Chamber Bicentennial Plans Will Include Bailey Plate

Projects Underway

The Bailey County Bicentennial project is in full swing, with various committees meeting to make plans for such activities as concerts, slated for this coming fall; style shows and the big July 4, 1976 Bicentennial event.

Mrs. G. F. Howell, chairman of the local Bicentennial Committee has announced that the Bailey County Bicentennial Plate is now for sale. The plate, an original design of smoked crystal, depicts Bailey County from its past to modern times.

All the art work and planning of the plate has been done by local persons, Mrs. Howell pointed out. Mrs. Kerry Moore, secretary of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce, did the art work for the plate.

The Bicentennial plate features the past in the form of a windmill and the Texas Longhorn Steer to the very modern equipment. Also pictured on the smoked crystal plate is the Sandhill Crane for which this area is noted as well as the National Mule Memorial. The sale of the Bailey County Bicentennial Plate, is just one of the money making projects for raising funds for The Bicentennial Program. It will go on display in various places of business in Muleshoe for the public to view.

Among other plans the Bicentennial Committee is presently working on is the gathering of information from old-timers, which is being put on tape, to be placed in the Muleshoe Public Library. The stories these old-timers tell, will add to the history of Bailey County.

The committees are working on the history of the Bula School, gathering historical information from different sections of the county. It is also hoped by the Bicentennial Committee to create interest in setting up a Museum, for which a charter has been secured awhile back. Mrs. Howell said "we want to work toward the

Muleshoe Gets Sales Tax Check

Austin -- Comptroller Bob Bullock sent checks totaling $11.4 million Tuesday to Texas towns and cities for their monthly July city sales tax payments. Net payment to the City of Muleshoe totaled $4,055.80.

The total July payments were smaller than the June rebates, Bullock said, because the June payments included "clean-up" allocations of money carried over or coming in late from the last round of quarterly tax payments received from merchants.

"We have now refined our system such that not a penny of city sales tax money can stay in this office longer than 45 days before being sent back to the city," Bullock said. "This is a far cry and a grand improvement from the old quarterly system with its 60 and 90-day delays."

Bullock said when the monthly system was started that cities could expect two smaller payments followed by a third larger "clean-up" payment in each three month cycle.

During the first two months of the cycle -- including this month -- payments are not made to cities whose allocation is less than $500.

USDA To Amend 37 Federal Milk Orders

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) will amend milk classification and fluid milk provisions in 37 federal milk marketing orders, if the required two-thirds of affected dairy farmers approve. To find out if they do, USDA will poll dairy farmer cooperative associations in each of the markets.

H. L. Forest, dairy official with USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS), said the proposed amendments are necessary to assure dairy farmers that the historical Class I classification and higher-valued fluid-use price will continue to apply to flavored milk and flavored milk drinks. Federal milk marketing orders establish minimum prices to be paid to farmers based on how their milk is used by handlers who buy and distribute it in federal milk order areas, Forest explained. In general, Class I applies to milk for fluid use, and is priced above milk sold for manufacturing uses.

Forest said the Class

I designation for flavored milk and flavored milk drinks had been jeopardized when some handlers began to market flavored milk drinks with a total solids content of 20 percent or more. Under present provisions, this makes the product eligible for Class II or Class III (lower-valued manufacturing use prices) in the 37 orders, while such products are Class I under other orders. The proposed amendments would reestablish equitable competition among all handlers regulated by federal orders, Forest said.

Today's decision is based on a public hearing held in Washington, D.C., June 26, requested by the National Milk Producers Federation. This is an association of cooperatives whose dairy farmer members serve the various markets involved.

The usual recommended, or tentative decision, and the period of time for public comments are being omitted, Forest said, so that the issue may be acted on more promptly.

