From the desk of Santa Claus

Mrs. Claus and I came to Friona Texas, all the way from the North pole and we are very happy we did. The people of Friona are good people and all the kids big and little were wonderful. The elves were a big help to us and the train ride in was the best. Mrs. Claus and I would like to wish all of the people of Friona A Very Merry Christmas and a Blessed and Wonderful New Year. Hope to see you again next year.

Merry Christmas Yall.

FHS is victim of bomb threat hoax

According to various law enforcement agencies, dozens of bomb threats were reported late Thursday at government buildings, media outlets, banks, and schools across the United States. The threats were sent in spam emails demanding that their targets pay ransom in bitcoin. The emails were all similar in that the sender had hired a "recently former" to place an explosive device in the building and that it would be detonated unless $28,000 in cyber currency was paid. Those threats were a test on earlier cyber erosion at homes that threatened individuals with blackmail if a payment was not sent.

One of the creators of the cyber attack last Thursday was Friona High School. Somewhere around 2:30 p.m., a teacher at FHS checked their email and discovered the threatening message. That teacher reported the threat to the High School office and the staff notified local law enforcement officials. After determining that the threat posed a danger to the students, a predetermined evacuation plan was implemented. All students exited the buildings and loaded onto buses and were driven to an undisclosed location until the threat was declared false. The evacuation plan took approximately 3.5 minutes to complete. Meanwhile, the Primary, Elementary, and Junior High Schools were all placed on "lockdown" as a precaution.

As approximately 3:10 p.m., the Friona Police Department informed Superintendent Jimmy Burns that the Texas Rangers had given the "all clear" signal and that the students could return to school. Even though there were a few anxious moments, school officials were very pleased with how every student remained calm and tried to prevent any suspicious activities which could represent a threat to public safety.

It will be hard to discover who initiated the cyber attack scam and if their motivation was money or just chaos. There were no reports that any explosive devices were found, but the threats alone cost thousands of dollars.

Records are meant to be broken. This time, that record really needed to go. The goal was to break 26,512 bales ginned in draft year. That mark was set in the year 2008, or 2009 if your memory allows you to go back that far. Yes, the same 2009 that reminded the country at the is gone and so is the record. The new standard is 35,770 bales.

would stretch from one end

In most cases, this 21st Century affliction runs rampant among adolescents and millennials. They fall asleep with their smartphones nearby and during the night they send messages to their friends. And, in most cases they don't remember doing it.

As folks travel around Texas over the pre-Christmas week-end, the Grinch will not get in the way, as weather conditions should remain dry right up to Christmas Eve, or even Christmas Day. But, "Alphonso, much of central and eastern Texas will see rain for a few days in the middle of next week. Those who wish for a White Christmas will need to wait at least until Christmas Day, " Bomar said. "Then, much of central and eastern Texas will see rain on Christmas, as temperatures will be seasonally cool-but not cold."

Before you leave on your trip: • Make sure everyone in the vehicle is buckled in — every trip, every time, no matter where they are in the vehicle. • Pack your patience — traffic is likely to be heavy, so it may take longer than usual to get to your destination. • Pay attention — have someone else hold your mobile phone while you’re driving. A crash can happen in just moments. • Be aware of road conditions and adjust your speed — it’s raining or snowing, slow down. Hope For The Holidays

By Jeff Procter, Minister, 6th Street Church of Christ

Life is a holiday season that is always changing. It can be a time to do everything but fail. Everything has a built-in ending; but the reality is there can be a lot of stress, struggle and despair that can present itself too. Emotions can run high during the holidays, causing the smallest of issues to explode.

Long lines and parking lots are just a couple of the holiday experiences that tax our patience. Even when we give up much deeper than we face the first holiday season without a loved one. Still believing in the power to change, we do not have that opportunity. We need not place our ability to change anyone, down. We are fewer than we believe that simply helps us change ourselves.

This world can be cold and heartless; it can be very dark indeed. It can never change the fact of the love of Jesus Christ. For when light shines through the darkness like a little light through a broken window, it will never overcome. Although darkness made every effort, darkness lacked in its own light. The light of the world, Jesus, came to surround people of God, He came to be. He comes to give hope and salvation to humanity. It is a powerful force that nothing else can overcome. If hope is to change during those dark times, this is to say. To take small steps, through the times, and you will find that hope flows through in hopes. Joseph had to cling to hope and believe some pretty difficult things. Our Lord and Savior Mary. He and they were to hope that what God believed would come about. He is not useful thinking, but as always, true to it, people find hope flows through those steps.

