Comment Slanted Reporting

Slanted reporting on the Watergate scandal continues with little credit due that segment of the American news media participating in a push to get rid of President Nixon, forcing his resignation or impeachment, by any means.

Without minimizing the scandal or its importance, ample investigation and prosecution are now underway. The President has accepted responsibility, admitted poor judgement and mistakes. A host of misguided individuals are "coming clean" or are being prosecuted in the courts.

The nation is almost certain to emerge from the scandal better assured such improper and illegal activities never again become a major part of White House operations. Some have gone to jail; others will be sentenced. The whole affair will handicap Republicans, blot the record of the Nixon Administration and enhance the chance of the Democratic Party to regain power.

But this smell of blood, of having found—at last—something to swat the President with, to vilify and abuse him, has led much of the press, which has never liked Mr. Nixon, to excesses. The President is assumed totally guilty by many news reports which contain too much slanting. Senate hearing reporting repeatedly favors and features Democratic critics, who, it is often noted, get "prolonged" applause from the hearing audience, etc.

Democratic Senators, the London Times, editors and jurists have commented adversely on the witch-hunting, McCarthy like, atmosphere and reporting.

The nation's news media, especially the press, should at this time when public opinion is already somewhat hostile, carefully guard its own image and exhibit balanced reporting and good judgement, fairness, and at times, restraint, in its own and the nation's best interest.

Voluntary Services Fail

Though it comes as no surprise to many, the much-heralded system of an all volunteer military establishment is obviously a failure. Billions of dollars have been wasted in this effort, which President Nixon hoped would succeed and which he championed at a time when the climate in the nation was so soured by the Vietnam war it was a political plus.

The trouble with an all-volunteer force is that it is wrong in concept from the beginning. The nation can't afford to lavish high pay on its military forces and has a right to expect—as other nations do—some limited service from its young men—and women. It is, in fact, good for the young, that they contribute something to their country.

In addition, the all-volunteer system attracts, with its pay incentives, etc., the shiftless, poor and ignorant. One should not be critical of these volunteers; their plight is sometimes not of their doing. Nevertheless, it is not sound policy to place the security of the nation in their hands. It does not translate into the most effective military force attainable.

Enlistments are currently running very short, costs of defense have soared because of inflated pay scales (more than half the defense budget now goes to military pay, not hardware). More and more military leaders are now urging abandonment of the system and many in Congress are ready to admit the all-volunteer force was pie-in-the-sky idealism, to appeal to a nation tired of Vietnam and therefore soured on a draft which sent men to Vietnam.

A fair national service law requiring boys and girls to give their country a limited period of service, in some form, is the only democratic solution to the economic and security needs of the country, and always has been. Congress, though this sort of equitable-service-for-all-legislation has traditionally prompted complaints from some mamas and papas, should enact the needed legislation without delay.

Past Days

Copied from Nov. 12, 1948

Inclement weather held down the crowd at the football game between Tahoka Bulldogs and Seagraves Eagles here Thursday night, Nov. 4, but it did not hamper the Bulldogs, who turned in one of the best exhibitions of the season in defeating the visitors 26 to 6.

The cold wind and rain which came up late in the day, subsided at kick-off time, and those who braved the elements saw a spectacular contest.

The fireworks started when Bob Boyd, Tahoka quarterback threw a 20-yard touchdown pass in the first quarter to Duane Carter, end. Carter then kicked for the extra point. On the ensuing kickoff, Seagraves' fullback, Kenny Jackson, took the ball on his own 25 and came right up the middle 75 yards for the visitors only score. The try for extra point was no good, and Tahoka led 7 to 6. Before the quarter ended, Boyd again passed to Doug McNeely for 15 yards to set up the next touchdown. Two plays later, Jimmy Small carried over for the score. The attempted conversion was no good.

Both teams threatened in the second quarter, but it was not until the third that Tahoka scored again. This time Carter recovered a Seagraves fumble on the 13, and Fullback, Tom Chandler went around left end for a TD. Again the try for extra point was no good.

Seagraves threatened again but lost the ball, and Small caught two beautiful passes that could have been a TD with another block.

raced around end 25 yards for the fourth and final touchdown, and Carter's kick was good. Final score, 26 to 6.

