HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Should there be significance in the fact that, within a span of four days, high winds damaged Winters' airport hangar on one side of town, and Winters' Mule Barn on the other side of town?

Three First Division ratings were awarded the Winters High School Blizzard Band last week at the Six Flags Band Festival. Some of the Judges' comments were impressive. Charles Minelli said on his comment sheet, "This is an excellent band—lots of technic in all sections, exciting playing of Masque, very well done! Artistic interpretation, beautiful solo parts, terrific percussion section. Tempo and precision excellent, dynamic contrast excellent, full band tone quality excellent." Cmdr. Mitchell, retired Navy Band director, said, "The march is an excellent percussion number showing your percussion to the fullest extent. In the Masque again, your percussion excelled throughout, although other sections, horns, clarinets, flutes, cornets, etc., were also excellent. Enjoyed this excellent band." Dr. Dunlop commented, "Lots of technic in this band! Well rehearsed and knowledgeable percussion section."

The band's conduct during the Six Flags trip was outstanding, also, as evidenced by the many compliments from people they came in contact with. Mr. Anderson, manager of the motel in Arlington where the band stayed, said that the Blizzard Band "is one of the best behaved and well-mannered groups that has ever stayed at the Clayton House." Another man, a total stranger to the band organization wrote a letter to the band applauding their behavior, "I sincerely wish that some of the people downgrad-

Expect Call For Hospital Building Bids In Few Days

Architect's plans for the new North Runnels Hospital are virtually complete, and after inspection and approval by the Texas State Department of Health, the board of directors of the hospital district will issue a call for bids for construction. It is expected that this will be accomplished within the next week, according to members of the board.

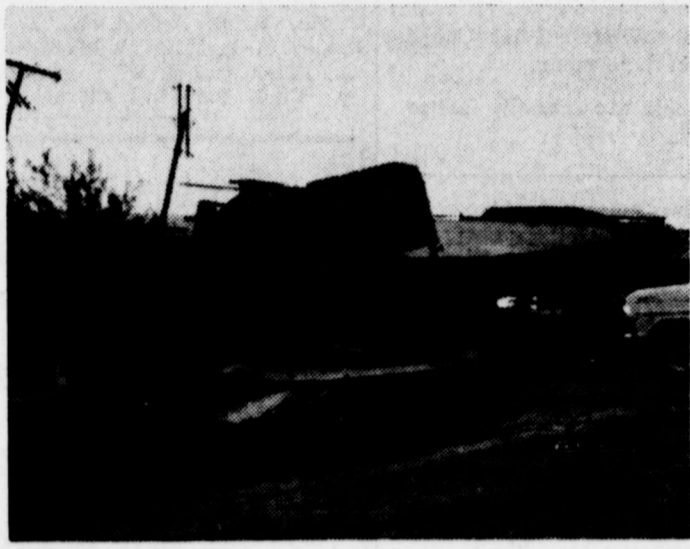

John Chiles Allen, architect of Austin, submitted the plans to the board of directors at a meeting Monday evening. Once the plans are approved by the state agency, the board will advertise for bids on construction, and it is hoped that actual groundbreaking can begin within a few weeks.

The new hospital will be located on the southeast edge of Winters, fronting on FM 53 near the Reeves Addition. City of Winters Water Department has been installing water and sewer lines to the building site during the past several days. Abstracts for the hospital building site have been donated to the North Runnels Hospital District by John W. Norman, Loans & Insurance of Winters, and Adams Abstract Co. of Balinger.

MULE BARN—Part of the ventilation cap on the roof of the old Bedford Mule Barn a block east of Main Street, lies across power lines, blown there Saturday afternoon about 3, by what was described by onlookers as a "whirlwind." The power line is part of the distribution system of the City Light & Power Department, and power was disrupted for a while in the northeast section of town, including the North Runnels Hospital. However, power was restored to the hospital within a few minutes from West Texas Utilities lines, installed for just such an emergency.

