

Minister's musing

BY DR. JIMMYE FLYNN

"I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." - Romans 12: 1.

A Dedicated Life

"Salvation available in Jesus Christ" is universally recognized as the theme of Paul's epistle to the church at Rome. In this letter, he discusses all the aspects of salvation: God's grace which initiated it; its availability to all; faith in Jesus Christ as the sole condition for receiving it; and God's forgiveness which brings us into righteousness. To Paul, the basic doctrines of our faith and their practical consequences in daily living cannot be separated.

"Both together make a man, one makes a wise man, the other a good; one serves that we may know our duty, the other that we may perform it.

Men cannot practice unless they know, and they know in vain if they practice not." Yet, unlike the good tree which automatically produces good fruit, the Christian does not automatically bring forth fruits of righteousness. Man is not a tree, and he still must fight the sin which continues to wage warfare in his life. To realize victory over sin and the full joy of his salvation, the believer must take definite action. The consequence of salvation and justification should be consecration of life to God.

A Call to Dedication: "Therefore ... I beseech you ... "Making use of a debater's terms - "therefore" - Paul connects the basic doctrines of faith with the practical response of the believer. "Therefore," says Paul, "this is how this great act of God's grace should affect your daily living." As he lays down the requirements for action (inherent in the very act of justification), his tone is one of appeal - "I beseech" - rather than one of harsh command.

The Motive for Dedication: "the mercies of God"

"The mercies of God" is the theme of Paul's first eleven chapters. It is "mercies" Paul emphasizes now, rather than the power or authority of God, as the motivating force in dedication. God's mercy, not man's merit, made salvation possible. Even as God's mercy is the foundation of our faith, so it is His mercy which is the dynamic of our consecration to Him.

Because we have received His mercy, we must live out the purpose for which we have been saved. We did not work for our salvation, but we work because of it, and from it. "The mercies of God" bring us to God and moves us to dedicate ourselves to Him.

The Character of Dedication:

1. Dedication is voluntary: "that you present."

The word "present" carries the meaning of "give" or "yield," which is an act of one's own free choice.

2. Dedication is complete, involving the whole man: "your bodies." Paul uses the term "bodies" to refer to the total personality - spirit, mind, and physical body. The heart and mind of the believer united with Christ work through the body to translate noble impulses into action. The body then is the instrument through which the redeemed heart and mind function, in order to realize God's full purpose in this life. This is another way of saying that we cannot profess Christ with our hearts without performing

His will in our daily lives. If the Christian dedicates himself to God at all, it must be a dedication of the total personality.

3. Dedication is sacrificial: "... a living sacrifice ..."

Paul is comparing the dedication of the Christian with the Old Testament sacrifices of consecration. Where the Jew offered dead animals, the Christian brings an active living personality to place on the altar of God's will. Herein is the sacrifice or offering: the giving of our lives to God's service rather than to self-centered materialistic purposes. We speak too often, and incorrectly so, of the sacrifices we make as Christians, of what we give up for God. But God does not require that we give up things for Him. He desires that we give our total personalities to Him, if we are to realize the full joy of our salvation. The word "living" always brings to mind the word "daily." As we daily live by God's grace, we are daily committing ourselves to Him.

4. Dedication is pure, preceded by and followed by a life that is "... holy, acceptable unto God ..."

A life which contains known or unforgiven sin cannot be dedicated to God. The sins, along with the blind-spots of prejudice, hate, and envy, must be confessed and put out of our lives. To be acceptable to God, we must come to the altar of dedication with clean lives. The Christian lives his life "unto God" and not to please men. What pleases God is the principle desire of the dedicated believer.

5. Dedication is practical: "your service" Always the fruit or outcome of dedication is work. Our relationship to God determines our attitude toward Him, and our attitude toward Him determines our action. A husband may expound loudly of his love for his wife and family, but unless that love proves itself by his working for their support and comfort, then there is reason to doubt his proclaimed love. A dedicated life results in a life of service to God.

6. Dedication is rational: "your reasonable service."

Dedication of the living total personality is contrasted with the unintelligent offering of the animal in the Jewish sacrifices. The word "reasonable" may be translated "logical," referring to an act of the mind.

The logical result of what God has so graciously done for us is the dedication of our total personalities to Him. It is logical that the attitude of one who receives such mercy would be one of service toward the giver of that mercy.

Salvation - what God freely gives to us; justification - what God's grace makes us; consecration - what we do with our lives in thanksgiving for the mercy that made us free; this, says the apostle Paul, is the plan of God. Only as we do our part can Christ's character and conduct be reproduced in us to bring to realization the abundant life.

AP Exclusive: Network flaw causes scary Web error

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Georgia mother and her two daughters logged onto Facebook from mobile phones last weekend and wound up in a startling place: strangers' accounts with full access to troves of private information.

The glitch — the result of a routing problem at the family's wireless carrier, AT&T — revealed a little known security flaw with far reaching implications for everyone on the Internet, not just Facebook users.

