Road Question Unresolved In Meet

Soil Conservation Service Holds Meet

Thursday morning, more than 20 people met in the Muleshoe City Council chambers to discuss the present Soil

James Byers and Raymond Davenport, both of the local General Telephone Company office, recently attended a two-week training school at the company's training center in San Angelo.

The course, station trouble shooting, is designed to give employees up-to-date training in locating and repairing trouble found in business and residential telephones, according to Jean G. Ryon, public information manager.

Terry Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart, graduated from Texas State Technical Institute at Amarillo on Friday, May 26.

He graduated from the Livestock and Ranch Operations Program.

Janis St. Clair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill St. Clair, was among the 693 students who graduated from Emporia State University, Emporia, Kansas during spring commencement exercises.

She received a Masters of Science degree.

Bailey County Sheriff Dee Clements was expected to be released from St. Mary's Hospital at Lubbock during the weekend.

He will be recuperating at the home of his son, Lubbock County Deputy Sheriff, Travis Clements.

Incidentally, just in case you didn't know, the Muleshoe Jaycees named M.D. Gunstream Muleshoe's Outstanding Citizen of the Year at their recent Installation and Awards banquet.

A fund has been established to aid Donita Dale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Dale, who has been a patient at St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo for nearly two months.

Contributions will be used to help defray medical expenses. She underwent her fourth surgery at the hospital on Thursday. Contributions may be made at Muleshoe State Bank.

Bailey County Agent Spencer Tanksley, along with Jimmy Gleason, Kelly Harrison and Greg Harrison, left for the state 4-H round-up Monday, where the young men will participate Conservation Service programs and to make suggestions for future programs.

Moderating the program were Doug Bales, president of the Blackwater Valley Soil and Water Conservation District and Jerry Wemmohs, manager of the local office.

More water conservation through irrigation practices was one item brought out by several speakers, who also advocated more input on a local level viewing restrictions or the farm programs.

Don Smith of the Hi Plains Underground Water District of Lubbock, suggested a more efficient use of water and that utilization of all units of government be considered to help the conservation programs.

It was brought out by Harmon Elliott, of the First National Bank, that even though the Soil Conservation attempts to notify users of programs available, that not enough people are learning of available programs and suggested more advertising.

In response to a question as to whether or not more work could be turned over to a clerk/typist/receptionist to turn the trained personnel loose to work more out in the field, Bales said the fact that personnel are tied up in red tape and paperwork is a major area of concern.

Clinton Kennedy, manager of the local FHA office said he has worked next door to the SCS for 21 years and understands their problems. He said that if the local workers are out in the field where they are needed, someone comes in and expects someone to be available to answer their questions. He added to the request for fulltime office personnel.

Another area brought out in the discussion was in the field of energy versus water by Bill Broadhurst, area farmer.

"Conservation to me means it is based on orderly development and prudent use of available supplies and the knowledge of economical conditions at the time," he said.

Broadhurst also added, "Just over 100 years ago there was no need for petroleum conservation on this earth. Today, it is a concern worldwide. Now, we have a water concern for conservation and maybe 100 years from now, it will no longer be a concern, but it is now."

He asked that it be let known to local farmers that they can help from a practical standpoint in eliminating government red tape and also asked for more

Tornados Bounce Around; Beneficial Rains Fall

Stunned, unsuspecting Bailey County residents went to bed Thursday night unaware that a major storm was building in the southwestern part of the county.

Bula Residents Visit Commissioners Court

A strip of road, 8.4 miles long, has created a problem in the Bula community in south-east Bailey County. A roomful of Bula area residents and other interested persons crowded into the Muleshoe City Council Chambers Wednesday for a meeting with the Bailey County Commissioners Court.

Bailey County Judge Glen Williams moderated the meeting, which was an attempt to settle the problems which have arisen in the projected construction of a new farm to market road in the southeast part of the county.

On hand for the meeting were Commissioners Rudolph Moraw, Bob Sanders and Loy Stephens and the entire Cochran County Commissioners Court, including County Judge Glenn Thompson, and Commissioners, Bill Carter, Bob Dawson, Richard Keith and E.J. McKissick. Bailey County Commissioner Matt Dudley was not present.

Judge Williams explained that the Bula community people had requested the meeting on the Farm-to-Market Road situation in that area. He said that the controversy had arisen over location of the road. Presently, the commissioners have entered into a contract with the state to acquire rights-of-way for construction of the new pavement, but with the problems which have arisen, the meeting was being held to attempt to resolve some of the problem.

