Rodney Reynolds has just taken a 'big' swing at the ball during a practice game for the Muleshoe Pony League Team, who just won regular season play with a record of 12 - 0. This was the final game before playing for district champions in Hereford.

During a press conference Thursday afternoon, Bailey County Judge Gordon H. Green informed the local media of an order passed by Commissioners Court during a special meeting Thursday.

Judge Green said commissioners court had passed an order to call an election for Saturday, August 8, with a purpose of seeing if the citizens of the county want to impose a one-half cent sales tax in Bailey County.

According to the judge, since the Legislature passed a new bill, for the first time allowing counties to levy the one-half cent sales tax, 32 counties have conducted such an election. Of the 32 counties with the election, citizens in 30 of the counties have approved the tax.

He explained that counties can only hold elections on certain days during the year, and August will be the last time to hold an election during the year, as more than one calendar quarter must be left in the year for such an election.

If passed by Bailey County voters, the sales tax would become effective on January 1, 1988, with local businesses collecting the one-half cent tax, send it to the state Comptroller, who would in turn, return the tax to the county.

Judge Green also said that the law has been set up so that in the event the county sale tax passes, it would be mandatory to reduce an valorem taxes.

According to the judge's figures, the ad valorem taxes for 1986 were 39 cents which went mostly to the general and the road and bridge funds. In the preceding two years, the tax had been set at 39.4 cents before being reduced for 1986.

One advantage would be a broader tax base, shared by more citizens, while those who pay ad valorem taxes (property owners) would find their taxes reduced by some 11.12 percent. This will be something like a four-cent reduction, bringing ad valorem taxes down to some 35 cents.

However, Judge Green said the sales tax, if approved, will not affect this year's taxes as it would not go into effect until January 1, 1988. "We have called this election to see whether or not the citizens want to effect this county sales tax," added the judge.

Although older figures, before the reduction in total sales in the county, were used to

Summer School Ends On Positive Note

Muleshoe ISD Summer School closed a five-week session on Friday, July 3, which proved to be a very successful program venture, according to Elizabeth Watson, assistant superintendent.

The school averaged over 200 students in attendance, and classes were offered from kindergarten through high school.

"This summer session extended the 1986-87 school year five weeks and gave some students more time to master concepts in math or language arts," said Mrs. Watson. "For other students, it was a time for enrichment and reinforcement of essential elements, and for the high school students, it was an opportunity to receive credits for graduation in health, math and English."

The assistant superintendent said the goals of this extended instruction were to place each student at the appropriate level, select materials suitable for learning, and give ample time for instruction. Both teachers and students attested that these goals were met.

"By accepting responsibility for the success of every student,

TOUCH OF HISTORY County Fairs Showed Progress Of Community

Hurley featured the first, Bailey County fair in October, 1907 with exhibits placed in the hotel there.

Everyone brought a picnic lunch and diner was spread on tables in the hotel's dining room, according to an interview with H.B. Bearden which Mrs. Stevens had several years ago.

Features of the day were races and a rodeo. The foreman of the Muleshoe Ranch took some calves and horses to Hurley and the cowboys put on the rodeo. The nesters make a purse for the riders.

The second fair in The Bailey County was in Muleshoe in 1925. It opened with a parade depicting the beginning and progress of the county.

The first float was an "old wagon drawn by a pair of broom tails with chain harness, carrying a dining table made of a good box and its supply of beans." The second float represented the present day. It had its dining table loaded with all kinds of fruits and vegetables grown in the shallow water belt, according to the story in the September 14, 1925 issue of the Fort Worth Star Telegram.

Another float showed the first school of the county with Mrs. Harry Wilterding as teacher. There then followed floats representing the 1925 schools in fully equipped brick buildings.

H.B. Bearden drove twelve horses to an old freight wagon, five of the horses he actually used when freighting for the Muleshoe ranch.

Each community had an exhibit with YL winning the community exhibit. Hogs, chickens, dairy and beef cattle also were shown.

