TRAGIC NEWS. Edgardo Bayad, center, breaks into tears Wednesday as Dolores Ramos, left, a survivor, tells him that his mother was not on the list of survivors of the Philippines motorship Don Juan. The 1,372-ton vessel sank after it was rammed by an oil tanker, but 887 of the 960 passengers were rescued, officials said.

Freighter rescue saves 887

By WILLIAM C. MANN
Associated Press Writer

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A Philippine oil tanker rammed and sank an inter-island ferry-freighter with at least 960 persons aboard in the central Philippines, but the commander of the Philippine coast guard said tanker and other craft rescued 887 survivors.

Commodore Simeon Alejandro reported 14 bodies were recovered and 59 persons were missing following the sinking Tuesday night of the 1,372-ton motorship Don Juan.

Jose Reyes of the rescue coordinating center in Manila said American military flight crews had sighted survivors in the water as late as midday today, 13½ hours after the collision.

Several passenger and cargo vessels were in the area, and officials said it was possible that many of the missing could have been rescued. But some rescue officials said they feared a number of first-class passengers who were asleep in their cabins might have gone down with the ship.

Reyes said the Negros Navigation Co., owners of the ferry, reported it carried 878 passengers and a crew of 85, a total of 963 and three more than Alejandro accounted for.

There was no indication any foreigners were aboard the 300-foot ship, which had a capacity of 971 passengers.

The Don Juan sank 14 minutes after it was hit by the 1,943-ton tanker Tacloban City in the shark-infested Tablas Strait, a survivor said.

"We heard a noise like the ship bumped into something," Sonny Carpio, 30, told The Associated Press in a telephone interview from Batangas City, 60 miles south of Manila, where most of the survivors were taken.

"There was a commotion. Everybody started to panic. Before we knew it water was rushing in."

"It took the ship exactly 14 minutes to sink. I looked at my watch. I was just able to get my head out of the window and started to climb up to the upper portion when I went in the water."

Ernesto Alipis, the Don Juan's radio operator, got off a distress call before the ship went down in 1,800 to 2,400 feet of water, 10 miles east of the tiny island of Maestre de Campo and about 130 miles southeast of Manila.

Natural gas sales peak in '79

DALLAS (AP) — Sales of natural gas, labeled a fast-dwindling resource a few years ago, reached a 30-year high in 1979, the chairman of the American Gas Association says.

C.C. Ingram blamed the dire predictions on competing industries and uneducated government officials who since have changed their tune.

Sales last year rose 6.1 percent nationwide — and more than 13 percent in industry, he said, adding natural gas was a major factor in reduced foreign oil imports.

"I think there's an entirely different belief now and a more optimistic belief by the officials in Washington," said Ingram, in Dallas for the Southern Gas Association annual meeting.

Natural gas prices have risen higher in percentage than oil, "but it's so inexpensive compared to electricity. In the 1990s, electricity is going to cost three times what gas will cost. Coal will cost more than oil, generally," he said Tuesday.

"Gas wells are going to decline in the amount of volume that's available each year from now on. But we have enough gas that at the present usage... we could go for 35 to 60 years on what we think we have in the way of conventional gas to be discovered and produced."

Imports from Canada and Mexico and extraction of gas from "unconventional" sources such as salt water and synthetic processes would raise the figure to 25 to 30 trillion cubic feet by the year 2000. "We think that will maintain our present market share, which is about 25 percent," Ingram said.

Ingram, 63, also is chairman of Oklahoma Natural Gas, where he has worked since his graduation from the University of Oklahoma in 1940. As head of the AGA, he oversees legal, financial and lobbying efforts on behalf of the 300 member gas utilities.

He has high hopes for synthetic gas and coal gasification — transforming coal into methane gas. While this method has been used in Europe for some time, the United States won't have its first plant operating until 1985, he said.

"Since a pilot plant would cost about $1.5 million, they're going to have to have some government guarantees that if it doesn't work, the bankers will get their money back," Ingram added.

Much research is being devoted to appliance efficiency, he said. The AGA has participated in developing a furnace that is 90 percent efficient, compared with 60 percent for the typical gas furnace.

Heating is the area of greatest research, both for homes and industry, he said.

A billion-dollar government study showed Americans would have used more natural gas had the most energy-efficient methods been used, he said.

"We would have used 50 percent less electricity, 30 percent less oil and 4 percent more gas. Most importantly, we would use 60 percent more gas in the industrial area," he said.

School board names new coach for Pampa girls basketball team

By DEBORAH BRIDGES
Of The Pampa News

A new Pampa High School girls' basketball coach was approved by Pampa Independent School District Board of Trustees during executive session of the regular board meeting at Carver Educational Center Tuesday evening.

Jerry Johnson of Clovis, N.M. attended the executive meeting and was interviewed by board members for the position. He was elected with a two-year contract through May 31, 1982. The local coaching increment for the 1980-81 school year was set at $4,000 over the state salary.

Acceptance of the position by Johnson was made verbally to School Superintendent Bob Phillips. Phillips said Johnson is presently a girls' roundball coach at Clovis, he said.

PHS's present girls' basketball coach, Mary Thomas, has been re-elected by the board to teach academics in the coming year, Phillips said.

Committee appointments were made by school board president Darville Orr. He appointed Paul Simmons as chairman of the Budget Committee, Kenneth Fields and Darville Orr will serve as members.

Chairman of the Salary and Curriculum committee will be Kenneth Fields. Members will be Dr. Robert Lyle and Phil Vanderpool.

The Facilities and Construction committee will be headed by Buddy Epperson with Curt Beck and Darville Orr as members.

Retiring board member, Bill Arrington was presented by Orr with a plaque for his six years of service to the school district as a board member.

Arrington served as board president in 1977-78, the year the district began its building construction and renovation program.

It has been a pleasure to serve on the board, Arrington said. He appreciated the fact all members had worked in close harmony for the district, he added.

Two members to the Regional Education Service Center was elected by the board. Ray Sneed of Dalhart was elected to Place 3 with six votes and Robert Sanders of Amarillo was elected to the Place 6 position with six votes. Curt Beck was not present for the voting.

In other business, the school board approved due bills and invoices and the tax roll adjustments as presented.

In a budget status report, business manager Jerry Haralson reported the current expenditures were in line with what had been anticipated for this time.

Other personnel items included the acceptance of Choral Director John Woickowski's resignation, effective at the end of the school year.

Four other coaches were elected by the school board. They are as follows: Frank Belcher - physical education and coach, Joe Matulich - social studies and coach, Ron Pinckard - physical education and coach, and Bill Butler - social studies and coach.

Canadian okays city rate hikes

CANADIAN — Residents of the city of Canadian will be paying an increased rate on water, sewer, cablevision, swimming pool, and city equipment rental services resulting from action taken by the Canadian City Council in the regular session Monday.

The council voted in a lengthy session to approve all the rate hikes due to inflation, pay raises and increased services within the community.

Three new council members, Lonnie Donaldson, Warren Lingg and Charlie Plumlee were sworn in by Mayor George Arrington just in time to vote on the rate increases and to be baffled by a street sign controversy that had never been formally submitted to the council.

Concerning the rate increases, Mayor George Arrington said, "I am willing to pay higher rates, if the service is there."

Water and sewer increases were passed quickly with little dissent from the city council. According to City Manager Vernie Farrington, "The new water rates will add approximately $1 per household per month."

There are 1,297 taps presently in Canadian bringing the increased city water revenue to $1,297 per month.

Sewer rate increases were based on the amount of water used increasing most bills $1, except the slaughterhouse. The bill for the slaughterhouse will increase $18 per month, city officials said.

Bruce Davis, Cablevision representative, asked for $1 per month increase for basic services. The increase will start when the weather station, FM service and Sage Hills cable is operable.

