Texas Taxpayers To Pay Their Own Primary Election Expenses

pay almost the entire cost of primary elections. Then, after a series of court tests, state courts held that the Secretary of State could not use state tax money for this year's primary elections unless the legislature gave him the specific power.

—Candidates still must pay a filing fee, unless they choose to get their name on the ballot by a petition with a required number of signatures. The fees range from $400 for a statewide candidate—compared to $1,000 under the old schedule—to as low as $25 for some local candidates.

After checking the itemized expense estimate the Secretary of State will okay checks on the state treasury for three-fourths of a county's estimate. Legislators Approve Emergency Measures

Special Session Ends; Lawmakers Head Home

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A reform-minded special legislative session that never became as stormy as some feared—or hoped—ended around midnight today after three work-filled days.

Lawmakers, called into emergency duty by Gov. Preston Smith Tuesday, started home after approving:

- A billboard and junkyard control act required by federal highway beautification laws. Failure to pass the measure would have lost Texas $24 million a year in federal highway funds.
- A bill appropriating $2.15 million to pay for the May 6 and June 3 Democratic and Republican primary elections.
- A resolution that makes Texas the eighth state, out of the required 36, to ratify the 27th amendment to the U.S. Constitution, giving women equal legal rights with men.
- Joint House-Senate rules curbing the power of 10-man conference committees to ignore the wishes of the two chambers in writing compromise legislation.
- In addition, the House passed 138-5 a set of "reform" rules urged by newly elected Speaker Rayford Price.
- Price, 35, was chosen Tuesday, hours after Gus Mutscher formally resigned as speaker because of his conviction in Abilene March 15 on charges he and two aides conspired to accept a bribe from Houston promoter Frank Sharp.
- Curiously, Mutscher, often accused of blocking "reforms" and of abusing his power, voted for the new rules, which weaken the speaker's authority over rank-and-file members.
- "I think the people of Texas are going to be proud of us," said Rep. Don Adams of Jasper, sponsor of the House rules change.
- All but 30 or 40 members rejected similar reforms last year when Mutscher was speaker and the so-called "Dirty 30" were pushing for limits on his and the conference committees' power.
- Smith called the session only to act on the billboard control and primary financing problems.
- An agreement between him and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes—opposing candidates for governor—that Smith's appointees to various state jobs would not be considered by the Senate this time contributed to the harmony and the shortness of the session.
- The billboard control and primary financing bills will take effect immediately with Smith's signature.
- Effects of the session on the average Texan will be most noticeable when he sees billboards coming down.
- With a few exceptions, the road beautification bill prohibits billboards within 660 feet of the right-of-way of interstate, U.S. and certain Texas-numbered highways.
- Junkyards would be cleared from within 1,000 feet of the highways unless screened by fences, natural objects or plantings.
- Over a five-year period, owners of the signs, junkyards and the land they occupy will be reimbursed an estimated $82.2 million. The federal

B52 Crashes In Florida, Causing Heavy Damage

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A giant Air Force B52 bomber crashed in flames near McCoy Air Force Base, slamming into a number of houses and causing numerous casualties, firemen said today.

Lt. Charles Goulder of the Orlando Fire Department said it was believed eight houses were hit by the flaming aircraft as it slammed into a residential area just north of the base about 11 a.m. EST.

Goulder said casualties were taken to the McCoy Air Force Base Hospital and other hospitals in the area.

A spokesman at McCoy said a B52 normally carries a crew of six. He said he did not know how many persons had been injured.

"Pieces were falling off the plane before it crashed," said an employee of a car rental agency at McCoy, which also serves as a commercial airport. "It banked and angled toward the ground, crashed and started burning."

W. M. Taylor, the taxi supervisor at McCoy, said, "I saw the whole thing, and that pilot's action kept the plane from hitting the airport terminal."

"As he came in, he was still above the clouds, but the engines sounded unusual so I

President May Take Action To Prevent Railroad Strikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has threatened to impose a mandatory 60-day cooling-off period if he concludes that two unions will begin strikes at midnight tonight, tying up the nation's rail service.

Neither the United Transportation Union nor the Sheet Metal Workers Union has made a formal strike threat.

But the White House said Thursday the situation is being treated as a threatened strike.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Thursday Nixon believes the country could not tolerate a nationwide shutdown of rail service.

Under the Railway Labor Act, Nixon can sign executive orders creating presidential boards to look into UTU's dispute with the Penn Central Railroad and the Sheet Metal Workers' dispute with the Association of American Railroads. Creation of a board would make any strike illegal for 60 days.

UTU said Thursday it will strike Penn Central if the money-strapped railroad cuts the size of train crews. Penn Central reaffirmed Thursday it plans to phase out beginning Saturday over 6,000 crew assignments it believes are unnecessary.

The Sheet Metal Workers, however, said Thursday it had no plans to strike. Union President Edward J. Carrough said in a statement Ziegler's suggestion the union would strike was "completely false and misleading."

The Sheet Metal Workers have sought more money and tighter work rules in a new nationwide contract covering 6,000 workers.

Meetings with the National Mediation Board broke off Wednesday with no progress reported in either dispute. No new meetings have been scheduled.

Russel G. Allen Dies Of Stroke In Austin

Russel G. Allen, 71, first Southwest Division manager of Cabot Corp. in Pampa, died yesterday afternoon in Austin following a stroke suffered at his home there Wednesday night.

The body was scheduled to arrive in Pampa this afternoon and will lie in state at the Duenkel Funeral Home until time for the funeral services at 11 a.m. Monday in St. Matthews Episcopal church with the Rev. Sam B. Hulsey rector, officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Mr. Allen, who was born in Crawfordsville, Ind., Oct. 4, 1901, finished prep school at Cornwall-on-Hudson, N.Y. and was graduated in 1923 from Haverford College, Haverford, Pa.

He first joined Cabot in Breckenridge, Texas, 1925, was transferred to the company's gasoline plant operation in Salem, W. Va., and reassigned to Pampa in 1927.

As one of the pioneers for Cabot, his service as Southwest Division manager from the Pampa headquarters gained him a reputation which Cabot officials from Boston to the Southwest referred to as the "Allen Era" of company expansion and progress.

Mr. Allen became general manager for the Southwest Division in 1930 and held that post until 1943 when he was transferred to Cabot's main offices in Boston as an executive vice president and director in charge of production and sales of Godfrey L. Cabot, Inc., and its various subsidiaries.

He served in that capacity

Food Chains Move To Halt Price Spiral

WASHINGTON (AP) — A day after Treasury Secretary John B. Connally talked with leading chain-store executives about the high cost of food, three supermarket chains moved to stop the spiral.

Grand Union and Winn-Dixie put freezes on current prices Thursday. Safeway Stores, Inc., cut beef prices in its 246 stores in Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

Grand Union froze fresh meat and poultry prices for 30 days in its 500-plus stores in the East, and Winn-Dixie, with 871 stores in the Southeast, froze all food prices through April.

The Agriculture Department, meanwhile, announced that the prices paid to farmers for beef on the hoof dropped 20 cents per hundredweight in the month ending March 15. A record high of $32.60 per hundred pounds of beef was set last month. It fell to $32.40 in the latest price period.

The decline, though slight, was the first since last summer.

Safeway said it lowered its meat prices as a result of the drop in prices paid for cattle.

Ex-State Legislator Of Amarillo Indicted

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Rep. Walter Knapp of Amarillo has been indicted on charges he used $1,200 in postage stamps from his legislative expense fund to buy a pickup truck.

The Travis County (Austin) grand jury indicted Knapp on two counts Thursday: theft by false pretext and diversion of a special fund.

Each count carries a penalty of two to 10 years in the penitentiary. The state will have to choose on which charge to prosecute Knapp.

District Judge Tom Blackwell set bond at $5,000.

Sheriff T. O. Lang telephoned the sheriff of Potter County (Amarillo) and asked that Knapp be arrested.

Knapp withdrew $1,200 worth of postage stamps on May 25, 1970—the same day he bought a 1965 Chevrolet pickup truck from Plains Chevrolet Co. of Amarillo.

Knapp said earlier this week there was nothing to the case, and a lawyer friend, Branch

Many Gather To Retrace Via Dolorosa

Christian pilgrims flocked to Jerusalem today to retrace Christ's final footsteps along the Via Dolorosa—The Way of Sorrows—to the traditional scene of the Crucifixion.

Thousands of visitors from abroad passed through the narrow lanes of Jerusalem for the annual Good Friday pilgrimage of mourning to Calvary.

