CANCER (June 21-July 22) There is a possibility today you could be penny wise and pound foolish, and make the kind of deals that afford you no real advantage.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In spite of your better judgment you may be tempted to do certain things the hard way today, and thus put obstacles in your path to lessen chances for success.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Persons you are counting on today may be able to help only to a limited degree. If you don't fend for yourself, you might be sorry.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Serious complications could develop with joint ventures today if matters are handled tactlessly. Do nothing to ruffle the feathers of those you're involved with.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Coworkers may do more today to hinder than to help your efforts unless you treat them with kid gloves. Be sure everyone is aiming at the same target.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Unless you keep your mind on your work today, you're not likely to do a job that's up to your full capabilities. In fact, you may even resent your tasks.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Do nothing socially today that could give friends the idea that you're trying to dictate to them. Behavior that appears bossy will tarnish your image.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You and your mate are likely to be in harmony over minor issues today, but words apart on truly important matters. Be willing to bend a bit.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Others are more prepared to do your bidding today if you request things of them rather than issue commands. Speak softly. Discard the big stick.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be wary of a tendency today to take big chances in order to win small gains. Consider carefully the risks as opposed to the rewards.

FRESH CORNISH game hens, roasted and served with a Cherry Port Sauce, are delicious.

Sauce birds with cherries

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
DEAR CECILY: Some years ago my husband and I had a delicious dinner in a restaurant. The main dish consisted of Cornish game hens in a red wine sauce with dark cherries. We planned to return to the restaurant and ask the chef for the sauce recipe, but the building burned down and apparently the restaurant did not relocate. I've looked for a cherry wine sauce recipe in every cookbook I could get my hands on, but I haven't found one. Can you help me? — DESPERATE.

DEAR DESPERATE: The following recipe for Cherry Port Sauce may please you. — C. B.

CHERRY PORT SAUCE
1 1/2-ounce can whole pitted dark sweet cherries in heavy syrup
1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
1/2 cup ruby port
Coarsely grated rind of 1 medium orange (about 1 1/2 tablespoons)
1/4 cup orange juice

1/4 cup red currant jelly
2 tablespoons ruby port stirred into 2 teaspoons arrowroot until smooth

Drain cherries; refrigerate cherry syrup — there should be 3/4 cup — for some other use. In a 1- or 1 1/2-quart saucepan, into the mustard, gradually stir the 1/2 cup port, keeping smooth. Stir in the cherries, orange rind, orange juice and currant jelly. Over high heat, stirring until the jelly melts, bring to a near-boil. Add arrowroot mixture and stir constantly until thickened and glossy. Makes 2 cups. Pour over 4 to 6 roasted Cornish game hens or pass separately.

Note: if you want to make the sauce ahead, bring to a near boil as directed and put aside. Just before serving, heat cherry mixture, add arrowroot mixture and stir constantly until thickened and glossy.

Arrowroot is a starch put out in small jars by some spice companies; you will find it among the spices in some supermarkets.

TWEEN 12 AND 20

By Robert Wallace

Dr. Wallace: I really need help with my father. For Christmas, my dad bought me a bicycle. It's great and I love it except for one thing. It's bright orange and I hate orange. I want to paint it a different color but my dear father won't let me. All he ever says is, "Ride your bike, maybe the color will grow on you."

Do you think that I should be able to paint it another color? — Rhonda, Springfield, Ohio

Rhonda: Sorry, but I think you are being very inconsiderate. You don't need any help with your father. He is doing just fine.

Dr. Wallace: My dad remarried and his new wife is 41 years younger than he is.

They now live in San Antonio, Texas, and I telephone my dad once a week.

My problem is that this lady always butts in and gets on the line whenever my dad and I start fighting.

My pastor says not to call anymore, but I love my dad and don't want to cut the ties with him. What should I do? — Barbara, Hagerstown, Md.

