

THE UNITED STATES MARINES have a former Pampa High school football player in their ranks. He is Chester Hunkapillar, above, who was born and raised in Pampa. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, now living at Beaverton, Oreg. Chester played in the Junior High school band, took part in several high school plays, sang in the high school a cappella choir, and played on the Harvester team. After graduating he went to West Texas State college at Canyon where he played football. Before enlisting he was employed by the American Manufacturing company. He is stationed at San Diego.

IF LEON NOBLITT, above, gets a crack at the enemy and battles the way he did when he played football for Pampa High school the war shouldn't last long. Noblitt, one of the greatest centers ever to wear the green and gold uniform at Pampa High school, is back in the United States Navy. He first enlisted in 1936 after graduating from high school. He served five years and was out less than a year when recalled to service. He is now attending a special training school in Massachusetts. While in the navy he served on the U. S. S. Oklahoma, and later on the submarine which last fall sank off the east

ANXIOUS TO GET A LOOK at the Japs through the sights of a high-powered rifle is Private Bruce Ginn, above. Bruce was born and raised in Gray county. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ginn. Bruce enlisted in November of last year. He was sent from Port Bliss to California with his field artillery battery. coast of the United States. He holds the rank of second class seaman. Leon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Noblitt, 631 North Banks street. He was born in Durham, Okla., but moved to Pampa with his parents when two years old. He is now 24 years old.

Arms Ripped Off Poles In Snow Storm Yesterday

A sudden shift of the wind caused electric light in Pampa to flicker on and off last night, climaxing a "dive-bombing" snowfall here. The wind's sudden change of direction whipped ice-laden transmission lines about, ripped cross-arms off poles between Pampa and White Deer and between Panhandle and St. Francis.

There were 25 cross-arms ripped off between Pampa and St. Francis and a lesser number in the area between Panhandle and St. Francis, the Southwestern Public Service company said today. This resulted in the flickering of electric lights here.

While last night was cold, the weather was not of blizzard proportions, even though snow fell rapidly in Pampa late yesterday afternoon.

Private Finds It Fun While It Lasted

CAMP WOLTERS, Feb. 26 (AP)—Pvt. Walter Somers found it fun while it lasted.

A clerk at headquarters, Private Somers grabbed up a field jacket and went on an errand.

Several enlisted men saluted him smartly. He jokingly returned the salutes. When he entered an orderly room he was addressed as "sir."

All was explained when he got back to his office and found he had accidentally picked up a jacket with the gold bars of a second lieutenant.

WORLEY

Continued from Page 1. The fathers in filing Worley's candidacy asked that Gray county support Worley for reelection "to the last man and woman."

"Gene is in active service in the navy," they said. "He gave up a salary five times as large to serve his country as he promised. We owe it to him to support him."

The petition signers also issued a statement thanking Mrs. Lillie Showers who gave her time as notary public to officially witness signatures. "She did it because she has long been a supporter of his and because she feels he did right in joining the navy," it was said.

In his letter Mr. Worley said that "during my campaign for congress I stated that if I should ever be called upon to vote for war I would offer my own services in our armed forces. Carrying out this promise, I enlisted in the navy and was granted leave of absence by the House of Representatives, Jan. 6, 1942. Upon that date I also directed that my entire congressional salary be returned to the government."

Critics of Spies, including one regent and a number of faculty members, had charged in previous hearings that the administrative methods of the dean were responsible, and had recommended his dismissal.

"Do you think it is a serious condition?" asked Rep. Jack Love of Fort Worth, committee chairman.

"I think it very serious," Rainey replied.

"Do you think it wise to move the school?" queried Rep. Marvin Simpson of Fort Worth, committee member.

"Where?"

"Here in Austin. I believe none of these troubles would have occurred if the college had been in Austin."

RAINEY

Rainey testified the difficulties extended back many years and that since three years ago when Spies had moved to improve the school a "well-organized and consistent attempt to drive him from his position" had been made.

"Affairs have reached such a state some drastic methods will doubtless have to be employed before the situation can be improved," he declared.