Warm spring breezes swept the city as the pilgrims, some of them carrying 2-foot wooden crosses on their backs, began the mile-long procession through Jerusalem's bazaars.

It was the fifth Good Friday in Jerusalem since Israel captured the old city from Jordan in the 1967 war.

In Berlin, a massive Good Friday flow of Westerners crossed the wall into East Berlin and East Germany.

Election For Board Tomorrow

The four candidates for the Pampa school board position being vacated by Dr. Raymond Hampton are caught up in a flurry of last-minute campaigning before election day dawns tomorrow.

The Pampa High School music room is the polling place and voters may cast their ballots between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m. Homer L. Craig, school business manager, noted that the north door to the high school building will be open so that voters may use the high school parking lot.

Ralph Dunbar is the election manager with W.A. Rankin and George Scott serving as election judges.

The candidates in the order they will appear on the ballot are the Rev. Raymond Van Amber, pastor, Bethel Assembly of God Church; the Rev. Sam Hulsey, pastor, St. Matthews Episcopal Church; Paul Simmons, owner, Southwell Supply Co. and George McCarroll, operations manager, Celanese Corp.

Old Billboards To Disappear On Highways

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Roadside eyesores such as dilapidated billboards and rusted junkyards should disappear as a result of a bill passed by the legislature, which reluctantly caved in to federal financial pressure.

The major part of the highway beautification work may not take place for several years, however, as the federal government's lead in financing has been slow.

The first things to come down, maybe within a month, will be old signs which no one is paying to maintain.

The legislative action Thursday night makes Texas the 39th state to comply with the federal Highway Beautification Act of 1965.

It was adopted by the House, 114-31, after several members protested that the federal government was erasing another area of free enterprise.

The Senate passed it 28-2, and one of the dissenters, Sen. W. E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland, said, "This bill will do more to kill small communities than anything we have done in a long time."

He said the rural communities "only hope to survive was to place signs on the interstate proclaiming their virtues in hopes that they might interest some of the motorists to stop in their town."

The proposal was one of two items Gov. Preston Smith instructed the special session to consider. He said it would cost Texas $24 million in federal highway funds if the state did not enact such a bill by May 6.

State House, Senate Adopt Rules Restricting Conference Committees

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — It was hard not to find a "reformer" Thursday night in the scandal-ridden Texas Legislature.

The House, hardest hit by the 1971 stock scandal, voted 138-5 for rules to dethrone some of the old lions of that chamber and weaken the speaker's power.

Both the House and the Senate adopted joint rules restricting conference committees, which often have forced lawmakers to vote blind on complex issues.

Rep. Rayford Price of Palestine, who was elected speaker Tuesday on a reform platform, negotiated and compromised to get his "reforms" through.

Price and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes joined hands to push the joint rules—something Barnes has advocated since 1965—to passage.

Even ex-Speaker Gus Mutscher and former House Appropriations Committee Chairman W. S. Healy voted for the Price "reforms." They were criticized last year for blocking proposed limits on conference committees, where Healy exercised immense power over spending items.

"I am particularly proud that after eight years we finally have joint rules," said Barnes.

"Both houses have agreed to open up legislative procedures to all the people of Texas," Price said.

Last year, when Mutscher and Healy still held sway over the House, only about 30 or 40 members voted to open up House procedures.

Mutscher, convicted March 15 of conspiracy to accept a bribe, and Healy resigned their leadership positions early in the week.

The rules changes, House and joint, include these key features:

—Price can reappoint the appropriations, House administration and tax committees any time he chooses.

—Next January, the 46 House committees will be reduced to 25. Each member can request two committee assignments. Half the positions in each committee, except those of chairman and vice chairman, will be allotted on the basis of seniority. The speaker will fill the other positions as he sees fit.

After 1973—unless rules are changed again—a representative who wants to keep a committee assignment can do so.

The change is designed to take away one club a speaker has over individual representatives, the power to determine their effectiveness by choosing their committee posts, and to preserve a certain amount of expertise on committees.

—Conference committees, appointed to negotiate House-Senate disputes over details of bills, cannot without approval of both chambers add material to the measures and must stick to writing compromise legislation.

Notice must be posted at least an hour in advance of conference committee meetings. Conferees have grown accustomed to meeting in unannounced sessions.

—General appropriations bills must be placed in representatives' hands a full week before they must vote on them. A chronic complaint has been the lack of time to study the voluminous bills.

Today Absentee Voting Deadline

Today was the deadline for absentee balloting in next Tuesday's municipal election.

Two commissioner seats are up for grabs this year and at noon today 36 absentee votes had been cast.

Chief interest centers in the three-way contest for city commissioner in Ward 4 where Arthur J. Rohde is running for election.

Seeking to unseat Rohde are the Rev. Monroe Woods and John Goes, a Cabot Corp. employe.

R.D. (Jimmy) Wilkerson is unopposed on the ballot for re-election in Ward 2.

Voting in the city election, will be at the commissioners room in City Hall. Polls will open at 8 a.m. Tuesday and close at 7 p.m.

NRAHS To Open Course On Gun Handling

A National Rifle Association Hunter Safety Course to teach proper gun handling for hunting will be started soon in Pampa.

The course, which consists of eight hours of class instruction, will be conducted by Paul Edwards, who has been a qualified instructor for the course for 10 years.

Open to persons of either sex from 10 years and up, the instruction relates to basic information about ammunition and guns, especially as applied to their safe use.

There is no intent to teach expert marksmanship in this course, but only safe practices. Marksmanship is taught in other courses or gained by experience.

The NRA sponsors similar courses throughout the nation in an attempt to avoid the many hunting accidents occurring each year from careless use of weapons and procedures.

The local course is usually held at 7 p.m. on Thursday in the Palm Room at City Hall.

A fee of $1 is required for a text to be used in the instruction. Other materials are provided by the state.

As of Tuesday, 177 local students will have completed this course here recently. Upon completion of the course, class members will receive a NRA patch and card and a certificate from the Pampa Police Department.

Persons interested in taking the course are asked to contact Paul Edwards at 669-7240 or to contact the chief of Pampa Police Department or Officer Bob Franklin.

Antiwar Activist Asked To Appear In Federal Court

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Antiwar activist Leslie Bacon has been ordered to appear in federal court here May 5 to answer perjury charges in connection with the bombing of the U.S. Capitol last year.

A perjury indictment made public Wednesday by U.S. Atty. Stan Pitkin charges Miss Bacon lied when she told a federal jury here last spring she had not been inside the Capitol hours before a bomb exploded in a men's room in the Senate wing Feb. 28, 1971.

Miss Bacon was arrested by FBI agents on a material witness warrant in Washington, D.C., last April 27. A federal judge there ordered her brought to Seattle under $100,000 bond to testify before the grand jury investigating the Capitol bombing.

Maryland's 400-Year-Old Oak Still Appears In Good Health

WYE MILLS, Md. (AP)—The 400-year-old Wye Oak has a clean bill of health after a checkup by Earl L. Yingling, state roadside tree supervisor.

Yingling is concerned with all of Maryland's trees, but is particularly fond of this white oak because it is the official state tree which began growing in the 16th century before Maryland was colonized.

"It's a remarkable bit of life," he says, "a prize tree, the state's biggest and oldest oak. I hope it goes on forever or at least as long as I'm responsible for it."

White oaks live 225 to 250 years, but Wye Oak is nearly twice that old and requires regular medical attention, though in good health.

IN GOOD HEALTH — Maryland's Wye Oak, the biggest oak tree in the state, has been given a clean bill of health after its latest physical examination. The 102-foot high tree with a limb spread of 158-feet has been growing since before Maryland was colonized.

The tree, in its own tiny state park, has impressive physical measurements. The gnarled trunk is 29 feet, eight inches around, four feet above the base.

It is 102 feet high and has a limb spread of 158 feet. Despite its age, the tree still is growing.

"We pruned it last year to put it in balance and since then it has added 12 to 16 inches in growth to the branches," Yingling said proudly. "The trunk is hollow now."

"It lost big limbs, one of tree size in the hurricane of 1958. Another big storm could take it away."

After each annual examination, Yingling consults specialists, prescribes treatments and

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A Salt Lake City firm said Tuesday it has found a successful treatment for cancer of the eye in cattle—one which it says offers hope for human suffers from eye cancer.

Dr. Kent VanKampen, director of research for Intermountain Laboratories, Inc., said the treatment has resulted in complete cure within 30 to 60 days for many afflicted animals.

Eye cancer causes a loss of $8 million annually to the cattle industry, the firm said.