A Muleshoe Fair was held in 1926 for the county, according to Mrs. W.H. Kistler, which featured a parade which she remembered well. From the Sept. 24 Journal: Included in the parade were a horse-back flag carrier, followed by "Old Settlers" who came here in the years 1907 through 1909. First were the first babies born to early settlers, then in the process of "growing up." Clarence Milligan rode his covered wagon draped with a banner proclaiming "Came Here in 1908 and Still Satisfied." Hiram Bearden had a train of the freight wagons; E.H. Buhrman drove a wagon and team which had been shipped here from Nebraska in 1908. His banner read "Bailey County farmers of 1908." Ms. H.E. Wilterding sat at her desk with several of the first county school's pupils in their seats on a float proclaiming "The First School." A.C. Gaede's wagon came next loaded with settlers of 1908-1909 proclaiming "We Blazed the Trail and Made This Possible." Oldtimer Col. J.R. Boyle and others coming here in 1907 rode his rack wagon with camp stove, cowchips fuel, and fresno then 25 years old of a jack rabbit being chased by a man. Above picture was printed: "We Mined Our Own Fuel and Caught Our Own Meat." The last entry before the school floats were cars driven by R.B. Canfield and W.H. Kistler.

The next county fair, in September, 1935, was sponsored by the Muleshoe Kiwanis Club assisted by the Bailey County Home Demonstration Council and the Bailey County Farm Association.

More than two thousand entries of homegrown and home canned farm products were on display in the storage room of the Muleshoe Motor Company and in the American Legion hall. A story in The Muleshoe Journal on September 19 of that year further states that there also was a good display of automobiles, tractors, and other machinery handled by dealers in the county; and that West Camp won the community trophy.

The county fair in 1936 was held under a big tent alongside State Highway 214. There was a large assortment of farm products, canned goods, needle and other sewing work, antiques and heirlooms of various kinds. The 4-H Clubs displayed livestock and there were several community exhibits.

Features of the three-day fair included horse racing, automobile racing, dog and rabbit racing, carnival features and a game of football.

The Bailey County fairs are reported to have represented the county, culturally, socially, spiritually, an industrially; and that the exhibits showed the remarkable changes and progress made during the short time the county had been in existence.

The Bailey County fairs were held in the 1930's, with the end coming during World War II. These last fairs were held in quonset huts and barracks, then on school grounds.

SCHOOL FAIRS AND STOCK SHOWS

In 1945, school fairs were held for Bailey County youth to exhibit their stock and accomplishments. Ed White, Muleshoe High School agriculture teacher and J. K. Adams, county agent, were in charge of these school fairs.

The two men tired to revive interest in a county fair, but generated no interest. Thus, the school fairs continued and have evolved into the Fat Stock Shows of the 4-H and FFA youth organizations.

County agent Adams adds that many people consider "the county fair as out of date as the horse and buggy". The advanced type of fat stock shows carry on the modern version of the county fairs.

Bailey county youth participate in the county fat stock shows, then proceed to the district and state competitions from here. The county shows are one of the most advanced types, "with no arm twisting", auction sales, and are judged by qualified people, shows are supported by Muleshoe merchants and other interested persons. In 1963, the cash prizes will range around $2,562. Adams pointed out, which makes the local fat stock show one with more each premium for the class prizes of any show in this area.

Miss Cindy Brotherton became the bride of Gordon Martin in a candlelight ceremony Friday, June 12 at 8 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church of Sudan. The Rev. Kerry Hurst of Lubbock, formerly of Sudan, read the double ring vows.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Larry Brotherton and Ms. Shirley Martin, all of Sudan.

The church was decorated with a spiral candelabra holding white tapers and accented with greenery and pink and white flowers. The altar rail and windows of the chapel were decorated with greenery and votive candles. The unity candle was placed on a wooden pedestal covered with a white crocheted cloth.

Michele and Dawn Gaston sang "There Is Love" and "We've Only Just Begun" with Margaret Williams at the piano.

Escorted by her father, the bride chose a gown of lace and organza, fashioned with a fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline and long tapered sleeves, interspersed with seed pearls. The full skirt fell into a chapel length train. Her veil of illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls. She carried a cascade of white and pink roses accented with baby's breath.

For something old, the bride chose her mother's veil, something new was earrings given her by the mother of the groom, something borrowed was her dress and she wore the traditional blue garter. In her shoes, she wore pennies minted in the years of their births.

served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Kim and Julie Brotherton sisters of the bride. They wore tea length dresses of pink linen and eyelet embroidery and carried roses and baby's breath tied with pink ribbon. They wore pink flowers in their hair.

