DARING BRITISH TROOPS RAID ENEMY COAST

All Europe Closed To British Trade

BERLIN, June 26—Occupation of France's entire Atlantic coast by the German army proceeded swiftly today under terms of an armistice agreement which authorized sources said eliminated the republic as a military factor and paved the way for a final reckoning with England.

When the occupation is completed, these sources said, every continental Atlantic harbor except those in Spain and Portugal will be barred to British ships. In view of Spain's "extremely friendly" attitude toward the axis powers, German commentators declared, this means that all Europe is in effect closed to British trade.

Tightening aerial and naval warfare on the British Isles was reflected in a communique of the high command, which reported successful bombing of "several airports and airplane factories" in central England during the night and the torpedoing of three merchant ships southwest of Ireland.

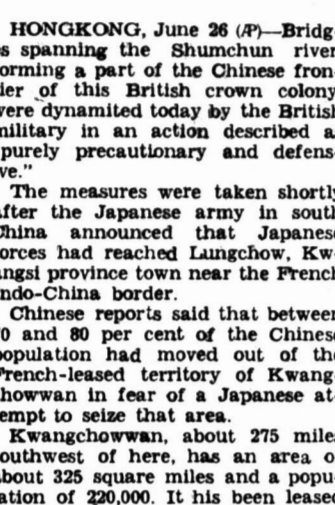

Furthermore, the high command said, a transport of 7,000 tons was bombed two days ago off Bayonne, France.

The Germans announced further British air raids on northern and western Germany last night, said that no military targets were hit but that at least four persons were killed.

Two of three British planes which attempted a raid yesterday on the Stavanger, Norway, airfield were reported shot down and the third driven away.

Authorized sources said the armistice terms imposed upon France were designed solely to meet war conditions and in no respect fore-shadow the peace negotiations of Europe which Adolf Hitler envisaged.

Only Two Days Left To Enter Derby Race

Boys who want to enter the Soap Box Derby to be held here July 18-19 have only two more days to enter the model automobile races.

At 6 o'clock tomorrow night the deadline falls and entries will be closed. Frank Culbertson, members of the general committee, said last night that entries to date already total 150, with both Pampa and McLean boys represented.

Dr. H. L. Wilder is chairman of the entry committee and Luther Wagner is registrar. These are the two men who will inspect the cars and the boys who will draw for places.

Entrants must design and build their own cars. A former winner of an officially sponsored Soap Box Derby, nor his car, nor any parts of the car, may compete in this year's race.

At a meeting of derby committee chairman last night it was decided to hold the races at night. Races will be held on the night of July 18 and again on the night of July 19, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Location of the course will be the same as last year, the old Miami road three miles north of Miami, over a 1,300 foot strip of paved hill. Lights and a telephone are to be installed, and a public address system set up.

No seats will be set up for spectators, but parking space for automobiles will be reserved on the west side of the road.

Hitler Gazes At Tomb Of Napoleon

BERLIN, June 26. (AP)—Adolf Hitler paid an extended incognito visit to Paris yesterday and visited the tomb of Napoleon, a highly reliable source said today.

The War Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
And now Japan slips into the picture of the European war in a big way, taking advantage of the wide-open situation growing out of Hitler's attempt to dismember the British Empire.

With France smashed and British influence in the Orient tremendously weakened by the Nazi Heiloo, Nippon is undertaking wide-spread operations which patently are calculated to give her domination of the Far East and the self-sufficiency she has been seeking.

This means a forceful reiteration of the "Monroe Doctrine" which Japan guardedly gave to the world in 1934—eastern Asia for the Asiatics.

It involves control of great and rich territories belonging to Britain and the defeated nations of France and the Netherlands.

In other words, Japan is speeding up her efforts to east the western powers from the Far East and take over complete control.

We are on the verge of witnessing a tremendous increase in the power and world prestige of the Japanese empire. It is a historic moment which should not be lost sight of because of the distraction of Europe.

In view of all this it is quite natural that there should be widespread speculation as to the destination of the main United States fleet which slipped mysteriously away from Hawaii and is churning up the Pacific without any indication of whether it is sailing north, south, east or west.

It may easily be proceeding to the Atlantic, but anyway, the fact that there should be so much speculation as to whether it might possibly be heading for the Far East, is

Britain Gains Information On Invasion Plans

(By The Associated Press)
Daring raids by British naval and military landing parties on German-held "enemy coastline"—apparently to seize prisoners for information on Nazi plans to invade the British Isles—were reported by the British ministry of information today.

Five German Ships Downed In Big Raid

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, June 26—British landing parties actually have "stabbed into the continental coastline from behind which Germany is preparing for the battle of Britain. It was reported today, and the sorties mark "a new phase of aggressive action."

Casualties were inflicted on German troops yesterday by naval and military raiders it was announced, and some of the German dead fell into British hands along with "much useful information."

