HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

The bond issue to build the present Winters School District elementary building was approved about fifteen years ago. Life of the bonds was then set at twenty years, and they will be paid off in 1970.

The board of trustees at the time of the bond issue acted with great foresight when they set the time limit on the bonds. They foresaw that there would be a period when oil evaluation in the district would be comparatively high, and that after a few years, that source of revenue would begin to decline. They saw the value and necessity of paying off the bond issue during the period of higher tax income, to prevent payments and interest being continued over a longer length of time to place on the district an overwhelming burden at a time when income would be lower. Their judgment has proved to be correct, and deserves the awareness of all patrons of the school district.

At the time of the bond issue, John W. Norman, present president of the board, was a school trustee, and president of the board. He had much influence in the decision to pay the debt while there was money to do it. During the intervening years, he has, with the consent of the school patrons, served almost continuously, with the exception only of one term.

Mr. Norman will complete another term of office as school trustee in April. We are extremely pleased that he has again agreed to place his name before the people for re-election. Very few people could have served as efficiently as Mr. Norman has, and we are grateful to him. We know the community is also grateful to him for the important part he has played in building our fine school system.

The week of February 19-26 has been designated as FFA Week in Texas by Governor John Connally. In his proclamation, the Governor said that "the Future Farmers of America organization is playing an outstanding role in assuring the future progress and prosperity of our State and Nation. The importance of agriculture in our State increases as Texas progresses. It is vital to our well-"

Alderman-Cave To Buy City Shop Building

The Winters City Council, in a special meeting Thursday night of last week, authorized the sale and release of the lease-purchase contract on the City shop building to Alderman-Cave Milling & Grain Co. Exact purchase price and vacating date was not released, pending further approval by all parties concerned.

The building, which was formerly used as a part of a feed mill, is located on State Street, opposite the location of Alderman-Cave mill. It also is situated on a railroad siding. It was understood the building and grounds will be used by the milling company in a planned expansion of the company's operation.

The City of Winters acquired the building several years ago on a lease-purchase plan. Mayor W. M. Hays said the Council is studying plans to build a shop and sheds suitable for use by the City in housing and maintenance of equipment.

Ginger Ivie Named "Glacier" Queen In Election At High School Last Week

Ginger Ivie, senior student at Winters High School, was crowned 1966 Glacier Queen following the annual election Thursday, February 10, in the auditorium of the high school.

The event climaxed a week of campaigning on the part of students for their candidates. The Glacier Queen contest originated in 1958. Miss Ivie is the ninth queen and a full page picture of her will be in this year's school annual.

Other girls in the contest were Jan Merck, junior candidate, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Merck; Gayla Beall, sophomore candidate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Beall; and Judy McNeill, freshman candidate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jon McNeill.

This year's Glacier Queen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. McCuiston, was escorted by Bo Killough during the crowning ceremonies.

During the week-long campaign to elect a Glacier Queen, colorful posters and banners were displayed throughout the high school and junior high building. Each class presented Homer Hodge, incumbent alderman, announced Tuesday he would be a candidate for re-election, and W. L. (Bill) Bean also signed as a candidate this week.

Three aldermen will be elected in the April 5 election, to fill vacancies on the expiration of terms of office of Hodge,

Pre-School Round-Up Set For February 21

The annual pre-school clinic for all pupils planning to attend school for the first time next September has been scheduled for February 21 at 2 p. m. in the school cafeteria, Robert Christian, school superintendent, announced this week.

All parents have been urged to attend this meeting if they wish to aid their child in a smooth start in next year's first grade, the superintendent said.

The meeting has been scheduled earlier than usual in order to help verify any six-year-old child omitted from the current census roll, and confer with parents interested in enrolling their child in the school's "Headstart" program, the superintendent said.

Parents who have previously enumerated six-year-olds will receive a card of invitation. However, those who are omitted or new in this district are urged and invited to attend and bring their children.

Mrs. Fred Young, school nurse, will schedule examinations during the same week, and parents will receive announcements and bulletins that will assist next year's first graders.

All children who will be six years of age on or before next September 1 are invited to visit the school at the pre-school roundup and become acquainted with the cafeteria, playgrounds and classrooms for next year.

City Seeking Financial Help For Water Plant

Winters City Council, in a special meeting last Thursday night, approved plans for a water treatment plant, and approved application to the Federal government for a grant or loan to help pay for the improvement.

