GOVERNOR TO CONVENE "FARMERS SESSION" SEPT. 8

LONG, PARNELL APPROVE

EXECUTIVES OF OTHER STATES STATE THEY WILL NOW ACT

By The Associated Press. The governor of Texas, the state holding the balance of power in the proposal to legislate relief for the cotton growers, announced late yesterday he would call the legislature into special session Tuesday noon to enact a cotton reduction law.

Launched by Governor Long of Louisiana as a means of aiding the distressed cotton farmer, the movement to ban cotton growing or reduce acreage in 1932 had awaited action of the Texas chief executive, Ross Sterling.

Texas produces about one-third of the nation's cotton crop, and governors of several other southern states had said they would not call special "cotton" sessions unless and until Texas acted.

Governor Sterling's action brought quick response from Governor Parnell of Arkansas, who said he was "exceedingly glad." He intimated he would follow suit as soon as he learned what cotton relief plan, if any, Texas adopts.

He said there was overwhelming sentiment in Arkansas for the plan of Governor Long which already has been passed by the Louisiana law. It is effective if states growing 75 per cent of the nation's crop follow suit.

The secretary to Governor Blackwood of South Carolina said he was "reasonably certain" the chief executive of that state would call a special session within a few days to deal with the cotton price situation. Governor Blackwood could not be reached for a statement.

Governor Gardner of North Carolina said he had "no comment to make of Governor Sterling's call."

Governor's Statement
The chief executive's statement in full follows:

"The voice of the people is sounding through the South in a clamor of distress, seeking relief from their gravest agricultural crisis of modern years. Cotton prices are lower than the cost of production, and over-production threatens an even greater demoralization of the market.

"Meanwhile, in the background looms the black shadow of soil deterioration, menacing our cotton, farmers with the ruinous heritage of worn-out land, such as already has blighted agriculture in older states.

"Facing financial ruin, cotton farmers throughout Texas have been holding mass meetings and adding their concerted voices to the rising tide of pleas for legislative relief. Thousands have petitioned the chief executive to call a special session for enactment of laws to aid them, particularly by means of cotton acreage reduction.

CAROL SEEKS NEW QUEEN

King Carol II, upper left, of Rumania, in the role of a 1931 "Miss Standish," has sent his good friend, M. Manoliscu, lower left, as his "John Aiden," to Rome to seek the hand of Princess Maria Francesca, 17, right, youngest daughter of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, in his behalf. If the suit by proxy wins favor, the marriage would take place soon, with coronation ceremonies for both King Carol and the new queen early this winter. Carol's coronation has been delayed due to failure to effect a reconciliation with his divorced wife, Queen Helen.

GOV SELIGMAN THREATENS TO CALL SPECIAL OIL LEGISLATURE

AVERS HOBBS' SHOULD BRING AS MUCH AS PAMPA OIL

SANTA FE, N. M., Sept. 5. (AP)—Contending that "one of New Mexico's natural resources is being depleted without just compensation," Governor Arthur Seligman today said "drastic action" will be resorted to unless the price of Hobbs' field crude oil is increased to the same level of prices in the midcontinent field.

He wrote E. G. Allen at Dallas, chairman of Hobbs' oil promotion, at he has "in mind among other things the calling of a special session of the New Mexico legislature to enact such laws as may be necessary to bring about a fair and just compensation for New Mexico crude in line with the price paid for like gravity crude in the midcontinent territory."

He also told Allen that "it is my judgment that you are subject to prosecution in our state courts under our anti-trust laws, as I do not recognize that the promotion agreement under which you are operating to evade prosecution is a valid agreement."

Governor Seligman said Gray county, Texas, crude 37 gravity is 64 cents against Hobbs' crude 37 gravity 35 cents, and told Allen "even though the differential in carrying charges is 15 cents as stated in your wire, we are still 14 cents short on our price for the same gravity crude." He quoted other examples of alleged price discrimination.

"You will no doubt appreciate that I have been exceedingly patient, knowing as I do and as you do only the oil interests of New Mexico, but likewise our taxpayers and our schools," the governor wrote Allen.

Four Arrested for Theft of a Calf

Four men are being held in county jail in connection with the theft of a calf from the Emmett Thompson herd. The alleged theft is said to have taken place July 15 about half a mile east of the paving on the LeFors road. The men are alleged to have quartered the calf and used the meat in their homes.

The arrests were made late last night following an investigation by officers of the sheriff's department and a special officer working on the case.

MANY BUSY ON FAIR PLANS

HARD WORK IS SURE TO MEAN GOOD EXHIBITS

WOMEN'S DEPARTMENT WILL BE VERY LARGE

PROJECT WELL "SOLD"

CITY DECORATIONS TO BE OF WHEAT MOTIF

A host of earnest citizens, estimated at between 300 and 500, last night were completing individual and collective plans for the success of Gray county's first free fair since Pampa and Gray county began to plan in 1928.

The several hundred citizens who are and have been working for the success of the fair include a representative class of Gray county people. They include C. H. Walker, general superintendent; Ralph Thomas, the county agent; Miss Myrtle Miller, the home demonstration agent; Geo. W. Briggs, newspapermen and newspaperwomen, the club boy who will show his pig, the club girl who will exhibit an apron, the farmer who will bring a gallon of wheat for the wheat show, another farmer who will bring heads of maize and other sorghum grains, the owner of a precious antique—the list almost interminable. The boy with the pig to show is just as interested in his own way as the fair superintendent.

Can Be Success
Officials have hopes, based upon promises and hard work, that the fair is going to be successful. When the committee and directors began making plans for it and talking to farmers and others about it several months ago, they were like a person who holds a hand of cards he has not yet seen. He would bet that he has at least a king or perhaps an ace but he is not sure. The committee now believes it has several aces "in the hole."

Leaders of practically every community in the county have promised they will have community booths. If half of the communities have booths, the fair will be a success. Members of the fair committee See HARD WORK, Page 8

Varied Matches at Rifle Range Today

The Pampa Rifle club's range east of Pampa will be the scene of another match for 22 and large caliber guns this afternoon. George Glover, newly elected range officer, will be in charge of the matches. Six new targets for 22 caliber range shooting have been erected.

Several new targets for long range shooting are being constructed but will not be ready for this afternoon. It is expected they will be in place for the next match. Small caliber matches will be over the 50-foot and 50-yard range. The large caliber match will be over the 200 yard and 300 yard distances.

One of the best matches of the season was conducted last Sunday afternoon. First shooting will start at 1:30 o'clock.

Eye-Witness Depicts Battle

W. O. Fuller of Portland, Me., formerly employed as a surveyor by a Cuban sugar concern, has written the following eye-witness account of the four day revolutionary battle at Gibara, Cuba, exclusively for the Associated Press.

By WILLIAM O. FULLER
BOSTON, Sept. 5. — Somewhere in the hills above Gibara in the province of Oriente, Cuba, are hidden today 33 "foreign legionnaires," many of them said to be Americans and world war veterans, men who, for four days, held 3,000 Cubans loyal to President Machado at bay. I was stopping at Holguin, about 36 kilometers from Gibara on Aug. 17, just before the "foreign legionnaires" slipped into the mountain-locked town aboard a freighter. For some years I had been employed as a surveyor for a Cuban sugar com-

Air Attack On Ships Overdue

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 5. (AP)—An official bulletin issued by the government tonight indicated the "zero hour" for bombing the rebel fleet from the air, originally fixed for 6 p. m. today, had been postponed until tomorrow.

Although the government made no specific announcement of any change in the time, the bulletin said nine additional planes would join the air force at Orville tomorrow with a number of fliers, "with absolute orders."

Meanwhile, the government, headed by Acting President Manuel Trucco, declared a state of martial law throughout the nation for 30 days.

Censorship was invoked and dependable information about the situation in the naval centers was difficult to get.

Planes took off from bases along the coast between Coquimbo and Talcahuana with orders to bomb the insurgents but hours later no information was available about whether any action had taken place.

The planes were sent out after the mutineers defied an ultimatum called See AIR ATTACK, Page 8

RAILROAD COMMITTEE FORCED TO HAVE MORE FUNDS AT ONCE

DELAY IN GRADING IS FEARED UNLESS MONEY PAID

The time is coming soon when the committee to furnish right-of-way for the Fort Worth & Denver railway in Gray county will be called upon to spend more money than it has now.

Next week the committee will begin paying for right-of-way because that is the only way to get it. More of the money that has been pledged must be collected or else dirt work on the railroad will be held up.

Until certain property is bought and paid for, a construction crew under John McKnight, contractor, cannot begin work on the right-of-way four miles southeast of the city. The committee will begin buying it this week. When the right-of-way is opened to the teams and frescos of Mr. McKnight, he will hire 30 local laborers.

Up to last night, the committee had collected a total of about $12,000. Of this amount, pledges paid in full amounted to $7,707.50. E. B. Hedrick, in charge of collections, urges those who have pledged to make full payments if possible, and if they can't do that to make partial payments. Every little bit helps out, he said.

