Postal Department Authorizes Addition to Building at Pampa

CONSTRUCTION WILL START IN COMING WEEK

New Portion Will Be 30 by 25 Feet Duncan Says

NEW BOXES TO BE INSTALLED

Completed Building To Be One of Best In State

Authority from the post office department for the building of the new addition to the Pampa postal structure has been received by J. N. Duncan, who owns the present quarters.

The addition will be 30 by 25 feet, and when completed will make the post office building 50 by 100 feet. Mr. Duncan told The News Saturday that he will add 285 new lock boxes and other additional equipment to the present fixtures, and that when the building is completed and the new fixtures are installed Pampa will have one of the most complete and up-to-date privately owned post offices in the state.

Efforts to obtain official sanction for the addition have been under way for a considerable time, and postal inspectors have made several special trips here.

Beauty From the Land of Stories

When beauties from around the world assemble at Galveston, Texas, June 2 to 5, for the International Pageant of Pulchritude, one of the number will be Anna Friedrich from Luxembourg, the tiny country that has furnished the setting for so many operas and romantic stories. Here she is, "Miss Luxembourg of 1928." She is 21.

Band of Men Slay Woman Who Reports Moonshining to the Law

Wound Her Sister and Four Children After Setting Fire to Their Home in Kentucky.

SHEPHERDSVILLE, Ky., May 5.—(P)—A band of at least 7 men believed by officers to have been moonshiners seeking revenge upon the informers who aided prohibition agents in recent successful raids upon their stills, shot and killed an aged woman and wounded her sister and four children after setting fire to the family's home at the Browningtown settlement, nine miles from Mrs. Kate Browning, 60, was shot down from ambush as she fled from the flames that destroyed her home shortly after mid-night. Shot at least twice in the chest, she died instantly. Mrs. Lou Browning, her sister; her two daughters, Angie, 16, and Mrs. Amanda Jones, 25, and her two sons, Peachie, 23, and Ben, 18, also were shot as they sought to leave the building. Ben has not been seen since the shooting and officers thought he might have been taken captive. The others were not seriously wounded.

The attack was believed to have been provoked by information furnished prohibition officers by the four women. Mrs. Lou Browning was said to have walked fourteen miles recently to Bardtown to give agents the tip that led to the capture of a lake still and the arrest of Elmer Crenshaw, 26, who was released under $1,000, bond pending investigation by a federal grand jury. Both Crenshaw and his father had been arrested previously on charges of violating the prohibition law.

DELEGATES IN TEXAS NOT TO BE INSTRUCTED

Those to Contrary for Moody More Than Smith

OPPOSITION TO WETS EXPRESSED

Pampa Republicans for Hoover-Creager Indorsed

DALLAS, May 5.—(P)—On the face of incomplete returns from 3,000 precincts of Texas today, the state conventions held in more than majority of the delegates to conventions will be instructed as to individual candidates.

At the county conventions delegates to the state convention at Beaumont May 22 will be chosen, and at the state convention Texas' forty delegates to the national convention at Houston will be named.

Early returns indicated that a large group approaching a majority in the county conventions will have instructions to work for a dry plank in the platform and against the nomination of any man not in sympathy with such a plank.

In his fight for a delegation to the national convention instructed for a dry plank but not instructed against any one, Gov. Dan Moody of Texas apparently won an overwhelming victory.

He was opposed by a faction of the Democratic party in Texas led by former national committeeman Thomas B. Love of Dallas, who sought a delegation instructed to vote only for a man known by his record to be bone dry. He also was opposed by those who favored various presidential candidates, including Gov. Al Smith of New York, Senator James Reed of Missouri, and Governor Ritchie of Maryland.

Of 1452 delegates to county conventions reported at 8 p. m., as chosen in 52 counties, 774 were uninstructed, 587 had instructions to work for a dry plank or against any wet candidate and the remainder were instructed as follows: Gov. Moody, 17; Gov. Smith, 18; Senator Walsh, 17; Jesse Jones, 10; Governor Vic Donahey of Ohio, 3.

With 55 present, many of them women, Republicans of the Pampa precinct Saturday endorsed Hoover for president and expressed confidence in the state leadership of R. B. Creager. Def. A. Vickers was chosen official delegate to the county convention to be held May 8. Dr. E. von Brunow is county chairman and Mrs. J. R. Henry is precinct chairman reports from McLean, Precinct 1 were that those present there voted against instructing delegates.

There were no Democratic precinct conventions so far as could be learned.

DALLAS, May 5.—(P)—Reports at 3 p. m., tonight from 44 of the 253 counties in the state, showed that of 1169 precinct delegates to the county Democratic conventions selected 593 were without instructions, and 525 more were instructed to support strong prohibition planks in the platforms. Some of the 448 had instructions to be against any "wet" candidate.

The total number of delegates from precincts to county conventions is approximately 8,500.

The number of delegates with instructions for some candidate was 51 of which 18 were told to support the candidacy of Governor Al Smith, 17 for Walsh, ten for Jones and three each for Gov. Moody and Donahey.

Many Night Conventions
Most of the reports were from smaller cities and rural precincts.

The convention in the larger city were held tonight.

New Horizon Is Indicated as Oil Rises in Section 85

What may be a new strata in the new location south of the wells on the Johnson property, in the south McCue pool, has been picked up in the Spartan Oil company's No. 1 Myrtle Davidson in section 85, block B-2, more than two miles south of production. When the bit was pulled out of the hole Friday afternoon it was followed by a flow of high grade oil which went over the top of the derrick.

At the time the well was drilling at 2,900 feet on top of granite wash a new oil level in that territory. That depth was 247 feet above sea level which, geologists believe is a new oil level over the ridge from the McCue pool.

This location is one mile north of the Eslick et al's Hopkins in section 84, in the same block, which has a show of oil at 3,000 feet.

In the LeFors district interest centers around the Scott and Tom Chapman in section 70, block 25, that picked up a show of oil at 2,770 to 2,777 feet and shut down. The boilers were fired yesterday and drilling is expected today.

Drilling is also expected on the Plains Drilling company, Ray and McSpadden's No. 1 Chapman in section 50, block A-9, that has been shut down for storage last week.

MANY AT SHRINE EVENT

More than one hundred members of the Pampa Shrine club, their wives and friends, were entertained at the Pampa auditorium last night with a supper and dance. The supper was served at 11 o'clock.

Guests of the club were the junior and senior classes of the high school following the class dinner at the Schneider hotel. Miss Biard was sponsored as "Miss Pampa" by the members of the club.

SUMMER TERM OPENS JUNE 4

Thirty-Five Students Make Application for Subjects

The regular two-month summer session of the public schools will open June 4 at the high school building.

According to Prof. H. C. Platter, director, 35 students have made application for subjects in the high school curriculum. From preference indication, the heaviest enrollment will be in mathematics, English, and history. The only high school subjects definitely excluded are physics, biology, and chemistry. The introduction of course will be determined by the demand.

