Carter says U. S. can cut off allies' oil tap

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Iran's diplomats ushered out of the United States amid cries they were treated like hostages themselves, the Carter administration is warning U.S. allies that it, too, can shut off the Iranian oil tap.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance asked about two dozen ambassadors to come to the State Department this afternoon to hear what this nation wants their governments to do in support of U.S. economic sanctions against Iran.

The administration reportedly is considering a naval blockade of Iran's sea routes or the mining of its oil ports, which would block Iranian exports and cut off the oil revenues that sustain the Persian Gulf country.

The Moslem militants occupying the U.S. Embassy in Tehran threatened today to kill all their American hostages if the United States takes any military action against Iran.

"We warn the U.S. government, with all frankness, that if America launched any military aggression against Iran, we will kill all the hostages immediately," said the militants' statement, carried by Tehran radio.

White House spokesman Mark Henderson refused to comment immediately on the militants' threat. He said he did not know which options Carter might be considering for what he called a "show of force."

Iranian diplomats in the United States hurriedly packed their bags and left the country Tuesday night on flights from Washington, New York and Los Angeles. FBI spokesman Roger Young said only one of the 35 diplomats affected by the expulsion order was known to have stayed behind, and he was expected to leave after being released from a suburban Washington hospital where he was admitted after complaining of chest pains.

"I was like a hostage in our embassy for 156 days," Ali Agah, the Iranian charge d'affaires, said. "I'm glad I'm going home."

U.S. officials showed no sympathy. They rejected last-minute appeals by at least six Iranian officials who asked to stay in the country for humanitarian reasons. One Iranian reportedly sought political asylum, but that, too, was turned down.

It was the first time the United States severed diplomatic relations since cutting ties with Cuba after Fidel Castro installed a communist regime in 1961.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said Tuesday that Carter has run out of patience with Iran and will take additional action unless the 53 American hostages in Tehran are released.

He refused to specify what action is contemplated. But he emphasized that whatever Carter decides would not have unanimous support of U.S. allies, who have resisted cooperating with trade sanctions first imposed against Iran months ago.

Powell said the reference to additional action was "a clear statement of policy" and advised European and Japanese allies to consider carefully what the next move might be.

In addition to ending diplomatic relations, actions announced by Carter on Monday included trade sanctions, allowing claims against Iran's frozen assets in the United States and invalidating visas for future entry into the country by Iranians.

The administration reportedly is considering a naval blockade of Iran's sea routes or the mining of its oil ports.

School recount group named

By DEBORAH BRIDGES
Of The Pampa News

A three-member recount committee was appointed by the Pampa Independent School District Board of Trustees to count the ballots cast in Saturday's election for Place VII on the board.

A resolution was passed by board members appointing Father Francis Hines, chairman; Wanda Talley and Bill Kindle to the recount committee. All three are registered voters from the city.

The election results were disputed Monday by candidate Bunny Nichols after she lost the race to incumbent Buddy Epperson by three votes. According to the official election tally, Epperson received 532 votes to Nichols' 529.

"I know the election was conducted fairly and honestly," Mrs. Nichols had said earlier. "but any time there is an election as close as this one, I think it would be doing the candidate — in this case, myself — an injustice to not ask for a recount. I am just exercising my right under the Texas Election Code."

The recount will be conducted at 9 a.m. on April 11, according to the resolution, and official results will be announced at the board meeting on April 15.

A two-member committee appointed by school board President Darville Orr consisting of board members Paul Simmons and Dr. Robert Lyle canvassed the votes. One change was made by the committee — the results actually showed Phil Vanderpool (who ran unopposed) receiving 937 votes rather than 1037, as first reported. With this change, Simmons and Lyle recommended the election results be accepted by the board subject to the April 11 recount and Kenneth Fields and Phil Vanderpool be declared winners.

The winning board members were then administered the oath of office by District Judge Don Cain.

Simmons pointed out to the board that Epperson would serve in his present capacity until the official results of the recount were made.

Darville Orr was re-elected president of the board of trustees for the school year 1980-81. Other board officers are Paul Simmons, vice-president and Ken Fields, secretary.

Roberts Paper Company was awarded the bid on an approximately two year supply of paper towels for the school district. The paper company's bid was for $8,625. James Trusty, school assistant superintendent, told board members it was slightly higher than the lowest bid received, but when studied, the quality and price per square inch of paper proved it was the better buy.

The school board renewed the USDA commodity agreement in the amount $819.20 and appointed Trusty as the district's authorized representative for the program.

In other school board action, members approved the following:

— Payment of a supplemental construction bill in the amount of $10,800 to Ken Taylor of Lubbock;

— Setting the tuition rate for 1980-81 school year at $960 for an eligible scholastic (one whose average daily attendance can be counted in the school district) and $1,820 for an ineligible scholastic (one whose average daily attendance cannot be counted in the school district);

— The first amendment to the 1979-80 budget to reflect an increase of $742,666 in revenue and an increase in budgeted expenditures in the amount of $111,227.

— Designation of radio station KPND as the official station to transmit athletic events for the 1980-81 school year.

The board then went into executive session to discuss personnel matters. No action was taken during the course of the session.

Premier says coal plants pose too many environmental risks

DALLAS (AP) — A large scale return to coal fired electrical generating plants poses environmental risks too great to make the transition an acceptable alternative to gas and oil fueled generators, says the premier of the Canadian province of Ontario.

"The 'acid rain' this program would produce will seriously aggravate one of the most grave and indisputable environmental challenges on our continent," said Premier William Davis, who was in Dallas Tuesday for the opening of a trade office.

"We do not believe that massive additional reliance on coal... using old technology, is an acceptable option to help electric utilities reduce their use of oil and natural gas, he said.

Davis told those attending a luncheon sponsored by the Dallas Council on World Affairs and the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, that Canada is "heavily committed" to nuclear energy.

"North America must restore its energy self-reliance for the sake of its own independence and our energy-hungry world," Davis said.

But he said Canadians are "frankly alarmed" by the United States' decision to convert 107 electric plants to coal and urged Americans to diversify to alternate energy sources that "will have a less severe impact on the environment."

Davis, 51, has been premier of Ontario and leader of its minority Progressive Conservative Party since 1971. He also has served as the province's minister of education and university affairs.

Davis said Canadian tariffs will be cut in half, allowing 80 percent of Ontario's exports to enter the United States duty-free.

In that light, he proposed a review of state and federal programs that encourage "buying American."

The new Dallas office of the Ontario Ministry of Industry and Tourism will serve as an information center for businessmen interested in investing in or trading with the province, he said. It will serve Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kansas and New Mexico.

Davis said approximately 80 percent of Ontario's exports go to the United States and 85 percent of Canadian imports come from the United States.

Of Ontario's exports, more than half — or about $200 million — go to Texas, he said. And Ontario receives almost half of Texas' exports to Canada, or about $400 million.

A TWISTER yesterday afternoon north of Middletown, Ohio, touched down in a mobile home park, destroying 20 mobile homes and injuring 10 persons. One of the 10 was held over for treatment at a nearby hospital.

Hijacker demands flight to Cuba

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) — A hijacker armed with an automatic pistol seized an American Airlines jetliner with only its seven crew members aboard Wednesday morning and demanded to be flown to Cuba, authorities said.

Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Dick Hallen said the Boeing 727 was taken over at Ontario International Airport at 7:58 a.m. It had been scheduled to leave later for Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration in Washington said.

The plane took off from this Southern California city at 8:37 a.m., and the FAA said it was scheduled to make a refueling stop at the Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport on the way to Cuba.

"It's an American Airlines Boeing 727. There's only the crew aboard plus the hijacker. He's demanding to go to Cuba," Hallen said. "They're presently taxiing out, and I'm sure they'll attempt to comply with any of his demands." He said there were seven crew members aboard.

Airport spokesman Dennis Watson said the unidentified hijacker was armed with a .45-caliber automatic pistol.

The FBI is handling the investigation, Watson said.

Fred Farrar, the FAA spokesman in Washington, said preliminary reports indicated the black male hijacker posed as an airport employee and boarded the plane before the crew.

Farrar said there were three flight crew and four attendants aboard the plane.

Bullock wins utility tax question

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Comptroller Bob Bullock today won a Texas Supreme Court victory that should mean millions of dollars in additional state tax collections from utility companies.

The court said, without writing a new opinion, that it could find "no reversible error" in a Beaumont Court of Civil Appeals decision upholding a Bullock rule for computing franchise taxes.

Bullock dropped 14 years of precedent on Jan. 1, 1976, by saying utility companies' investment tax credits immediately become an asset against which the franchise tax is computed.

Before that, companies were allowed to put the credit on their books as a deferred item, spreading its effect on their taxes over many years.

The credit reduces a corporation's federal income taxes by 10 percent of the amount paid for new capital equipment.

The effect of Bullock's decision was to increase tax payments by the companies.

Dallas Power & Light, Texas Power & Light, Community Public Service Corp., Southwestern Electric Service Co. and Texas Electric Service Co. sued to strike down the decision.

They sought recovery of $626,030 in franchise taxes paid under protest in 1976 and 1977.

Houston Lighting & Power Co. said in a separate brief that Bullock already had served notice he would seek $1,549,744 in additional tax payments from the company because of his ruling.

The court of civil appeals decision, which the Supreme Court ruling upheld, said it wasn't Bullock's job to worry about how utility company carries the tax credit on its books — either as one-time addition to assets or prorated over the life of the equipment.

"Here, the 10 percent tax credit is acquired by appellees (the power companies) immediately when they purchase the equipment," the court said.

City zoning controversy continues

By DEBORAH BRIDGES
Of The Pampa News

The lack of two city commissioners at the meeting Tuesday morning delayed a decision concerning the controversial appeal for the rezoning of the 400 to 600 blocks of Wells, Sumner and Faulkner Streets to allow mobile homes.

Mayor Ray Thompson told more than 40 people who attended the hearing that the commission could take no action since Commissioner O. M. Prigmore was not present and newly-elected Commissioner Clyde Carruth had not yet been installed.

Approximately 20 minutes was given to "pro" and "con" groups to air their feelings on the rezoning of the area. A five-minute rebuttal was given by a manufactured home representative, Kim Burnette, from Amarillo.

The request for the rezoning was first presented by Mrs. Bernice Rippetoe to the zoning board in February where it was denied. It was appealed the next week to the city commission.

