8th U.S. General Killed In Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — A lone north Vietnamese artillery shell killed an American general promoted only 12 days ago and three other U.S. officers shortly after they landed at An Loc for an inspection, the U.S. Command announced today. Two U.S. officers in the party were wounded.

Brig. Gen. Richard Tallman, 47, a native of Honesdale, Pa., was the eighth American general killed in the Vietnam War and

IRA Breaks Off 13-Day Cease-fire

BELFAST (AP) — The Irish Republican Army's Provisional wing broke off its cease-fire Sunday night after 13 days and renewed its guerrilla campaign. At least six persons were killed, and Northern Ireland teetered on the brink of civil war.

The Provisionals charge that British troops junked the cease-fire by attacking Roman Catholics, in Belfast's Lenadoon district. William Whitelaw, the British administrator for Northern Ireland, charged that the IRA "set up" the incident "to provide justification for resumption of terrorist activity." He said the troops were fired on first. Witnesses backed the claim.

Sean MacStiofain, chief of staff of the Provisionals, ordered his gunmen back to their bullet-and-bomb campaign with "most ferocity" to oust the British army.

Within 15 minutes, firing broke out all over Belfast. Gun battles raged in the Catholic Ballymurphy, Ardoyne and Andersonstown sectors and the Protestant Springmartin area.

A 100-pound bomb planted in a car damaged offices downtown. Another bomb wrecked an all-night garage. Five bombs exploded within three minutes of each other near the Protestant warehouse section of Londonderry, the province's second largest city. Shooting erupted around the Bogside, part of the IRA-ruled "Free Derry" enclave in Londonderry.

Carloads of gunmen made hit-and-run attacks on army posts and ambushed patrols, wounding at least four soldiers.

Six civilians, including a Catholic priest giving the last rites to another victim, were killed around the Ballymurphy zone of Belfast. The dead also included a 13-year-old girl.

The British army claimed one gunman was killed and seven others wounded. But the IRA as usual spirited all their casualties away.

The truce was shattered when a column of 2,000 Catholics marched on the Lenadoon housing project in Belfast to force resettlement there of 16 Catholic families bombed out of their homes in a Protestant area.

Squads of the militant Ulster Defense Association and other Protestants blocked the marchers and two trucks loaded with the furniture of the displaced families. When troops moved in, the Catholics rained rocks, bottles, iron bars and gasoline bombs on them. Nine soldiers and half a dozen civilians were injured.

the first in two years. A Navy admiral was killed two months ago in a helicopter crash in the Tonkin Gulf.

The names of the other American casualties tallman were withheld until notification of next of kin. But all were from the 3rd Regional Assistance Command, embracing Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces. Tallman had been the command's chief of staff since last January, was named its deputy commander June 28 and the next day was promoted to brigadier general.

He and members of his staff had flown on Sunday to An Loc, the provincial capital 60 miles north of Saigon, to inspect South Vietnamese units there.

The town was under heavy North Vietnamese siege for weeks and is still being shelled daily.

Field reports said more than 50 enemy shells hit An Loc Sunday, killing seven South Vietnamese soldiers and wounding 17.

Tallman was a combat infantry officer in Korea and was serving his third tour of duty in Vietnam. He is survived by his widow and seven children, including one son who was graduated from West Point last month and another who is a member of the class of 1973. Tallman was graduated from the Point in 1949.

On South Vietnam's northern front, meanwhile, the South Vietnamese attack on Quang Tri City was stalled for the fourth day by heavy North Vietnamese artillery fire.

More than a half dozen clashes were reported on the southern and eastern outskirts of Quang Tri. The Saigon command said that 101 North Vietnamese and 14 South Vietnamese were killed and 34 South Vietnamese were wounded.

In the air war against North Vietnam, U.S. fighter-bombers hit North Vietnam with more than 300 strikes Sunday, the U.S. Command said.

In Cambodia, military sources reported that Cambodian forces launched another attempt today to break through the ring of Communist troops around the town of Angkassom, 40 miles south of Phnom Penh.

The attack was made by a relief column which on Saturday got within 200 yards of the Angkassom garrison's forward positions before Communist attacks drove them back.

The Command withheld the identities of the other casualties until next of kin were notified, but some of them were reported to be members of Tallman's staff.

Democratic Convention Opens Tonight Under Tight Security

Fight For 151 Calif. Delegates Will Highlight First-Day Meet

DREAM TEAM for the Democrats? Despite repeated disclaimers of interest in running this year, Sen. Edward Kennedy remains the most mentioned as a possible running mate with Sen. George McGovern.

Kennedy Won't Attend Nomination Convention

HYANNISPORT, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, keeping a firm grip on his neutrality stand in the choice of the Democratic presidential candidate, spent the weekend sailing on his new 54-foot yacht and planned more of the same as delegates struggled over credentials and the nomination.

While Kennedy is remaining aloof from the convention, flatly rejecting any idea of accepting a nomination for vice president and repeating his stand that he has no desire to run for president this year, reports persist from Miami Beach that bring the Massachusetts lawmaker's name into nomination possibilities.

To affirm his position as a noncandidate, Kennedy last Spring ordered his name off the list of delegate slates and passed up the certainty that he could have been chairman of the Massachusetts delegation without challenge.

Instead of going to the convention, Kennedy devoted last week to his new yacht, which he bought a month ago and had sailed from Florida to Massachusetts by a hired crew.

Kennedy planned a quiet day today with the morning devoted to work on a briefcase full of papers brought from Washington on Friday by his press secretary, Richard Drayne.

Kennedy had no firm plans for the rest of the week, but Drayne said that there was the possibility of another overnight sailing trip and that while he expected Kennedy would not remain "glued" to the convention television coverage, he would see a good deal of the Miami Beach session.

While Kennedy is not there, he has representation at Miami Beach, nevertheless. His wife Joan flew there last week to take part in a fund-raising drive and probably will remain through the session.

Several of his aides, including Edward Martin, an administrative assistant in Kennedy's Washington office, are in Miami Beach. However, a spokesman said their job is to keep tabs on what is going on and to "downplay" any moves to draft Kennedy for a nomination.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, meanwhile, pondered his potentially decisive course on the California credentials case.

Some aides saw the division of the delegation as the only possible way to revive his faded nomination hopes, while a number of his backers were reported leaning to support of the McGovern position.

Supporters of George C. Wallace generally backed Humphrey's side. The crippled Alabama governor told Tennessee backers he expects to "play a large part" in the convention.

An array of 23 credentials challenges from 15 states is expected to keep tonight's kickoff convention session, scheduled to open at 7:30 p.m. EDT, going through much of the night.

Besides the California dispute, the most important is the appeal by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley from the Credentials Committee decision to replace him and 58 allies with a competing group dominated by McGovern backers.

Other important credentials cases come from Alabama and Georgia.

The bitterness surrounding the California dispute erupted Sunday in a meeting of the convention's Rules Committee. McGovern supporters accused Humphrey backers of a power play to rewrite rules on the number of votes needed to sustain credentials challenges.

Meanwhile, compromise efforts were being sought on some of the lesser credentials disputes.

Gov. Marvin Mandel of Maryland after a series of meetings Sunday said he thought perhaps 10 or 11 credentials cases could be resolved without floor fights.

Daley's forces, however, were adamant on the Illinois case, and both sides said compromise was impossible on California.

Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr. of New Jersey, another original Muskie backer, said McGovern offers the best hope for party unity and added "it would be very damaging for the party" if he lost the nomination because of the California credentials case.

But as the opening day of the convention dawned, the main subject was George Stanley McGovern, and whether he could be stopped from the presidential nomination that seemed so remote just a few months ago.

The numbers showed him far ahead. With the California votes divided as directed by the Credentials Committee, the AP count showed:

McGovern 1,322 65; Humphrey 512 05; Wallace 388; Muskie 235 55; uncommitted 385 15

That left McGovern 186.35 short of the 1,509 majority and meant that victory for the disputed 151 California votes could draw him within 35.35 of victory.

On the California credentials vote, reports from a dozen delegations showed McGovern's position picking up support from uncommitted delegates.

McGovern repeated again Sunday that he favors an Illinois compromise that would seat both the Daley group and the competing faction led by the Rev. Jesse Jackson and Alderman William Singer. Each delegate would get half a vote.

McGovern, said in a Knight Newspapers interview that, if the convention voted to seat the Daley group after first approving his California delegation, "I would accept that."

Between scrapping for votes on the California credentials case, the contenders appeared Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press" and pushed their candidacies in private meetings and before various delegations.

Sen. George McGovern rejected today the bid of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie to settle the California seating dispute at a closed meeting before tonight's opening of the Democratic National Convention.

"I really see nothing to be gained at a closed meeting of this kind," McGovern told a hallway news conference at Muskie's Americana headquarters hotel.

