Terrorists blamed for women's murders

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — El Salvador's ruling junta accused right-wing terrorists of assassinating three Roman Catholic nuns and a lay missionary, all Americans, and piling the four women into a common dirt grave after shooting each in the back of the head.

"I totally repudiate this crime that is not only a crime, but a premeditated murder, irrational and of a paranoid mind that wants to destabilize the government. It is a premeditated murder of the right wing," Jose Napoleon Duarte, a member of the civilian-military junta, told a news conference Thursday.

No group claimed responsibility for killing the women. But right-wing terrorists opposed to the strong human rights advocacy of the Catholic Church in El Salvador have assassinated at least nine priests since 1977, including Archbishop Oscar Romero, who was shot to death while celebrating Mass March 24. The last priest to be assassinated died Monday.

The women were shot late Tuesday and discovered by peasants Wednesday. They were identified as Sister Dorothy Kazel, 41, of Cleveland, a member of the Ursuline Order, Ita Ford and Maura Clarke, Maryknoll sisters from New York City, and Jean Donovan, 27, a lay volunteer from Cleveland.

A soldier at the scene said all four were shot in the back of the head with a large caliber pistol and buried one on top of the other.

"Helping others cost them their lives," said a nun who knelt and prayed beside the makeshift grave.

The bodies were exhumed Thursday from the grave beside an unpaved, isolated road about 30 miles south of the capital while reporters, peasants and U.S. Ambassador Robert White looked on.

"I am sorry," White said as the first bloody body was uncovered.

The ambassador, visibly furious, turned his back on a reporter who asked if he had been informed by the National Guard on Wednesday about the discovery of the bodies.

"I am not going to say anything because this time nothing will be done incorrectly," he said.

Another reporter overheard him say, "This time they won't get away with it. They just won't."

An embassy official said the U.S. government would take charge of the bodies.

A squad of about 12 National Guardsmen arrived as the bodies were being exhumed and surrounded the area with guns drawn.

White, in shirtsleeves and heavily guarded, was heard asking another embassy official, "Do you think they are going to do something to us?"

"No, I don't think so. Too many foreign journalists," the other official replied.

The sisters were in El Salvador to aid refugees from rural areas who were fleeing the violence between leftist and rightist guerrillas that has claimed an estimated 8,500 lives this year.

A Maryknoll spokeswoman in Ossining, N.Y. said the whereabouts of Sisters Ford and Clarke were last known when they were confirmed to have boarded a commercial airlines flight from Managua, Nicaragua Tuesday night for San Salvador. She said Miss Donovan and Sister Kazel met the pair at San Salvador's airport later that night. The van they picked them up in was found burned out on a road near the airport Wednesday.

Sister Kazel and Miss Donovan worked at a mission in La Libertad, about 30 miles west of here, teaching children and adults and running a nutrition program for pregnant women.

Miss Donovan's father, reached in Sarasota, Fla., said the missionary's family had tried in vain to convince her to leave the violence-wracked Central American country.

"We tried to get her to come back, but she thought she was doing some good," Ray Donovan said. "She had signed on for three years. She was determined to stick it out."

Business executives 'didn't have a chance' to escape killer fire

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Business executives gathered for meetings at a hotel here "didn't have a chance" when an electrical fire raced through conference rooms with heat so intense that it melted walls, fire officials said.

The blaze Thursday at the suburban Stouffer's Inn killed 26 people and injured at least 40.

"The fire was so strong, so fast, that it was like a bomb exploding," said Franz Eichenauer, an executive chef for General Foods.

"It appears it flashed up suddenly and these people didn't have a chance," said Purchase Fire Chief Robert Makowski.

Most of the victims were believed to be executives of Arrow Electronics Inc. and Nestle Company Inc.

The families of the victims were gathered at the Westchester County medical examiner's office early today, working with authorities who were trying to identify the remains of victims through fingerprints or dental records.

A police spokesman said he had received calls indicating that people "from California to Canada" were at the hotel.

It was the second major hotel fire in the United States in two weeks. On Nov. 21, a blaze at the MGM Grand hotel in Las Vegas, Nev., killed 84 people and injured more than 700 others.

Makowski said he determined the Stouffer's fire was electrical because "the partitions in the walls melted. It was a very hot, hot fire."

There were no sprinklers in the area where the fire spread.

"It is tragic that the safety codes did not require sprinklers in such areas because they are not regarded as guest living areas."

Marlin received prison term

Terry Marlin, 17, 802 Maple, was sentenced by District 223rd Judge Don Cain Wednesday afternoon to serve a five-year term in the Texas Department of Corrections in Huntsville after pleading guilty to a charge of aggravated robbery.

His sentence was not probated, as reported in the Dec. 4 edition of the Pampa News.

Marlin was charged in connection with an incident Nov. 22 at the Pampa Mall in which a woman said a man approached her, holding a knife and attempted to take her purse. The woman told police the suspect told her to partially disrobe. A vehicle driving up on the scene frightened the man, who fled, police said.

Receiving the five-year probated term was Stephen Andrews, 21, formerly of Pampa. He was sentenced to a five-year probated term by Judge Cain in court proceedings. Andrews pleaded guilty to the theft of $533 from a 7-11 Convenience Store at 400 N. Ballard June 21.

District Attorney Harold Comer said the suspect first reported the theft as a robbery but later confessed to taking the money.

said Carl Vergari, Westchester County district attorney.

Sprinklers were not required in most areas of the MGM Grand and were not installed there either.

Executives of Arrow, Nestle, General Foods Corp., International Business Machines Corp., PepsiCo Inc. and other companies were at meetings on the same floor of the three-story brick building where the fire broke out.

The 3-year-old inn, which cost $20 million and has 366 guest rooms, is located 20 miles north of mid-Manhattan along a hillside strip dubbed the "Platinum Mile" because of its concentration of modern corporate headquarters.

The inn was bustling with activity when the fire exploded at 10:20 a.m. in a second-story conference room where officials of Arrow Electronics of Greenwich, Conn., were holding a budget meeting.

"We could hear noises in the hallway," said Thomas Goodrum of Danbury, Conn., a General Foods employee who was in a meeting next door.

"I heard someone say, 'Oh, my God.' Smoke started coming over the top of our door.... We couldn't open the windows," he said.

A man picked up a chair and heaved it at a window, but it bounced off, Goodrum said. Then two men picked up a table and smashed the window and the people in the room jumped 35 feet to a rocky slope below.

"I jumped blind," said Nancy Yates, who was in the General Foods room. "I couldn't see the ground when I jumped."

Seven bodies were later found in a closet of the Arrow Electronics room. The victims apparently mistook the closet door for an exit.

Murder trial moved to Pampa

The trial of a Michigan truck driver charged with murdering a hitchhiker on Interstate 40 in March 1979 has been moved to Gray County and set for Jan. 12, 1981, by 31st District Judge Grainger McIlhenny's own motion, District Attorney Harold Comer said today.

Russell Eugene Gaylor, 26, of Utica, Mich., was arrested by Wheeler County Sheriff's deputies and charged with the murder of Charles William Hulen, 25, of Sunray shortly after the dead man was discovered on the shoulder of Interstate 40, five miles west of Shamrock, on March 19, 1979.

Hulen had been shot once behind the left ear with a .38-caliber pistol, the district attorney said.

Since the arrest, Gaylor has been tried three times by Wheeler County juries, Comer said.

Twice, the Michigan man was found incompetent to stand trial, and a mistrial was declared on June 30 when the jury was deadlocked 8 to 4 in favor of conviction, Comer said.

The murder trial is scheduled to begin 9 a.m. Jan. 12 in the 31st District Courtroom in Gray County Courthouse.

Charter for second senior center nears completion

BY SHEILA ECCLES
Staff Writer

With the receipt of the charter from the Secretary of State's office in Austin, the legality of a second Senior Citizen Center in Pampa will officially be established.

In a meeting Thursday, members of the Planning Committee for Pampa's second Senior Citizens Center, headed by J.C. Randall, discussed the future use of the Marcus Sanders Community Center for the center.

The Marcus Sanders Community Center, 438 Crawford, is city-owned property and presently used for youth group activities.

"We certainly do not want the youth to feel we are taking over their facility," Community Action representative Alice Grays said.

"However, the Marcus Sanders Community Building has been lacking a director since last March and so far no applications have taken for a new one," Mrs. Grays said.

The planning committee discussed the situation and came up with some ideas to keep the Marcus Sanders Community Center open for the youth by coordinating the building use for youth and senior citizens.

"What we could think about is some way of supervising the youth functions ourselves," Mrs. Grays said.

Pampa city officials have offered the use of the building at the request of J.C. Randall.

"We just don't know right now how much the senior citizens plan to use the facility. But I am sure we will be able to work it out," City Manager Mack Wofford said.

"We have sent our charter into Austin, and we expect to have it back within the week," Randall said.

Randall said the charter had been sent to Austin once but was returned for three additional signatures. The signatures were obtained and the charter once again sent to Austin.

The planning committee has had several discussions for future fund-raising projects to get the center started.

"The city currently has an agreement with the Senior Citizen Center, 500 W. Francis, to provide a monthly allotment of $800 to be used for director salary," Wofford said.

An allotment is also provided to the present Senior Citizen Center by Gray County, according to an agreement made by Gray County Commissioners. "The funds to the Senior Citizens Center are provided by Revenue Sharing money and could vary according to how much the county receives yearly," Gray County Auditor A.C. Malone said.

"The county's allocation in 1980 to the Senior Citizen Center was $10,000," Malone said.

To date the members of the Planning Committee of the second Senior Citizens Center have not approached city or county officials concerning funding.

Both Pampa City Manager Mack Wofford and Gray County Judge Carl Kennedy have said they are more than willing to work with the new group. "They will just have to approach us and ask to be put on the city or county agenda for discussion concerning funding with city councilmen or county commissioners," Wofford said.

Representatives of the Panhandle Regional Planning Committee in Amarillo were the first to suggest a second facility in Pampa for the senior citizens.

A meeting to discuss public input concerning a second center was held by the PRPC representatives on Sept. 16 in Pampa.

PRPC representatives have provided the Pampa Planning Committee information concerning the by-laws and organizational requirements as determined by the state of Texas.

Opposition building to two prospects for Reagan cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Strong opposition is building against two leading prospects for Ronald Reagan's Cabinet, forcing the president-elect to consider alternatives to Alexander M. Haig Jr. as secretary of state and banker Walter B. Wriston as treasury secretary, Republican sources report.

Haig, the former NATO commander and White House chief of staff during the final days of Richard Nixon's administration, was under fire from some conservative Republicans for his longtime association with former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, one source said. Other Haig detractors are concerned about his connections to the Watergate scandal, which forced Nixon to resign the presidency in 1974, the source said.

Wriston, chairman of Citicorp, the nation's second-largest bank, was encountering conflict-of-interest questions. Citibank, a Citicorp subsidiary, is involved with claims against Iranian assets and loan guarantees for New York City, two issues before the Treasury Department.

Sources involved in putting together a Reagan administration said Haig and Wriston emerged this week as Reagan's first choices for secretaries of state and treasury after two other prominently mentioned candidates withdrew from consideration.

