Rescuers recover 17 bodies, search for 15 more underway

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — With 17 bodies recovered and 71 persons missing near Mount St. Helens, search and rescue helicopters targeted 15 areas in the devastated region where they said more dead could be found today.

Flying conditions improved with the rains coming to an end and the forecast calling for partially clearing skies.

Late Thursday, U.S. Forest Service spokesman Terry Virgin said the death toll from Sunday's blast that leveled 150 square miles of trees stood at 17. Ben Bena, a Cowlitz County sheriff's deputy, said all 17 bodies had been recovered.

Helicopter crews Thursday were airborne despite foul weather, ferrying bodies to a temporary morgue being set up at the Toledo airport.

Virgin said a dog was found near the bodies of two victims and brought to safety Thursday, but he had no details on where it was located. He would not speculate on whether the animal's discovery could mean a chance of other survivors near the volcano.

Damage estimates from the blast, meanwhile, soared past half a billion dollars, and President Carter was visibly shaken the day after touring the southwest Washington region he earlier declared a major disaster area.

Robert Stevens of the Federal Emergency Management Agency said a disaster relief center would be established today in nearby Portland. He said the government was prepared to offer low interest loans, grants, unemployment compensation and housing assistance for up to one year for people displaced by the blast, which leveled thousands of acres of pristine forest and sent mud and debris racing down rivers.

The volcano ejected only steam from its gaping crater Thursday but shot its white displays up to 20,000 feet at least once. Seismic noise — which some geologists say could mean the movement of molten rock deep within the peak — was recorded in the afternoon.

Tim Hait, a USGS geologist, called the Sunday blast "a 10,000-year event. The odds of having another within a few weeks or years are statistically very small."

Meanwhile, residents of ash-choked eastern Washington and northern Idaho got relief as rain helped settle and clear the grit that clogged machinery, made breathing difficult and stranded thousands of travelers.

And USGS scientists said Thursday that a huge dam at the top of the Toutle River formed by a slide of mud and volcanic debris may be a permanent fixture on Spirit Lake. They earlier feared it might release water in a devastating flood.

Pete Lipman, a USGS scientist, was one of two geologists who inspected the dam Thursday and flew into the crater estimated at nearly a mile deep and more than two miles wide.

Saying the mission "was not without considerable trepidation," Lipman said Spirit Lake at the foot of the mountain was "an unattractive, evil-looking place for the dead."

"It was very, very eerie to be out in places where I had spent most of the last month and a half (before the eruption) and which don't exist any more," he said.

Next to Spirit Lake once stood the lodge of Harry Truman, a feisty 84-year-old who refused to leave. He has been missing since the blast, which was estimated by USGS scientists to have had a force equivalent to 10 to 50 megatons. A megaton equals 1 million tons of TNT.

The greatest man-made explosion, the 1951 Soviet detonation of a hydrogen bomb, equalled about 50 megatons.

"It's a horrible sight," Carter said after his helicopter tour of area. "I don't know if there is anything else like it in the world."

Early damage estimates included $260 million in crop damage east of the Cascades, $200 million in timber felled from the mountain's blast and $40 million worth of destruction to bridges and highways from floods and mudflows.

The first federal money to arrive was $210,000 from the Department of Labor given to Spokane to hire workers for ash cleanup.

"It's better than Christmas," shouted one pedestrian in Spokane. Carter told Idaho Gov. John Evans he would declare the northern part of that state, counties hit hard by ash fallout, an emergency area, opening the door for federal aid.

Truman's chances of survival dim

CASTLE ROCK, Wash. (AP) — Harry Truman sipped his favorite whiskey and told city people they were foolish to believe the mountain he had lived on for 50 years could explode.

His stubborn refusal to leave his lodge on Mount St. Helens put him in a national spotlight.

Letters — some of them proposals of marriage — poured in from across the nation.

On Saturday, the 84-year-old patriarch of the mountain refused again to leave Spirit Lake Lodge. The next day, the mountain exploded.

He has not been seen since.

"I know he's buried up there under all that muck and mud," says his sister, Geraldine Whiting, "but I still have to see it for myself."

"He always said the only way he was coming out for good was feet first."

Truman's idea of hiding from an eruption in a mine shaft with two kegs of whiskey was mostly just an old man's bravado, she says.

"Sometimes he enlarged things a bit — you know — but he meant no harm. Sure there's lots of mine shafts on that mountain, and he knew where they were, but..."

Weather

Conditions will remain partly cloudy today with a 30 percent chance of thundershowers today and tonight. It will remain warm with a chance of showers throughout the Memorial Day weekend. The high for today and Saturday will be in the mid 80s.

Riot-torn Miami faces a 'critical point in time'

MIAMI (AP) — Although most of the National Guardsmen have pulled out and there were only a few minor incidents during the night, police in riot-scarred Miami say the weekend will be "a very critical point in time."

Meanwhile, Michael Watts, whose acquittal with three other white former policemen in the death of a black man touched off the rioting, was in critical condition today after an apparent suicide attempt.

According to police, Watts had said he was contemplating suicide because of trouble with a girlfriend, not the Arthur McDuffie case.

Some 2,000 National Guardsmen went home Thursday, but 1,000 others remain on standby as police warned of rumors that racial violence may flare anew this weekend.

"I would have to place some credence in the kind of information we are getting," Dade County Sheriff Bobby Jones said. "It's a very critical point in time."

In three days of rioting after the acquittal Saturday, 15 persons died and fires and looting caused $100 million in damage.

Tearing the rubble-strewn streets of the city's black northwest section late Thursday, Gov. Bob Graham said, "You can feel the violence this community has been subjected to. You feel a sense of the frustration and rage that led to this and the morning-after sadness."

The owners of property damaged by arsonists, vandals and looters will be eligible for low-interest rebuilding loans since the Small Business Administration issued a disaster declaration on Thursday.

And Labor Secretary Wally Orr said the state has asked for $15.6 million in federal aid to be used in part to put 10,000 youths to work this summer.

The governor told city and county officials, seeking still more help, he has had a "strong commitment of support" from President

Carter, who was to visit next week.

"I wouldn't think the President would come without being prepared to make some substantial announcement of federal assistance," he said.

Jack Sullivan, president of the Fraternal Order of Police, said that at a meeting Thursday night. "Some of the more radical officers were talking about a walkout."

Sullivan, noting a walkout would be illegal, added the disgruntled officers "settled down."

Sullivan said he planned to meet with Police Chief Kenneth Harms today and scheduled a police rally for this afternoon. He said FOP officials and the chief would discuss amnesty proposals and the suspensions of five officers for conduct during the riots.

While some black leaders have asked for blanket amnesty for the more than 900 people arrested during the riot, Mayor Murrice Ferre and Dade County Manager Merritt Stuerheim have proposed limited amnesty, decided on a case-by-case basis.

Four of the officers were suspended in connection with vandalism to cars at a looted discount store in the Liberty City section of northwest Miami. The fifth was accused of striking a looting suspect with a gun barrel.

Opposing a call by some black leaders for amnesty for the 1,267 persons arrested during the riots, Graham said, "No citizen has the right to deny other citizens the respect to which they are entitled."

Schools reopened Thursday without incident under beefed-up security in racially-troubled areas.

There were "a lot of dirty looks, a lot of foul language," said a white student at a predominately black school. "But what's new about that?"

Businesses close for Memorial Day

Memorial Day is being celebrated on Monday, May 26, and in observance of the day, several Pampa businesses will be closed.

The following will be among those closing in Pampa on Monday, May 26:

Federal offices, state offices, city offices, banks, public schools, Cabot Engineering and Machinery Division offices, Celanese Chemical Corporation and several other industrial corporations will be closing.

The Pampa News will publish Monday and deliver earlier than usual. However, the business, advertising and classified advertising departments will be closed.

The Gray County REACT Teams will be operating a "safety break" station for weary holiday travelers during the three-day Memorial Day celebration.

The safety break station will be located at the National Guard Armory, east of Pampa on highway 60, and will be open from 6 p.m. Friday - 10 p.m. Monday.

The Pampa REACT teams are involved as a part of the National REACT safety break effort against highway accidents, sponsored by the American Trucking Association.

More than 47,000 people died on the nation's highways in 1976.

"Many of these fatalities are attributed to sleepiness, fatigue and highway hypnosis. The aim of the REACT teams is to get travelers off the highway long enough to wake them up with a coffee break," according to Karen Henthorne of the Pampa REACT.

The safety break project is supported by the Pampa Police Department. Also supporting the project are many Pampa merchants who have made donations to the REACT team.

In addition to the safety break, the REACT teams will be maintaining their monitoring of Citizens Band radio channel 9 for emergencies and calls for motorist assistance.

On Memorial Day, the flag should fly at half-staff until noon. Then, it should be raised to the peak.

Ash restricts Sheppard jet flights

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Jet pilots at Sheppard Air Force Base have been restricted to fly no higher than 20,000 feet because of a thin layer of volcanic ash that has drifted over Wichita Falls, base officials said today.

Most of the dust, blown high into the atmosphere by the eruption of the Mount St. Helens volcano in Washington state, missed Texas. But meteorologists at the National Weather Service in Fort Worth said shifting winds apparently blew some of the dust into North Texas skies Wednesday and Thursday.

It was a very thin layer, and FAA officials in Fort Worth said it had not issued any restrictions to commercial aviation in its five-state region — Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arkansas and Louisiana.

At Reese Air Force Base, near Lubbock, officials said the dust blew over the northern Panhandle Wednesday and was mostly gone by today. Reese spokesman Lt. Randy Sipe said altitude restrictions were being lifted today, but pilots were still being warned to avoid any heavy concentrations of the dust they may encounter.

Doug Moore of the Air Force's Air Training Command headquarters in San Antonio said the orders to restrict flying at Sheppard also included Vance Air Force Base at Enid, Okla.

"We had a little paint-stripping on some of our T-38s at Vance yesterday," Moore said. "That's the only damage we had."

Sipe and FAA officials said the ash contains corrosive chemicals and acids that can not only strip paint from an airplane but can also pit windows and damage jet engines.

NWS forecaster Jack Paup of Fort Worth said the volcanic dust could have ridden into Texas on northeasterly winds created by a low pressure system in the atmosphere over Arkansas and Missouri.