Representatives of Bryant-Currington Engineers, Inc., of Austin, presented the plans and were authorized to assist the City in obtaining a grant or loan.

The new water plant, when completed according to plans drawn up by the engineers, would cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, it was estimated, and would more than triple the capacity of the present water treatment plant. The present plant, according to engineers, is adequate only for a city of approximately 1800 population. Winters' population, counting all developments which are not within the city limits, is estimated to be around 4,000.

Engineers said they probably would have additional information on possibilities of obtaining a grant or loan from the Federal government "sometime within the next few days."

TO HOUSTON

Mrs. John Shipman left Friday for an extended visit in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Joe Streigler and other relatives in Houston. Mrs. Streigler and her daughter, Mrs. Loyd Wilson and little daughters, Neita and Sondra of Houston were visitors here Friday and Mrs. Shipman accompanied them to Houston.

FAMOUS FOOTBALL — The football shown here being presented to Oscar Funderburg, vice president and general manager of Pan American Industries of Winters, by Bob Lilly, defensive tackle on the Dallas Cowboys professional football team, marks a significant milestone in the career of Lilly. It was the football used by the giant tackle to make the third touchdown of his professional career, against the San Francisco 49ers during the 1965 season. Lilly was chosen, for the third straight year, all-professional defensive tackle in the National Football league. He also was picked as the outstanding professional athlete in Texas for 1965. Lilly, on his way to Midland to speak at a football banquet last Thursday, presented the football to Funderburg as a personal gift. Funderburg is a member of the Dallas Cowboy Booster Club. $2300 Subscribed In City Hospital Project

In a program which follows no established guidelines nor organizational promotion, has no campaign chairman, no door-knocking or button-holing, "We the People" of the Winters community have subscribed more than $2300 in the last two weeks to repair, replaster and repair rooms at the Winters Municipal Hospital, and repaint the furniture and make other repairs.

A little more than two weeks ago, following an offer of one person who volunteered to provide funds to do one room at the hospital, other individuals, companies and organizations stepped forward and subscribed to the project. Although the Winters City governing body sanctioned the program, there is no official promotion, according to City officials. "This is entirely a spontaneous action by the citizens of the community," one official said. Interest has been mounting until, according to a spokesman at the hospital, "We are busy answering the telephone to accept contribution promises."

As of noon Wednesday of this week, a total of $2310.00 had been subscribed to the project. There were indications that many more would join the parade of contributors.

As it stands now, the entire hospital will be refurbished and repainted and repaired where needed.

Plans are being made to hang plaques on the doors of the rooms and elsewhere about the hospital to designate contributors.

On July 3, 1920, he married the former Florence Fulton at Winters. Mrs. Hord preceded him in death April 9, 1964.

He was a member of the Methodist Church and served in the U. S. Army during World War I.

(Ola Faye) Killingsworth of Pearsall; eight grandchildren; five brothers, John, Henry, Louis and Wesley, all of Winters, and Joe T. of Dublin; three sisters, Mrs. W. B. Reeves, Mrs. T. O. Williams and Mrs. Lucy Nitsch, all of Winters.

LONG STRETCH—Ever wonder what elephants do when small children bearing peanuts aren't around? This fellow has the answer as he reaches for some tempting green leaves.

TIPS for OUTDOORSMEN

Save Cigarette Filters—Keep a supply of used cigarette filters on hand in your tackle box. They are great for polishing spoons and other lures that may have become dull with use. Also handy to cover tips of hooks.

Don't Shoot That Hawk—Most hawks serve a useful purpose. So... to be on the safe side, never shoot a hawk.

All but three varieties of hawks live almost entirely on small rodents that eat birds' eggs. Harmful hawks are the Cooper's sharpshin, and goshawk. But even these three have some good points. The outlaws can be identified by their short wings and short tails.

Warning Vest For Hunters—Danger of being shot by mistake while hunting is minimized by wearing bright clothing. Such a garment can be made at small expense by cutting sleeves off an old white shirt, to make a vest, then spray the improvised apparel with a bright aerosol paint.

Clean That Fly Line — You can get the same results, if not better, by cleaning a fly line well, instead of dressing it with floatant. Quite often the floatant collects dirt which weights the line.

This is a bad practice, since the hooks are usually exposed and can ruin upholstery and even human flesh. Guard these hooks by wrapping them in tin foil.