Barbara: Listen to your pastor. Instead of calling, write your dad a letter every week and include a self-addressed, stamped envelope for his return letter. It would be cheaper and it's harder to fight by letter.

But remember, Barbara, regardless of the age difference, this woman is your father's wife and it's expected for her to "butt" in when you fight with your father. Stop the fighting and you might discover that you like your stepmother.

Send questions to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and 28-cent stamped, large, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace in care of this newspaper.

THE PEOPLE'S PHARMACY

By JOE GRAEDON

Q. Your column on saccharin a few months ago, really made me mad. If I choose to drink diet soda and take on whatever risks are involved I can only hurt myself (maybe).

A. We beg to disagree. Weighing benefits and risks is difficult enough for adults. Most children are incapable of making such a decision, especially if the potential hazard tastes good.

Children consume huge quantities of diet soda and other artificially sweetened "goodies". And because of their smaller size and lower body weight this results in a proportionately greater exposure.

Despite what you have read in the papers recently, saccharin has not been given a clean bill of health. The media, the legislators and the general public have all been misled about the safety of saccharin.

The results of three new studies have been cited as proof positive that there is no connection between saccharin intake and bladder cancer in humans.

Would it were true. Epidemiological investigations like those just completed can detect only relatively large risks. These tests are just not sensitive enough to uncover small increases in cancer caused by a "weak" carcinogen — one which causes cancers just as lethal but in relatively fewer individuals.

Research carried out by the National Cancer Institute (NCI) seems to indicate that while the overall danger is low, heavy users (those who consumed more than two diet sodas a day or used more than six servings of a sugar substitute) had a higher risk of bladder cancer.

Dr. Robert Hoover, the physician who headed up the NCI investigation, recently offered an important caution to his colleagues.

"When all the evidence of toxicity is weighed against the lack of objective evidence of benefit, any use (of saccharin) by nondiabetic children or pregnant women, heavy use by young women of childbearing age, and excessive use by anyone are ill-advised and should be actively discouraged by the medical community."

We couldn't agree more with Dr. Hoover. While it's your right to use as much saccharin as you choose, we feel it's our responsibility to warn people that there's a risk associated with the heavy use of this artificial sweetener, especially for children.

Q. I'm an orange-juice lover, but haven't got the time to squeeze it fresh for breakfast. I'd like to get the most vitamin C possible out of my juice, though. How can I do this?

A. The vitamin C content of orange juice varies with the type or oranges used and the time of year, but processing also influences the amount of ascorbic acid in citrus beverages.

Researchers have found that canned juices stored in hot warehouses lose up to 70 percent of their total vitamin C activity, while juice stored at cool temperatures loses only two percent of its potency.

Oxygen also robs citrus juice of its ascorbic acid content, so juice packaged in plastic bottles or waxed cardboard cartons, which allow some oxygen leakage, loses its oomph faster than juice in glass bottles or metal cans.

Once you get it home, keep your OJ in a closed container — not an open pitcher — in the fridge. And if you like to let your frozen juice defrost before mixing it up, don't set it on the counter. Warming frozen concentrate to room temperature in the usual cardboard cans will hasten the destruction of vitamin C in the juice. Taking a little more time to let it defrost in the refrigerator should help preserve the vitamin content.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to referring to bullfighting as "the brutal, bloody business of torturing animals for sport and entertainment." This is your own personal opinion, and you have no right to tear down something you don't understand. And you obviously didn't research the subject or you wouldn't have told the young woman that since bullfighting is illegal in the U.S., she would have to go to a country where it is legal to be trained as a bullfighter.

I am an ex-lady-bullfighter who received two years' training in the U.S. There actually was a bullfighting school in Los Angeles. It was not taught as a "sport" because it is an art.

After I retired from bullfighting, I became very much involved in humane work, and believe me, I should have stuck to bullfighting. I am the president of Feline and Canine Friends, Inc. — dedicated to the humane treatment of animals, and this is the most heartbreaking work in the world.