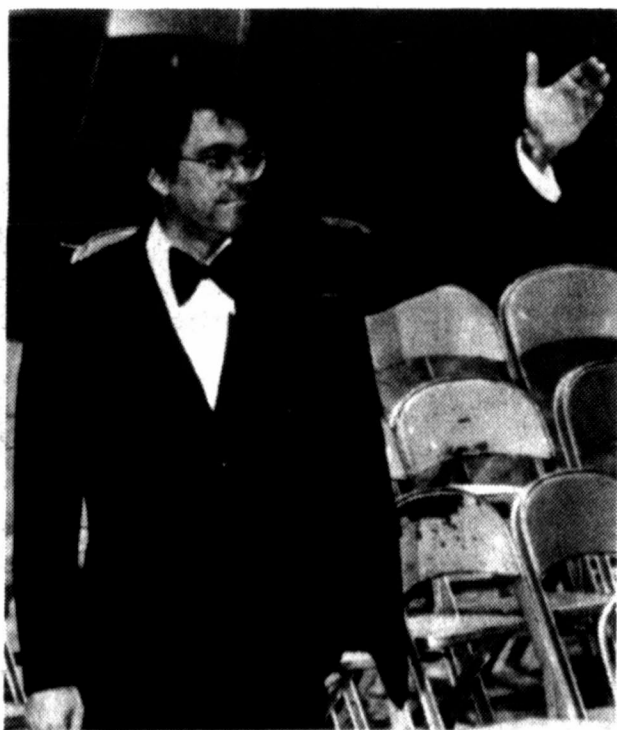

"Looking at the satellite picture, it appears to be from the Wichita Falls area back up over western Oklahoma and into central Kansas. It does not appear to be widespread over the state," he said.

Paup said the ash would have no effect on the weather in Texas. "It's not going to be here that long," he said.

A goodbye performance for seniors, Mr. Wy

JOHN WOICKOWFSKI, director of the Pampa High School choirs for the past eight years, conducts a number during Thursday night's Spring Choir Festival. The Thursday performance was the final Spring festival for Woickowfski, who will be leaving the choir position at the conclusion of this school year.

WOICKOWFSKI PRESENTS THE CHOIR to the receptive audience at the conclusion of their performance in the Spring Choir Festival. Chor Boosters will honor the resigned director with a reception Sunday at Lovett Memorial Library Auditorium. The public is invited to attend.

"YOU ARE MY SPECIAL MUSIC MAN," was a line in the lyrics of a song dedicated to Woickowfski by the eighth grade choir, directed by Elena Donald, during Thursday's Spring Choir Festival. Woickowfski listens with head bowed.

GRADUATING SENIOR PAM HOMER tearfully hugs a friend after the final performance of the concert choir this year. Although the choir will be singing for vespers and graduation, the festival performance was a goodbye for seniors and Woickowfski.

PARK TOURS SCHEDULED

Daily tours of Alibates Flint Quarries National Monument will begin Saturday, May 24, and continue through the summer season until Labor Day, September 1.
 Tours begin at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. from the contact station in Bates Canyon.
 Persons planning to take the tours should arrive a few minutes before the tour time, wear comfortable shoes, and bring drinking water and a head covering. There is no charge for the tour.
 The walking tour lasts approximately 1 1/2 hours and may include a flint chipping demonstration showing how Early Man fashioned tools from flint as far back as 10,000 years ago. Collecting the flint from the monument area is not allowed.
 An added attraction in visiting the monument in the early spring is the display of wildflowers. With the recent rains, the Panhandle hills are covered with many varieties of flora. At times deer are seen along the and a hawk may be seen soaring overhead.
 Tours may be arranged for organized groups by calling the National Park Service at (806) 857-3151, or by writing the Superintendent, Lake Meredith Recreation Area, P.O. box 1438, Fritch, Texas, 79036.

Clean-up, paint-up, fix-up winds down to last ward pick-up

BY SHEILA ECCLES
PAMPA NEWS STAFF
 The Pampa Clean Up, Paint Up, Fix Up campaign, will be completed in one more week, with trash pick-ups scheduled for Ward 4, May 27-31.
 Ward 4 is the southern area of the city bounded on the south and west by the city limits, on the north by Tyng Ave., and on the east by Cuyler-Barnes St.
 "This year has been more successful than any other year so far," said Jiggs Cooke, director of public works with the Pampa City Sanitation Department. "In 1979 we picked up 175 truckloads for the entire city. We have already moved 232 truckloads from only three fourths of the city."
 "People have been cooperating very well with the clean up, paint up, fix up campaign," Cooke added.
 For successful clean up, Ward 4 residents are reminded to place trash and debris in the alleysways prior to the pick-up dates, box or sack loose items to keep them from blowing, and cover debris in private vehicles carrying trash to the landfill.

Place in the dumpsters only items such as household refuse, grass clippings, and hedge trimmings. Other items are to be placed in the alley behind individual homes for pick-ups. Do not place large or heavy items beside the dumpsters.
 All Pampa City departments will be closed Monday, Memorial Day. However, the Pampa landfill will be open over the Memorial weekend including Saturday, Sunday and Monday for residents wishing to dump accumulated trash and large items. There is no charge for the use of the city landfill for pick-up size or less trucks.
 The Sanitation Department has used five trucks and ten men during the three weeks of the campaign. "We have had to borrow employees from some of the other city department for the clean up campaign," Cooke said.
 "The dumpsters have kept the alleysways 100 percent cleaner than last year, and we are really pleased with the results shown by the use of the dumpsters," Cooke said.

TEXAS WEATHER

Thunderstorms that pounded most of Texas this week ended today and skies cleared as an upper air disturbance drifted southward.
 A few scattered showers were reported early this morning near Midland and Del Rio in Southwest Texas.
 Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 50s and 60s, except in extreme South and Far West Texas where the mercury reached the 70s.
 Winds were southeasterly at 5 to 10 mph.
 The National Weather Service called for partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures for most of the state through Saturday, with a slight chance of showers in Southwest Texas and along the Rio Grande.
 Highs were expected to range in the 80s and 90s.

TEXAS FORECAST

North Texas — Partly cloudy and warmer through Saturday with widely scattered thunderstorms spreading across west and central portions tonight and over most of area Saturday. Lows tonight in the 60s. Highs Saturday 87 to 96. Outlook for remainder of Memorial Day weekend calls partly cloudy and warm.
South Texas — Partly cloudy and warmer Saturday. Lows tonight 60s and 70s. Highs Saturday 80s near the coast to near 100 along the Rio Grande river in extreme South Texas. Outlook for the remainder of the Memorial Day weekend called partly cloudy and continued warm with a slight chance of afternoon and nighttime showers and thundershowers.
West Texas — Fair and warm through Saturday except partly cloudy with scattered thunderstorms south and southeast tonight. Highs Saturday lower 80s north to mid 90s south and near 100 Big Bend valleys. Lows tonight lower 50s north to upper 60s south.
Upper Texas Coast — Southeasterly winds near 10 knots or less tonight and south and southwest near 15 knots Saturday. Seas less than 3 feet tonight.
Lower Texas Coast — Southeasterly winds near 10 knots tonight and south and southeast 15 to 20 knots Saturday. Winds locally higher and gusty near shore during the afternoons. Seas 2 to 4 feet tonight. Isolated showers.

police report

The Pampa Police Department responded to 23 calls during the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today involving theft and an aggravated assault report.
 Emily Gross, 842 S. Sumner, reported she believed her purse had been stolen sometime between 4 p.m. and 5 p.m. Thursday. She said she had made several stops while shopping and is not sure when or where the purse was taken.
 An aggravated assault was reported at the new Peppermint Club located at 600 S. Gray when a suspect is reported to have pulled a gun on the complainant and threatened his life. The suspect then left the scene, still armed, riding a bicycle, the complainant told police. An investigation is continuing into the matter.

While scattered rain fell in many parts of the country, the upper Midwest unexpectedly sweltered under unseasonable heat.
 Temperatures reached 100 degrees and higher in many areas. In Williston, N.D., the mercury hit a May 22 record of 106. The temperature was the nation's highest on Thursday and broke the record of 90 degrees set in Williston on May 22, 1932.
 Rain was scattered from the northern Pacific coast across the northern Rockies. Showers and thundershowers also fell from eastern New Mexico through southwestern Texas and from northern Arkansas through Missouri across the lower Ohio Valley and the Tennessee Valley through the Carolinas and from Mississippi through northern Georgia.
 Thundershowers also were scattered along the western Florida coast.
 Temperatures around the nation early today ranged from 42 degrees in Arcata, Calif., to 82 in Key West, Fla.

Brooke receives injured Marines

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The two U.S. Marines who survived the crash of a Marine helicopter last Sunday in Hawaii were in critical condition late Thursday night in the Brooke Army Medical Center burn ward, officials said.
 Seven Marines were killed in the crash of the CH-53 Sea Stallion helicopter, which is similar to the model used in the aborted attempt to free the American hostages in Iran.
 Marine 1st Lt. Richard P. Boyer, 27, and Cpl. Michael L. Krizan, 21, arrived at Brooke on Tuesday, but officials are refusing to issue any announcements of such arrivals.

BAMC officials confirmed the Marines were there when asked Thursday, but refused to release information on the men's hometowns.
 Two survivors of the Iranian rescue attempt remain hospitalized in the burn ward, where they were taken last month.
 Marine Maj. Leslie B. Petty, of Jacksonville, N.C., and Air Force Staff Sgt. Joseph J. Beyers III of Charlestown, S.C., were both listed in serious condition.

Business world labels politicians

FORT WORTH (AP) — Top business executives, responding to a survey, said the nation's politicians are "ineffective and perhaps incompetent" leaders unable to instill confidence in their ability to quell a recession.

Researchers said 71 percent of the executives polled rated the national leadership as poor and 20 percent said it was only fair. Just 2 percent termed it "good," while the category of "excellent" drew no votes at all.

The survey was conducted for Paul R. Ray & Co., Inc., a national and international executive search firm based in Fort Worth. It polled the chief executives of Fortune's top 1,600 businesses, and received 220 responses.