War Casualties Rose Last Week

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese and enemy casualties rose sharply last week to the highest levels in nine months, the South Vietnamese command reported today. Four Americans were killed in combat and 13 were wounded.

The South Vietnamese death toll, which had fluctuated around 300 per week since July and risen last week to 357, shot up to 445.

Reported North Vietnamese and Viet Cong losses for the week were nearly twice as heavy as the 1972 average, with 1,981 claimed killed.

The increased casualty figures appeared to reflect stepped-up fighting in eastern Cambodia and near the Laotian border in central and northern South Vietnam.

American combat deaths reported by the U.S. Command have averaged 3.3 a week this year.

3,594 Persons Killed In '71 On Texas Streets, Highways

AUSTIN — Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said today the final tabulation of 1971 motor vehicle traffic accidents shows that 3,594 persons died last year on Texas streets and highways. An additional 121,082 were injured and the total economic loss was $1.045 billion.

"The death figure of 3,594 represents a 1 per cent increase over the 1970 toll of 3,560. Actually, with all factors considered, the rise in deaths could have been greater," Speir said.

"For example, vehicle miles driven increased from 68 billion in 1970 to over 70.7 billion for 1971. This represents a rise in total driving of 4 per cent. From another standpoint, the number of licensed Texas

Ten Turkish Terrorists, 3 Victims Killed

NIKSAR, Turkey (AP) — Ten Turkish terrorists and three kidnap victims, one Canadian and two British radar technicians, were killed Thursday when ammunition exploded in the mountain village house where they were surrounded by Turkish troops.

A government official reported the cause of the explosion was not known. "Everyone in the house was killed," he said.

Shortly before the explosion a Turkish lawyer acquainted with the leftist terrorists was sent into the house in an attempt to persuade them to surrender.

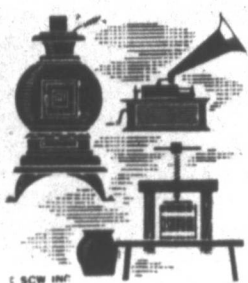

We, the undersigned voters of Pampa, heartily endorse SAM B. HULSEY candidate for trustee on the School Board. We believe his experience, concern, financial capability, and enthusiasm make him best qualified to take responsibility for our children and carry out all the duties of a School Board member.

Researchers Find: Home Life Bears On School Grades

By DON OAKLEY

Depending upon one's political, ideological and/or racial prejudices, President Nixon has either acted in a statesmanlike manner or has once again bowed to political expediency by asking Congress to halt further court-ordered school busing.

Now a new report bearing on the controversy, actually a reanalysis of an old one, has been dropped into the midst of the fray. It seems to provide ammunition for both sides.

It was back in 1966 that something called the Coleman Report, named after its director, James Coleman of John Hopkins University, came up with a much-disputed conclusion that:

"Schools bring little influence to bear on a child's achievement that is independent of his background and general social context; this... means that the inequalities imposed on children by their home, neighborhood and peer environment are carried along to become the inequalities with which they confront life at the end of school."

A group of Harvard University researchers, supported by a Carnegie Corporation grant, have reexamined the data. Their conclusions, edited by statistician Frederick Mosteller and former presidential aide Daniel P. Moynihan, have been published as a new Random House book, "On Equality of Educational Opportunity."

According to Education U.S.A. newsletter, the re-examination does not confirm all of the findings of the Coleman Report but upholds its general conclusions. If anything, says one of the researchers, the original report underestimated the importance of family factors on school achievement and overestimated the effect of school factors.

On the question of integration, the reanalysis confirms the original finding that the achievement of black students placed in an integrated setting improves only slightly.

Specifically, it suggests that the verbal ability of black students in mostly white classes would be increased about two-thirds of a grade level, still leaving 12th grade blacks about 3.3 years behind white students.

The basic problem, the Harvard report stresses, is the socioeconomic condition of black families.

"...neither school upgrading nor integration will close the black-white achievement gap" if the socioeconomic gap is ignored. Thus programs which stress financial aid to disadvantaged blacks may be just as important, if not more so, than integration.

Those who don't like this conclusion will counter that the black-white socioeconomic gap is largely a product of past inequalities in education, which themselves were largely products of racially determined housing patterns—both of which inequalities busing is intended to help overcome.

As for the President's proposal to channel more money into the black schools, they can point to another finding of the Harvard report. This states that the least promising approach to equality of educational opportunity for poor children is to increase school expenditures, since there is "little evidence" that this has an "appreciable effect on achievement scores."

As with other profound social problems, the nation may eventually have to adopt a compromise approach that will not be wholly satisfactory to anyone.

This would mean busing in those cases where wisdom determines that busing is the most practical route to educational equality, and a concentration on upgrading depressed-area schools in those cases where the human costs of busing are greater than the hoped-for benefits.

But where, in the emotionally supercharged atmosphere that now prevails, are we to find the wisdom?

'Openness,' It's Smothering Us

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

The Democrats in 1972 have become so enamored of "openness" in the presidential political process that they are in danger of putting us all to sleep with free expression.

They've reformed presidential nominating procedures so that just about anybody who can get some money can run for the big job. And that, in some measure, is what we're getting: just about anybody.

Only a few times in our history have we seen such a deluge of candidates. It's as if a lot of people in the Democratic Party felt that only by the magic of numbers could they prove their openness. But choosing a president is a quest for quality. An insistence upon quantity could swamp the thing out.

H.L. Hunt Writes

SOVIET WEAPONS IN SPACE?

The Soviets are making rapid military advances in space, according to a report recently released by the Senate Aeronautical and Space Sciences Committee. "Soviet Space Programs, 1966-70," prepared by the scientific experts of the Library of Congress, details Soviet advances in satellite weaponry.

In 1970, for example, the remains of the Soviet Cosmos 316 satellite fell to earth in the United States. The metal pieces were thicker and heavier than that usually used for satellites. Our scientists and technicians concluded that the wreckage closely resembled that of a bomb.

The report also points out that the Soviets are almost certainly continuing to develop two kinds of space weapons. One is the fractional orbital bombardment system (FOBS), which could launch warheads at the U.S. The other is the "inspector-destroyer" satellite, which can intercept and destroy other satellites in orbit.

Dr. Charles Sheldon, chief of the Library of Congress' Science Policy Research Division, stated in the report: "The Soviet Union has worked at the game of making the United States look as bad as possible in doing what is necessary in space defense, while keeping its own freedom of action in this regard as complete as possible."

The U.S., on the other hand, has abandoned its "Saint" program for satellite inspection of other satellites, thus making it impossible for us to know for sure how many weapons the Soviets are orbiting.

Dr. Sheldon, on the basis of the available evidence, concludes that Soviet space experiments are "leading toward stationing of a nuclear deterrent force in orbit for a sustained period."

In the early primaries of 1972, I find the quantity of candidates having a strangely dissipating effect. Here in Florida, as in New Hampshire, there is a sense of emptiness in the presence of many.

Not long ago, I heard a sort of debate among some of the candidates in New Hampshire. I had to remind myself repeatedly that I was not listening to a battle for the county clerk's job. Mediocrity was rampant.

In Florida, voter interest is intense in the question of busing to foster racial integration in schools. A referendum on the issue will be held concurrently with the March 14 presidential primary balloting.

Yet, when more than 10 candidates' voices are raised on such a complex, controversial subject, few voters can keep track of what any of them think.

That's why Alabama's Gov. George Wallace is reinforcing his clear lead in the Florida primary. He doesn't have to say a word.

Everybody knows where he stands on busing.

There is no proper way, of course, to argue against openness in the presidential selection process. It is obviously a desirable goal, and the evident achievement of it by the Democratic Party is commendable.

But Democrats are over-reacting in their emotional revulsion against the cramped choosing process which helped convert their 1968 convention at Chicago into a debacle. They are smothering us with their proofs of reform.

I walked along the sand at Miami Beach as aides to Sen. George McGovern passed out campaign brochures. The sunning oldsters, playing cards under palm fronds, were friendly enough. Still, there was this recurring theme:

"Too many candidates...they're all alike."
They're not at all alike, but they do tend to merge in the mind as one. In one hour I saw 30-second or 60-second television "spots" for four Democrats entered in the March 14 test. In the final days, this will be a flood. It could be the start of the last hurrah for this long favored campaign device. It's been fading, anyway, since its overuse in the 1968 presidential battle.

Plainly, nobody can tell aspirants they can't run. What we need is some good old-fashioned self-restraint in the use of privilege. It's too late for that this time. Only ruthless rejection of also-rans at the polls will narrow the roster in 1972.

