Iranians seize London embassy

LONDON (AP) — Three Iranian Arab gunmen invaded Iran's London embassy today and seized 21 hostages, including a British police guard, Scotland Yard reported. Unconfirmed reports said the raiders threatened to kill their hostages and blow up the building unless political prisoners in Iran are released.

The Iranian Foreign Ministry in Tehran blamed the attack on Iraq.

Police said the gunmen identified themselves as Arabs from Iran's southwestern province of Khuzestan — which they call Arabistan — who support Arab autonomy from the Persian-dominated revolutionary government of Iran. Iran accuses Arab Iraq of fomenting unrest in the region.

Some witnesses reported hearing shooting inside the building, but police disputed this and said that as far as they knew no one was hurt.

The top Iranian diplomat here, Charge d'Affaires Gholam-Ali Afrouz, was believed to be among the hostages, said the British news agency Press Association.

The mission has a staff of about 25 diplomats, as well as a number of non-diplomatic personnel. Witnesses said they saw a small number of men and women fleeing the building, in the prosperous, embassy-filled Kensington district opposite Hyde Park, shortly before police arrived at about 11:30 a.m. — 6:30 a.m. EDT.

Policemen, including sharpshooters and flak-jacketed members of the crack anti-terrorist squad, ringed the three-story embassy.

Negotiations with the intruders took place by telephone and through an open window at the front of the embassy, a police spokesman said. With officers at the window was a young dark-haired woman in a floral-print dress and police-issued blue flak jacket who appeared to be acting as an interpreter.

A police spokesman at the scene said the gunmen were "making certain demands which are being investigated," but he refused to elaborate. Scotland Yard refused to comment on reports the invaders were threatening to kill their captives and blow up the embassy if political prisoners are not freed in Iran. But police said the gunmen had set no deadline.

Deputy Assistant Police Commissioner John Dellow said the trio, reportedly armed with rifles and possibly other weapons, apparently entered the embassy through a back door and proceeded to the front of the building, where they grabbed the police guard, a member of London's Diplomatic Protection Group.

About 50 policemen with firearms and bullet-proof vests, including sharpshooters and members of the crack anti-terrorist squad, quickly surrounded the three-story embassy.

A spokesman said "a number of shots" were reported heard inside the embassy, but there was no immediate indication of any casualties.

The spokesman said the gunmen were believed armed with rifles and possibly other weapons.

"We know our officer is being held by at least two men and there's a possibility of a third," said a Scotland Yard spokeswoman.

She said it was not known immediately how many staff members were inside the embassy. Witnesses at the scene reported some women and men fleeing just before police arrived.

Attempts to reach the embassy by telephone were not successful.

The Foreign Office said the mission has a diplomatic staff of about 25, plus an undisclosed number of non-diplomatic personnel.

Scotland Yard said the officer grabbed by the gunmen was a member of the Diplomatic Protection Group, which guards foreign missions in London, and was armed with a revolver. He was not immediately identified.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says even if the rescue mission in Iran could not have been completely successful, it would have been "a deeper failure" not to try.

In a solemn report to the nation Tuesday night, Carter vowed: "We will not forget our hostages and we will continue to take whatever steps are necessary and feasible" to secure their release.

But he also said that freedom can be gained for the 53 hostages only if Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Iran's Revolutionary Council and the militants are persuaded unanimously to let them go — a task he all but called impossible.

"We cannot deal with inhumane people who have no respect for international law, who violate the tenets of their own religion and then persecute innocent people who are American citizens and deprive them of their freedom for six months," Carter said during a nationally broadcast news conference.

His acknowledgement Tuesday night that all forces in Iran must yield if the hostages are to be freed was mixed with anger and frustration.

Mistrial declared

Lance acquitted of bank fraud charges

ATLANTA (AP) — Former U.S. budget director Bert Lance was acquitted today on nine counts of bank fraud after a 16-week trial. A mistrial was declared on another three counts because the jury was deadlocked.

Lance's attorneys asked U.S. District Judge Charles A. Moyer Jr. to declare directed verdicts of acquittal on the three remaining counts. Moyer said he was not ready to decide immediately, but called attorneys for both sides into his chambers.

"We're delighted about the not guilty verdicts," Lance said. "It's what we thought all along it would be. We're terribly delighted and pleased."

The jury also acquitted or failed to come to a decision on charges against Lance's three co-defendants, Thomas Mitchell, Richard Carr, and Jack Mullins.

Mitchell was found innocent on all four counts. Carr was acquitted on three counts and Moyer declared a mistrial on three other counts against him, and Mullins was acquitted on three counts and a mistrial was declared on one.

Lance was found innocent on nine charges of misusing the funds of two Georgia banks he headed to make loans to his wife, son and three friends.

Despite more than 50 hours of deliberations, the jurors could not reach a decision on two counts charging Lance lied in financial statements and one count charging that a loan Lance made to co-defendant Carr through the National Bank of Georgia was a misapplication of bank funds.

On Tuesday, prosecution and defense lawyers met privately with Moyer just before the jurors were sent home, but afterwards the attorneys said they had been admonished not to reveal anything about the discussion.

Lance is a close friend of President Carter. His co-defendants are north Georgia businessmen and have been friends of Lance for years.

The jurors first announced they were deadlocked on Saturday, after 33 hours of deliberation spread over six days.

Moyer informed the jury Monday of their sworn duty to reach unanimous verdicts, then on Tuesday urged them to consider the cost of the proceedings and the effect on the defendants if the case is not resolved.

"If there is a way to avoid it, a defendant should not be required to run twice the gantlet of a criminal trial," the judge said. "He should not have to bear the mental and financial strain again."

The jury delivered a partial verdict Monday, settling the charges against one of the four defendants. But Moyer sealed the verdict immediately without revealing what the decision was or which defendant was involved.

The jurors, who began the trial with little or no banking experience, heard 173 witnesses and viewed thousands of bank records before retiring to a 21st-floor deliberations room.

Most of the witnesses were officers of banks where Lance did business.

Pampa motorcyclist reported critical

Pampa motorcyclist reported critical

A Pampa motorcyclist remains in critical condition today at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo after an early morning one-vehicle accident on Thut Street.