Results were accurate within two percentage points, according to Moore Diversified Services, a Fort Worth market research firm which conducted the survey over the last 10 days of April.

"This is a little harsh, but I would say the leadership of this country has been ineffective and perhaps incompetent," said Charles M. Harper of ConAgra, Inc.

Eighty-nine percent of the executives thought the economy is already in a recession and another 10 percent said one is almost upon us. Seventy-one percent felt the recession will be "very deep" or somewhat deep, and will last 12 to 18 months.

The National Bureau of Economic Research, a private organization that economists rely on to designate recessions, has not yet called the current slump a full-blown recession.

However, the unemployment rate, a key indicator, equals the levels of unemployment in four previous post-war recessions.

Researchers said 17 percent of the executives indicated they will delay capital investments until they see how the economy develops.

Nuclear wastes from plants problem for state lawmakers

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The 1981 Legislature must consider disposal of wastes from nuclear power plants but there is no immediate crisis in handling low level radioactive wastes from doctors' offices and hospitals, says Gov. Bill Clements.

"We do not think there is a crisis situation as some have reported, and we think we can handle the disposal of low level wastes at this time," Clements told a Capitol news conference Thursday.

Clements replied to last Saturday's action of the Texas Medical Association's house of delegates in urging Clements to push the Texas Department of Health in immediately designating several temporary waste storage sites.

The 288-member governing body of the TMA said lack of disposal areas for low-level radioactive products used in diagnostic and therapeutic medicine created an "imminent peril" to the public health and welfare of all Texans.

The TMA said private physicians, hospitals and laboratories in Texas must send their disposable radioactive materials to dumping sites in Washington, Nevada or South Carolina.

Clements conferred earlier Thursday with Dr. Robert Berstein, state health commissioner, and officials of the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council.

"We did agree that the whole subject of disposal of wastes — high, medium and low — will have to be addressed by the next Legislature," Clements said. "But in the meantime, Dr. Berstein is addressing the low level waste issue as it is, and there is not a crisis situation."

Clements said there would be action shortly on two pending applications for enlargement of disposal sites in the Houston area. In addition, he said, there are several pending applications for new disposal sites.

On other subjects, Clements said:

- He had been assured by Col. Jim Adams, director of the Department of Public Safety, there would not be a cut back in patrolling Texas highways because of a gasoline shortage.
- A proposed new law has already been drafted for the 1981 Legislature that would prohibit the comptroller from withholding union dues from wages paid state employees.

Rebellious Koreans holdout for resignation of leader

By TERRY A. ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer
KWANGJU, South Korea (AP) — The rebellious civilians controlling Kwangju held out today for the resignation of South Korea's new military strongman, Lt. Gen. Chun Doo-hwan, as 3,000 youths patrolled the streets. Residents began cleaning up after four days of street fighting with troops and police in which at least 64 persons were killed and more than 400 were wounded.

"We will fight until the last one if Chun does not resign," one young worker said. In Seoul, Kim Young-sam, leader of the opposition New Democratic Party, said any further move toward military dictatorship would lead to bloodier revolt and he would be "in the forefront of the people."

Amid growing concern over the possibility of a food shortage, leaders of the 200,000 demonstrators who seized control of the southwestern provincial capital Wednesday night met for the second day with local martial-law authorities to discuss amnesty and other conditions for restoring the city to government control.

The committee of 26 leading business and professional men, clergymen and professors submitted a list of demands Thursday including admission by the government of responsibility for the violence, acknowledgment that the paratroopers took "excessive measures" against the mobs, the release of hundreds arrested during the fighting and a pledge that there would be no retaliation against the rioters.

Firefly could shed light on outer space

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Scientists are looking to the lowly firefly to help shed some light on the question of life in outer space.

Thousands of firefly catchers from Missouri to Pennsylvania — glass jars in hand — launched their annual assault on the incandescent insect this month.

"We got 2 million last year, and that was a pretty good year," said Jerry Kunkel, an official with the sponsoring Sigma Firefly Scientist's Club. "But we had a great year two years ago when we got 3 million. We hope to surpass that this year."

The club pays a penny for each firefly. Kunkel said a first-rate firefly catcher can bottle 100 insects in an hour.

The club is a division of the St. Louis-based Sigma Chemical Co. Kunkel says the company wants the firefly because it is the only source of luciferin and luciferase, two chemicals useful in the search for extra-terrestrial life. They also are used in cancer research and in testing polluted water.

Fireflies turn "on" when luciferin and luciferase react with another chemical, adenosine triphosphate or ATP.

which is present in every living cell.

In connection with some sophisticated electronic gadgetry, the two chemicals can be plunked down on, say, Mars and if light results, the scientist knows some ATP is around and, therefore, that life recently passed by the spot.

The same theory is used in cancer research and testing for pollutants. Scientists know how much light normal cells give off and that something's amiss if they get more or less.

Tennessee inmates jailed in Texas

— A jail escape ended in prison for three Lawrence County inmates who fled to Texas and then pleaded guilty to attempting to murder a policeman, officials said.

Randy King, deputy sheriff of Nolan County, said the trio pleaded guilty Thursday and was taken to the Texas Department of Correction in Huntsville, Texas.

The men sawed their way to freedom from the maximum security unit of the Lawrence County Jail on May 16.

Texas and Tennessee authorities identified the men as:

- Luther E. Staggs, 23, of Lawrenceburg. He was sentenced to 50 years in Texas and was jailed in Lawrence County for violating provisions of his parole on an aggravated assault conviction.
- Jerry Don Morrison, 30, of Alabama. He was sentenced to 50 years and was serving time in the Lawrence County Jail for burglary.
- James K. Larry, 31, of Lawrenceburg. He was sentenced to 20 years because he was driving the getaway van and did not fire a shot. He had been jailed in Lawrence County on an armed robbery charge.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

OPINION PAGE

The talking dollar

As the economy comes down with a bad case of the blahs, any little break in the clouds is welcome.

It is no secret about the dollar. It just does not buy as much as it once did. Not nearly as much. If it is any comfort, however, neither do the currencies of other countries.

When you put the dollar up against other currencies in purchasing power, the dollar still talks the talk and walks the walk. The bottom line is that purchasing power is still the strongest in the United States.

That quotation was taken from a little pamphlet issued by the Union Bank of Switzerland, entitled "Prices and Earnings around the Globe." The study measures incomes and prices in 44 major cities throughout the world as of mid-1979, then calculates how much people could buy with their incomes.

Twelve occupations are covered for a good cross-section of jobs found in all the cities. Included are school teachers, secretaries, bus drivers, auto mechanics, construction workers, toolmakers, saleswomen, textile workers, bank tellers, cooks, electrical engineers and managers in metal-working production plants.

As for what income will buy, the survey checks over 100 goods and services including 39 food products.

Four United States cities are listed in the survey (Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco and New York). When the purchasing power in these cities is averaged together to compute a composite figure, the figure tops the list of cities, and that is true regardless of whether pretax or net incomes are used in the comparisons.

Those cities which come closest to the United States are in Switzerland, Australia and Canada. Surprisingly, Dusseldorf, Tokyo, Paris and London are far down the list.

Conclusion: Our economy, though troubled still, provides the highest living standard in the world for the average American worker.

Imagine how it could zing if the government would just get out of the way.

Minorities total up to a majority

Texas has so many "minorities" in its population melting pot that you can't even stir them with a stick.

It is interesting to note that only a few of them ever complain about being "put down" as a minority.

The minorities are the numerous ethnic groups that make up a majority segment of the state's population.

Fact is, take all the ethnic groups out of the state and there would hardly be enough Texans to shake a stick at.

You can read about the various groups of peoples in our large state, and you can talk about them in conversations wherever folks get together, but you really don't get the whole, vivid picture until you attend the annual Texas Folklife Festival in San Antonio.

It is held each year at the University of Texas Institute of Texan Cultures in the Alamo City, and while one may encounter a diversity of cultures during one's week-day endeavors, you are literally drowned in "cultures" once you enter the gate of the festival.

On the 15-acre grounds of the Institute, about 6,000 Texans from more than 180 towns, cities and villages will be there to entertain, delight, feed and excite you with the colorful and interesting offerings of at least 32 ethnic groups.

Music, foods, crafts and endless other specialties of their cultures will be offered by the various ethnic bodies. One mingles among the crowds of festival-minded funmakers and comes face to face with the ways of life as at least they used to be of the Texas Swiss, Lebanese, Poles, Scandinavians, Chinese, Japanese, Indian, Blacks, Mexicans, Irish, Scots, Germans, Jews, Serbs, Italians, English and many others. You celebrate among them, as one of them, whatever your heritage and you learn of the total heritage of Texas. In the people you encounter, the Texas frontier lives again and you observe the folk arts and crafts demonstrated, note the historical emphasis on family, and delight in the excitement of sharing the cultures of others, at least for a little while.

You see much of the old way, the soap-making, the butter churning, the grist mill, the yoked oxen and the old red hot-dog and the fox hound. Walking the grounds is like turning the pages of a volume of Texas history from its very beginning.

We bring out these points for a purpose. This year's Folklife Festival will be on July 31 and Aug. 1-3. You may want to attend. It is like a refresher course in being Texan. Basically one enjoys the celebration and at the same time recharges his appreciation of the American Way, for our way was in the beginning and still is one of a nation giving haven to people seeking freedom.

What is most impressive is to be in the crowds of thousands representing so many ethnic groups, with cultures so widely different, having great fun together, and see on every face, in all the smiling eyes, the expression that tells what is running through their minds: "I am a Texan. I am an American."

Awesome lack of acumen

By Robert Walters
WASHINGTON (NEA) - From all around the globe they came — kings and queens, premiers and prime ministers, the leaders of the world's most-powerful and least-known nations — to the funeral of President Tito in Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

On the day of that awe-inspiring ceremony — one of the most impressive gatherings of world leaders in modern times — President Carter was at home, preparing for his big trip to Philadelphia.

Impact on global politics during World War II and in the years that followed. Roosevelt, Churchill, Stalin, De Gaulle and Mao all had passed away years earlier. Now the death of Josip Broz Tito truly represented the end of an era.

