HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

It has been noted that some of the most effective drawing cards utilized by many areas in attracting tourists and inducing them to stop have been museums of some type or other. It seems that tourists out to enjoy themselves, or even people just traveling from one place to another, are naturally drawn to displays or exhibits of items and buildings which reflect some of the history of particular areas. More people are more interested in such things than many of us have paused to think about. They'll go out of their way, even, if they are reminded that such things exist.

A local case in point is the Blue Gap post office, 16 miles east of Winters, the first post office in this section of the country. Since its establishment a few years ago as a point of local area history, the old log building has been visited by many people. The registration book shows that not only have people of the area been interested in looking around the site and examining the items in the old building, but that many people who undoubtedly were just traveling through the country saw the signs on the highway and drove out to look it over.

More proof that people are interested in museum-type exhibits was the popularity of the Antique Show during Winters' Diamond Jubilee in 1965. During the hours the building housing these exhibits was open, the place was always crowded. There also were some "old things" on display in other buildings and stores during the Diamond Jubilee. These proved to be popular attractions. It was known that many people from distant sections of the country who were just traveling through at the time, and had no particular interest in the celebration itself, stopped however to go through the town and visit the displays of antiques and museum items.

Most any place which boasts a museum of any size or type, and which publicizes that fact, can also point to tourist traffic which can be credited to the existence of the display. Large or small, these museums attract attention. One town in South Texas has such a museum, although a small one. It is open all the time, during daylight hours, and has no attendant. The building is a small rock structure, with one door; inside the building is a plate-glass enclosed room, with a walkway around all sides. Behind the glass, displayed prominently with proper identification cards, are the historical items, out of the reach of handlers and yet easily examined. There is no "admission charge," but a box with a slot to receive contributions is placed in a strategic position. The money which is voluntarily given is enough to maintain the building and contents.

In most places where there is an organized and well-run "museum" of any type, the extra money spent in the businesses about town by the tourists more than offsets the original cost of building and collecting the items for display. There are many people who have items which they would be glad to loan or even give for such a project; that is the source for most items in such museums.

There has been some talk of organizing such a "museum" here in Winters, however, nothing concrete has ever been done about it. There are many who see the advantage of having such a tourist attraction here, and it would be a credit to the entire community if something could be done about it.

In the current supposed war against crime, a lot of people are beginning to gag on one of the slogans which is going the rounds, "Don't help a good boy go wrong. Lock your car." Those two little sentences say a lot about the trend which seemingly has overtaken this country within the past decade or two; they imply that society—not the individual—is responsible for any wrong which can be committed. If the boy "goes wrong" society should take the rap, not the boy. In other words, we should eliminate any chance for any kind of wrong being committed, so if we fail to take away the temptation it is our fault there are so many criminals.

Admittedly, if we do fail to (Continued on page 8)

Bahlman and Vaughan Will Seek Re-Election

Aldermen Nelan Bahlman and E. E. Vaughan have filed with the City Secretary as candidates for re-election to the Winters City Council. Their present terms of office end in April, the only two vacancies occurring on the Council this year.

Mayor Wade White, whose term expires in April, filed a few days ago for re-election to that office.

The City election will be held Saturday, April 5. Deadline for

Hospital Bill Supported By District Legislators

A North Runnels County Hospital Bill supported by district legislators was introduced Tuesday, as a group of Winters and North County men met with State Senator David Ratliff and State Representative Lynn Nabers in support of a legislative bill to create the district.

A bill to create the North Runnels County Hospital District has been submitted to the State House of Representatives, sponsored by Rep. Nabers, and has been given the number HB 145. Sen. Ratliff is sponsoring the bill through the Senate as Senate Bill 114.

The bill would create a hospital district comprised of that part of North Runnels County making up Commissioners Precincts No. 2 and 3. After passage of the creation bill in the Legislature, the Runnels County Commissioners Court will be authorized to call an election of the qualified voters in the proposed district to finalize the formation of the district, and to set tax rates. The Commissioners Court also would appoint a first board of directors for the district, with later boards to be named in elections.

Sen. Ratliff and Rep. Nabers told the group from Winters that the bill will probably come up for a vote, after preliminary committee hearings, within a few weeks. The proposal is a "local" bill, it was pointed out, and no opposition from any segment of the Legislature is anticipated.