Jessie Patrick Connally, 22, of 734 E. Campbell was listed in critical condition at Northwest Texas Hospital Intensive Care Unit early today by Nursing Supervisor Gwen Haley.

At 12:15 a.m. this morning, Connally was operating a 1980 Yamaha east on Thut Street, which offsets Murphy and Barnes streets, police reports say, when he failed to stop at a stop sign on Thut Street.

The motorcycle collided with the south side of the curb at Barnes and Murphy, causing Connally to lose control of the bike.

After the accident, the critically injured man was taken by ambulance to Highland

General Hospital Emergency Room where it was determined by hospital personnel he should be transferred to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

Although police reports did not specify Connally's injuries, Chief of Police J. J. Ryzman said the man was not wearing a helmet, or eye protection. The motorcycle did not have a windshield or protective bars at the time of the mishap, he said.

Pentagon denies Soviet warning halted mission

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials, responding to questions about the ill-fated attempt to rescue American hostages in Iran, flatly deny the commando mission was halted because of a warning from the Soviet Union.

They also asserted that the commandos were given all the manpower and equipment requested and that the abruptness of the withdrawal was made necessary not by unfriendly military pressure but by exploding ammunition set off by the fiery collision of two U.S. aircraft.

The statements came Tuesday after several retired military leaders said the abrupt withdrawal posed unanswered questions about the operation. The retired leaders who were surveyed also said they would have wanted more extra helicopters if they had been running the rescue attempt.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown, speaking at a news conference called to dispute allegations and reports officials said have been circulating since the mission ended disastrously last Thursday, said it was "completely untrue" that the commandos were denied any people or equipment requested.

He also said it was a "flat untruth" that the Soviet Union warned the U.S. not to launch the mission. "The way they found out about it is when we told them," Brown said.

Brown also said he knew of no CIA study warning of possible heavy losses in such a rescue operation.

And he said the reason the commandos did not destroy the helicopters and remove documents was because the fiery crash of a helicopter and a cargo plane was "cooking off" ammunition and it was feared the exploding ammunition might prevent the remaining cargo plane from taking off.

Muskie appointment called 'shrewd' move

WASHINGTON (AP) — The unexpected appointment of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie as secretary of state is attracting broad bipartisan support and is being hailed as a shrewd political move likely to boost President Carter's ratings with Congress and the voters.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., a leading critic of Carter administration foreign policy, predicts the nomination of the Maine Democrat, a former governor and presidential contender, will move through the Senate "with lightning speed."

The appointment seems likely to defuse much of the smoldering congressional discontent caused by the failed hostage rescue mission in Iran and the resignation of Secretary of State Cyrus Vance because he opposed that move.

It seems likely also to head off the potentially politically embarrassing confirmation hearings that might well have occurred had Carter named an insider to head the State Department.

And it goes far to calm the troubled waters of the government's internal politics by placing a member of the Senate's inner circle at the center of administration foreign policy decision-making.

"This is a fascinating appointment from the political sense," said a Senate insider who prefers to remain anonymous. "This is exactly the sort of politically astute thing Lyndon Johnson would have done."

The appointment comes at a low point for the administration. The president's re-election chances are increasingly seen as suffering from a perception that his administration's handling of foreign policy is inept.

The president's ratings in public opinion polls have been slipping from the high point they reached in the first wave of unity caused by the seizure of the hostages in November.

Carter narrowly lost a recent primary in Pennsylvania and the Michigan caucus, taking one less delegate in each than Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

The Muskie appointment left Kennedy at a loss for criticism.

"He's a man that will sift through the facts, make a thorough examination, and then come to a responsible judgment," Kennedy said, adding that he believes Muskie will prove a competent secretary of state.

But Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., who heads the American Conservative Union, questioned Muskie's qualifications for the job.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., called the nomination "a shrewd political move."

Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, calling the 66-year-old Muskie "a rock of reason," made clear his relief.

"The Senate can be assured that at last there is an individual in the administration that understands the Senate, that understands the legislative process," Byrd said.

Master of suspense and terror dies peacefully at 80

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — His murderers showed up in shower stalls, his victims in potato sacks. But Sir Alfred Hitchcock, whose mastery of terror chilled movie audiences for half a century, died peacefully of natural causes at the age of 80.

The portly British-born "Hitch" was perhaps the film industry's best-known director. A popular television series made his puting profile instantly recognizable to millions of Americans.

In more than 50 movies, Hitchcock created a legacy of suspense classics — "Psycho," "The Birds," "Rear Window" and "Spellbound." Yet he never won an Oscar for direction.

Hitchcock, plagued by kidney failures and arthritis, died at his home Tuesday after suffering ill health for a year. His family, including Alma, his wife of 54 years, was with him.

Despite a heart condition that necessitated a pacemaker, Hitchcock was preparing another thriller at the time of his death — "The Short Night," the tale of a real-life British traitor whose duplicity led to the deaths of 42 agents.

"There was nobody like him," said actor James Stewart, a favorite Hitchcock player. "I have lost a great friend, and the world has lost a man who made a tremendous contribution to our business."

Hitchcock's first American-made film, "Rebecca" in 1940, won a best-picture Oscar, and the movie Academy presented him with the Irving G. Thalberg award in 1968. Last year, Hitchcock was given the American Film Institute's Lifetime Achievement Award.

Hitchcock's stylized treatment of his favorite themes — violence, suspicion, guilt and confession — his clever use of the tracking shot by a camera that way always moving and his genius for the clever plot twist gave universal recognition to the label, "Hitchcock film."

Funeral services will be held Friday at the Church of the Good Shepherd in Beverly Hills.