The classes between the heavily armed British raiders, supported by the royal air force, and their Nazi foemen appeared to herald a far-flung guerrilla campaign to harass German coastal bases and obtain information on preparations for the invasion of Britain.

Reuters, British news agency, hinted at this in commenting on the strategic position of the Germans in the light of the raids—the German burden of patrolling and placing thousands of men on the European shores from Norway to the Spanish coast "to ward off the risk of raids made possible by dominant British sea power."

Contributing to Germany's disadvantage was the depletion of German naval forces in past engagements with the Allies and the wrecking of defensive works and harbor establishments by the British and French before they were yielded to the Nazis.

The British forays were described as "successful reconnaissances of enemy coastlines."

Neutral military observers expressed belief the coastal raids by British expeditionary force shock troops might become so active as to keep the German armies diverted from invasion of Britain.

No one regards the raids as pre-bombing.

Ford Refuses To Build Airplanes For Great Britain

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—Plans for faster expansion of the air force and simultaneous aid to Britain struck a snag today in the collapse of negotiations with Henry Ford for mass production of aircraft motors.

Ford, who has said he could turn out 1,000 complete planes daily, refused to manufacture any engines for Great Britain, the national defense commission announced, for this stand forced abandonment of arrangements for a joint U. S.-British order.

William S. Knudsen of the defense commission, who disclosed this last night, said that "cooperation in the production of this important military equipment will be sought elsewhere."

This statement gave rise to belief that services of other automobile manufacturers might be enlisted. It was recalled that when Ford made his "thousand-planes-a-day" prediction, Knudsen, then head of General Motors, could do likewise.

Detroit last night that he stood pat on his offer to produce motors and planes for defense purposes, but only for the United States government.

Announcement of the Ford break came several hours after President Roosevelt had outlined a program for building up a reserve of officers to help man the enlarged fleet under construction.

The chief executive described at his press conference yesterday the navy's intensive plans for training 5,000 young volunteers annually for reserve commissions. Enrollment of the embryo officers would start Friday, he said, and the first actual training period would begin in mid-July.

Pampan Reports He Was Robbed Of $116

Bud Jaynes, manager of the Silver Moon club, 116 1/2 West Foster avenue, was slugged and robbed of $116 late last night as he was closing the club, city police said today.

His assailant or assailants escaped unnoticed, police said.

Young Jaynes was found unconscious by Leonard Brown at 12:05 a. m. Brown called police who began an immediate investigation.

When young Jaynes regained consciousness officers said he told them he was checking the cash register and that he believed he was alone in the club. He said he was struck from behind and that he didn't see or hear his assailant. Jaynes said he believed it was about 11:30 o'clock when he was attacked.

All the money in the cash register had been taken.

Evangelist Discusses Baptism At Service Held Tuesday Night

Evangelist G. A. Dunn spoke to an attentive audience last evening on the subject of baptism. Passages were cited from the New Testament, which show that Bible baptism requires a going down into the water, a burial in water, a resurrection from the water, and a coming up out of the water.

Among the passages quoted on the fact of baptism were Romans 6:3-4, Col. 2:12. After showing that immersion is the only act that meets the requirements of the New Testament, the speaker discussed the design of baptism. He pointed out the fact that Acts 2:38 says that baptism is unto the remission of sins; he called attention to the fact that when the Lord appeared to Saul of Tarsus on the road to Damascus he told Saul to go into the city, and there it would be told him what he must do. When Ananias the preacher came to him he said, "Arise and be baptized and wash away thy sins."

Visitors from both in and out of town are attending the meeting at almost every service. Come with us and "we will do thee good," the pastor cited.

Flag Of Our Country

A few weeks ago, Americans celebrated Flag Day. It is an occasion that has been duly observed ever since 1895, but we doubt whether, in the 45 years of its existence, the day has taken on a deeper meaning than it did this time. Events in Europe have brought about a new awakening of our national consciousness. Inevitably, therefore, the flag has again attained its true proportions as a symbol of America—America, something more than a mere name on the face of the globe; America, a single word that embraces the concepts of material welfare, spiritual dignity, and human freedom, ideals nearly extinct in so many other lands and in so many other human souls.

Enough To Make You See Red

A Justice of the New York State Supreme Court rules that it is not libelous to call an American a Communist. He points out that, while the Communist party "actually has its roots in foreign lands" and while its members "have potentially obligated themselves even to overthrow our government by force and violence," it is still, "under the existing law, may function as a political party."

Behind The News

WASHINGTON, June 26—In announcements already made, this administration has laid down the outlines of defense measures so sweeping that they must, almost inevitably, be followed by economic measures of equal broad scope.