Not all the stars of the game carried the ball, however. Among the others were Crowell, Cowan, Stevens, Tippitt, White, Strickland, Morgan, Martin, Akin and possibly others.

The West Point H. D. Club met Tuesday, Nov. 6, in the home of Mrs. Terry Noble.

Mrs. Blain Ramsey and Mrs. Clayton Lawrence gave an interesting demonstration on stenciling.

Refreshments were served to nine members.

The next club meeting will be a Christmas party in the home of Mrs. Newt Barham at 2 o'clock on December 14.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reddell and little grandson Jimmy Allen Billman, returned Sunday afternoon from a trip down east.

Congressman Sam Rayburn of Bonham had been scheduled to appear on the same program, but new duties devolving upon him as a result of the recent election kept him away.

Mr. Reddell reports that a large crowd was present and that it was an unusually good meeting.

Up to 8:30 o'clock Thursday morning 5,903 bales of cotton had been ginned in Tahoka this year's crop.

The harvesting of the crop apparently much more than done; possibly two-thirds the crop is apparently more than half done; possibly two-thirds of the crop or more been harvested.

The weather as a rule has been fine for gathering the crop this fall, and if it continues to be favorable practically all of the crop should be harvested in three more weeks.

The price of cotton seedlings is at $75.00 per ton.

One hundred and twenty farmers attended a benching demonstration on the farm located a mile south of Tahoka, Saturday afternoon, November 13, 1948.

The program was sponsored by the Lynn County Soil Conservation Supervisors and the Council of Tahoka. They were assisted by Pat Hines, Superintendent of Water and Sewerage; N. E. Wood and W. Ware, Soil Conservation Agents and Bill Griffin, County Agent.

Mayor K. R. Durham welcomed the group to Tahoka, R. L. Tlepage, Supervisor introduced visitors and guests which included men from six South Texas counties. N. E. Wood and W. Ware discussed the benching work completed on the farm up to date. Pat Hines, discussed the layout of the City Farm and the engineering work completed on the farm up to date. Pat Hines, discussed the plans to be put in effect on the City Farm.

The construction of benching and levelling the land between borders and flood irrigation demonstrated to the group irrigation water was applied to the land and drilled to the bottom. Probably the most interesting demonstration was the concrete drops in the irrigation ditch and the use of a let box to distribute the water to the irrigation system.

FARM news

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

Officials of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. remain of the opinion that a new farm bill will become law in 1973, despite difficulties encountered on both the Senate and House floors and the continuing threat of a presidential veto.

"Consequently," says PCG President Ray Joe Riley of Hart, "we are not relaxing our efforts to get from the conference committee a bill as palatable to High Plains farmers as possible."

When the Senate and House conferees first met on the farm issue July 25 there were 111 differences between bills passed by the two bodies. Their task is to reach compromises acceptable to both houses, and which will not trigger a veto from the White House.

Generally the House version of a cotton law, with one big exception, is more to the liking of the cotton industry, Riley notes. And as of July 27 there were indications that the conferees might be leaning in that direction.

The exception referred to is in the matter of allotment sales and leases, banned by the House bill and permitted in the Senate measure. The prohibition of such allotment transfers in the House was tied to an amendment limiting to $20,000 total payments to any one producer. The Senate bill contains a like limitation on payments but makes no reference to sales or leases of allotments.

"To our knowledge the conferees have reached no decision on this point," Riley said, "and in this instance we are urging acceptance of the Senate language."

On the other hand it is reported that conferees have agreed, tentatively, to the House method of setting the CCC non-recourse loan level for cotton and the House formula for determining price support payment rates, "both of which are significantly better than the language of the Senate bill," Riley stated.

The loan, as prescribed by the Senate, would be at 90 percent of a three-year average of world prices for all cotton growths, with the Secretary having unlimited authority to adjust that figure for any year when he thought it would give U. S. cotton a non-competitive price.

The House version calls for a loan at 90 percent of the three-year average price of U. S. Cotton in world markets and only give the Secretary the option to lower the loan to 90 percent of the current year's world market average of U. S. cotton if he deems it necessary.