In the meantime, pity the poor voter as he thumbs the list:

No Miracle Cure for Arthritis

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am suffering from rheumatoid spondylitis. I am a male, 30 years old, and have been suffering with this for almost two years. I am in constant discomfort. I thought this affliction was always of the bone joints, but I experience a lot of muscular soreness, especially through the shoulders. My spine hurts the entire length, reaching my left hip joint. The pain in the spine is most evident when I arch my back or twist the body trunk. I do exercises and this seems to keep me limber, but overexercising will make me feel worse in the long run.

The physician has me on medication and this seems to help the inflamed hot feeling in my back but it tends to make me constantly tired and without energy. He says he will put me on cortisone if I want to try it, but hasn't pushed the medication, and I haven't tried it.

Will you please explain what this arthritis is and what methods are available for treatment. Am I doomed at this early age to a life of constant discomfort and possible stiffening of my back?

Dear Reader—Rheumatoid spondylitis is a form of rheumatoid arthritis of the spine. It most often affects young males and frequently begins in the latter teens. The initial complaints often involve back pain, perhaps less severe than what you are now experiencing and often there is no X ray evidence of disease and most of the laboratory tests used in diagnosing arthritis may be negative.

With normal laboratory, X ray or physical findings in young, apparently healthy men, it is easy to understand why these victims are often accused of malingering when they first complain of their illness. Since this strikes the age of group that is commonly involved in military duty, it is a persistent problem in the armed services. It is difficult to tell whether back pain is due to anxiety, emotional stress and other factors, or whether it is really the beginning of rheumatoid spondylitis.

Later X ray changes are seen in the joints between the sacral portion of the lower spine and the iliac portion of the pelvis bone, hence it is referred to as sacroiliac arthritis.

It can and does cause trouble along the entire spine. At first the pain may be restricted to the low back and the hip, but as time goes on it is common for it to involve the rest of the spine all the way to the neck. It also will affect the joints where the ribs join the spine. Pain in the shoulders of the type you complain of is a common feature of the disorder.

State Department Seeks UN Aid Increase

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—There seems to be a surprising gap in communications between the White House and the State Department.

President Nixon announced in his budget message several months ago that the U.S. share of United Nations funds would be cut from 31 per cent to 25 per cent. Throughout the UN's existence the U.S. has always contributed the most money.

The President's declaration, coming on the heels of the ouster of Nationalist China and other provocative actions, evoked wide bipartisan Congressional approval.

But somehow the State Department didn't get his message—or ignored it!

Instead of slashing U.S. payments to the UN by at least 6 per cent, the department is blandly proposing to hike them by some $22 million—from $112,058 million last year to $134,658 million this year.

This startling disclosure came to light when members of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee in charge of the State Department's budget dug into the voluminous and bureaucratically complicated document. To their astonishment they uncovered a series of increases for the UN instead of the President's promised decreases.

Among these larger amounts were:

- Boosting the direct payment to the United Nations to $63,996 million from $56,312 million; World Health Organization to $26,342 million from $23,741 million; Food and Agriculture Organization to $12,151 million from $10,083 million; Organization of American States to $20,768 million from $18,780 million; and the International Atomic Energy Agency to $4,883 million instead of $3,977 million.

In 1970, this country's share of these funds amounted to $105 million, so the proposed State Department increases actually mean an overall jump of $28 million.

Secretary Rogers and other department officials have been making various arguments in defense of these increases in the closed-door hearings of the subcommittee is conducting on the controversial budget. What their rhetoric all gets down to is the contention that higher costs and expanded demands require more money.

As far as can be ascertained, they are saying nothing about other UN members bearing a bigger share of the financial load.

But that point is being forcefully raised by committee members—notably Chairman Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, who is voicing sharp skepticism about the department's budget and its glaring disregard of the President's publicly avowed policy of cutting U.S. payments to the UN.

Hays, asked by this columnist if budget-paring is in prospect, replied emphatically, "You can say that definitely is my intention. If the committee will support me, this budget will be a lot leaner and more realistic when we get through with it." Time will tell.

One thing is certain: if the subcommittee doesn't wield the axe, a vigorous effort to do that will be made in the form of paring amendments when the budget comes before the full House later on.

Big Spender

In preparation for such a possible floor fight a number of significant facts has been assembled on the immense amount of money the United States has poured into the United Nations since it was launched in June 1945.

In those 27 years the U.S. has given the international organization and its affiliated agencies and programs the huge total of $4.1 billion.

That is approximately 40 per cent of all the money contributed by UN members—now totalling 131.

That still isn't the whole story—vast as it is. The U.S. also purchased more than $141 billion of United Nations bonds—65 per cent of which are interest free, the balance paying only 2 per cent interest. It costs the Treasury Department an average of around 6 per cent to borrow money.

Last year United Nations expenditures hit an all-time high.

They totalled more than $1.115 billion—17 per cent greater than in 1970.

Of this record-spending the U.S. put up $335,443 million, approximately 31 per cent. And here is another significant figure that will jar you:

Of the 131 UN members, 117 collectively pay less than this country's contributions in one year. But all UN members have the same voting rights; all have one vote regardless of how little put in—or don't put in at all.

Some of them are in that category. They are heavily in arrears. According to the latest available authoritative figures, as of last November, 86 UN member nations were in arrears $186,867 million.

And leading this shocking list were Russia owing $86,864 million, France $21,789 million, and the East European Soviet satellites in default $32,731 million.

Article 19 of the UN charter specifically states that any member country in "serious arrears" shall be denied its vote in the General Assembly.

This provision has never been invoked—and probably never will be with the Communist, African and Asian blocs controlling the United Nations.

Most of those countries are on the arrears list.

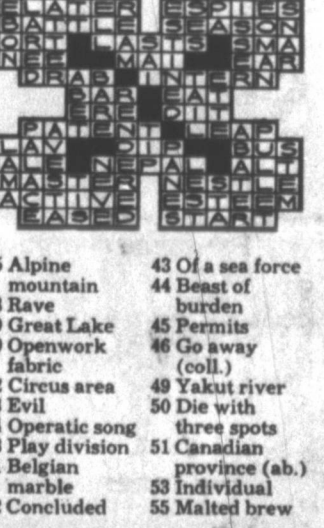

But the State Department is determinedly insisting that U.S. taxpayers continue to shell out an ever-larger amount to keep the UN solvent—so it can slap this country around as it suits the purpose of the grossly defaulting domineering blocs—notable among them India, whose self-righteous and sanctimonious prime minister is currently so petulantly carping about the U.S. and so ardently enthusiastic about Russia.

There are other countries on the UN default list which are no better!

BUSINESS MIRROR Persuasion Another Way To Fight U.S. Inflation

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Treasury Secretary John Connally called the heads of 12 supermarket chains to Washington for a chat about the high price of meat this week and now we are told those prices will be coming back down.

using controls on the super-markets. The marketmen took it as a threat.

After the talk they seemed to agree that prices would be dropping. And to show their good faith, they agreed to provide the Cost of Living Council with a weekly report. Can you imagine reporting higher prices?

It was against this backdrop that Connally was able to assure Americans that the price of beef would be lower in coming months.

The swiftness with which the secretary acted was typically Connally. So was his persuasiveness, which has overpowered or left sputtering with rage some of the world's powerful men.

For sheer elemental power the secretary has no equal. The syrup that runs in his veins supplies an energy that makes other humans feel like boys. He is a powerhouse.

As such, he is probably just the man to face those in charge of pricing in our free enterprise system. He can handle people, suggest to them a course, and leave them convinced that even if they don't like that course they had better act like they do.

But now consider: The Secretary of the Treasury assuring the public about the price of a roast beef or a pork dinner? Wouldn't it have been more logical for the Agriculture Secretary or the Price Commission to make such statements?

And how in the world can mere words, even though they imply the threat of action, dam up the price flood that now flows through the American economy? To think that anyone can do so without first turning off the rain is to hope for a miracle.

The situation suggests how perilous the fight against inflation has become. Resort to persuasion, through plea or threat, suggests that earlier, "practical" remedies have failed.

In 1889, the Eiffel Tower was opened in Paris.

In 1917, the United States took possession of the American Virgin Islands after their purchase from Denmark.

In 1931, Managua, Nicaragua was destroyed by an earthquake.

In 1943, World War II, American bombers pounded the shipyards in the Dutch port of Rotterdam.

In 1949, Newfoundland became Canada's 10th province, following a plebiscite.

Ten years ago: A labor agreement averted a nationwide steel strike in the United States.