Nixon's former treasury secretary, George Shultz, had been considered the frontrunner for the State Department post and William E. Simon, treasury secretary in the Ford administration,

Amarillo man shot by police

AMARILLO — An Amarillo man was shot to death early this morning by Amarillo police after the man allegedly injured an officer with a tire tool following a pursuit through Amarillo's east side.

Capt. Jimmy Davis of the Amarillo Police Department Detective Division identified the dead man as Raymond Lee Johnson, 46, of Amarillo. Davis said Johnson had several Amarillo motel addresses, and the department was not sure which was correct.

One injured as rig topples

BORGER — A drilling rig owned by the Spradling Drilling Company of Borger fell over Thursday night, slightly injuring a crewman sitting in the rig's "crow's nest."

The identity of the injured man could not be obtained from company officials or law enforcement or fire officials by press time today.

At 8:06 p.m. Thursday, an ambulance from the Borger Fire Department was sent to the drilling site 12 miles southeast of Borger on the 6666 Ranch. Fire officials said one person was transported to a hospital suffering from cuts and bruises. He said the man did not appear to be seriously injured as a result of the mishap.

The fire official said the ground gave way under the rig causing it to topple over. There was no fire as the result of the accident to his knowledge, he said.

L.R. Spradling, owner of the drilling company, was unavailable for comment on the accident at press time today.

The News also was unable to reach Carson County Sheriff Connie Reed for comment.

Davis said Johnson was shot several times by Amarillo police officers after he jumped from the vehicle he was driving and attacked one officer with a tire tool, injuring the officer's hand and arm. The police captain said, "I can't release the officers' names. They will suffer enough as it is."

The injured officer was taken to Northwest Texas Hospital where he was treated and released for the injuries.

Johnson reportedly struck the first officer and as he turned to attack a second officer, he was shot "several times."

The detective said Johnson was probably dead at the scene but was not pronounced dead until he arrived at Northwest Texas Hospital.

The shooting culminated a pursuit by three police units of the Johnson vehicle which began at 4:05 a.m. today with an attempt by one officer to stop the auto for a traffic violation in the 2800 block of East Amarillo Boulevard.

"The chase was not high speed — it went with the traffic flow," Davis said. He said four officers in three police units pursued the vehicle west down Amarillo Boulevard, turned south on Hughes past the "S" curve where the street turns into Hayden. The fleeing vehicle was finally surrounded on three sides by the police vehicles and forced to stop, Davis said.

The shooting incident occurred at the intersection of Third and Hayden Streets, about 10 blocks west of the downtown area, he said.

Johnson's death is currently under investigation by the Amarillo Police Department, Davis said. He said the investigation is expected to be completed by Monday and will then be turned over to the District Attorney's office. He said it will "probably" go to the grand jury next week.

U.S. attempts to ease tension

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, in an apparent move to ease tensions, is assuring the Soviet Union that the United States is not trying to exploit the unrest in Poland or revive the Cold War.

"It would be a pity if East-West relations were thrown back a quarter of a century by the translation of an internal dilemma into intensified East-West hostility," Zbigniew Brzezinski, President Carter's national security adviser, said Thursday.

"I do not believe American interest would be served by that," he added. "I do not believe Soviet interest would be served by that. I don't believe the cause of humanity would be served by that."

Brzezinski said his message to all parties is "restraint, moderation, compromise."

Both Brzezinski and Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie said they saw no prospect of an imminent Soviet invasion of Poland. At a news conference in Kansas, in fact, Muskie said, "It's clear that the Soviets are reluctant to launch a military intervention in Poland."

Their remarks appeared to soften the approach taken Wednesday by President Carter and White House officials expressing "growing concern" over what they called an unprecedented buildup of Soviet forces on the Polish border.

However, Muskie continued to describe the situation as "very delicate and sensitive," and the State Department again cautioned the Soviets that Americans are united in their concern over any possible Russian intervention.

Muskie, in Topeka, Kan., reiterated Carter's description of the Soviet buildup as unprecedented and added: "It continues to be a very delicate and sensitive situation. The military activities continue to concern us and all countries in the West."

But Brzezinski said of the Polish situation: "We mustn't on the one hand become almost hysterical about it and conclude that a massive intervention is either imminent or inevitable."

He added, though, that Carter would not have issued his statement Wednesday if he had considered the Soviet buildup insignificant.

Brzezinski also appealed to all parties in Poland — workers, the government and the Catholic Church — to exercise moderation, restraint and compromise.

He said the Carter administration has made it clear to the Soviet Union that "the United States has no interest in exploiting the situation."

In a remark clearly designed to reassure the Soviet Union, where the government-controlled press has accused the Carter administration of promoting discord, Brzezinski said: "We do not wish an explosion in the center of Europe because we do not think it would be good for East-West relations or world progress."

Poland's problems, he said, stem from a difficult economic situation that the international economic community is trying to respond to sympathetically.

"That response does not have any ulterior motives to it," Brzezinski said.

National weather

Arctic air is making Montana bitterly cold and a winter storm warning was up today in Western Wyoming while sections of the Midwest are enjoying springlike temperatures.

The arctic air lay just east of the northern Rockies today and was making its way slowly southward. The high at Cut Bank, Mont., Thursday was only 7 below zero.

East of the arctic air was a warm, moist air mass that was streaming northeastward, threatening Wyoming with snow. Warm air was also rushing north into the nation's midsection, bringing springlike temperatures as well as fog and drizzle. Temperatures as high as 60 degrees were common as far north as Kansas and Missouri during the night.

Carter will veto anti-busing bill.

WASHINGTON (AP) - In a final battle with Congress, President Carter is vetoing legislation he says would undermine the powers of the presidency by barring the government from seeking court-ordered busing to desegregate schools.

With the lame-duck session of Congress in its last hours, some congressional leaders say Carter's position may prevail - at least until Republican Ronald Reagan takes office and the more conservative 97th Congress convenes next month.

Carter told congressional leaders late Thursday he will veto the $9.1 billion appropriation bill containing the anti-busing amendment.

"For any president to accept this precedent would permit a serious encroachment on the powers of this office," Carter said. "I have a responsibility to my successors and to the American people not to permit that encroachment to take place."

Carter said the anti-busing amendment "would effectively allow the Congress to tell a president that there are certain constitutional remedies that he cannot ask the courts to apply."

Annoyed anti-busing leaders in Congress expressed little optimism that they could overturn the president's decision.

"We will do our best to override, but it is going to be difficult because the departing senators, many of whom are more liberal than those who will replace them, will vote to uphold the veto," said Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C. "I don't anticipate that we will win, but we will have a vote."

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, called the Carter decision a "sorry mistake" and added: "I think there would be enough votes to override that kind of a veto, but I am not sure that the Congress will have enough time to do it."

Senate Republican leader Howard H. Baker of Tennessee said rather than trying to override the veto, Congress probably will adopt a stopgap spending resolution to defer the issue until next year.

However, Congress also may attach the anti-busing amendment to the stopgap resolution as well.

Carter said he would veto that as well despite the operational problems such an action would cause for the government.

"But I would be shirking my constitutional responsibilities if I allowed this unprecedented encroachment on executive authority and responsibility to prevail," Carter said.

The president said busing should be used only as a last resort, but he added: "Busing is not the real issue here. The real issue is whether it is proper for the Congress to prevent the president from carrying out his constitutional responsibility to enforce the Constitution and the laws of the United States."

The amendment was attached to an appropriations bill for the Justice, State and Commerce departments.

It would bar government attorneys from filing or joining court actions requesting desegregation plans that call for busing children farther than the school closest to their homes.

Senators in line for new duties

WASHINGTON (AP) - New committee assignments are in store for Sens. John Tower and Lloyd Bentsen when the new Congress starts next year.

Bentsen, D-Texas, will add the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence to his slate of committee assignments while Tower, R-Texas, will trade his seat on the Senate Rules Committee for one on the Senate Budget Committee.

The Senate Democratic Caucus voted late Wednesday to recommend Bentsen's additional duty. Tower's change was approved by the Senate Republican Conference Thursday.

Bentsen also is a member of the Joint Economic Committee, the Senate Finance Committee and the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee.

Tower's accession to the chairmanship of the Senate Armed Services Committee when Republicans take over as the Senate's majority party in January was approved officially Wednesday night by the panel's Republican members.

The Texas Republican also is a member of the Senate Banking Committee and holds the chairmanship of the Republican Policy Committee, the third ranking position among Senate Republicans.

Tower said he was making the move to the budget committee because it is a strategic location to put into effect the public's call for the government to establish spending priorities.

"We face the challenge of meeting all our government's basic obligations while restoring fiscal responsibility," he said in a statement. "It is a long task but I believe it can be done."

Bentsen said his new committee assignment offered the chance to increase his efforts to improve the nation's intelligence-gathering operation.

"Given today's world situation it is clearly vital that we take every possible step to strengthen our intelligence capability," he said in a statement. "A strong and effective intelligence capability is fundamental to our survival as the leader of free world democracies."

Two bills sponsored by Bentsen affecting the Central Intelligence Agency became law this year, including a measure to limit the number of congressional committees having access to secret intelligence information.

Goat project has cattlemen smiling

MAYHILL, N.M. (AP) - Goats have never been a particularly beloved species.

Cattlemen, in particular, have traditionally shunned the shaggy beasts, known for voracious and eclectic appetites.

But Elmer Curtis and his herd of 100 goats may be about to change all that.

If Curtis' experiment in the Lincoln National Forest turns out right, he may even endear the little critters to forest rangers.

A hundred goats have been herded into portions of the southern New Mexico forest where pesky underbrush hampers firefighting efforts and keeps grass from growing.

Cows, deer and other animals won't eat the waxy leaf oak brush, but goats love it, and Curtis hopes his herd will eat enough of the hardy plant to persuade the U.S. Forest Service to let him put even more goats in the forest.

Forestry rangers refer to Curtis' goats as "biological vegetation manipulators."

"They've done a wonderful job" so far, "I'm real happy," said Curtis, whose Angora goats have been grazing for three months in a 30-acre area about 60 miles north of the New Mexico-Texas border.

The same range is also used as pastureland by 36 cattlemen with grazing permits, although the goats, unlike the cattle, are not allowed to roam freely. They are kept inside a movable fence electrified with a solar-recharged, 12-volt battery.

The animals are penned in to keep independent-minded goats from running away and starting wild herds.

"We already have wild horses and wild burros," said Walt Snyder, chief of game management in Santa Fe.

The "hot" fence also keeps out wolves and mountain lions and allows forest rangers to see how effective the goats are at controlling the underbrush.

If the experiment works, forest rangers would not have to use controversial herbicides or hire teams of men to clear the brush manually. Ranger conservationist Mike Rising said the underbrush constitutes a fire hazard because it grows over cleared areas designed to contain forest fires and allows small forest fires to "jump" to other areas.

The forest rangers also hope the goats will trample in the ground grass seeds that will be sprinkled over each area before the animals are brought in.

Curtis will eventually seek permission to graze 2,000 goats on the underbrush. He purchased the 100-head herd in Del Rio and said some of them have gained 30 pounds since they left the Texas desert.