LOWER STANDARDS OR HIGHER PRODUCTION

In view of the fact that these tremendous new expenses must be borne by a nation already $40,000,000,000 in debt, with an unbalanced budget running back for the better part of a decade, and with around 9,000,000 unemployed, economists here in Washington are saying one of two things must be done:

SAMPLE PLAN SHOWS SCOPES

One sample, taken from just one sector of the "home front," will do as an illustration. The Department of Agriculture says there are today on American farms more than three million men who are either totally unemployed or who exist on gross incomes (for themselves and their dependents) of less than $200 a year. These people live where soil erosion and depletion are most advanced. Hence the department has drafted a tentative rural work relief program, aimed to give these 3,000,000 men jobs in a vast soil conservation program.

Common Ground

This column contends there can be no satisfactory progress until we measure the shares of such man by the common yardstick of the God-given equal right to create and enjoy anything anyone else has a right to create and enjoy.

SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST

The foreign correspondent, Mr. Buell, of the Chicago News says that survival of the fittest is again taking place in Europe; that it is France's own fault that they are being beaten; that now the third reich is stronger than the third republic of France.

Violated Law of Use or Loss

France, and probably England, has been violating this law and while Germany is far from obeying this law, it, at the present time, however, is probably more nearly using the talent of all the people than the French Republic used them.

It is, of course, to be hoped that Hitler and Mussolini will make terms of peace that permit the French people, as well as the German people and the Italian, to use the natural faculties and the forces of nature to add to the happiness of all the people.

It might be well to remember that all governments were established by force. It was due in the United States to the wisdom of such a man as George Washington who was in a position to be a dictator, that we had the greatest advance in liberty ever set forth by any government. It more nearly than any other government recognized the inalienable rights that belonged to every man.

THE FAULT FINDER

It is easy to find fault with those who are trying to create and build. Dr. N. S. B. Grass, Strauss Professor of Business History of the Graduate School of Business Administration of Harvard University, in his book, "Business and Capitalism" has the following to say on the subject of how easy it is for rable-rousters to find fault:

BOTTLENECK

Frank Kent, in his syndicated article, very clearly points out the real bottleneck in our problem of preparing for national defense. I quote: "Already it is clear that the real obstacle to effective production is labor. The schools of apprentices, under present union rules, are so conducted as rigidly to limit the quantity of skilled labor in many trades. This is a real bottleneck. It has got to be removed if our effort to arm is to be successful. It can only be removed through a revision and adjustment of union regulations, which the union leaders are unwilling to concede."

The Nation's Press

ENCYCLOPEDIA'S FORECAST (Detroit News) We find in the Encyclopedia Britannica, edition of 1929, an article on "Tactics" which forecast in main outline the German blitzkrieg.

The article tells how tactics have changed during 1,500 years in response, usually reluctant and delayed, to recurring changes in the weapons of war. The story is too involved for summarization here. Suffice it to say the upshot of its argument was that in 1914-18 automatic weapons abolished the infantry as the arm that wins wars.

The article goes on to describe the probable effect on a "next war," in which armies, it predicted, would be largely mechanized. "The decisive point of attack will once again become the rear of the enemy's army." "Not only will shock weapons (mainly the bayonet) disappear, but also the small-arms and machine-gun weapons." "The approach will be made rapidly not only by road but across country, consequently the nature of strategy will be changed." "Area warfare will replace linear warfare and fronts may be anywhere."

THE WATCH

Around Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, June 26—Behind the screen: Friends were surprised when Wilfrid Lawson packed up to return to England as soon as he had finished his stint in "Long Voyage Home." "There's too much war talk here," he explained. "I can't stand it."

Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh have written friends here that they'll go right back to England, no matter what's happening there. And Beatrice Lillie, who was to have come here for a picture, has cancelled her plans and will remain to entertain soldiers.

Sale Of Ice Cream In Park Refused

Sale of ice cream in Central park by a Pampa woman who asked that she be allowed this privilege was denied by the city commission at its regular meeting Tuesday. The commission gave as its reason the desire to keep the park as neat as possible and expressed the opinion that to grant permission to one person for commercializing the park would lead to endless requests from others for the same right.

SIDE GLANCES

By Galbraith The point of this paragraph is, that the fellow who wrote the one about "honesty is the best policy," now is open for a bit of argument. . . . "Honesty pays" all right, but sometimes it pays the other fellow. . . . This time it paid Uncle Sam a cent and a half.

THERE are a lot of important things for us folks here in the Panhandle to consider in these days of world strife. . . . Here's something you probably have overlooked. . . . But, don't say you weren't warned. . . . They said we would have to make sacrifices, and here they are—already.

Chefs in the big hotels already are bemoaning the fact that truffles have become very scarce. . . . Tsk, tsk. . . . Fats de foies gras? Tsk, tsk. . . . Flets of anchovy? The price is rising. . . . English jams are scarce. . . . Irish bacon can't be had. . . . No Belgian endive. . . . And Italian salami is off the menus entirely. . . . Tsk, tsk again.