Mr. Hedrick pointed out that the paid amount, rather than the pledged amount, is what counts. Last week-end three contributors who had not previously pledged. These were Frank Kell of Wichita Falls, $250; Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber company, $350; and J. C. Penney company, Inc., $100. Mr. Hedrick said it is not necessary to make a pledge in advance in order to make a payment. "If any one wants to give to the fund, just bring the money to White Deer Land company office," he said. "All contributors will be given credit for cash payments whether or not they have signed pledges."

Collections announced last night by Mr. Hedrick were as follows:

- Frank Kell $250
- R. B. Ewing $50
- R. B. Fisher $25
- V. S. Kealey $150
- Foxworth-Galbraith Lbr. Co. $350
- Jack Mason $25
- Schafer hotel $50
- Gift Shop $25
- R. C. Wilson $25
- J. W. Garman $50
- W. D. Price $25
- J. C. Penney Co., Inc. $100
- Total amount, pledges paid in full $7,757.50

Then the storm broke without warning. I heard that a small party of revolutionists was about to land at Gibara and streaked for the village. From one of the mountains behind the town I watched the fight.

It was 11 o'clock when a strange freight boat appeared in the harbor of Gibara. Townspeople noticed the awkward manipulation of the craft as she entered and suspicion was aroused.

The freighter pulled into the wharf and five men in worn American army uniforms and steel helmets, jumped to the wharf, shot the single rural guard who opposed them, and swept into the town.

RUNNING BOARD RIDERS KILLED IN CULVERT COLLISION

HAPPY, Sept. 5. (AP)—Two persons were killed tonight when automobiles collided on the Amarillo-Plainview highway north of here.

Mrs. Sims is survived by two sons, John H. Curtis and Will F. Curtis, Amarillo, and a daughter, Mrs. Anne Gaines of Carrizo, N. M.

Mr. and Mrs. Crell Curtis and their two small children, of Tascosa, who were in the car with Mrs. Sims, were hurt. Their injuries were not believed to be serious. Mr. Curtis, driver, was cut on the face, and several ribs were broken. Mrs. Curtis was bruised. She was unconscious when she was received at the Plainview hospital. Names or injuries of the two children could not be determined late tonight.

A cloud of dust obscuring the highway was blamed for the accident.

Ten Members Pampa Kiwanis Club Leave For Oklahoma City

Ten members of the Pampa Kiwanis club, headed by President Paul Hill, will leave this morning for Oklahoma City to attend the Texas-Oklahoma District Kiwanis club convention. The convention will last three days. The first gathering will be tonight when Oklahoma City's huge air beacon will be unveiled.

The Corpus Christi delegation was the first to arrive in Oklahoma City according to an Associated Press dispatch last night.

The Pampa delegation will include Paul Hill, president, M. P. Downs, J. H. Huime, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Waggoner, H. R. Thompson, A. G. Post, Alex Schneider, Dan McCraw, Elmer Blair and Sam Clayman.

The girl was said to be 14 years old. The charge was filed by her father and was based on an assault alleged to have been made four months ago.

Youth Charged With Assault on Girl

Wine, Beer, Whiskey Seized; Cousins Held

Frank and Charles Somerville, cousins, were arrested yesterday in a raid made by officers of the sheriff's department at their house in the oil field three miles west of LeFors. They were charged with possession of intoxicating liquor for the purpose of sale. Bond in each case was set at $1,000 by Justice of the Peace James Todd Jr.

The officers unearthed two one-half gallon jars of whiskey, three and one-half bottles of beer, and 120 bottles of wine. The whiskey was buried in the ground outside the house; the wine was also under ground, and the beer was in a "stash" under the floor in a closet. Sheriff Lon L. Blansett said.

The men had not made bond last night and were being held in jail.

W. B. and Ralph Shannon returned yesterday from Glen Rose, where they have been visiting their mother, Mrs. E. S. Shannon, who is a patient at a hospital here.

He Got $1,500,000

Walter Wolf, 42, above, for 20 years a trusted Chicago bank employe, a church usher and respected citizen, faces prosecution for embezzlement of $1,500,000 in bonds. He was manager of the bank's coupon department and admitted he took the bonds to play the stock and grain markets.

CHARGE WOMAN IN SHORTAGE

BROWNWOOD, Sept. 5. (AP)—Miss Jewel Casey, who served as bursar at Howard Payne college for 10 years, has been charged with embezzling funds belonging to the college.

She was arrested at Lubbock on two counts yesterday and returned to the Brownwood jail. Today she posted bonds totaling $5,000 and was released.

Complaints against Miss Casey specifically charged embezzlement of more than $100 on each count. She was arrested after an exhaustive examination of records which showed shortages approximating $36,000.

The money was alleged to have disappeared in the past five years. As bursar for the college, Miss Casey handled all incoming money, made all bank deposits and served as bookkeeper.

Miss Casey made a statement concerning the shortage.

Dr. Thomas H. Taylor, president of the college, announced today that the institution was fully protected by a bonding company for its loss.

He advised that in the future an audit of the Howard Payne college books be made each year by expert auditors. He stated that the college was in excellent financial condition and would not be affected by the alleged embezzlement.

Miss Casey became bursar in 1920. She resigned several weeks ago after dealing all of her property to the college and making a signed statement.

Postal Savings Up 50 Per cent Here

Postal savings at the local post office have increased 50 per cent during the last 60 days, Postmaster D. E. Crell said last night. The greatest increase has been during the past three weeks, he said.

"Not only have postal savings increased, but every other department has shown marked increases during the last few weeks," the postmaster said. "Money orders have shown the most marked increase." He said.

"The depression is gradually disappearing and prosperity once again is coming to the front," the postmaster declared last night. "Our business during the past 60 days, and especially during the last three weeks, has surprised us," he said.

ROOKIE SCORED ON AS OTT THROWS BAD ONE IN 3RD

NEW YORK, Sept. 5. (AP)—The New York Giants ran their winning streak to eight straight by walling Brooklyn in both ends of a double header, 5 to 1, and 10 to 1, and pulled up to within 5 1/2 games of the league leader St. Louis Cardinals. Jim Mooney, left-handed rookie from Bridgeport, won his fifth straight in the second game, and would not have scored on but for a bad throw by Ott in the third inning.

EARNSHAW, ALLOWS 'HIT IN 8 TO 0' VICTORY

BOSTON, Sept. 5. (AP)—George Earnshaw let the Red Sox down with a lone hit in the first game of a double-header today which the Athletics and Sox divided. Earnshaw beat the Bostonians 8 to 0, but the Sox garnered a six to three win over Rube Walberg in the nightcap. Marty McManus lead-off man for the Sox in the eighth hit a roller which got away from Shortstop Williams to mar Earnshaw's hitless game.

TWENTY GRAND SHOWS HEELS TO SUN BEAU

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 5. (AP)—Thundering down the stretch like a runaway locomotive, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand today administered a sound whipping to Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Beau in the fifty-first running of the Saratoga cup.

Sun Beau, king of the older horses and leading money winner of the world, ran a game race but met his master in the big day from Mrs. Whitney's Greentree stable. At the end of the grueling mile and six furlongs, the six-year-old veteran from Kilmer's Binghamton, N. Y., barn, was eight lengths back of Twenty Grand while the Belair stud's Sir Ashley, the only other starter, finished a half length back of Sun Beau.

The race figured to be a duel between the two kings of the turf, merely was a rout for the winner of the Kentucky derby, the Belmont stakes and co-holder of the three-year-old title with his only conqueror, A. C. Bostick's mate.

"DARK HORSE" WINS AGAIN
CHICAGO, Sept. 5. (AP)—Knight Commander, five-year-old son of Whiskey-Fruit Ware, which James E. Norris, youthful Chicago sportsman, picked up for $3,000 on a claiming race at Havana last winter, added another victory to his consistent record today by winning the $5,000 added Credit Handicap in one of the most spectacular finishes of the meeting.

GRID TRAINING IN SOUTHWEST TO BEGIN SOON

NO TEAM HAS WON TITLE TWICE IN SUCCESSION

DALLAS, Sept. 5. (AP)—Net Thursday the Southwest Conference football barrier will be lifted, and seven schools will open their 1931 training grids.

As the eleven prepare for their seventeen inter-sectional games as well as a few practice tuss and their championship conference affairs, the University of Texas, Southern Methodist university and Texas Christian university loom as the pretense favorites. The Rice Institute Owls have been assigned the task of furnishing any possible upset to the Big Three.

If the University of Texas Longhorns, 1930 conference champions, repeat it will be the first time in history that a Southwest eleven has won two successive titles. With tradition against them, the Longhorns embark on one of the hardest schedules possible. Coach Clyde Littlefield has Ernest Koy and Harris Stafford in his backfield, and Claude Blanton, at tackle, three Longhorns who were placed on the Associated Press' honorary Southwest Conference eleven last year. They are the foundation on which Littlefield will erect the rest of his team. But it is the consensus he will need more than these three outstanding players to carry him over the tough spots on his schedule.