THE FAMOUS PROFILE of Alfred Hitchcock is next to the line drawing that was used as a logo for the director's television series. The master of suspense and terror died peacefully Tuesday in Los Angeles. He was 80. (AP Photo)

Appeals court grants ex-mayor a day in court in libel suit

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court agreed today that former Dallas Mayor Wes Wise deserves his full day in court on his $2 million libel suit against Dallas Southwest Media Corp., publisher of "D. The Magazine of Dallas."
 Wise sued the corporation, editor-publisher Wick Allison, writer Jim Atkinson and Ray Hunt, a director-stockholder, over a January 1975 article about Wise.
 The article appeared as Wise was preparing a campaign for mayor, in which he defeated John Schoellkopf.
 Court records show that Hunt said Wise called him and asked if the article would "gut" him. Hunt said he talked with Allison and was assured that was not the purpose of the article. Hunt relayed the statement to Wise. On that basis, Wise said, he consented to the interview that formed the basis of the article.
 The Dallas trial court granted a summary judgment for Dallas

Southwest, but the Beaumont Court of Civil Appeals reversed the ruling and sent the case back to Dallas for a trial on the merits.
 The appeals court noted that the article quoted an unnamed member of the city council as having told the author, "I think it really took its toll on him," says a member of the council. "Wes was different one day. I think the embarrassment broke him."
 The appeals court said affidavits from each of five council members denied making the statement, and none of the affidavits showed the statement having been made by any other council member.
 Lawyers for the magazine argued, "A summary judgment is properly granted when the record does not provide evidence from which the jury could find 'actual malice' with convincing clarity."
 The lawyers cited four out-of-state cases and 23 more "foreign cases" supporting that argument, the appeals court noted.

Crash cause unknown

"I have no idea what happened, it seems so strange that I wouldn't feel anything if it had been engine malfunction," according to the pilot of the Cessna 152 single engine aircraft that crashed Tuesday eight miles north of Pampa.
 The pilot, John DeWitt, 32, of Wichita, Kan. is scheduled to be released from Highland General Hospital today, following treatment for abrasions and a fractured nose.
 A local investigation was completed Tuesday by Bill Robertson of the FAA's General Aviation District Office in Lubbock.
 "Investigators take information from the pilot, witnesses, law enforcement officers and anyone else who may have information concerning the accident," Bill Thompson of the General Aviation District Office said.
 DeWitt explained, "The investigation may take months to finish, and there will be a hearing between the FAA and myself to see if I will be allowed to keep my pilots license."

Texas Republicans limited in primary vote structure

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Republican voters in 15 Texas counties who want to register a choice between Ronald Reagan and George Bush will find there is no place for them to vote Saturday.

And Democrats in Johnson, Willacy and Maverick counties, who voted absentee, have already found they did not have a say in recommending President Jimmy Carter or Sen. Edward Kennedy as the nominee.

According to state Republican headquarters, there will be maybe 15 Texas counties where GOP primaries are not being held because of the difficulty in finding election workers.

"It's all a matter of people," says Wayne Thorburn, executive director of state GOP headquarters. "You just can't find the people to work on elections."

The mixup on Democratic absentee ballots in the three counties was caused when the State Democratic Executive Committee waited until the last minute, March 10, to order the "beauty contest" for Democratic presidential candidates.

The recommended wording for the referendum was sent to county chairmen separate from the regular election ballot," said June Middlebrooke, assistant director of state Democratic headquarters.

"They just didn't get it in time to have it for absentee voting. But we have been assured it will be on the regular ballot."

Thorburn said GOP primaries are scheduled in at least 239 counties, actually a considerable improvement over previous years. In 1978 there were 186 counties with GOP primaries and in 1976 there were 190.

"We're hoping to add Schleicher county at the last minute, and that would make 240 counties this year," he said. "The counties with no primaries are all small, totaling may 800 or 1,200 votes."

Thorburn said in a number of the GOP primaries there will be only one polling place in a county. If two districts are involved in that county, then two ballot forms are used, he said.

The Democrats are holding primaries in each of the 254 counties. Ms. Middlebrooke said. "To the best of my knowledge there is no county with just one polling place," she said. "We try to follow the precinct lines."

Thrips are minute sapsucking insects found on plants.

Johnson Temple Church of God in Christ, 324 S. Starkweather, will host Women's Days, Thursday through Sunday.

Mrs. J.O. Anderson of Amarillo will be the special speaker at the Sunday service at 2:30 p.m. Chairperson is Mrs. Pearl Mae Johnson, church mother and pastor's wife.

The public is invited.

Welfare office siege ends with woman's arrest

BRYAN (AP) — A 34-year-old woman was booked on suspicion of attempted murder and held on $30,000 bond after allegedly firing three shots into a state welfare office.

The woman was arrested after occupying the Texas Department of Human Resources offices here for four hours, demanding that her children be returned to her.

No one was hurt in the siege. Police said the woman, armed with a 22-caliber semi-automatic rifle, burst into the offices Monday afternoon and asked for her caseworker, Pat Arbuckle. She then fired three shots into Mrs. Arbuckle's office while frightened employees hid under their desks.

"She shot low. It was not like she was trying to kill somebody," Mrs. Arbuckle said. But one shot knocked a splinter into the eye of one of the employees. The victim did not require hospitalization.

"She said she wanted her children," Mrs. Arbuckle said. The woman's three children have been placed in the homes of relatives and other families, the caseworker said. The circumstances of the case and the ages of the children were not revealed.

Police Maj. Lee Freeman ransacked to get close enough to the woman to grab her rifle as he handed her some orange juice. Other officers then assisted in the arrest.

The woman was booked in the Brazos County jail on suspicion of attempted murder. Justice of the Peace Carolyn Hensarling set bond at $30,000.

Texas Power and Light rate hike request okayed

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Power & Light Co. has been granted rate increases that mean its customers will pay $83,371,920 more for electricity over the next 12 months.

Increases granted by the state Public Utility Commission on Tuesday will average about 10 percent but have yet to be broken down among residential, commercial and other customers.

TP&L, which serves 51 counties in North, Central and East Texas, had sought a $124 million increase, or 15.35 percent.

Utility commissioners instructed TP&L to submit specific increases for each class of customers for approval by the PUC staff.

Gary Goble, the PUC's manager of electric rates, said he believed TP&L would be back with its rate proposal by next week because "they have 83 million good reasons" for doing so.

Rate increases may not take effect until the rate structure has been approved, and "the company is losing quite a bit of money each day this is out," Goble said.

The commission indicated it wanted each customer class to bear its fair share of the total increase.

Resignation no surprise

EL PASO (AP) — President Carter knew in advance he would lose Secretary of State Cyrus Vance if he went through with the rescue effort in Iran, according to the president's campaign chairman.