WELL, there it is! Just think of the times during the past few years when you had truffles and pate de foies gras for dinner, and you see immediately how serious all this really is. . . . Who can tell? If this sort of thing keeps up it may be necessary to turn to consuming some of our own vast agricultural surpluses, the wheat, the corn, the dairy products, native fruits, which our own farmers have produced by the sweat of their brows and can't sell for enough to make a living.

An Amarillo fan in the press-box last night said he likes to see the Gold Sox win, but not like they did last night. . . . This is not sour grapes, but, he, too, though, thought they should have ended on a strike-out of the pinch-hitter sent to the plate in the first half of the ninth. . . . The score then, would have been Pampa 5, Amarillo 3. . . . Of course everybody doesn't see them like the umpire sees them, but it seems to us on the play where Pampa's Prather popped to the first baseman that Seitz, who went to second, should have been safe. . . . He was not tagged out and it was not a forecatch because Prather already was out. . . . The last out called on Pampa in the ninth was questionable. . . . If ever a base-runner should have had the benefit of the doubt, it was Clutter going into first on that final play of the game.

FOR THE BENEFIT OF THOSE WHO PREFER NOT TO SALUTE THE AMERICAN FLAG: The American flag is the symbol of our country. It should command the respect of every man, woman and child American or alien. Uncle Sam pulled a fast one on us today. . . . We thought we would be smart and call his attention to the fact that he delivered to us this morning a sealed letter from Roundrock, Tex., that bore only one and one-half cents postage. . . . It was simple for Uncle Sam. . . . His man, Friday, at the Pampa post-office just took the letter, marked on it "postage due 1 1/2 cents," and asked us to pay off before we could get the letter back (it hadn't been opened).

Pettengill HIGHEST YEARS Democratic Congressman From INDIANA

While England Slept Because Britain saw the wisdom of charging horses in the middle of a bloody stream, Winston Churchill is now prime minister. It is his job to try to compress years of neglect into weeks of action. He may not succeed.

Few things which England has lived to regret have not happened here. Germany's program was guns without butter. Britain, France and America's program was bootlegging without guns.

Churchill did not want England to have to depend on French airplanes or her defense. He wanted to be prepared to defend England alone if necessary. "We must secure our freedom of choice to remain outside a European war, if one should break out." This was shortly after Hitler came to power.

"We must have the effective right and power to choose our own path in any controversy which may arise upon the continent of Europe, and for this purpose we must be safe from undue foreign pressure. We cannot afford to confide the safety of our country to the passions or the panic of any foreign nation which may be facing some desperate crisis."

I wish every American could read these words. He was speaking in 1934 on "The Need for Air Parity." He went on "I recognize the strong ties of interest and sympathy which unite the two great parliamentary democracies of western Europe. These are great ties which we have in common with the French republic, but in spite of all that, we ought not to be dependent upon the French for the safety of our island home. All history has proved the peril of being dependent upon a foreign state for home defense instead of upon one's own right arm."

Save words and wise. I have read nothing for years which sounds so much like Washington's farewell address. There is nothing here about running around the world to defend "democracy." Churchill proposed to defend England. I honor him for it.

"No nation," he said, "playing the part we play in the world, has a right to be in a position where it can be blackmailed. Germany is arming—arming rapidly—and no one will stop her. (This was six years ago.) None of the grievances between victors and vanquished have been redressed. We must strengthen our armament in the air and upon the seas in order to make sure that we are still the judges of our own fortunes, our own destinies and our own action."

Churchill wanted England to have the freedom of choice which comes from an impregnable defense. Then she could fight or not in other nation's wars, as her own vital interests might seem to warrant at the time. He wanted England strong against both foe and friend. He did not want England's decisions placed in the hands of the politicians of a foreign power because her own politicians had made her too weak to defend herself except with foreign aid.

If a like condition is not here the reason for the panic that prevails in Washington, what IS the reason? America slept while England slept. Where were all our "experts" and smart multi-millionaire ambassadors who "knew so much" and armed so little meantime sticking their noses in every hornet's nest in the world? Seven years after Hitler came to power, five years after he adopted universal military service, four years after he recaptured the Rhine land, two years after his tanks roared down the Danube into Austria, one year after his bombers hovered over umbrellas, nine months after Panzer and Stuka had crushed Poland in 14 days, our commander-in-chief suddenly decided we must have war planes now, now, NOW!

Theodore Roosevelt said, "Speak softly and carry a big stick." Our recent war cry has been to "speak loudly and carry a pop gun." KEEP CONGRESS IN SESSION.