Mrs. Bill Graham and Mrs. Buck Cummings, who were sitting in a car in the vicinity of Huffman House, said the wind

Wind-Damaged Bedford Mule Barn Has Long and Colorful History

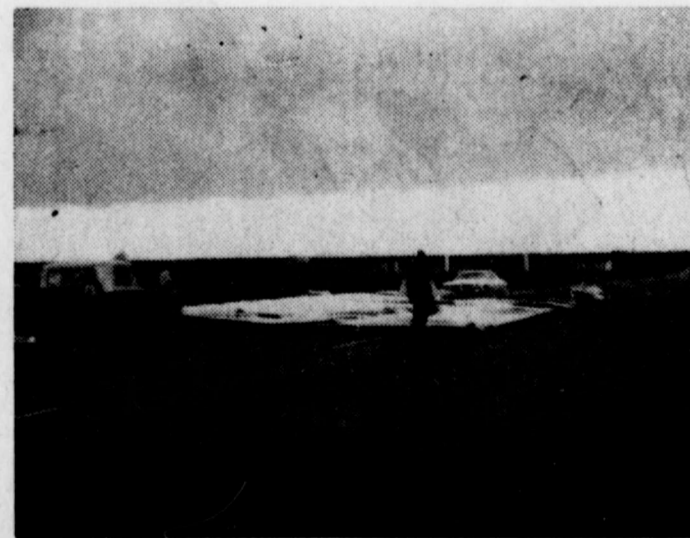

It's been standing over there a couple of blocks east of Main Street for a good many years, the old Bedford Mule Barn, but for the past 30-35 years, few people have noticed its existence and given it much thought, and fewer still have ventured a look inside. It is a link with the past that practically everybody has forgotten.

To be even noticed again, it had to be hit by a lowly whirlwind last Saturday afternoon—not a full-blown twister which might have befitted its historic significance—which blew its ventilation cap from the roof on to a high tension line.

Passed by in the high-powered race of the motorized world, the old barn for several years has been used by Arthur Clark to stable pleasure riding horses. But in its heyday, it was the center of horse- and mule-trading for farmers and ranchers of the area.

The barn was built in 1926 by the late Fred Bedford, who called it, appropriately, The Mule Barn, and was used until 1937 or shortly thereafter, when gasoline powered tractors ran the mules out of the fields. During its busy years, literally tens of thousands of horses and mules passed through its doors and gates, shipped in from "back East" and from Missouri. And untold tons of oats and hay were consumed by the animals while they waited to be moved on to their new farm homes. Today, the left is filled almost to the rafters with rusting baling wire—probably tons of it—pulled from the bales as they were tossed to the pens and stalls below.

The Mule Barn was the center of activity on "Second Monday" trades day in Winters, as farmers and stockmen came to town to buy, sell, trade and talk mules. "Big deals" were the talk of the times as farmers walls were pulled out, concrete and all. Tin from the walls of the building was found as far away as the Fairview Cemetery, almost half a mile north. No announcement has been made regarding reconstruction of the hangar, which was the property of the Flying Club. The airport proper is the property of the City of Winters.

"Due to your generous support and contributions to our many fund raising activities, the Boosters were financially prepared to aid the band with expenses of the trip. 120 students each paid $5 before the trip and all adults paid $20 each for their expenses. "Bus drivers were Band Director Kirke McKenzie, Randy Laudermilk, Cecil Sudduth and Clifford Hill. Those who took pickups and trailers were Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bean and Robert Anderson.

Sponsors going were Mrs. Willis Davis, Mrs. Ruby Nell Rougas, Mrs. J. T. Medford, Mrs. James Williams, Mrs. Pyburn Brown, Mrs. Richard Beck and Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Brown.

"Several former Winters residents now living in the Arlington area, visited with the band, including Jerry Neely, Mr. and Mrs. David Harrison, Rev. and Mrs. Eugene Robertson, Jill Matthews, Glenda Cooper Shields, Janette Tucker Duncan and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Johnson.

"The Band Boosters, Band Director Kirke McKenzie and all Band students express thanks for your support in making this trip possible."

Broken Gas Line Caused Little Inconvenience

A main four-inch gas line of Lone Star Gas Co., supplying natural gas to Winters customers, was severed by a deep plow on 9:40 Monday morning, causing slight inconvenience to gas users for a few hours.