In each case, the Internet lost track of who was who, putting the women into the wrong accounts. It doesn't appear the users could have done anything to stop it. The problem adds a dimension to researchers' warnings that there are many ways online information — from mundane data to dark secrets — can go awry.

Several security experts said they had not heard of a case like this, in which the wrong person was shown a Web page whose user name and password had been entered by someone else. But experts said such flaws could occur on e-mail services, for instance, and that something similar could happen on a PC, not just a phone.

"The fact that it did happen is proof that it could potentially happen again and with something a lot more important than Facebook," said Nathan Hamiel, founder of the Hexagon Security Group, a research organization.

Candace Sawyer, 26, says she immediately suspected something was wrong when she tried to visit her Facebook page Saturday morning.

After typing Facebook.com into her Nokia smart phone, she was taken into the site without being asked for her user name or password. She was in an account that didn't look like hers. She had fewer friend requests than she remembered. Then she found a picture of the page's owner.

"He's white — I'm not," she said with a laugh.

Sawyer logged off and asked her sister, Mari, 31, her partner in a desert catering company, and their mother, Fran, 57, to see whether they had the same problem on their phones.

Mari landed inside another woman's page.

Fran's phone took her inside yet another stranger's page, one belonging to a young woman from Indiana. They sent an e-mail to one of their own accounts to prove it.

They were dumbfounded.

"I thought it was the phone — 'Maybe this phone is just weird and does magical, horrible things and I have to get rid of it,'" said Candace Sawyer.

The women, who live outside Atlanta, had recently upgraded to the same model of phone and all used the same carrier, AT&T.

Sawyer contacted The Associated Press after reporting the problem to Facebook and AT&T.

The problem wasn't in the phones. It was a flaw in the infrastructure connecting the phones to the Internet.

have been delays in getting land near the hospital to house the ambulance service and LifeStar medical helicopter operation.

Pampa EMS also pledged up to $500 in matching funds for Gray County Youth Awareness program. The county commission approved the program for sixth graders.

The Gray County Commission approved a new lease at Perry Lefors Airport. The lease is expected to result in another new hanger being built.

Commissioners tabled an NTS phone proposal for the county until the commission's next meeting at the end of January.

They approved a bond for Justice of the Peace Kurt Curfman.

The commission also did some housekeeping, correcting a county retirement supplemental death benefit rate from $0.0048 to $0.0044.

Gray County Treasurer Scott Hahn reported to the commission that the county started the year with $3.64 million in cash and $1.3 million in TexPool. The county at the moment has no money in certificates of deposits. The county, Hahn said, has current assets of $4.97 million.

Haley

of transmission lines should be decided locally and not in Austin, or Washington. It is much easier for a citizen of Gray County to have his or her voice heard in Pampa, than Austin, much less Washington D.C.

"Potentially the biggest issue before us is the endangered species act. I am told by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife service, that it is highly likely that the lesser prairie chicken will be listed as an endangered species within the next four years. If, the lesser prairie chicken is listed, it will effect oil and gas operations, wind development, and agriculture with hard economic consequences. These industries are important to this county and the county government needs to be proactive instead of reactive on the issue. There are provisions in the state and federal statutes that require coordination with local governments on these types of issues, if the county government already has a plan. If the county has no plan, they do not have to be invited to the table."

Haley has a Bachelor of Science degree from Oklahoma State University, is a past president of the Gray County Farm Bureau, and a board of directors member for sixteen years, a member of the Gray county appraisal district board of directors, and the Vice-Chairman of the board of trustees of the Nita Stewart Haley Memorial Library in Midland, Texas. Haley and his wife Molly have five children.

AT&T

That illuminates a grave problem.

Misconfigured equipment, poorly written network software or other technical errors could have caused AT&T to fumble the information flowing from the Sawyers' phones to Facebook and back.

AT&T spokesman Michael Coe said its wireless customers have landed in the wrong Facebook pages in "a limited number of instances" and that a network problem behind those episodes is being fixed.

The Sawyers experienced a different glitch. Coe said an investigation points to a "misdirected cookie." A cookie is a file some Web sites place on computers to store identifying information — including the user name that Facebook members would enter to access their pages. Coe said technicians couldn't figure out how the cookie had been routed to the wrong phone, leading it into the wrong Facebook account.

He also said AT&T could confirm only that the problem occurred on one of the Sawyers' phones, possibly because they had logged off Facebook on the other two before reporting the incident.

Facebook declined to comment and referred questions to AT&T.

Some Web sites would be immune from this kind of mix-up, particularly those that use encryption. A Web browser would have trouble deciphering the encryption on a page that a computer user didn't actually seek, said Chris Wysopal, co-founder of Veracode Inc., a security company.

Sensitive sites and those used for banking and e-commerce generally use encryption. But most other sites, including some Web-based e-mail services, don't use it. One way of checking: The Web addresses of encrypted sites begin with "https" rather than "http." Facebook uses encryption when user names and passwords are entered, to cloak the sign-on from snoops, but after the credentials are entered the encryption is dropped.