Blizzardettes Play Comanche At Brownwood

The Blizzardettes, Winters High School girls' basketball team, champions of District 7-AA, will play the Comanche High School girls in a bi-district game in Brownwood Tuesday, March 4, at 7:30 p. m.

The game will be played in Brownwood Coliseum, or in Howard Payne gymnasium. Final site will depend on the outcome of games to be played by the Howard Payne College basketball team. It will not be known which site will be used until the Howard Payne game is over on Monday night, March 3.

In most places where there is an organized and well-run "museum" of any type, the extra money spent in the businesses about town by the tourists more than offsets the original cost of building and collecting the items for display.

PROMOTION—A Winters Navy man, Charles Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Carter of Winters, was advanced in rate to Torpedoman Third Class recently aboard the anti-submarine aircraft carrier USS Yorktown (CVS-10).

Carter was one of approximately 80 Yorktown enlisted men who were promoted after successfully passing a Navy-wide competitive examination for advancement in rate.

Carter entered active duty in the Navy on March 1, 1966, and has been assigned to the Weapons Department since he reported

Norman, left, president of the Winters School Board, Elementary School Principal George Beard, center, and Raymond Lloyd, secretary of the board, hold the long "Letter of Thanks" the board received from pupils of the Elementary School. The letter was 18 feet long, and was signed by about 800 pupils, in appreciation to the school for building a covered walkway from the school building to the cafeteria.

Tickets Available For C-C Banquet Friday, Feb. 28

There still are tickets available to the Winters Chamber of Commerce Membership Banquet, which will be held Friday, February 28.

All directors and several members of the Chamber of Commerce have tickets, or they may be obtained at the office on West Dale Street.

James L. (Curly) Hays, of the public service department of West Texas Utilities, Abilene, will be the speaker. Directors and members who have been selling tickets are asked to notify Emma Marks at the Chamber of Commerce office by Tuesday of the number of tickets they have sold.

Susan Grantz In Recital At H-SU

Susan Grantz, of Winters, freshman student at Hardin-Simmons University, was a among music students participating in a scholarship recital at H-SU recently.

Judges for the recital were Ted James, Abilene Symphony member; George Yeager, Abilene Symphony conductor; and Jack Boyd, Abilene Christian College choir director.

State Legislature Asked To Amend Elm Creek Water Control District Bill

A request has been made to the Texas State Legislature to amend the bill passed in the 1967 session creating Elm Creek Water Control District, eliminating some of the area described in the original bill and lowering the minimum bond required for members of the board of directors of the district.

Officials of the District met with State Senator David Ratliff, and Representatives Lynn Nabers and Grant Jones Tuesday in Austin, and presented them with the proposed amendment. The proposal will be filed for passage in the House and Senate during the present session.

Wesley M. Hays, of Winters who was appointed to the board of directors of the district and elected chairman of the board last October, and John Purifoy of Ballinger, secretary of the board, had a breakfast meeting Tuesday with Sen. Ratliff and Reps. Nabers and Jones in Austin, and were assured the proposal would receive their support.

The amendment would delete the Coyote Creek area, located on the west side of the District and included in the original legislation creating the District, and make minor changes in the meets and bounds of the district in North Runnels County and South Taylor County. The District then will be comprised of all land in the watershed of Elm Creek in North Runnels and South Taylor, with the exception

21 Teachers Are Enrolled In Local Linguistics Class

Twenty-one teachers in the Winters Independent School District are currently enrolled in a linguistics class being held each Wednesday in the Elementary School. Classes are from 4:15 to 7 p. m.

George F. Carter, instructor from Abilene Christian College, is teaching the course which began in mid-January and will continue through April 30.

The course is designed to acquaint teachers with the new approach to instruction in English language arts—grammar, composition and literature. Content of the course will include a study of the history of language, technical vocabulary, transformational grammar, and the present status of research and theory in linguistics.

Textbooks presently being adopted for use in grades one through eight utilize the linguistic approach to the study of the nature, structure, and modification of language. This method of instruction will be implemented in the English language arts curriculum program in the Winters school beginning with the 1969-70 term.

