THE WAREHOUSE BILL IS IN EFFECT

ATTORNEY GENERAL SAYS EMERGENCY MEASURE EFFECTIVE EVER SINCE GOVERNOR SIGNED IT.

AUSTIN, Oct. 20.—The attorney general announced today that the emergency warehouse law of Texas has been effective ever since Gov. Colquitt signed it.

GOVERNOR COLQUITT WILL NOT CALL EXTRA SESSION

WILL LEAVE IT TO THE PEOPLE TO DEMAND FOURTH CALLED SESSION.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 20.—Gov. Colquitt announced today that there will be no fourth called session of the Texas Legislature. He will leave it to the people now to demand another session, if they wish it. Both Houses of the Legislature today are trying to pass the Terrell-Kirby bill for voluntary cotton reduction, the House having decisively defeated the compulsory reduction bill last night.

$240,000,000 IS PROPOSED FOR BANKS IN THE SOUTH

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The House Rules Committee has agreed to report a special rule to consider the Lever cotton and grain warehouse bill before adjournment.

A special rule was also ordered to bring up the Senate bill amending the currency law, to provide that National banks may issue circulating notes, based on commercial paper, to any amount equal to its unimpaired capital and surplus.

Both bills are considered of benefit to the South in the cotton crisis.

The Rules Committee also authorized an amendment to the Senate currency bill, which would permit the Secretary of the Treasury to deposit $240,000,000 in Southern banks. To obtain this amount the Treasury Department may issue either $240,000,000 of 2 per cent Treasury notes, redeemable in three years, of the same amount of Panama Canal bonds at 4 instead of 3 per cent interest.

This proposition is not all that is desired by Southern members, but is a compromise.

GENERAL VILLA ARRESTS THE PEACE DELEGATES

LAREDO, Texas, Oct. 20.—According to a private telegram received here at noon today, General Pancho Villa, at the head of 15,000 men, entered Aguas Calientes this morning and made prisoners of all the delegates attending the Carranza peace convention there.

Gen. Antonio Villareal, mentioned for provisional president, was the only delegate escaping, says the report, he being on board a train en route to Mexico City.

The same information received in the foregoing was also received this afternoon by a local Mexican Carranista paper.

ENGLAND'S MASTERY OF SEA BECOMING IMPORTANT FACTOR ALLIES TO BESIEGE BRUSSELS

GERMAN MILITARY EXPERT IN BERLIN NEWSPAPER ESTIMATES LOSSES OF ALLIES, INCLUDING RUSSIANS, AT LEAST 750,000 KILLED, WOUNDED, PRISONERS.

FIVE BRITISH MERCHANTMEN ARE SUNK—1 CAPTURED

German Cruiser Emden Sinks Five and Captures One—French Claim They Are Making Gains Along the Meuse—Berlin Official Report Says "No Change in Western Theatre"—Germans Preparing Great Aerial Campaign.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The Allies have established close contact with the British navy on the North France coast. It is reported that British gunboats are fighting about Dunkirk and West Belgium.

The appearance of the German torpedo boats off the Dutch coast is taken to indicate that they are conveying submarines for an intended attack on the British warships on the French coast.

A French official report says that the Belgians not only repulsed the Germans in the northwest corner of Belgium but have advanced to Roulers, Belgium, about 25 miles directly south of Ostend.

A French report says that the Germans are heavily cannonading the Allies in Belgium without effect.

All dispatches indicate that the Allies have made a decisive movement on the Belgian border.

In the fighting about Lille, the French claim to be advancing continually.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Unofficial claims made here today are to the effect that the Allies have won the battle of the Aisne.

Some French military men dispute the accuracy of this statement saying that the Germans have probably stopped important fighting along the Aisne for good, but are still in a possible position to renew it there.

JAPANESE CRUISER BLOWN UP BY MINE

TOKIO, Oct. 19.—(Official).—A mine in the Kiao Chow bay sank the Japanese cruiser Takachicho on the night of Oct. 17, according to an announcement made here today.

It is reported that 347 of the crew were drowned, only one officer and nine men being saved.

The cruiser was only a small one and was twenty-nine years old. It carried six-inch guns.

The cruiser was on patrol outside of Tsing Tau. The Japanese destroyers hearing the explosion and seeing the flames shooting out from the cruiser, rushed to the rescue, but the cruiser quickly disappeared and in the darkness, only twelve men of the crew were rescued.

The correct losses are: 28 officers; 244 men and petty officers.

FRENCH CRUISER SINKS AUSTRIAN SUBMARINE

CETTINJE, MONTENEGRO, Oct. 10.—A French cruiser today sank an Austrian submarine in the Asiatic Sea.

Two submarines put out from the Bay of Cattaro to attack the French fleet which was steaming along the Dalmatian coast. Lookouts sighted them, and the guns of the French cruiser opened fire on the leading submarine, which was sent to the bottom. The other escaped.

The French then began a bombardment of Cattaro. An Austrian aeroplane dropped several bombs about the French fleet but none of the vessels were hit.

ON THE BATTLE FRONT, Via. Paris, Oct. 20.—Heavy fighting is incessant along the Meuse River.

Monday the concentrated fire of several French batteries destroyed one complete battery of heavy German guns near St. Mihiel. French artillerymen carrying a field telephone crept within the Germans' lines, remaining there two days, directing the fire against this German battery.

The French soldiers are always gay and singing. The Belgians act somewhat similarly. The British are forever hunting chances to go swimming. The Indian troops maintain a calm silence, except when in action they utter wild cries in the Eastern language. The Moroccan auxiliaries drop down to sleep whenever they have the slightest chance, but they sleep always with bridle over their arm and spring into action at the slightest noise.

BELGIANS STUBBORNLY HOLDING OUT.

PARIS, Oct. 20.—An official statement this afternoon says that the Belgian army is holding its positions at the River Yser against violent attacks.

The Germans are still stubbornly holding their positions about Lille.

The statement says: "To sum up during the nineteenth we made progress at various points."

BERLIN, Oct. 20.—An official announcement says that German warships sank the British submarine E-3 in the North Sea Sunday.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Nothing has yet been received from Germany to counteract the British reports of the Allies success in France, but the situation is too indefinite to credit fully these British reports. There is no confirmation of the reports that the Allies have occupied Ostend. The Germans are reported to be hastily entrenching around Starburg.

The Russian battle news is still contradictory.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Rotterdam dispatches say that the Kiel German fleet is making apparent preparations to put out to sea.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—It is reported that the Germans give free permission to all French, of either sex under 17 or 80 years of age, to leave.

ENGLISH OVER 55 CAN LEAVE.

BERLIN, Oct. 20.—The American ambassador has arranged for all Englishment over 55 years of age to leave Germany.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Official and unofficial reports today agree that the battle in northern France is undecided.

ments and the Allies are still determined to capture the strategic city of Lille. The Germans have strung so many miles of barbed wire here that the French are considering arming their infantry with shields to ward off rifle bullets while they are cutting the wires.

TWO NAVAL BATTLES MONDAY.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Two British fights with German submarines are reported Monday. Five submarines, scouting the Belgian coast for British warships, were stopped by British destroyers. The submarines fired twelve torpedoes without effect.