It's unclear how many people were affected by the problem the Sawyers discovered, and whether it was limited to Facebook.

The reason all three women experienced the glitch is a function of the way cellular networks are designed. In some cases, all the mobile Internet traffic for a particular area is routed through the same piece of networking equipment. If that piece of equipment is misbehaving or set up incorrectly, strange things happen when computers down the line receive the data.

Usually that means a Web site simply won't load, said Alberto Solino, director of security consulting services for Core Security Technologies. In the Sawyers' case, "somehow they got the wrong user but they could keep using that account for a long period of time. That's what's strange," he said.

The AP tried to contact two of the people whose Facebook pages were exposed to the Sawyers, but the calls and E-mails were not returned. It's unclear whether they are also AT&T customers, though security experts said that's likely the case.

Indeed, it was the case in a similar incident in November.

Stephen Simburg, 25, who works in marketing, was home for Thanksgiving in Vancouver, Wash., when he logged onto Facebook from his cell phone. He didn't recognize the people who had written him messages.

"I thought I had gotten really popular all of a sudden, or something was wrong," he said. Then he saw the picture of the account owner: A young woman.

He got her e-mail address from the site, logged off and wrote the woman a message. He asked whether he had met her at some point and she had borrowed his phone to check her Facebook account.

"No," she wrote back, "but I was just telling my family that I ended up in your profile!"

Simburg and the woman figured out they were both using AT&T to access

Facebook on their phones. (AT&T had no comment because the incident wasn't reported to the company.)

"I felt like I had been let down by the phone company and by Facebook," he said.

He says he has put the incident behind him. But one piece of it remains: He and the young woman are now Facebook friends.

Today in History

Today is Saturday, Jan. 16, the 16th day of 2010. There are 349 days left in the year.

Highlights in history on this date:
 1547 - Ivan the Terrible is crowned Russia's first czar.
 1666 - France, allied with Holland, declares war on England.
 1761 - British take Pondicherry after siege, marking end of French dominion in India.
 1778 - France recognizes U.S. independence.
 1816 - Portugal's South American colony, Brazil, becomes a kingdom.
 1883 - The U.S. Civil Service Commission is established.
 1917 - Germans propose in a telegram that Mexico become Germany's ally with a view to recovering Texas, New Mexico, and Arizona. The telegram is intercepted, hastening the U.S. entry into World War I.

'I am a believer in punctuality, though it makes me very lonely.'

— E.V. Lucas,
French author

1920 - Prohibition, the legal prevention of the manufacture, sale, or transportation of alcoholic drinks, begins as the 18th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution takes effect. It is later repealed.

1925 - Leon Trotsky is dismissed from chairmanship of Russia's Revolutionary Council.

1964 - Thirteen Arab nations, meeting in Cairo, agree to set up military command to strengthen Arab position on problems related to Israel; the musical "Hello, Dolly!," starring Carol Channing, opens on Broadway in New York, beginning a run of 2,844 performances.

1966 - Major General Aguiyi Ironsi takes over power in Nigeria after announcing that an attempted coup has been smashed.

1969 - Soviet cosmonauts achieve first linkup of two manned spaceships while in orbit around earth.

1971 - Swiss ambassador to Brazil, Giovanni Enrico Bucher, is freed in Rio de Janeiro after being held by kidnappers for 40 days.

1973 - United States and South Vietnam declare cease-fire in Vietnam War in hopes of full peace pact.

1979 - In the face of growing unrest, Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi flees Iran, never to return.

1987 - Hu Yaobang resigns as head of China's Communist Party, accepting blame for policy mistakes stemming from student turmoil.

1988 - Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder is fired as a CBS television sports commentator one day after telling a TV station in Washington, D.C., that, during the era of slavery, blacks had been bred to produce stronger offspring.

1989 - Three days of rioting erupt in Miami when a police officer fatally shoots a black motorcyclist, causing a crash that also claimed the life of a passenger.

1990 - Bulgarian government grants opposition right to publish newspapers, but continues to deny their access to radio and television.

1991 - U.S. and allied fighters and heavy bombers start pounding targets in Iraq and Kuwait after Iraq fails to meet a deadline on withdrawal from Kuwait.

1992 - A special high court in Greece acquits former Socialist Premier Andreas Papandreu of involvement in a $210-million bank embezzlement scheme; officials of the government of El Salvador and rebel leaders sign a pact in Mexico City ending 12 years of civil war that left at least 75,000 people dead.

1993 - Somali civilians lead U.S. troops to bunkers overflowing with more than 1,000 tons of arms and ammunition. A marine spokesman calls the find "the mother lode of arms caches."

1995 - Five-hundred motorists are stranded in the Jawahar tunnel in northern India by a snowslide that killed at least 183 people.

1996 - Sierra Leone's military ruler, Capt. Valentine Strasser, is ousted in a coup.

1997 - In West Bank city of Hebron, Palestinians dance and sing outside Israeli army headquarters as troops begin departing after 30 years of military rule.

1998 - Turkey's high court outlaws the Islamic-oriented Welfare Party.