Thompson told the citizens he felt action could be taken at the next scheduled meeting, although he believed Prigmore would not be present due to responsibilities on a governor's committee. The remaining commissioners would be enough to make a decision, however, he said.

Two other public hearings on a proposed ordinance allowing explosives to be stored in the light industrial district with a specific use permit and on the rezoning of an area north of Price Road and Kentucky Avenue from agricultural to commercial brought little response from the public.

A bid for the annual street maintenance program was awarded to Jake Diehl Dirt and Paving of Canyon. The company submitted the lowest bid of five with a figure of $107,375.

Commissioners voted to add some quantities to the bid price increasing the expenditure to $134,000. Consulting engineer Gene Barber said the contract was flexible at a 25 percent increase or decrease to fit the budget.

The money will be used to buy 60,000 gallons of asphalt, 16,600 cubic yards of aggregate and 75 tons of pre-coated asphalt to be used as patching material. City Manager Mack Wofford said.

The 1980 budget allowed for $150,000 to be used in for yearly street maintenance, he said.

Culberson-Stowers Chevrolet was awarded the bid for the six police units. Their low bid was $30,996.35 plus trade-in for the used vehicles. Builders Plumbing Supply was given the bid on a heating and cooling system for a portion of city hall. They submitted a bid of $2,815.

The commission tabled a request from Joe Gidden of Southwestern Public Service Company, asking approval of the compromise rate increase as quickly as possible. The utility company wishes to file the amended rate hike with the Public Utilities Commission and have it put into effect by its May billing period, he said. A public hearing will be conducted at the commission's next regular session to consider the rate hike.

Other commission business included: —A request for a more equalized sewer and water rate schedule between single family and multi-family dwellings by W. E. Campaigne of 1824 Chestnut.

—Adoption of a rate increase of $5.73 per employee by Blue Cross-Blue Shield for city employee insurance.

—Setting 9:30 a.m. April 10 as the date for a special commission meeting to hear a final reading (first reading was heard in Tuesday's meeting) on the rezoning of the Butler Nursery property, receive bids on a heating and cooling system for Lovett Memorial Library and hear a report on the summer softball program.

—Approval of the March salary changes and current accounts payable.

The April 5 election returns were approved by commissioners. Returning Commissioner Coyle Ford and newly-elected Commissioner Clyde Carruth received the oath of office from City Secretary Pat Eades. The two will take their places at the next commission meeting.

NEWLY-ELECTED COMMISSIONERS, incumbent Coyle Ford (left) and Clyde Carruth (right) were sworn in by City Secretary Pat Eades during Tuesday's city commission meeting. The two men who will take their places in the next session, were elected in the April 5 city elections.

Divorce granted after 51 years

DALLAS (AP) — There were no tears and little fanfare when Abe T. Jones divorced his wife, Fannie May, of nearly 60 years. Neither realized until recently they still were legally married.

"I'm so ashamed of this. I thought I had gotten a divorce 51 years ago," said Jones, a retired furniture salesman.

State District Judge Dan Gibbs granted the estranged couple a divorce Tuesday.

Jones, 81, recalled that he was served divorce papers in 1929 and told that if he did not want to contest the action he was not required to appear before the court.

He said he heard nothing more about the divorce and assumed his marriage was dissolved.
Mrs. Jones, 79, now lives in an Arlington nursing home.
A year ago, a column in a Dallas newspaper caught the eye of Jones' second wife, Annie Lee.
"It was about a situation similar to this, and the present wife wasn't even recognized after her husband's death. I decided to do some checking," said Annie Lee Jones, who has been married to Jones for 49 years.

"I called Rockwall County and a woman there checked and called back and said she had no record of the divorce," she said.
"Well, I was so embarrassed, I almost went into shock."
Mrs. Jones said the incident has caused she and her husband a lot of embarrassment since they have lived a stable family life as practicing Southern Baptists.
"Ever since this happened, I've just been so upset. But my husband just failed to investigate and the man did tell him not to show up for the trial and everything would go through," she said.

Prize cognac and hot milk offered in toast to comrades

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The four old men raised their glasses as the Society of the Last Man of Forty Veterans, a group of World War I veterans, gathered for its 48th reunion.

These four, and two who could not attend because of illness, are all that remain of the original group, which meets annually to congratulate the survivors and toast "our departed comrades."

But as the glasses of chablis were lifted for the first toast, Henry Abbot summoned a waitress Monday.

"What's the chance of my getting a glass of hot milk?" said the 84-year-old Philadelphia resident. "If I tried to do this with wine, I'd get bombed."

And so they drank, sparingly because of age, but deeply from the memories of young men who had gone to war and faced the enemy across "no man's land" in France.

The society was organized in 1932 by members of Philadelphia's American Legion to play out the drama to the "last man." The reunion luncheon is held annually on or about the April 6 anniversary of the United States' entry into World War I.

"We are never morbid about it," said Henry F. Bamberger, 85, of Philadelphia. "We're just naturally curious. Every April we show up and congratulate each other on having made it through another 12 months. And three of us predict that Walt Wilson is the lead-pipe cinch to be the last man."

"We are glad to leave," consular head of affairs Dr. Mohammed Hezarhikani, said Tuesday through glass doors that separated the Iranians from the rest of the passengers and reporters.

Hezarhikani later held up a hand-written sign bearing the same sentiments, along with a framed picture of Ayatollah Ruholla Khomeini and a bouquet of red carnations given to the departing workers by Iranian students.

Prior to their departure at 6 p.m. Tuesday, the Iranians — four men, three women, a teen-aged girl and a small boy — had arrived at Houston Intercontinental Airport escorted by Department of Public Safety troopers, airport security personnel and FBI agents.

"Extraordinary" security measures were taken in searching the British Caledonia DC-10 prior to takeoff, according to a Pan Am spokeswoman.

Pan Am owns the terminal used by British Caledonia. Alan Stronech, vice president of British Caledonia operations in Houston, declined to specify what special precautions had been taken.

"Basically, we just made the aircraft as clean as possible," he said. Stronech said there were no special seating arrangements for the Iranians, adding "they're just normal passengers."

Seemingly unconcerned that they had been ordered from the country after President Carter Monday severed diplomatic ties with Iran, the small contingent chatted with well-wishers and friends and took snapshots of one another before boarding the plane.

They were moved from a spot on the ground near the aircraft to a glass-enclosed walkway that lead to the boarding ramp about 30 minutes before the plane left on its eight and one-half hour flight to London.

The Iranians spent their last minutes in the United States chatting with each other, shaking hands with their FBI escorts and flashing hand-written signs to reporters on the other side of the glass wall.

Two of the Iranian men knelt in prayer toward the setting sun while they were waiting.

Other passengers stood quietly in line as the Iranians boarded the aircraft.

HOUSTON (AP) — With about 150 curious passengers looking on, nine Iranians strolled down a boarding ramp into a waiting jet, thus ending formal diplomatic relations between the United States and Iran.

"We are glad to leave," consular head of affairs Dr. Mohammed Hezarhikani, said Tuesday through glass doors that separated the Iranians from the rest of the passengers and reporters.

Hezarhikani later held up a hand-written sign bearing the same sentiments, along with a framed picture of Ayatollah Ruholla Khomeini and a bouquet of red carnations given to the departing workers by Iranian students.

"Basically, we just made the aircraft as clean as possible," he said. Stronech said there were no special seating arrangements for the Iranians, adding "they're just normal passengers."

Seemingly unconcerned that they had been ordered from the country after President Carter Monday severed diplomatic ties with Iran, the small contingent chatted with well-wishers and friends and took snapshots of one another before boarding the plane.

They were moved from a spot on the ground near the aircraft to a glass-enclosed walkway that lead to the boarding ramp about 30 minutes before the plane left on its eight and one-half hour flight to London.

The Iranians spent their last minutes in the United States chatting with each other, shaking hands with their FBI escorts and flashing hand-written signs to reporters on the other side of the glass wall.

Two of the Iranian men knelt in prayer toward the setting sun while they were waiting.

Other passengers stood quietly in line as the Iranians boarded the aircraft.

PCPA meets in Houston

Canadian Production Credit Association (PCPA) officials will be among 500 leaders of Texas agriculture meeting in Dallas April 10-12. The occasion is the annual stockholders' meeting of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Texas.

Representing the Canadian PCA, which serves six local counties will be Wallace N. Hamker, Booker; James D. Skaggs, Pampa; Lloyd R. Buzzard, Spearman; C.B. Henderson, Wheeler; Mack Macias, Stratford; Don W. Morrison, Pampa. Morrison serves as the PCA's official voting delegate.

According to Larry Albin, the association's president who will accompany the group, is scheduled on Thursday, with most business sessions on Friday.

Business sessions will deal with the condition of the FICB of Texas which provides money for lenders to agriculture. FICB of Texas President Jack H. Barton will deliver the report to stockholders.

Pope will visit France

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II announced today he will visit France for three days beginning May 30. He said he will address the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization in Paris on June 2.

"God willing, I will make a brief pastoral visit to France," the pontiff told some 10,000 faithful at his weekly general audience in St. Peter's Square.

It will be the pontiff's sixth trip outside of Italy since he was elected to the papacy in October 1978. He already has announced plans to visit six African nations May 2-12.

One legend says the world's first gold coin was struck by King Croesus of Lydia about 550 B.C. Another legend says it was struck by King Gyges, who ruled the same land which now is part of Turkey, about 100 years earlier.

TEXAS

By The Associated Press
Clear skies and mild temperatures were forecast for all of Texas today.
Highs were to be in the 70s and 80s. There was no mention of rain in state forecasts.

Clear skies and cool temperatures dominated the weather scene early today. There were a few clouds over the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 30s and 40s except in the Valley where readings were in the 60s. Extremes rangelom 28 at Dalhart to 64 at McAllen.

EXTENDED

North Texas — Fair today and tonight, increasing cloudiness west and central Thursday. Warmer tonight and Thursday. Highs 69 to 72. Lows 45 to 52. Highs Thursday 74 to 80.

West Texas — Fair and warmer except becoming partly cloudy north tonight. Partly cloudy and warmer Thursday, windy north with blowing dust South Plains. Highs upper 60s Panhandle to near 90 Big Bend. Lows near 40 Panhandle and mountains to mid 50s south. Highs Thursday mid 70s Panhandle to mid 90s Big Bend.