The submarines also attacked British gunboats, which were aiding the Allies on the land. There are no further details.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—England's mastery of the sea is becoming an important factor in the war, especially on the French coast. Last night's reported occupation of Bruges by the Allies is unconfirmed but it seems certain that the German lines are badly bent back in Belgium.

New rumors today are that Germany is preparing for a great aerial campaign.

There is nothing new in the colossal operations in Russia, where the Germans seriously menace a capture of Warsaw.

ALLIES TO BESIEGE CITY OF BRUSSELS.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—An unconfirmed report says that the Germans expect the Allies to besiege Brussels soon.

"ALLIES' LOSSES THREE QUARTERS OF MILLION" BERLIN, Oct. 21.—A military expert of a local newspaper estimates that the Allies' losses to date, including Russians, are at least three quarters of million men killed, wounded and prisoners.

FIVE MORE BRITISH MERCHANTMEN SUNK.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The German cruiser Emden today sunk five more merchantmen and captured one in the South Pacific.

FRENCH MAKE GAINS ALONG THE MEUSE.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A Paris Reuter dispatch says that the French are making gains along the Meuse. This is said to be the latest news of the war.

"NO IMPORTANT CHANGE IN WESTERN THEATRE".

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—An official announcement made this afternoon said: "There is no change of importance in the western theatre of war."

FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS TO OPEN NOVEMBER 16

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo announced today at a meeting of Class C directors of all regional reserve banks that the Federal Reserve Board plans to inaugurate the new currency system and open the twelve reserve banks November 16.

He said it was not planned that all functions of the banks would be exercised at that time, but that the facilities for receipt of deposits from member banks would be in operation and rediscounting of such part of the bank capital available would be possible.

"WAR WILL COST $15,000,000,000 THE FIRST YEAR"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—C. A. Conant presented figures before the Eastern railroad rate hearing today to show that the war in Europe will cost $15,000,000,000 for the first year.

The railroads are making a plea that the rates should be raised on account of the conditions of this country caused by the war in Europe.

Happy Baking Days

CALUMET BAKING POWDER

The cook is happy, the other members of the family are happy—appetites sharpen, things brighten up generally. And Calumet Baking Powder is responsible for it all.

Cannot be compared with other baking powders, which promise without performing.

You don't save money when you buy cheap or big-can baking powder. Don't be misled. Buy Calumet. It's more economical—more wholesome—gives best results. Calumet is far superior to sour milk and soda.

TO WHOM IT CONCERNS.

All persons interested in literary societies, debating club work, or parliamentary procedure, will find a bulletin issued by the University of Texas entitled "School Literary Societies" by Edwin Dubois Sherer.

boundary ball, corner ball, pass and goal ball are all explained in this pamphlet. The training of a track team is treated at length, and the general importance of physical training is emphasized.

Realizing the importance of the training given children in well organized literary societies, and the physical benefit derived from athletic games, I think every teacher, especially in the county should secure both of the bulletins.

PERUNA THE SPRING AND SUMMER MEDICINE.

"I used to get cramps in my stomach. I had sick headaches. My stomach nearly killed me. My family physician only gave me temporary relief. I got out of patience and had given up all hopes of recovery. I then wrote to Dr. Hartman and he advised me to take Peruna. I got a bottle of Peruna, and commenced using it. Soon got better and am now entirely cured and feel like a new woman. Peruna is my constant. I will never be without it." Mrs. Thomas M. Morgan, R. F. D. 2, Wadsworth, Ohio.

TWO CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH.

One of the saddest accidents that ever happened in Scurry county took place Wednesday afternoon about one o'clock when the home of Dave Ruggles was destroyed by fire, in the Canyon neighborhood, about 11 miles southwest of Snyder and two of his children were burned to death.

Mr. Ruggles is working for Zeb Wood, on the West Valley place in the Canyon neighborhood and was occupying a two room frame house. He was out in the cotton fields about a mile away and had just finished his lunch when he noticed his house in flames.

Mrs. Ruggles had washed Wednesday morning and shortly afterward had gone to the home of a neighbor nearby for some milk for the baby, and had left the baby, a boy four months old and another little fellow about 18 months old asleep in the house. She was accompanied by their only other child, a boy three or four years of age. She had not been away thirty minutes when she discovered her home on fire. Before any one could reach the place the house was on fire and beyond control. Nothing could be done by Mrs. Ruggles or others arriving, to rescue the children or any of the contents of the house.

The feet, arms and head of the children were burned off. The gruesome remains were recovered by Mr. J. B. Taylor and others and were interred Wednesday afternoon in the Golden grave yard near Canyon school house.

All the household effects of the family and most of their clothing were destroyed.—Snyder Signal.

21,976 FORDS SOLD IN SEPTEMBER

The Ford Motor Company announces that in the month of September there were sold and delivered 21,976 Ford cars. This was a gain of 11,479 cars over September, 1913. This is significant, not only because it shows that the Ford production is rapidly being increased to meet the stupendous influx of orders, but also because it demonstrates that the Ford Motor Company is maintaining the 300,000 car-schedule necessary to give Ford purchasers between August 1st 1914, and August 1st, 1915, a share of Ford profits.—See A. Gratituous Spirit of The Newspapers. No other business establishment contributes as much toward the up-building of a town, and no other business man is called upon to do as much gratuitous work in the interest of his neighbors and the public as the editor of a newspaper.

Since the Czar has the fad for changing the names of town perhaps he will change the name of Przemyśl or cut it in two when he captures it.

Any person craving excitement can get all he requires by becoming a war photographer.

Studebaker 10c FOR ONE BALE The Studebaker Corporation has entered the buy-a-bale ranks and propose to buy 500 bales at 10c per pound. The cotton will be bought by their agents throughout the South, and Mr. F. S. Keiper the local agent here has been notified to buy one bale for them. In order to buy a bale that will do the most good, and to be entirely impartial in the matter Mr. Keiper has decided on the following plan: He has obtained the names of a number of widow ladies, all of whom are tenant farmers, and who live in various parts of the county. On next Saturday Oct. 24, at the big Brick Garage, at 2 o'clock p. m. all these names will be written on a slip of paper and put in a box. Some child will be selected to draw out one name, and the first one drawn will have the chance to sell to Mr. Keiper one bale of middling cotton at 10c per pound. In the event the first name drawn does not desire to sell a bale at this price, then another name will be drawn. The Studebaker people deserve a word of commendation for this action, as—as far as we know—this is the first automobile company to buy-a-bale. Mr. Keiper is to be complimented upon his fair and impartial plan, and no doubt these women need all they can get for their crop and will appreciate the fact that the lucky one will get the liberal price of 10c for one bale of her cotton. The list is not limited to the names which Mr. Keiper has, but any other name handed in by friends will gladly be placed in the box. The only requirement is that the woman should be a widow, a tenant farmer and live in Mitchell county, and the name must be handed in by 6 o'clock on Friday evening. Remember the time and place. HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, very manly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair. At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

DALLAS ABSCONDER ARRESTED.

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 12.—E. J. Tierney, society leader and business man who disappeared from Dallas four years ago following an alleged shortage in his accounts as traffic manager of the Western Electric Company's Dallas branch, has surrendered.

