

NEW YORK (AP) — Carbonated soft drinks, beer and whiskey will begin to appear on retail shelves in plastic bottles, according to the Plastic Bottle Division of The Society of the Plastics Industry.

Tricuspid Valve Of Heart Essential To Life

ASSOCIATED PRESS
DETROIT (AP) — The tricuspid valve of the heart, which keeps blood pumped to the lungs from flowing back into the veins, has always been considered essential to life.

But a Detroit surgeon has discovered that humans can survive, with nearly normal circulation, without the valve. The surgeon thus has scored a potential breakthrough in a nearly always fatal disease unique to narcotics addicts.

Dr. Augustin Arbula, an associate professor of medicine at Wayne State University and a staff surgeon at Detroit General Hospital, made his discovery while looking for a way to treat pseudomonas tricuspid endocarditis, a bacterial infection of the heart caused by contamination from dirty hypodermic needles.

The disease often does not respond to antibiotics and the infection proves fatal if unchecked.

The Peruvian-born Arbula presented his research findings at a meeting of the American Heart Association in Anaheim, Calif., Saturday. However, he told newsmen in Detroit last week that he first attempted to treat the disease by removing the infected valve and replacing it with an artificial plastic one.

The operation was tried on two patients who failed to respond to drug treatment, but both died within 40 days when the infection re-established itself on the artificial valve.

"The only way we could do it was to remove the tricuspid valve," Arbula said. "We looked all over the medical literature and this had never been done anywhere."

The first step was to try it on dogs—and five of the six used in experiments survived and recovered.

In September 1970,

Freeman Haley, 34, a heroin addict for 14 years, was in a coma from tricuspid pseudomonas and near death. Arbula got permission from his family to try the radical surgery.

Today, 14 months later, only three visible effects of the disease and surgery remain: a large scar on his chest, an ulcerated sore on his foot that so far has resisted healing, and a pulse in his veins.

Arbula said it remains to be seen what effects the higher pressure in the veins will have on internal organs, particularly the liver. He said it is possible that the increased pressure could ultimately lead to cirrhosis of the liver.

Arbula said the output from Haley's heart and the circulation in his arteries is normal.

Since the first operation, Arbula has removed the tricuspid valves from five other patients. One, who the doctor said appeared too close to death at the time of the operation, died 59 days after the surgery. The other four are alive and reported well.

FINE PHEASANT CROP
AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists in the panhandle are predicting a good crop of pheasants by the time hunting season rolls around Dec. 11.

July and August roadside counts conducted by biologists showed that 54 per cent of the hen pheasants had broods tagging along behind.

Biologists said each brood averaged 5.25 chicks.

DROP IN EMPLOYMENT
LONDON (AP) — Nearly half a million fewer people are employed in Britain's production industries than there were last year, government figures show. The reason is that industry is cutting its labor costs.

One year ago: Thousands were reported killed in a cyclone and tidal wave in East Africa.

FREE BIKE RIDES
TORONTO (AP) — The city has provided free bicycle transportation for at least two of the two million people living in the area.

Mayor William Dennison decided that two bicycles presented to the city by a CBC television program would be left in the streets for public use.

"I've got great faith in the honesty of Toronto people," said the mayor.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The state reports revenue receipts totaling $1.2 billion for the past fiscal year, a $145 million increase over the previous year.