2000 - Ricardo Lagos is elected Chile's first socialist president since Salvador Allende, whose government was toppled in a bloody 1973 military coup led by Gen. Augusto Pinochet.

2001 - Laurent Kabila, president of Congo, is killed in a shooting at his home.

2004 - Spain's Constitutional Court, acting on a suit filed by the government under a law outlawing parties that incite terrorism, upholds the banning of Batasuna, a party long considered to be the political wing of the armed Basque independence group ETA.

2005 - Massive protests against social benefit cuts paralyze traffic in cities across Russia in the most serious outburst of public discontent since President Vladimir Putin took office.

2007 - Pakistani helicopter gunships attack a suspected al-Qaida hide-out in forest near the Afghan border, killing up to 10 people and sparking anger among tribesmen who say the dead are woodcutters, not terrorists.

New technologies = exciting future

EVAN SMITH
PISD ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT

At the start of each new year, many of us set important, bold, and sometimes unrealistic resolutions.

This year, I decided that I would not choose a resolution that I have unsuccessfully set before. In years passed, my resolutions generally involved weight loss. Every year, I would set an unrealistic goal, and when things didn't go as planned, I would feel frustrated.

This year, I have spent a bit more time considering what characterizes a good resolution. Certainly, it should be achievable. Ideally, it would provide resolution in both my personal and professional life, and it should be challenging and perhaps a little fun. In light of these characteristics, I narrowed my focus to the area of technology.

I belong to an age when technology is mandatory; it is something that I must utilize all of the time. However, the way that I have learned to use the computer has been by rote. In other words, someone would teach me how to perform a specific task, and I would repeat the process, exactly as I was shown. From this safe space, I was taught how to do many things on the computer, but I have missed the bigger lesson about how and why the steps fit together. For example, if I get a screen that is unfamiliar or when I run into a problem, I am afraid to act because I might lose my work or damage the machine. When I watch others, especially our younger generations, I am amazed at the command they have over technology. They are not afraid to experiment.

This generational learning gap is also evident in my own home. I am a Baby Boomer -- I was born sometime between 1946 and 1964. Conversely, my children belong in that millennial or Generation Y category (1977-1998). Last spring, after some major prodding on my part, I convinced one of my children to help me navigate through the steps necessary to set up a social networking account. I had been impressed by their ability to stay in touch and reconnect with their siblings and friends so easily.

For the first month, I was busy. Then, something happened along the way; I was busy doing other things, and I have not kept up with my site. I blame some of my disinterest on the generationally different codes of proper conduct. In my day, the "face to face" encounter was the most respected. This is in total contrast to my children's experience. They see digitalized social networking as a necessary part of their lives, and they utilize it continuously throughout their day. My initial response has been to accuse them of showing off their skills to make me look bad, but truly, deep down, I am proud and in awe of them. Through my resolution to learn, practice, and increase my understanding of these technologies, I hope to increase communication with friends and family members.

Furthermore, especially as an educator, it is important for me to understand the applications of technology in the future of education. Throughout our own district, many different technologies are being utilized in the classrooms.

Currently, our Technology Committee is investigating the question: What is the best use of our resources in the area of instructional technology? Our Committee must consider the multitude of products available and determine which of these will have the biggest, positive impact on student learning. During this past year, the district has followed their recommendation and has taken positive steps to ensure that each classroom has projectors and document cameras.

These steps enable each teacher to increasingly utilize internet resources and to incorporate computer technologies to benefit all students. Interactive white board technologies have been added in many classrooms. Yet, even these technologies have only scratched the surface of what the future holds in store for our children and for our children's children. Indeed, where will our students and technology lead us next?

It is an exciting prospect, and Pampa ISD is fortunate to have teachers who eagerly accept the challenge to become new pioneers in instructional technologies. Indeed, they have motivated me to dust off my computer keyboard and restart my social networking engine.

Letters to the editor

To the editor,

Stepping out of my auto recently at Wally World, I immediately noticed the three empty Pseudophedrine blister packs left to blow with the days wind, and immediately knew as well, where all the Pseudophedrine tablets went. Rest assured, the person or persons trashing Wally World's tarmac that day were not suffering from any nasal congestion... Rather, those empty blister packs represent a blight upon Pampa and Gray County that at present, law enforcement is finding quite tedious to overcome - a never ending and uphill battle. And, that never ending battle has affected my neighborhood going on seven years...

What does it take, aside from a heavenly appearance from Rufe Jordan himself, to rid my neighborhood, Pampa, and Gray County of this blight upon humanity? I have stopped counting how many drug transactions have taken place from one nearby residence since becoming aware; I have stopped counting the myriad of vehicles stopping by and watching individuals - with known law enforcement histories - traipse back and forth with plastic bags in their grasp. Aggravated, I find myself wishing I owned stock in the company's that produce Saran and Glad bags.

No matter what I or my neighbors may witness, law enforcement cannot do one thing to enforce anything, until they witness it for themselves -- and therein the problem lies.