The trash pickup rate action was tabled by the council for further investigation. Roy Bird of Amarillo representing Customized Trash Service presented his company's trash pickup program to the council. Council members agreed to wait on further action concerning the trash program in Canadian.

"City equipment will not be rented out, except in emergencies," according to the council members. Council members motioned to increase rentals rates according to private contractor rates.

Citizens of Canadian had representatives present at the meeting to plead their case for street sign markers in the city.

"We will try to purchase the street signs individually or through city organization contributions for $20 per sign, if the city will promise to properly erect and maintain the signs," one citizen proposed.

In an earlier discussion on the street signs, Mayor Arrington said, "The signs could not be put up by the city crews."

Canadian citizens felt the work of the city crews in erecting previous street signs was not up to par, as many of the signs were already falling and rusted.

"If the city can't do it right we shouldn't do it at all," Mayor Arrington said, delaying the street sign situation indefinitely.

New council member Charlie Plumlee asked why the citizens would have to purchase their own signs.

"Not enough funds," the city manager replied. Lack of communication became apparent in the discussion, and Canadian city council members had to ask why they had never heard of the street sign controversy.

A formal request from the citizen representatives had not been previously made and citizens were relying on chance meetings with the mayor and city manager for information.

A formal request concerning the street signs was made by the citizens to the city council. Council members immediately motioned to have the street signs erected properly, after they were purchased by the individual citizens or city organizations.

City councilmen motioned to change the Canadian paving policy. Previous policy allowed private citizens to do curb and gutter work after completion the streets would be paved by the city. The new policy will honor all previous commitments, but any new paving projects will have to be presented individually to the council for action.

The council approved the planning and zoning commissions recommendations and will advertise the new zoning plans.

Turnout 'moderate' in street issue

Absentee voting for the $4.8 million street improvement bond issue closed at 5 p.m. yesterday with voter turnout described by election officials as "moderate."

Pat Eades, acting city secretary, said 149 registered voters cast their ballots during the absentee voting period. Turnout was lighter than she expected, she said.

"With the magnitude of this thing (the bond election)," Eades said, "I would not have been surprised if 500 had show up."

Voting places for the April 26 elections — open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. — were set out by Eades.

Ward 1 — City Commission Room, City Hall.

Ward 2 — North Sub-Fire Station, 17th and Aspen.

Ward 3 — Pampa Optimist Boys Club, 601 E. Craven.

Ward 4 — South Sub-Fire Station, 1010 S. Barnes.

Voters will be asked to decide Saturday on the selling of $4.8 million in general obligation bonds to pay for a major street improvement program. Of the total, $320,000 will be used for constructing improvements and extensions of the city's sanitary sewer system and $4,480,000 will be expended for the construction and improvement of streets.

SKELLYTOWN ROUNDUP

SKELLYTOWN — New members to the Skellytown City Council, Howard Coday, Mike Chaney and Tom Spence were sworn in by Mrs. John Chaney, city secretary in the presence of Mayor P.M. Cousins and Aldermen Larry Brown and M.L. Giesler, at the regular session of the Skellytown City Council. Tom Spence, the only new member to the council was given an orientation concerning the operational procedures of the city. In other actions, the city election was canvassed and results were approved. The minimum on the water rates is to be changed to $5.00 for 2,000 gallons, up one dollar from the previous charges. The ordinance was done for the first reading. The summer help program was discussed but no action was taken by the council members. Two additional workers are needed by the city for the summer but due to federal cutbacks in the CETA program, the additional workers may not be hired.

Roloff fine reversed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The 3rd Court of Civil Appeals today reversed a district judge's order fining Evangelist Lester Roloff $22,850 for illegally operating three children's homes without a license. The court dismissed Roloff's appeal of another part of the order that told him to get a license or shut down. The court said the order could not be appealed because it was not final. Roloff went through the motions of closing the homes last June rather than obey State District Court Judge Charles Mathews' order to get a license. The state has the right to appeal today's decision to the Texas Supreme Court. Roloff closed the Anchor and Lighthouse Homes for Boys and the Rebekah Home for Girls last summer after refusing to comply with Mathews' June 18, 1979, order to get a license. Since then, he has reopened the homes under the auspices of his People's Baptist Church in Corpus Christi, again without seeking a license from the Department of Human Resources. The appeals court dismissed Roloff's appeal from Mathews' order telling Roloff to get a license by June 19, 1979, or shut down because, it said, the order was not final. To be final, the appeals court said, an order must dispose of all issues involved in a case so that no future action by the trial court would be necessary. "The judgement of June 18, 1979, ordered the closure of the facilities unless appellants (Roloff Evangelistic Enterprises Inc. and directors of the homes) applied for and obtained a license from the state by June 19, 1979."

RIVER CROSSING - Wagon trains rolled again in Oklahoma this weekend as celebrators marked the beginning of 89er Week, marking the 1889 land run in Oklahoma. Festivities, being held in Norman, were highlighted by a trip across the land run route by the Oklahoma Land Run Club. The train stretched 90 miles from Carnegie. Many towns in the state are celebrating through the week. Note the auto tires and wheels on the lead wagon. (AP Photo)

Clarendon college schedule completed

Clarendon College, Pampa Center, will offer a summer course in Aviation for Private Pilot training. Charles Ekleberry will teach the aviation course. Ekleberry has been in Pampa for eight years and is qualified to instruct classes for private pilots license, commercial license, multi-engine license, instrument flying, and instructors certification. Registration for all summer session classes will begin May 26 at the college. Classes begin June 3 and end July 8. The summer session offers a varied Adult Vocational Course agenda as well as regular academic courses for students. Machine shop instruction will be added to the Adult Vocational courses and will utilize the facilities at the Pampa High School Vocational Building. The course, taught by Warren Smith, will offer small and medium size machine instruction, light math and blueprint reading. Photography instruction, taught by John Goes, will offer basic lighting, darkroom techniques, and camera work. Students will provide their own cameras if possible. Conversational German is being offered due to community interest. According to Bill Balcom, director of the Pampa Center, "there are so many local residents who travel to Western Europe and have families and friends there, that the course has become almost a necessity for some people." Conversational Spanish will also be added to the curriculum for the summer session. Electrical wiring will aid students with home repairs by teaching a basic knowledge of electrical currents and amps. All tools will be provided in the class. A variety of short summer seminars is being planned by college officials. The seminars being discussed include a cosmetology seminar designed to add new ideas and new concepts in the field of hairdressing. An insurance seminar will offer adjusting and rating information. Secretarial in-service training for local employees, and a speed-reading class formed for younger children.

Body may be missing coed

BEAUMONT (AP) — Police say the body found in a shallow grave in a remote part of Galveston County may be that of a 23-year-old coed abducted 18 days ago. A 31-year-old man, who surrendered to police in Houston, led officers to the gravesite early Tuesday. Police said the man has made a statement.

New death date set for convicted pair

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — For the fifth time, Pierre Selby and William A. Andrews have been sentenced to a double execution, but their attorneys say it won't happen this time either.

The latest date — May 29 — was issued Tuesday, one day after the sixth anniversary of the day the two former Hill Air Force Base airmen killed three people during a robbery at the Ogden HiFi Shop.

Selby, who has changed his name from Dale S. Pierre, and Andrews were sentenced Tuesday by 2nd District Court Judge John Wahlquist to die by firing squad at sunrise. Utah is the only state with a firing squad, last used to kill Gary Gilmore in January 1977.

Wahlquist denied a series of motions from Andrews' attorney, Tim Ford, and Selby's attorney, Gil Athay.