Robert Strauss, in El Paso for a $100-a-plate fund raiser for Carter, called Vance's resignation "a debilitating thing."

Vance resigned Monday following the ill-fated rescue attempt in Iran.

Strauss said Tuesday that Vance's resignation was not a victory for forces in the administration seeking a harder line on Soviet aggression.

Strauss said he expects no more administration resignations as a result of the rescue incident.

A DECORATING FORMULA can make any apartment go from bare to beautiful instantly. The look can be achieved with five basic furniture pieces: a modular sofa, big coffee table, sofa table, wall unit, and table and chairs for four.

Apartment decorating for the single man

Divorced, separated, widowed, or not yet disposed to marry, more than six million men in the United States are embracing the role of homemaker — once the sole province of women.

How do they want to live? With style and comfort, key words for today's single man at home. He wants the beauty and amenities that have always made home sweet — and often needs accommodations for his visiting children.

Creating a beautiful place to live isn't as hard as it sounds. The April issue of House Beautiful shows a surefire solution to turning any naked room into a livable one almost overnight — with only five basic furniture pieces.

Here's the instant decorating formula:
— A modular sofa. It eliminates the problem of mixing and matching a lot of unrelated chairs and sofas. The units gang up to fill a room with comfortable seating.

— The big coffee table. When it's oversized it takes the place of end tables, providing decorating "heft" and lots of space for ashtrays, drinks, and hors d'oeuvres.

— A sofa table. It doubles as a shelf for lamps, a buffet table or even a work desk (not to mention a ferric room divider).

— A wall unit. This instantly organizes your stereo, tapes, books and artifacts — it's even a home for a wine rack and bar.

— The table and chairs for four. Either round or square, these are great for an intimate dinner or an evening of cards.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I've been reading about a California businessman named Graham who has made a hobby of collecting sperm from Nobel Prize winners to be used to impregnate super-high IQ women whose husbands can't father children.

Nowhere has it been proven that kids inherit their intelligence from their parents. (How many Nobel Prize winners are children of Nobel Prize winners?)

However, it's a known fact that kids do inherit their looks from their parents. How about collecting sperm from Burt Reynolds, Paul Newman, Robert Redford and some other good-looking men in order to breed some beautiful offspring?

JUST ASKING

DEAR JUST: Wonderful idea. But instead of giving it away, they should auction it off and give the proceeds to Planned Parenthood.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning what name the children will carry if the mother retains her maiden name after marriage: In Spanish-speaking countries, the child takes both his mother's surname as well as his father's. Example: Senor Lopez marries Senorita Gomez. Their son will be Carlos Gomez Lopez. If they want to use the names of even more forebears, they can go back as far as they choose.

A proud, well-born Spaniard of my acquaintance carried his families' names on both sides for seven generations and ended up with 14 names!

Using the surnames of both mother and father was considered a mark of honor. To use only the mother's name suggested that the mother was not married. It was important to be born legitimately because all children born out of wedlock were disenfranchised.

I don't know if the practice still exists, but when I lived in Cartagena, Colombia, the births were announced daily in the newspapers under two headings, "Legitimos" and "Ilegitimos." And incidentally, between 65 and 70 percent of all the births were "ilegitimos."

FORMER COLOMBIAN

DEAR FORMER: Thanks for some interesting (and "legitimo") information.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column, you stated that if a woman had sexual intercourse with a man who had gonorrhea, her chance of contracting the disease was 50 percent, or if she was on the Pill, 100 percent.

Since you do not customarily dispense irresponsible medical information, perhaps it was a typographical error on the part of the newspaper, but that statement is incorrect. The most recent studies indicate that among sexually active women, oral contraceptives reduce the relative risk of spreading gonorrheal infection to the tubes and ovaries by two-thirds.

I think you owe it to your readers to correct the misconception.

ELLEN G. BALCHUM, M.D.

DEAR DR. BALCHUM: It was indeed a typographical error for which I take full responsibility. Thank you (and all the other sharp-eyed informed readers) who wrote to point out the error.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who would like to vote in an upcoming election, but he has served a prison term. This is a small town and I don't want to ask anyone here. Can you tell me if he is eligible to vote or not?

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Unless your friend receives a full pardon from the governor of his state, he is ineligible to vote. (And for a federal offense, one needs a pardon from the president of the United States.)

Mom's Day cards show role switch

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Where once it was considered appropriate to dwell on such chores as cooking and cleaning, Mother's Day cards today reflect the effects of the women's movement and other sociological factors, according to an official of a greeting card company.

"And that means no more mom-in-the-kitchen-type cards," says Alan Doan, Hallmark editorial manager. "Over the past decade the women's movement and other factors have had a profound effect on the way we write certain types of Mother's Day sentiments."

"It used to be quite popular and quite acceptable to praise the 'motherly' chores like cooking and cleaning. But the increase of single-parent families and large numbers of mothers with jobs outside the home have changed all that," he explains.

"We can no longer make assumptions about what is and isn't a 'motherly' chore. A 'motherly' chore in one household might be a 'fatherly' chore in the house down the street."

The typical Mother's Day sentiment today, Doan says, stresses "the life-affirming qualities of women" in a more general, but equally complimentary, fashion.

CATHERINE CLARK, who made only $70 profit when she began her bread business in the 1940s, sold it last year for $5.5 million. The award winner still enjoys baking for pleasure.

Catherine Clark's dough rose to top

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

In the 1940s when Catherine Clark began making and selling bread, her friends helped out by gluing "Brownberry Ovens" labels on the bags. The first year she made a profit of about $70. Eight years ago she sold her business for $5.5 million. Recently she received the Horatio Alger National Award.

When her recipe for American-style white bread came across my desk, I thought cooks might like to have it. Baked in my kitchen, the loaves were high and handsome, their texture especially good for sandwiches.