The Longhorns catch the University of Missouri, Rice Institute, University of Oklahoma, Harvard, Southern Methodist, Baylor, Texas Christian, Centenary and Texas A. & M. in consecutive games. They play Southern Methodist one week after their return from Cambridge and the Harvard game.

Boostered by the return of Marion Hammon, 1929 All-American lineman, Coach Ray Morrison's Southern Methodist Mustangs are ready to battle the University of Texas, Texas A. & M. and Baylor in consecutive games. Baylor in consecutive games. Baylor in consecutive games.

Coach Francis Schmidt's Texas Christian Frogs, always dangerous with their deceptive running attacks, and always redoubtable with a powerful forward wall, will be the football thorn ready to scratch the championship hope chest of the Longhorns and Mustangs. Schmidt has Hines Green, Vance Woodruff, J. W. Hinton, Standard Lambert and Ben Boswell to build his 1931 machine around. Boswell, 201-pound tackle, and a bear for punishment, was placed on the Associated Press' All-Southwest honorary team last season.

Coach Meagher has his entire flock of 1930 players back for this season. The Owls were the only ones to beat the University of Texas last season. Baylor awarded 22 letters last year. Five are returning this year. B. C. Koch, W. C. Partridge, and Morris, all brilliant stars last year, are gone. Coach Jennings has the groom Leslie Snel, former Waco high school star, to replace the brilliant Jack Wilson.

The Texas A. & M. Aggies and the University of Arkansas Razorbacks are not expected to furnish serious opposition, but when they go into training next Thursday, their Southwest Conference stock may shoot above par.

SAULSBURY, GRIDIRON ACE, LEAVES FOR K. U.

Don Saulsbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. Baker Saulsbury, and stellar fullback on the Harvester football team last year, left yesterday afternoon for Lawrence, Kan., where he will enroll in the University of Kansas. His brother, Leslie Snel, Z. Lard, and fleet quarterback on last year's team, has already reported at Amarillo Junior college and is working out with the Badgers.

Lard has practically cinched a hackback to the Harvester nine to make the second Pampa graduate to play on the team. Troy Statia is captain of the squad this year. Saulsbury will play on the freshman squad this season and he should be able to make the first team next year. His first year to be eligible. He is one of the greatest backfield men ever produced in the state and should make the big time team.

Friday night, Mrs. Baker Saulsbury entertained with a farewell party for her son. Members of the 1929 and 1930 football teams were guests.

TO PLANT TURNIPS
LOCAL LIONS, directed by Boyd Meador, will plant a turnip patch to be given to welfare work this winter. The Lions also will attend the opening of school in a body.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 5. (AP)—Purchase of James O. "Tex" Carleton, pitcher with the Houston club of the Texas league, and Lee Cunningham, infielder with the Danville, Ill. club in 1930, off Halahlan in 2-3. He struck out by Ruffing 4, Brown 1, Marberry 1. Hits, off Brown 12 in 6-3, off Marberry 1 in 2-3. Losing pitcher, Brown.

PHILLIPS OILERS TO PLAY BERGER TODAY

A picked team representing the Phillips Oilers will go to Berger this afternoon to play the Phillips team from that city. Manager R. R. Kirkpatrick of the Pampa team, has selected his nine from teams in the Gray-Carson baseball league. The Berger team won third place in the Amarillo News-Globe baseball tournament. At least three former Pampa players are on the Berger roster.

It is probable that Haddock, former pitcher for the Pampa Gulf Cubs, will take the mound for Berger. Manager Kirkpatrick has not named his hurler last but said he would pick from Ross, Stewart, and McKinley, Pullian, Otter catcher, will be behind the bat.

FEMININE FANCIES

By Hollye Sellers Hinkle

Have you a geranium, a begonia, a fern? Then you have an entry in the Gray County Free fair.

"Your flower does not necessarily have to be unusual to win a prize," said Mrs. Noe Walberg, who is in charge of the display.

Any kind of flower may be entered in the fair, and a prize will be given for the most beautiful one shown.

Wanted: A name for a flower grown by Mrs. Walberg. She is going to put the flower in the fair in an attempt to find what kind it is.

Judging from the Lions club yard contest which just closed, there should be an outstanding flower exhibit.

Cut flowers should be submitted on the day of the fair, while pot plants may be submitted on the previous day.

To Live at Home Gray county people are going to "live at home" this winter, declares Miss Myrtle Miller, county home demonstration agent.

Here's a Record Mrs. F. C. Jones of Grandview stated that in four days' time, several families of that community canned 1,789 cans of corn.

Remember the Needy! As women of Gray county can for their own families, they must not forget the needy.

Practically every church and club group in Pampa is willing to donate its services in canning articles for the poor.

Arrangements have been made to purchase cans at cost. May every one with an income who is not adding the needy in some other way, help to buy the food.

FIVE THOUSAND CANS OF FOOD IS AIM SET BY WOMEN HERE SATURDAY

ORGANIZATIONS TO COOPERATE IN ENDEAVOR

WORK TO BE HANDLED THROUGH WELFARE BOARD

With 5,000 cans of food set as their goal, a group of women began an ambitious undertaking when they met yesterday afternoon in the chambers of commerce rooms to plan aid for the needy of Pampa this year.

Representatives from women's church, club, and lodge auxiliaries discussed their plans with George Briggs, manager of the board of city development, and Miss Myrtle Miller, county home demonstration agent.

The need of a balanced diet for those who are to receive help was stressed, especially those who have suffered ill effects from unbalanced meals.

Must Have Aid The work will be done by various organizations through the Welfare board and under the direction of Miss Miller. If the goal is reached, however, there must be contributions of food or money from other sources.

First among the series of gatherings for canning will be that of the American Legion auxiliary at the Legion hut and the Missionary council of the First Christian church at the church building. Both of these meetings will be held at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Will Can Peas The women will can peas on Wednesday morning. Later other groups will meet to can tomatoes.

Any wholesome food that is given the women, however, will be chosen. Needy to Gather Food Anyone wishing to contribute Peas or other vegetables that have not been gathered may notify the welfare board, and persons will be furnished to do the work.

A beef would go a long way toward aiding the needy, it was said at the meeting, and this could be expertly canned under the direction of Miss Miller.

BRIDGE CLUB ENTERTAINED ON THURSDAY

FOOTBALL SEASON'S JUST AHEAD

Short fur jackets will hold one of the favored places in Madam's wardrobe this fall. They will reach to the waist or hip-line. This is Philippe et Gaston's new short fur jacket designed with melon sleeves. Made of beige dyed ermine it is worn with a frock finished with a brown crepe tie. The hat is of brown felt.

LOCAL TEACHER URGES CARE IN SELECTION OF WARDROBE

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT SCHOOL PLAN AHEAD

The high school girl and her mother are going to be confronted with the problem of preparing the girl's fall and winter wardrobe with a smaller cash outlay than in previous years," said Mrs. J. B. Massa, head of the home economics department of the Pampa high school.

"This will require more thorough planning and salvaging of as many as possible of the garments on hand with a small cash expenditure for necessary refinishing.

"The first essential step in preparing the new fall wardrobe is careful planning for at least a period of one year. When this is done, the plan should be adhered to as closely as possible.

By doing so there will be enough money to cover all articles planned to buy, a better balance in the wardrobe will be maintained, and a more pleasing harmony will result.

"The second important principle for guidance in buying the girl's wardrobe is to let the purchases be determined by the family standard, a standard which has been conscientiously adopted because it represents the ideals of the family.

"Next summer the outstanding factor in dressing is suitability. Good clothing is that which affords proper protection, allows freedom of movement, satisfies the desires for beauty, instills self respect, and commands the respect of others.

"Select conservative styles. Avoid extremes.

"When to buy is another important factor. If the budget is carefully made and adhered to, it is possible to secure the advantage of systematic buying. This should be so arranged that it is possible to pay cash for each purchase, or at least no longer than one month's credit.

"A wise girl always chooses a reliable house from which to buy. For a house to stay in business it must depend upon the continuous good will of its customers. This type of house represents goods as they are.

"One should go shopping with a definite purpose in mind so that the buying may be done quickly and economically, and then should give the saleslady the necessary information so that she can give good service in return.

"It is well to choose the less congested hours for shopping and then to weigh the various alternatives carefully. One should avoid things not planned for in the budget.

"It is easy to keep posted on styles and materials through newspapers and magazines. The girl must decide what she wants and then make every dollar count for the most.

"Too much stress cannot be placed on the care of clothes. Care shows in the life of the garments as well as in their appearance.

YOUNG PEOPLE WILL STUDY IN MANY SCHOOLS

NUMBER ARE TO HOLD OUTSTANDING OFFICES

Pampa will be represented by its young people this year in colleges and universities far and near. Several already have left, and many others are to depart this week and next week to continue their pursuit of higher education. Many of them will hold responsible positions in the various student bodies.