"They must think they have died and gone to heaven," he said.

Man charged with criminal trespass

A Pampa furniture store owner - alleged to have repossessed a rented entertainment system from a house while the residents were away - has been charged with criminal trespassing.

Delbert Johnson, 56, of 2405 Cherokee was arraigned Thursday on the criminal trespass charges by Justice of the Peace Nat Lunsford, who set bond at $1,500. Johnson was released on a personal recognizance bond Thursday afternoon.

Johnson is the owner of Johnson's Home Furnishings, 406 S. Cuyler, a furniture business which also rents televisions and appliances.

The charges were filed Thursday after Mrs. Emilio Castillo of Pampa Mobile Home Park reported the burglary of the mobile home sometime between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Dec. 1.

According to Gray County Sheriff's Office reports, a Curtis-Mathis color television - stereo combination was reported to be missing from the residence. The report said the window screen was removed from the window, the window raised, and the door unlocked. Entry was believed to have been gained through the front door, the report said.

The case was first turned over as a burglary to the District Attorney's office, said Penny Burt, assistant district attorney. She said it was later changed to criminal trespass and referred to Gray County Attorney David Martindale. Martindale was unavailable for comment early today.

Wood grand jury meets for third day

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A federal grand jury investigating the assassination of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr. has recalled the wife of convicted hit man Charles V. Harrelson reportedly to explore his alibi on the day of the slaying.

Joan Starr Harrelson, and her daughter, Theresa Starr Jasper, spent all day Thursday at the federal courthouse but were not called into the grand jury room. They were asked to return today.

Harrelson's attorney, Robert Tarrant of Houston, was upset at the direction the grand jury investigation was taking and called it "a waste of your money and mine." He said Harrelson claimed to have an iron-clad alibi.

On Thursday, the grand jurors questioned a barber, a sunglasses salesman and an optician who allegedly saw Harrelson in Dallas on May 29, 1979, the day Wood was gunned down at his San Antonio home.

Tarrant said he felt the grand jury's witness list indicated the panel was attempting to knock down Harrelson's alibi.

The attorney said Harrelson told him that at least nine people saw him in Dallas on the day of the assassination. Harrelson said he purchased a cashier's check and loaned some golf clubs to a friend that day, Tarrant said.

The grand jury also spent 40 minutes with Assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr who narrowly escaped an assassination attempt here on Nov. 21, 1978.

Kerr appeared at the federal court house in the company of two deputy federal marshals. He has been under federal protection since he escaped an attempted assassination six months before Wood, 63, was shot in the back with a .243-caliber bullet.

Kerr said last month he believes the same people who wanted him killed were behind Wood's death. Kerr prosecuted many of the narcotics cases in Wood's court that earned the judge the nickname "Maximum John" for the stiff sentences he imposed.

The investigation has appeared to focus on Harrelson and his associates since he appeared in a police lineup at Houston on Nov. 20. A source said several witnesses identified Harrelson as a man they saw outside Wood's townhouse complex the day Wood was killed.

It also was learned Thursday that another reputed Harrelson associate, George Edward "Pete" Kay, 38, of Huntsville, was acquitted in a 1977 trial at Durant, Okla., on charges he participated in the ambush slaying of two Oklahoma men.

Rangers arrest Tyler oil man for murder

TYLER, Texas (AP) — A member of a wealthy Tyler family has been arrested on a capital murder charge in connection with the fatal shooting of a grocer five years ago.

Bobby Joe Manziel, 38, was arrested Thursday on a sealed indictment returned earlier in the day by a 7th District Court grand jury. Manziel, who described himself as a self-employed oil and land leasing agent, was released after posting $25,000 bond set by District Judge Donald Carroll.

The arrest was made by Texas Rangers, Smith County sheriff's officers and representatives of District Attorney Hunter Brush.

The indictment also named a second Tyler man in connection with the 1975 slaying of Tyler grocer Johnny Lee "Red" Hopson. The second man was arrested Thursday but not officially booked.

A third man was arrested two months ago and charged with murder in connection with the slaying.

Harold Hiawatha Stokes, 36, of Granite, Okla., was arrested on Sept. 3 by Texas Rangers and Dallas-based FBI agents. Stokes was denied bond and has been in the Smith County jail at Tyler since his arrest.

Names in the news

LONDON (AP) — The rock group Led Zeppelin, creator of such "heavy rock" classics as "Stairway to Heaven," is breaking up because of the death of drummer John Bonham.

In a statement on Thursday, the band said it could not go on as before out of respect for Bonham's family and because of a "sense of undivided harmony felt by ourselves and our manager."

Bonham, who helped found the band 12 years ago, was found dead Sept. 25 at the mansion owned by the group's lead guitarist, Jimmy Page, in Windsor, 30 miles west of London.

Bonham died as a result of inhaling vomit after drinking about 40 shots of vodka in 12 hours, according to a coroner's inquest.

There had been speculation the group might seek a new drummer and re-form, as The Who did after the death of its drummer, Keith Moon. But Thursday's short statement apparently meant the group would never record or play together again.

ELDORA, Iowa (AP) — Larry Hagman is interested in hats, but he finds at least one cap in his collection to be very boring.

Hagman, who wears a large cowboy hat while portraying the evil oil tycoon J.R. Ewing on the hit CBS series "Dallas," was discussing his hat collection on a recent television talk show when Pat O'Reilly just happened to tune him in.

O'Reilly works for International Boar Semen of Eldora, a firm that extracts semen from male pigs and markets it worldwide to impregnate sows. O'Reilly decided to send Hagman one of the company's promotional caps to add to his collection.

Hagman wrote back, saying he thought the cap was "fantastic" and enclosing $50 to pay for 16 more hats for members of the "Dallas" crew.

California, German firms planning new fuel project

HOUSTON (AP) — A California public utility and a West German pipeline firm may become partners in a $2.34 billion Wyoming coal gasification project Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co. is developing.

A preliminary agreement revealed Thursday provides a one-third interest each for Pacific Gas and Electric Co. of San Francisco and Ruhrgas Aktiengesellschaft of Essen.

Richard L. O'Shields, Panhandle Eastern chairman, said the arrangement is contingent upon a definitive agreement by June 30.

The Houston firm had announced earlier its WyCoalGas Inc. subsidiary has applied to the Department of Defense for a $1.78 billion loan guarantee to finance the plant's stage one construction costs approximating $2.34 billion.

Preconstruction work scheduled for completion by mid-1982 is expected to cost $47 million, of which $12.9 million is being advanced by the DOE. O'Shields said the preliminary agreement also provides that Pacific Gas and Ruhrgas each contribute up $5 million for such costs by June 30.

Under a partnership arrangement, WyCoalGas would continue as the manager and operator and about one-half of the annual output of about 25 billion cubic feet of synthetic gas would be allocated for purchase by Pacific Gas.

Ruhrgas operated the first commercial Lurgi process synthetic gas plant and presently is involved in a $75 million research project aimed at increasing methane output through use of the German developed process.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The leukemia that has plagued Col. Harland Sanders, founder and symbol of Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurants, flared up again recently, said a spokesman for the fast-food chain.

The blood disease had been in remission since September, according to John Cox, a spokesman for Kentucky Fried Chicken. Cox said Thursday the flareup "means Sanders won't be going home from the hospital any time soon."

Sanders, 90, was admitted to Louisville Jewish Hospital early last month for treatment of an infection of the kidney and bladder. Last Monday Cox reported Sanders' condition had improved, and said he might be going home shortly.

"The Colonel is undergoing chemotherapy treatments again," Cox said. "His condition is listed as serious but not critical."

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

An early mistake

Ronald Reagan's reported decision to delay for at least a year the tuition tax credits he supported during his campaign represents a fundamental mistake that may do more to undermine Reagan's intended restoration of traditional values than any other act of his presidency.

The prospect was for $500 credits for families paying only a few thousands of dollars a year in taxes, if they were spending $1,000 on private school tuition. Now Reagan is said to have found the $5 - 6 billion treasury loss from such a write-off to be unacceptable as he tries to balance the federal budget.

Such a choice reflects a misguided sense of priorities. Darkly, it suggests a belief that tax cuts are on a par with expenditure additions and must be sacrificed to the Bottom Line. If this thinking holds true across the board, Reagan's economic plan is gutted. Tax cuts must come first; they are not to be traded off to obtain a healthier economy, because they ARE the ticket to restored prosperity, along with reduced public spending. One will not work without the other.

Further, the educational tax credit is in a special class because it has objectives beyond just letting resources remain in private hands for effective investment. Its case is one of basic fairness, for one: the would-be recipients of the credit are currently paying for government schools that they do not use, and thus being made to pay twice for their children's instruction.

Also, the credit is important from the standpoint of private schools — elementary, secondary and college — trying to compete and stay alive in a world dominated by their well-fed state counterparts. The public schools usually can hire the best-paid teachers, offer the best equipment and locate a branch nearest the pupil's home. The private schools can only hope to offer a better environment that results from effective discipline, higher standards, parental involvement and a desire on the part of students to learn. Those attributes are not priceless. At some point a parent will decide that they aren't worth the extra cost, particularly if his disposable income is strictly limited. The tax credit would effectively lower the price of private schools by hundreds of dollars.

When parents have a real choice of schools, their children can have a real choice of values.

There is no higher budget priority than that.

Singing of carols still constitutional

The Supreme Court has realistically acknowledged the impossibility of hermetically sealing the public schools against religion. Its recent decision to allow the singing of Christmas carols and the observance of other religious holidays in the schools of Sioux Falls, S.D., is a seasoned response to an effort by the American Civil Liberties Union to banish religious influences in the schools.

Now Sioux Falls children can have Christmas programs and even sing "Silent Night" along with "Winter Wonderland" in their classrooms. But it remains clear that the purely religious aspects of church holidays must be reserved for the home and church. In upholding a ruling that the schools may celebrate holidays with "a religious and secular basis," the court has invited a strongly secular dilution of observances by students. Christmas, Hannukah, Easter and Passover will be treated as cultural, rather than spiritual experiences.

This is inevitable if religious holidays are to be observed at all in the cosmopolitan racial, cultural and religious mix of American public schools. But to emphasize Santa Claus, for example, at the expense of spiritual values is a diminution of Christmas which must be rectified outside the public schools.

By allowing the most religion that can be tolerated in secular public school systems, the Supreme Court has assumed that home, church and synagogue will continue to take responsibility for the spiritual education of young people.

Busing idea should never have come

The anti-busing bill that was passed by the Senate and House recently was the result of a continuing effort by North Carolina Senator Jesse Helms to get the nation's schools out of the busing business.

It was a good move, and one that should have been taken years ago. Busing little children across town, away from their homes and neighborhoods, is an arrogant intrusion into the affairs of people who love their children and want the best for them.

Back when busing was being forced upon the South, school districts were changed so that the federally-mandated racial mix was met. Some new schools were built and others were strategically located.

All over the country, busing continues as surely as the engines start up each morning. Little children barely able to see out the windows are bundled up early and shipped across town in a grand effort to mix white with black or vice versa.