Flower girls were Celeste Spinherne of Dumas and LaRhonda Fields, of Sudan. They were also dressed in pink as the other bridal attendants.

Wade Donnell served as best man and Michael Gunn and Joe Martin, brother of the groom were groomsmen. Ushers were Jerry and Larry Martin, uncles of the groom. Rocky McAdams and Kit Fields were candlelighters and Camron Nix was ring bearer.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The table was covered with a floor length white linen cloth and centered with the bridal bouquet.

The four-tiered cake, decorated in pink flowers was topped with a Precious Moments bride and groom.

Cake, punch, nuts and mints were served from crystal appointments by Dawn and Michele Gaston of Sudan and Georgiena Hudson of Montrose, Colo. and cousin of the bride.

Creative Living

by Sheryl Borden

Three interesting topics will be presented on "Creative Living," on Tuesday, July 7, at 12 noon and repeated on Thursday, July 11, at 2 p.m. on KENW-TV with all times MDT.

Janel Franklin, co-author of Calf Fries to Caviar will share some of her favorite recipes for a complete meal. Janel is from Tahoka, TX.

Another guest will be Lana Schulte, an Extension Home Economist from Socorro, N.M. Lana will talk about ways to do budget decorating with lamps you make yourself -- using items in the house that will personalize your decorating.

The first guest is a well-known television personality, who appears regularly on the Today Show. Dian Thomas is a home economist from Salt Lake City, UT, and she's going to show some very creative ideas for food for children. Dian stresses that you don't have to be a kid to enjoy some of the ideas she will share with us.

On Tuesday, July 7, at 9:30 p.m., Joy Best, Extension Home Economist, Portales, NM will point out what to look for if you're in the market to buy a serger. Although the serger is not intended to replace the sewing machine, it does the job much faster -- about twice as fast.

Ellen Cheever, kitchen designer, will discuss family living space. Since this area is much smaller in today's homes, new decorating problems may arise. Ellen has some answers for some of these problems. She is with the Maytag Kitchen Idea Center, and lives in Sacramento, CA.

On Thursday, July 9, at 12 noon, Creative Living will feature a discussion of a new book on the market that deals with some unusual 'recipes,' and a demonstration on making pants adaptations for persons confined to a wheelchair.

Catherine Kanner, Santa Monica, CA is an author and an illustrator and serves as a spokesperson for Zest. Her latest book is called The Book of the Bath, and it features unusual 'recipes' for over 100 different baths.

According to this gourmet of baths and showers, everyone can turn bathing into a simple luxury. Ms. Kanner will discuss some of these interesting and relaxing baths and share some colorful history about bathing in this country.

Special needs individuals are actively participating in today's society. Unfortunately, comfortable, functional clothing which is fashionable remains a problem. Dr. Betty Campbell, Chairman of the Home Economics Department at Eastern New Mexico University in Portales, NM will show how to make adaptations to pants -- either ready-made or homemade -- so they're more comfortable for persons who require a wheelchair.

"Creative Living is produced and hosted by Sheryl Borden. The show airs on more than 95 PBS stations in the United States, Canada, Guam, and Puerto Rico and is distributed by Pacific Mountain Network, Denver, CO. Viewers can request copies of printed materials offered on the show by calling KENW-TV's toll-free telephone lines between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. In New Mexico, the number is 1-800-432-2361, out-of-state: 1-800-545-2359 and for Portales and Roosevelt County: 562-2112.

County Extension Agent, will discuss cotton heat units.

In other exhibits, surge irrigation will be shown by Ken Carver, Assistant Manager of the High Plains Water District; and soil moisture will be explained by Mike Risinger, Soil Scientist with the SCS.

"The field day is designed to increase public awareness of the potential savings that can be obtained through increased water and energy use efficiency, as well as improved water management. We show producers ways they can reduce production costs through higher levels of efficiency," says Funck.

Carver adds, "This year we're going to discuss ideas that apply to the dryland producer as well as the irrigation farmers. These water management techniques that we're demonstrating are being adopted by many area farmers as practical and inexpensive methods which are easily incorporated into their management program. We feel these are the best water management techniques for farm use.

