It was a long night for the Muleshoe Mules as they tangled with the Littlefield Wildcats Friday night in Benny Douglas Stadium. Leading on the South Plains, the Littlefield Wildcats defeated the Mules 60 to 0. The Wildcats showed a lot of talent as well as having good speed.

MISD Schedules TAAS Test

Muleshoe Independent School District will be administering the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills Test during the week of October 18, 1993.

The WRITING TAAS will be administered on Tuesday, October 19, the Reading TAAS on Wednesday, October 20, and the Mathematics TAAS on Thursday, October 21, 1993. Students that are absent on these days are not allowed, because of Texas Education Agency regulations, to make-up any missed tests.

Students, if at all possible, need to be in school on the designated testing days. Students that are well rested and eat breakfast generally achieve better test results. Parents are encouraged to discuss the importance of this test with their children and help Muleshoe ISD teachers and administrators provide the students with optimum testing conditions.

If you have questions or concerns about the TAAS, please contact Linda Marr at Muleshoe High School.

The Wildcats received the opening kick off and put the ball into play on their own 40 yard line. On both the first and second plays of the game, the Wildcats picked up first downs, paving the way for a touchdown on the third play. With 10:51 to go in the first quarter, the Wildcats led 7-0 over the Mules.

On their first possession of the ball, the Mules trouble began when they fumbled the ball on their own three yard line. The Wildcats recovered the fumble and with 9:20 left in the first quarter, the Wildcats hit pay dirt again. The point after kick was good and the Wildcats led 14-0 over the Mules.

The Mules picked up two first downs on their next possession of the ball before a Wildcat intercepted a Mule pass. The Wildcats put the ball into play on their own 22 yard line and three plays later were forced to punt the ball back to the Mules.

Being unable to move the ball against the Wildcats strong defense, the Mules turned the ball over to the Wildcats on downs.

Littlefield picked up a first down before making it into the endzone again. The point after kick was good and the Wildcats led 21-0 on

At the end of the first quarter Littlefield led 21-0 over the Mules.

On their next possession of the ball, the Wildcats picked up two first downs before going into the endzone with 10:42 left in the half. A two point conversion try was no good and the Wildcats led 27-0 over the Mules.

The Mules had the ball on their own 13 yard line when they fumbled the ball and Littlefield recovered. With 9:29 left in the half Littlefield made it into the endzone again. The kick was good and Littlefield led 34-0 over the Mules.

Both teams picked up some first downs when the ball see-sawed back and forth the rest of the first half.

SPS Loans Antique Appliance Collection To Local Museum

Visitors to the Muleshoe Heritage Foundation Museum can see, through the courtesy of Southwestern Public Service Company, what early 20th century Americans used to iron clothes, cool homes and light rooms.

SPS is providing the museum with historical electrical appliances. "The pieces will be on long-term loan," said Mike McDearmon, SPS's Muleshoe manager.

"SPS has collected these antiques through the years," he said. "I believe people will enjoy looking at some of the first electrical appliances and realize how electricity changed life for the better."

available were the iron, fan, light bulb and toaster. In the early 1900s, refrigerators, hot plates, waffle irons and electric ranges hit the market. Electric clothes washers and dishwashers showed up in the early 1920s.

Among the items on display at the museum is a 1900s goose neck lamp, a variety of light bulbs from the early 1920s, an array of toasters from the 1920s and 30s, a 1930s fan with brass blades a special iron display including an American Beauty iron dated 1916, a 1938 electric vaporizer, art deco waffle irons, a hairdryer from the 1920s, a 1932 "Belly Burner," and many other items.

Electrical items began flooding the marketplace in the late 1890s. Among the earliest appliances

Appraisal District Explains MISD Tax Discounts

Due to Legislative changes in school finance laws, the Muleshoe I.S.D.'s 1993 tax statements will be mailed the week of October 18, 1993. If the taxes are paid by October 31, 1993 you will receive a 3% discount, if paid by November 30, 1993 you will receive a 2% discount and if paid by December 31, 1993 you will receive a 1% discount.

Homeowners that had additional homestead exemptions on the value taxed by the County Education District (CED) may see their school taxes increase. If you have applied for a homestead exemption you will receive $5,000.00 off the appraised value of your homestead for 1993. Last year you had $5,000.00 plus 20% applied to your value for CED tax purposes. The CED doesn't exist for 1993 so there will be no homestead exemptions granted for the CED. (For example: if you had a $40,000 value on your homestead last year you were taxed on $27,000.00 for the CED and $35,000.00 for the I.S.D. This equaled to $346.27 in Cont. Page 6, Col. 3

Toy Project Applications Now Being Accepted

Donations are welcome.