Five years ago: Rodian Y. Malinovsky, a Russian who joined the army of the Czar at 16 and rose to become Soviet defense minister, died at the age of 68.

One year ago: A military court at Fort Benning, Ga. sentenced 1st Lt. William Calley Jr. to life imprisonment for his part in the My Lai killings.

Today's Birthdays: Former High Commissioner for Germany, John J. McCloy, is 77 years old. Entertainer Henry Morgan is 57.

Thought for today: There's one kind of tax that would win universal approval—a tax on the other fellow. Anonymous.

BY DAVID POLINSKI

CAIAPHAS

Most serious of His opponents were the leaders of the Jewish church. Jesus confronted an entrenched and callous religious community. They opposed change, lived the letter but not the spirit of the law, and employed violence and intrigue to protect their authority. The popularity of Jesus attracted the concern and alarm of Caiaphas, high priest of Jerusalem and leader of the Sanhedrin, (which was the Supreme Court of 70 who later tried Jesus.)

Caiaphas charged Jesus with two crimes: That He was churning up the population in civil discord and that He was guilty of blasphemy. He chose the weapons of patriotism and religion to stir sentiment against Jesus. With false witnesses and political pressure, he succeeded in bringing Jesus to the Cross, though the final verdict was passed by Pilate.

Caiaphas continued as an enemy of the church, arresting the apostles and flogging them for their witness to the Resurrection. Yet the faith grew and the followers increased, much to the consternation of Caiaphas and his cronies.

MARSHALL, Tex. (AP) — Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said today that Congress must approach the compulsory school busing issue from both the legislative and constitutional amendment processes.

Tower told a joint civic club meeting in Marshall.

"I am convinced that a high quality education for all can be achieved without the necessity of court-ordered busing simply to achieve racial balance," Tower said. "In fact compulsory busing solely to achieve racial balance is actually detrimental to quality education."

Sexy Caine, Concerned Dad

By DICK KLEINER
HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—To most, Michael Caine is the personification of birdchasing mod England. It comes as something of a shock to learn that he's more of a bird-watcher than a bird-chaser.

It's not that he is anti-girl. Far from it. Michael Caine still indulges in girls to a considerable extent. It makes a nice hobby for a healthy and affluent male. But when you get him talking, suddenly out of this handsome, well-tailored chap come surprising words.

He would like to retire to the garden. That's something like Howard Hughes saying he's going to open his hotel hideaway suites to tourists. But Caine insists it's true.

"I have a lot of plans," he says, "but what I'd really like to do is sit in my garden. I bought an old millhouse between Windsor Castle and Windsor race course. There's about seven acres of garden and I'd like to sit there with my six kids and just watch the flowers grow."

He may have flowers, but he doesn't have six kids—just one, a daughter, 14, named Dominique. And he talks like a typical older generation parent when he discusses the problems of raising children these trying days.

"This is the worst time in history for parents," he says. "When I was a boy, we could do bad things and the worst that would happen is we'd make fools of ourselves. But today a child can kill himself."

He says he's fortunate with his own daughter. Dominique is crazy about horses. She gets up early every morning and spends her non-school days with her horses—feeding them, riding them, currying them.

"By nighttime," he says, "when other kids go out and pop pills, she's too exhausted for that. Besides, the boy she's interested in is also a horse rider. I think he's keen on physical fitness so he doesn't smoke or drink or take drugs. I'm not about to rock the boat—I just want to keep the status as quo as possible."

MICHAEL CAINE and Elizabeth Taylor bear as man-and-wife combatants in movie, "X, Y and Zee." It's one of the many movies he has made whose ratings make it not for his teen-age daughter to see. His new movie, "Kidnapped," is G-rated and gets his parental approval.

His friends say the only reason he made "Kidnapped" is because he wanted Dominique to see one of his movies. "Kidnapped" is his first G-rated film. He doesn't say that—he says he did "Kidnapped" because he wanted to make a film with "staying power."

"I feel that cassettes and cable TV are coming," he says, "and something like 'Kidnapped' will be shown forever on those gadgets."

He is also in the current release, "X, Y and Zee," with Elizabeth Taylor and Susannah York. The reviews have been mixed.

"I was terribly disappointed with the reviews I got in the United States for 'The Last Valley,'" he says. "I consider that the best acting job I've done. I won awards for it in seven countries, including my own, but I was humiliated and

Worry Clinic

By George W. Crane, Ph. D., M. D.

Lt. Roger says girls "fall" more easily for any guy in a uniform! These 100 pregnant girls involved in so-called bastardy cases support his view. For a uniform adds much to a man's charisma. It emphasizes a basic sex difference. See below.

CASE T-541: Roger X., aged 32, is a police lieutenant.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "when new recruits join the force, we always warn them about the common pitfalls confronting a policeman."

"One of the most dangerous is women!"

"Dr. Crane, why do girls and women seem to be unduly swayed by a man in a uniform?"

"They often almost literally throw themselves at a policeman, so our rookies must be doubly on guard."

"For it is so flattering to their inexperienced ego that they may imagine they are Hollywood matinee idols."

"So we tell them to take off their uniform and then notice the vast difference in their erotic charm!"

Charisma of Uniforms

This unique charisma of a man in uniform would make a splendid topic for discussion in psychology classes.

For it is generally true. Whether that uniform be of a police officer or an Army, Navy, Marine or Air Force recruit, the uniform exerts magnetic charm over women.

When I participated in a symposium on the polygraph (lie detector) at the University of Tennessee Law School, one of the top police officers gave me a dandy case in point.

"Dr. Crane," he said, "over the past few years, we have used the polygraph in so-called bastardy cases."

"And you know, these involve girls who are pregnant out of wedlock."

"And in 100 such cases, where the girls were claiming to be pregnant by young men from highly respected families in the community, we found that over 90 of the girls were lying."

"The polygraph made them break down and confess that they had really become pregnant by sailors and soldiers they had met at taverns or on pick-up dates."

"But they knew their father and mother would verbally scold them if the parents learned the real facts."

"So the girls falsely charged respectable young men of the community with being the fathers of their babies, just to partially appease their irate parents!"

Many girls and older women will likewise indulge in clandestine affairs with a uniformed guy, even though they are engaged to a fine young fellow in the town.

Alas, many married women likewise are unfaithful to their devoted husbands, especially if they encounter a romeo in uniform.

Here are a few of the reasons, digested briefly, to explain the charisma of a uniform as it affects the female sex:

(1) Uniforms are linked with "authority" and women feel more romantic with a "masterful" suitor.

They may have a maternal affection for a henpecked type or a modern hippie.

But they are psychologically attuned to obtain maximum erotic thrills from an authoritative escort.

Remember Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew?"

(2) Even though they verbally protest against violence, women expect men to be fighters. And uniforms symbolize such.

(3) Despite the women's liberation zealots, girls basically want to look "up" to men, not just because they are anatomically shorter in height, but because of their craving to be dominated physically.

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg., Mellott, Indiana 47958, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents when you send for one of his booklets.)

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Cary Grant and his fourth wife, actress Dyan Cannon, went to court behind closed doors in the actor's suit for joint custody of their daughter, Jennifer, 6.

Superior Court Judge Jack T. Ryburn, ruling that the hearings should be held in secret, ordered courtroom doors locked Wednesday and sealed small window panels against photographers.

Miss Cannon, 34, divorced Grant, 68, four years ago and was granted Jennifer's custody.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Baroness Ljubica di Portanova, a former Yugoslavian actress and Olympic basketball player, has been awarded a $1.5 million settlement following her divorce from Baron Enrico di Portanova of Rome.

The couple was married in Rome in 1963 and separated in 1967.

Di Portanova, a grandson of the late Houston philanthropist and oilman Hugh Roy Cullen, was awarded $20 million in 1968 from the Cullen estate.

The baroness sought one-half interest in Di Portanova's estate, properties, stocks and assets accumulated during the marriage.

The couple had no children.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Robert Finch, a presidential adviser, says he will go in search of his own political future in California after the November presidential election.

"I've already discussed this with the President," Finch said Wednesday.

Finch, the former California lieutenant governor who served as President Nixon's first secretary of health, education and welfare, has said in the past he is interested in running for governor or U.S. senator.

After leaving the Nixon administration, Finch said, he will teach a political science seminar beginning next February at Occidental College near Pasadena and a graduate seminar at the University of Southern California.

LONDON (AP) — Prince Mohammad, brother of Jordan's King Hussein, has been barred from boarding a plane to Bermuda because he and his bodyguards were carrying weapons, including three submachine guns in their luggage.