Copies of today's final decision, which is being submitted for producer approval, may be obtained from the market administrators of the various orders, or from the Dairy Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

The proposed amendments would affect the following 37 federal milk marketing orders: Georgia, Chicago Regional, Southern Illinois, Southern Minnesota-Northern Iowa, St. Louis-Ozarks, Quad Cities - Dubuque, Greater Kansas City, Nebraska-Western Iowa, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Duluth - Superior, Cedar Rapids-Iowa, Evansville-Indianapolis, Central Illinois, Minnesota-North Dakota, Southeastern City, Neosho Valley, Wichita, Kansas, Eastern South Dakota, North Central Iowa, Des Moines, Iowa, Chattanooga, Tenn., New Orleans, La., Northern Louisiana, Memphis, Tenn., Nashville, Tenn., Paducah, Ky., Ft. Smith, Ark., Red River Valley, Oklahoma Metropolitan, Central Arkansas, Lubbock - Plainview, Texas, Central Arizona, Texas Panhandle, Rio Grande Valley, and Lake Mead.

Pesticides Now Regulated

AUSTIN -- "Texas first agricultural pesticide control act, passed and signed into law last month, will provide farmers and ranchers the opportunity to increase their safety and that of their cattle," says Texas Safety Association Vice President, Joe L. Smetana.

The act regulates the use of pesticides, with the Texas Department of Agriculture designated as the regulating agency, and provides for voluntary education and certification for farmers and ranchers.

The Texas Pesticide Control Act brings the State into compliance with the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency's edict that all states enact such legislation by October, 1976. A list of the restricted pesticides will soon be released by the Environmental Protection Agency. The private farmer and rancher will secure a license, but is not required to, explains TSA, as most compliance enforcement will be aimed at the commercial or non-commercial applicator and the dealer. Licensing will be required of anyone who sells restricted pesticides or applies them for hire, as will be the keeping of records.

Licensing will be through the Texas Department of Agriculture, and a license will be granted following successful examination of the applicant's knowledge and ability to apply pesticides.

The Texas Safety Association urges all farmers, ranchers, and other pesticide users to participate in the licensing program.

Many friends also called during the afternoon.

Randy Williams, a student of North Texas State University in Denton, recently completed the first session of his summer semester with a grade point average of 3.5.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Talley of Muleshoe.

A news editor's day is filled with many unusual and interesting happenings. One interesting fact brought to the attention of the Bailey County News Editor's attention Thursday, was a visit from E. E. Holland of Muleshoe, who brought by an article clipped from an Arizona newspaper.

A person living in Muleshoe, Texas, probably doesn't give much thought to the name of their town or that there might be someplace else in the United States with the same name.

The clipping disclosed the fact that a 5,280 acre ranch, the Mule Shoe Ranch, located northwest of Wilcox, Ariz, was recently sold to a Tucson couple. The ranch homesteaded in the 1880's and was sold to the Arizona residents, for an undisclosed sum.

The Mule Shoe Ranch originally was part of the huge Sierra Bonita Ranch of pre-territorial days.

Holland received the clipping from his step-daughter, Mrs. C. H. Chassot, who works in Phoenix and lives at Gilbert, Arizona. He felt like citizens of Muleshoe, might get a kick out of hearing about the Mule Shoe Ranch.

Mrs. M. J. Gibson and Mrs. Bobby Newman and children have just returned home from a two week tour of the Northwest United States and Calgary, Canada. They went through Yellowstone National Park and Glacier National Park. One day they attended the Stampede and the parade.

They came back through Great Falls, Montana, Custer State Park, South Dakota and visited Mount Rushmore, where the carvings of the four presidents are located.

Another sculpture is in the making. It is a sculpture of Chief Crazy Horse, which will be carved from the mountain, 543 feet high and 644 feet long. The sculptor hopes he will finish the carving by 1985.

The 35th Annual Post Stampede Rodeo is scheduled for a three-night stand here August 7, 8, and 9 with Harrel Smith's Bucking S Rodeo of Lawton, Okla., producer.

Events include bareback bronc, calf roping, saddle bronc, barrel race, team roping, and bull riding with one go-round, head or run per contestant.