Miss Annie Daniels will teach the first to fourth grades, inclusive. The date the teachers for the fifth, sixth and seventh grades have not been announced.

Mother's Day at College Will Be Elaborate Event

CANYON, May 5.—Elaborate preparations are being made at the West Texas State Teachers college for the annual Mothers' Day celebration which will be held Saturday night, May 12 and Sunday, May 13.

For the Saturday evening program, the music department under the direction of Mr. Wallace H. Clark will present Olaf Trygvasson, a cantata with words by Bjornatjerne Bjornson, music by Edward Grieg. This will be given by the chorus and orchestra and immediately following it, the orchestra will play the Peer Gynt Suite Opus 46, by Edward Grieg.

The Sunday morning service will include an address by Reverend W. E. Hamilton of Canyon and the music will be furnished by the College choir. In the afternoon a band concert under the direction of Mr. C. E. Strain will be given on the college campus. Students all over the city are making preparations to entertain their mothers and, in many cases, both parents, at this time.

Midland Race Riot Charged to "Lawless" Whites

MIDLAND, May 5.—(P)—A race riot Thursday night in which two white men were slightly wounded was completely under control tonight, Midland officers said.

The riot began when several negroes moved into a hotel erected for them in East Midland. While the riot was not general, about 50 shots were exchanged between negroes and men whom officers termed "lawless whites."

The sheriff's office reported it had heard rumors that an effort would be made to force all negroes to leave the town, but promised the negroes protection.

Two Houses Are Destroyed in One of Four Fires

Four calls within 36 hours is considered a record for the Pampa Volunteer Fire department. Only one fire proved destructive. The first call Friday morning was from the home of Mr. Nichols in the Country club addition, which the department had some difficulty in locating.

The second call of the day came in at 4 o'clock from the residence of Roy Loocher, where a gas stove had ignited a rug and the floor underneath the stove. With the aid of a chemical the fire was put out without damage.

Yesterday morning at 2 o'clock two frame buildings in the Wilcox addition, owned by M. L. Chandler, were burned to the ground before the department arrived and could string enough hose to reach the buildings. Before the alarm was turned in by a resident in the West part of town who saw the flames, one of the houses was completely gutted and the other in flames.

Mr. Chandler had vacated the houses the previous afternoon. One of the residences was saved by the department Wednesday morning only after a fast run and use of a string of 1,250 feet of hose.

ABILENE, May 5.—Clifford Solomon of Pampa was elected editor of the Corral student magazine of Simmons University.

Junior-Senior Banquet of '28 Well Planned

Under the skillful chairmanship of Bob Kahl, more than 125 persons attending the annual Junior-Senior banquet enjoyed a very pleasant evening Friday at the New Schneider hotel.

The colors of spring and graduation and the rosy cheeks of scores of Pampa's young women predominated interspersed with Junior and Senior boys clad in new suits of season's fabrics. The high school orchestra played several numbers while the students and guests crowded into the dining room. Prof. J. L. Lester asked the blessing.

At intervals during the serving of the delicious banquet, Toastmaster Bob Kahl asked for the numbers upon the cleverly arranged program, after first delivering a sincere welcome warmly responded to by Ed Oberlander.

A vocal duet by Prof. R. B. Fisher and Mrs. A. H. Doucette was greatly enjoyed, and an encore likewise. Lewis Fogleman added to this reputation for versatility by giving a clever speech on "Our Opinion of Spitzbergen." Harvester Memories were presented in song by Audrey Noel, Joan Wells, Chita Spurluck, Kate Archer, and Susie Bell Hickman.

In the main address of the evening, Supt. R. C. Campbell traced the rapid expansion of the school system in the last three years and asked the students to work for the passage of the proposed bond issue for two new ward schools and a gymnasium.

Joe Strother, pianist extraordinary, won much acclaim for his piano solos. Short talks were made by Olin E. Hinkle and Prof. Fishel. Mrs. William Gould, Junior sponsor, assisted the class in planning the banquet.

Alleged Oklahoma Bank Robber Is Caught in El Paso

EL PASO, May 5.—(P)—Jack Long said to be wanted in Oklahoma for bank robbery, was captured by police today after several shots had been fired at him when he attempted to escape from officers. Approximately $10,000 in currency was found sewed in Long's clothing.

Local Man Invents "Anti-Robbery Device"

A "firearm holding an actuating device" invented by A. P. Stark, local man, was patented April 24.

It is a device for holding a pistol so that it may command given points in a place of business for protection against robberies. Employees can, with little noticeable effort, fire the weapon even after hearing the command to "stick 'em up."

Mr. Stark has several propositions from manufacturers who would buy or market the invention. In addition to this device, he is working on two more for which patents will be obtained.

His bank device was begun two years ago, following the robbery of the First National bank at Thayer, Kans., where he formerly lived.

GOING WEEK SLASHES CRUDE PRODUCTION IN PANHANDLE

The cold weather of the last week knocked the bottom of production throughout the Panhandle, even though two new wells were brought in.

The daily production in the Panhandle decreased 1,302 barrels, with Hutchinson county showing the greatest slump.

Moore county was also hit hard, the three flowing wells dropping to 134 barrels a day.

With five wells on top of pay and companies preparing to drill in, Gray county gives promise of boosting the average the coming week. Drilling activities have opened up with ten new locations in different parts of the county. Ten more are to be made this week.

Wells and production, daily by counties, for the week:

Carson, 166 wells, 7,893 barrels.
Gray, 210 wells, 18,933 barrels.
Hutchinson, 1,019 wells, 41,357 barrels.

Potter, 1 well, 25 barrels.
Moore, 3 wells, 134 barrels.
Wheeler county, 39 wells, 1,119 barrels.

Total, 63,850 barrels, a decrease of 1,302 barrels a day as compared with last week.

ADULT LEADERS SCOUTING NEED

Chairman Tells Why the Modern Boy Is Problem

Scott Barcus has been appointed chairman of the Boy Scout organization committee, which will have supervision of the organization of the council to embrace the towns of Phillips, Berger, Panhandle, Groom, White Deer, Pampa, Miami, and Canadian.

"Our outstanding needs now are men and money," said Mr. Barcus. "It is imperative that we line up for this work the outstanding men of Pampa and the other towns in the area.

There is too much involved to consider any but men of the highest moral character for this responsibility of training our boys to take our places tomorrow.

"There is not much in the way of money that we are going to ask," he continued, "and when the people of the towns in the area consider the full value of having this 'Wonder Program of the Century' made available to our boys in its most effective form, I know they will respond generously.