The cruelty that man imposes on animals is unforgivable. Laboratory animals are tortured and caged until the only peace they know is death. Do you think about what animals must endure so you can walk in leather shoes? Or when you eat baby veal? Or wear a fur coat? Check it out, if you have the nerve.

ROSE H. IN ANAHEIM

DEAR ROSE: What you say may be true, but does man's inhumane treatment of other animals justify man's inhumane treatment of the bull for sport, entertainment or art?

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Thirty years and six great kids ago, my wife, like MAGGIE, was a "never-before-mase-gal." She also believed that sex was dirty and sinful.

An old priest put a stop to all that nonsense. He pulled a book from the top shelf of his library and handed it to my wife with instructions for her to call him after every chapter. He also instructed me never to let two weeks go by without bringing my wife a rose.

When the kids were little, our family doctor wrote on a prescription pad, "One weekend, every six weeks, get a sitter for the kids, buy a bottle of wine, check into a motel with your wife, and treat her like a hooker. And don't say you can't afford it. You can't afford not to."

Today our children are educated, well-adjusted and independent, and I am left with a lovely, exciting wife. Thank you, Father Joe and Doctor Bob!

National League roundup

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

It may be time to break up the Cincinnati Reds and shake up the Atlanta Braves.

Even another so-so pitching performance by Cincinnati ace Tom Seaver and the benching of Atlanta sluggers Bob Horner and Gary Matthews couldn't derail the Big Red Machine or get the Bumbling Brave Brigade untracked Sunday.

The result, thanks to George Foster's tie-breaking two-run homer in the eighth inning, was a 5-3 Cincinnati triumph, the 10th in 11 games for the fast-starting Reds — including seven of eight from Atlanta — and the ninth setback in 10 games for the slump-ridden Braves.

"I thought we could have won the game easily today," said Atlanta Manager Bobby Cox. "Seaver really didn't have his real good stuff."

In other National League action, the Los Angeles Dodgers shaded the Houston Astros 4-2, the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the St. Louis Cardinals 6-3, the Montreal Expos edged the Philadelphia Phillies 7-6, the San Francisco Giants beat the San Diego Padres 5-1 and the Chicago Cubs turned back the New York Mets 6-3.

Dodgers 4, Astros 2

Rookie Rudy Law singled to score relief pitcher Jerry Reuss in the bottom of the eighth inning, breaking a 2-2 tie. Reuss reached when Jose Cruz dropped his fly to short left to open the inning. After Davey Lopes' sacrifice, Law followed with his game-winning hit. Law eventually scored on Ron Cey's sacrifice fly after stealing both second and third.

Pirates 6, Cardinals 3
Dave Parker rapped a three-run homer off Pete Vuckovich to cap a five-run second inning. Bill Madlock opened the inning with a single and Ed Ott walked. Phil Garner singled Madlock home and, after a pair of forceouts, Tim Foli delivered an RBI single and Parker followed with his second homer of the season.

Expos 7, Phillies 6
Andre Dawson led off the ninth inning with a walk off Tug McGraw, raced to third on a bloop single by Larry Parrish and scored the winning run on Gary Carter's sacrifice fly. The Expos had tied the game in the eighth when Warren Cromartie scored on a single by Ron LeFlore. Dawson and Ellis Valentine hit consecutive home runs in the first inning.

Giants 5, Padres
John Montefusco scattered eight hits in posting his first victory since last July and Larry Herndon supplied the punch with a double and triple. Montefusco registered his first complete game since Aug. 2, 1978.

Cubs 6, Mets 3
Ivan DeJesus' tie-breaking single keyed a three-run seventh inning. Mike Tyson started it by reaching on third baseman Elliott Maddox's error and Mick Kelleher sacrificed before DeJesus singled. Steve Ontiveros, who tied the game in the fifth with a solo homer, drew a walk and Bill Buckner singled to score DeJesus. When the ball got past center fielder Joel Youngblood for another error, Ontiveros also scored.

