Breeders Visit Fine Herds In Pampa Area BARKLEY DEFENDS NEW DEAL

Barbecue At McCoy Ranch Features Trip

Miami, Canadian Cattle Viewed By More Than 200

Concluding their three-day tour of Panhandle ranches, members of the Panhandle Hereford Breeders' association visited in Pampa this morning, while en route to four stops in Gray, Roberts, Hemphill, and Wheeler counties.

Automobiles carrying the party came to Pampa early this morning, before proceeding to the Combs and Worley ranch, then came back through Pampa en route to the Charlie Thomas ranch, the Talley, Osborne, Maddox, and McCoy ranches, near Miami, where they then visited.

At noon, a barbecue was served to association members at the Bob McCoy ranch.

This afternoon the party made stops on the ranches of G. C. Barker, Gageby, R. T. Alexander, Canadian, M. T. Smith, Gem, E. L. Martin and W. L. Williams, Wheeler.

Frank Carter of Pampa, R. T. Alexander, Canadian, and J. P. Callahan, Conway, is the committee in charge of the concluding day of the tour.

All of yesterday was spent visiting Deer Smith county's outstanding herds and members of the caravan were loud in the praise of the animals they saw. Rain which started falling after the caravan left the Higgins ranch northwest of Hereford sent many automobiles racing back toward Hereford and the few which remained found slippery travel into Amarillo.

There were 400 persons who made the tour yesterday, and today's crowd was estimated at half that number by George A. Nance, president of the Panhandle association. The tour has started at 7 o'clock on each of the past three days from the Amarillo hotel in Amarillo. This is the first time such a tour has been made in this section by the Panhandle association, and the third to be made in the entire state.

Special Session Would Follow War, President Believes

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 11 (AP)—Seeking to scotch reports he would call a special session of Congress this fall, President Roosevelt said at a press conference today that so far as he knew at present there was no reason for calling Congress back.

But he added that if an actual crisis of war became imminent in Europe or the far East—in other words, if it became reasonably certain there was going to be a war—he would probably immediately call a special session.

He said he would do so in order to insure American neutrality along the lines of international law.

The President said he favored the lines of international law so that this country would not be involved.

In general, he said, he favored neutrality legislation of the type for which the administration fought unsuccessfully in the last session—legislation making us neutral instead of unneutral.

That would mean repeal of the controversial arms embargo provision of the present law.

Asked whether it also would involve abandonment of the cash and carry system for trade with belligerents, Mr. Roosevelt asserted there were so many ways that matter could be handled he could not give a yes or no answer.

Smoke From Radio Fire Alarm Cause

Firemen answered a call to the J. B. Austin residence, 625 North Front street, at 8:30 o'clock this morning but found only smoke issuing from a radio. Cause was placing wires in the "hot" socket instead of the aerial socket. Little damage resulted.

I Heard—

That C. E. (Dan) McGraw went into a local office this morning and while waiting decided to have some radio music. He turned the dial but got no results. Then he discovered he was working the inter-office communication box.

Jack Goldstein having the laugh on G. F. McGinnis. It seems that McGinnis shot a nice, hot 31 on the front nine at the Country club Wednesday and then bet the drinks with Jack on the second nine—and Jack won. The two were practicing for the Top O' Texas tournament to be played here August 21-24.

$30,000 YOURS IF YOU FIND HIM FOR FBI

This man is worth $30,000, "dead or alive." He is Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, notorious fugitive racketeer, shown in a hitherto unpublished photo. The New York Board of Estimate and the FBI placed the heavy reward on Lepke's head as one of the greatest man-hunts in U. S. history got under way to find him and destroy the rest of the underworld.

FDR Signs Bill To Liberalize Security Act

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt signed today a bill making broad liberalizations in the social security act and cutting hundreds of millions of dollars off the tax burden it imposes.

The President said in a formal statement "these amendments to the act represent another tremendous step forward in providing greater security for the people of this country."

"This is especially true," he added, "in the case of the federal old age insurance system which has now been converted into a system of old age and survivors' insurance providing lifetime family security instead of only individual old age security to the workers in insured occupations."

"In addition to the worker himself, millions of widows and orphans will now be afforded some degree of protection in the event of death."

Panic Averted By Announcer At Idaho Fire

Spectators Move Quietly Out Of Burning Building

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 11 (AP)—A fight announcer's presence of mind averted panic and tragedy in a fan-packed sports arena gutted by a near million-dollar fire which blazed into the early hours of today.

Hero of the conflagration, which burned $750,000 worth of Civilian Conservation Corps equipment, was James Allen, sports writer of the Pampa (Idaho) Free Press for 17 years.

At 10:30 p. m., during the third round of the semi-final event of a boxing card, Allen told the smoke. The arena was in sprawling, wooden building.

Smoke rolled in through the dressing room.

Five hundred spectators rose like a wave.

A plainclothes fireman slipped to Allen's side and whispered for him to clear the arena—the situation was serious.

"It's just a paper fire in the dressing room," Allen told the fans and they settled back in their seats. Then, he added:

"I think we'd better clear the arena until the smoke clears out—then we'll continue with the fight." Quietly the spectators moved out. Minutes later the arena was an inferno.

The origin of the blaze was not determined.

For nearly an hour it menaced huge nearby gasoline storage tanks as it spread over almost two and one-half acres. The flames lit much of the city.

Lt. Col. C. W. Jones, commander of the CCC district, said none of the federal government equipment was insured. The equipment was in the building housing the arena.

In the structure also was stored automobile equipment worth several thousand dollars and heavy machinery valued at upwards of $25,000.

A nearby lumber yard was destroyed at a loss of more than $25,000.

Kidnaping Called Hoax By Police

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11 (AP)—San Francisco police today crossed off their books as a hoax the reported kidnaping of Sonja Luise Ward, two years old.

Mrs. Frances Ward, the child's mother, who had signed a child stealing warrant against James Ward, 29, of Lubbock, Texas, her former husband, and a San Francisco housekeeper, admitted, said Inspector Frank Lucy, their story of the kidnaping Wednesday night was untrue.

The charge against Ward and an order to take him into custody were cancelled by police.

Action against the two women, Inspector Lucy said, is unlikely.

Boy's Rafter Grip Stops Heart Beat

GREENVILLE, S. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—Ernest Hall, 10, got a death grip on a rafter as he fell into an elevator shaft while playing in a vacant building.

He was found hanging on the beam 15 feet from the bottom of the shaft. His physician said the boy had held himself so tightly against the rafter that the fourth left rib was pressed against the heart, causing it to stop.

STAR FALLS — FOR RHUMBA

Long, lean and lithe Errol Flynn, one of the screen's premier acrobatic he-men, found a little thing like the rhumba hard to do when he (left) and a lovely model, Patricia Byrnes (center), went to a New York hot-spot where dances with a Spanish accent are featured. The man looking puzzled (right) is a drummer named Desi Arnaz.

Ciano Likely To Insist Hitler Avoid A War

SALZBURG, Germany, Aug. 11 (AP)—Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano arrived here today for a three-day conference with German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop to discuss the Rome-Berlin axis to new conditions in Europe.

The general impression in well-informed circles was that Ciano would present from Mussolini the suggestion that Germany proceed with moderation. The Italian premier was represented as opposing any action which might lead to a conflict with Poland. There was no doubting the Italian recommendations would receive full consideration in highest German quarters. Ciano brought suggestions from Premier Mussolini on what the closely cooperating political and military partners should do about the free city of Danzig, the Balkans and the Far East. The ministers began immediately conversations which, it was acknowledged in every continental capital, may have a profound bearing on the course of events in unsettled eastern Europe in the next few weeks. The scene of their meeting was Fuschl, von Ribbentrop's 16th century summer home about 15 miles south of here. The questions of Danzig and "defensive measures" against what the Rome-Berlin partners have called "encirclement" by Great Britain and France were expected by many observers to be the crux of the discussions. Talk of Japanese participation in the Italian-German military alliance figures in axis discussions of the alleged "encirclement."

