

Yippee! It rained! But more heat on the way

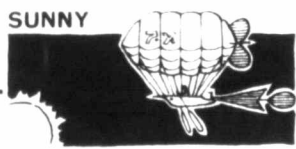

HOW DO YOU SPELL RELIEF? R-A-I-N! Chuck Mercer, the 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Junior Mercer of Pampa, attempts to catch the few drops of moisture that fell in Pampa this morning. The southwest portion of the city received .21-inch of rain, while the rest of the city received .03-inch of rain, giving Pampans at least a short reprieve from the 100-degree-plus temperatures. (Staff Photo)

Rainfall only a short reprieve

After 23 days of practically unbearable heat, Pampans awoke this morning with music in their ears, as thundering and lightning and the soft patter of raindrops on the sidewalk seemed like a dream come true, providing relief from the blistering heat. The rain, however, was only "a drop in the bucket" for Pampa and the rest of the Panhandle, according to Mike Hervey, forecaster for the National Weather Service in Amarillo. "I hate to say it," he said, "but there is no further moisture in the forecast. The forecast for the next thirty days is really kind of bleak, meaning that it is really going to be about the same as it was." Hervey also explained that most of the precipitation in the area today was evaporating before it hit the ground. "We had several reports of thunder and lightning," Hervey continued, "but very little moisture was reported." Due to extremely dry conditions caused from the long spell of heat, a field at the north end of Loop 171 was ignited by lightning during the storm. Approximately three to four acres of land was destroyed by the grass fire. At 6:30 a.m. today, Pampa had received .03 inches of precipitation. The southwest part of the city, however, recorded .21 inches. The high today and Thursday is still expected to reach 105 degrees.

Weather

Despite a brief rainfall this morning, the forecast calls for sunny and continued hot conditions today and Thursday with fair skies tonight. The expected high is near 105 degrees with the low in the mid-70's. Winds will be southerly at 10 to 15 miles per hour Thursday, becoming light and southerly tonight. The high Tuesday was 103 degrees.

HEAT AND DROUGHT THREATEN CROPS. Charles Hereford of New Hope, Ala., stands in his corn crop that has been devastated by the past weeks' extremely high temperatures and drought conditions. This corn should be about 6 feet tall and putting on its ears of corn but has been stunted to this 3 feet tall condition. Hereford can only cut and bail this corn for winter hay use. (AP Laserphoto)

Murder indictment denied by jury

By DEBORAH BRIDGES
Of the Pampa News

Oscar Augustus Waters, 37, is free today after the 31st District Grand Jury voted a "no bill" in the murder case against him during an 11-hour session at the Gray County Court House Tuesday. The presentation of 10 cases began at 9:30 a.m., and the jury continued to review evidence until 8:30 p.m. The "no bill" vote in the Waters case came, officials said, after the jurors apparently decided there was not enough evidence to warrant a trial. Waters was charged with murder in connection with the June 27 beating death of Frank David Owen, 29, of Box 179, Lefors. The Waters case was one of three murder cases presented to the grand jury by District Attorney Harold Comer. Also during the session, the district attorney asked for a reindictment of 30-year-old Curtis Lee Wine, charged with the murder of Nathan Burnton, 62, who died on May 21 from injuries he sustained in a shooting incident on May 17. The "enhanced indictment" was asked for, Comer said, when the district attorney's office became aware that Wine had previously been convicted of a similar offense. Wine had been convicted of an assault with intent to murder in Donley County on Oct. 7, 1975, he said. "The law says if a man has once before been convicted of a felony, and the felony is alleged in the indictment," Comer explained, "it raises the minimum punishment." "In this case," he said, "the punishment would be raised from five to 15 years with a maximum of life imprisonment." "To do this (have the minimum punishment raised)," he said, "it's necessary to set out the previous conviction in the indictment." "The old indictments (against Wine) would be dismissed," he added. The murder case against 36-year-old Dean Ray Henderson of 719 Brunow was passed by the grand jury to be considered at their next meeting. Henderson is charged with the stabbing death of Doy Victor Hutchison, 36, of 736 Sloan. Hutchison died while undergoing surgery for knife wounds he suffered in a fight at 504 Yeager the morning of July 9. Between the grand jury sessions, Comer said, the physical evidence from the scene of the fight will be sent to the Department of Public Safety's laboratory in Austin for testing. Indictments handed down by the grand jury included one against Boyce Vandenburg of Borger. Vandenburg, 33, has been charged with the theft of $19,000 in oilfield equipment from Curtis Well Service of Pampa. The theft was reported on Jan. 31, Comer said, but the equipment was not discovered until June 20 when it was located at an auction in Abilene. Bill Steinberger was indicted for felony theft, according to the district attorney. Steinberger was "alleged to have appropriated for his own use a $7,500 deposit erroneously made to his account at the First National Bank," Comer said. Other true bills signed by the grand jury, he said, were to Bobbie Sanchez, 22, of Pampa for aggravated assault with a deadly weapon; Billy Daniels of Box 1374 for theft by check; a felony driving while intoxicated indictment against Johnny Bluebird Wildcat, 33, of Rt. 1, Box 125; and a felony theft against Stephen Duane Andrews, 21, of 1034 Twiford.

Suspense reigns on Reagan veep

DETROIT (AP) — Ronald Reagan's long-sought moment of triumph and decision arrives tonight when the Republican National Convention nominates him for President of the United States and then awaits his choice of a running mate. A Republican source said today that aides to Reagan and Gerald R. Ford were discussing whether the former president could be persuaded to accept the vice presidential nomination. Ford has said repeatedly he would not take the job. While the outcome of the presidential balloting is a foregone conclusion with Reagan the only surviving candidate from a once-crowded field, his choice for second spot on the ticket remains the convention's only guessing game. Will it be George Bush, the man who gave him the toughest fight in the Republican primaries? Or Rep. Guy Vander Jagt of Michigan, whose convention keynote speech was put off until tonight when Tuesday night's program ran past midnight. Or Rep. Jack Kemp of New York, whose supporters staged a noisy, sign-waving demonstration when he addressed the convention Tuesday night. Others on most speculative lists include Sens. Richard Lugar of Indiana and Paul Laxalt of Nevada, and former Cabinet members Donald Rumsfeld and William Simon. Laxalt, who will deliver the speech placing Reagan's name in nomination tonight, said on the NBC-TV "Today" show that his speech would reach out to moderates.

"This is no longer a party that excludes people," he said. "We need everyone in." Nonetheless, the conservative senator from Nevada said he believes Reagan ought to choose a fellow conservative for a running mate. "It should be someone of philosophical compatibility," said Laxalt. "God forbid, if something should happen to him there should be someone in the second spot who carries out his programs." Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who addressed the convention Tuesday night, said on the same television show that President Carter was "a cool, hard-hearted politician who has never been a success." In New York, former President Richard M. Nixon defended Reagan's foreign policy credentials in a letter to The New York Times, which had published an article on Reagan saying foreign policy was "not regarded as among his strong points." In a letter hand-delivered to the Times on Monday, Nixon said that in trips Reagan made overseas during Nixon's presidency "I can attest to the fact that he was well-received and conducted his meetings with major foreign leaders with intelligence, skill and judgment." Party leaders streamed in and out of Reagan's suite on the 69th floor of the Detroit Plaza Hotel on Tuesday to discuss the vice presidential nomination and most came away with the same impression: Reagan had not made up his mind. For Reagan, the balloting on the presidential nomination will be like a moment out of one of his Hollywood movies. Beaten in two earlier tries for the nomination, he tried again, his last chance at age 69, and this time he overwhelmed the opposition. The former California governor, following tradition, has no plans to go to Joe Louis Arena until Thursday night when he will accept the nomination with a speech, already written, which will make a strong appeal to Democrats to cross party lines and vote for the Republican ticket. But Nancy Reagan, the candidate's wife, and his two oldest children, Maureen and Michael, attended Tuesday night's session. They were welcomed by cheering delegates and chants of "Viva, Ole" from the Texas delegation. The chants reminded many onlookers of the moment four years ago when Nancy Reagan and Betty Ford arrived at the convention hall in Kansas City with the presidential contest between their husbands still undecided and delegates on both sides started up competing demonstrations. Before Mrs. Reagan took her seat at one end of the hall this time, the convention had quickly approved a conservative platform spiced with sharp attacks on President Carter's record and calling for a tougher foreign policy, broad tax cuts, boosts in defense spending and restraints on growth of government in other areas.

Reagan to campaign in Texas

DETROIT (AP) — Texas governor Bill Clements said today Ronald Reagan, the expected Republican presidential nominee, has been asked to make three or four major campaign appearances in Texas during the general election. Clements said Reagan has confirmed that on Sept. 16 he will visit San Antonio, Corpus Christi, and the Rio Grande Valley in the morning, then appear that night at a $1,000-a-plate fund-raising dinner in Houston. Clements made the announcement in reporting briefly on a three-and-a-half-hour visit he had Tuesday night with Reagan, along with half a dozen officials from other states, plus a meeting this morning with National GOP Chairman Bill Brock. Clements said there was a wide range of discussion in Reagan's suite including considerable talk about vice presidential candidates. "It is down to a short list, which I will not discuss," he said.

However, Clements did add that the list was down to three persons. He also added that his name was not on the list. The governor said the meeting with Brock was "more strategy," a continuation of last night's meetings. John Connally said today he visited with Reagan Tuesday afternoon talking about a number of things, including the vice presidency. Connally refused to say if he knew who was still in the race. Clements told Texas delegates Tuesday they are the nucleus to "create the momentum and enthusiasm to carry Texas for Ronald Reagan." But, said Clements in a talk at a delegation luncheon Tuesday, there is no room for "divisiveness, kibitzing or bitching." "We don't have time to put up with it," he said. Clements' remarks were part of a continuing effort of state party leaders to put down uneasiness among some Reagan delegates, particularly in North and East Texas, about the part they will play in the general election campaign. "We are still going to have some unhappy people, both Democrats and Republicans," Clements said, "but I am sure we can solve all these problems." Clements and Ernest Angelo, state Reagan campaign director, assured the delegates that the November campaign organization was well under way and some regional chairmen might be announced next week. County chairmen will be named later. "Let's all pull together and get our act together," the governor said. "We can win Texas for Reagan in November." Nancy Reagan, wife of the expected nominee, was scheduled to be at the caucus for Texas, Louisiana, Hawaii and Tennessee, but had to cancel because of a conflict.