Tierney gave himself up at Brownsville, Texas, according to dispatches received in Dallas today. He was serving there in the United States Coast Artillery under the name of Hooks and was a corporal.

Tierney says he was tired of living under the feeling that he was a hunted man.

Tierney's disappearance caused a sensation in local circles. He was a choir leader and married into one of the pioneer families of Dallas. It is claimed his alleged shortage amounted to over $8000 and it is said they were due to fraudulent manipulation of the Western Electric Company's freight bills.

Officers have been searching the country over for him.

Will See Allison Liquor Law Enforced

Austin, Tex. Oct. 5.—Governor Colquitt announced today his determination to see that the Allison liquor law is enforced in this state. He accordingly today addressed a communication to Attorney General Looney, requesting that action be taken to restrain the railroad companies and express companies from making deliveries of intoxicating liquors into prohibition territory. The action of the governor is prompted by the decision of the court of criminal appeals in the Elmer Peede case, in which it was held that section five of the Allison liquor law, liquor could be delivered by express companies to individuals when such liquor was not to be used in violation of any of the laws of this state.

"I am writing to request you," said the governor to Attorney General Looney, "to prepare an application to some district judge in the state for writ of injunction against each railroad corporation and each express company doing business in this state asking that said railroad corporations and express companies be restrained

From delivering intoxicating liquors shipped from other states for delivery in prohibited territory within the state of Texas. I am of the opinion that application for such writ of injunction could be made to a federal or state district judge. THE PROPER COURSE.

Information of Priceless Value to Every Colorado Citizen.

How to act in an emergency is knowledge of inestimable worth, and this is particularly true of the diseases and ills of the human body. If you suffer with kidney backache, urinary disorders, or any form of kidney trouble, the advice contained in the following statement should add a valuable asset to your store of knowledge. What could be more convincing proof of the efficiency of Doan's Kidney Pills than the statement of a nearby resident who has used them and publicly tells of the benefit derived.

Mrs. S. P. Daily, Big Springs, Texas says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have done me a great deal of good whenever I have had occasion to use them. My kidneys were disordered and acute pains darted through my back. The kidney secretions were irregular in passage. The first few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills helped me and two boxes cured me. Another of my family has also taken Doan's Kidney Pills with success. You are at liberty to continue the publication of my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills."

Just one dose of Adler-I-ka relieves constipation and gas on the stomach almost immediately.

AVERAGE PRICE PAID FOR WAR HORSES $140.

Chicago, St. Louis and Fort Worth Directed to Report on Extent of Sales.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The Bureau of Animal Husbandry has directed its inspectors at Chicago, St. Louis and Fort Worth to report upon the large purchases of horses being made for the armies of the Allies and shipped to Canada for export. The prices quoted show that the average being paid is $140 a head. The department advises that it is bad to sell brood mares, since the war will create a heavy demand for this character of stock in the United States for the next ten years.

If it is estimated that one-half of the number of horses in the world are in the United States and Russia. There are about 80,000,000 in all countries, 20,000,000 in the United States, 21,000,000 in Russia, 3,500,000 in Germany, 4,000,000 in the United Kingdom and 2,500,000 in all other countries.

A conservative estimate is that more than 1,000,000 horses are now engaged in the European war. For complete mobilization the German Army requires 770,000, and the French Army is said to be in need of 250,000. The heaviest demand will be after peace is declared, when European countries will need horses for agricultural work.

W. O. W. WILL LEND $1,000,000 ON COTTON.

Dallas, Oct. 16.—R. H. McDill, state manager of the Woodmen of the World, with headquarters in Dallas, announced today that that organization would loan approximately $1,000,000 to southern cotton raisers who are members of the order. Definite action to this end has been taken by the supreme officers of the Woodmen, he said, and money to handle the proposition is available.

The Food Crop is the Thing.

Georgia is preparing to have a State corn show, and the Atlanta Constitution says it will be the biggest and best the State ever has known.

There could be no more appropriate time for emphasizing the importance of corn production in the South. Those Southern farmers who have big corn crops are not greatly worried by the European war. They do not have to sell their corn in Europe for they can sell it at home. If there should be no big demand for corn in the ear they can feed it to live stock and sell it in the form of live flesh or dressed meat.

There is practically no limit to the demand for corn. It is the great staple crop of the country, a staff of life for man and beast, and there is no better asset on a farm than a granary well filled with corn. It is "as good as wheat in the mill," and it is about the next best thing to money in the bank. The South does not grow half enough of it. Most of the Southern States do not produce enough corn to meet the home demand. They need to increase both the acreage and the yield. At the same time they need to increase their livestock holdings.

The South now has an enormous cotton crop on hands. The farmers can not sell their cotton. They can not eat it. They can not even feed it to the hogs and transform it into bacon as can be done with a corn crop. The lesson ought to be plain. The South should reduce the cotton acreage and devote more attention to food crops.—Courier Journal.

RAINFALL FOR COLORADO THE LAST TEN YEARS.

Table with 13 columns (Year, Jan, Feb, Mar, Apr, May, June, July, Aug, Sep, Oct, Nov, Dec, Total) and 13 rows of rainfall data from 1904 to 1908.

COLORADO, TEXAS, OCTOBER 23, 1914.

The law of supply and demand will regulate the balance of trade only if allowed to operate unimpeded, like water seeking its level. But when "dammed" by meddling and selfish interests it can be held in check for a while, but will eventually burst all barriers and resume its natural flow.

The proposition of Gov. Colquitt to penalize the cotton crop of next year by a certain per cent, is a legislative almost. It is an universal right of nations and to penalize the produce of whatever is harmful or pernicious in its nature, such as the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, the cultivation of the poppy, etc. but when the bodies undertake to penalize the production of one of the harmless staples of life, they are treading perilously near the dead line of the very rights guaranteed by our national constitution, and reverting to the arbitrary methods of Cotton and Increase Mathew of witchcraft fame. The idea of putting a farmer in the penitentiary for planting more than a certain amount of cotton, is not only revolutionary but insane, wholly in keeping with the stormy poetical methods of the "statesman" who proposed it.

With greater crops of all kinds than ever in the history of the country, with a greater home consumption than ever before; with orders from the warring European countries pouring in for everything needed to prosecute hostilities; with an unchallenged market in half of the world for our products; it does look as if the present commercial and industrial depression was the result of wholly artificial conditions—conditions created by those who hold the whip hand in financial and industrial circles. To our unsophisticated mind the whole thing looks like a republican conspiracy to discredit the Wilson administration.

THE UNCERTAINTY OF IT ALL.

The ancients always had a skeleton at their feasts to remind them of the uncertain tenure of life and the very certainty of death—a kind of balance wheel on their gait. In the prosecution of our designs we forget or put out of our calculations, the end of all our strivings. The only one certain thing in the life of every created thing is Death. To that inevitable goal we are born, and the uncertainty of the time when the Grim Reaper shall gather the sheaf is as certain as the harvest itself. Just as man begins to think he is prepared to live in the realization of his schemes and amid the comforts of his industry, he is frequently summoned from its possession and enjoyment. The story of the man in the New Testament is clearly to the point. He thought he had a cinch in a business way. He was doubtless one of the first class business men of that time. Crops were fine and his barns were full to bursting. He projected bigger ones. And just when he felt most comfortable in the assurance that he had every thing as he wanted it, Death came along and nipped him. All his plans were washed.