I understand lawyerspeak when it comes to "probable cause", but Lord I wish our area law enforcement agencies could revert back to the days of Rufe Jordan. The blight my neighborhood has faced these past years, and our city and county has fought and, presently it seems, is losing, would have been ended with a simple phone call.

CDC releases NiNi stats

ATLANTA (AP) — About 1 in 5 Americans have been vaccinated against swine flu, according to the government's first detailed estimates of vaccination rates against the new pandemic. The estimate is based on telephone surveys done in December and early January. The surveys concluded that an estimate 61 million people, or about 20 percent of the population, got a shot or nasal spray vaccination since the vaccine became available this fall.

Also on Friday, CDC officials released new estimates of the numbers of Americans sickened, hospitalized and killed by the virus.

An estimated 55 million became ill from swine flu from the time it was first identified in April through mid-December — the first eight months of the pandemic. About 246,000 Americans were hospitalized and 11,160 killed.

Notice to Lovett Memorial Library patrons

Please expect down time for the public computers due to a new Internet provider system being installed, new computers being installed, and Envisionware print and time management software being installed. There will be a time limit of 2 hours on Monday-Saturday and an hour on Sunday. The hour on Sunday is due to the Library only being open four hours. The Software keeps up with this time, so you will no longer need to stop at the desk unless you have fines or overdues. The Library has no control over the time limit. It is set by the system, and it will automatically log the patron off when your time is up. We apologize for any inconvenience due to this, but we have to keep our technology up to date. The Library also has some policies that are being changed due to our recent loss of over $26,000 in lost, damaged, or unreturned items. First, Patron's must have an HLC issued library card in good standing to use the computers. The reason for this is your Library card number will act as your log in. The Library will no longer accept a driver's license to look up your card number so always make sure to bring your card. Next, the limit on the number of items you can check out has changed to a maximum of 10 items. The maximum on DVD's and VHS's will be 2 items. For example, you may get 10 books or audio books or if you get 2 DVD's or VHS's, you may get 8 books or audio books. We are doing this not only for the library's protection on cost but yours as well. The overdues on books are $.10 per day late and DVD's & VHS's are $.50 per day late, so this new limit of items will help in keeping these charges down. Also remember, if you cannot make it into the Library to renew these items, you may call us or go to our Website to renew as long as your items are not already overdue. To renew by phone, you must have your library card number ready, so the staff can look up your information. To renew online, you will need to have your card number and pin number to log in. (If you do not know your pin number, you may call and we can look it up for you.) You may call the library for help with this or any questions you may have. We thank you for your patronage and look forward to seeing you in the Library. www.pampalovettmemorial.org

North Texan injured in Haiti earthquake dies

DALLAS (AP) — A member of a Dallas-area church's team of medical missionaries has died of internal injuries received in Tuesday's earthquake in Haiti.

Jean Armwine of Dallas was part of the 12-member team of volunteers from the Highland Park United Methodist Church staffing the Haiti Eye Care Clinic in the Haitian village of Petit Goave, about 20 miles west of Port-au-Prince.

Fellow missionary Katy Langley said at a Friday news conference that Armwine was among those trapped in the ruins of the clinic after the earthquake.

A spokeswoman for the Highland Park church, Kim Gifford, says the 49-year-old volunteer died Friday morning in a hospital on the island of Guadalupe. In Gifford's words, "They said her internal injuries were just too severe."

DAILY HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, Jan. 18, 2010:

This year, you will be more prone to take risks than in past years. Often, you just know how matters are going to end up or what you need to do. Inevitably, you choose the right word and say the right thing. Try not to overspend, especially if you're looking for a new car or computer. Make the purchase after March 10. Many options appear because you seem so much more secure. If you are single, keep your eyes open; someone very special will enter your life. This person always makes you laugh and smile. If you are attached, do something for yourselves as a couple. Take a workshop or class in communicating. Buy the car you both have been eyeing. PISCES brings up many good points.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have:
5-Dynamic; 4-Positive;
3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★★ Your dreams last night leave you enthusiastic and energized. Subconscious messages come forth. You might look at a responsibility much differently. Use your sixth sense. Tonight: Know that you don't have to do anything at all.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★★ If you suddenly have a desire to do something totally different from your norm, the only question is, Why not? As you open up to new people and ideas, you will be enriching your life this year like you haven't in a long time. Tonight: Go where there are people.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★★ Investigate options a little more openly involving your work and a boss. You might wonder why there has been a sudden change. The energy actually is coming off of you. An important discussion cannot be postponed any longer. Tonight: Find an insightful friend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ Your mind is everywhere but on the present. Investigate what is happening within your circle of friends before making a judgment. Don't toy with going back to school or planning that trip any longer — the time has come. Tonight: Whatever you come up with works.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★ Let go and admire a situation from afar. You don't need to be up close and personal all the time. You'll probably be invited to come in closer and relax. Someone makes it clear how much he or she values your input. Tonight: Togetherness.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★★ Knowing when you have exhausted all the alternatives is important. Also, it is important to know when someone absolutely needs to have something his or her way. Be smart, and let it happen the way this person wishes. Tonight: Listen to suggestions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★★ Your energy is renewed and much higher than usual. Have you been holding yourself back unnecessarily? Wonder less and stay more centered. Curb a sweet tooth in order to maintain your weight! Tonight: Are you considering a new hobby?