Among the unsound administrative principles he mentioned several administrative units functioning without proper definition of responsibilities and control of John Sealy hospital by the city of Galveston. About two years ago the hospital control was returned to the university and more recently various changes in administration of the school have been instituted.

THREE NAZIS

Russian troops, moving heavy guns over the snow or propeller-driven sledges, were reported knocking toward the Moscow-Smolensk railroad from two directions—north from newly-captured Dorogobuzh and south from Bely, only 50 miles apart—in a drive to bottle up strong German forces still holding out in the Rabev-Yzama region.

Soviet front-line dispatches said that the Red armies had defeated Nazi reserves hurled into the flaming battle of Staraya Russa and that a ring of destruction was closing tighter around survivors of the smashed German 18th army.

One of the Nazi reserve units, unidentified as the 56th regiment of the German fifth division, was reported when it attempted to break through to aid the trapped forces.

With three divisions officially declared to have been smashed and 12,000 men killed through initial operations, the army newspaper Red Star said several additional German garrisons were being wiped out of the strategic communications zone 140 miles below Leningrad.

Berlin military quarters said 14,000 Russians had been killed in fighting southeast of Lake Ilmen in the last four weeks, and while this period was more than twice the 10-day span of battle outlined by the Russians, Soviet dispatches told of fierce resistance by German artillery, mortar and machine-gun crews.

The southern Donets basin was reported by the Moscow radio to be a scene of violent fighting in which 6,000 Germans have died.

German submarines, credited in Washington with having attacked 45 ships in American coastal waters from Jan. 1 to Feb. 25, chalked up another victim in the 5,855-ton British tanker La Carriere.

She sank after being torpedoed late Tuesday night in the Caribbean 75 miles south of Puerto Rico. Four of her crew were killed. Twenty-three survivors landed yesterday at Guanica, Puerto Rico.

A report by Secretary Knox Dec. 21 that 14 German undersea raiders had been destroyed or damaged was supplemented by the navy last night with a statement it had good reason to believe that three more had been sunk and four others damaged by U. S. action in the Atlantic.

Questionnaires To Start Going Out March 26

Questionnaires to "T-men," those who registered in the third selective service enrollment on February 16, will be sent to Gray county registrars...

Gray county's first quota of selectees since R-day, 19 men, left this morning by special bus for the induction station at Fort Bliss.

Based on the 1940 and 1941 registrations, which in Texas totaled 960,000, it had been anticipated that the third R-day total would be 500,000.

The difference can be accounted for, General Page said, by the fact that since the President's proclamation soon after Pearl Harbor...

Texas Gulf Coast In War Scene For First Time Since Days Of '61

(By The Associated Press)
The navy is on guard in the gulf. Never in Texas' history has its coastal waters been combed so finely.

The recent sighting of a submarine off Aransas Pass was the first time since the Civil War that the presence of an enemy in the Texas gulf had been established definitely.

But from the days of the conquistadores there has been plenty of naval activity off the Texas coast.

The Spanish suspected Rene Roberri Cavalier, Sieur de la Salle, purposely overhauled the mouth of the Mississippi in 1682 and landed on what is now Matagorda Bay for purposes of colonization. They sent an expedition to search for him. La Salle's scouts, lying in the sand of Matagorda Island, saw the fleet sail northward by the mouth of Pass Cavallo, but the Spaniards did not come in.

La Salle's naval escort had departed in a huff for France, but no doubt his outposts would have given worthy battle had they been discovered.

Jean LaFitte, the romantic brigand, worked his band of cutthroats out of Galveston, concentrating on Spanish commerce, from 1817-1821. Whether he was considered an enemy is problematical, for the government appeared to close its eyes to his depredations against Spanish vessels.

LaFitte, however, made the mistake of attacking vessels flying the United States flag, and the navy closed his Galveston base.

Things were pretty quiet along the gulf after that until Texas seceded from the Union.

Despite its isolated position, there was considerable naval action in the Texas gulf during the War Between the States.

The coast was blockaded and in 1862, Galveston was captured. However, it was retaken the following year by a simultaneous land and sea attack.

The attack from the sea was made by two steamers, fortified with cotton bales on her decks.