The man who gets the impression that he is the complete master of his own destiny, or that he can acquire an immortal cinch on worldly things, is apt to discover just when he feels most chesty just how little he knows about the future or what "a single night or day may bring forth. Today he goes forth full of wind and pride in his own strength and capacity, and tomorrow (pardon the slang) he finds his name is "Pants" and feels that even this cognomen should be printed with a lower case "p."

This reflection is not intended to discourage anyone from doing his best in every honest and legitimate way, to get ahead. He who keeps trying stands a show to win the prizes of life, while the man who never tries, is doomed to certain failure, but we would impress upon the mind that life and all that pertains thereto, is full of uncertainty, and the real philosopher is he who does his best under all circumstances and conditions but is prepared to accept the worst, if it comes and without whining.

Watterson on the Warpath.

Colonel Henry Watterson, editor of the Courier-Journal, is the last of a trio of the greatest newspaper editors the country has produced, who flourished in the golden age of the profession when it was considered good form to be original, virile, forceful and coherent in editorial expressions, which of course was long before such subjects as "Constructive Publicity," "The Art of Soap Making in Soudan," "The Reclamation of Art Lands in Boorabola Gha," and "The Primal Relations of the Previous Question to the Final Perseverance of the Saints" were treated in leading editorials of columns or more in length for the intellectual refreshment of helpless readers. Compared with the mass of modern editorial heavy-weights, the Colonel remains about the only sonnet grain of wheat in a hundred bushels of thoroughly threshed chaff.

Colonel Watterson is the ablest living editor. He has never compromised with hypocrisy, cant, bigotry, arrogance or ignorance. He still calls a pot a pot, and not a cooking utensil, and has never succumbed to that species of prudery which chastely refers to "the limb of the table." He is never so forceful as in his occasional pastime of paying his respects in a fetching way to those who refuse to "keep off the grass," as is illustrated by the following from the Courier-Journal:

"A wretched little dish-cloth of a so-called religious vehicle of misinformation, making its living partly off quack nostrum advertisements and partly playing a con game upon the ignorant and the gullible, takes note of the Courier-Journal's description of fanaticism as the spirit which prompts violence all the way from house burning to burning-at-the-stake 'in God's name,' and 'for the cause,' and says that 'if this fearful charge be true, it is rather remarkable, that in spite of the fact that, including Virginia, we now have ten prohibition States, yet there, has never been an instance in which prohibitionists burnt a neighbor's home.' Literally and as a matter of fact, it may be so; for stake burning is out of date and house burning dangerous. Fanaticism of the modern type finds safer means of working its despotic will. It turns to the cheap and ready expedient of confiscating property and destroying business—lumping houses and barns and people and trade in one big conflagration—all 'in God's name' and for the good of the 'cause.' They didn't know everything, don't know now, 400 years ago down about Oxford and Smithfield."—Austin American.

Other things besides straws and weather prophets, show how the wind is going to blow. The instinct of the lower animals rarely errs, and it should be a part of man's wisdom to read the signs which stare him in the face. There are various signs for presaging a hard winter—the thickness of the corn shuck, hair coats of animals, early flight of migratory birds, etc., but the field rats are regarded as most sensitive and unerring in their foreknowledge of cold weather. There are many rats this year all over the country, and they are making ready against the coming of the cold by lining their dens with cotton. We heard one farmer say, he believed the rats were carrying off almost as much cotton as an average hand could pick. The rodents are piling the cotton high around their dens and evidently preparing for a long and hard seige.

Us cigarette smokers and you beer drinkers will have the doubtful distinction of paying more than half the war revenue tax. Of course we've got money; don't we burn up and guzzle down enough money every year to pay the European war expenses for nearly one month. The Rockefeller's, the Morgans, Wall Street, et al didn't seem to have money enough to make up the trifling deficit of something like one hundred million dollars per annum. Now, who saved this country?

The national and state legislatures have taken a whirl at solving the cotton acreage problem for 1915; the Farmer's Union has taken a fall out of it, and now the commercial secretaries will tackle it at Dallas on October 24. All which seems to us the verriest tommyrot and acme of foolishness. The cottage acreage of 1915 can no more be regulated by legislation or resolution than can morals—and the question is fundamentally one of morals. Common sense, or self-preservation, is the only principle and restraining power that can determine the matter. There is not a man but who knows that whiskey drinking to excess is not only ruinous but disgraceful; yet this knowledge does not deter from drinking it. There is not a cotton farmer in Texas but who realizes that a big cotton crop next year would spell ruin for the staple and for himself. If common sense will not prompt him to plant less cotton, all the laws and resolutions that can be passed will not do so. Unless some kind of concession can be gotten from the landlords, waiving the iron-clad "pound of flesh" in the shape of all cotton rent, the average tenant farmer will be as helpless as ever. The attitude of the landlords will prove as great a factor in the solution of this problem as the disposition of the tenant farmers.

When William Jennings Bryan contemplates the $40,000 that Johnny Evers drew down for his six months' work with the Boston Nationals he must feel that he is a middle-aged failure, for his salary as Secretary of State, added to what he makes on the chautauqua circuit at $250 a lecture, doesn't amount to one-half as much for a year's work as Evers gets for six months. But Mr. Bryan must remember that there is always an over supply of statesmen, but never more than two or three really great second basemen at a time—Beaumont Enterprise.

One of the most endurable spectacles of the war will be the sight of "American owned" merchant vessels at last sailing under the American flag.

This country is selling the greatest wheat crop and harvesting the greatest corn crop ever. Buy another bale of cotton.

Maybe Congress has forgotten how to adjourn.

HALF THE WAR TAX WILL BE PAID BY THE BEER ASSESSMENT.

St. Louis, Oct. 18.—The war revenue tax of approximately $50,000,000 on the annual output of beer is agreeable to the brewers of this city, although this industry already pays a yearly internal revenue tax of $165,000,000. The stamp tax on negotiable instruments, stocks and bonds, deeds, bills of lading, Pullman car and steamship tickets and insurance policies is expected to yield $30,000,000 and the remainder will be raised by a levy on tobacco, patent medicines, perfumes, cosmetics theater and amusement tickets etc. The beer tax will yield a revenue more than ten times greater than that of any other single commodity.

Can Hudspeth Accept Job He Assisted In Creating.

Whether Claude B. Hudspeth can legally serve as judge of the special district court is a question local attorneys are debating.

When it was announced that Hudspeth had been appointed to fill the vacancy on the bench caused by the resignation of Judge M. Nagle, several attorneys held that he could not, under the constitution, accept the appointment and serve because he was a member of the legislature that created the office.

COLORADO MUST DO ITS PART.

The Record is in receipt this week of a request from the Houston Post, which is the Texas collecting branch for contributions to the Christmas Ship cargo of presents for the orphan children of war-torn Europe, and asks that the matter be brought to the attention of our commercial club, leading citizens, Ladies' organizations and other benevolent orders of the community.