Card Fishing Fun—Since the carp is considered a rough fish it is scorned by many fishermen. But the lowly carp can provide great fun during off seasons.

They are dainty biters. So fish them with small sinkers, or none at all. If a cork is used, be sure it is as inconspicuous as possible.

A quill is best, for not only is it almost invisible, but it bobs under at the slightest pull on the line.

Most good lines will float for a long time after being cleaned, providing the finish isn't marred.

My wife joins me in thanking each of you. Bill Mayo. Itc

Ready for a new season—
On the farm and ranch this is a time to check machinery and equipment for needed repairs—and to see that any supplies which will later be required will be available. As the season advances time will become even more valuable, and things which can be given attention will be out of the way.
The larger investment required to operate a modern farm makes the financial end more important than ever before. Farming is a business and business methods must be used, especially at this time when it is desirable to reduce costs and to devote effort to the things which are most profitable.
Farmers who are preparing for the new season are invited to discuss their plans with us. We give special attention to their banking requirements and will welcome new opportunities to serve.

"Go-Go Big Beat!"
Teeming with the solid entertainment of fourteen bands, twenty-eight songs and a firmament full of performing stars, "Go-Go Big Beat!", featuring "Mods and Rockers," with music by The Beatles, will show Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre for one of the swiftest screen engagements ever.

"Dr. Terror's House of Horrors"
A suspense thriller composed of five stories of horror involving five passengers in a train compartment with a mysterious stranger foretelling the tragic fate about to befall each of them through a pack of Tarot cards is the theme of "Dr. Terror's House of Horrors," a Paramount release, showing Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre.

"The Ipcress File."
The most talked-about spy thriller in America today is "The Ipcress File." Produced by Harry Saltzman, who co-produced the James Bond thrillers, "The Ipcress File" is an outstanding critical and boxoffice success everywhere.

Newsweek Magazine hailed "The Ipcress File" as "A thinking man's 'Goldfinger,' funnier by far than any of the Bond films and more rewarding, too!" Time Magazine said "Ipcress proves again that one of the primal pleasures of moviegoing is a tingling, no-nonsense suspense yarn enlivened by honest good humor!"

These are but two of the many rare reviews the film received. "The Ipcress File," a Universal release in Technicolor and Techniscope, shows Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the State Theatre.

The Things We Say

By Ruby Shannon
Pioneer women used to cook their food in three ways: It was boiled in a kettle, baked in ashes or roasted over an open fire.

Meat was roasted on a spit over an open flame, but a spit or container was usually placed beneath it to catch some of the juice and fat as it cooked out, and this was used to make gravy or to moisten the meat after it had been cooked.

With an open fire, the cook had to take great care or the fat would spill or catch on fire and the whole family would be upset, for then there would be nothing to make gravy.

Because of the emotional experience involved when fat got in the fire, the expression took on a new meaning. "The fat's in the fire" was being used as early as 1560 to mean any kind of trouble between people, but especially trouble added to other trouble. People like to recall their strife of the past, and today, in a community where an old wound has been reopened, the gossips can be heard speculating: "Brother, the fat's in the fire now!"

State Capital Highlights—

Special Session Will Pass Voter Registration Law For State

By—Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association
They're back at it again! Texas legislators were called back to Austin for a special session Monday by Gov. John Connally.

A three-judge federal court's order knocking out the poll tax as a requirement for voting prompted Governor Connally, on advice of Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, to call the extraordinary meeting of lawmakers. Purpose is to pass a voter registration law in case Carr's appeal of the lower court's decision to the U. S. Supreme Court is lost.

Texas has no other form of voter registration than machinery for collecting the poll tax, noted the governor. If the Supreme Court agrees that the $1.75 levy is an unconstitutional infringement on due process, Carr and Connally feared local election officials would find it "virtually impossible to determine who is a qualified voter."

Connally made it clear that if the Supreme Court accepts Texas' appeal and delays final disposition through 1966 elections, only those who paid the poll tax by January 31 will be permitted to vote. Come what may, the governor thinks those who paid the levy should be considered automatically registered this year.

Federal judges here, while convinced the poll tax is an improper "charge on a very precious constitutional right," disagreed with U. S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach that it has been employed in modern times to deny Negroes the right to vote. All evidence, they concluded, is to the contrary.

As limited as the special session's subject matter is, state lawmakers already are finding room to disagree. Some think voters should be required to register every year to guarantee purity of the ballot box. Others feel the new law should allow re-registration by voting in elections.