"I see little to be gained in locking the doors with the six stop-McGovern candidates and then trying to reach a compromise on California," McGovern said.

He said the decision on the California delegation should be in the hands of the delegates to the convention.

He said he had hoped that Muskie would come out in favor of adhering to the winner-take-all rule of the California primary.

Rep. Collins To Testify Against Former Aide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas millionaire congressman Jim Collins was called to court today to testify against a former top aide accused of taking kickbacks from fellow workers.

The former aide, George A. Haag, 33, says he arranged the more than $13,000 in kickbacks on orders from Collins, a Dallas Republican, for a political slush fund.

He says Collins now is trying to make him take the rap alone.

Collins previously has been before a federal grand jury in connection with the kickbacks. Haag is on trial in U.S. District Court on charges of falsifying House of Representatives payroll forms, mail fraud and obstruction of justice. Four former Collins employees have testified they kicked back part of their federal paychecks to Haag on his instructions—and one of them, Michael D. Henning, said Haag had told him he holds proof that Collins was involved.

"George said he told (Collins') lawyers that if he went to jail Jim Collins was going to be in a cell right next to him," Henning told the court.

The former manager of Collins' Dallas office, Mrs. Carolyn Connor Boydston, testified Friday that Haag once told her Collins knew nothing of a monthly kickback of about $576

Survivors Of B-52 Rescued

AGANA, Guam (AP) — Four of the five survivors from a B52 bomber which crashed into the sea Friday arrived here Sunday aboard the submarine Barb.

The submarine Gurnard was to arrive later with a fifth survivor.

A sixth crewman, Lt. Col. James L. Vaughan of Huntsville, Ark., died before rescuers reached the area and a search for his body has been unsuccessful, the Air Force said.

Texas Delegates And Labor Officials To Launch 'Stop McGovern' Campaign

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Texas Democrats waited today to cast more than 90 votes at the National Convention for the stop McGovern drive.

"I do not think Sen. George McGovern can win the nomination on the first ballot," Dolph Briscoe, delegation chairman, said Sunday after talking with three other presidential hopefuls—Wilabama Gov. George Wallace, Sen. Hubert Humphrey and Rep. Wilbur Mills.

The 130-member Texas delegation has its first official caucus at 3:00 p.m. today but the mood of the Texans was visible Sunday in a series of preliminary caucuses. Backers of Humphrey and Wallace made it clear they want the McGovern drive for the nomination on the first ballot stopped.

In separate meetings the Wallace and Humphrey delegates indicated they will support the Credentials Committee's action in unseating part of the McGovern delegates from California and also support the seating of the Mayor Richard Daley delegation from Chicago.

"On the first night we will be voting in line with those of Humphrey and the uncommitted," said Hall Timanus, chief Wallace backer who will second the governor's nomination at the convention's first general session. "It will be to the advantage to us and to Humphrey and the uncommitted to support the majority report on California."

The McGovern delegates held an open meeting for about three minutes then retired behind closed doors for a strategy session.

A continuing check of the delegation by the Associated Press indicates there are at least 46 votes for Wallace, 34 for McGovern, 26 for Humphrey and 24 still uncommitted.

Most of the uncommitted delegates are claimed by Humphrey.

AFL-CIO officials, leading a drive to block George McGovern's Democratic presidential nomination, privately circulated today a harshly worded attack against the South Dakota senator's Vietnam stand, communism, labor matters, civil rights and a host of other issues.

"The notion that an American president should go begging to Hanoi will make sense only to those who believe that in the Vietnam war all right is on one side—Hanoi's—and all wrong on the other—ours," said the 50-page attack circulated among some 300 convention labor delegates.

It referred to McGovern's comment last month that "I would go to Hanoi and beg" if that would obtain release of American prisoners of war.

"He has repeatedly voted wrong on legislation affecting working people in the trade union movement," the document said in citing McGovern votes in Congress against minimum wage increases, unemployment compensation and federal funds for jobs.

It said that McGovern had been absent on some key civil rights votes and had voted against others.

The document also criticized

Solar Astronomers To Study Sun's Corona During Eclipse

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — A team of solar astronomers hopes to make an airborne observation eight miles above Northern Canada of the sun's corona during the solar eclipse today.

A converted Air Force cargo jet stuffed with elaborate scientific gear monitored by two dozen scientists from the Los Alamos, N.M. Scientific Laboratory was to take off from Fairchild Air Force Base here.

At 3:42:56 EDT at a point northwest of Hudson Bay and 1,600 miles from the North Pole, the scientists hoped to train telescopes, cameras and radiation measuring devices on the eclipse. An eclipse occurs when the moon glides between the earth and sun, blotting out the sun.

The scientists' primary target is the solar corona, the gases that stream millions of miles out into space and normally aren't visible because the brighter light from the sun's body blots them out. But when the moon obscures the solar disc the corona becomes visible, the source of many scientists' attention.

Experiments aboard the aircraft were to measure the corona's magnetic field, its temperature, and other characteristics that still aren't well understood despite 140 years of research.

Scientists believe that the corona contains clues to how the sun interacts with the earth—why it causes disruption of radio communications, the intriguing northern and southern lights and other effects that interfere with man's activities.

The eclipse was to be visible over much of the United States and Canada, but only along a 110-mile wide path stretching from Siberia to the North Atlantic would the sun be totally blotted out. It is here that experts concentrate their attention.

The Air Force aircraft is used to get the solar scientists above clouds and the obscuring effects of earth's atmosphere. By flying in the path of the eclipse at nearly 600 miles an hour the scientists hope to extend their observing time during totality from one minute, 59 seconds, to three minutes and 42 seconds, an important gain.

Two Fights Reported

Saturday night was 'fight night' in Pampa with a woman and a 17-year old boy being taken to Highland General Hospital with injuries suffered in two separate affrays.

Police responded to a call shortly after midnight from a local lounge where they found a man out in front of the place bleeding from facial cuts.

Inside, they were told the man's wife was in the women's lounge suffering from blows she allegedly received when she went to her husband's aid in a fight.

She was treated and released at Highland General Hospital. The manager of the lounge announced to officers intentions to press charges today.

Officers went back to the hospital where a youth was being treated for injuries received in a fight in Central Park. According to the official report it had been fomented between two youths for some time.

The young man was also released from the hospital after treatment.

Murder Trial For 2 Texans Begins Today

BELTON, Tex. (AP) — The murder trial of Dennis R. Anderson and Fred Younger Jr., charged in the slaying of a woman and her tiny granddaughter, was to begin in this Central Texas county seat today.

Anderson and Younger are on trial here only in the slaying of the woman, an antique dealer at Kountze. Their trial in the slaying of the child is planned for Tyler.

Mrs. Mabel McCormick, 50, was slashed and beaten to death in her shop on Jan. 5. The little girl—Leslie Bowman—was drowned by forcing her head into a toilet bowl.

About $6,000 worth of antique furniture was hauled away from the shop and the building set afire.

The antiques later were found in Pearland and led to the hunt for Anderson, 23, a resident of the Brazoria County town, and for Younger, 21.

Young's father telephoned Texas Ranger Capt. Pete Rogers in Houston and told him the pair would surrender. They were arrested at a Houston airport as they arrived from Atlanta, Ga.

Plan To Build N-Power Plants In Austin Area Draws Protest

BELLVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Houston Lighting & Power Co., already under fire from landowners over their plan to build a power plant near here, said Sunday they will be building two plants—and both will be nuclear fueled.

The leader of a landowners' group drew applause at a meeting attended Sunday by some 600 Austin County residents by telling HL&P officials to "please go away."

The meeting was called by HL&P officials after a storm of protest from landowners here about their plan to build either a fossil or nuclear fueled plant on Mill Creek, midway between Bellville and Sealey.

Under sometimes hostile questioning at the meeting, officials disclosed that a second plant is on the drawing boards.

This one about 10 miles south-east of Sealy near Wallis on Allen's Creek. The HL&P officials said both would be nuclear plants.

About 6,000 of the 8,000 acres needed for the Allen's Creek plant has already been bought, William B. Thornton, HL&P's land manager said, while about 500 acres has been purchased at Mill Creek.

George Oprea, the utility's operations vice president and chief plant designer, told the Sunday meeting that the plants would use nuclear power to generate electricity "unless there is a turnaround in the fossil fuel shortage and we can go that route." He indicated he expects no such turnaround.

The Austin County plants are purely HL&P ventures, he said, and not connected with a five-utility consortium recently formed to build a nuclear plant.

Robert William Abel, head of the Mill Creek Environmental Protection Association, drew applause when he told HL&P officials, "Let me convey to you the feelings of an organization of landowners. We don't want it ... We have very productive property. Please go away."