Hoyle Nix and his band will provide the music for dances following each performance.

Texas is first in the U.S. in harvested acres of watermelons, cabbage, and fresh market spinach; second in cantaloupes, carrots, and onions; and fifth in green peppers. Hidalgo County was the top producer with 53,900 acres planted in vegetables.

Texas was third nationally in total fresh market vegetables and fifth in total vegetable acreage behind California, Wisconsin, Florida, and Minnesota. For a free copy of the vegetable statistics book, write Commissioner John C. White, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas, 78711.

information of their Bicentennial projects.

Several committees, the General Chairman Committee, Horizon Committee, Heritage Committee and Festivities Committee, are working hard to make this Bicentennial year, a memorable one. Anyone interested and who would like to work with the committees, or who might have helpful information is urged to call the office of the Chamber of Commerce, and let them know.

In speaking of the Bailey County Bicentennial Plate, Mrs. Howell, reminds everyone that there is a limited number of plates available, and those wishing to purchase one should place their order now. You may place your order by contacting Mrs. Howell at 272-4340, or leaving your order at one of the places of business where the plate will be on display.

Stressing the fact that the design of the Bailey County Bicentennial Plate will not be used by anyone other than Bailey County, Mrs. Howell says, it is "our very own, and is real smoked crystal".

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,
Your reply to M-Ga. regarding "beating" your child in public or private was wrong. You as a writer should consult your Holy Bible on all matters before giving others advice. I spanked my daughter in a large store in a large city when she was 6. She needed it. Our youngest stated recently "You should have spanked me more. I realize now I needed it."

Ohio Grandma-Ohio

Answer:
O.G. goes on to quote the Bible about "sparing the rod and spoiling the child." She could have also quoted the passage about "whosoever shall offend one of these little ones" and I believe that a public spanking of a child before a big audience does great harm to his spirit.

If a child is six years of age and has been taught to behave and knows that if he does not he will be punished when he gets home, he will not get the point in public where he has to be spanked.

I am not for all of this permissiveness that we see about us at present and I am not against a spanking if nothing else will keep a child from hurting himself or others. But the experts tell us that other things should be tried first.

A spanking, in many cases, is given by parents who are tired or worried and haven't the patience to try other methods.

I reared three boys and they were full of life but I never spanked one in public. But they knew better than to misbehave when I had them in a store or on a social visit.

Friendship means so very much to each of us, especially when we feel lonely and downcast. This little verse has long been a comfort to me, as each day dawns. I want to share it with you. "It is not your years, but how you have spent them. It is not the cares that life may bring, but the joys and dreams and friendships. These are worth remembering". I too, have treasured friends and their friendship means so very much to me. I love people and when I meet a new friend I treasure their friendship. With the hope and prayer for Gods blessing in the daily lives of these, may friends and you who overlook my faults, and care for me.

Mrs. Artie Faye O'Hair of Bovina came to see her mother, Mrs. Miller, one day recently.

The following little verses were handed to me by a friend and I hope you will enjoy reading them, too. "How wonderful it is to walk with Jesus everyday, allowing him to choose the path and indicate the way, how wonderful it is to know that he will be our guide and understand that he will always be right there by our side, and when the walk is ended, to know we will always hear him say, "Dear child, you know, I promised to go with you all the way", by Florence French. These verses are true and we should always see and know our God is always near and will always hear, when we call upon him, in sincere prayer.

Consumer Food News

COLLEGE STATION --

Demand for beef, particularly for quick-cooking cuts, is influencing the price, one consumer marketing information specialist said this week.

"For real economy, select the less tender cuts such as chuck roasts, chuck and round steaks. Other good choices are ground beef and liver, price-wise," reports Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, who is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and Texas A&M University System.

Another economical possibility is fresh fish and shellfish. Many varieties will be available in the coming weeks, adding to good supplies of fresh frozen seafoods. This means attractive buying opportunities at prices substantially below a year ago, the specialist reported.