Storm Headed For Florida East Coast

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 11 (AP)—A tropical disturbance of less than hurricane force moved today toward the Florida east coast in a direction which the weather bureau said would carry it inland near Palm Beach about mid-afternoon. A 9 a. m. (EST) advisory placed the storm 100 miles east southeast of Palm Beach. It was moving west-northwestward at 14 miles per hour. "The center is very small but attended by a small area of gale winds up to 50 miles per hour and a larger area of squalls," the report said. Storm warnings which earlier had been displayed from Daytona Beach to Key West were ordered down south of Miami. Although forecasters emphasized that the disturbance was of only moderate intensity persons in exposed areas along the coast evacuated and some buildings were boarded up.

Day Of Pentecost Topic Of Sermon Thursday Night

Although the weather conditions prevented an outside meeting last night, a well filled house heard Evangelist Foy E. Wallace, Jr., preach at Central Church of Christ on the subject "What Came To Pass On Pentecost."

An open-air seating arrangement has been provided adjoining the church building to accommodate large crowds when the weather is fair; otherwise services are held inside. Last evening Mr. Wallace pointed out some Old Testament prophecies, beginning with Isa. 2:2-6, that were fulfilled in the establishment of the church on the Day of Pentecost of Acts: 2. It was shown this Pentecost was the beginning of the new dispensation, called the "last days." "Thus the Day of Pentecost is the beginning of the Holy Spirit's work through the apostles, the beginning of the church, the establishment of the kingdom, the announcement of the law of pardon unto all men for all time, and the inauguration of the new covenant under which we live today and by which we must at the last day be judged. Those who 'received the word' upon that occasion 'were baptized' and 'added to the church.' This is still the law of God and the only way to obtain pardon under its terms and conditions," Rev. Wallace continued. Services are held at 10:00 a. m. and 8:15 p. m. each day.

Forster Fails To Be Definite In Danzig Talk

DANZIG, Aug. 11 (AP)—Danzig News looked today at the Salzburg conference of Italian and German foreign ministers for the clue to their immediate future which their district leader failed to give in a bristling but unrevealing speech. They felt talks between Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy and Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany might produce a key to the situation blocking their often-promised "return to the Reich."

Nazi District Leader Albert Forster had visited with Adolf Hitler only two days before he delivered a 45-minute blast at Poland to thousands of Danzigers in Langer market place last night. But he brought not one new word from the Führer. Though he appealed to citizens of other nations aligned against Germany to prevent a war and voiced again a belief the "hour of liberation is coming," the closest he came to settling a date was in a wish that it might be "not far distant." Many of the "protective policemen" who have been conscripted here and put into training were in the crowd which heard him assert the free city was prepared to defend its right "with its blood." Conservative observers estimated about 12,000 men are now enrolled in this force. The Polish newspaper Kurjer Polski's article likening Germany to ancient Carthage as a "nest of contagion" which must be "abolished" aroused the ire of the German foreign office mouthpiece, Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz. The publication declared that England's "blank check guarantees" leaves it to Polish initiative to start a "defence war" for her own destruction.

Few Bombing Planes Seen Over London In Huge Blackout

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Great Britain's greatest blackout—a demonstration of civilian and military defenses against bombing raids—early today blotted out lights in half of England, an area populated by 30,000,000 persons. As dawn streaked the eastern sky, just before the signal for "lights on," Sir John Anderson, lord privy seal and air raid precautions chief, told reporters the experiment would prove of "great value" but it was impossible to "express a considered judgment."

As daylight progressed, anti-aircraft searchlights which had fanned the sky for three and a half hours, were dimmed and London, nerve center of the 28 black-out counties of southeastern England, came back to life. Early air ministry reports on the success of London's defenses—pursuit planes, anti-aircraft guns and the balloon barrage—were sketchy but Londoners who tramped about in the dark hours thought it significant that few bombing planes were seen over the city. Five hundred bombers simulating an enemy roared in over the eastern and southern coasts in attempts to dodge through and score "hits" despite 800 defending planes and 60,000 groundlings deployed with gadgets and guns to detect and shoot down the raiders in make-believe. Sir John said there would be "smaller sectional tests," probably unconnected with royal air force maneuvers, throughout the country at regular intervals in the future. It was a weird experience to walk through the main streets of a city of 9,000,000 at 1 a. m. and find them as quiet as a college town on a Saturday when the football team is playing away from home. Meteor Crater, Ariz., is 4,000 feet in diameter and 600 feet deep.

The People Will Judge

By next January, we will know.

The President's plan for a huge spend-lend program has been rejected by a Congress which believes it correctly understands that the people of the country demand a brake on spending.

Of course, this same Congress pushed farm appropriations to a new high. And the deficit for the current year will probably be tops. Nevertheless the principle has been established. Those who have felt that Congress should reassert itself, and halt the presidential philosophy of pump-priming as such, have had their way.

Business has been forging its ways gradually upward throughout the year, and up to the time of the congressional checkmate, had been making steady progress toward a level that promised a year perhaps 70 per cent above 1938.

Those who have been demanding encouragement to business in the form of some sort of brakes on the spending program, some sort of rebuke to the New Deal attitude toward business recovery, have had it. The pudding for this year has been cooked.

How will it taste? That will be the proof of the pudding.

Will the budding business revival continue? Will the slowly-increasing employment rolls and the slowly declining unemployment list absorb those who have been taken off WPA? Will timid capital, encouraged at last by having gotten what it wanted in the form of a "turn of the spending tide," now rush into the breach? Will people furloughed and otherwise removed from WPA rolls make the expected effort to get jobs, and will there be any jobs for them to get?

All economists agree that at least a billion dollars in savings awaits immediate productive investment. We used to invest around eight billions a year, including refundings. Recently it has been nearer three. The money is there. Congress has gone to some lengths to create the mood and the opportunity.

Next January, Congress will be back. They will have heard, in the meantime, from their constituents back home. They will have seen at first hand the results of the new policy. They will have sampled the pudding.

And, on the taste of it will rest the proof, and the recipe for the kind of a pudding which Congress will be most likely to start cooking next January. If the retrenchment pudding tastes good, the congressional cooks may feel justified in assuming that the country likes it and wants more of the same. If not, Chief Roosevelt may again be asked to provide the recipe which was rejected this year. The proof of this pudding, like that of all puddings, will be in the eating.

The Nation's Press

UNWRITTEN LAW

(Cleveland Plain Dealer)

Not more than once or twice in the history of the United States has a man appeared who might be called indispensable to the nation.

Washington was such a man. Without him there would have been no republic.

There is much to be said in support of the thesis that Lincoln was such a man. Some will differ as to the soundness of this argument.

These two, at most, and no others. Individuals sometimes come to consider themselves indispensable but their contemporaries know better.

One would dislike to believe that the great democratic experiment in the United States has become so shaky in the course of years that now only one American exists in all this vast expanse of country capable of preserving it.

The assumption is ridiculous on its face. That so many party men are now voicing it indicates nothing else quite so much as the power of partisan fervor to blight common sense.

President Roosevelt has not said he would accept, much less seek, a third term in the presidency. But the monotonous repetition of the third term demand by Democrats high in the executive's favor and powerful in the party comes nearer and nearer convincing the public that the President has it in mind to tilt with the precedent that limits the executive to two terms.

The first President set the anti-third term precedent, and by his generation the act was accepted almost as an amendment to the constitution. The third President, Jefferson, confirmed the precedent, argued its importance to a democratic state and fixed it as unwritten law. Even as headstrong and precedent-defying a President as Andrew Jackson saw the wisdom of the Washington-Jefferson precedent and willingly retired after eight years.

