One of the big tractors used in the "Tractor Pull" at Fort Worth.

Young Farmers Attend Tractor Pull

Fourteen Young Farmers from O'Donnell and Ross Smith attended the Southwest Farm Show and Tractor Pull at Fort Worth, over the weekend. This was the first of such shows held in Texas. It consists of tractors in different classes, pulling a weighted down sled.

In the 9,000 pound class, the winners were as follows: The B-21 Allis Chamber pulled 166 ft. and 4 inches, winning first place. Second was won by the 856 Farmall which pulled 160 ft. and 8 inches. Third place was the 40-20 John Deere, pulling 156 ft. and 11 inches.

Winners in the 12,000 pound Open with Allison motor were: The Moline Tractor which had a 1,500 horse power air craft motor. (The horse power could go to any limit in this Open.) The Moline pulled 194 ft. and 8 1/2 inches, winning first place.

Second place was the Allis Chamber B-21 which pulled 182 ft. and 1/2 inch. Third place was the G-1000 Minneapolis Moline, pulling 179 ft. and 2 inches. This was run on butane but most of the tractors in this class used diesel or other fuel.

A 12,000 pound F-30 Farmall was in the top four but was disqualified because the hitch was pulled off. It was outfitted with an army tank motor.

Bobby Furlough was one of the judges at the tractor mechanics while Billy Russ and Herman Ledbetter looked on.

Buster Snelgrove won a door prize and Norman Ledbetter won a prize at one of the booths.

News About Our Paper

This was taken from a personal letter received by Joe and Sibyl Gilmore.

"Your paper keeps coming and we look forward to getting it. We like to read your good thoughts, Sibyl and I know you have some clever and witty gals working on the paper. We wondered if you might have been one of the cotton haulers leaving a note under a rock for another cotton hauler."

Signed: Sid and Thelma Greebon Millersview, Tex.

Another good note of encouragement reads:

"I just can't wait until the paper gets here every week to read all the news. We enjoy it so much."

Scientists are heading towards the finish line in the race against leukemia. Help them cross the tape victorious. Give generously to the American Cancer Society.

"We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime," says the American Cancer Society. The dollars you give to the ACS can help accomplish this.

Every year cancer kills about 22,000 Americans between 15 and 44 years of age. The conquest of cancer is everyone's business. Protect yourself and your family with annual health checkups. The researchers are making new inroads constantly in the battle to control cancer.

Since 1945 the American Cancer Society has spent more than $250-million to support cancer research. Many gains have been made. There are still many leads to follow. Cancer is no respecter of age. It kills both young and old.

Some researchers believe there is a relationship between viruses and certain cancers. The American Cancer Society wants to spread the word that early detection and prompt treatment can save many lives from cancer.

Support the American Cancer Society's programs of research, education and service. Your dollars will help speed the day of victory over cancer.

Here's Dottings

Since World War II the United States has fought two wars, both of them in Asia. In both cases, we felt that the security of non-Communist countries, and even our own national security, was being threatened by the expansionist policies of Russia and China. 1000,000 lives and billions of dollars later our political leaders have decided to ignore that and to recognize that part of China which is still fighting and has never said they were ready to be good guys. The Red Chinese have asserted and reasserted their right to conquer Taiwan. And bless Pat (no pun intended) if Mr. Nixon hasn't moved the Chinese marble one hole closer for the Reds. We are to withdraw our troops from Taiwan - but still honor our defense commitments so we say.

This surely is the most frustrating situation in the history of any peace loving nation. The Taiwanese must feel like pawns in the game. First they are forced to leave the United Nations because Red China refused to be a part of any group recognizing two Chinas. Now the Nationalist Chinese must be saving boxes to be ready to pack up and leave Washington. Since we have made the big overture and have all but plead with the Reds to let us come visit and to trade with them, surely they are expecting to be invited to join the diplomatic bunch in Washington - in Taiwan's place of course.

There were many skeptics who disapproved of a president of the United States jeopardizing the prestige and integrity of America by courting Red China in the first place. But once we were sure he wasn't going to reconsider, we prayed this trip would not prove to be another Yalta or Potsdam. My gosh, it looks like it DID happen and all we can do is wring our hands. Not only have we abandoned Taiwan for all practical purposes but we seem to have weakened the U.S. position among all the nations of the world.

And what did we get in return? — some oxen is all I can hear about and that's nothing but a lotta bull. I have read one report that mentioned a brief discussion about John Thomas Downey - he has spent the last twenty years in a Chinese prison. His term was commuted to five years—last December! I call that ludicrous. You would think the return of prisoners would have been the first demand made by Mr. Nixon - and were not this demand met, then their demands would not be met - simple.