Government by the government?

by Paul Harvey

Are we a government "by the people"?

I have scanned all recent public opinion surveys by all professional pollsters — George Gallup — Lou Harris — Sindlinger — They report what we say we want — yet courts, Congress, the White House — nobody seems to pay any attention to what we want.

That Americans do not want busing does not seem to matter.

That most Americans want immigration curtailed or cut off does not seem to matter.

That most Americans want tax returns simplified and less welfare and no employment quotas — does not seem to matter.

Survey after survey confirms that Americans feel unsafe in their homes, in the streets, in their schools... Yet courts, instead of handcuffing the lawless, persist in handcuffing the law enforcers.

That most Americans are getting entirely fed up with foreign aid does not seem to matter.

From public opinion surveys it would appear that our historic "government by the people" somehow has become instead "government by the government."

Now, however, we are concerned with an influx of unwanted, uninvited and many undesirable outsiders sneaking in back doors or smashing down front doors in such numbers that our immigration officials are helpless to prevent "invasion by immigration."

If the Cuban exodus began with the emigration of those opposed to Castro, it has since been perverted to his purposes.

Our immigration officials say that Castro has made Florida a dumping ground for nonworkers and criminals.

Inevitably, the uncontrollable influx is complicating the South Florida drug market, already a $7 billion business.

Yet President Carter publicly welcomes the arriving Cubans, promises they will be received with open hearts and open arms.

Our President and our attorney general are ignoring the illegality of what's going on and few members of Congress, during an election year, are willing to criticize any ethnic minority.

So the tens of thousands — on their way to becoming hundreds of thousands — swarm ashore as surely as though Castro had mounted a purposeful invasion of the American mainland.

Our nation's now non-policy where immigration is concerned was conspicuously apparent when — during a day when illegal Cubans were coming ashore 300 an hour — 500 Mexican aliens were rounded up in Chula Vista, California, and bused back to Mexico.

"We have regained control of the border," proudly announced the chief of that area's border patrol.

The strange acquiescence of American taxpayers to this mounting overload can only be explained by the fact that most illegals gravitate toward the cities — where politicians are intimidated by their numbers.

While out in the countryside it's still considered inhospitable to turn anybody away.

Pete Logan says the only way to refocus President Carter's perspective is to bus all of the arrivals to Georgia.

Reunion in Vienna

By Don Graff

The event is so fraught with historical significance that it's a wonder it doesn't founder from the weight of it all.

The four World War II victor powers have returned to the scene of one of their few successes in post-war cooperation at the precise time when two of them are in greater disagreement than at any time since the depths of the Cold War.

The foreign ministers of Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the United States are in Vienna to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the Austrian State Treaty, an event that is a landmark of recent history on a number of points.

The agreement, signed with great ceremony in Vienna's ornate Belvedere Palace on May 15, 1955, returned Austria to the status of a sovereign nation after 17 years of occupation — eight of enforced union with Nazi Germany and nine of four-power control.

It also was the first instance of voluntary withdrawal from territory in the physical possession of Soviet troops, an ebbing of Soviet power from what was, until Afghanistan, the high water mark of Soviet expansion.

True, Moscow extracted a good price for the favor. Austria was pledged to neutrality between East and West and compelled to forswear union with Germany in any shape or form — an undertaking that continues to be read as barring even membership in the European Economic Community. The country was required to buy back, for the equivalent of $150 million in goods and services, its own assets that had been seized by the Soviets and to continue to deliver a large portion of its oil production, one of its few natural resources, to the Soviet Union, the world's leading oil producer.

All in all, a pretty good deal for the Soviets. But one they most certainly would never have made under terms many times more advantageous had they had an inkling of what was coming in little more than a year.

That was the Hungarian Revolution. A free Austria next door did not make it free to save Hungary. But it provided an escape route and haven for thousands of fleeing Hungarians. And it allowed the world an unimpeded and stunningly informative view of the true sentiments of peoples under Soviet rule and the ferocity of Soviet reaction to their attempts to regain control over their own destinies.

Austria thus stands as not only the first but the only such instance of voluntary Soviet withdrawal. And its performance during the intervening quarter of a century has given the Soviets other good reasons not to repeat the favor elsewhere.

Austria has thrived in freedom. A largely mountainous territory smaller than the state of Maine and with less than eight million people, it has one of the sturdiest economies of the developed world, in sharp contrast to those of its immediate neighbors and former partners in the Austro-Hungarian Empire. Hungary, with rich agricultural potential, and Czechoslovakia, the industrial heartland of the old monarchy, in comparison are embarrassing indictments of the socialist system.

Austria is without question one of the great post-war success stories. In fact, as the Austrians see it their State Treaty marked the acceptance by the superpowers of the principle of coexistence which has been more or less the basis of East-West relations during the subsequent decades.

All this considered, there is good reason for making an occasion of this anniversary, although the Soviets might be expected to approach it with somewhat less enthusiasm than their erstwhile partners.

But there is more to this reunion in Vienna than the remembrance of a success past. Thanks in part to new U.S. Secretary of State Edmund Muskie's determination that his inheritance from predecessor Cyrus Vance is not going to include a second-banana position to presidential advisor Zbigniew Brzezinski, the Vienna ceremonies are the setting for the first top-level U.S.-Soviet conversations in the half year since the invasion of Afghanistan.

They are described as primarily a get-acquainted occasion for Muskie and his Soviet counterpart, Andrei Gromyko. But they could be the start of something more substantial.

If so, and if the developments from Vienna 1980 should be even a fraction as advantageous for our side as have been those of Vienna 1955, it could well be one of history's more significant reunions.

FIGURES RELEASED by the National Live Stock and Meat Board are different from statistics released by the U.S. Department of Agriculture concerning 1979 per capita consumption of red meat cuts. The USDA carcass weight figures and retail equivalents include fat and bone that are trimmed off or thrown away, according to Dr. Peyton Davis, director of nutrition for the Meat Board, which shows that Americans consumed only 2.8 ounces per day of lean-plus-marble cooked cuts, accounting for fat and bone trimmed away and any losses due to cooking. That amount is less than the two 3-ounce servings per day recommended by nutritionists from the meat group.

Meat Board's consumption figures differ from those released by USDA

CHICAGO — According to figures released last month by the National Live Stock and Meat Board, the average American consumed about 2.8 ounces of red meat per day in 1979.

"U.S. Department of Agriculture figures show that in 1979, Americans each consumed 181 pounds of red meat, on a carcass weight basis. But, more accurately, Americans consumed only 2.8 ounces per day of cooked (lean plus marble) red meat cuts," said Dr. Peyton Davis, Meat Board Director of Nutrition.

Carcass weight and retail weight figures — those most often cited — include fat and bone that are trimmed off or thrown away before the meat is eaten. Davis claims lean-plus-marble cooked red meat figures are a more accurate reflection of annual per capita meat consumption.

"If we take the USDA per capita consumption figures of 181 pounds in 1979, the retail equivalent to carcass pounds was 135 pounds. Factored even further, actual annual per capita consumption was 63 pounds of lean-plus-marble cooked meat cuts, which accounts for fat and bone trimmed from cuts at home and any loss due to cooking," said Davis.

He added that the daily cooked consumption of 2.8 ounces of red meat is less than the two 3-ounce servings from the meat group that are generally recommended by nutritionists.

Davis pointed out that per capita consumption figures are only averages and some individuals could be eating more or less than these figures indicate. The Meat Board's cooked weight figures do not include bacon and sausage consumption because further processing of these products has eliminated a lean-plus-marble ratio.

The Meat Board's Nutrition Department has also calculated the nutrient contribution of three ounces of cooked lean meat per day. Protein intake from three ounces of cooked lean red meat equals 19.5 grams, fat intake totals 9.8 grams, while caloric consumption totals 154.1 calories.

"At 19.5 grams per day, red meat's protein contribution to a balanced diet is well below the recommended protein levels recently published in the new Recommended Dietary Allowances," said Davis. He said that in addition to protein, a three-ounce serving provides thiamin, riboflavin, niacin, pyridoxine, vitamin B-12 and other B-vitamins, and minerals like zinc and iron.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I just read an article stating there is now conclusive evidence that secondhand cigarette smoke is damaging to the non-smoker.

I am a non-smoker, but my wife smokes enough for both of us. She has quit several times, but she's never been able to kick the habit for good. Her excuses are that when she quits smoking she gains weight, and smoking "relaxes" her. I've even heard her say, "Well, a person has to die of something," which is the most stupid excuse of all.

What worries me now is the fact that we have three small children who are the innocent victims of secondhand smoke in our home. Abby, I know my wife would quit if she could because she's really tried. You've probably heard from hundreds of heavy smokers who have quit for good. Which method is the most successful? Cold turkey, cutting down gradually, hypnosis, stop-smoking clinics? Or are there other methods?

Please help me to help my wife without being a nag. FREDDY IN ENCINO

DEAR FREDDY: The best thing I've ever seen on how to quit smoking is the new booklet titled, "Clearing the Air." It contains a variety of sensible approaches. What may seem silly to some may work a miracle for others. It may take a while for your wife to find the combination that will work for her, but if she really wants to quit smoking, she can.

The booklet is free to anyone who wants it and can be obtained by writing to: Clearing the Air, Box A, National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Md. 20205. Please let me hear from you in six months, Freddy.

Merten club has program on mixes

Audrey Huff and Anita Kerns presented a "Make a Mix Cookbook" program for members of the Merten Extension Homemakers Club, which met this week in the home of Marta Schwede.

The women pointed out the price differences between supermarket mixes and homemade ones. Recipes were distributed to the members.

The club will have an entry in the rodeo parade in July. The next meeting will be June 3 with Polly Benton as the hostess.

DR. LAMB

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My mother-in-law cooks with her oven on low-warm at 140 degrees. She cooks everything all day this way. I think this may be breeding bacteria. She says that no one has ever gotten sick yet although they seem to get a lot of headaches. I refuse to eat the poultry or pork at their house. Am I wrong? If she put the oven up to 400 at the end, would this kill the bacteria? If it starts out at 400 and then puts it down to 140, is that OK? She cooks everything twice, or even three times this way. Besides tasting terrible, is this dangerous?