Abel, an engineer with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said he owns 185 acres at the Mill Creek site. He said agents for HL&P have tried to buy the land for $600 an acre, and threatened him with condemnation proceedings if he refuses to sell.

Public utilities have the right to condemn land through court action to carry on their business.

Abel said in an interview earlier this month, "We feel that the prices offered are unfair, but that's not the main thing. That land is unbelievably fertile. It's unique ecologically, and it should be preserved. Our land's not for sale at any price. It's been in our family for 100 years."

Abel said he also considers the safety of nuclear plants to be uncertain.

Men Arrested On Beer Count

Two 20-year old men were arrested early Sunday morning for possessing alcoholic beverages as minors and a 24-year old man was arrested for making it available to them. According to the official report, Officer Bryan Stafford became suspicious of the actions of the occupants of a car and investigated. A considerable amount of beer was reportedly in the vehicle. Other occupants of the car were released.

Burglar Gets $98 From Swim Party

The northeast Pampa burglar struck again this time in the 1800-Block-of-Grape-St. where $98 was taken from a purse in the living room of a home.

According to the police report, the residents were having a swimming party for relatives in a basement pool and the money was evidently taken while all were at the pool. The account noted the front door was not locked at the time.

Police have added the investigation of this to the others perpetrated in the general area.

BERTIE E. WYKOFF

Funeral services for Bertie Edna Wykoff, 79, who died about 4:10 a.m. Sunday, will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Duenkel Memorial Chapel. Minister, Jack Pape, of the Mary Ellen and Harvester Church of Christ will officiate for the services. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Mrs. Wykoff was born in Green City, Mo., and married R.A. Wykoff. They moved to Pampa twelve years ago from Miami.

Survivors include her husband; a son, Martin of Amarillo; a daughter, Betty Wykoff of Wichita Falls; four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Texan's Body Found In Ark.

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — The body of Bendell Curtis Kelly, 32, of Dallas, Tex., was found Sunday beside a fence around a soybean field along Interstate 30 about 12 miles northeast of here, Sheriff Leslie Greer of Miller County said.

The body was sent to Little Rock for an autopsy, which was scheduled to be performed today.

Japanese Terrorist, 24, Pleads Guilty For Airport Massacre

LOD, Israel (AP) — The Japanese terrorist who survived the Tel Aviv airport massacre pleaded guilty at the opening of his trial today, but his lawyer asked for a psychiatric examination, and the three-man military court recessed to consider the request and the plea.

"I don't want an examination. I don't want an examination," shouted 24-year-old Kojo Okamoto before the court recessed.

His chief lawyer, Max Kirtzman, said he did not contend Okamoto was now insane, "but he should have an examination to determine if he was sane at the time of the commission of the offense."

Kirtzman said he had no material yet "to convince you of the defendant's mental state," but added, "in the circumstances and in the defendant's behavior since leaving his homeland for a faraway country, with which he had no connection, we see that the facts speak for themselves."

Under Israeli law a defendant in a capital case has to plead innocent. Okamoto is expected to get life imprisonment.

The opening of the trial was delayed 55 minutes by strict security checks. Many of those at the trial stood in line for more than two hours before they could enter the courtroom about four miles southwest of Lod

Fort Worth Beauty Named Miss Texas

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Mae Beth Cormany, competing for the third time, was named Miss Texas 1972 late Saturday night representing Hurst-Euless-Bedford, a group of Fort Worth suburbs.

The brunette stunner, who measures 36-23-36, told reporters she wants to be "like Doris Day—a vivacious, All-American young woman."

The difference between being Miss Texas and first runner-up, she said, is like the difference between "walking down the runway and falling into the orchestra pit." She was first runner-up in 1971 when she competed as Miss Fort Worth.

Runners-up in this year's pageant were:

First, Amy Griggs, Miss Fort Worth.

Second, Linda McCaskill, Miss Dallas.

Third, Jackie Barrett, Miss Haltom-Richland.

Fourth, Candy Crocker, Miss White Settlement.

Miss Cormany is a senior speech major at Texas Christian University. She also has taken home economics. She wants a career in television with a talk show, she said, and also wants to be a housewife.

With her crown and trophy, the 21-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Cormany of Wichita Falls won a $3,000 wardrobe, a $500 fashion award and the trip to Atlantic City where she will compete in the Miss America pageant.

BEAUTIFUL EMPLOYEES—Marie Foundations held a contest recently to select its entry for the upcoming Miss Top O' Texas contest in August. Cathy Lynch, left, Skellytown, will represent the firm in the contest. First runnerup is Vicki Maddox, center, Skellytown, with Delta Chambliss, Pampa, as second runnerup. All are employees of the firm and were chosen from eight girls who entered the contest.

ATTENDANCE WINNERS—Three employees of Marie Foundations won prizes in the perfect attendance contest for June. From left are Joyce Mitchell, second; Edna O'Neal, third, and Merdella Hughes, first. Out of 380 employees, 154 were eligible for the drawing at the end of four weeks. The contest will be conducted again during July, according to Dale Greenhouse, manager.

China Fears Russ Armament And American Disarmament

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democratic and Republican leaders, just returned from China, reported Saturday that Peking is worried by the possibility that the United States will let the Soviet Union forge ahead militarily.

And they reported the Chinese concerned also about a possible U.S. pullout from international arenas such as the Pacific.

Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, the House majority leader, and Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the GOP chief, said they spoke by telephone with President Nixon for about a half-hour Friday afternoon upon their return here. Their nine-day China visit included five hours of talks with Premier Chou En-lai.

Boggs told newsmen at a joint news conference Saturday: "We were advised by high officials that the policy of that (Peking) government is that disarmament will be not unilateral disarmament, and there was specific concern expressed rather emphatically with regard to the possibility of continued Soviet armament and American disarmament."

Boggs said the Chinese approved the U.S.-Soviet SALT deal for a superpower missile curb, while voicing a preference themselves for total world disarmament including all weapons.

The House leaders did not mention proposals by Democratic presidential contender George McGovern for deep U.S. defense spending cuts, though Boggs said Chinese officials showed tremendous interest in the electoral proceedings now going on in the United States.

Worry Clinic

By George W. Crane Ph.D., M.D.

Terry is jumping to illogical conclusions. For he suffers from the fallacy in logic called "Kowtowing to Sacred Cows." Far too many Americans are being unduly impressed by supposed authorities with a Ph.D. instead of using their own "horse sense."

CASE U-530: Terry B., age 19, is a college freshman.

"Dr. Crane," he challenged, "don't you think the Garden of Eden story is all the bunk?"

"For Darwin proved that we evolved from the sea."

"And through millions of years, mankind progressed from small sea creatures into his present erect form."

FOOLS VS. ANGELS

Remember the old adage that says: "Fools walk in where angels fear to tread!"

Darwin theorized that evolution would be a simple way to tie together the development of all the thousands of living creatures here on earth.

But he didn't prove it at all!

And some of his major assumptions are illogical.

For example, he contended that since our human blood contains all those water-soluble trace chemicals that are in the oceans, then we must have evolved from the sea.

Any college debater could puncture that fallacy!

For our blood is essentially water.

And all the food we eat contains at least traces of all those water-soluble chemicals on this planet.

So our blood would naturally contain the sea chemicals, whether we evolved from minute ocean creatures or were brought to a Garden of Eden, (via a space ship) as fully grown human beings.

Adam and Eve would thus have all the ocean's 44 trace chemicals in their blood after their first meal in the Garden of Eden!

Furthermore, similarity of structure doesn't prove that one thing evolved from another.

Mrs. Crane and I have a white house on our Indiana farm, plus a white dog kennel beside it.

Does that mean that our big white house "evolved" from the dog kennel?

Not at all!

It simply indicates that certain principles of construction proved basic to both.

Likewise, the similarity in vertebrae is based on the leverage value of having muscles fastened to bones, to promote locomotion, etc.

Furthermore, it is just as logical to assume that "devolution" occurred as to become addicts of evolution.

For we find that even inanimate things, such as mountains, tend to be pulled downward (devolve) in the process of erosion till they will ultimately reach the sea.

The forces of nature (wind, freezing, snow and rain) thus tear down instead of building up!

Even primitive vegetation was thus buried through the eons of time till it formed coal and oil, deep down inside the earth.

Alas, our current American population is even now experiencing devolution, for the percentage of morons, imbeciles and idiots is rising and eroding the national I.Q. of Americans.

Despite the few brilliant inventions and flights to the moon, mankind is actually degenerating as a whole to a lower I.Q. level!

That's devolution: not evolution!

Seattle Has Highest Jobless Rate In Nation

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
SEATTLE — (NEA) — To Howard Kraft, it remains incomprehensible. How could he, Howard Kraft, still be a mere statistic, after more than a year?