But rather than present our position boldly, the President let the Reds "entertain" him and his entourage with the anti-capitalist, anti-Chiang Kai-shek ballet. He began his speech by thanking Premier Chou and his government for their "incomparable hospitality." I don't see one thing hospitable about 100,000 dead Americans. And I bet Downey and the other prisoners could tell us a lot about Red Chinese hospitality.

"This was the week that changed the world," said Nixon in one of his last toasts. THAT I believe. And I am all for change for the better but I have great misgivings concerning the changes that week will bring about. I agree with Bill Buckley who says of that week, "We have lost irretrievable—any sense of moral mission in the world." I am sad for the free world

Minimum Tillage

Texas farmers are plowing less and enjoying it more, thanks to a new conservation measure being pushed by the Soil Conservation Service.

As a result, there may be less dust in the air you breathe this winter and spring. Or less sediment in your city's water supply.

More moisture conservation, higher profits, more free time, and less soil loss are some of the benefits to farmers.

"All this is possible because of a new farming system called minimum tillage," Bob Kral, district conservationist for SCS, explained. "With minimum tillage, crops are planted without prior land preparation. Weeds are controlled with herbicides. Since the land is not plowed, leaves and stalks from the previous crop are left on the soil surface as a protective cover during the fall, winter and early spring."

The surface cover is highly effective in preventing erosion. It breaks up the erosive effect of falling raindrops, letting them fall harmlessly onto the surface. The residues also protect the soil from windstorms.

Kral pointed out that wind-blown dust is our state's largest source of air pollution. He also stressed that erosion-produced sediment is our biggest water pollutant, muddying streams and filling natural channels and lakes. Reducing water and air pollution from erosion has vast environmental benefits he said.

"And think what scattered seed and residues left on the surface do for wildlife," Kral said. "In some farming areas, wildlife are almost entirely dependent upon crop residues for food and cover needed for survival during the winter months. Pheasant, dove, quail, geese, songbirds, deer, turkey, antelope and other wildlife benefit from such practices.

"In fact, widespread use of minimum tillage in Texas would be a great boost to our state's wildlife."

Kral pointed out that farming operations destroy surface residues. If farmers can substitute herbicides for cultivation in controlling competition, they can reap the many benefits possible from maintaining crop residues on the soil surface yearlong.

He emphasized that residues keep the soil cooler in the summer, warmer in the winter. They reduce evaporation, saving valuable soil moisture. The residues protect young seedlings. The cover also produces better soil tilth and it increases insoak.

He said, however, that many farmers still plow their land over and over again, more from habit and custom than from actual need.

"Farmers have reported eliminating as many as 12 tractor trips across a field in one year with minimum tillage," Kral revealed. "However, about six is probably closer to an average. With average farming operations costing at least $1.50 per acre, cutting out six to ten trips can mean big savings."

On the other hand, the district conservationist said cost of herbicides used for weed control can be expected to offset part of the savings.

"The big reason for using minimum tillage is that it allows a farmer to do a superior job of conserving his soil and moisture," Kral stressed. "The fact that most farmers report higher profits is also significant. But the advantages from a soil and water conservation standpoint justify use of the system."

Kral said the Soil Conservation Service has published a new booklet "Minimum Tillage in Texas" which describes minimum tillage farming systems. To get a free copy, contact the Lamesa SCS office.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright Huddleston and Judy visited Sunday in the A.E. Davis home near Eden.

I am still prowling and reading, I can't remember when I had time to write down all this stuff. Must have been when I was young, a long time ago. For instance, did you know that the lion and the unicorn are heraldic animals on the British Royal Coat of Arms? The unicorn came from the royal arms of Scotland. The lion was English, being first born on the seal of Richard Coeur de Lion. So the lion is the symbol of English and British Power.
Here is a little deal on dreams. I think this came from a book originally published in 1911 but rewritten and published sometime after that. A dream is a series of images, thoughts and emotions that come to the mind when one is asleep. When dreaming, one does not have control over the trend of his thoughts, and the principle of suggestion is in control. The images that appear in dreams are usually completely lacking in coherency but sometimes the mind develops wonder brilliancy during sleep. It is generally accepted that dreams occur from natural causes. Internal bodily conditions or the immediately preceding state of mind or emotions usually cause and mold a dream. Dreams, therefore look backward over time past, instead of anticipating the future; and yet throughout the world in all the ages many people have interpreted dreams as prophesying future events. Modern psychology interprets dreams as mental phenomena. The psychoanalysts believe that the dream is an important indication of the psychological character and problems of the individual, and that it may be interpreted by studying what associations the dream symbols have for the individual.