Local faculty members attending the classes are George M. Beard, elementary principal, Sarah Parker, Margurite Mathis, Nancy Hart, Mary E. Stanfield, Betty John Byrns, Ouida Nichols, Jo Olive Hancock, Jackie Wagner, Beatrice Schroeder, Jewel Wheelless, Doris Stoeker, Virginia Schwartz, Mary Louise Bauer, Ruthie Beard, Joyce Krause, Lavelle Deaton, Nina G. Hale, Bessie Mae Wheelless, Doris Prewitt and James Powers.

Mrs. Rita Alcorn of the Wingate school also is enrolled in the class.

Council Planning Seal Coating For Some City Streets

Winters City Council Monday night discussed and began preliminary planning for a seal coating project for some of Winters' streets this spring and summer.

Nothing definite has been planned on the seal coating proposition, the City Secretary, Buford Baldwin said. The Council will work with the Street Department Superintendent, Van Whittenberg, to determine the streets which will need the work. No appropriations have been made for such a project at this time.

The Council also re-appointed Dr. C. T. Rives as chief of staff at Winters Municipal Hospital, to meet Medicare requirements. Also discussed was employment of a dietician for the Hospital, to meet Medicare requirements.

Council Studying Garbage Disposal

Because a new State statute which becomes effective in July this year makes certain methods of disposing of garbage and refuse mandatory in cities and towns in Texas, the Winters City Council has been studying the requirements which will pertain to cities of this size.

According to information available, the statute requires sanitary landfills for cities of certain sizes, and regulates the disposal of refuse and garbage by fire in towns of smaller sizes. It is not known to what extent the new statute will affect Winters, but it is almost certain that present methods of daily burning will not be allowed, City Hall sources said.

On this same subject, there also has been discussion concerning burning of trash by individual residents in cities the size of Winters. City Secretary Buford Baldwin said the Council is consulting authorities to obtain information regarding disposal of garbage and refuse.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The VIPs (Very Important Persons) are common around Government facilities — like military bases and other installations—VIP lounges, parking spaces and other accommodations. Big business also recognizes status-VIPs.

The term applies to the position the person holds rather than to the person. It is a matter of convenience.

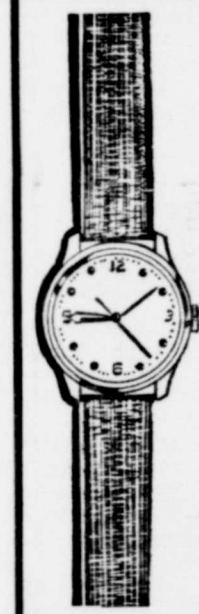

In cities and probably a great many other places, the term should probably be better applied to the fellow who can fix a doorknob or unstop a sink. He is an important person, if he does it right and at the time specified. The trouble is that a great many of those VIPs let the opportunity slip.

A man the other day was talking about being in a fairly new and modern hotel. When the bellboy placed his bag on the bed, the headboard fell off. The dresser had a split that extended across two drawers. The bath room fixtures had not even been anchored to the wall. A little while later, the marble foyer was blocked while workmen tried to stop a leak in the ceiling. All this for $40 a day.

An automobile dealer was describing his dilemma and said he spent most of his time trying to repair new cars he had just sold. He had to keep knobs from falling off, tighten loose chrome strips and repair sloppy painting.

'UNEQUALED PROSPERITY'

Dr. Francis B. May of the University of Texas at Austin Bureau of Business Research reports last year was one of "unequaled prosperity in Texas and in the nation." In every quarter of 1968, the index of business activity was above the corresponding figure for the year before. And each quarter pushed the index higher than the preceding quarter.

In all but two of Texas' 20 largest cities, business activity showed an increase. Austin led with a 34 percent increase. Beaumont had the lowest increase—two percent. Houston was up 13 percent, San Antonio and Dallas gained 15 percent each and Fort Worth rose 16 percent. As a whole, business activity for the state was 219.7 per cent of its 1957-59 base level.

Varied Pork Cuts:

What kind of pork do you buy? More than likely you select trim pork, for merchants and farmers have discovered this is the kind of pork most consumers look for when they go to the market. So breeders and feeders of pigs have gone all out to produce more streamlined pigs—that is, pigs with less fat. Too many meat packers and retailers have today's shoppers in mind as they trim the fat closer on the fresh and cured pork products. Their goal is more edible meat per pound.