Pressure on Ford

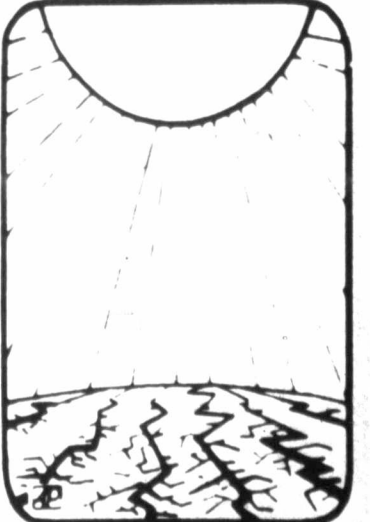

DETROIT (AP) — Aides to Ronald Reagan, the Republican Party's certain presidential nominee, have launched discussions with assistants to former President Gerald R. Ford to encourage Ford to join Reagan on the GOP ticket, an informed GOP source said today. Ford has said he was unwilling to accept such an offer, but he is being sought by many in the party as the best possible choice to help Reagan to election next November. The source, who asked not to be identified, told The Associated Press that Reagan and Ford representatives began discussions Tuesday night, hours after Ford and Reagan had huddled to discuss vice presidential candidates. Ford and Reagan both said no offer was made to Ford at that Tuesday meeting. The subject came up again this morning when Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker and House Minority Leader John Rhodes conferred in private with Reagan for about 40 minutes and discussed "overtures that could be made to encourage Ford to accept." The congressional leaders have been pushing for Ford as Reagan's running mate for several days and were to meet with Ford later today in an effort to convince him to join the ticket. CBS News said today that Reagan has told key GOP leaders that he wants Ford as his running mate but that Ford has yet to indicate whether he will accept. According to the network report, Ford was not only Reagan's first choice, but he was his only choice.

Drought, heat threaten grain belt

ELMWOOD, Ill. (AP) — Jim Gutshall searched the sky for a hint of rain, but there was none. The ground had been bone dry for two weeks and the temperature hovered at 100 degrees. Six hundred acres of Illinois corn lay before him, a year's work, broiling under the July sun. "We can't be very far away from a ruined crop," he said, sweat running down his face. "We're not hurting too bad yet, but this weather's bound to affect us. Another week of this and it's going to get serious." It already is serious for farmers farther west, from Texas to the Dakotas, where hot, dry weather has parched their land and destroyed their crops. Now the heat wave has spread into the heart of the Midwest Corn Belt. Gutshall farms about 670 acres of corn and soybeans on a patchwork of undulating central Illinois land that his father farmed, and his grandfather before him. It is rich black loam, some of the best in the world, but unless there is rain soon, the harvest will be lost. "Last year, we had rain at the end in August and it saved the crop," said Gutshall, 57. "We need six or eight inches over the next month and we need it spread out in timely fashion. It's like everything else, if you don't do it timely, you've been had." Blistering temperatures and a lack of rainfall have plagued the Southwest, the Mississippi Delta area and now the Midwest Grain Belt. It has resulted in fears of reduced yields at a time when world demands are high, analysts say. The heat spell has driven up the price of grain used to feed livestock and, eventually, will take its toll by sending meat prices even higher. Illinois is a key corn state. Last year, American farmers harvested a record 7.8 billion bushels of corn. Illinois ranked second only to Iowa at 1.4 bushels. But the heat wave that has now moved into Iowa and

Illinois has come at the worst possible time. The corn is pollinating and temperatures of 95 degrees or higher inhibit that process, leaving fields of cobs without kernels. Gutshall is a typical family farmer in the region. He is a big man with a broad smile, brown skin leathery by the elements and deep crow's-feet at the corner of eyes the color of the sky. He and his wife, Juanita, have three children. "Back in 1970 there was a blight," he said Monday, pulling his white seed-corn cap off his head. "It took 60 percent of the crop. Then, in 1974, the weather hurt a lot of folks. Too wet, flooding on French Creek and the Kickapoo." He has not yet added the drought of 1980 to the litany of bad years. It is still too early. "Unfortunately nobody will know whether pollination has occurred until the corn has been harvested," said Chuck Doubet, manager of the grain elevator in Elmwood. "We probably haven't lost any of our crops yet." "Farmers here are actually happy because they're getting a good return on their investment and they've got the crop. Of course, all that could change in two weeks." Farmers sell their grain at the elevator for the going price. In the last few weeks, the price for those who survive the heat wave promises to be good. The price of a bushel of corn has risen about 30 cents in the last month. And in farming, every penny counts. For a farmer with 500 acres, the price rise in the last month could mean an extra $22,000 or more. The elevator in town is where they come to check the price. It is a casual gathering place. There is a deck of cards on the counter and the restroom doors say "Heifers" and "Steers." The conversation hasn't changed much in 50 years: politics, the weather and the price of corn. On Monday, an elderly farmer with spectacles, a straw hat and suspenders stood peering into a television screen on the counter to check the prices on the Chicago Board of Trade. "They're trading the limit today," he said, referring to brisk buying among speculators at another good price. He grinned. Like all those engaged in the risky gamble of farming, he is an eternal optimist. It will rain, his crop will come in and the price will be good. Somehow, he is certain of it. A block away on Main Street in Rushing's Cafe, an old fellow named Ray talked about the last big drought. "Back in 1936," he said, "the corn around here looked pitiful. There was no weather and the ground was dust. It looked like a fire had gone through it." But that is not the case here yet in the heart of corn country. Not yet. If they can hold on for rain, they will be saved. The cafe faces the town square. It is classical in design like thousands of Midwestern farm communities. There are green slat benches, a white gazebo and a huge bronze monument, green with age. It is a statue of a man with a flintlock rifle and a woman in a bonnet, carrying an infant. On the base it says "To the Pioneers who Bridged the Streams, Subdued the Soil and Founded a State." Ray looked beyond the monument and past the green, to the Farmers State Bank across the square where the sign blinked the temperature in the drowsy air: 104 degrees. "I'm concerned," said Ray. "I've got corn in the ground, so I'm concerned. But I'm not worried yet."

HEAT DEATH TOLL. The nation's heat wave has claimed at least 689 lives in 17 states since June 22, according to an unofficial count by The Associated Press as of Tuesday. Here is a state-by-state count: Alabama, 61; Arkansas, 95; Florida, 7; Georgia, 48; Illinois, 35; Indiana, 2; Iowa, 2; Kansas, 33; Kentucky, 4; Louisiana, 9; Mississippi, 36; Missouri, 154; Nebraska, 2; Oklahoma, 36; South Carolina, 2; Texas, 96; Tennessee, 67.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press
 Two weather systems that could provide some relief from the Texas heat wave moved towards the state from two directions today, but forecasters said they doubted either could provide significant relief.
 A weak cold front was trying to move southward from northern sections of the Texas Panhandle and a weak tropical wave moved westward in the Gulf of Mexico, bringing with it some shower activity for the upper Texas coast.
 The strong upper level high pressure system that has kept the state hot and dry for almost a month was expected to thwart the movement of both systems.
 Forecasters called for showers along the upper Texas coast and for scattered showers and thunderstorms in far West Texas and in northern sections of the Panhandle.
 Skies were to be clear over the remainder of Texas.
 Highs were to be around and slightly above the 100-degree mark over most of the state today and were expected to range upward to as high as 106 in North Central Texas and up to 108 in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas.
 Most temperatures were above 100 Tuesday with highs including 107 at Wichita Falls, 106 at Dallas-Fort Worth, Tyler had 103, Abilene 102, Waco 101 and Longview 99.
 Some heavy thunderstorms were reported before dawn today in northeast sections of the Panhandle. A heavy thunderstorm was reported located just north of Canadian, extending eastward into northwest Oklahoma.

National weather
 Thunderstorms swept Minnesota and Wisconsin as the heat wave, which has killed nearly 900 people, continued in the South and Midwest.
 The heat prompted Alabama Gov. Fob James to declare a state of emergency on Tuesday. A state of emergency was put in effect Monday in Missouri.
 President Carter directed federal officials to make $6.73 million available in six states, where it will be used to pay utility bills, buy fans and air conditioners and fund transportation to relief centers for the poor and elderly.
 Pierce thunderstorms Tuesday night in Minnesota downed power lines, overturned mobile homes, felled trees, knocked out telephone service and broke windows in many buildings.
 Up to 3 inches of rain fell in some areas as winds gusted up to 86 mph.
 Thunderstorms early this morning moved from eastern Nebraska across the upper Mississippi Valley into Wisconsin, with tornadoes in west-central Wisconsin and Minnesota.
 The central and eastern Gulf region also had thunderstorms, and scattered showers were reported in New England.

Carter threat suspect faces state charges

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A man arrested in San Jose on charges of threatening to kill President Carter has agreed to face charges in Texas, where federal agents found dozens of weapons in his house, authorities say.
 Secret Service agents and San Jose police apprehended 21-year-old Majed Ahmed Khamis on Monday at a friend's home, authorities said Tuesday.
 U.S. Magistrate F. Steele Langford set Khamis' bail at $1 million. Khamis then waived an extradition hearing and agreed to go back to Texas as soon as possible.
 His attorney, assistant federal public defender Harry Hellerstein, told the magistrate that Khamis said he "is not guilty of the charge (threatening the life of the president), has been falsely accused and is willing to go back to Texas and contest the charges."
 Hellerstein also said outside of court that Khamis said he had no affiliation with the Palestine Liberation Organization.
 The magistrate remanded Khamis to custody of the U.S. Marshals for transfer to Texas.
 Khamis allegedly made an oral threat against the president June 29 in Dallas in front of witnesses, one of whom told federal authorities, the Secret Service said.