NATIONAL

Thundershowers swept over the upper Ohio Valley and the Appalachians today, one day after dozens of tornadoes peppered both regions.

Rain fell on the Atlantic coastal states and also extended along the northern Pacific Coast, changing to light snow over the mountains. More rain and thundershowers were headed for the Northeast, with scattered rain over the Pacific Northwest.

Snow fell over parts of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan. Five inches whitened Minneapolis and an inch powdered Rochester, Minn.

Power lines toppled in central Upper Michigan where an inch of ice glazed the region Tuesday afternoon.

Skies were clear over the southern half of the nation, much of the Plains and the Rockies.

Temperatures around the nation early this morning ranged from 15 in Roseglen, N.D. to 77 in Key West and Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Here are some early morning temperatures and conditions around the nation.

Eastern U.S.: Atlanta 56, fair; Boston 43, cloudy; Cincinnati 52, windy; Cleveland 50, fair; Detroit 49, cloudy; Miami 76, fair; New York 52, windy; Pittsburgh 40, partly cloudy; Washington 61, cloudy.

Diplomatic crunch strands student in Mexico

EL PASO (AP) — A broken car, a day's delay and severed diplomatic relations left an Iranian student stranded in Mexico — short on cash, luck and control of his future.

Davoud Mirpaheri's car broke down in Mexico over the Easter weekend. The one-day delay kept him out of the United States when President Carter severed diplomatic relations with Iran.

Now Mirpaheri, his friend Gamsid Jahangri and four other unidentified Iranian students from El Paso must remain across the Rio Grande in Juarez, Mexico, until the U.S. State Department determines their fate.

"I'm a free hostage," said Mirpaheri, 23, a student at the University of Texas at El Paso.

Mirpaheri said news of the diplomatic break came as a rude shock when he reached the border.

"I had heard no news at all since we left El Paso last Tuesday. I had my passport, everything is valid, so I had self-confidence there will be no problem. But they (Customs agents) said President Carter had said our relations were to be broken," he said.

Mirpaheri expected to receive his masters' degree in civil engineering next month and then planned to attend New Mexico State University.

But now, Mirpaheri and the other Iranians are unsure if they will return to El Paso or Iran.

"I can't express it. I'm feeling bad now. I don't know what I'll do," said Mirpaheri, who has been studying in the United States for five years. "If they say I have to go, I guess that's it."

Mexican officials said Mirpaheri and Jahangri have Mexican tourist visas and can remain in that country for up to three months, but the other four students have only American documents and legally can stay in Mexico only 72 hours.

Gori Bruno, a foreign student advisor at UTEP, said he hopes Mirpaheri and Jahangri can return because both have spotless records, good grades and "aren't the kind that have gone around shaking their fists."

"I believe the State Department is big enough not to punish these two kids," Bruno said.

But U.S. Consul General Franklin Stevens in Juarez said his interpretation of the president's speech is that the Iranians are out of luck.

Stevens said the U.S. Embassy in Mexico told him any visas issued before Monday are invalid for travel. He said will assume the student's visas are invalid unless he hears otherwise from the State Department.

"This crisis is not of the United States' making," said Stevens. "After five months, they should have known that there is a very serious problem between the two countries, and any sensible, prudent person would have known that something could happen at any minute."

Immigration officials say their instructions are not to allow

Iranians back into the United States from Juarez unless their visas are "revalidated."

Meanwhile, Mirpaheri waits in his small, dark Juarez hotel room. "It's like being in jail," he said as he pulled back the window curtains to reveal the bars on the hotel window.

Water shortage prompts neighbors' aid

GRAFORD (AP) — Although the town's water supply has dried up, assistance from other communities has begun to pour in abundantly for the 577 residents of this small Palo Pinto County community.

The town began pumping water from a creek below the dam after a small reservoir that supplies the community's drinking water dried up two weeks ago.

Then the creek dried up, it hadn't rained since February, and the town was in its fourth day without water Tuesday when other people responded to reports of the community's desperation.

The Coca-Cola Co. donated 3,400 one-gallon jugs of water "to the elderly and other people who don't have a way to get water," said Arlene Howard, city secretary. The Southland Corp. of Dallas planned delivery today of 4,000 10-pound sacks of ice for residents to put in their freezers and melt as needed.

Two trucks, donated by Don Breedlove of Dallas, with two trailers donated by the Associated Milk Producers, Inc., were hauling water to the town by late Tuesday.

A Mineral Wells company, Centron, donated enough pipe to lay an emergency line to a nearby water supply. Graford was hoping to tie into the Mineral Wells water supply 12 miles away, but Mineral Wells "did not have proper connections and delivery," Mrs. Howard said.

The next step was to try to connect into a water supply used by Palo Pinto, about 15 miles from Graford, "but we haven't asked them yet," she said.

WEATHER RAMPAGE CONTINUES, as damage reports come in from around the southeastern and midwestern areas of the United States. Tornadoes and damaging winds have skipped across the nation leaving paths of destruction on the heels of the first major damaging system of the season. This photo shows Doyle Cook, Little Rock, Ark., as he looks in disbelief at the roof of his home late Tuesday. Winds lifted the roof from his home, background, and neatly sliced it with a nearby tree as tornadoes danced through Pulaski County. (AP Photo)

Denton co-ed injured in art class accident

DALLAS (AP) — Surgeons worked early today to reattach the nearly severed left hand of a North Texas State University co-ed injured in an accident during an art class.

The surgery for Christie Legg, 21, of Longview, began about 3 p.m. Tuesday at Baylor Medical Center and was still under way early today.

The girl was cutting wood with a band saw in class at nearby Denton Tuesday morning when the saw slipped and cut into her arm, nearly severing the left hand just above the wrist.

Late Tuesday surgeons told her parents, George and Dorothy Legg, no complications had developed. At that time, the surgeons had worked for five hours, painstakingly using microsurgery to reattach nerves, ligaments and veins.

Legg said he was told the surgeons expressed "cautious optimism," adding they said her prognosis was good "because she never went into shock and she always had a pretty good blood supply to her hand."

The girl's father, a Longview dentist, said he understood better than the ordinary layman what the doctors were attempting.

The parents drove about 120 miles to Dallas after learning that their daughter was taken there after initial treatment at a Denton hospital.

"Dean White from the school called me at my office and told me there had been an accident in the art department. He said Christie had lost an arm," Legg recalled as he and wife kept a vigil in the waiting room outside the operating room.

He said he believes his daughter's chances for recovery are good. "She's a healthy girl. She's a very physical girl. She rides. She swims," he said.

"And if it had to be any hand, I'm glad it was the left one. She's right-handed."

Mrs. Legg pointed out that their daughter had been a member of ballet companies at Fort Worth and Longview for several years and once wanted to be a professional ballet dancer.

Both parents said they believe everything will turn out for the best. "We've always depended on the Lord and he's never let us down," Legg said.

"She was alert in the emergency room. They told me she said she wanted to talk to a Christian to pray with her. She also joked that she'd always wanted to see the inside of a hospital, but not this way," Legg added.

Christie first attended Texas Christian University at Fort Worth where she studied dance. She later transferred to North Texas first to pursue art and then became a journalism major.

Ron Kick, youth minister for Grace Temple Baptist Church of Denton, waited in the hospital waiting room with the parents Tuesday night.

"You know what's ironic is she got up this morning and told her pastor she felt God had a test for her today," Legg said.

"She went back to her room and read her Bible. She didn't know what was coming."

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coving Commandment.

United States needs economic discipline

In his talk on his "new" war on inflation, President Carter spoke strongly for a balanced budget. Whether he means it we will know in time. But it is great to note that once again a balanced budget seems to be in vogue.

If your average hourly earnings in 1979 rose 8 percent, slightly above the president's wage guidelines, you still would have suffered a pay cut of 5.3 percent — the highest annual inflation rate since 1946. This increased the consumer price index to 254, which means it now costs $254 for goods worth $100 in the federal government's consumer base year of 1967.

In other words, the 1967 dollar is worth only 39 cents today. But worse lies ahead. Consumer prices exploded in January, rising 1.4 percent for an annual rate of 18 percent, a 50 percent leap. After 15 years of steady spiraling, inflation could now be entering the lethal stage when it becomes self-accelerating.

Ours is a bleak economic situation indeed. During the fourth quarter of last year, the savings rate of the American people fell to 3.3 percent, about half of what it normally is, and only a fraction of German and Japanese saving rates that range from 15 to 20 percent. This is the lowest U.S. saving since 1950, when the country entered the Korean war. Clearly, Americans believe the government is incapable of checking inflation. They have lost the incentive to invest in the future.

The results are a drying up of funds desperately needed to finance capital improvements, required to halt declining productivity and a collapse of the corporate bond market. Investors simply do not want to be locked into long-term investment faced as they are with the kind of inflation that now rages.

The nation's fiscal operation is clearly out of control. Voluntary wage and price ceilings have failed and hard prime lending interest rates of 18 1/2 percent, highest since Civil War times, are failing thus far.

Sen. Ted Kennedy correctly senses the Carter administration's vulnerability on pocketbook issues, but the Kennedy grasp of economic principles is even more flawed than Carter's.

Kennedy advocates the desperate remedy of government control over wages, prices and other aspects of the economy. Despite the bitter lessons of previous wage-price control failures, Kennedy and a growing number of others, would simply repeal inflation by edict and turn the marketplace over to the bureaucrats.

Leading economists differ on certain aspects of inflation and what should be done about it, but they generally agree on its root causes. In a word, it is overindulgence — a common failing of democratic systems. Our hangover is from a number of sprees: prosecuting the Vietnam war and investing simultaneously in the Great Society without raising taxes, the added cost of environmental protection, the rising, unchecked cost of welfare, and the leaping cost of energy. Mostly, inflation results from the monetization of successive federal deficits — expanding money and credit to cover the startling differences between spending and income.

The increase in the U.S. Treasury deficit has been horrendous, rising from $203 billion in 1969 to $830 billion in 1979. A big portion of this has been added during the presidency of Jimmy Carter, who promised to balance the budget, once before — a long time ago!

Washington's gushing red ink is the wellspring of inflation.

