LADY COYOTES SEASON STATS

The Borden County Lady Coyotes ended their 1989-90 season with the same team they began with, the Lorenzo Lady Hornets. A five point win in the season opener was avenged by the Hornets as they ended the Lady Coyote season with a 48-44 win. Still, the Gail girls had a very successful season, reaching the regional tournament for the fourth year in a row. A 26-4 season was completed with two tournament championships in the Sands Taournament and the Borden Tournament. They won the consolation trophy in the Midland classic where they faced competition from all AAAAA and AAAA schools. Borden split games with three of their four losses, defeating Grady, Jayton, and Lorenzo. Their other loss on the year came to Midland High. Their biggest offensive performance came against New Life where they just missed the century mark with 99 points. They twice held opponents to 18 points for their top defensive effort, against Dawson and New Life. The team averaged 54.4 points per game to their opponents 33.9 points. Lisha Sternadel led this year's team in scoring with 528 points for a 17.6 average. She was followed by Amy Lewis with 230, Amanda Anderson with 227, Randi Woodward with 189 and Kristi Adcock with 144. Lisha also led the team in field goal percentage with 51% followed by Amanda with 44%, Amy and Kristi hit 43%, and Randi was next with 40%. Amanda led the team in free throw percentage with 70% followed by Lisha with 66%, Kristi with 58%, and Amy with 57%. Lisha led in rebounds with 192 trailed by Amanda with 171 and Kristi with 166. Lisha also led in steals with 129 followed by Shara Dee Woodward with 70 and Kristi with 65, Shara Dee led in assists with 84 followed by Amanda with 82 and Lisha and Rachel Romero with 46 each. Leslie Fryar led the team in 3 point goals with 28 followed by Shara Dee with 12 and Rachel with 9. As a team, Borden hit 43% from the field and 58% from the free throw line. They averaged 31 rebounds per game and 16 steals.

Amanda Anderson, Kelly Jo Ogden, Shayne Hess, Shara Dee Woodward, and freshman Leslie Fryar. Individual honors this year consisted of Lisha receiving the Most Valuable Player award in the Sands Tournament and Amanda Anderson making the All-Tournament team. Lisha also was selected as the Most Valuable Player of District 16-A and Amy Lewis and Amanda Anderson made the All-District team. Kristi Adcock was selected as Honorable-Mention. Other highlights consisted of Lisha breaking the Borden Tournament record of most points in three games with 75, breaking the old record of Teri Billington, also from Borden, set in 1985. The team also increased their record of Borden Championships to 7. Memorable wins this year came against Lubbock Estacado and El Paso Riverside in the Midland Classis, a two point win in the final seconds at Jayton, and the last second shot against Grady in the district playoff that won the Lady Coyotes the District Championship. The girls ran up a 16 game winning streak during the season and ran their consecutive district win to 27 over a three year span. They then capped off the year by reaching the Regional Tournament for the fourth consecutive year. Congratulations to the Lady Coyotes for another great year!

Graduating seniors off this year's team are Kristi Adcock, Julie Harris, Amy Lewis, Rachel Romero, Lisha Sternadel, and Randi Woodward. Returning lettermen for next year are sophomores

Sternadel To Play In All-Star Game

Lisha Sternadel, a senior at Borden County High School, has been selected to play in the Texas Six Man Coaches All Star Game to be held in Stephenville this summer. Districts, which participate in the Six Man Coaches association, vote to send two representatives from their District. Participants must be a senior. Besides Lisha, Kim Adkisson of Grady was also selected to play. Approximately 15-16 players from the West and 15-16 players from the East will play a special format in the game where a team must send in five new subs each 7 minutes, playing two twenty minute halves. Congratulations to Lisha for being selected for the great honor and best of luck!

Few things are as much fun, or as tiring, as an afternoon of shopping. It's never a good idea to start housework or dinner the moment you walk into the door. Relax. A soothing cup of hot tea during this pause can both help you recreate the joy you had shopping, and collect your thoughts for the joy of creating a special dinner for your family.

Senior AG Students Construct Sign

The Senior Ag Class at Borden County High School has recently completed a complex undertaking this past semester. The class has completed an attractive Welcome sign which they placed in front of the County Courthouse. The sign is placed in a position so that it can be seen by most traffic passing through.

The students began the sign earlier in the fall and worked on it steadily in the school Ag Shop.

By building the sign the students polished their skills in metal welding, cutting, and paint application. The sign also signifies the strong ties of cooperation between the Gail FFA and the Borden 4-H organizations as well as the county and school structures.

The Senior Ag. Class of 1990 are proud to present this sign as a community structure and would also like to thank Mr. McLeroy, High School Superintendent and Mr. Dennis Poole, County Extension Agent for their support in their effort.