Send name, address and phone number, along with children's names, designated boy or girl, and ages to Toy Project, P.O. Box 222, Muleshoe, TX 79347.

Mackenzie Water Down, Bass Holds On

By Charles Munger District Biologist

The water level at Mackenzie Reservoir is way down but the largemouth bass are still holding on. The Texas Parks and Wildlife Fisheries crew sampled largemouth bass in the reservoir this fall using electrofishing equipment. Mackenzie Reservoir has consistently produced largemouth bass up to 20 inches long and most are in good condition. Past electrofishing samples have shown an increase in catch rate of bass. We collected 21 bass/hour in 1988 and 59/hour in 1990. The catch rate increased to 113 bass/hour in 1993. Most of the fish collected in the 1993 sample were this year's young.

Statistics derived from our sampling data indicate that the largemouth bass population in the reservoir is much improved from 1988 but has remained relatively unchanged since 1990. The population of fish over 14 inches is essentially unchanged from 1990 even though the catch rate of bass 15 inches and longer was down from 20/hour in 1990 to 12/hour in 1993. The catch rate of 20 inch largemouth bass was steady at about one fish/hour.

The increased total catch rate and decreased catch rate of 14-19 inch fish from 1990 to 1993 may be due to one of two things. Either the reservoir has reached its carrying capacity for larger largemouth bass or the low water levels have increased the vulnerability of larger fish to anglers.

Of the two, the second is most likely. As water levels decrease, it concentrates fish into a smaller area. This crowding can decrease the available food supply and increase aggression between larger, territorial fish. The combination of less food and increased aggression make these larger fish much easier to catch and remove.

The problem with removing these fish is that, when water levels recover, many of the potential brooders are gone.

The practice of catch and release is the only thing that will keep these larger fish available for the future.

Next time you go fishing remember that sometimes when catching is best it is best to release.

Blackwater Valley Soil and Water Conservation District

1993 Annual Report

The Blackwater Valley Soil and Water Conservation District, certified March 20, 1941, has completed its 52nd year in Bailey County. Blackwater Valley SWCD is a legal sub-division of State Government because it was created by a petition of local people to the State of Texas to help solve soil erosion problems. When it was created, it observed all State Government requirements but taxing authority. Blackwater Valley SWCD was the 111 conservation district approved. Today there are over 200 districts state wide. Blackwater Valley SWCD boundaries are the same as Bailey County. The districts' governing board is made up of 5 landowners in the county. Each director represents a zone in the county and serves a four year term. An election is held each October to elect directors of the board. Directors receive no salary, but receive mileage to attend the board meetings. The present directors and the zones they represent are:

- Zone 1 ----- Ernest Ramm
- Zone 2 ----- Nick Bamert
- Zone 3 - ----- Sharon Dale
- Zone 4 -- Bennie Claunch
- Zone 5 - Johnny Furgeson