Mary Bethune's Life Told To Cotillion Club

A program on the life of Mary McLeod Bethune was presented by Mrs. S. Gene Hall at the recent meeting of the Twentieth Century Cotillion Club, in the home of Mrs. Jerry Kotara.

Born July 10, 1875, Mary McLeod Bethune was the 15th of 17 children born to Patsy and Samuel McLeod, who were themselves born into slavery, she told the women.

Neither parent could read or write, so they were proud of Mary Jane's education. After receiving a certificate from elementary school, she received a scholarship to Scotia Seminary at Concord, N. Carolina, where she did many chores around the school, each with pride and determination, in order to pay for her tuition. Mrs. Hall related. She was popular with the students and became their leader.

In 1894, she was accepted at the Mission Training School in Chicago, where she arrived just a few days before her 19th birthday. Mrs. Hall stated. Of the thousand or so students, she was the only Negro, she explained.

In Chicago, she met and married Albert Bethune, and when their only child, Albert, was nine months old they moved to Polatka, Fla., to teach school. Mrs. Hall related.

She wanted to found a school for Negro girls, which she began by renting a two-story frame house for $11 a month. Mrs. Hall told the women. The school grew rapidly, until she was forced to buy a 50 x 100 foot lot, called "Hell's Hole," in Daytona, Fla.

To meet the payments and supply her children with the necessities, she took a quartet, composed of her students, to hotels, and from the audiences she received large contributions to help with her work. Mrs. Hall explained.

The first structure of the Daytona Literary and Industrial School for Training Negro Girls was Faith Hall, which had four floors, with the second floor providing living quarters for Mary, her husband and her son, she stated.

After her husband left, after 10 years of marriage. Mrs. Bethune became more and more of an organizer and public relations representative. Mrs. Hall pointed out. She spent her life in support of innumerable causes which led to hospitals and schools, as well as other improvements for the Negro people. She died of a heart attack in 1955. In her will she stated: "I leave you love; I leave you hope; I leave you a thirst for education; I leave you faith; I leave you racial dignity; I leave you a desire to live harmoniously with your fellow man; I leave you, finally, a responsibility to our young people."

Mrs. Bethune, who received her master's degree from South Carolina State College in 1910, received 11 honorary degrees for her work with various causes. Mrs. Hall concluded.

The business session was led by Mrs. Ben Sturgeon, president.

Attending the meeting were Mmes. Jack White, Jerry Kotara, Jim Hughes, Ed Maglaughlin, Al Smith, S. Gene Hall, Bill Hite, Ben Sturgeon, Jim Campbell, Ralph McKinney, Joy Waddell, Clarence Kirby, Gene Hawks and Glen Fleming.

Following the salad supper, the convales, under the direction of Mrs. Standlee, initiated and installed members of a new conclave, Beta Chi of Lefors. Your Horoscope

By Jean Dixon

SATURDAY, APRIL 1
Your birthday today: As you well know, life is no joke despite your start on this traditional day of practical humor. This year is about as smooth as you can expect in the changing times, with plenty of opportunity for growth. Emotional expression sharpens and brings stronger results. Today's natives tend to be dreamers, sometimes achieving great results, always need some help, usually getting a fair share naturally.

Aries [March 21-April 19]
Look over the odds and ends of personal matters; check budgets, bank accounts strayed or loaned property. Clear off your schedule for the week-end.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]
Leave new projects aside, mend your social and communal fences, attend your public image. Do what you can to improve domestic life.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]
Minding your own business should fill the day to the satisfaction of all. Any break you get brings time for prayer.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]
Conserve physical energy and concentrate on thinking up more effective ways of doing your work, more creative approaches to life.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]
Organize yourself to throw out things you don't need. A charity should welcome any belongings that have gone out of your favor.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 23]
The creative approach doesn't necessarily involve any new action, merely subtle originality in doing things more accurately.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]
Stick to routine; avoid controversy while you simplify ways of doing things. Find a complete change of pace in later hours.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]
Let your sense of humor stay on top, visible and in use, as you negotiate all the differences within reach. Relax early for needed rest.

In 1822, a territorial government was established in Florida.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]
Make this a serene and nearly uneventful day. Hobbies deserve a vigorous work-out, can be shared to good advantage.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]
Line up neglected tasks. Clear off at least the most important items. You enjoy reasonable cooperation by not forcing issues.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]
Practical jokes are with us yet, not to be given more than a good laugh. Review of recent history will show you a subtle lesson as well as the obvious.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]
Make yourself routine despite pleasant distractions, perhaps laziness, while you have a clear chance to deal with it.

NAIL TIPS

Your nails have to be in good shape to get away with the bold nail polishes which range from red to plum. If you don't have long, lovely nails, don't wear colors that will focus attention on them. Use clear polish with a nail hardener base until your nails begin to take shape. Then you can go wild with color.

African Violet Club Has Talk On Moon Planting

The Pampa African Violet Society met recently in the home of Mrs. Holly Gray, 1236 Williston.

The program, "Timely Tips," was given by Mrs. Norman Walberg, who demonstrated a wick-fed pot she had made, using a plastic flower pot, a plastic margarine container and nylon cord.

She told the women the accumulation of minerals on used flower pots can be easily and quickly removed by soaking the pots in water containing a laundry pre-soak solution.

Mrs. Vernon Osborne gave the second part of the program, entitled "Signs of the Zodiac and Moon Planting."

The national, even international, awareness of ecology, and the problems of living in inter-relationship with nature, has brought an increasing awareness of life within nature and our dependence for health and well-being on the ebb and flow of this natural life," Mrs. Osborne stated.

She told the women the reasons for the moon's influence on growing things is not yet known. She related that moon soil samples brought back to earth by Apollo expeditions grows plants better than chemically comparable earth soil, but the reason for this is not known.

She explained there are particular times to plant, which will give plants such things as greater strength, resistance to disease and greater fragrance. The best time to plant flowers, she said, is during the moon's first

Knit Knacks

By Judy Love

Dear Judy—Several of my friends have mentioned you as a good source for helpful hints for needleworkers. Can you tell me how to sew seams when making a knitted garment?—P. H. Jackson.

Dear P. H.—To join the side edges of a garment, just lay the edges together, making sure they're flat, and sew on the wrong side, taking a stitch with a stitch. Stretch the seams very slightly while you're sewing, otherwise they will not be as elastic as the rest of the work.

When you join cast-off edges of a garment, lay the edges together, again flat, and sew on the right side, taking a stitch with a stitch, being sure to pass the needle under both strands of each cast-off stitch.—JUDY LOVE

Dear Abby

Home-wrecking tramp strains wife's civility

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Here's the picture: My husband employs a salesman I'll call "Ben." After 25 years of marriage, Ben walked out on his wife and family for a little tramp half his age. There was a lot of gossip about it so my husband transferred Ben to another city.

My husband sometimes calls the out-of-town salesman in for meetings, and naturally Ben comes and brings this tramp with him.

I admit I identify with the wronged wife and I can't stand the sight of Ben's girl friend. My husband entertains his business associates for cocktails in our home, so Ben and his girl friend are included. Abby, it eats my innards out to even speak to her, and I don't have much use for Ben either.

My husband says their private lives have nothing to do with him—that Ben is a great salesman and he is not going to insult him.

My question: Should I be expected to associate with people like Ben and that cheap little home-wrecker?

IRATE WIFE

DEAR WIFE: It's your husband's home, too, and if he wants to entertain his business associates, you should cooperate. You don't have to "socialize" with Ben and his friend. Just be civil.

DEAR ABBY: Is the generation gap between my husband and me and my parents showing or not?

Now that our daughter is ten and our son is seven, my parents have ceased overnight visits to our home. They used to sleep in our daughter's room, while we would put our daughter in the upper bunk in her brother's room.

Now that the children are older, my parents say they are afraid of what "could happen" between them. "Children are little animals and wouldn't know what they were doing," they say.

What are your thoughts about the right age to separate (if at all) brothers from sisters?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: I would hope that children who are old enough to be curious about the opposite sex, [and years are] would have asked their parents questions and received satisfying answers. All children do a certain amount of exploring and experimenting when they get the chance. I would not bed them down together past the age of five.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 25-year-old married, college-educated woman with a terrific problem. I am literally terrified of going to a doctor. I don't mean just frightened. I mean petrified.

I know this is childish, but I can't seem to help myself. All my family does is yell and scream at me, which only makes matters worse. I have thought of seeking professional help but we can't afford it right now as my husband is still in school.

How can I rid myself of this terrible fear?