In selecting fresh pork, look for firm, fine-grained flesh of a grayish-pink color. It should be marbled with flecks of fat through the muscle, and have a uniform covering of firm white fat on the exterior surface. The bones are porous and pinkish in color.

In both fresh and processed pork products, look for the mark of federal inspection. It is your assurance that the product has been processed under sanitary conditions and is safe to eat. It also means the product is not adulterated and is truthfully labeled.

You can select a pork cut for just about every mood and taste. Choose from roasts, chops, steaks, spareribs, sausage and hocks. Don't overlook the cured and smoked products like hams, sausage, bacon, spareribs, loin chops, luncheon meats and canned products.

Pork liver is especially high in iron content and rich in vitamin A. For a new twist, try it in a creole or barbecue. You'll like liver breaded in potato chip crumbs and fried, too.

Like all meats, pork cuts should be cooked slowly until done for the tenderest and juiciest results. You have your choice—bake, broil, pan-broil, fry, braise or simmer.

For something new and different—try apricot-glazed Canadian style bacon, Polynesian-style spareribs or loin roast, cranberry topped ham slice, pork tenderloin, pork chops in sour cream gravy or fruit-stuffed loin or shoulder of pork.

Seasonings such as garlic, dry mustard, ginger, sage, thyme,

 SS Class Met
 Wednesday A. M.

The King's Messengers Sunday School Class of the Drasco Baptist Church met Wednesday at 10 a. m. in the home of Mrs. Robert Conner. Each lady brought a salad dish, which was served at the noon hour.

The morning session consisted of a program on Hawaii, and the mission study book, "In Aloha Land," was taught by Mrs. Conner and Mrs. A. T. Williams. Flowers, leis and other items representing Hawaii were used.

The afternoon program opened with prayer by Mrs. R. Q. West, and Mrs. Conner presided for the business session. Mrs. Luther Pennington gave the devotional, and Mrs. Omer Hill was in charge of the Bible quiz and games. Gifts were exchanged during the social hour. A Valentine motif was carried out in table decorations.

Refreshments were served to one visitor, Mrs. Rural Woodfin of Pumphrey, and members, Mesdames Omer Hill, R. Q. West, Luther Pennington, J. C. Belew, Albert Lewis, A. T. Williams, Floyd Condra, Miss Carrie Lee, and Neva Lewis.

Mrs. H. E. Nichols will be hostess for the next class social.

rosemary, soy sauce and caraway or celery seed are especially good with fresh pork. Moist cuts of fresh pork are delicious when baked with barbecue sauces, too.

Glazes are tasty additions to fresh and cured pork products. Almost any kind of fruit, fruit juice or jelly can be used, but currant jelly, orange marmalade, peach or apricot jam, applesauce, cranberry sauce and pineapple are tops. Honey, barbecue sauce and pickled fruits and their juices are good, too. Sauces made of such soups as celery, mushroom and onion go well with pork.

Some of the pork cuts which usually are more economical include canned hams, rib or loin end roasts, smoked shoulder butts, fresh rolled shoulder butts, pork shoulder or blade steaks.

Texas Press Association

Austin, Tex.—Legislators are beginning to move along with some of the important decisions facing them.

A Senate committee gave approval to a constitutional amendment by which voters will be allowed to say "yes" or "no" at the general election, November 1970, whether they want liquor by the drink in Texas on a local-option basis.

A House committee gave the companion proposal a friendly reception, and is expected to approve it there, too. But sponsors agree that it will be hard to get the two-thirds majorities necessary in each house to pass the proposal on to voters.

Next big proposal for the House Constitutional Amendments Committee is the $3.5 billion water bond proposal sponsored by Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake. This is the state's share of financing for the $10 billion Texas Water Plan. It, too, will go to the voters in November of 1970, if two-thirds majorities in each house agree to submit it.

Representative Parker also has introduced a bill to regulate and license private detectives and guards and their employers.

