Plains County To Have New Soil Program

Sherman Farmers Must Comply To Earn Benefits

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Agriculture Department approved today an experimental soil conservation program for Sherman county, Texas, which officials said would be used as a test of possible similar operations in other "dust bowl" areas.

The Sherman program would be separate from the regular agricultural conservation plan for 1939, the department announced, but would give cooperating farmers of the county as a whole approximately the same total returns in farm benefit payments.

Under the regular farm program, one part of the farm payment is made at specified rates for planting with acreage allotments of soil-depleting crops, less deductions for overplanting. The other part of the payment is for carrying out soil-building practices.

The department said under the Sherman county experimental program, the method of computing and earning the farm payment would be entirely different.

A maximum payment will be calculated for each farm and a farmer may earn up to that amount in only one way—carrying out approved soil-building or erosion-preventing practices. Deductions will be made for overplanting soil-depleting allotments—wheat in the case of Sherman county.

The maximum payment will be based on $1.05 an acre, adjusted according to farm productivity and other specifications.

The soil-building and erosion-preventing practices will be measured in units. Practices will be approved for each farm by the county committee.

Payments will be divided on the basis of 20 per cent to the landlord and 80 per cent to the tenant.

The department said of 382 farmers eligible to participate, 196 attended meetings in January to discuss the program. About 98 per cent of those attending approved, officials said.

O'Daniel Hits At Defense Program

AUSTIN, Feb. 14 (AP)—Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel said at a national defense banquet, given by the Austin American Legion post last night, "we should devote a great deal of time to building up our great state instead of worrying about countries coming over here."

"It is great to be governor," he said, "because so many things are happening. I have cancelled my subscription to the comic page. There is nothing funny there; it's on the front page."

"I don't think we are near war. We hear a lot of howling in Europe but they aren't going to do us any harm over here. It's time we did something for the common man who is always the loser because of the results of the last war and special legislation."

Illinois Resident Praises Pampa For Fine Hospitality

Mrs. Fred Erhart, critically injured in an automobile accident on U. S. Highway 66 near Jericho January 5 in which one was killed and four others seriously injured, had arrived at her home in Rock Island, Ill., according to word received here today. She was dismissed from Worley hospital last Tuesday.

A letter to a friend here said that Mrs. Erhart stood the long trip exceptionally well. She sent her deepest thanks and appreciation to everyone in Pampa for their many kindnesses, especially the Altar Society of the Catholic church for the rosary said at the bed of her nephew's wife, Mrs. Leo Dietz, killed in the accident.

"I will always remember Pampa," Mrs. Erhart said. "We could not have received more attention in our own home city than we received in Pampa."

Mr. Dietz and three children were seriously injured in the crash.

Anti-Fascists Delay Franco Recognition

PARIS, Feb. 14 (AP)—Determined opposition of a group of anti-Fascist ministers today compelled the French government to delay formal recognition of insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco as head of the legal government of Spain.

The cabinet decided merely to leave the diplomatic situation unchanged.

The minister agreed, however, to send Senator Leon Berard on a second mission to Burgos, the insurgent capital, for negotiations which many believed would lead to Franco's recognition.

It was indicated this time Berard would go as the official agent of France. When he visited Burgos a week ago his status was semi-official although he had the approval of Premier Daladier. He was said to have offered an "understanding" to Franco and brought back the insurgent leader's demand for recognition together with a promise that no foreign—Italian or German—troops would be permitted to remain in Spain after the civil war.

Molly O'Daniel Has Birthday—She's 17

AUSTIN, Feb. 14 (AP)—Molly O'Daniel, youngest member of Texas' first family, observed her seventeenth birthday today.

She entered the University of Texas at the beginning of the second semester.

Miss O'Daniel will be duchess of Texas at the Galveston Mardi Gras celebration opening Friday.

Negro Sentenced To Die

DALLAS, Feb. 14 (AP)—James Clifford Miles, 23, Negro who last spring figured in a series of robberies and attacks on white women near Dallas, today was formally sentenced to die in the electric chair March 24.

DENTON, Feb. 14—Margaret Finney, the charming young lyric soprano who sings the role of Prairie Flower in the opera "Cynthia Parker" at its world premiere at the North Texas State Teachers College February 16-17, is a school-marm.

Out in East Texas, where they are former Juillard student and professional singer, and a progressive Texan from "way back."

For Miss Finney will have you know that her family has been liberally mixed up with the forward-looking history of her native state from almost the beginning.

Take, for instance, the Swank blood in her veins. The Swanks came down the Mississippi from Wisconsin about 1854, and then up the Trinity to Dallas, at a time when that city was no metropolis.

Jackie Coogan Will Get About $100,000

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14 (AP)—Trial of Jackie Coogan's $4,000,000 accounting suit was expected to be postponed again today so his attorneys may conclude a settlement with his mother and step-father, the Arthur L. Bernsteins, out of court.

With $300,000 estimated left from the fortune he earned as a child film star, the 23-year-old Coogan probably will receive about $100,000 in a trust fund, it was reported.

Senators Demand Westerner Be Appointed To Succeed Brandeis

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—Retirement of Justice Louis D. Brandeis from the Supreme Court brought a chorus of senatorial demands today that a westerner be appointed to the seat he held nearly 23 years.

Only one member of the court, western legislators pointed out, comes from beyond the Mississippi river. He is Justice Pierce Butler, of Minnesota.

The 82-year-old Brandeis made known his decision to retire in a one-sentence note to President Roosevelt yesterday.

An hour before, the venerable jurist had stepped down from his high-backed chair in a crowded courtroom for the last time.

Hitler Compares Self With Great Bismarck

County Would Help Build Station Here

Aid of the county commissioners to establish a federal weather station at Pampa, provided they can legally allot funds for that purpose, was promised a Pampa Board of City Development committee at the county commissioners meeting Monday.

Under the plan, a 50x100 foot lot would be purchased on which a three room 22x20 foot building would be erected to house the building, which would cost $2,000. This weather station would be of value in furnishing advance weather information of special benefit to stockmen and farmers of Gray and other Top O' Texas counties.

Provided they can legally do so, the county commissioners tentatively agreed to allot funds for the establishment of the station, up to the amount of $2,000.

A follow-up long distance call on an original letter of inquiry to the attorney general will be made to check the legality of the commission's procedure, County Judge Sherman White assured the committee Monday.

All-in Explains Benefits R. G. Allen, committee member, explained the benefits to be derived from the establishment of a weather station here. He said Pampa would thus be placed on a circuit.

Damages of $60,000 are asked in a suit now being heard in 31st district court, styled Vivian Manson at vs. Gibson Machine and Tool Company. Action of the plaintiff is based on an automobile accident that occurred May 15, 1938, on a curve eight miles east of LeFors on the McLean road, in which Joe Manson, Danziger warehouseman, was killed and his son, Tommy, and son's companion, Harwell Hall, were injured.

The accident occurred when the Chevrolet car in which Mr. Manson and the two boys were riding was in collision with a truck of the Gibson Machine and Tool Company.

The case was started at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon when a jury was selected. Jurors on the case are F. W. Cobb, John C. Haynes, B. D. Vaughn, Roy Calvert, L. N. Atchison, Forest Seitz, F. M. Foster, Arthur Rankin, George E. Dull, R. E. Burton, J. J. Simmons, C. E. Ward.

Clyde Barrow's Sister Indicted In Car Theft

PAINT ROCK, Feb. 14 (AP)—A Concho county grand jury yesterday returned indictments against Marie Barrow Francis, sister of the late Clyde Barrow, and Ollie Minor Smith and Joe Carson.

The woman was accused of car theft and the men were billed on charges of car theft and assault with a prohibited weapon.

The trio, all from Dallas, was captured last November after a chase by officers.

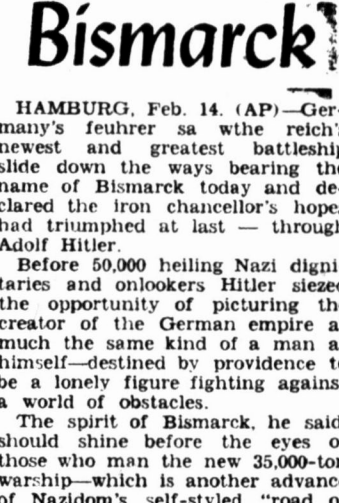

Japan Plans To Hold Hainan Island

TOKYO, Feb. 14 (AP)—Foreign Minister Hachiro Arta today told Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, British ambassador, Japan probably would hold Hainan Island until the end of the Chinese war and possibly indefinitely on grounds of military necessity.

This was virtually the same reply Arta gave the French ambassador, Charles Arsene Henry, yesterday when Henry asked for information on Japan's plans with regard to the island, which is near French Indo-China and the British colony of Hongkong.

Sources close to the French embassy predicted France would be dissatisfied with Arta's reply, but was doubted that she would attempt any action to oust the Japanese.

First Teacher In Gray County

Gray county's first school teacher, B. F. Williams, 88, is still alive. He is shown above, holding two grand-children on his lap. Mr. Williams has owned a 960-acre ranch nine miles south of Dalhart for 35 years.

He taught the first school that was organized in the county at Laketon. He was graduated from Clark's Academy, Berryville, Ark., and came to Denton in 1876. He moved to Gray county in 1888. He married Miss Rachel True in Cooke county in 1888, and celebrated his Golden Wedding anniversary in 1930. He is regarded as one of the best-versed men in the Panhandle on the history of the plains region. He personally knew such men as Temple Houston, W. B. Baker, Judge Browning.

For these successes, he said, the nation owed deep gratitude to those creating the preconditions for the third Reich.

