GENERAL ELECTION NOVEMBER 8, 1988

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 8 proposes a constitutional amendment providing that when the federal government reimburses the state for expenditures of state funds dedicated to acquiring rights-of-way and for constructing, maintaining, and policing public roadways, such federal funds must also be used for those purposes.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment and/or clarification providing that federal reimbursement of state highway dedicated funds are themselves dedicated for the purpose of acquiring rights-of-way and constructing, maintaining, and policing public roadways."

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 2 proposes titutional amendment to establish an economic stabilization fund in the state treasury. The fund would consist of one half of the unencumbered balance of general revenues at the end of a biennium and three fourths of the difference between the net oil and gas production taxes received in a fiscal year and the net oil and gas production taxes received in the 1987 fiscal year. During any fiscal biennium, the amount in the economic stabilization fund could not exceed 10% of the total deposited in general revenue in the preceding biennium.

fer monies from the fund into the general revenue fund to alleviate a temporary cash shortage in general revenue. The legislature could make appropriations from the fund on approval by a three fifths vote of each house to make up the difference between anticipated general revenue and appropriations. On approval of two thirds of the members of each house of the legislature, the legislature could appropriate monies from the fund for any purpose.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment establishing an economic stabilization fund in the state treasury to be used to offset unforeseen shortfalls in revenue."

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 5 proposes a constitutional amendment that establishes the Texas growth growth fund will be managed by a board of trustees consisting of four members appointed by the Governor and one member from and elected by the membership of each of the following: The Board of Regents of the University of Texas System; The Board of Regents of the Texas A&M System; The Board of Trustees of the Teacher's Retirement System of Texas; The Board of Trustees of the Employee's Retirement System of Texas; and the State Board of Education. The trustees may set the investment policy of the fund, enter into investment contracts, and take any action necessary for the creation, administration, and protection of the fund. The amendment authorizes the Board of Regents of the University of Texas System and the State Board of Education, in managing the permanent university fund and the permanent school fund, to acquire, exchange, sell, supervise, manage, or retain any kind of investment, including investments in the Texas growth fund. The fund will be phased out after the tenth anniversary of its creation, but the Legislature may create a second growth fund by a two thirds vote of each house.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to provide for the investment of the permanent university fund, the permanent school fund, and public employee retirement systems in the Texas growth fund created by the amendment, which will directly create, retain, and expand job opportunity and economic growth in Texas."

As the school year begins and we try to establish our bus routes for the year, we begin to think of the many miles traveled each day by Plains students. However, Plains students are no exception. In Texas alone, more than one million public school students will travel some 1.2 million miles per day aboard 25,100 school buses.

To ensure their safety, the state has established various traffic laws for bus drivers and other motorists.

Texas law requires that all vehicles stop when meeting or passing a school bus with flashing red lights when the bus is either loading or unloading students. Violation of the law can not only result in a fine up to $200, but can also result in tragedy.

Vehicles may proceed only when the bus begins moving or when signaled by the school bus driver to proceed or when the red lights are no longer flashing.

In addition, all school buses carrying children are required to stop not less than 15 feet from any railroad crossing. Bus drivers must listen and look in both directions for approaching trains before crossing the railroad tracks.

Bus drivers and their young passengers traverse more than 21,000 bus routes across the state. The longest bus route - 360 miles per day - is in the Channing Independent School District in Hartley County.

By law, school districts in Texas receive funding from the state for the transportation of pupils who reside two or more miles from their regular campuses.

Districts may apply for additional state funds to be used for transportation of students living within two miles of their campus if the students would be subject to hazardous traffic conditions if they walked to school.

School bus drivers must meet several state requirements before they are allowed to transport school children. Local district requirements may be more stringent.

According to State Board of Education rules, the primary concern of any school bus driver is the safety and welfare of the children that ride his or her bus. In addition to driving the bus, the driver must be able to control the bus passengers effectively and deal with any emergency or other situation that may arise.

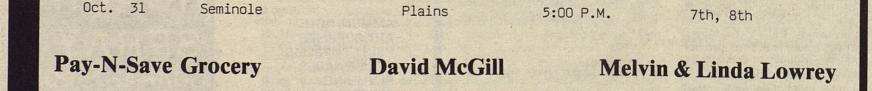

All drivers must be at least 18 years of age and be properly licensed to operate a school bus. A pre-employment driver's license check must be made with the Texas Department of Public Safety to ensure that each driver has an acceptable driving record.

Each driver must also undergo an annual physical examination to determine his or her physical and mental capabilities to safely operate a school bus.

Drivers must complete a state approved school bus driver's training course at least every three years.

Students riding buses should be seated at all times when the bus is in motion and should pay attention to the bus driver's instructions.

GROUNDING MOBILE HOMES

Mobile home electrical systems are specifically grounded to prevent contact between the metal frame and the live electrical circuits. If the grounding system is damaged or improperly altered, the result may be fatal. The integrated metal frame and aluminum structure of a mobile home are excellent conductors. Aluminum will overheat, melt and burn when exposed to electric current that is beyond its capacity to conduct, thus presenting a fire hazard in addition to the danger of electrical shock.

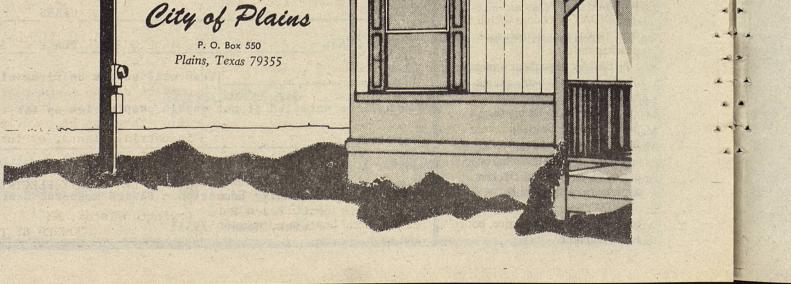

The four-wire or insulated neutral system is required for all mobile homes by National Electrical Code Article 550. All electrical parts and all metal non-electrical parts (water, gas and waste pipes, air conditioning and heating ducts) are grounded to a special grounding bus in the distribution panel. No connection is allowed between these parts and the regular electrical system's neutral conductor.

Example: The homeowner installed a conductor from the distribution panel to a new base plug by running the conductor under a metal exterior door threshold. The new circuit was incorrectly grounded into the panel. When the constant traffic over the metal threshold cover wore through the insulation of the new conductor, the entire frame of the mobile home became electrified.

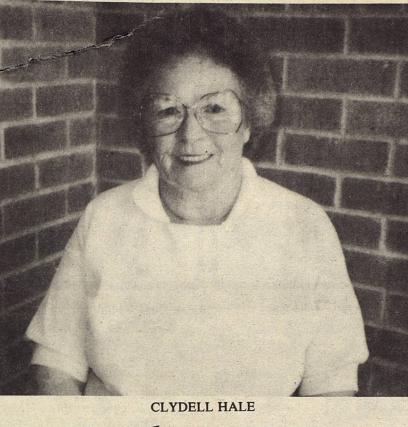

Only a competent, licensed electrician who is familiar with the special grounding requirements should repair or alter a mobile home electrical system.

Jerri Lollar and Sidney Murphy have been named delegates to the State meeting which will be held in Abilene Sept. 27-29. Clara Williams and Jeannette Wood will be attending as their guests. All clubs are asked to elect officers by November. Council will elect a secretary-treasurer also. There will be no meeting of the council in October.