Mighty Gassers Will Open Series Tonight

Oilers Lose When Seitz Drops A Fly

The Amarillo Gold Sox salvaged the last game of their current series with the Pampa Oilers last night when Gus Hallburg weakened in the eighth and ninth innings and Manager Seitz tried to play both center and left field and dropped a ball that would have ended the game but which gave the Sox a 6 to 5 victory. Tonight at 8:30 o'clock at Road Runner park here Borgers mighty Gassers will play the first of a three-game series.

It will be "Sadie Hawkins" night at Road Runner park tonight. Any man, accompanied by a woman who buys a general admission ticket, will be admitted free to the game. It's going to be one night when the man stands back and watches the woman romp over the 40 yards. However, every man and woman, unaccompanied, will be charged the regular price.

An even 1,000 fans purchased tickets to see last night's hectic struggle. It was Gus Hallburg's game all the way until the fifth when he threw. Hallburg's next two pitches were out but Denorio hit one hit through seven innings and only two men had gotten on base, one on a double and the other on Jordan's error.

Hallburg fails While Hallburg was pitching flawless ball, Bus Dorman allowed the Oilers 5 runs and 12 hits. Bob Knobles opened the attack on Dorman with a triple. He scored on Dorman's single. Although the Oilers bagged hits in each succeeding inning, it wasn't until the fifth that they scored another run. Knobles opened with a double and scored on Malvica's second single.

The lead looked plenty big as Hallburg mowed the Sox down but Summers' single, Jordan's single, and Potter's single, all infield hits, added another in the fifth. Two more runs crossed the plate in the sixth when Knobles got his third hit, a single. Malvica sacrificed him to second where he scored on Seitz's single. Summers was safe on an error after Prather had filed out and Seitz and Summers worked a perfect double steal, with Seitz scoring.

That eased the tension but the Sox had yet to be heard from. They opened up on Hallburg in the eighth with successive singles by Schaff and Williams. The next two batters were out but Denorio blasted a double and Duarte followed with a single and three runs were across the plate.

In the ninth the first two batters were out but Ratliff drew a walk and Williams singled. Fulenwider walked and Dilbeck relieved Hallburg as Dorman came to bat. But Manager Bubber Jonnard crossed up the works by substituting Beckler, a right-hander, at bat. With two strikes and one ball, Dilbeck laid one across the inside corner, half high, and the game appeared to be over but the umpire called it a ball. Players and fans alike were stunned.

But he gave Beckler another chance and he lifted a high fly into left center. Knobles started for the ball and was ready to take it when Seitz crossed in front of him and took it. He was traveling so fast he dropped the ball and three runs crossed the plate.

The Oilers had a golden opportunity to score in the ninth but again a close umpiring decision beat them. Seitz fanned to open the inning. Prather singled. Summers walked. Jordan went out to first, both runners advancing. Then Clutter hit down the third base line and Clutter and the ball reached first at the same time, but the runner didn't get the benefit of the doubt, which is customary in baseball, and was called out as the winning runs crossed the plate.

Prather Thrills Crowd Biggest thrill of the night, other than Hallburg's sensational hurling for seven innings, came when Dutch Prather reached over the fence in front of the bleachers and speared B. Altengrub's high foul and again when he reared deep into foul territory and after leaping high Gibbon Still In Senior Tournament Dan J. Gibbon was the only one of five Pampa golfers who remained in the Tri-State Senior Golf tournament, today. The tournament is being played over the Amarillo Country club course.

Mr. Gibbon lost his first round match in the fifth flight to H. L. Price of Hereford, 2 up and 1, but defeated Benson, 2 up, in consolation play.

H. J. Coombs, playing in the championship flight, forfeited to C. M. Bryan in the morning and then lost to Crites in consolation. H. B. Landrum dropped games to Dr. A. S. Neal and Crawford.

Grover Austin, Sr., beat Jet Brumley, 1 up, in the morning round but lost to Johnson in the afternoon, 1 down.

Dodgers Slipping From Early-Season Heights

HOLD THAT TIGER

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

There is no time like midnight to unmask a miracle.

The Chicago Cubs did it last night, revealing even to the stout-hearted Flatbush as they went to bat in the last of the ninth, the Dodgers got a three-all tie when Babe Phelps opened with a home run. Pitcher Hugh Casey was called out on strikes, but Peeewe Reese tripled.

Then Manager Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs came up with what looked like strange strategy. He ordered Cookie Lavagetto and Dixie Walker purposely passed to fill the bases so old Charley Root could pitch to Joe Medwick.

Imagine choosing, voluntarily, to pitch to Medwick with the bases loaded. The Cubs did. And on the first pitch Medwick dribbled a double play grounder to short. That was the ball game. The Dodgers made five errors and virtually gave the contest to the Cubs.

The Cubs didn't need any urging to grab what was offered. Dominic Dallesandro hit a triple, two doubles and a single to pace a 14-hit attack and Relief Pitcher Claude Passeau held the Dodgers hitless through the four extra innings.