5 1/2 MILLION-DOLLAR BREAD

- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup water
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 tablespoon shortening, at room temperature
- 1 tablespoon butter, soft
- 1 package dry yeast
- 5 1/2 to 6 cups all-purpose flour

In a large metal mixing bowl, heat the milk, water, sugar, salt, shortening and butter until warm (105 to 115 degrees). Turn off heat, add the yeast and stir until dissolved. Add 2 cups of the flour and whisk until smooth; whisk in 2 more cups flour. When the dough is too heavy for the whisk, use a spoon and keep adding flour, a little at a time, until dough pulls away from the bowl in a shreddy ball that you can handle.

Turn out onto a lightly floured work surface, gather up all the floury bits that fall away; begin kneading. (Beginners are often reluctant to give the dough the workout it needs to become light, fine-textured and manageable. Put some weight behind your kneading. Use all your arm and shoulder muscles.)

Add flour, if necessary, to keep the dough from sticking. In the course of kneading, once the dough stops sticking, pick it up and throw it hard against the work surface several times. Continue kneading until dough is satiny on the surface and full of tiny bubbles — 10 to 15 minutes. Place dough in the generously greased mixing bowl and turn to grease top. Cover with saran; let rise in a warm (80-degree) draft-free place until doubled — about 1 hour.

Punch down dough and turn onto the lightly floured work surface. Knead it a few times; throw it onto the counter or beat with a rolling pin to break up large bubbles; cover with the bowl; let rest about 10 minutes. Divide dough in half; shape into loaves and place into 2 well-greased 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pans. Cover and let rise as before until dough rises to top of pans — about 45 minutes.

Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until loaves pull away from the sides of the pans and a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 45 to 60 minutes. Turn out on wire racks to cool.

Makes 2 loaves.

DR. LAMB

DEAR DR. LAMB — Some time ago a person wrote to you regarding a parent who had a very large nose and wondered if when she was older her nose would also grow big. I have the same problem. My mother was a beautiful woman and had only one bad feature. At the age of 73, she had an overly large nose. In your column you said it was some form of a disease but you didn't say what disease. I would like to know what the disease is.

DEAR READER — You probably read one of my columns about "rummy nose," sometimes called rhinophyma. This is a bulbous nose with large pores and it is often red. That is a disease.

That's distinctly different from what happens to most noses in the course of time. Our bones stop growing when we mature but cartilage keeps on growing. Since cartilage makes up a major portion of the nose and the ears, as you get older the ever enlarging cartilage causes a person to develop a larger nose and larger ears.

Spring football practice for the 1980 Pampa High prospects begins Thursday. New head coach Larry Gilbert will combine exercise and fundamentals for three weeks, climaxing with the annual Green-Gold game May 23. Parents of Harvester players will get a behind-the-scenes look at the coaching staff at 7 p.m. Thursday night in the high school fieldhouse. Gilbert will introduce his seven-member staff, including four new coaches.

There will be a discussion on the transfer rule at 9 a.m. May 21 at the Chariot Inn Motel in Austin.

A committee, appointed by the University Interscholastic League, to study the rule will receive information about the history of the rule, problems with the current rules, and will discuss alternatives to present to the U.I.L. Legislative Council. The meeting is open to the public and there will be time allotted for those in attendance to present their views to the committee. Persons may write the U.I.L. office in Austin, offering their suggestions as to why the rule should be abolished or left as it is. That address is Box 8028-University Station, Austin, Tex., 78712.

ATTENTION: Babe Ruth League scorekeepers! Please give more details when submitting game results to the sports department. For example, who got the hits, rbs, runs scored, and how many. List not only the winning pitcher, but the hits he allowed, his strikeouts and walks. Mention the highlights when warranted. Scores may also be called in at 669-2525.

It may be worth a trip to Abilene to see the fabulous Sam Snead play in the annual LeJet Golf Classic.

How many people know that Snead has won more PGA tournaments than anybody. Not many I bet.

The 68-year-old Snead will be among 18 pros and nine amateurs who tee off Monday and Tuesday at Fairway Oaks. Snead has 84 PGA tour victories, including seven major championships.

Jones to bolster Jets passing game

NEW YORK (AP) — Forgeive the shudder felt by National Football League defensive backs after the first round of the college player draft.

It was an understandable aftershock produced by the trade that delivered Texas wide receiver Johnny "Lam" Jones, an Olympic sprint champion, to the New York Jets. That's because the Jets, who gave two first round picks to San Francisco for the No. 2 draft choice, already own Wesley Walker, one of the league's fleetest wide receivers. With Jones working the other side of the field, it could mean nightmares for secondaries trying to contain the New York passing game.

The Jets certainly think so. "We're obviously very pleased to have acquired Lam Jones, one of the highest quality players in the draft," crowed New York Coach Walt Michaels. "If we have two guys going like Walker and Jones, it will put tremendous pressure on the opposition defense. It gives us depth."

Walker is coming back from knee surgery but Michaels assured listeners that was no consideration in selecting Jones. "I absolutely guarantee Wesley Walker is all right," he said.

San Francisco had been offering the draft's No. 2 pick around, before finally settling on the Jets' bid of the No. 13 and No. 20 selections. New York had acquired No. 20 from Denver earlier in the trade of quarterback Matt Robinson to the Broncos.

For their part, the 49ers came away with running back Earl Cooper from Rice and defensive end Jim Stuckey of Clemson. That sat well with Bill Walsh, San Francisco's general manager-coach, who negotiated the deal with the Jets. He called Cooper a back "with excellent size who is also nimble. He should fit into our running game and our passing game. We feel we have a solid backfield now."

The Jets-49ers trade was contingent upon Detroit making Oklahoma running back Billy Sims the draft's No. 1 choice. When the Lions did that, the trade for No. 2 was completed.

There had been speculation that Sims' contract demands — reportedly $5 million for six years — would scare off the Lions. But Detroit plowed ahead, picking Sims, who won the 1978 Heisman and was runnerup last season.

American League roundup

JOHNNY SUGGS was the winning pitcher as 100,000 Auto Parts defeated Chase Oil Company, 9-7, Tuesday in a little league baseball game at Optimist Park. It was the first game of the season for both teams.

The Milwaukee Brewers ended their mini-slump with a bang... seven of them, in fact. After scoring just eight runs while losing four games in a row, the homer-happy Brewers slugged seven balls over the fences of Cleveland Stadium while clobbering the Indians 14-1. The seven home runs set a club record and tied Baltimore's 1967 American League mark by one club in a night game.