TERRIFIED IN BUFFALO

DEAR TERRIFIED: Surely in Buffalo, New York, there is a Mental Health Clinic where one is billed according to what he can afford to pay. Inquire.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HELPLESS IN COVINA: Don't tell the father anything. You could be mistaken about the conclusions you drew concerning his daughter and son's relationship. In any case, they are living in another country, far from home, are both "of age," so the father couldn't do anything about it anyway.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Study Meet Held By Baptist Class

The TEL class of the Calvary Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. Clyde Dorman.

Mrs. A.G. Randolph gave the opening prayer, and Miss Mary Lou Douglas gave the devotional on spring.

Mrs. Randolph led the business session, during which Mrs. R.K. Douglas and Mrs. Maxine Hopeman gave reports.

Next meeting will be April 11, with Mrs. L.A. Laverty. Members present were Mrs. C. Davis, Katherine Turner, Nat Lunsford, Maxine Hopeman, R.K. Douglas, Clyde Prince, C.R. Fulton, J.B. Crocker, Mollie Butts and Clyde Dorman. Miss Mary Lou Douglas was a guest.

Land Use

Farmers aren't the only ones who benefit from the use of pesticides. Any of us who enjoy a day outdoors benefit, too. Without pesticides and agricultural technology, much of the land now available for wildlife and recreation would have to be cultivated. In addition to the 320 million acres of crops now harvested, it is estimated that over 300 million acres—equal to the area of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Tennessee, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama—would be needed to feed the U.S. population.

Jaycee-Ettes Present Annual Awards Dinner

Mrs. Milton Saltzman, president, recently hosted the Annual Awards Dinner at Furr's Cafeteria for Pampa Jaycee-Ette members. Guests were registered in a miniature Jaycee-Ette vest by Mrs. Nathan Lancaster.

Mrs. Saltzman presided as mistress of ceremonies for the dinner, with Mrs. Dan Stanley giving the invocation. Mrs. Philip Kimbley introduced guests for the evening, recognizing Jaycee-Ette husbands as special guests. John Maxwell, local attorney, was speaker for the event.

It had to happen. From the first housewife planting blue plastic petunias in a hanging wall basket to Los Angeles planting plastic trees along a boulevard was only a matter of time. I am sure the citizens in Los Angeles County will love the new decorations. As stadium groundskeepers have discovered with plastic grass, there will be a minimum of upkeep, with no watering or fertilizing required.

Tops Hold Installation

Tops Chapter TX 41 met recently in the Lutheran Church annex for an installation ceremony for new officers.

Installed were Mrs. O.B. Elkins, leader; Mrs. Lewis White, co-leader; Mrs. George Hamlin, secretary; Mrs. Neil Fulton, treasurer; Mrs. Fred Malone, corresponding secretary; and Miss Christine Moore, reporter.

During the business session, members decided to begin another three-months' apron contest. Members were reminded to bring their IRD reservation forms to the next meeting.

Winners of the three-months' contest, just completed, were Mrs. O.B. Elkins of the Kops team, with a 31-lb. loss, and Mrs. Thomas Fisher of the Tops team, with a 14-lb. loss. Mrs. Fred Malone was crowned queen for the month.

A total weight loss of 41 lbs. was reported for the week. The Kops team loser was Mrs. O.B. Elkins and the Tops team loser was Mrs. Thomas Fisher.

Next meeting will be at 7 p.m. Monday in the Lutheran Church annex.

But let us remember that women first discovered the joys of plastic flora. Some time ago I happened to interview the woman who had planted the first plastic flowers in our community.

"Yes," she said in answer to my first question, "it certainly makes gardening easier on a back, not to mention the savings on gardening tools."

"I suppose the step toward your plastic furniture was a logical one," I said.

"Actually, I first went to plastic-topped tables, then to all-plastic furniture," she confided.

"So your pets can no longer damage anything inside or outside the house!" I said.

"Well," she said, "I knew you hadn't noticed them. Nobody does notice right at first. Everybody thinks they're real. As I've told Harry a million times, everybody thinks they are real and not artificial!"

"How does your husband feel about all this?" I asked.

"That's the lovely thing about Harry," she said, dusting his head fondly. "A plastic husband never argues."

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II has agreed that the boy pharaoh Tut-Ankh-Amen had been a handsome monarch as she thanked Egypt for loaning 50 treasures from his tomb for display in London.

The queen on Wednesday opened the six-month exhibition in the British Museum. It marks the 50th anniversary of the discovery, by Britons Lord Carnarvon and Howard Carter of the King Tut treasures in the Valley of the Kings near Luxor, Egypt.

Dr. Gamal Muktar, under-secretary of Egypt's Ministry of Culture, asked the queen as she inspected the 3,000-year-old funeral mask of King Tut: "Don't you think he was an extremely good looking king?"

Yes, indeed," the queen replied.

The Weekly Message of Inspiration

THE WAY, THE TRUTH, AND THE LIFE

By WAYLON W. BRUTON

In these days when men seem ever to grope for meaning and purpose without lasting success, we find it very strange that more do not seek this meaning and these purposes in the only written revelation God has ever given of himself to man. We speak of the Holy Scriptures which claim for themselves an abiding answer to the problems of man both in the past and presently as well. "Search the Scriptures" we are told, and as we do, and as we apply what we find there to our work-a-day lives, we find purpose and meaning as we never knew before.

Men have ever sought a more perfect way. Direction has ever been a very pressing problem. How to do this? Where to find that? What is the proper way?

Honest men have ever sought the truth and rejected that which is false. What is the truth? Does truth change from time to time and become false? Is it constant? What is the basis for all truth? Is there a truthful answer to my own very personal problem? Men have ever sought to improve life and we find this coupled with liberty and the pursuit of happiness in the minds of our founding fathers. How can I have a more abundant life? Does life consist only of the things we possess? Is there more to life than just living?

Of course we have raised many questions in a short space and it would seem that we would be hard pressed for answers. But Jesus Christ, in the Holy Scriptures, gives adequate answer to each of these questions. "I am the way, the truth, and the life." We find these words recorded in John 14:6. Jesus explains that the way of christianity, the cross, and the church is the answer to your lost sense of direction. His way is the way to do what needs to be done. Yet, men seem always to seek their own way.

Christ is truth without any margin for error of any kind, but many continue to believe the lies of communism, the new morality, false religions not based in the truth of Jesus Christ, and the like.

Christ is life. Not just eternal life or "pie in the sky by and by" but more abundant life right now. A life without Christ is just a journey toward ultimate death with very little comfort and assurance along the way. A life with Christ as a born again, Spirit filled, believer and follower of Jesus as Saviour and Lord—this is the answer to your quest. This will supply your need. This will give you the direction and the truth and the dynamic for living that can not be found elsewhere.

Confess Jesus Christ as the Son of God, invite him to be your Lord and Saviour—come into your heart and life and give you the experience of the new birth he promises to those who seek him. All else will ultimately fail you; try Jesus Christ, the way, the truth, and the life.

THE LAST SUPPER—Now the day of the Passover celebration arrived, when the Passover lamb was killed and eaten with the unleavened bread. Jesus sent Peter and John ahead to find a place to prepare their Passover meal. They went off to the city and found everything just as Jesus had said, and prepared the Passover supper. Then Jesus and the others arrived, and at the proper time all sat down together at the table; and he said, "I have looked forward to this hour with deep longing, anxious to eat this Passover meal with you before my suffering begins. For I tell you now that I won't eat it again until what it represents has occurred in the Kingdom of God."

Christians may have long and late discussions on almost every point in the Bible and on many issues of theology and doctrine. Yet a singleness of mind continues to form, century by century.

Dr. C. Gordon Bayless, interim pastor for First Baptist Church, will be in the pulpit for both services of worship Easter Sunday. In the eleven o'clock Morning Worship his sermon topic is "He Said He Would Arise!"

And the enduring theme of his motivation came from Jesus' word of assurance and hope: "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." For countless Christians like Livingstone, the Easter message is not the end, but the beginning.

Pampa Visits Andrews Meet

By RICKEY WRIGHT
The PHS speedsters are in Andrews today attending the annual Mustang Relays.

Track mentor Ed Lehnick reported taking contestants in only six events: 440-yard run, mile, relay, 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, 440-yard relay and the 800-yard run.

Pampa's quick sprint relay team, which consists of Rick McGuire, Garvin McCarrell, Chuck Reeves and Richard McCampbell, will be at the Mustang meet trying to improve their already record-breaking 42.2 seconds.

Weather permitting, they just may do it. Reeves, McCampbell and McCarrell are also scheduled to compete in the 100-yard dash. McGuire, McCarrell and McCampbell are entered in the 200-yard dash.