Both House and Senate bills would base payments on a target price system. The Senate bill sets the payment at the difference between 43 cent per pound and the average price of Strict Low Middling inch - and - a - sixteenth cotton as quoted in the spot markets during the first five months of the marketing year.

The House target is 38 cents a pound with the payment being equal to the difference between that figure and the average price paid to farmers for all cotton over the full calendar year.

"Whatever the target price settled upon," explains Riley, "the producer's payment under the House language would be about a cent - and - a - half to two cents a pound higher than if the Senate formula were used."

Still hanging fire in the conference committee is the matter of target price levels and the escalator clause to which the Administration objects so violently. There have been discussions with Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz in an attempt to find language acceptable to the Administration. But results, as of this writing, have been elusive.

There is still talk of the conference committee sending its finished report to the Senate and House for action before the labor-day recess begins August 3. But those on the scene think it more likely the report will be held until Congress returns September 10.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

BY RICHARD L. CHRISTIE

Available information on wind erosion shows that 50 percent of soil lost to wind erosion moves within two (2) inches of the ground and that 93 percent moves within one (1) foot of the ground.

No one likes a dust storm or blowing dust, most of all those wonderful housewives. Dust storms to fit into the category of the weather, i.e., "everyone complains about it but few try to do anything about it," yet dust storms are not like the weather, because something can be done about them. Research mentioned above says that if there is stubble on the ground only two inches high, we could stop 50 percent of our wind erosion. And, if we put a mulch on the ground (turf burs), or have any kind of ground cover like barley and alfalfa, or stubble on the ground, foot tall or better we can stop over 90 percent of our dust storms.

Let's stop talking about dust storms and start doing something about them.

Further information can be obtained from your local Soil Conservation Service personnel.

Long Range Use Conference Aug. 7

Long-range land use planning is the subject of a day-long Conference to be held in Abilene August 7.

City planners, state and local officials, conservationists, and others interested in sound land use are being urged to attend.

The conference is co-sponsored by the Texas Council of the Soil Conservation Society of America and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The meeting will be held in the McGlothlin Student Center on the campus of Abilene Christian College from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Speakers will include Congressman Omar Bureson; Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong; Emil Rassman, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce; A. B. Linford, president of the Soil Conservation Society of America; Doyle Hutcheson, president of the Texas Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts; and other officials.

Paul Larson of Abilene, president of the Texas Council of the Soil Conservation Society of America, will preside over the morning session. Bob Scott, Fort Worth, chairman of the water committee, West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will preside in the afternoon.

Massive urban and industrial growth, coupled with shrinking land resources, is causing concerned citizens to debate the feasibility of controlling the use of land at some time in the future. They point to the construction of homes in flood-prone areas on prime agricultural land as examples of mismanagement of land resources.

A total of 17 speakers - farmers, livestock producers, city and county government officials - are scheduled to discuss the advantages and disadvantages of land use planning from the viewpoint.

Several local officials from Tahoka are scheduled to attend the land use planning conference in Abilene Tuesday, August 7.

Crop Report Looks Good... Milk Production Increases and Decreases... Pasture and Range Conditions

All major crops in Texas show increases in acreage, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes. Wheat production as well as oat production are also estimated now at two to three times above 1972 production levels.

Upland cotton acres for Texas this year are estimated at 5,700,000 compared with 5,570,000 in 1972. Acres planted to American-Pima cotton are 35,000, unchanged from last year. All of the increase in the upland cotton is in the High and Low Plains and Edwards Plateau.

Grain sorghum acreage this year in Texas is estimated at 8,100,000 acres, up 19 per cent from the 6,800,000 acres planted in 1972. Harvest of the crop has already started in South Texas. An excellent crop is indicated for Central Texas. Hot, dry weather is needed to mature the crop.

Corn planted for all purposes in Texas this year is estimated at 700,000 acres compared with 580,000 acres planted in 1972. Because of the weather, corn is in various stages of growth in every area of the state. Farmers in all parts of the state were able to get some early stands; most stands were about on schedule but cold, wet weather increased late plantings.