Richard Black acted as speaker for one group of people, and his first assurance was that he did not want to offend anyone, as he enumerated a list of who he expected the new pavement to benefit if it were constructed due north from Bula to connect with the highway one mile east of Circleback, as opposed to the presently approved site which will be due south of Circleback and connect with Highway 54 one mile west of Bula.

"This is a very serious question," said Black. "And one which has created hard feelings and has divided our community."

Black emphasized that truth is like beauty and is in the eye of the beholder, and especially holds true when trying to decide where to construct the new pavement.

He enumerated persons on both the considered roads and said it was his opinion that the road would serve the most people if the road from Bula north were paved.

He cited figures saying it would be cheaper on both the county and state if that road were constructed and asked the Cochran County officials to join construction to the south of Bula to meet the proposed road.

For the west road, or the road from Circleback to the south, Nolan Harlan said it would benefit that area as several children who ride school buses are located along that road. "The state pays priority to school children," he said, and added that such a road would be a main artery for the school bus from the Sudan School District to take the students to Sudan to school.

Harlan asked that the commissioners court keep the present plans to pave the 'west road.' He said they are presently acquiring right of ways for construction on the 'west road.'

Jerry Ray told the group of a meeting in Austin with various Highway Department officials and said they have also visited in the Lubbock offices and have been unable to find anyone who turned down paving on the 'east road.'

He said also that on June 9, 1975, in the absence of the county judge and the county clerk, the commissioners had changed plans to pave the east road to paving of the west road and submitted the new plan to the state.

Judge Williams then explained that an overall proposal for paving of roads throughout the county had been declined, which included paving of the 'east road' but one road, from the Y-L Highway to Highway 84 had been re-submitted and was

Road...

Ray asked repeatedly for the name and title of the state highway official who had turned down paving in the southeast part of the county, and added, "Mr. Wall was heard by several men to say he would be delighted to work on the east road which would put the paving farther away from highway 214 which is also a north-south highway."

Also speaking was a man who identified himself as Edward Riley, who is the pastor of the Bula Baptist Church. He said that regardless of which road is paved that sooner or later everyone who lives in the community will be paying for the road. He suggested that more and more people would be moving to Muleshoe where there is a greater opportunity for water.

Bennie Claunch asked Judge Thompson, from Morton, to speak on the road situation as they see it in considering building a road to connect with a paved road to the south in Bailey County.

The Cochran County Judge explained that they would make every effort to build a road to connect to a paved road to the Bailey County line. He also said Cochran County does not utilize state money in building roads, they use bond money as approved by county voters.

He said the county road hands do a lot of work during slack times. "A lot of the time our roadhands do not have a lot to do in this dry county, so they have time to pool their equipment and lay grades and prepare roads," he said. He added that once the roads are built, they are turned over to the state for maintenance.

Ivan Clawson told the group he had been a resident of the Bula community since 1937, and the area had repeatedly asked for paved roads. "I think we have been patient long enough," he added.

Black then suggested a bond issue for the people in the south area of the county to make the paving and road improvements. "This is not an all or nothing proposition for anyone in this room," he said. "We can all work together for the good of Bailey County."

Judge Williams gave the requirements by state law to acquire paving and said the state leaves the decision on location entirely to commissioners courts.

The minister said the commissioners court, in rescinding a previous commitment for the location of the new paved road carries the full responsibility for the hard feelings in south Bailey County, and suggested that a part of the responsibility lies with the citizens of the area themselves.

To conclude the meeting with the Bula people, Commissioner Moraw said he would continue with the road approved by the Bailey County Commissioners, which is the 'west road' and he would continue acquiring right of ways prior to construction of the pavement.

In other commissioner action, bids will be sought on a mini-bus for use of senior citizens, with bids to be opened on June 5 and approval was given to put new tires on a Bailey County Sheriff's office car.

According to an attorney General Ruling received by Judge Williams, he said jailers do not have to be paid the same salary as law enforcement officers and in fact, may be paid a lower salary.

Comptroller Officers Will Visit Here

AUSTIN--State Comptroller Bob Bullock announced he is sending a representative from his Lubbock office to Muleshoe on Tuesday, June 13th to assist local taxpayers and answer questions about state taxes.