Marshall Wharton, Winters manager for Lone Star, said the line was cut about seven miles southeast of town, but that there was enough pressure in the lines and through the break to provide sufficient gas for most gas pilot lights, and low burners.

An emergency gas truck was sent to Winters immediately. Wharton said, and gas from this portable unit was fed into the local system. Customers were asked to cut back on gas use until the break could be repaired, and only slight inconvenience was reported.

The break in the line was repaired late Monday.

Wharton said Lone Star appreciates the cooperation of customers during this short emergency period; without voluntary conservation of available gas, he said, the shortage could have caused considerable problems.

Season To Study Effectiveness of Terrace Systems

This season of the year is a good time for farmers in the Runnels Soil & Water Conservation District to study the effectiveness of their terrace systems, according to Bob Fowler, Conservation Technician with the local Soil Conservation Service.

While the prime objective of a terrace system is to control erosion, farmability is a second important objective and has a direct relationship to the farmer's operating costs. Terraces must fit the contours of the land but good farmability is possible by small deviations from the contours. This can be achieved without appreciable loss of erosion and moisture control by cutting, filling, leveling and the placements of blocks between different elevations. Broad based terraces that are parallel and spaced in multiples of 4-6-8 rows will save operating time and reduce crop damage caused by turning between terraces.

This season farm operators will be moving over their fields several times while planting and cultivating and this provides an excellent opportunity to study how farmability may be improved, according to Fowler. In some cases the shifting of portions of a terrace may eliminate or reduce the number of point rows. The installation of a block perpendicular to row direction may minimize water ponding and provide for earlier plowing after rains. The shifting of an interior turnrow may in some cases provide for less crop damage.

Spring rains now highlight the need for terraces maintenance. Water marks along the terrace ridge will point out the need for increasing the height and residual ponds indicate the need for land fills. Due to pull down by equipment crossings, terrace end closures and blocks require maintenance more frequently than the ridges. The return of

BUSINESS and the STOCK MARKET

Advice For Younger Investors

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., May, 1972. The following comments and suggestions are directed primarily toward the young executive or professional man who is making a good current income and wishes to build up a sizable estate for retirement many years hence. What type of investment program should he adopt at this time, and how much risk should he assume to achieve his objectives?

Look To The Future

In establishing a program for the young executive, the Research Department of Babson's Reports considers it extremely important that a long-range viewpoint be taken and that the inevitable interim price fluctuations be de-emphasized. It has become obvious over the years that the investor who bides his time and operates in a rational manner invariably fares better in the long run than the over-anxious, impulsive investor.

Supervision Essential

Although we surely do not recommend frequent shifting from one stock to another, neither do we approve of the young investor's buying a list of so-called growth stocks and then forgetting them. All stocks require at least a degree of supervision and watchfulness. One should be constantly on the lookout for fundamental changes in any particular company or industry that might affect adversely a stock in your portfolio. If such a change should be noted, then a switch into another issue might be called for. What the investor should try to avoid in this connection, however, is a mere shifting from one good issue into another when the action is based simply on minor, short-term movements in the stock market as a whole.

Tailored To The Individual

With the foregoing kept in mind, it should be mentioned at this point that there is no one investment program or setup that would be suitable for all of those just beginning. Each individual's circumstance differs and his individual investment program must be tailored accordingly. In general, however, we believe that at this level of the market and with economic conditions as they are now, the young investor should maintain a portion of his assets in reserves that can be used as promising buying opportunities develop. The amount that should be kept for this purpose would depend upon the new money coming into the account each year, the amount of risk the investor wishes to take, and other relevant factors.

At this stage of the investment cycle, we feel that the young executive can well afford to be patient rather than take the risk of assuming a top-heavy position in common stocks. The proper timing of purchases is still, of course, one of the most important factors in any successful investment program. Furthermore, generous interest can still be had from funds in bank accounts, so any reserve money should certainly not be regarded as being idle. There is certainly no quick and easy road to investment success. As a rule, the younger person who feels that he has got to achieve investment prosperity in a hurry never achieves it at all.

Happy Homemaking
By BARBARA BAKER

A metal wheelbarrow is handy when cleaning window screens. Fill the wheelbarrow with hot water and some cleanser, lay each screen in the wheelbarrow and scrub with a car brush with a handle. Rinse off the screens with the garden hose.