DEAR READER — It sounds to me like you're describing a variation of the slow bake technique. I would agree that the temperature that you're describing is too low because it means that whatever is being cooked will never have an internal temperature above 140 degrees. That's too low for adequate cooking of some forms of meat.

Many cooks who advocate the slow cooking method suggest that you start out initially with the oven temperature at a high level, perhaps 350 or even 400 as you suggest, for about 30 minutes and then cut back. In that way, the bacteria which may be on the surface of the meat or poultry will be killed. Pork should be cooked until it's not pink. Lots of poultry is covered with salmonella which can cause food poisoning. We usually don't see too much of this because our food is adequately cooked.

To give you more information about cooking to prevent food poisoning, I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-2, Food Poisoning of Infectious Origin. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

If the meat is cooked at a higher level, as you suggested, at first, then cooked slowly thereafter there will be no bacteria problem. However, the usual way to do this is to set the oven at least at the level that you want for the internal temperature of the meat. Thus if you want the internal temperature of a roast to be 170, the oven temperature for the slow roast should be 170, or if you prefer a little above.

I hope your mother-in-law won't hate me for agreeing with you about this but one of the main purposes of cooking is to eliminate bacteria.

And if any of my readers send for this booklet, I would appreciate a progress report from you, too. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I are having a difference of opinion. He says it is not possible for a girl to get pregnant the first time she goes to bed with a guy. I say it is. Who is right?

DEAR VIRGIN: You are. Trust me . . . not him.

DEAR READERS: A reader who prefers to remain anonymous sent me the following day brightener:

You Just Know It's Going to Be a Rotten Day When . . .

You wake up facedown on the pavement. You put your bra on backward, and it fits better. You call Suicide Prevention and they put you on hold.

Your birthday cake collapses from the weight of the candles.

Your son tells you he wishes Anita Bryant would mind her own business.

You want to hang up the clothes you wore home from the party and you can't find them.

You turn on the news and they're showing emergency routes out of the city.

You put both contact lenses in the same eye. Your twin sister forgot your birthday.

"CROWNING WITH THORNS," a late 15th-century painting by Hieronymus Bosch, is an example of the artist's blending of medieval tradition with new ideas filtered from his Italian contemporary, Leonardo de Vinci. The painting can be seen in the current Blaffer Collection exhibit at The Museum at Texas Tech University in Lubbock. The 41 original 16th and 17th century Dutch, Flemish and German works provide residents of West Texas an unusual opportunity to see quality originals.

Dutch Flemish art in Lubbock display

LUBBOCK — Visitors to The Museum at Texas Tech University are in for a special treat if they view the highly acclaimed exhibit of "The Dutch Flemish Collection of the Golden Age of Painting."

The exhibit, in its first showing since leaving the Blaffer Gallery at the University of Houston, opened May 4 and will be displayed only through June 11. Works dating from the 16th and 17th centuries were assembled to give distant audiences an unusual opportunity to view original art.

The 41 paintings in the exhibit include 16th century Netherlandish and German painters Hieronymus Bosch, Quentin Massys, Pieter Brueghel the Younger and Lucas Cranach; 17th century Dutch painters of the School of Rembrandt, landscape painter Jacob van Ruisdael, and social life painters Jan Steen and Dirck Hals.

From the 17th century are examples of the work of the famed Peter Paul Rubens and of Sir Anthony van Dyck.

The Sarah Campbell Blaffer Foundation is circulating this exhibit as it did "Old Master Paintings" and "American Abstract Expressionist Paintings," which also came to The Museum at Tech. The late Sarah Campbell Blaffer, born and reared in Lampasas, was an heiress to two major oil fortunes. She became one of Texas' major art collectors. The Blaffer Foundation, responsible for the traveling exhibitions, pays all costs to provide a "free art" program to regions which might not otherwise have an opportunity to display such works.

The foundation, according to spokesmen, exists on the premise that the art of The Netherlands in the 16th and 17th centuries exhibits such richness and variety that, by bringing together a carefully chosen group of paintings, the viewer's experience can be expanded on both aesthetic and historical levels.

TWEEN 12 AND 20

Dr. Wallace: I am a former drug user who really messed up my life and I'd like to share my experiences with your reading audience, hoping that they will help show teens that drugs are the way to go.

I'm a 17-year-old girl and I started taking drugs when I was 8 years old. In the last nine years I've been on (at one time or another) marijuana, LSD, speed, Quaaludes, Valium, cocaine and a few more. When I was high, I thought it was a blast but all drugs have done was ruin my life and destroy our family.

Because of taking drugs, I've been in and out of institutions, group homes, foster homes and drug treatment centers. I have a record as "long as your arm" and I'm now on parole (not probation). In fact, my brother (a drug user) is doing time for armed robbery. I am not proud of my past and plan to do much better in the future.

Hopefully, this letter will be the first step in keeping my life straight. — Laura, Mesa, Ariz.

Laura: I'm thrilled whenever I hear about a misguided teen who finds the "right path." Your message is loud and clear and will reach many teens. Thanks for taking time to share.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 16-year-old girl who was dating a 19-year-old guy. Everybody in my family thinks that we made love and continually throw it up to me. I'm pure and did not do what they think and I've done everything but can't convince them that I'm innocent. What can I do to convince them? — T.A., Shepherdsville, Ky.

T.A.: You don't have to convince your family that you are innocent. You told them the truth and that should be the end of it. Do not discuss it again, but if your parents insist, ask them to take you to a doctor so you can go on about your business of being a teen-ager.

$18 million dollar gift boosts college coffers

STORM LAKE, Iowa (AP) — The nine-paragraph letter was signed simply "A Friend of Buena Vista College." Nothing more. But with it came a gift of $18 million.

The bequest is more than double the current assets of the little Presbyterian school tucked amid rich farmland in northwestern Iowa.

"No one ever offered this big a chance to this size school. We want to be worthy," says Keith Briscoe, president of the college that counts fewer than 1,300 full- and part-time students.

Buena Vista has 899 on-campus students who attend classes in tidy red brick buildings near the wooded shore of Storm Lake. It looks like a quiet, ordinary campus, but looks can be deceiving, Briscoe said. Buena Vista strives for excellence.

Full-time teachers hold masters degrees or higher and are among the highest-paid in the state. Freshmen are taught only by professors, and nine of 10 have high school grade averages of "B" or better.

Seniors often find themselves in classes of four to six. Sometimes they are taught one-on-one. More than 70 classes have fewer than 15 students; 40 classes have fewer than five.

Briscoe praises his faculty, acknowledging how difficult it can be to attract professors to remote colleges.

"But many want, and find here, a real collegiate environment that serves as a haven. Here, they can do their research. There aren't the large-campus politics. There isn't the 'publish or perish' philosophy.

"We pay them to be outstanding teachers. Anything else they do, they do for the sheer joy of it."

In the eyes of the donor, whose identity the school has sworn to keep secret, Buena Vista is something special.

His letter said he first was apprehensive about giving money to such a small school.

"I found, however, at Buena Vista College a jewel quietly and continually radiating its mission and services through a truly dedicated teaching faculty and staff," the donor wrote.

"Greatness can come from as small a place as Buena Vista College. Great teachers and high-potential students can come from small towns. Our country and the world needs our small colleges."

"Great" is a word not often applied to small colleges when most in Iowa are projecting enrollment declines up to 25 percent next year.

But it is a word Buena Vista officials dare to say out loud.

Storm Lake attorney Edgar Mack, chairman of the school's board of trustees, said it as he noted that the University of Chicago and Buena Vista were founded the same year, 1891.

"Chicago got gifts totaling $35 million from John D. Rockefeller. Buena Vista did not. Any great institution requires one major, sparking gift. We believe this is ours," said Mack.

"It gets you away from the struggle with poverty. It gives us an opportunity to do things we could never do."

Here are Buena Vista's preliminary plans for the $18 million:

—Establish an endowed business school and set up endowments for the college's six academic divisions and the library.

—Build a conference center.

—Begin an "American heritage" lecture series featuring international leaders in business, academics, the press and religion.

—Upgrade pre-med and pre-law curricula.

As a condition of the donation, Buena Vista must raise $9 million on its own over six years, a figure that doesn't worry school officials. The fund-raising effort will become part of an existing 10-year program aimed at building school assets to $54 million.

Founded 89 years ago, the college got by for years with about 125 students, Mack said. Only after World War II did it begin to grow.

Commission dumps Starr County site

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Board of Corrections members gave in to local opposition and voted to forget about building a prison in Starr County, but they said residents of the border community have missed out on a good thing.

One month after voting to spend $7.8 million for La Casita Farm, board members voted unanimously Thursday to look for another location, although they still think the 5,293-acre farm is the best available site.

They succumbed to unwavering local criticism. "If they'd given us a year, we'd make useful members of their community," said James Windham of Livingston, chairman of the Board of Corrections. "The pluses would outweigh the minuses."

Several board members said they failed in efforts to sell that idea to the community. Ruben Montemayor of San Antonio, who made the motion to give up on La Casita, said public hearings in Rio Grande City showed the residents had wide-ranging fears about what a prison would do to their county.

"I believe that had they known more about how a prison system operates ... I believe that these fears were really not founded," he said.

Gov. Bill Clements, chairman of the Prison Approval Board, commended the corrections board for its decision. On April 22, minutes after the corrections board voted to buy the land, the Approval Board ordered a 30-day delay.

The delay was sparked by complaints from Rio Grande City officials who said they had not been told of the deal. During the 30 days, prison officials wooed Starr County officials, but failed.

"It's just the board's decision that we don't want to move in an area where we overwhelmingly have no community support," said Windham.

Clements told Windham, "That was a very judicious decision."

"You have reached a proper decision. I applaud your decision. You went about it the right way," said the governor.

"You made the right recommendation, so let's find us another place," he said.

Starr County residents left their homes at 5 a.m. to make the trip to the Capitol. They applauded Montemayor's motion and the board vote.

Rep. Ernestine Glossbrenner, D-Alice, spoke for her constituents. "I'm standing up to thank you for taking into account the hopes, the dreams, of the people of Starr County," she told the Board of Corrections. "You just gave them the news they came to hear."