Bullock said Enforcement Officer Johnny Laceywell will meet with local taxpayers at the Muleshoe Court House from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

"If Muleshoe-area merchants, or anyone else for that matter, have any questions about state taxes or need help in preparing tax forms, Mr. Laceywell will be there to assist them," Bullock said.

"We're trying to cut the red tape in this office and we believe these face-to-face sessions with taxpayers help do just that," Bullock added.

Bullock reminded those taxpayers who are unable to meet with his representative on June 13th that they can still get their questions answered quickly by calling his TOLL-FREE tax information number in Austin. That number is 1-800-252-5555.

The Lubbock office, headed by Donald F. Paxton, serves Lubbock and surrounding counties.

Rain...

Foster Fertilizer said approximately three fourths of an inch had fallen in the Lazbuddie community, with the rain continuing late Friday afternoon.

Jerry Ray, from east of Circleback, near the Lamb County line, said .3 to one half inch was received on his farms in a Wednesday night rain, and more was reported Wednesday to the north of Circleback.

All was not beneficial rain however, as Wednesday night, hail but a vicious path through a rectangular area from Highway 214 seven miles south of Muleshoe to FM2497 west of 214, back to 298 at Circle back and to Needmore.

Both extensive flood damage and hail damage was reported in that area. Bailey County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley went to the area Friday morning, but was unable to check much due to the flooding of roads there.

He said young crops were washed out and hailed out, and many plays lakes were overflowing.

Water will be creating a problem for farmers from the standpoint of seeding disease in cotton resulting in a loss of cotton stands, he added. Road conditions in that area are poor and farmers will be trying to save what he has established. Some replanting will be done, added the county agent.

Tanksley said he would caution farmers to review their hail damage closely before deciding to plow up their crops and plant over, and said most of the damaged cotton in the Progress area to the county line had been

editorial

Inflation & Taxes

The dismal news that wholesale prices are increasing far too rapidly makes it clearer than ever little or no tax refund is justified this year—even though the President and Congress are tempted to vote this goodie in an election year.

Further, the current serious inflationary problem argues that the federal budget be cut immediately. There's no justification for a $500 billion dollar budget for the next fiscal year, and another deficit of sixty billions, which Congress has just endorsed.

If the country's best interests are to be served the President and Congress must bite the bullet and exhibit the courage to curb spending, even if the economy slows and there is more statistical unemployment. Federal unemployment figures are, incidentally, in many cases meaningless, and their accuracy is suspect.

Overspending, rapid inflation, a falling dollar and other economic woes facing the nation are real. The simple answer is less deficit spending by the federal government and modest, if any, tax reduction. President Carter would be wise to take tough, emergency action on this front.

Carter & Bureaucrats

President Carter, voicing concern over inflation and asking restraint from all Americans on wages and price increases, suggested limited federal raises this year to 5.5 per cent. While admirable in tone and direction, it was a minuscule gesture compared to what the President could have done concerning the federal bureaucratic army.

Elected on the hope that he would reduce the bureaucracy, Carter has steadily enlarged it and asked for new agencies. He has proposed bigger spending for practically all domestic social programs, plus giving his own executive department employees two raises totaling some thirty per cent since he took office.

The need of the moment is that federal employees, already grossly overpaid in most cases, and enjoying overly fat pension schemes and other benefits (plus almost total security against being fired for incompetency), be denied any pay increase at all in 1978. Even more pressing is the need for putting federal employees, and military pensioners, under the social security pension system and phasing out special privilege retirement systems financed by all the nation's taxpayers.

Social security requires average Americans to work ten years before qualifying for partial retirement pay at 62. Privileged bureaucrats need work (?) only five years to get far bigger retirement payments at 55!

It's simply unfair and undemocratic and Congress has already dodged the issue too long—because potential civil service and military pensioners have a potent lobby. Neither can the nation afford to finance this special privilege, nor is it justified by democratic standards.

Labor Reforms?

WASHINGTON—Reform means different things to different people.

Most people believe it should stand for change which improves our lives or the laws which govern our social conduct.

Reform is a popular theme in Washington. Attach it to any piece of legislation and it automatically carries with it redeeming social or economic value.

Reform as it has been applied to the so-called Labor Law Reform Act of 1978, however, is so much malarkey. This legislation is not reform in any sense of the word, and the Senate now is engaged in extended debate to separate truth from myth.

Those who favor changes in the National Labor Relations Act claim the only result would be modest improvements in procedures governing collective bargaining.