Watson wins despite penalty

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Jim Colbert was saying all the right things, all the gracious things.

"The best player in the game won this tournament," Colbert said. "There is no question about that."

But unknown to Colbert there was a very considerable question about the margin of victory in Tom Watson's front-running defense of his title in the Tournament of Champions.

While Colbert was speaking, that margin was being trimmed from five shots to three. Watson was assessed a 2-shot penalty after he had completed his final round Sunday. It merely changed his score from 71 to 73, his total from 274 to 276, his winning margin from five shots to three.

It was only an exercise in arithmetic.

It didn't change the outcome of the tournament, but it could have.

"If I'd been leading by one, it would have changed things," Watson said. "I wouldn't have won."

The penalty arose from some television-relayed advice Watson passed on to Lee Trevino during their final-round play. Trevino was struggling. Watson told him, on the 13th hole, that he was playing the ball too far forward in his stance.

Herman Mitchell, Trevino's caddy, was wearing a live television mike. NBC announcers heard the comment and rather casually passed it along to the viewing audience as a sidelight, an illustration of how players aid each other.

But it's illegal.

A viewer in Ojai, Calif., telephoned to question the legality. Jack Tuthill, Tournament Director of the PGA Tour, questioned Watson about it in the scorer's tent. Watson readily admitted he'd done it. And he was penalized two shots.

"I was wrong. I wasn't thinking," Watson said. "I violated the rules. It's a violation of the advice rule. I accept the penalty. The rules are there to be followed. I violated them. If I'd been leading by one, if it had changed the outcome of the tournament, I still would have accepted the penalty."

Even with the penalty, Watson won easily. He started the day in front, stayed in front and finished in front.

The veteran Colbert was second in the elite event that brings together only the winners of pro golf tour titles from the last 12 months. He had a closing 70, 2-under-par on the La Costa 2axt y Club course, and a 279 total.

Tied for third at 281 were George Burns and Curtis Strange. Burns had a closing 66 in the warm, breezy weather. Strange shot a 67.

Richardson fourth

Kelly Richardson of Pampa took fourth in the 100-meter hurdles at the Region 1 District AAAA Girls' Track Meet Saturday in Lubbock. Richardson was timed at 14.9.

Bryan's Deanie Palmer won the event in 14.1.

Also placing were Ronnie Wilson, Temple, second, 14.5; Sheryl Brown, El Paso, third, 14.8; Linda Hargrove, Abilene, fourth, 15.2; and Mary Barber, El Paso, fifth, 15.2.

There will be a softball umpires meeting at 7 p.m. tonight in the flame room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Company. Persons interested in umpiring in the Pampa Softball Association this summer are urged to attend.

PHILADELPHIA 76ERS' Julius Erving struts his way past Boston Celtics' Larry Bird on his way to the basket. Bird scored 31 points Sunday to lead the Celtics past the 76ers to even the best of seven series at 1-game apiece. (AP Photo)

Celtics even series behind Bird

BOSTON (AP) — Billy Cunningham sat and frowned as he studied the statistics sheet, a piece of paper the Philadelphia coach hardly needed to identify the flying object that had done such damage to his team.

"It was Larry Bird, plain and simple," said Cunningham. "He hit shots that were just incredible. He was out at the three-point line, coming off screens and burying everything he shot."

Bird, Boston's brilliant rookie, connected on 15 of 30 field goal attempts, scored 31 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to lead the Celtics to a 96-90 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers Sunday, tying their National Basketball Association playoff series at one victory apiece. The next two games of the best-of-seven Eastern Conference finals will be played in Philadelphia Wednesday and Friday nights.

"We had to win today," said Bird, who was still besieged by newsmen in the Boston lockerroom an hour after the final buzzer sounded. "Our backs were to the wall. If we had lost and gone to Philadelphia two down, it would have been very tough to come back."