"Recently the nation was shocked from coast to coast to learn of the commission of one of the most brutal and fiendish crimes in the pages of history and what made the crime still more horrible was that it was committed by a mere boy still in his teens. Then began one of the most extensive man hunts on record. Indignant citizens all over the country made generous contributions toward a reward for the apprehension of the murderer until the reward reached $100,000. Then came the almost accusing declaration from one of the world's outstanding sociologists that Americans were placing a $100,000 lock on the stable after the horse was gone; that if the same fervor was shown in subscribing to agencies for building character such criminals would cease to exist; because crime, no matter how heinous, is but the giving vent to a surcharge of energy and if the right leadership is given early in life, that great energy could be turned to the benefit of mankind.

"Life was never before so full of complexities. We grown-ups who knew

FIGHT, NOT A FIRE, AT END OF FAST RUN

Excited Voice Starts Plenty of Action Saturday Afternoon

Because fight sounded so much like fire over the telephone, the fire department made a fast run Saturday afternoon, instead of the police.

An excited female voice notified the driver of the fire truck that he had better come to the rescue, so the fire siren sounded for the fourth time within the 36-hour period.

A fast run was made by the department, but on arrival at the scene of action it turned proceedings over to the city officers accompanying the truck.

Youth Confesses Killing Family in Fit of Anger

ELDORADO, Kas., May 5.—(P)—Facing seven separate charges of first degree murder, Owen Oberst, 17-year old farmer boy, late today said he was willing to plead guilty before a district judge at once and "get it over with."

Oberst's confession that he shot down his parents, three brothers and two sisters on April 20, then set fire to their farm house near Burns and drove to Florence to enjoy the evening with friends, was obtained by County Attorney Stanley Taylor late yesterday and made public by Butler county officials today.

ALEX SCHNEIDER SR. IS EAGER TO BE HONORARY

Alex Schneider, Jr., local hotel owner, talked with his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Schneider, Sr. and nephew Alex Rainouard, in New York City Wednesday night upon their return to America from a six-months visit with relatives in Switzerland. The party is visiting friends in New York before returning to Pampa. They met Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Brown in New York and planned to remain with them until they left for Europe Saturday.

Mr. Schneider, Sr., said that he could hardly wait until he arrives back home.

GERMAN CREW OF SEVEN TO TRY ATLANTIC HOP

HOUSTON, Texas, May 4.—Another west-east flight across the Atlantic—another German. But four motors this time and a route not so close to such places as Greenland Island.

Captain F. Christiansen, German ace and now skipper of the German motorship Rio Bravo, revealed his plans here recently for home. In Germany he will quit his freighter to try a trans-ocean flight.

In a four-motored hydroplane, with a crew of six, Captain Christiansen says he will take off early in June from some point north of Hamburg on the North Sea. He hopes to make a non-stop flight by way of Halifax.

"I will have a wireless and my plane built so that if we are forced down it can float as long as we want to unless, of course, a storm comes up," Christiansen said. "We will carry plenty of food."

"The hydroplane has four powerful motors, two in front and two in the rear, which develop 2000 horsepower, so we ought not to have any engine trouble."

"The tanks hold enough gasoline to last 40 hours and in tests we have found that our ship makes from 100 to 110 miles per hour."

For 23 years, Captain Christiansen has been a sailor and for many years an aviator.

He started flying about a year before the World War started. He displayed photos of planes he had

LAMAR SCHOOL NEWS

Three sections of the seventh grade enjoyed a very delightful picnic at LeFors last Saturday. Three school trucks were used to carry the pupils to the picnic grounds.

All the pupils of the Lamar school are diligently reviewing for their final examinations. At recess and after school the sections of the seventh grade are practicing for the graduation exercises.

The fifth grade geography classes of Lamar have on exhibit a collection of material. Come over and we will show you the rock asbestos cones from bauxite, and aluminum are; and besides many other interesting things tell you about Hershey town. Let us help you plan your summer vacation with our beautiful pictures.

AN IDEAL SENIOR

brought down while in the kaber's service.

He brought down 19 planes, he said, and was himself shot down twice and wounded once.

Numerous Medals were given him by the German government.

WIT AND HUMOR

Harvey A.: I've got my golf socks on today.

Sammie H.: Yeh?

Harvey A.: Yeh. Eighteen holes.

Edna Ballard: If a lady is attending a formal banquet and spills soup in the lap of her escort, what should she say?

Susie Bell S.: Tell him you don't like soup anyway.

Miss Whiteley: Who is the author of Gray's Elegy?

Lillie McMillan: It is anonymous.

Ed Herliacher: Shall I have a stone coffin?

Bruce Cobb: Yes, a stone coffin will last a life time.

Miss Whiteley: I'll give you just one day to hand in that work.

William: All right. How about the Fourth of July?

You can always tell a Freshie by the way he struts around.

You can always tell a Sophomore by the things that he has found.

You can always tell a Junior by his worried look and such.

You can always tell a Senior, but you can not tell him much.

Mr. Dial: Floyd, can you give a definition of electricity?

Floyd: (scratching his head): I did know but I forgot.

Mr. Dial: How sad, That if a great loss to science. The only man ever known who knew what electricity was and he has forgotten.

Mr. Taylor: What happened in 1854?

Senior: I don't know, sir.

Mr. Taylor: Well, where should you go when you want to find a date?

Senior: To the study hall.

Doyle Ward: Would you care to go to the Senior play?

Marjorie J.: Sure thing.

Doyle: Will you buy your ticket from me.

The quiet observed in Mr. Dial's chemistry class is well known. Last Monday Mr. Campbell visited the laboratory and remarked about the queer odor in the air. "Oh," responded Little Schafer, "that is the dead silence they keep in here."

Daisy Dean is suffering from lumbago on the heart. It is said to be caused from chewing the rag.

Extra! Extra! Messrs. Troy Stalls and Russell Kennedy were the only ones who were able to answer a question asked by Mr. Platter last Tuesday in Economics. The question was "Who put this tack in my chair?"

Lindy's New Sea Hop Mapped

The tentative route of the proposed June flight of Cal. Charles A. Lindbergh and Maj. Thomas G. Lanphier of Detroit to chart a trans-atlantic course, is mapped above. The flight probably will follow the far northern route, with stops at Labrador, Greenland and Iceland. How this compares with the route of Lindy's former flight, pictured below, is shown by the map. The 1928 trip will be made in a tri-motored Ford plane. They are expected to visit all European capitals and may go to Asia.

CENTRAL WARD NEWS

The first four grades of the Central Ward school had a very pleasing chapel program on Tuesday of last week. Rev. Todd made a very interesting talk on how to be happy and make others happy. Miss Nail's first grade gave a very instructive health play which was enjoyed by every one present. Mrs. Hicks gave her usual fairy health story.

The teachers and pupils of this ward certainly appreciate all these nice things that come to us so freely.

The pupils and teachers are working faithfully on the programs for the eleventh and sixteenth of May.