"Our off-day Monday gave the club a chance to regroup," said Ben Oglivie, who drove in five runs with two homers, a double and single and triggered the explosion with a two-run shot in the second inning. "I knew we would break out of this slump. It was just a matter of time. I saw the ball good tonight and a game like this will help us break out."

Elsewhere, the Toronto Blue Jays dined the Kansas City Royals 3-1, the New York Yankees clipped the Baltimore Orioles 4-3, the Oakland A's turned back the California Angels 4-2, the Boston Red Sox starchy the Chicago White Sox 11-1, the Texas Rangers whipped the Detroit Tigers 10-5 and the Seattle Mariners defeated the Minnesota Twins 5-3.

All 14 Milwaukee runs were scored on homers. Following Oglivie's second-inning smash, Paul Molitor and Sixto Lezcano homered in the third, Larry Hisle connected in the fourth, Sal Bando unloaded in the fifth and Oglivie and Bando homered again in the eighth.

Blue Jays 3, Royals 1
Otto Velez drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly in the first inning and a solo homer in the sixth. That enabled Jim Clancy, who scattered six hits, to post his first complete-game victory in exactly a year. His last one came on April 29, 1979, against Milwaukee. It also was his first victory since last May 4 after two injuries to a tendon in his ankle sidelined him for the majority of the 1979 season.

Red Sox 11, White Sox 1
Jim Rice and Tony Perez hit two-run homers and Dwight Evans drove in three runs to back Bob Stanley's strong pitching. Rice connected in the third inning, Perez delivered in the sixth and Evans socked a two-run triple in the eighth. Meanwhile, Stanley allowed four hits in eight innings and recorded a career-high seven strikeouts.

Rangers 10, Tigers 5
Richie Zisk belted a two-run homer and Mickey Rivers went 4-for-5 as Texas bombed Detroit in a game shortened to seven innings by rain. The Rangers jumped on Jack Morris for a run in the first inning and four more in the second, during which Morris took a line drive off his leg and left the game.

first-place Blue Jays, the surprise leaders in the American League East after three last-place finishes. They remained one game ahead of the Yankees.

Yankees 4, Orioles 3
Willie Randolph and Reggie Jackson clouted New York home runs and reliever Rudy May put down a sixth-inning threat to record his first save since 1974. Rick Dempsey drove in all the Baltimore runs with a two-run homer off Luis Tiant in the first inning and a solo shot off May in the eighth. Randolph hit a two-run homer in the fifth to erase a 2-1 Baltimore lead. Jackson's leadoff homer in the sixth finished Scott McGregor.

A's 6, Angels 4
Mickey Klutts singled to drive in two runs in the sixth inning and Mike Norris pitched a five-hitter. Norris, who has allowed only 14 hits in 32 innings this season, struck out six and walked five as the A's made it six in a row against the defending AL West champs. The A's took a 1-0 lead in the second inning on Mike Heath's sacrifice fly. They added a run in the third when Rickey Henderson walked and scored from first on a hit-and-run single by Dwayne Murphy.

Red Sox 11, White Sox 1
Jim Rice and Tony Perez hit two-run homers and Dwight Evans drove in three runs to back Bob Stanley's strong pitching. Rice connected in the third inning, Perez delivered in the sixth and Evans socked a two-run triple in the eighth. Meanwhile, Stanley allowed four hits in eight innings and recorded a career-high seven strikeouts.

National League roundup

It was a poor start for Ken Forsch but a great finish. And he wasn't too sloppy in the middle, either. Forsch walked the first batter he faced, then proceeded to stifle the Cincinnati Reds on just three hits to hurl the Houston Astros to a 3-0 victory Tuesday night.

"The first inning was really tough," said Forsch. "I didn't think I was ever going to get loose."

"Then my arm sort of came around, though, and I never even got tired in the late innings."

It was the first complete game of the season for the 6-foot-4, 215-pound right-hander who said he was bothered by the chilly night air.

Cesar Cedeno provided the power for the Astros with a two-run homer that bounced off the foul pole screen in left field.

"I knew it was out when I hit it, if it didn't go foul," said Cedeno.

In other National League games Tuesday, Pittsburgh edged Montreal 4-3 in 10 innings, the Chicago Cubs downed St. Louis 6-4 and Los Angeles blanked San Francisco 5-0. Two other games — Philadelphia at the New York Mets and Atlanta at San Diego — were rained out.

Cedeno was benched last week for his weak hitting. When he returned to the Astros' lineup, he was moved down to the seventh spot.

"That's a big thing for us, if he can start producing a few runs for us," said Houston Manager Bill Virdon. "He's never been down there before (batting seventh), but sometimes it takes a little change to get things started."

Forsch, who ran his record to 3-0, was in trouble only once — when Cincinnati threatened to score in the fifth inning. But Forsch struck out Ken Griffey with the bases loaded to end the inning.

Pirates 5, Expos 4
A double by Bill Madlock in the 10th inning scored pinch runner Matt Alexander to give Pittsburgh its victory over the Montreal Expos Tuesday. Dave Parker's three-run homer in the first inning gave Pittsburgh a 3-1 lead and Mike Eas the other Pittsburgh run in the third.

Warren Cromartie homered for Montreal.

Cubs 6, Cardinals 4
Steve Dillard doubled home the game-tying run in the ninth, then scored on Barry Foote's pinch single to pace Chicago past St. Louis.

Six SWC athletes chosen in first round of draft

By JOE STROOP
AP Sports Writer

A bumper crop of Southwest Conference athletes drew the Attention of National Football League teams that harvested six of the SWC elite in the first round of the NFL draft.

It was the most SWC players ever taken in the first round, and more were picked from the SWC than from any other major conference this year.

In addition, three Texas natives who played outside the SWC went in Tuesday's first round, including the No. 1 pick, Oklahoma running back Billy Sims.

The Detroit Lions chose Sims, a native of Hooks who won the Heisman Trophy as a junior.

"I really don't want to go to a 2-14 team," Sims said, referring to Detroit's 1979 record, "but that's the system and I think I can help them build a winner."