The man, who one federal agent said may be a Jordanian national, fled to the West Coast.
 A search warrant was issued for his Irving, Texas, apartment, and agents said a variety of weapons were seized, including two .357-caliber revolvers, a deer rifle, a shotgun and two deactivated hand grenades. Some PLO propaganda was also found, agents said.
 Khamis had been staying in the apartment with four other people who identified themselves to authorities as Jordanian nationals, agents said.
 The Secret Service said Khamis told witnesses he was a captain in the PLO and had committed 100 slayings, including those in Irving, Texas, of two Lebanese students who were "causing trouble for the PLO." Two Lebanese students were found dead in Irving in October 1978.
 Hellerstein said Khamis told him he had no connection with the Irving shootings.
 Khamis allegedly told witnesses the order to kill the president would come from the PLO, the Secret Service said. He showed witnesses a poster of Carter with a bulletseye drawn on the face and said he practiced throwing knives at the poster, the Secret Service said.

Robbery may not be only motive in deaths

HOUSTON (AP) — Authorities say they are investigating the possibility that robbery was not the only motive in the execution-style slayings of three young people at a northside bowling alley.
 Detective Willie Young said police are looking at several stories from friends of the victims who say "somebody may have been mad at somebody."
 Investigators waited for the recovery of Gregory Garner, the only known witness to the slayings. Garner was shot in the head, but survived and was in critical but stable condition at a Houston hospital Tuesday.

"He's still got a tube down his throat," Young said. "But you can bet they'll be there as soon as he can talk."
 Young said Garner had hinted more than one person was involved in the killings. The attackers lined the four young people up on the floor and shot them in the head.
 The four had volunteered to stay overnight at the Fair Lanes Winderm Bowling Center after thieves broke in and stole coins from the alley's machines Saturday night.
 Garner's father, Ira, discovered the bloody scene early Monday after a phone call from his son. Garner said his son told him he did not know the killers.
 A Fair Lanes spokesman said about $800 was taken from the main cash register near the bodies early Monday.
 Three of the four victims worked at the bowling alley. The fourth was the girlfriend of one of the employees. Their ages ranged from 17 to 25.
 Fair Lanes, which operates 72 bowling alley across the country, has offered a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killers.

Billy Carter says he needs a job

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP) — Deep in debt to a foreign government, Billy Carter says he has to get a job — but has been too busy even to think about what kind of work he should do.
 "I've been tied up almost constantly with this stuff," President Carter's younger brother said Tuesday, referring to negotiations with the Justice Department that led to his registration as an agent of the Arab government of Libya. "I've been in Washington 11 times this month."
 Carter registered as a Libyan agent on Monday, and acknowledged that he has received various gifts and a $20,000 loan from the government of the African nation.
 But he said he has never promised to do anything for the Libyans and has had no contact with Libyan officials — besides accepting the loan checks — since October 1979.
 "My main crime, I think, is to show friendship to a country that is not normally shown friendship in the United States, and I have not backed down," Billy Carter told reporters.
 The American Jewish Committee, however, called Carter's association with Libya an attempt to "misuse the office of the president of the United States." Sen. William Roth, R-Del., called it "absolutely outrageous" and said he would push for a Senate investigation.

 Carter said his once lucrative personal-appearance schedule vanished when his Libyan connection became controversial 15 months ago.
 Since then, he has had no income and multiple problems, all expensive — medical treatment for alcoholism, investigation by a grand jury probing loans from Bert Lance's bank to the Carter family peanut warehouse when Billy Carter was running it, and finally the 15-month probe of his status as a foreign agent.
 "It's extremely hard to get a job with anybody when you have a grand jury investigation in process," Carter said. "It's been a real hassle."
 He borrowed from the Libyans because he "needed the money," Carter said. "I spent all my time the past year in the drunk tank or the grand jury."
 The Justice Department's legal complaint against Billy Carter referred to his receipt of the Libyan money without calling it a loan, but Carter insisted that he is obligated to pay it back, with interest, although he declined to disclose the terms.

Daingerfield gunman transferred to hospital

RUSK, Texas (AP) — The man accused of slaying five worshipers and injuring ten others in a shooting spree at a Daingerfield church has been transferred from a Galveston hospital to the Rusk State Hospital, authorities say.
 Dr. James Hunter, director of Rusk's maximum security unit, said Tuesday that Alvin Lee King III was moved from Galveston's John Sealy Hospital to the state mental institution to undergo pre-trial psychiatric evaluation.
 Morris County District Attorney Charles Cobb said he had filed a motion to move the former schoolteacher to the facility at Rusk.
 King, 45, is charged with five counts of murder and 10 counts assault with intent to murder in connection with the June 22 shooting at the First Baptist Church of Daingerfield.
 King apparently shot himself in the head after the Sunday morning melee, police said. He underwent a three-hour operation at John Sealy to remove a .22-caliber bullet from his brain.
 Hunter said Tuesday that the accused gunman would be observed for a period "not to exceed 21 days." He said he would turn the test results over to Cobb.
 After the evaluation, Cobb said, King probably will be taken to the Morris County jail to wait further proceedings.

Gangster's nephew denies grand conspiracy charge

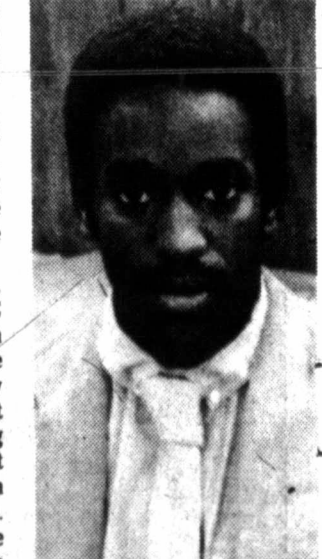

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — An effort to have the nephew of Kansas City crime chieftan Nick Civella moved from one Texas penitentiary to another was the procedural effort of two wardens, and not a grand conspiracy of bribery, Civella's attorney said Tuesday.
 Civella, listed in federal affidavits as a leader of organized crime in Kansas City, is standing trial in U.S. District Court with two associates, John Tortora and Peter Tamburello.
 They are charged with offering a $5,000 bribe to Louis Gengler, the warden of a federal prison in Fort Worth, Texas, to have Civella's nephew, Anthony Civella, transferred to that prison from one in Texarkana, Texas.
 But Oscar Goodman, an attorney for Civella, told the court that Gengler had no authority to move Anthony Civella without the approval of regional and national officials of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons.
 In addition, Goodman said he would present evidence maintaining that the warden of the Texarkana prison, Fred Fry, had initiated the transfer.
 "And therefore, if you conclude it was Warden Fry who initiated it, then their (the government's) whole theory of a conspiracy disappears," Goodman said.

Heat triggers increase in child abuse cases

DALLAS (AP) — Tensions between parents and children cooped up to avoid the heat are on the rise and welfare workers here say they are seeing more and more cases of child abuse.
 Carole Bowdry, director of the child abuse program in the Dallas County child welfare department, said incidents of abuse have risen steadily since the unbroken string of 100-degree plus temperatures began June 23.
 "The families I'm working with are experiencing a lot of stress," said Ms. Bowdry. "In the last two to three weeks, my case load has been up substantially."
 With expected high temperatures above 105 this week and lows in the lower 80s, no end to the psychological fallout is in sight, Ms. Bowdry said.
 "Not only have I been getting new people, but some people that came to us (for child abuse counseling) in the past are coming back," she said.
 "It has the potential of being a terrible problem."
 Ms. Bowdry said the situation is intensified because children are out of school and generally stay at home all day, she said.
 "If you're hot, you're going to get angry faster," she said. "That applies to parents and especially to children, who are going to get fussy. If the parents are the type who are going to be abusive," she said, this is the time when it will show up.

Oklahoma gets $1 million in federal heat relief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oklahoma is to receive $1 million of a $6.7 million plan announced by President Carter to help low-income families beat the heat.

The money from the Community Services Administration is to buy fans, provide emergency medical care and pay cooling bills for low-income families and senior citizens hit hardest by the summer heat wave.

The money is the first of an undetermined amount of financial assistance the administration will make available to five states suffering from the stretch of 100-plus degree temperatures, the White House said.

State officials have pledged an additional $2.5 million to install attic fans and repair air conditioners on the homes of the poor and the elderly.

Carter also wants the Agriculture Department to report the impact of the heat wave on crops and livestock and to estimate how much drought-related money will be needed for emergency livestock feed assistance, conservation assistance disaster payments, emergency loans and crop insurance.

The plan allocates $2.5 million for Texas, $1.25 million for Missouri, $1 million for Arkansas and $500,000 each for Louisiana and Kansas.

Of Oklahoma's $1 million, Oklahoma County is to receive $107,000, Tulsa County $81,000, Cleveland and Pottawatomie counties will jointly receive $40,492. Rural counties will receive approximately $20,000.

Michael Blouin, assistant director of community action in CSA, said Oklahoma residents are eligible for the federal funds if their income is no higher than 125 percent of the official poverty level, which is approximately $3,300 for a family of four.

The federal money can be used to provide transportation to hear relief centers such as churches and senior citizen centers, to purchase or rent fans or air conditioners, to obtain emergency medical care and pay cooling bills, Blouin said.

To further help states cope with the heat and drought-related problems, representatives from the USDA, the Small Business Administration, the National Weather Service, the Administration on Aging and CSA will meet with state officials in Dallas on Thursday.

Charges filed for taping network movies

HOUSTON (AP) — A man accused of renting illegally videotaped movies to offshore oil rigs says he knew he was violating copyright laws when he taped movies from network television broadcasts.

Televideo Corp. president Ralph E. Smith, 30, charged with copyright infringement and transportation of stolen goods, signed a document Tuesday saying he "knowingly and willingly" taped films from network television broadcasts, then rented them.

Smith is being tried in federal courts on two felony counts of interstate transportation of stolen goods and 34 misdemeanor counts of copyright infringement.

"I saw no reason to force the government to bring in 30 people to introduce documents which came from us, which we knew were valid," said Anthony Friloux, Smith's attorney, after Smith signed the document.

Smith was charged after a 1978 FBI investigation led to the seizure of tapes of movies such as "Chinatown" and "The Poseidon Adventure."

The 1,320 tapes reportedly were taken from a van halted by agents as Smith was leaving Houston.

In signing the stipulation, Smith said he knew the films specified in the indictment were copied illegally and that he rented them for financial gain without authorization.