The only other game in the National League saw Gaby Hartnett of the Cubs outlast the Phillies to win 9-7 and rise into fifth place again.

The day was a big but generally ineffectual interim in the American league, where the Cleveland Indians stopped the New York Yankees ahead while Boston and Detroit were standing each other off in a doubleheader.

Hal Trosky hit his 16th and 17th homers of the year to lead the Indians to a 5-3 triumph over the Detroit boppers before rain halted the game at the end of five innings.

The Red Sox routed Schoolboy Rowe for his first defeat in taking the first half of their doubleheader 11-7, but a single second game Hal Newhouser stopped the Red Soxers 5-1.

The St. Louis Browns downed the Philadelphia Athletics 12-10.

The Washington Senators staged a four-run rally in the ninth by the Chicago White Sox to win 7-6.

conservative, but the fans love it, and Brooklyn will likely come close to playing to $2,000,000 this season.

John J. McGraw, greatest of all baseball financiers, engineered to mutual advantage the ill-feeling between New York and Brooklyn which exists to this day.

McGraw's Giants of 1906-12 fought the Cubs eye-for-eye and tooth-for-tooth. McGraw kept things stirred up by telegraphing the chief of police on each invasion of the enemy's territory, demanding "protection from Chicago hoodlums."

Once when Barney Dreyfus stirred the easily aroused ire of McGraw, Little Napoleon sent the entire series at Forbes Field razzing the Pittsburgh president from the coacher's box.

It was the same Dreyfus who, in 1921, following the Pirates' loss of three consecutive double-headers to the Giants in mid-September, when they seemed on their way to the pennant, stormed into the dressing room and snarled: "Quitters!"

It's good to see the noble athletes sharpening spikes, and coming in to bases with them flying high.

After all, they're not playing tennis.

And the so-called national pastime had become boreome.

Red Horses Rout Kingsmill 14-4

Scoring in every inning, the Magnolia Flying Red Horses swamped the Kingsmill All Stars 14 to 4 in a four-inning game yesterday evening at Magnolia park. The game was called so that players could attend the Pampa Oil-Amarillo Gold Sox game.

R. Stephens, pitching for the Red Horses, fanned seven and walked only one. E. Hogan started the Kingsmill but after allowing nine hits good for 10 runs, he was relieved by Morgan.

Hogan's pitching suited the Stephens brothers. H. getting two home runs and R. one. Miller hit for three bases while Miller, Bailey and R. Stephens added doubles.

Wagner and Carlson hit doubles for Kingsmill. A Kingsmill rally was nipped when White, Keyser and Bailey pulled a snappy double play.

Manager Bob Bailey has issued a call for all players to report to the diamond at 6 o'clock Thursday afternoon in working clothes, not baseball uniforms, for there's work to be done. A hoe, rake and bucket will be used instead of bats and balls.

On Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the Red Horses will meet the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line company team of Pritch here. Ray Cheever has a mighty strong agreement, according to reports.

Houston Sets Merry Pace In League

Houston's Buifs, their lineup studded with youngsters, have set a merry pace in the Texas league.

All along the line you'll find youth having its fling, with the three youngest clubs leading the drive.

But then there's also Nick Cullop. A 37-year-old veteran of 19 years in the baseball wars, Cullop bats in cleanup position for Houston. The reason is obvious. He has driven in more runs than any other player in the league.

Last night he made it 68 as Houston's top team roared over Oklahoma City 11-2. That's 13 more than his nearest competitor. Cullop also tops the loop in home runs.

Houston stayed seven and a half games out in front, although second-place San Antonio beat Fort Worth 5-3.

The place Beaumont split a double bill with Tulsa, dropping the slugfest opener 4-3 and winning the nightcap 5-4 in thirteen innings.

Dallas and Shreveport also divided a double-header. Dallas won the first game 6-5 but lost the five inning afterpiece 5-1.

SERIAL STORY

Ticket to Hollywood

BY W. H. PEARS

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY, Mr. Weston arranged to see the boy...

CHAPTER IX HOLLYWOODLAND! There it was in great white letters...

"Reach out and grab a handful of stardust," John Weston grinned.

"John, don't be cynical," Aunt Hat said.

"Traffic's just like Elsieph City on Saturday," he grumbled.

"Look, Pops," Francis exclaimed, "there's the famous Tan Hat where all the stars eat!"

Aunt Hat craned her neck, sighed, "My goodness!"

John Weston was enjoying their excitement. "Just be calm, children. You've plenty of time to take in the big show. There's a nice little hotel off Hollywood boulevard. I'm giving you a whole week to gawk, then I'm going fishing."

Francis said, "Oh, Pops, that's grand."

He turned the car into a driveway lined with shaggy-boled palms, drew up before a white stucco building. A bellboy hurried over for their baggage.