The cure for this binge will be painful: drastically reduced federal spending and an economic recession with increased unemployment. But the alternatives are certain to be far more destructive, as the Germans can tell us from their own experience. The 1919-23 German inflation was such that, at one time, a widow's insurance payment of 100,000 marks was worth less than the postage stamps on the envelope that brought it. That memory may be one reason why the West Germans, who must import practically all of their oil from OPEC still manage to keep their inflation rate to 4.5 percent.

Obviously, the United States would do well just now to try a little of the economic discipline that the West Germans impose upon themselves.

Bloated budget: It's no accident

If you wonder how the federal budget ever grew to $616 billion, or why employed Americans must labor from January to June just to satisfy the tax collector, consider the following:

The tiny western Maryland hamlet of Accident has no resident physician, and hasn't had one for 40 years. Those among the 300 townspeople requiring medical attention usually travel to Friendsville, which is seven miles away and does have a doctor. Or, they make the 20-minute trip to Garrett County Memorial Hospital in nearby Oakland.

Naturally, Accident residents would prefer to have their own physician right there on Main Street, but the town has been unable to attract one in four decades.

If you have guessed that the federal government is now coming to Accident's rescue, you're right. The Appalachian Regional Commission, a creature of the Great Society fever of the late 1960s, has persuaded a Minneapolis physician to move to Accident.

The catch is that the commission is providing the good doctor with a $100,000 subsidy, $40,000 as a guaranteed salary for his first year in Accident and the remaining $60,000 for office space, a nurse and sundry expenses. This is just to help him get started. Accident's new physician will be on his own after he goes through the $100,000.

He also will be free to leave once he discovers what others must have recognized for 40 years: Accident just doesn't have the population to support its own medical doctor.

The subsidy for Accident's new physician is anything but a first. The U.S. Public Health Service's National Health Service Corps is currently subsidizing thousands of physicians at an average annual cost of $32,000 each to practice at whistle stops like Accident.

And if the Accident example is any guide, the whole program is a candidate for a taxpayer's suit charging bureaucratic malpractice.

High roller in debt dept.

By Robert Walters
WASHINGTON (NEA) - The few remaining big spenders who still don't appreciate the virtues of a balanced federal budget ought to take a close look at the government agency headed by a Bismarck, N.D., native named Hubert J. Hintgen.

In an era when political and governmental leaders regularly enjoy the celebrity status formerly reserved for movie stars, the 68-year-old Hintgen ought to be famous because he's responsible for managing more money than everyone else in the federal government spends in an entire year.

But practically nobody has ever heard of Hintgen — and his bosses at the Treasury Department undoubtedly prefer that anonymity because he presides over what surely is one of the most embarrassing operations being conducted by the government.

Hintgen's title is commissioner of the public debt. His agency, the Bureau of the Public Debt, is responsible for administering the legacy of years of deficit spending.

The gross public debt currently exceeds $857 billion. That's more than $3,850 for every man, woman and child now living in the United States. It grows every day and sometime in the mid-1980s (probably in 1984) will pass the $1 trillion mark.

Only six months ago, at the beginning of the current fiscal year, the debt stood at $833.8 billion. But six months from now, at the end of the fiscal year, it is expected to total $922.8 billion.

Most of that money is owed to holders of a mind-boggling assortment of securities issued by the Bureau of the Public Debt. Most citizens are familiar, for example, with the non-marketable securities known as Series E, H and HH Savings Bonds.

But those bonds are issued in denominations up to only $5,000. The real action is in marketable securities issued in denominations ranging up to $1 million apiece and known as Treasury Bonds, Treasury Notes and Treasury Bills.

During every week of the year, billions of dollars worth of those loans are scheduled for repayment. But the government, already operating at a substantial deficit in the current fiscal year, obviously doesn't have the money to pay off even a small portion of the massive debt accumulated in prior years.

So Hintgen's agency is involved in an elaborate high-stakes robbing-Peter-to-pay-Paul operation in which it constantly "rolls over" the public debt. It issues new bonds, notes and bills, then uses the proceeds from those sales to pay off the securities that are about to come due.

On one typical day recently, the Treasury Department sold more than $6 billion worth of 37-day "T-bills" and $3.5 billion worth of two-year "T-notes." On the same day, it announced plans to sell $4 billion worth of one-year bills, $5 billion worth of 83-day bills and $1.5 billion worth of 15-year bonds.

Those transactions require a great deal of paperwork, so the Bureau of the Public Debt employs more than 2,500 people to receive, store, issue, redeem, audit and account for all of its bonds, notes and bills.

Those people have to be paid and provided with offices and supplies, so the Bureau of the Public Debt must have its own operating budget — $186 million this year and almost $199 million next year.

Finally, there's the interest that must be paid to induce individuals and institutions to constantly loan money to a debt-riddled government. Interest last year amounted to $59.8 billion, but this year it will soar to $73.3 billion.

Those who aren't convinced of the need to balance the budget to reduce the debt might consider this what-might-have-been alternative to years of deficit spending:

If one item — interest paid on the public debt — were eliminated from this year's budget, the country could enjoy the benefits of all the domestic social program's yearned for by liberals, the balanced budget cherished by conservatives and billions of dollars worth of tax cuts for its citizenry.

Today in history

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, April 9, the 100th day of 1980. There are 267 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On April 9, 1968, thousands attended funeral services for slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King, Jr. in Atlanta.

On this date:
In 1865, Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee surrendered to Union Gen. Ulysses Grant to end the Civil War.

In 1682, the French Explorer La Salle reached the Gulf of Mexico after traveling down the Mississippi River.

In 1939, 75,000 people crowded around the Lincoln Memorial to hear black singer Marian Anderson after she had been barred from Constitution Hall.

In 1940, German forces invaded Norway and Denmark in World War II.
Ten years ago, a gas explosion and fire at a subway construction site in Osaka, Japan killed 73 people.

Five years ago, the White House said President Nixon had given South Vietnam private assurances in 1973 that the United States would react vigorously to any communist violation of the Vietnam peace treaty.

Last year, making his first public appearance since cancer surgery three months earlier, John Wayne presented the "best picture" Oscar at the Academy Awards.

Fighting women

Women don't have to wear any "uniform" any more.

They may prefer a maternity dress or a kitchen apron or the leather britches of a telephone lineworker — but they don't have to. And that is as it should be.

Then we come to the question of women in military uniform and it seems to me they should be allowed freedom of choice here, also.

And then we come to the question of women in front line combat.

Should uniformed women drive tanks and fire guns and use bayonets in any future conflict it would not be the first time.

Always heretofore, however, societies have tried to shield their women from armed combat — allowing them to fight alongside their men only when the wagon train was encircled by hostile Indians or in some other desperate situation where a worse fate might await the woman if she did not fight.

I can't believe that any future war could be decided either way by womanpower. Indeed, our tiny nation could not mobilize enough MANpower to win a person-to-person war.

You and I have watched longtime journalist Vermont Royster "mature" since his retirement. With time to think, he is more than ever able to reduce profound considerations to their elements.

And he attributes the historic protection which men have afforded women not to condescension, but to a purpose rooted on biology. The preservation of any species requires many females, only a few males.

That's why most hunting seasons we allow the killing of bucks but not does. We have different rules for limiting the kill of hen pheasants with a more generous limit on killing their roosters.

It is true that, in modern war, weapons of mass annihilation would incinerate both military and civilian populations without discrimination.

But still this does not seem to justify contradicting man's basic instinct and deliberately throwing women into battle.

The modern catechism says that women are equal and must be treated equally. And when some of us persist in holding a lady's coat or opening doors for women or otherwise deferring to them — a few are offended. They should not be.

We stand up when the President enters the room; he does not construe this to be anything more nor less than what it is — a gesture of respect.

Somewhere up the road ahead when men and women rediscover that enjoying equal rights is not the same thing as being alike.

When we have exhausted all the arguments about chauvinism, sexism, rights, privileges, obligations and opportunities in society and employment...

When we have wrestled to a draw with the question of "equality"...

It may well be that our perspective will have been brought back into focus by the key question of women in combat.

And all this freedom to choose will extend even to that — because not all women are created equal, either.

The John Anderson effect

By Robert J. Wagman

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Publicly, the posture around Carter-Mondale campaign headquarters has been somewhat depressed ever since the New York and Connecticut primary disasters late last month.

Privately, however, most members of the Carter brain trust say renomination isn't a problem. It already has been won. They say things are breaking for them in Campaign '80 better than they had expected.

The most fervent wish of the Carter-Mondale campaign (after whipping Sen. Edward Kennedy, of course) was that the Republicans would nominate Ronald Reagan, the man all the polls showed the president had the best chance of beating in November. It looks as though the GOP will comply.

But into this best of all possible worlds, a major doubt is inching forward that has the Carter planners worried sick: a third-party candidacy for John Anderson.

In recent days, the Carter people have started polling to see how things will stack up against Reagan in November. The results apparently show that they are in good shape against Reagan alone.

One poll reportedly indicates that even with the president's plunging job ratings, even with inflation and other problems continuing and unless there is some extremely negative result to the Iranian problem, Carter stands to beat Reagan by about 60 percent to 40 percent, a very comfortable margin and a much wider one than most recent presidential elections.

According to these polls, however, this changes drastically when Anderson is thrown into the picture. If the election were held now, Anderson would get anywhere from 12 percent to 16 percent of the independent vote and another 4 percent to 8 percent from Democrats.

Thus, the total Anderson vote could approach 20 percent and would be especially heavy in the industrial states of the North with their large blocks of electoral votes.

The big problem for Carter is that this entire Anderson vote would be at the president's expense. Reagan's supporters have no stomach for the liberalism of Anderson.

Consequently, if Anderson runs, the election would be a toss-up. Both Carter and Reagan would get about 40 percent of the popular vote and Anderson the rest.

With Anderson pulling 20 percent, getting the needed majority of Electoral College votes would not be easy for either Reagan or Carter. That could result in the candidate with the popular plurality losing the election.

Or, even worse, no one would get an electoral-vote majority and the presidency would be the subject of horse-trading in the Electoral College or could even be thrown into the House of Representatives. (Presidential electors are bound traditionally but not legally by the popular votes of their states.)

Will Anderson run as an independent? For a long while, he consistently said no. But you had to listen carefully to the way he said so.

It always was no "because I'm going to win the Republican nomination." Or no "because I don't see how at this late date I could mount any kind of effective campaign as a third-party candidate." Never was the answer no "because I am philosophically opposed to third-party candidates and would not mount one under any circumstances."