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★★ Your imagination pinnacles to a new peak, making nearly anything possible. Don't worry; this pattern will last for a while, so you can create your greatest masterpiece! Romance starts budding for those who are single. Tonight: Be spontaneous.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★★ If you can stay home, you will be a lot happier. In fact, you could be eyeing a change of profession or a home-based business. Right now, you are best off at home. Your instinct might be to plug a lot of money into your home. Make sure you are OK with that even if you don't recoup the costs later. Tonight: Happy as a cat.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★★ Take your time returning calls. It is important for people to feel that you care. Taking your time when you talk to them could make all the difference. You are able to transform your thinking and head in a new direction. Tonight: Meet a loved one and/or friend for dinner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★ You could go overboard feeling so optimistic about your present situation. Still, remember that a partner, associate or someone you need to check in with might be shaking his or her head. Try a little self-discipline! Tonight: Take a hard look at your budget.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★★ Your smile is a winner. If you sense that others will acquiesce to your request, you probably aren't far from right. A meeting could be challenging, yet at the same time help you shore up a project or an investment. Tonight: Beam in what you want.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: My wife, "Jana," and I have been married 15 years. She's the love of my life. I can't imagine living without her. We have three beautiful children, successful careers and a nice home. We have a great relationship, and I trust her completely.

Before we dated, Jana ran with a fast crowd. She was also somewhat promiscuous back then. Don't get me wrong, there are things from my past that I'm not proud of, either. But it bothers me that her "adventures" exceeded mine.

We went to Jana's class reunion last fall, and I met several friends from her past. Each guy I met, I couldn't help but wonder if he had slept with my wife. I know about some of her old boyfriends, but not all.

I think Jana knows this bothered me, but she doesn't know how much. I literally became nauseated thinking about her past. After almost 20 years of dating and marriage, I thought I'd be over it. Should I press her for more details or just live with the knots in my stomach? — CURIOUS GEORGE IN LOUISVILLE

DEAR GEORGE: Neither. After 20 years of dating and marriage, it's time to grow up. You have a happy, successful marriage — so why are you wasting time obsessing about the distant past? If you have digestive problems, discuss them with your doctor or a therapist. But to ask your wife for a scorecard at this late date will be counterproductive, and I doubt that it will fix what ails you. And in the future — skip the reunions.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 12-year-old girl who attends a private middle school. When I go to school, I see girls my age wearing a little bit of makeup. When I try to sneak off to school with a little bit on my face, my parents wipe it off and say I'm beautiful just the way I am, although I disagree.

Abby, I will be 13 next month! I'm absolutely positive that I can handle makeup without going overboard. But when I say it to my parents, they still forbid me to wear or buy any. How do I convince them that I'm mature enough to handle this? — NOT IMMATURE IN NYC

DEAR NOT IMMATURE: Your parents regard you as their little girl and may be hoping to keep you that way for another year. One of the hallmarks of maturity is being honest with your parents. If you want to convince them that you're mature enough to handle makeup, perhaps you should consider not sneaking out of the house wearing any. Prove to them that you can be trusted, and they'll have faith in your judgment — and I'm not just talking about makeup.

Romo: Playoffs special, not fact he'll face Favre

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Tony Romo is coming off the first playoff win of his career and going into a game against his childhood hero, Brett Favre.

How cool is that? Romo isn't really saying. As he's done all season, Romo is downplaying any excitement as the Dallas Cowboys prepare to face the Minnesota Vikings on Sunday.

"I think any time you're playing in this type of game, it's going to be special," Romo said Thursday. "I like Brett. He's fun to hang out with and talk to and stuff. I think we're both going to be trying to win this game, for sure."

Romo has been better than ever this season because he's cut way down on his turnovers, making smarter decisions and taking fewer chances. In other words, he seems to have stomped out some of his Favre-like tendencies.

He wouldn't call it that, though. "I would think you would want to have some, with the season that he's had," Romo said. "He takes chances when he thinks it's a healthy chance. I don't think he randomly throws the ball up in the air. If you feel like you can fit a ball through the hole, you throw it. If you don't, you don't. I don't know there's any big secret beyond that."

Romo grew up in Burlington, Wis., during the prime of Favre's career with the Green Bay Packers. Since Romo burst onto the scene in 2006, he and Favre have become friends. They've gone head-to-head only once, in 2007, with Romo winning 37-27.

When the Cowboys went to Minnesota this pre-season, the pair were seen chatting and laughing on the field before the game.

"We talk about a lot of different things," Romo said, "but I don't want to share all of that stuff."

He's also not ready to throw out an "I told you so" about winning a playoff game after losing his first two under dubious circumstances. It also was Dallas' first playoff win in 13 years.