The, a few days ago, Senator Helms dropped his little amendment into the Senate hopper. It would forbid the Department of Justice bureaucrats from promoting forced busing. And it would do it by controlling the purse strings.

There was immediate and plaintiff wailing from the liberal members of the Senate. But when the votes were counted, the total stood at 42-38 in favor. Twenty-one Democrats and 21 Republicans supported the amendment; 26 Democrats and 12 Republicans opposed it.

The sky will not fall if busing is stopped. Education will go on, and with greater ease and less strain and at much less expense. Few blacks or whites like busing. It is wrong and should be stopped.

Attendance at any school should be as voluntary as possible. Once that goal is reached, mark that down as one big step for the people who make up our society.

Americans value higher education highly

By Oscar Cooley

Topmost in my "good news" file is the statistic that more students are enrolled in U.S. colleges and universities this fall than ever before. For the first time, the number is over 12 million.

This is despite the fact that most colleges have raised their tuition and room charges, some steeply. It costs over $10,000 a year now to go to Harvard.

Granted, college education is not a sure road to success and happiness, but it certainly leads in that direction. It enables one to think and understand, not merely memorize and repeat. He can design and plan, not just operate. It introduces one to the world of ideas as well as the world of action.

Adults better than youth can appreciate the value of higher education. It follows that those in the twilight of life can serve greatly by encouraging and helping youth to go to college.

Private colleges — and they number nearly half of all the institutions of higher learning — depend on two main sources of income: tuition fees from students and gifts from well-wishers.

The total amount of money given outright to colleges each year is large, enormous in fact. The aggregate of wealth given in real estate, stocks and bonds, and deferred claims is even greater.

I find it remarkable that this big and booming industry of higher education is, to a large degree, maintained by voluntary giving. College endowment funds are not extorted by taxation. They are not a quid pro quo payment — unless you think of the quo as psychic in nature. It is not a payment for anything. It is just given, out of the goodness of people's hearts and the wisdom of their brains.

No other substantial enterprise — unless the Christian church — is so liberally financed in this manner. It makes one wonder whether government taxes and business prices are the only ways to finance undertakings. Maybe even government could be financed by voluntary giving.

Colleges have devised attractive ways of giving — ways by which one can give the college money or property now and still keep and use it, or use the income from it, until he dies. One can even escape being taxed on this income.

"If you plan to give your residence to Ohio Northern," reads a brochure of my favorite institution, "you can get present income tax savings by deeding the property now and keeping the right to live in it for life."

If one prefers to give his college a gift of cash, or stocks and bonds, he can set up a "trust," which is like giving deferred real estate. He gives the money or securities to a trustee, which may be the college itself or a bank that agrees to act for it, and the trustee agrees to pay him interest on it yearly, at a fixed rate, as long as he lives. When he dies, the college gets the principal.

This savors of having your cake and eating it, too — or eating the frosting on it.

It also has the merit of absolving one from the necessity of making a will, or acts as a substitute, or part substitute, for a will. And it interests the giver in the institution — in what it teaches, how its football or maybe debating teams do, how pretty the flowerbeds on the campus are.

If he lives nearby, he takes a more charitable view of the pranks played by the students on Hallowe'en. He slips into the dining hall and has a snack with them now and then. He may even venture to sign up for a course in philosophy, or Chaucer, or physics. Why not? It is his school.

"Going to college." Once it was something only the scions of the rich and the distinguished did. Now, the daughters and sons of the corn grower and the assembly line worker go. It is the common thing to go to college.

And it is the making of a better America.

Space interest waning

Voyager has provided us dramatic views of Saturn and its rings and moons. Scientists should enjoy the feast while they can, for after the feast comes famine.

A second Voyager making the interplanetary tour will reach Saturn for another look next August. Then, only one planetary probe remains on the agenda for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration — sending a spacecraft into orbit around the planet Jupiter in the late 1980s.

The rest is silence, as far as further U.S. deep-space exploration is concerned. The space shuttle which NASA is developing with the Defense Department is scheduled for its first launch next year, but that piloted reusable space vehicle has no missions at present beyond the application of space technology from earth-orbiting satellites.

The Apollo moon landings a decade ago seemed to open a door on future space travel, but that door has been slowly swinging shut. Proposals for a major space effort on the Apollo scale — perhaps a manned mission to Venus or Mars — have been getting nowhere in Washington, where there are few lobbyists to argue for spending on space. Says Christopher Kraft, the familiar figure from mission control who is still on the job at the Johnson Space Center in Houston, "We're in a holding pattern until something comes along that arouses new interest."

If there is not much interest in space in Washington, there is interest elsewhere. The Russians have had manned space flight all to themselves for several years, setting endurance records in their orbiting space lab and adding cosmonauts from the satellite countries to their space crews to show the glories of Communist solidarity.

Western Europe is developing its own Ariane space-craft through the 11-nation European Space Agency. The Chinese are said to be training astronauts for their space program. Even India is planning to spend $1 billion on space satellites. Is space flight going to join nuclear power as a technology the Americans perfected and then surrendered to other countries for the follow-through?

I'll never play golf like Snead

By Lucie Johnson

I will never play golf in the sixties, rarely in the seventies. To that extent, compared to Sam Snead, I am "retarded."

Each of us, compared to others of us, is less agile, less coordinated, less eloquent, less perceptive. One way or another we are all retarded.

Recently I visited "The Lambs" north of Chicago and "The Meadows" near Oklahoma City, where less gifted individuals are given a chance to become as useful to themselves and to others as they can be.

And who knows how much more?
Son Paul, researching stories for THE REST OF THE STORY, remembers a boy named Al who attended only grammar school, and that for only three months, because he was considered by his teachers to be "addled"; today we would say "retarded."

The boy characterized as an ineducable

nitwit, a dunce, the bottom of the class, subsequently taught by only his mother at home — became Thomas Alva Edison.

Thomas Jefferson had a speech defect. John Adams was subject to extreme depression. James Madison was an epileptic.

Lucie's parents knew something was wrong with her but they did not know what. Her high school grades were mostly D's. Lucie could not comprehend, was chronically confused, became belligerent, suffered blackouts.

An optometrist discovered that Lucie's problem was in her eyes. While she had 20-20 vision, she nonetheless suffered "visual decoordination."

After appropriate therapy, L.B.J.'s daughter, Lucie Johnson, demonstrated consistent scholastic excellence.

Less enlightened generations frequently locked away the inarticulate child or predoomed him or her to lifelong dependency.

A baseball player who will forever struggle with a speech defect was one of the heroes of the 1980 world series — Willie Aikens.

Individuals whose only struggle may be with words — who have a difficult time enunciating their thoughts — may be otherwise normal, even brilliant.

But thrust unprepared into an environment of what the world calls "normalcy" they may be abused, driven deeper into themselves.

Thus the most effective training programs allow them the association of others with similar problems while they learn to overcome.

Pauline Koch's son had difficulty speaking. Asked the simplest question, the response was agonizingly hesitant. He knew the answer but could not express himself.

The boy's father had given up, resigned himself to a son who was "not normal," would "never amount to anything."

The boy never uttered a word until he was three and was still having difficulty expressing himself at nine.

You remember him as Albert Einstein.

Now, as son Paul would say, you know THE REST OF THE STORY.

"Don't try to push your kids into your dream world," says Alice J. Irby.

Ms. Irby is a button-right brunette in her 40s. Her daughter, Andi, 19, is "comfortable and doing fairly well" in her second year at the University of Virginia.

Alice Irby says she "didn't encourage Andi to strive for a highly competitive college" — that is, for the Ivy League.

The "dream world" Mrs. Irby talks about is one that ambitious parents create for their children in the big leap from high school to college.

She knows. She has been university teacher; and a director of admissions at Rutgers University in New Jersey. Two years ago she left Rutgers to come to Washington as vice president of the Educational Testing Service, the Princeton, N.H. outfit that prepares the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT).

You may recall that recently there was a big flap about the SAT, a standardized multiple-choice test for college-bound high schoolers made up of separate verbal and math sections. A Ralph Nader investigative team took a hard look at the SATs and said they were unfair because they don't predict well enough, or predict the wrong things, or fail to measure traits of character, or are culturally biased, or are susceptible to coaching, or are devised in secret. Or all of the above.

Even before the investigative report came out last January, Nader-inspired Public Interest Research Groups had attacked the SATs and got New York's legislature to enact a law mandating that test answers be available to those who took the tests. For a price, naturally.

Rep. Ted Weiss, D-N.Y., introduced a bill in the House seeking to transform the New York statute into federal law. Legislation similar to New York's was introduced in 23 state legislatures, but nothing came of it.

As it's turned out, only 7 percent of those taking SATs in New York spent the $4 needed to see the test answers, and these have been wealthier, white, high-earning youngsters. New York law had another result, though: 20 of 26 testing programs, feeling harassed, left the state.

Weiss' legislation didn't go anywhere and isn't likely to. Its chief support, outside of Nader's organizations, came from the 1.8 million-member National Education Association, which doesn't like testing because it tends to reflect on teachers' competence.

About the hostages

There perhaps were times Ronald Reagan talked when he should have listened.

But on one crucial occasion, he remained mute and for that he deserves respect.

Toward the final and most intense heat of the campaign, Reagan refused comment on the U.S. hostage issue. He did not reduce lives at stake to a political gambit and in silence gained stature as a statesman.

Doubtless Iranian officials had great fun trying to manipulate the U.S. election, just as for more than one year they have attempted to control this country by holding our citizens in jeopardy. To the credit of Reagan, and, to a lesser degree, Carter, their election eve antics were spoiled.

Perhaps with the election of Reagan, Iranian militants and other terrorist-motivated groups will think twice before striking out at the United States.

Costs cut contest candidates

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The mother of one of the winners in the trouble-plagued Missouri-Kansas Baby Miss America pageant has called the costs of attending national finals in Texas next week "ridiculous."

At least five of the nine winners in the pageant say they will not attend the finals because of the cost. Parents said it would cost them $1,500 to $2,000 to attend the nationals in Houston Dec. 14-21.

A check by The Kansas City Star of the nine winners of the Oct. 9 pageant found five planned to bypass the national competition and one planned to attend. The other three families had unlisted telephone numbers and could not be reached.

They said a brochure explaining the nationals told of a $350 sponsor's fee, $75 for photography expenses, at least $125 for advertising costs, $1 from each of 200 "boosters" and $8 to $10 for each family member to watch each of six events and the finals.

"We've had some financial trouble, and we don't have the money to go," said Tracy

Matthias of Topeka, whose 3-year-old daughter, Jessica, won her age category at the regional contest. "I think it (the cost) was ridiculous. We would have had too much money wrapped up in it."

The regional pageant, sponsored by Baby Miss America Pageant Productions Inc. of Metairie, La., had been scheduled for Aug. 7 in Kansas City but was postponed until Oct. 9.

Debra Crawford of Monett, Mo., whose 3-year-old son, Christopher, was a winner in Kansas City, said asking sponsors for donations was "kind of like begging." She said a letter outlining requirements for the national competition didn't arrive until Nov. 2.

"I didn't think we could come up with all that money," she said. "I don't think they gave us enough time."