"Increasing supplies of peaches, nectarines, plums and grapes have resulted in slightly lower prices.

Fresh vegetables that will soon be arriving on the market in canning-size quantities are purplehull peas, soft shell squash, carrots, corn, cucumbers, cashaw, green onions and radishes."

Prices are slightly higher on fryer chickens.

Eggs are in good supply at reasonable prices. Compare large and medium sizes for the best value for egg money.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: This year's crop of apricots is large. But since the season is short, prices will remain relatively high.

Fashion
Clothes this season are loose and blousy with skirt lengths below the knees.

Jackets are loosely fitted and come just below the hip-line. Prints and checks are good in ensembles and also in single garments.

Open necklines are favored. Some are worn with short scarfs.

Extension Service Names Area 4-H Specialist

LUBBOCK -- July 15 (Spl) . . . The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has named a 4-H and youth specialist for the Panhandle and South Plains areas. She is Martha E. Couch, who has served as Gaines County Extension Agent for the past three years.

The new specialist will be headquartered at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock. She assumes the position vacated by Edwin T. Garnett who was headquartered at Amarillo.

According to Dr. Donald Stormer, state 4-H and youth leader, Miss Couch will give leadership to the 4-H and youth phase of the Extension Service program in Districts 1 and 2, which encompass 42 counties. "Particular emphasis will be directed to expanding the 4-H program as well as to plan and implement programs in leadership and curriculum development," he noted.

"We are fortunate to have Miss Couch assume this position," added Stormer. "She has a wealth of 4-H experience, having been an active member for 10 years and having directed the 4-H program in Gaines County for two years."

Miss Couch was appointed as assistant county Extension agent for Gaines County in May, 1972, and was named county Extension agent in September, 1974.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Couch of Gall Rt., Box 232, Big Spring. During her 4-H career, she won many awards and honors, including the Howard County Gold Star Girl and state winner in the Home Management Program. She participated in the State 4-H Roundup four times and attended National 4-H Congress in Chicago.

At Borden High School, she was active in the Future Homemakers of America and was president of the local chapter.

Miss Couch attended Howard County Junior College and received a B.S. degree in home economics education from Texas Tech, she served as a student assistant in the Food and Nutrition Department. She was on the Dean's List each semester and received the Sear's Scholarship and the Marde Flowers Tinsley Scholarship.

She is a member of the American Home Economics Association and Phi Upsilon Omicron, the honorary fraternity for home economists.

Farm-facts
A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News

Compiled From Sources
Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

It's crop questionnaire time again from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

A total of 24,700 farmers in Texas have received a questionnaire relating primarily to small grain acres. If you are one of those who have received it, you are requested to fill it out as accurately as possible and return it promptly.

Interest continues to increase in all areas of agricultural production in the state and throughout the nation. During the era of the so-called "burdensome surpluses" there was very little interest evoked when a crop survey was made. But now the questionnaire becomes important.

Another form Texas agricultural producers need to note is the census. Although the majority of the census forms have been returned, the Census Bureau says it still needs those not yet returned.

You need to fill out only those questions applicable to your operation. And the Census Bureau says you can be assured no one will see your answers except the census enumerator.

Figures will be compiled into county, state and national totals.

SCREWWORM CASES continue to be reported in parts of Texas, and screwworm eradication officials urge livestock producers to adhere to its four-point program for eradication:

Check your livestock regularly, treat wounds on livestock with approved screwworm-control remedies, delay surgery on livestock as long as possible and submit suspected screwworm samples to the fly lab at Mission. Your county agent has vials which you can use to send the samples.

AUG. 15 may seem to be a long way off since this is still mid-July. But it will be here shortly, and the main thing to remember about Aug. 15 is that it is the deadline date for submitting your entry to the Family Land Heritage Program.