Sen. Criss Cole, Houston, has introduced a bill providing for improved control of solid waste disposal and giving authority to counties, the State Health Department and the Water Quality Board. Rep. Rex Braum of Houston also has introduced some pollution control bills and opposition between the two has arisen.

Another measure approved by both houses raises the maximum interest rate on state and local bonds from five to six and a half per cent.

Senate has passed proposed constitutional amendments to guarantee equal legal rights for women, grant state funds to governors-elect and to exempt rural water supply districts from taxation.

Bills passed by the Senate include measures to transfer 45 acres from Harris to Waller County, permit Texas A & M University to issue revenue bonds for water and sewage facilities on its campuses and authorizing sale of a Texas Woman's University lot in Denton to finance a music scholarship.

Charles Schreiner III, Mountain Home rancher and chairman of the Committee, said:

Usually the number of bills filed at the Capitol slackens after the first few weeks. So far this session, it hasn't happened. Rep. Grant Jones of Abilene has introduced a bill to add at least 50 per cent to the tuition fees of non-Texas students at state colleges while increasing tuition for Texans only slightly.

Rep. George Hinson of Mineola has a bill through committee.

COURTS SPEAK

Texas Supreme Court refused a hearing on the State of Texas' plea to put some 4,000 acres of land on Matagorda Bay into the public domain class.

Other half of the case is H. P. Baxter Jr. who owns a tract of 4,505 acres which was originally about 355 acres. State says the land was "grown" by dredging and the like, while Baster's lawyers contend it was a gradual process since 1803. So far, Baster has won in the lower courts, so will keep the land.

COLLEGE KNOWLEDGE CLIMBS

Higher education planners handed the Legislature an explosive new issue — higher tuitions and steep building use fees for college students.

Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System adopted by a wide margin the finance committee proposal to double tuitions and establish a $165 a year fee for students at six proposed new schools. Fee would go to retire building bonds.

Levies are necessary, Board concluded, to finance a $401 million building program and college-university operating costs expected to reach $404.2 million by 1975-76.

Board is asking the Legislature this year not only to approve controversial fund-raising methods but also to appropriate $6 million to begin coordinated master planning for new institutions. Latter would be located at San Antonio, Midland-Odessa, Dallas, Corpus Christi and two at Houston.

Opposition outcries already have been raised against the recommended $7 per semester credit hour (about $210 a year) tuition for residents and $30 an hour for non-residents. Milder protests have been lodged against building use fee as discriminating against new college enrollees. Board claims both increases are necessary and that new school students really will be saving money by having higher education brought to their hometowns.

Dr. Joseph R. Smiley, president of the University of Colorado, will become president of the University of Texas at El Paso next June, says Chancellor Harry Ransom.

Dr. Elmer C. Baum, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, has appointed three new subcommittees. Those groups: Youth Activities with chairman Jerry Craft, Jacksboro rancher; Women's Organization with Mrs. Stuart Coleman of Brownwood as chairman; and Communications with State Senator Charles Herring of Austin as chairman.

It takes almost as much energy to be indifferent as it does to be positive.

Post Office Now Accepting Mail For Europe, Africa

The Post Office is again accepting mail for surface shipment to Europe, Africa, the Middle East and the Caribbean area, including Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Postmaster H. M. (Jiggs) Nichols announced this week.

An embargo had been placed on surface mail for these destinations last December because of the Longshoremen's strike which affected the Port of New York. Surface mail which had been sent for shipment to Europe, Africa and the other affected areas had been returned to originating post offices. Postmaster Nichols said quite a bit of mail had been returned to the local post office and had been returned to the local mailer. He said the Winters office will now accept this mail, and that the original postage is still good.

Air mail had not been affected by the Longshoremen's strike.

Lester Schaefer of Norton Nominee For Conservation Farmer Award

Lester Schaefer of Star Route, Norton, has been elected by the Board of Supervisors of the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District, for the Fort Worth Press "Outstanding Conservation Farmer" award.

The announcement was made a few days ago by Grider Hays, chairman of the Board of Supervisors. Hays said this award is based on the progress the nominee has made in applying his conservation plans and the help he has given the district in promoting its objectives in getting every landowner to plan and apply a complete conservation program.

Schaefer was born and reared in Runnels County. He married the former Edna Lange of Rowena. The Schaefers have seven children, five boys and two girls.