Now even the qualified no has been eliminated. When asked the question during the Wisconsin primary, Anderson said: "I really don't know. I have not made a decision."

The Carter people view Anderson as something of a political gadfly interested in furthering certain political ideas and forcefully interjecting various issues into the campaign.

They fear that when Anderson has clearly been denied the Republican nomination, he might well listen to the siren's song and run as an independent. He could qualify for the ballot in about 30 states as an independent even if he did not make that decision until after the Republican convention in July.

So, while the Carter people are talking about meeting Reagan in November, those with access to the new polls worry a lot about the effect of Anderson.

Berry's World

"I'm tired of role reversal. Let's go back to the original arrangement. I'll lie on the couch and you nag."

It's call Fascination

"IF I'M NOT offered enough for Fascination to buy a house, I'll be disappointed," says Herb Stevens of his latest creation. (Photo by Sandy Williams)

Roller coaster for golf balls

By Sandy Williams

NEW LONDON, Iowa (NEA) - Picture a wooden roller coaster 8 feet long, 3 feet wide and 5 feet high.

It has five tracks in all, each different in its turns and dips.

One track winds through a tiny, shingle-roofed home. Another travels through a covered bridge, also roofed with wooden shingles the size of fingernails.

Many of the curves are so sharp that tiny guardrails are attached to the track. At the end of a bend may be a trap door, a chute or an elevator.

At the base of the elaborate and delicate structure is a one-quarter horsepower engine and many sets of hand-carved gears. Two are of the traditional round variety, but there also are square, triangular and even walking gears.

The mind-boggling contraption named "Fascination" is the fifth and latest "machine" created by Herb Stevens. Its predecessors are "The Wonderment," "The Amazement" and two earlier machines that were never named.

Fascination is the most ambitious of the machines. It is also the first made of 14 varieties of wood, which give its unpainted surfaces natural contrasting color. The other machines were built only of pine with metal gears used to activate them.

As impressive as the 400-pound wooden structure is at first sight, the fascination with Fascination really begins when Stevens throws the switch.

The highly varnished gears move, the tiny elevators slide up and down, and five golf balls begin their different trips down the five tracks.

One ball follows a track through the house and descends now slowly, now quickly through bends and twists to the base. There it enters an elevator to be lifted back up to the top rail, this time to follow another of the routes from top to bottom.

Meanwhile, another ball travels along a track that stops abruptly. The ball falls, bounces and, in a never-failing arc, lands in the basket that leads to the continuation of the route.

Stevens spent about 9,000 hours — two winters of spare time — cutting, polishing and assembling the approximately 9,000 pieces of wood from which Fascination is made.

He has no pattern for his machines. Each curve, slope and drop is meticulously worked out as the machine grows in his hands in the small shed behind his home.

One has only to see the machines to know they are, indeed, amazing, wonderful and fascinating. But why does he build them?

"Why not?" is the reply of the gregarious, self-taught wood hobbyist who, at age 39, has been a U.S. Navy cook, a truck driver, an electrician, a mechanic, a town marshal — even a cowboy.

He also is a high-school dropout who has since earned a diploma and a few college credits.

Stevens and his wife, Betty, both hold full-time jobs. In addition to the machines, their hobbies include making toys and wooden jewelry, which they sell to augment the family's income.

Good decorating starts with sample

Looking for a "fail-safe" decorating method — a magic formula that will forever prevent clashing colors and patterns that aren't on speaking terms?

There is no such thing, of course. But there is an approach to decorating that reduces the risk of error.

It can be summed up in four words: Start with a sample. Whether it's of wallpaper, flooring, upholstery fabric — or something else — makes no difference.

Every project needs a starting point and a color scheme. A sample provides both. It can also give you a theme, be an "insurance policy" and help you coordinate the separate elements of the room for harmonious results.

An example of how the process works can be found in a Dutch-themed bathroom in eye-pleasing blue and white that was put together from scratch.

The design of the flooring was inspired by Holland's famous delft ceramic tiles which, by tradition, are always blue and white. So from the floor sample, the decorator took a place to start, a color scheme, a theme and couple of other less-obvious advantages.

One of those advantages might be described as an "insurance policy" — insurance that the color scheme will work. After all, it's the job of experts who style home furnishings to know which colors complement each other. Blue and white obviously do but a lot of potential match-ups — maybe some you're considering — aren't such a sure thing.

Something else the professional stylists do is keep an eye on which colors are being used in related fields. For instance, wallpaper people want to be sure their new lines coordinate with the new colors in bath fixtures, whose stylists are watching what's happening in flooring and so on.

What this means to the consumer is that there's a good chance that a decorating project based on any new product sample or color chip will coordinate with the latest offerings in other types of related products.

Once the flooring was picked for the Dutch bathroom, a major hurdle was cleared and the rest of the project consisted merely of executing the theme and color scheme down to the last detail.

Thus, one of the wallpapers is a blue tulip pattern on a white field, another wallpaper in the bathing alcove and the curtains that close off the alcove for privacy are blue-and-white-checked gingham.

The drawers are painted delft blue and given white tulip-shaped pulls (easy to make with a jigsaw) and the charming pedestal wash basin and claw-footed bathtub are pure white.

Most of the accessories, too, are white. Yellow was chosen for the accent color and is used sparingly in the towels and on the cushion of the white wicker chair.

Limiting the number of colors in a room is one way to make any decorating project more manageable. "Keep it simple" is another good phrase to bear in mind, along with "start with a sample."

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm 16 and pregnant by a married man. (I'll call him Donny.) When we fell in love, Donny said he was separated from his wife but his divorce was coming through "any day," and then we'd be married, so I really wanted to have his baby.

I just found out that Donny is still living with his wife, and there is no divorce in the works. Abby, I never knew love could turn to hate so fast. I'm five months along and now it's too late for an abortion. I don't want to keep this baby now, and I never want to see Donny again.

Donny's wife called me and said she was sorry I was in such a mess. Then she asked if I would let her and Donny have my baby. She said they would pay all my expenses and I could go on with my life like nothing happened.

What do you think of the idea, Abby? No way will I keep this baby, and I don't want to be involved with Donny anymore. Please tell me what to do.

MESSED UP AT 16

DEAR MESSED: You say you don't want to keep the baby and you don't want to be involved with Donny anymore. A wise decision. Feeling as you do, contact a licensed adoption agency. If you give your child to Donny and his wife, you can expect to be involved with Donny forever.

DEAR ABBY: A minister wrote to say how easy it was for him to get into the homes of total strangers and urged you to warn readers to be more careful. His letter prompts this response:

Ten years ago we invited the public to purchase paper products directly from our company, which is a wholesale distribution concern.

We accepted personal and company checks with no demand to verify identifications. Over a 10-year period, we processed over 150,000 checks of which only 14 were no good! (Our total loss was less than $300.)

We are convinced that 99.9 percent of the people are honest and law-abiding, and our experience proved us correct.

What a shame that the news media report only on this small percentage of unethical and dishonest people.

MINNEAPOLIS BUSINESSMAN

DEAR BUSINESSMAN: It's not "news" when people obey the law, love one another and live happily ever after. Crime, corruption, violence and misfortune ARE news.

I, like you, am inclined to expect the best from people, but when you leave your warehouse I'll bet you not only lock the door, you turn on the alarm.

Are there questions you can't ask your parents? Get Abby's new booklet: WHAT TEENAGERS OUGHT TO KNOW. Drugs, sex and alcohol are plainly discussed. Send $2 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Menu misrepresentation concerns consumer groups

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

At least one out of every four dollars Americans spent on food last year went for meals away from home, according to government figures, but consumers may not always be getting what they think they are paying for.

"The question of accurate representation of food purchased in restaurants, fast-food establishments, cafeterias or carry-outs is of growing concern to consumer groups, the food service industry and regulators," said an article in a recent issue of the National Food Review, published by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The USDA reports that census Bureau figures show Americans spent an estimated $266 billion on food in 1979. Of that amount, $66 billion was spent on food away from home.

"Consumers are no doubt being misled in some eating establishments and are paying for things they do not get," the National Food Review article said.

"The problem is that the language on the menu may not always match the food that comes out of the kitchen. Several cities, including Los Angeles, Chicago and Washington, D.C., have set up guidelines for accurate menu descriptions and the USDA says there are indications that the rules are working — at least in the nation's capital.

The department says that District of Columbia officials surveyed eating places in 1977 and found consumers were being served commercially processed and frozen products instead of fresh ones; the quality of meat served was often lower than the quality listed on the menu; and domestic items were frequently described as imported.

Another survey was conducted in January 1979, about six months after the introduction of strict regulations on menu accuracy. The result, according to the USDA: "There was a significant decrease in menu disparities and it was concluded that the Accuracy in Menu Program in the District of Columbia is effective."

In many cases, the restaurant is not deliberately trying to mislead the customer; the use of a particular phrase may simply be a matter of habit. Here are some areas to check:

QUALITY: Federal and state laws set quality standards for many products. If a restaurant uses the same terminology that the government does, the product should meet the standards. "Choice chopped sirloin," for example should come from meat that is graded choice. (One exception is "prime rib," which describes a cut of meat rather than a standard of quality, according to the USDA.)

QUANTITY: Customers should realize that the weight indicated on the menu is the weight before cooking; don't expect a 10-ounce steak to weigh 10 ounces when it arrives on your plate. Other quantity descriptions involve common sense. A 1/2 cup should hold a cup. A double drink should be twice the size of a regular one.

MERCHANDISING TERMS: Many phrases used to enhance the appeal of a particular food are not accurate. Very few "homemade" items, for example, are made in someone's home.

FRESH STRAWBERRIES are used in this delectable new dessert, called Strawberry Carol, which Associated Press Food Editor Cecily Brownstone named in honor of a homemaker who submitted a similar blueberry recipe to a food magazine.

Will 'Carols' become famous?

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Last summer a young woman named Carole Brown created a blueberry pudding we had never come upon before — and contributed the recipe to a magazine devoted to food. We found her dessert so delicious that this spring we copycatted it, using strawberries: our tasters loved it.

Because we drew our inspiration from Carole Brown, we've named our dessert in her honor: Strawberry Carol. We intend to try the pudding using other fruits as they come into season and to pass along the recipes.