Those of us in the Senate leadership opposed to this bill recognize it for what it really is: not a modest measure to improve procedures in labor-management at all, but a shrewdly calculated attempt by organized labor to load the dice against business—particularly small business—while making union membership the prerequisite for employment. In effect, George Meany would become the Personnel Director for every business across the country.

In Texas, our strong right-to-work laws have always ensured worker freedoms at the place of employment. Texans enjoy the right to choose whether or not union membership is their cup of tea. That's the way Texans want it, and that's the way it should be nationwide.

If this legislation passes, it won't be.

Even a very basic review of the legislation suggests that much more is involved. About the only procedures that would be streamlined would be those working to confer special privilege on big labor unions—particularly to speed up union representation elections.

Of special concern to me in opposing this legislation is that employees would have diminished rights of free choice about whether or not they should join a union.

Moreover, the balance of rights between labor and management so painstakingly written into current law would be lopsidedly weighted in favor of unions. Wage and benefit settlements under this legislation could be determined by the Federal government on the basis of nationwide statistics, regardless of the size of business involved.

Those companies who "willfully violate" the law would be "blacklisted" from receiving Federal contracts for a period of three years, yet another example of the drastic change in the nature of the law under this proposed bill from a remedial one to a punitive one.

Such punitive actions against small businesses, the backbone of our economic vitality, would squeeze the lifeblood out of all those small concerns which rely on government contracts for survival.

Combine these provisions with the bill's recognized inflationary impact, which economists have said would add 4-5% to consumer prices in Texas for each 10% increase in labor force unionization, and the result is bad legislation which would make even worse law.

"Reforms" of this kind Texans don't want or need.

WASHINGTON NEWS REPORT

A Long Debate—Carter & Unions—Congress & Foreign Policy—

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Senate seems destined for many weeks of filibuster over the attempt to pass what is called a labor reform bill. Though the bill might have other good features, its objectionable feature is that it would also force workers to join unions to keep their jobs in some cases.

Unions contributed perhaps $25,000,000 to the Carter-Mondale campaign last year, in all forms. This is the bill George Meany feels is the payoff. (Unions have already won a higher minimum wage bill.) President Carter has endorsed the bill and Vice President Mondale recently told union heads the Carter Administration would fulfill the "trust and faith" placed in them.

But a group of about forty Senators, mostly Republicans, is filibustering. This being an election year for all House members, little hope had been expressed for rejection in the House, where it recently passed.

If the feature of the "reform" bill requiring non-union-workers to join unions to keep their jobs were deleted, the bill could almost certainly be passed. But unions have not been gaining membership, overall, in recent years and this, to them, is an important feature of the bill.

For Carter, this is 1978's major Senate battle number-three. He won on the Panama Canal and Mideast arms sales, but Congress has received more mail on this issue than any other. The National Right to Work Committee, in nearby Fairfax, Virginia, has seen to that.

Some solons now admit Congress stuck its nose too far into foreign relations guidance in the post-Vietnam war era. Congress so hamstringing U.S. Presidents Mr. Carter finds himself unable to provide covert aid to African regimes fighting for survival against Cuban-led rebels. France is doing a better job than the U.S., in this respect.

LUBBOCK--Many people are enjoying the springtime on picnics, while fishing, or just hiking in Texas, but young wildlife can be harmed if picked up or handled by the well-meaning individual.

The best reason to leave wildlife alone is state laws governing the possession, sale or barter, and confinement of both game and non-game animals, birds and endangered species such as the Horned toad. Capturing young wildlife in the wild results in problems for both the person possessing the wildlife and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Many times, serious, unexpected problems arise from unqualified attempts to domesticate creatures which nature intended to be wild and free. Most people attempting to pen or confine these young of the wild do so with a sense of compassion for the apparent

"lost" animal or bird. In reality, the parent or parents are most likely near by watching as you handle or even injure their young. Some wild parents will not accept their offspring back if human scent is left on the young.

Opportunities for the wildlife young to learn to survive in the out-of-doors is lost if not taught by their natural parents. These birds and animals fail to learn who their natural enemies are and how to defend themselves against attack.

Both "well-meaning" adults and children are often bitten by the wild "pets" in captivity and usually it is the children receiving the worst of the deal. Some wild animals and birds carry harmful or deadly diseases such as virus, ticks, tetanus, or tularemia which can be transferred to humans or domestic pets.

Information about what to do with wildlife "pets" is available by contacting your nearest Texas game warden or any P&WD office. Pleasure must be purchased with the price of pain.