Galveston remained in Confederate hands the remainder of the war. Sabine Pass also was attacked by Yankees during the Civil War. United States navy gunboats conveying 5,000 soldiers—intended as an invasion force—appeared off the coast.

sponsible authorities never conferred them and it is considered certain that U-boats never moved farther south than the Carolina coast.

However, in 1917-1918, the Texas coast was far less important militarily than it is today.

At that time, the oil industry in this state was an infant just getting its growing pains. Compared with the present gigantic amount, its production was a trickle.

Oil for the sinews of war goes out of gulf ports in tankers, which means the Texas coast is a prime hunting ground for U-boats.

However, the United States navy says it will not be caught napping.

It has given out official word, intended primarily for frightened seamen that "every available surface and air craft" is on constant patrol.

move backward or forward, or hover motionless.

Because they are slower than an airplane, they can spot more easily objects on or below the surface of the water.

Besides being able to sink a submarine, the blimp has great value as an agent to mark mine fields, dropping flagged buoys. In the first World War, a single airship in one flight sighted and marked 368 mines, according to Capt. C. E. Rosendahl, the navy's lighter than air expert.

One reason gulf residents may hold confidence in the military's ability to deal with the submarine menace is the presence of Rear Admiral Alva D. Bernhard behind the commandant's desk at the Corpus Christi naval air training station.

Although his command is not a combat unit, Admiral Bernhard keeps his eyes on the sea.

Routine patrol has been combined with navigation flights of the fledgling pilots.

Today the navy is well equipped with these airships.

Bernhard, whose jutting jaw indicates the stuff of which he's made, has just recently been approved by President Roosevelt for promotion to rank of rear admiral, climaxing his 37 years of naval service.

The 53-year-old officer is both a sailor and a flier. When he was 38 years old, he went from the fleet to Pensacola for flight training.

He loves to be in the air and he isn't choosy which plane he flies.

"They are all airplanes," he says.

Bernhard's naval duties have been many. He even performed a diplomatic mission in Russia shortly after the czar's overthrow.

He has commanded the destroyer Litchfield, and the aircraft tender Arcostook and the aircraft carrier Lexington.

For a time he headed the plans division of the navy's bureau of aeronautics, and he has headed the Coco Solo base in the Canal Zone.

Bernhard's whole life has been wrapped in the navy and he says "I wouldn't mind being 21 again with the whole thing to do over."

Under his promotion, Bernhard would become senior officer of the Eighth naval district, comprising Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, and northwestern Florida.

Texas probably is his favorite of those states. At least, he has signs of wanting to be recognized as a Texan.

At the last Texas A. and M.-University of Texas Turkey Day game, Bernhard was in the stands, wearing a 15-gallon Texas cowboy hat and yelling like a wrangler on a roundup.

England's Air Training corps is now grooming 100,000 boys 16 to 18 years of age for future R.A.F. sky service.

Somethin' to Think About

On February 16, Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, through the columns of The Pampa News, advocated drastic economy in local and state government. Yes . . . They ARE RIGHT! But, I want to go a step further with this subject.

It's my opinion that we could merge our counties into sixty or seventy units. This would save the taxpayers one-third on their county taxes. Hon. George H. Sheppard, state comptroller, says, "Local and county taxes must be cut to the bone."

We could easily do, in our governments, as they do in the state of Nebraska. That state has only one house to make their laws. Nebraska operates on a CASH BASIS.

We declared war on December 8, 1941. That was the day to put the nation on a war basis. Senator O'Daniel says "Washington is still Politicking." What the taxpayers and the mothers and fathers want Washington to do is to put on an all-out war effort. All the non-essential bureaus and boards should be discontinued.

WRITE YOUR SENATOR AND CONGRESSMAN. TELL THEM TO CUT NON-ESSENTIAL SPENDING. WHAT WE WANT IS ALL-OUT WAR EFFORT. Mothers . . . Fathers . . . Do this today! It may save your son's life.

Yours,
(Signed) M. C. HILL.

Americans Warned Not To Regard Russia With Scorn

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP)—A warning that America must not fall into the Nazi trap by regarding Russia with contempt and doubt and suspicion was sounded today by Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to the Soviet Union.