There are 69,100 people without jobs in the work force of the lush-green Seattle area. The unemployment rate, highest in the nation for the last four years, stands at 11.8 per cent. It has been as high as 16 per cent.

How could he, Howard Kraft, be one of those unemployed?

He was no ordinary working stiff. He was a delicately trained mechanical engineer, with a degree from the University of Washington and licensed by Washington state. His field was "constant speed drive, variable ratio hydro-mechanical transmission." He had contributed to the development and production of the Boeing 747, the world's largest commercial airliner. He had worked at Boeing without interruption for nearly 28 years, more than half his lifetime.

It meant nothing. "I still remember that black weekend when I was laid off," says Howard. "A sort of numbness. It was something that couldn't happen to me. April 12, 1971, was my last day."

That same day was the funeral of his father. And his mother is an invalid.

Howard is now in the basement of the First United Methodist Church at Fifth and Marion, not far from downtown Seattle. He is bald and wears thick prescription lenses. He could be a professor or a druggist. He has on a white undershirt, dusty dungarees, scuffed work shoes and a carpenter's apron. Howard, at the age of 51, is keeping busy. He is in charge of remodeling the church's interior.

With him are six other construction workers. Five were also former engineers at Boeing. The sixth is an unemployed computer programmer. They do ceiling tile work, carpentry, vinyl wall inlays, wiring, steam fitting—you name it.

"I like this stuff," says Howard, "better than I do engineering. There's so much satisfaction in realizing you can do other things."

John Warner is 24 years old and drives an airport cab. He works a 12-hour truck, 6 to 6, and makes half of what he used to make. He was, until last year, a mechanic at Boeing, working on the mid-flaps of the 747. He admits it was a boring job. But his pay had climbed to $4 an hour. He often worked double shifts, which meant time-and-a-half up to 10 hours, double time after that. John could make up to $460 for a five-day week. And if he wanted to work weekends, that was straight double time, plus triple time for holidays. In early 1969, 105,000 workers streamed daily into Boeing's Seattle area plants. Today the figure is 39,000. John isn't one of them. So what does a guy do? "I do this," he answers, tapping the wheel of his cab. He has a wife and small child to support.

For his construction work at the First United Methodist Church, to which he has belonged for 38 years, Howard Kraft is paid $1,000 a month, which is not bad. "This job," he says, "is always three months from completion."

Then what? He doesn't know. "I have no desire to leave the Seattle area," he says. "My wife thinks I'm narrow-minded. But I've got my 100,000-mile club membership. I traveled all over the country for Boeing. This is where I was born and raised and want to live."

His house, much of which he built himself, is on Mercer Island in Lake Washington, one of the best residential communities in the Pacific Northwest. Howard figures it could sell for between $35,000 and $40,000. His mortgage has only three years to run. From his back patio you can see the cluster of Seattle and the white snow-topped ridges of the Olympic Peninsula beyond. It's an island of low-slung ranch homes, with no sidewalks, carefully tended shrubs and flowers.

"We call it a Mexican depression," says Emmett Watson, the discerning general columnist of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, the best-known writer in the area. "You know it's there, but you can't see it. When something like this happens in Los Angeles, they stay and muddle through somehow."

"The real gnawing worry," says Howard Kraft, "is that my house needs a roof. These things start to scare me. I'm just beginning to notice them. And I've gotten my fingernails dirty. The two cars start to wear out (a '65 Chrysler station wagon, a '64 Buick sedan). I put in a water pump. I put in shock absorbers myself. Of course, I can do these things. I used to have a jalopy when I was a kid. Can the cars last another 100,000 miles? I don't know."

When the depression in the Seattle area was at its peak two years ago, automobile sales were drastically off and dealers closed. "But it's changed now," says Lee Anderson, the Ford district sales manager. "For the first time, we're up 30 per cent over the comparable period—a year ago."

The anomaly of Seattle is that alongside the hardcore unemployment pocket which has trapped about 14 per cent of the population, there is almost booming prosperity. Department store sales have risen. Apple pie and a cup of coffee at a drive-in are 68 cents. Hotels are rising. The pro basketball Super Sonics sold out almost all their home games.

"My wife keeps throwing employment ads at me," says Howard Kraft. "I've never had any computer ex-has changed for us. She thinks it's a charity job I have at the church. I don't. Domestically, it's a real strain. I can see where divorces occur."

"My brother is close to being the typical Boeing engineer," says Wes Uhlmann. "He was an industrial engineer with three degrees. He's seven years older than I. He was laid off. The kind of human tragedy that occurs has happened to him. A year and a half ago he had it made. Now his family is divorced. He's in Portland, selling real estate." Wes Uhlmann, modish 36, prematurely gray, is the mayor of Seattle. He took office just before the bottom dropped out of Boeing. Starting in 1969, the company went 18 months without selling one domestic airplane, the bulk of its business. When the government canceled the supersonic transport (SST) program in early 1971, 5,000 people were abruptly laid off, almost all of them engineers. "We have to see to it," says Uhlmann, who has gone to Japan to entice new industry, "we don't remain on the Boeing aerospace yo-yo. Our single biggest problem in this area is to diversify. We've formed an Office of Economic Development which should have been done 15 years ago."

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1850, Vice President Millard Fillmore succeeded to the presidency after the death of President Zachary Taylor.

On this date: In 1509, the Protestant reformer, John Calvin, was born in France.

In 1553, Lady Jane Grey was proclaimed Queen of England.

In 1871, one of the greatest French novelists, Marcel Proust, was born in Paris.

In 1890, Wyoming became the 44th state of the Union.

In 1913, a record high temperature of 134 degrees was recorded in California's Death Valley.

In 1953, the Soviet chief of internal security, Pavrenti Beria, was purged from the Communist hierarchy in Russia.

Ten years ago: The Telesat, the world's first privately owned satellite, was launched from Cape Kennedy and transmitted Communications across the Atlantic.

Five years ago: Doctors removed a malignant tumor from the abdomen of Gov. Lurleen Wallace of Alabama.

One year ago: A report prepared for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee estimated that the war in Vietnam had cost $490 for every American, woman and child.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater says he checked into costs at private hospitals before he underwent surgery for a gall bladder ailment and paid an equivalent amount to Bethesda Naval Hospital.

"I have already paid the bill," Goldwater said, "and what I paid was precisely in keeping with what I paid private hospitals in other instances."

The Arizona Republican said he felt obligated to reveal the payment because of a series of letters appearing in newspapers criticizing him for using government hospital facilities at "a nominal cost, if any cost at all."

MIXED DOUBLE WINNERS—Becky and Alton Setliff, both on the left, defeated Mary and Jim Hughes 6-2, 6-2 in yesterday's finals of the Pampa Tennis Club's Mixed Doubles Tournament. The tournament was one of several successful tournaments that have been sponsored by the club this summer.

Randy Doesn't Qualify Announces Retirement

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—Veterans Jim Ryan, Frank Shorter, Willie Davenport, Jay Silvester and George Young and youngsters Rey Robinson, Larry Burton, Steve Smith and Dwight Stones are "on the boat" hoping to blend their experience and cool to produce another great American Olympic team.

Ten days of competition, surviving 100-degree heat and rain, have sorted out the athletes; the top three finishers in each event at the men's Olympic trials here advance one step—the biggest step—into the 20th Olympiad beginning Aug. 31 at Munich, Germany.

For Ryan, the world record holder, it's a third crack at the Olympic gold medal which he missed in 1964 and 1968. His stunning 51.5-second last lap in the 1,500-meter dash here capped his comeback.

"I feel I have a better and faster race inside me," said the jubilant 25-year-old from Kansas who hopes to become the first American since 1908 to win the metric mile.

Shorter ran first in both the 10,000 and the marathon. The 24-year-old former AAU titlist will be traveling back to his birthplace. It was also 1908 the last time an American won the marathon.

Steve Prefontaine proved his races aren't all against the clock as he defeated the 34-year-old Young handily in American record time in the first meeting of the two aces. Pre's time of 13:22.8 is fastest in the world this year and wipes out his own 13:29.8.

Young cracked 13:30 for a lifetime best and moves to Munich with an American record fourth Olympic berth for a distance runner.

The sprint picture is dotted with young, excited kids lacking international experience. Eddie Hart, Robinson and Robert Taylor will run the 100-meter dash in Germany.

The 400-meter tandem of Wayne Collett, John Smith and Vince Matthews looks about as solid as a wall. An American sweep in the event is a possibility because there isn't a runner elsewhere in the world who has cracked 45.7 this year. Collett ran 44.1, Smith 44.3 and Matthews 44.9 in advancing here.

Davenport ran second, Tom Hill first and Rod Milburn third in the 110-meter high hurdle final to qualify for the U.S. team. That trio is as good as America has sent in years.