Screen patching can be brain-wracking if you let it go until the holes are big. Keep an eagle eye on yours and when a hole is large enough for a mosquito or fly to get through, dot the hole with household cement.

This covers and seals the hole and, being clear, is scarcely noticeable.

String your clothesline wire through the coil springs in spring-type clothespins. This way your clothespins will always be on the line and you can remove clothes merely by pinching the clothespins together.

Do not store your windshield snow brush. It is ideal to clean the refrigerator's wire coils and reach other hard-to-get-at places.

Washington, D. C. — Every morning all over the world hundreds of millions of people start their day eating American cereals. The kids eating Wheaties and drinking a certain fruit juice will have energy and grow up to be champions.

A toothpaste guaranteed to "scroll your nurd" is better than all the rest if it is advertised enough. We are great advertisers and billions of dollars are spent on promoting various types of products.

It is a good question then—Why can't we sell our system of democratic government with a free enterprise system? We know that capitalism is a better product than socialism, but seemingly there is difficulty in conveying the reasons to many of our people much less those around the world.

THE WINTERS ENTERPRISE

It seems that in every hemisphere people who are looking for an improvement in their society tend to look to the left instead of straight ahead.

If a company is not selling its product, somewhere up around the offices of top management questions will be asked. It may be concluded that the message is not clear and that the advantages of the product have not been clearly defined. If it is an automobile that swivels in the middle, maybe the advantages of parking and making short turns have not been properly presented.

In the case of our system of government, are we communicating properly to our own people and those abroad? Have we shown the average person that our product is the best form of government?

Are we doing enough to tell the story to our youth? It is not necessary to contend that it is a perfect system but we can contend that it is the best.

The world has been made aware of our shortcomings, which in a way is an asset. Where else can anyone be so openly critical of government? All news media at one time or another have differed strongly with the Administration in power, which proves we have more freedom of the press than any nation.

All over the world people know of the dissent in this country. Do they know that the right to dissent is unique to a free society?

We are the richest country in the world. The majority of our people enjoy the highest standard of living ever achieved. We have a Constitution and the forces of law that guarantee the freedom of the individual under it. Equality is the centerpiece of commitments under law—but it seems we have failed to place this product of our society in the market place.

Advertising is a great business in this country and is done by most highly qualified experts. It sells products to billions of people which have a lot less going for them than the products of our system of governing ourselves.

Maybe we need research people, writers, producers and public relations, presently lacking.

The government itself cannot finance this type of campaign. In the first place there is no authority for it and in the second it would likely be viewed simply as propaganda. There might, however, be utilized the highly skilled advertisers who have such a great influence over our markets. Industry figures indicate that something like $20 Billion was spent in 1971 on the promotion of products. Suppose that business would be willing to set aside just a small percentage of their advertising outlay on TV, radio, newspapers, magazine and outdoor advertising to tell the story of America. They prosper under a free enterprise system and they need to sell the system to maintain conditions which keep them prosperous. Even the idea of some form of tax credit might be justified for those who would be willing to devote attention

Salty Springs

Spring is here. So is salt pollution.

During the winter, salt is spread on highways to melt snow and ice. When spring comes, signs of the winter saltings begin to show. Salt water runoff from highways sink into the water table. This can affect the soil that plants and trees grow in as well as the drinking water of animals and humans.

According to the Salt Institute 9.8 million tons of salt were thrown on the nation's highways last winter. Environmentalists are aroused because of the negative effects of salt on wildlife such as rabbits and pheasants. And salty soil is toxic to some plants and trees, such as Vermont's magnificent sugar maples that turn a brilliant red in fall.

highway de-icing issue, according to experts.

What happens on highways—including the millions of cars that speed along them—affects our lives. Cars are the major source of air pollution. Using public transportation, whenever feasible, can reduce the number of cars on our highways.

There are all kinds of ways to fight pollution, including air pollution. See your tuberculosis and respiratory disease association to find out some of them. It's a matter of life and breath.