Every one in Mrs. Lester's room wishes to express their sympathy for Jeanne Murfee and Charlotte Rhea Malone during their illness and absence.

In his enthusiasm for the car he has bought, and the value he has received, it is only natural for him to look upon the dealer as his friend.

The Buick dealer has many such friends because he represents the true condition of the used cars he offers for sale.

And that is good business—for the Buick dealer, as well as the used car buyer.

ANNE AUSTIN AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

CHAPTER XLII

"Mrs. Barr and I have been discussing your immediate future, Sally," he began ponderously, in tones that he evidently thought were kind.

Institutional timidity closed down upon Sally; under those cold eyes she lost that ephemeral beauty of hers which depended so largely upon her emotions. It was her institutional voice—meekness hiding fear and rebellion—which answered: "Yes, sir."

"Oh, let me talk to her, Court!" Enid begged. "You're scaring my baby to death. He fancies himself as an old ogre, Sally darling, but he's really a dear inside. You see, Sally, I was so eager to find my baby that I made no plan at all."

Courtney Barr said, "I think I'd better do the talking after all, my dear. Your sentimentality—natural, of course, under the circumstances, would make it impossible for you to state the case clearly and convincingly."

"Sally's cold hands clasped each other tightly in her lap as she stared with wide, frightened eyes at the man who was about to arrange her whole future for her."

"I have made Mrs. Barr understand how impossible it will be for us to take you into our home at once, as our adopted daughter," Courtney Barr went on in his heavy, judicial voice.

Sally sprang to her feet, her eye blazing in her white face. "I didn't ask to be found, to be adopted!" she cried. "If you don't want me, say so, and let me go back to David!"

It was the loving distress on Enid Barr's quivering face that quickly brought Sally to bewildered, humiliated submission, rather than the cold anger and concealed hatred in Courtney Barr's pale gray eyes. Enid had left the sign of her husband's chair and had drawn Sally to a little rose-upholstered settee, and it was with her mother's hand cuddling her compassionately that Sally listened as the men's heavy, judicial voice went on and on.

"I am sure, Sally, that when you have had time for reflection you will see my viewpoint. Naturally, your mother's happiness means more to me than does yours, and I believe I know my wife well enough to state positively that the newspaper scandal or even gossip among our own circle would cause her the most acute distress. It shall be our task, Sally, to see that she is spared such distress."

"I'm sorry to appear brutal," Barr said stiffly. "But it is better for us to face the facts, for if our friends ever known them they will not minor words. If you should come into our home now, as you are, gossip would immediately get themselves to dig up the facts. Too many people already know that Sally Ford has been sought by the police as a delinquent. My wife and I could not possibly hope to explain our extraordinary interest in a runaway orphan. Do you agree with me, Sally?" He tried to make his voice kind, but his eyes were as cold and hard as steel.

"Yes, sir," Sally agreed in her neck institutional voice. But she felt sick with shame and anger that her only desire then was to run and run and run until she found a haven in David's arms. At the thought, some of the spiritedness which her few weeks of independence had fostered in her asserted itself. "But, Mr. Barr, if I would disgrace my mother, why don't you let me go? I can marry David and no one will ever know that I have a mother."

"That is very sensible, Sally," Courtney Barr nodded, a gleam of kindness in his cold eyes, "and I have tried to make your mother believe that your happiness would be best assured by your sticking to your own class—"

"It isn't her class, if you mean that she's suited only to poverty and hard work!" Enid Barr interrupted passionately. "Look at her, Court! She's a born lady! She's fine and delicate—clear through—"

"And so is David!" Sally cried indignantly. "He may be middle-class, but he's the finest, most honorable man in the world!"

"We shall not quarrel about class," Courtney Barr cut in with heavy dignity. "The important thing is that your mother is determined to have you, so fit you for the station to which she belongs. I believe she is making a mistake, both from your standpoint, and from hers, but I am willing to agree to a sensible arrangement. Our plan now, Sally, is to put you into a conservative, rather obscure girls' finishing school in the South. I have several relatives—poor relations, I suppose you would call them—in the South, and it is my suggestion that you enter school as my ward—mine, understand, not your mother's, so that any suspicion as to your real parentage will rest upon me, rather than upon her." He arched his eyebrows at Sally, looking rather consciously noble, and she nodded miserably. "During the two years that you will be in school—"

"Two years!" Sally echoed blankly. Two years more of loneliness, of not belonging, of being an orphan!

"Two years will pass very quickly," Courtney Barr assured her. "Enid please control yourself! I am infinitely sorry to distress you in this manner, but it is the only sensible thing to do."

"Yes, Court," Enid choked and buried her exquisite face in her small useless-looking white hands. Sally put her arms about her mother, and leaned her glossy black head against the golden one. "I'll try to be contented and happy, Mr. Barr. Of course I want to protect Mother—"

"That is another thing, Sally," Courtney Barr interrupted in an almost gentle voice. "You must try to remember not to refer to Mrs. Barr as your mother, in the hearing of anyone—anyone! If we are going to protect her, we must begin now."

"Yes, sir," Sally bowed her head lower so he might not see her tears. "Both Mrs. Barr and I will drop casual remarks about my pretty young ward in school down South, until our friends have become accustomed to the idea. You will be registered as Sally Barr, a distant relative of my own, and my ward. It is even probable that it would not be unwise to have you with us for a short time next summer. We have an estate on Long Island, you know."

"As my ward and as my distant relative, you would not be particularly conspicuous, but our friends would meet you casually and be the less surprised when it became known that Mrs. Barr and I had decided to adopt you as our daughter. All our friends and acquaintances know that it has been a great grief to us that we have no children, and I believe our action in this matter would occasion no great surprise. The adoption itself will take place before your 18th birthday, while you are still in school. If there is any newspaper publicity, it will be of an innocuous kind, I hope."

"Naturally I shall take care that any newspaper investigation will not be able to go back of the story I shall prepare very carefully, and if there is any hint of scandal at all, it will inevitably reflect on me and not on your mother, as I have already pointed out. After your adoption and your graduation from the finishing school, you will of course take your place in our home as our daughter, will make your debut in society that fall, and, I hope, be very happy with us and in your new life."

Sally sat very still, her eyes wide and blank, while her bewildered, unhappy mind tried to picture the future which Courtney Barr was outlining for her. At last she shook her head, as if to clear away the mists of doubt and bewilderment. Her mother had taken Sally's little lax, cold hands and was cuddling them against her cheeks, bringing a finger-tip to her lips occasionally.

"Poor baby! And—poor mother!" Enid whispered brokenly, and the spell was broken. The hard lump of unhappiness and resentment that had been aching in Sally's throat since Courtney Barr had begun to speak melted in tears. They wept in each other's arms, while Enid's husband walked impatiently up and down the room.

When the storm had spent itself, Sally remembered David again, and pain and fear contracted her heart sharply.