Some regional winners, who made the trip to Kansas City in August only to learn the pageant had been postponed, said they were concerned the same problem would occur with the nationals in Houston.

Tax-free housing bonds stopped

WASHINGTON (AP) — A measure restricting states and localities from issuing tax exempt housing mortgage bonds is waiting for President Carter's signature.

The bill including that provision received final congressional approval Wednesday. It is a compilation of proposals to increase government revenues and cut federal spending during the current budget year.

The new restrictions eventually will eliminate the tax-free bonds for housing.

In recent years, state and local governments have issued large amounts of tax-exempt development bonds to finance the purchase of owner occupied homes. Typically, the government agency will issue the bonds and lend the money to private institutions, which, in turn, make loans for individuals to buy homes.

The new legislation generally would allow tax-exempt bonds to be used for single-family, owner-occupied homes only if the money is for the borrower's principal home and the borrower has not been a homeowner for the past three years.

Michael Keeling, an aide to Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, said the federal restrictions resemble the guidelines imposed last year by the Texas Legislature.

Any bonds issued in 1980 would be tax exempt as long as the proceeds are used within one year.

Rules are provided to take care of programs under way.

The bill also limits the total amount of housing bonds that may be issued in each state to $200 million or 9 percent of mortgages originating in the state in the past three years, whichever is greater.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., said the stricter House bill was modified in conference committee to insure that state and local governments will be able to operate housing programs in the future.

Environmental future predicted

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The future looks gloomy for the world's environment unless today's apathetic attitudes change in the coming years, predict a presidential adviser and a state legislator.

Gus Speth, director of the President's Council on Environmental Quality, was the keynote speaker Thursday for a meeting on environmental legislation. The two-day session is sponsored by For the People, Inc., a non-profit corporation working for public education on environmental issues.

"I wish I had some good news to bring to you," Speth said before reading off a checklist of brewing ecological catastrophes.

Rep. Fred Agnich, R-Dallas, said, "I'm not a doomsdayer," but then issued a similarly disturbing prediction.

Speth worked on Global 2000, a report to the president on possible world conditions in the year 2000.

He warned the audience in the House chamber that residents of wealthy nations will suffer if they do not abandon their arrogant attitude that "the riches of the earth are ours to plunder."

"It's beginning to cause permanent damage to the planet's natural resource base," he said. "It is now a challenge that rivals the global arms race in importance."

The Global 2000 report projects a world population of six billion in 20 years, with most of the new population in poor nations.

Half the world's population in 2000 will live with an "absence of hope," he said.

He cited the testimony of a witness at a recent public hearing as an example of current attitudes toward the environment.

"Future generations, humbug," the witness said. "What have they done for us?"

Agnich, a geologist, said the 1970s were the "easy years" for environmental decisions.

"It was the in thing to do. Everybody wanted to clean up the environment," he said.

In the 1980s, he said, Americans are learning about the high cost of cleaning up.

Agnich said the skyrocketing world population must be slowed.

"Unless we can somehow limit those numbers, there will be those who have energy and those who don't," he said.

He predicted "famine, pestilence and warfare" will prevent the world from reaching the populations predicted in some reports.

Half-hour behind bars inspires judge to pay up

BELTON, Texas (AP) — An East Texas county judge recently found himself on the other side of the bars in the Bell County Jail.

Harrison County Judge Richard Anderson, 31, was ordered Thursday to 10 days in jail for contempt and non-payment of child support payments.

However, 169th District Judge J.F. Clawson suspended all but four hours of the sentence after Anderson agreed to write checks for almost $10,000 in back child support payments, attorneys' fees and court costs.

Anderson, a Marshall lawyer, was divorced in October 1974 from his wife, Dale Owens of the Bell County community of Harker Heights, but court records showed he had not paid $175-a-month payments for the past four years. His daughter is now 12.

About 30 minutes his jail term began, Anderson agreed to make up the back payments and was released about 4 p.m. to go to Clawson's court, where he wrote checks for $9,100 in back payments, $500 in attorneys' fees and $87 in court costs.

Anderson then returned to jail to serve the remaining hours of punishment imposed by Clawson.

Clawson said the sentence was suspended after 8 p.m. on condition the checks would be honored when presented for payment to the First National Bank in Marshall by Anderson's ex-wife.

Marked bills used in car deal

MARLIN (AP) — A car bought in Temple Tuesday afternoon was paid for with marked $20 bills taken in a $50,000 robbery earlier in the day from the First State Bank of Chilton, authorities said.

Falls County Sheriff Larry Pamplin said two 19-year-old Temple men were believed en route to Michigan in the car.

Justice of the Peace Robert McGruder of Marlin issued arrest warrants Thursday against the pair. The sheriff said the warrants were issued after officers talked to witnesses and to relatives of the suspects.

A third suspect also is being sought, Pamplin said. Chilton is 27 miles northeast of Temple and 7 miles west of Marlin.

Two men wearing ski masks and carrying a shotgun and a rifle walked into the bank at 11:20 a.m. Tuesday and told the bank president, four employees and a customer to come to the front of the bank and bring all the money, authorities said.

Siberia may hold largest oil reserve

PARIS (AP) — A French oil industry bulletin today reported the discovery of a giant oil field in western Siberia, which if correct, would be history's largest.

The Bulletin of the Petroleum Industry quoted the Swedish consultant firm of Petrostudies as saying the oil reserves in the field are estimated at 619 billion tons.

The reported reserves are said to be "several times" larger than those initially discovered in the entire Middle East.

The bulletin said if the "incredible" report turns out to be true, the discovery would represent twice as much as the recoverable reserves of 300 billion tons estimated at the Istanbul Energy Conference of 1977.

There are seven barrels in a ton, and each barrel contains 42 gallons.

The bulletin said the information was passed on to Petrostudies by experts of the Soviet Geology Ministry, who called the discovery "a unique and sensational natural phenomenon," especially since about 50 percent of the find is likely to be extracted without too much difficulty.

A resume of the Petrostudies report was made available to the industry bulletin in Paris.

Description of rapist issued

CANTON, Texas (AP) — A

short, well-groomed man who raped a 22-year-old woman near Canton may be the same man who raped seven women in Wood County and one in Collin County recently, authorities say.

The woman, a coed at the University of Texas-Tyler, was abducted from her home in the Westworth community, 10 miles northeast of Canton Thursday afternoon. She was forced into a faded blue Buick Skylark and driven four or five miles away, where she was raped, according to Van Zandt County Sheriff Travis Shafer.

Shafer said the victim viewed a composite sketch of a suspect in seven rape cases in neighboring Wood County and one in Collin County, and said the man who raped her looked like the same man, except for his nose. The sketch was drawn on information provided by one of the previous victims after she was placed under hypnosis. Shafer said.

Officers were looking for a man described as white, between 30 and 40 years old, 5-6, 145 pounds, well groomed, clean shaven and dressed very neatly.

Sweet tooth cost rises

By JAMES H. RUBIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price of feeding a sweet tooth is going up, the Agriculture Department says.

The department is predicting higher sugar prices over the next several months, with consumption outpacing production.

Prices could ease later in 1981, depending on production around the globe and consumer response to higher prices, the department's foreign agricultural service said Thursday.

The latest estimate is that the world sugar crop in the 1980-81 production year will be about 87 million metric tons, a 3 percent increase over the previous year.

But the production will still fall short of global sugar consumption, which was estimated at about 90 million tons.

If the figures are accurate, it would mean that sugar stocks would drop by about three million tons, to 21 million, in the current production year.

World sugar prices topped 40 cents a pound in early November, before dropping back to about 30 cents a pound within the last few days, the department said.

Raw sugar prices in the United States averaged 42 cents a pound in October and declined to 39 cents last month.

The domestic price is likely to remain around 40 cents a pound next year even if production and consumption come into approximate balance, the department said.

The price could reach 50 cents on the average in 1981 in this country if there is a further decline in world stocks, the report said.

Retail prices of sugar in the United States are likely to average 37 or 38 cents a pound this year, a 50 percent jump over 1979.

Production of cane and beet sugar in the United States is expected to total 5.2 million metric tons in the 1980-81 crop year, a 2 percent increase over the previous 12-month period.

The production is based on a sugarbeet crop of nearly 20.8 million metric tons, a 4 percent increase from last year, and a 25.2 million ton sugarcane crop, up nearly 5 percent over 1979-80.

The U.S. sugar industry has a capacity of about 5 million metric tons a year and so only moderate output increases can be expected in the next crop year despite current high prices, the Agriculture Department added.

Per capita consumption of refined sugar this year in this country is expected to be around 87 pounds, a 4 percent decline from 1979. A further drop in sugar consumption per person here is predicted for next year.

Increased use of high fructose corn syrup combined with the higher prices are contributing to hold down sugar consumption, the department said.

The United States is expected to import around 4.2 million metric tons of sugar this year, with exports expected to be around 454,000 metric tons.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States exported a record $10.6 billion in oilseeds and related products in the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30, the Agriculture Department reports.

The value of the exports is 15 percent greater than in the previous fiscal year.

Soybean meal shipments were 7.2 million metric tons, a 20 percent increase over last year, with Western Europe receiving more than half, 3.8 million tons.

Soybean oil shipments jumped 15 percent, to 1.2 million tons. The leading market for the product was India, which received 427,669 tons of American soybean oil.

The United States imported $578 million worth of oilseeds and related products, a 10 percent decline from the previous fiscal year. The drop was primarily due to decreased imports of palm and coconut oil.

In September, exports of oilseeds and related products dipped to $649 million, a 16 percent decline from August. Peanut exports dropped in September 1980 to 8,438 tons, compared with 10,219 tons in the same month in 1979.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Association of Wheat Growers says that Congress should disregard President Carter's plea to rescind interest-free loans next year on wheat placed in the farmer-owned reserve.

Jack Felgenhauer, president of the association, said the law signed Wednesday by Carter providing the loans without interest was "needed and long overdue."

He said, "the president has criticized the most important aspect of this bill to the nation's farmers."

The new law sets a loan rate of $3.30 per bushel for 1980 and 1981 wheat entered into the reserve. Carter signed the measure even though he said he believed farmers should pay interest on the loans, which is currently 11.5 percent.

Higher education plan approved

HOUSTON (AP) — The Coordinating Board for the Texas College and University System has supported increases in state tuition rates and faculty salaries but suggested that building expansion be curtailed on state campuses.

The board met Thursday to map out strategy for the coming decade and to discuss recommendations to the upcoming session of the Texas Legislature.

Board members tentatively approved portions of a 101-page long-range plan developed by Commissioner of Higher Education Kenneth Ashworth.

Several members and educators criticized the proposal as "too negative" in its review of financial problems and for suggesting state-supported universities should be geared toward reducing rather than expanding educational and buildings programs.

"I think it hurts the concept of excellence to say we're on a non-building spree. Texas is right in the middle of the Sunbelt. I don't know of any instance where we're going to run out of money," said board member L.F. Peterson.

"What if you bring a fine fusion physicist to UT and you're not going to build a building for him? Is he going to work in a galvanized barn?" Peterson asked.

Earlier Thursday, several educators voiced dissatisfaction with the faculty's role in decision-making matters at state colleges and universities.