He declared Bismarck "not only created the German Reich of his day, but also the conditions on which the present great German state of people could be reared."

His speech was heard by 50,000 cheering Nazi officials and spectators at the Blohm and Voss shipyards where the christening ceremonies were held.

The christening was performed by Countess Dorothea Von Loewenfeld, granddaughter of Bismarck.

Hitler arrived at noon on the free state of Hamburg government barge.

Czechs Startled By New Nazi Warning

PRAGUE, Feb. 14 (AP)—Leaders of the Czech-Slovak government were startled today by a blunt warning against their treatment of the Nazi German minority still within the borders of the little republic.

Ernst Kundt, who was Nazi leader Konrad Henlein's right-hand man before the creation of Sudetenland in Germany last October, addressed the Czech-Slovak government in a speech last night to learn a lesson from the events of 1938.

He declared the position of Germans in the republic was "unbearable" and said life had been made deliberately harder for them.

Loyalists Brace For New Attacks

PERPIGNAN, France, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Spanish government braced its central front today to meet the shock of any insurgent offensive expected soon in an effort to clinch victory in the civil war.

Government dispatches said Premier Juan Negrin and several members of his cabinet were visiting Jarama and Guadaluajara to bolster the defenses in those sectors.

Political parties and labor unions of the people's front were being consulted by other ministers on measures to bring the central army's force to top form.

All sectors were reported quiet as the insurgents shifted their strength from the northern front to the central zone. Border observers, however, expected an early insurgent thrust to counter the government's efforts at reorganization.

26 Persons Injured In Fire In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 14 (AP)—Twenty-one persons were injured, six seriously, early today in a fire which swept through an old frame mansion that had been converted into an apartment and rooming house. It was learned last night that all of the shortages have been repaid with the exception of the deficiencies in the offices of the district clerk and sheriff.

The shortages, as set forth in the report filed by Cornell and Company, CPA auditors, of Amarillo, were as follows: Sheriff's office... $1,298.48 District clerk's office... 175.91 J. P. Ct. 2, Pampa... 252.13 Tax collector's office... 297.80

County Spends Nearly $9,000 For 2 Machines

Expenditure of $8,710 for the purchase of two road maintainers was authorized by the county commissioners at their regular meeting Monday, when bids of five firms were opened.

To the Forrester Machinery company of Amarillo was awarded the bid on an Allis-Chalmers motor patrol maintainer for precinct 4, at a cost of $4,350. The R. B. George Tractor and Machinery company, also of Amarillo, was awarded the bid on a model 11 Caterpillar patrol maintainer for precinct 2, at a cost of $4,360.

Figures given are approximate, as extra equipment cost was included in bids submitted, and the exact total cost has not been determined. Both maintainers are to be Diesel-powered.

Bowden, 45, Dallas oil man killed in a plane crash near Corpus Christi last March 4, were awarded $7,500 damages in a judgment entered in district court here yesterday. The widow, Mrs. Nina W. Bowden, had filed suit for $250,000 against Booth-Henning, Inc., who, her petition stated, had chartered the plane in which Bowden, Dudley S. Golding and the pilot, P. F. Hotchkiss, met death.

NO PANTS NO PRINCE.

Prince Bertil of Sweden arrived late at a ceremonial luncheon in Philadelphia the other day because he could not locate the trousers to his only civilian suit aboard the warship that brought him over. After a vain search from deck to the captain's bridge, he had to go in uniform to a civilian party, utterly against the protocol in such cases provided. This shows that recent advice from a national tailors' convention should be heeded by all: the well dressed man must have at least a two-pants suit. Classified wardrobe help earn the cash.

Beyond the dreams of Kings

Perfumes from France, woollens from England, shoes from Massachusetts, oranges from Florida and California, coffee from Brazil, laces from Switzerland, motor cars from Michigan, pineapple juice from Hawaii . . .

Isn't it marvelous how the intricate machine of commerce constantly gathers the necessities, conveniences and luxuries of life from the four corners of the earth and puts them down right here in our home town?

Have you ever stopped to think what an important part ADVERTISING plays in making all this possible?

Without advertising, no merchant could afford to risk a large investment in merchandise—and wait and wait till some chance customer happened in. . . Without advertising, you would be unaware of the many lovely, useful, needful things assembled in the stores for your convenience. . . Without advertising, finding what you wanted at a price you could afford would be a matter of luck or of patient plodding from store to store.

Mass production and sales volume—through advertising—have brought to the American people an ease and comfort of living that would have been beyond the wildest dreams of kings of old.

Holt And Dies Voted Least Useful Solons In Congress

(By The Associated Press)

Rush Holt of West Virginia was voted today the Least Useful Senator and Hamilton Fish of New York the Least Useful Representative, by the correspondents of the nation's capital. The announcement was made in the new issue of Look magazine, which has conducted a secret poll of the Washington newsmen, because they are men who know the 76th Congress best.

George W. Norris of Nebraska was named Most Useful Senator and Sam Rayburn of Texas won that honor in the House of Representatives.

The correspondents made other selections including William E. Borah (Idaho), best orator; Bruce Barton (New York), best-dressed representative; Henry Cabot Lodge (Mass.), best-dressed senator; and George H. Tinkham (Mass.), most careless dresser in Congress.

Robert Wagner (N. Y.) and Robert LaFollette (Wisconsin) were close behind Norris in the vote for most useful senator. A poor second to Holt in the balloting for useful senator was Bilbo of Mississippi. Oddly enough, Senator Josiah W. Bailey of North Carolina received two votes, one for least useful and one for most useful.

Martin Dies of Texas shared a three-way tie for runner-up as least useful representative with A. J. S. Bath of Illinois and C. E. Hoffman of Michigan.

Hutton Summers of Texas ran second to Rayburn for most useful representative. Rayburn got more votes than all others in this classification combined. There were scattered votes for L. G. Warren of North Carolina, John L. Cochran of Missouri, and Speaker of the House William B. Bankhead of Alabama.

In the large division, Nebraska's Norris and Montana's Wheeler were runners up to Borah as the best orator. Woodrum of Virginia won the title in the House.

The correspondents voted Senators Connally of Texas and Harrison of Mississippi the best filibusters.

HITLER

"Hamburg" which brought him slowly up the Elbe. The whole harbor was gaily beflagged and all along the shore stood thousands gathered to witness the spectacle.

"From the moment of our taking over power," he said, "there began a recreation of German defense forces with the aid of which security of existence was to be vouchsafed our people.

"As the harpest instrument of war it is to take under its protection the people of true justice."

The Fuehrer then declared Nazism had evolved a "spiritual philosophy and organization for destroying from now on and for all future time the enemies of the Reich."

Hitler's reference to the destruction of the German fleet after the World War was to the scuttling of the ships by their officers as they were interned at Scapa Flow, coast of Scotland, June 21, 1919.

Hitler gathered important leaders of the army, navy and Nazi party about him for the official blessing of Germany's greatest warship—another advance on Nazism's self-styled "road of destiny" for 1939.

Largest Fighting Ship
The largest fighting ship ever built by the Reich, the new craft is 700 feet long and 118.11 feet wide. Hitler was flanked by such leading lights of Nazism as Field Marshal Goering, air minister; Propaganda Minister Goebbels, and Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop.

Among party leaders arriving today was Secretary Rudolf Hess who stayed over in Berlin last night to direct an appeal to Germany's youth to "come into the land of service of the Hitler youth."

Hitler's newspaper, Volkischer Beobachter said the new ship with the 26,000 ton battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst gave German sea power a place among the great fleets of the world.

Similar stations extending from Burbank, Calif., to Kansas City. He said these stations would be connected by teletype, and said there was an agreement between the Civil Aeronautics Authority and the United States Department of Agriculture on the stations. The latter department operates the weather stations.

Prompt Action Asked
All plans have been drawn for the establishment of the station here, the commissioners were informed, and the federal government desires to have the building ready by March 5. The project has been approved in Washington, and part of the equipment has already been received.

Prompt action on the part of the county commission was asked, it being pointed out that since the federal government wanted to put the station here, Pampa and Gray county should grasp the opportunity, as the next time a federal plan was formed that would benefit this section, Gray county, should it refuse to aid in the establishment of the weather station, would likely be passed up by the federal government.

Letters from The Pampa News and Pampa radio station KP-DN were read, endorsing the project. The radio station said it would be glad to have this information broadcast to its 100,000 listeners.

Mr. Allen saw Pampa as the logical location for the weather station. He said it was a county project and was not for the benefit of Pampa alone. County Commissioner C. M. Carpenter raised an objection to this, and asked what was the need of the station here when there was one in Amarillo.

Walker Urges Project
It was emphasized by the committee that inasmuch as weather warnings would likely be passed to cattlemen, the station here would be for the interests of the entire county.

Postmaster C. H. Walker explained the experiment with feeder rail mail lines and said there was a possibility that Pampa might benefit from a line that might be established here in the future. A plan of the CAA to establish radio beam stations for airplanes was told the commissioners by Mr. Allen, who in response to questions asked by County Judge Sherman White, mentioned a half-dozen oil companies that were now landing their planes at the local airport.

Lease of 70 acres adjoining the present airport is included as a part of the plans, but establishment of the weather station is not contingent on the procurement of the lease, according to a committee member.

Members of the project that met with the commissioners Monday to confer on the project were: R. G. Allen, Fred Thompson, Farris Oden, Garnet Reeves, E. J. Dunigan, Jr., M. A. Graham.

Following the individual reports, Mrs. Kelley submitted to the county commissioners a report covering the year 1938, to be filed with the county clerk.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (AP)—Stocks found the going a bit heavy today's market and the majority slipped fractions to around 2 points at the worst.