A proposed state constitutional amendment to abolish the poll tax which will be voted on next November calls for annual re-registration.

MANUFACTURING AT RECORD LEVEL

All-time highs in employment, payrolls and value of output were set by Texas manufacturing industries in 1965, and outlook is even brighter for 1966. So concludes a study of Texas industrial expansion by the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Total Texas manufacturing employment this year is expected to rise by 13 per cent, with biggest increase in electrical machinery production. Estimated value added by manufacture for 1966 is anticipated to be slightly above $8,500,000,000, a 21 per cent rise over 1965.

A serious problem facing Texas manufacturers, BBR noted, is a shortage of skilled labor (particularly machinists) and engineers for aerospace companies supporting the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston.

Shortages of engineers, machinists, technicians and managerial talent emphasizes again the "need to provide a superior educational system at the elementary, secondary and college levels," BBR stresses. Many industries, Bureau warns, can move where needed labor is available, and there is less and less work for the uneducated and unskilled.

Dr. W. T. Womack Spoke To Lions Club Tuesday

Early detection and immediate treatment is the only safeguard to prevent total loss of eyesight due to glaucoma, Dr. W. T. Womack told members of the Winters Lions Club at the Tuesday noon meeting.

Dr. Womack was the guest of Fred Young, who had charge of the program. The preservation of eyesight is a main project of the Lions Club.

The San Angelo ophthalmology specialist said that glaucoma can be found early by a simple, painless test. Dr. Womack suggested that all persons over 40 years of age should have the tests made during annual physical examinations, and warned that everyone who has relatives who are glaucoma victims are more likely to get the disease. He said that undetected glaucoma may lead to total blindness, and that about four percent of the people over 40 years of age have the disease and do not know it.

Dr. Womack pointed out that some danger signals are blurry or foggy vision, rainbows around lights, and red eyes. Immediate examination should be made when these symptoms occur, he warned.

The King, the Queen and the executioner were present. Alice and the prisoners, too, of course, but these were all. No jury, no public, no publicity.

No newspaper reporters.

In Alice's Wonderland even applause was "immediately suppressed by the officers of the court."

Not so in America.

In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right of a public trial, says Article the Sixth of the Bill of Rights of the Constitution of the United States.

So people may know, newspapers must report these trials.

This is not freedom of the press. This is responsibility of the press.

Newspapers have no extraordinary rights.

People do.

Men have the right to a public trial and the right to know what happens in courtrooms. These are rights written into the Constitution and affirmed by the Supreme Court in 1829 when Mr. Justice Begley wrote: "It is one of the essential qualities of a court of justice that its proceedings should be public."

If people are to know the truth the newspaper must report the news.

As It Looks From Here

By Cong. Omar Burleson
17th District, Texas

Washington, D. C. — Like the mariner adrift in the middle of the ocean said, "Water, Water everywhere, and not a drop to drink."

The problem of water, both from the standpoint of quality and quantity, has been discussed in this space at intervals for many years. At one time it was considered a problem only in the most arid areas. Today, it is of nation-wide concern, but with different aspects.

New England, the Eastern Seaboard and the mountainous areas have experienced water shortage, but potability is becoming an even greater problem.

The problems in our own West Texas area are compounded by having a combination of about all difficulties experienced by other sections. Rainfall itself is primary, followed by mineral pollution and suitable places to build reservoirs.

Many ideas abound on ways and means to accomplish adequate water supplies for West Texas. All are costly, but any adequate remedy may prove cheap for the future.

Those of us interested are exploring numerous possibilities for accomplishing this purpose. These explorations range from a diversion of certain rivers far north of us, to a pump-back system on the Colorado River to points which could be tapped by the various communities. The imagination must be exercised to find solutions to guarantee future habitability and prosperity for West Texas.

In conjunction with these efforts, a stepped-up program of research in controlling the elements should have a prominent place in such planning.

Even now the Federal government is likely to get into the rain-making business in a much larger way. Scientists who have dragged their feet on research on cloud seeding and tapping atmospheric moisture flows now concede and recommend larger outlays for this purpose.

The Federal expenditure which has been around $5 million annually, is recommended to increase from $30 million to $50 million by 1970. It is already proposed that a $50 million expenditure be made over a three-year period for concentrated studies on possibilities.