"You keep doing the things that have allowed you to play at a level that is good enough to keep winning, but you know that each game, for me, becomes more exciting and more fun," he said. "I've said it all along. This is why you play the game, to play in these games. It's very easy to prepare and get ready for situations like this because it's so enjoyable. Hopefully, we have a lot left."

Win Sunday and the Cowboys will be headed to the NFC championship game for the first time since 1995.

No. 2 Lady Eagles snap Pampa's win streak at three

BY ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampanews.com

The Pampa Lady Harvesters entered Friday's game in Pampa on a three game winning streak. However the No. 2 Canyon Lady Eagles put an end to it as Pampa lost 70-33 at McNeely Field House.

Head Coach Gene Valentine said he thinks his team did a good job handling the situation of playing Canyon.

"We just wanted to see where we're at in district," Valentine said. "I thought we did some good stuff. Obviously early we hit some shots and jumped on them early. I told the girls what we're looking for is Tuesday night. We got Randall coming in and if PD (Palo Duro) beat Randall Friday then what we're playing for is a tie for third."

In the first quarter the Lady Harvesters took the early lead. Canyon had two early turnovers leading to two three-pointers by Shelbie Watson and Taryn Eubank to give Pampa a 6-0 lead. Things would turn in favor for the Lady Eagles. After a timeout, Canyon would go on a 22-0 run taking a 16 point lead towards the end of the first. The Lady Eagles took advantage of 11 Lady Harvester turnovers. Kayla Hughes broke up the Lady Eagles run with a two-pointer. Canyon led 22-8 after the first quarter.

The Lady Eagles opened the second quarter with a three-pointer by Casey Land and followed with a two by Ashton Redigo to expand their lead to 27-8. Eubank made two free throws to cut Canyon's lead to 27-10, but that would be the closest Pampa would get in the second quarter. Canyon closed the quarter on an 11-5 run to widen their lead to 38-15 at half-time.

In the third quarter both teams exchanged baskets on their first two possessions. The Lady Eagles went on an 8-0 run to give them their largest lead of the game at 48-20. Pampa would end the quarter on a 9-5 run, outscoring the Lady Eagles 14-13 in the third. Canyon led 53-29 after the third quarter.

In the final quarter, the Eagles were in complete control scoring the first nine points of the quarter expanding their large lead to 60-29. The Lady Harvesters did not make a basket the rest of the game. Their only points in the fourth would come from the free throw line. Andi Hutto made three free throws after she was fouled shooting a three-pointer and Eubank made the other free throw. Canyon outscored Pampa 19-4 in the final quarter.

Eubank led the Lady Harvesters in scoring with 13 points. Watson scored six and Kirsten Kuhn scored four. Nicole Hampton led the Lady Eagles in scoring with 17 points. Jordan Vessles scored 14 and Casey Land scored 10.

The Lady Harvesters (8-14, 3-3) finish the first half of district winning half of their games. Valentine said he feels good about where his team stands.

"It's great," Valentine said. "I told them we won the three games we needed in the first half. So that's really positive considering where we were supposed to be. We got three of the games we need at home. We just need to take care of business on our home court."

JV boys still seek dist. win

BY ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampanews.com

The Pampa Harvesters junior varsity boys basketball team is still seeking their first district win after losses to Hereford and Canyon.

The junior varsity lost 41-39 vs. Canyon Friday at the MPAC gym. Coach Matt Embry said this was the best effort he has seen from his team this season.

"That's the best we've played all year with the exception of our game versus Memphis," Embry said. "Very proud of the effort. That team (Canyon) played PD very well they've beat a lot of good teams. So they walked in here thinking they were going to beat us by 30 points. We showed them we aren't the team we thought they were."

Collin Killgo led the team in scoring with nine points. Joseph Mechelay scored eight and grabbed 10 rebounds. Derek Pollard scored seven points, had 13 rebounds and four blocks. Trace Carter and Joseph Kennedy each scored six.

The junior varsity lost 65-37 against Hereford Tuesday in Hereford. Embry said his team couldn't break their press. Killgo led the team in scoring with 12, Mechelay scored eight and Kennedy scored nine.

The junior varsity hosts Randall 6 p.m. Tuesday in the MPAC Gymnasium.

Harvesters can't handle Eagles

BY ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampanews.com

The Pampa Harvesters played close in the first half but lose their third consecutive district game 64-50 to the Canyon Eagles Friday at McNeely Field House.

Head Coach Dustin Miller said his team started the game well, something they haven't done in the first three district games but didn't finish as well as the other three.

"They (Canyon) seemed to hit a lot more shots than we did," Miller said. "They had a lot of open looks and didn't miss many of them. We didn't hit a lot of our shots."

In the first quarter the Eagles took the early lead 6-2. The Harvesters went on a 6-3 run to cut their lead to one. Canyon scored the next four points to lead 13-8. But Pampa went on a 6-0 run to take a 14-13 lead. The Eagles got the lead back when Pampa's Alex Clendening tipped the ball in when he was going for a rebound making it 15-14 Eagles after one.