Ruth Wakeman, because of her scholastic standing and character as a student in the Pampa high school, was awarded a scholarship last spring by the American Association of University Women and the College club. She plans to leave Sept. 14 for Fort Worth, where she will attend Texas Woman's college. She has taken interest in numerous extra-curricular activities, and is known as one of Pampa's best girl debaters.

Thel Simpson, who aspires to be Pampa's first woman physician, will enroll at West Texas State Teachers college, Canyon, Sept. 20, as a pre-medical student. For the last two years Miss Simpson has assisted Dr. A. Cole in the capacity of surgical nurse at the Pampa hospital.

Although he is only 17 years old, Dee Blythe will be editor of the Prairie, newspaper of West Texas State Teachers college, Canyon, during the coming year. His sister, Beth, will attend the same college.

Alice and George Ingram will leave Monday for Tulsa to attend the University of Oklahoma, Norman.

Cleora and Floy Stanard will attend Texas State College for Women, Denton, this term and will leave about the 20th. Cleora will take her degree next year with a major in English.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

International Sunday School Lesson for September 6, 1931.

General topic: Turning to the Gentiles.

Scripture lesson: Acts 13:42-52; Rom. 1:14-16.

Acts 13:42. And as they went out, they brought that these words might be spoken to them the next Sabbath.

43. Now when the synagogue broke up, many of the Jews and of the devout proselytes followed Paul and Barnabas; who, speaking to them, urged them to continue in the grace of God.

44. And the next Sabbath almost the whole city was gathered together to hear the word of God.

45. But when the Jews saw the multitudes, they were filled with jealousy, and contradicted the things which were spoken by Paul, and blasphemed.

46. And Paul and Barnabas spoke out boldly, and said, It was necessary that the word of God should first be spoken to you. Seeing ye thrust it from you, and judge yourselves unworthy of eternal life, lo, we turn to the Gentiles.

47. For so hath the Lord commanded us, saying, I have set thee for a light of the Gentiles, that thou shouldst bring forth to them the uttermost part of the earth.

48. And as the Gentiles heard this, they were glad, and glorified the word of God; and as many as were ordained to eternal life believed.

49. And the word of the Lord spread abroad throughout all the region.

50. But the Jews urged on the devout women of honorable estate, and the chief men of the city, and stirred up a persecution against Paul and Barnabas, and cast them out of their borders.

51. But they shook off the dust of their feet against them, and came unto Iconium.

52. And the disciples were filled with joy and with the Holy Spirit.

Rom. 1:14. I am debtor both to the Greeks and to Barbarians, both to the wise and to the foolish.

15. So, as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the gospel to you also that are in Rome.

16. For I am not ashamed of the gospel, for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jews first, and also to the Gentiles.

Golden Text: I have set thee for a light of the Gentiles. (That thou shouldst bring forth to them the uttermost part of the earth.—Acts 13:47.)

1. Luke 9:48. Jesus, being in Pamphylia, Antioch of Pisidia.

Introduction

As always where there were Jews in a city, Paul began his work with them. The synagogue which the two missionaries attended on that memorable Sabbath was, doubtless arranged like all other synagogues, with the ark at one end containing the rolls of the Law, with a table and lamps before it. At the same end sat the rulers of the synagogue, whose business it was to arrange the services. First the Shema was recited, a sort of creed in Bible words. Then came a prayer service, followed by the reading of the day's portion from the Law (the five Books of Moses) and also from the Prophets, including the historical Books with the prophecies. The synagogue had no definite minister or preacher.

Paul and Barnabas were able and scholarly men, and Paul at least was a rabbi. His sermon began with a summary of the history of the Jews, pointing out the gradual unfolding of God's plan of salvation through a Saviour who should be descended from David. Paul told about the birth of this Saviour, and about the cruel way in which He was put to death by His own people. Then the apostle related the rising of Jesus from the dead, proving His Messiahship by his deity, proving also His power to forgive sins, and His authority to call on all men to follow Him. In this sermon Paul stated his leading doctrine, justification by faith—that men are made righteous before God only by virtue of their faith in the atoning work of the Son of God. It was the great, central message of Christianity, unchanged from Paul's day to this.

"Preach It Again"

Quite different from many a modern congregation, they wanted to hear the same sermon over again. Dr. Bernard C. Clausen, of Syracuse, N. Y., has his congregation vote every year on the sermons they want preached over again, and reports those that receive the largest number of votes. The true word of God, which Paul proclaimed, speaks to the deepest needs of men's hearts. Conscious of sin, men feel their need of a Saviour, and only the gospel of Jesus Christ offers salvation from sin through the death of the Son of God. The history of Christianity through nineteen centuries, in every land under the sun, proves the universal hunger for just what Christianity has to give. Whether the gospel message is faithfully given, the cry is "More! More! Again! Again!"

Paul Preached First to the Jews

"It was necessary that the word of God should first be spoken to you." In approaching the Jews first with the gospel, the missionaries were following the example of Jesus and the rule of common sense. They were sowing the seed in ground—the only ground—which had been prepared for it by many centuries of providential history. They were approaching the most religious people in the world. They were basing Christianity on the truest religion the world had known up to the coming of Christ. By this beginning with the Jews in every place they obtained a nucleus of trained and convinced believers on which the gospel could work as a fulcrum to overthrow the great mass of heathenism.

Paul Turns to the Gentiles

"Seeing ye thrust it from you." The violence of the Jews' rejection of Christianity is here indicated, a violence which had just led them to blaspheme Christ. "And judge yourselves unworthy of eternal life." What stinging sarcasm is here, the Jewish "blunders" against the Crucified turned like a lash against their authors! "You dare to condemn yourselves!" "Lo, we turn to the Gentiles." "Lo" emphasizes the critical nature of the decision. It definitely placed Christianity on the free ground of unlimited brotherhood. It emancipated Christianity from the shackles of Judaism. And this change did not frustrate the plan of God. Paul was called for the special purpose of ministering to the Gentile nations.—John W. Legon.

"For so hath the Lord commanded us, saying, I have set thee for a light of the Gentiles." Paul quotes the most evangelical of the prophecies, Isa. 49:6, selecting the key verse in one of the most powerful of Messianic passages. The gospel was to be like light, and the very nature of light is to pulse ever outward, driving away all darkness. "That thou shouldst bring forth to them the uttermost part of the earth." Paul had come to a distant region, for the central plateau of Asia Minor was barbaric enough; and yet he was only beginning to press outward with Christianity, as he well knew, Corinth was beckoning him, and Rome beyond that, and Spain beyond Rome. The true Christian is content with nothing short of the ends of the earth.

Happy Believers

"And as the Gentiles heard this, they were glad." They were glad because of the opportunities opened before them by those gospel preachers of the Son of God, their Saviour and the Saviour of all men. "And as many as were ordained to eternal life believed." The Greek word translated "ordained" is a military term signifying arranged in order, as in ranks. The English word "factors" comes from it. The word certainly involved the divine ordering of human affairs, but not in such a way as to exclude human choice, with the guilt that attends evil choices and the rewards that follow a definite choice of the right. It is God's ordaining that those who believe on Christ shall have eternal life. God selects them and places them in the ranks of the armies of heaven. The opposite of eternal life is eternal death, which is the portion of those who do not believe on Jesus Christ, and so are not ordained to eternal life.

Paul's Indebtedness

Paul wrote his great letter to the Christians of Rome when he was at Corinth for three months in the course of his third missionary tour. He opens the letter with a statement of his long-time purpose to visit Rome and preach there, an intention which he hopes to be able to carry out soon; and he gives the reason for this purpose, a reason growing out of the belief expressed at Antioch of Pisidia, that the gospel of Christ is for all men, and not exclusively for the Jews.

"I am debtor both to Greeks and to Barbarians, both to the wise and to the foolish." The Greeks, and afterwards the Romans, who in this division are reckoned among the Greeks, regarded all peoples speaking any language but their own as making unintelligible sounds—"bar-bar," hence the name "Barbarians." The "Greeks" bar here reckoned as "wise," i. e., cultured, and the "Barbarians" as "foolish," i. e., uncultured, those whom "the wise" would

YOUNG PEOPLE—

Clifford Braly II and Tom Braly have not fully decided what school they will attend this winter but each will leave around the 15th for the college of their choice.

Albert Lard went to Amarillo several days ago. He will attend Amarillo Junior college and will be on the football team.

Frank Kelly will attend Texas Technological college at Lubbock and will leave Pampa about next Saturday. Frank is president of the College club and works at the City Drug store during spare time.

Yvonne Thomas will be a freshman in Baylor university, Waco, this term. She will leave the 18th.