Schaefer, who has lived all his life in Runnels County, except for two years in the army in 1944-46, is not only a good conservation farmer, but a sound citizen in his community and state. Hays said. The Schaefers are active members of St. Mary's Catholic Church of Ballinger, and he served on the Norton School Board for five years and was elected president of the board and served in that office until the school district consolidated with the Ballinger School District in 1968. He is a member of the Norton Lions Club and a member of the PTA.

Harvey Kahlden, Soil Conservationist with the local Soil Conservation Service, said Schaefer became a cooperater with the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District in 1957. On Dec. 12, 1963, he made an application for participation in the Great Plains Conservation Program to aid him in the speed-up of the application of his conservation plan. With technical assistance furnished by the Soil Conservation Service, he revised his conservation plan and developed a planned program so he could protect his natural resources and enable him to make a better living for his family. He signed a Great Plains Conservation Program contract on Jan. 22, 1964.

With the technical assistance from the local Soil Conservation Service, and cost-share assistance from the GPCP, Schaefer constructed a complete level closed-end terrace system and a six-acre grassed waterway that will enable him to safely convey heavy runoff water through his farm without erosion damage. He also has a well planned conservation cropping system which includes a good crop rotation, management of the crop stubble, and contour farming.

Schaefer has started a fertilizer program the last several years. He stated the fertilizer not only enables him to produce more cotton and grain sorghum, but also produces more crop residue which furnishes more protection for his land.

Schaefer has set a good example in his community. Hays said. He has shown what a good conservation program can do and many of his neighbors have begun to carry out much of the same conservation practices what have worked for him. He has recently purchased another farm in the Norton community and has made arrangements with the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District to develop a conservation plan for his new farm.

He and his family moved to Marshall last week.

Glenn, a sophomore agriculture major, has been active in the work of the agriculture department both years of his resident work at HJC. His election to position of president of the club came at a time that the club is experiencing phenomenal growth in numbers and activities.

Glenn is a 1967 graduate of Winters High School.

The club's activities, under Glenn's leadership, include a matched barrel racing and calf roping event, participation in the grand entry of the 1969 Fort Worth Exposition and Fat Stock Show, which brought the club an award for their achievements, and a projected college Western Day and Rodeo. BABSON'S POINT OF VIEW

Prospects For Industrial Prices

By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass. A central theme in recent discussions of the business situation has been the continued substantial uptrend in industrial prices. Inflationary pressures predominate in the various sensitive indices as well as in the Bureau of Labor's Index of Industrial Commodity Prices.

Where We Are

Industrial prices at wholesale as measured by the Bureau of Labor Statistics are more than 10 per cent above their 1957-59 base. Nearly one-third of this increase has occurred within the past year. Beginning in January 1968, moderate price upturns gave way to more widespread and cumulative movements.

Expanding demand for industrial raw materials and products gave a heavier upward push to prices. Such pressure was, of course, materially increased in the case of items in short, or even narrow, supply. Added to these influences was the impact of higher taxes such as the 10 per cent federal surcharge and the proliferation of state and local levies.

Burden Of Rising Labor Costs

But there was also pressure stemming from the burden of rising labor costs. It is this latter force that has played a big role in recent advances in industrial prices. Time was when industrial prices included basic commodities and a moderate number of other items. Today industrial items include many more finished and semi-finished products.

The result is that a growing number of these industrial items are much less affected by fluctuations in the prices of their component raw materials than by changes — up or down — in unit manufacturing costs. In 1967, a number of important labor contracts came up for negotiations, and their settlements were costly to management and consumers. 1968 agreements were even more costly and their inflationary influence will be felt for quite some time to come.

Near-Term Outlook

We are convinced that industrial prices are more directly and more importantly influenced by trends in labor and other costs (including taxes in the totality of their impact) than by supply-demand ratios and — or trends in quotes for industrial raw materials. Accordingly, the Babson's Reports Research Staff forecasts higher industrial prices between now and mid-year and probably beyond that point.

Still heavier expenditures for defense — plus larger total outlays by federal, state and local governments — combined — lie just ahead. These, together with advancing labor and transportation costs and expanding personal income will outweigh — for the time being at least — growing world supplies of raw materials and sharper competition from foreign producers of manufactured items. However, the near-term additional gains in industrial prices which we are predicting should be more moderate than those of 1968.