ONA LOU HONDRUM, right, checks on a new membership for the Pampa Community Concert Association's annual drive. A representative from the New York office of Community Concerts, she spoke to local volunteers at a workers' dinner Monday evening and has assisted at drive headquarters at the Coronado Inn since then. Assisting her at headquarters are Mrs. Homer Johnson, left, and Carolyn Kessel, center. The campaign is going very well but there are still plenty of seats available, says Mrs. Connie McDaniel, drive chairman. Media will be allowed in kidnap-murder trial

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A Sedgewick County district judge has denied a motion to bar the media from pre-trial hearings in Donna and David Courtney's kidnap-murder trial.

Judge Elliott Fry overruled on Tuesday the motion by Mrs. Courtney's attorney, Charles Green.

Green had claimed his client's case had been prejudiced by an article that appeared in the Wichita Eagle last week. The article reported the contents of an affidavit which was filed with the charges against the Courtneys. David Courtney's attorney joined Green in the motion.

Fry ruled there was insufficient evidence to show the defendants' case was prejudiced by the news report.

Alamo protestor killed in California demonstration

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A man arrested during a demonstration at the Alamo in San Antonio was stabbed to death during a fight which broke out Tuesday during a demonstration in a Boyle Heights neighborhood.

Pronounced dead at the scene was Damian Garcia.

30, of Bell, said Lt. Jerry Trent, commander of the Hollenbeck Division's homicide unit.

The identity of the other man was not immediately available, but Trent said he was taken to White Memorial Hospital where he was listed in serious but stable condition.

Garcia was one of three people arrested at the Alamo in San Antonio on March 20 after they tore down the Texas flag from the historic mission.

Paramedics were called to the scene in the 300 block of Via Los Santos shortly after the stabbings at about 6 p.m., Trent said.

They found the victims while the fight still was underway. Authorities said the paramedics were able to grab the injured man during the confusion and take him away in an ambulance before police arrived.

Although details were sketchy, Trent said witnesses told police that about a dozen members of the group were in the neighborhood to distribute leaflets and copies of the party's newspaper, the Revolutionary Worker.

They apparently were trying to generate support for May Day, long considered by Communists and many nations as special day for workers and celebrated on May 1.

Murder suspect remains jailed

FORT WORTH (AP) — Nine posts, nine men. One turned his eyes to heaven, another toward hell, and they died.

Paul Rowan used those words in a copyright story in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram today to describe the executions of former government leaders in Monrovia, Liberia.

Rowan and photographer Larry C. Price were in Liberia Tuesday when 13 former government leaders were shot to death by a firing squad in what the two men described as a carnival-like atmosphere on a beach outside Monrovia.

Both men told of the executions in copyright stories in the Star-Telegram.

"There was silence. Then shouting. Thousands of Liberians cheered the executions and massed onto a long, lovely, littered equatorial beach of dunes and palms," Rowan wrote in describing the public executions, first of nine men and then four others who were tied to the stakes just above the bodies of the first group to be executed.

Rowan said a spectator shouted, "They (the persons being executed) brought it on themselves."

After the initial blasts from rifles and machine guns by the firing squad, other bullets were fired into the 13 bodies "as though mere death was not enough," Rowan wrote.

Rowan and Price said that after the executions, the soldiers allowed some of the thousands of persons in the crowd to near the bodies.

Price said some of the soldiers wanted him to photograph them with their feet on the dead bodies.

Reagan - Bush debate tonight

HOUSTON (AP) — It'll be the Ronald Reagan-George Bush show tonight as Campaign '80 presents — live from Houston — another in the continuing series of presidential debates.

With Rep. John Anderson remaining off stage, Reagan and Bush will have the cameras to themselves in the faceoff sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

Anderson's withdrawal was announced Tuesday by League officials here. The veteran Illinois congressman is considering abandoning his quest for the GOP nomination in favor of an independent presidential candidacy.

The path to tonight's Republican debate is strewn with men who played roles in earlier debates — Howard Baker, John B. Connally, Philip Crane and Bob Dole.

Reagan, the former actor and onetime sportscaster, is getting to be an old hand after initially refusing to face the cameras in Des Moines, Iowa.

Bush has been there all along — punctuating his remarks with frequent hand movements and an occasional clenched fist.

Staying out the initial debate in Iowa probably hurt Reagan because he lost the precinct caucuses to Bush in that corn-producing state.

The debate gave the nation a new, phantom campaign figure — "Big Mo." But he was sacked by Bush following the former United Nations ambassador's loss to Reagan in New Hampshire. "Big Mo" is the term Bush used to describe the momentum the Iowa victory had given his campaign.

Seven Republicans did battle in the League-sponsored debate in Manchester, N.H., on Feb. 20. But with so many players, no one stole the show.

When Bush showed up to debate Reagan on Feb. 20, he found the former California governor had brought along Anderson, Baker, Crane and Dole.

Bush and the newspaper protested that the last-minute change of format.

State purchase of prison site shelved

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State prison officials quietly negotiated a deal to buy a 5,293-acre Starr County farm for a new prison site, according to the owner of the farm.

The failure to inform residents near the Lower Rio Grande Valley farm of plans to locate a prison in their community apparently led Gov. Bill Clements to engineer a 30-day delay that the landowner said killed the sale.

"It's off. We all go home," La Casita Farm owner Albert Prevot said Tuesday after the Approval Board for state prison land acquisitions voted 2-1 for the delay.

The State Board of Corrections voted 6-1 earlier Tuesday to buy the farm for $7,859,646. Prevot had set a Wednesday deadline for the sale, citing a need to arrange financing for the 1980 crop.

"The state has cost La Casita $3,000 a day in interest," La Casita attorney William Ladin said.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong joined Clements in outvoting James Windham, chairman of the prison board, to order the postponement.

Clements, apparently believing the deadline imposed by La Casita was a bluff, said the intent of the delay was not merely to appease Starr County residents. He left open the possibility of picking a different site.

"There would be no point in delaying that if I didn't have an open mind about it," he said.

It was the second time in two years that the Board of Corrections was thwarted in an effort to place a prison in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. In 1978, former Attorney General John Hill held the acquisition of a site near Edinburg was illegal. The 1979 Legislature removed all legal impediments to purchase of land in the Lower Valley for a prison.

Starr County residents lined up to tell Clements and the Approval Board they should have been informed of plans to buy La Casita. County Judge Blas Chapa said he did not know of the deal until contacted by The Associated Press last week.

Prison officials have said they did not notify local residents because they knew the Starr County residents would oppose the prison.

Board member Harry Whittington of Austin cast the lone prison board vote against La Casita, saying he believed other areas had not been thoroughly studied. He also questioned the cost of transporting produce from the Lower Valley to the East Texas area where existing prisons are located.

Clements said the Starr County residents deserved prior notice.

"I think the people down there are entitled to a more careful evaluation of both the minuses and the pluses. To surprise a community with something like that, I don't think that was fair," said Clements.

The governor indicated some doubt that the deadline was firm.

"I don't like deadlines. If they are offering the place in good faith, and I think they are, it is unacceptable to me for them to put pressure on us by saying you've got a deadline," he said.

But Prevot was emphatic in declaring the deal dead.

"I think it is too bad. It would have been good for the state," he said.

The Starr County residents told the board their impoverished county does not need or want a prison — one likened it to being next door neighbors to a rattlesnake farm.

Before the meeting, Bruno Villareal, executive director of the county's industrial development foundation, said his county is becoming a dumping ground for the rest of the state.

"First we got chemical garbage. Now we get human garbage," he told Joe La Mantia, member of the prison board.

Junk call solution costly to subscriber

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — It would cost telephone users $10 a year to flag their directory listings to show they don't want "junk phone calls," a Southwestern Bell official says.

Carlisle Brandt, Bell's division staff supervisor, said that's what it would cost to print an asterisk by a name — including the necessary paperwork.