Peanut acreage for Texas in 1973 is up two per cent from 1972. Acreage now is estimated at 320,000 acres. Weather again delayed the progress, but moisture conditions now are favorable for the development of a good peanut crop.

Wheat production is now estimated at 95,200,000 bushels in Texas; this is more than double the 44,000,000 bushels produced in 1972.

Yield is expected to average 28 bushels per acre, a record, compared with 22 bushels last year. Harvested acres set at 3,400,000 compared with only 2,000,000 in 1972. Wheat harvest for the state is now virtually complete.

Oat production this year is estimated at 26,650,000 bushels, compared with only 9,720,000 bushels in 1972. Yield is expected to average a record 41 bushels per acre compared with 27 bushels in 1972. Acres for harvest are set at 650,000 compared with 360,000 in 1972. Harvest is completed.

Soybeans, a crop which is becoming more important in Texas, are estimated to total 450,000 acres this year, compared with 225,000 in 1972, and only 114,000 in 1971. Seeding for the state is complete; acreage is mostly in the High Plains and the southern half of the state.

Rice acreage in Texas this year is estimated at 553,000 acres compared with 469,000 acres in 1972. Harvest of the earliest stands is at hand.

Barley production is estimated at 3,510,000 bushels, compared with 1,980,000 bushels in 1972. Yield is expected to average 39 bushels per acre compared to 33 bushels in 1972. Harvested acres are set at 90,000 compared to 60,000 last year.

Rye production is estimated at 900,000 compared to 630,000 bushels in 1972. Average is 18 bushels per acre; harvested acres are set at 50,000 compared to 35,000 in 1972.

Only flaxseed, Irish potatoes and peaches are expected to be under 1972 production levels. Flaxseed planted acreage is estimated at 9,000 acres compared with 22,000 in 1972. Irish potato production is estimated at 2,991,000 hundredweight compared with 3,182,000 hundredweight in 1972. Peach production is estimated at 417,000 bushels compared with 604,000 bushels in 1972.

MILK production in Texas in June was up five per cent from a month ago, nationwide milk production was down 2.5 per cent from last year.

APPLES in Texas? To a small extent, apples are produced in a few counties in Texas. An ambitious program in Kimble, Kerr, and Mason counties is underway to produce apples on a profitable basis.

Growers in those counties this spring set out several thousand young trees which are expected to bear fruit within three years. In Gillespie County and around Fredericksburg and Stonewall, apples have been grown for 15 years and sold in the open markets.

Apples are also produced in Comanche and Montague counties and in small amounts in other counties throughout the state.

The Hill Country climate is nearly ideal for growing apples with cool winters, a long growing season and abundant sunshine. One drawback: deer-proof fencing must be installed around the orchards to keep out deer which would damage trees and could destroy a crop.

SHEEP feeding in Texas has shown a 34 per cent increase as of July 1 compared with a month ago. It is 10 per cent above the number on feed last year at this time.

Current intentions to market are: July 72,000 head; August 63,000 head; September 14,000 head.

Drylot sheep feeders with a lot capacity of 2,000 head or more had 149,000 sheep and lambs on feed as of July 1.

Yellow Houses Only

Developers of a new suburban neighborhood thought it would look nice if all the houses were painted yellow. Accordingly, in selling lots, they included a "yellow only" requirement in each deed.

But after a number of homes had gone up, one incoming family decided they liked green better. The developers refused to allow any deviation, and, in due course, the dispute landed in the courtroom.

"This kind of restriction," the family argued, "is an unlawful interference with our personal liberty. We have a right to follow our own tastes."

However, the court held they would have to stay with yellow whether they liked it or not. The court said the requirement was a reasonable means to a reasonable end—to benefit the community as a whole.

It is common, in developing a neighborhood, to impose deed restrictions of one kind or another. They may cover anything from the size of houses to the height of hedges, from the style of architecture to the type of fencing.

And, by and large, the law will enforce these restrictions. Although they reduce the rights of the purchaser, they do so on the basis of a lawful contract, freely entered into, at the time of original sale.

True, some restrictions may be unenforceable for reasons of overriding public policy. The leading example is the racial restriction, now outlawed everywhere.