The record-setting mile relay team is high with hopes against Division IV teams at the Andrews meet. The long striding milers are Bobby Owen, Terry Riddle, Dennis Stowers and Larry Marlur.

Mike Reddel is entered in his specialty—the 800-yard run, and Bob Owen and Larry Marlur will challenge the other teams in the 440-yard dash.

Some of the local teams

Campanella Improving

VALHALLA, N.Y. (AP)—Roy Campanella, three times the National League's Most Valuable Player during his 10-year major league career and a member of Baseball's Hall of Fame, was reported in critical condition but improving today at Grasslands Hospital.

The 50-year-old Campanella was hospitalized Thursday night after police in nearby Greenburgh, N.Y. said "he suffered some sort of a seizure at home."

A police officer said, "I sent my emergency vehicle there (to Campanella's house) and they administered oxygen to him and then conveyed him to Grasslands."

Dr. W.R. Dalziel, the associate director of the hospital, said that when Campanella was first brought in he was unconscious. But the doctor later said that the former Brooklyn Dodger catcher had regained consciousness but still was critical. "He has shown improvement since he was admitted," said the doctor.

Perryton Gets New Coach

PERRYTON—A former Perryton coach will return to Perryton High School after assuming the athletic director position.

Don Beck, 36, was named athletic director and head football coach at a meeting of the Perryton School Board. School principal Gilbert Mize announced the appointment.

A graduate of West Texas State University at Canyon, Beck began his coaching career here as assistant football coach and head track coach in 1958. For three seasons the track team won the district championship.

A native of Gruver, Beck has also coached at Wellington, Olton and Sunray. He was selected as South Plains Coach of the Year in 1967 while at Olton. In 1969 he was named as the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame Football Coach of the Year while at Sunray.

Beck, who has signed a two-year contract, replaces Don Smith. Smith's contract was not renewed after the 1971 season.

Pampa will meet at Andrews today are Borger, Plainview and Hereford.

Other teams entered in Division IV that Pampa has yet to see run are Odessa Permian, Lubbock High, Midland Lee, Midland High, Odessa and Big Spring.

According to reports received, Odessa Permian is favored to take home the trophy.

Pampa will participate in the meet today trying to prevent Permian from living up to their big name.

Pampa has the best time thus far for the sprint relay, Borger is the closest with 42.8 and Hereford follows with 43.9. It is obvious that it will be a close race.

Plainview boasts the best mile relay time with 3:21.3 and Pampa is close behind with 3:23.0.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—The $20,000 World Record Drag Racing Championships were postponed over the weekend until April 15-16 because of a three-inch snow.

HOLDING DOWN SECOND—The 1972 Houston Astros double-play combination will be Roger Metzger, left, at shortstop and Tommy Helms at second. Metzger, voted by Baseball Digest as the best rookie shortstop in the majors in 1971, helped the club to several fielding records. Helms, obtained in a trade with the Cincinnati Reds, was the 1971 Gold Glove winner as best fielding second baseman.

Astros Hope Trades Will Bring Winner

COCOA, Fla. (AP)—Harry Walker believes the pieces finally are beginning to fit together for the Houston Astros.

Walker, rumored on the way out after another tailspin last season, got a renewal on his contract and a new lease on creating a winning baseball team with some outstanding off-season trades.

"We thought we needed a big bat and we got one in Lee May," Walker said. "We also strengthened our pitching with Dave Roberts and Jim York. Tommy Helms will give us good play at second base plus do all those little things with the bat that count."

The Astros got May and

Helms away from Cincinnati. Roberts from San Diego and York from Kansas City. All are expected to play key roles for the Astros in 1972.

"You look around at our team and you can see where we've improved in a lot of areas," Walker said. "We're set at every position. We've added great ballplayers to our club in spots where we needed them. I think we're close enough now that we can go right to the top with the right breaks."

The Astros already had one of the best defensive infields in the National League and the addition of Helms at second base makes it even more airtight.

Helms and third baseman Doug Rader are Golden Glove winners at their positions and young Roger Metzger was one of the better shortstops in the league last year with only 17 errors. May will play first base.

The most attractive feature about May is his bat. He hit 39 homers and drove in 96 runs for the Reds last season. The Astros have moved in the fences in the Astrodome to accommodate May and the other Astros.

Pitching should be another strong point. Don Wilson was a 16-game winner last season and is termed by Walker as "one of the best pitchers in the league."

Houston got Roberts, who had the No. 2 earned run average in the league, to go with other starters Ken Forsch and Larry Dierker.

Dierker won 12 games last season before he was sidelined by an elbow injury. Walker also could decide on a fifth starter among James Rodney Richard, Scipio Spinks, Tom Griffin and Wade Blasingame.

Walker believes the Astros have adequate defense in catcher John Edwards but he'd like more hitting power. "Sure we'd like John Edwards to hit for a little higher average, but he's as fine a defensive catcher as you'll find," Walker said.

Larry Howard and Jack Hiatt are backup catchers. The Astros also could use more hitting from the outfielders, especially from right fielder Jim Wynn, who suffered through a miserable 1971 season.

Wynn will be joined by Bob Watson in left and Cesar Ceno in centerfield. Walker said he expects Wynn to bounce back.

"Guys like Watson and Ceno," Walker said. "These two fellows are very young, but strong and they've got everything in front of them."

"Then we've got May and Wynn, and I wouldn't be surprised to see 55 to 65 homers out of them."

"We certainly feel we've put together one of the best clubs in the league, and if all of them can stay healthy," Walker said, "we certainly feel we have a chance to have a World Series in Houston."

Ali Predicts 5th Round KO

TOKYO (AP)—Muhammad Ali predicted at today's weighin he would stop Mac Foster in the fifth round of their 15-round heavyweight fight Saturday.

The former world heavyweight champ was in his best boastful form as he shouted to Foster "round five" while standing on the scales. He weighed 226 pounds, the second heaviest in his career. He weighed 227 pounds last November when he outpointed Buster Mathis.

Foster, a former Marine from Fresno, Calif., who tipped the scales at 211½, took no sass from Ali.

Burton Heads PBA Winners

AKRON, O.—A third-place finish in the last week's $70,000 Andy Granatelli STP Classic at New Orleans enabled Nelson Burton Jr. to add another $4,000 to his front-running total in the official money standings of the Professional Bowlers Association (PBA).

Burton heads for the $125,000 Firestone Tournament of Champions here this week with a total of $38,520 in winnings.

Second and third placers Gus Lampo, Endicott, N. Y., and Don Johnson, Akron, O., retained their positions. Both cashed in New Orleans. Lampo winning $950 for a 21st-place finish, while Johnson won $290 for finishing 53rd. They now have won $29,669 and $21,988, respectively.

Dick Weber jumped to ninth place in the standings with a sixth-place finish which netted him $2,050 and a season's total of $14,840. Granatelli Classic winner Don Helling, St. Louis, just made it into the top twenty with official earnings of $11,398.

First place in the Firestone tourney pays $25,000 and the winner will be decided this Saturday afternoon (April 1). Johnny Petraglia is the defending champion.

Three Share Lead In Greensboro Golf

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Driving, said J.C. Snead, is the key in the $200,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

"If you get it in the rough and you can't pick it up, you've got mud all over the ball," the drawing, rawboned nephew of the legendary Sam Snead said Thursday after moving into a share of the first round lead with a 66.

"You hit it with that mud on it, and it's gonna come out of there like a crazy woodpecker. You don't know what it's going to do."

Snead, hero of the successful U.S. Ryder Cup team last year, was tied for the top spot after 18 holes with a pair of veterans, 52-year-old Julius Boros and balding Miller Barber, who matched his five-under-par effort on the cold, wet Sedgfield Country Club course.

The 7,034-yard layout was drenched by a heavy rain Wednesday, which came on the heels of a weekend snow. More rain and possible sleet is forecast Friday.

Because of the wet conditions and the skimpy grass in the fairways officials decided to play so-called winter rules. Players are allowed to lift, clean and place their ball on the lined fairways and around the greens. They are not allowed to do so in the rough.

By being allowed to get their hands on the ball, the touring pros were able to make a

Australian Bruce Crampton, who has been in contention several times this year, headed a group of six at 67, just one stroke off the pace. Others at that figure are Deane Berman, Ken Still, Bob Lunn, Rod Curl and rookie Allen Miller.

Lee Trevino, one of the pre-tourney favorites for the $40,000 first prize, topped a bulky field at 68. Others included Doug Sanders, Don January, Tom Weiskopf and Paul Harney.