Burton, a Purdue sophomore in his first year of track, joins Chuck Smith and Larry Black on a swift 200 comb.

Smith became the world's fifth 18-foot pole vaulter. Stones cracked the world age-group high jump record as the 18-year-old from UCLA went 7-3.

Silvester whipped the discus 211-2 to earn a berth on the team for a third time.

Ryan had once considered running both the 1,500 and the 800 in Munich but fast-rising Dave Wottle is the only one with that choice after his world-record equaling 1:44.3 in the half mile and second place to Ryan in the metric mile.

Bob Seagren, back after off-season knee surgery, proved nearly unstoppable with an 185½-vault for a world mark.

Randy Matson, king of the shot put for nearly a decade, retired when he finished fourth to George Woods. Al Feuerbach and Brian Oldfield in a superb competition. Woods and Feuerbach recently joined Matson as history's only 70-foot throwers.

Mei Pender, the 34-year-old Army captain, called it quits when he failed to make the finals of the 100-meter dash here.

Bob Beamon, the 1968 Olympic long jump champ, and Ralph Boston, perennial top banana in the event, couldn't overcome injuries as Arnie Robinson, Randy Williams and little known Preston Carrington made the squad.

Legion Beats Spearman 10-0

The Pampa Rebels blanked Spearman 10-0 yesterday at Optimist Park. Larry Knutson struck out 13 and gave up only one hit to get the victory.

Knutson, Bill Simon and Tony Frogge got doubles and Mike Reddell hit a triple for the Legion team.

The game wrapped up the team's regular season play, but play-offs between Pampa, Dumas and Borger are in the offing to see who will represent the northern division of District 18 in the regional tourney.

Bob Seagren, back after off-season knee surgery, proved nearly unstoppable with an 185½-vault for a world mark.

Randy Matson, king of the shot put for nearly a decade, retired when he finished fourth to George Woods. Al Feuerbach and Brian Oldfield in a superb competition. Woods and Feuerbach recently joined Matson as history's only 70-foot throwers.

Gay Brewer Ends Five Year Famine

FORT ERIE, Ont. (AP)—"When you're destined to win, well, you are just going to win," Gay Brewer said after ending a five-year victory famine with a nerve-tingling triumph in the Canadian Open Golf Tournament Sunday.

The greying, 40-year-old veteran who last won in the 1967 Masters, blew a three-stroke lead and twice flirted with disaster before carding a final round 70 and a one-stroke victory at 273.

That was nine under par on the 6,751-yard Cherry Hill Golf Club course and just one in front of onrushing Dave Hill and rookie Sam Adams. The veteran Hill closed birdie-birdie for a 67 and Adams, a curly haired left hander from Boone, N.C., blazed home with the day's best round, a stunning 66.

Veteran Phil Rodgers had a two-under-par 69 and was alone in fourth at 277. Lou Graham followed with a 70-278. Chi Chi Rodriguez and Canadian George Knudson had 67s and were tied at 279.

Lee Trevino, the 1971 champion, wasn't a factor after the first round. He had a final 70 and was tied at 282 with South African Gary Player. Arnold Palmer closed with a 72-285 before he, Player and Trevino set out for Scotland and next week's British Open.

Jack Nicklaus, already holder of the Masters and U.S. Open titles didn't compete in this national championship in order to get an early start on his preparations for the tournament in Muirfield, Scotland. He's gunning for an unprecedented one-year sweep of all the world's major titles.

Brewer, whose life was in danger at one time when he was hospitalized with bleeding ulcers earlier this season, said a book by Canadian amateur Nick Westlock helped him with his putting and was the key to his 10th tour triumph.

"I'd been putting bad for 2½ years," said Brewer, who once lost his exempt players status and only this year escaped the ranks of Monday qualifiers.

His book quoted Nicklaus and Trevino and Bob Charles and Player and a bunch of players after they had won tournaments.

"I used to be a good putter and it helped me get back to what I was doing before, standing up straighter, holding my hands differently and so on."

The victory was worth $30,000 to the pug-nosed player from Dallas and more than doubled his yearly earnings. He'd won but $26,000 earlier in the season. The triumph also put him in the four-man field for the rich and prestigious World Series of Golf.

Can-Am Win To Porsche

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (AP)—The mighty McLarens have fallen once again in Can-Am road racing, and a new era may be dawning in this richest single series for sports cars.

Supersub George Follmer drove Roger Penske's exotic 12-cylinder turbocharged Porsche to an easy victory Sunday in the second Can-Am event of the season at Road Atlanta, near Gainesville.

En route to the winner's circle he passed the wrecked McLaren of perennial Can-Am champion Denis Hulme and the companion car of 1971 title holder Peter Revson, sitting in its pit with a sick engine.

"We're going to turn this series around," said a jubilant Penske, whose regular driver, Mark Donohue, won the Indianapolis 500 this year in his fourth try.

"No longer are the McLarens going to be considered automatic winners in Can-Am racing," he added.

Bob Seagren, back after off-season knee surgery, proved nearly unstoppable with an 185½-vault for a world mark.

Randy Matson, king of the shot put for nearly a decade, retired when he finished fourth to George Woods. Al Feuerbach and Brian Oldfield in a superb competition. Woods and Feuerbach recently joined Matson as history's only 70-foot throwers.

Mei Pender, the 34-year-old Army captain, called it quits when he failed to make the finals of the 100-meter dash here.

Stan Overcomes Nastase Wins Wimbledon Singles

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Stan Smith, the gentle giant of U.S. tennis, won the treasured Wimbledon singles crown and couldn't quite believe it.

Smith, the 6-foot-4 American Army corporal from Sea Pines, S.C., raised his arms in relief and triumph after beating mercurial Romanian star Ilie Nastase, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 7-5 in a thrilling final on Wimbledon's center court Sunday.

"There were times out there when I thought he was going to win," admitted Smith.

Perhaps Smith's calm disposition saw him through the breath-taking final which was given an added psychological twist by being postponed 24 hours through rain.

Nastase kept his well-known fiery temper in check most of the time. But he was like a simmering volcano that was liable to blow its top at any moment.

"I couldn't sleep last night and the postponement made me more nervous," said Nastase. "I didn't eat any breakfast."

Stan didn't seem to have pre-match nerves at all.

"I had orange juice, cereal, several eggs and hamburgers for my breakfast," he said.

Smith's victory, added to Bill ie Jean King's victory over Australian defending champion Evonne Goolagong in the women's final, gave the United States the two singles crowns for the first time since Tony Trabert and Louise Brough grabbed the double in 1955.

It will take all Smith's notable talent to retain the title next year.

Subject to final agreement by the International Lawn Tennis Federation in Helsinki on Wednesday, the stars of Texan millionaire Lamar Hunt's World Championship Tennis group will be back in contention at Wimbledon in 1973.

Under the provisional agreement, WCT will operate tournaments for four months of the year, while the ILTF controls the remainder.

The 1972 Wimbledon roll of honor:

Men's Singles: Smith.
Women's Singles: Mrs. King, Long Beach, Calif.
Men's Double: Bob Hewitt and Frew McMillan, South Africa.
Women's Doubles: Mrs. King and Betty Stove, Holland.
Mixed Doubles: Nastase and Rosemary Casals, San Francisco.

Benefit Thursday

Thursday's benefit game between Buddy's Bunch and Hogan's Heroes, sponsored by the Pampa Booster Club, promises to provide a very enjoyable evening for the whole family.

Besides the fact that it will be a lot of fun, it will provide Harvester fans with the opportunity to show their support for Pampa athletics. By that I mean Booster Club memberships will be available for purchase at the game.

The club is attempting to raise funds to help pay for charter bus service for the athletic teams and to purchase a video-tape machine for the athletic department.

Show your support for the Harvesters by coming out to the game.

Ahern Takes Classic

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Everybody but Kathy Ahern counted her out of the $32,000 George Washington Golf Classic.

"I didn't feel that badly because I played pretty well," she recalled Sunday after shooting a six-under-par 67 to win the 54-hole George Washington by one stroke over Sandra Haynie.

"I had only two bad holes that first day, double bogeys on the eighth and ninth," she said. "You can't let things like that get you down. I've learned to keep swinging."

Miss Ahern kept swinging over the 6,150-yard Hidden Springs Golf Club course. She swung for a five-under-par 68 on Saturday and jumped from 49th to a tie for eighth.

On Sunday she swung for seven birdies and only one bogey for a three-round total of six-under-par 213, and the $4,500 first prize.

The final round started with Miss Haynie, Sandra Palmer and Joann Prentice tied for the lead at four-under-par 142. Miss Ahern was at 146. She made the turn in 35, with two birdies and a bogey, then rolled in five consecutive birdie puts.