Mary Ellen Cook will leave about regard as foolish. "Paul was debtor in the sense that the trustee of a fund or the executor of an estate owes that which he holds in trust to those for whom it has been designated. He considered himself a 'trustee' of the gospel (I Thes. 2:8) and a 'steward,' that is, one who discharges to others that which his employer has designated for them. "So, as much as in me is," v. 15.

"Just as far as in me lies—physically, intellectually, and spiritually, all my powers are to be used in paying the debt that I owe to it."

"The Power of God Unto Salvation"

"For I am not ashamed of the gospel." The boldness of Paul's venture is enhanced when we consider how the gospel was then despised and scorned. A cross was then a term of reproach. This did not daunt Paul. Despite all it cost him, and in the face of all the ridicule and reproach with which a scornful and skeptical age greeted the cross, he says, "I am not ashamed of the gospel." "For it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth," v. 16. The reason why Paul was ready to preach the gospel, even in the proud capital of the world, was that it is divinely efficacious in securing the salvation of men. It does what no other system ever did or ever can accomplish.—Charles Hedge.

"Rome is high in force; Athens is higher; the Cross is highest of all, and it comes shrouded in weakness having a poor Man hanging dying there. That is a strange embodiment of divine power. Yes, and because so strange, it is so touching, and so conquering." — Alexander MacLaren.

ABOUT NEW YORK

(By William Gaines)

NEW YORK—The truth is out as to why a number of the big liners which used to sail at night now set forth on their voyages during the daytime or late in the afternoon. Too much whoopee accompanied the nocturnal sailings!

When inquiries first were made as to the change, the answer was that tide made it advisable. But it was observed by many that tidal conditions were not always at their best for the daylight shove-off.

The late sailings were gay affairs. People had plenty of leisure to go to the docks for the departure parties. They arrived early in the evening, expecting to be plenty well entertained.

These good times caused damage. Burnt spots were left by cigars, scratches on the ships' furniture were too numerous, and occasionally there was serious breakage.

When a boat must sail at 6 p. m. or earlier and all visitors must be off board half an hour before, it doesn't allow much time for gay flings for persons otherwise occupied during the day. And daylight doesn't seem to inspire so much feeling for funning, anyway.

Siren Song
The only people permitted the use of automobile sirens in New York are members of the police department, the fire department, drivers of ambulances—and building bureau officials.

This provision for the bureau chiefs was made because when there is a fire there is apt to be a building collapse, and the department official must get to the scene quickly.

The Sunday, with warm, weary New Yorkers motoring beachward in a long, slow and unyielding traffic line, there came the sound of a breath-taking siren.

A big car bolted over the white highway line and sped beyond the elephantine parade.

It was a building official eager for a swim.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

Mrs. Sol Bloom, wife of the New York congressman, heard of these complaints. They were so numerous that she decided to appeal to Mrs. Coolidge herself.

Would the former First Lady, suggested Mrs. Bloom, consider substituting a certain rose red gown which she had worn on a certain important occasion for the white satin?

Mrs. Coolidge agreed. The gown, with slippers, hostery and all accompanying equipment, was forwarded to Washington. But, while Mrs. Coolidge was willing that the change be made, she insisted that the original gown must be kept in the Smithsonian collection.

There was a promise that she had to fulfill. Then she revealed how in the early days of her stay at the White House she needed a gown for a special occasion. The modiste from whom she ordered it kept his shop working after hours that it might be ready in time.

Mrs. Coolidge was grateful and, with one of those gestures which made her so popular in Washington, promised: Promise Fulfilled

"When I send a gown to be displayed with the gowns of other White Houses hostesses, it will be the one you made for me."

So now, in a collection that depicts the complete sartorial history of this country, Mrs. Coolidge is shown in an American Beauty chiffon frock, made short, sleeveless and with its narrow girde of rhinestones set at the hipline in a fashion which has come and gone. But in the collection there is still the original white satin.

Incidentally, the heels of the slippers sent in the second ensemble were considerably higher than those of the first.

The figure so inclined to the front that it was necessary to remove it again to make adjustments.

Today's definition Forest, something to set fire to.

There ought to be some kind of a law providing a man with a nice long rest after his vacation.

Rubber prices reached a new low the other day, but there is some hope expressed for a rebound.

A statistician reports there are 661,550 golf club members in the United States and they spend $10,000,000 a year for paraphernalia. Swearing is a costly habit.

BACHELOR BUTTONS!

WHAT OTHER EDITORS THINK

COTTON SOLUTION

Our idea of the solution of the cotton problem is to make all cotton come up to a certain grade before it can be sold—something on the order of the milk ordinance, or the law on selling eggs. Most of the trouble on overproduction has been unmerchantable cotton. There has not been any overproduction of good cotton the past few years. If the unmerchantable cotton now on hand was destroyed, government estimates discouraged, and a law forbidding the sale of low grade cotton, we would have no trouble with the market. The Long plan, if adopted, would stand to defeat its own purpose and throw hundreds out of employment, right in the times when employment is most to be desired.—McLean News.

SUDDEN RIGHT TURNS

An examination of the editorial columns of many Texas newspapers will reveal that the practice of turning corners on a red signal without first coming to a full stop is almost universal in Texas cities where this convenient traffic device is permitted. Many writers are having their say about it.

The Amarillo News says the disregard for this rule will keep on there until someone is killed—and then the police will get the blame for not having enforced the rule better, although the force is "one of the most polite in Texas," or words to that effect.

Motorists, like everybody else, will take an ell if you allow them an inch. If they get away with the stunt of making a right turn against a red signal without stopping once, they will try it again. If they get away with it three or four times, the habit is fixed, and thereafter they whirl around right turns without thinking.

It would be too bad if the general disregard or contempt for a simple rule should result in taking away of the right to make such turns on red signals. The device speeds up traffic and is of great convenience to motorists, but unless it is more generally respected it may become necessary, in the interest of public safety, to abolish the rule. We'd hate to see that happen, and so would every motorist.—Abilene News.

OIL IMPORTS SHOULD BE CHECKED

It must be obvious that before any material improvement in the oil market can be stabilized some curtailment of imports must be effected. Figures from sources within the industry reveal that the imports jumped up considerably during recent weeks while the big producing fields of Texas and Oklahoma were under martial law.

The increase in imports did not completely offset the decline in production, but it contributed considerably to the stabilizing of general crude prices at a low figure. If efforts to limit crude production in this country are continued we may expect a further increase in imports unless something is done about it.

There would be nothing objectionable about this, perhaps, if it were not for the fact that it becomes class discrimination. The major companies with holdings in foreign countries where oil is produced much cheaper than in this country get considerably more than their share of the American product when they boost their imports to offset reduced American production.

The independent who has no foreign holdings must cut his production in this country and has no means of offsetting his loss in production. Obviously it is up to the federal government to join with the state governments in the move to equalize the basis of competition.

Otherwise, there is no alternative in fairness to all but to return to unrestricted production, and most every one should be able to appreciate the destructive consequences of such action. Wages would be slashed, unemployment would be intensified outside of the areas of flush production; values would shrink and bankruptcy would become a threat to every activity connected with the oil industry.

The federal government must recognize its responsibility. The states have moved to correct an anomalous situation. They need assistance that only the national government can give.—Vernon Record.

Look to your back yards. Emphasis in the Lions club yard contest was upon both back yards and front lawns. A pretty lawn may attract attention away from ugly rear premises, but not for long.

Jungles Taboo
Time was when the front yard was a jungle. Trees, flowers, shrubs, and grass were mingled with little thought of design. There could be no uniformity in a street. It was a case of every home owner for himself and his own tastes.

Today it is different. Uniform, green lawns stretch for blocks, with trees more or less alike in size and spacing. There is street beauty as well as yard beauty. But real ingenuity is permitted in the back yards, which are the proper places for flowers, fruit trees, berries, lily ponds, bird houses, and the like.

Get Together
It would be a fine thing if Pampa homeowners would consult their neighbors before planning their yards. Uniformity, with enough dissimilarity to break the monotony, is highly desirable. Pampa should develop "street consciousness" as the next step in her beautification program. It is the intention of the Lions club to work at the home beautification project all next year, offering even more and larger prizes.

The club and citizens generally are appreciative of the generosity of those who gave the prizes, and to County Agent Ralph Thomas, who as a new Lion directed the judging.

Lo, the Poor Injun!
Shades of the '40ers, Major Deo-little has made the California to New Jersey crossing a matter of just a little over 11 hours. Wonder what the oldtime Indians would have thought of a birdman like that?

Even the birds of the air are flustered. Man flies faster than the birds and does things that birds cannot do. One bird got in the way of a 300-mile-an-hour racer and was killed. The plane suffered only a hole in one wing.

Coming Problem
The fate of the bird is indicative of the danger which human birds will have when planes are more numerous. When the air is full of 300-mile-per-hour birdmen, traffic problems overhead will be as serious as those on the ground. Accidents will be even more serious. Patrolling will be more expensive and more difficult.