Little speculative nibbling in the final hour, however, enabled most leaders to reduce extreme declines and there was a handful of modest gains in evidence when the closing gong sounded.

Aircrafts lagged notwithstanding reports of another large French order for American-built warplanes.

Lacking rising volume were Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Commonwealth & Southern Preferred, U. S. Gypsum, Anaconda, Southern Pacific, Great Northern and Standard Oil of N. J.

Chevrolet, D. S. Rubber, J. C. Penney and Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit managed to post modest advances.

Bonds were irregularly lower. Commodities did better after a hesitant start.

Gray Commission Will Meet Again On Wednesday

With a great amount of business left unfinished, Gray county commissioners will meet again Wednesday.

Despite a seven-hour session Monday, not all the matters on the commissioners' docket could be handled yesterday. Assembling at 10 o'clock Monday morning, the commissioners adjourned at noon, reconvened at 1:30, and were in session until 7:30 o'clock Monday night.

In addition to approving the regular monthly bills for payment, which included bills for mileage, telephone service, elevator inspection, fuel, smithing, machinery accessories, and supplies for the janitor, the commission approved payment of $70.73 to the producing department of the Texas company for expenses incurred by the company in moving a cattle guard, sign, and other property from the right-of-way of a county road.

R. K. Waite, head of the auditors of Correll & Co., who submitted the report on Gray county fees of office, submitted a bill for $1,506.41 covering the two-months work. There were five men employed. The commission deferred payment on the bill until a future meeting.

For auditors report was in 12 divisions, a letter, then the separate ones for each office audited; a statement on bonds and taxes. Outstanding indebtedness of Gray county was itemized at $97,000, and the percentage of delinquent taxes for the years 1932-1937 inclusive was respectively 15.3, 11, 9, 6.8, 7.1, and 6.8 percent.

Fire On The Farm

The substantial rise in fire loss that occurred last year should be of especial interest to the farmer. For farm fires generally result in complete destruction of the property involved, and the chance of human and animal life is far higher than in cities.

In a number of states, community cooperation has made possible the creation of good fire fighting organizations, situated at a central point where a wide surrounding area can be quickly covered. Every rural town should consult with its neighbors and lay plans for establishing a system of fire protection.

Keep all buildings in a spick-and-span condition—a clean building seldom burns. Keep filled water buckets or other fire extinguishing equipment where they may be quickly reached—many a potentially disastrous fire has been extinguished in its infancy by simple and inexpensive equipment. Take unremitting care in handling and storing gasoline and other inflammables. Oil rags used to wipe machinery should never be left lying about, and should be kept in covered metal containers. Don't burn brush when it's windy—or when an excessively dry condition obtains.

Finally, if you're a smoker watch where you throw your cigarette, or knock the ashes from your pipe.

It's little precautions like these that prevent fire. They cost you next to nothing. They take little time. And they may save your home and your life.

Sign Of Character

Life insurance sales declined sharply during the early part of last year. During the last six months, they started upward again, and the improvement became noticeable toward the end of the year. And, according to late reports, they are still climbing, and prospects hold that 1939 will see a favorable total.

The continued desire the American people have shown to purchase life insurance, during even the worst of depression, is as good a sign of our national character as could be asked for. The average American wants to be independent—he wants to provide adequately for himself and his dependents in old age. He doesn't want to be a ward of the government. That augurs well for the future.

CAPITAL DOESN'T DO IT; PROFIT DOES IT (Saturday Evening Post)

H. H. Franklin, of Syracuse, founder of the motor-car company that bore his name, and of the die-casting industry, read Blessings of Bigness on this page recently and wrote us.

"You ask why," he said, "it is possible to sell, at ever-decreasing prices, the modern automobile and other products of daily use. The question is very much to the point, but more important, more basic, is the answer to the question: How is development, manufacture and distribution brought to the point of bigness?"

"Basically capital, as such, does not do it. Big business does not do it. Capital would have nothing to do with the automobile, the telephone, and the like, in their infancy. Not until they had demonstrated a permanent demand was capital or big business attracted. A little money is obtained here, a little there, but rarely, if ever, from big money. The inventors and promoters reach success by the profit route, by putting back their profits into development and growth. This was true of the Franklin Company and of the die-casting business. It is true of virtually all business.

"In all the discussion and political agitation of the profit system, so far as I know, this basic factor in progress is overlooked. It also is overlooked, I think, in the current patent investigation. The patent system enables the inventor to progress to the point of attention.

"Henry Ford spurred capital. Under our present laws and under the course our country is taking, the Henry Ford success never can be repeated, nor any similar industrial achievement. How can new developments come along if profit cannot be retained, if business cannot make growth out of itself?"

REJECTED (New York Times)

Last Summer President Roosevelt appointed Floyd H. Roberts as a Federal District Judge for Virginia. It was a recess appointment. In the words of Mr. Glass the other day, the nomination was "utterly and personally offensive" to the two Virginia Senators. They had sent to Mr. Roosevelt the names of two other candidates. He was aware of "the courtesy of the Senate." Nominations not acceptable to the Senators of the State from which the nominees come are almost certain to be rejected. The qualifications of the nominees are scarcely considered. Mr. Glass has said that Mr. Roberts "has had no experience," but that was a mere side issue. Governor Price and Representative Flannagan of Virginia, Democrats bitterly opposed to the two Virginia Senators, were the sponsors of Mr. Roberts.

It would have been easy for the President to have selected a person fitted for the post and not obnoxious to Mr. Glass and Mr. Byrd. He was willing to face a test of strength. In anticipation of it he promised to write "an interesting letter." He could scarcely have foreseen, however, the disastrous rebuff that he got yesterday. The Senate turned down the nomination by a vote of 8 to 1. While partisan feeling may have had its part in the comparative solidarity of the vote by which the Senate defended a custom against which strong argument can be made, and which at times has resulted in the confirmation of judges of doubtful caliber, in the present case Mr. Roosevelt is clearly the author of his own difficulty. He went out of his way to make a gesture of disapproval of the Virginia Senators, and on that issue a large majority of his own party deserted him. It must be added regretfully that some of his other appointments to judicial office seem to have been made primarily for political considerations.

Sharing the Comforts Of Life ---

By R. C. Hoiles

"QUITS THINKING" A contributor who signs his name as, "a reader," says the "Sharing the Comforts of Life" writer quits thinking after he has advocated free enterprise. The contributor further says, "I have never read what he wants to do with broken down capitalists, broken down workers who are at times excelled in their particular line of work and training."

My theory would be that the enterpriser who was not successful should be willing to work for some other enterpriser at the highest bid he could get from any of the hundreds of thousands of enterprisers. If he were not able to produce any wealth, his children or his friends should support him. If he has no children or friends, the local subdivision should care for him, not by giving him other things to mismanage but by marring his affairs—by having him do what he could and feeding him, clothing him and housing him and entertaining him as the local subdivision's duty elected officers believed he should be fed, clothed, housed and entertained.

And when we get away from this theory that people do not have to work when they cannot get what they themselves think their services are worth, we have unemployment, a constantly decreasing standard of living and, eventually, we lose what liberty we have. There is plenty of work for everyone to do, if we eliminate the interference of the government and if the government does what it was originally intended to do; namely, protect life, property, liberty and attempt to make justice cheap for rich and poor alike. It is because the government gets away from this original idea that we have so many people unemployed, disheartened and discouraged.

DESTROYERS OF LIBERTY

I am indebted to someone for mailing to me quotations furnished by Professor John A. Scott of Northwestern University on the question of liberties and bounties.

They should be seriously considered by every man who thinks he understands what democracy means. They speak for themselves.

Plutarch, in his Coriolanus: "There is no doubt that the real destroyer of the liberties of any nation is he who spreads among them bounties, donations and largesses."

Plato, in his Republic: "Democracy does not contain any force which will check the constant tendency to put more and more on the public payroll. The state is like a hive of bees in which the drones rapidly multiply and starve the workers so the idlers will consume the food and the workers will perish."

As I have been repeatedly contending, the Democracy that we want certainly does not mean majority rule democracy. It means an attempt to have each man reap the fruits of his own acts. And it seems to me history teaches us that to the degree we follow free enterprise, or the competitive system, do we approach this ideal, which I like to call democracy.

But, just as these great students have said, the majority rule does not beget justice.

"I WILL BE DEAD BEFORE"

Probably never in the history of America has one as often heard as we do now, the statement made by elderly people that: "I will be dead before the collapse."

But these elderly people who look at it from that standpoint are taking a cowardly view. They inherited the best government the world ever knew and they are turning over to their children a government not nearly as good as they inherited. Instead of taking this defeated attitude, they should bow their heads in shame and devote all their energies to trying to correct the evils which they have brought on themselves and their posterity.

No, that is not the way out—to contend that one will be dead before our troubles are corrected. The way out is to face the errors and fight to correct them. We are not worthy to have the respect of our children with that kind of a defeatist attitude. Things can be corrected, if people with insight and courage will unite and challenge the statements of the demagogues who are temporarily profiting by the largesses and the discriminatory laws the government has passed.

Behind The News Of The Day

By BRUCE CATTON Pampa News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—You'd never guess what queer little jobs some of these renowned cabinet ministers have.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, for instance. Along with keeping Uncle Sam's accounts, borrowing money for him and printing his currency, Mr. Morgenthau is responsible for seeing to it that the water you drink when you're riding on a railroad dining car is free from germs.

Fleety, outspoken Interior Secretary Ickes is responsible for many things in this broad domain of ours; but did you know that among them is an educational radio broadcast?

And Secretary of Commerce Hopkins—if New England's codfish runs fall off, he is the official on whom the ultimate worry comes to rest.