Miss Haynie shot one-under-par 72 over the regulation 36-37-73 course, and wound up at 214. Miss Palmer carded a par 73 and was another stroke back at 215. Gerda Boykin also played par on the final round for a 216, while Miss Prentice shot 75 and slipped into a four-way tie for fifth at 217 with Judy Kimball, Gloria Ehret, and Kathy Cornelius.

An evening out at home

... where the charm of a GAS light lets the evening last a little longer

... and the food has an exciting outdoor aroma and flavor, found nowhere else in the World!

A GAS outdoor grill gives food a tangy outdoor flavor without the time and bother of charcoal fire. Char-broiled flavor comes from the smoke of meat juices dripping on hot briquets. Charcoal itself provides no flavor. Permanent ceramic briquets in the gas grill reach cooking heat in a few minutes, and there is no long wait to start cooking. The heat is regulated manually so there is no need to move a grill up or down.

Monument To Hypocrisy

The New York Times printed an advertisement on May 31, calling for impeachment of President Nixon.

The Office of Federal Elections, which is a part of the General Accounting Office, now is seeking to punish The Times because of the advertisement.

It seems that Congress in 1971 passed a law called the Federal Election Campaign Act. This statute requires a newspaper advertisement that attacks a candidate for federal office to publish a statement from the person who placed the ad, stating that no other federal candidate paid for it. In case a candidate did pay for the ad, the law requires him to report the expenditure to the Office of Federal Elections.

The Times printed the required statement later, claiming that it had been omitted from the impeachment ad by mistake. The director of the federal election office says, mistake or no mistake, the law was violated. And he also is investigating an antiwar group, the National Committee for Impeachment on grounds that it may have violated the Federal Election Campaign Act.

In this instance, we have a newspaper and an organization fall under the scrutiny of the federal government on three grounds (a) that they published something (b) that dealt with some subject (federal candidates) (c) without publishing something else. If

The Times had published something that dealt with some subject other than federal candidates, the law would have exacted no further statement, and The Times would have been free of legal blame. It appears, therefore, that the consequence of the law—if not the purpose—was to build a hedge around a certain segment of the population (persons who happen to be candidates for federal office). Perhaps, therefore, every living individual—and some who are dead—should file for a federal office in order to enjoy the privilege that members of Congress have enacted for themselves, the President, and vice president.

The Federal Election Campaign Act is nothing else but an attempt by Congress to change the First Amendment to say that "Congress shall make no law... abridging the freedom of speech... or of the press... UNLESS, OF COURSE, YOU HAPPEN TO PUBLISH SOMETHING THAT CAN BE CONSTRUED AS ADVERSE TO A FEDERAL CANDIDATE." Congress has no power to bend the Constitution to its will in such a matter. The campaign law is really a "no law." Its true value is as a monument to the hypocrisy of lawmakers who have sworn to defend and uphold the Constitution, including the First Amendment.

Pay Tribute Or No Job

Robert Chambers of Yuma, Ariz., is 16 years old and willing to work. He applied for a job at a farm owned by Freshpick, a division of Purex Corp. The company sent him over to register at a hiring hall run by the then United Farm Workers. That is the name of Cesar Chavez's organization.

At the hiring hall, the boy was told he would have to join the UFWOC before that organization would accept his work application.

The idea of having to join something before he could even apply for work struck Robert as unjust. He went to court and sued the UFW and Freshpick for $10,000. The suit charges that the hiring hall provisions in the contract "have been used in such a way as to exclude persons, including the plaintiff, from employment as agricultural labor or continuation of said employment, because of non-membership in a labor organization." Fortunately he found a friend in the National Right to Work Defense Foundation, so both the company and the union are constrained to take the lawsuit seriously.

It will be very interesting to see how this situation turns out. Of course, Robert probably will be a grown man before he gets the final word. And all he wanted was a job on the farm. Isn't it strange that union men and businessmen would combine to hamstring the free exchange of labor? Isn't life sufficiently complicated already without grown men plotting together to make it worse?

Nixon Holds Viet War As Vote Getter

WASHINGTON (NEA)—In a year when many public figures insist the state of the economy is the big thing, President Nixon seems bent on trying to win reelection as a pre-eminent foreign policy president.

We know now that his predicted fall bombshell will have "Vietnam" written on it, though we can't be sure of its size and shape. There are no more great capitals to visit, to top Peking and Moscow.

Well advertised is the President's wish to achieve some kind of settlement of the Vietnam war through negotiations. Obviously, however, unforeseeable responses in Hanoi make this a much chancier prospect than was getting to China and the Soviet Union.

Nevertheless, it probably would be a mistake for either the Democrats or anybody else to assume that if he is frustrated in his hope for pre-election negotiations on Vietnam, Nixon will have no other way to deal with the issue in a politically profitable fashion.

For one thing, he could negotiate in the public forum of offering fresh peace proposals going beyond those of May 8, when he suggested a cease-fire, new elections for South Vietnam, U.S. total withdrawal four months after agreement.

Such proposals would, of course, have to bear at least the stamp of still broader conciliation, and most likely would be underscored by troop withdrawals cutting our residual forces in Vietnam to almost token proportions.

It was wholly predictable that, in the announcement of the withdrawal now of another 10,000 men, the President fixed the next deadline for action at Sept. 1. He thus reserves the opportunity to move critically on the very eve of the fall election campaign.

If he were then to announce a slash to around 20,000 men, a total less than the 23,000 "advisers" we had in Vietnam before major U.S. ground units entered that country in 1965, it would leave Sen. George McGovern as 1972 Democratic nominee (presumed) with not much to talk about on the war.

To be sure, we might still be keeping substantial air and naval forces handy outside Vietnam, but the Nixon people are betting this will not trouble too many Americans so long as U.S. casualties are virtually eliminated and no draftees need go to Vietnam hereafter.

There is, apparently, a great deal of confusion at the lower party levels, primarily, it is believed here, because this is the first time the public and the lower party bureaucracy had heard the details on strategic arms and the problems at issue.

Men who watch Soviet newspapers carefully and endlessly that these agreements are good, that they represent the party line and that everyone must back them—as through the papers were attempting to convince people who were not at all clear on what the agreements are all about or who might have some nagging doubts after all these years of hate-the-U.S. propaganda. But the work of explanation seems to be progressing smoothly.

Not so at points in the international Communist world. Strong complaints are already in red groups in Italy, the Netherlands, Burma, New Zealand, North Korea, Australia, Peru, Guatemala and North Vietnam. Castro was especially loud in Warsaw and in Bucharest in eastern Europe.

In parties and factions mentioned above, the Soviet Union is accused of betraying the Communist cause in its own interests.

The strength of the opposition shows up clearly in the vehemence of Moscow's defensive arguments which claim in essence, as one U.S. government Soviet analyst put it, "What's good for the Soviet Union is good for World Communism."

But Brezhnev is finding it difficult to sell that concept in some places in the Red world. The Soviet radio, and Soviet officials and diplomats have been busy telling Castro and other Communists worldwide that the Nixon visit and the arms agreements do not represent a retreat—that wars of national liberation will continue to be supported heavily by the Soviet Union and that the fight for a Communist worldwide victory will continue.

There is rather convincing evidence the spotty furor is being sparked primarily by Peking and by pro-Mao

U.S. Arms Deal—O.K. in Moscow, Not So Elsewhere

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Despite published reports to the contrary, internally at least, Leonid Brezhnev seems to be running against no important opposition on the strategic arms limitation agreements negotiated with President Nixon.

From all that can be gathered in information reaching the U.S. government to date, within the U.S.S.R. the agreements are popular in the highest echelons of the party, government and military, where the power lies. Kremlinologists this reporter has talked to say that while there was a great deal of hard bargaining during the negotiations, once agreement was reached the Soviet establishment seemed to be convinced that the arrangements were very good indeed.

Retained Fluids Cause Discomfort

Dear Dr. Lamb—I have noticed that my body holds fluid. The doctor prescribed a water pill for me to use before my periods and this helped tremendously, but now I've started retaining fluid all the time, rather than just before my period. It causes me to have awful headaches and sluggishness. I get very irritable and short-tempered. I told my doctor this and he told me I could take the water pills every other day and they wouldn't hurt me. I would like to know what causes this condition and what could be done to correct it. I am on thyroid which I have to take for the rest of my life anyway and I'd hate to take these too since I'm only 35 years old.

Dear Reader—These are many reasons for retaining fluid. The premenstrual retention of fluid is pretty well known and, of course, is related to the hormones. What really happens is the body retains salts and the more salt the body retains the more water one accumulates. Other causes for retaining fluid include such things as heart disease, kidney disease and liver disease. I rather doubt you have any of these unless you have some symptoms which you didn't mention.