Talk quickly turned to other possible sites. Montemayor said Thursday's decision set a precedent — local opposition could kill attempts to put a prison where it is unwanted. However, Clements said that is not a problem.

"There are areas in the state who are anxious to have a prison," he said.

Several areas were mentioned. The governor said he is "given to understand" that sites in nearby Cameron or Willacy counties might be available.

Texas A&M reports prepared for the prison board have said the Lower Rio Grande Valley best provides the fertile land and long growing season needed for a prison farm.

Previous efforts to buy land for a prison in Hidalgo County also fell through. Windham said.

Zion Lutheran Bible School

Zion Lutheran Church will host the children of the community with the "Jesus Lord and Savior Bible School" on June 2.

This year's Vacation Bible School will run from June 2 - July 2, each Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Nursery age children to 1st grade age will be released to go home at 11:45 a.m. Second grade age to 6th grade age will stay for the afternoons activities. Refreshments will be served. All sessions will be held at the Zion Lutheran Church, 1200 Duncan.

The new "Jesus Lord and Savior" materials, as published by the Augsburg Publishing House of Austin will be used for nursery age through junior high ages.

Built around the theme of the happiness that Christians have in their lives, each Vacation Bible's student's workbook contains picture Bible stories, puzzles, and songs of sharing.

For additional information should phone the church office at 669-2774 Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 12 noon.

Evangelists visit area

Evangelist and Mrs. A.L. Harbin are visiting relatives and friends in the Golden Spread Area after a 22-month tour in Singapore.

Harbin has been a missionary evangelist to Australia, the Philippines, Nairobi, Kenya, in addition to several tours in Singapore.

Harbin has been a preacher of the gospel since 1925. He and his wife of more than 50 years, recently returned to the United States. The Harbins are on their way to Nashville, Tennessee.

Bethel Assembly of God

The Rev. J.W. Farmer, superintendent of the West Texas District Council of the Assemblies of God, will be conducting revival services at Bethel Assembly of God, May 25 through May 28.

Rev. Farmer, often referred to as a "walking Bible," has gained great respect as a camp speaker and evangelist in addition to pastoring churches in Seagraves, Lamesa, Muleshoe, Big Spring, and Midland.

Pastor Paul DeWolfe extends an invitation to the public to come and share in this refreshing ministry. The church is located at the corner of Hamilton and Worrell Streets. Services will begin at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday and 7:30 p.m. Monday and Wednesday.

Religion in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — That bearded cleric roving troublespots of the Middle East in his black cassock and flat-topped kalimafi, Eastern Rite Roman Catholic Archbishop Hilarion Capudji, has become a familiar actor in events there, but to many he remains a little-known, ambiguous figure.

It's highly questionable, under Vatican directives, whether he's even supposed to be in that region.

Various other anomalies and controversies surround the 58-year-old Syria-born churchman who has cultivated links with the Palestine Liberation Organization and the Iranian militants holding U.S. hostages and who presented himself as intermediary to retrieve bodies of Americans killed in a rescue attempt.

He says his actions are "as a pastor, as a Christian, as a man and as an Arab."

But his background and role have been nebulous and unclear in some respects, including general Western unacquaintance with Eastern Rite Catholicism to which he belongs.

However, his official ecclesiastical assignments, since his release in 1977 from an Israeli jail where he served time for smuggling guns to Palestinian guerrillas, have been to Latin America and more recently to Western Europe, not to the Middle East.

Yet he has been back there recurrently.

Iran's Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh describes him as friend of Iran who has shown "independence and strength of spirit."

"One thing is apparent," writes National Catholic News Service correspondent Gerard E. Sherry who interviewed Capudji while he was in prison. "He's acting like a free agent involved in all the intrigue that goes with Middle East politics and religion."

Capudji is part of the Syrian segment of Eastern Rite Catholicism, the Melkites, and was their patriarchal vicar in Jerusalem and had become an Israeli citizen when convicted in 1974 for smuggling arms, said to be for PLO terrorists, and sentenced to 12 years in prison.

Through Vatican negotiations he was released in 1977 after serving only three years, with a Vatican guarantee he would not be given any church post in the Middle East and would not publicly discuss Middle East issues. He was assigned to a vague post of archbishop visitor to Melkites in South America.

However, a little more than a year later, he was in Damascus, Syria, relates a U.S. Catholic weekly. Our Sunday Visitor, and reportedly told a meeting of the Palestinian National Council he would fight "to the last drop of my blood" for the liberation of Palestine.

Ex-bouncer serves as pastor

BEND, Ore. (AP) — Pastor Job Nash conducts part of his religious ministry garbed in leather trousers and jacket and a denim vest with the emblem of the "Free Souls" motorcycle club.

Unlike the vests of other club members, his also bears the emblem CHAPLAIN.

The stocky, 33-year-old Nash is the official chaplain of the club, which has about 100 members in Eugene, Florence and Vancouver, Wash.

He preaches at weddings and funerals and helps bikers who are drunk or overdosed on drugs.

Nash, pastor of Bend's non-denominational Chapel of the Cascades since 1976, comes by his chaplain's job honestly.

He was a devoted Free Souls club member and a bouncer in Eugene's toughest bar when, at 24, he overdosed on drugs and nearly died.

He abandoned drugs and the motorcycle club and remembered his Christian upbringing.

"I realized that I had found no joy and peace as I had been living," said Nash, who wears a sports shirt and sport jacket in his role as church pastor.

"At last, I totally surrendered my life to the Lord."

He enrolled in Bible school, met and married his wife and got a job as youth leader in a Protestant congregation.

Then, six years ago, Free Souls club members asked him to preach at the funeral of his brother-in-law, a club member who had been killed.

"I began to realize that I still loved these people very much and that I was like them in a lot of ways," he said. "I didn't agree with them on many things, but I couldn't walk away from them. I had shared drugs with them. Now, I could share my life with them."

He began riding his Harley Davidson motorcycle with club members and talking religion only when asked.

"I don't see them as a bunch of heathens to be saved, but as family," he said. "My being with them has a purpose — to share God's love with them."

Nash said that club members — despite holding attitudes different from his — had a sense of care and concern for each other that was missing in many church communities.

He kept his affiliation with the club when he moved to Bend in 1976.

"I'm still a biker, but I love Jesus," Nash said. "He's the Lord of my life now."

Southern Methodist University

DALLAS (AP) — The search is on for a new president of Southern Methodist University, the school's Board of Governors has announced.

SMU lost its head when James Zumbege resigned earlier in the week to become president of the University of Southern California in Los Angeles.

The board announced Thursday that a search committee, chaired by Dallas oil company executive and SMU trustee O. Paul Corley, will begin accepting nominations and screening candidates for the job.

The search committee will make recommendations to a still unnamed trustees selection committee, the board said.

The board named geologist James E. Brooks, SMU provost and vice president for academic affairs, as president ad interim. Brooks' provost slot will be filled by William B. Stallcup, now assistant provost.

GREEN THUMB

GREEN THUMB... is the way of describing those that have a way with plant life. The ones, who are so gifted, will tell you that to be successful with plants, you must see that they have plenty of water. God knows too, that a soul must be watered in order for it to mature and grow.

"...and thou shalt be like a watered garden, and like a spring of water, whose waters fail not." Isaiah 58:11

Attend Church Regularly and receive your spiritual nourishment.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Money not raised for Katy sale

DALLAS (AP) — Texas shippers contributed little to the three-state drive for $3.6 million to bankrupt the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad's takeover of part of the bankrupt Rock Island line, fundraisers say.

Railroad officials said last month that the loan was essential to fund start up costs along the 600-mile line from St. Jo, Mo., to Dallas and that shippers would have to raise the money by May 22.

At a Thursday meeting, the Oklahoma-Kansas-Texas Shipper's Association told Katy management they had failed to meet the deadline.

Katy attorney Arthur Albin said that although the shippers had not raised the entire amount, it had collected enough to warrant "continued efforts over the next few days to attempt to make up the shortfall."

Representatives of the shippers' association said Wednesday that contributions from sources in Oklahoma and Kansas had reached $2.25 million, but that Texas users were slow to pledge.

John M. McPherrin of Doles Brothers, an Oklahoma construction materials firm, said his company donated $500,000 for the loan, and that Sun Oil, also in Oklahoma, had added another $500,000.

McPherrin said he wondered what was going on in Texas.

James Smith, a Herrington, Kan., banker heading the fund drive, said the association had received hundreds of small contributions, many from unemployed workers on the bankrupt Rock Island railroad and from farmers along the route.

Albin said that pledges had been received from "some" Texas shippers, but he declined to state amounts or sources of the funds.

Ray Carter, spokesman for Ralston Purina Corp. which has a plant in Fort Worth, said his company has not received all the facts, has not attended any users-Katy meetings, and at this point cannot be interested in contributing.

He said his company had not been informed of Thursday's meeting in Dallas, but that he is satisfied with the service currently provided by the Santa Fe railroad in Fort Worth.

Albin declined to say how much money still needed to be raised, nor would he speculate about the chances for success.

"All concerned are hopeful everything will fall into place," he said. "We would not be continuing our efforts if we didn't have hopes of success."

Gin-rummy expert wins poker series

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Stu Ungar, the gin rummy expert who turned to professional poker only a year ago, beat one of the giants of the game to capture the $730,000 "Hold 'Em" contest and the World Series of Poker.

Ungar, 26 and playing in the big game for the first time, sewed up the championship Thursday when he won a $461,000 pot from Doyle Brunson, a two-time winner and one of the many Texans who play in the annual test of nerves.

The victory capped four days' play at Binion's Horseshoe Club in the glittering downtown Casino Center.

The 46-year-old Brunson, who won the big game in 1976 and 1977 and was vying for his third win, was philosophical about his defeat.

"They'll be saying, 'Doyle who?' in a few years," said Brunson, co-manager of the card room at a Strip hotel and author of a book on poker.

The win came only two hours after the start of the fourth day's play. Five players — each of whom finished in the money — were left from a field of 73 who bought in with $10,000 each when the game began on Monday.

Ungar adopted an aggressive stance after the game was narrowed down to him and Brunson, making large bets and trying to force Brunson to call. He said after the game it was all part of his strategy.

