

SULL IS ARRESTED AT ATHENS

About the only way Pretty Boy Floyd can escape being charged with a bank robbery is for two roads to happen at the same time, a thousand miles apart.

Ethyl alcohol, made from corn, can be used in automobiles in the place of gasoline. But you can't drink gasoline, and until the national thirst declines a bit, the oil industry will probably not be menaced by the new fuel.

An offsetting factor also is the growing use of motor fuel by airplanes. Planes in 1931 used 900 per cent more gasoline than in 1926. And the aim should be to keep gasoline in the air and corn on the cob.

Here's a welcome letter from H. L. Wallace:

"Regarding your unique opinion which you expressed in your column November 1, about referees making honest mistakes: "I would like to see some agitation started for a new rule or provision to be written into the rules and by-laws under which our conference football games are played, whereby referees who inadvertently call a play wrong may, after seeing the error, revoke the original calling of the play if the other, or majority of the other officials agree that the first ruling was an error."

As this writer understands the Amarillo incident, Mr. Wallace, the error was one of those which cannot be reversed without being unfair to one team or the other. Referees do sometimes reverse their decisions, but when they blow their whistles the referee's right is the same as that of the ball is dead, and defensive efforts are stopped. It would be unfair to the defense to permit a score made after the whistle had indicated a dead ball.

In our opinion, the only fair decision in the Amarillo game would have been to absolutely nullify the score, but the rule is otherwise and in most instances is wise.

Any referee has a huge responsibility when he blows his whistle inside a team's 10 or 20-yard line. He should be absolutely sure that the ball is dead. He should permit a bit more pounding of the runner near the goals than anywhere else. A team which has fought its way to striking distance of the goal should certainly not be robbed of a score through a referee's error. The rule that play stops when the whistle is blown prevents injuries and speeds up the game. But its misapplication, no matter how honest, is deplorable.

Referee Sweeney admitted his mistake after the game, but while he could reverse other decisions, he could not undo the damage by reversing the rule which says that the ball is dead when the referee's whistle sounds, even though the official merely corrects a cough through the instrument while chasing a runner.

Every Texas congressman is said to have stated his intention to stand by democratic nominees, from president to public weigher. John Garner expressed the reason when he wrote:

"It seems rather absurd to me that there should be any question as to whether I expect to vote the straight democratic ticket. At no time have I deviated from my rule to abide by the will of the majority of my party. Majority rule is the essence of democracy, and while it is true that at times the majority may make mistakes, it is also true that this is the exception rather than the rule."

Unfortunately for the democratic and socialist parties, those big concerns which have profited from republican party favoritism are the resources of the juiciest party contributions. The socialist "committee of ten thousand" sounds a cry which sounds mighty familiar: "Please give, send, persuade friends to give all they can NOW—if you have given before, don't thank you, please give again!" This appeal was sent out with the information that for three minutes of radio time the cost would be $12,000. Norman Thomas tries to be heard, but his words are costly when translated into party campaign broadcasts. Twelve "grants" to the G. O. P., but it is a young fortune to the socialists, whose thunder is being stolen by the communist agitators.

BANK ROBBERS ORDER MAN TO SERVE FOOD

LICENSE OF 'BURNED OUT' CAR BOUGHT AT DUMAS

NARA VISA, N. M., Nov. 4. (AP)—Two bandits who yesterday looted the First National bank here of more than $700 last night eluded posses in the sand hills along the Canadian river, 18 miles southwest of here, and forced a rancher to take them across the stream after he had served meals to his unwelcome guests.

Under cover of darkness the bandits slipped through a cordon set in the rugged country and appeared at the ranch home of John Hughes, on the north bank of the Canadian. Hughes was forced at gun points to serve meals to the fugitives, who also forced the rancher to take them to the south bank of the river.

Large posses still are scouring the countryside in hopes of capturing the men who kidnaped Jim Burns, cashier of the looted bank. Exhausted from loss of sleep and lack of food, many members of the posses today were abandoning the hunt.

The man hunt started in earnest when the bandits' car was found abandoned at Rita crossing, south of Obar.

The car, "burned out," bore a Texas license, issued at Dumas.

No shots have been fired since Perol Smith and Milt Stansel, both unarmed, followed the bandits while Burns was yesterday a prisoner. The fleeing bandits fired five or six shots at the pursuing car.