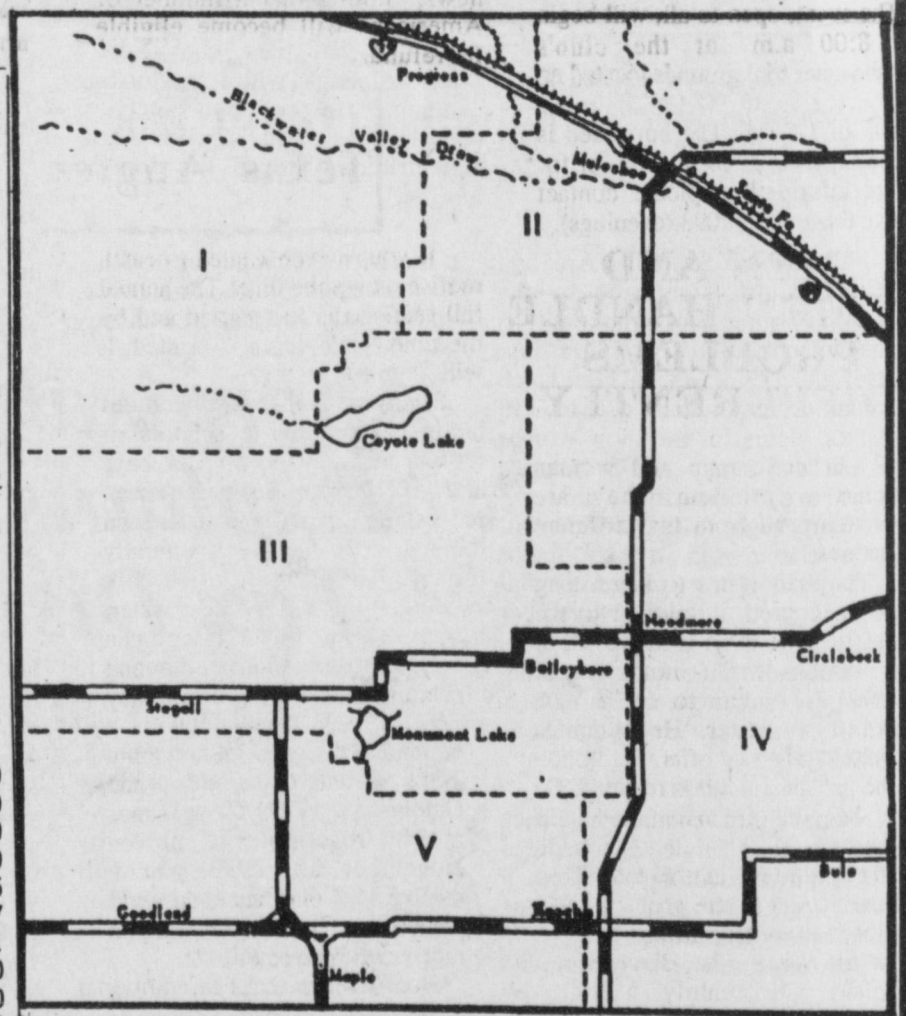

The board meets the 2nd Monday each month at the SCS meeting room at 7:00 a.m. Soil and Water Conservation Districts work under voluntary guidelines. They strive to show that each individual landuser has a responsibility to protect the land. The District provides technical service through the Soil Conservation Service. This assistance is available to all who request it without regard to race, color, creed, sex, or national origin.

American Lung Association Reminds Seniors-Flu Vaccine Is Covered By Medicare

As the threat of a severe influenza season looms on the horizon, the American Lung Association of Texas, the Texas Department of Health, the Texas Department on Aging and the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) are mounting a major influenza prevention drive urging high risk groups to get their flu shot. This urgent appeal, funded in part through your donations to Christmas Seals, is especially targeted to our nation's senior citizens, who are among the greatest victims of influenza.

Dr. Robert Cryder, Director of the Texas Department of Health Immunization Division, believes the decision by the Federal Department of Health and Human Services to extend Medicare benefits to cover influenza vaccinations, effective May 1, 1993, is an important step in the right direction.

"The decision by the Department of Health and Human Services will go a long way toward helping our nation reach and perhaps exceed the federal Healthy People 2000 objective of 60 percent of senior citizens living at home receiving the influenza vaccine," said Dr. Cryder.

The Health Care Financing Administration, which oversees the Medicare and Medicaid programs, estimates that as many as 15 million Medicare recipients will take advantage of the new benefit.

Dr. Samuel Kuna, president of the Texas Thoracic Society (the medical branch of the American Lung Association) also noted, "Take this opportunity to remind patients and physicians alike that the pneumococcal pneumonia vaccine is also a covered Medicare benefit. Patients can safely receive both of these vaccines at the same time. Studies show that only 41 percent of older adults living at home receive their influenza shots, and only 20 percent receive the pneumococcal pneumonia vaccine. Influenza and pneumonia are most likely to require hospitalization in those over 65 years of age. This deadly combination is the fifth leading cause of death for senior citizens nationwide, resulting in over 70,500 deaths in 1990.

"Perhaps the most tragic aspect of these lung disease deaths is that many of them could have been prevented simply by getting an influenza shot," stated Ed Carter, president of the American Lung Association of Texas. "I cannot overstate the importance of our seniors getting immunized. It's crucial."

For more information on influenza and pneumonia shots call the American Lung Association at 1-800-LUNG-USA.

Thanks.

Best selling authors, Tom Clancey, Danielle Steel, Karen Robards, Patricia Cornwell, Jackie Collins, Stephen Coonts, and Larry McMurtry, also Robert Ludlum, and John Jakes have their latest on our shelves. ### Photographers To Document One Day In Texas

October 22, 1993 will prove to be one of a kind as photographers all over the state document high school life from before sun up until midnight.

Sponsored by Taylor Publishing in Dallas and the Association of Texas Photography Instructors, "One Day" is a chance for high school photographers to be published and recognized as some of the finest in the state. Photos from the assignment can be used in the yearbook or on a photo page in the school or community newspaper. The assignment could even be turned into a midterm project.

"It's not just another contest," said Alan Health, Vice President of Marketing for Taylor Publishing Company. "It doesn't require weeks of shooting, processing, mounting and filling out entry forms. It's a one day event. 'One Day' gives schools a day they can really dedicate to working on the photography which is at the heart of modern publications."

All photos must be submitted to Taylor by Nov. 10, two and one-half weeks after the event. They don't have to be mounted and there's no entry form. Photographers just print their name, school's name, address, what camera/lens/film they used, and a complete photo caption on a piece of paper and securely tape it to the back of the photo.