Friloux said the stipulation will allow him to concentrate on the two felony charges, which he says are an "attempt by the government to enforce the (misdemeanor) copyright statute under a felony theft law."

U.S. Attorney Dan Kamin said prosecutors will attempt to prove that the tapes Smith admitted transporting to an offshore oil rig in 1978 were worth more than $5,000, the minimum required to make such an act a felony.

Kamin Tuesday introduced invoices and checks for tape rentals that each showed a fee of more than $5,000.

"It will be interesting to see how they develop the value issue," Friloux said.

Monday, prosecutors alleged that Smith transferred $300,000 to a bank account in the Cayman Islands after he learned of the FBI investigation.

Eugene Giaquinto, vice president of a Universal Studios subsidiary, testified that Smith's firm contracted in 1975 to transfer at least 300 films to videotape.

Texans revive 'Viva Ole'

DETROIT (AP) — "Viva Ole" is back with the Texas Republican delegation.

As Nancy Reagan, wife of the expected presidential nominee, entered the National Republican Convention hall Tuesday there was a booming volley of shouts from the Texas and the nearby California delegations.

California delegates shouted "Viva" and the Texas delegates answered "Ole."

Texans will tell you they took "Viva Ole" to the 1964 national convention in San Francisco and it has been around Texas delegations since then.

The phrase is vaguely defined as a Hispanic version of a greeting and a shout of approval.

"It just means we are happy about what's going on," said one Texas delegate.

Earlier Tuesday at a delegation caucus the convention goers were told to practice "Viva Ole", which is the motto on the official Texas delegation buttons.

It is expected that the requested rate schedule will furnish an 11.65 percent increase in the company's intrastate revenues.

A complete copy of the new rate schedule is on file with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas, and with each affected municipality, and is available for inspection in each of the company's public business offices in Texas.

Woman struck by bicycle dies

NEW YORK (AP) — A 31-year-old employee of Sotheby Park Bernet International Realty Corp., struck last week by a bicycle traveling in the wrong direction on Third Avenue, has died of head injuries.

Virginia Ranney was pronounced dead at Lenox Hill Hospital on Tuesday. She never regained consciousness after the July 10 accident.

Miss Ranney was crossing the avenue at 83rd Street, a block from her Manhattan apartment, when an unidentified bike rider ran into her. Witnesses described the man as being between 18 and 20-years-old. He left the scene of the accident before police arrived.

Miss Ranney had worked in the community relations department at Chase Manhattan Bank before joining Sotheby Park Bernet earlier this year. She was a graduate of Sweet Briar College in Virginia.

The woman's parents, John Ranney, of Arkansas City, Kan., and Helen Ranney, of Dallas, Texas, said funeral services would be held on Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Church of the Heavenly Rest, at Fifth Avenue and 90th Street in Manhattan.

Police said she was the second person in five weeks known to have died after being struck by a bicycle on a Manhattan street. Mary Ellinger, 43, died on June 9 after having been hit at Fifth Avenue and 18th Street while on her way to a bookstore near her home. She also died of head injuries and never regained consciousness.

The city's Department of Transportation has begun an educational drive to persuade cyclists to observe traffic regulations. Public service announcements have been broadcast on both radio and television and placards were being displayed in subways and buses.

Teens charged in slayings

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Two Lubbock teen-agers have been charged with four counts of murder each in connection with the deaths of four men outside a small east Lubbock pool hall, authorities said.

Justice of the Peace Charles Smith said he accepted the charges Tuesday against two 19-year-old Mexican-American men involved in the Sunday night shooting that left four men, including three members of a family, dead.

The suspects remained at large Tuesday night, Smith said.

District Attorney John Montford said he has recommended bond of $100,000 on each count.

Authorities also said they were searching for a juvenile in connection with the incident that apparently arose from a fist fight. Police said several men entered the hall and followed several patrons outside, where the shots were fired.

So you want a pyramid scheme

By Robert LeFevre

There has been something of a minor uproar recently over pyramid schemes. I've been puzzled by the government's eagerness to enact and enforce legislation to punish those engaged in such rackets.

If we could find an honest judge, legislation of that sort being on the books, we might be able to bring whole sections of our sprawling bureaucracy into court. The feds for years have been engaging in promoting a pyramid scheme called Social Security. Currently, there's an adjunct to the scheme in each and every government pension program regardless of the beneficiary.

Of course, there is one merit to the privately-funded pyramids which ought to exempt them from legislation. No one is compelled to join such a scheme...in the private sector. Still they are the schemes under attack.

If a person is conned into a pyramid - by friends, acquaintances or by his own tendencies toward larceny, he has only himself to blame. If he gets hurt, tough. If he can persuade a couple of other saps, he might be able to pass the injury on to them. Too bad for them. Each of us ought to begin learning, from at least the age of two, that there are plenty of fast talkers out there, eager to get their hands on our dollars, and it's up to us to protect ourselves.

The difficulty with pyramid schemes sponsored by the government, such as Social Security and various government pension rackets, is that usually the knowledgeable and innocent can't escape. They're forced into them by law. But the same pyramiding occurs.

The whole idea of the pyramid is that the first people who get into it will get more people into it under them. Thus, the second layer pushes the first layer into a higher position, the third boosts the second and first; the fourth pushes up the third, second and first - and so on.

No one with any logic is going to fall into that trap if he can avoid it. The difficulty is, the government passes laws compelling all of us to get into it - when the government sponsors the program.

Mathematics is no respecter of governments. In the end, the pyramid runs out of people. Which means that the last ones in pay, but get nothing. The first ones in get out and take the money with them. Consider Social Security. When the idea was first introduced back in 1935, the American public was hoodwinked by the administration in power. The only way the Social Security program has been kept out of bankruptcy has been by repeated increases in the Social Security tax.

Thus, when all the workers (except the few who were exempted) had been dragged into the pyramid, there weren't any more people on whom to place the burden of paying off those already in it. To get the money, the government increased the take from those in it.

This is an ongoing, open-ended process. Each time the take of the government is enlarged, larger sums are required to recompense those who are already in the scheme. This will, in turn, require still larger taxation, resulting again in the requirement for still more taxation further down the line.

The same can be said of any government pension program. When a government worker is retired on a pension, a new worker is hired to take his place. At least one. Sometimes more. This means that not only are those employed in government jobs being paid, those no longer so employed are still being paid.

Where does the money come from? If you haven't figured it out yet, you must be in a coma. It comes out of your pocket, of course. So we have a growing number of retirees from government luxury, being paid for doing nothing, and also we have a growing number of those not yet retired, also being paid. This, too, is relatively open-ended, since it takes a relatively few years to become eligible for it.

And now, the government plans to punish those in the private sector for promoting these schemes? That does seem perverse. All that the private citizens did was copy their government. Apparently the government wishes to monopolize the rackets.

If a private citizen promoting a pyramid scheme is guilty, then the government people doing the same are equally guilty.

Indeed it seems to me that passing legislation against private pyramid schemes is a fundamental contradiction of a concept which many people think the Constitution prevents: "Double jeopardy." In this case, no such prevention is evident.

The private citizen is forced into two pyramid schemes by the government for which he and the entire national economy is placed in jeopardy. He is made out to be a criminal if he fails to join.

But now we have private schemes, which, if he joins, he is a dummy and probably is going to get burned. But instead of letting him suffer the results of his own stupidity, the government is going to punish him again. We've got double, triple and even quadruple jeopardy. It appears that the government plans to punish us for being stupid.

I trust that this bit of newsprint serves to warn the legislators, executives and judiciary of the nation, along with the bureaucrats. If Americans are going to be punished for being stupid, they are, one day, going to stop being stupid enough to support this kind of government. And where will the racketeers within the sacred precincts of the state go then for new batches of suckers?

Maybe we ought to have a new bumper sticker: "Social Security - The Fed's Pyramid Scheme."

Today in history

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, July 16, the 198th day of 1980. There are 168 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On July 16, 1945, the atomic age began with the world's first atomic bomb explosion, over the desert in Los Alamos, N.M.

On this date:
In 1790, the District of Columbia was established as the seat of the American government.

In 1918, Russia's Czar Nicholas II, the Empress Alexandra and their five children were executed by revolutionaries.

In 1969, the Apollo XVII spacecraft - manned by astronauts Neil Armstrong, Buzz Aldrin and Michael Collins - was launched from Cape Canaveral to attempt the first landing on the moon.

In 1973, the White House confirmed that nearly all of President Nixon's meetings and telephone conversations at the executive mansion had been secretly recorded.

Ten years ago, Britain's Prince Charles and Princess Anne arrived in Washington for their first visit to the United States.

Five years ago, it was disclosed that the Soviet Union had made a deal to buy vast quantities of wheat from two American grain exporters.

Last year, President Carter said the United States would spend $140 billion to develop energy alternatives so the nation would never again be held hostage to foreign oil.

Thought For Today: Not only will atomic power be released, but someday we will harness the rise and fall of the tides and imprison the rays of the sun - Thomas Edison (1847-1931).

Prompt hearing in order

It troubles us that the Republican minority of the Senate Judiciary Committee is stalling the confirmation of 30 federal judges appointed by President Carter.

While it is true that committee Democrats similarly obstructed judicial appointments in the last months of President Eisenhower's two terms, and repeated the maneuver during the terms of Presidents Nixon and Ford, it remains a principle that the president has the right to his appointments unless the Senate has cause to withhold its consent.

In the case of President Carter's judgeships, however, the 30 nominees are apparently stalled without cause, simply because the Republicans hope - as did the Democrats during the Republican administrations - that they can delay the procedure until the November election when, perhaps, a Republican president will be elected and make his own appointments in 1981.

In the case of the Republican minority, the hope of delaying until November is a slim one, anyway. The Democrats have a clear majority on the committee and they can ram the appointments through whenever they gather their forces, including the chairman, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who is otherwise occupied these days.

This senatorial foot-dragging violates the spirit of the Constitution. The Judiciary Committee, including the recalcitrant Republicans, have an obligation to hold hearings promptly and then confirm or reject the appointments on the basis of the evidence presented. The president, the nominees and the public have a right to expect action, not obstructionism.