The asterisk to warn away unwanted advertising calls was one suggestion offered Tuesday at a Public Utility Commission hearing held at the Legislature's direction. The PUC will report to lawmakers on what — if anything — might be done to control the calls.

Brandt said it would cost

Bell about $9 million a year — to be recovered from customers requesting the "no junk call" symbol — if half its 1.8 million Texas subscribers sought the asterisk.

Rep. Carlyle Smith, D-Grand Prairie, said, "People do not like to have their phones used by people they don't want to talk to."

Government looking into Hunt's silver investments

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee looking into last month's collapse of the silver futures market has voted to subpoena the testimony of two Texas billionaires who invested heavily in the precious metal.

The House Government Operations subcommittee on commerce, consumer and monetary affairs took the action Tuesday after its chairman, Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., asserted that Nelson Bunker Hunt and William Herbert Hunt "figure prominently" in the collapse of the silver futures market.

There was no word on when the subpoenas would be formally issued.

The subpoenas were issued even though the Hunts have agreed to appear voluntarily before the Senate Agriculture Committee May 2 to discuss their silver investments. Lawyers for the Hunts had suggested the House panel could "cooperate" with that inquiry, thereby eliminating the need for another appearance.

Good conduct award may mean extra jail time for prisoner

STEILACOOM, Wash. (AP) — Good behavior could get Carrol Lee Wyatt in trouble.

The federal prisoner at McNeil Island honor camp offshore from here says if he has any more "good conduct time" deducted from his sentence, he may have to "commit a misconduct."

In a petition filed in federal court, Wyatt said he doesn't want any reward for behaving because early release might force him to return to Texas to serve out a state prison sentence, and he doesn't want to do that.

Wyatt is serving concurrent sentences — a parole violation and an earlier bank robbery conviction. His sentence at McNeil Island is due to expire Dec. 12, thirteen days after the Texas sentence.

"The petitioner should have the choice and right to refuse extra good-conduct time when it is harmful to him, which in the present case it is... because it forces the petitioner back to the state prison of Texas," the document states.

Under Bureau of Prisons policy, a prisoner gets five days of good conduct time deducted from his sentence for each month served in an honor camp. This is in addition to any other good conduct time earned.

McNeil Island, being phased out as a federal penitentiary, was changed to the status of an honor camp late last year.

"The petitioner did not ask to be placed in an honor camp, nor was he placed in one for good conduct, but was in a United States penitentiary that was changed to an honor camp and was not allowed to transfer out," Wyatt wrote in the petition.

Mexican governor in Austin

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Oscar Flores Tapia of Coahuila, Mexico, arrives in Austin today, the last of four return goodwill trips made to Texas Gov. Bill Clements by governors of the Mexican border states.

A busload of Mexican officials is due in Austin plus the official party in the Coahuila governor's plane.

Gov. Enrique Cardenas Gonzalez of Tamaulipas was in Austin March 26. Gov. Manuel Bernardo Aguirre of Chihuahua Feb. 28, and Gov. Alfonso Martinez Dominguez of Nuevo Leon Jan. 22.

Clements visited all four of the border state governors last year and has twice been a guest of Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo.

Their discussions generally have concerned illegal immigrants, border drug control and exchange of oil and gas resources.

THE SECRET of every young girl's heart is to be the "belle of the ball" on prom night. Dreams become reality with a little help from Ursula of Switzerland and luxuriously soft fabrics. Tiers of sensuous Qiana melt over the body in the romantically daring prom dress, above left, available in lilac, jade, turquoise, coral and white. What could be more likely to win smiles at a summer dance than the "little girl" sundress, above right, available in soft-as-a-whisper vanilla, raspberry or turquoise.

Prom-ising attire for a summer night

By ELLIE GROSSMAN
NEW YORK (NEA) — She wants it down to here because it's her first prom and she's not a child anymore; you want it up to there because it is her first prom and she's not a woman yet.
 Since she's wearing it and you're paying for it, the gown has to satisfy all parties. Which is what Ursula of Switzerland attempts to do, as follows:
 For the little princess who insists on being a little daring, Ursula has a strapless gown ($68) with a gathered bustier bodice that modestly accentuates the bustline, and a slightly gathered long skirt flowing from a set-in waist. There's a flower at the waist which can be removed if the princess wants to wear "his" orchid instead against the coral, lilac, jade or white shade she chooses.

 For the young lady who's less daring up front but doesn't mind more exposure in back, there's a full-skirted, step-in gown ($68) with halter top and an apron-look bodice, with double spaghetti strap belt, in cream or any of the pastels.
 Finally, for the uncertain but eager to look sharp, there's the can't-miss, guaranteed to please parents and escort handkerchief gown ($68).

"That's been our bestseller for three years," says Ursula.
 It consists of a handkerchief bodice upheld by spaghetti straps and a long skirt with a tunic handkerchief over-tier, all of which comes in coral, cream, turquoise, raspberry and the pastels.
 They're all made of Quiana and all graduate from size 4 to 12.
 Ursula is from Switzerland, but she designs prom gowns, et al, in Troy, N.Y., and sells them through Saks, I. Magnin, Lord & Taylor, etc.

DEAR ABBY
 By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I was having trouble getting a clear picture on my TV, so I phoned a TV repair service in my neighborhood. A nice-looking young man came right over and examined the set.
 When I asked him how much it would cost to have it fixed, he smiled, looked me over, and said, "That all depends on how nice you are to me." We both laughed, then he said, "Don't worry, lady, I'll give you my rock-bottom price." Then he took my set with him and said he'd bring it back in a few days.
 Well, a week passed and no set, so I called him and asked when he was going to bring my set back. He said, "When you call and tell me your husband isn't home!"
 That's where we stand. How do I get my set back without causing a fuss? If my husband knew about this, he would go to that shop and take that little punk apart.
 NO TV IN ELIZABETH, N.J.

DEAR NO TV: Call your friendly neighborhood Casanova and tell him if he doesn't have your set back today you will (a) tell your husband, and (b) report him to the Better Business Bureau. (P.S. I'm betting you get your TV set back fast with a clear picture and no hassle.)

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago my husband and I loaned my divorced mother $2,000 (interest free) to help her buy a home. She works very hard, earns a minimum wage and can hardly pay her bills. As far as I'm concerned, the money doesn't have to be repaid until after her death.
 My husband is constantly arguing with me about it and putting my mother down because she has been unable to pay any part of this debt. In the last four years we have given his parents many expensive gifts, and they are very well-off financially.
 We are comfortable and don't really need the $2,000, and I feel no bitterness toward my mother because she still owes us the money.
 Should I ask my mother to start paying us back to satisfy my husband? Or should I continue to tell him that I feel good and Christian-like for having helped my mother?
 CAUGHT IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR CAUGHT: Since you and your husband don't really need the money, and it would be a hardship for your mother to repay it now, tell hubby to get off your back, and refuse to engage in any further dialogue about it.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think this question is too dumb to answer, because I really want to know the answer. When a pair of twins are born, and one is a girl and the other is a boy, is it true that the girl twin will never be able to have children? A neighbor who is studying veterinary medicine told me this, and he should know.
 I'm an 11-year-old girl with a twin brother.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Your neighbor is wrong. He is assuming that the same reproductive laws that apply to cattle also apply to humans. They don't. With cattle, when a male and female are twin-born, the female (called a "freemartin") is almost always sterile. This is not true in humans.

CONFIDENTIAL TO S.J.O. IN ODESSA, TEXAS: The most important job a parent can undertake is giving his/her child a proper childhood. Karl Menninger, still one of the most respected psychiatrists around, said: "People repeat in adult life emotions they experienced in childhood. Many of the people whom I spent the last 30 to 40 years treating at so much per minute wouldn't have needed any treatment at all if they had had the right care as children."