Texas wide receiver Johnny "Lam" Jones, a former Olympic gold medalist, was the first SWC player chosen. The New York Jets, picking second, took Jones and said they plan to team him with speedy Wesley Walker, giving the Jets perhaps the two fastest pass-catchers in pro football.

"I know I have to work on my catching and blocking," Jones said. "The only pressure I'll have is what I put on myself. I'm just going to go up there and do the best I can, give 100 percent and hope that's enough. If that's not enough, I'm in trouble."

Texas A&M running back Curtis Dickey was the next SWC player to go, picked fifth by the Baltimore Colts, who said they may also use him as a receiver.

"I thought I was going to San Francisco at first," Dickey said, "but I had no preference."

almost immediately, but not before roommate Jacob Green, a defensive end, was chosen 10th by Seattle.

"I'm really happy with the pick," said Green, rated high for his pass-rushing ability. "Seattle has a fine team which is already winning and just on the verge of being a playoff contender."

"I don't know if I can start for them," he added, "but I know they had a lot of confidence to draft me where they did so I think I can contribute."

Between Dickey and Green, the Atlanta Falcons picked seventh and chose Nebraska tight end Junior Miller, a Midland native.

In position 13, the San Francisco 49ers pulled a mild surprise, taking Rice running back Earl Cooper.

Defensive back Johnny Johnson of Texas was drafted in the 18th spot by the Los Angeles Rams.

Ruiz can run again

BOSTON (AP) — Jacqueline Gareau of Montreal officially is the 1980 Boston Marathon women's champion and new record-holder, but Rosie Ruiz can return next year for another shot if she wants it.

The Boston Athletic Association awarded victory to the 27-year-old Gareau eight days late Tuesday in disqualifying Rosie on the grounds she did not run the entire race April 22.

In disqualifying the 26-year-old New York office worker, however, the BAA bid her welcome to return in 1981 and prove she belongs among the world's top women distance runners.

"I can truthfully and honestly say without hesitation that today has been the second saddest day of my life, only to be surpassed by the day I had to leave my father in my native country (Cuba) 18 years ago," Ruiz told the Associated Press in a telephone interview Tuesday night.

Will Cloney, director of the Boston Marathon since 1946, said a week-long investigation showed "beyond any reasonable doubt" that Ruiz did not cover the 26-mile, 385-yard course. However, he extended her "an open invitation" to enter again without the usual qualifying restrictions.

Cloney said that during the investigation BAA officials were "able to chart the women's race from about the midpoint in Wellesley to beyond Kenmore Square, less than one-half mile from the finish."

He said Gareau was the leader among 17 women checked at Wellesley, and more than 10,000 photos taken by four high speed cameras showed her in front about a mile from the finish.

"Miss Ruiz does not show in any sequence in the photos," Cloney added.

Ruiz, who was clocked at the finish line in 2 hours, 31 minutes, 56 seconds, which would have made it the third fastest women's time in history. Gareau was timed in 2:34:28, bettering the course record of 2:35:15 by Maine college senior Joan Benoit in 1979.

Rockets rebuilding

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Rockets owner George Maloof says he's taken the first step in rebuilding the National Basketball Association team by signing General Manager Ray Patterson to a three-year contract.

"Re-hiring Ray was my first objective at the close of the season," Maloof said following Monday's announcement. "He has been a prime factor in the Rockets making the playoffs in four of the last six seasons, an accomplishment bettered by only three other teams."

The next questions to be answered involve the head coach and which of the players will return next season.

Coch Del Harris, who has just completed a one year contract, reportedly has been offered another contract but has not accepted. Several veteran Rocket players, including Rudy Tomjanovich and Rick Barry, may not return.

"We first will get our coaching staff stabilized and then get on with putting the playing personnel together," Patterson said. "Regardless of which players are in Rockets uniforms next season, we guarantee a young, hustling, scrapping, fighting team."

HIGHER BASKET
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Ed Steitz, the athletic director of Springfield, Mass., College, is also a member of the NCAA Basketball Rules Committee.

In Indianapolis, for the championship game of the NCAA tournament, Steitz said that if he, personally, could change one rule of the game, he would raise the height of the basket from 10 feet to 11½ or 12 feet.

But Steitz is well aware of country-wide opposition to any such drastic change in the rules and doubts that it will happen in the near future.

You will be fortunate this coming year in situations where you pick the broken pieces from projects on which others have given up. They may not have been able to make them work, but you'll do now.

TURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't resurrect issues today that could lead to a dispute between you and your mate. Not only will you fail to resolve the old ones, you'll add several new problems. Clinging to other signs is one of the sections you'll enjoy in our Astro-Graph Letter, which begins with your birthday. Mail for each to Astro-Graph, Box 9, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10101. Be sure to specify birth date.

EMINI (May 21-June 20) In order to arouse the ambition of workers today you may be tempted to offer an undesired bribe. Such bribes won't work.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Do not look around for others to pay a price for mistakes you make today. Suffer your losses in silence.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today you may experience a sense of urgency to get things done in a hurry. Rash actions will cause you trouble that could be avoided.

VRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Formally, you're a very forgiving person. Today you may be tempted to behave spitefully.

Subdue the urge or you'll regret it.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Persons who shouldn't have a voice could have considerable influence over your financial judgment today. Select your advisers with care.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be realistic in money matters today. Don't spend in advance that which you expect to acquire. Things may not go as programmed.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Sometimes your hunches are remarkably accurate. This may not be true today, so let your logic rule over intuition.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If at all possible make it a point not to borrow anything today. The price you may have to repay might be too high.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be careful today that you're not maneuvered into a position where the agreement another makes on your behalf goes against your best interests. Call your own shots.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Square pegs should not be forced into round holes today in order to accomplish your purpose. Assert yourself, but don't steamroller others.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Take care in joint ventures today that neither you nor your associate do anything impulsive which could set back your progress. Each should be extra-cautious.

Watch group asks that volcano be closed off

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Fearing tons of ice and rock could crash down from Mount St. Helens' north face, Washington state officials have asked Gov. Dixy Lee Ray to completely close off parts of the volcano.

