NEWS OF THE WEEK.

CONGRESSIONAL.

There was introduced in the Senate on the 27th, a memorial of ex-soldiers and sailors of Providence, Rhode Island, protesting against the violations of the civil service reagainst the violations of the civil service reform, especially in relation to the appointment of custom officers in Providence, and alleging interference by federal officers in elections. The Senate proceeded to consider the cattle transportation matter. An amendment to provide for the appointment of inspectors was lost. It was then moved to limit the length of time for which cattle may be kept without unloading for food and water 24 hours instead of 48 hours. After debate it was rejected. A Senator from Delaware moved to strike out the clause requiring railroad companies to give the right of way to stock trains above all other freight, such as perishable fruits, etc., was as much entitled to speedy transportation as live stock. The matter had better be left to the regulation of the companies. A Senator

Late advices also show large purchases of wheat at St. Petersburg for South Germany. English millers are not laying in stocks, but buy sparingly, and seem in no way disturbed at the manipulated advance in our markets. In our home markets values are unchanged—there have been the usual fluctuations, but prices invariably come back to last week's quotations. There is no change in the deal at Chicago and Milwaukee. The "clique" still own the cash wheat, and are large buyers of June and July options. Seaboard markets, in sympathy with foreign demands, are relatively low with interior markets. At New York, No. 2 spring (the speculative grade in Chicago and Milwaukee) is today quoted at $1.04, while at Chicago the same grade is selling at $1.02% a bus, on board cars. In these same spring wheat markets, No. 3 spring wheat is selling at 20c a bus, below No. 2, while ordinarily the difference is 8c, and actually for manufacturing purposes they would not be more than 6c apart. The differences show how badly strained the values are at Chicago and Milwaukee. Receipts at both points have been large, and continue so, though those who have traveled over the Northwest claim but little wheat is left to be marketed.

America's Fifteen Inventions

rom the New York Sun.

An English journal frankly gives credit to the American genius for at least fifteen inventions and discoveries which, it says, has been adopted all over the world. These triumphs of American genius are thus enumerated: First, the cotton gin; second, the planing machine; third, the grass mower and grain reaper; fourth, the rotary printing press; fifth, navigation by steam; sixth, the hot air or caloric engine; seventh, the sewing machine; eighth, the India rubber industry; ninth, the machine manufacture of horse shoes; tenth, the sand blast for carving; eleventh, the gauge lathe; twelfth, the grain elevathirteenth, artificial ice manufacture on a large scale; fourteenth, the electro-magnet and its practical application; fifteenth. the composing machine for print-ers. It is not often that American achievements in this direction receive due credit from such a source.

We can not see why Secretary Gray, in his quarterly report, and certain papers, like the Topeka Com monwealth, will persist in putting the wheat prospect of this State at such high figures. We doubt if there will be 40 per cent. of an av. Botter than any Saleratus erage crop harvested; and this thing of making a blow about large crops only tends to bring the price of wheat down; and the poor man, who has to sell his wheat as soon as it is harvested, is the loser thereby; while the rich purchaser, who can wait for the inevitable rise in the market, is thus enabled to increase his riches. We ourselves like to puff and blow about the great resources of this State; but we do not like to do so to the detriment of the poorer class of our citi-

Purchasers of these monuments do not need to send for a stone cutter to chose in the inscriptions, and costing from five to ten dollars extra—simply send for the inscription plate, giving the number of monument and tablet required which will come by express; then with the aid of the socket wrench (which comes with every monument) the old tablet can be taken off and replaced with the new, and not requiring the labor of five minutes; then return the old tablet to the manufacturers and receive credit for it.

Are the most offective and congenial purgative ever discovered. They are mild, but et tic medicine that can be employed: cleansing the stomach and bowels, and even the blood. In small doses of one pill a day, they stimulate the digestive organs and promote vigorous health.

AYER'S PILLS have been known for more than a quarter of a century, and have obtained a world-wide reputation for their virtues. They correct diseased action in the several assimilative organs of the body, and are so composed that obstructions within their range can rarely withstand or evade them. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of everybody, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are, at the same time, the safest and best physic for children. By their aperient action they gripe much less than the common purgatives, and never give pain when the bowels are not inflamed. They reach the vital fountains of the blood, and strengthen the system by freeing it

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS.