STAMP PROGRAM PLANNED

The State Department of Public Welfare has been called on by the governor to develop a pilot food stamp program in preparation for a statewide plan. A state-funded program will be proposed in the special session of the Legislature next month. Federal courts have ordered all counties to have either a food stamp or a food commodity program for the needy. The stamp program is expected to generate $285 million in economic activity.

ing our young people could have seen this fine group. They were very polite and mannerly, and you had to notice this about them. I am sure this group is a credit to your community. They are to be congratulated in the way they conducted themselves."

Many people, who used to take boiling, threatening clouds and thunderstorms in stride, have developed a shaky and suspicious attitude toward every little cloud that floats over.

Of course, we have had a good share of destructive weather these past few years—crop and roof-destroying hailstorms, flood-causing downpours, high winds and isolated twisters which have left much damage in their wakes. But we probably are not having any worse weather than we've always experienced in this part of West Texas. It's probably just that we are hearing more about the weather than we used to, and have developed a bad-weather syndrome.

We figure that many of us may have become victims of wide-ranging and rapid communication. If something happens on the other side of the ridge, we hear about it almost instantly by way of radio and television, and we hear more about it than we used to, so there is a tendency for us to get shaky.

Then there are the weather reports and warnings beamed our way on television. They've got weather and tornado warnings, tornado watches, tornado alerts, and probably a few others we haven't heard about. So if a cloud comes up and we hear the "beep" on the television, we hear only the "tornado," and forget to listen to the rest of it, and take it for granted that a tornado is about to wipe us all out.

It's a good thing, the weather warning system, and has probably saved many lives and much property. But it sure gets worrisome, running from the tv to the back door to look up at the clouds.

Austin.—Texans displayed at May 6 primaries strong enough desire for new state governmental leadership to assure a change in top offices and a major legislative turnover as well.

Reform candidates Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde and State Rep. Frances (Sissy) Farenthold of Corpus Christi charged into the Democratic gubernatorial runoff. Mrs. Farenthold scored a stunning upset over Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes. Gov. Preston Smith finished a distant fourth. Republican gubernatorial runoff candidates are State Sen. Henry Grover and Albert B. Fay, both of Houston.

Houston newspaper executive Bill Hobby led State Sen. Wayne Connolly of Floresville in the lieutenant governor's race and both already are campaigning hard for the June 3 runoff.

John Hill of Houston squeaked through without a runoff over Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin and Bill Pate of El Paso.

From there on, the statewide incumbents managed to stay on top. One, Comptroller Robert S. Calvert, led widely but was forced into a runoff with a former employee Jim Wallace of Austin.

Former U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough has a runoff with Barefoot Sanders for the Democratic nomination to face GOP Sen. John G. Tower.

There will be at least 14 new faces in the Texas State Senate, and all observers concede the body will be more conservative than the present Senate. Six senate seats will be decided by runoffs. Republicans will oppose Democrats in 12 general election races.

One Republican Senator is unopposed.

In the House, a total of 64 incumbents did not seek re-election or were defeated. (Actually, 14 were defeated). Sixteen more incumbents were forced into House runoffs, including Speaker Rayford Price of Palestine. More than 65 incumbent representatives were renominated. Republicans were nominated in 76 of the 150 districts.

CANE ACREAGE ALLOCATED

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has allocated 25,700 acres in the Lower Rio Grande Valley for sugar cane harvest.

The allotment includes counties of Hidalgo, Cameron, Wilbacy and Starr. Allocation is the first in almost 50 years for Texas and, according to U. S. Sen. John Tower, is expected to return a cash crop worth more than $50 million to Texas growers.

Cotton, citrus and vegetables already are produced in the area, but Tower said growers need an additional crop with a stable economic base. Mainland sugar cane production in the U. S. has been concentrated in Louisiana and Florida. The allocation goes to Rio Grande Valley Sugar Growers, Inc., a cooperative which already has 2,500 acres in cane which will be used for seed in the scheduled September 1973 processing.

MISSION SEEKS BUSINESS

A 10-member Texas trade mission team in Moscow and Bucharest may return with more than $60 million in business for oil drilling and petrochemical manufacturers.

Texas Industrial Commission said the mission which began last month offers an opportunity for Texas to take the first step toward capturing a portion of a virtually untapped $22 billion market in Eastern Europe.