TUCUMCARI, N. M., Nov. 4. (P)—Forty New Mexico and Texas posses were close on the trail today of the two bandits who yesterday robbed the First National bank of Nara Visa, N. M., of $1,400 and fled on horseback into the sparsely settled region 35 miles northeast of here.

A GOOD SYSTEM OF GOING WRONG

The American people have seldom been wiser than they were when they invented the parole board. And they have seldom been more foolish than they have been in their method of handling the parole board after they got it invented.

Seldom was there a greater gap between theory and performance. Seldom has it been more clearly proved that the best governmental institution will not work, in a democracy, unless it falls into the hands of wise and conscientious men who are fully supported by an enlightened public opinion.

All of this comes to mind as a result of the sad experience which the state of Ohio has had recently.

In the past month Ohio has had three murders, two of them more than commonly atrocious, committed by paroled ex-convicts.

Each of the paroled men had been out of prison only a short time when he took a life. In each case it is very easy to see—now—that the parole was a tragic mistake. And in each case all that Ohio can do about it is punish the guilty man and hope that it won't happen again.

Unfortunately, such incidents—and every state has similar ones—lead to a general outcry against the parole system itself. The public sees thugs at large committing new crimes long before their original sentences have expired, and quite naturally it wonders if the parole system isn't a mistake from start to finish.

What it fails to see is that it isn't the system so much as it is our way of handling it that is all wrong.

The parole system is everything that its supporters claim—or it would be if it were properly administered. No iron-clad system of rigid sentences can fail to work in justice. The parole system tries to make criminal procedure elastic enough to provide justice for all.

But we have left it, largely, to run itself; which means that politics has got in its fine hand and made a mess of things. What we need to do now is to re-empower our method of administering the parole system. Our own heedlessness is what is really the matter.

Scanning New Books

By JOHN SELBY

NEW YORK—Few biographers are able, it seems, to retire from the field without leaving in their lists of titles another "Napoleon." Hilaire Belloc (by no means ready for retirement!) is no exception.

Mr. Belloc's "Napoleon" is somewhat out of the ruck in plan. He sketches for 65 pages the fabulous career of his subject, then goes back to the beginning, and in a series of episodes considers the numerous crises that made the career fabulous.

It is a rewarding plan, and although the least practical hands might have left it confusing, Belloc does not. There are nevertheless some remarkable passages, stylistically and factually. Belloc's impetuous rush at times leads him to offer sweeping statements without citing definite authority.

As might be expected in a writer who is also something of an authority on military tactics, the battle episodes are most vivid.

From England also Frank Swinnerton is represented this week, and so is Catherine Carswell (the slow progress of whose writing will be remembered by all who read the D. H. Lawrence letters.)

Swinnerton has to offer "The Georgian House," one of the surest and most effective of all his novels. Like his contemporaries, he rather overvalues the atmospheric value of the English scene, and unlike some of them he knows definitely when he has built up the desired effect, whether of tragedy, comedy or irony. Then he stops. It being the thing to furnish maps with novels, nowadays, Swinnerton has provided an amusing one of his mythical Sandersford.

Mrs. Carswell knew Lawrence from 1914 to his death, and unlike the majority of his friends, stuck by him through that period. She calls her book "The Savage Pilgrimage, a Narrative of D. H. Lawrence," and for one who wishes to fill the chinks between the recently published letters of Lawrence, the work is valuable.

Mrs. Carswell got much from Lawrence in the way of philosophy—literary criticism also, for that matter. In return she was able to ease a little that abysmal loneliness that Lawrence both hated and courted.

The Compilers Mark Van Doren, who recently published a compilation of American poetry, now offers "The Oxford Book of American Prose," which is destined as a companion piece to the English Harvesting of Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch. It is a more difficult job than selecting poetry, this extricating prose excerpts. Van Doren has tried to make the excerpts as long as possible, units standing alone when practicable. There are 73 pieces from 48 writers, many first rate.

Fifteen short stories are to be found in the current "O. Henry Memorial Award Prize Stories." Some of them fine examples of their sort. The committee (with Dr. Blanche Colton Williams supervising) awarded first prize to Stephen Vincent Benet, and second to James Gould Cozzens. A further "short story" prize went to Edwin Granberry.