He was ignorant of his parentage; he had been found one summer morning on the steps of the Foundation School in Baxtersgate, Ripon, and as it was on the festival of St. Mark, he had received the name of the saint and the name of his native city, and been adopted by the institution.

See for yourself, George."

"If I do, godfather, it will not be because I am sure to prove you wrong."

Still George thought it singular that he could not by the adroit questioning get from his wife any allusion to these mysterious visits. At length be said. "Emma, I will ask for Thursday afternoon, and we will go out to Aldborough Woods.

was a fresh confirmation of it.

But he had many friends among his own sex. Men generally spoke of him as a crusty old bachelor, but otherwise a well-to-do, shrewd, and honorable fellow.

"Don't be such a fool, George; go and question your servants."

After a little reflection George crossed to bis own house and rang the bell. The housemaid seemed astonished at his appropriate to the such a fool, George; go and question your servants." Chief among these friends was young pearance, and when he asked where her George Downes, the child of the only companion his boyhood had ever known, and since she had taken her orders for dinner. his own godson. If Mark Ripon loved any human being, it was George Downes, "Where is your mistress, Ann?" human being, it was George Downes, though as the latter grew up to manhood, he gave him a great deal of anxiety. For George preferred the society of women, and would not credit Mark's positive asand would not credit Mark's positive as-surances of their universal falseness and the children; the mistress knows her own unworthiness.

One moonlight night, as Mark was coming from a vestry meeting, he met George in the cathedral close, and on his arm was a very beautiful girl. The old man looked angrily and doubtfully at the pretty face lifted to his favorite's. The bright moonbeams touched her long, fair curls, and made the white veil around them like a Mark remembered just such a

George, however, would not be persuaded to doubt her. Then Mark offered to pay his expenses if he would go abroad "Ah, yes; she is here. If you will please to go up one stair. He redoubled his care over him, and watched all his movements with a constantly increasing interest. In fact he did not blame George at all; he regarded him as one who, in an unfortunate hour, had fallen into the hands of a power which was too great for him. He pitied the happy bridegroom, and resolved as soon as possible to release him from the toils of the woman who had charmed and enslaved

In vain George's wife smiled upon and entertained Mark Ripon. He visited her house, indeed, for it was necessary to watch her movements; but neither her smiles, nor songs, nor attentions moved Mark. He had gone through the delusion once and was not to be deceived again.

There had also come to the happy home, over the way from Mark's, a fine little boy, that had been called after him, and a blue-eyed girl, whom not even Mark could yet find in his heart to regard as false and dangerous. He was even venturing to make Mrs. George Downes that exception said to be contingent on every rule, when suddenly all his suspicions were forced into active life and promi-

The affair was beginning to look very black to Mark, for he had satisfied himself that George had been told nothing what ever of these clandestine excursions. On the next Monday he had a carriage wait-ing, and when the lady went out again he directed his driver to keep her well in sight. In this way he followed her be-yond the aristocratic precincts of the city, to a little house set back in a garden quite in the suburbs. A very handsome, for-eign-looking man met her at the door and d her with many smiles into the house.

Mark sent his carriage home, and, in spite of the cold, patiently waited. After au interval of two hours, Mrs. Downes' carriage returned, the same gentleman put her carefully into it, and she must have driven at once home, for when Mark passed the house she was sitting in her plain merino dress at the window, nursing his namesake. She ran to the door and begged him to come in, but Mark was full off his discovery, and answered gruffly, 'Ask George to come to me after dinner; I have something to tell him.'

"I can't go Thursday, George, dear; I have so much to do.

But there is a success which the world will go with you Friday, dear."

George was a little cross at the refusal, sees little of—that of the heart—and in this respect Mark Ripon was the veriest pauper. Of the nurses and matrons who had been around his earliest years he had not one tender memory; none of them had fed the hunger of his heart. He had no home, no mother, and no sister. The school had been simply a place in which to eat, to sleep, and to learn.

Unfortunately, when the lad fell in love, it was with a pretty flirt infinitely more it was with a pretty flirt infinitely more hair as elaborately dressed as if she was heartless than himself. But Mark's love going to a state dinner at the Bishop's

George, however, would not be persuaded to doubt her. Then Mark offered to "No, I wish to see Mrs. Downes; she is there was a little landing and a door, and George fully expected that he would now be ignored, and probably lose forever any chances he might have had of inheriting his godfather's wealth. But Mark was unlike the generality of men in war.