A century after the birth of the republic the house of representatives adopted a resolution which called any departure from the no-third-term policy as "unwise, unpatriotic, and fraught with peril to our free institutions." For more than half a century the letter of this pronouncement has been obeyed. Its violation now would confess loss of faith in democracy.

Each political generation produces its own leaders who carry the torch for an allotted period and in turn pass it to their successors. This is the democratic way, and for a century and a half it has been found to work satisfactorily.

It is inconceivable that Franklin D. Roosevelt could be re-elected next year. He can doubtless get the Democratic nomination if he wants it. If he takes it, two or three probabilities seem fairly obvious. The first is that he will wreck the party which has twice sent him to the White House. The next President will then be a Republican. The three-cornered battle of 1912 will be repeated, but this time the beneficiary will not be the party of Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson.

These are considerations which thoughtful Americans and thoughtful Democrats as democrats should take seriously to heart as the lines begin to form for 1940. A continuation of Mr. Roosevelt in command at Washington is not indispensable to any worth-while purpose.

LIMITED RIGHTS OF EMPLOYERS

Few people realize that public opinion and federal laws have now come to the point where the enterpriser does not even have the right to ask an employee or a prospective employee whether he believes in the competitive system; whether he is willing to work at the same rate other people are willing to do the same service for. This is made impossible because the law now reads that employers dare not show preference to the man who believes in the competitive system rather than the man who believes in collective bargaining, or of artificially establishing wages.

And when a man believes he is entitled to more than other people get for producing a like service, he does not believe in the free enterprise system. He does not believe in the competitive system. So, in reality, under our present laws, the employer cannot weed out from his employees men like John Lewis and Harry Bridges—men who are doing their best to stifle free enterprise and the rights of other individuals to serve humanity and to destroy his employer's business.

With this condition, it is little wonder we have 10,000,000 people out of work. Until private enterprise has the right to hire the man who assists him in satisfying his customers' wants, there is little chance of full employment or an increase in the real wages or the living standards of the people.

The Wagner Law now even goes so far as to say that employers cannot even shift their own workers into positions they believe will be most advantageous, without the consent of these government politicians. Of course, it is impossible for the government politicians, even if they were honest in desiring to be fair, to know where each man in the myriad of different jobs in this country should work. It seems ridiculous to have a condition that would attempt to require government appointees to be the final judge as to where an employee should work rather than leaving it up to the employer. The employer knows that if he does not place a man to the best advantage, his costs will go up and he cannot satisfy his customers. The government officials make their decisions, not because of efficiency but only with the idea of which group has the most votes. The result is high costs, inefficiency, low production, lower standard of living and unemployment.

Our unemployment is a natural result of our actions.

ROOSEVELT'S FIRST ALIBI FOR '40

Press dispatches quote President Roosevelt, in discussing the killing of his lending bill by the House, as saying that the action was a blow to industry, the unemployed and the taxpayers.

Roosevelt wanted the money for what he called "self-liquidating" projects. The administration has spent some $12,000,000,000 on so-called self-liquidating projects and we have the business man, the farmer and the unemployed worker as dejected as they have been any time in the last eight years.

It seems the only idea Roosevelt has, by which to furnish employment, is to take the wealth out of the pockets of those who have jobs and pay it over to other workers for doing work that will not continue to furnish jobs.

When money is invested properly into tools, it causes continuous employment, because the new wealth has to be operated in order to be of any benefit to its owner. But when money is spent for consumable goods or is spent for what is claimed to be capital goods, but proves not to be, then jobs cease to exist after the original money is all gone. Capital is of no value unless it will earn a return on the investment. In fact, it is not capital if it will not earn a return. The trouble with the government's spending is that it does not earn a return on the investment, so there are no jobs after the money is once spent. If money is spent so it earns a return, the jobs are continuous.

But Roosevelt is beginning to build up an alibi now for the unemployment that is bound to exist when the 1940 election is on. We will hear more of these alibis from Roosevelt as time progresses.

Yes; quaint and curious war is!
You shoot a fellow down
You'd treat if met where any bar is,
Or help to half-a-crown.

—Thomas Hardy.

Behind The News Of The Day

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace is staging what is politically known as a comeback.

When the election returns of 1938 came pouring in to disclose heavy Republican gains in the farm belt, the stock of Secretary Wallace hit a new low. He had been given a goodly sum of money each of several years to restore the farm belt and keep it loyal to the party. Lowering prices and rising Republicans indicated that neither had been accomplished fully.

For six months after the November elections there was almost constant talk of a new farm plan to replace the whole Wallace setup. But as time wore on the plans were pigeonholed and Wallace and his colony of farm tinkers down toward the Potomac waterfront began to advance ideas of their own.

He continued to plug for crop control allied with soil conservation. And he advanced two fresh plans, one of which was instantly popular and the other of which was instantly controversial. The country liked his idea of issuing special stamps to relief clients through the regular commercial channels. It pleased relievers, retailers and farmers all in a bundle. Moreover, it had a special significance. For the first time it gave Wallace a clientele within the cities. The stamp plan was designed for cities, and first was put to work in Rochester, N. Y., and Dayton, Ohio.

Successful Shuffle

The other idea was the subsidy of wheat and cotton exports. There was a quick but modulated yelp about the wheat subsidy but the cotton subsidy divided even the cotton people, some for it, some against it, and some against the type of direct subsidy which Wallace proposed. Many feared it would wreck prices for the vast bulk of cotton now in storage.

But what happened after all this? The appropriations he requested were increased in

'CALIFORNIA, YOU COME HERE!'

Around Hollywood

"Each Day I Die." Screening by Norman Kelly Raine, and Warren Duff, from novel by Jerome Odlum. Directed by William Keighley. Cast: James Cagney, George Raft, Jane Bryan, George Bancroft, Maxie Rosenbloom, Stanley Ridges, Alan Baxter, Victor Jory, John Wray, Edward Pawley, Willard Robertson, Emma Dunn, Paul Hurs, Louis Jean Heydt, Joe Downing.

By ROBBIN COONS. HOLLYWOOD—It's like old times. Jail stuff, steam and grim. The jailers aren't those benign symbols of law and order that movies are supposed to show. They're brutal martinet, and their prisoners nearly go nuts. Strong stuff.

Cagney plays the crusading reporter framed by crooked politicians. He goes to the big house along with Raft, a three-time loser doing 199 years. In prison, where twine-making is the specialty and affords interesting background, Cagney sees tough mugs and some not-so-tough broken in mind, primed to desperation. He assists Raft's spectacular escape from a courtroom where he is on trial for murder of the prison stool-pigeon. The warden (Bancroft), less inhuman than his underlings, sends Raft to the "hole" for months.

Raft, at large, forgets his promise to find the crook who framed Cagney, but the reporter's sweetheart (Bryan) shames him into action. Raft pursues a foolhardy scheme to get the crook back in the same prison where Cagney is going loco from "solitary." Big jailbreak, action, excitement, guns, triumph of innocence.

Cagney is tops as the victim, especially in some heavily dramatic emotional stuff; Raft is good; Miss Bryan, an appealing actress, clicks in her best role. Question: Cagney is framed by being made to appear a drunk-driving killer. Innocent, he never asks for a sobriety test. Why? Maybe because there wouldn't have been any story if he'd thought of it.

"Beau Geste." Screenplay by Robert Carson from the Percival Christopher Wren. Directed by William Wellman. Cast: Gary Cooper, Ray Milland, John Preston, Brian Donlevy, Susan Hayward, J. Carroll Nash, Albert Dekker, Broderick Crawford, Charles Barton, James Stephenson, Heather Thatcher, G. P. Huntley Jr., James Burke, Harold Huber, Donald O'Connor, Billy Cook, Martin Spellman, David Holt, Ann Gillis.