The Mount St. Helens Watch group, consisting of Emergency Services Department officials, sent the request for proposed "red" and "blue" hazard zones to the governor Tuesday, said Rick Lavalla of the department.

The group's action follows reports earlier this week from the U.S. Geological Survey that the Goat Rocks area on the northwest face of the volcano had bulged 20 feet in four days.

Scientists say this is a possible sign that the north flank is breaking away or that lava — molten rock — is pushing its way up through the interior of the volcano toward a violent eruption.

Ray declared a state of emergency in the two counties surrounding the peak in southwest

Washington immediately after the 9,677-foot mountain began erupting March 27. But there has been limited access to the mountain itself for property owners, loggers and scientists.

"The hardest thing is to convince people of the danger," said Lavalla. "The mountain looks serene, so people can't fathom 4,000 vertical feet of earth, rock and ice plunging into the lake (Spirit Lake) in less than two minutes."

The watch group recommends dividing the area adjacent to the mountain into red and blue zones.

The red zone would encompass the mountain and immediate areas to the west and south and the entire Spirit Lake area on the north and east. No one would be allowed in this area.

The blue zone would extend five miles around the red zone to a point 15 miles east of Interstate 5. Although workers could use the area during the day, no overnight use would be allowed.

Unique in look and sound

Are they instruments? Or sculptures?

By Barbara McDowell

NEW YORK (NEA) - What do you get when you cross a musical instrument with a sculpture?

If you are Ken Riportella, you get a one-of-a-kind dulcimer, mandolin or other acoustical stringed instrument that can be proudly hung on the wall after strumming.

At 32, the bearded Vermont artist has already had his work exhibited by Boston's Museum of Fine Arts, New York's Metropolitan Museum and Washington's Smithsonian Institution. The Smithsonian show of instruments by Riportella and some 100 other living Americans is currently traveling around the country.

Riportella always knew he would become an artist as he was growing up on New York's Long Island. The son and grandson of painters explains that art was as important to him as baseball was to most of his contemporaries.

But he received some heat for his career choice while studying at Vermont's Goddard College at the height of the Vietnam War.

"A lot of my friends were saying that doing any sort of artwork was counterproductive," he recalls. "They said, 'You can't make beautiful things because there is a lot of misery and suffering and all that.'"

"I actually stopped doing any painting or sculpture at all for a while. But I had to get back to it, so I started the instruments. That was OK with my friends because the instruments were something you could use."

His first instruments were gongs for a college acquaintance who played in an Indonesian-style orchestra. He moved on to what he termed "gongalons," metal sculptures with 15 rods extending from each; the rods could be plucked to produce various sounds.

Then he turned to the stringed instruments that have become what he calls his "life's work." He has made 55 of them, no two identical in sound or appearance.

Not only do they not look like one another; they do not look like any instruments that one has ever seen - except, perhaps, in a Picasso painting.

Riportella's dulcimer-like "Skatedancer" - only the second instrument by a living maker displayed at the Metropolitan - was inspired by ice skater Dorothy Hamill. But most of his works are inspired by the people who commission them.

KEN RIPORTELLA displays two of his unique musical sculptures. On his lap is "Buffalo Bird," a dulcimer with two fingerboards and two sound chambers to be played by a couple facing one another with legs interlocked. (Photo by Andrew Kline)

He begins each instrument by visiting the home of the customer to get an impression of his or her lifestyle and artistic tastes. He pays particular attention to the kitchen - "because that's where the utilitarian things are kept."

The customer's preferences are also reflected in the instrument's sound, which may resemble a guitar, a lute, even a banjo. He makes adjustments for volume depending on whether it is to be played in a living room or an auditorium.

Riportella prefers making dulcimer-type instruments, which rest flat on the musician's lap with strings facing upward, to those like mandolins and guitars whose strings face away from the player.

He especially enjoys designing instruments to be played by two people at the same time. One is "Buffalo Bird," a dulcimer with two fingerboards and two sound chambers so that its players can produce different but "sympathetic" tones as they sit facing one another with legs interlocked.

The instrument reflects his perceptions of its male owner as "plodding and forceful" and its female owner as "flighty and whimsical." The side played by the man is bolder in line and louder in tone, while the woman's side is of more fluid design and more ethereal sound quality.

Once the design is agreed upon, Riportella begins his search for the right wood. Unlike many instrument makers, he has no favorite wood. In fact, he looks forward to experimenting with more "exotic" varieties.

"Whenever I hear about somebody who has a chunk of wood in the garage that is 100 years old, I run over and get it," he laughs. One of his instruments was made from the wood of a tree he had chopped down himself several years earlier.

Riportella is currently finishing an instrument made in part from see-through plastic, which is intended to provide an inside view of how his works are engineered and assembled.

"I see these instruments as sort of like riddles," he says. "Somebody will look at one and say, 'How did you fit all those joints together?' or 'Is it all carved out of one piece?' It makes a person take a minute and think about what I do."

Once his chosen wood has reached the proper dryness, Riportella begins shaping it into an instrument. He works from blueprints, making adjustments for irregularities in the wood.

Most of his work is done with hand tools. He did without electricity completely for a while out of concern over nuclear power.

From initial drawings through final polishing, an instrument takes Riportella about two months to make. He usually has several in progress so that he can put one down for a few weeks if he becomes stymied. Sometimes all his work is for naught. "I have some at home that I'll never get rid of because I didn't like the way they sounded," he says.

The artist will not say how much his instruments cost, but he admits that he earns enough to support his relatively modest lifestyle in the northern Vermont town of Calais.

"I like to trade," he adds. "I'm making one instrument for a dentist. I'm trading him for some tooth work."

Riportella lives alone in a small farmhouse with an even smaller workshop out back. Frequently people stay with him for a time to learn his craft; one of his students also has an instrument in the Smithsonian show.

"There has been a resurgence of instrument making," notes Riportella. "People are dying for handmade things. They think their world has become so cold and manufactured. Everything seems sloppily made."

"There is something very special about a handmade instrument - not only the looks of it but the sound."

Riportella insists that his interest in instrument making has not dulled after more than a decade of work.

"I worry about dying," remarks the healthy young artist. "That I'm not going to have time to do all the instruments I want to do."