Perhaps these "carols" will eventually take their place along with other famous American fruit puddings — cobbiers, grunts, pandowdies and slumps.

STRAWBERRY CAROL

- Fork-stirred all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1/2 cup (1/4 pound stick) butter, frozen and cut into 8 equal pats
- 1 large egg, separated
- Topping (recipe below)
- 1 quart strawberries, hulled (whole if small, halved if large or very large)
- Vanilla ice cream

In a food-processor, with metal blade, briefly whirl together 1 and one-third cups flour, salt and sugar; distribute butter over flour mixture. Turn on and off in rapid progression until butter is in pea-size pieces — about 1/2 minute. Add enough ice-cold water to the egg yolk to make 1/4 cup and whisk or fork-blend. Through feed tube, with machine on, pour egg-yolk mixture in a steady stream: stop machine as soon as balls of dough start to form.

Remove dough and press over bottom and halfway up sides of a 1 1/2-quart oblong baking dish (10 by 6 by 1 3/4 inches). Sprinkle with 1 1/2 tablespoons flour; set aside.

Prepare Topping and set aside. In a medium bowl beat egg white until stiff; fold in the strawberries; spread over dough; sprinkle with Topping. Bake on rack below center in a preheated 400-degree oven until Topping is golden — 40 minutes. Let stand 10 minutes; serve at once topped with vanilla ice cream.

Makes 8 servings. Topping: in a food processor, with metal blade, briefly whirl together 1/2 cup fork-stirred all-purpose flour and 1/2 cup sugar; distribute 1/2 stick (1/4 pound) frozen butter (cut into 4 equal pats) over flour mixture. Process until fine crumbs form — about 1/2 minute.

The 1980 United Cerebral Palsy drive for funds is scheduled for the month of May, says Connie Molitor, chairman of the local effort.

"This year, the Agency is stressing the prevention of cerebral palsy," she says. She will be recruiting volunteers, distributing educational material, accepting client requests and overseeing the general campaign.

For more information, call her at 665-5130. Mrs. Molitor lists a number of simple steps mothers can take to prevent cerebral palsy in their babies. Proper nutrition, including balanced meals from pre-adolescence throughout pregnancy, will increase the probability of a normal birth weight. Especially open to risks are infants born to teenage mothers or women who exist primarily on foods with low nutritional values.

Another preventative step is proper prenatal care at the first indication of pregnancy. Many problems can be anticipated and even corrected if a physician detects them early enough.

A mother-to-be should make certain she has all necessary immunizations before she becomes pregnant, adds Mrs. Molitor. Particularly important is immunization against rubella (German measles), since exposure of the fetus can cause blindness, defects and other handicaps.

Girls see college as avenue to jobs

NEW YORK (AP) — Teenage girls have their eye on jobs they feel only a college education will prepare them for, according to a survey in Seventeen magazine.

Nearly three-fourths of the girls polled said they planned to attend college, their main reason being to prepare for a high-paying job. The overwhelming majority said they would opt for a specific major, rather than a more generalized liberal arts degree.

Pampa falls to Rebels

The Pampa Harvesters saw a five-run lead disintegrate in the third inning as Amarillo Tascosa went on from there to notch an 8-6 District 3-AAAA win Tuesday at Optimist Park.

The Harvesters are now 0-2 in district play and 6-9 overall. Tascosa, now 6-10, evened its district mark at 1-1.

Pampa threatened to rout the visitors in the first inning on five hits and four Rebel errors that plated four runs. Both Keenan Henderson and Monte Covatt smacked run-scoring doubles in the first.

The Harvesters made it 5-0 in the second as Steve McDougall led off with a single and came home on a base rap to rightfield by Mark Jennings.

Tascosa exploded for five runs on five hits to knot the score in the third, then added one more in the fourth and two more in the fourth.

Pampa added one more run in the sixth when Jennings came home after a pair of errors and Greg Quarles infield grounder.

Jay Cleveland worked the entire game on the mound for Tascosa.

Steve McDougall led Pampa's nine-hit attack with a pair of singles in five trips to the plate. Jennings, Henderson, Covatt, Quarles, Coffee, Qualls, and Joe Jeffers had one hit each. Quarles knocked in a pair of runs while Jennings, Henderson, Covatt, and Qualls had one RBI each.

Marcus Mack and Tom Ford led the winners with two hits apiece.

Cage signings start today

Southwest Conference coaches were able to officially ink high school basketball players to letters of intent today, but one of the most highly sought recruits indicated he will wait until Thursday to sign.

Mike Wacker, San Marcos' 6-8 center, has narrowed his choices to Iowa, Texas, Baylor, Texas Tech and Texas A&M.

Several players from Western Junior College of Snyder, which went undefeated in winning the national championship, have been widely sought but indicated they would follow their coach, who has been hired at Tulsa.

Several other top players indicated early where they would play. SMU had an oral commitment from 6-7 forward Kirk Lundblade of Plano, who scored 30 points in the Class 4-A finals and was named by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce as Texas' top schoolboy basketball player.

New SMU coach Dave Bliss also landed 6-7 forward John Briggs of Highland Park and Dave Gadis, a 6-0 point guard from Indianapolis.

Wacker's father, Southwest Texas State football coach Jim Wacker, said he had no idea where his son will go. He said his son listened Monday to final pitches from Texas Tech and Texas and was to visit with a Baylor coach Tuesday night.

"Mike told me he wanted to hear one last shot from everyone, and then he would isolate himself Wednesday and make his decision. I honestly don't know what he's going to do. Iowa was here Sunday night, and the Southwest Conference schools are coming in. Alabama is the only school Mike visited that is probably out of the picture."

Briggs, who averaged 18 points and 12 rebounds, had also considered Arkansas. Lundblade, who averaged 20.6 points, narrowed his choices to SMU, Baylor and Arkansas before making his decision.

A 6-6 junior college player from California announced he would go to Baylor, while Texas had commitments from a guard and a forward, both from out of state. A 6-6, 215-pound power forward from Pittsburgh announced for TCU.

Two Houston players, 6-6 Michael Young of Yates and 6-5 Matthew England of Madison, were being recruited by Houston and Rice.

Arkansas had commitments from two 6-9 schoolboys, one from Kansas and the other from Colorado, and hoped to sign 6-2 schoolboy star Ricky Norton of Okolona, Ark.

Frawley upsets Orantes

HOUSTON (AP) — Rod Frawley's upset victory over fifth seeded Manuel Orantes of pain in the first round of the $175,000 World Championship Tennis tournament at River Oaks Country Club surprised everyone—including Frawley.

"I thought I'd have to play very well just to get a few games off him," said Frawley, who eliminated Orantes 7-6, 7-5 in one of eight first round matches played Tuesday. "I didn't realize how fast these courts are. They are not like the ones in Europe."

Orantes became the third seeded player to exit from the tournament. Brian Gottfried of the U.S. pended seventh seeded Vijay Amritraj of India Monday and fourth seeded Hans Gildemeister of Chile had to withdraw because of his one-month old child's illness.

Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia defeated Peter

Feigl of Austria 6-2, 6-2 Great Britain's Buster Mottram beat Corrado Barazzutti, Italy 7-5, 6-1 to keep alive their hopes of making the WCT Championship tournament in Dallas April 28-May 4. First prize is $100,000.

Lendl had little trouble defeating Feigl but it didn't help his disposition.

"This is terrible," Lendl said. "It rained here last year. It rained yesterday. The clay is very fast."

Mottram, meanwhile, took advantage of a temper explosion in the second set by Barazzutti, who carried on a running feud most of the second set with umpire Ruben Knowles.

Barazzutti was angered when Knowles refused to overrule a close linesman's call that favored Mottram and later overruled another call that went in the Italian's favor.

Nicklaus goes after sixth Masters title

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Jack Nicklaus already has experienced two lives as a professional golfer. Is he ready to go for a third? Perhaps.

That certainly is the expectation of many of the more knowledgeable Bear-watchers and the fervent hope of legions of others as the game's international elite prepare to tee it up Thursday for the 44th Masters.

Big Jack will be shooting for his sixth Masters title — an incredible thought — at an age when golfers tend to tremble at the sight of a 6-foot 7-inch putt.

Jack is 40.

For 10 years now, he has been bombarded with questions such as "Do you think you have ached your peak?" "When do you think you'll hang it up?" "Which of the new young lions of the tour do you pick as your successor?"

Nicklaus has been a patient man. He doesn't really.

But he still is the king, winner of more major championships and more money than any golfer to ever lived, and he insists he isn't ready to indicate just yet — not by a long shot.

The "Golden Bear," stung by the ignominy of failing to win a tour event last year for the first time since he turned professional 20 years ago, acknowledged that had allowed himself to lapse into some bad swinging habits. He sought out his teacher, Jack Grout.

"I was like a kid with a new toy," he told his friend, Dick Taylor of Golf World.

He played superbly at the Doral in Miami, like the Nicklaus of old. But a tough, unyielding Ray Floyd beat him on the second playoff hole by chipping in from somewhere north of Duluth, Minn.

A hefty kid of 220 pounds with a crewcut hair style, thick legs, unusually small hands plus heel and back ailments, Jack faced what critics called "six obstacles to greatness."

Big Jack, in his rookie year as a pro, proceeded to beat the revered Arnold Palmer in a playoff for the U.S. Open. Before he was 30, he already was challenging Bob Jones' record of 13 major golf crowns, amateur and pro.

In the late 60s, Jack began questioning his own dedication and incentives. He won no major events in 1968, 1969 and 1970. Flying back from the Ryder Cup matches in England in 1969, he vowed to his wife, Barbara, that he would lose weight. He went on a rigid diet. He took on the image of a Hollywood matinee idol. Then in 1970 his father, Charles, a faithful booster, died.

It was a new Nicklaus that tackled the decade of the 70s — thinner, more relaxed, more resolute. Titles cascaded. He boosted his cache of major crowns to 17, his tour victories to 66, total world conquests to 84, collecting more than $3.4 million in prize money.

Whereas Bob Jones had amassed all his records by the time he was 28 and Ben Hogan did not win his first Open until he was in his mid-30s, Nicklaus has swept through both of those eras, enjoying two lives.

And he's still going strong. Don't count him out.

Softball meeting

A meeting of Industrial League softball managers is scheduled for 7 p.m. April 17 at the Electric, located on Price Street.