"Beau Geste" was a humdinger of the closing years of silence. The new talkie only reminds more strongly that silence, if not always golden, had plenty of points. The tale of three loving brothers—Beau, John and Digby Geste—who ran away to the Foreign Legion so that all would share blame for disappearance of their father's jewels—is still an adventurous, exciting piece.

But "Beau Geste" with dialogue sounds rather preposterous and much too theatrical, and the boys seem just a bit silly playing games about Vikings in the death-ridden Fort Zinderneuf.

Brian Donlevy is a heavy to end the breed, and in at least one scene looks like Disney's wolf reveling for a pig feast, teeth and all. He is good at incredible badness. Also on the credit side: Spectacular desert fighting, beautiful scenery, Al Dekker, Nash, and the new Miss Hayward, who is attractive.

"Frontier Marshal." Screenplay by Sam Hellman from book by Stuart N. Lake. Directed by Allan Dwan. Cast: Randolph Scott, Nancy Kelly, Cesar Romero, Blinn Barnes, John Carradine, Edward Norris, Eddie Foy Jr., Ward Bond, Lon Chaney Jr., Chris-Pin Martin, Joe Sawyer.

This is a minor consideration of the epic story of Wyatt Earp, frontiersman of valor, and his life in Tombstone, Ariz., in the lawless days. It is a story deserving the treatment

People You Know

By Archer Fullingim

Dr. R. A. Webb and his flower-loving friends are enjoying the dozen orchids now in bloom in his hot-house. They are a beautiful novelty to most Pampa people who never saw an orchid, let alone wear one. The value of the blooms is about $5 each. However, the good doctor is not in the market to sell the blossoms. He has given two away—one to Mrs. Webb, his wife, and another to Mrs. Sherman White, who proudly wore it to church last Sunday.

Judge and Mrs. Newton P. Willis are now beginning to feel the full weight of their daughter's absence. About two months ago Lonna went to work in the Cabot company office in Boston. Their son, Everett Willis is an attorney in New York. He graduated from Harvard several years ago, but back to the Willys' homesickness for Lonna. Her dog, the judge reports, mopes around all day, and nobody ever plays the piano any more (Lonna played it well, indeed), and food, especially ham, in the ice box dries up because there's no one there to eat it. Yes, they miss Lonna.

A treasured note on an inconsequential matter from Father Harry Zienta of White Deer ends as follows: "With every kind of wish and praying the blessings of the Sacred Heart upon you and yours, I remain . . . And having read that over and over without realizing it, this one felt secure and confident for the entire day. Thanks, Father Zienta!"

The Family Doctor

Dr. Morris Fishbein

Many industrial plants and progressive golf clubs try to provide their employees and patrons with every modern convenience for their well being. Right now, these groups are dispensing little tablets made of common table salt.

In industrial plants, employees are encouraged to take one or two of these tablets every time they take a drink of water. This will eliminate the incidence of heat stroke or heat exhaustion. The inability of the body to adjust itself satisfactorily at a high temperature for a long time is now well recognized.

Miners, firemen, laundry workers and kitchen workers become subject to heat cramps. These are a form of severe muscle cramps that come after working at a high temperature for a long time. Persons who stay for long hours in the sun are also subject to heat stroke or heat exhaustion.

Some years ago, workers in Harvard University made a study of miners in Boulder City, Nev. They concluded that heat cramps are associated with a disturbance of the regulation of the interchange of water and salt in the body. When we work in heated atmospheres, salt and water are lost by perspiration. The British physiologist Haldane found miners at work lose 5½ pounds an hour. A person in a Turkish bath can lose two pounds an hour.

When large amounts of salt solution made up to resemble the concentration of salt in the blood are taken into the body, the effects of heat stroke and heat cramps disappear. If the blood of the person subjected to this condition is examined, it is found to contain a lessened amount of salt.

For this reason, various industries are providing salt tablets to the workers. In some places the drinking water is slightly salted, thus making certain that the workers will get the salt whether or not they remember to take the tablets.

In Great Britain, miners were supplied with salted beer and told that the food taken daily should be salted liberally. Golf clubs fortify their members with salt tablets in similar fashion to insure players against heat attacks on the greens.

Armor Suits Needed

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 11. (AP)—Anybody got any old suits of armor they won't be using next year?

The Coronado commission, which is arranging for New Mexico's celebration in 1940 of the 400th anniversary of the Coronado explorations, needs armor suits so badly it is considering manufacturing some.

ment given "Jesse James," but here it serves as the basis of just another western.

The picture, however, for its class has much to commend it. Picturesque background, abundant action, some comedy which tends to unbalance the pattern.

hundred million dollars may be lent to bolster prices of wheat, cotton, corn and tobacco, a conservative estimate putting this at $200,000,000.

The reorganization bill placed Rural Electrification under Secretary Wallace, with $20,000,000 to spend. And the sprawling farm credit administration was buttoned together under his supervision.

Altogether he may have authority to pour out, or lend, almost as much money as WPA, which makes him one of the two top-ranking disbursers. It may or may not have political significance for him personally. He would like to be president, no doubt, or even vice-president. Six months ago he wouldn't have had a smelling chance at either. Now the climate has changed. Congress has given him about everything he asked. The wheat situation is showing signs of improvement and things are being done for cotton.

Yesteryear In The News

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY
Future improvements of Pampa were to be at stake when voters were to cast their ballots in the municipal $238,000 bond election.

With orders from the post office department that 85 per cent of the mail boxes of the city delivery routes had to be installed by Sept. 16, Postmaster W. A. Crawford urged residents on the routes to get their boxes.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY
Pampa was host to the Panhandle branch of the National Association of Postal Supervisors at a session in the new post office.

KNOW CONGRESS?
Congress, adjourned, is going out of the headlines. Here are a few last-minute questions about the nation's chief legislative body.

1. Does a Senator receive a higher annual salary than a Representative?
2. Which state has the most members in the House of Representatives?
3. Name the presiding officers of the Senate and the House.
4. Name the six states that have only one Representative.
5. How many billions of dollars did the 76th Congress appropriate during the session just concluded? (Answers on Classified Page)

My Personal Opinion Is . . .

By JUDD

It's so that History often repeats itself, and the only reason I can think of for that is, it must be on account of civilization slipping backwards instead of forwards every once in awhile. Seems like you can advance just about so far before you run out of ideas, and then the only way you can get a new one is to go back and borrow something from the past.

The main question is, how far back do you want to go. For instance, I was just reading in the papers, where the latest new Paris styles says that the wimmin is going to wear hips and bustles; Well, I got to say is, that's going back a long ways, in fact a couple more jumps like that and we'll all be back up in the trees picking coconuts. Jest the same, I can remember when a feller's social standing depended more or less on the size bustle his Ma wore, and how jellus we'd get when some new kid of a higher social strata moved into our neighborhood. 'Course, the influence of bustles was felt long before that, but it wasn't 'till just after the close of the Hoop-skirt Era that they became generally recognized as a fixed means to an end, and 'at's when they came into their great prominence and played their biggest part in shaping the affairs of the times; In fact you couldn't hardly have a affair then days without a bustle figgerin prominently in it some-where. I'll never fergit the advice my old Ma give me when I was leaving home, to always be aware of bustles, and anything connected with em; He says of all the dang, diabolical devices that was ever invented for per-pertrating fraud and deceit on a trusting man, the bustle took the sweepstakes. That's all I know about bustles.

Peace Treaty To End Wheat War Planned

(Editor's note: Uncle Sam has made loans, controlled production and subsidized exports, but still wheat prices fall. This, the second of a series of three articles, discusses efforts to reach an international settlement of the problem.)

By OVID A. MARTIN.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Representatives of the world's major wheat-exporting nations are meeting in London in an effort to agree on a "treaty of peace" to end what some economists call the "wheat war."