The contest's sponsor, Taylor Publishing, with headquarters in Dallas, is a leading publisher of yearbooks nationwide. The Association of Texas Photography Instructors is an organization formed to assist people interested in the instruction of photography on the junior high, high school and college/university level.

It's that simple. It's One Day.

Pointers For Parents Surviving The Cold Season

(NAPS)—It's that time of year again, when sniffles, sneezes and runny noses seem to visit your children on a regular basis. Children get two to three times as many colds as adults, and they're more likely to catch cold in the winter. To help your family have a healthier winter, follow these tips:

- Colds are usually spread by the infected person through hand-to-hand contact with another person, or with objects such as toys, door knobs and telephones. To help break the cycle of transmission in your home, encourage thorough hand washing and treat commonly touched surfaces regularly with a disinfectant like Lysol® Spray.

- To help prevent viruses from spreading, teach your child to sneeze or cough into a tissue, use disposable paper cups in the bathroom, and make sure you wash your hands before and after caring for a sick child.

- Children in day care may be exposed to germs that cause infectious diarrhea. To help prevent the germs from spreading in your home, encourage thorough hand washing and regularly disinfect areas where children play with Lysol® Spray. Remember, baking soda, vinegar and ammonia clean but do not disinfect.

- Starve a fever? No. Children with a fever should be fed because calories are being consumed rapidly at the higher body temperature. Never withhold liquids.

- If you suspect an ear infection, call your child's pediatrician. Do not use eardrops unless your doctor recommends them.

New Study Shows Americans at a Nutrition Crossroads: Awareness is Up but Action is Stalled

A major national study recently released shows Americans are at a crossroads when it comes to nutrition — awareness is increasingly high, but action to improve the diet has stalled.

"More than four out of five Americans (82 percent) recognize the importance of good nutrition. Yet a declining number — only 39 percent versus 44 percent in 1991 — say they are doing all they can to achieve a healthy diet," said Susan Calvert Finn, Ph.D., R.D. (registered dietitian), president of The American Dietetic Association (ADA).

Based on this finding, the ADA is calling on government, industry and nutrition professionals to accelerate their efforts to give consumers the clear, practical nutrition information they need to maintain a healthy diet.

Findings from the nationwide 1993 Survey of American Dietary Habits, conducted for the ADA in joint sponsorship with Kraft General Foods, were based on telephone interviews of 1,000 adults conducted by the Wirthlin Group. A similar study was conducted in 1991.

The survey found across-the-board gains in the public's recognition of nutrition's importance, regardless of age, education or sex. Particularly impressive was the increased number of men aged 25-34 who said that nutrition is of high importance to them, up from 36 percent in 1991 to 49 percent in 1993.

However, the survey showed that a declining number of Americans are actually living up to their beliefs. Here, too, the change was across-the-board, with virtually every demographic group showing a smaller percentage of respondents who say they are doing all they can to achieve good nutrition. The biggest drop was among men aged 35-54, where the percentage declined from 41 to 31.

The growing gap between attitude and behavior is the apparent result of several misconceptions consumers have about healthy eating. For example, the most frequently cited obstacle to good nutrition (39 percent) is the belief that people will have to give up the foods they like.

Likewise, 22 percent of respondents said that it takes too much time to keep track of their diets. And the same number said that conflicting scientific studies make it hard to know what food choices to make.

"We need to show consumers that good nutrition isn't nearly as hard as they might think," Finn said. "Small changes can produce big improvements. For example, to cut excess fat from their diet, many people would have to do nothing more in a day than switch from a regular to a low-calorie salad dressing and use skim milk instead of 2 percent or whole milk on their breakfast cereal. That's hardly any change at all, yet people think more drastic action would be needed to keep their fat intake at the recommended level."

Finn said that consumers who need practical advice to improve their diet can call the toll-free Consumer Nutrition Hot Line of ADA's National Center for Nutrition and Dietetics and speak directly with a registered dietitian. Consumers can also ask for a referral to a registered dietitian in their local community. The hot line, which is supported in part by a grant from Kraft General Foods, can be reached at 1-800-366-1655, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Central Standard Time (CST), Monday through Friday, or for recorded nutrition messages, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., CST, Monday through Friday.

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams and Ed Sterling
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison dismissed Washington, D.C. lawyer John Dowd last week, and Nov. 29 has been set as her trial date in state district court.

Hutchison has hired two Texas lawyers to defend her against the charges which allege wrongdoing during her tenure as Texas state treasurer.

Replacing Dowd are Houston attorney Dick DeGuerin and University of Texas law professor Michael Tigar. DeGuerin is to serve as Hutchison's lead counsel and Tigar will file legal briefs. Hutchison spokesman David Beckwith said the decision to hire Texas lawyers was made because the trial will be taking place in Texas.