That Program honors those farm families and their descendants in Texas who have owned and continuously farmed the same piece of land for 100 years or more. If you believe you can qualify for this award, you can get an application from your county judge or by writing to the Texas Department of Agriculture, Austin, Texas 78711.

Last year, more than 560 farm families in the state were so honored. The Program, recognized to be of great historical significance, is sponsored by the Texas Department of Agriculture to honor agriculture and agricultural producers.

IF YOU LIKE ICE CREAM (and who doesn't) you'll be happy to know that ice cream production increased in 1974. Perhaps the same trend is continuing this year.

In Texas during 1974, there was enough ice cream produced to provide every person in the state just under three gallons each. If you like mellowine, and apparently most Texans do, Texas is the number one state in production of that dessert.

All this related to the fact that manufactured dairy products utilized 22 per cent of the 1974 Texas milk production.

Texan Is First Woman Hog Grader

AUSTIN--When Fort Worth native Helen Howe went looking for a job last fall, she had hopes of "getting out of the hog pen" for a while.

Instead, her credentials as a former farrowing house manager and the 1972 Texas Pork Queen led her right back into agriculture as the nation's first woman certified hog grader.

Ms. Howe began her grading duties for the Texas Department of Agriculture in September, 1974, after a two-week training session with the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Missouri.

"Ms. Howe is doing an excellent job with the department and in her work as the first woman grader performs an invaluable service for Texas hog producers," according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

Ms. Howe, who first began her grading activities for the Texas Agricultural Market Development Association in Amarillo, now divides her work week between Amarillo and the South Plains Swine Marketing Association in Lubbock. Hogs that are brought in to be sold are first herded into a pen where Ms. Howe looks them over and grades each animal individually by spraying one of four paint colors on its back.

In an average day's work, Ms. Howe may grade almost 1,000 head before they are ready for sale.

Hog grading activities at the Lubbock and Amarillo locations have increased rapidly since last fall, and Ms. Howe, who holds a degree in animal production from Texas Tech University, will soon begin training a new grader to help her in the work.

Ford starts to organize '76 election drive.

CERTIFIED HOG GRADER--Helen Howe of the Texas Department of Agriculture is the nation's first woman certified hog grader. The 1972 Texas Pork Queen, she was also a house farrowing manager.

White Lauds Seven Boards For Efforts

AUSTIN--Agriculture Commissioner John C. White recently praised the state's seven commodity boards for their "excellent job in agricultural research and sales promotion" of the commodities they represent.

Peanuts, grain sorghum, soybeans, wheat, pecans, turkeys and pork are currently represented by the farmer-operated and administered boards.

The commodity board system was established under state law in 1967 to develop programs in research, disease control, disease education and promotion and to encourage production and marketing.

"These boards have been a boon to Texas agricultural producers in many ways," White said. "One that comes quickly to mind is in the field of export. Because of their membership in national commodity organizations, several boards have direct access to offices in major world capitals. This greatly simplifies the arrangement of sales to foreign countries, a factor which producers of wheat, soybeans, grain sorghum and certain other commodities depend on greatly for their livelihood."

Boards also sponsor tours into production areas for foreign buyers. Those boards that belong to national commodity organizations promote their products throughout the United States.

The Lieutenant Governor's Report

By Bill Hobby

The purpose of the revised Foundation School Program is to guarantee that each school district has adequate resources to provide each eligible student access to programs and services which are appropriate to his or her educational needs. To support this purpose, the new public school finance law provides a system of funding more equitable than that afforded by the Foundation School Program before its revision.

Equalization of available funds is accomplished by: 1) the use of market value to determine a school district's ability to pay its share of the Foundation School Program cost; 2) application of a revised method of fund delivery for maintenance and operation costs; 3) increased funding for transportation; 4) expanded programs and services available under the Foundation School Program; and 5) direct equalization aid.