The attitude of too many Americans toward Russia, he said in an address prepared for delivery at a council for democracy luncheon, was that "any stick is good enough to beat a mad dog with."

Don't Forget Your Registration Card

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP)—Failure to carry your draft registration card with you at all times is a serious offense, and if you don't believe it ask Harry Rosenfield, who left his at home just once.

You can find him in jail, where he is being held in $1,000 bail on that charge, for which the maximum sentence if convicted is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 26—Training which made him a two-gun letterman and captain of championship teams at Texas A. & M. college set Lieut. W. E. (Bill) Lewis, C. A. C., in good stead, according to a letter received by his father, a veteran employe at the college.

Delayed in arriving, the letter says Bill and two enlisted men were on a night scouting detail in the Southwest Pacific when they encountered a python. Without waiting, Lewis drew his sidearm and fired six shots, all shots taking effect and one of them shattering its spinal column.

Lewis captained the national champion pistol team of 1939-40 which fired over 50 matches and was never defeated. His brother, C. A. Lewis, also is a lieutenant in the army, and was a member on both teams with Bill. At last report he was stationed on the west coast.

Californians Battle For Shrapnel Bits After Night 'Raid'

By TED GILL
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26 (AP)—Concentrated anti-aircraft fire while 30 powerful searchlights focused high in the sky on a mysterious, slowly southward moving objective, rudely awakened thousands of residents early today, then provided them with one of the most thrilling pyrotechnic displays they had ever seen.

Beginning around 3 a. m., the rapid "boom-poom, boom-poom" shelling continued heavily for 30 minutes as the objective of the concentrated searchlight glare slowly moved down the coastline. A short lull followed and then heavy firing resumed for another 10 minutes.

Some awed spectators swore they saw formations of planes; others contended the objective looked more like a blimp; others said it couldn't be—but they couldn't see a doggone thing!

SERIAL STORY

KINGS ROW

BY HENRY BELLMANN

MIXED EMOTIONS

CHAPTER XIV

DR. TOWER smiled again. "What are your plans for later, Parris? After Vienna?" "I want to be a doctor out at the asylum."

"Here—in Kings Row?" "Yes, sir." "What put that idea into your head?" "A man who works on our place."

"Indeed, you seem to have a number of influences." Parris related the story of Lucy Carr and her death, and explained the way he had felt, even at the outset of his acquaintance with her, that there should be some way to seize her flitting mind and hold it still.

"And there's another thing, too—somebody else." Parris told Dr. Tower of Benny Singer and of old Tom Carr's theories about curing him, or at least helping him. He finished, a little disconcerted by Dr. Tower's silence. The doctor pushed the papers aside.

"You ought to be a fine doctor. There's just one thing I feel a little dubious about."

"It's your idea of coming back here to Kings Row?" "Well, Tom Carr was the first one to suggest it, and then I kind of mentioned it to my grandmother, and she spoke right away to Colonel Skeffington, and he spoke to Dr. Nolan out at the asylum."

Dr. Tower laughed once more. "Young eagles should nest far from home. Ever hear that?" "No, sir."

"It's a good saying. There's a curious rivalry between the old and the young. It's everywhere, but it's keener, and it's more ruthless and more cruel in the home nest, so to speak."

HE had seen Cassandra several times this year—"whenver she could slip away," as she said. He had never felt any unease or conscience about it. Those meetings with Cassandra were in a world apart.

Cassandra! He could not precisely say to himself how he felt about her. He knew exactly how he felt about Renee, still. He knew how he felt about Drake, and almost anyone he knew well. But, Cassie. That was a different relationship.

Just now he was once more aware of the disastrous consequences that might follow if Dr. Tower so much as suspected anything. There was a quality of threat about the man that was not comfortable to contemplate.

PARRIS hurried toward home. He was nearly at the end of Federal street when Drake overtook him.

"Hop in. I'll drive you home. I got something for you." "Oh," Parris' exclamation was dull and disinterested.

"Is that the way you receive a note from your sweetheart?" Parris read the few lines hurriedly. "She wants to see me at your house tonight."

"Don't you want to?" "I just can't see her tonight." "What's the matter with that gal, anyhow?"