League play is expected to begin April 21 while a slowpitch tournament is set for April 27.

More information can be obtained by contacting Randy Smith, 665-2396; Kim Snell, 69-7324, or Jay Trosper, 65-3733.

Tucson outfielder

looks for chance

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Tom Edenhauer remembers being a soda pop for three years in the baseball field where, on Tuesday, he'll help the Tucson Cubs open their regular Pacific Coast League season against the Angels.

"I'm excited about it, and it'll be nice to be in a comfortable place," says the 21-year-old who graduated from Sahuaro High School in 1976. "I may feel a little pressure — like maybe the fans will be expecting a little more from me than they'll get."

But I can't worry about the fans watching, and I think everything will be all right after we get the season going," he says.

Edenhauer will be the regular center fielder for the Cubs and believes he can hit .300, though last season in Columbus, Ohio, he ran into repeated sporadic slumps. "I had some personal problems that took my mind off the game," he says.

Clarendon girls win

WHITE DEER-Clarendon captured the District 2-A girls track and field meet held here Tuesday with 173 points. Panhandle followed with 130, Wellington was second at 108, Shamrock, third at 64; White Deer, sixth at 34, and Memphis, 0.

Area girls winning first-place medals were Rose Williams, White Deer, 440, 63.5; Lisa Wright, Panhandle, 100 hurdles, 16.7; Julie Mitchell, Panhandle, mile, 6:01.6; and Tamie McCown, White Deer, discus, 104-3/4. Williams also placed second in the high jump while Wright was third in the triple jump and second in the long jump. Mitchell was also second in the 800.

Others placing were Hatter, Panhandle, third, 100 hurdles, and Cunningham, Panhandle, second, mile.

Ed Sneed not haunted by past

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The memory of that hanging putt will never fade.

But Ed Sneed has dealt with it. The man who let the 43rd Masters title slip through his fingers had put things in their proper perspective as he prepared for this year's event which begins Thursday. He remembers, but he is not haunted.

"You'll never forget something like that," said Sneed, who had a 3-stroke lead with three holes to play last year and bogeyed in. A par-saving putt on the 72nd hole hung on the lip of the cup, one-quarter of the ball over the hole.

"It is tough to accept, but you have to," said Sneed, a thoughtful man whose speech still carries traces of the soft, lilting cadences of his native Virginia.

"I had it in the bag. It was my tournament to take and I didn't do it. You can never forget it. You can't erase it. It will always be there."

It was, quite simply, one of the great collapses in golf history. It ranks with Sam Snead taking an 8 on the final hole of a U.S. Open he should have won, Arnold Palmer blowing a seven-stroke lead with nine to play in the 1966 American national championship in San Francisco.

Tascosa girls lead district golf

Tascosa carded a 367 to take the lead in the first round of the District 3-AAAA girls' golf tournament Tuesday at Pampa County Club.

Defending champion Amarillo High was in second at 383 while Pampa was third at 467.

Penny Summers led Pampa with 102, followed by Carolyn Barre 121; Amy Wheeler, 115, and Suzy Carter, 129.

Jill Prince of Tascosa led all golfers with an 83. Teammates Laurie Madden and Leslie Jacobs followed with 89 and 92 respectively.

The final 18 holes are scheduled to be played Friday at the Rogers Municipal Golf Course in Amarillo. The top two teams advance to the regional tournament April 17-18 in Lubbock.

Rounding out yesterday's team totals were Tascosa's B team, 47; Amarillo High B, 490; Palo Duro, 508, and Caprock, 521.

I would like to thank each person who exercised their right to vote in the recent school board election. Your continued input and support over the next three years will be appreciated.

Umpires clinic set

Pampa Softball Umpires Association is sponsoring a clinic Monday and Tuesday, starting at 7 p.m. at Lovett Memorial Library.

Jim Burelson, umpire-in-chief of the Amarillo Umpires Association, will conduct the clinic, which is open free of charge to the public.

After attending the clinic, anyone may be eligible to become a sanctioned umpire by the Amateur Softball Association (ASA), a national organization.

For more information on umpiring or softball in general, contact Jay Trosper at 806-665-3733 or 806-665-7425.

Lakers, Sonics open with wins

If what Los Angeles' Earvin Johnson did to the Phoenix Suns was magic, then what Seattle's Dennis Johnson did to the Milwaukee Bucks was downright legerdemain.

Johnson & Johnson teamed up on different ends of the West Coast Tuesday to get their respective teams, the Los Angeles Lakers and the Seattle SuperSonics, off on the right foot in the opener of their best-of-seven National Basketball Association conference semifinal series.

In Los Angeles, Earvin "Magic" Johnson had 13 points, 16 assists and 12 rebounds to lead the Lakers to a 119-110 victory over the Suns. While the Magic Show was doing its tricks, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar contributed 30 points, Norm Nixon 26 and Jamaal Wilkes 19.

Up the coast in Seattle, Dennis Johnson's three-point basket from about 26 feet with one second to play in overtime lifted the defending NBA champion SuperSonics to a 114-113 now you've won it-now you haven't triumph over the Milwaukee Bucks.

The Bucks had taken the lead with six seconds to play on Marques Johnson's breakaway stuff. Dennis Johnson then dribbled the ball from backcourt until he let fly from outside the three-point line, hitting nothing but net.

Western Conference semifinals resume tonight in Los Angeles and Seattle. In the East, the Boston Celtics entertain the Houston Rockets in their best-of-seven opener while the Philadelphia 76ers, leading Atlanta 1-0, are at home against the Hawks.

Tuesday, the difference was at the foul line, where the Sonics sank 31 of 39 compared with the Bucks' 15 of 23. And Milwaukee's Brian Winters and Junior Bridgeman, who combined for 34 points a game during the regular season, managed only 14...together.

The Bucks sent the game into overtime when Dave Meyers sank two free throws with one second remaining in regulation to tie it at 103. Seattle's Gus Williams led all scorers with 30 points and Dennis Johnson added 24. Bob Lanier topped Milwaukee with 27.

Woman's gifts to village total $500,000

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Early each morning, 81-year-old Lucille Juric walks into the New Era, as she has for 42 years, and starts preparing food for patrons of her bar and restaurant.

While the first customers of the day file into the unpretentious eatery near an Akron tire factory, the midday sun beats down 5,000 miles away in the village of Krusevo, Yugoslavia, on a ciseled stone bust of a woman widely known there as "Teta Luca" — Aunt Lucy.

The bust was erected in gratitude for the gifts Lucille Juric presented to the village where she was born — a new medical clinic and ambulance, a new elementary school, a scholarship fund, new pews for the monastery and repairs to St. George's Church.

It is not easy to link Mrs. Juric, a simple, self-effacing woman, with the woman who has donated upwards of $500,000 for projects in her native land. For more than a year, she refused to talk to reporters inquiring about stories of her good works.

"Oh, it's nothing, really," she would say, turning red and waving her strong hands in front of her face.

Finally, she was confronted with translations of stories from Yugoslavian newspapers. "Then there's nothing more for me to tell you," she said. "But please don't make it look like I'm bragging."

Since the mid-1960s, Mrs. Juric's gifts have made her a symbol of good will from the bustling streets of Belgrade to the mountainous regions of Dalmatia near the Adriatic Sea.

The clinic at Krusevo was built and equipped — with a modified Land Rover purchased for use as an ambulance on the unpaved mountain roads — at a cost of more than $300,000. Mrs. Juric spent another $50,000 for a new eight-room school to replace the one-room school she attended as a child.

When the school was finished, she paid for paving of a road running 2 miles from the school to the clinic — the first paved road ever built in the village.

To encourage doctors, nurses and other needed professionals to stay in her native mountains, she put nearly $80,000 into a scholarship fund. Interest from the fund currently supports 10 students.

She has spent more than $15,000 in a continuing program to stock an English-language book collection at Belgrade University in memory of her late husband, Rade Juric.

During World War I, the Austrians took the bells from St. George's Church in Mrs. Juric's hometown to melt down for cannons.

Years later, her father donated money from his earnings as an Akron street and sewer worker to replace the bells, she said.

When she returned to Krusevo for the clinic's dedication, thousands of people lined the road in front of that church, and the bells rang out a greeting.

"Those bells!" she recalled. "A half-hour they rang."

Jonestown cook sentenced to five years' hard labor

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (AP) — One of two persons charged in connection with the Peoples Temple tragedy was sentenced Tuesday to five years hard labor for the attempted murder of a 9-year-old girl.

Charles Edward Beikman, 44, a cook and shoemaker for the Jonestown community, had pleaded guilty to that charge but innocent of slaying a top cult member and her three children on Nov. 18, 1978.

Court sources said the state is not expected to pursue charges that Beikman murdered Sharon Amos, an aide to cult leader Jim Jones and public relations officer for the Peoples Temple.

On the same night that Mrs. Amos and three of her children died in Georgetown, their throats slashed ear-to-ear, Jones led more than 900 of his followers to their deaths in a mass murder-suicide in Jonestown, 150 miles to the northwest.

The mass killings followed the slaying by cult members of Rep. Leo Ryan, D-Calif., three journalists and a defecting cult member on a jungle airstrip near Jonestown.

Another cult member, Larry Layton, 33, a former Marine, is charged with the murder of Ryan and the others. His trial has been delayed until May 5.

Beikman had pleaded guilty to the attempted murder of Stephanie Jones, no relation to the cult leader, who was in a bathroom of the house where the Amos family died.

The five-year sentence means Beikman could be out of prison three and a half years from now, with time off for good behavior. The maximum sentence for attempted murder is life imprisonment.

Government buys wheat to boost prices

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has bought an additional 43.9 million bushels of wheat for $160.5 million to help bolster farmers' grain prices.

But the Agriculture Department said Tuesday the purchases represented only about 54 percent of the grain actually offered for sale.

Thousands of bids were rejected because asking prices were too high.

The purchase was the larger of the two the government has made. In the previous purchase two weeks ago, USDA bought 16.6 million bushels at a cost of $66.1 million.

Officials said the price paid averaged $3.89 a bushel, compared to $3.99 for the wheat bought previously. However, prices varied greatly because of location and kinds of wheat.

The department also said it began making offers to buy wheat from farmers at prices posted in county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

The direct buying was undertaken because, as Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland has said, not enough wheat was being offered by grain companies, including country elevators, at reasonable prices.