Inflation will become a much used word in coming months. We will very likely hit a 9 plus percent figure by the end of 1978.

This hits the average home buyer with a tough decision; either spend a larger part of income on a house than buyers did in earlier years, or accept less space and niceties than people have become used to having. Not only has the price of new housing gone up, the quality has gone down and maintenance costs have also risen.

So far, home buyers have chosen to pay more, but experts see trouble ahead because inflation has pushed consumers almost to the limit of their ability to pay the costs of home ownership.

The consumer price index for all items rose 92 percent between 1965 and 1977. Median family income rose 134 percent. But the average sales price of a new house rose 144 percent and average monthly housing expenses shot up 199 percent. The price of an existing house rose 130 percent between 1968 and the end of 1977. Annual housing expense as a share of family income rose from 28 percent in 1965 to 36 percent in 1977.

The thing that keeps housing demand strong is the number of cluster houses and apartments. Some costs of housing may level off. Political pressure is putting a ceiling on real estate taxes. But it will be several years before the effect of tax restrictions will be realized. Consumers can expect housing costs to continue to move up.

Optometrists Are Studying New Regulations

A spokesman for the Texas Optometric Association said today: "The Federal Trade Commission's new rule, just announced, contains three major points. "On the preemption of state laws prohibiting the advertising of ophthalmic goods and professional services, we feel that the FTC action is unnecessary. State laws banning such price advertising became unenforceable eleven months ago, by virtue of the U.S. Supreme Court decision in Bates vs. State Bar of Arizona regarding advertising by lawyers. "On the restriction of information which state legislatures may require advertisers to include in their ads, we feel this restricts the consumer's right to information and violates the right of the states to regulate health care in the public interest." Jose San Martin III, O.D., San Antonio, president of the Texas Optometric Association, said: "The third major point in the FTC rule requires ophthalmologists and optometrists automatically to release eyeglass and contact lens prescriptions to every patient without additional charge. We recognize the patient's right to a written copy of his or her eyeglass prescription. But we are strongly opposed to a requirement that the doctor release the written contact lens prescription to every patient. This creates a hazardous situation for some people that may lead to damage to the patient's eyes." Dr. San Martin said, "Contact lenses should have precise fit. Even a slight deviation from the written prescription can cause the lens to fit incorrectly. This can impair normal tear flow, depriving the eyes of needed oxygen; can affect comfort and possibly clearness of vision; of cause the lens to scratch the eye, making the eye susceptible to irritation by infection or damage. The patient's protection has been and is our concern." The American Optometric Association is filing a lawsuit against the Federal Trade Commission regarding its new rule on the advertising of ophthalmic goods and professional services.

AOA is also challenging the FTC's requirement in the contact lens area. The AOA states it is taking this action because it feels strongly that parts of the rule are not in the best interest of the consumer, and there is also concern that FTC is overstepping its powers as a regulatory agency.

Hail Damaged Corn; Sorghum May Survive

COLLEGE STATION—Foul weather with hail often runs rampant over Texas during the spring, causing widespread crop damage. This puts many farmers in a quandary about what to do with their damaged crops—leave them or replant? "When assessing damage to corn and sorghum, there are a number of factors for producers to consider," points out Dr. John Bremer, agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "However, probably of most importance is the condition of the growing tips of damaged plants."

Other factors in assessing crop damage include stand reduction, leaf loss, weed and insect control and the calendar date. Also, local growing conditions and alternative crops enter into the final decision-making, notes the agronomist. "As far as corn is concerned, producers must first determine the number and distribution of plants remaining alive," advises Bremer. "To do this, they must check the growing point closely for damage. The growing point remains below the ground for two to three weeks after the plant emerges. Also, it is in the center of the stalk so that it has some protection from injury. If the growing point is not damaged (it is white and firm when healthy), corn will recover and perform better than when replanted."

The agronomist suggests that producers also check corn plants to determine if they are "buggy whipped," or the leaves bound in the whorl. These plants may recover but should not be considered as living when making the plant count. "As with corn, sorghum should be checked for damage to the growing tip," notes Bremer. "If the tip is healthy, the crop will yield more than if replanted or shredded for a second crop. If the decision is made to shred, cut the sorghum at about the 4-inch height. This produces tillers at ground level which result in stronger stalks and more uniform heading than a higher shredding."

The agronomist adds that sorghum shredded in the bloom stage will require another 30 to 60 days before reaching bloom again.