Screwball housing bill is approved

Every time Congress increases the number of regulators and enlarges the control government agents have over the population, it is done in the name of a worthy cause. Both houses of Congress passed legislation that expands the power of the federal bureaucracy in the name of ending discrimination in housing. The separate bills now go to a joint committee to iron out differences.

The House voted 310 to 95 to put teeth into the 1968 Fair Housing Act. Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., chief sponsor of the legislation, claimed his power-expanding bill was needed because racial discrimination in the sale and rental of housing is "epidemic." It is difficult to believe that so many members of the House supported this legislation - by far a more serious bill than the Senate's - in the face of the strides that have been made by minorities in recent years. While racial discrimination in housing did appear to be a major issue in the early 1960s, in the 1980s the subject is, for the most part, history.

Admittedly, we believe that even if racial discrimination were widespread, we would still support the right of a property owner to sell or rent to whomever he chooses. For although we find racial discrimination despicable and contrary to our basic philosophy, we nevertheless do not believe the government has the right to force any philosophy on anyone, including property owners.

If the housing legislation were nothing more than an empty-election year symbol, it would not be so bad. Instead the bill has enormous potential impact, not in ending discrimination, but in expanding bureaucratic power. Edwards' bill sets up administrative courts to determine if discrimination has taken place. Property owners taken before these kangaroo courts will not have the same rights found in regular courts. The judges will be little more than employees of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, yet they will have the power to fine citizens up to $10,000. A spokesman for the National Association of Realtors says the practice of using administrative law judges is scary. We agree.

The Edwards bill creates a number of problems. First, it will require the hiring of a large staff of enforcers. If these government employees do not receive enough complaints to justify their jobs, you can bet they will go out and find problems for themselves. The enforcers, for example, can be expected to ask owners to list the racial background of the residents of housing developments. Quotas may not be far behind.

The use of administrative courts invites another kind of problem. Because defendants have fewer rights and it is easier to charge that a violation has occurred, there is always the possibility that the system will be used as a method of harassment by disgruntled renters. Any minority citizen evicted from an apartment will then find it easy to claim discrimination and the owner will be forced to waste his time defending himself before a federal agency. The prospect is enough to discourage conscientious landlords from removing noisy or destructive tenants.

How many complaints is it going to take before Congress understands the inherent arrogance of federal agencies?

For the last five years such complaints have flooded Washington, yet members of the House still see fit to pass agency-creating legislation.

It appears the federal government is not going to be satisfied until there are federal regulators involved with every decision we make in our private lives.

Americans push back

by Paul Harvey

Government has been pushing us around. Look out, government, some Americans are beginning to push back!

What is supposed to be our government is ignoring us. Public servants have become dictatorial masters - forcing on us what they want: limitless immigration, cross-town busing, metric measure, seat belts, 55 mile speed limits...

For every new law passed by the Congress, unelected bureaucrats are turning out 10 new regulations with the force of law.

Urban Americans tend to cower and submit. But out in the wide nine-tenths of this country that's still country, some hard-handed individualists are closing ranks, mobilizing a "sagebrush rebellion."

Western states farmers and ranchers - after a generation of frustration - after letting Lilliputian bureaucrats of five administrations hobble and halter and checkrein 'em - have spit the bit.

They are drawing a line. They are saying to the EPA and the FDA and the BLM and the OSHA - and all those other nameless, faceless officious officials - this is as far as we back down!

Here we stand and fight for our rights! Specifically, what rights? Essentially, state's rights. Americans in Eastern states will need help understanding this. Less than 10 percent of their land is federal government land.

In western states, however, most is. In Alaska, Nevada, Idaho and Utah Uncle Sam owns more than 60 percent of everything.

When those territories became states they were promised that most "public land" would be sold or given away to homesteaders. Since 1976, however, Congress has made the Bureau of Land Management a greedy landlord demanding more jurisdiction over more land - fencing the homesteaders out.

As one example - in Idaho - in the name of "protecting the environment," Big Government wants to shrink grazing land in order to expand a 33,000-acre wildlife preserve to 750,000 acres - for the benefit of eagles, falcons, crows and ground squirrels.

Interesting perspective: The BLM considers 320 acres sufficient for a nesting family of humans - but wants 1,000 acres each for the birds.

Meanwhile, agricultural land is being gobbled up 6,000 acres a year by urban sprawl - further shrinking what's available for growing food.

If the present world war is an economic war over oil, the next one will be over food.

And the same shortsighted policies which reduced our nation's petroleum production are now reducing our agricultural potential.

So what can be done about it? When government gets too big for its britches, freedom fighters don't just sharpen up the tines of a pitchfork anymore. They have to use their "smarts" - use legal weapons.

And where no one man can wrestle in the tub of taffy, organized they can. That is what the present "sagebrush rebellion" is all about - western farmers and ranchers closing ranks, pooling resources to initiate court action, to educate voters, to claim vacant land for the multiple uses which benefit us all. It's everybody's fight. If government can acquire private land there, it can anywhere.

Will all the steam blow off in the whistle? Maybe not.

The "sagebrush rebellion" already has some politicians running scared. It has already resulted in one significant legal victory.

In the land of the he-man handclasp, there is now a fist in the face of the bureaucracy that will not be easy to ignore. (c) 1980, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

Economic wisdom

By Anthony Harrigan

One of the ablest and most far-sighted economic thinkers in the country is Alice Widener, syndicated columnist and editor of "USA Magazine."

Mrs. Widener was the first writer to warn of the rise of the New Left. Her articles in "USA Magazine" and "Barron's Financial Weekly" in the 1960s accurately forecast the climate of hostility towards business. Indeed, on a variety of issues, Mrs. Widener was ahead of her time in predicting developing threats to a free economy and a free society.

Long ago, Mrs. Widener should have received a Pulitzer Prize for outstanding journalism. But such prizes don't go to writers who warn of the encroachment of big government.

The American Economic Foundation has performed a public service in printing a pamphlet by Alice Widener entitled "Nobody Mentions Surplus." It is a text for our times.

"In economics," Mrs. Widener writes, "the simple truth is that no sustained progress can be achieved if outgo is 'in balance' with income or if outgo 'exceeds' income."

She adds: "A surplus-accumulation of capital above savings needed for a rainy day-is the sole means of economic progress. An economic system that stimulates consumption ahead of production has got the cart before the horse."

Mrs. Widener cites the root problem of our time when she says that "Our present runaway inflation is caused by the ugly necessity of having to use present funds to pay off accumulated debts."

Mrs. Widener quotes Dr. Kurt Richebaecher, managing director of the Dresdner Bank in West Germany, as saying that nothing good can be achieved by governments that drain national productive capital resources for the purpose of consumption.

All this has special relevance in a presidential election year. There's a real danger that between now and the election the administration will attempt to stimulate the economy by priming the pump, by stepping up federal spending in order to produce more consumption. If this is attempted, the result will be even worse inflation after January, 1981. The pump has been primed too often. We can't spend our way out of current difficulties.

The root problem of the country is a lack of investment in new plants and the technology that makes possible industrial production. An across-the-board tax cut isn't the best approach to our national difficulty. The need is for selective tax cuts that will lead to investment in new machinery which, in time, will produce new jobs.

Our entire industrial system must be overhauled and modernized. That's the only way to achieve a healthy economy and a high level of employment. Let's hope policy-makers start listening to Alice Widener.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 19-year-old girl who lost my virginity when I was 12. I have had a venereal disease three times. The last time it cost me my right to bear children because I had to have a hysterectomy.

The guys will tell you there is nothing wrong with them, then you find out too late there was. I suppose some guys don't even know they have a disease, but any guy who goes from girl to girl should know that he is taking a big chance.

I just wish I could tell every girl who goes to bed with a guy how foolish she is to take the chances I took. There would be a lot more virgins. I wish my mother would have listened to me when I started asking questions about sex. I was 10 years old and already interested in guys, but my mother said I should be ashamed of myself for even thinking about such things!

I sent for your booklet "What Every Teen-ager Ought to Know," and gave it to my kid sister, who is 11. She read it and we discussed it, and she thanked me over and over again. If I had had something like that to read when I was her age, it would have changed my whole life.

Thanks for writing it, Abby, and keep up the good work.

LEARNED TOO LATE IN L.A.

DEAR LEARNED: I appreciate your letter. The response from those who have received my booklet has been gratifying. All parents want to protect their children from V.D. and unwanted pregnancy, but few know how to tell them what they need to know. That's why I wrote the booklet.

DEAR ABBY: I have two girlfriends I'll call Peg and Dot. My problem is that Peg and Dot are not on speaking terms. It's not just a temporary little spat that might blow over soon; they have not been speaking for a long time. I am going to be married soon, and I want them both in my wedding party. (I was maid of honor for both of them.)

Skellytown roundup

HOMEMAKERS CLUB

The Skellytown Homemakers Club entertained their families at an ice cream social July 8 in the Community Center.

Homemade ice cream and cake were served to Mr. and Mrs. R.C. Heaton, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hall and granddaughters Polly Hall of Dallas and Susy Isbell of Pampa, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Neill, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Huckins, Mr. and Mrs. Don Easley and Billy, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Sanchez and sons Johnny and Alec and Mayr and Mrs. P.M. Cousins.

A short business meeting was conducted. The next meeting will be July 22 at 10 a.m. in the R.C. Heaton home.

TOPS CLUB

Members of the Skellytown TOPS Club hosted a community meeting July 11 in the Community Center.

Kathy Gist, Carson County Home Extension Agent, was guest speaker. Her topic was "The Freezing, Canning and Drying of Fruits and Preserving Jellies." She also tested pressure cooker gauges.

Refreshments were served.

Attending were Mrs. M. Cowan, Mrs. I.A. Brown, Mrs. D.C. McCarthy, Mrs. Cliff Cummings, Mrs. E.E. Crawford, Mrs. Bill Wood, Mrs. Tommy Owens, Mrs. Tom Vagle, Mrs. F. Danley, Mrs. Earl Lane, Mrs. Marshall Franks, Mrs. Roy McKissick, Mrs. John Villines, Mrs. Clifford Coleman and Mrs. James Goble of White Deer.