Old Dobbin is coming back, according to the statisticians. The horse as a hay burner has many advantages, even if he does eat whether working or not. He is almost incalculable for diversified farming. . . . And now that we have stepped on the gas for a couple of decades, we may be able to get back to a meditative frame of mind and gain. Welcome back, Dobbin the Faithful.

The Wives Strike
News Note: Barcelona, Spain—The women of Barcelona, rallying under the slogan, "children before politics," have decided to go on strike against their striking husbands. There will be no more meals for men who refuse to work. This no-work-no-eat idea seems to be spreading.

Dice need is not necessarily productive of violence, of disrespect for law, of thefts. Despite unemployment, most thefts over the country are those of the same old gang. Offenders do not differ from year to year except as to age, there being a tendency toward

Refiner Breaks Molecules

CRUDE OIL IS VERY COMPLEX

VARIOUS PRODUCTS OF IT MUST BE ISOLATED

Crude oil may be defined as a mixture of hydrocarbons; that is, it consists of many compounds of hydrogen and carbon, together with varying percentages of oxygen, nitrogen, and sulfur. The minute units or molecules that make up this liquid we call petroleum vary in relative size from small to large; or, as the scientist would say, they have different "molecular weights."

Another way of saying this is that crude oil contains products of different volatilities, ranging from gas—the smallest or "lightest" molecules—possibly to asphalt—the largest or "heaviest" molecules.

Like "Screening" of Coal
The job of the refiner is to sort out the various groups of constituents or "fractions" of crude oil, polish off the rough edges, and deliver them to the market under the appropriate names of gasoline, kerosene, gas oil, lubricating oil, fuel oil, wax, and asphalt.

In theory, this sorting process is simple. It has been illustrated in the "screening" of coal. But crude oil is a liquid, and even the largest of its molecules is infinitely smaller than the finest particles of coal dust, and of course petroleum products cannot be separated from crude oil in the same way that coal is graded.

In its simplest form, the process of petroleum refining consists in heating crude oil to its boiling point, passing the vapors from the boiling oil through condensing pipes and condensing the vapors into liquids.

Separation by Boiling
Products Separated by Boiling

When petroleum is boiled, the smaller molecules first turn into vapor, and are thereby separated from the heavier material. The "screen" that the refiner uses is composed of a still—a means of heating the crude oil—and a device for condensing the vapors that rise from the boiling oil.

So in its simplest form, the process of petroleum refining consists in heating crude oil in stills to its boiling point, passing the vapors from the boiling oil through cooled condensing pipes, and condensing the vapors into liquids.

Thus far, then, we may say that the distillation of oil is very similar to the distillation of water. However, inasmuch as water is a homogeneous substance, steam vapor on condensing will always return to water; whereas in the case of petroleum—a complex mixture of many compounds—the separated vapors are not identical with original crude oil, but in the condensing operation are sorted into the various products of petroleum familiar in commerce.

Chemical Treatment
The whole process of manufacturing the finished product of crude oil is far from being completed in a single distillation. Sometimes there are frequent re-distillations of certain fractions or distillates. Furthermore, the practical application of the simple theory described involves certain difficulties inherent in so complex a mixture as crude oil. No two grades of crude oil are alike; they do not contain the same proportion of commercial products. This complicates the operation of a refinery handling many grades of crude. The sorting operation may deal with a liquid including such material as dissolved particles of wax. Furthermore, although distillation effects a broad separation of the constituent parts of crude oil, it does not complete the job of making the finished products of petroleum. On various constituents there must follow such operations as acid treatment, alkali and water washing, clay filtration, refrigeration, to remove wax, etc. In other words, petroleum refining includes not only distillation, but physical and chemical processes necessary to produce finished products.

GUILTY LIPS

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

Author of "MAD MARRIAGE"

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Norma Kent, pretty 20-year-old secretary in a law office, meets Mark Travers, attractive and wealthy, when together they rescue a frightened puppy from the midst of downtown traffic. Norma refuses to tell the young man her name or where he can see her again. Later she joins Bob Farrell, young lawyer, for a dinner engagement. Farrell asks her to marry him and Norma for the third time says "no."

The scene of the story is Marlboro, middle-western metropolis. Norma takes the puppy to the shabby apartment she shares with Christine Saunders. Norma fears Chris is falling in love with her snarled employer, Bradley Hart, proprietor of an advertising agency. Next day Norma inserts an advertisement about the puppy in the lost and found column of the Marlboro Press. The first person to answer the advertisement is Mark Travers, who explains he has made every effort to learn Norma's identity. He tries to make a date but she declines his invitations. Travers departs. Later he telephones Natalie Price, debutante, and goes with her to a gay party concluding with a round of the night clubs.

Next evening a small boy comes to see Norma, claims the puppy and takes it home. Chris goes to aid Minnie Baker, an impoverished friend, whose 2-year-old son has been badly burned. Norma receives telephone calls from Travers and ignores them. She will not admit to herself the interest she feels in this persistent young man.

Norma goes for a drive with Bob Farrell. He kisses her against her will, starts the car and begins driving furiously. Norma cries "Where are you going?"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Farrell did not turn to look at the girl. His hand brim was snapped down squarely, and in the darkness could not see his face. The coupe's speed increased and something in the road sent them jolting from their seats before he answered.

"I'm taking you home!" he said firmly. Norma had never heard him say that tone. Bob Farrell had kissed her before but never as tonight. "Wait a minute—" he went on immediately. "Before you start telling me what you think of me there's a little piece of news you might be interested to hear. Didn't mean to spring it on you, but I might as well. I'm pulling out of Marlboro."

Norma forgot that she was indignant. She could not conceal her amazement.

"You don't mean you're going away?"

"That's exactly what I mean."

"But Bob—! Where are you going? What's happened?"

"Nothing's happened. I'm going away, that's all."

She did not know what to say. After a few moments she said, "You haven't told me where you're going yet."

"No."

"Bob Farrell, what in the world's the matter with you tonight? First you act like a crazy man. Then you say you're going away and get mysterious about it. Why don't you tell me where you're going and for how long?"

"I'll tell you," Bob promised. They had been driving along a sequestered road, a short-cut back toward a highway leading into the center of the city. "I'll tell you before I leave," he repeated, "but it's going to be for quite a while. You see I'm not coming back."

ed before the red brick apartment. As Farrell brought the coupe to a stop the girl caught his eyes.

"Bob," she said quietly, "do you really mean that you're—going away?"

Solemnly he nodded.

"I'm sorry, Bob."

"You mean you don't want me to leave?"

"Of course I don't. We've been such good friends. I'll miss you dreadfully."

"The young man darted a swift, appraising glance at her. What she may have had in mind to say was checked. There was a pause. Then he answered carelessly. "Well, the deal isn't quite worked out yet. I'll give you a ring one of these days before I clear out. We'll sort of celebrate the occasion."

Norma felt that he was keeping something from her. She was dissatisfied with the way the evening had turned out and very soon told him good night.

"Maybe he isn't going away at all," she said to herself a little later after she had turned the lock for the night, undressed and stood before the mirror brushing out her hair—the nightly 50 strokes on either side. "Maybe he's just trying to get me to beg him to stay!"

When she let her eyes out of the apartment next morning, there was nothing whatever to indicate that the hours before here were to constitute a red-letter day.

The street car which transported her to Broad and Hanover streets was crowded as usual. The notes of dictation and transcribing Mr. Cunningham's letters were exactly as tedious. Even the interruptions were customary routine.

And then at 11:45, her usual lunch hour, Norma Kent put on her little black hat and the white, tilted coat she dusted her nose with and down to the first floor in the elevator.

She went out on the street, turned the corner at the right on her way to the sandwich counter where almost daily she lunched. She was with faint annoyance she became aware that a figure was keeping step beside her. Norma walked more rapidly. The figure quickened to the same degree. Suddenly the girl stopped and looked up. She opened her mouth but the words did not come. Flaming red circles appeared in each of Norma's cheeks.

So it was Mark Travers who spoke first. He touched his hat. "How do you do, Miss Kent," he said. "Nothing's happened. I was wondering how long it would be before you decided to send me about my business. You're not going to do it, though. Lunching alone is so tiresome. You're lunching with me today. Where are we going?"

"The club eyes glanced at her. The tone of voice was amused. For the life of her Norma could not muster an indignant reply. It was all she could do to quell the surge of eagerness in her tone. Mustn't let him know how she felt about seeing him again."

"So you I can't accept the invitation," she told him demurely. Why those prim words when her own eyes were dancing?

"Did I invite you anywhere? Wasn't aware of it. Oh, no—you're mistaken. I'm lunching with you."

"But Mr. Travers—!"

"Name is Mark, Miss Kent. Didn't I tell you? Sorry about the oversight. Well, shouldn't we be going? Really, I'm hungry."

"Mr. Travers, you can't—" she had begun and once more he interrupted.