So, faced with what at least approached a must-win situation, Celtics coach Bill Fitch changed his strategy a bit. He kept his reserves anchored to the bench and went with his starters for as long as possible. Bird and center Dave Cowens played 46 minutes apiece, Nate Archibald 42, Chris Ford 40, Cedric Maxwell 38.

"It's the playoffs," Fitch explained. "There's going to be a time for our bench — when I'm behind. I don't like to throw subs in when everything is cooking. If I'm ahead and things are going good, I don't like to break momentum."

The Celtics didn't build much momentum Sunday, but they did do enough to win. They dominated the first half, taking a 53-38 lead with 2:37 left in the second period behind 21 points by Bird. A 12-1 Philadelphia spurt made the halftime score 54-50, and three baskets by Sixers center Darryl Dawkins tied it at 62-62 with 6:21 to go in the third period.

But Philadelphia couldn't get a basket for the rest of the quarter, was outscored by Boston 12-2 and could come no closer than the final six-point margin. Julius Erving led the Sixers with 24 points, while Maxwell contributed 17 points and 15 rebounds for the Celtics.

"Getting even was important," said Fitch. "We played a lot better defensively than in the first game (won by Philadelphia 96-93). And offensively we went to Larry, as long as it was working for him. They put everyone on him except Billy (Cunningham) himself."

Cunningham started with Erving against Bird, then tried Bobby Jones, then 7-foot-1 Caldwell Jones. None was able to do the job. Bird always seemed to have the ball — shooting, rebounding, passing.

"I can't do anything if I don't have the ball," Bird explained. And what about playing 46 minutes? "When things are going like they did today, you don't want to come out."

Yanks open floodgates on throwing error

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

Bill Castro was determined to go to third base, at all costs. All it cost was the ballgame.

With New York Yankees on first and second and no outs in a 5-5 game Sunday Castro relieved Jerry Augustine for the Milwaukee Brewers. When Bob Watson bunted, Castro pounced on the ball, whirled and fired to third.

The throw was perfect and in time to retire Willie Randolph, but there was a hitch — no one was near third base to take the throw. The ball rolled into left field, resulting in two runs for the Yankees, and when Reggie Jackson followed with a home run, they were on their way to a 9-5 victory.

"I made up my mind to try for the man at third no matter what. I think I got the ball there in time," said Castro

In other American League games, the Kansas City Royals outscored the Detroit Tigers 9-6, the Boston Red Sox edged the Texas Rangers 6-5 in 11 innings, the Toronto Blue Jays stopped the Cleveland Indians 5-3, the Chicago White Sox tripped the Baltimore Orioles 9-6, the Minnesota Twins nipped the Seattle Mariners 4-3 and the Oakland A's took a doubleheader from the California Angels 6-1 and 8-2.

White Sox 9, Orioles 6
Harold Baines, who broke a 1-for-25 slump with two hits Saturday, got four more Sunday. His third double of the game with one out in the ninth preceded singles by Marv Foley, Mike Squires and Harry Chappas as Chicago scored three times.

Doug DeCinces of the Orioles was thrown out of the game in the sixth inning for charging the mound after being hit by a pitch from Mike Proly.

A's 6-8, Angels 1-2

Matt Keough's five-hitter helped Oakland beat California in the first game of their doubleheader, while Rickey Henderson's three hits and steal of home paced the A's second-game triumph.

With a 3-0 record, Keough has already surpassed his victory total of last season when his record was 2-17. The A's took a 6-0 lead in the first three innings against Chris Knapp and coasted home.

Red Sox 6, Rangers 5
Carl Yastrzemski's third single of the game drove in the winning run in the bottom of the 11th inning for Boston, breaking Texas' five-game winning streak.

Royals 9, Tigers 6
George Brett and U.L. Washington slammed home runs and Pete LaCock drove in three runs as Kansas City handed Detroit its eighth loss in nine games since an opening-day victory.

Spurs call press conference

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Everyone in the San Antonio Spurs organization is keeping quiet, but speculation is running rampant here about today's "major" press conference.