"Did you see David, Mr. Barr?" She sat up and dabbed at her wet cheeks with one of the exquisite sheer linen handkerchiefs which Enid had given her.

"You're only 16, Sally!" Barr cut in sternly. "You don't know the meaning

"Oh, yes, yes!" Barr answered quickly. "I managed his affairs very neatly. Rand, the district attorney, personally attended to the quashing of the charges against him, and it cost only a thousand dollars to get Carson to issue a statement to the press that he had really seen nothing compromising between young Nash and yourself. He also admitted that the boy's anger had been in a measure justified, that the assault had been provoked by his own mistaken charges against you and Nash. The boy's reputation is cleared now and he can go back to college this fall. I also saw his grandfather and persuaded him that the boy had been a hero rather than a blackguard. Young Nash is at home on his grandfather's farm again so that incident is successfully closed."

Gratitude brought Sally to her feet. "Thank you, Mr. Barr! You've been wonderful! It won't be so hard for me to be away at school if I know that David is in school, too. I wrote him tonight, but I'll tear it up and write a new letter, telling him all about everything and how happy I am that he's free of those awful charges—"

"No Sally," Barr interrupted, frowning. "Your mother and I are agreed that you must not write to young Nash. There must be no thought of an engagement between you—"

"Not write to David?" Sally echoed blankly. "I love David, Mr. Barr, and I always will. It's not fair to ask me to promise not to write to him."

"I already have his promise not to write to you," Barr told her implacably. "He understands the situation, agrees with your mother and me that your past must be forgotten as quickly as possible. You are entering upon a new life tomorrow when you leave for Virginia with me, a life that will be totally different from David Nash's. You will—though you don't seem to realize it—be an heiress to great wealth some day—"

"You told him that!" Sally accused him hotly. "You told him he'd be a fortune-hunter if he tried to marry me when I'm of age! Oh, you're not fair! You have no right to turn David against me, when I love him as I do—"

of the word love—"

"Please, Court," Enid begged, her own face white and drawn with pity for Sally. "Please let me handle this myself, Sally is overwrought now, nervously exhausted. Come along to bed now, darling," she coaxed, her little hands upon Sally's shoulders. "Let me tuck you up and sing you a lullaby. I'm not going to be cheated of that experience even if my baby is bigger than I am."

Fresh tears gushed into Sally's eyes and she allowed herself to be led away. At the door she paused.

"Good night, Mr. Barr. I—I don't want you to think I don't appreciate what you've done for me—and David—and what you're going to do for me. I do think you're good and that you want to be kind to me, but I know you're making a mistake about David and me. I am young, but I know I love David and that I'll never want to marry anyone else."

Courtney Barr flushed and looked embarrassed. "Thank you, Sally. I'm sure we'll be friends. I want to be expected to take my duty as your father very seriously, to try to make you happy. As for David, time has a way of settling things if we only give it a chance. By the way, my dear," he added hastily as Sally was about to pass on into her bedroom with her mother, "I think it will be wiser if your mother does not accompany us to Virginia. I will arrange for you to board with my relatives in Virginia until school opens this fall. They will be glad, for a consideration, to do and say anything I wish them to in regard to you and we must begin immediately to take every precaution to protect your mother."

"Yes, sir," Sally answered faintly, her eyes appealing to Enid for consolation. When Sally was in bed, having been flutteringly and lovingly assisted in her preparation by her mother, Enid bent over her to whisper: "Darling, darling, don't look so forlorn! Two years will pass so swiftly and if you're very good, we'll let you ask David to your coming-out party."

APRIL set a new high mark in Willys-Overland history for production and sales. It was more than 14.4% ahead of March—which showed a gain of 17% over the previous highest month for all time.

The first 4 months of 1928 were 36.7% greater than the corresponding months in 1927. And they were the greatest 4 months since the company has been in business.

Sales of the Whippet were 91% higher in February than in January. They were 44% greater in March than in February, and April was 17% ahead of March, and plant facilities are still being expanded to meet the increasing demand for this unprecedentedly popular car.

The Whippet price reductions, the recently announced low price of the Willys-Knight Standard Six, and the introduction of the new Whippet Six—the world's lowest priced six-cylinder automobile—have resulted in the greatest buying demand in the company's 20-year history.

THE IRON HORSE, even in this age of paved highways, giant trucks, bus lines, and airplane transportation, gives a thrill to those towns not having such service or who are getting additional railroads.

Throckmorton made good use of her opportunity to advertise the arrival of the first train over the Cisco and North-western extension to that city. Comanche Indians who once lived in that section returned for the event. The town's first mayor, now a Californian, was present.

But railroading has changed much since the days of cut throat competition, free rides for "big" shippers, and subsidizing of construction through huge land grants. Those were pioneer days in railroading, when the roads opened up new territory and looked to the future for their profits.

But regardless of its competition, the railroad still is and long will be an important factor in community development. Today the cities to benefit most help to encourage road extensions, and the public lands, such as remain, are not distributed wholesale to encourage construction of private enterprises.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — In 1841 Congress passed the first general pre-emption law affecting the public lands. Only 160 acres, according to the law, could be pre-empted by one person.

But the system of using "dummy" settlers was worked harder than ever and more large holdings were obtained by individuals and corporations. The same thing followed the Homestead Act of 1862, which gave land to homesteaders, but that law actually benefited hundreds of thousands of bona fide settlers.

Meanwhile a new and unprecedented era of grab and corruption had sprung up in the administration of the public domain through the demands first of canal companies and later of the railroad promoters.

grantee companies never bothered to build any canals once they had the land and the money.

Where swamp lands were given, as especially adapted for canal building, the canal companies frequently surveyed and seized rich mineral, timber and farm lands to which they had no legal right.

Then came the railroads. The people wanted railroads, but the promoters demanded public money, public lands and many valuable rights. To get all that they bribed legislators with large amounts.

Bribery was the order of the day. Standards of honor were low. In 1840 the Pennsylvania legislature discovered that the United States Bank had paid out $130,000 in bribes.

Gustavus Myers, author of the "History of the Great American Fortunes", after an investigation, cited what he termed a "few" of the many instances of the debauching of every legislature in the United States.

Canadian Education

William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, told the Methodist conference that "before we can have strong spiritual and religious activity we must take care of the economic problems."

It is true that spiritual welfare is closely allied to material things. This does not mean that prosperity promotes religious fervor, but that it is conducive to religious activity and personal happiness.

Secretary Jardine had one big idea for the preachers. He said "the farmer must learn to cooperate without jealousies and factionalism and without friction in organization politics. The Canadian wheat pool is an education in itself for the farmers."