Porcelain and Art Club meets

The Golden Spread Porcelain and Art Club met July 11 in the Pampa Senior Citizen's Center.

Mrs. David Rife, vice-president, presided. Program chairman Mrs. Earl Reagan announced that Katy Schmucker of Houston will conduct a seminar Aug. 3-5. She will instruct students in enamel and raised paste. The club will host an exhibit

Peg says if Dot is in the wedding party, I can count her out. On the other hand, Dot says she doesn't care if Peg is in the wedding party or not, but if she is, she'll ignore her. I want them both, so what should I do?

SEPTEMBER BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: Don't let Peg force you to choose between her and Dot. Tell Peg you want her in your wedding party, but you intend to invite whomever else you want, and she may accept or decline — the decision is HERS!

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago as a volunteer for a crisis center, I gave lectures on how to prevent rape, never realizing that one day that information would be useful to me.

Recently it was necessary for me to drive a houseguest to the bus station at 3:00 a.m. After seeing her off, I returned to my car and started home. Soon I noticed a man in another car following me. To make sure I was being followed, I made several turns. After the third turn, he turned off his lights, but kept following me. I did not go home; instead I drove to the police station and began honking my horn, whereupon the man in the other car took off like a rocket. Then the police came out to investigate. I told them what had happened; they commended me for the way I handled it and gave me an escort home.

I would like to tell women: If you suspect you're being followed, never drive home, always drive to the nearest police station and honk your horn. If you don't know where the police station is, drive to an all-night business place and honk your horn. The worst that can happen is that the owner will think you're weird and call the police.

LUCKY IN COLORADO

DEAR LUCKY: Thanks for a useful letter. And Readers, if you don't know where your police station is located, make it your business to find out today.

PICKLED PEPPERS

Easy to make and piquant.
1 1/2 pounds (4 to 6 large) green peppers
1-3rd cup salad oil
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup cider vinegar
1 cup water

In a 4- or 5-quart saucepot bring to a boil enough water to fill the saucepot about 3/4 full. Add the peppers; boil for 3 minutes; remove from water. Halve peppers lengthwise; discard stems, seeds and membrane; cut lengthwise into 1/4-inch wide strips; halve strips crosswise — makes about 4 cups, loosely packed. In a canner (at least 6-cup size) stir together the oil, sugar, vinegar and water until sugar dissolves; add peppers. Cover and refrigerate overnight before using.

U.S. egg production, totaling 69.1 billion eggs, was up three percent in 1979, according to Sperry New Holland.

Girl Scouts to update programs

Mrs. Anita Brown of Wheeler, president of the Quivira Girl Scout Council, recently attended a White House reception in Washington, D.C. at which Rosalynn Carter previewed new Girl Scout uniforms, badges and top awards. The event marked completion of a modernized Girl Scout program of activities in step with changing times.

Mrs. Orville E. Freeman, president of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., introduced the innovations to Mrs. Carter, who is honorary president of the national organization. Mrs. Carter was presented the first Girl Scout pin featuring the new Girl Scout symbol.

A framed set of 76 new proficiency badges for nine-to-11-year-old Junior Girl Scouts was presented to Mrs. Carter. Mix-and-match uniforms for teen-age members were modeled by Girl Scouts from the nation's capital.

The Girl Scout Gold Award, which may be earned by Senior Girl Scouts of high school age, and the Girl Scout Silver Award, available also to girls in the early teens, were unveiled for the first time at the White House.

Presidents of 341 Girl Scout councils across the nation were invited to the reception, along with women government officials, congresswomen and the Girl Scouts' national board of directors.

New proficiency badges for Junior Girl Scouts included such timely topics as "energy saver" and "computer fun." Girl Scouts earn these badges by completing activities they choose from a wide range of subjects and flexible requirements. Juniors were the colorful embroidered cloth symbols of new knowledge and skills on a shoulder sash over their uniforms. The set of 76 new badges will be introduced in September.

Teen-age Girl Scouts may begin working toward the two top Girl Scout Gold and Silver Awards this fall. To achieve them, girls must complete a combination of interest, leadership, career exploration and service projects. They also must demonstrate their ability and skill in the areas of goal-setting, planning, putting values into action and relating to the community.

The new uniform is designed for the action-packed lifestyle of teen-agers today. In tune with fashion trends of the times, mix-match coordinates consist of a bright green poly-twill

A-line skirt, straight-leg pants, fitted vest and insignia sash worn with a long-sleeved tailored plaid blouse. The uniform will be available in September.

Girl Scouts, was published last year. It contains special interest projects on subjects as diverse as fashion, auto mechanics, energy awareness and money management.

A new handbook for teen-age Girl Scouts entitled "You Make the Difference" is scheduled for publication this summer.

The 46th annual Tri-State Seniors Golf Tournament, which tees off next Tuesday at the Pampa Country Club, has been around long enough to store up its share of trivia.

Here are a few samples:

No golfer has won the Colonel Bogey award more than once. No golfer has won the championship four times, but there have been three triple winners. They are Chick Trout and Lofton Burnett, both of Lubbock, and Harold DeLong, Shawnee.

J.R. Brown of Amarillo and the tournament secretary has the most medalist wins with five.

Since the tournament began in 1935, only one man, Red Gober, Austin, has won the title three years in a row, 1944-45-46. The title has been successfully defended four times, but the third time has never been the charm except in Gober's case.

A tip of the green eyeshade to Pampa attorney John Warner, who doubles as a little league manager and sportswriter during the summer.

Most of those stories on the Little League City Tournament came from the pen of Warner. His writing endeavors have continued during the district tournament and hopefully will be extended to other post-season competition as long as his National Little League All-Stars keep winning.

Mr. and Mrs. P.M. Cousins over at Skellytown should also be recognized for keeping their community informed on the latest sports.

Wendall Palmer of Pampa hasn't put Bruce Jenner to shame yet, but he's working at it.

The 48-year-old Palmer set personal bests in the shot put (36-11) and discus (133-0) at the Texas Western Athletic Federation Regional Track Meet in Lubbock last weekend.

Palmer finished second in the shot and third in the discus. A couple of 20-year-olds prevented him from placing any higher.

"I was satisfied with what I did," Palmer said. "The field was muddy and I had to keep wiping off the shot and discus before I threw it, so maybe I could have done better if conditions had been right."

Still, Palmer overcame the hardships to not only better his own personal marks, but to qualify for the state TWAFF meet (open division) at Abilene next month.

Flashback: July, 1966. Gary Molberg tossed a four-hitter as Pampa blanked Canyon, 5-0, in the Pampa American Legion baseball tournament. Molberg struck out 13 and walked five for the Rebels.

Rick Foster and Steve Summers led the Pampa offense with a triple apiece.

High Plains eliminated in extra-inning contest

High Plains was edged by North Plains, 5-4, Monday in the opening round of the 13-year old Babe Ruth State Tournament in Lubbock.

North Plains didn't plate the winning run until the eighth inning when North Plains pitcher Stacy Scheller of Panhandle was called for a balk with a runner on third base.

High Plains was trailing 4-3 when Will Brown's rbi hit in the sixth inning knotted the score at 4-4.

High Plains had two hits and committed two errors.

Scoring runs for the losers were Scheller, Rodney Keown of Clarendon, Kevin Powers and Shawn Fryrear of Panhandle.

Other team members are Brown, Johnny Furgason, and Kent Tice of Skellytown, Bobby Brantwein of White Deer, Neil Brantley and Justin Powell of Panhandle, Joe Britt Cartwright and Justin Webb of Claude.

Coaches are Charlie Adkison of White Deer, W.H. McLeod, and Dwayne Smith of Panhandle.

Despite the loss, High Plains has to be defeated one more time before being eliminated from the tournament.

Nicklaus, Watson co-favorites

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, spurred by his U.S. Open victory, is making an untroubled approach to his next major challenge: winning the British Open golf championship for a fourth time.

Nicklaus and fellow-American Tom Watson are co-favorites for the tournament that opens Thursday over the windswept 6,926-yard par 71 Muirfield course on Scotland's East Coast.

"I'm playing all right, hitting the ball all right," said Nicklaus, who has completed three practice rounds here and found nothing amiss with his game.

Nicklaus, 40, won his first British Open title as long ago as 1966, following up with further wins in 1970 and 1978. But then came the longest lean streak of an illustrious career, leading to rumbles that he was over the hill. But his win last month in the U.S. Open silenced the gloom merchants and the Golden Bear was back on top.

Other leading rivals in the tournament that offers more than $400,000 in total prize money are Seve Ballesteros, the Spaniard who added the Masters title to the British Open championship he won last year, PGA champion David Graham of Australia, South Africa's Gary Player, Japan's Isao Aoki, who was runnerup in the U.S. Open and a whole squad of America's seasoned circuit veterans.

In addition to Watson, who has twice won the British event, these include Lee Treviweiskopf and Job-time winner, former champions Tom Weiskopf and Johnny Miller. Andy Bean, Hubert Green, John Mahaffey, Larry Nelson, Jerry Pate and Ben Crenshaw, a runnerup in both 1978 and 1979.

Crenshaw told reporters that he is backing himself to win this time, although he nominated Nicklaus and Watson as his major problems while Trevino was playing "very well."

So far however, Trevino lacks the warm weather that suits his game best. He won his last British Open in 1972 — also at Muirfield — at the height of a heat wave. The cold wind and showers gusting in from the North Sea show little sign of letting up and unsettled weather is forecast.

Arnie Palmer is watched with the reverence due to one of the sport's immortals. "He's such a gentleman," gushed a grey-haired Scottish matron. "He'll always take time to talk."

Ballesteros, the dashing European favorite rated right behind Nicklaus and Watson in popular rankings, is going through a tough time according to his own account. He was disqualified from the U.S. Open for failing to make his tee-time on the second day. Here, he told reporters that his confidence was adrift and he was having trouble with his swing, his drives and his irons.

Ballesteros still hopes something will change before the first players in the field of 151 competitors go out at Thursday morning to start four days of battle for the oldest of the world's four major golf titles.

Ovett equals world record

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Britain's Steve Ovett has equalled the world record for 1,500 meters...but he will not hold it any longer than May 1, 1981.

And he could have owned the mark by himself were it not for a brief wave to the crowd.