DeGuerin was legal counsel to Branch Davidian cult leader David Koresh, who died April 19 in a fire that incinerated the cult's compound in Waco. Beckwith said Tigar will concentrate on "whether the legal process is being abused in a political way."

Hutchison is charged with three counts of official misconduct, one count of tampering with governmental records and one count of tampering with physical evidence. If convicted, she could serve up to 61 years in prison or jail and pay fines up to $43,000.

In addition to the Nov. 29 trial date in Travis County, an Oct. 18 deadline has been set for pretrial motions to be filed for a pretrial hearing scheduled for Oct. 28.

A Travis County grand jury indicted Hutchison and two former treasury department aides on Sept. 27 on criminal charges after an investigation that lasted more than three months. The aides have requested a separate trial and will be given a later court date.

School Lawsuit Under Way

When the fourth school finance lawsuit got under way in Austin last week, District Judge Scott McCown ruled that the suit will not be expanded to include whether Texas spends enough money on its public schools.

McCown said for now he would consider only equity issues: whether Texas fairly distributes more than $15 billion a year in state and local revenue to school districts.

He said he would wait until the end of the trial, which could last two to four weeks, to decide whether to convene a second trial on adequate funding.

In limiting the extent of the trial, McCown set aside a legal motion filed by the Texas Association of School Boards on behalf of 60 school districts of varying size and property wealth.

Both property-poor school districts and property-rich districts are challenging the legality of the new school finance law but for different reasons. Property-rich districts say the law is unconstitutional because it relies on local school property taxes, in essence creating a statewide property tax.

Greytok vs. Mauro

Marta Greytok, a Public Utility Commission member for the past six years, will seek the Republican nomination to challenge three-term Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, a Democrat.

She will face state Rep. Robert Eckles, R-Houston, who is stepping down from the Legislature, in the GOP primary.

Greytok called Mauro "part of the entrenched political class that has created so much hate for politics and distrust of government among the people."

She criticized Mauro, who headed President Clinton's campaign in Texas last year, for using state phones to do campaign work.

"He has turned the Texas Land Commission into an annex of the Clinton White House," Greytok said.

Mauro, first elected in 1982, is expected to seek re-election in 1994.

Caucus Funding Halted

A Texas House committee last week halted public funding of House legislative caucuses and recommended that the groups be barred from fund raising during a legislative session and be required to disclose expenditures and contributions.

"It had been perceived, rightly or wrongly, that caucuses are able to go outside the bounds of an elected official in their raising money and their expenditures, and we certainly do not agree with that," said Layton Black, D-Goldthwaite, chairman of the House Administration Committee.

Bustamante Sentenced

Former U.S. Rep. Albert Bustamante will appeal the federal influence-peddling conviction that drew him a 42-month prison sentence, his attorney announced.

"Absolutely, there will be an appeal," said A.L. Herndon, one member of the defense team that represented Bustamante on racketeering and bribery charges in July.

U.S. District Judge Ed Prado also ordered Bustamante to pay $55,100 in fines and court costs, and sentenced him to two years for a conviction for accepting an illegal gratuity.

Other Highlights

■ The Texas Supreme Court has upheld the state public higher education funding system by ruling it does not discriminate against Mexican Americans in South Texas. The decision overturns last year's ruling by state District Judge Ben Eureski Jr., who declared the system was unconstitutional.

■ Almost 18 percent of Texas' population lived below the poverty line last year — a rate significantly higher than the national average of 14.5 percent, the Census Bureau reported. Eight states, led by Louisiana and Mississippi, reported higher averages.

Adequate Fluid Replacement Challenge For Two-A-Day Teens

Teenagers engaged in football and band practices twice a day may be at a risk of dehydration as they begin their second daily workout, according to a Texas Christian University study.

Research by physical education professor Dr. Joel Mitchell showed that consuming even one and one-half times more than the approximate fluid lost during a workout failed to completely rehydrate the body within three hours of the activity.

The difference between pre-exercise and post-exercise weights of persons in two study groups was used to calculate the estimated volume of body fluid lost. Following an exercise period, one group consumed a replacement volume equal to 100 percent of the fluid lost while the second group downed 150 percent of the amount.

Despite the extra 50 percent of fluid, Mitchell found that people in the second group were only 70 percent re-hydrated compared with 65 percent reported by those in the first group.

"That extra 50 percent of fluid simply went into the formation of urine," he said.

Mitchell noted that this difficulty in replacing lost fluids can be a significant problem for people who participate in more than one workout a day. "In all likelihood the person is going to go into that second workout somewhat dehydrated," he said.