"We invite all area producers to stop by Seales' farm to attend the demonstrations. They can visit with the experts see how the various management practices can be incorporated on their farm," Carver says.

The field demonstration day is sponsored by the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 and its Bailey County Committeemen, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Soil Conservation Service and the Blackwater Valley Soil and Water Conservation District.

compute the expected revenue, it is estimated that some $92,000 would be generated for the county. This $92,000 would be a reduction for present county taxpayers, as the sales tax would affect everyone—anyone who spends money in the various businesses countywide.

Judge Green said the proposed county sales tax would have nothing to do with the hospital, or operation of West Plains Medical Center. He said the county commissioners had been considering the sales tax for many months before deciding to call for the election.

He added that the funds would help with the four precincts, county roads, all county offices, the law enforcement center and courthouse maintenance, health offices, the coliseum, the jail, the ambulance service.

For instance, Judge Green said the coliseum brings in some $12,000-$13,000 per year in revenue, however, it has a budget of $79,209 each year. This includes indebtedness of $37,000, with $42,000 for operating expense.

Registered voters will have the option of approving the tax on Saturday, August 8, which would let everyone in the county help share in the county's operating expenses, or continue to tax only those persons who own real property.

Polls will be open at all seven voting boxes in the county, from 7 a.m. - 7 p.m.

Texas A&M handbook explains Texas water law for general readership

COLLEGE STATION — It's been said that a canoeist needs a law book, a copy of the original land grant, a surveyor's instrument and five justices from the Texas Supreme Court to determine whether he has the legal right to use a Texas riverbank. Or start with a new hand book published by Texas A&M University.

A new booklet, "Hand Book of Texas Water Law," published by the Texas Water Resources Institute at Texas A&M, enables the average person to better understand judicial standards that affect water usage.

Copies of the book are available at no cost from the Texas Water Resources Institute, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843-2118 or by calling (409) 845-8571.

Pest Workshop For Producers

Set At Plainview

Cotton, corn and sorghum producers in Bailey County are invited to the second part of the annual High Plains Scout Training Workshop to increase the effectiveness of their pest management programs.

The last of two workshop sessions will focus on mid-and late-season pests and will be held Tuesday, July 7, at the Mabee Heritage Center (Llano Estacado Museum) on the Wayland Baptist University campus in Plainview, Spencer Tanksley, Bailey County Extension agent said.

In June, the first workshop covered early to mid-season crop pests.

Conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the workshop was first held in 1973 to train scouts in the pest management programs conducted by Extension, part of the Texas A&M University system.

The workshop will begin at 8:30 a.m. with Dr. James Leser, Extension entomologist, outlining the scope of the training and explaining general concepts. Dr. Pat Morrison, Extension entomologist, will then open the corn pest section with information on Southwestern corn borers. Spider mites and other corn pests will be discussed by Allen Knutson, Extension agent-entomology, based in Dimmitt.

The cotton session will include a brief discussion of cotton growth and development and bollworms by Leser and beneficial insects by Knutson. Mark Brown, Extension agent-entomology in Crosbyton, will provide information on armyworms, aphids and other cotton pests.

Morrison will discuss greenbugs in sorghum. Greg Cronholm, Extension agent-entomology in Plainview, will conclude the morning sorghum session covering midge, headworms and panicle feeding bugs.

The daylong workshop will conclude with a field session in which participants will identify pests and beneficials and practice scouting technique.

Livestock Producers Are Asked To Get Their Scales Checked

A special Task Force of Texas Department of Agriculture inspectors will be on the High Plains for the next three weeks checking ranch livestock scales, TDS's Lubbock District Supervisor George Ellis announced today.

TDA inspectors will be conducting inspections in Jones, King, Stonewall and Cottle counties between Monday, June 29, and Friday, July 3, Ellis said. Inspections in Bailey, Ellis, Hale and Floyd counties will be held from Monday, July 6, through Friday, July 10. During the last week of the special inspection, July 13 to July 17, scales in Crosby, Lubbock and Fisher counties will be checked, Ellis said.

Ranchers in the targeted counties should call their County Extension agent to schedule an appointment for an inspection, Ellis said. This is the only time that TDA inspectors will be in the designated counties to check livestock scales. Before an inspection can be made, scales must be cleaned.