COLLECTION IS GIVEN SOCIETY

DIMMITT COUPLE DONORS CANYON HISTORICAL MUSEUM

CANYON, May 5.—(7)—What is thought to be the most interesting and most valuable individual collection of relics and mounted specimens in the Panhandle-Plains country has been deposited with the Historical society museum by Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Baxter of Dimmitt. An entire room in the main building of the West Texas State Teachers college has been set aside for the display of this collection, which is the result of fifteen years diligent work.

The Baxter collection contains at least 800 separate articles.

Mounted Specimens

The most interesting and valuable of the mounted specimens is a pair of deer horns more than eighty-five years old, which measure eight feet four and a half inches from tip to tip.

They are thought by many to be the best in the famous Buckhorn Saloon collection of San Antonio. They came from the Mineola section. Among the mounted game heads are: a deer, an enormous elk, caribou, moose, sheep, and bear. Mounted ducks, herons, squirrels and alligators run the total number of mounted specimens to almost forty. Mr. Baxter is a noted sportsman, and has spent much time hunting in the Rocky Mountain section and has been in Alaska. He collects his own specimens upon his hunting and fishing trips.

Many Indian Relics

Mrs. Baxter has been interested particularly in archeology. She has given much study to the subject of aboriginal races. She and Mr. Baxter have made several trips to the ancient ruins of the Indian races in Arizona, New Mexico, and Colorado. The result of her study and work in these ruins are to be seen in a very fine collection of ancient pottery. The collection contains sixteen complete pieces, besides many fragments showing the interesting designs used by the Indians in decorating. A square made of stone which Mr. Baxter believes the Indians used in making the angels in decorating the pottery is counted one of the most valuable single specimens in the entire collection. So far as is known, no like specimen has been found by anyone else. Another very rare relic is an Indian trowel. A number of pieces of modern pottery, four bowls, a number of arrows, Indian beads, knives, pestles and metates, perfect axes, and hundreds of arrow heads are some of the other relics found in this collection.

Other Relics Interesting

One entire display case will be given over to guns. Among the interesting specimens of this particular collection are a flint-rock six-shooter, wire twist rifle, and a very fine trap gun. This division of the collection, with powder and shot horns, contains sixteen different relics. About 100 pieces of old money illustrates the evolution of currency in this country for many years past. Besides many relics of the pioneer home, there is the nucleus of a very good geological collection which contains about forty fossils and mineralogical specimens. Mr. and Mrs. Baxter collected most of these relics during their residence in Brownwood, Texas. This collection has been coveted by a number of schools and museums, and forms the most valuable single addition that has ever come to the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society.

Small Farms

Editors to Pampa

Road Building

North Highways

Small farms and intensive cultivation will build the Panhandle-Plains. Wichita Falls is stressing the 40 and 50 acre farms. A diversified farm of that size is all that one farmer should tend, say those who believe in thorough cultivation. Words hardly can describe the prosperity that will come to the Panhandle when such a condition ever approaches reality.

Pampa will entertain the Panhandle Press association in 1929. So pleased were the editors with the entertainment at Childress that it was unanimously decided to meet in Pampa next year. Amarillo, although put in nomination and voted upon first, did not receive a vote.

When the writer of this column placed Pampa in nomination, he thought sentiment was overwhelmingly for Amarillo. In fact, he was just preparing the way for 1930. Three-fourths of the editors had not been in Pampa since the boom and they welcomed the opportunity to visit the Gray County metropolis.

Another reason that Amarillo did not win the convention for next year may have been the poor attendance of Amarillo publishers and printers at Childress. Amarillo is the center of the printing industry of the Panhandle and has 15 to 25 in attendance at the Amarillo meetings. Neglect to sacrifice a couple of days to visit a sister city did not help the good will of Amarillo.

Cities in the Panhandle-Plains are growing rapidly. Ample hotel facilities are being built. Six or seven cities now are capable of taking care of any district convention. Amarillo is inviting and winning state conventions. The Panhandle is glad that Amarillo is able to command so many state meetings.

Four or five north and south highways will be paved in the Panhandle in the next few years. A highway will be paved north from Claude to Panhandle, Borger, Stannett, Spearman and on the Oklahoma. It is believed, Carson county has under construction six miles and about 16 miles will be completed in Hutchinson County within two months.

Another highway eventually will be paved from Clarendon to Jericho, Pampa, Spearman and north. A third highway will be paved from Childress to Wellington, Shamrock, Wheelock, Mobeetie, Canadian and Perryton. Bonds have been voted for this highway in Childress and Wheeler

Today Is Last Time to Inspect News Model Home

Pampa residents and visitors will have their last opportunities to see the Pampa Daily News model home this afternoon and evening.

There has been a steady stream of admirers at the home since its recent opening, and many interested in house design have returned as many as ten times. A number of out-of-town visitors have become interested in the home and have arranged to have their building decorated similarly. Shamrock, Mobeetie, Amarillo, and Spearman folk have been among the visitors.

The unusualness of the entire project is apparent from the time the eye notes the well beind tones of the roof, walls, windows, awnings, walks, and shrubbery. The arched door leads to the large sun room. Turning to the right, one notes the Dutch door leading to the parlor. Further on is the breakfast alcove and wonderful kitchen with its built-in and elegant equipment of which an inlaid tile sink is immediately noted. A large closet, lined with cedar, is lighted automatically as the door is opened. A rolling duo-fold bed, standing erect in a corner, is hardly noticed. A large bedroom and bath room adjacent are distinctive in decoration, design, and furnishings.

It is a complete, well conceived, and above all, a livable home, with every necessary piece of furniture and home convenience in place without overdoing a single detail. Electrically, the home is the last word in beauty of fixtures and cleverness of apparatus.

Experienced craftsman conceived and executed and building and the same skill was shown in furnishing it. The result could not have been other than what visitors are proclaiming it—a real Model Home in which everyone who sees it finds much to admire and to remember.

TELEPHONE MAN HERE

G. J. Worthen, with the Western Electric company at Dallas, is here this week on a preliminary survey of the work thus far done on the new telephone exchange. A cabinet maker will arrive next week to commence fixing the positions ready for wiring and installation of the new system. All the work will be done by men trained along a special line of work. It is expected the building will be ready by July 1.

As the railroads in the North Panhandle run east and west, or northeast and southwest, or southeast and northwest, the problem of north and south roads has been somewhat complicated. Recent bond issues show that the north and south roads will not be neglected in the future.

Negro Slated for Congress Seat

Oscar De Priest, a negro from the first Illinois district, was chosen to succeed the late Martin B. Madden as the Republican nominee for Congress. Democrats concede the election of a Republican in that district. If elected, De Priest will be the first negro to sit in Congress in more than 20 years.

The Night Owls' Bridge club will be entertained Monday evening in the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Mitchell.