It is advised that all Texas presents be confined to the proposed package of nuts—it permits every man, woman and child to contribute to the Christmas Ship cargo, and the more packages we send, the more hearts will be made glad. Any kind of nuts will do, though the Texas grown variety is preferred. All Texas gifts will be assembled at a central point at a given time and the railroads will transport them to New York free. Or if preferred, each community may ship its gifts direct to the Christmas Ship, Bush Terminal Station, 39th Street and Second Avenue, Brooklyn N. Y.

The good people of Colorado and its children, should have a part in this great Christmas cargo for the children and babies of desolated Europe. For more than an hundred years, the very people whose homes and factories have been laid waste by fire and sword, have furnished the little Christmas toys that have gladdened the hearts and delighted the eye of millions of children in America—those of Texas included. How fitting it is then, that these contributions to the happiness of our own little ones should be repaid both in degree and in kind. Texas will furnish the nuts, and Colorado will, we feel sure, will contribute a generous share.

BASEBALL THE GREATEST AMERICAN GAME.

The essential apparatus of baseball is simple and inexpressive. All that is required is a field, a stick the ball itself and police protection for the umpire. One advantage of the game as played professionally is that those sitting in the grandstand can play the game a great deal better than the eighteen men on the diamond. It is also true that anyone perched on a telegraph pole across the street or looking through a knothole in the fence beyond right field, can judge of the pitcher's skill or the runner's fleetness much more intelligently than the arbiter who stands behind the batter. The great merit of the game is that the people can participate in it. It is not like bridge whist. Its science is not synonymous with silence. The thing to do is to take off your coat and root as long and as loudly as you can, even if you don't know what is happening.

Fighting should now cease to be Mexico's leading out-door amusement. If they would try baseball they would soon become too civilized for warfare.

DUM-DUMS.

Temple Telegram: A dum-dum bullet is one that spreads when it enters the body hit, thereby producing a fearful wound. Ordinarily bullets when fired from high-power guns make small and often harmless wounds. Soldiers may take ordinary cartridges and whittle them in a way that will cause the bullet to spread on contact. Their use in warfare is forbidden by agreement of Nations. The use of dum-dum bullets in war is wicked and cruel, theoretically. The idea is that the dum-dum delivers a rough, jagged, almost surely fatal wound when delivered near a vital part, therefore the dum-dum should be execrated by all humane people who oppose uncivilized warfare. Of course the theory is correct as a theory, and creditable to the human heart. But in truth there is no civilized warfare.

The purpose of war is to kill people and destroy property, to maim, cripple and decimate opposing populations. That is exactly what war is, and it is as hard to disguise the essential wickedness of it as to blot the memory of his crime from the mind of a murderer. Dum-dum bullets are savage. So is any bullet. Dum-dum bullets are aimed to kill. So are the other bullets. The fiercer war is the sooner it is through with, therefore machine guns that kill twenty men in two minutes are much preferred by warriors to the old-fashioned musket that might kill not more than two men in twenty minutes. If the dum-dum bullet is a shame and an indecency the machine gun is a disguise and a reproach. Yet we hear much outcry against the dum dum and none against the machine gun. The elemental truth is that war at its best is savagery at its worst, and if the people of the twentieth century are not sufficiently advanced from the brutal stage to avoid war they are not sufficiently advanced to avoid the dum-dum, the torch, the torture chamber and the rapine from which women flee in terror. Why be measly-mouthed about telling what war is? Why should any poet sing of the glories of hell?

FRANK JAMES' HARMLESS HOLD-UP.

For several years Frank James has filled but a negligible space in the papers compared with that sometimes accorded him and his doings about 1880. A staff writer for Collier's has recently located him on the old James homestead, near Excelsior Springs Mo., and found him doing and looking as follows:

"The James farm occupies a pretty bit of rolling land, at one corner of which, near the road Frank James has built himself a neat frame house. Before the house is a large gate, bearing a sign as follows: James Farms Home of the James' Jesse and Frank Admission 50c Kodaks Bared.

That word "bared" is not bad proof-reading; it was spelled like that on the sign.

As we moved in the direction of the house a tall, slender old man with a large hooked nose and a white beard and mustache walked toward us. He was dressed in an exceedingly neat suit and wore a large felt hat of the type common throughout Missouri. Coming up, he greeted our escorts cordially, after which we were introduced. It was Frank James.

The former outlaw is a shrewd-looking, well preserved man, whose carriage, despite his seventy one years is notably erect. He looks more like a prosperous farmer or the president of a rural bank than like a bandit. In his manner there is a strong note of the showman. It is not at all objectionable, but it is there, in the same way that it is there in Buffalo Bill. Frank James is an interesting figure; on meeting him you see, at once, that he knows he is an interesting figure and that he trades upon the fact. He is clearly an intelligent man, but he has been looked at and listened to for so many years, as a kind of curiosity, that he has the air of going through his tricks for one—of getting off a line of practiced patter. It is pretty good patter, as patter goes, inclining to quotation, epigram, and homely philosophy, delivered in an assured "platform manner."

Skinning the Fellow American.

"Almost any little boy or girl can understand why we might have to pay more for some things which are imported into this country from war districts. That is a matter over which we have no control. We have to pay what is asked or go without.

"But can any little boy or girl tell why we should pay more for things which are exported? Alas and alack! the old fashioned excuse that they who own the stuff are anxious to be richer no longer suffices. We are trying to get away from the idea that we are a nation of cannibals feeding on each other. And there is such a simple way to fix it, possibly a number of simple ways. National governments are granted the control over their exports and imports. How easy it would be to pass a law saying that no goods should be exported so long as the price here at home is higher than before the war rumors began. How would that be?

We have always rather liked the slogan, 'See America First.' Isn't 'Feed America First' quite as euphonious and much more important?—Life.

But skinning the ultimate consumer is an old American custom. It was for the purpose of making it easy that the tariff wall was built. When that was partly pulled down part of the graft was stopped, but not all of it. There are still ways to overcharge the home consumer. The Courier-Journal observed several weeks ago that in Asiatic countries governed by despots the custom used to be to decree a prohibition of the export of grain, which was greatly needed at home. By the simple expedient of cutting off the ears of the speculator as a warning or cutting off his head to stop his devilment, the end in view was achieved expeditiously. America is not, however, short of wheat because of the exports. Prices of this commodity were raised after the farmers, with few exceptions, sold their crops, and the speculators will make a killing as a result of an unexpected opportunity. The price of wheat does not reflect the effect upon the volume in hand that has been already caused, or that which is likely to be recorded within the year. But, as Mark Twain said about the weather, everybody talks about it, and nobody does anything to improve it.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. A DAY'S SEWING FOR THE B. O. H.