A GENERAL JUMBLE-UP These things (and many others like them) are so because of the way in which seemingly unrelated bureaus cluster about the different government departments.

Mr. Morgenthau's responsibility in regard to the dining-car drinking water, for instance, arises because the Public Health Service is under the Treasury Department. That happened, originally, because in the early days of the republic an impost was laid on incoming ships to provide funds for hospitals for seamen. Since government departments were few, it was handy to let the Treasury Department, which collected the customs, run the seamen's hospitals as well. Out of that grew the Public Health Service.

Ickes gets his radio broadcast responsibility because the Federal Office of Education comes under the Interior Department. And the Bureau of Fisheries, of course, belongs to Commerce.

MORGENTHAU GOES HUNTING Most of these bureaus pretty much run themselves, regardless of who bosses the department.

'YOU CAN GET OUT HERE'

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 14—Lya Lys has a grudge against Adolf Hitler and his Nazis. So while the making of "Confessions of a Nazi Spy" brings turbulence to the sets of various players gag at the parts assigned to them, and at giving the Nazi salute—even as actors, Miss Lys really relishes her prominent feminine role.

Some players were afraid of reprisal if they worked in this film. But the blond and "umphy" Miss Lys, who was born in Berlin, is eager to help make it a damning document.

She remembers Europe during the war scare. She remembers when some Nazi officials asked her to appear in some German pictures—and what she told them. She remembers the tortured faces of refugees from that country—"like beaten animals." She remembers going through Germany on her way to America this time, and how she was detained, and her money taken away, and how she was sternly warned never to come back.

They needn't worry. Neither wild horses nor tugboats could drag Lya Lys back to any European country, much less Germany. "There is nothing there—nothing—that we do not have 10 times better here," she said fervently. "On that side, everybody is miserable, scared, poor, depressed, and they talk only of things like gas masks. I tell you I cried when I saw the Statue of Liberty!"

Although counted as a foreign glamor-girl, Miss Lys is an American citizen. Didn't waste a minute after she first was brought here by Metro, in 1932, to make French versions of the scarlet masks. I tell you I cried when I saw the Statue of Liberty!"

She has made pictures in French, German and Spanish, but her parents were Russian and after her earliest childhood she was educated in Switzerland and Paris. Her father, now dead, was a banker. Her mother, a physician, now is a pediatrician in Paris.

SHE MIGHT HAVE BEEN A LAWYER. Miss Lys had intended to be a lawyer until a small part in a French picture changed her mind. Incidentally, Francis Lederer was in that first one, and he's now in "Confessions of a Nazi Spy." The actress worked in Hollywood in 1933 and 1937, and in the meantime appeared on the stage, mostly in a long tour of "The Night of January 16th." She did a play in France last year and was about to make a spy picture there when the Czechoslovakian crisis canceled production plans.

She came here this time on a long-term contract with Warner Brothers and, after tests, they decided she should impersonate Katharine Moog, the pretty galpal of one of the key spies who was convicted in New York last year. "I'm not exactly a femme fatale," she said. "The Moog woman was full of life, without pose, almost childish. That is better for me; I am not quite the vamp type."

AND SHE COULD HAVE BEEN A SINGER, TOO. Miss Lys is a little worried about whether she's giving a good enough off-screen performance as a glamor girl. For one thing, she took an apartment instead of a house with a swimming pool. She is not temperamental, and she likes to work. She You'd be surprised, though, at the extent to which some of the cabinet members do interest themselves in those out-of-the-day jobs of theirs.

Secretary Morgenthau is one who takes a keen interest in them. One night he was working late at the Treasury; got his desk clear, and suddenly reminded himself that the great Bureau of Engraving is under his charge. He immediately went over to the place, unannounced, and made a tour of inspection.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

A revival service at a negro Holiness church in The Flats was in full "swing"—and that description is not unjustified because part of the audience was dancing and swaying and gesticulating while a quartet of negro singers from Clarendon, Pampa, Amarillo were singing a long song about the Jordan River. They improvised as they sang, but the words had rhythm and harmony. The quartet sang that the water in the Jordan was cold, so cold, and they pulled up their coat collars; they sang that the water was deep and muddy and the negro audience chanted "that's bad!" Then they sang about heaven and the audience cried, "that's good!" There were young negro women down in front; she was dancing; she would fling her outstretched arms up and down and her head would follow her motions of her arms. There was abandon and happiness and joy in her face, and in the faces of the other negroes; there was no hysteria, no twitching, no wildness. The young woman soon began to dance and others joined her. There was a white woman who also began to shout "praise the lord" and move about clapping her hands while the quartet sang the endless song. The church was about half filled with white people. The negro bishop from a nearby town was preaching. The audience's low moaning and comments inspired him. "Yeah, Man!" some member of the congregation would shout and the others would take it up. "Yeah, Man!" and the preacher began to talk faster and louder. Then somebody would start a song and they'd sway and sing and dance for 15 minutes more, and shout "Yeah Man!" and "that's bad!" when the preacher deplored sin. It was 2 o'clock here, the service definitely broke up.

How's Your Health?

Dental Decay

Modern studies in the cause of dental decay have shifted the emphasis from the bacteriological (germs) to the nutritional (food) factors.

In the early part of the present century it was generally believed that dental decay was due mainly to lactic acid produced by bacteria normally present in the mouth.

Today it is maintained that "lactic acid" and the decalcification of the enamel do not cover the whole story. What the person eats—and above sugars—is believed to influence the resistance to decay.

The older and the newer viewpoints are not, however, incompatible. On the contrary, they integrate very well.

Dr. Nina Simmons of the University of California College of Dentistry has summarized the present relation of dental caries to nutrition:

- 1. If an individual is susceptible to tooth decay, he should reduce his intake of all sweet foods to a minimum. In this way he will keep the flora of his mouth low in those organisms known to be acid formers.
2. Each person should plan his diet so that all factors, including vitamin D, are present in abundance.
The disadvantages of these suggestions is that no one else can do these two tasks for us. Each individual must be responsible for taking a highly satisfactory diet while lowering his own intake of sweets. Parents must assume the responsibility for children.

"Long experience in studying dietary problems," says Dr. Simmons, "makes me question whether entire freedom from dental caries, even if this were possible, would be sufficient to induce the average person to refrain entirely from sweet foods."

"It is perhaps a sounder policy to urge moderation in rather than abstinence from sweets, and admit that some tooth decay will probably result."

"The cause of dental caries is an exceedingly complex problem but the data extant would appear to force the recognition of the relation of sweet foods to this disease. The science of nutrition contains numerous comparable examples—the role of diet in beriberi, scurvy, pellagra and xerophthalmia; the role of cod liver oil and sunshine in rickets."

Can you spot the error in the five following statements and give the reason why they are wrong?
1. Iowa meets Michigan in a Big Ten hockey game tonight.
2. Cordell Hull, secretary of state, was unable to attend a meeting of the United States Council on National Defense.
3. Gasoline is combustible.
4. Dora Spenlow was the leading character's second wife in Dickens' "David Copperfield."
5. A frittelle is a fried onion. (Answers on Classified Page)

The Pampa library which was to be opened was the subject of the program at the Rotary luncheon in the Methodist church.

According to many citizens, the coldest weather was recorded. Temperatures from one below zero to eight degrees above were claimed.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

The concluding discussion of a study course was conducted by the Rev. Gaston Foote at the regular "food, fun, and faith" night.

A group of Pampans attended a box supper at the Hoover school house.

He really inspected, too; saw that certain of the fire-prevention safeguards weren't adequate, and had them fixed.

Another of his stunts is to drop in quietly at some Coast Guard station when he happens to be in a seacoast town. (Coast Guard, you know, is under the Treasury Department.) He'll chat with the men on duty and ask them for any suggestions, complaints or remarks.

Tex's Topics

By Tex DeWeese

THE TOP editorial on this page Monday was submitted by John Sturgeon, the attorney, and, it's a good one. . . . He writes that he ran across it as a reprint in The Digest Year Book. . . . Mr. Sturgeon is right when he says he "thought possibly it would be worthy of the consideration of your readers." Every person who drives a car should read it.

That new voice you hear via KFDN these days belongs to Gene Moser, who formerly handled the "Moon River" program for a network and the commercials for Paul Sullivan, the WLW newscaster. . . . Incidentally, Mr. Moser's home-town is Alva, Okla.

IF YOU CAN REMEMBER WHEN A LEFT-OVER END OF THE PARLOR INGRAIN RUG WAS USED TO COVER THE PEDDLES ON THE ORGAN. . . . YOU LOOK YOUNGER WITH YOUR HAT ON.

And, in the same vein—Mrs. J. S. writes to ask "how many can remember when an oil driller worked 12 hours a day and went on tower on his own time, usually walking two to five miles, or driving a horse to a buckboard, an carrying a dinner pail with home-made pies, cake, sandwiches, etc., topped off with a half gallon of coffee?"

SHE ALSO WONDERS how many can remember when a well had to be finished before a driller could expect a pay-day, and when a driller's wife did her own laundry and let her husband do the family smoking—and when shackles were scattered over the leases were sweeter music than the modern electric pump ever will be?

"And," concludes this correspondent, "if you can remember when drillers and other oil field workers were paid wages that allowed them to lay off 30 days between wells without applying for unemployment benefits—then you are old enough to sit tight in your rocking chair, or apply for old age pensions."

AND HOW ABOUT YOU? . . . It is not our intention to devote the entire column every day to these "Remember Whens," but if you'll just ship us a short one, we plan on dropping one into the column every day. . . . Here's another sample of what we mean:

IF YOU CAN REMEMBER WHEN WOMEN CROSSED THE STREET TO KEEP FROM PASSING A BARBERSHOP FOR FEAR OF HEARING AN OFF-COLOR REMARK. . . . THEN YOU LOOK YOUNGER WITH YOUR HAT ON.