Estrogen increases cancer possibility

CHICAGO (AP) — Estrogen, a hormone often prescribed as part of post-menopausal therapy, significantly increases a woman's chance of contracting breast cancer if she takes heavy doses and has intact ovaries, says a report in the upcoming issue of Journal of the American Medical Association.
 The article says a study of two Los Angeles-area retirement communities showed women who took heavy estrogen doses over long periods of time and who had intact ovaries were 2½ times as likely to get breast cancer as women who did not take the drug.
 The risk appeared inconsistent at low estrogen dosages and was undetectable in women who had had their ovaries removed, according to the article in Friday's issue of the Journal.
 Menopause is the cessation of menstruation.
 The study found that a woman undergoing natural menopause at age 50 who received 1.25 milligrams of estrogen daily for about three years would increase her lifetime probability of getting breast cancer by age 75 from 6 percent to 12 percent, if no latency period for the disease is allowed.

Books, magazines, records available at annual sale

Thousands of books, magazines and records go on sale Saturday as the Friends of the Pampa Library host its annual book sale.
 The sale is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. in the auditorium of Lovett Memorial Library.
 "There is an exceptional variety of books this year," says Mrs. Glenna Miller, chairman of the sale. "Bargains are abundant, with prices starting as low as five cents."
 Included in the sale will be hardbacks and paperbacks, reference sets, textbooks, children's books, and craft, hobby and do-it-yourself manuals and magazines.
 "Patrons ought to bring a shopping bag to carry away their purchases," she adds.

 Funds raised by the Friends of the Pampa Library are used to purchase special library equipment and services. More than 500 people and organizations have become members of the group this year.
 Memberships, which come in daily, are available for individuals, businesses and industries. A life membership arrangement is also possible, explains Mrs. Miller.
 New officers for the coming year are: Earl Davis, president; Carol Fields, vice president; Myrna Ross, secretary; and Ed Sweet, treasurer.

DR. LAMB

By Lawrence Lamb, M. D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I hope you can help me. I'm a woman in my 40s and am very particular concerning my personal hygiene. All my life I've had that awful problem — bromidrosis.
 Certainly I bathe every day and scrub my feet with a nail brush. My feet still smell. I deodorize my shoes daily. It's impossible to change and wash my hose during working hours but when I change my shoes to go home, I'm so self-conscious. Also when I'm traveling on vacation this is a real problem.
 I've been told X-ray treatments will cure this permanently. How relieved I would be if this were really true. I never, never feel clean while this problem exists. Your advice would be greatly appreciated.
DEAR READER — There are a number of people who have this problem. I might also add that some people have a psychological problem that leads them to think they have bad smelling feet when in reality they don't have a significant problem.

 Assuming that you're correct in saying that you do have a problem, you may need to increase your hygiene program despite the fact that you're already a very clean person. Foot odors are really caused by sweaty feet. The sweat itself doesn't smell so bad, although there are sweat glands that produce oily secretions that do have an odor as opposed to just plain watery sweat.
 Bacteria will grow rather rapidly in the sweat and secretions that develop in the socks and will contribute markedly to the odors.
 The trick is to clean the feet at least twice a day, keep them absolutely dry and wear some cotton or wool socks to absorb the moisture. Change socks as often as you can. These are only some of the things that you can do.

I realize you live in a Northern climate and this might not always be acceptable to you, but if people could go barefoot so that their feet didn't sweat and what sweat that did occur wasn't trapped within socks or shoes, they wouldn't have so much of a problem.
 If people could wear open sandals without socks so the feet could ventilate, that would help.
 There are deodorizers that you can use. You would be surprised at the long list of suggestions that have been made to me by other readers who have had this problem. I doubt that any of these remedies will really work on a long-term basis, though, unless you can bathe the feet at least twice a day and keep them as dry as possible.
 Incidentally, it also helps to change shoes every day so you never wear the same pair two days in a row. Change shoes when you get home, too.

New Met galleries offer fresh look

By Norman Nadel

NEW YORK (NEA) — Nobody needs a new reason to visit or revisit the Metropolitan Museum of Art, which displays enough treasure to last a lifetime of looking. But just such a reason has been provided with the opening of the new Andre Meyer Galleries for 19th-century European paintings and sculpture.

Fourteen galleries surrounding a large central display area provide 24,000 square feet — more than half an acre — in which to exhibit one of the most abundant and select collections of this period in the world. This is triple the space formerly available. Size and abundance, however, are not the only reasons why this new area, the gift of the late Andre Meyer, an investment banker and a trustee of the Metropolitan, is important.

For one thing, many of the galleries provide an unprecedented amount of light. For another, all the paintings have been meticulously cleaned. Viewing them seems a fresh and revealing experience even to those who had been looking at them for years.

The illumination affords a sensible resolution to a long-standing dilemma. Some of us can remember when art museums housed a somber gloom, with paintings lit by ceiling fixtures, windows, or small oblong incandescent bulbs mounted atop the picture frame. Many of Europe's, including some of the Hermitage in Leningrad, are still like that.

Much of that was replaced by stronger electric light, well dispersed and diffused, of a color temperature which revealed the artists' hues fairly accurately.

Even that, however, proved less than ideal. The singular quality of daylight, in which most art had been created, was lacking. So skylighting, coupled with artificial light, and computer-controlled to maintain a perfectly even level at all times, was evolved.

That proved too controlled, and museum authorities realized that naturally changing light, maybe with a bit of unobtrusive electric help, would be best. Outstanding example of that approach is the Kimbell Museum in Fort Worth, Texas, with daylight coming through windows in the cycloidal roofs of the galleries. There is no direct sunlight, which would be injurious to paintings, but you know when a cloud passes, for example. It humanizes the art.

The architects' solution for the Metropolitan's new space is a translucent roof, with a translucent ceiling 6 feet under it. Between the two are stainless steel baffles, to break up any direct sunlight, and quartz light to reinforce the daylight when required, as well as to provide full illumination at night.

As the ceiling is 20 feet above the oak floor, the light is nicely and fairly naturally diffused by the time it strikes the art.

At times you might wonder if there is too much light. It reveals unexpected blues in predominantly green/tan Cezannes, and startling whites and colors in works that previously had appeared discreetly muted. Still, it looks good.

At least as responsible as the light, or perhaps more so, is the effect of the cleaning. Imagine about 500 great 19th-century paintings and sculptures, looking as if they came out of the artists' studios only last week.

Conservator John Brealey, who came to the Metropolitan from England five years ago, worked with his staff for two years on refreshing all this art. It has not been retouched or otherwise tampered with — only cleaned. Now you can see into what had been almost impenetrable shadows.

The first two galleries as you enter the new area are devoted to Neo-classical and Romantic painting. Courbet gets a gallery to himself, as does the sculptor Rodin. Degas, painter and sculptor of ballet dancers, rates three rooms.

Visitors are allowed to photograph any and all of this, but may not use flash. With all this light, getting good slides or prints is almost no problem, if your camera is steady.

The one difficulty is light temperature, which can differ greatly even when the amount of light remains the same. On a bright day daylight color film probably would be all right. On a dark day or at night, when the yellowish quartz lights would dominate, film made for tungsten illumination (or the equivalent filter for daylight film) might provide better color values.

Rho Eta hosts rush party

Starla Tracy recently hosted Rho Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi as the group honored eight guests with a rush party.

Chapter members treated rushes to an international cuisine salad supper and several get-acquainted games.

Guests attending were Peggy Trosper, Tammy Ammons, Diane Lamberth, Brenda Holland, Jane Rice, Jamilou Garren, Cathy Scribner and Kathy Gomez.