"She's just—well, strange, Drake. Cassie—gee, I feel terrible talking about her like this. You know I wouldn't to anybody else. But she frightens me, sometimes. She's so—intense."

"I know." "She's a pretty swell, Drake." "Maybe a little crazy. Like her old man, they would be try to keep her locked up at home like he does?"

Parris thinned his lips. "He's not crazy, Drake. He's more intelligent than all of Aberdeen College put together."

All the same, there's something pretty funny about that house. And old Cass—you just now said yourself...

"All right, all right. But I can't see her tonight. And I haven't got any way to let her know."

"I'll just tell her you couldn't come." "It's my grandmother I'm worried about, Drake." "Well, you're not her doctor—not yet."

Anna listened carefully to Parris. She controlled her face and answered him calmly, remembering Madame's warning.

"To tell you the truth, Parris, Madame did see Dr. Ladd." "Consultation?"

"Yes. Dr. Gordon thought she ought, too. There's no use denying she ain't been so well, but she's better. Don't you think she looks better?"

"No." "Madame's not so young, Parris, and little things get wrong with you when you get older. But you shouldn't worry now."

He felt mightily relieved. "All right, I guess I just got a little worried when Dr. Tower said he thought she didn't look so well."

"She's had a little cold, you know. That pulls a body down, too. Look, Parris. The cookies are done."

Parris grinned. "And a glass of milk?" "Good. I get it right away."

"I've got to telephone, too. I'll be right back."

PARRIS was invaded by the strangest discomfort he had ever known. He was unable to analyze it, but he knew it was more acute and arose from deeper sources than the normal unrest of spring. He roamed the place from end to end.

Madame von Ein observed his restlessness. So did Anna.

"Anna, what is the matter with Parris? He seems unlike himself these days."

"Yes, Madame, I have been watching him. He no sooner comes in than he goes out again."

"Where is he now?" "Up there at the beginning of the orchard. He's standing there looking at a tree."

"A tree? Looking at a tree, or at the ground and at the trees. He picks up a stone and stares at it as if it were strange, then drops it and picks up another."

"Anna, maybe there is a girl!" "I don't think so."

"What is the matter with this young gentleman, then?" "I think he is in love—"

"But you said—" "Oh, not with a girl, Madame, but here—with this place."

"I have no idea what you are talking about."

"It is this, I think Parris feels something. I think he does not know what it is. I think it feels change. I think he is afraid something is to happen and he does not understand. Oh, Madame, you know I have watched him grow every day of his life. I feel, in here, sometimes just what he feels. I think he cannot help but see that you are not well—"

Madame was silent for several minutes. Anna kept her hands tightly twisted in her apron.

"You were saying, Anna, that he is in love with this place."

"Yes, of course. It is home, Madame, I remember it well, when I knew I was to leave my home forever, I could not see it enough. I looked at every bush, every little leaf. It is like that, Madame, with Parris."

Tokyo Silly Enough To Claim New York Ordered Blackout

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP)—The Tokyo press had a field day of propaganda yesterday over the sheeling of the California coast Monday night by a Japanese submarine, and the newspaper Asahi told the Japanese people New York had ordered a blackout immediately.

There had been no blackout of New York's glittering lights.

Kokumin said the attack disclosed such weakness that "occupation of the United States mainland no longer is in the realm of dreams."

It added that "Panama's fate may soon be hanging in the balance."

BEDFORD, Ind., Feb. 26 (AP)—An Indiana motorist must show his last year's property and poll tax receipts before he can get an automobile license.

New Personnel Office For Army Opens In Lubbock

A new personnel office is opened in Lubbock to handle applications of men—and in some cases of women—who desire to volunteer their services to the war department.

Many branches of the war department are authorized to request commissions for men especially qualified for certain duties, over and above the officers to be commissioned through the officers' training camps now operating in dozens of army camps.

Many men of some military experience can be used in civilian jobs in the army. And, in this connection, some women can be used in administrative duties. To date, nothing has been announced from Washington on the status of the army's plans for a women's auxiliary organization.