The tour, organized by the petrochemical industry, is the first of its kind behind the iron curtain. It is designed to promote sales of oilfield equipment, refinery and chemical production equipment and instrumentation, controls and services of these operations.

COURTS SPEAK

The American Party once more was unsuccessful in trying to have the new law providing state financing for primary elections declared unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court.

The High Court, in another case, held the owner of a factory in Hemphill was not liable for damages of an accident caused by an independent contractor hauling logs to the plant.

Third Court of Civil Appeals upheld a Hays County district court decision on preventing a contractor from bringing a second suit over the same paving contract transaction against Holiday Inns.

APPOINTMENTS

W. E. (Buck) Tinsley of Austin has been re-appointed to a new six-year term on the Texas Water Development Board of which he has been chairman for the last year.

Governor Smith appointed Jefferson Kerney Brim Jr. of Sulphur Springs eighth district judge.

Smith picked W. L. Kindle of Houston, Mrs. Ida L. Kenney of San Antonio, Mrs. Printis E. Ellis of Paris and Dr. John T. King of Austin for membership on the Governor's Committee on Aging.

"BILLION DOLLAR" BOUNDARY VICTORY WON

Attorney General Martin hailed a favorable decision for Texas in a boundary dispute with Louisiana as "a billion dollar victory" for the state and the cities of Orange and Port Arthur.

A special master appointed by the U. S. Supreme Court decided Texas is entitled to the western half of Sabine River, Sabine Lake and Sabine Pass. Louisiana's claim to the entire stream was denied. Martin filed the suit in 1969. Louisiana will have an opportunity to file an objection to the master's decision in the court.

Many Students On Social Security Roll

One out of every 12 American college students is a social security beneficiary through protection established by a deceased, disabled, or retired parent.

That statistic, compiled from social security records, was announced by J. M. Talbot, social security manager, to stress that social security insures children dependents, a fact which may not be generally known.

A child may receive monthly benefits when one of his parents gets social security disability or retirement benefits. The child may also receive benefits if a parent dies after having worked under social security long enough to be insured. The payments stop at age 18 unless the child is disabled or attends school full-time.

Students benefits will continue to age 22, including vacation periods of not more than four months. Ordinarily, payments will stop if the student is adopted or married.

The school must be a qualified high school, college, or vocational school. Many private and foreign schools, as well as public schools, meet the requirement.

For more information, contact the Social Security Office at 3900 West Harris Avenue (P. O. Box 3808) in San Angelo, Texas, or see the representative when he is in your area. Persons who are unable to meet with him are encouraged to call the office in San Angelo.

"Billy Jack"

The lightning flash of bare feet, as Billy Jack strikes down his tormentors, makes a scene in the new film, "Billy Jack," showing this week-end at the State Theatre, as vivid as any combat in recent screen history.

It is a grim moment, but through the art of hapkido, a little-known, but highly effective form of karate perfected in Korea, Tom Laughlin, playing the title role, does battle in a fashion which is as successful as it is artful. It is the first time that this use of barefoot weaponry

Varied Egg Recipes
Bring eggs out of the ordinary. For there's much more to serving than poaching, scrambling and frying, says Mrs. O'Connor.

For instance, egg sandwiches are a special treat that can offer lots of variety. Egg salads and other special concoctions lend special interest to egg servings.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service reports especially plentiful supplies of eggs now. So if you're looking for low-cost protein, look to eggs. Egg protein is so near perfection that scientists often use it as a standard to measure the value of protein in other foods.

Egg prices vary by size for the same grade. Since egg size has nothing to do with quality, it's wise to compare prices of the various egg sizes. Generally speaking, if there is less than a 7 cent price spread per dozen eggs sizes. Generally speaking, if there is less than a 7 cent price spread per dozen eggs between one size and the next smaller size in the same grade, you will get more for your money by buying the larger size.