Since the major source of revenue for public school education in Texas is still the ad valorem tax, shifting from a multi-factor economic index to market value as a base for determining a local district's taxpaying ability will send more State money where the need is the greatest - the poor districts. A district's ability to generate ad valorem tax revenue will determine its local fund assignment as well as its fair share of available State funds. Districts with transportation costs is substantially increased under the revised Foundation School Program. Rather than basing a district's maintenance and operations entitlement on the number of teachers employed, funds are now allocated at a fixed rate per student in average daily attendance. The result is a maintenance and operations funding increase of 190%. State aid for transportation is increased over the amount allocated to the districts for the 1974-75 school year by 62.5%.

In addition to including more of the basic costs of public school education under the Foundation School Program, the new public school finance law expands the programs and services which are eligible for State aid. For the first time, partial funding for driver's education and aid for the educationally disadvantaged will be available to the districts under the Foundation School Program. Broadening the scope and raising the overall funding level of the Foundation

Program will allow districts with a limited ability to generate local funds to provide more than a minimum standard of education for their students while allowing the wealthier districts to continue their existing programs.

To further equalize access to financial resources, districts with a limited taxing ability are eligible for direct equalization aid. Over the next biennium, $100 million in State aid will be available to these districts to fund programs and services which are substantially equal to those available to students in districts with greater taxable wealth.

It is the policy of this State that each public school student shall have equal access to programs and services appropriate to his educational needs, regardless of varying economic factors among the school districts. Within the State's current financial means, the revised Foundation School Program is a significant move toward implementing this policy.

Food Stamp Fraud

WASHINGTON—Scandalously loose federal regulations are taking food from the mouths of the needy and giving it, at taxpayers' expense, to the undeserving.

The federal food stamp program has degenerated into a gigantic boondoggle. What began 10 years ago as a modest federal project funded at $40 million has mushroomed into a fiscal monster that will devour $5 billion of the taxpayers' money this year.

Use of food stamps has increased from one of every 439 Americans in 1965 to one of every 13 Americans today, and the growth of the program is likely to be even more astronomical in the future. Under present regulations, one of every four Americans is eligible for food stamps, and that could easily grow to one of every three Americans.

Under present regulations:

- Some able-bodied persons who do not want to work can get food stamps;
- Owners of jewelry, furs and luxury appliances can get food stamps;
- Minor children can get food stamps without parental consent or control.

Enough is enough. It is time to put a halt to the flagrant abuses of the food stamp program.

I have joined with Sen. James Buckley (R-N.Y.) and nearly 70 other members of the Senate and House in sponsoring the National Food Stamp Reform Act. Our bill would save taxpayers at least $2 billion each year, while at the same time increasing benefits to genuinely needy food stamp recipients by as much as 29 percent.

The National Food Stamp Reform Act contains 41 separate provisions to reduce the overall cost of the program by eliminating fraud and abuse and by redefining eligibility requirements.

Administration of the food stamp program would be transferred from the Department of Agriculture to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in order to eliminate costly administrative duplication in the welfare system.

Among the reforms the bill would make are:

- Use of federal government indices to set cut-off points for food stamp eligibility;
- Elimination of the present complicated system of income deductions which makes it possible for families making as much as $20,000 a year to be eligible for food stamps;
- Denial of food stamp eligibility to able bodied persons without small children who are not willing to work, and
- Establishment of accurate monthly reviews to determine whether a food stamp recipient should retain his eligibility.

At the same time, the National Food Stamp Reform Act would significantly expand nutritional assistance. Millions of poor people would benefit directly. The food stamp allotment of each recipient would be immediately increased by 29 percent, and the elderly, who are least able to defend their pocketbooks from the ravages of inflation, would be given special consideration.

Fort Worth Contestant Wins Chicken Contest

AUSTIN—Mrs. Beverly Sebastian, Fort Worth, won the 1975 Texas Chicken Cooking Contest and the right to try for the first prize of $10,000 in the National Chicken Cooking Contest in San Antonio July 7-10.

This will be her second time to represent the state in the national contest. She was chosen in 1971, before the state cook-off system was begun.