Cody Cooley, Buddy Wallace, Ag teacher, James Smith, James Lewis, Arnold Portales, Marc Latimer, Patrick Herridge, Mr. McLeroy, School Superintendent, and Dennis Poole, County Agent. CANCER MYTH

Leukemia, a cancer of the blood-forming tissues, can strike men and women of all ages. Common myth says leukemia only occurs in children, but the American Cancer Society states that this disease occurs more frequently in adults than young people. Since symptoms are often tough to detect in the early stages of development, it's important to have regular health checkups, including blood tests.

How Many Texans Does It Take To Answer The Census?

The answer is all of us. April 1, 1990 is the day for all Texas residents to stand up and be counted. Texas needs a complete and accurate count of its population in the 1990 Census to get its fair share of political representation in Washington, D.C., as well as federal dollars to which residents are entitled. If Texas is undercounted, it won't have the opportunity to get its fair share for ten years as the next Census will not occur until the year 2000.

The U.S. Census is taken at the beginning of each decade and provides national, state and city demographics which are used in numerous ways by government, the private sector and the general public. Information from census questionnaires is combined and reported only for geographic areas, and none of the data identifies any single individual. Answers provided by each household are confidential.

It is everyone's right to be counted, and the Constitution directs that every person in the nation be counted including non-citizens. In fact, the short version of the questionnaire, which will be sent to 5 out of 6 households, does not ask about citizenship status.

The Census Bureau estimates that it missed only one to two percent of the total population in the United States in 1980. Minorities were undercounted at a much higher rate, however; as much as six to eight percent of all Blacks and Hispanics may not have been included in the enumeration. If the same percentages hold true for 1990, Texas can expect an undercount of 500,000 to 600,000 persons, which amounts to about one Congressional seat.

In addition, more than $38 billion in annual federal grants to the state and local governments--in areas ranging from highway construction to the nutrition programs--are allocated using census data. The $38 billion averages out to about $150 per person per year. The 500,000 to 600,000 Texans who may not be counted could cost state and local government as much as $90 million per year in potential funding, or $900 million over the decade. The key to improving the count in Texas is to convey the message that the census is truly confidential. All it takes to complete the questionnaire when it arrives in the mail on March 23 is a pencil and a few minutes of

Fullscale Research Farm To Operate In Lamesa

A fullscale research farm, which will give agricultural scientists a chance to test new technology under conditions in which farmers grow their crops in the South Plains, is being established here in a cooperative effort by the Lamesa Cotton Growers, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Called the Agricultural Complex for Advanced Research and Extension Systems (AG-CARES), it is believed to be the only such fullscale farm in the country for validation and incorporation of crop research and extension programs, said Dr. Bob Robinson, district extension director at Lubbock.

The 160-acre farm is on U.S. Hwy 87 two miles north of town. It will include both dryland and irrigated crops, said Dr. John R. Abernathy, resident director of research for the Experiment Station at Lubbock.

The support of the Lamesa Cotton Growers, in providing the land and other facilities, makes it possible to carry out research which cannot be adequately evaluated in small plot areas, Kent

Nix, president of the growers' association, said.

Research at the farm will include conservation tillage, effects of wind on cotton, environmentally sound management practices, sustainable agriculture, use and management of plant residue cover, precise water and fertilizer application, optimal varietal response, insect interaction, optimal varietal response, insect interaction within farming systems, weed management, computer and economic modeling, and alternate crops.

Initial plantings at the farm will include cotton, wheat, grain sorghum and other crops, such as sesame.

In addition to the site, the producers also are providing a low energy precision application (LEPA) center pivot sprinkler system; farm equipment, utilities, seed, fertilizer and chemical costs; and financial support for a technician to be located in Lamesa.

The Experiment Station and Extension Service will provide a research plan, technical expertise of research scientists and extension specialists and specialized equipment for special studies; will plan, conduct and evaluate the research, conduct tours and demonstrations, and disseminate results of the work.

All income derived from the operation of the farm will return to Lamesa Cotton Growers.

Operation of the farm for the next five years will be guided by a steering committee. Members of the committee are Dr. William Lyle, professor of irrigation engineering, and Dr. Wayne Keeling, assistant professor of systems agronomy, with the Experiment Station; Donald Vogler, producer, Lamesa Cotton Growers; Dawson County Extension Agent John Farris and Dr. James R. Supak, cotton specialist, the Extension Service.

Experiment Station scientists at Lubbock initiated farming systems research in 1985 in an effort to increase farm profitability, reduce wind and water erosion and maintain agricultural sustainability.

Since then, components of farming systems tests at Wellman, Lubbock and Halfway have increased cotton profitability by 20 to 40 percent, Abernathy said. the AG-CARES farm will allow movement of this technology to a "real world" situation, he said.

"There are many components of our farming systems research such as effects of wind, that we can't adequately evaluate in small plot tests," Abernathy said. "At the same time, agricultural technology has become so complex that individual farmers have neither the time nor finances to justify extensive farm experimentation.