The National Basketball Association team called the news conference on Friday, immediately prompting speculation that it involves either a new coach or unhappy NBA scoring champion George Gervin.

The Spurs, mired in a season-long slump, fired Coach Doug Moe with about a month left in the season. General Manager Bob Bass took over for the remainder of the season.

The team finished at 41-41, its worst record since coming to San Antonio from Dallas in 1973. San Antonio lost to Houston in the first round of the playoffs.

The Spurs have talked to numerous assistant and head coaches within the NBA. But it is believed they won't hire a new coach until the NBA playoffs end.

Most of the speculation centers around Gervin, who won his third consecutive scoring crown this year, but is unhappy with his contract.

Gervin said during the season that he wanted the $350,000-per-year contract renegotiated, pointing out that he makes a third of what some other NBA superstars are paid. That contract has three years remaining.

Spurs President Angelo Drossos refused to negotiate during the season, but met with Gervin's agent, Pat Healy, just after the season ended.

That squabble has not yet been solved. Healy, of Tacoma, Wash., left town April 12 without a new contract and hasn't returned.

There was also speculation that the Spurs might be announcing a trade of Gervin, or some other major trade.

"I don't want to play 20 questions," said Drossos. "I don't think it would be fair to anyone to discuss the press conference. Obviously, it is a matter of importance."

"I'd lose my job if I told you what was going on. It will be interesting," said one team official who requested anonymity.

Healy also refuses to comment.

West Germany has important role in Olympic meeting

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Everybody was wooing the Germans as Olympic leaders began three days of vital talks Monday on the growing threat to the Olympic Games in Moscow.

If West Germany follows President Carter's lead and boycotts the Games because of the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan, most other Western European countries are expected to do likewise.

Ignaty Novikov, a member of the Soviet Presidium and President of the Moscow Olympic Organizing Committee, had an appointment in Lausanne with Willi Daume, President of the German National Olympic Committee and a senior member of the International Olympic Committee (IOC).

Lord Killanin, IOC President, had talks with Berthold Beitz, the other IOC member in West Germany, before coming to Lausanne for meetings of his executive board and the international sports federations.

Observers could only guess at the subjects under discussion in these conversations. But these are some of the basic facts of the Olympic drama now unfolding:

—The Soviets, through their two IOC members, are seeking to get the U.S. Olympic Committee suspended because it has bowed to Carter and is boycotting the Moscow Games. Under the Olympic charter, national Olympic committees are forbidden to yield to any kind of political pressure.

—If USOC were suspended, the 1984 Games in Los Angeles would be in danger, because the committee has signed a contract with the IOC for staging the Games.

—The Russians are reported strongly opposed to any changes in the format of the opening ceremony, scheduled for July 19 in Moscow.

—Some IOC members favor changing the rules to allow athletes to compete as individuals, even though their national Olympic committees are boycotting the Games. To facilitate this, the IOC might decide to do away with national flags in the opening parade.

The IOC executive board was meeting on its own Monday and with the international federations Tuesday. But some of the vital discussions have already taken place in private.

On his way to Lausanne, Killanin stopped in Geneva and talked for seven hours with Peter Ueberroth, President of the Los Angeles Organizing Committee. Killanin said afterwards he had complete faith in the organizing committee and there was no plan to move the 1984 Games from Los Angeles.

Sunday night, Killanin met leaders of the U.S. Olympic Committee — Robert Kane, President, and F. Don Miller, General Secretary.

Kane and Miller are due to go before the IOC executive board Wednesday to explain their position. The Russians and others have accused them of breaching the Olympic charter by yielding to political pressure and going along with Carter's boycott of Moscow.

The two Americans, The Associated Press learned, will argue that Carter wanted the USOC to declare a boycott two months ago, but it resisted the pressure and held off making a decision until last week.

Any dramatic change in rules would have to be approved by the full session of the IOC in Moscow in July. But there is still time to call a special session before that if the executive board so decides.