Nobody knows what's been going on, but these sure was a parade of persons through that grand jury room last week. . . . You don't reckon they're serving free lunch or something, in there, do you?

SECOND PRIZE ESSAY (Editor's Note: The following is the second prize article in the Junior group as to "What Is A Reasonable Profit.")

A Reasonable Profit What is a reasonable profit? Anyone who stopped to think a moment would probably reply, "Well, that's rather hard to say." And indeed it is hard to say, for there are many things to take into consideration. First we must understand what is meant by profit. Most business men consider it as the amount left over after all costs of supervising and managing that business. The reward of profits, however, goes farther than this. Each enterpriser has a great responsibility in guiding his business and making decisions for the future. These decisions naturally entail a great deal of unsharable risk and there is loss that must be borne by him. He can be said to capitalize his provision of the future. Naturally he stands to lose as well as to gain. It is obviously unfair to criticize a man for making large profits now if he is threatened with future losses or has lost money in the past. A profit must also be considered to some as probably a reward for more efficient and less wasteful production or for some special service rendered. Perhaps a company has made more money through the discovery of a new device or through eliminating waste or through possibly a certain bit of foresight in its provision of future demand; profit rewards the company later for the skill or initiative of its directors or promoters. This element of guidance and initiative to some extent even holds true for stockholders, who by their investments direct business from less productive to more productive services.

True profits, it would seem then, are rewards for services rendered, and that the enterpriser who renders the greatest possible service or adds to the maximum degree of usefulness to goods tends to forge ahead, for the profits gained by pure chance are inclined to disappear under corresponding losses—also a result of chance. There is one type of profit, however, that seems to be profit gained by unscrupulous or monopolistic practices. If an enterpriser gains profit by falsely advertising his product, or cheating the consumer, or trying to get some form of monopoly or illegal device in order to artificially raise the price of his product, then any profit he makes is unreasonably high. A profit of thousands of dollars made by a man through operating his business efficiently and exercising good foresight is justified; even a small profit if it is made by unethical and dishonest means is certainly not.

We must also consider that if a man appears to be making unusually high profits in a certain field, he will invite competition by others, who will then tend to lower the amount he makes by their competition. In fact, some economists say that under perfect and stable conditions of competition pure profit actually tends to disappear, although the incentive to get it remains and consequently stimulates enterprise.

Thus we might say that the reasonableness of a profit depends not so much on the amount, but more, perhaps, on the method of obtaining it. A man's profit, whatever it is, is fair if it is made by serving the needs of others more fully under a system of honest competition.

Would-Be Robber Punted Three Yards

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14 (P)—Manager Irvin Brod of a downtown theater fought a robbery in a heavy-footed manner.

He merely kicked the robber in the pants—and out of his office. A black-masked man, his fist jammed in his coat as if he had a gun, was waiting for Brod when he opened the door.

Just then a Negro janitor poked his head in, sized up the situation and fled. The distraction gave Brod an opportunity to get off a three-yard punt.

INDIA'S NEW MAP SHOWS LATEST CHANGES

DELHI (P)—A new map of India, on a scale of 50 miles to the inch, showing all the changes brought about by the introduction of the Government of India Act, has been issued.

The act involved the creation of new provinces and regrouping of states into different political changes which made all previous maps of India out of date.

Galento Really Believes He Can Whip Joe Louis

By GAYLE TALBOT
MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 4 (AP)—The most amazing thing I've run into on this trip is the tremendous popular interest in Tony Galento.

It amazed me particularly, because around New York we had about decided the country as a whole was fed up on reading about the orange fat boy. The series of odorous fights he had engaged in this winter, climaxed by the Nattie Brown affair in Detroit, had caused us to decide on a virtual Galento Moratorium until Tony fought a real fighter.

But it's no use. Through six or seven states the conversation almost invariably has come around to this: "So, you've seen this Tony Galento fight? Can he fight, or is he just a joke, like some of the fellows make out? Has he got a chance of whipping Joe Louis?"

I'll be dangerous if I know how good a fighter Galento is. Tony is a good friend of mine. I told him about the number of persons who were interested in his fighting ability. That didn't surprise him. I asked for once to get serious and not give me the same line about I'll knock out dat bum.

"All right," he consented. "I'll tell you serious. I can take anything Joe Louis can hit me in that stomach. I got muscles in that stomach when I was an ice man and I used to go around with two flights of steps with two 50-pound chunks of ice held in my arms. Louis can't hurt me there. All I say about him knocking me out is that I never been knocked out of my feet yet, much less knocked out."

"Now, tell me whether Joe Louis can take this left of mine when I sink it in his belly like this. I say Louis is afraid of me, and I'll knock him out if they give me that fight next June."

Having got a fairly serious answer from Tony, I asked his manager, Joe Jacobs, to tell me what he honestly thought, and not to kid an old playmate. I asked wasn't he afraid the big Negro would step around and open up a hundred old cuts in Tony's face and have him bleeding like a stuck hog within a few rounds.

"Sure," Joe agreed, surprisingly. "He might do it. But that's a chance we have to take. Personally, I think Tony could make him quit before that happened. I still say Louis can't take it, and I was in the other corner one night when he didn't take it, you know."

Jacobs referred, of course, to the night Max Schmeling hammered the present champion to the canvas. This much I'll say for sure, Fat Tony can really fight. He's no Primo Carnera. He doesn't need to be fed has-beens.

Jimmy Wilson Says He May Play Some

BRADENTON, Fla., Feb. 14 (AP)—Jimmy Wilson said today he'd leave the coaching box and don mask and mit again if his new team, Cincinnati, needs him.

Striding into the clubhouse after his first golf game of the winter season, the former manager of Philadelphia's National League club was anxious to talk baseball. "I'm tickled to death with my new place," he declared, "but any job would be better than managing the Phils."

Wilson said he would be in there playing if McKeechic wants him on the active list. Jimmy added he would be good for a lot more games if someone had to fill in for Ernie Lombardi, the league's 1938 batting champion, who probably won't need much help.

Medicine Mound Defeats Williams In County Meet

GOODLETT, Feb. 14. — The Medicine Mound Owls won the Hardeman County cage title Saturday night when they beat the Quana Indians 39-26 in the finals of the county tournament in Goodlett's new gymnasium. Led by Sossaman, who scored 18 points, and two twin guards, J. and B. Bellamy, the Owls led all the way. O. K. Edmondson scored high for the Tribe with 12 marks and was given valuable assistance by Tate.

The Owls won their way into the finals by clipping the favored Williams High Wildcats 27-23 Friday night and the Chillicothe Eagles 32-19 Saturday afternoon. Quana's best Kings High 30-20 Friday to enter the finals.

Williams bounced back Saturday after their opening defeat and thrashed Kings 64-16 in the consolation game.

CHILDRESS, Feb. 14. — More than a dozen championship basketball teams from nine counties of this area will gather in Childress Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week for the annual district interscholastic basketball tournament.

All games will be played in the high school auditorium and Coach Joe Gibson of Childress, district athletic director, will be in charge. It will be the final district tournament in the auditorium as the new $45,000 structure will be ready for use during the 1940 season.

Two teams are eligible to enter from each of the nine counties, but in the past several of the counties have sent only one team.

Counties in the district are Ford, King, Hardeman, Cottle, Motley, Collingsworth, Hall, Briscoe and Childress.

The Turkey Turks, the Williams Wildcats and the Carey Cardinals have the most impressive records in the district, but Williams was eliminated in the Hardeman County tournament Friday night. The Medicine Mound Owls, conquerors of Williams, are now rated as a threat.

Carey has won the title for the past three years.

QUAIL, Feb. 14.—The Quail basketball team defeated the Samnorwood quint Friday night to win the Collingsworth County championship for the third consecutive year. They will compete in the district tournament in Childress this week.

In 32 games played this year, Quail has won 25 games including victories in the Wheeler and Quail invitation tournaments. They placed second in the Canadian and Mobeetle tournaments.

Golden Gloves Champs Will Leave Wednesday For Meet

The eight Pampa Golden Gloves champions, accompanied by Harry E. Hoare, tournament director, Cliff B. Chambers, trainer, J. H. Duncan, and C. E. "Dan" McGrew, will leave tomorrow morning for Fort Worth, site of the state Golden Gloves tournament which will begin Thursday night at the Will Rogers Memorial. Headquarters of the Pampa winners will be the Worth hotel. They will arrive in Fort Worth Wednesday evening and will rest until the weigh-in at noon Thursday. Boxing will be in two rings on Thursday night, Friday afternoon and night. The tournament will close Monday night with the eight survivors eligible to compete in the national tournament in Chicago.

Winners in the local tournament have been training long and hard. They will not stop their training on the trip but will stop to exercise enroute.

Winners from the Pampa tournament which closed Friday night are: Benny Moore, Shamrock, flyweight; Frankie Bills, Shamrock, bantamweight; A. Robertson, LeFors, featherweight; Denver Hubert, Pampa, lightweight; Earl Brown, Adrian,

New Offense Practiced By Harvesters

There was no vacation yesterday for the Harvester basketball team, as Coach Odus Mitchell had announced.

Pete Dunaway, stellar guard, informed the coach alone in the afternoon that he would like to practice. Pete thought he would be the only one to report. When he arrived at the court, all the others were practicing shooting.

Fresh in the minds of not only the coach but of the boys as well was the humiliating defeat they suffered at the hands of the gloating Sandies last Friday night.