The chapter also had a regular meeting last week in the home of Terry Gamblin. Assisting her was Starla Tracy.

Lisa Crossman, president, conducted a model meeting to introduce sorority to guests. She also announced that Rho Eta had nominated Georgia Mack for a Distinguished Service Award. The group will donate $75 to Girlstown for their April service project.

The chapter decided to enter the scrapbook and yearbook in the state competition, to be held June 20-22 in Amarillo.

Sunday will be recognized as "Beta Sigma Phi" Sunday. Beta Sigma Phi Founders' Day will be observed next Wednesday at the Pampa Country Club. A Mother's Day luncheon is planned for May 10.

Tanga Hood presented a short skit telling the story of Beta Sigma Phi to the guests.

By-laws and chapter traditions were discussed for possible updating.

Joyce Pulse and Debbie Callison introduced Jerry Burgdorf of the Texas Department of Public Safety. He gave a program on rape prevention.

Guests were Daria Putman, Brenda Holland, Suzanne Stanton, Kathy Gomez, Peggy Trosper and Diane Lamberth.

Jeffers' seventh-inning lifts Pampa past Caprock

By L.D. STRATE

So much for Joe Jeffers' .267 batting average. It is highly misleading. Jeffers, who had two hits in three trips, delivered the game-winning single in the seventh inning as the Pampa Harvesters edged Caprock 10-9, Tuesday in a District 3-AAAA tilt at Optimist Park.

It was also sweet revenge. The first time the two clubs met this season, Caprock won a 19-5 runaway.

Caprock chipped away at a 9-3 Pampa lead and finally knotted the score at 9-all on Ludke's rbi single in the top of the seventh.

Greg Quarles led off the bottom of the seventh for the Harvesters with a single and advanced to second when the ball rolled past the centerfielder. Jeffers, the next hitter, bounced Bobby Short's 1-2 pitch into leftfield to score Quarles with the deciding run.

Pampa struck quickly for most of its runs. Five runs crossed the plate in the second inning with the big blow coming on Mark Jennings' two-run triple off the centerfield wall. Four runs came across in the third where Andy Richardson's double off the centerfield wall knocked in two runs.

Caprock had a five-run explosion in the fourth inning, highlighted by Todd Tenorio's two-run homer.

Mickey Bynum, who held Caprock in check with just one hit in the final three innings, was the winning pitcher. Bynum, now 2-0, relieved Leroy Kuhn in the fifth inning. Andy Richardson started on the mound for the Harvesters and was lifted in favor of Kuhn in the fourth inning.

Jennings, Keenan Henderson, Quarles, and Jeffers had two hits apiece for the Harvesters. Richardson and Clyde Coffee added one hit each. Jeffers knocked in three runs while Richardson and Jennings accounted for two rbis each.

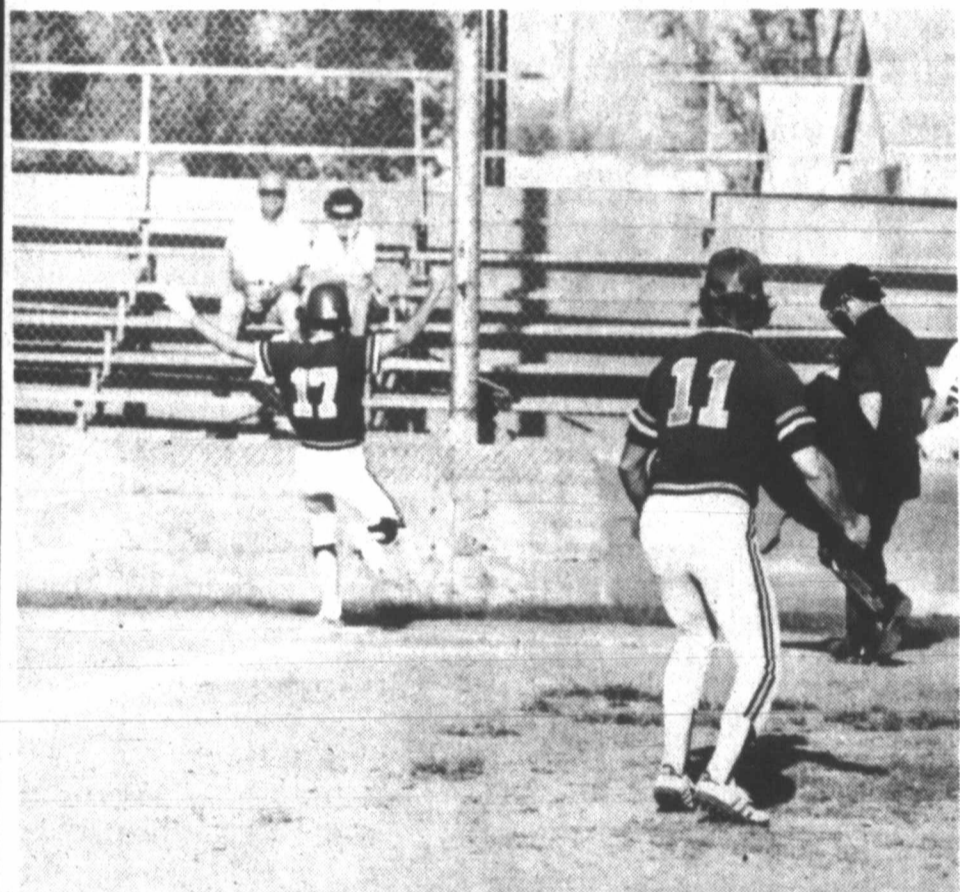

"Joe has really come on strong," said Pampa coach Steve Scott. "At one time his batting average was down below .100, but now it's up over .300. All of the kids have been playing real well."

Pampa, which has won five games in a row, is tied with Tascosa for the early second-half lead. Pampa has a 3-2 District 3-AAAA ledger and an overall 11-9 mark.

We've had 81 hits and scored 74 runs in our last five games," Scott said. "When things like that happens, a team is in pretty good shape."

Pampa travels to Tascosa Friday for a vital district meeting.

"It's a do or die situation for us, but the kids are working hard and are in the right frame of mind," Scott added.

PAMPA HIGH baseball coach Steve Scott (11) isn't one to conceal his joy as Greg Quarles crosses the plate with the winning run (top photo) and then joins his coach in celebrating the occasion (bottom photo). Quarles scored on Joe Jeffers' single in the seventh inning to give Pampa a 10-9 win over Caprock Tuesday afternoon at Optimist Park.

National League roundup

Larvell Blanks, the Atlanta Braves' new third baseman, regards his job realistically.

Blanks made his first start of the season Tuesday, replacing the bewildered and bewildering Bob Horner, who was sent down to the minors the day before.

Horner was the 1978 National League rookie of the year and the club's leading hitter last year, batting .314 with 33 homers, but he got off to a 2-for-34 start at the plate this year with seven errors.

The job fell to Blanks when the Braves abruptly demoted Horner, who responded by saying, "This is incredible. It's beyond incredible," and then contemplated refusing to report to the minors.

Blanks, meanwhile, responded with a leadoff homer in the bottom of the 10th inning Tuesday night, giving Atlanta only its second win in 11 games, a 3-2 decision over San Diego.

Blanks said the farthest thing from his mind was a home run. "They always surprise me, to be honest with you," said Blanks, who hit only one homer last year with Texas. "I don't try to be a long-ball hitter. I just try to hit the ball, and if it goes out, Amen."

And how long can he hold onto his new job? "Probably for the next 10 days," he said. That's the amount of time Horner must spend in the minors, if he reports.