The "war" is a struggle for markets—markets which since the world war have been growing smaller and smaller, while production, under the impetus of power machinery and increased areas of cultivation, has been increasing.

Importing countries—principally the industrial nations of Europe—used to buy annually about 90,000,000 bushels of wheat from the agricultural nations—Canada, the United States, Argentina, Australia and a few other lesser producers. Since adopting policies designed to make themselves "agriculturally self-sufficient," these countries now import only about 500,000,000.

The result has been price-cutting by the surplus countries. Quotations in Liverpool, the world's principal market, have slumped this season to the lowest level since the 18th century.

The wheat nations realize a continuation of the present situation would bring bankruptcy to their farmers, or to their governments, if continued long. Thus the London conference. An attempt is being made to reach an agreement allotting each country its "equitable share" of the remaining world markets. Such an agreement would forbid price-cutting and the use of export subsidies.

Advocates of such an agreement say it would necessitate world-wide production control. No country would find it feasible, they say, to produce more grain than was needed for its own people, its share of the world markets and a normal reserve. Sponsors believe a trade agreement of this kind would soon eliminate world surpluses of wheat and cause prices to advance to a point where farmers could produce at a profit.

Whether the wheat countries will be able to get together on an agreement is a question.

Soul To Be Lesson

Sermon Subject

"Soul" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 13.

The Golden Text is: "The Lord is my portion, saith my soul; therefore will I hope in him" (Lamentations 3:24).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Sell that ye have, and give alms; provide yourselves bags which wax not old, a treasure in the heavens that faileth not, where no thief approacheth, neither moth corrupteth. For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also" (Luke 12:33, 34).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Metaphysics resolves things into thoughts, and exchanges the objects of sense for the ideas of Soul" (page 269).

ELISHA: A LIFE OF HELPFULNESS

Text: II Kings 5:1-10, 14

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Editor of Advance

The mantle of Elijah fell upon Elisha, who also was a man of courage although his is described in our lesson as "a life of helpfulness." The incident chosen for study is the splendid story of Naaman, the Syrian. It is a most interesting and instructive narrative.

Naaman, "captain of the host," of the king of Syria, was a great and honorable man, but he was a leper. A famous preacher has turned these words the other way to make a very interesting point, namely, that though Naaman was a leper he was a great man and an honorable captain, and that from that fact man, take heart to conquer their handicaps and their weaknesses and attain real distinction and triumph. It is probable, however, that Naaman's greatness and distinction had come to him before he was smitten with leprosy; and the leprosy, because of that fact, meant only the greater tragedy.

In Naaman's household was a little girl who had been brought captive when the Syrians had invaded Israel. This captive maiden might naturally have had no interest in Naaman's leprosy, or she might have had even the vengeful feeling of delighting that a great Syrian of the armies that had torn her from her home had been smitten with affliction.

But the little maid may have received kindness in the household of Naaman, or she may have been of a loving and forgiving disposition. At any rate, she spoke to her mistress and assured her that if Naaman were with the prophet in Samaria (that is, in her own country) that prophet would heal him of his leprosy.

It was creditable to Naaman that he should have listened to the little girl's suggestion. Captain of hosts have not always been as considerate, and we like Naaman all the better on that account. When he told the matter to his king, the king gave him a letter to the king of Israel and gave him also great presents of silver and gold and raiment that he might bring these to the king of Israel. In turn, the king of Israel was greatly troubled by these things. He had no power to heal Naaman of his leprosy, and it looked to him as if the king of Syria was seeking to create a quarrel with him, possibly as a pretext for invading the kingdom.

It was under these circumstances that Elisha heard of the matter. So Naaman came with his horses and chariots to the door of Elisha. He may have expected the prophet would come forth and bow to his greatness and give him oblation. But instead, Elisha sent a messenger, who did not even bring a very conciliatory message, for he told Naaman he must go and wash in the Jordan seven times.

Can we wonder that Naaman was exceedingly angry? He of course thought Naaman would greet him differently and with great ostentation tell him what he should do. Moreover, he was furious at the slighting of his own land, and he said: "Are not Abana and Pharpar, rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel? It was true, too, for these streams were rivers running from the mountains, whereas the Jordan was sluggish and muddy.

Naaman was ready to go back to Syria in disgust, but he had a wise servant to whom he was wise enough to listen in spite of his anger. The servant reminded him that if Elisha had demanded of him some great thing he would have done it. Why should he then not do this simple thing that Elisha commanded? So Naaman went and dipped seven times in the Jordan, and the leprosy was healed.

What a wealth of teaching there is in such a lesson! How much greater are goodness and humility and common sense than pomp and splendor and the magnificence of armies and commanders!

SERIAL STORY

WAR AND A WOMAN

BY BETTY WALLACE
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Linda's father was as happy as a lark. She was happy again until she read the headline "TWO NAVAL OFFICERS KILLED IN CRASH. LIEUTENANT JAMES COOPER AND T. D. BYLAND INJURED AS CRACK NAVAL BOMBER BURST."

CHAPTER XIV

A SCREAM rose in Linda's throat. She shut it off by clenching her teeth. Daddy's head was bent over the manuscript. He had not heard her startled gasp, he had not noticed that she was shaking, that the newspaper had slipped from her hand.

By an effort of will, she controlled herself sufficiently to bend and pick up the paper. On trembling, nerveless legs, she managed to get to the door. She felt her way, touching the wall, to her own room.

"Four men crossing the country in a new naval bomber met disaster yesterday when the craft crashed and burned 10 miles from their destination. Killed instantly were..." The letters blurred. Linda's fingernails punched into her palms, but she didn't feel it. She was reading swiftly. "The two injured officers were rushed by ambulance to the Naval Hospital. A board of investigation."

Yesterday, this terrible thing had happened yesterday, and she hadn't known. They had left Tuesday, from Washington. They must have made stops along the way.

Her head was light, her heart hammering hard. Jimmy was injured. Yesterday. He might be dead by now. Why hadn't someone notified her? Why had there been this cruel silence—suppose she hadn't picked up the paper—

She ran upstairs. The telephone. She was making queer, unintelligible sounds. "Stop it!" she told herself. "Stop it!" She had to tell the operator coherently and clearly what she wanted.

"The Naval Hospital in San Diego. I don't know who I want to talk to. Tell them I must know about Lieut. James Cooper." "I'll call you back," the operator said.

Linda waited for what seemed like black ages, while terrible visions went through her mind. Panic held her in its grip. Was he still alive? Oh, curse those phones! They had killed him at last. Without a war. Without bombs. She didn't even know if he had been the hands guiding the wheel of that ship. She didn't know whether he'd been upst, thinking of her; whether by any chance this ghastly thing was her fault or not. She knew so little about the Navy. Four men in a big ship. Whose fault?

THE telephone did not ring. She wanted to strike its grinning, black face. That operator didn't care. It was just another call to her.

She picked up the phone again. "Please, operator. It's—it's a matter of life and death!"

"I'll call you back," the voice said evenly.

Linda huddled on the chair, lifelessly. If anything had happened to Jimmy, she'd want to die, too. "Well, miss!" Linda jumped. Rourke had come in, she was slandering there staring down at her. "You didn't hear me slam the door. I had a funny feeling, I—What's the matter with you, child?" Rourke's broad face was suddenly alarmed. "You're gray as a ghost! Tell me quick, is it your father?"

"No, no. He's all right. I—She couldn't go on. The tears stung and burned, and her mouth just wouldn't behave.

"Then what is it? Why are you waiting by the phone?"

"Jimmy," Linda moaned at last. "He crashed. He's in the hospital. San Diego. I—they'll call me."

"So that's it!" Swiftly, the competent Rourke was taking her in hand. "Your man is an aviator." She tried to get Linda to go upstairs, but Linda wouldn't move. "I must know how he is."

"You'll know soon enough."

The telephone pealed. Linda grabbed it. "Hello!"