The boys had promised themselves a hundred times or more that never again would they play that way again.

So yesterday Coach Mitchell brought a model court and dummy players to practice with him to demonstrate an offense that would riddle a man-to-man defense like Amarillo's, or any zone defense. The team practiced the new plays.

Dunaway's wrist which is blue-lined with a swollen blood vessel is still sore and stiff, but it is improving. Dovie Aulds, the other guard, was suffering from a boil on his leg. It is the third boil in the same place this season. Remembering that he scored only one basket against Amarillo, Grover Lee Fiskell, forward, was practicing hitting the bucket—so was Nevin Johnson, substitute guard.

Pampa's first foe in the district meet will be Spearman. The team that loses will be eliminated. If Pampa and Berger win all Friday games the Harvester and the Bulldogs will fight it out Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Only one of the two teams can go to the finals.

Spearman's hot shot is a center that shoots from center and makes 90 per cent of his shots. He scores most of the points for his team.

Blaine Rideout Sets New Record

DENTON, Feb. 14.—Blaine Rideout, the larger Rideout twin who parts his hair on the left side of his head and alternates with brother Wayne in championship pace-setting duties, set a new record last Friday night at the Seventh Regiment Armory in New York City in the swankiest of all eastern seaboard indoor meets.

Rideout's time of 4:14.7 was five-tenths of a second faster than Glenn Cunningham's winning performance of a year ago. It was Blaine who finished second to Cunningham at the K. C. meet in Boston Jan. 28 and who dogged his heels at the Sugar Bowl meet at the first of the year.

Little Brother Wayne trailed Big Brother Blaine by 15 yards Friday night at the Seventh Regiment meet, a surprise, since it was Wayne who heeled Cunningham and Chuck Fenske in a close third in the famous Wannamaker mile Feb. 6 at the Millrose Games held in Madison Square Garden.

Blaine took over the pace-setting duties after the first two laps in the Seventh Regiment mile, and held the lead to the finish. John Borican, the indoor season's most promising discovery, finished a disappointing third. Borican was 35 yards behind and breathing hard.

Countries in the district are Ford, King, Hardeman, Cottle, Motley, Collingsworth, Hall, Briscoe and Childress.

The Turkey Turks, the Williams Wildcats and the Carey Cardinals have the most impressive records in the district, but Williams was eliminated in the Hardeman County tournament Friday night. The Medicine Mound Owls, conquerors of Williams, are now rated as a threat.

Blood Flows In Wrestling Match Here

Alan Plummer, former Texas Tech football star, set a new wrestling record here last night when he dropped Tiger Billy McEwin to the mat in 15 seconds to win the first fall. The Tiger from Montana, however, came back to win the last two falls and the match but not until after a rough and tough session which saw blood flow.

The main event was a honey but it was Ernie Peterson of San Francisco, a newcomer, that stole the show. Peterson turned out to be one of the sweetest pieces of wrestling machinery to appear here in a long time. Besides being a top hand at grappling, Peterson demonstrated that he can become rough and tough. He also showed a knowledge of the nerve-pressing type of grappling that pleased the crowd.

Peterson and Frankie Hill went to bat in preliminary and for nearly 15 minutes it was a great wrestling match. Then Hill clipped Peterson on the jaw and the Californian broke loose. The two shook hands after a slugfests match but warfare broke out again before the end as Hill tossed Peterson and Peterson hit Hill on the side of the head. It was then that Peterson struted his stuff.

Joe Banaski and Ray Riley of Muleshoe put on a rather slow semifinal. Banaski worked on Riley's arm until it was almost useless and Riley spent most of his time trying to keep away from the Oklahoma.

At the going opening the main event, Plummer raced from his corner and connected with a flying tackle. Before McEwin could get his bearing, Plummer had hit him three times more and fallen on him for the fall.

McEwin went haywire in the second fall but Plummer was able to stand the roughing until the end of 13 minutes when McEwin dropped Plummer with a few well aimed blows and then grabbed a leg breaker. Plummer patted the mat.

McEwin took the last fall in 18 minutes with a Japanese Crab. It was a wild and woolly battle with each using every hold and most of the unorthodox holds known.

Golfers To Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 14 (AP)—The nation's top-ranking golfers were moving into New Orleans today for the $10,000 Crescent City Open richest tournament of the winter schedule—which starts Thursday.

Such famed campaigners as Glenn Cunningham, Don Lash, John Brican, and Earl Meadows will compete tonight at the second annual Knights of Columbus indoor track games.

Cunningham is entered in the mile and will be opposed by Lash, Joe McCluskey, the old Fordham star, and Archie San Romani, the musical Kansas.

Borican, the Shore A. C. star, will start in the 1,000-yard fixture with Ross Bush of the Southern California A. A., Les MacMittell of N. Y. U., Francis Slater of Fordham, and Curtis Giddings of N. Y. U., as his chief rivals.

Meadows, member of the Coast contingent, is the feature entrant in the pole vault.

Gray Cage Champions To Be Decided Here Tonight

The high school basketball champion of Gray county will be crowned tonight in the Pampa high school gymnasium when the LeFors Pirates and McLean Tigers clash in a single game beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Admission will be 10 and 25 cents.

LeFors, McLean and Alanreed comprise the Gray county high school bracket and the winner represents the county in the district tournament here. Pampa, tournament city, does not compete within the county but goes directly to the district tournament which will be played on Friday and Saturday of this week.

LeFors and McLean both defeated Alanreed and then divided games, each winning on their home court.

Coach Francis Smith of LeFors and Coach Cricket Christian of McLean agreed to play off the tie in Pampa tonight.

The Pirates started the season like a whirlwind and were placed the favorite in the district tournament. They slumped, however, and it was not until a week ago that they began hitting their stride again. On the other hand the Tigers started slowly and kept improving with every game until now the McLean boys are in the thick of the battle for top honors.

Famed Runners To Compete Tonight

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 14 (AP)—Such famed campaigners as Glenn Cunningham, Don Lash, John Brican, and Earl Meadows will compete tonight at the second annual Knights of Columbus indoor track games.

Cunningham is entered in the mile and will be opposed by Lash, Joe McCluskey, the old Fordham star, and Archie San Romani, the musical Kansas.

Follett Becomes Favorite After Whipping Spearman

Now comes Follett of Lipscomb county with a basketball team that may throw the other teams of the district tournament in the lower bracket completely in the shade.

Yesterday, Mobeetle looked like the team to beat but today Follett was sitting in the favorite's seat with figures to back her up.

News of the Follett sensation was brought to Pampa by Coach Odus Burke of Perryton whose Rangers have been walloped twice by the Lipscomb county champions.

Follett's most impressive victory was a 51 to 28 riot of the Spearman Lynx, one of the district tournament's favorite teams. Spearman had one of the most powerful teams in the north Panhandle—until they met the Follett quintet. North Plains coaches now are quite convinced that Follett has the best team in that section.

Catfish Sends Warning

New Atlanta came yesterday from Berger. The Catfish coach of the Berger Bulldogs who were nosed out in the district meet last year by Pampa, sent word over here that he is going to beat the Harvesters this year.

"We beat you in all practice games last year, and you beat us this year—time about's fair play. We're going to beat you." That was the way the Catfish reasoned it out.

As the 12 teams of this district polished their offenses and defenses for the meet that will be

Browns Release Linke

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 14 (AP)—Ed Linke, righthanded pitcher for the St. Louis Browns, was given an outright release to the San Antonio Missions of the Texas league yesterday.

Upsets have already featured play in several districts. For instance, Williams, the team that beat Carey twice, was eliminated in the Hardeman county tournament by Medicine Mound who will be one of the favorites in the Childress district tournament this week-end. Quail will also be a favorite. The Childress county championship will be either Tell or Carey. The Cards lost to Tell in the county tournament last Saturday but the Tigers must also win a playoff this week.

Amarillo, Canyon and Dalhart, in the other named, are favorites in the Canyon district. Lubbock is the present favorite in the Lubbock district.

SERIAL STORY

WOMEN WANT BEAUTY!

BY LOUISE HOLMES

Yesterday, The Harker store shows Susie and she is off at last on a startling adventure to become beautiful!

CHAPTER IX

PEOPLE brushed past Susie as she waited for the Chicago bus scarcely without knowing she was there. They looked through and around and over her, not once directly at her. And absolutely never had she been granted that second, flattering glance...

and Mr. Harker should have arranged a system of signals, or she should have worn a white carnation. Again the demoralizing laughter rose in her throat. It was so much like a sob that she reached for her handkerchief.

BUT at that moment a young man breezed out of the crowd. He had red hair and very blue eyes. His eyes were smiling. He was vaguely familiar. Snatching off his hat, he held out a hand.

"How do you do, Miss Lambert," he said cordially. "I'm Jeff Bowman. Mr. Harker sent me down to meet you."

Susie gave him her hand, stammering a greeting, trying to remember where she had seen him. "How about baggage," he said, reaching for her rattan suitcase.

"That's all," she managed to say. She was hot and cold by turns and dreadfully embarrassed. Jeff went on being friendly, appearing not to notice her confusion.

He said, "I leaned my car against a curb somewhere around here. Let's see if we can find it."

His easy manner released her nervous tension and she exhaled a deep sighing breath. He smiled down at her. "That's right—untie the knots. You're among friends."

SUSIE thought this over. When she spoke it was to make one of the first clever remarks of her life. "I guess you were boy scouting," she said. "I was your good deed for that day."

Jeff's brows shot up. Not so bad. Maybe she did have something hidden under the pounds.

"I take it you wanted to come," he remarked.

"I had to come," she said simply. "I'm so tired of being myself, so sick of me."