Why don't you try cutting down on the amount of salt you use? The water pills actually work by causing the kidneys to eliminate salt and thereby eliminate the excess water. Remember salt and water go together. The problem with water pills is they sometimes flush out other minerals. An ideal way to cut down on your salt is to stop using salt in cooking and don't add any free salt. There will still be quite a bit of salt in your regular diet, since there is sodium, or salt, naturally in meat, milk and, to a lesser extent, in vegetables. Even so this will make a tremendous difference in your salt intake. It's worth a try and it may decrease your need to take the water pills and improve your over-all feeling. Incidentally, rice and fruit are relatively devoid of salt and you may find them helpful in your effort.

Dear Doctor—I read an article by a doctor warning people of the radium used on watch dials. He claimed that the human body absorbed enough through these watches that the dials were harmful. Our son is contemplating buying a watch to be worn daily and also in scuba diving. There is a lot of luminous material on the watch. Is it safe to use this type of watch?

Dear Reader—Of course, it is or the Federal Trade Commission would have had it withdrawn from the market. Some luminous dials are produced by using small amounts of radium.

Inside Washington

McGovern Youth vs. Labor Youth

By Robert S. Allen

MIAMI BEACH—Sen. McGovern's college-oriented youths, a brash, often arrogant and important element of the South Dakota radical's electioneering apparatus, are making a disconcerting discovery at the Democratic National Convention.

They are learning that a large number of other youths don't think much of them, and even less of their whiny (I've been robbed) candidate.

These other youths are from labor ranks—hard-hat construction industries, factories, mills, mechanics, technicians and other blue-collar workers. They constitute a considerable proportion of the approximately 600 unionite delegates here.

These worker youths are spearheaded by an informal national organization titled Youth Coalition '72.

One of the principal purposes of Youth Coalition '72, organized last spring at a conference in Washington, is to provide labor youths with a forum and instrumentality to counter the lobbying and propaganda operations of the college-oriented, leftist McGovernite youths.

The latter are "doing their stuff" at the convention through a creation called the National Youth Caucus.

It is the handiwork of a wealthy 44-year-old New Left politico and a not-so-young multi-millionaire who is bankrolling the outfit. These backstage youth wire-pullers are:

Former Rep. Allard Lowenstein, N.Y., head of the New Left-dominated Americans for Democratic Action, who was defeated last month in an attempt to stage a Congressional comeback. Last winter he started out as a Muskie supporter but hastily switched to McGovern when the Maine "frontrunner's" campaign floundered. At the convention, Lowenstein, who has ambitions to run for mayor of New York next year, is noisily trying to set himself up as youth kingmaker and spokesman.

Stewart Rawlings Mott, 34-year-old tacheur heir of an $800 million General Motors fortune, and a leading "sugar daddy" of ultra-liberal movements and politicians. He boasts of contributing $100,000 to McGovern's primary races, and even more if he is nominated. Last winter, Mott announced setting up something called the "Peoples Politics Committee" with a $100,000 kitty, but nothing has been heard of it since. Reportedly, he anted up $25,000 to subsidize Lowenstein's Youth Caucus.

Who They Are
Leaders of Youth Coalition '72 are preparing to take an active part in the convention battle over the generally middle-of-the-road platform drafted in a story wrangle in Washington two weeks ago. The young worker delegates will particularly oppose known leftist plans to include planks for unconditional amnesty, marriage of homosexuals, legalization of marijuana and the immediate withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Vietnam without guarantees for the return of U.S. prisoners of war. Youths affiliated with the National Youth Caucus wrote such planks into the platform of the Minnesota Democratic-Farmer-Labor party—subsequently repudiated by Gov. Wendell Anderson, the DFL state chairman and other party leaders.

Youth leaders of a number of unions were active in organizing Youth Coalition '72—among them the United Auto Workers, Steel Workers, International Electrical Workers, Glass Bottle Blowers, Retail Clerks, Office and Professional Employees; also the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and Frontlash.

Members of the executive committee of Youth Coalition '72 include—Robert E.B. Allen, president, Young Democratic Clubs of America; Edward Lamon, president, Young Trade Unionists No. 1, Baltimore; Josh Muravchik, co-chairman, Youth Committee for Peace and Democracy in the Middle East; Anthony Ortiz, president, UAW Local No. 163, Detroit; Candice Brown, Montana Frontlash; Michael Bowen Mitchell, Maryland NAACP.

Stressing the difference between the two rival youth organizations here, Muravchik pointed out that "most political appeals aimed at young people are aimed at the campuses. We maintain that is a dead-end street. If the Democrats are going to win, they are going to have to speak to all the 25 million young new voters, most of whom are not college students. Only around 7 million go to college, and the evidence is conclusive that only a minority of them take the time and trouble to vote.

"But worker youths are very politically conscious. They have good reason to be, because they know from experience that exercising their rights as voters they can very directly and importantly influence legislation and other factors affecting them and their interests."

Anti-McGovern

It is highly significant that the young labor delegates are cold towards McGovern. They consider him "unreliable, if not definitely hostile," as one expressed it.

Most of these youths are for Humphrey; a scattered few are for Muskie and Jackson.

Privately, a number say frankly they "like" Gov. Wallace. There is no question that if these worker youths get the opportunity, they will vote for the Alabama governor. Except for the blacks among them, these delegates are overwhelmingly against student busing to "attain racial equality."

Their anti-McGovern sentiments are similar to those of labor generally.

Most union leaders are against the South Dakota radical, and readily cite a number of reasons why: foremost among them unfriendly votes on labor-favored legislation. McGovern and his managers are making strenuous efforts to court laborites but so far with distinctly limited success.

One authoritative inside report is that McGovern plans a "summit" conference with union chiefs—if he wins the nomination.

News In Brief

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP)— Advertisements from firms which market prepared term papers are no longer being accepted by the Western Herald, the student newspaper at Western Michigan University.

"There comes a time when one must decide what constitutes honesty and what doesn't," editor Will Snyder of Wyoming, Mich., explained.

"We have come to the conclusion that for one to buy a term paper from a mercenary and hand it in as honest work is a breach of honesty, and we have decided against further publication of term paper company advertisements."

LA GRANGE, Ga. (AP)— A tradition older than Georgia has passed into history with the refusal to renew the licenses of Troup County's four midwives.

The legality of midwives, who deliver babies in rural areas where physicians are few, ended with a ruling by the Georgia Department of Public Health.

Between the four, the midwives reckon they have delivered 3,500 babies.

In the past, their fees were $2, but they were getting $50 a delivery recently.

One of them, Mrs. Hattie Miller, 70, of West Point, said she has been practicing for about 35 years. She said she planned to continue midwifery in neighboring Alabama where she still has a license.

MEMPHIS (AP)— After four months of resistance, Baxca and Mahleben have finally given in and moved into their new $336,654 home.

The two 6,000 pound white rhinos have been living happily at the Overton Park Zoo for years and could see no reason to walk into that big packing box Zoo Director Robert Mattlin proposed to use to move them from the zoo to a new pachyderm house.

Baxca, inticed by all sorts of rhine goodies, had entered the box twice. Each time someone slammed a set of 3-inch metal bars across the door of the box, and each time Baxca simply backed out of the box, demolishing the metal bars.

HOT SUMMER HITTER
CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)— Rick Richardson, slugging first baseman of the Louisville Hurricanes, led the North Carolina Collegiate Summer League in hitting with a .358 mark. He also led in home runs with 12.

Dear Abby

Old bags don't pay the bills

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I have several very wealthy ladies for whom I work regularly. I go to their homes to perform a personal service.

One of my ladies is not only rich, she is also quite famous. When it comes time for her to pay me, she will bring out a used evening bag, or a pair of shoes, or a hat, or some piece of wearing apparel, and try to make some kind of deal with me in exchange for my services.

Abby, I know that all of her things were very expensive when they were new, but I have no use for such elegant articles, and besides, I work because I need the money.

How can I let her know that I wish she would simply pay me and not subject me to the embarrassment of having to say I cannot use her second-hand things?

TIMID IN L. A.

DEAR TIMID: Tell her that you can't afford to work for "things" because you must have CASH to pay your bills.

DEAR ABBY: Sorry, but I disagree with you as to the impropriety of a student selling his class notes. I'd consider these notes as similar to a reference book.

When I attended medical school, each fraternity had an extensive file of old exam questions and class notes which went back years and were used extensively by the students. I am sure these contributed greatly to the learning process.

Since I have three college degrees with 11 years of college, and later taught for seven years in medical schools, I believe I am well qualified to express an opinion on this subject.

EDWARD S. CARDWELL JR., M. D. COLUMBIA, S. C.

DEAR DR. CARDWELL: Ten whacks for me with any one of your old rolled up diplomas. I rarely argue with authority.