"Will you speak with the officer on duty?" the operator asked.

"Yes, yes. Anything."

The man sounded calm and unhurried. "You want information about Lieutenant Cooper?"

"Yes, yes, quickly."

"Who is this, please?"

"Don't ask me questions! I'm—"

"I think I understand. Lieutenant Cooper is doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances. He's been severely injured, but we—"

"Will he die?" she sobbed. "Is he dying?"

"I'd suggest that you get here yourself if at all possible. The voice said gently. "He's been badly injured and that's all we can say at the present time."

SHE hung up without thanking him. "Rourke, Rourke, I've got to go to California, right away."

"You're going to bed right away," that's where you're going. Stop all this noise! Do you want to wake your father?"

"I must go," she whimpered. "Oh, Rourke, you don't understand. He's dying. I—I may never see him again."

"Better come to my room if you're bound you'll carry on," Rourke said, taking Linda's arms in her strong hands. "Come on, now. I'm going to give you a sedative."

"Let me alone! I tell you, I'm going. There must be a plane out of here tonight!"

Rourke sat down heavily, her shrewd old eyes suddenly deflated and tired. "You're crazy, Linda Storm. But I can't say I blame you. It's enough to make anyone lose their mind. I'll pack your things, but what I'll tell your father in the morning, I don't know."

There was no time to think of that. "Get Dr. Logan, he'll know what to do." She went to the telephone again. The airport. Money for a ticket. In Daddy's secretary, there was always money. It would be enough.

Time raced, and she raced against it. Somehow, she was dressed for the trip. Cramming on her hat. Taking the suitcase out of Rourke's hand. Kissing her gratefully, and running toward the cab that was waiting outside.

AT half-past five the next day, Linda Storm was stepping out of the plane in San Diego. She remembered dimly the stops at Nashville, Memphis, Dallas. She had undressed, lain down in the sleeper plane's berth, but she hadn't slept. All day today she'd been like a woman in a daze.

The Naval Hospital, when she entered it a few minutes later, was as unreal to her as the plane had been. Nothing mattered, only Jimmy. She had to see him! She prayed for strength, prayed that he was still alive, that no nurse or officer would come forward now and say gently, "You're too late."

"Lieutenant Cooper," she whispered jerkily to the first man she saw. He had gold braid on his sleeve. She didn't look at his face. The man said, "There are visitors with him now, I think."

"Visitors?" Then he was still alive! He wasn't going to die. He was all right. A wave of faintness hit her, and she struggled against it for a moment.

A girl's voice was crying, blankly. "Why, Linda Storm! How on earth did you get here?"

She turned swiftly. Marcia King was standing there, staring at her.

Borger To Men 2-Game Stand Here Tonight

Ladies' Night Will Feature Second Game

The Pampa Oilers return home tonight for a two-game stand before leaving for Lubbock and Midland. The Oilers will entertain the Borger Gassers tonight and tomorrow night, tonight's game at 8:30 o'clock and tomorrow night's battle at 9:15 o'clock and it will be Ladies' Night at Road Runner park when all women will be admitted free. Men will be charged the usual 40 cents.

Last night's game in Borger was rained out and will not be made up because it was the last meeting of the season in Borger. From now on final games of series that are rained out will be lost to the teams.

Manager Grover Seitz is expected to send either Gus Halliburton or

Instead of doing damage, last night's rain put Road Runner park in excellent condition for tonight's game between the Pampa Oilers and Borger Gassers, team officials announced today. The ground was so hard that the rain soaked in and left the top dirt in perfect shape for a light working over. The rain also washed dust and dirt off the grandstand seats and saved the ground keeper a big job. Game time tonight will be 8:30 o'clock. Tomorrow night's game will be called at 9:15 o'clock and will be Ladies' Night.

Lefty Rex Dilbeck to the mound tonight. That will leave one of them or Harvey Hutton to go on Saturday night in the late game. Tonight will also be the first time fans have seen Sam Malvica, new shortstop, Joe Saporito, new second baseman, and Joe Phillips, new right fielder, in action. The three joined the team on the last road trip to Clovis, Midland and Borger. They have been going strong since joining the Oilers.

The Oilers will go to Lubbock for Sunday and Monday games and will go from there to Midland for two games, returning home next Thursday night with Sammy Hale and his Midland Cowboys. Lubbock's high-flying Hubbers set Big Spring back last night 9 to 7 while Midland dropped Lamesa 8 to 3. The Amarillo-Clovis game was called off because of rain.

The Oilers are now three games out of first place and three games ahead of the third place Big Spring Barons. Borger is 5½ games behind the Oilers, in fourth place.

Strong Sunray Team To Play Red Horses Sunday

The Flying Red Horses of Magnolia meet a worthy foe Sunday when Sunray arrives in town for their scheduled game at Roadrunner Park. Game time is set at 3:30 p. m.

The Red Horses will be out to avenge a loss suffered at the hands of the Sunray team several weeks ago at Sunray. In this previous encounter, the Sunray team nosed out the locals 5-3, scoring twice in the ninth inning to ice the closely-contested game.

For the Magnolia Red Horses, Gastineau, Howard and Osborne will be ready to share in the hurling duties if needed, while Stephens will hold down the backstop job. These standouts will be backed by White, Wykoff, Bowers, Whorton, Donelson, McMullen, Mosley, and others.

This games promises to be a thriller with two evenly matched teams battling it out for the top honors at Road Runner park Sunday at 3:30.

Gulf Coast Fishometer

(By The Associated Press.)

There was some hope for gulf fishermen this week-end, conditioned, as usual, upon the whims of the water and weather.

Ne ws of a tropical storm bearing toward the Florida coast was somewhat disturbing, but weather observers did not expect it, or its effects, along the Texas coast.

Those planning trips were advised, however, to obtain last minute reports.

The report by areas: Port Arthur—Prospects good for fair water at Sabine light. Water calm and milky, but clearing. Mackerel biting at jetties.

Corpus Christi—Port Aransas—Rapidly clearing water at Port Aransas yesterday led guides to predict good week-end for tarpon and mackerel. Both were biting Thursday.

Freeport—No large catches of kings or snappers since Sunday. Wind dropped Thursday and prospects for week-end improving. Some trout caught in Brazos river, and reds taken from old river. Port Isabel—Boca Chica—Good catches of trout and pike made in bays, while wind held down fishing outside early part of week. Outlook improving.

Both Missions And Buffs Win

(By The Associated Press.)

The winning streak of the flying Houston Buffs in their Texas league pennant drive extended to seven games today but San Antonio, rallying after losing the lead, is beginning to keep pace.

The Buffs, paced by Nick Cullon and Hal Epps, slammed 16 hits as they set the Port Worth Cats back 12 to 2 last night. The Padres held on tight, nosing out Oklahoma City 6 to 5. Tiele pitched well for the Missions until the eighth but gave way to Art McDougall, who suppressed an Indian uprising. The Missions were out 14 to 11.

Dallas moved up a notch in the standings with a 5 to 4 victory over Shreveport. Mori's triple in the ninth inning drove in the winning run.

Tulsa took a 6 to 1 decision from Beaumont in an afternoon contest. Stein set the Exporters down with four hits while the Oilers pounded three Shipper hurlers for 17.

Mrs. Dan Chandler Loses In Western Women's Tournament

DETROIT, Aug. 11 (AP)—Three mid-westerners and a California school girl tied off at Oakland Hills Country club here today in the semifinals of the thirty-ninth annual western women's closed golf championship.

Here was the lineup: Edith Estabrooks, 18, daughter of a public house owner at Dubuque, Iowa, against Mrs. Russell Mann, of Milwaukee.

Elizabeth Hicks, 18, Long Beach, Calif., against 22-year-old Ella Mae Williams, daughter of a Chicago professional.

Miss Estabrooks won 6 and 5 over Harriet Randall of Indianapolis, yesterday.