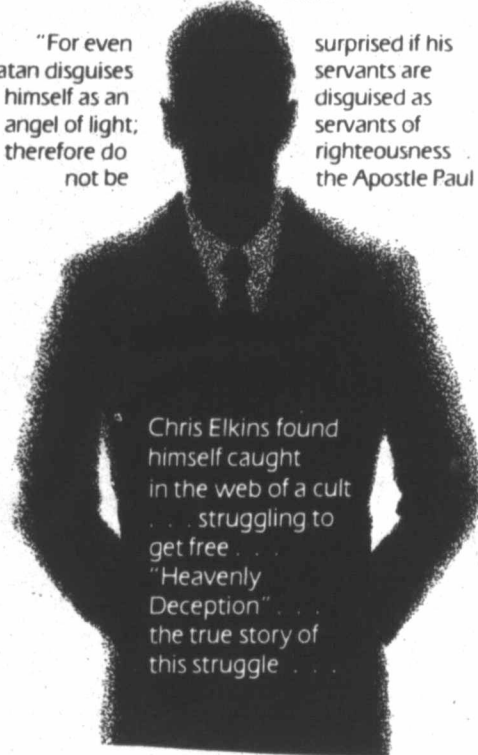

"I was going to try to get him out quick," he said. "I knew he was the better player ... I knew someone was going to go broke fast."

May 24, 1980

New and exciting things, which should make up for any unhappiness you may have experienced this past year, will start to happen beginning in late summer. An active social life is indicated.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Even though you may not have all the money in the world to spend today, you'll still have a good time with fun friends. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph Letter, which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Should you find yourself in an awkward position today, don't let it get to you. Actually, your best qualities surface when you are pressed.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Early morning depression will wilt away and an exciting day should follow when a friend cooks up something new and interesting to do.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Fighting the big crowds should not deter you from going shopping today. Those finds and bargains you've sought are available now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your optimistic attitude will help you overcome any pugnacious persons you might encounter.

Smiles will melt even the most unfriendly of hearts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) In joint efforts today, permit your associate to dominate the play. He or she can pull off success in an area you may not be prepared to handle.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Personal likes and dislikes should not be allowed to interfere with what the majority of your peer group has in mind. Teamwork pays.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're at your best today in competitive situations, but only if you do things singularly. Partners tend to throw you off.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Get your work done early because the day could offer some fun things to do with pals. You'll want to be free to go along.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The family has much to offer in more ways than one. Before searching for greener pastures, check things at home.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If there is any discord early in the morning it will be short-lived. As the day progresses, things should start brightening as harmony prevails.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In areas where you have opportunity to earn something because of your talent or the services you offer, your prospects look extremely good. Put them to use.

Kicking game will be scrutinized

By L.D. STRATE
News Sports Editor

The kicking game will get a lot of attention during the annual Pampa High Green-Gold spring clash at 7:30 p.m. tonight at Harvester Stadium.

Harvester head coach Larry Gilbert and his staff plan to take a long look at the players who will carry the punting, PAT, and field goal load this season.

"We're going to find out tonight who can kick under pressure," Harvester head coach Larry Gilbert said. "At the same time we'll be able to give our punters and kickers some game experience."

Tam Bailey will be kicking extra points and field goals for the Green while Cavin Coleman will handle all the kicking chores, including punts, for the Gold. Robbie Leffel will punt for the Green.

"Leffel and Coleman have been looking pretty good," said Gilbert. "Both have good strong legs on them."

Kicking and punt formations were emphasized during Thursday's practice, Gilbert added.

"We also split the teams up and went over our offense," Gilbert added. "Some of these guys haven't been on the same team together during the spring, so we needed to get a few things ironed out."

Gilbert pointed out that junior varsity players have been split into two teams and will play an average of three minutes each quarter.

Coaches will also take sides: Rick Palmer, Frank Belcher, Mike Brent, and John Pletcher will coach the Greens while Mike Lowe, Charles Tindall, Dick Crockett, and Ron Pinckard will take charge of the Golds.

Gilbert and first assistant Joe Matulich will remain neutral since they will be calling the offensive and defensive plays for both teams. Trainer Steve Bailey will also be present.

"I want to urge the fans to come out and support these youngsters," Gilbert said. "They've put in some long, hard hours this spring."

The varsity lineups, which has been divided as equally as possible according to individual ability, is listed below:

GOLD

Ends-Cavin Coleman and Andy Richardson; Tackles-Jerry Cantrell and Billy Ward; Guards-Harold Landers and Gwin Greenwood; Center-Joe Ryzman; Quarterback-Derrick Bigam; Fullback-Harold Landers; Running Backs-Bobby Dorsey and James Borchardt.

GREEN

Tennis trio honored

Three Pampa High athletes were honored during a recent tennis banquet.

Laura Johnson, a senior, received the most valuable player award after compiling a 27-4 singles record, the best ever at Pampa High School.

Billy Price was voted the most improved player after he climbed from the bottom of the junior varsity ranks to the No. 6 position on the varsity team this year.

Freshman player of the year was Mike Spence. The awards were presented by high school tennis coach David Martin.

Cage clinic set

Girls from eight years old through high school who want to participate in the Canadian Basketball Camp June 2-7 and June 9-14 may call coach Jim Kirkland at 323-5373 or 323-8434 for information.

According to UIL rules, high school varsity players are not eligible to take part in the clinic.

Walzel, Lietzke tied

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Bobby Walzel's job as a crude oil purchaser is suffering this week.

His share of the lead in the Memorial Golf Tournament stands in the way.

"This week, I may not touch it (oil). I'm too pumped up," said Walzel after he and Bruce Lietzke equaled the Muirfield Village course record Thursday with 5-under-par 67s in the opening round.

Walzel virtually quit the game last year. After an operation to remove a benign tumor from his rib cage, the 30-year-old Texan went to work for a small Houston refinery.

"I was down on golf. I was frustrated. But I started practicing well at Christmas time. So I decided to go back to golf," said Walzel, who one-putted 10 times on Muirfield's treacherous greens.

Walzel's bid to win his first regular tour title in seven years could be difficult. Lietzke has been a leader in his last five rounds and admits his adrenalin is in high gear.

"I had confidence coming in here," said last week's winner at Fort Worth, Texas. "It was a very casual round today. I didn't put too much pressure on myself."

The 7,116-yard monster Jack Nicklaus created may have played as easy as it ever will. Ideal weather led to 27 sub-par rounds, eight of them under 70.

Former Masters and PGA National champion Ray Floyd was one shot behind at 68. Tom Weiskopf, Don Pooley, Tom Purtzer, Peter Jacobsen, and Mike Reid matched 69s.

The ominous figure of Nicklaus, mired in the deepest slump of his career, loomed at 71. The tournament's host said, "I've made some changes in my putting and my short putts were better today."

Tom Watson, seeking his fourth title in his last five starts, struggled to his highest round in his last seven tournaments. This year's leading money winner had 74.

Walzel labeled his 28-putt round his best in a year and cracked, "Now I know how Watson must feel each week. I played with him a couple of times this year. He showed me the attitude it takes."

Walzel, the winner of $166,000 in his checkered career, sank a downhill 40-foot eagle putt at 15 to go with four birdies. Lietzke also eagled the 490-yard par-5 15th with an 18-foot putt.

"I'd like to see how long I can keep my mini-streak going. I'm sure Watson didn't believe he could go 12 rounds in the lead this year. I'm hitting the driver and three-wood just about where I want to," said Lietzke.

Still, the 28-year-old Lietzke said his current confidence does not approach 1977, when he went 26 straight rounds with par or lower.

Faggins, Richardson to compete in all-star games

If you're sorry the basketball season is over with Don't Be Pampa fans can still take in the fourth annual Texas-Kansas All-Star Basketball Games May 31 at Seward County Community College in Liberal, Kans.

A pair of local stars, Ronnie Faggins and Kellye Richardson, will be participating in the games.

Tickets are three dollars for adults and $1.50 for students (age 10 and under) and will be available at the door.

Faggins and Richardson were leading scorers for the Harvesters and Lady Harvesters respectively this season. Both were named to the District 3-AAAA All-District teams.

Richardson will be attending Amarillo College on a basketball scholarship while Faggins has not announced his future plans.

The all-star teams are limited to graduating seniors from the north Texas Panhandle and western Kansas.

Texas squads will be coached by Dale Venable, boys coach, and Jack Johnson, girls coach. Kansas coaches are Phil Stines and Denis Hornung, boys, and Shari Wilson and Mervin Wiese, girls.

The girls game tips off at 7 p.m., followed by the boys game, in the Activities Center.

The games are co-sponsored by Seward County Community College and the Saints Century Club.

Astros hold off Mets, 8-5

NEW YORK (AP) — Houston Manager Bill Virdon was a reasonably happy man considering the curious atmosphere surrounding the Astros' 8-5 victory over the New York Mets.

Two of the things that pleased him the most were home runs by Craig Reynolds and Cesar Cedeno. Those two homers lifted the Houston season total to 21 compared to the club's total of 49 for all of the 1979 season.

Reliever Frank LaCorte was another source of pleasure for Virdon as the hard-throwing right-hander earned his fourth save in relief of Joe Niekro, 5-2, who gave up 11 hits in less than seven innings.

"We're way ahead of our schedule," said Virdon of the homers which were part of a 17-hit attack on five Mets pitchers. "We try to enjoy them when we can get them."

Reynolds' first-inning drive off New York starter Mark Bombardier was his first of the season while Cedeno's two-run homer in the fifth off loser Kevin Kobel, 0-4, was his third.

"LaCorte has greatly improved his control," Virdon said after his reliever lowered his ERA to 0.45 for 15 appearances. "That's the thing he's done this season that he hasn't done before. The arm has always been there." LaCorte's career ERA coming into this season was 6.20.

LaCorte limited the Mets to two hits over the final 21-3 innings after New York had pulled within 8-5 with a three-run seventh that finished Niekro.

Reynolds staked Niekro to an early lead but New York tied it with a run in the second on a double by Steve Henderson and two wild pitches by Niekro.

Niekro claimed that his position as Houston's player representative didn't distract him from concentrating on his pitching. But Virdon said, "I didn't think he was real sharp tonight, he got the job done; that's about all."