Elsewhere in the NL, Pittsburgh downed

Montreal 5-3, Chicago defeated St. Louis 16-12, Philadelphia whipped the New York Mets 14-8, Houston blanked Cincinnati 8-0 and Los Angeles whitewashed San Francisco 6-0.

Pirates 5, Expos 3
Unlikely Mike Easler provided Pittsburgh's firepower with a pair of home runs. Easler, who has hit only four homers in the previous 118 games of his major league career, hit a three-run shot in the first and added a solo homer in the fifth.

Jim Bibby, 2-0, carried a three-hit shutout into the seventh when the Expos rallied for three runs, highlighted by Warren Cromartie's two-run single. Scott Sanderson, 1-1, was the victim of Easler's first-inning homer.

Chicago pounded out 23 hits — including two homers, one a grand slam, by Barry Foote — to outlast St. Louis. Foote had four hits and eight RBI and Ivan DeJesus also homered for the Cubs, hitting for the cycle with the addition of a single, a double and a triple.

Foote's first homer tied the game 12-12 in the eighth, and his slam came with two out in the ninth.

The Cards pounded out 16 hits themselves, including homers by Bobby Bonds, Ken Reitz and pitcher Bob Forsch.

Dodgers 6, Giants 0
Los Angeles right-hander Don Sutton limited the Giants to four singles, and Steve Garvey drove in four runs as the Dodgers recorded their sixth straight victory over San Francisco.

AL roundup

What the devil is wrong with the California Angels? Probably nothing that a few more base hits wouldn't cure.

The team that batted 282 and topped the majors with 866 runs en route to the American League West championship a year ago is flailing away at a lethargic 233 clip after dropping its fifth game in a row Tuesday, an 8-1 loss to the Minnesota Twins.

While tumbling into last place, the Angels have scored only 35 runs in 11 games and 19 came in the first three contests, 10 in the opener. They have gone six games without a homer — MVP Don Baylor hasn't hit one yet — and the five-game skid has produced a meager supply of eight runs.

The reasons for the slump aren't hard to find. Al Cowens is hitting — you should pardon the expression — .143, Joe Rudi .171, Bobby Grich .219, Dan Ford .231, seven-time batting champ Rod Carew .237. The Angels got a bad break Sunday when Brian Downing suffered a broken ankle but the league's top right-handed hitter of a year ago was mired down at .077.

Elsewhere, the Seattle Mariners ended Oakland's seven-game winning by defeating the A's 5-4, the New York Yankees nipped the Baltimore Orioles 5-4, the Milwaukee Brewers clubbed the Cleveland Indians 8-4, the Detroit Tigers blanked the Texas Rangers 2-0, the Chicago White Sox shut out the Boston Red Sox by the same score and the Kansas City Royals downed the Toronto Blue Jays 7-2.

Roy Smalley, Hosken Powell and Ron Jackson slammed home runs to pace Minnesota over California in the Twins' home opener. Minnesota's Geoff Zahn gave up a run in the first inning, then retired 14 consecutive batters and finished with a six-hitter.

Mariners 5, A's 4
Bill Stein's two-run homer in the bottom of the eighth inning lifted Seattle over Oakland. Stein connected off Brian Kingman after a walk to Bruce Bochte, who also homered for the Mariners, as did Jim Anderson. The homers enabled Rick Honeycutt to boost his record to 3-0 with help from Byron McLoughlin in the ninth.

Tigers 2, Rangers 0
Rookie Kirk Gibson hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning to back Dave Rozema's eight-hit pitching. Gibson's one-out homer off Ferguson Jenkins dropped over the fence at the 370-foot mark in left-center, scoring Alan Trammell, who opened the inning with a single. Rozema struck out two and walked none as Detroit won for only the third time in 12 games.

White Sox 2, Red Sox 0
Britt Burns and Mike Proly combined on a six-hitter. Burns blanked the Red Sox on three singles until Proly took over with two out in the sixth. The White Sox scored off Mike Torrez in the sixth on Claudell Washington's double, Wayne Nordhagen's single, a hit batsman and Jim Morrison's double.

Brewers 8, Indians 4
Robin Yount tripled and scored in the third inning, then sparked a four-run Milwaukee sixth inning with a two-run single and added a sacrifice fly in the seventh. A single by Sixto Lezcano, a walk and a single by Charlie Moore filled the bases with one out in the sixth. Mike Paxton relieved loser Len Barker and Paul Molitor beat out a hit off the pitcher's glove to tie the score 4-4.

Horner blasts Braves

ATLANTA (AP) — Bob Horner said Tuesday night that two years with Ted Turner and his last-place Atlanta Braves has been a living hell and he wants to be traded rather than shipped to the minors.

"There's no reason for this," said Horner who led the Braves in hitting, homers and RBI last year but is off to a 2-for-34 start with six errors this year.

He said he telephoned General Manager John Mullen Tuesday, and "I asked to be traded."

"I've really gone through hell over here for two years," he said. "I played my rookie season with a torn cartilage in my shoulder (and still won Rookie of the Year honors) and had it operated on two days after the season."

"I had a contract hassle with them last year (settled by arbitration) and still played well for them."

"They've done about everything wrong that could be done. They're testing the limit of human endurance. How much of this do they expect me to take?"

Nichols in hospital

Pampa High basketball coach Garland Nichols entered Highland General Hospital Tuesday night for a kidneystone operation. He is expected to be released in three or four days. His room number is 233.

Many golfers have now reached the $1 million mark in earnings but one of the greatest, Ben Hogan, did not. The purses were too small in his era.

Close quarters cramp pros

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The golf course escaped damage, but a recent flood disrupted and rearranged housing accommodations for the touring pros playing in this week's $250,000 New Orleans Open.

Ground floor rooms in most nearby west bank hotels were damaged by the April 14 flood that forced thousands from their homes and caused some $150 million in damage in suburban New Orleans.

The result was that confirmed reservations had little or no meaning. Some doubled up into cramped confines. Others were sent scrambling, with many tour travelers eventually taking accommodations well removed from the course and facing twice-a-day traffic jams on the two bridges crossing the Mississippi River.

Fairways on the flat, 7,000-yard Lakewood Country Club course were under as much as 18 inches of water only 10 days ago. But the flood waters quickly subsided into the lakes and ponds that dot the layout.

"We're just lucky the course drains as well as it does," said host pro Frank Maskel. "Actually, it's in good condition right now."

The touring pros agreed.

Leading money-winner Tom Watson, fresh from his third victory of the season in last week's Tournament of Champions, tops the field of 156 that will begin a 72-hole chase for a $45,000 first prize Thursday.

Watson's triumph, which came despite a rare, 2-stroke penalty for violation of the advice rule in the final round, boosted his winnings to $201,520 for the year.

Shooters enjoy sunny weather

Sixty shooters from ten cities around the panhandle enjoyed near-perfect weather last weekend at the Pampa Rifle and Pistol Club monthly Hunter's Pistol Metallic Silhouette Match.

"It was pleasant change from the wind, sleet, and mud of the past few months," club secretary Fran Gross said.

Ten people shot five chickens in a row, two shot five pigs, one shot one ram and one male shooter downed 10 consecutive chickens. Shooters who hit the animal targets receive special pins.

Juanita Nichols of Pampa received a chicken for taking first-place honors in the Class AAA division with a 25. Gary Clark placed second in Class AAA with a 24 and was awarded both a chicken and ram pin.

Class AA winner was Delbert Robertson of Dumas, who fired a 23. Gary Clark Jr., Pampa, was second with a 21 and was presented with a chicken pin.

In the Class A-men's division, Rick Swope of Pampa finished second with a 21 behind Wildarado's Jim Helms (24) and received a chicken pin.

Betty Helms of Wildarado claimed the Class A women's championship by shooting a 13.