Nine and one-half months from now, under new rules of the International Amateur Athletic Federation (IAAF), the world governing body for track and field, records in races of all distances will be carried out to hundredths of seconds. At present, the rule applies only to races 400 meters or less. But when the new rule is instituted, it will be retroactive.

Therefore, Ovett's current official time of 3 minutes, 32.1 seconds, recorded

Tuesday night at Bislett Stadium, "the world record track," will revert to 3:32.09 — and Sebastian Coe, his countryman and arch-rival, will be the record holder with a time of 3:32.03 registered at Zurich, Switzerland on Aug. 15, 1979.

Coe's time currently also is listed as 3:32.1.

Ovett's record-tying performance adds even more intrigue to the upcoming Olympic Games in Moscow, where he and Coe are scheduled to meet in the 1,500 for the first time. The race is expected to be the high point of the track and field competition — and possibly of the Games.

The two never have liked each other, and Ovett has been grimly determined to wipe Coe's name from the record book. He did it

July 1 at Bislett, breaking Coe's world mile mark of 3:49.0 with a clocking of 3:48.8.

And he almost did it again Tuesday night. Only the wave to the crowd, with about 40-50 meters remaining — when he had the race won — cost him sole possession of the mark.

West Germany's Dr. Thomas Wessinghage, the second-place finisher in 3:33.16, was more cooperative.

He said he thought Ovett muffed his chance to own the record alone by waiting too long to make his move. That move came without about 200 meters left, shortly after Ovett had swept past Steve Scott of the United States and into the lead.

The usually fit and talkative Scott said only, "I'm disappointed."

Spurs sign Michael Wiley

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The San Antonio Spurs have signed their second-round draft choice, all-time Long Beach State scorer Michael Wiley, to a National Basketball Association contract.

Terms of the contract for the 6-9, 200-pound forward were not disclosed in San Antonio's first signing of a 1980 draft choice, which was announced Tuesday by general manager Bob Bass.

Wiley was to appear Monday at the opening of the Spurs rookie-free agent camp at Blossom Athletic Center.

"I saw Michael play in Hawaii and I was impressed," said Spurs coach Stan Albeck. "He is a late developer, but let me tell you, his strengths are his extreme quickness on the break and around the basket. He is a good transition player."

"We will have to work on his court awareness, but he has an excellent chance to make this team."

Wiley scored at a 16.3 clip for four years at Long Beach and also set a school accuracy mark with .570 shooting.

In addition, he established a school mark for scoring in a season with 697 points his senior year and ranks second on the Long Beach career rebounding list with 788, a 6.6 average.

Bench moves closer to Berra's record

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

It had been well publicized. Cincinnati Reds catcher Johnny Bench was closing in on another milestone — Yogi Berra's career home run record for catchers. When it finally was over, Bench was understandably pleased.

He stood watching the ball as it sailed deep into the left field seats at Cincinnati's Three Rivers Stadium — No. 314 as a catcher, 347 lifetime and 15 for the year.

"As soon as I hit it, I knew it was gone," Bench said. "I don't even know where I threw my bat, but I knew I jumped high in the air."

As the ball cleared the fence, Bench raised his arms. "I never remember doing that before," Bench said of his melodramatics. "I don't want to show a pitcher up, but I think he understands why."

The historic two-run blast came on the first pitch from Montreal right-hander Dave Palmer, 6-3, and capped a five-run, fifth-inning rally that helped the Reds to an 11-7 victory over the Expos. It followed a three-run homer by George Foster and helped snap a four-game Cincinnati losing streak.

Bench had tied Berra's record Saturday, and he said the toughest part about breaking it "was the long walk to the plate every time with the crowd cheering for me."

"The fans wanted it, and on that trip I said, 'Please let's get it over with,'" Bench said.

Palmer got two homers in support from Ellis Valentine and another from Andre Dawson. For his own part, he was puzzled.

"I just can't understand what happened," Palmer said. "I was breezing along, and it seems I just lost my location. But giving up home runs to powerful swingers like Bench and Foster is nothing to be upset about."

Paul Moskau, 7-2, pitched Cincinnati's first complete game since the Fourth of July, yielding nine hits but benefitting by 13 Reds hits and three Montreal errors. Two errors were by Expos third baseman Larry Parrish in the third inning and led to two unearned runs.

Elsewhere in the National League, Houston edged Philadelphia 3-2, Pittsburgh downed San Francisco 5-2, New York whipped Atlanta 9-2, St. Louis beat San Diego 5-3 and Los Angeles defeated Chicago 6-2.

Astros 3, Phils 2

A win would have tied Philadelphia with Montreal for the NL East lead, but a balk and an error by Phillies right-hander Dick Ruthven gave the game to Houston and dropped the Phils to third behind Pittsburgh.

Ted 2-2, Alan Ashby led off the Houston ninth with a single, and Jeff Leonard came in to pinch run. Leonard took second on Ruthven's balk, and Ruthven threw away Craig Reynolds' grounder to score the winning run.

Joe Sambito, 4-1, picked up the victory with one scoreless inning in relief of Nolan Ryan, who yielded one earned run in eight innings and at one time retired 13 straight batters.

Pirates 5, Giants 2

Dave Parker cracked a two-run single to cap a three-run Pittsburgh rally in the eighth inning that snapped a tie and ended San Francisco's seven-game winning streak.

Pittsburgh loaded the bases on a single by Phil

Garner, a freak throwing error and an intentional walk. The error came when Steve Nicosia tried to sacrifice Garner to second. Giants pitcher Bob Knepper and first baseman Darrell Evans both charged the bunt, Evans' throw to second struck Knepper in the head, and the runners wound up on second and third.

Manny Sanguillen was walked, and a fielding error by shortstop Johnny LeMaster allowed the first run to score. Parker capped the rally with a two-run single.

Mets 9, Braves 2

Steve Henderson homered twice, Lee Mazzilli added a two-run shot in the ninth and Pat Zachry tossed a six-hitter as the Mets reached the 500 plateau for the first time this late in the season since Aug. 19, 1976.

Mazzilli's homer came amid two bench-clearing confrontations between the clubs. One was sparked when Braves reliever Al Hrabosky threw a pitch above Zachry's head while the Mets pitcher was trying lay down a sacrifice bunt, and the second came as Mazzilli was rounding the bases on his homer.

Mazzilli said he told Hrabosky, "How do you like that? Don't you be throwing at my pitcher."

No punches were thrown as the players milled about, although Hrabosky had to be restrained twice by home plate umpire Nick Colosi. There were no ejections.

Cardinals 3, Padres 3

Ted Simmons doubled home two runs to cap a three-run St. Louis first inning, and the Cardinals held on to snap San Diego's three-game winning streak.

Bob Forsch, 6-6, went 62-3 innings for his first victory in six starts since beating Atlanta on June 11. He got relief help from Kim Seamen and John Littlefield.

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Don't look now, but the Kansas City Royals have George Brett and Rich Gale back, and a whopping lead in the American League West.

"We went through a period of about two weeks before the All-Star break when we were getting hits and couldn't score," Kansas City Manager Jim Frey said. "Since the break it seems we've turned it around and are scoring runs. The one big thing that has happened since the break is we got George Brett back."

Tuesday night, Gale, the Royals' big right-hander, returned with a winning performance as Kansas City stopped the Boston Red Sox 8-4.

"He hadn't pitched in a couple of weeks, but he threw the ball well and with good control," Frey said. "I really didn't expect him to go as long as he did, hoping he'd go just six or seven innings."

"Maybe he needed the little rest to rejuvenate his arm. His control is better than it was early in the season, but maybe the fact we're getting him a lead once in a while has helped."

Kansas City, 18 games over .500 with a 5-1 record since the All-Star break, leads the Chicago White Sox, the Minnesota Twins and the Texas Rangers by 1 1/2 games in the AL West.

In other AL games Tuesday, Minnesota edged the New York Yankees 5-4, Chicago nipped Texas 2-1, Baltimore stopped Milwaukee 7-3 and California topped Cleveland 7-1.

Gale allowed only five hits for eight innings before needing relief help in the ninth as the Royals pounded out 15 hits. He was making his first appearance since being stricken by shoulder tendinitis July 2 for the second time in three years.

"It's something I thought was over when I felt great all last summer," Gale said. "However, it's there and I'm a little concerned about it. I also feel a little frustrated because it's the second time in two years."

Pitch ruled legal

Pampa Little League pitcher Clifton (Cap) Pitman can continue to confuse batters with his whirling pitch... at least until he gets to high school.

Kenneth Mumford, American Little League director, said Tuesday the rules committee at Little League headquarters in Williamsport, Pa. ruled that Pitman's unique delivery was legal.

"I talked with a Frank Rizzo with the rules committee and he said it would be okay for Cap to pitch that way in little league, but it probably be ruled a balk in high school ball," Mumford said.

The 12-year-old Pitman sparked controversy this season when he started pitching with a reverse motion by facing each base before he delivers the ball.

Film footage of Pitman was mailed to Williamsport when local and state little league officials couldn't decide if the pitch was legal.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

July 17, 1980

This coming year will be an excellent time to develop and expand on your more creative pursuits. It will be important, however, that you don't settle for exerting half efforts. Give things your best shot at the outset.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your leadership qualities are very pronounced today and others will want to follow your example. If you get too bossy, however, they may revolt. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph, which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Events should work out to your advantage today if you let them follow their natural course. Impatience and impulsiveness are your worst enemies.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Keep things in their proper perspective today. Don't let your desire for self-gain mar your image. Your good reputation is a far more valuable asset.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Others are able to do for you what you cannot accomplish yourself. If someone volunteers to assist you, by all means let him or her do so.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Being too secretive today could work against you. Be open and frank in your discussions with true friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Projects you deem important should be given priority today. Don't get off into other areas until things you start are concluded satisfactorily.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Second effort is extremely important today if you hope to achieve your ends. Fire up your reserve rockets if an obstacle bogs you down.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you are not satisfied with the status quo, this is a good day to make changes. Strive to control events instead of letting them control you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're good in situations today calling for a team effort. What you have to offer will make the difference between success or failure.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) What you set out to do today you'll do well because you'll take pride in your work. Coworkers lacking your standards will have to be handled tactfully, however.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Try to arrange your schedule today so that you can enjoy fun activities without neglecting your duties. Projects left to the last minute may not be done properly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Material gains are likely today, provided you don't take foolish risks. Be satisfied with sure things. Don't try to buck the odds.