"Even with heavy hail damage, all is not lost as far as sorghum is concerned," emphasizes Bremer. "Sorghum has the ability to compensate for stand losses so that a 50 percent stand reduction does not equal a 50 percent yield loss. With an even distribution, the remaining plants will make more grain per head. This means that usually more than 50 percent of the stand must be lost before replanting becomes economical."

When assessing hail-damaged corn and sorghum, producers need to take a close look at leaf damage once the decision is made to leave the crop, adds the agronomist. Leaf loss will determine expected reductions in grain yield. Of course, the big factor here is the crop's stage of growth. Small plants can lose all their leaves without affecting grain yields. But the further along the crop is when damage occurs, the more severely grain yields will suffer.

"If grass is a problem in corn and sorghum that has suffered hail damage, then producers face another decision," emphasizes Bremer. "Since grasses cannot be controlled with postemergence herbicides, replanting may be advisable even though the crop would probably recover. If an alternative crop is chosen, producers must consider any carryover from previously applied herbicides."

When replanting, the agronomist advises producers to choose early or medium maturity hybrids in an attempt to avoid insect and disease problems along with poor soil moisture and high soil temperature late in the growing season. These factors all limit late corn and sorghum yields.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Texas incomes are zipping along ahead of the rest of the nation in all major categories of business this year.

A Commerce Department report for the first quarter said the overall increase in Texas is 4.9 per cent, compared with a 3.6 percent national average.

And the national increase, according to the Bureau of Economic Analysis, was the biggest quarterly gain since the present economic expansion began.

During the period, consumer prices increased about one percent. Incomes surpassed price hikes in all states except West Virginia which had a major coal strike.

Biggest Texas gain was in the area of farm income, which went up 41.1 percent during the first quarter. The national average farm income jump was 28 percent.

A nationwide $700 million federal payment to wheat farmers during December and higher cash receipts from crops accounted for the farm income increase.

Mining (including oil and gas) income bounced upward 6.8 percent in Texas, though the national figure was less than one percent.

Manufacturing personal income rose 5.2 percent in Texas, compared with three percent nationally.

Ten other states—North Dakota, Montana, South Dakota, Nebraska, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Kentucky and Mississippi had bigger increases.

Tough Contest Due
Republicans promised to field their most-formidable statewide group of candidates this fall.

U.S. Sen. John Tower has multi-million-dollar war-chest for his re-election drive against U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, who won the Democratic senatorial nomination over Joe Christie. In spite of their bruising primary campaign, Christie pledged his help to Krueger.

Attorney General John Hill won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination from Gov. Dolph Briscoe and three others without a runoff, but he is promised a run for his money by Republican William P. Clements spent $1.6 million in the little (130,000-vote) Republican primary, and said he probably will spend about a million more in the general election.

Mark White was the upset winner over Price Daniel Jr. for the Democratic attorney general's nomination, and will be challenged by James Baker III of Houston. Baker indicated he is prepared to raise $1 million for the campaign.

Ratios Decline
Though estimated market value of Texas property was $232.6 billion, it was valued at $36.4 billion in 1975 by tax assessors, according to Texas Research League.

Average assessed value was 15.6 percent of market value on local tax rolls.

The ratio of assessed value to market value varied from 2.6 percent in Real County to 35.6 percent in Reeves County, TRL said.

The league said assessment ratios dropped from 19.6 percent in 1966 and 17.1 percent in 1971.

Counties levied $388 million in taxes during 1975-76. Other values were set by districts (hospitals, junior colleges and road and water service) for tax purposes. About 164 school districts use county assessments.

Courts Speak
The Court of Criminal Appeals upheld a four-year prison term assessed ousted Duval County District Judge O. P. Carrillo on conviction of theft.

The Supreme Court said counties can be sued for deaths and injuries due to flooded crossings if they don't provide adequate warnings.

Court of Criminal Appeals dismissed a murder conviction against a Central Texas man on grounds the trial should have been moved from Hill County.

A conviction of a father for castrating his son by radiation was affirmed by the Court of Criminal Appeals.

The Supreme Court held county mutual insurance companies are not covered by the deceptive trade practices laws.

Improper jury instruction resulted in reversal of the murder conviction of Delmond Randle in Amarillo.

A Bryan court verdict that nothing could be recovered from the estate of a dead Texas A&M University health center physician on a malpractice suit was upheld by the Supreme Court.