"The research validation farm gives us a unique opportunity to bring our best technology forward to develop a farming systems operation to benefit the growers of the sandy soil areas."

Components for the LEPA system have been ordered and intensive planning has begun for operation this season, Abernathy said.

How Many Texans Does It Take To Complete A Census?

All Of Us.

For every Texan not counted, the state loses $150 in Federal Funds. In 1980, an estimated 300,000 Texans were missing. That cost Texas $45 million a year and a congressional seat. Now that you know the facts, come to your census!

time. Not responding to the Census hurts all Texans with fewer votes in Congress and less federal dollars for state and local services.

The mission of the Texas Department of Commerce is to encourage a climate that will stimulate business and other economic activities resulting in the retention and creation of jobs for Texas residents.

Commerce administers the Texas State Data Program an ongoing cooperative state-federal effort to disseminate U.S. Census Bureau data throughout Texas.

Clayton Williams

Now You Can Vote Early
 I'm asking all my supporters across Texas to go to the polls in the next few days to cast their "early bird" ballots in support of my campaign for Governor.
 I hope you'll join them.
 Thanks to a new Texas law, you can vote anytime between now and March 9 — but I'm asking that you vote as early as you can to make sure we have a good, strong showing at the polls.

avoid the long lines and last-minute crowds on election day — and to make it clear that thousands of voters are supporting my campaign for Governor because they agree it's time to make Texas great again — as great as our history and the people who live here.

As your next Governor, I'm going to get tough with drug pushers and get help for drug addicts.

I'll improve our schools and get back to basics with expanded vocational education programs and help for col-

So Why Wait?
 By voting early, you can

lege-bound students who get good grades, stay off drugs, but can't afford college (for them, we're going to waive tuition for their first two years of study at any state-run college or university).

I'm going to use my business and management experience to cut wasteful state spending so we can fund our fight for better schools and a drug-free Texas without new taxes.

And I'm going to create real jobs for Texas by shifting some government work to the private sector where it can be done more efficiently — at far less cost to taxpayers ... and far more benefit to our state economy.

Vote Today for a Greater Texas

We've got a lot of good things to do for Texas. So why not take a moment and go to the polls — today if possible, tomorrow for sure ... but no later than March 9.

I'm counting on your vote and support in the Republican Primary — because together, we're going to make Texas great again!

It's Not Just Pizza Crust Anymore

A good pizza crust mix is great to have on hand for all kinds of easy pizza and snack making. One Italian favorite made easy with the mix is a "calzone" which is like a "pizza turnover."

To make a calzone, simply prepare and roll out the pizza crust mix, top one half with your favorite pizza toppings like green pepper strips, onions, mushrooms, cheeses, pepperoni or cooked sausage, fold the dough over, seal and bake. Often the calzone is served with a spicy tomato sauce poured over top.

The following Pepperoni Bread recipe is an appetizer/snack calzone filled with spicy pepperoni, melted Swiss cheese and savory Italian seasoning. Serve hot or cold in thin slices for a great party snack. Be sure to make plenty to go around because Pepperoni Bread can be habit forming.

Pepperoni Bread

- 1 package (8 ounces) Martha White Deep Pan Pizza Crust Mix, prepared according to package directions
- 1 package (3 1/2 to 4 ounces) sliced pepperoni
- 2 cups (8 ounces) grated Swiss cheese
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 teaspoon Italian seasoning

Preheat oven to 375°F. Grease a large baking sheet. Roll pizza crust dough as thin as possible into an oval shape (see step 1). Cover one half of crust with pepperoni, almost to the edge (see step 2). Sprinkle cheeses over pepperoni; drizzle with beaten egg. (This keeps the crust moist and chewy.) Sprinkle with Italian seasoning. Fold plain half of dough over covered half (see step 3). Moisten edges with water and press to seal. Place on prepared baking sheet and bake 20 to 25 minutes. Cool about 10 minutes. Slice into 1-inch strips with pizza cutter. Makes about 12 servings.

Traditional History Anything But Reality

- COLLEGE STATION - Which history questions tell us more: "What caused George Washington's death?" or "What was the average life expectancy of American men at the time of George Washington's death?"

To a new breed of scholars who study history "from the bottom up," the answer is obvious says a Texas A&M University researcher who specializes in "social history."

"Social history in recent times has focused on ordinary people, not so much on the elite, the big name or the major events," says Dr. Dale Knobel, whose own studies focus on American ethnic and race relations and on common stereotypes of immigrants.

"Because social history avoids biography and narrative, some historians think it is not as colorful as traditional history, and that it may not read as well," he says. "Others accuse social historians of being trendy and only studying a subject, such as women or blacks, because it is on the current political or social agenda."

It is a mistake, Knobel explains, to assume traditional history - the history of the elite - reflects the real world.