Amusements

"CHICAGO"

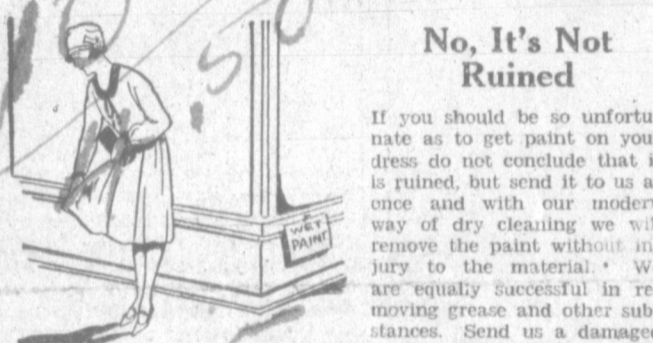

A screen heroine "bad woman" has arrived. The weaker sex, having successfully invaded the arts and professions long controlled by man, now threaten to infringe on what heretofore has been a strictly masculine pursuit.

Phyllis Haver introduces this villainous creation as Roxie Hart in "Chicago", a De Mille studio picturization of the popular stage play which will be on view at the Crescent Theatre today and tomorrow. Victor Varconi is featured opposite Miss Haver.

Roxie Hart, as the "most beautiful jazz murderess", is easier to hate than any conceivable film "bad man", according to Director Frank Urson. She is not the vampire variety, nor the malicious schemer type, Urson explains, but is wholly bad and despicable. The Roxie Hart that Maurine Watkins made the central character of her successful stage play was a wicked, contemptible ignoramus, but her wickedness is accentuated in the screen version by virtue of the change made in the character of the husband, played by Varconi.

The first screen heroine "bad woman" established her hateful character surely and speedily. She is tested for each and every good quality of a woman and is found wanting in all. First, she is the faithless wife who kills her "angel" because her vanity is offended, and is so distrustful that she mistakes her husband's self-sacrifice for trickery. She glories in the limelight of notoriety and resents sharing the spotlight. She browbeats a devoted husband and she is too ignorant and too much of a fool to realize that he knows of her faithlessness.

Attempt Record For Pampa

Hugh E. Van de Walker of Ypsilanti, Mich., now holds the world's record in having written the greatest number of insurance policies in 30 days.

O. H. Foster will attempt to break this record in 26 working days. He will not work on Sundays. Mr. Foster will begin his campaign June 1 and continue throughout the month.

MR. FOSTER HAS THE FOLLOWING TO HIS CREDIT:

- He lives in Pampa.
- He pays taxes here.
- He helps support the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.
- He helped secure the Kell Railroad.
- He is helping build a local church.
- His children attend the Pampa Schools.
- He represents a large old line company.
- He can insure from age 1 day to age 65 1/2 years.

He will appreciate the support of every organization in Pampa.

If you want to make Pampa famous over the insurance world talk and boost this campaign.

Yours truly

O. H. FOSTER.

Flyers See Sharkey Beat Canadian

All of Jack Delaney's hopes of becoming a heavyweight contender vanished in less than a single round of punishment administered by Jack Sharkey. Here is pictured the first knockdown of the brief fight, which was witnessed by the Bremen flyers in Madison Square Garden. The referee is urging the Boston Mauler to his corner as Delaney rises from the mat.

Brown Panther Is Anxious to Beat Jack Doss

Eddie Dwyer, the brown panther of Hutchinson, Kan., and claimant of the welterweight championship of the Southwest, will meet Jack Doss, the Fort Worth wildcat, in the ten-round main event at the Pampa Athletic club tomorrow night. For the second main event Sam Riley, one of the fastest boys in his class, will tangle with Floyd Barnes of Hot Springs in an eight-round bout.

Rusty Cahill and Art Vilaton will be on the special event and Jack Morrison and Jimmie Hudson on the opening card. A special entertainment will open the card. Casey McTigue and his two boys will put on a special demonstration of trick mat work and boxing exhibition. The two boys, Larry and Jerry, weight 42 and 44 pounds and are well developed and trained.

Dwyer, it will be remembered, stayed with Sammy Mandell, champion of the world, last year and has beaten such boxers as Red Fitzsimmons, Eddie Johnson, Dan Chico, and other of the best boys in the country.

Capt. Sam Riley, conqueror of Clyde Hull and Fred Whittington and one of the hardest hitting two-fisted fighters in his class, meets Floyd Barnes of the same style of fighting. He is fresh from sensational victory over Art Dula, Monte Bey and Kid Fay and says he is going to take Riley into camp with the rest.

Art Vilaton, the Mexican milt artist, is ready for Rusty Cahill in the six-round special event. The pride of Pampa recently stayed seven rounds with Eddie Dwyer and dropped him twice during that time.

The fighting Jack Morrison of Berger, who has beaten all comers to date, will tangle with the fast stepping Jimmie Hudson of Amarillo in the six-round event following the exhibition by the McTigue youngsters.

JAP CHAMP TO WRESTLE HERE

MATTY MATSUDA TO MEET MILWAUKEE FLASH THURSDAY

Matty Matsuda, welterweight wrestling champion of the world, will be here with his diamond-studded belt Thursday night, when he will wrestle to a finish, beat two falls out of three, Jack Smith of Milwaukee, at the Pla-Mor auditorium.

Both these artists of the mat will step into the squared circle weighing 145 pounds and by past performances there will be more action than ever seen before. Matsuda, peerless Japanese wrestler, is held worthy of his claim as champion. He has met all comers and thrown them, but this will be his first time up against the wily Smith, one of the best in the North. Matsuda is the man who found Yaqui Joe in the mountains of old Mexico and taught him the game.

Smith comes heralded as the boy who may win the great diamond-studded belt from the man who has held it for more than six years. He has beaten all the good welterweights in the country for the right to meet Matsuda and Pampa was the place chosen.

Joe Kopecky, the iron-man, will wrestle any ten boxers that will step into the ring with him and beat them each within three rounds. Several boxers have taken up the challenge including Jack Doss, Warnie Smith Ray Denton, and other good boys. The card will commence at 8:30 o'clock.

Abilene Boys

Debating Champs of Whole State

AUSTIN, May 5.—Walter Ely and Truett Barber, Abilene high school boys, won the state debating championship, closing the Interscholastic League three-day meet here Saturday night by defeating Frederic Isely and James Leath of Polytechnic high, Ft. Worth, taking the negative side of the subject, "Resolved, that Congress should enact farm relief legislation embodying the principles of the McNary-Haugen bill."

PAMPA NEGRO WINS

Goldie Daniels, the Pampa Black Panther, defeated Hoppi Clifton, sensational Indian fighter, of Clarendon in his home town last Friday night. The Pampa boxer won by a knockout in the third round with a right hook to the body and a left cross to the button. A packed arena saw the two boys battle.

These two milt artists may be matched here in the near future.

A Fighter

JACK DOSS

Jackie Doss is a streak of greased lightning on his feet and packs a punch in both fists. His latest victories have been over Kid Granite and Bille Springfield. He is out to beat the Panther tomorrow and win a chance to show in Oklahoma.