El Paso Community College President Robert Shoback told the board that keeping faculty isolated from policy-making affairs "is scary and it could lead to collective bargaining that would make management of colleges a nightmare."

Board members suggested a moratorium on establishing medical and law schools in Texas.

But the heated discussion came over a proposal that should Texas have an over-supply of physicians, state financial support be reduced for some institutions and enrollment in state medical schools be cut back.

During the spirited debate, Marshall Formby of Plainview, a board member and broadcast executive, said, "I want to make sure that my name is in the newspapers opposing this action, and I think we are wrong to try to set priorities on what might happen in the medical profession."

The board also said that at some future date the Legislature should "stop expansion of medical schools, particularly the new schools — Texas Tech University School of Medicine, Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine and Texas A&M University College of Medicine."

Also approved was a recommendation that the Texas Legislature deny "all proposals to create additional senior college or universities."

And board members chose not to oppose a proposal to increase from 20 percent to 30 percent the bonding capacity of the Permanent University Fund for the University of Texas and Texas A&M systems.

"To tell the Legislature to tell UT how to spend their money is none of our business," said board member Newton Gregham of Houston. "It is a mistake for us to get into it at all."

Johnny Carson traits affect persons at home

Johnny Carson is by no means an easy man with whom to live. Although he seems to have a need to be married all the time, he has reputedly never been totally open with any of his wives. He is not an overly generous man: he doesn't give current wife, Joanna, many gifts, unless it's to repair a fight or make up for pushing her too far. But this is in direct contradiction to the verifiable fact that he recently bought Joanna an $80,000 Rolls-Royce. On top of that, she has to contend with Johnny's competitive temperament. If Johnny loses a tennis game in the morning, for example, he may not speak to Joanna — who, of course, had nothing to do with it — for the rest of the day. All in all, he is not the textbook ideal of a good husband.

There seems to be a real barrier between Johnny and his family. More than just a prickliness, it comes down to Johnny on one side, the rest on the other. The two factions don't even talk much unless it's called for, and they certainly aren't closely knit. Joanna's job, at times, is to be Johnny's official wife and to cater to his every whim, and that's what she does. She is also charged with being at all times loyal and closemouthed, which she is to a fault. Joanna is really a very warm person, and it must be difficult to pay the price she does for that coveted position as the wife of Johnny Carson. She is, of course, never anything but laudatory of him both publicly and privately. Joanna met — if that's the correct word — her present husband shortly after her divorce, when she was on a date at a Manhattan restaurant. Johnny was sitting at a table nearby and, obviously taken with her looks, began a hilarious flirtation routine to catch her attention. He would do things like miss his food with his fork or miss his moth with his fork — a lot of stunts which were charmingly juvenile.

Prior to his marriage to Joanna, Johnny was married for many years to a woman named Joanne. (The fact that all the women in his life have had names that start with the letter "J" — like first wife Jody; then Joanne; and now Joanna — is probably pure coincidence, but it's odd coincidence. Or it may be pure pragmatism, because in this way he doesn't have to get new monogrammed towels each time.)

Joanne was an actress of marginal credibility, but she was also probably the most devout Johnny Carson fan who ever walked.

Around the time of their divorce, "The Tonight Show" was scheduled to move to the West Coast, and finding out about the plan, Joanne moved herself to Los Angeles in advance. The fact that she was there in town waiting for Johnny when he was expecting to have a fresh start on the Coast perturbed him immensely, and part of his annoyance was undoubtedly due to the fact that her presence there would fan the divorce — gossip fires and sap off some of the good publicity he had hoped to generate by moving the show West.

Johnny's first marriage, and the one that produced his three sons, was to a girl named Jody Wolcott — an extremely attractive blonde who has scrupulously shied away from the limelight, and who now lives happily on a farm in upstate Connecticut.

Joanna seems to be very fond of the three boys, especially the older two, Chris, 29, and Corey, 26. She thinks they have matured nicely and what's more that they are surprisingly unaffected, non-materialistic, for having been raised in an environment where there was always increasing wealth and fame.

Former governor candidate free from prison term

DALLAS (AP) — When former Texas gubernatorial candidate Ramsey Muniz walks out of a federal halfway house here today, he will be a free man for the first time in three years.

But little will change in the life of the former La Raza Unida party candidate.

For the past 2½ months, Muniz has been living at the halfway house and working as a paralegal for Dallas attorney Joe Montemayor. The 37-year-old political activist says he hopes to be reinstated to the Texas Bar, which jerked his license after he was convicted in 1977 of participating in a plot to smuggle 1,100 pounds of marijuana into the United States.

For now, he sees himself as an effective political organizer and spokesman for Mexican-Americans.

"I think that I'm going to be taking that on in time," he said at a Thursday press conference on the eve of his release. "I've always been involved before, and if it's in your blood, it's in your blood."

"And if I'm going to make some impact, it's going to be through the government's own legal system."

Men's breakfast slated Saturday at Highland Baptist

The Rev. George Warren, Minister of Education and Administration at the First Baptist Church in Pampa, will speak at the organizational meeting of the Highland Baptist Men's Brotherhood, Saturday Dec. 6, at 7 a.m.

John D. Davey, pastor at Highland Baptist noted, "I am excited with reference to the potential for this new thrust. We have almost 90 men, listed as members of the Brotherhood."

The men will be served a breakfast at the early morning meeting, Davey said.

A number of the men of the Church, including T.C. Drinnon, Church School Director, Troy Ledbetter, chairman of the Deacons, Reggie DeHay, chairman of the Properties Committee, Frank Parrish, and the pastor will actually do the early morning cooking.

The Rev. Davey added, "One of the major functions of the Baptist Men's Brotherhood is by mandate, to actively support and participate in the local, state, national and worldwide missions program of the Southern Baptist denomination."

Sources stated the Brotherhood would meet regularly in 1981, with special programs and projects determined as the needs arose.

Church officials added, "The invitation to come and enjoy the breakfast fellowship, Saturday, is extended to any man in the community."

The Church is located at 1301 N. Banks.

Herod: Fact and fantasy

(Fourth of 12 parts)

Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea in the days of Herod the king... (Matthew 2:1)

There are several Herods mentioned in the New Testament. This coin was minted under Herod the Great, who reigned in Judea from 37 B.C. to 4 B.C.

He was a good administrator and a great builder. His nickname "the Great" was not given him by his Jewish subjects but by foreigners who admired his architectural achievements, including the Jerusalem Temple.

Regarding the age-old story of Herod's "Massacre of the Innocents," there is a great deal of scholarly dispute. Famed historian Michael Grant offers this information in his book "Jesus: An Historian's Review of the Gospels": "About the date of Jesus' birth there are... perplexing problems. The belief that he was born in A.D. 1 only came into existence in the 6th century A.D. when a monk from South Russia living in Italy, Dionysius Exiguus, made a mathematical miscalculation. His birthdate should be re-assigned to 6 or 5 or 4 B.C., though some prefer 11 or 7.

"Matthew's story of the Massacre of the Innocents by Herod the Great, because he was afraid of a child born at Bethlehem 'to be King of the Jews,' is a myth allegedly fulfilling a prophecy by Jeremiah and mirroring history's judgment of the great but evil potentate Herod, arising from many savage acts during the last years before his death in 4 B.C."

In one of those actual savage acts, Herod ordered that upon his death many of Jerusalem's leading Jews were to be murdered. Thus, he reasoned, there would be no lack of mourners at his own funeral.

Religion roundup

ATLANTA (AP) — Nearly half of American Protestants are members of denominations other than those in which they grew up.

The extent of the denominational switching is brought out in a study by C. Kirk Hadaway, a researcher of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A life-size bronze bust of Peter Muhlenberg, the "Fighting Parson" of the American Revolution, recently was dedicated in a park named for him, completing part of a memorial project authorized by Congress more than 50 years ago.

Muhlenberg, a Lutheran pastor in Woodstock, Va., in 1776, is said to have told worshippers, "In the language of Holy Writ there is a time for all things... there is a time to pray and a time to fight... and that time has come now."

He thereupon removed his vestments, and as a pastor-soldier enlisted about 3,000 parishioners from German Lutheran congregations and fought at Valley Forge, Brandywine, Germantown, Monmouth and Stony Point. As a brigadier general, he commanded a brigade that stormed a British redoubt in the final victory at Yorktown.

PAPUA, New Guinea (AP) — Delegates to the 18th general convention of the Guitnius Lutheran Church voted overwhelmingly to retain the denomination's polygamy stance — that men with multiple wives before conversion to Christianity may be baptized, but that plural marriages are not allowed those baptized before they are married.

"Thou wilt shew me the path of life: in thy presence is fulness of joy..." PSALM 16-11

HERE IS THE PATH

LITTLE FRIEND

Any mother can tell about a child's love for her doll, and the world of PRETEND that they live in. They confide in the doll, reprimand them, and care for them.

The church is a real and true friend. The church may be counted on in times of need, in times of trouble, and in times of sorrow. The church also wants to share in your times of joy.

"A friend loveth at all times."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Banks vie for checking accounts

COLLEGE STATION — Consumers soon will face new economic decisions — about banking. Be prepared for an onslaught of aggressive advertising by financial institutions competing for your checking and savings-account business — and study the ads before making a move. Nancy Granovsky, a home economist cautions consumers. Mrs. Granovsky is a family resource management specialist on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

There's a reason for all this: starting Jan. 1, 1981, financial institutions will be able to offer interest-bearing NOW (negotiable orders of withdrawal) accounts. In short, banks will be able to pay interest on checking accounts, AND savings-and-loan-associations and credit unions will be able to offer checking-account privileges on savings accounts, Mrs. Granovsky explains. Credit unions will call theirs "share-draft" accounts. From all reports, institutions are gearing up for this major change in banking services by trying to determine the terms and conditions under which the new accounts will be offered — or, indeed, if they will offer them at all. How can consumers decide what to do with their "checking-account money" as they don their sales-pitch-resistant armor? Ask plenty of questions — and compare, compare, compare the terms and conditions offered by financial institutions in your area, Mrs. Granovsky suggests. If questions are the "answer" to saving the day's dollar against this battery of ads, then there ought to be specific questions to ask. Indeed, Mrs. Granovsky says. First ask about costs. Ask these questions about cost — and remember to compare, compare the answers: 1) What is the minimum amount required to open an account? 2) What is the amount of the monthly balance that must be maintained to keep the account open?

3) How is the monthly balance determined? Is it the lowest balance in the account, or the highest balance, or the average of daily balances or is it the closing balance in the account? 4) Is the service free under certain conditions? Is it free if a certain monthly balance is maintained, or if other services are used, such as savings accounts, credit cards, personal loans, mortgage loans, automated teller or bill-paying services? 5) What service charges are assessed and what are the amounts? There are several possibilities — ask about them. These include: Flat monthly fee — does the fee vary according to monthly balance or is it the same for all accounts? Transaction fee — what is the charge for each check or draft processed? Check (draft) fee — what is the price range for checks (drafts)? Overdraft fee — is there one, and how much is it? Stop-payment fee — is there one, and how much is it? Additional fees — what is the penalty for dropping below a certain monthly balance? Are there any other fees or charges? 6) Are cancelled checks (drafts) returned with the monthly statement? If not, what is the charge for obtaining a copy of the cancelled checks? 7) Is postage-paid banking by mail available? Next, ask about the benefits. Ask what the annual percentage rate is. Ask what the annual percentage yield is. Ask how often earnings will be compounded: continuously, daily, monthly or quarterly. Finally, ask how earnings will be computed: on the closing balance, the lowest balance, each day's balance, the average monthly balance or on a specific amount only. If the answers don't meet your needs, there will probably be the choice of doing nothing — and just continuing to bank as you always have with your same traditional checking and savings accounts, Mrs. Granovsky says.