Now you can believe what you want to about dreams. I for one, get a big laugh out of some of mine and take some of them as a warning. I usually forget the biggest part of them by the time they are over. I find this to be the best solution.

The past two Sundays we have had around 80 visitors in our museum. Some from as far away as Anchorage, Alaska, Winona Kansas, Grants and Lovington, New Mexico and from all over Texas. We appreciate very much the vacationers stopping by to see our museum and to shake our hand.

Cakes From Scratch

Southern farm homemakers like to make cakes "from scratch" even though they do on occasion use mixes. There are many family favorites in their recipe files, but none more popular than the Pineapple Upside Down Cake.

PINEAPPLE UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 6 to 8 slices drained pineapple
- 6 to 8 slices maraschino cherry halves
- ½ cup chopped pecans or pecan halves
- 3 egg yolks
- 1 cup sugar
- 5 tablespoons pineapple juice
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 3 stiffly beaten egg whites

Melt butter or margarine in heavy skillet. Add sugar and mix well. Lay slices of pineapple in a pattern in the bottom of a skillet or square cakepan. Put a cherry half in center of each pineapple slice. Decorate with pecan pieces between slices.

Beat egg yolks; add sugar and pineapple juice and mix well. Sift together flour and baking powder; stir into egg mixture. Fold in egg whites. Spoon over pineapple in round skillet or in 9-inch cakepan. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes to 1 hour or until cake tests done. Yield: 1 cake.

"Funnys"

The following Funnys were in this month's "Grain Producers News." We thought they were worth sharing with our readers.

He who thinketh by the inch and speaketh by the yard, ought to be kicketh by the foot.

The lion sprang upon the bull and devoured him. After he had feasted, he felt so good that he roared and roared. The noise attracted hunters and they killed the lion. The moral of which is that when you are full of bull, keep your mouth shut.

"I have discontinued long talks on account of my throat," said the speaker. "Several people have threatened to cut it."

Alexandre Dumas, whose ancestry aroused curiosity, was asked by a young interviewer, "Is it true that you are a quadroon, Mr. Dumas?" "That is correct," replied Dumas.

"Which means your father.?"
?"
"Was a mulatto."
"And your grandfather. . . ?"
"Was a Negro."
"And," continued the interviewer in spite of Dumas' increasing annoyance, "may I ask who your great-grandfather was?"

"He was a baboon!" shouted Dumas. "A baboon! My ancestry begins where yours ends."

Letter to the Editor

The following letter was written by my sister and printed in The Avalanche-Journal some months ago. I feel it needs repeating. Co-Editor—MR.

Dear Editor,
How about putting our year's earnings in a bucket and have it ready for the tax boys? In this way, we can do away with those tax forms that are a pain in the neck.

The Federal boys, with their gunny sacks, can come and get their share—with the State boys right at their heels.

You can sit there and watch them fellars, as they stand over your "money bucket", scooping up your earnings.

You hear the State boys complaining about not getting their share. With discrimination on its way out, the Federal boys try to console them. Explaining they get a lot of theirs at the check-out counters downtown; that before long, they'd be taking a lot more from the dollar. Then things would start looking up. With liquor taxes and all those goodies!

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Anderson returned Saturday from a fishing trip to Falcon Lake.

Wayne (Rusty) Sealy is at home for a short vacation from college. He dropped by to spend a few hours with his grandmother, Gay Sealy. Rusty attends Trinity University in San Antonio.

"A chip on the shoulder is the heaviest load one can carry."

Meantime, the county boys have sneaked in, this being their day, too. They have rights too you know. Moments after they depart, you still hear the jingle of money as they carry it away. You peer down into the bucket and see coins way down in the bottom! You stand there grinning-thinking maybe there will be enough left for bare essentials.

Then, and behold—a knock at the door. The city boys rush in, with ears laid back and eyes glowing, hoping they won't have to sue you to get their part. You stand wringing your hands, with tears in your eyes.

Long after they've gone, you don't feel content that you've paid your taxes. Only a hollow feeling lingers.

Don't despair. Every cloud has a silver lining! Come tomorrow just mosey down to the courthouse. Nothing to it. Them other folks does it all the time. With a lot of luck, just maybe, you can apply for welfare.

Open Letter to Jere

Dear Jere,

We would like to take this opportunity to thank you for the wonderful and enlightening column you have been so faithful in sending each week. We know much hard work, thought and effort goes into each of your writings and they have added much to "The Borden Star."

You write with good style and taste and always add a bit of humor and wit that makes even the hard, cold truths of our time, seem lighter.

Thank you again for sharing your thoughts with us and helping us make "The Borden Star," a better paper. Our apologies for taking so long to express our appreciation.