Mrs. Sebastian's recipe for "Stuffed Calico Chicken Thighs" took top honors in a field of five finalists in the state's second annual event and earned her $150 in the May 17 event. The cook-off was sponsored by the Texas Broiler Council and the Texas Department of Agriculture.

The finalists, working before an audience of Saturday shoppers in Highland Mall in Austin, prepared two dishes. Judges included Helen Corbett, food consultant and author; Ann Criswell, food editor of the Houston Chronicle; Leigh Finley, food editor of the Dallas Morning News; Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, director of home economics for the Texas Education Agency; and Norman Eaton, Austin restaurateur and gourmet cook.

The national contest, sponsored by the National Broiler Council, is offering $20,000 prize money to the top five contestants.

Other finalists in the state cook-off were Ms. Mabel Clark, Freeport, second; Mrs. Catherine Bachus, Victoria, third; Mrs. Carol Lucius, Austin, fourth; and Mrs. Joyce Hargis, Houston.

A district's ability to generate ad valorem tax revenue will determine its local fund assignment as well as its fair share of available State funds. Districts with a broad tax base will be required to contribute more heavily to their Foundation School Program costs and will receive proportionately less State aid. This funding pattern will free more State money for distribution among districts with limited taxing ability. Increased State aid to districts with a narrow tax base will tend to equalize Foundation School Program funds among the districts.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Texas Taxes

By BOB BULLOCK
State Comptroller

AUSTIN The political controversy aside, the federal revenue sharing program ranks as one sound financial deal for Texas.

While it has kept many communities from seeing red on their budgets, it has also served as a cushion for state government finances and obviously helped us avoid new or heavier taxes.

Since the program began in late 1972, almost $300 million has been received by the State. Of course, this does not include the many millions of dollars which individual cities have received to use as they see fit.

The U.S. Treasury sends the Comptroller a check every three months for about $24 million. This amount is based on the population of the State.

When the federal check arrives, we take a good look at the market for federal government securities just like anyone who is buying stocks or bonds looks at those markets.

If the market is not in good condition, we send the federal money to the state treasury until the market improves. When this happens and the government securities we want to buy are paying better interest rates, we buy them.

I'm pleased with the returns we've been able to get over the years, especially considering that we invest in these securities only on a 30- to 120-day basis each time.

It's hard to find short term investments that pay any better and that are any safer.

Our investment record is a good one, too. We've made more than $11 million in interest earnings over the past three years. In 1973-74 when all interest rates skyrocketed, we often earned more than 8 per cent on our investments and even today we usually expect about 6 per cent and never less than 5 per cent.

As manager of this money, I intend to make as much as possible by investing it in safe and guaranteed securities.

I have to balance my investments of this money, though, in light of the state treasury's needs to keep enough cash balance to pay state government's current bills.

The $100 million Texas will be sent this year is allocated to us by Congress with no strings attached. It is parceled out among state agencies and for state projects by the Legislature in the state budget.

Just as it would be unwise for someone to bury their money in Mason jars in the back yard, it would be just as foolish for the State and the Comptroller who is administrator of the revenue sharing money to let $300 million lay around earning nothing.

The next allocation is due any day now and you can bet it'll be earning some interest for Texas taxpayers before that day is out.

Proper Canning Ends Food Poisoning Fears

AUSTIN--Backyard and community gardens are booming as Americans get back to the earth and try to beat the high cost of living at the same time.

But what happens when all those beans, carrots and tomatoes ripen at once?

Based on estimates from seed experts, some 6 million people will try their hand at gardening this year, and anywhere from 25 to 50 percent of them will attempt home canning or freezing for the first time.

Health officials believe an increase in spoiled foods and botulism, a serious form of food poisoning which can cause death, is bound to coincide with the upsurge in canning.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), there were 20 outbreaks of foodborne botulism involving 30 people last year, the largest number since 1935. Seven people died, five from home canned foods.