Mexican trade changing rapidly

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Texas Industrial Commission's international trade manager advises vendors looking for new business in Mexico "to stay on your toes" and keep up with rapid developments.

"Things are moving fast, and I mean they're moving fast in practically all areas," the manager, Frank Alagna, said Tuesday at a State Department seminar for state and local officials on the border economy.

Texas is the only state that maintains an office in Mexico City to promote local businesses. The TIC office opened in 1971.

Alagna said U.S. companies are in a stiff competition with Japanese, West German, French and other international businesses for Mexican foreign trade.

"We're not home free; we've got a lot of competition," he said.

Although oil and gas receives most of the public's attention, Alagna said development is taking place in many Mexican industries.

The Mexican federal power commission alone spent $392 million through its Houston office last year, he said.

Alagna later said he hopes to expand the commission's regular operations from Mexico to Central America and Europe.

He said Texas is one of the few states that has not opened a European industrial office to assist state businesses abroad and to attract international investment.

Adding one person to the two-person staff in the Mexico City office would allow more travel throughout Mexico and to Central America, Alagna said.

The state Legislature would have to approve any additional budget for the international office.

Alagna said Jeremy Woollever, the Mexico City office's new manager, has an international finance background and has expanded the range of contacts available to Texas businesses going to Mexico.

The 25 Texas companies that attended a Commerce Department oil trade show in Mexico last February wrote about $33 million in contracts, Alagna said. He said 19 of the companies were making their first attempts to enter the Mexican market.

Alagna said the program was designed to help smaller Texas companies, not the multi-nationals that have their own departments to promote international trade.

"We're helping the small guy to improve the export capability of the state," he said.

The commission's next events scheduled abroad are an Australian oil show in September and a November "invest in Texas" seminar in London.

The Commerce Department ranks Mexico as the fourth largest destination for U.S. exports, following Canada, Japan and the United Kingdom.

French surgeon to examine Shah

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - A French surgeon arrived in Cairo today to decide whether the deposed Shah of Iran must undergo surgery again, this time to drain an abscess in his left leg, an Egyptian doctor treating the former Iranian monarch said.

But the Egyptian doctor, who has proved reliable in the past, denied reports in the Cairo newspapers Al Ahran and Al Akhbar that the surgery already had been performed.

"He arrived at three in the morning today," the Egyptian doctor said of the French surgeon. "He hasn't done anything yet."

The Egyptian doctor, reached by telephone at Maadi military hospital, added that "even if we decide to open the abscess it won't be today."

He said the ousted shah's condition was "fine. I'm with him now and he's awake and talking and all right."

Both the Egyptian doctor and the French surgeon requested anonymity.

Al Ahran said the abscess was "the size of an orange."

had developed at the top of the thigh and that doctors considered surgery necessary because they feared a blood clot could develop and block circulation.

Al Ahran said monitoring systems were brought back to the intensive care unit opposite the shah's suite, and a state of emergency had been declared, with doctors keeping a 24-hour vigil by Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's side.

The shah's spokesman, Mark Morse, said the abscess developed at the point on one of the shah's legs from which a blood sample was taken for a routine test. He said the infection caused concern because of the shah's generally weakened condition.

"Little things in his condition have a bigger impact because his body is not in good shape right now," he said.

The 60-year-old former monarch is suffering from lymphatic cancer. The chemical treatment he received to combat the cancer has sharply reduced the white cells in his blood, stripping his body of its primary protection against infection.

The shah underwent surgery on June 30 at the Maadi military hospital south of Cairo to drain an abdominal abscess that developed following the removal of his spleen at the same hospital in March. He has remained under intensive care at the hospital.

Mother charged in child's death

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Authorities have charged a 17-year-old mother in the death of her two-year-old son who died of heat stroke while locked inside the hot cab of a pickup truck.

The Fort Worth woman was charged Tuesday with injury to a child, authorities said. She was released from city jail on $5,000 bond.

Police said the young mother told them Monday she was unable to find a babysitter and had to leave the child inside the truck in a parking lot of a hospital where she worked as a dishwasher.

Lt. Stanley Pruitt said the child's body temperature was 110 degrees when the woman and a friend found the little boy unconscious on the floor of the truck. Witnesses said the windows were rolled up.

Pruitt said the child had been left inside the vehicle for about three hours. The child was taken to a hospital emergency room and died about two hours later.

Nicaraguans celebrate Somoza overthrow

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Nicaraguans are holding big celebrations this week in observance of the first anniversary Saturday of the overthrow of President Anastasio Somoza, "whose family ruled the country for more than 40 years."

Goosestepping soldiers and weapons-carrying militia members practice marching between bulldozers, roadgraders and rollers putting the final touches on the big new July 19th Plaza. At night, children in the sprawling slums block traffic on narrow streets as they rehearse turns and swing their arms with elbows raised high.

Crews are cleaning streets, sweeping sidewalks, painting government buildings, putting up flags on street corners and erecting neon signs in commemoration of the revolution led by the Sandinista National Liberation Front.

Ten thousand special guests have been invited, among them foreign supporters and sympathizers of the revolution.

For security reasons, the government is keeping secret the final list of foreign dignitaries who will be here. President Carter was invited but is not coming.

Methodist bishops elected

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Three bishops were elected Tuesday at the United Methodist South Central Jurisdiction conference.

They are the Rev. W.T. Handy Jr. of Baton Rouge, La.; the Rev. Wesley Hardt of Baytown; and the Rev. Ben Oliphant of Dallas.

Handy, 56, is superintendent of the Baton Rouge-Lafayette District in the Louisiana Annual Conference and a former vice president of the United Methodist Publishing House in Nashville, Tenn. He is the second black bishop to be elected in the South Central Jurisdiction since 1968 when the former Central Jurisdiction, a predominantly black jurisdiction, was dissolved.

Hardt, 59, is superintendent of the Houston East District of the Texas Annual Conference.

Oliphant, 56, has been pastor of the First United Methodist Church in Dallas for eight years.

The conference will elect two more bishops in the gathering at Little Rock this week.

More than 1,300 church members from the South Central Jurisdiction heard their 17-member College of Bishops call Tuesday for a renewal of the church's "motivation and vitality" so it may respond more effectively to "the moral breakdown in so many areas today."

Bishop J. Chess Lovern of San Antonio, Texas, told the delegates and visitors that the church must "reset its moral values, restate its social message, reinstruct its members and build a closer fellowship."

The South Central Jurisdiction includes 6,865 local congregations with a membership of 1.9 million in Arkansas, Kansas, Louisiana, Missouri, Nebraska, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas.

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER, M/F

Soviet shoppers buy U.S. 'hand-me-downs'

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The following story is an Associated Press News Special. Miss Lederer spent 10 days in Afghanistan and filed this report after her departure.)

By EDITH M. LEDERER

requirement any more, but between $12 million and $20 million worth of secondhand clothing is shipped to Afghanistan every year, informed sources report.

Shoppers in sidewalk bazaars can choose from a wide variety of used foreign clothing: mini-dresses of early 1970s vintage, men's flare-bottomed slacks, high-school band uniforms and now and then a Hell's Angels motorcycle jacket.

After Soviet troops poured into the country last winter to help the Afghan army battle Moslem tribal rebels, some of the Soviet officers and officials were joined by their wives. Several enterprising merchants, aware that public hostility kept the Russians out of the downtown shopping district, set up the special bazaar for the Soviet women on a lawn outside the housing complex at Microrayon where they live.

Prices are cheap — $1 for some blouses and $3 or $4 for a dress — and there's no worry that a neighbor will end up wearing the same thing since it's strictly one-of-a-kind.

Informed sources said some Soviet soldiers have been selling the Afghans fuel from Soviet reserve supplies at about 56 cents per bucket and have even sold a few Kalashnikov rifles. This could not be independently confirmed.

There is little to entertain the Soviet troops. Groups of them in bathing suits have been seen frolicking in the water near the road to the Kabul Gorge. Soldiers in swimming trunks with automatic weapons slung over their shoulders have also been seen near Qargah Lake, about nine miles northwest of Kabul.

Informed sources said three Soviet soldiers were shot and killed while swimming in the lake about six weeks ago. Now while some of the men swim, others watch from the bank with weapons close at hand.

During June, informants said, several Soviet soldiers climbed the wall between the French Embassy and a billet for Soviet generals and took a swim in the embassy pool. The French charge d'affaires protested to the Afghan government and emptied the pool, but the soldiers returned several days later.

This time, they spotted the ambassador's belongings, which had been packed for shipment home, demanded to know what was in the packages and opened one of them. Nothing was taken, but the charge d'affaires protested again, this time to the Soviets.

Reagan to tap Armstrong for key election role

DETROIT (AP) — Republican candidate Ronald Reagan is expected to name Anne Armstrong as co-chairman of his election committee, well-placed sources say.

She will be named after the convention is over, said the sources, who asked not to be identified.

Mrs. Armstrong, who served in the Nixon and Ford administrations, has been mentioned as a possible running mate for Reagan. She said she will not decide whether to take the co-chairman job until Reagan has announced his choice for the number two spot on his ticket.

"I expect to have a major role in the campaign, but I don't know yet what it will be," said Mrs. Armstrong during an interview in her plush suite in the modern Detroit Plaza hotel where many VIPs are staying.

Mrs. Armstrong, who is one of the main speakers on the convention program Tuesday night, said she has not spoken to Reagan this week.

"But one of his top people told me I am still in active consideration for vice president," she said.

However, a source close to the Reagan campaign said that 1980 is not an opportune time for the former California governor to choose a woman as a running mate.

"The country is moving to the right and there are a lot of people who couldn't swallow having a woman on the ticket," said the source, who requested anonymity.

Mrs. Armstrong said that if Reagan does not ask her to be vice president, she hopes he will pick someone who will appeal to a wide segment of voters.

"He should pick someone who will bring added votes to the ticket," she said.