"It is important that ranchers arrange to have someone present to give TDA inspectors access to their scales. If our inspectors are unable to get to a scale or if the scale has not been cleaned, they cannot inspect the device," Ellis said. "It is important that ranchers make the necessary arrangements to prepare for the inspections because TDA cannot afford to make second trips to inspect any scales."

Ranchers who have already registered their scales with TDA should have a copy of their registration certificate or a cancelled check to show they have paid their 1987 registration fee, Ellis said.

A registration fee of $80 per device must be paid for scales that have not been registered with TDA before an inspection will be made. The registration fee can be paid to the inspector when he arrives for the inspection, Ellis said.

So TDA inspectors can conduct as many inspections as possible during the three-week targeted inspections, ranchers also are asked to give specific directions to their ranch and the scale, when appointments are made with the local County Extension agents, Ellis said.

The county agents and the telephone numbers of the counties to be worked during the first week are:

* Jones -- Gary A. Stanford at 915/823-2432

* King -- Gary D. Antilley at 806/596-4451

* Stonewall -- E.T. Hennig at 817/989-3510, and Cottle -- John E. Ford at 806/492-3151.

During the second week, counties, county agents and their telephone numbers are:

* Bailey -- Spencer D. Tanksley at 806/272-4583

* Lamb -- Jett V. Major at 806/385-4004

* Hale -- Robert C. Benson at 806/293-8481, and * Floyd -- Richard C. Crow at 806/983-2806.

County agents and he telephone numbers of the counties to be inspected during the third week are:

* Crosby -- Andy Vestal at 806/675-2003

* Lubbock -- Randy Upshaw at 806/741-8084, and * Fisher -- Richard A. Spencer at 915/776-2171.

More information about the livestock scale inspections is available by calling TDA's Lubbock District Office at 806/799-8555.

Efficient Water Use Helps On Conservation

As the population grows, efficient water use becomes more important. Conserving water can extend the life of present water supplies and avoid the need to develop costly new sources. This practice also helps reduce utility bills.

A typical family of four will use about 660 gallons of water daily. Of this amount, 65 percent, or 429 gallons, will be used for washing, bathing, cooking and other household purposes.

Water-saving devices installed in the bathroom and kitchen can reduce water flow without sacrificing water pressure.

New shower heads, lavatory and kitchen sink faucets are now featuring factory-installed flow restrictors. These restrictors help reduce the water flow rate to 2½ to three gallons per minute. Homeowners who wish to replace their existing fixtures have the option of choosing faucets and shower heads with the installed restrictors.

Flow restrictors may also be installed on older shower heads. Flow from a standard shower is five to 10 gallons per minute. A flow restrictor may be purchased at most hardware and plumbing supply stores for $2 to $7. However, they are not recommended for older massage-type shower heads as it will decrease the flow needed for the massaging spray.

Some easily installed shower heads have a simple on-off switch to stop the water flow without having to adjust the faucets. This helps eliminate water wasted through the continuous running of the shower while lathering or shampooing.

Aerators conserve water by reducing the faucet flow rate.

The normal flow is five gallons per minute, but the aerator can reduce the rate by half. Aerators can reduce hot water and save up to 60 gallons a month for a family of four. Aerators are commonly available for $1 to $4 from plumbing and hardware stores.

The typical commode flushes away five to seven gallons of water per use and utilizes more water per day than any other fixture in the home. A family of four will flush the toilet 12 to 15 times daily, and will use 60 to 100 gallons of water doing so. Newer "water-saver" toilets help reduce the amount of water per flush from five gallons to 2.5 gallons. If the same family of four installed a "water-saver" toilet, they could save up to 10,950 gallons of water yearly.

Avoid unnecessary flushing and don't use the toilet as a waste basket. Placing used facial tissue in the trash, rather than flushing them down the toilet eliminates water waste.

Displacement devices are not recommended as a way to conserve water used by toilets. If the toilet dam or displacement bag is improperly positioned, it can interfere with the mechanical action of the toilet. Bricks should be avoided as they tend to crumble and damage plumbing fixtures.

Perhaps the best water-saving device is visual inspection of toilet tanks and faucets for leaks.

According to Dr. Susan Quiring, a house specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service, household leaks waste water.