To combat further outbreaks the USDA has scheduled regional conferences around the country to explain proper procedures in the home preservation of food. A conference was held in Dallas in May.

The Texas Department of Agriculture is cooperating in the safety effort in publishing a booklet, "Freezing and Canning," this month.

"We are all aware of the necessity of canning food the right way to avoid spoilage, illness and possible death," said Agriculture Commissioner John C. White. "This booklet is one way to join in the safety effort."

TDA home economists, who compiled information for the booklet, remind consumers that the foods they preserve will be no better than the raw foods they begin with. They suggest using fresh, firm fruits, and tender, young vegetables as soon after harvest as possible. Certain overripe foods such as tomatoes lose acidity as they mature.

To destroy microorganisms that cause botulism, other types of food poisoning and food spoilage, a specific heat processing treatment is necessary. Food acidity is the chief factor in determining the temperature and times required for heat processing.

Fruits, pickled vegetables and tomatoes contain enough acid to destroy bacteria in them at 212 degrees F. Therefore, they can be processed safely in a boiling water bath canner. Higher temperatures are required to destroy the botulinum bacteria in low acid foods such as meats and poultry and all vegetables except tomatoes. The only safe way to can these foods is in a steam-pressure canner which provides temperatures higher than that of boiling water.

Jars manufactured especially for home canning must be used. Those which contained coffee, mayonnaise, peanut butter and other household items are less resistant to extremes of temperatures and mechanical shock and may break more readily.

Standard jar closures—new flat metal disks with rubber screw bands or porcelain-lined zinc caps with new rubber rings—are also necessary. Flat metal lids should be used only once. After jars of processed foods have cooled, the center of the flat metal lids must be pressed to determine if the lid has sealed. If it won't move, it has. Jars sealed with porcelain-lined zinc caps should not leak when turned partly over in the hands.

Jars should be labeled and dated and screwbands from two-piece lids removed.

Prices good thru July 23, 1975. We reserve the right to limit quantities. None sold to dealers.

Mediterranean Fruit Flies Worry USDA

AUSTIN--The highly destructive Mediterranean fruit fly, which invaded Brownsville in 1966, has been spotted in four Central American countries, raising the possibility of flies hitchhiking on winter fruit and vegetable exports and entering the United States.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, if the insect gained a foothold in this country, U.S. agriculture would suffer losses in millions of dollars to citrus, peaches, pears and other soft-skinned fruits and vegetables.

To keep the pest outside the country, the USDA has placed a variety of restrictions on shipments of fruits from El Salvador, Nicaragua, Honduras and Guatemala, where the fruit fly has been discovered.

A secondary source of invasion exists in Mexico which borders on Central America. The insect does not exist in that country now, but if it should reach Mexico, restrictions on produce crossing the border would involve considerable expense.

The fruit fly has invaded the United States six times in the past 36 years, five times in Florida and once in Brownsville. Though it was detected early and eradicated each time, outbreaks cost state and federal taxpayers more than $23 million, not including the destruction of host fruits.

Many varieties of winter vegetables eaten in the United States are grown in Mexico and pass through the Texas-Mexico border. If the fruit fly entered Mexico, nearly all shipments of fruits and vegetables from that area would have to undergo expensive fumigation before delivery to the United States. Produce such as tomatoes cannot withstand present fumigants and would be denied entry entirely.

Snow drifts in a cotton field? That's what it looked like last year at harvest time in California. And chances are the illusion will start showing up around here. Cause of the phenomena is a new and innovative method of field storage. The most talked about method is the cotton module. Module builders are best described as hydraulic tampers operating inside portable walls which form the module. This is set up on the turnrow and cotton is dumped directly from the picker baskets into the module. The machine picks up as much as 12 bales on a pallet then is moved to another pallet to repeat the operation. When the packing is complete the modules are covered by a tarp and can be picked up anytime by a gin truck. Growers cited the main advantage of the system as uninterrupted harvesting. Ginners say it increased their effective capacity and solved labor scheduling problems.