This Western Sandwich is an especially interesting way to use eggs

- 1 tsp butter or bacon fat
- 1 egg
- 1 T. finely chopped green pepper
- 1 T. finely chopped green pepper
- 1 T. finely chopped onion
- 2 slices buttered bread or toast
- 2 T. milk
- 1-8 tsp. Salt, Dash of pepper
- 1 T. finely chopped onion
- 2 slices buttered bread or toast
- 2 T. milk
- 2 T. chopped cooked ham
- 1-8 tsp. salt, dash of pepper

In a small skillet heat butter moderately hot. Blend other ingredients and pour into skillet. Cook, stirring mixture to cook evenly. While still moist, shape into flat pattie to fit bread. Place between bread slices. Serve hot. Makes one sandwich.

- Cackleburgers
- 1-4 cup minced onion
  - 3 T. fat
  - 2 cups soft bread crumbs, firmly packed
  - 1-2 cup milk
  - 4 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
  - 1 tsp. salt
  - 1-2 tsp. celery seed

trees, points out the county agent. Trees often have to be sprayed several times because there are at least three or more generations of beetles a year. High-pressure, high-volume sprayers are necessary to completely cover the foliage. Some degree of control can be obtained by spraying the trunk and lower limbs when the larvae move down to the ground to pupate.

For information dealing with chemical treatment of elm leaf beetles, copies of L-199 "Texas Guide for Controlling Insects on Ornamental Plants" are available at the County Extension office.

Tizzy

"No, this isn't the First National Bank, darn it!"

1-8 tsp. ground pepper
4 hamburger buns, split carrot slices, celery sticks
Cook onion over low heat in one tablespoon of the fat to a golden brown, stirring occasionally. Add bread crumbs and milk. Stir and cook slowly until thoroughly blended and thick—about 2 minutes. Remove from heat.

Set aside 4 slices of egg for garnish. Blend remaining eggs, the salt, celery seed, pepper and parsley to bread mixture. Cool, then shape into four patties. Pan-fry in the remaining two tablespoons of fat, turning once to brown both sides. Place between hamburger buns, either plain or toasted. Serve with carrot sticks, celery sticks or a favorite relish.

Makes four servings.
Spiced Eggs-On-A-Stick

- 1 doz. eggs, hard-cooked and peeled
- 2 cups vinegar
- 3 T. sugar
- 1 1-2 T. salt
- 1 tsp. pickling spice tied in cheese cloth bag
- 1 clove garlic, peeled
- whole cloves (optional)
- 12 woodenmeat skewers or plastic drink "straws"
- 1 large orange or grapefruit

Measure vinegar, sugar and salt in medium saucepan. Drop in spice bag and garlic clove. Simmer about 5 minutes. Pour over the eggs in a jar. Cover and refrigerate to season—several hours, overnight or several days—as desired.

When ready to serve, drain eggs and insert one or several cloves into white. Mount the eggs on sticks like lollipops. For service, insert sticks into orange or grapefruit.

Crop Reports From Farmers Needed

During the last half of May, some 22,000 Texas farmers will receive a crop acreage questionnaire from Charles E. Caudill, Agricultural Statistician for the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, Austin, Texas.

This information will be the basis for determining the planted acreage for the State of Texas and for each county. There are 254 counties in Texas, and reports are needed from many farmers so that each county will be well represented. Accurate estimates are of great importance to farmers in planning production and marketings and in providing an unbiased picture of Texas agriculture.

The Texas Legislature has provided a program of estimates for each county. Texas covers such a wide area that State totals alone do not provide adequate information on Texas' most basic industry—agriculture. This is a cooperative effort of USDA's Statistical Reporting Service and the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Elm Leaf Beetles Active Now
Homeowners with highly valued elm trees in their yards should keep a watchful eye on the trees to spot infestations of elm leaf beetles, suggest Park-er. The beetles are a serious pest of elm trees as they eat the surface of the leaves, leaving only the veins. The skeletonized leaves turn brown and eventually fall from the trees. The damage weakens the trees and makes them more susceptible to borers that attack elms.

The adult beetles are oval and about a quarter of an inch long. They are yellowish to olive-green in color with a black stripe along each side of the wing covers.

The beetles lay yellow eggs on the undersides of elm leaves. Full-grown larvae are about half an inch long, dull yellow in color with black stripes on the back, and have a distinct black head.

Although many insecticides will kill the adult and larvae beetles, the major problem is thorough coverage of infested