Furthermore, a restriction valid at first may gradually lose its validity as the neighborhood changes. Say a dozen home owners in the "yellow only" neighborhood had been allowed to get away with different colors. At that point, even if the developers suddenly decided to crack down, a court would probably refuse to enforce the restriction. As one judge put it:

"Restrictions will not be enforced where the character of the neighborhood has so changed as to defeat the original purpose of the plan."

STATE CAPITAL
Highlights
AND Sidelights
by Bill Boykin
 TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Texas may be better off under its present type of government than the so-called cabinet form being advanced in preparation for constitutional revision, according to Texas Research League.

League staff members in a new report to the Constitutional Revision Commission point to advantages of the present system and offer these key observations:

While there is room for improvement, Texas government is not the "administrative jungle" portrayed by critics. There are 174 legal entities which might qualify as state agencies, but fewer than 30 of them control 99 per cent of money and personnel in state government.

Texas still has one of the most economical state governments in the nation. Ohio and Missouri rate slightly lower, but Texas spends more in support of its schools than those two states. Major suggestions by the League for economies have been in the areas of education and welfare financing. Overhead administration and control functions cost 1.9 per cent of Texas' total budget, while the national average is 2.6 per cent.

Major Texas agencies such as the Highway Department, Education Agency, Department of Corrections and Department of Public Safety rate high nationally. The League found few agencies in other states "clearly superior" to Texas counterparts.

While advocates of the cabinet theory claim it provides for holding the governor accountable for all aspects of government administration, political realities dictate that he can be held accountable at the polls only once or twice. Further, it is difficult for voters to assess thousands of acts by the chief executive during any four years.

Whether authority to appoint 20 cabinet officials but no sub-cabinet-level personnel would strengthen the governor in policymaking is debatable. Merit system employment to insulate state employees from the spoils system is considered part of the cabinet theory. This means echelons below the cabinet level are beyond the governor's control.

The present pattern of part-time boards, according to the League, provides opportunity for participation in government by many key citizens, who, in turn, provide a powerful reservoir of support for a governor's policies. The League suggest more fiscal power for the governor and authority to order governmental reorganization subject to legislative veto.

Lynn County News

TOP 100 PRESCRIPTIONS STUDIED -- Computers are being used by the Texas Pharmacy Board to determine the top 100 prescription drugs being sold in this state.

Under new state law, H. B. 750, druggists must post the prices of the 100 most prescribed drugs at their counters this fall.

The new law will also prohibit advertising about "wholesale" "cut rate" prices, and limit drug stores to advertising about services, keeping "family records" and dangers of mixing certain types of drugs.

Consumers will be able to check the prices of the top 100 most common drugs at each prescription counter, states Joe Arnette, Texas Pharmacy Board, who is using the computer method to make the state-wide survey.

AUTO RATES CUT -- True to its promise, the State Board of Insurance ordered an average statewide reduction of 4.3 per cent in private auto coverage premiums, estimating 90 per cent of motorists will save at least $25 million. New rates are effective August 27.

Further, according to Board Chairman Joe Christie, the competitive rating law September 1 will mean further savings for many, Christie said one company has indicated it will ask authority to cut its rates 15 per cent across the board when the competitive rating law takes effect.

Another law passed by the legislature this year, however, may cancel out the savings for some and actually bring a slight increase. The personal injury protection coverage of at least $2,500 for medical expenses and lost earnings or services due to accident, regardless of who was at fault, will be added to all policies automatically unless motorists reject it in writing.

Christie said even rejections written on "brown paper sacks" will be considered valid. P. I. P. coverage costs $22 to $44, but many will substitute it for medical coverage which already costs $15 to $22 a year.

WATER QUALITY STANDARDS APPROVED -- Texas Water Quality Board agreed on compromise standards hopefully tailored to meet federal Environmental Protection Agency approval.

If the EPA rejects the state standards, presumably it would take over issuing waste discharge permits, leaving the state agency little to do but take samples and offer recommendations.