In the second quarter, Will Tolliver scored the first points of the second quarter, but the Harvesters went on a 6-0 run to take a 21-17 lead. The Eagles did not stay down long as they went on a 9-0 run to take the lead back at 26-21. Both teams exchanged baskets the rest of the quarter and Canyon led 29-25 at halftime.

Garrett Ericson started the third quarter with a basket to cut Canyon's lead to two but that would be the closest the Eagles would allow the Harvesters to get. The Eagles went on a 11-4 run to expand their lead to 40-31. Both teams would exchange baskets the last few minutes of the quarter and the Eagles led 49-38 after the third.

In the fourth quarter, Canyon would not allow their lead to get lower than 13 points. The Eagles outscored the Harvesters 15-12, leading by as many as 18. Clendening led the Harvesters in scoring with 16. Travis Hagerman scored 11, Ryan Jimenez scored 7, and Latigo Collins and Garrett Ericson each scored six. Tolliver led the Eagles in scoring with 21. Braden Kasey scored 17 and Trevor Davis scored nine.

Miller said he told his team that it's early in the district season but they need to step up soon.

"We can't just keep talking about how it's not over because we're going to look up and it's going to be over," Miller said. "The good thing is it's (next game) Randall. It's a big rivalry game and it will be easy to get our kids up for it."

The Harvesters (9-11, 1-3) host Randall 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at McNeely Field house.

DAILY HOROSCOPE

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, Jan. 17, 2009:
This year, you enter a new luck cycle that could define your next 11 years. Let go of what might be holding you back. Ask yourself what you want to realize most, and put it on your wish list. Curb a tendency to overeat, as you might gain a little in this expansion transit! It might be an emotional or professional expansion, but also a physical one. If you are single, you could meet someone very special to your life's history. If you are attached, the two of you could gain from your luck cycle. What do you really desire as a couple? AQUARIUS reads you cold!

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ It is far too easy to fill in the gaps, where you don't have facts, with your imagination. On the other hand, it could be a lot more fun. You enter the last year of a 12-year cycle. Tonight: Make it early.

This Week: Remain optimistic, even if you don't have the power you want. Friends deliver.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★★ Move a situation in a positive direction. Deal with someone in a radically different manner. Vagueness can be enticing; the problem is that you need facts. Tonight: Start smiling. Expect a positive change.

This Week: You draw a lot of positive attention. Use it well.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★ If you tap into your imagination, you could be surprised by what you see. Evaluate a change more openly than in the past. An older or respected friend comes up with many solutions. Tonight: Could be late.

This Week: Accept control and run with the ball. Trust your imagination.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ A partner means well, even if you aren't on the same page. Enjoy your differences instead of making a big deal out of them. Do it his or her way right now, as in a sense, you'll learn much more. Detach; try to identify with this person. Tonight: Let your mind wander ...

This Week: Emphasize the message behind the issue. Solving a problem looks like addressing the true communication.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★ Others clearly want you to do something their way. It might not be so bad. You could have quite an adventure. Later on, a discussion with a key friend or loved one proves to be substantial. Tonight: Talk over dinner.

This Week: Defer to a partner. You trust this person, don't you?

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★★ Dig into a project, get a head start on your taxes — do whatever is necessary. You could be exhausted. Why not go for a little more R and R? You could be surprised by all the options that surface right now. Tonight: Move in new ways.

This Week: Others clearly have the cards stacked in front them. Let them run the show.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★ A child or loved one could be quite enticing. Perhaps you didn't realize how imaginative this person is. The challenge will be to meet him or her on the same level. Let go of restrictions and be spontaneous. Tonight: Play the night away.

This Week: Fatigue marks your work. Try to take brisk walks to recharge.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★★ A parent or family member could reveal some information that surprises you. Integrate what you are hearing; it could be worthwhile. Today's facts clear up a puzzle. Opt for a relaxing nap. Tonight: Feeling revived? Choose what would make you happy?

This Week: Tap into your innate ingenuity. You'll find answers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★ Just make a call, and you'll have plans. Stay close to home. Somewhere along the way, catch up on a friend's news. Your intuition is unusually strong; follow it. Tonight: Dinner out, but make it an early night.

This Week: Stay close to home. Even work from home if possible. Nice words are just that.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★ Do be careful with spending. As the expression goes, if something is too good to be true, it probably is. Cut back. Get a head start on your taxes, or price a purchase. You might be surprised by the difference between what you think you will hear and what you actually hear. Tonight: The later it gets, the more on top of your game you feel.

This Week: Pick up the phone. Don't let a misunderstanding grow.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★ Make plans with those you really want to be with. You can do nothing halfway right now, nor should you. You might have a sense of déjà vu. Your ability to intuit is very high. Tonight: Your call.

This Week: Venus enters your sign. Note the difference.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★ Play it low-key. You might need a day to recycle. Your understanding comes forward when having an important discussion. Empathize all you want, but be careful about making any more commitments. Tonight: Meet a new luck cycle — for the better!

This Week: Greet a challenge with enthusiasm. You are carrying a lucky rabbit's foot.