What To Do

The slower pace of price increases will derive more from forces already in motion as a result of past excesses in spending, etc., than from any massive new doses of inflationary fuel. Certainly, the Nixon Administration will try hard not to rock the boat. Hence, our hope is that the federal government will now be more of a stabilizing influence on prices than otherwise, but it is going to be difficult to keep the lid on.

Those readers who own industrial enterprises or are active in industrial management would be well advised to pursue rather conservative inventory policies on balance, not because prices are likely to decline soon but because the cost of carrying inventories is high and still rising. It just isn't good business to buy too far ahead to beat the gun on price boosts if — because of high money rates — it's going to cost you more than the difference to finance and store the overlarge inventory purchase.

YOUR REPRESENTATIVE IN AUSTIN

By REPRESENTATIVE LYNN NABERS

This week we had our first taste of any controversy on the floor of the House of Representatives. Debate arose over two pieces of legislation being considered by the House. The first controversial bill was Senate Bill 20 which provided for raising the maximum interest rate chargeable on municipal and public bonds. At the present time the maximum interest rate allowed on such bonds is Five Per Cent (5%). The bill provided that the maximum rate of interest should be raised to Six and One Half Per Cent. Proponents contended that several school districts and cities, after voting the needed bond issues, were unable to sell their bonds due to the low interest rate allowed on them. Those opposing the bill contended that this legislation would continue to cause the rise in inflation. They pointed out that such bonds are already tax free; and argued further that the bill, if passed, would cause interest rates to be raised for the common people. Although this bill unanimously passed the Senate, and is expected to pass the House, heated debate was still taking place on the House floor Monday, February 17.

The next controversy broke out over a bill that would allow both regular School Districts and Vocational Training Schools in perhaps another school district to receive full credit of attendance for the same students. The students would actually spend one half day at each school. The point was made that once Vocational Training Schools were set up to serve a particular area many school districts within that area were hesitant to send their students in for the vocational training because of the loss they would suffer in state aid because they could no longer receive full credit attendance for the students. The debate on this bill was broken up when a "point of order" caused the bill to be tabled and sent to the Comptroller's Office for certification. This bill will be returned at a later date to be further debated before a final vote is taken by the House.

Committees were very busy as they began public hearings on proposed legislation. The Constitutional Committee had hearings on the Liquor-by-the-Drink Amendment. It was referred to a sub-committee and should come out of committee within the next two weeks.

IN THE CHIPS, apparently, but Sonja Raftshol is not a big winner at Las Vegas. The disks she is stacking are actually sprockets for chain saws. The cutting chain whirls around the sprockets at more than 40 miles an hour when operating.

The State Affairs Committee had public hearings on a bill to create a four year state supported college at San Antonio. Proponents of the bill requested that it be under the University of Texas Board of Regents and thereby be affiliated with the University of Texas School System. This bill was also referred to a sub-committee for further study.

Another bill before the State Affairs Committee was one which would allow political subdivisions (such as water districts, drainage districts, city and county) to allow their employees to come under Workman's Compensation Laws. Presently, the sponsor contended, such coverage is not allowed to these persons.

And then, House Bill 300 was introduced by DeWitt Hale, of Corpus Christi, this past week. This is the controversial Governor's Committee Report on Public School Education. It was referred to the Public Education Committee. This bill is 95 pages long and contains the most revolutionary and controversial proposals for public education in this state for over a century.

Needless to say, such activity the past week kept everyone on their toes. It was remarked by a few veteran legislators that such early floor debate led them to the conclusion that this would be one of the most interesting, challenging, and perhaps controversial sessions in the past decade.

New Grass Variety Approved By State Seed, Plant Board

A new high yielding grass variety has been approved for certification by the State Seed and Plant Board and released for public use, Woodrow Hoffman, of the local Soil Conservation Service reported this week.

Called Section 75 Gleingrass, it is a palatable, drought resistant tame pasture grass which is being released for certified seed production, Hoffman said. SCS and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Stations joined in the release after both agencies cooperated in making evaluation plantings across the state.

