

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT, S. GROVER CLEVELAND, Of New York. FOR VICE-PRESIDENT, THOMAS A. HENDRICKS, Of Indiana.

DEMOCRATIC MASS CONVENTION.

The Democracy of Chase county, Kansas, are hereby called to meet in mass convention, at the Court house, in Cottonwood Falls, at 11 o'clock, a. m., on Saturday, August 9, 1884, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the following offices to be voted on at the coming November election: Representative, County Attorney, Clerk of District Court, Probate Judge, County Superintendent and County Commissioner for the 1st District, and to elect a County Central Committee for the ensuing year.

All anti monopolists, and men who are opposed to high tariffs, and who can endorse the Chicago Democratic platform, and will pledge themselves to support the nominees of the Democratic county convention, are invited to attend and take part in this convention.

By order of the Committee, L. W. COLEMAN, Ch'm'n. W. E. TIMMONS, Sec'y.

THE TWO RINGS.

After our paper appeared last week one of the ring Republicans came to this office, and said (we suppose he belongs to the ring, from the way he accosted us): "Is the great immaculate candidate in?" and remarking that it is just such a Democrat as the editor of this paper, who never scratches a Democratic ticket, who bursts the ring arrangements; that, this year the Republicans only want one office and we fellows were trying to beat them out of that. Now, when the editor of this paper said he had never in all his voting scratched a Democratic ticket he did not say he had never voted for Republicans, for, if he had said that, he would have borne false witness, as is well known to this community; because, when we came to this county we found two wings in the Democratic and Republican parties; and these separate elements of the two great political parties were blended into two political factors in county politics; and the editor of this paper took sides with one of these contending elements in county politics, and worked and voted with that element until the fall of 1877, when the Democrat wanted his office on the ticket—that of Sheriff—and insisted on making a nomination for that office; when the ring Republicans immediately flow the track and put up an independent candidate for that office; then in spite for this ring Democrats flow the track in the Third Commissioner District, and our candidate, Mr. O. H. Drinkwater, was defeated, and the Republican organ got the county printing.

From that time on there was a separation of these co-workers in county politics, a portion of the Republican faction, however, remaining apparently disaffected; and it is the leaders of this element that have succeeded in running the Democratic party in the interest of the Republican ticket. Right here, we will state that the editor of this paper voted eight different years for the ring Republican of whom we have just spoken, and assisted in electing him to office that many times; and is, therefore, under no obligations to him.

In 1878 the two rings made an agreement that if the Democratic ring would support the Republican candidate for County Attorney, the Republican ring would support Dr. W. P. Fugh, the Democratic candidate for Representative; but about 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the day of the election the editor of this paper discovered some of the Republican ring voting men straight Republican, from W. A. Morgan, candidate for Representative, to the bottom of the ticket, and reported the same to the Democratic swappers in this city, when they immediately went to work for W. S. Romigh, our candidate for County Attorney, and thus was saved by a plurality of three votes.

In 1879 the ring Republicans and the ring Democrats wanted the Democrats to make no nomination for County Treasurer, but to recommend a certain man for that office; but the Democratic convention would not set on this suggestion, but put up a "Peoples' Ticket," and got badly snowed under, all except the Republican part of the ticket, the vote for the candidate for County Treasurer, Mr. A. R. Lee, showing conclusively that he was sold out in the interest of the Republican candidate, as was also Mr. J. G. Paris, the candidate for Sheriff, sold out in the interest of the Republican candidate for Sheriff. This brings us down to where we began, last week, in telling about these two rings in our county politics, that we consider worse than a Court-house ring, because they, on account of being private citizens, are harder to find out in their work than are public officials, and they succeed in perpetuating the Court-house ring, if there is such a ring. Let every one read the Democratic call for a county convention, and if he intends voting with the Democratic party, this fall, he should attend the convention and help to burst the ring; and then will we be sure of electing the entire opposition ticket; but if these rings be not burst, our chances to defeat any of the Republican candidates are placed in great jeopardy.

THE PROHIBITIONISTS.

Meeting of the Prohibition National Convention at Pittsburgh-St. John for President, Daniel for Vice-President-The Platform.

PITTSBURGH, PA., July 24.—The National Convention of the Prohibition party, met yesterday in Lafayette Hall. The address of welcome was delivered by C. L. Rose of Pittsburgh. He described it as a very great honor and pleasant duty to welcome to Pittsburgh the delegates of the National Prohibition convention. Gideon T. Stewart, Chairman of the National Committee, responded in behalf of the convention, and then delivered the opening address. Temporary organization was effected in the choice of William Daniel, of Maryland, for Vice-President, and after that gentleman had returned thanks the convention adjourned sine die.

The National Committee.—At a meeting of the National Committee the following officers were elected: John B. Finch, Lincoln, Neb., Chairman; D. P. Saugendorph, Charlotte, Mich., Vice-Chairman; A. J. Jenkins, Chicago, Ill., Corresponding Secretary; J. A. Van Fleet, Chicago, Ill., Recording Secretary; S. D. Hastings, Madison, Wis., Treasurer. These officers with Miss Frances E. Willard, of Evanston, Ill., and Mrs. Brown, of Cincinnati, O., constitute the Executive Committee of the party with full power to act when the General Committee is not in session.

The Platform.—First—The Prohibition party in National Convention assembled, acknowledge Almighty God as the author and sovereign of all men, from whom the just powers of government are derived, to whose laws and enactments we are bound in conscience and peace, prosperity and happiness only can come to a people when their laws of National and State Governments are in accord with the divine will.

Second—That the importation, manufacture, supply and sale of alcoholic liquors created and maintained by the laws of National and State Governments during the entire history of such laws is everywhere shown to be promoting the cause of intemperance with resulting crime and pauperism, making large demands upon charity, private charity, imposing large and unjust taxation, and imposing burdens for penal and sheltering institutions upon ability, industry, manufacture and commerce, endangering the public peace, causing the deterioration of the Sabbath, corrupting politics, legislation and administration of laws, shortening lives, impairing health, and demoralizing the individual, causing the education of neglected and degraded, nullifying the teachings of the Bible, church and school, the standard and guide of our fathers and their children in the founding of this country and which is impairing the perpetuity of our civil and religious liberties.

Third—There are now over 2,000 distilleries, breweries, wholesale and retail dealers in these drinks, holding certificates and claiming authority from the government, the production of a business so destructive to the moral and material welfare of the people, together with the fact that the government is unable to enforce its prohibition laws, and the fact that the government is unable to enforce its prohibition laws, and the fact that the government is unable to enforce its prohibition laws.

Fourth—That the existing competition of the Republic and Democratic parties for the liquor vote, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Fifth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Sixth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Seventh—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Eighth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Ninth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Tenth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Eleventh—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Twelfth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Thirteenth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Fourteenth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Fifteenth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Sixteenth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Seventeenth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Eighteenth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Nineteenth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Twentieth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Twenty-first—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Twenty-second—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Twenty-third—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Twenty-fourth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Twenty-fifth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Twenty-sixth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Twenty-seventh—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Twenty-eighth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Twenty-ninth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Thirtieth—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.

Thirty-first—That the collection of revenues from alcoholic liquors and tobacco, and the fact that the party not openly opposed to the traffic will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes.