Men—and women—who feel they have special qualifications which can be utilized by the war department, and especially men who are not in the "Class I" classification by their local draft boards can write to or call at headquarters, West Texas Recruiting District, Post Office Bldg., Lubbock, Texas. Their qualifications will be analyzed, and if it is thought they can be used by the war department, a detailed "questionnaire" will be given to or mailed to the individual concerned.

When this questionnaire is returned, it will be forwarded to the war department, and there it will be carefully analyzed, and if there is a place for the applicant, he will be notified at once.

If there is no place where the applicant can be used, the personnel placement agency of the war department will classify and file the questionnaire, so that, if need develops later, the individual can be contacted quickly.

People writing to Headquarters, West Texas Recruiting District, Lubbock, Texas, are urged to give complete details, such as name, address, age, classification by local selective service board, education, business and technical experience, and military experience, if any.

Such people are also asked to address the letter to:

Headquarters West Texas Recruiting District, Post Office Building, Lubbock, Texas. "Personnel Placement Officer."

RUBINOFF AND CHARLIE McCARTHY

WHEN HE WAS IN HOLLYWOOD, Rubinoﬀ took time out to play for radio's famous Charlie McCarthy.

Rubinoﬀ Will Play His $100,000 'Strad' In Two Concerts Here Next Thursday

Rare indeed are the famed people of our time who, in being presented to an audience, have an intimate object linked to their names. Almost always it is just Arturo Toscanini or Lawrence Tibbett or Somerset Maugham. Yet "Rubinoﬀ and his Violin" are the words that will introduce this famous violinist-conductor when he appears at the Junior High school auditorium in Pampa, Thursday, March 5, in a concert of popular music under the auspices of the Pampa Civilian Defense Council.

The unusual thought of an inanimate object being given mention, and more especially in the field of entertainment, is evidence enough of the importance of this instrument.

Rubinoﬀ's violin is of supreme importance today—for there here been but four in his 25 year career. The first cost his mother exactly $175, the fourth is insured for $100,000.

Working hard on his first violin in Europe, Rubinoﬀ finally won a place in the military garrison band and a scholarship to the Royal Conservatory at Warsaw. At 14 he embarked for America with his second instrument, a Klotz worth $500—the gift of his old teacher and still treasured.

The Klotz served him well, introducing him into his professional career in America. It carried him into the middle-west where he spent years in study and performance in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

With the first rays of success he wanted a better instrument; his work required it. With the assistance of his employers who advanced several thousand dollars he bought a Guarneri.

Then came the pride of his musical career... the "Strad." This violin bears the elaborately engraved coat-of-arms of the Romanoff family and the identification mark of its maker. A deep brownish-red lustre, it is perfectly formed, and even though its distinguishing marks make it impossible to resell in case of theft, Rubinoﬀ has had it insured for $100,000.

This valuable instrument will be used in Rubinoﬀ's concert presentation of popular music which will include his own original compositions and adaptations, music from his motion pictures, and some of the lighter classics.

Tickets for this concert are priced from $1.10 to $1.65 and may be obtained at Cretney's Drug Store in Pampa. There will be a school children's matinee with a popular admission price of only 25 cents. The night concert begins at 8 o'clock.

Revolutionary Physical Training Program For Aviation Cadets

By BURTON BENJAMIN
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—A revolutionary three-month physical training program for aviation cadets, described by navy department officials as the most "intensive, rigorous and comprehensive the world has ever seen," will be inaugurated May at four universities.

The program is in line with the navy's plan to make physical training an integral part of flight training. It will precede and prepare candidates for the nine-month flight course.

Two of the four university centers already have been selected. Iowa will represent the Middle West and launch its program May 4. Georgia, the Southern school, will start about the same time. An Eastern and Far Western college are still to be selected.

The division of aviation training, headed by Lieut. Comdr. Thomas J. Hamilton, former football coach at the Naval Academy, has formulated a detailed list of objectives which entail the training of 1,675 students at each of the four centers.

SOFT AND LUXURIOUS LIFE IS BEHIND THEM

Candidates will be trained in four basic fundamentals:

1. Proper physical conditioning and strength.
2. General naval lore.
3. Military drill and seamanship.
4. Communications and specialties.

Keynote of the program is the physical, "monastic" life of such proportions it was first held desirable that the entire facilities of the college be taken over.