On account of the depressing times being so severely felt in the Buckner Orphans' Home, the ladies of the Baptist church have decided to meet next Thursday October the twenty ninth at the Sunday school rooms and have a special days sewing for their box soon to be sent. Let every Baptist woman and friend of the orphans be on hand with scissors, thimble and thread also a piece of material to make some kind of garment. One yard and a half will make some very little boy a blouse, 2 yards a ten year old size and 3 yards will make a boys shirt. Indeed garments can be made from very little cloth, but would be glad to have as much as you can contribute. There will be a quilt in the frames for those who quilt; button holes, for those who make button holes, and cutting and basting for those who can do that. There will be sewing machines there furnished by the home agent who is always ready to help in any good work. We refer to Mr. G. D. Adams and the kind of machines—The White—if other men would like to have a share in this good work the ladies would gladly make up any material they would care to send the President Mrs. Keathley the Secretary, Mrs. T. J. Ratliff or any member of the church. Ladies, please, remember the day and be on hand promptly at 1 o'clock prepared to work the entire afternoon and thus go home tired but happy.

O. E. S. CONVENTION BREAKS TEXAS RECORD.

The thirty second annual session met in Galveston Oct. 12, 15 1914. 1200 delegates attended the session representing the various chapters which constitutes 30,000 members in Texas. Grand Chapter opened in the Scottish Rite Cathedral. Mayor Fisher gave the welcome address in behalf of the city, speaking less than ten minutes, but succeeded in creating an atmosphere of gay, good humor. Other addresses followed in behalf of the Grand officers.

The reception tendered the officers and delegates to the Grand Chapter was an informal affair. For refreshments cake, cream and punch was served to 1500 people. Exemplification of degrees by grand officers followed by Tableau by Mizpah Chapter No. 2. Immediately following this the visitors were invited to remain for a shriners' funeral service which was very impressive.

On the third day the boat ride tendered the delegates by the Galveston Commercial Association was very much enjoyed by all. The business sessions were very interesting. The memorial service was appreciated. Election of the officers together with the installation closed the program. The meeting at Galveston has been the most gratifying in the history of the order in Texas.

The affairs of the Eastern Star in Texas are in excellent condition. Grand Chapter meets in Ft. Worth in 1915. Mrs. Lee Jones and Mrs. W. W. Porter are praising the Galveston people for their hospitality as they ably represented the Chapter of Colorado at this meeting.

EVER SALIVATED BY CALOMEL! HORRIBLE!

Calomel is Quicksilver and Acts Like Dynamite on Your Liver. Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into your bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system. When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel just remember that your druggist sells for 50 cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and can not salivate. Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and doesn't gripe.

AN ADDRESS BY A COLORADO EX-COW MAN.

Roscoe, Tex., July 12, 1914. Colorado Record.—Please print this address which I was fortunate enough to listen to in Montana, by an old ex-cow puncher, who used to make headquarters in Colorado. I think the Record will be the best paper for it, as he was a friend of your town.

LIFE IS WHAT WE MAKE IT.

By O. C. W. T. I was born back yonder in the 60s. Things have greatly changed since then. We are living in a new age. We have been so taught we cannot take to new things. Our minds at thirty, become plastered and cemented.

"When we were born it didn't take but just a little education to do us. We didn't have to worry our minds from ten to fifteen years. All we needed was a wild horse, a gun and we were educated. It did not take education to rope a wild horse nor to brand a wild steer. But now we are living in a new age. The majority of boys and girls of today are being educated; the world demands it. It now takes education to plow and to doctor worms; we did all these things in those days thru instinct. You must keep up with the times. You must not expect your child, whether boy or girl, to come up with the same education and crude ways we did. They must be given the best education; not two or four years in college, but 10 to 15; and then there will be things yet to be mastered by the scholarly minds. Not only must our children be given all the education, but the Mexican, Chinese and the Negro, all must keep pace with the others.

Boys and girls, let me appeal to you in His name, to go to school as long as you can earn a dollar. If father gave you three or four years in school (college) and thinks that enough for him to do, don't become discouraged. Where there's a will there's a way. Put your shoulder to the wheel.

Allow me to mention a few facts about my children and how they have succeeded in life. When I left Mitchell county I had 60 head of cows, 40 calves 10 horses, 4 mules, a wagon, a wife, and two babies. I went further west and started a little ranch, with $900 in money and two sections of land. By hard and strenuous labor I managed to improve my place. I borrowed money and bought 100 head of cows of which 95 found calves that year. I gave to each child a calf and a mare, to educate them, as I knew I would not have the money myself, unless I gave them something that would make them money and put it in their name. After attending free school in Colorado, I sent my oldest child to Georgetown to school, with the money she had saved from the one head. She attended school there one year, and the second year, in February she became sick. I went after her, brought her home and found out she was only bilious and a little nervous; kept her home one month and sent her back, where she finished Prep. that spring. By that one calf she has finished A. B. course in music in New York, and has now been studying a year in Germany. Can't you do the same? Are you too timid to tell dad or mama to let you have that hundred dollars which he or she should have put in your name in the bank, instead of his or hers, and that you are going to school. The world is demanding it of you. Not of me, not of your parents but of you. It doesn't matter whether I can read or write; but you must be the best of every vocation of life. We are living in a new age. Do you know that the majority of crimes are being done by the ignorant boys and girls. The negroes who have been hanged and mobbed for assaulting our boys and girls, are the ones generally that can hardly speak a dialect correctly. Don't think that education means all. You must not all educate yourselves for teachers, and lawyers. Get a teachers' education but be a farmer or a cattle raiser; because in your day the world will demand it of you.

Country girls and boys, stay on the farm, but not for always. That is, take your vacation in a city or anywhere you choose, a month or even two months, but don't go city crazy. Excuse the expression but don't let the lights put out your eyes. Don't become a hermit and stay in one place and never go anywhere. Remember you are not here for always, unless you have done more than others—had a contract drawn up for your life or bought a lease on it; if so you need not leave home or take a vacation. But if not you had better make your life happy, as this world will be all the happiness some will ever get.

Sometimes I expect to go back to Mitchell, Tom Green, Scurry and other familiar places, and hope to meet some of my old friends who were cow punchers—such as Big Foot Jack, 80 John and others who have had their names changed by their many friends.

Remember we are living in a new age and life is what we make it.

Good dinner every day at Jake's Restaurant.

CHARBON—ITS NATURE AND TREATMENT.

Colorado, Tex. Oct. 14, 1914. To the farmers and stock men of Mitchell County:

I am informed by Dr. Haggard, U. S. V. that charbon has appeared in this County. One horse having died. This is one of the most dangerous diseases known.

Form of Disease.

The disease may appear in one of three forms (1) Apoplectic, (2) Acute, (3) Subacute, (1) The Apoplectic form is most frequently seen attacking cattle horses or sheep at the beginning of an outbreak before the animals in the vicinity have developed any degree of natural immunity to the infection.

In this form the animal presents symptoms of cerebral Apoplexy. They reel and fall bloody liquid flows from the body openings. And death soon follows. If the body is open and a search is made for evidence of the disease, it may be impossible to detect any definite signs or any change in the tissues or organs, (2) The acute form of the disease develops more slowly but becomes well established in twelve to twenty four hours after the first symptoms are noticed. In these cases the fever is usually intense (104) to (107) degrees (F). The animal is greatly prostrated. The cerebral congestion causes the excitement, which is followed by drowsiness and staggering gait.

There is frequent passage of bloody urine, followed usually by convulsions and death.