CITY LEAGUE OPENS TODAY

CITY MANAGER TO TOSS FIRST BALL THIS AFTERNOON

The City Industrial Baseball league will get under way this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and the record attendance must be broken. Fans are urged to be present at Magnolia field on time. The first game of the double-header will be between the Gulf Gunners and the Oilers. The second game will see the Carpenters and the Roxana-Empire nines clash.

Commencing at 1:30 o'clock at the corner of Cuyler street and Francis avenue, a parade of the teams and officials will form and march to the baseball field by way of Foster avenue. Promptly at 2:30 City Manager F. W. Gwin will toss the first ball across the plate with Ed. Gober, president of the league, behind the batter.

The new Industrial league consists of eight teams from the city and oil companies in the territory. Five games will be played each week on the Magnolia diamond. The twilight games will commence at 6 o'clock and the Sunday double-header at 2:30 o'clock. The teams have been working out for the last month and are in great condition for the opening of the league. A silver collection will be taken up at the games.

BIT O' VERSE EQUALITY

Rich is he, and poor am I,
And we stood and looked at the summer sky.
And a wild thrush gave us a burst of song
And the blossoms smiled and we walked along.
The breeze came sweet through the leafy trees,
I thought; I see what the rich man sees;
I feel all the things which the rich man feels.
And I share in all which this day reveals.
Beauty of flower and joy of song
Were mine and his as we walked along.
Nor blossom, nor bird, nor summer sky
Knew which was the rich man; he or I.

'The Good Old Days'—Dempseys of 1916

The ghost of a dead past arose the other day when Mrs. Maxine Gates Dempsey filed in New York City to reopen divorce proceedings against the former heavyweight champion. Maxine, a former dance hall girl, charges "Dempsey was a bum" when she met and married him in Farmington, Utah, in 1916. She was granted a divorce in 1919 and paid $1500 by Kearns, but she charges that promises Dempsey made have not been carried out. This picture is from "the good old days" when Maxine was 19 and Jack 21. The rumor was circulated four years ago that Maxine had been burned to death in a rooming-house fire in Albuquerque, N. M.

Last Meeting of Central P.-T. A. Is Held Friday

The last meeting of the Central P.-T. A. for this session was held Friday afternoon in the auditorium of the Central high school, with Mrs. Joe M. Smith, president, presiding over the business session. A health program was given by children of the grades, under the supervision of Mrs. M. P. Downs, and Mrs. H. H. Hicks.

During the business session, it was voted to complete the sum needed for supplying an adequate amount of scenery for the Central high school stage. The school board provided $35 for this fund. It was also voted to pay for the printings of the programs for the grade program to be given soon under the supervision of Mrs. Annie Daniels, and Mrs. J. L. Lester.

Mrs. M. P. Downs talked of the work to be planned for a summer round-up. This work includes the health examination of children who are entering the primary grades next fall. Mrs. Fager, and Mrs. Elsten were appointed to assist Mrs. Downs in this work. A very interesting report of the P.-T. A. convention in Lubbock was given by the Pampa delegates, Mrs. T. H. Barnard. Several new ideas were agined by this report.

The P.-T. A.'s of Pampa have gone on record as being in favor of strict quarantine laws for the city. Plans are being made to make the main object of P.-T. A. to be taken up next fall a school cafeteria.

This meeting was the most profitable of the year, and all business for this season was closed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Warren Sparks returned yesterday from Wichita Falls, where they have been visiting with Mrs. Sparks' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stuckey.

Business Man Loewenstein

Alfred Loewenstein, business financier, and the third richest man in the world at all, he told New York newspaper men.

nal candidates, served notice that with him it was a fight to the finish. Agreeing with Reed in the declaration that convention votes will be in sight to stop Smith at Houston are outspoken opponents of the New York executive who look mainly to southern states to furnish the necessary block of 399 delegates, the one third which would have veto power.

Just as Governor Smith's lead is being contested by Reed and others, that of Hoover, in the Republican ranks, is being challenged by Lowden, Curtis, Watson and other candidates, and a group of Republican party leaders who don't want the commerce secretary nominated, Lowden on the basis of delegates, is runner-up, and his followers, counting strongly on a defeat for Hoover in Indiana, are most outspoken in their contentions that Hoover won't be the Republican nominee.

Hoover Claims Challenged

Only 229 of the 1,089 delegates to the Republican convention remain to be selected. Of the 830 chosen up to today, 416 are claimed for Hoover by his managers, with 545 votes needed at Kansas City to nominate. The Hoover claims to 164 are challenged by his opponents, however, leaving him an undepicted total of 256, or four more than the 252 claimed by Lowden of the Lowden total, his claim to 64 is disputed by rivals, leaving him 128 unchallenged delegates.

In the Democratic delegate line-up Smith's supporters claim 511 1-2 of the 684 votes thus far allotted for the Houston convention. Of the Smith total 73 1-2 are in dispute. To win the Democratic nomination, Smith or anyone else will have to muster 733 1-2 votes. The best the New York governor did at the Madison Square Garden in 1924 was 368, but even his most avowed opponents concede that he has bagged more than that number already, with 416 delegates still to be chosen.

So confident are Democrats in the Smith camp of victory that they are looking around for a good vice presidential nominee. The name most frequently heard in this connection is that of Tennessee, who is expected to go into the Houston convention with the solid support of the solid support of his home state for the presidential nomination.

Scouting---

the world before, the full speed ahead, became effective, feel it. There has never been a time in the history of the world when boys and girls were better and were trying harder to do the right, or a time when there have been so many temptations offered them. "It is definitely our responsibility to do what we can for our boys," continued Mr. Barcus. "A survey of our schools shows that there are 500 boys of scout age in and near Pampa. Each of these little fellows is looking forward with enthusiasm to the opportunity of becoming a scout. When our associate membership campaign begins, when we go out to recruit the men who will be the 'big brothers' of the organization, we hope we will find the same enthusiasm."

Moody---

showed that precinct conventions voted overwhelmingly for Hoover for president, according to Leonard Withington, secretary of the party. In Grayson county, he said, all but six precincts had reported showing more than 10 to 1 for Hoover.

Creager is Endorsed

All precincts in Archer, Baylor, Clay, Foard, Hakeeman, Knox, Wichita, Wilbarger, and Young went for Hoover for president and endorsed the leadership of R. B. Creager, Washington said his reports showed in Archer and Runnels practically all precincts had been heard from and all were for Hoover and Creager, the reports indicated. A similar result was reported from more than three fourths of the precincts in Harris county.

Withington said he was receiving official reports from the party's county organizations.

Hoover Faces Test

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—In an atmosphere tinged with uncertainty, the dozen or more presidential aspirants are making their final bid for delegates to the June conventions, all on the alert for last minute developments that might upset political calculations.