Coach Bob Neyland of the University of Tennessee once pitched a no-hit, no-run game against Navy and taught Tom Bridges, Detroit pitcher, a great deal of what he knows.

More Loans For Feeders Wanted By Relief Body

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Officials of the Reconstruction Finance corporation said today that the demand for loans from livestock feeders "is not as large as we would like to see it."

Both Gardner Cowles, Sr., a director, and Ford Hovey, chief of the agricultural section of the corporation, so expressed themselves.

"There is a very large corn crop," Hovey said, "with both cattle and sheep selling cheaply."

"Corn is probably the cheapest it ever has been, selling in some instances for as low as 8 or 9 cents a bushel.

"The Reconstruction Finance corporation has money to finance sound feeder loans on cattle and sheep. . . . We are really disappointed at not getting more applications."

Feeder loans, Cowles said, are regarded by the board as one of the best and quickest ways of giving relief.

The corporation is considering seed loans. With one of the largest corn crops in history, the question has been raised whether they would be advisable in view of the prospect of creating larger surpluses.

The corporation also has invited the American Municipal association to help it provide a better understanding between the corporation and cities and towns on local self-liquidating projects.

The corporation feels, Harvey C. Couch, a director, said today that He said a motorist picked him up at Lexington, Ky., and promised him a ride to Indianapolis. The automobile had a democratic donkey label on the windshield.

When they reached Louisville, the motorist asked Brown for whom he was going to vote. Brown replied, "Oh, I'm for Hoover."

After they crossed the Ohio river bridge to New Albany, Brown said the motorist stopped the car, opened the door and motioned for him to get out.

The PEOPLES COLUMN

Editor, The NEWS:
It is quite interesting to note the expression of thought some people give, and that these thoughts control their personal walk of life so little.

I am sure it is their intention that they help stumbling humanity to a higher plane, as they are disregarding all selfish feelings.

You know one of the most impressive thoughts ever given me, and at the age when I most needed it, was when a man in answer to a personal question gave me this answer: "It takes fifty per cent of my time to attend to my business and fifty per cent letting other folks business alone."

For several years I had a connection with one of our large corporations, at which time I became deeply interested in advertising, and when I read a local paper I do not consider I have given the advertiser and myself a square deal until I have read all of the ads, which make it possible for our press to give us the news from all over the world daily for only a few cents.

Some people are of the opinion that when a man (who has never been infallible) becomes a minister of the gospel, should live a perfect life, never having a thought of any good clean worldly sport of pleasure. I dare say some of us who would write an advertisement casting reflections against a man in any work of life were to check up on our own thoughts and actions on the Sabbath we would find some error we are making.

The only source of pleasure we have on this earth comes through the efforts we put forth in trying to keep peace and making those around us happy.

If the money spent for ads, casting reflection against other people and what they have to sell was placed in the community chest, it would be of considerable benefit to some poor hungry soul.

It is of no personal feeling, or that I am trying to uphold any one in not keeping the Sabbath day holy that I write this, but just to drop a thought that some paid advertisements must be very unprofitable.

Thanks,
R. E. W.

DIGEST POLL FAVORS DEMO

Final Returns Indicate That Roosevelt Will Carry 41 States.

Roosevelt leads in forty-one states with a total popular vote of approximately 3 to 2 over Hoover in the final returns of The Literary Digest's nation-wide poll, which is said to represent the largest number of votes in any Presidential poll ever conducted, according to tomorrow's issue of the magazine.

A grand total of 3,064,497 ballots were returned and tabulated. Of these 1,715,789 or 55.99 per cent, are for Roosevelt, 1,150,398 or 37.53 per cent, voted for Hoover and 148,070, or 4.84 per cent, registered their sentiments for Thomas.

Hoover shows a slight gain from the 37.33 per cent of the total vote which he had in the semifinal returns and the 37.19 per cent for him in the quarter-final returns, which latter tabulation was the first to contain balloting from all forty-eight states.

The final vote gives Hoover a lead in the seven states of Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and New Jersey.

Roosevelt leads his republican rival in all of the other forty-one states.

A division of the vote by an electoral college apportionment would give Roosevelt 474 votes to Hoover's 87.