In this type of the disease, as well as in the apoplectic form postmortem examination of the carcass may fail to reveal any definite signs.

(3). The subacute form of charbon is the most common. The symptoms are like those of the acute form, except that they are of slower development.

Instead of becoming established in twelve to twenty four hours one to seven days may be required.

The fever is very high. Serious colics are often present and each expiration may be accompanied by a grunt.

Local anthrax (charbon ponos) appears externally, first near the shoulders, neck and head, and are usually due to local injury or bruising, which gives rise to a collection of germs with in the blood vessels of the part. The resulting inflammation causes the swellings or carbuncles. These tumors are at first hard and definitely outlined, but later become cold insensible, spreading and fluctuating. Death usually occurs from the fifth to the tenth day. An examination of the carcass of an animal dead of the subacute form of charbon will probably show many signs of the disease and many changes in tissues and organs.

Hemorrhages may be found in almost all parts of the body. Bloody fluid may be present beneath the mucous membranes and the skin. There will be swelling of the spleen, liver and kidneys, and the blood will be fluid not clotted and of a muddy or tarry appearance. The cavities of the body contain more or less of a bloody fluid. The lymphatic glands are swollen and contain small hemorrhages. Many of the red blood cells are broken up and this gives the blood serum, a reddish tint. The walls of the intestines may appear perfectly normal, but hemorrhages are frequently seen, especially in the walls of the small bowel just below the stomach. The subacute form is the most commonly seen, and is the only form of charbon which is cured by treatment. Death occurs so quickly in the other two forms that attempts at treatment are but of little use. Isolated cases are usually of the subacute form, and are frequently limited to the formation of a tumor or carbuncles or pox at the point of the body at which the infective germs first gained entrance thru an opening in the skin or the mucous membranes.

Treatment.

After the symptoms of charbon disease have been fully established and the animal is very sick no known method of treatment will effect a uniform and unfailing cure in every case. It is to be regretted that science has not given us a remedy that will cure a large percentage of the cases of charbon but since we have no reliable curative agent we must depend upon preventive measures.

The best known and most effective means of preventing charbon disease are as follows:

1. The complete burning of all carcasses of animals dead of this disease, and as soon after death as possible.

It is highly desirable to burn the carcass where the animal died. If it is necessary to move the carcass the skin should not be cut, torn or broken.

Whenever You Need a General Tonic Take Grove's

The Old Standard Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is equally valuable as a General Tonic, because it contains the well known tonic properties of QUININE and IRON. It acts on the Liver, Drives out Malaria, Enriches the Blood and Builds up the Whole System.

on as each drop of the animal's blood contains many charbon germs. Prevent the blood and other discharges from the natural body openings as the nostrils, mouth, rectum, etc. from spilling on the ground.

2. Manure litter, hay and everything else that has been in contact with the diseased or dead animal should be completely destroyed by burning. The inside of barns, stalls, stables or milksheds should be white-washed after the animal dies or recovered.

Prevent the overflow of land used for pasture or for growing hay or other feedstuff. All surface pools of stagnant water should be either drained off or fenced up so that animals will not have access to these.

4. Reduce the number of various kinds of horseflies by applying kerosene or crude oil to the surface pools of water and to the humid spots in the woods, which these insects frequent.

5. Complete isolation of the sick animals from the healthy ones and at such distance that the flies will not travel from the sick animals to the healthy.

6. Preventive vaccination in sections where charbon has been prevalent in previous years and especially the year before, the owners should vaccinate their animals early in the spring, March or April, and not wait until early summer, when the epidemic appears. Just as a case of charbon appears in a herd or in a pasture. No matter what month of the year the owner should vaccinate all the animals in this herd or pasture and especially those that have been in contact with the sick. When vaccinating large numbers of animals it is wise to separate the sick and the apparently sick from the healthy ones and vaccinate the sick and the healthy with separate material and separate instrument, for by so doing the danger of transmitting the disease from the sick to the healthy by the vaccinating needle will be lessened. Vaccination should be practiced by only reliable and trustworthy person, preferred by qualified veterinarians, as careless handling of the vaccine material might result in serious consequence. Vaccine material for this work should be fresh and obtained from reliable manufacturers as the use of weakened, old or diluted vaccines only lead to disappointing results. While preventive vaccination with good fresh material, in careful hands, has not entirely prevented the disease in all instances, it has lessened the number of cases of the disease, therefore it is always wise to take this precaution.

Brief Summary of Means of Spread of This Disease.

1. All varieties of domestic, as well as our common animals, are susceptible to charban, either by infection through the alimentary tract or externally through the skin.

2. The human subject can easily become inoculated through wounds of the skin by handling and particularly by skinning charbon cases. Hence no animal dead of charbon should be skinned or cut open.

Certain sections of the state have been infected with charbon for a time antedating the recollections of the oldest inhabitants.

4. Epidemics of charbon have occurred from time to time as a result of the neglect to carefully destroy charbon carcasses.

5. The disease usually precedes rains subsequent to prostrated long drouths.

6. Gad flies and horseflies (Tabanus sagax) carry the infected germs from charbon carcasses and

SOME LIGHT, THIS.
Mrs. Cheney of Sweetwater, representing the West Texas Electric Co. was canvassing the business men of the town in the interest of better lighting of their store fronts. The lights are high power incandescents and will carry a white globe bearing the sign of the individual subscriber. The lights will be furnished for 80 cents per month each, will be on a separate circuit, that will automatically be cut out at midnight.
In order to demonstrate the power and brilliancy of this style of light, one of them was installed Monday afternoon at the intersection of Second on Walnut streets, and the gentle day current turned on. The light attracted some passing attention, but many could see but little difference between it and the regular street lights, though the sun was still shining.
But when the shades of darkness were fully fallen and the high power juice of the night current was poured into it, illumination, scintillation and corruscation all picked up right now, and that part of town was bathed in such effulgent light, that night watchman Sparks at the oil mill catching the reflection in the sky promptly turned in a fire alarm and the fire department as promptly turned out. Several interested citizens, roused from their beds and seeing the rosy reflection from that lone light, threw on their clothes and rushed out, calling to others that the entire business part of the town was afire. Some light that.

Dear Sir:—About eleven months ago I was taken by something I thought to be rheumatism, and lost the use of one leg. I consulted physicians; they told me it was incurable and advised me to have the leg amputated. Unwilling to part with my leg, I commenced using medicines advertised for the above disease, all to no effect; but after taking two bottles of McCrosky's Tonic you left with W. C. Sappington for me, my health was greatly improved, and after taking the third bottle I am able to walk without my crutches. You may use this if you see fit. Anyone doubting this can write to me and I will answer them, provided a stamp for postage is inclosed.

10c FOB COTTON.

The Overland Automobile Co. has already bought 400 bales of cotton at 10 cents, and say that they will buy one bale for every Overland car they sell in the south. A. J. Ask him about it—HERRINGTON GARAGE.

PROFITS OF MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

For the cold comfort of those who so violently opposed the purchase of the water works by the city, it may be of interest to note that the investment has not only proven a satisfactory but a profitable one to both city and consumers. After considerable betterment of the property, placing of individual meters, purchase of new engines, pumps and the erection of houses to protect them, there is a clear net balance of profit in favor of the city of more than $1,200. Besides, the collector of the water rate reports that there has been practically no trouble in collecting the monthly rates—the consumers voluntarily marching up and paying their bills.