Although research has yet to define the optimal fluid replacement schedule, Mitchell believes up to six hours of steady fluid consumption may be required for complete re-hydration.

Mitchell cautioned not to rely on the lack of thirst as an indication that fluids have been fully replenished. He explained that the body's thirst mechanism shuts off well in advance of when all the body tissues are completely re-hydrated.

Public Comment Periods Extended for Rangeland Reform

Secretary of the Interior Bruce Babbitt announced today that he has extended for an additional 30 days the scoping period for the draft environmental impact statement (EIS) that will accompany regulatory changes for livestock grazing on Bureau of Land Management public lands.

"I am making this second 30-day extension of the scoping period because of a request from Governor Bob Miller of Nevada, on behalf of the Western governors," Secretary Babbitt said. "My friends the Western governors feel that their constituents haven't been given enough time to evaluate the specifics of the reform proposal. I hear their concerns and the concerns of Western members of Congress on this same issue."

The 30-day extension would become effective on the date it is published in the Federal Register, and will end about October 17, 1993. Following analysis of all scoping comments, the Bureau of Land Management will publish draft regulations and a draft EIS, which will trigger another public comment period. Public meetings will also be held in each affected state during the comment period on the draft regulations and EIS.

"Rangeland reform is too important to ignore the legitimate concerns of those who will work to implement it," Secretary Babbitt said. "I believe that once people read and understand this proposal, they will see that it is a fair deal for ranchers and for American taxpayers who own the public land."

At the same time, U.S. Department of Agriculture Assistant Secretary Jim Lyons announced that the Forest Service will also extend the scoping period on their Advanced Notice of Proposed Rulemaking for another 30 days, concurrent with the Department of the Interior and beginning when a separate notice is published in the Federal Register.

"The public has asked for more time to respond and comment on rangeland reform for lands managed by the Forest Service," Lyons said. "This 30-day extension will answer that need. This will help the Forest Service to develop rangeland reform proposals that will consider the concerns of the American people for the management of our rangeland ecosystems."

Nugent Says Texas Drivers, Tow Truck Operators To Get A Fair Deal

Artied with new proposed rules, the Texas Railroad Commission had taken steps to protect Texas drivers from problem tow truck and vehicle storage operators, according to Commission Chairman James E. (Jim) Nugent.

"We now have new legislation and rules that will require tow truck companies and vehicle storage yards to be licensed by the Railroad Commission," said Nugent. "We intend to see to it that Texas drivers and tow truck companies get a fair deal."

Earlier this year the Texas Legislature enacted legislation requiring most tow truck companies and vehicle storage yards to be licensed by the Railroad Commission. The Commission, which regulates the trucking industry in the state, is the oldest regulatory agency in Texas.

The Commission recently published proposed rules establishing minimum insurance requirements and safety standards for the operation of tow trucks. Tow truck companies must register their vehicles with the Commission and show evidence that they have maintained adequate insurance.

The rules are also designed to ensure that licensed storage facilities maintain adequate standards for the care of stored vehicles and charge proper storage fees.

Muleshoe Elementary Schools Initiate New Reading Program

The Muleshoe Elementary Schools have initiated a new reading program this year called Success For All. The program organizes resources to ensure that virtually every student in a Chapter 1 school will reach the third grade with adequate reading skills. The program comes from Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md. and is implemented in sixty-eight schools in seventeen states. Muleshoe schools represent two of the five schools in Texas that have implemented this excellent program.

Robert Petza, facilitator from Johns Hopkins, was in Muleshoe last Friday, October 15, to do a follow up on the program. Petza told the Journal that through his observations the program in this area is outstanding. He credits the teachers for their outstanding efforts and acceptance of the new program. He was assisting the teachers at Dillman while his associate, Meg Livingston, was at Deshazo Elementary. The facilitators and the teachers alike feel that the implementation of this program will help the students acquire important reading skills that will help them become better students.

What Is It?

Success For All is a school-wide program for students in grades pre-K to five. The idea behind this program is to organize resources to ensure that virtually every student in a Chapter 1 school will reach the third grade with adequate reading skills, and that no student will be allowed to "fall between the cracks".

What Are The Components?

•Tutors: In grades 1-3, specially trained certified teachers work one-on-one with any students who are failing to keep up with their classmates in reading. First grade students are the priority for tutoring.

•Reading Program: During reading periods, students are regrouped across age lines for 90 minutes so that each reading class contains students at one reading level. This eliminates the need to have reading groups within the class and increases the amount of time for direct instruction. Also, use of tutors as reading teachers during reading time reduces the size of most reading classes. The reading program in grades K-1 emphasizes language skills, auditory discrimination, and sound blending, and uses engaging, phonetically regular mini-books which students read to one another in pairs. At the second through the fifth grade levels, students use school or district selected reading materials, basals, and trade books. This program emphasizes cooperative learning activities built around partner reading, identification of characters, settings, and problem-solutions in narratives, story summarization, writing, and direct instruction in reading comprehension skills. At all levels, students read books of their choice for twenty minutes each evening as homework. Classroom libraries of books are developed for this purpose.