Miss Hicks trimmed Mrs. Hayes Danaburg, of Minneapolis, 5 and 4. Mrs. Mann won over Mrs. Tim Lowry, of Chicago, 3 and 2.

Miss Williams figured in the most thrilling match of the tournament as she won from caddy Mrs. Dan Chandler, of Dallas, Texas, on the eighteenth green.

Amarillo Picked To Win District One Grid Crown

HOUSTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Tactician Harry Stiteler, whose Corpus Christi Buccaneers romped to the Texas schoolboy football championship last season, admits he'll have a heavier team and that it will be pretty strong but will lack considerable of coming up to the 1938 standard.

But if Stiteler, to whom a ten-word sentence is practically a speech, is reluctant to rate his team among the favorites, the other coaches attending the annual coaching school here will speak for him.

"Corpus Christi should repeat," is the word they pass along and they say Corcoran is coming out with a team strong enough to contest the Buccaneers for South Texas representation in the finals and that Amarillo, once an interscholastic power, will be probably the team to beat in the North.

Coach Stiteler said he would have a team averaging about 170 pounds with nine lettermen returning. So good has Jimmie Crocker, a reserve last season, shown up at center that Harry is shifting Jack Himmant, the all-state pivot man, to the backfield. Pat Hall, his all-state end, returns.

Last season's other finalist, Lubbock, will not be as strong, says Coach Weldon Chapman. "When I lost Walter Webster I lost too much power," wailed Chapman who picked Amarillo to win the district one title.

Coaches Ask Changes In Grid Rules

HOUSTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Forty-five youngsters whose names were often in the headlines of the 1938 football campaign closed out their schoolboy careers here tomorrow night with the squad from the southern region picked to triumph in the annual all-star game of the Texas High School Coaches Association coaching school.

Officers of the coaches association will be chosen at a meeting tonight, when opposition to several changes in interscholastic league football is expected to be voiced. A change in the line rules on the spring training and a rule that sets an 18-year age limit in 1941 drew the principal fire.

The coaches argue 30 calendar days for spring practice should be changed to 30 school days so a full month can be employed with Saturdays and Sundays skipped, and that the 18-year rule is in reality a 17-year rule as a boy who becomes 18 before Sept. 1 is ineligible for football.

Under the present plan, the eight-semester rule would be discarded but many coaches want a 19-year age limit even though the semester clause is taken out.

"The wiseness say the squad brought from the lower eight districts of the interscholastic league will beat that representing the North because it has more power and all-around strength."

Bo McMillin, Indiana university coach, is directing the North and Bear Wolf, University of North Carolina mentor, the South.

A crowd of 15,000 was forecast.

The eve of the game finds two members of the North squad injured. Backfield Kenneth Robinson of Sunset, Texas, was believed definitely out with an injured shoulder and Bob Tullis, North Side (Port Worth), tackle, nursed a cut hand.

The South squad lost two members but picked up one. Jack Jenkins, Texarkana guard, was unable to play because of a leg injury. Brownsville turned down the invitation because of an appointment to the United States naval academy. Ted Weems, Rockdale giant, replaces Perkins in the South backfield.

Henry And Lou Dread Bealings They Will Take

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)—Two uneasy and unhappy young men will face each other at Yankee Stadium a week from Tuesday, when Lou Ambers and Henry Armstrong fight for the latter's lightweight title.

It should be a great fight and a bitter one, but that doesn't mean the fact that both of them would rather be doing almost anything on that evening that throwing fists at each other again. They are too evenly matched and both took too much punishment when they fought a year ago.

"This fight has given us more headaches than any we ever made," said an official of the 20th Century club. "Both sides have been thinking up silly excuses for a year. The fact is that they don't want any part of each other, and I don't blame them a bit."

Henry and Lou, probably as great little men as we'll see, nearly beat each other to death the other time. The barrel-chested, tireless little negro, won Lou's crown that night; but they had to put 14 stitches in his mangled mouth the next morning. Ambers had knots on his face the size of a turnip.

It was not for Ambers, Armstrong could go along polishing off the balance of the lightweight and welterweights for a couple more years and then retire very comfortably on his earnings. He probably wouldn't absorb as much punishment in all that time as Ambers will serve up for him in an hour.

Ambers is the only one to slow Henry down in the closing rounds, but make him act like a human being.

So a couple of fighters, not too eager for the fray, are getting ready to take it. The other time they met the odds against Ambers were 3 to 1, but they are only 7 to 5 for this one and getting shorter.

National Semi-Pro Tournament Opens Tonight In Wichita

WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 11 (AP)—The National Semi-Pro tournament—sandlot baseball's big carnival—opens a two-week stand tonight with fame, travel and a sizeable jackpot beckoning those who play the game mostly for fun and pocket money.

Performers will be the stars of the sandlot diamonds from coast to coast, out for a share in an estimated $15,000 in prize money. First place will be worth $5,000 and a trip to Puerto Rico to play in an "inter-America" tournament Sept. 7-13.

Sprinkled through the 32-team field determined by tough state and regional playoffs will be youngsters hopeful of catching the eyes of major league scouts, former big leaguers who have found bakers, clerks, bartenders, bankers, and just plain white-collar workers—many of whom owe their jobs to their playing ability.

The tournament, fifth sponsored by Raymond Dumont, national semi-pro congress president, is a far cry from the first one, held here in 1935.

Both Yanks And 'Cincy' Defeated As Boston Wins

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Staff Writer.

Instead of trying to legislate the New York Yankees out of the world championship, Clark Griffith, the fox owner of the Washington Senators, ought to share his club's formula for beating New York with the rest of the American league.

Prescriptions often are as hard to read as they are to take, but translated from the original Phoenician, the Senators' medicine seems to call for "shake well before using" and keep on shaking until patient gets relief.

The Senators shook a run out of the Yankees on one hit in the first inning yesterday. Then every time New York scored, Washington cancelled the runs in the same inning until by the fifth frame the Senators had it won, 7-5.

Dutch Leonard, the 39-year-old knuckleballer, got credit for his fourth victory without defeat against the Yankees this season although he had to be removed for a pinch-hitter in the fifth. Bobby Estalella, who batted for him, singled with the bases loaded for the winning runs.

New York's defeat and the Boston Red Sox fifth straight victory reduced the Yankees' lead to five and a half games, the shortest margin since July 13.

Boston came from behind again in beating the Philadelphia Athletics, 7-5, getting three runs on six singles in the sixth inning.

Tommy Bridges hurled the Detroit Tigers to a 4-3 triumph over the Chicago White Sox with a seventh-inning, six-strikeout performance.

Like the American league leaders, Cincinnati's pace-setters in the National circuit also were spanked, 6-4, by the Chicago Cubs.

Cliff Melton of the Giants returned to form with a five-hit pitching show which stopped the Boston Bees.

The best baseball came from the bottom of the standings as the Brooklyn Dodgers and Philadelphia Phillies divided a doubleheader. In taking the first game, 3-0, Luke Hamlin of the Dodgers had to pitch three-hit ball to better a four-hit effort by Walter Beck.

The Dodgers started out to win the second game, too, but the Phillies' pent-up batting instincts burst out with seven runs in the sixth inning for an 8-3 triumph.

Thomason Would Revive Campaign For Big Bend Park

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Texas was called on today by Rep. Thomason of El Paso to revive their campaign for the solicitation of funds with a view to establishing the proposed Big Bend national park.

Keen interest by President Roosevelt in the park project, displayed during a conversation with Thomason, prompted the congressman to make the appeal.

"Why, the President was red hot for the Big Bend," said the Texan, enthusiastically. "He was familiar with the natural wonders to be found there, and mentioned that it and the Florida everglades were the only remaining areas left in the United States of great proportions suitable as national parks."