Joe Gridley, Pampa, scored 11 hits in Men's Class B to take first place. Charlie Smith, Amarillo, shot an eight to place second in a shootout.

Diana Tidwell of Pampa was the winner in Women's Class B with an 11. Clayton Gross, Pampa, was Junior Class B winner with a seven.

Kent Olson of Pampa claimed top prize among 15 first-timers with a 17. He received a chicken pin. Don Reed of Pampa won a shootout for second with a 10. D.A. Duck of Amarillo placed third with a 10.

Points are scored by knocking down chicken cutouts at 25 meters, pigs at 50 meters, turkeys at 75 meters, and rams at 100 meters.

Anyone interested in silhouette shooting may contact Gary Clark at 669-6931 for details.

There will be match this Sunday in Amarillo.

GSA claims unneeded offices were paid for WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal agency paid almost $9,000 a month to rent space at a New York City hotel last year while government office space sat vacant one block away, according to government documents.

The Federal Labor Relations Authority rented rooms at the Holiday Inn for four months after the General Services Administration, the federal housekeeping agency, said it was unable to find suitable space for the authority in the city.

But an internal GSA report obtained by The Associated Press said there was more than enough office space to meet FLRA needs at a government-leased building on the same street. The GSA turned down FLRA use of the building.

The Holiday Inn is at 440 West 57th St. in Manhattan while the vacant federal office space was at 555 West 57th St.

The discovery of the unused federal office space is the second such disclosure in New York City this year. In January, a GSA audit said the government spent more than $500,000 over 21 months on vacant space in a building in Queens.

That audit prompted a Senate hearing into unused federal office space. At the hearing, GSA officials disclosed that there were 16 federal buildings around the country with sizable amounts of vacant space. The list did not include the space at 555 West 57th St.

Dry times for rescue center

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The Marine Mammal Stranding Center is a one-room shack built from discarded Boardwalk lumber and furnished with junkyard castoffs. But to Bob Schoelkopf — who's on unemployment — it's a way to beat death among injured and sick sea creatures.

For the past month, Schoelkopf and volunteers have been working day and night to nurse a four-foot harbor porpoise that washed up on an Avalon beach with pneumonia.

The porpoise survived its first weeks in the warmth of a men's room at Historic Gardens Basin maritime park. Last week, the mammal was moved from a raft filled with sea water to a 800-gallon pool in a hastily-built addition to the center's "headquarters."

Although sick marine mammals are very difficult to nurse back to health, Schoelkopf says his center has been able to release two turtles and a harbor seal back to the sea.

But the center operates on a shoestring budget of $10,000. Schoelkopf lived on $7,800 last year before his federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act salary was cut off in September.

Schoelkopf is now on unemployment at $117 a week as four assistants continue to collect CETA wages. Appointed state deputy conservation officer to handle strandings, Schoelkopf believes he will work for free this year because his annual $500 stipend may be cut from the state budget.

The center has about 200 "members" who barely keep it going through contributions. Schoelkopf regularly depends on benefactors to donate medicine, equipment and cash to aid beached mammals.

Endorsed by the National Marine Fisheries Service, the center is non-profit but not tax-exempt — it doesn't have enough money to hire a lawyer to file the proper tax papers, Schoelkopf says.

FARM SCENE

By JAMES H. RUBIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. embargo on grain shipments to the Soviet Union is beginning to have an effect on the Russians, the Agriculture Department said today.

A department study predicted that the Russians will have to reduce livestock herds because of a shortage of feed grain and said another poor Soviet harvest would mean a sharp reduction in meat production. The study also said the Russians will have to pay more to try to make up for lost American grain.

"Feed supplies, already tight because of a poor Soviet harvest in 1979, are stretched even thinner now as a result of the suspension," said the department's chief economist, Howard W. Hjort.

"The net effect of the U.S. action is that the Soviets will import a third less grain than they had expected for the first half of 1980," he said. "The Soviets had begun to draw on their reserve stocks of feed late in 1979 to offset the harvest shortfall."

*A near-record drawdown in stocks now will be necessary until supplies from their 1980 grain harvest become available in July."

The department said the Soviet Union, by buying from other countries, will be able to make up about 10 million metric tons of the 17 million tons of grain it had expected from the United States.

But that would still leave the Russians 7 million tons short of the 37.5 million tons they had expected to import between July 1979 and June 1980.

President Carter announced the embargo on wheat, corn and soybeans on Jan. 4 after the Soviet Union invaded Afghanistan. The action did not halt shipment to the Russians of another 8 million tons of grain under a 1975 agreement.

The embargo has been under attack since, particularly from farm-state members of Congress who say the suspension is harming American farmers more than the Russians.

The Agriculture Department has been buying up the grain to get it off the market, but even so, prices have dropped on the commodities.

Today's report sought to demonstrate that the Russians are beginning to feel the pinch by providing statistics that indicate a likely decline in Soviet meat consumption due to inadequate grain feed.

FOREIGN

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Australia today granted political asylum to East German ballerina Heidi Giersch, a member of the touring Komische Opera Ballet who defected Sunday when the rest of her company left for home.

Foreign Affairs Minister Andrew Peacock said he was convinced the 20-year-old Miss Giersch would face persecution should she return to East Germany.

Peacock's decision was an unusual one. In similar cases recently, the government has given defectors refugee status. Last year, the government refused to grant political asylum to Lilian Gaskinskaya, a Russian woman, declaring her a political refugee instead.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — The Liberal Party, surprise winner of Sunday's legislative elections here, is expected to control a six or seven-seat majority in the new assembly that will lead this Central American nation back to democratic rule.

The left-of-center Liberals defeated their traditional rivals, the National Party, in the first nationwide balloting in nine years. Final results were still being tabulated.

The 71-member constituent assembly is to pick a provisional president, write a new constitution and arrange the popular election of a president. Gen. Policarpo Paz Garcia, who has run the nation since 1978, is expected to be tapped as its provisional president.

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Police say a time bomb found by Israeli security agents at the Zurich airport was set to explode when an El Al jetliner was airborne en route to Tel Aviv.

The Israelis, who conduct regular checks of passengers and luggage bound for the Jewish state, found the bomb in the luggage of a West German man on Monday, Israel's 32nd Independence Day.

An El Al spokesman said it was believed Arab terrorists placed the bomb in the German's luggage without his knowledge. The 26-year-old German told investigators he was given the bag by a third person, Swiss police said.

Demolition experts took the bomb to a special vault where it exploded before it could be defused. No injuries were reported.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

April 24, 1980

Things you might have felt to be impossible or unreachable last year could become a reality this year. You're especially fortunate in areas involving friendships and romance.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Keep your eye on objectives that will bring you happiness, because Lady Luck is with you all the way today. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This could turn out to be a pleasant day for you when someone to whom you've been kind comes through for you in a big way.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A hope that isn't necessarily material has an excellent chance of becoming a reality today. The more exposure you have with others, the better your odds.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A person who is in a position to bolster your career or add to your income is looking at you with favor today. Rewards that are due might be forthcoming.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It isn't likely you'll find any obstacles in your path today, because Dame Fortune is walking in front of you, picking up all the stumbling blocks.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Large benefits might be in store for you today when someone invites you into an extremely promising situation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Negotiations could be taking place today involving a new project you're interested in starting. You may be offered more than you expected.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're lucky today in that you might be standing in the right place at the right time, and be given an opportunity to work for something of great promise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll easily outpace others where personal popularity is concerned, though you may not be aware of it until you reflect on all the nice things that happen today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Through you something good could happen today that would have a very beneficial effect upon you and your family or other loved ones.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You have good reason to look optimistically upon things today, so act accordingly. You'll produce the desired results.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Center your attention on ways to make money to get something expensive you've been wanting. You're more fortunate today than you may think.