•Preschool and Kindergarten: A half-day preschool program is provided for all eligible children. The program emphasizes language development, readiness, and positive self-concept. A full-day kindergarten program continues the emphasis on language, using children's literature and big books as well as thematically related activities. It also adds early reading activities such as oral and written composition, activities promoting the development of concepts about print, alphabet games, and math concept development. Peabody Language Development Kits are used to provide additional experience in language.

•Cooperative Learning: Cooperative learning is the vehicle that drives the Success For All curriculum. Students work together in partnerships and teams, helping one another to become strategic learners. Emphasis is placed on equal opportunities for success, individual accountability, common goals, and rewards.

•Eight-Week Assessments: Students in grades 1-5 are assessed every eight weeks to determine whether they are making adequate progress in reading. This information is used to assign students to tutoring and to suggest alternative teaching strategies in the regular classroom, to make changes in reading group placement, family support interventions, or other means of meeting students' needs. The school facilitator coordinates this process with the active involvements of teachers in grade level teams.

•Family Support Team: The Family Support Team is designed to work with parents in ensuring the success of their children. The team focuses on promoting parent involvement, developing plans to meet the needs of individual students who are having difficulty, implementing attendance plans, and integrating community and school resources. The team is composed of the principal or vice-principal, facilitator, social worker, and other personnel. In addition, all teachers share the responsibility of interacting closely with the team.

•Facilitator: A full-time facilitator works with teachers in each

SUCCESS FOR ALL READING PROGRAM UNDERWAY--in Muleshoe elementary schools. Last Friday, as school turned out for the day, the teachers found themselves in the classroom. Success For All school to help them implement the reading program. In addition, the facilitator coordinates eight-week assessments, assists the Family Support Team, facilitates staff support development, and helps all teachers make certain that every child is making adequate progress.

•Staff Support Teams: Teachers in the Success For All program support one another through the training and implementation process in coaching partnerships, grade level teams, and other staff team configurations. These teams become a catalyst for the dissemination of new material, goal setting, problem solving, and they provide a supportive forum for discussion around new instructional strategies.

What Are The Results?

Effect sizes for the students in the lowest 25% of their classes at pretest averaged +1.28 for students in schools with adequate tutoring resources. By third grade, the Success For All low achievers still far out-performed matched control students (ES=+1.07). Effects were also very positive for students in general, averaging +.55 at the end of first grade and +.46 at the end of third grade. In addition, the program reduced retention from 11% to near zero and cut special education placements in half.

Where Has This Program Shown Results?

Success For All is implemented in sixty-eight schools in seventeen states.

Teachers Make Learning Fun

The kindergarten classes at Dillman Elementary have just finished a unit called Community Helpers, which is a part of the Success For All reading program. The kindergarten teachers coordinated the activities and did the unit as a group. Norma Prather, Tracy Pyle, Lisa Amyette, Shelly Chester, Vicki Surret and Lilly Suitker are the kindergarten teachers at Dillman who have extended this program to allow the community to be a part of the educational experience.

Last week, the children visited various places in town to experience how a community really works. They were guests at the hospital, the courthouse, the post office and the police station, to name a few. A fire truck was on exhibit at the courthouse so that the children could see how the fireman work and help the community. They also visited the Ambulance service. The final day of the unit, the students were allowed hands on play in the different activity centers set up in each kindergarten room. As pictured, the children played in health care centers, cafe centers and various other centers.

This simulation of a hospital allows the children to "play doctor" as they learn about Community Helpers.

These kindergarten children play in this make-believe cafe as they learn about the community and the world around them.

Technical Sergeant, Ray Reece of the 27th Medical Group at Cannon Air Force Base, helps the children learn about health care as the students extend their study of Community Helpers.

McMurry University Receives Grant to Enhance Academic Programs

McMurry University has been awarded a grant of up to $1.75 million over a five-year period to enhance its academic programs.

McMurry will receive the Title III Strengthening Institutions Program grant from the U.S. Department of Education. McMurry was the only university in Texas and one of only 59 schools nationwide funded from a pool of 378 applicants in the highly competitive selection process.

The grant will match the school's classroom computer capability against that of the best universities of its size in the nation, said McMurray President Dr. Robert E. Shimp. The program will add 202 computers to the approximately 66 currently available, giving McMurry a computer-to-student ratio of 1-5 to 1-6.