Complete absorption of schools was abandoned, chiefly because colleges have suffered a 15 to 50 per cent decrease in enrollment. Trainees take up the slack.

Emphasis on the physical phase springs from a belief by officials that pilots inducted into naval service in general come from a "soft, luxurious, loose-thinking, lazy, peace-time life."

These men are contrasted to enemy pilots, who have been thoroughly trained in wartime physical and mental systems. Our athletic programs, navy officials hold, develop mental alertness, agility, initiative and a sporting competitive spirit superior to that of our enemies. But their youth are tougher, stronger and steeper in nationalist and fanatical doctrines that drive them to ruthless methods.

GAMES PICKED FOR VALUE IN COMBAT

Cadets rise at 5 a. m., take 15 minutes of setting up exercises or road work in any weather, followed by a quick swim. They then enter into the main part of the program, consisting of physical and military drills and academics.

Comprehensive and progressive physical training will embrace body building, boxing, rough and tumble wrestling, track, swimming, football, basketball, military sports and jujitsu. Boxing, wrestling and jujitsu are for attack and self-defense with instructions in the realities of warfare—which means no holds barred.

Football, basketball and track develop quick acting, coordination of mind, eye and body and agility. Military sports will include obstacle climbing, grenade throwing, broad jumping, vaulting, tumbling and swimming.

Infantry and military arts, which include communications, seamanship, gunnery, rifle range, use of parachute, chemical warfare, first aid, getting out of jungles and recognition of silhouettes, will make up the military drills.

Naval lore will cover not only organization, regulations, history, tradition and etiquette, but tactics strategy, aviation, political and social theory and indoctrination.

CADETS TAUGHT TO HATE ENEMIES, THEIR METHODS

Psychologists will be retained to imbue the cadet with wartime thinking—engendering a hate for our enemies and their methods, teaching him that it is a privilege to die for his country, cultivating a reckless, devil-may-care spirit.

Mathematics, navigation, meteorology, seamanship, physics and gunnery will be taught as ground school subjects.

Personnel on the instructing staff will be hand-picked, to include all types of trained men from the best of the nation's athletic coaches and conditioners to psychologists, psychiatrists, doctors, dentists and nutrition experts. "Fighting parsons" will be assigned to each center.

The atmosphere of the induction centers will be as naval as possible. Cadets will retire at 9 p. m. There will be practically no liberty.

"The atmosphere in these centers is so important," officials point out, "the work so concentrated, the building up of cadets' bodies and minds so essential that it is considered almost imperative that these centers be as far away from the influences of our country's peace time life as possible."

Lt. Comdr. Tom Hamilton's program is separate from Lt. Comdr. Gene Tunney's physical training project, although some of the Tunney personnel may be used to condition cadets.

Lieutenant Commander Tunney's instructors are looking after the good health of the rank and file.

Criticism has been leveled at the former heavyweight champion's department for taking the pick of the nation's athletes in non-combatant roles.

Texans At War
(By The Associated Press)

More women than men are working at civilian jobs in England—and the same condition will exist in this country when America's war effort hits full speed, Henry J. Allen, Wichita newspaper publisher and former governor of Kansas, predicted.

Allen, who speaks at the Dallas Salesmanship club's meeting today, is national chairman of the British child aid committee of the Save the Children federation. He has just returned from a trip to England.

Organized labor will pay dearly before the war ends for what he termed flouting of public opinion through defense industry strikes, Allen declared.

"When the American people finally realize we might lose the war, the nation begin going into mourning for our huge manpower losses, the parents and wives and brothers of the men who went to die for $21 a month will inevitably lose all patience," he asserted in an interview.

"It will mean not only a complete end to concessions, but reprisals, bitter and far-reaching," he added.

Other aspects of the war scene in Texas included:

Only seven lost-time accidents, none fatal, occurred at the naval air training station at Corpus Christi during 1941. It was the best record of any such station in the nation.

Reuben Zumwalt, a Kerrville youth at the Pearl Harbor naval base, wrote home that he enjoyed reading his obituary after an official report from Washington informed his parents that he was killed in the Dec. 7 Japanese attack.