Francis's room overlooked a flagged courtyard with a murmuring fountain. In the distance she could hear the heartbeat of the city. Only the thought of the ticket marred her joy.

Only the thought that tomorrow she must look for Gus and return it... give up her passport to the real glamor of this wonderful place.

SHE started out alone after breakfast. At Hollywood and Vine she asked an officer the way to I. B. C. studios. She walked several blocks down the boulevard, and the building was just to her left.

It was large, modern, ideally curved, with glass block sides and a long promenade.

Within, the spacious reception room was crowded with visitors. Uniformed page boys scurried about. Francis scanned faces. She went to the information desk and described Gus. The young man grinned, shook his head. Would she like to take a tour while she waited?

Francis said, "No, thank you." She watched a number of exotic-looking people enter the elevators. She tried to imagine who they might be. She saw herself mingling with them, a fellow artist. If only she could get the ticket! It would be so easy to leave and not return until Saturday at 8.

She tried to interest herself in the big mural on the wall. It was no use. She turned blindly toward the door, bumping into a small, wiry man. He grunted, started to brush by her, stopped.

"Aggie!" he exclaimed, staring. "No, no, not Aggie. Too young. Don't tell me." He removed his loud-banded straw hat, scratched his head. "I got it, honey! Little torch singer back in the sticks. My last ticket. Right?"

"Mr. Koon," Francis said breathlessly.

"Owner, honey. How you doing. Glad to see you. Like to have my kids show up. Say, wasn't there a boy with you, plenty hot on the trumpet?"

"He's in Hollywood, too," Francis said.

"Sorry, honey," Mr. Koon frowned. "Couldn't double you up if you was my own kids. No, sir."

"Oh, I didn't mean that. I'm waiting here to give Gus the ticket."

"So? Foolish of you, honey. It's dog eat dog in this racket. No sentiment. Go after the breaks; that's my advice. Let the boy friend look after himself."

KOON'S big office was filled with people. "Sit here, honey," he said in his rapid, staccato way. "I'll buzz you in a few minutes."

He breezed through a door marked "Private."

Francis sat down, crossed her legs. She swung her toe and tried to appear as if Hollywood were an every day occurrence to her. The platinum blond receptionist smiled.

"I'll keep after Koony," she promised. "He'll probably forget you."

"I hardly think so," Francis said with a touch of condescension. "You see, I'm a personal friend of his."

But as the minutes dragged by she felt less and less important. She wished she hadn't been so haughty. She hated to ask the receptionist to buzz Mr. Koon now.

The door behind her opened to admit a stocky young man of about 19. He wore a loud plaid sport coat and a maroon shirt open at the throat. Dark glasses covered his eyes.

Approaching the receptionist, he said, "Top o' the morning, blondie. How's about telling Koony I'm here?"

"Slow up, handsome," the girl retorted. "Right now Koony wouldn't see Clark Gable."

"Stop kidding," the young man said. He put his hand on the swinging gate. "I'm seeing Koony now." He turned to note the effect of his importance on the others who had waited, saw Francis. "Well!"

Francis was looking her best in blue. She had brushed her amber hair to a high-lustered perfection. Her brown eyes were big with excitement, her cheeks and lips freshly vivid.

The young man stared in bold admiration. With a grin he said, "Maybe I'll wait, after all."

HE took the empty chair next to Francis and lit a cigaret. From the corner of her eye Francis saw that he had lovely red-gold hair like Jerry Finney. She tried to appear disinterested, but she could feel the sudden hammer of her pulses.

"Been waiting long?" he asked. Having been taught to beware of masher, Francis made her voice properly cold: "Oh, not long."

"I'll ease you in ahead of these other yokels," he said. "Koony ought to be shot keeping a beautiful creature like you waiting."

Francis didn't know what to say. She could feel hot color sweeping into her face. Without looking at him, she said sedately, "That won't be necessary, thank you. Mr. Koon and I are old friends."

"Just like that," he laughed, unabashedly twisting around to get a better look at her. "Say, anyone ever tell you you're darn photogenic?"

The word baffled Francis. "N-no."

"Well, you are. I don't mean any of this high-polish stuff like the make-up men dish out. You're fresh." He bent so close that Francis could see the faint dust of freckles across his nose. "I'll bet you're not from Hollywood."

Francis struggled internally. She had never been talked to like this before. In a vague sort of way she recognized it as flattery. But the words had such a lovely sound. She wanted to hear more.

"Okay, if you want it proper," the young man said. "We'll make Koony introduce us." He took her arm. "Come on."

Dazedly Francis was pulled past the protesting receptionist into Mr. Koon's office. Koon withdrew his head from a stack of papers, turned his stool into a smile.

The young man said, "We want to be introduced, Koony."