Why Not Publish It?

When you want a fact to become generally known, the right way is to publish it. Mrs. Joseph Kallana, Peru Ind., was troubled with belching, sour stomach and frequent headaches. She writes, "I feel it my duty to tell others what Chamberlain's Tablets have done for me. They helped my digestion and regulated my bowels. Since using them I have been entirely well." For sale by All Dealers.

What is Bravery.

"Bravery," said the surgeon general, "is purely a matter of the heart. It's this heart that determines how a soldier will conduct himself in battle. The soldier has no more responsibility in the matter of bravery than in the matter of his height or his complexion.

"In battle the heart beats, as a rule diminish. They diminish twelve degrees. A good, strong, solid man has a heart running seventy-two to the minute. In battle it falls to sixty. That is not bad. It leaves the man pretty near all his mental and physical powers intact. So he makes a good soldier.

"But there are many sluggish-hearted men. They seem strong enough, stalwart enough, but their hearts run at the best of times only sixty or so a minute. Subtract twelve in battle. Result, forty-eight. And pallor and weakness follow—pallor and weakness, I might say, of mind no less than of body. It is not surprising if this soldier runs away.

"There's another class, a class increasing in these stressful modern times namely, the nervous class. The heart of the nervous class in time of danger is the worst of all. It goes speeding up—it actually reaches 120 beats. Its owner can then do nothing. He can't fight, he can't advance, he can't retreat. He sinks down on the ground, he shakes and cowers. A pitiable spectacle. But he can't help it any more than he could help an attack of scarlet fever. "Honor the good soldier," ended the surgeon general, "but pity the poor one for it's his heart. It's not himself that is to blame."—Chicago Herald.

UNBOUND PROSPERITY.

Optimistic Views Taken of the Present Situation.

(Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald in Fort Worth Record.)

The people of West Texas and the Panhandle are livestock raisers as well as agriculturists. They are diversifiers today; they have been diversifying for years. There is a war on in Europe. It will be fought to a finish. It opens markets the world over for the products of American mills and mines and it is certain to make the United States the greatest of all manufacturing nations and the American people the most prosperous to be found under any flag.

War is hell for those who engage in it.

A war in Europe temporarily affects the civilized world. The war in Europe gave this country a shock. That shock is wearing away. It gave timid people a scare. The scare is dying out. It made the miser cling closer to his God—his gold. He has loosened up and will be doing business at the old stand later along. All the world nations are bound together by commercial ties.

They are much like the human body. Amputate the arm of a man and his body receives a shock. But the patient recovers after a time.

It looks bright all along the line. There are rainbows everywhere in the American heavens. Americans should buck up. They should cut out the streak of yellow and they should get ready to fill the world's markets with the finished products from the mills and factories and mines and fields of the United States.

There is no war in Texas; Texans are on the firing line; all of them are hopeful and many of them are happy.

Weather Prophet Foster Says:

The cotton states were hurt by the war more than any other section but that can not long continue. The world must have all our products, including our cotton. Just a little patience will bring up to a time when other sections of the world will more than make up for what we lost by the European war. The New York cotton exchange will soon open again, cotton will be made a basis for loans, the millions of Europeans in arms will demand every available person in this country to fill their places in the industries.

Almost as certain as the coming sunrise is the coming revival and vast success of business. North Americans will soon be the most prosperous people on earth and now is the time for our farmers, manufacturers and merchants to put all their forces in perfect fitness for the greatest output of necessities ever known on this continent.

Views of Mr. Patten:

Mr. Patten has been closely allied with legislative interests for several years and holds a much envied place among the law seekers and law makers at Washington.

"The federal government does not intend to do any more for the southern owners of distressed cotton than it has already done." "However, by a wholesale drive—a continuous hammering—it might be induced to place several millions of dollars—possibly $200,000,000 or $300,000,000—on deposit in southern banks to alleviate the conditions under which the South is laboring.

"Every statesman, more or less is a politician—rather more than less. And those legislators look at everything through a political eye. They do not see any political results that can accrue from their coming to the aid of the South. The answer is: "The South is solid Democratic."

"And the North, from a business standpoint, is against aiding the distressed cotton. Those who can afford it, want to gobble up the crop at 50 cents on the dollar. They realize there will be a complete re-enactment of conditions which followed the Franco-Prussian war. Practically the same conditions existed then as now. Cotton fell to below 3 cents during the war, and in less than a year after its close had jumped to over 21 cents per pound. Fortunes are to be made if they can get this cotton at 6 cents and hold it until the prices bound upward. And they are bound to do so. Economic reasons—supply and demand—make it imperative.

"And agricultural paper is not good at Washington. This was demonstrated at the opening of the war. Practically no money would be loaned on cotton, while on the other hand, the brokers could turn in their railroad bonds as collateral and receive big money for them.

"And then there is another thing against the South. The state banks are in ill favor with the government. They are being fought and all favors are thrown to those institutions which come under the federal reserve bank law.

"The congressmen of Texas and the general South are not taking the issue in the same manner as the northerners. He declared that there was not as much of the pork barrel legislation among the southerners as there is in the North.

WE NEED TO SOBER UP.

The following observation on the present economic condition of things in the south is taken from the Stephens (Ark.) News, and applies with even force to the farming interests of West Texas than to those of Arkansas, because this section is in greater need of the reforms suggested:

For years the newspapers of the South have preached the doctrine of crop diversification and urged the farmers and the people to become self-sustaining. It was newspaper advice and they paid no attention to it. Today the South is up against one of the most serious business propositions it has confronted since our own country was in the throes of a civil war.

To add to the seriousness of the situation calamity which has spread its wings over almost the entire civilized world, has found the cotton growing states with a big crop on their hands and practically nothing to live on. The South could not, right now, subsist thirty days on the food crops raised within its border. With our soils and climate we should be the richest people on earth. We should be and could have been the most independent set of people in the world in the face of the present world-wide crisis if we had used the advantages and opportunities that are ours but which we have carelessly even willfully neglected. We are in the attitude of a thirsty man in mid-ocean who is surrounded with water but not a drop to drink. Business men as well as farmers are worrying. They have millions of money in the cotton crop and at the present time they don't know how they are going to get it out. They are grasping at every straw and ray of light thinking perhaps some way will be found out of the gloom and uncertainty that hangs like a ball over the cotton states. There are a few people, however, whom the present crisis will bother but very little. The number is small but they are independent. They are the people who have taken care of and provided for their own home and farms before wasting all of their energy on cotton crops at the expense of the home-raised necessities of life. This is a splendid opportunity for the South to sober up and get in a condition to stand alone in any adversity as well as in prosperity.

This is mere newspaper advice but we believe it will stand the test as being sound in principle and we believe the whole country will accept it as the truth before this thing is over with.

GIRLS! THICKEN AND BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR.

Bring Back Its Gloss, Lustre, Charm And Get Rid of Dandruff—Try The Moist Cloth.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Konwilton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.