"Oh, George, how provoking! What made you come, dear?' His wife was sitting in all her bridal finery on a little elevated platform, and Signor Sarti was putting the last touches to a very levely portrait of her.

"I meant it for your Christmas gift, George, and and you have peeped before hand. Is it not too bad?"

"Indeed it is, Emma." But Emma was almost satisfied with his peeping, so proudly and lovingly did he take her

He came from London to paint my lord bishop and the cathedral, and the signora was so much better here It was one great point in his favor that George had taken a house in such a situation that he could keep the young wife under very close surveilance, and he was confident that sooner or later he would prove her all that he believed women universally to be.

But month after month went by, and

George felt more and more sorry and humiliated as he looked in the pretty frank face, and thought how cheerfully, after all, she had taken the forestallment of her

Christmas secret.

"I will do as you say, Emma. Has the signor plenty of work?"
"He is painting many of the principal ladies in the city. The Bishop thinks very highly of him. Indeed I have seen his lordship there at nearly all my visits."

George let the subject deep new as

One day—a very wet one—a close carriage drove up to George's house, and Mrs. George, heavily cloaked and veiled, was driven away in it.

"Very well, ma'am," said Mark, suspiciously, to himself, "we shall see whether you confess to having been out to-day."

So he went over to George's played a rubber or two with his favorite, and tried

Wire Barbing Machinery.—A Decision of

Wide Application. The Boston Herald of May 18th, says. Washburn & Moen Manufacturing Company, of Worcester, have won another important suit. A decision has just been rendered May (12) at the United States Patent Office, in an interference declared between Henry W. Putnam's patents on automatic machinery for manafacturing barbed fence wire, and the application of S. M. Stevens of Illinois, for patent of similar improvements, awardng priority of invention to and in favo of Putnam, thus affirming and securing the asignee of Putnam (The Washburn & Moen Maufacturing Company), the broad and exclusive right to the use of automatic machinery in the manufacture of barbed fence wire. In the contest, Stevens appears to have been backed by Jacob Haish of DeKalb, Illinois, and othr parties in Illinois and Iowa, against whom suits are now being prosecuted by he Washburn & Moen Manufacturing Company, for infringements of its barbed wire patents. The present decision is held to fully confirm the position taken by said Company, viz: that it, and I. L. Ellwood & Co., of DeKalb, Ill., and their bloomers are the only parties who can licensees, are the only parties who can legally and rightfully manufacture and ell barbed fence wire.

It is seldom that we have been willing to say anything in favor of patent medicines, but Dr. Crook's Wine of Tar, manufactured by S. N. Smith & Co., of Dayton, Ohio, differs so widely from medicine of this class that we would do an injustice to our own feelings did we fail to state the fact that while using it in our own family we have learned its merits, and recognize it as superior to any thing of its class; indeed it is not a patent medicine, strictly speaking, for it was a prescription of one of Dayton's best and most honored physicians; and one who had, while living one of the leavest practices of any medical man in the largest practices of any medical man in the State. Is a Preparation of IRON and CALISAYA BARK, in combination with the Phosphates, Endorsed by the Medical Profession, and recommended by them for Dyspepsia, General Debility, Female Diseases, Want of Vitality, &c., &c.

Manufactured by the Dr. Marter Medicine Co., No. 213 N. Main Street, St. Louis. The following is one of the very many testimonials we are receiving daily:

Gentlemen:—Some three months ago I began the use of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic, upon the advice of many friends who knew its virtues. I was suffering from general debility to such an extent that my above was exceedingly burdensome to me. A vacation of a month did not give me much relief, but on, the contrary, was followed by increased prostration and sinking chilis. At this time I began the use of your Iron Tonic, from which I realized almost immediate and wonderful results. The old energy returned and I found that my natural force was not permanently abated. I have used three bottles of the Tonic. Since using it I have done twice the labor that I ever did in the same time during my illness, and with double the case. With the tranquil nerve and vigor of body, has come also a clearness of flought never before enjoyed. If the Tonic has not done the work, I know yet what. I give it the credit.