One-man art show to open in Dumas

DUMAS — A one-man show of paintings by Carroll Powell of Boys Ranch will open with a reception from 1-5 p.m. Sunday at the Art Center Galleries, 100 W. 7th, Dumas.

The reception, hosted by the Moore County Arts Association, is open to the public. The paintings will be exhibited through December.

Carroll Powell is a realist, painting in all media and depicting a wide range of subject matter from sports to snow scenes. Of particular interest to historians and art collectors are his watercolor paintings of old Tascosa. Occasionally he produces an edition of bronze sculpture. His work has been exhibited in Arkansas, New Mexico, Washington and Texas.

Powell grew up in Abernathy, a few miles north of Lubbock. He has a bachelor's in art and physical education from West Texas State University. He has also studied with Dr. Emilio Caballero of Amarillo, Bud Biggs of Dallas, Maurine Brotherton and Carl Crager. Powell currently coaches and teaches art at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch.

Use of tranquilizers studied

AUSTIN — Minor tranquilizers are prescribed by almost all Texas physicians for their patients who suffer from anxiety, with Valium the most frequent choice. This is one of the findings of a Texas Medical Association study on how and why physicians prescribe minor tranquilizers. In 1978, the TMA Committee on Drug and Alcohol Abuse noted there was much information about patients needing tranquilizers and the amounts prescribed. However, there was a gap in knowledge of physicians' attitudes toward these drugs. The committee undertook a study to determine what role physicians play in prescribing these drugs. The ultimate goal was to educate Texas physicians and medical schools about physicians' attitudes.

The study, funded by TMA and a grant from the Hogg Foundation for Mental Health, involved a random sample of 150 physicians. Two sociologists trained in survey research conducted in-depth interviews last summer. Preliminary results of the survey indicate the following:

— The minor tranquilizer prescribed most often was Valium (59 percent), with Tranxene (10 percent) and Librium (9 percent) distinct second mentions.

— Some 40 percent of the physicians surveyed reported they are less likely to prescribe minor tranquilizers than they were five years ago, and only 9 percent are more likely to prescribe them. The most common reasons for changing prescribing practices were bad side effects and inappropriateness and/or ineffectiveness of the medications.

— The physicians surveyed have mixed feelings about prescribing minor tranquilizers for patients complaining of anxiety. Slightly more than one half see tranquilizers as either the drug of choice or as a valuable alternative. However, almost half (46 percent) said they would use these as a drug of last resort. About the same number (47 percent) indicated their belief that long term use of minor tranquilizers increases or prolongs anxiety. The majority of physicians surveyed (88 percent) attempt to set time limits on the consecutive daily use of minor tranquilizers.

— Some 47 percent of those surveyed believe treating anxiety is more difficult than the other medical problems they encounter.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

PAMPA, NEWS Friday, December 5, 1980

DEAR ABBY: I am in a nightmarish mess! I'm a 27-year-old married woman expecting my first baby next month. I love my husband and he loves me, but I cannot keep this baby because it isn't my husband's.

Two months before we were married I went out with an old flame. I got drunk and he took advantage of me, and I know this baby is his. My husband and I didn't have relations until after we were married, and my doctor tells me I am eight months along, instead of six as I had hoped.

Abby, I don't want this baby. I can't keep it. I told my husband the truth. He says he still loves me, but he can't love the baby knowing it's not his. Please don't think I'm an animal, but I want to give this baby up for adoption. I'm sure there are lots of people who would love to have it. I simply can't bear the thought of raising this child. What if it looks like my old boyfriend? Don't try to talk me into keeping it. Just tell me where to go to have it adopted, and may God forgive me.

ANONYMOUS, PLEASE

DEAR ANONYMOUS: You don't say where you live, but there must be an adoption agency near you. Your Family Service Association can help you. So can your doctor. Or contact Birthright. If you don't get immediate satisfaction from any of the above suggestions, write again and include your name and address. I promise an immediate response and absolute confidentiality.

DEAR ABBY: I feel stupid asking this question at my age (42), but here goes: What is a first cousin once removed? Is that the same as a second cousin? I know what first cousins are, but I am not sure what kind of relationship makes people second and third cousins.

I'll bet there are lots of other readers who would like to know, too, but they're too ashamed to ask.

NEVER TOO OLD

DEAR NEVER: Thanks for nudging me. I never clearly understood the "once-removed" relationship either, but after researching it, it goes like this:

I have a son named Edward. My sister has a daughter named Margo. Edward and Margo are first cousins. Margo has a son named Adam. What is Adam to Edward? He's a first cousin once removed.

Now, Edward has a son named Tyler. How are Tyler and Adam related? They are second cousins. The children of Adam and the children of Tyler will be third cousins. And their children will be fourth cousins, etc.

DEAR ABBY: When I read letters in your column from people in their 80s claiming that they were still enjoying sex, I was skeptical. However, I changed my mind after the following incident:

I invited my older brother to visit me in Nevada the week of his 88th birthday so we could celebrate. This brother, who's a farmer in Minnesota, has been a widower for 25 years, but he's led a very active life. He had a pacemaker put in a few years ago, but it hasn't allowed him down one bit. He still farms, and bowls on two teams.

My brother phoned to tell me he'd be a few days late because he had to stop off at St. Mary's Hospital in Rochester, Minn., for a day or so, but not to worry as it was nothing serious.

When he arrived we celebrated his 88th birthday in fine fashion at a family gathering. We were all in good spirits, and I might add the spirits were in us, too.

I took my brother aside and jokingly asked him when he last experienced sex. Without batting an eye, he said, "Just before I came here. That's why I was late. I met a widow I knew in the bowling alley and she asked me to drive her home. On the way, I drove off the road into a pasture and we climbed in the back seat. That's when I pulled the wires loose in my pacemaker and had to go to St. Mary's for a new one."

True? I'm sure it was. His first experience was with his school teacher when he was 14.

NO NAMES, PLEASE

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Joy of Bach," last year's Christmas salute to the musical genius of Johann Sebastian Bach, is to be re-tecast as an early holiday special by the Public Broadcasting Service network Dec. 10.

The hour-long program, funded by Honeywell, traces Bach's career and his influence on the music of two centuries. Focusing on both the serious and popular sides of the renowned German composer, the show demonstrates the continued appreciation of his creations today in concert halls, churches and even discos.

Performances in five countries by famous artists and musical groups, including violinist Yehudi Menuhin, pianist Rosalyn Tureck and the Berlin Chamber Orchestra, exemplify the classical treatment given Bach's work.

Books for cooks for holiday gifts

By STEPHANIE ZVIRIN
American Library Association

Since the 1896 appearance of Fanny Farmer's "Boston Cooking School Cook Book," publishers have continued to produce an almost endless variety of cookery manuals. Though none of this season's bumper crop can outshine Farmer's contribution to modernizing the kitchen, at least three of them deserve special attention.

Yogurt, that white, tangy, custard-like substance, tends to provoke extreme reactions — people either love it or hate it. Shaun Nelson-Henrick falls squarely in with confirmed enthusiasts, and if her "Complete Book of Yogurt" (Collier, 325 pages, $6.95) doesn't win a few converts immediately, her enthusiasm and commonsense approach should at least make readers curious enough to give it a try.

The author has gathered a wealth of fact and observation, beginning with a layman's exploration of yogurt's nutritive and digestive properties, followed by surprisingly simple, step-by-step instructions for making yogurt at home. (Results of her personal tests on home yogurt makers — both electric and incubator types — will make purchasing decision a lot easier.)

For the creative cook, she has assembled more than 400 recipes that demonstrate yogurt's versatility in sparking up everything from appetizers and soups to main dishes and desserts. Try pork chops with a dollop of yogurt. Use it in scrambled eggs or save on calories by substituting it for mayonnaise in salad dressings or for ice cream in frozen desserts.

Using excellent full-color photographs to illustrate basic techniques, the editors of Time-Life's "The Good Cook" series elevate salad making to an art. Their mouthwatering array of specialties from around the world prove that salads can be much more than fruit and gelatin or lettuce and tomatoes.

"Salads" (Time-Life, 176 pages, $12.95) features more than 200 recipes culled from such luminaries as Paul Bocuse, Sharon Cadwallader and James Beard. But first, the editors take a cook's tour through the maze of salad greens, separating the mild from tartly flavored by means of detailed drawings that are sure to make shopping a cinch. There's an excellent section on vinegars and oils too, complete with instructions for making and flavoring vinegar.

The recipe section boasts a tempting and unusual assortment of main and side dish salads, using meats, fruits, fish, pasta, grains, eggs and vegetables to imaginative advantage. Instructions for basic dressings, bouillons and stocks, along with a selection of molded salads round out the text.

Although traditional salads such as potato and coleslaw are included, it's the more exotic entries — grapefruit, romaine and red onion salad or combinations of such foods as spinach and tongue — that make this Time-Life bonanza a prime item for the serious cook's reference shelf.

Even the most experienced cook has probably been guilty of pouring sour milk down the drain, and who hasn't tossed an over-ripe banana into the garbage? Jean Anderson, prolific cookbook author, is no exception, and together with Ruth Buchan, founding editor of the Cookbook Guild, she tackles the problem of troublesome leftovers. Their book "Half a Can of Tomato Paste and Other Culinary Dilemmas" (Harper & Row, 346 pages, $12.95) may not help recycle yesterday's pot roast, but it does offer lots of tips on how to use up those odds and ends that clutter up the refrigerator and pantry.

Arranging foods alphabetically, the authors concentrate on 50 that frequently fall into the leftover category — tomato paste, course, as well as pimento, cream, molasses a buttermilk. Advice on storing the leftovers for maximum shelf life, explanations of ingredient's role in cooking (thickener, flavor enhancer, etc.), and alternate ways it can be used accompany a rec- assortment that is so tempti- it belies the term leftov-

Blonde actress co-authors film

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Glancing round the tented patio, you might have expected the place to be a smart restaurant just off Piccadilly. Among the lunch crowd were Michael Caine, David Warner, Michael York, Donald Sutherland and Susannah York.

It was really Ma Maison, the West Hollywood cafe that is so exclusive that its telephone number is unlisted. The British colony is becoming as noticeable as it was in the 1930s, when C. Aubrey Smith and Nigel Bruce conducted cricket on the Beverly Hills greens.

Unlike the others, Susannah York was just visiting. The blonde actress was here to help launch a new film, "Falling in Love Again," in which she stars with Elliott Gould. It is being released this month by the International Picture Show Co.