AG Opinions
Use of secret ballots by governmental bodies to elect officers is prohibited by the Texas Open Meetings Act, Attorney General John Hill said in a recent opinion.

In other new opinions, Hill concluded:

Use of public property, labor or services by a public official or employee for private benefit constitutes the offense of theft.

The Harris County commissioners court can legally authorize payments of $10 per meeting per court member (or county employee representing a court member) as a part of his salary for attending the meetings.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,
Do you think that seniors in high school should stay out to parties until one or two o'clock in the morning? I have a daughter in that class and she says that all the other girls do every Friday and Saturday night.

It worries me very much but I hate for her to be the only one who can't go with the crowd.

What do you think about this?
Mrs. H.-N.C.

Answer:
I certainly do not think that high school girls should keep such hours. And if I were you I should get in touch with some of the other mothers and find out if they are not being high pressured with the same argument.

For some special occasion, such as a Junior-Senior banquet and dance, the bars may be let down a bit, but eleven-thirty or twelve o'clock is certainly late enough for school girls to stay out on weekend parties.

If you mothers would get together and talk it over with the girls and boys, you will probably find them co-operative, particularly so if they find that all of them must abide by the same rules.
Louisa

Dear Louisa,
I am going with a boy who drinks a great deal. This is his only bad habit and he says he will give it up if I marry him. I love him a lot but I don't want to be married to a drunkard.
Do you think he will really stop if I marry him?
Grace, Okla.

Answer:
No, I certainly do not, if he doesn't think enough of you to reform before marriage, he will never do so afterward.
If I were you and really loved him very much, I should tell him that I would marry him one year from the time he stopped his drinking.

Tomato Tips May Produce 'Top' Crops

Young tomato and pepper plants often undergo considerable trauma after being transplanted into the garden. Imagine the shock to a tender tomato plant that began life in a warm, humid greenhouse, when it is suddenly uprooted from a pleasant environment, planted in cold soil, buffeted by strong, dry, West wind all afternoon and "treated" to 12 hours of temperatures ranging from 35 to 40 degrees.

It is no wonder that its stem turns purple, its leaves droop and it gets that ragged look.

Next to spring frost, wind is the worst enemy of young vegetables, especially tomatoes and peppers. Contrary to popular belief, the tomato plant can not be hardened to cold or to wind desiccation. So, it makes sense to give it all the protection that you can until the weather calms down.

There are many ways to protect plants from the wind and cold. Hotcaps are reinforced waxed paper domes which are set over young plants or newly seeded crops like squash and melons and anchored down with soil around the edges. You must cut a little hole in the side of the hotcap away from the prevailing wind to keep the temperature from rising too high inside the hotcap.

A cage can be constructed from concrete reinforcing wire and wrapped in plastic film, then placed over the tomato plant to shelter it from wind, cold and hail while letting in most of the sunlight.

Placing tin cans (with the top and bottom cut out) over the plants is not recommended because the sides of the can shade the plant, and that is not good.

Just breaking the force of the wind will be very helpful to the survival and early growth of newly set vegetable plants or seedlings that have just recently emerged. Shakes (the kind used on roofs) or shingles stuck upright in the soil about six inches to the southwest of a newly set plant will shelter it from the hot, dry afternoon wind. Rows of temporary windbreaks can be set up in small gardens using shakes, snow fence or scrap lumber.

The idea is to stop only about half of the wind volume and let half pass through the windbreak. Each successive row of windbreak material will further slow down the wind speed.

Information furnished by: Dr. Roland Burns, Area Vegetable Specialist, Route 3, Box 213AA, Lubbock, Texas 79401, 806-746-6101

FAMILIAR TUNE

It is so soothing, comforting, and pleasing to listen to our favorite tunes when played by capable artists. These tunes can make our minds wander back to pleasant memories of days gone by, and also awake us to new joys. Each Sunday we have the opportunity to be thrilled by the preaching of God's word, and the story of God's great love for us. Attend church Sunday and enjoy worshipping God with others.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Card Of Thanks

During the evening hours of Memorial Day, May 29, the Muleshoe Volunteer Fire Department was called to my farm in the Progress Community. They responded in force and very efficiently extinguished a pile of burning scrap lumber and post. Though the fire was, perhaps, of no great consequence, under other circumstances it could have been quite serious. It gives one a comfortable feeling to know we have these dedicated and willing men standing by to serve our community in times of emergency. Fellows you are appreciated, Thanks a million!