High Humidity Can Damage RV

High humidity can be particularly destructive to recreational vehicles such as motor homes and travel trailers, says an official with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

A large number of RVs use a paper or plastic covering paste over the ceilings and walls, often in the form of a wood grain or wallpaper type design. High humidity sometimes causes the bonding agent or glue to loosen its grip and causes wrinkles or air pockets to form, points out John Cochran, an agricultural engineer. Sometimes this is due to wood expanding or swelling as it takes on additional moisture.

One way to prevent and sometimes correct these wrinkles or air pockets is to leave a lamp with a 60 to 100 watt bulb burning continuously in the RV. The lamp heat should remove a great deal of the excess moisture. After several days, check to see if any wrinkles are still evident.

If loose covering or wrinkles still exist, try pressing them gently with a folded cloth to re-stick the material, recommends Cochran. Do not use a sharp object that may tear the covering. If the covering will not re-stick, "super glue" injected with a disposable syringe does wonders.

Inject small amounts of glue in the wrinkle or air pocket and smooth it out with a cloth. The tiny hole left by the needle is not visible, and excess glue is removed by the cloth, Cochran notes. This practice also keeps glue off the fingers.

money and energy. "A faucet dripping 60 drops per minute will waste almost 2300 gallons of water per year. That's enough to fill a swimming pool," she says.

Quiring noted that leaky toilet tanks are notorious water wasters as well. "Leaky toilets can waste 300 - 500 gallons per day without anyone noticing." One way to check for leaks is to add a few drops of food coloring in the tank and letting it sit for 15 minutes, then check the bowl. If it contains colored water, the toilet is leaking and needs repair.

For more information on household water conservation, contact the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, 2930 Avenue Q, Lubbock, TX. 79405 or call (806) 762-0181.

FREEDOM

Inscription for the Statue of Liberty BY EMMA LAZARUS

Give me your tired, your poor, Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free,

The wretched refuse of your teeming shore, Send these, the homeless, tempest-tossed, to me:

I lift my lamp beside the golden door.

This truly reflects the attitude of a nation living close to God. The concern and love for others grows through Christian fellowship. Attend Church Regularly.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long endure and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Wildlife specialists discover interbreeding between two deer species

COLLEGE STATION — Texas A&M University wildlife specialists have found evidence of crossbreeding between white-tailed deer and mule deer in parts of West Texas, marking the first time scientists have ever documented mating between two species of large mammals in the wild.

The work is significant because hybridization among large mammals is rare, said project leader Dr. Steve Carr, and because it may lead to better management practices that would enhance Texas' $600-million-a-year hunting industry.

"Hunters and scientists have long known that the two species were intermingling in the Trans-Pecos River region of Texas and have often wondered if interbreeding could play a part in the dwindling number of mule deer in that part of the state," said Carr.

He said interbreeding is a concern because there are significant differences between the value of white-tail and mule deer as game animals.

"Hunters pay different prices for leases according to the quality of deer available. Mule deer are often preferred because they are larger and have larger racks," said the wildlife scientist whose research was conducted in the Wildlife Genetics Laboratory.

The researchers examined over 100 deer, including herds of white-tail and mule deer in West Texas. "Surprisingly, on one Pecos county ranch the two species were genetically identical," Carr said. White-tailed deer from South Carolina and mule deer from California were examined as well, he said.

Genetic patterns of the Pecos County deer, which were compared to patterns of the mule deer from South Carolina, were more similar to the white-tailed deer pattern, Carr said, suggesting West Texas mule deer have acquired white-tailed deer genes.

"Our hypothesis is that hybridization occurs most often between white-tailed does and mule deer bucks," he said.

18. Legal KNOW THE WEATHER

Why does a weather change so often affect the sinuses or the ears?

When the weather changes, the pressure also changes as a usual thing. When a clear spell comes to an end and rainy, low-pressure weather begins, those who experience ear or sinus trouble often experience discomfort.

This is because there are pockets of air in our head, or sinuses, which become blocked off. The pressure inside becomes greater than outside when the barometer falls (and a low-pressure system arrives overhead) and expands the pockets.

A doctor will open them up, or equalize the pressure. The eustachian tube in the ear is a natural safety valve to allow air in and out of the ear. If it's closed by a swelling or a bad cold, then you risk puncturing your ear drum if you fly at a high altitude.