Right then Jeff saw her as an individual, not merely a subject for the Chief's well-meant experiments. And right then Jeff liked Susie. Perhaps she knew it without knowing it. Perhaps his friendliness was the first point of the wedge which was to break through her inhibitions. Perhaps the fates had put a finger on Jeff Bowman.

"I'm taking you home to dinner with me," he said as they drove out through Lincoln Park. "My mother wants to meet you. You'll like her, she's swell."

"That's nice," Susie said, a little thrill in her voice. No one had ever wanted to meet her before. Then she remembered and laughed. At the laugh Jeff shot her an amazed glance. The laugh was musical. It was incongruous, it affected him as Susie's singing had affected her professors.

"What's funny?" he asked. "I was thinking that naturally your mother would want to meet me. Anyone would want to meet a poor fool." She said it quite good-naturedly. Susie's sense of humor was coming out of the dark by leaps and bounds.

"Say," Jeff growled, "cut out that kind of talk. You're lucky, just plain lucky to be elected."

A SHUDDER of fear ran the length of Susie's spine. "I'm scared, Mr. Bowman. This thing is too fantastic to believe. You and I know that I'm impossible. Mr. Harker will see it in the morning and send me back home. I'm not afraid of what he's going to do, it's what he will refuse to do." This was a long, involved speech for Susie.

"You don't know John Harker. He won't send you home. If there's anything he likes it's a battle." Jeff blushed. "I didn't mean that just the way it sounds."

Susie laughed again, a soft tinkle. "He'll find a war on his hands when he tackles me," she said.

Jeff wanted to reassure her. He wanted to tell her that she wasn't so bad. Honesty kept him silent. Bad? She was terrible. Slumped beside him, stringy hair hanging from below her hat, eyebrows flaring out pug-nosedly, idiotic button of a nose. Jeff humorously decided the Chief had better junk her and start all over.

On one point Jeff was pleased. Susie Lambert was not stupid. Knowing little of girls and caring less, he had a strong conviction that beauty and attractiveness must come from within. Allure must have something behind it. Very dubious as to Susie's possibilities for even a mild beauty, he already knew that she had something.

Texas Today

By HARRELL E. LEE

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel is making friends among some of the bigwigs at Austin, and they like him. As the people out at the forks of the creek who listened to the O'Daniel broadcasts have known for years, the former Fort Worth flour impresario is cheerful, good-natured, optimistic and a good fellow.

Some of the legislators found that out at a barbecue at Sen. Houghton Brownlee's ranch between Marble Falls and Burnet. The senators kidded the governor about his 35-cent meals, his policies and his former residence outside Texas, but O'Daniel came right back with his own wisecracks and took it all in fun.

The governor even led the senatorial singing of "Sweet Adeline" before the party was over.

One senator suggested that O'Daniel write a song dedicated to Sen. Joe Hill of Henderson, entitled "Way Out West in Kansas."

"If he's going to dedicate the song to me, I prefer 'Beautiful Ohio,'" said Hill. The new governor was born in Ohio. He is the first man born north of the Mason Dixon Line to become governor of Texas except in the "carpet bagger" days.

At the senatorial barbecue O'Daniel jokingly admitted the dinner could not have been provided for 35 cents, the amount the governor insists is enough to spend at least while eating on a state expense account.

It probably will be many weeks before Texans know whether they will be called upon to vote this summer on new state taxes to finance the Social Security program.

This is the most important question before the 46th legislature but Texas legislatures, almost without exception, don't take final affirmative action on leading controversial issues until the last month of the session. That means a conclusive vote on the proposed amendment to increase taxes hardly can be expected before April.

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel submitted his proposed transactions tax constitutional amendment Jan. 18 as emergency legislation and urged that action on it be expedited, but the lawmakers are far from showing no disposition to rush matters. Since the tax wouldn't become effective until Sept. 1, they feel deliberate consideration at the proposition is time well spent.

If the proposed constitutional amendment doesn't go through the legislature until April and is voted on by the people in June as O'Daniel requested, that will leave time for only a two month campaign.

Some of the most vigorous opposition to either a transactions or a general sales tax has come from university economists and government professors. Their objection is that a sales tax falls too heavily on the poor.

In a recent newspaper article,

George C. Hester, professor of government in Southern University, Georgia town, and former legislator, dismissed the transactions tax with an assertion it would be "unworkable, especially if frozen into the constitution." He said a movement for a sales tax, which levy he termed "vicious," was "developing behind the scenes" at Austin.

"Texas is a rich man's paradise," Hester argued. "I hope we can keep it that way, but not at the terrible and ghastly cost of plundering our and underprivileged children, and by making it harder for small business to compete and carry on."

One of the chief contentions for a sales impost is that it would make the average person tax-conscious and cause him to "go-slow" in the future in agitation for more governmental spending.

Maybe you can't teach an old dog new tricks, but Lieut. Gov. Coke Stevenson is learning quickly.

The only man to serve twice as speaker of the House of Representatives, he has become presiding officer of the Senate by virtue of his new office.

Some old House habits are clinging to him but slowly he is dropping them. It has caused snickers several times when he addressed the members as "Gentlemen of the House" and referred to the Senate secretary as "the clerk." For some reason senators are not called "gentlemen" by the chair. Each is simply referred to as "the senator from Dallas" or the "senator from San Antonio" and so on. The secretary of the Senate reads bills, resolutions and other documents, not the clerk as in the House.

Stevenson's sense of humor has not dimmed.

He got a big laugh the other day when, talking he was out of tobacco, he stopped floor proceedings and announced:

"The chair yields to the Senator from Eastland long enough for him to send up some tobacco."

E. R. Lindley of Beaumont, for four years bookkeeper in the House, was elected chief clerk this year. The office is filled by election of House members and there was a close contest. As in a race for state office the campaign begins early and although he was fairly optimistic throughout Lindley admits he was NOT of the calibre of his son's optimism.

Early in October the 14-year-old lad asked him how his race was coming.

"Well, all right, I guess," Lindley said.

"It better be," the youth retorted. "They gave me a card to fill out at school today and in the place where you are supposed to list your father's occupation I wrote 'chief clerk of the House of Representatives.'"

REPORT

nor from ex-Deputy Sheriff Buford Reed. The net deficiency in the office of the district clerk, $175.91, has no relation to the sum of $250 included as a receipt of office, and which is the estimated amount of money Miss Wilson is said by county officials to have admitted taking from her office.

The auditor's report mentions two checks deposited by the district clerk, one for $59.70 on Nov. 30, the other for $190.30 on Dec. 1, making a total of $250.

Questioned as to the $175.91 deficiency reported by the auditors, Miss Wilson expressed surprise, saying that she thought she had made full reimbursement.

Both Under Bond. Miss Wilson is under $1,500 bond on a complaint filed on Dec. 8 in the court of Justice of the Peace E. F. Young in which she is charged with embezzlement of county funds. Reed is under two bonds of $1,500 each on two grand jury indictments of Nov. 3 charging him with misappropriation of fees.

Justice of the Peace E. F. Young has paid $252.13 to make good a reported deficiency of that amount. Mr. Young said he could not account for the shortage and believed there was some error in his bookkeeping.

He said he realized, nevertheless, that the report showed a deficiency, and that he desired to make up the reported shortage. The justice indicated that the condition of his books probably was due principally to the large volume of business transacted by his office. The report pointed out that others had access to his desk and cash-box.

Leach Gives Check. Tax Assessor-Collector F. E. Leach said that some time ago he noticed accounts in his office not checking as he thought they should. Discovering a shortage, he said he had immediately gone before the county commissioners and given his personal check for the amount. Not until the auditor's report was prepared early this month did he learn that the deficiency was greater than he had thought. He then paid off the remaining deficiency, $297.80, as soon as he had learned of it.

He said that a day-by-day system of bookkeeping had been installed in his office that enables him to know exactly what each day's receipts and disbursements have been. "This is the first time I've experienced anything like this," Mr. Leach said. "The state auditors have always found my reports correct."

Grand Jury Studies Report. County Judge Sherman White last night said he had no statement to make in connection with the report of the auditors. Five copies of the report were prepared, and these five copies were examined last week by the 31st district court grand jury.

On Feb. 21, the grand jury, which adjourned Feb. 10, is to reconvene, and will make a further study of the report. It is believed. No indictments were made by the grand jury last week.

On the deficiency in the sheriff's office the report states that the sheriff's dockets were examined in detail and that cases marked paid were traced to the cash book and monthly reports were traced to the treasurer. All bank statements and cancelled checks were scrutinized and compared with the record of receipts and disbursements. The legal status of the claims of newspapers and garages for unpaid costs is now being investigated by the county attorney, the report explains. The report, of course, does not affect the present sheriff's administration.

The total deficiency, $1,398.48, in fees of office, may be slightly increased as the auditors at the time the report was prepared were still receiving replies to letters and follow-up correspondence on original inquiries.

1938 Salary Report. None of the deficiency was subsequent to Nov. 2, 1938. The total fees of office collected and not reported amounted to $774.17, publishing costs collected and not reported, $337; cost of caring for prisoners collected and not reported, $203.15.

It was noted that the sheriff's salary for October, November, and December, 1938, totaling $937.50, had not been paid. Audit of the sheriff's office went back to 1938. Excess funds ranging from 10 cents to $45.42 were reported in other county offices. Toll Moore, former justice of the peace in precinct 5, had an excess of one dime in funds of his office, while County Clerk Charlie Thut, topped the excess total with $45.42.

This excess, it was explained, was due entirely to the fact that the county clerk had paid fees due other officers and made refunds to litigants from his personal bank account. Records of the office were declared to be in fairly good condition. The audit of Mr. Thut's records was for the years 1936, 1937, and 1938.