But the bid system, under which elevators offer to sell wheat to the government, will continue along with the new direct-purchase program, officials said.

Bergland says the wheat buying will continue until about 4 million metric tons — 146.8 million bushels — are removed from the market. That represents the amount of wheat left over when President Carter canceled further shipments to the Soviet Union Jan. 4, in response to the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan.

The wheat bought thus far totals about 60.5 million bushels or nearly 1.65 million metric tons. That is roughly 41 percent of the total wheat Bergland says will be bought.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 36.7 bushels of wheat.

According to figures released by the department's commodity office in Kansas City, Mo., there were 5.824 bids to sell wheat this time, a total of nearly 81 million bushels.

Of those, 2,975 bids — representing the 43.9 million bushels — were accepted by the department's Commodity Credit Corp.

The breakdown by state, including prices or a range of prices paid for the wheat, in dollars, by class of wheat, included:

No. 2 Hard Winter — California, 500,000 bushels and 4.46%; Colorado, 1,181,894 and 3.35 to 3.83; Idaho, 8,400 and 3.35 to 3.83; Kansas, 14,001,118 and 2.78 to 4.01%; Montana, 1,880,037 and 2.76 to 3.76; Nebraska, 1,913,264 and 3.30 to 3.95; New Mexico, 88,100 and 3.95 to 4.02%; Oklahoma, 10,584,779 and 3.33 to 4.12; South Dakota, 253,550 and 3.40 to 3.75; Texas, 5,610,715 and 3.64 to 4.38; Utah, 200,000 and 3.83; Washington, 137,000 and 4.05 to 4.24; and Wyoming, 13,200 and 3.24 1/2 to 3.50.

No. 2 Soft Red Winter — Illinois, 100,000 and 3.89; Indiana, 840,000 and 3.75 to 3.90%; Kansas, 255,638 and 3.60 to 3.91%; Kentucky, 100,000 and 3.94; Missouri, 156,250 and 3.90 to 3.95; New York, 2,750,000 and 4.13 to 4.45; North Carolina, 50,000 and 4.10; Ohio, 110,000 and 3.90 to 3.94; Oklahoma, 2,300 and 3.98; Texas, 100,000 and 3.93; and Washington, 15,104 and 4.00 to 4.10.

No. 2 Soft White — Colorado, 56,666 and 3.58; Idaho, 154,674 and 3.60 to 3.92; Montana, 13,000 and 3.40; Oregon, 406,000 and 4.02 to 4.09; and Washington, 1,893,145 and 3.75 to 4.01.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Big snowstorms and rain in much of the nation in early spring have delayed field work, raised havoc with livestock and caused other problems. But the moisture could mean benefits for crops and pastures later.

A weekly report issued Tuesday by the Agriculture and Commerce departments said the condition of winter wheat was "fair to good throughout the nation" as of April 6.

Nuns claim victory in dispute with coal company

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A group of nuns pushing for improvements at the Blue Diamond Coal Co. attended its first stockholder meeting, claiming victory for a coalition of religious stockholder-reformers even though a resolution they sponsored did not pass.

The nuns said their presence Tuesday at the company's annual meeting was a victory because they had been barred from a previous meeting. But a resolution to get the company to register with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission failed.

The Sisters of Loretto, a Roman Catholic teaching order based in Denver, led members of an activist coalition of Catholic and Protestant organizations at the meeting. They are seeking improvements in mine safety, labor relations and pollution control.

They were admitted only after threatening to seek a court order to prevent the meeting at the company's Knoxville headquarters. The company refuses to recognize the nuns as stockholders of record, but admitted them to the meeting on a technicality.

The order began buying Blue Diamond shares 18 months ago and now owns 81 shares, and the whole coalition owns 331 shares.

"This is an important first step in ending Blue Diamond's perpetuation of secrecy around its operations," said John C. McBride, regional coordinator of the Knoxville-based Commission on Religion and Appalachia, one of the groups in the coalition.

Blue Diamond is a coal producer in Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia, mining more than 2 million tons of coal a year.

It has incurred more than 4,600 federal mining safety citations since 1970. Two explosions in March 1976 at the company's Scotia, Ky., mine killed 26 men.

The Sisters of Loretto lost their SEC motion at Tuesday's meeting. About 89 percent of the stockholders represented at the meeting voted down the request.

Stallard said the company refused to register with the SEC because it wants to avoid the costly paperwork that he said would be required. The SEC regulates the financial dealings of corporations.

Under federal law, corporations with 500 or more registered stockholders must register with the SEC.

'The Fitness Fact Book' From rackets to stairs

By Theodore Berland
(13th of 14 parts)

Is tennis or racquetball the better exercise? And what does roller skating do for the body? The answers can be found in this continuation of our evaluation of popular sports and exercises.

Again, each activity is awarded from zero to five points overall and in each of nine categories: 1-A more efficient heart. 2-A slimmer, firmer body. 3-Bulging "macho" muscles. 4-Greater strength. 5-Power and endurance. 6-Flexibility and suppleness. 7-Improved sports skills. 8-Convenience. 9-Sociability.

For more advice on getting into shape, order a copy of my "Fitness Fact Book." Send $1.95 plus 50 cents postage and handling to "Fitness Fact Book" in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

-RACKET GAMES-
A number of games involve hitting a ball with a hand, paddle or racket so as to outsmart an opponent. Tennis, like table tennis and badminton, is a mildly active variation of this activity.

Far more vigorous is hitting a ball against the walls of a little room, whether that ball is propelled by a hand (handball), paddle (paddleball) or racket (racquetball or squash). Handball offers lots more running; paddle and racquetball offer lots more arm action.

The more competitive any racket game, the more it does for your heart and weight. A singles player works harder than a doubles player.

-ROPE SKIPPING-
One of the best and most vigorous exercises, rope skipping has some hazards for ankles and feet. It provides limited joint movement and muscle development, restricted mainly to the calves with some thigh involvement.

But it is great for your heart, slimming and endurance.

You have to be somewhat fit when you start. You have to warm up. And you have to develop — or renew — the skill of twirling and jumping.

Rope skipping should be complemented by arm or torso sports or exercises.

Recreational ice skating and roller skating are all-around mild exercises. Both are good for building fitness.

Emphasis again is on the legs, so skating should be supplemented with upper-body exercises.

Natives return to nuclear site

ENEWETAK ATOLL (AP) — In a simple ceremony under a blazing sun, the United States returned this mid-Pacific atoll to its native people, declaring that the three-year cleanup from nuclear tests here in the 1940s and 50s was completed.

Representatives of the U.S. government and military, the Enewetak people, the U.S. Trust Territory of the Pacific and the Marshall Islands government attended the main ceremony Tuesday on the island of Enewetak.

About 450 Enewetak natives — including a baby girl born here Monday and youths who had never seen their homeland — came for the celebration. "We rejoice that we have returned to our homeland," Iroij (chief) Johannes Peter said.

Suzanne Somers' career takes off

By Dick Kleiner

SUZANNE SOMERS: "I want to limit the publicity now — too much and the public gets tired of you."

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — In the great annals of the history of television blondes, it is written that first there was Farrah Fawcett and then there was Suzanne Somers.

Suzanne, like the second child in a family who sees how the oldest child does things, is profiting from Farrah's experiences. She isn't making the same mistakes Farrah made.

"I think Farrah made a couple of bad mistakes with her career," says Suzanne.

For one thing, she thinks Farrah made a mistake in leaving the comfort and security of her television series, "Charlie's Angels."

"So I am staying with my series," she says. She is a mainstay on the ABC bit-of-fluff called "Three's Company." "I'm going to stay on the series as long as I can. Next year will be our fifth — that is already set — and I am reasonably confident that there will be a sixth year after that."

She originally felt that five years would be enough, would do for her what she expected it to do. But, after seeing what happened to Farrah, she has revised her thinking.

Suzanne also feels that Farrah made a mistake in over-publicizing herself.

"I did that at first, too," she says. "When I first got started there was a blitz of publicity — I did every game show I could get on, I did all the interviews I could set up, I got on every magazine cover I could."

And that blitz was fine for a while. It got me established. But that was then, and this is now. And now I am doing very few interviews. I am doing no television, except the series. I want to limit the publicity now — too much and the public gets tired of you."

And she has her first big-time Las Vegas engagement, with a two-week stand at the MGM Grand Hotel.

She has also been restored to the good graces of the Ace Hardware people. She was their TV spokesman until Playboy Magazine published those 10-year-old when-I-was-hungry-I'd-do-almost-anything nude pictures of her. Ace immediately dropped her, but then smarter, heads prevailed.

Suzanne handled herself so well during that contretemps — she made the magazine pay but turned her fee over to charity — that Ace apologized and took her back.

She and her husband, Alan Hamel, are also moving. That is one price she is paying for success. They currently live at the beach, but Suzanne can't enjoy it.

"People know where I live," she says, "and that can get very troublesome. I can't even stand in my living room — people might look in. Alan keeps reminding me to get away from the window. So we have bought a house which is more private."

Her movie career — again unlike Farrah's — is predicated on quality of the product. "Nothing Personal" was produced by Bob Kaufman, who made "Love at First Bite" among other comedies. Kaufman thinks Suzanne could be the modern counterpart of the great comedienne, Carole Lombard.

When Kaufman told her that, Suzanne says, she began trying to arrange to screen some old Lombard pictures. She's heard of Lombard, but she's never seen her.

-STAIR CLIMBING-
The cheapest, most convenient exercise equipment for many people is a flight of stairs.

Stair climbing is more well-rounded than jogging or cycling because you exercise the quadriceps at the front of the thigh when lifting your body up the stairs and exercise the hamstrings at the back when going down. As it does nothing for the torso and arms, you still need other exercises.

Before you have your next prescription filled,
 find out which
 "low discount prices"
 are lower.

We urge you to bring in your present prescription or call and ask our pharmacist to quote you the Revco price over the phone. You will then be able to compare Revco's discount price with the price you paid for your prescription elsewhere. Then decide for yourself if you want to go on overpaying for your prescriptions. Remember...since we opened our doors, we've filled over 300 million prescriptions. Revco has become America's largest drug chain because the nation's families have learned they can depend on Revco for quality prescriptions at low discount prices. So before you have your next prescription filled, compare prices. And find out which "low discount prices" are really lower.