The film concerns the can't go home again, Gould runs a Los Angeles clothing shop but he can't get the Bronx out of his soul. Miss York is the wife who captures his youth in a reunion with old pals. That's when he learns the truth about his life.

The curious thing about "Falling in Love Again" is that Susannah York.

"That's not so unusual, really," she argued. "Most actors contribute to scripts, I have found. I certainly have done so over the years, to one degree or another. That was especially true in 'They Shoot Horses, Don't They?' I had a great deal to do with molding and defining that character (which won her an Academy nomination) for supporting actress."

"Falling in Love Again" is unusual in other ways. It is the work of Steven Paul, who produced, directed and co-authored with Miss York and Ted Allan. He is 22 years old.

"Steve has always been precocious," the actress observed. "In England we might even call him bumptious. He has an overload of energy and impatience. We worked together in 'Happy Birthday, Wanda June,' in which he played my son. He was 10 or 12 years old then, and we've been friends ever since."

Paul managed to raise production money (estimated $1.5 million), and together they recruited Elliott Gould, with whom Miss York had starred in "Silent Partner." The new film centers on Gould's perplexities, and York said she had no trouble writing from the man's point of view.

"I know nostalgia, I know regret," she reasoned. "It's not a question of gender. Certain emotions are common to us all."

CO-AUTHORS FILM. Susannah York acts out a scene in "Falling in Love," a film by International Picture Show Co., which she also co-authored. York feels that it is important that actors contribute to scripts especially in dialogue and definition of character. The movie which co-stars Elliott Gould will be released this month.

Oilers shut down Steelers, 6-0 with "blue curtain" defense

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Just as Houston Coach Bum Phillips promised, the Oilers finally kicked in the door of the Pittsburgh's Steel Curtain.

Unfortunately for the Oilers, when they knocked the hinges off Pittsburgh's title hopes with a 6-0 shutout Thursday night, they found the Cleveland Browns waiting on the other side.

Houston kicker Toni Fritsch returned to the team's good graces with a pair of pressure 37 and 33 yards field goals and the Oiler "Blue Curtain" defense made the kicks stand up for a victory that virtually eliminated the defending world champions from the playoffs.

Despite the personal triumph, the Oilers still find themselves in second place in the American Football Conference Central Division behind the Cleveland Browns, who beat the Oilers 17-14 Sunday when Fritsch missed a field goal that would have tied the game.

Cleveland leads the division with a 9-4 record followed by Houston at 9-5 and Pittsburgh at 8-6.

The Oilers have lost to the Steelers in emotional AFC championship games the past two years and the thought of not facing them a third time displeased Phillips.

"It makes me a little bit sad," Phillips said. "I'd rather play them again. They are still a good football team and we've had some great games."

Oiler safety Mike Reinfeldt, who intercepted two Terry Bradshaw passes, had few regrets however.

"As much money as they've taken out of our pockets the past two years, it's nice to take money out of their pockets for a change," Reinfeldt said.

Fritsch, who had missed three of his last four field goal tries after hitting 14 in a row, provided all the offense the defense needed to keep the Oilers' playoff hopes alive.

"The first field goal I kick for the team—and for myself," Fritsch said. "When I made it, I knew I'd be kicking them straight the whole game. I've been in this league 10 years and I've known pressure before. It doesn't bother me."

Houston's defense played a superb game, forcing five Pittsburgh turnovers, including two interceptions by safety Mike Reinfeldt and one by cornerback Greg Stenrick. The Steeler offense that once terrorized all comers, managed only 22 yards in the second quarter.

Oiler defensive coordinator Ed Biles said the Oilers made only minor changes in their defensive scheme for the Steelers.

"The whole key was we kept the pressure on Bradshaw," Biles said. "He couldn't sit back there all day and do what he wanted to do. We didn't think they could beat us running the ball so we concentrated on the pass."

Neither team had a serious scoring threat in the first half but the Steelers got a big break in the third quarter when cornerback J.C. Wilson's pass interference penalty gave Pittsburgh a first down at the Oiler one.

After a five-yard illegal motion penalty, however, Reinfeldt picked off a Terry Bradshaw pass into the end zone and the Oilers drove to Fritsch's first field goal.

The Oilers put Fritsch on the field again early in the fourth quarter after linebacker Gregg Bingham recovered Franco Harris' second fumble of the game at the Steeler 33.

Pittsburgh's other deep penetration into Oiler territory came with 5:03 left to play when kicker Matt Bahr missed on a 42-yard field goal attempt.

Reports of the Steelers' demise have been greatly exaggerated, however, according to the Steelers.

"This club isn't going to get far off their winning ways," Center Mike Webster said. "Nothing ended here tonight, things began. We will correct our errors and benefit from our mistakes and then we'll be back as strong as ever."

Defensive tackle Joe Greene said "They would have won the ball game no matter where it was played. We played as good a football game as we could and we just lost to a better team. It's disappointing, but we've won in the past and we've been fortunate."

The Oiler victory convinced Bradshaw of Houston's talent.

"This is a much better football team than Cleveland," Bradshaw said. "There's no comparison. We did all we could do tonight and we lost to a great effort. They put a lot of pressure on me and I wasn't able to do the things I wanted to do."

Houston quarterback Ken Stabler, who shouldered some of the criticism from the Oilers' two straight losses prior to Thursday night, said he preferred to be judged at the end of the season.

"If I throw 30 interceptions and we make the playoffs, that's fine with me," Stabler said. "A lot of people write you off after a loss. All that matters to me are the people in this (dressing) room."

The shutout was the first Pittsburgh has suffered since Sept. 29, 1974 when they lost to the Oakland Raiders, and, yes, quarterback Stabler.

Pampa hosts Altus tonight

Pampa puts its winning streak on the line tonight against the highly-regarded Altus (Okla.) Bulldogs.

Both teams enter the game with 4-0 records.

"Altus isn't very big, but they're very quick," said Pampa coach Garland Nichols. "They've got two guards who are outstanding shooters. We'll have to stop them to win."

Pampa lost to Altus, 78-49, in the only meeting between the two teams last season.

The Harvesters have three players averaging in double figures, led by 6-2 junior Charles Nelson (15.3 ppg). Mike Nelson and Terry Faggins are averaging 12.1 and 10.3 points respectively. This trio along with Ed Guerra and Kiri Crouch will be in the starting lineup tonight.

Pampa's junior varsity B team meets Altus in the preliminary game at 6:30 p.m. The varsity contest follows at 7:30 p.m.

Montgomery leads Texas past New Mexico State

By The Associated Press

Ken Montgomery hit a career high 34 points Thursday night as the University of Texas scored a 102-82 basketball victory over New Mexico State of the Missouri Valley Conference.

Southwest Conference basketball teams won three of five non-conference games Thursday night, highlighted by the Texas victory.

Baylor beat Southwestern, 73-66, and Texas Tech downed Western Kentucky, 68-58. On the losing side of the ledger, Notre Dame easily rolled past Texas Christian, 79-63, and Southwest Texas of the Lone Star Conference edged Rice, 68-67.

Texas basketball coach Abe Lemons perhaps understated Montgomery's performance, saying, "Montgomery did have a good night's shooting."

When the Aggies attempted to bottle up Montgomery, the Longhorns passed off to LaSalle Thompson, who finished the night with 24 points.

Terry Teagle had 24 points and Pat Nunley had 12 as the Baylor Bears beat Southwestern, 75-66. Rudy Williams had 19 points for the Pirates.

Area basketball roundup

WHEELER-Boyd Waldon and John Harris combined for 36 points to offset the 27-point performance of Nick Morgan as Wheeler bombed Briscoe, 69-43, Thursday night in the opening round of the Wheeler Tournament.

Waldo tossed in 20 points and Harris helped out with 16.

Wheeler girls also routed Briscoe, 44-24, in first-round action.

Missy Wiggins, a 5-6 senior, led Wheeler with 15 points. Elise Christner added eight.

L. Swift led the losers with 10 points.

In other tournament games, White Deer stormed past Allison, 103-27.

John Kotara topped the Bucks' scoring attack with 24 points while Jack Dupy followed with 21.

White Deer also won the girls' tilt, 58-36, behind the 21-point output of 5-7 senior Janet Timmons.

Shamrock rolled past McLean, 82-49.

Taylor led Shamrock with 20 points while Lane topped McLean with 14.

In the girls' game, Shamrock also won, 39-27.

Campbell and Salinas had 12 points each for Shamrock.

McAnea and Billingsley led the losers with nine points each.

Robinson looking forward to meeting Irish

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The circumstances are unusual for a Southern California-Notre Dame football game, but that hasn't stopped Coach John Robinson of the Trojans from looking forward to Saturday's annual battle between the two perennial powerhouses. And that's putting it mildly.

"I'm more excited about this game than any I can remember," Robinson said earlier this week. "It's that element of fear. Our team is stimulated by what has happened. I believe we are going to play very hard."

What's happened, among other things, is this: Notre Dame, 9-0-1, is ranked second nationally and controls its own destiny as far as winning the national championship is concerned.

All the Irish have to do to win the national title is beat the 17th-ranked Trojans (7-2-1) and then defeat top-rated Georgia (11-0) in the Sugar Bowl on Jan. 1.

Southern Cal. on the other hand, had an unbeaten streak of 28 games before losing to Rose Bowl-bound Washington on Nov. 15. The following Saturday, the Trojans were beaten by cross-town rival UCLA, giving them two losses in a row.

Both were suffered at the Los Angeles Coliseum, site of Saturday's game. For USC to lose three straight at the Coliseum would seem to be impossible.

"All the news we get is that they are approaching this as the biggest game in USC history," said Notre Dame Coach Dan Devine. "They're looking at our ranking, plus they don't want to lose three in a row."

"And don't forget, one of the greatest incentives for any team is to finish on a winning note."

The nationally televised game will begin at 12:50 p.m. PST before an expected crowd of nearly 90,000. The possibility of a wet field loomed according to weather forecasts.

Notre Dame, a slight favorite, hasn't had much luck against the Trojans in recent years. USC has won five of its last six games against the Irish and is 9-2-2 since 1966, when Southern Cal was thrashed 51-0.

Both teams will rely on youngsters in key positions.

Pampa gals fall to Estacado

HEREFORD-Pampa's Lady Harvesters were defeated by Lubbock Estacado, 60-40, in the first round of the Deaf Smith County Basketball Tournament Thursday night.

Pampa trailed by 29-11 at halftime, but came on strong the third quarter to outscore Estacado, 18-17. However, the Harvesters couldn't make up for the first-half, scoring drought.

Jeanette Britt led Pampa in scoring 13 points while Sharolyn Salisbury contributed 10.

Rita Lang and Stephanie Peoples scored nine points each for Estacado.

Pampa played Amarillo Tascosa today in the consolation round.

In other first-round games, Lubbock Dunbar edged Borger, 53-52, and Hereford rolled over El Pason Jefferson, 78-24.

MUHAMMAD ALI comments on his new role promoting rental cars for the Econo-Car company at a press conference in Miami Wednesday. Ali said he would return to boxing in about three months, possibly in a match against John L. Gardner.