Thus far, experimenters find evidence that precipitation can be increased as much as 10 to 20 percent over areas as large as 1,000 square miles, with certain types of storms. In addition to all the many necessary tests, certain hazards are involved. Proof must exist that no one will create a Frankenstein. It might be possible to open the faucets from a cloud in the sky, but they must also make sure they are able to turn it off. This will involve a colossal undertaking, such as building a computer with 50 times the capacity of anything now existing, specially equipped airplanes with radar and the like. There will have to be regulations to control commercial efforts in the field when cloud dusting is once past the experiment stage. These regulations will be necessary to protect all interests, and a whole new field of legislation will be opened up.

Interest in cloud seeding, once western, is now nation-wide as dry spells and pollution have plagued the Great Lakes and the Northeast. Once upon a time those of us who tried to visualize these developments for the future had little or no support from those parts of the country which had never suffered for the lack of rainfall and an adequate supply of water. It is now beginning to get broad support. This does not mean that successful "rainmaking" is here for significant results in the immediate future. It does mean that the keen awareness evidenced in these very real challenges will result in action.

being that we train skilled farmers and ranchers to provide a plentiful supply of food products in years to come and to train those who will provide services to the farmer and process and distribute farm products."

The Future Farmers of America organization is in its 37th year in Texas. There are 48,382 members studying vocational agriculture in 864 high schools in the State. Texas is the largest of the 50 chartered State Associations with over 10 percent of the total FFA membership. Texas has 1022 chapters. The Winters chapter holds the No. 1 charter in the State.

Rev. Ben Barnes, speaker of the House of Representatives, has said about the FFA: "To continue the growth and progress so acutely essential to the success of this country, we, as a nation, must foster and develop leadership in the young people of America. As the owl in the national emblem of the Future Farmers of America is symbolic of wisdom and knowledge, so does this democracy represent leadership throughout the world. Democracy thrives on leadership; it requires and demands that the young people of today accept the responsibility of leadership."

That is what the FFA is all about: Leadership! Admittedly, there have been, and will be in the future, young men who have worked and learned as members of the FFA who will enter lifetime careers entirely foreign to the agricultural base of the organization. Yet, regardless of the profession or career they choose, the time they have spent in the FFA and the leadership qualities which have been instilled in them will prove of

Runnels Farmer Gets Award For Conservation

Clvde J. Flanagan of Route 2, Ballinger, was selected for the Fort Worth Press Outstanding Conservation award by the Board of Supervisors of the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District at their meeting last Friday, according to Kirby Robinson, board chairman.

Robinson said the board also nominated C. T. Parker Jr., Runnels County Farm Agent, for the Water Conservation Award in the same awards program for the work he is doing to control salt water pollution.

Robinson said Flanagan was selected for this award from more than 1,000 district co-operators for the good conservation program he is carrying out on his 783 acre ranch four miles northeast of Ballinger, and for the assistance he has given the district in furthering its objectives in getting a complete conservation program applied to every farm and ranch in the district.

Brotherhood Of Baptist Church Heard H-SU Prof.

Dr. Richard Kim, professor of political science at Hardin-Simmons University, was the guest speaker for the Brotherhood and their guests at the First Baptist Church on Monday evening.

Robert Simpson was in charge of the program on Christian Witnessing and introduced Dr. Kim who was born in Hawaii of Korean parents. He was an interpreter during World War II and came to the mainland to continue his education following the war. He studied in the University of Oklahoma where he received two degrees and came to Hardin Simmons for his Ph. D. He is listed in Whos Who in American education.

"In the 15 years I have been a christian," Dr. Kim said "really a short time in my life, because it is less than half of my total life, I looked through the teachings of the Bible all the way from the very beginning to the end, many, many, times. The Bible talks about the new creature. It seems I'm a new creature everyday in this world. I find that constantly there is a growth process.

"When we say witnessing, immediately, some people think it is visiting on Thursday. Well, it better be more than that because if that's all we are not going to come up with anything. "Righteousness is not on my side just because I believe in something. All I'm saying is that if I have committed myself to Christianity and to the virtues and high ideals of christianity, then whatever I believe to be right I ought to witness. It does not mean just going out every day—that's part of it—but it must mean more than that—it must be in terms of a thousand years—it must be in terms of eternity."

Gayland Robinson, president, closed the meeting with prayer. The Rev. and Mrs. Albert Baker of Gorman were visitors, also Mrs. Kim.