DEAR ABBY: My husband passed away some time ago. We had a wonderful life together and I never expect to replace him, but I must consider making a new life for myself as I am not yet 50.

My question: When may a widow remove her wedding ring? I have children, and when I wear my rings the men I meet think I'm married, and no respectable man would look twice at a married woman.

On the other hand, if I remove my rings I might be mistaken for a divorcee. What should I do?

YOUNG WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: Since you are obviously in the market for another husband, remove your rings. You can quickly let it be known that you are a widow, not a divorcee, if you think men prefer widows which, by the way, ain't necessarily so.

DEAR ABBY: I shall be 77 years of age when I graduate from college at the end of this semester.

Frankly, I am not a gift-giver, neither do I appreciate gifts, which presents a problem. How do I invite people to my graduation without being "bothered" by a gift, and the annoyance of acknowledging receipt?

I am just happy to have my friends attend such an occasion, and that is all.

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: On each invitation you could add, "Positively no gifts, please." But be prepared to have your request ignored by some.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Pampans Attend Meeting Of Delta Kappa Gamma

Mrs. John Vantine, incoming president of Theta Delta chapter, and Mrs. Otto Mahgold, incoming president of Beta Delta chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, attended the 43rd annual convention of the Alpha State (Texas) Organization in Fort Worth.

Theme of the convention was "To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield," from "Ulysses" by Alfred Lord Tennyson, selected because it represents a challenge in answer to the many problems which educators face today.

Area directors conducted the opening workshop, an all-day leadership conference with all the area presidents discussing scholarships, membership, financial responsibility, leadership, and rituals. Mrs. Robert Laney of Amarillo is the Panhandle area director.

Mrs. R.M. Davis of Texarkana, Alpha State president, presided at the business sessions at which committee reports were approved and constitutional amendments discussed in preparation for the International Delta Kappa Gamma Convention, to be held in Houston, July 30-Aug. 6.

Mrs. Eunah Holden, past International president, gave the key-note address at the birthday luncheon, at which recipients of 37 state scholarships were presented by Mrs. Ruby Lee Rafferty, scholarship chairman. These scholarships, totaling $13,025.00, included seven long-term awards, one of which was presented to Mrs. Zuma Austin of Zeta Zeta chapter, Amarillo.

Directors for the 28 regional meetings for 1972 were named by Miss Phyllis Ellis, state executive secretary.

Co-directors for the upper Panhandle area meeting, to be held in Borger, Oct. 14, will be Miss Adele Barnes of Amarillo, state chairman of the professional affairs committee, and Miss Margaret Ann Garlin of Lubbock, state chairman of the research committee.

Miss Barnes was one of five members in Texas to receive the Achievement Award at the convention.

Miss Ray King, only International founder in attendance, was honored at the Presidents' Founders' Dinner, at which Miss Charlotte Jaynes of Bossier City, La., Southeast Regional Director for Delta Kappa Gamma, International, was guest speaker. Presidents from 232 chapters were honored at a reception following the dinner.

Theta Delta chapter was recognized as a "Double Honors" chapter for its contribution of $2,000 to the state scholarship fund.

Color for Legs

The hosiery industry is presenting leg fashions to match body fashions. Color will be an exciting part of this fall's body suit and pantyhose. Forest greens, plums, yellows, rusts, grays, pastels, plus some patterns, will appear on the most fashionable legs.

Fake Fur

More fake fur for the ecology-conscious woman who loves the look of real fur. It's a brand new woven fabric, one which looks just like seal and one that looks like genuine sable.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, JULY 11

Your birthday today: Success this year depends on how well you improvise from previous resources and fresh ideas, mostly in situations different from anything you've seen before. Social and family relations intensify. Today's natives are industrious, politically-minded, and have strong tendencies to make their own rules.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Set a reasonable pace for your day as there is going to be something interesting for the later hours requiring more exertion.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Cheerful cooperation, early agreements on plans help both working conditions and family welfare this rather long day of diverse activities.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Fresh information is intriguing, sets off a chain of speculation. Beware of presenting a half-thought-out plan. Give yourself a treat.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Dig for hidden knowledge. It is a good day for dealing with authority, institution personnel, older people in general.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Travel won't bring the desired results, particularly if you insist on last minute changes. Ventures closer to home are a safer channel.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Taking the good things for granted is not the wisest course. Get a check-up. Any companionship runs into an un demonstrative mood.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Just hit the high spots and keep going. Leave your friends undisturbed in their moods, seek serenity in your own personal way.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Act according to your own theories. You may learn from the resulting reality.

Quotable Quotes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some quotable quotes from women during the week: "Sometimes I play so bad the piano blishes, but I'm developing." Phyllis Diller during a pause in her career as a comedienne in which she played 14 dates as a concert pianist.

"I want to find my place, and that's a hard thing to do. It's really easy to get caught up in my father's plans and forget about my own life." Terry McGovern, daughter of Sen. George McGovern.

"I feel my own particular duties would be like those of an ombudsman, a catalyst in bringing different groups together to solve problems." Barbara Boggs Sigmund, daughter of Rep. Hale Boggs, who has announced she'll run for a borough council seat in Princeton, N.J.

"No parent is ever 100 per cent certain that he did everything right in raising his children, but I do believe that if parents spend at least 50 per cent of their time working at it, the results can be gratifying." Lucille Ball discussing raising of her children.

"I had given up all hope of ever finding him. I'm relieved. It brought back a lot of memories." Nydia Johns at the funeral of her son, David, whose body was found recently on a Guadalupe battlefield where it lay hidden for 30 years.

The Waterproof Look

Women who love the beach, but haven't bought the "natural" look can still go in the water. Waterproof make-up now includes mascara, eye shadow, foundation and blusher. So you can swim and sun and still not worry about your make-up fading or smearing.

Bold Umbrellas

First came the bubble umbrella which revolutionized rain gear. Now they've added fabric interest for an even brighter rainy season. Look for umbrellas in bold prints, even plaids, walking in the rain.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Psychic No Scare to Slam

Bridge hand analysis table showing North, West, East, and South hands with card counts and vulnerable status.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The late Ambrose Casner of New York won the 1944 open pairs and was second in six other national events in a long bridge career.

His favorite hand was one that got his team into the finals of the 1948 Vanderbilt Cup.

East's one no-trump overcall was one of those psychics that work on occasion. This time it boomeranged, since Amby worked his way to seven spades. Amby might have bid seven anyway, but at the other table South stopped at six when East kept quiet.

Amby won the diamond lead with dummy's ace and played three rounds of trumps. Needless to say, he had some anxious moments until the jack of trumps appeared.

Then he led a heart to dummy's ace and ruffed a diamond. West showed out. Now Amby cashed dummy's king of hearts and ruffed a third heart. East showed out of this suit and Andy claimed the contract on a squeeze.

All he had to do was to run out the rest of his trumps. He had a perfect count of both opposing hands and West could not guard both clubs and hearts. Actually, he developed a double-squeeze situation. Only West could stop hearts. Only East could stop diamonds. After the last trump lead, neither opponent could hang onto three clubs.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

CARD Sense

The bidding has been: West North East South

Pass 1 4 Pass 1 4 Pass 3 7 Pass 7

You, South, hold: A 6 5 4 K 6 3 2 Q 10 7 4 5 4

What do you do now? A-Bid four hearts. Pass is a second choice, probably correct if your partner is an overbidder.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three hearts, your partner has bid two no-trump over your two hearts. What do you do now? Answer Tomorrow

Betty Canary

By BETTY CANARY

From a mother who has successfully endured 20 years of summer vacation periods with children, the following report:

TRUE: Children ages 2 to 12 find complete joy through mixing sand and stuff.

"Stuff" can be roughly translated as anything liquid or sticky, including water, orange juice, shoe polish, peanut butter, and the like.

Nobody ever learns to be neater about watermelon. Grass grows more riotously during the weeks the children are away.

Tennis shoes always squeak but infuriatingly so in July.

The mail-order companies who promise their books and magazines for kids guarantee to "keep them engrossed and will stimulate learning during the summer months" are guilty of fake advertising.

Everything seems to cost more in July.

Fathers play more golf in July. FALSE: Summer is wonderful.

Children need three months of vacation from school. Children wouldn't look so scruffy by Aug. 10 if their mothers cared more about them.

A sofa looks better after being covered with wet bathing suits, two dogs and sandwich crusts.

Other mothers let kids wear swim fins in the bathtub, eat cookies without a meal-break, buy Army surplus tanks, keep the freezer filled with crushed ice for snow cones.

Anything else kids tell you when you say "no" to them.

Mix a tablespoon of dry onion soup mix (just as it comes from the package) with half a cup of softened butter and spread over slices of French bread (kept in loaf shape). Heat the bread, wrapped in foil, before serving.