The Literary Digest editorially concedes the possibility that Roosevelt may carry five of the states in which Hoover leads in the final tabulation. It is stated that in the 1928 poll Rhode Island and Massachusetts were indicated as Hoover states but were carried by Smith in the election. An analysis of the present vote, it is shown, reveals that ballots have not been voted in adequate quantity by Democratic voters in these states.

The Literary Digest points out also that the same situation obtains in Connecticut, New Hampshire, and New Jersey, where the declared republican voting in the poll outnumbered the declared democrats considerably in excess of the actual relative party strength in these states, and the magazine, therefore notes the possibility that Roosevelt may carry them.

In no state showing a Roosevelt lead is the possibility of a switch mentioned altho it is pointed out that the vote in New York, Kansas, Colorado and Delaware are close.

The Literary Digest editorializes that altho there are many political claims that Pennsylvania will vote republican, no such forecast can be deduced from the poll returns from the Keystone state.

The race continues very close in Delaware, where Roosevelt has a plurality of 198 votes out of a total of 5,209 cast in the State. His lead was 175 votes a week ago and 202 two weeks ago.

In an analysis of "how the same voters voted in 1928" Roosevelt is shown obtaining 37.19 per cent of his strength from former republican and 47.95 per cent from democrats of four years ago. Hoover is shown obtaining 80.57 per cent of his strength from those who voted for him at the last quadrennial election and 8.15 per cent from democratic voters of that year.

Roosevelt is indicated having a clear majority in thirty-nine states over all six Presidential candidates represented in the poll.

SPORTS WRITER MARRIES

DALLAS, Nov. 4. (AP)—Announcement has been made of the marriage of Gayle Talbot and Mrs. Margie Moore, at the Central Christian church at New York city. Talbot, until a year and a half ago, was sports editor in Texas for the Associated Press. He was transferred from the Dallas bureau to the New York office on March 1, 1930. He is a Texan by birth and is the son of Mrs. Gayle Talbot, Sr., and the late Gayle Talbot, who recently died at Washington.

ary Digest will state in its issue tomorrow, unless some unexpected eleventh-hour condition arises to reverse the nation-wide trend disclosed by this great monument of freshly gathered statistics, the complete poll will be interpreted by many practical men and women of all parties as a presage of a Roosevelt victory.

Honest internationalism does. But cooperative dealing must be gains, and sounder or later the nations must find that out or perish.

Quotas Boost Living Cost
NICE, France (AP)—A city committee of investigation has blamed the high cost of living along the Riviera to the French import quota system, finding that the price of foodstuffs has risen 100 per cent since the quotas were enforced.

Tips on CONTRACT
CLUE TO OVERCALL
By TOM O'NEIL
A bid by adversary often gives a declarer a tip on how to make a difficult contract. Indeed, an overcall may prompt the declarer to redouble successfully.

first. While not quite in accordance with requirements for an original

November 8 draws near.

Ducks in Early Migration Are Not Eating Kind

There are few estate ducks in this section of the country, local nimrods back from hunting trips report. Most of the ducks shot are scavengers, spoonbills and pin tails, or teal. There are few mallards or canvas backs in the country.

A PATH TO PARADISE

By Coningsley DAWSON
"As a man of the world, in a marital quarrel you surely don't believe that all the justice is on one side?
You, yourself, were once in love with her and didn't have such a hard time. You're standing in my shoes tonight if I hadn't cut you out.
Instead of divorcing me, she'd be divorcing you."

Dutch Shelter Legionaires
AMSTERDAM (AP)—Two vessels from the Mediterranean have brought four deserters from the French foreign legion to this port, picking them up from small boats off the African coast. Two of the fugitives were English, one was German and the other Estonian.

Baptism Ends In Tragedy
DURBAN, Natal (AP)—A native minister and a convert whom he was baptizing were drowned when they waded out to their necks at a treacherous bend in the Umlutana River. They were engulfed at the second immersion.

CONTENT—WHY NOT?
PORT ISABEL, Nov. 4 (AP)—H. J.
Henry of Wheeling, W. V., is not content to rest on his laurels after having caught the largest tarpon on record here last season but is back in the valley casting for more of the silver kings. He caught one this year six feet and four inches long but it fell short of the record breaker which was seven feet, six inches long.

Papa Has New Stamps
CANBERRA (AP)—Papua, Australia's tropical dependency, has put out a new issue of stamps to replace the "trading canoe" design in use for 30 years. The new issue has 16 designs.