"Sure, sure," Koon chuckled, then said to Francis, "Fast work, honey. This beautiful Irish lad is Jerry Finney."

Parks Project Reopened Here

Reopening of Pampa's WPA parks project was announced to the city commission at its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon by City Manager Steve Matthews.

The project has been closed for the past two weeks. There are now 25 men back at work and it is planned to increase this number to 40 or 50 to complete development of park sites on the 16-acre tract north of the bridge on Cook street, the location near the water works on Hobart, and an area near the underpass in the southeast part of town.

In addition, an extra 25 men have been added to the paving project to speed up topping and curb and gutter work. The new paving repair job will require 50 more men. Altogether, these projects will bring the total number of Works Projects administration workers on city WPA jobs up to 160, providing employment for them until such time as a county WPA job is open.

Texas GOP Pledged To Senator Taft

By L. T. EASLEY
PHILADELPHIA, June 26 (AP)—Only when the balloting begins to determine the Republican presidential nominee for the November election will it be known just how much of an impression the manner and voice of Wendell Willkie has made on Texas delegates to the G. O. P. national convention.

Uninstructed, but bound by a caucus agreement of Sunday to support unanimously on at least the first ballot Ohio's Senator Robert A. Taft, most of the Texans had their first opportunity to hear and meet personally the darkhorse-candidate-grown-light when he called on them at their own hotel headquarters.

He left them still bound to vote for Taft and with any change in that agreement possible only by caucus action, but with many privately talking among themselves over the personality that has boomed Willkie stock so high in the past two months.

For 30 minutes he discussed informally with the Texans his background and political views. Frequently he drew cheers and laughter. He gave explicit answers to all questions but one, and it concerned his attitude toward foreign policy.

Explaining that the European scene was changing so fast now he thought it unwise to try to reach some hard and set policy, he declared:

"I wouldn't send an American boy to war unless the American people forced me into it."

He attacked the Roosevelt administration, charging it had simply transferred the centralization of economic wealth from Wall Street to Washington. He criticized New Deal policies generally. Asked by a San Antonio delegate if he favored socialized medicine, he replied emphatically in the negative.

He described as "bunk, that stuff about me being free trader." One delegate asked if, assuming he became president, he would allow Venezuela oil to be dumped into this country, he answered:

"Of course not."

When he had concluded Texas National Committeeman R. B. Creager of Brownsville praised Willkie as a red blooded American but criticized his foreign trade policy, charging that it would not give sufficient protection to American markets.

As the convention floor leader for Taft, Creager occupied a prominent place on the speakers' platform, while the Texas delegates were assigned sections half way back on the convention floor in a group with other Southwestern states.

Active here in the presidential nomination fight was another Texan, but a Democrat. He was Carl Estes, Longview publisher, a leader in the campaign of Pennsylvania's Governor A. H. James. Estes arranged to present the Pennsylvania to the Texas delegation so they could hear his views.

For many months a resident of the governor's mansion in Harrisburg, Estes is seen frequently going between one busy convention hotel and another here in Philadelphia accompanied by Governor James. They ride in a big black sedan bearing a Texas license plate.

Educator Upholds Split Infitives

BOSTON, June 26 (AP)—School committeemen Joseph Lee think school children and teachers in Boston should be permitted to split infinitives "any damn time they wish."

He proposed in a motion at a committee meeting last night that School Superintendent Arthur L. Gould be instructed to issue an order advising the teachers and pupils that split infinitives are all right.

"Too often," he charged, "language is taught by a set of rules, rather than as a means of conveying thought."

The committee, however, declined to immediately act (ah, there) on his motion.

The production charts for July 1940, a typical 1940 working month of one of the prominent U. S. American plane manufacturers, plan for a total of 138,000 working hours. Of this total only 43,000 hours will be directed toward military aircraft.

Lawyer Urges U. S. Use Totalitarian Building Methods

DENTON, June 26 (AP)—"If the United States is ever to build a war machine that in any way will compete with those of the totalitarian states, Germany and Italy, she will have to do it outside the field of capitalism," J. Newton Rayzor, Houston lawyer and graduate of the North Texas State Teachers College here this week.

There is not enough money in this country to build such a war machine, as long as profits and wages are involved, and the only way to challenge fascist military might is to use totalitarian methods in production of war materials, the speaker declared.

This, he added, would demand that the country move toward complete domination of American war industries by the government.

Rayzor, who is one of the outstanding maritime lawyers in the Southwest, is now consul for Norway in the southern part of Texas. He is a graduate of NTSTC, Rice, and Chicago University, holding the Ph. D. from the latter school.

Texas, more than any other section of the nation, he said, stands to lose by the present international situation because the war has cut off most of her cotton and oil exports. This cutting off of European trade routes, however, has caused an increasing opening of South American trade routes to Texas, he declared.