"He even went so far as to say that in a speech he is to make later at the dedication of the Great Smokies national park he will make reference to the Big Bend. You know, funds for the acquisition of lands there were started by public subscription, just as they have been in Texas for our park project."

Thomason discussed the subject with President Roosevelt before the chief executive left here for his Hyde Park, N. Y., estate.

Secretary Ickes of the interior department, which includes the national park service, has repeatedly expressed interest in the Texas Big Bend country and voiced a hope the land would be turned over to the government for park purposes.

of his death whether before or after his retirement.

The President said the size of benefits to be paid during the early years would be "far more adequate than under the present law."

He said he was glad unemployment insurance benefits had been extended to cover workers in some occupations previously uncovered.

"However," he asserted, "workers in other occupations have been excluded. In my opinion, it is imperative that these insurance benefits be extended to workers in all occupations."

Mr. Roosevelt said he was asking a committee on economic security, comprised of government officials, to study various proposals which may be made for additional changes in the security act.

In signing the legislation, Mr. Roosevelt disposed of the last major bill remaining from the congressional session.

Millions of persons will benefit. One amendment alone, freezing for three years the present tax rate for old-age insurance, will result in an estimated saving of $905,000,000 to taxpayers.

Commission Loses Fight With Humble

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 11 (AP)—The state railroad commission lost its fight to limit production of the Humble Oil company's East Texas wells.

A preliminary injunction against enforcement of its orders was issued against the commission yesterday at a three-judge federal court. The injunction was granted with the production in excess of 44 not be restrained from interfering with the production in excess of 44 per cent in addition to the amount now allowable.

The order also specified it in no way restrained the commission from entering any other orders in regard to the field, if other orders were reasonable and not the same as the one enjoined.

Judge R. J. McMillan of San Antonio, T. M. Kennedy of Houston and Edward Holmes of New Orleans heard the case.

5 Drown At Corsicana

CORSICANA, Aug. 11 (AP)—The fifth drowning in Navarro county for the day occurred late Thursday afternoon at Cheneyboro, 12 miles southeast of Corsicana.

Juanita White, 16, negro, drowned in Richland creek while swimming with two other negro girls.

Four negro caddies were drowned Thursday morning in the Corsicana Country club lake when their boat capsized.

Robert Louis Stevenson and Mark Twain did much of their writing while in bed.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)—Light selling chilled a brisk early rally in the stock market today and initial recoveries running to a point or more were substantially reduced or turned into losses.

Related nervousness over suspension of the international banking firm of Mendelsohn & Co. at Amsterdam, brokers said, helped halt the upswing. It was ultimately recalled that the Dutch were owners of a number of stocks in the United States and fears were expressed the Mendelsohn development might cause liquidation of these issues.

As a matter of fact commission houses with overseas connections reported moderate offerings from Holland, near the tail-end of the session, of such issues as Pennsylvania Railroad, Chrysler, General Motors and Douglas Aircraft. Stocks of American Iron Works Corp., of which the Mendelsohn concern was the principal holder, slumped about 2 points to a new low for the year.

BARKLEY

these funds. The people know the money is in honest hands."

In a carefully worded message to the convention here last night, President Roosevelt said:

"If we nominate conservative candidates, or lip-service candidates, on a straddle bug platform, I personally, for my own self respect and because of my long service to, and belief in, liberal democracy, will find it impossible to have any active part in such an unfortunate suicide of the old democratic party."

The President still kept his own counsel about a third term, but asserted flatly the party would "fail if it goes conservative" or is "led by people who can offer naught but fine phrases."

Shortly after the convention heard the Roosevelt message read amid cheers by Pitt Tyson Maner, of Montgomery, Ala., retiring president, the audience stood and applauded a statement by Senator Pepper (D., Fla.), convention keynote, advocating a "third term for Roosevelt's ideas" in 1940.

Pepper charged the Wall Street "financial oligarchy" and "king-makers" who had "picked" Presidents in the past, were trying to do it again and already had selected for their candidates "Bricker of Ohio for President and Dewey of New York (I believe) as vice president."

Bricker Boomed.

Loud "boos" greeted his remarks as he referred to John W. Bricker, Ohio governor, and Thomas E. Dewey, New York district attorney, both republicans.

Mr. Roosevelt said in his message he felt the senior party convention would "see the political wisdom, as well as the national wisdom, of giving to the voters of the United States an opportunity to maintain the practice and the policy of moving forward with a liberal and humanitarian program."

"Do not let the reactionaries and the conservatives get away with fine phrases," he told the Young Democrats. "Pin them down and make them tell you just how they would do it."

The chief executive himself gave no clue in his message to the Young Democrats convention at Pittsburgh, limiting his comment to a statement that he would "find it impossible to have any active part in such an unfortunate suicide of the Democratic party."

Senator Thomas (D., Okla.), who talked with the chief executive last Sunday, told reporters:

"Under no conditions do I believe he would run as an Independent."

The Oklahoma senator added the personal opinion, however, that Mr. Roosevelt might walk out of the Democratic convention if Vice President Garner were nominated.

Senator Logan (D., Ky.) said that although it would be "very damaging and unfortunate" if the senator, bloodhounds picked up his trail, then lost it. Citizens dropped out of the hunt yesterday, but county officers, Rangers, and state highway patrolmen continued it.

The negro who was captured at Ben Wheeler had served part of a 20-year term for attempted assault from Henderson, officers here said.

The negro, an ex-convict, was taken peacefully. He denied he was the attacker, and was questioned in the Smith county jail by officers from Terrell.

The negro, an ex-convict, was taken peacefully. He denied he was the attacker, and was questioned in the Smith county jail by officers from Terrell.

these funds. The people know the money is in honest hands."

In a carefully worded message to the convention here last night, President Roosevelt said:

"If we nominate conservative candidates, or lip-service candidates, on a straddle bug platform, I personally, for my own self respect and because of my long service to, and belief in, liberal democracy, will find it impossible to have any active part in such an unfortunate suicide of the old democratic party."

The President still kept his own counsel about a third term, but asserted flatly the party would "fail if it goes conservative" or is "led by people who can offer naught but fine phrases."

Shortly after the convention heard the Roosevelt message read amid cheers by Pitt Tyson Maner, of Montgomery, Ala., retiring president, the audience stood and applauded a statement by Senator Pepper (D., Fla.), convention keynote, advocating a "third term for Roosevelt's ideas" in 1940.

Pepper charged the Wall Street "financial oligarchy" and "king-makers" who had "picked" Presidents in the past, were trying to do it again and already had selected for their candidates "Bricker of Ohio for President and Dewey of New York (I believe) as vice president."

Bricker Boomed.

Loud "boos" greeted his remarks as he referred to John W. Bricker, Ohio governor, and Thomas E. Dewey, New York district attorney, both republicans.

Mr. Roosevelt said in his message he felt the senior party convention would "see the political wisdom, as well as the national wisdom, of giving to the voters of the United States an opportunity to maintain the practice and the policy of moving forward with a liberal and humanitarian program."

"Do not let the reactionaries and the conservatives get away with fine phrases," he told the Young Democrats. "Pin them down and make them tell you just how they would do it."

The chief executive himself gave no clue in his message to the Young Democrats convention at Pittsburgh, limiting his comment to a statement that he would "find it impossible to have any active part in such an unfortunate suicide of the Democratic party."

Senator Thomas (D., Okla.), who talked with the chief executive last Sunday, told reporters:

"Under no conditions do I believe he would run as an Independent."

The Oklahoma senator added the personal opinion, however, that Mr. Roosevelt might walk out of the Democratic convention if Vice President Garner were nominated.

Senator Logan (D., Ky.) said that although it would be "very damaging and unfortunate" if the senator, bloodhounds picked up his trail, then lost it. Citizens dropped out of the hunt yesterday, but county officers, Rangers, and state highway patrolmen continued it.