"Can't eat? Oh, how you wrong me! I assure you that you're mistaken. By means of a simple demonstration I will for all time convince you the impression is erroneous. I can—and do—eat lunch daily. I eat such things as ham and eggs but never pumpernickel. I'm particular about that! Were you thinking of making your luncheon on pumpernickel? If so we must change that."

He was ridiculous—too, too completely ridiculous to keep anyone with the slightest sense of humor from laughing. And Norma had a sense of humor. She laughed and her defenses were gone instantly.

"I'm lunching at the Samovar," she told him. "If you don't mind going there you can come along. They only serve salads and sandwiches."

"How about mustard?"

"Of course—if you ask for it."

"Then away to the Samovar!" Young Mr. Travers tucked the girl's arm under his. He kept her amused all the way to the eating place. There they found chairs at a counter painted bright blue. They ordered coffee and toasted sandwiches and fresh fruit. Travers was entertaining. Norma had never met anyone with whom it was so easy to feel at home.

"Just a minute!" she interrupted his discourse. "Would you mind telling me who in the world you are? Aside from rescuing stray puppies and trailing defenseless working girls what do you do?"

She had expected an answer as ridiculous as the youth's earlier remarks. Instead he said seriously, "Oh, I've got a job in a real estate office down the street."

"Really? What do you do?"

"Errands mostly. And trying to make columns of figures come out right. But let's not talk about me. Let's talk about you."

It was as though horizons had cleared miraculously. "Why," the girl laughed, "do you know what I thought? I thought you were a sort of rice society play boy honestly I did."

"No!" Hearty bass laughter joined her treble. "You—? You really thought that about me?"

The girl nodded. "Maybe it was because of your car," she went on. "It's such a beauty. How—I mean if you're only a real estate clerk, how—"

"Oh, the car!" Travers shrugged. "That's mine's. It's a '29's. You see, my uncle's an automobile salesman and he uses that car for demonstrations. Sometimes he lets me take it out for an evening. Say—if I could get it tonight would you go for a drive? I'm not sure he'll let me have it."

With swiftly beating heart Norma agreed. "I'd like to," she telephoned her at home as soon as she found out if it would be all right with his uncle about taking the car. He seemed rather certain that it would be but promised to telephone around 6 o'clock.

Suddenly Norma looked at the clock and saw that it was after 12:30. She must be back at her desk at 12:45. They arose and Travers was unable to persuade her to let him pay her check. They walked down the street together and he left her at the entrance of the gray stone building in which the firm of Brooks, Welliver and Brooks had their offices.

The roaster belonging to Mark Travers—"uncle" made its appearance before the red brick apartment house that night. It was there the following evening as well. During the next six days Norma met Travers for luncheon five times. She danced with him, dined with him, sat beside him through moving picture performances at which she neither observed their actions. She accompanied him on drives of breathless happiness through the September night. She seemed to blossom with a radiance that made her lovelier than ever before.

Bob Farrell telephoned twice but Norma was not at home and did not receive his messages. Chris Saunders, satisfied that affairs were going smoothly now for Minnie Baker and her baby, packed their belongings and returned to the third floor apartment.

Norma scarcely spoke to Chris. The younger girl was preoccupied, seldom at home.

And then one evening Chris Saunders, letting herself into the apartment at a little after 11 o'clock, paused stock-still on the threshold. Across the room in a miserable little huddle on theavenport lay Chris' roommate.

"Why Norma! What's happened?" A blond head, wildly disarrayed, raised. Blue eyes that were red-rimmed and swollen gazed at Chris. Norma said in a frightened, shaking voice, "It's about Mark!"

QUIMET WINS LINKS CHAMP

VETERAN IN COMEBACK 20 YEARS AFTER FIRST WIN

BEVERLY COUNTRY CLUB, CHICAGO, Sept. 5. (AP)—Nearly a score of years after he wrote one of the most thrilling romantic chapters in American golf history, Francis Quimet today completed a spectacular comeback by regaining the amateur championship of the United States.

The 39-year-old Boston veteran, as popular a figure as ever, strode the links, conquered Alfred J. (Jack) Westland, Chicago's district champion, to recapture the crown he last wore back in his youthful prime of 1914.

Quimet's victory in the final round 8 and 5, duplicated the margin by which he defeated the great Jerome D. Travers at Manchester, Vt., 17 years ago.

Placing the veteran on the pedestal of American amateur golf from which Robert J. Jones, Jr., stepped into retirement, the triumph struck a chord of national enthusiasm such as have few golfing events since Francis himself, in 1913, first sprang to fame by beating Ted Ray and Harry Vardon for the open championship.

Doolittle Flashes 272 Miles Per Hour

CLEVELAND, Sept. 5. (AP)—Major Jimmy Doolittle, yesterday's maker of a new transcontinental speed record, flashed through the air at 272.934 miles per hour today in a speed trial at the National Air races here.

But, Lowell Bayles, Springfield, Mass., made plans tonight to go faster tomorrow.

Bayles intends his flight to be the race's officially timed assault on the world's speed record for land planes, 278.8 miles per hour. He will fly his Gee Bee monoplane, which took him 286 miles per hour Tuesday with a 20-mile wind behind him.

FAVORITES IN NET VICTORY

AMERICAN ENGLISH STARS WEATHER PRELIMS

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 5. (AP)—Some of the excess baggage was cleared away today in the opening round of the golden jubilee national men's tournament, a score of the weaker entries going into the discard as a sort of preliminary to the main show starting Monday.

Julius Seligson, the husky New Yorker, forced the British ace, Frederick Perry, to go four sets, Johnny Doeg, this country's left-handed champion, won, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4, over Keith Werner, Los Angeles, Frank Shields, New York's second ranking American, overwhelmed Federico Sempel, Mexico, 6-1, 6-1, 6-0, and Clifford Sutter, the steady New Orleans star, eliminated Lester Stetten, Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Perry, Britain's brilliant internationalist and one of the tournament favorites, led the foreign brigade through the initial round with a four-set triumph over Seligson, former intercollegiate champion, 6-4, or beaten only twice all week long, was not particularly thrilling. Nor was it marked by a display of superlative grit except in the few spots in which Quimet gave a gallery of 2,500 spectators an exhibition of the shot-making skill that made him virtually a world's champion at the age of 20.

It was a great victory in experience in a tournament which from the outset was overrun by the young youth of the land.

Quimet was 4 up before Westland had a chance to shake off his preliminary feeling of nervousness, inspired by his first appearance in a national championship final.

Appendicitis Fatal To Skellytown Man

R. L. Simmons, 42, of Skellytown, died in a local hospital at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon of appendicitis. He had been ill since last Sunday. An operation was performed Tuesday. Funeral services will be held Monday at the Assembly of God church here. The body is at the Stephenson mortuary.

Mr. Simmons was formerly employed at the Cabot, company's carbon black plant at Skellytown. Besides his wife he is survived by two sons, Roy and Edgar, at home, three sisters, Virginia and Mrs. May Carington of Skellytown and Mrs. Margaret Kirby of Henderson; also a half brother, Dave Simmons, residing in Georgia.

LONG PLAN ENDORSED

McLEAN, Sept. 5. (Special)—The Long plan to plant no cotton next year was approved here at a meeting of farmers. Two votes were placed in opposition. J. E. Lynch was chairman of the meeting.

J-5, 4-6, 6-0. Bruce Barnes, Austin, Texas, disposed of Arnold Jones, Providence, R. I., 6-2, 6-2, 7-5, in a feature match on one of the outside courts.

Wilbur Coen, Jr., Kansas City, turned back Edward W. Feibleman, New York, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4.

The distinction of winning the day's most one-sided triumph went to Karl Kamrath, Austin, who disposed of Mario Gonzalez, Buenos Aires, without loss of a game.

COLUMN
 younger criminals in recent years.

Chicago Ideas
 It has been rather obvious, however, that Texas is having more crimes of outstanding dastardness, more kidnappings, and more death threats than usual. Perhaps this is due to the growing number of racketeers or "big time" criminals who are drifting into this section. At any rate, there is rarely a week without an outstanding crime. It is somewhat shocking in this state of Texas Rangers and western citizens trained to make eastern crooks misable. We believe Texans may be depended upon to give a very warm reception to gangs with gats and Chicago ideas.

It is the policy of this column to keep the women folk upon a higher plane than that of the average "gentleman." So we quote Judge Camille Kelley of Memphis juvenile court:

"Women represent the softer, sweeter, more elevated things of life; in the sight of God and society they are held in a little higher degree of responsibility than men. A womanly woman's influence for good is immeasurable."

HARD WORK

cannot see how the fair can be anything else. They are frankly optimistic. Members of Miss Miller's and Mr. Thomas' clubs are optimistic.

It's been a long time since the county had a fair. The last one held here was when the town was small. Everyone in the community was interested in that fair; just as everyone was interested in anything else that was held. But times now are different. It is hard to get out a crowd. Experience has taught civic leaders that. But the fair committee believes it has "sold" the fair to rural citizens of Gray county. They reason that if no one comes to the fair except those who have entries, the crowd will be satisfactorily large.