A main point at issue is whether the state's fines for violators are high enough to amount to a "substantial economic deterrent." The Texas maximum civil penalty in $1,000 a day, and the federal agency wants civil penalty fines up to $25,000 a day and maximum criminal penalties of $10,000 a day.

The state Air Control Board's proposed standards have been rejected by EPA.

COURTS SPEAK -- A Palestine packing plant worker who was fired from light work as a supervisor after he was injured in his earlier job cannot force his employer to keep him on, the Supreme Court held. The worker accepted the supervisory job as part of an agreement not to seek workmen's compensation.

In other actions, the high court held:

A cigarette distributor whose stock was stolen from his warehouse is entitled to review of his case for state tax forgiveness.

Grown sons and daughters of a Dallas woman are entitled to $10,000 damages from an undertaker whose work embalming her body "shocked and revolted" them.

AG OPINIONS -- Occupants of a boat floating in tidal water, even though over submerged private property, are not trespassing, Attorney General John Hill stated.

Hill's opinion held private property submerged by lake or waterway construction, in absence of some special provision affecting title, remains private property, however.

In another recent opinion, Hill concluded a bill abolishing the office of Culberson County auditor is an unconstitutional special or local act "attempting to achieve what must be achieved by general legislation."

Briscoe made his announcement of the assistance offer.

SHORT SNORTS -- Mills Cox of Houston has been named special supervisor - manager for Lo-Vaca Gathering Company in new court action. His job is to try and get additional gas supplies for 400 big customers.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 2, 1974

President Nixon recently declared flooded Matagorda and Newton counties as major disaster areas. Nixon earlier declared Jefferson, Orange, Upshur, Red River, San Jacinto counties in the category. Briscoe has asked Nixon to add San Patricio county to the list.

Texas Water Rights Commission approved annexation of Richardson by the North Texas Municipal Water District.

The second annual Texas Film Festival will be held at the Institute of Texan Cultures in San Antonio September 6-9.

A runoff election for the 14th state senate district vacancy in Travis, Blanco, Burnet, Caldwell and Hays counties has been set for August 14.

The State Health Department warned of possible eye burn from a "space laser game" found in bus stations, bowling alleys and coin-operated amusement places.

PRICES SOARING -- Disruption of normal buying habits is pushing poultry prices up to the level of some cuts of beef, Texas Department of Agriculture market news analysts reported.

Broiler prices are expected to reach the 80-cent bracket this week, according to the department's projections.

"Hoarding" and "panic buying" are contributing to runaway prices, commented Mike Walton, Agriculture Department market news chief. Walton said a return to normal buying habits will help return prices to more normal levels.

CONSTITUTIONAL REVISION RECOMMENDATIONS EYED -- All seven sub-committees of the Texas Constitutional Revision Commission reported their tentative recommendations at a three-day meeting near here last weekend.

KINDERGARTEN PLANS ANNOUNCED AT WILSON SCHOOL

The 63rd Legislature amended the laws pertaining to the State Foundation Kindergarten Program to provide for the attendance of all five-year olds as of the beginning of the 1973-74 school year.

Due to the difficulty of providing practical busing arrangements for half-day sessions the Wilson ISD Board of Education approved this plan:

Five-year-olds who are economically deprive (family income of $3,000 or under per year) or who have a first language other than English will attend kindergarten on a full day basis for 180 days. All other children who will be five years old by September 1, 1973, may begin kindergarten, attending on a full day basis, on January 3, 1974.

Although attendance in kindergarten is not included in the compulsory school attendance law, school officials urge the attendance of all those who are eligible.

Rudy Johnston Attends Fire School

Rudy Johnston, volunteer fireman on the Tahoka Volunteer Fire Department of Tahoka, is attending the 44th annual Texas Firemen's Training School July 23-27. The school, attended by nearly 1,200 students representing about 480 cities from 20 states, is being held on the Texas A&M University campus this week.

Fireman Johnston is being sponsored by Lynn County Farm Bureau Insurance Companies by contributing toward their cost of the school. Since volunteer firemen are interested in attending this school to help do a better job of fire fighting and fire prevention, 82 County Farm Bureaus and the Texas Farm Bureau Insurance Companies in the state-wide program have sponsored 102 firemen at the school.