It doesn’t work. A small amount of hope can conquer a large amount of fear. Couple it with faith and love and the perfect trifecta has been formed. I want to wish you a very Merry Christmas and a Blessed New Year to remind you there is hope for the holidays and He is formed. I want to wish you a very Merry Christmas and a Blessed New Year to remind you there is hope for the holidays and He is formed. I want to wish you a very Merry Christmas and a Blessed New Year to remind you there is hope for the holidays and He is formed. I want to wish you a very Merry Christmas and a Blessed New Year to remind you there is hope for the holidays and He is formed.

How Much Will This Season Cost Holiday Shoppers?

By Teena Hughes

I had never thought of “Sue” as a fake lifestyle, but the only thing that is certain, is a lesson.

First of all, pretending to be something you aren’t fits all of the definitions of a fake lifestyle. “Sue” can be anything, but only to the people she deals with and comes in contact with, but she cannot fool God. The truth always comes out. Just when it seems, many people will be hurt and disappointed at the deception “Sue” has perpetrated on them. Secondly, the opposite of “fake” is real and genuine. To me, the only way to be a real, genuine identity is accept Jesus as your savior, and to be one in an authentic relationship with Him: loving Him, holding Him, serving Him, studying His Word, setting to be like Jesus. God doesn’t want us to be of false ideas. We want to be “real” and honest about who we are so we can go on through with us and others. It was to be like this Son, and the He was to be in relationship with Him.

We are about to celebrate the birthday of the most real Man who ever walked the face of this earth, Jesus Christ. He is the Way, the Truth, and the Life (John 14:6). He is our example for how we should live our lives. We are not perfect, but in all that we say and do, we should honor God and try to be like His Son. Merry Christmas everyone… enjoy this season and have a great New Year!"

This recipe goes by a variety of names, but we call this recipe the most delicious, pretty, and delish. You can also use this technique with granola crackers for a different flavor.

Cracker Candy

1 cup及 butter

2 cups milk chocolate chips

Place the crackers side by side in a 10” x 15” baking dish and spread the brown sugar in a saucer. Bring to a boil. Cook until the mixture starts to smoother. Smoke the mixture over the crackers. Roll at 600°F for 5 minutes. Sprinkle chocolate chips over the mixture. Let stand uncovered, spread the melted chocolate over the peanuts. Place the candy on on a flat surface and remove foil.
Break into chunks and serve.

12 oz. semi-sweet chocolate chips

Teenager Drivers

As they learn to drive and make their own decisions, they are more likely to take risks. This can lead to accidents and, in some cases, the death of a teenager.

A few tips for making candy:

- Choose a simple syrup to cool and set.
- Use a pastry brush dipped in water to rinse the pans to make the sugar move more quickly.
- Avoid stirring unless the recipe spe-ifically asks you to stir. This can create sugar “glass” or sugar threads and make the candy grainy.
- Be prepared to add more sugar if you do not have the right sized pan. A pan that is too large can cause the sugar to boil over and cause a fire. A pan that is too small can cause the sugar to boil over
and cause a fire. A pan that is too small

- Make sure he takes a few test bites as well.
- Be sure to have all your ingredients measured and your pan clean before you begin cooking the peanut brittle years ahead. I just learned from trial and error.

Christmas Candy

By Jerry Lynn White

Making candy at Christmas is not new to me. It is a treasured common tradition. If you are like me, you have always parceled the recipe with the family for the past behind making candy. This week I will revisit some of the making hacks and show you tips, and of course include a few of my fa-favorite Christmas time candy recipes.

Candy making usually be done around a theme and you can always make a whole assortment of candy! Always remember, another important factor in candy making is the process. Basically, different types of candy require different ingredients and the way they are heated.
Crackly candy tends to be more refined sugar and been sliced, diced, or chopped are the way the crystals form.
Most candy begins with a simple syrup of sugar and water. By heating the mixture, the solution, more sugar can be dissolved in the liquid. The longer the sugar on the heat, the more the sugar decreases and becomes dry. When the mixture crystallizes, crystallization begins. By manipulat-

Andy Montana cooked hamburgers for all of the participants courtesy of the Friona Noon Lions Club and other sponsors. The Bobsled Classic is conducted via a software program written by FHS alumnus Brent Hinkle. Hundreds of other schools also utilize this program for their events.