Houston went back in front against Kobel in the third when Alan Ashby singled in one run and Niekro double home another. But the Mets scored again in the fourth on the first of Mike Jorgensen's two doubles and Henderson's RBI triple.

Cedeno's homer put it out of reach despite Niekro's continued struggles.

"I made some good pitches," said Niekro, "but I also made some bad pitches. The bad ones were mostly the ones they hit. But we won the game and that's the important thing."

By scoring again in the sixth and twice more in the seventh, the Astros built an 8-2 lead before New York got three runs in the home seventh and brought on LaCorte.

Lee Mazzilli started the rally with an infield single and Frank Taveras followed with the third of his four hits. Jorgensen then doubled in two runs and subsequently scored on a throwing error by third baseman Julio Gonzalez which finished Niekro.

Mazzilli was ejected for the first time in his major league career in the eighth, in another of the seemingly endless confrontations between the Mets and umpire Dave Pallone, who was stationed at home plate Thursday night. This time it was a third strike which he called a foul tip.

Austin hosts NCAA regionals

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Four warm weather teams with a combined victory total of 208 games opened play today in the NCAA Central Regional baseball playoffs.

Pan American, an at-large entry from Edinburg, Texas, was matched against Hawaii in the 1:30 p.m. opener. Texas, the No. 4 team in college baseball, and Louisiana Tech were paired at 7:30 p.m.

The tournament winner goes to the College World Series at Omaha, Neb., June 30.

In the past 10 years, the Central Regional winner has finished in the top four seven times, and Texas won the national championship in 1975.

"We've met Pan American and Louisiana Tech so much in the playoffs, I'm almost tired of seeing you guys," joked Coach Cliff Gustafson of Texas, the Southwest Conference champion and host team for the tournament.

"We've had a keen rivalry with Pan American," Gustafson told a press conference Thursday. "I can't recall any game that was not close and hard fought ... I can say the same about Louisiana Tech."

Texas and Hawaii have never played, but Gustafson said Hawaii "had possibly the toughest schedule of any team here."

Gustafson said he would bypass pitcher Keith Creel, the second leading college winner with a 15-1 record, and start Jim Acker of Freer, Texas, in the opener with Tech, the Southland Conference winner.

Gustafson said Creel might be tired from the recent SWC tournament. He said, however, professional scouts rate Acker, 9-3, a better prospect than Creel.

Texas 51-11, won the Central Regional here last year over a field that included Pan American and finished fourth in the College World Series.

Creel and catcher Kevin Shannon, however, are the only returning regulars from the 1979 Texas team, which was decimated by the pro draft.

Wise wins decathlon events

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Gary Wise of Azusa Pacific (Calif.) set out to defend his decathlon championship by winning three of the first five events in the competition at the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics track and field championships.

Phil Schots of Pacific Lutheran (Wash.) set a new decathlon high jump record Thursday with a leap of 6 feet, 9 1/4 inches. The jump shattered the old record of 6-7 set by Zenon Smiechowski of Simon Fraser (Canada), Bill Waters of Point Loma (Calif.) and Jim Wooding of Indiana of Pennsylvania in 1977.

Wise garnered 3,911 points after five events Thursday and Schot was in second place with 3,754 points.

Wise won the 100 meter dash in 10.7 seconds, the long jump with a 23-7 effort and the shot put with a 42-2 toss.

John Serrano of California-San Diego won the 400-meter dash with a time of 49.1.

Harold Willers of Simon Fraser (Canada) won his third consecutive hammer throw championship with a throw of 195-5.

"I'm extremely disappointed I didn't get the record," said Willers, a junior.

Mike Barnett of Azusa Pacific (Calif.) captured the javelin title with a throw of 242-5.

The 19-year-old football fullback has only been throwing the javelin for eight months, but he tossed the spear 235-0 in his first effort this spring.

Carl Hanns of Cumberland, Ky., won the long jump with a leap of 25-3 1/2.

The competition continues today in the three-day meet that has attracted 600 athletes from 142 schools.

American League baseball roundup

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Whether or not there is a baseball strike, nothing could spoil the moment for rookies Joe Lefebvre and Mike Griffin of the New York Yankees Thursday night.

As strike negotiations dragged along in New York and the innings rolled by in Toronto, the two first-year players gave themselves something to remember.

Griffin, a 22-year-old right-hander, recorded his first major league victory and Lefebvre, appearing in his first game, hit his first big league homer — it also was his first hit — in the Yankees' 5-1 victory over the Blue Jays.

"It was a long time coming, but it sure feels good," said Griffin, who dropped his other two decisions and had become the hard-luck pitcher of the Yankees' staff. "I had all four of my pitches tonight, and my confidence."

"It's nice to get your first win on the final day of the year," teammate Ron Guidry joked, referring to the impending players' strike.

The schedule was a slim one and it will be even slimmer today if the strike goes on as scheduled. Elsewhere in the American League, the Kansas City Royals crushed the Oakland A's 16-3, the Texas Rangers outslugged the California Angels 12-4 and the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Detroit Tigers 5-1.

In National League action, the San Diego

Padres turned back the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-4 and the Houston Astros downed the New York Mets 8-5.

Griffin limited Toronto to seven hits in seven innings but trailed 1-0 until Lefebvre opened the seventh with his homer off Dave Steb.

Bobby Brown made a winner of Griffin when he keyed a four-run eighth inning with a tie-breaking two-run double.

Royals 16, A's 3

John Wathan drove in four runs and Clint Hurdle, Frank White, Darrell Porter and U.L. Washington each drove in two as Kansas City pounded out 17 hits in support of Renie Martin's seven-hit pitching. The Royals scored four times in the first inning and erupted for eight runs in the fourth.

An obscure utility man when the season started, Wathan is off to the best start of his career with a .327 average.

Rangers 12, Angels 6

Buddy Bell smacked two homers and drove in four runs as Texas backed the sharp relief pitching of Danny Darwin. Darwin struck out six of the first eight batters he faced and his total of 10 in 61-3 innings combined with five by starter Jon Matlack for a total of 15, a club record. Matlack left in the third inning after Al Cowens' three-run double gave the Angels a 6-4 lead. But Texas scored six times in the fourth, two on homers by Bell and Bump Wills.

Orioles 5, Tigers 1

Scott McGregor allowed only one hit after yielding a home run to Detroit's Steve Kemp in the first inning and retired the last 17 Detroit batters. The Orioles went ahead 2-1 in the second when shortstop Alan Trammell bobbled a potential inning-ending double play ball with the bases loaded and had to settle for a force at second. Dan Graham scored on the play and Al Bumbry followed with a run-scoring single. Bumbry also singled home a run in the Orioles' three-run eighth.

Padres 6, Pirates 4

Pinch-hitter Dave Winfield slammed a solo home run off Pittsburgh relief ace Kent Tekulve to trigger a three-run ninth-inning rally. Winfield, who did not start because of a leg bruise, tied the game.

Then, Ozzie Smith singled, stole second and scored on a single by Jerry Mumphy, who took second on the throw to the plate, moved to third on a grounder and scored on Jerry Turner's single.

Astros 8, Mets 5

Craig Reynolds and Cesar Cedeno homered as Houston mounted a 17-hit attack against five New York pitchers. Reynolds connected off Mark Bombardier in the first inning and the Astros took a 3-1 lead with two runs off Kevin Kobel in the third. Jeff Leonard doubled, took third on an infield hit by Enos Cabell and scored on Alan Ashby's single. Joe Niekro then doubled to score Cabell. Cedeno homered after Cabell singled in the fifth.

Baseball strike ends

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's longest night has resulted in a settlement of the lingering contract dispute between players and management and averted a strike which threatened unprecedented interruption of the major league season.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the union, and Ray Grebey, chief negotiator for the 26 owners, struggled through a marathon day and night of negotiations, finally hammering out an agreement in a seven-hour wrap-up session.

Terms were not disclosed immediately because the settlement must be presented to the Player Association's Executive Board and membership for ratification. Neither party would comment on the final disposition of the difficult free agent compensation issue, the major stumbling block throughout the talks.

"We've reached an agreement for four years," said Grebey. "We think it's a good one. There's something in it for everybody."

Miller called the settlement a victory for both sides. "That's what collective bargaining means," the union chief said. "When you reach an agreement without a strike, it's a great victory for everybody concerned."

The settlement means today's games will be played as scheduled. Grebey said only one team might have transportation problems but that he expected the schedule to be followed.

"It's a good deal all around," said Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who made his first appearance in the talks. "There was a lot of honest goodwill all around. The parties worked hard at it. I'm ecstatic."

This mutual victory was not easy to achieve and several times as the final day of negotiations stretched into night, it seemed a strike was inevitable.

The crisis atmosphere began at 10 a.m. EDT, Thursday when Miller and his negotiating team, which included attorneys Dick Moss, Don Fehr and Peter Rose, arrived for talks. The management team was one hour late, setting a pattern which was followed throughout the day. Grebey and the owners' negotiators were also close to an hour late for an afternoon meeting and a half hour late for the final night session. Miller was clearly annoyed by management's tardiness throughout the day.

The first meeting between the two sides lasted only 1 hour, 25 minutes, from 11:15 in the morning to 12:40. When Grebey and his people left the midtown hotel where talks were held, they seemed discouraged.

"Right now, things don't look so good," said Lee MacPhail, president of the American League.

Skellytown falls

Skellytown fell to Panhandle, 7-1, in a little league baseball game Thursday night.

Skellytown's lone run came when Ronnie Jones knocked in Joe Don Brown.

Glenn Wise pitched for Skellytown and did an outstanding job according to Skellytown coaches.

Skellytown is now 4-2 for the season and will host Lefors at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Lions Club park.

J.L. Ferguson, Ralph Tice, and Gene Rogers coach the Skellytown team.

Coach hired

Jimmy Lanning, a Perryton native, is the new football and basketball coach at Pampa Middle School.

Lanning, who graduates from West Texas State this year, will coach eighth-grade football and basketball.

Lanning was all-district in football and basketball at Perryton High and won the 100-yard dash in the regional track meet.

Lanning was hired Tuesday night by the Pampa Independent School District Board.