None of the records of the justices of the peace were in good condition, the report states, and this was attributed by auditors, to the fact that the officers had not been informed as to the necessity of keeping accurate and adequate records, and inasmuch as all fees of office now accrue to the county, the auditors deemed it advisable that such instruction and information be furnished the officers.

Records Poorly Kept. With the exception of the county treasurer and the county tax assessor-collector, county records in general are in poor condition, the report declares, which condition is attributed, in the auditor's opinion, to the insufficiency of internal audit and supervision.

Records of the county treasurer's office, especially those for which County Auditor R. C. Wilson is responsible, were found to be in an excellent condition, and only minor errors were discovered. There were no discrepancies. Fund balance of Dec. 31, 1937, was $196,763.46, of Dec. 31, 1938, $164,502.35.

Hughes Has Excess. Charles I. Hughes, justice of the peace of precinct 2, place 1, has an excess of $2.81. Accounts of R. D. Massey, justice of the peace, precinct 4, and Justice E. A. Vance, precinct 1, and of constables Henry Shoffitt, precinct 1, the late O. H. Hendrix, precinct 2, C. G. Nicholson, precinct 5, J. A. Darnell, precinct 4, showed no discrepancies. No discrepancies were shown in the accounting of the justice of the peace held by James F. Heasley, who died on March 7, 1938, and whom Toll Moore was appointed to succeed in the office on March 12, 1938.

Sum Due Gordon. County Attorney Joe Gordon is due $361.35, the report shows, this sum being attorney's fees in the collection of note on Gray county school land in Gaines county. The county attorney turned the money over to the county, but according to a letter from Gerald C. Mann, attorney general of Texas, 10 per cent of the total amount collected should have gone to Mr. Gordon, the report states. Mr. Gordon turned in the whole sum collected to Gray county without deducting any fees. There was no deficiency in the county attorney's office nor in that of the county judge.

Revelations made by the submitting of the auditor's report to the county commission Monday had their beginning in an investigation started by county officials in September, 1938, that culminated in Buford Reed, a deputy in the sheriff's department since March 24, 1934, being indicted on Nov. 3 for misappropriation of fees.

Reed posted bonds of $1,500 on two indictments, one charging him with misappropriating $24.64 on July 15, and with misappropriating another sum of $2 on Sept. 1. At the time the indictments were made, District Attorney Lewis M. Goodrich estimated that there was a possible shortage of around $800, that had occurred over a period of months.

Reed appeared before the grand jury on Nov. 3 and made a statement. The deputy sheriff could give no reason for his action, the district attorney said, and made an offer to make full restitution when the exact amount of the shortage became known.

Reed had been acting as office deputy for some time and had virusually been in charge of the detailed business of the sheriff's office since the death of Sheriff Earl Taley in June, 1938. The indictments against Reed were the last made by the grand jury in session at that time. The grand jury adjourned on Nov. 3, and made its final report in which it severely criticized the operation of the fee accounting system used by "various departments of the county government" and ordered that reports be made according to law from thence on.

A second bombshell fell five weeks later, when on Dec. 8, Miss Wilson, the district clerk, was charged with embezzlement of county funds, after she had, according to county officials, gone before Cornell & Company auditors who were starting their audit of county funds. County Judge Sherman White was called into the county courtroom where G. E. Browning, Maurice Finley, F. E. Grimes, and R. K. Waite were at work.

In her statement to the county judge Miss Wilson admitted taking sums of money ranging from 35 cents to $14.70 over a year's period. These sums were replaced, she said. An estimate of the total amount involved was $250.

The complaint against Miss Wilson was filed with Justice of the Peace E. F. Young, and was signed by County Attorney Joe Gordon. It specifically charged the district clerk with having on or about Oct. 1, fraudulently embezzled, misapplied, and converted to her own use the sum of $4.55, this amount being the costs in a suit styled O. L. Eaton vs. Clois Eaton, and paid to the district clerk as costs therein by F. A. Cary.

Miss Wilson posted bond of $1,500 the morning following the day on which the complaint was filed.

Boycotted School In Good Standing

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14. (AP)—Lowell High school, boycotted after its basketball coach was accused of enticing junior high school athletes to Lowell with ice cream cones and free street car rides, was back in good standing today.

George Washington, Commerce, Mission and Galileo high schools accused Lowell's coach, Benny Neff, of using unfair tactics in obtaining prospects for his team. They voted to boycott Lowell and Mission and Galileo forfeited their scheduled games. Three other schools, Polytechnic, St. Ignace and Sacred Heart stuck by Lowell. Principals of the schools held a secret meeting last night and voted to forget the whole thing. Ras Johnson, prep basketball commissioner, was ordered to rearrange the cage schedule so Mission and Galileo can play their games with Lowell.

Corona Will Sing Role In Texas Opera

DENTON, Feb. 14.—The North Texas State Teachers college this week stood on the eve of the most important musical event of its history—a world premier of the first opera ever to "open" in a Texas college or university.

Julia Smith's "Cynthia Parker," which has its first performances on Feb. 1-17 at the Teachers college with Lenora Corona, former Metropolitan opera prima donna, in the leading role, is one of the few operas ever to open in this section of the country, and one of the few based on Texas pioneer history. For this reason the event has attracted wide critical interest both in Texas and the East, where the composer, Julia Smith, is a Juilliard fellowship holder in composition. Both the New York Times and the New York Sun have carried stories about the opera. Present for the Denton performances will be some 15 or 20 leading newspaper critics, reporters and photographers from over Texas.

Miss Corona Arrives. The cast went into final production last week-end following the arrival on Feb. 10 of Miss Corona, who flew from New York to Dallas, landing there at 10:17 Friday morning. The composer, Miss Smith, reached Denton several days earlier. After witnessing first rehearsals, she expressed herself as more excited about her Texas premiere than over the New York production which is to come later.

To her alma mater, the North Texas State Teachers college, Miss Smith, who in private life is the wife of Oscar Velez, New York engineer, expressed her deepest appreciation for an experiment in co-operation production to which she said national importance is already attaching itself.

Since "Cynthia Parker" is a peculiarly native product, written by a Texas composer about an incident in Texas pioneer history, and performed by a cast of Texans, a Texas opening is far more significant than a first-night would have been in New York City, Miss Smith stated.

"The Denton Teachers college," she said, "is distinguishing itself in this production as a pioneer in American music."

Although the Teachers college has used some professional talent in the casting, the production is still definitely a campus project. A spoken cast of 15, a ballet of 50 dancers, choruses of 40 singers, and an orchestra of 30 musicians is composed almost entirely of students. A student production crew has built the entire elaborate set.

Fortune Wrote Libretto. Roger Harris of Dallas, who has the leading male role of Quanah in a graduate student in music at the Teachers college, Miss Margaret Finney of the music faculty of Temple Junior college has the third leading singing role, that of Prairie to the character of Cynthia Ann Parker.

The libretto, written by the composer, is a dramatic Texas writer, Jan Isbell Fortune, is based on the story of a Texas white woman who as a child was kidnapped by Comanche Indians, married one of their chiefs, and later was recaptured by Sul Ross and a body of Texas Rangers.

The opera departs widely from historical fact, but it remains true to the character of Cynthia Ann Parker, who longed to return to the Indians who had reared her. Most of the music, which is built around Indian themes, deals with the inner struggle of Cynthia Ann in her wish to return to the Indians.

The spoken cast for the opera is under the direction of Mrs. Myrtle Hardy of the college speech department, the ballet under Miss Donnie Cotteral of the physical education faculty, and the musical conduction and direction under Dr. Wilfred C. Bain, head of the music faculty.

Common Sense About Constipation. A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with constipation is get at its cause. That way you don't have to endure it first and try to cure it afterward—you can avoid having it.

Chances are you won't have to look far for the cause if you eat the super-refined foods most people like. Most likely you don't get enough "bulk" and "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this is what you lack, try crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains just the "bulk" you need. Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and join the Regulars. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

'De-Inked' Waste

Paper Passes Test

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 14. (AP)—Newsprint created from "de-inked" waste paper has passed its most severe test and the inventor predicted today the process he believes may revolutionize the industry would be producing the paper commercially in a matter of months.

Newsprint is the paper on which your daily newspaper is printed and now comes largely from Canadian wood pulp.

Last night the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette tested the new paper. Dr. W. F. Hochstetter, Pittsburgh inventor, smiled as he watched the high-speed presses run off 8,000 copies, each containing four pages made from his processed newsprint.

Even skeptical pressmen praised the new paper's resistance. Editors thought the pages printed on the waste paper newsprint seemed easier to read because, they said, the paper was whiter.

Dr. Hochstetter, who claims his process will reduce the price of newsprint from the present sale of $50 to $55 a ton for wood pulp to $30 to $35 said it would be "several months, at least" before commercial production could be started.

His newsprint was made from old magazines, newspapers, poster sheets, even carbon paper. It made a dirty pulp, but come out white under the inventor's secret chemical treatment.

Hitherto, Dr. Hochstetter explained, efforts to reclaim paper by chemical removal of ink failed because the chemical destroyed the wood fibre used in the manufacture of the original paper.

Bare Limbs Banned At Provincetown

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Feb. 14. (AP)—This picturesque fishing town—haven of artists and summer theaters—will be under wraps next summer by virtue of a decree that bare limbs henceforth must be hidden under garments "coming at least to the knees."

Shorts, halters and "immodest dress" all come under the under-the-overcoat order adopted at a special town meeting last night at the behest of the local branch of Catholic Daughters of America. The law made no exception for Boy Scouts or girl summer campers.