Also, the grant will provide McMurry with funding to acquire equipment for use in strengthening and developing comprehensive laboratory improvements and academic enrichment programs for the students; and teaching innovation and academic research for the faculty.

First-year funding of $349,810 will benefit the Biology, English and Psychology departments and the Student Learning Center.

Biology will add eight computers and printers, a microscope with a video camera, a television and video cassette recorder, a laserdisc player and other laboratory equipment for its introductory biology laboratory and six computers, six printers and three laserdisc players for its anatomy and physiology laboratory. The English department will add an English computer classroom with 26 computers and five printers. The psychology department will receive software for a new laboratory. The Student Learning Center will receive eight computers, two televisions and video cassette recorders, headphones, and a laserdisc player for tutorials.

News From the Baylor College of Medicine

Many women with the immune disorder, lupus, get medical attention too late, says a rheumatologist at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

"By the time they consult a physician, serious problems may already be present," said Dr. Sandra Sessoms, an associate professor of medicine at Baylor.

Lupus, also known as systemic lupus erythematosus, affects the immune system and causes inflammation of joints, muscles and other body parts such as the skin, kidneys, lungs and heart. Often, the effects are worse in African-American and Hispanic women and some Asians and North American Indian groups. Ninety percent of lupus patients are women in their 20s and 40s.

Studies have shown that black women with lupus are especially susceptible to kidney disease and may have a worse prognosis than any other racial group.

Lupus is considered a "silent" disease, Sessoms says, because it is not as well-known as other diseases. She adds that although genetics may play a role, lack of awareness and information about lupus and socioeconomic factors prevent many minority women from controlling the disease.

"Some women with lupus symptoms cannot afford health care or are not accustomed to having routine physical exams," she said.

Common lupus symptoms include arthritis and skin rashes. Most lupus sufferers also experience fatigue, fever, loss of appetite, nausea, weight loss and hair loss. In severe cases, kidney failure can occur.

"Lupus can be difficult to detect because the symptoms come and go over a period of time," Sessoms said. "A rheumatologist can confirm the presence of the disease."

In lupus, the immune system makes antibodies in the blood stream that cause inflammation and injury. This antibody formation provides doctors with a valuable diagnostic test known as an anti-nuclear antibody.

Safe, effective treatments to combat lupus include anti-inflammatory drugs and anti-malarial drugs for relieving swelling of joints and skin rashes. Corticosteroids are usually administered for more serious symptoms.

Sessoms says if more women with lupus recognize the symptoms, the condition can be treated early and managed. Pregnant women should be examined regularly, since the disease may be more serious during or after pregnancy.

"Women with lupus shouldn't have to feel alone," Sessoms said. "The physician, family members and support groups can help lupus patients cope with the disease and maintain a healthy, productive lifestyle."

"See How They Love One Another"

One of the most amazing things about the one Body of which Christians are a part is its astonishing--and beautifully invigorating--diversity! It was so from the beginning.

Focus On Faith
Curtis Shelburne

He wasn't all wrong. The church, like her Lord, has always loved folks no one else would love.

Old Celsus probably would have been aghast to find that by early in the fourth century Emperor Diocletian's court was filled with Christians, among them the emperor's own wife and daughter. A few years later, the Emperor Constantine began to openly favor Christianity!

What diversity! The slave and the master meeting around the same table participating in the death and resurrection of the same Lord. The aristocrat breaking bread with the village baker. The prayers of the liveryman rising with the prayers of the Roman senator.

And in the church today praising God with one voice we may see university professors and garbage collectors, bankers and janitors, doctors and hired hands, because that which ties them together is stronger than that which would drive them apart.

It was the Christians' love for the Lord overflowing into love for one another which caused even the pagans in Rome to remark, "See how they love one another!"

Jesus himself included both a tax collector and a Zealot in the circle of the apostles. One worked hand in glove with the hated Romans; the other would just as soon put a knife in a Roman as look at one. That Matthew and Simon could even sit down to a civil meal is something of a miracle!

Later, when the church's door swung open to Gentiles as well as Jews (the first Christians were all Jews, you know), the door opened to even greater diversity. One early critic of the church, the Roman Celsus, thought most of the converts to Christianity were similar enough. He wrote of Christians, "Their aim is to convince only worthless and contemptible people, idiots, slaves, poor women, and children...."

Curtis Shelburne is the minister of the 16th and Ave. D. Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

READY FOR New CARGO

This ship has been emptied of its cargo, and now stands ready to take on fuel and more cargo for further service. If this ship were to remain empty, it would be of no value and would be failing in the one thing that it was built for.

Man was created to be a companion to God, and when he does not join in worship with God, he is failing in the reason for his creation. Make your life mean something for God...

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny: the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