Hoffman said the newly certified grass is one of the most promising ones developed in Texas in recent years. He pointed out, however, that it will never replace top grasses already in use—it just gives livestock men another good grass to choose from when planting improved pastures.

Selections of Kleingrass were introduced in 1951 from a 15- to 18-inch rainfall belt in South Africa for planting at the SCS nursery in San Antonio. After extensive evaluation at the James E. "Bud" Smith Plant Materials Center at Knox City and in soil and water conservation districts across the state, Selection 75 was picked as the one strain best adapted to Texas conditions.

The grass is adapted to a wide range of soils, but on dryland it does best on sandy loam to clay. Kleingrass 75 recovers quickly from droughts after a rain. Established plants are hardy almost anywhere in the state, although first-year plants have winter-killed in the Panhandle. Second-year plants have withstood a hard freeze—18 degrees below zero at Tahoka. Plants green-up early in the spring and stay green late in the fall.

Kleingrass 75 produces high yields of top quality forage. Hay yields have exceeded three tons on dryland at Tahoka and more than eight tons under irrigation at San Benito and the Knox City plant center. It apparently will not produce as much forage as Coastal bermudagrass and other high yielding grasses, yet grazing studies made by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Beeville showed livestock making better daily gains on Kleingrass 75 than on Coastal. At the McGregor Station, average daily gains were better on Johnsongrass than Kleingrass 75, but neither Coastal bermudagrass nor Johnsongrass produced as much total gain per acre under low to medium fertilizer applications.

Hoffman said Kleingrass has been grown successfully in the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District since 1963. This was when it was planted as a trial on the H. Giesecke ranch southeast of Ballinger.

The grass has also done well in such widely scattered points as Spur, Knox City, Fort Worth, Mineola, Rusk, Temple, Ballinger, San Antonio, Victoria, Corpus Christi, San Benito, and Anneton.

The plant has fine stems and green to bluish green leaves and it grows about 4 feet high. It is related to blue panic and switchgrass. The seeds are small and shatter easily, which restricts seed yields. Quail, deer and other wildlife also find kleingrass attractive. Quail eat the seeds, and deer relish the forage, especially in the early spring when few other plants are green.

Breeder's seed are produced at the SCS plant center at Knox City. Foundation seeds were grown in 1968 and will be available in 1969 through the Foundation Seed Section, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station College Station. Limited amounts of certified Selection 75 seed will be available in early 1969 for spring plantings.

About 1 1/2 to 2 pounds of pure live seed per acre are usually drilled for broadcast plantings, Hoffman said. For row plantings about one pound is used. For further information, contact technicians at the local SCS office located at Ballinger, Texas, telephone 365-3415.

Poultry House Ventilation—It requires skillful adjustments of the openings in poultry houses during the winter season to keep the poultry population comfortable. And no small consideration, says Ben Wormell, Extension poultry specialist, is the amount of air required to properly ventilate for moisture removal during the winter season when temperatures vary widely from day to day.

TEXAS AND JUSTICE

Governor Smith has announced the beginning of detailed studies by the Criminal Justice Council to develop a State plan for improving all segments of law enforcement and the criminal justice system. Such a plan must be submitted to the U. S. Justice Department by June 1 for Texas to take part in the $1.3 million Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968.

Smith also announced several appointments to the Criminal Justice Council. He named

Hugh W. McLeland, Austin management consultant, as program director for research and development. C. G. Conner, inspector of the Inspection and Planning Division of the Department of Public Safety, was named program director for Law Enforcement and Crime Prevention. William H. Gaston, of the Texas Department of Corrections at Huntsville, was selected to serve as program director of post sentence processes.

Home Town Talk--

(Continued from page 1) lock our car, it may be our fault the car is stolen—so quickly. But given a little more time, the same boy who would steal a car just because it is unlocked, would probably figure out a way to pick the lock if it were locked. The boy who would steal a car left unlocked probably will steal anything else that isn't nailed down, if the notion strikes him. Unless we put such a price on his unlawful acts that he knows he cannot get away with it.

Yes, most people will lock their cars. But not for the reason suggested by the slogan. But locked or unlocked, there'll remain the possibility of the car being stolen—until we again start teaching the kids, and the grownups, too, that it is wrong to steal.