Merchants Helping
 Geo. W. Briggs announced last night that 32 merchants have assured him they will have agricultural displays in their windows. He urges them to assemble the products tomorrow. Mr. Briggs wondered in a humorous tone just how many here are in that gang. Early in the wheat harvest, C. L. Thomas, superintendent of the wheat show, who has been ill for two months, collected many bushels of wheat which will be used in decorating street lamps.

The wheat show will be held in the basement of the city hall; also the agricultural exhibits and the community booths. Across the street east from the city hall, will be the women's and children's exhibits in the Mitchell building which formerly housed Masters' cafe. The dairy, machine and hog shows will be exhibited in the warehouse of the Pampa Hardware and Implement company on West Kingsmill.

Mr. Thomas believes that the individual exhibits will outnumber expectations. Farmers in all parts of the county have been telling him for the last six weeks of things they are going to "take to the fair."

Dairy Show Forms
 A week ago prospects for creditable dairy shows were slim indeed. Yesterday, chances for a fair dairy exhibit were better. If all dairy farmers who have intimated they will bring their stock to the fair, will do that, the dairy show will be a feature no one will want to ignore.

Quite a few farmers in the last few days have told Ralph R. Thomas, county agent and superintendent of the show, that they are planning to bring in their best animals. Several club boys are due to exhibit their club calves.

It is understood Taylor Farm dairy will show some of its best produce, giving their patrons an opportunity to see where the milk they use comes from. In the next few days, Mr. Thomas will interview several dairy farmers in the county. The fair committee wants entries in the dairy show. They make "no bones" about that. C. H. Walker, fair superintendent, and Mr. Thomas want to show visitors that Gray county has quality in dairy animals as well as in wheat and other agricultural products.

Dr. Groat Coming
 One of the most interesting exhibits in the dairy show will be a group of Guernseys from Carson and Gray county. The showing is being sponsored by Dr. Geo. P. Groat, breeding program in Carson and Gray counties. The Carson county Guernseys have gained fame throughout the southwest. It is safe to say that they are the most publicized dairy animals in the southwest.

Two Fliers Die
STEPHENVILLE, Sept. 5. (AP)—Two fliers, a pilot and a student, were burned to death here tonight when their plane nose dived into the earth and burst into flames.

The dead:

Travis Boggs, 26, pilot, of Dublin, Texas, and Virgil Pylant, 23, student flier of Stephenville.

Witnesses said Boggs was circling the field at a low altitude to land when the plane seemed to go out of control. With its motor wide open, it dived into the earth and was enveloped in flames.

Persons who rushed to the scene to extricate the fliers were forced back by the fire. The plane's motor

The flier bodies remained in the blazing ship more than 20 minutes and were burned beyond recognition.

Boggs was an experienced flier, having for the past two years been connected with the Ranger flying field. Pylant was taking flying lessons from Boggs.

Boggs had lived in Stephenville only a short while.

SPECIAL TERM

upon the shoulders of the farmer, and the burden is ever a trying one. The government should be eager to extend him any reasonable assistance that he might deem necessary. If legislation can help Texas agriculture in its present emergency, I believe it my duty to convolve the legislature in the interest of the state generally as well as the tillers of the soil. I have waited and investigated until I have become convinced that a majority of Texas cotton farmers and their legislative representatives desire an emergency law and am now ready and glad to act in their behalf.

Farmers Session
 "Accordingly, I shall issue a proclamation reconvening the 42nd legislature in an extraordinary farmers session on Tuesday, September 8, at 12 o'clock for the purpose of enacting laws to conserve the soil, to better the condition of agriculture, and to establish a policy, which other southern states may follow.

The legislature of Louisiana met in extraordinary session and enacted a law to prohibit the planting of cotton during 1932. There is much sentiment among our farmers as well as among those engaged in other lines of business in favor of a half reduction of cotton acreage.

"The terms and provisions of legislation to be passed I leave to the wisdom of the lawmakers. At the same time I call upon the people to give a free and frank expression of their views to their representatives, to the end that such action as they may take will have behind it the strongest measure of approval from our citizenship."

Georgian Will Act
WINNER, Ga., Sept. 5. (AP)—Governor Richard Russell, 57, of Georgia said tonight he would call the Georgia legislature into special session to enact cotton relief legislation "when Texas acts."

Long Plan Not Favored
AUSTIN, Sept. 5. (AP)—Adoption of the Long "no 1932 cotton" plan by the Texas legislature in special session next Tuesday to consider emergency cotton legislation appeared highly improbable here tonight.

Sentiment as revealed in hundreds of mass meetings of farmers through the state in the past ten days and letters flowing into the executive office of Governor Ross S. Sterling indicated the Long plan as lacking in favor in Texas.

Majority sentiment appeared to favor the so-called McDonald plan. This plan, as carried to cotton farmers during the past few days by J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture, provides for a 50 per cent reduction in cotton acreage in 1932.

Governor Sterling's newspaper call to cotton farmers for expressions of opinions met a startling response.

During the past few days a corps of secretaries had been at work tabulating the results for the governor. Sentiment was overwhelmingly in favor of a special session.

Bill Being Drafted
ABILENE, Sept. 5. (AP)—Draft of a bill on cotton acreage reduction that would have majority approval of the Texas legislature, will be attempted this week-end at a conference between Senators Walter Woodward of Coleman and Oliver Cunningham of Abilene. The latter said he would go to Coleman tomorrow.

Senator Woodward's bill would prohibit planting of cotton in 1932 on more than 50 per cent of lands in cultivation in 1931, and in 1933 would limit cotton to 50 per cent of the cultivated area of 1932 as well as provide that no land be planted to cotton in 1933 which was planted to that crop in 1932.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5. (AP)—Informed of the calling of the special session of the Texas legislature, Governor Huey P. Long said: "I want to stress the fact that we are not going to get anywhere unless we absolutely ban the planting of cotton, 100 per cent, during the coming year.

"Halfway measures are not going to get us anywhere. We must ban the planting of cotton altogether."

AIR ATTACK

ing on them to surrender by 1 o'clock this afternoon. When the zero hour came the government allowed 20 minutes grace. At the conclusion of the 20 minutes the planes took the air.

Federal forces remained in control of coast defenses and of land units of the navy department. Guards were placed to protect the property of foreign companies.

Government authorities said it would be only a matter of hours before decisive action at Coquimbó ended the rebellion.

Other parts of the country were said to be quiet, the civil population fully co-operating with the government.

The navy department announced that the Talcahuana and Valparaiso bases were held by the government. The department forecast that the rebellion would be quickly put down.

EYE WITNESS

Gerger Garbo, director of a Havana weekly, who was forced to flee that city some months before, leaped to a barrel in the public square and sounded a call to arms. He made a flaming speech that finally drew 513 men and boys of the 4,000 inhabitants into the rebel forces.

The chief of police and his forces joined the new rebels. All went into the hills soon after the fighting began, leaving the 33 in command of the town. Spanish fortresses that date back 200 years were commandeered for gun mounts. I firmly believe they could have held on forever if lack of sleep hadn't overcome them.

The sleep-weary 33, their boat having left the harbor on the appearance of a loyal gunboat, took to the hills as loyal forces flanked them and climbed down through caverns and hidden trails. The chief of police and his men went with the

Barbara Stanwyck Will Be Acclaimed by La Nora Crowds

Barbara Stanwyck as the star of Warner Bros. "Night Nurse," will establish herself even more securely in the hearts of local theater-goers today, and practically all will predict great things for her when they see her in her latest picture. She is at the La Nora today.

The part she plays in "Night Nurse" gives greater opportunity for the display of the many qualities which make her so appealing to people of all ages. It is not alone her beauty and gentle femininity—there is some intangible quality which suffuses any role she undertakes, with implications of tenderness, tragedy, ligniness and compassion that are quite irresistible.

Lora Haru is a perfect vehicle for Miss Stanwyck. Lora goes to a great city hospital to study to be a nurse—and during the years of her apprenticeship meets temptations, loves, fears and doubts that enthrall the imagination of the beholder from fade-in to final fade-out.

Ben Lyon is his rough-and-ready best as the young hard guy who comes to her for treatment of a wounded arm and wins her heart. Other favorites of the screen, play notably the widely differing parts, Joan Blondell is Lora's pal, also a nurse. Clark Gable is effective as Nick, a shady chauffeur who finally goes as good and as bad as he deserves. Charlotte Merrain, Edward Nugent, Allan Lane, Rolfe Harold, Walter McGrail and Betty May appear and two remarkable seven-year olds, Marcia Mae Jones and Betty Jane Graham—as well as ten babies of half a dozen nationalities.

John Francis Dillon ably directed "Night Nurse," which when all is said and done, is a heart-warming and thrilling transcript of a phase of modern life which has not been so fully screened before.