"The Farm Bureau Insurance Companies believe volunteer fire departments have been very effective in reducing the amount of loss involved by fire in rural areas," said President J. T. (Red) Woodson of Gober. "It is our hope in sponsoring this program that the fireman will help the Tahoka Volunteer Department to better serve the residents of Lynn County."

Double Ring Vows Unite Couple

... Baptist Church, Wilson, the setting for the double wedding vows of Miss Renea Zan' and Randal Alan Caperton Saturday evening.

Rev. H. F. Scott, former Wilson Pastor, and now pastor of Bacon Heights Baptist Church in Lubbock, officiated for the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lynn Kahlich of Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Caperton of Bronte.

The bride is a graduate of Wilson High School, and her husband is a graduate of Bronte High and Texas A&M University, with a bachelor of Science in Education. He will be teaching in Bryan this fall.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a traditional gown of white silk organza accented in venise lace. The gown featured a molded bodice with an oval yoked neckline and short sleeves. The controlled A-line skirt featured applique lace and her train repeated the lace. Her long matching mantilla, edged in miniature floweretts, fell from a matching lace capulet.

She carried a bouquet of baby pink roses and vanda orchids, highlighted with baby's breath and purple status, cascading in white daisies.

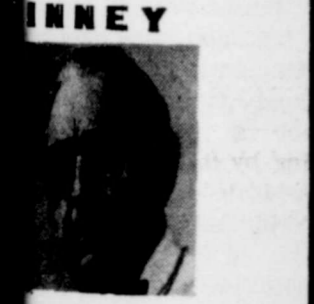

Twilla Talkmitt served her friend as maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Vicki Kahlich and Tammy Kahlich, sisters of the bride, and Sherry Edwards and Glyna Moore. They were gowned alike in lilac goile gowns, featuring decollate necklines outlined in fluted ruffling and controlled skirts sashed in matching Grosgrain ribbons with tailored bows and long streamers. They wore halos and carried bouquets of baby's breath, purple status and baby vanda orchids with pink rosebuds.

Clay Nesbitt served his friend as best man. Groomsman included Randy Vaughn, Charlie Kiehne, Jackie Barnes and Timmy Nesbitt. Ushers were Mark Wiley, Bart Wiley, Lloyd Kitten, all cousins of the bride, and Mark Nesbitt.

Brenda Kitten was flowergirl and Ricky Kahlich served his sister as ring bearer.

Mrs. J. D. Ross, organist, and Miss Suzy McCormick, pianist, played traditional wedding music, and accompanied soloist, Mrs. M. G. Davis.

Following a reception in the fellowship hall of the church, the couple left on a honeymoon trip. They will make their new home at 700 Dominick, Apt. 1203,

Carolyn Haley Says...

During these hot July days have your thoughts wondered to the coolness of fall? It's not too early to start thinking about fall, especially fall clothing. Fashions and fabrics are beginning to appear on the market. A wide variety of styles development of individual looks will be available. A few colors and styles are going to be very important, however. These include a return to suits, shirtdresses, and sweater sets. The influence is traditional British, so fabrics are tweeds, heathers, and plaids in nature's colors -- misty grey, camel, forest green and rust.

Check labels on wool and wool-blend fabrics -- or garments-- for fall. Many feature washable wool. Wool has always been washable, but homemakers had to exercise extreme caution. Even then, they used mild soap, cool water and little or no agitation. In contrast, some of today's washable wools can be tossed into the washing machine and tumbled in a dryer. Improved laundering procedures resulted from a new treatment process. Fibers are given a chlorinated treatment, followed by application of resin -- which coats fiber scales to prevent matting together when agitated in a washing cycle.

Blends vary in woolen content and cleaning method. Some contain only a small amount of wool -- usually less than 25 percent. However, even this small percentage adds a wool-like surface texture to fabric. Since blends may be either washable or dry-cleanable check labels carefully. Just because wool is blended with an easy-care fiber doesn't make the fabric machine washable.

Washing or cleaning method depends on three factors -- amount of wool used in the blend, fiber with which it's blended, and whether finishing is given the wool fiber.

Marvelous talking children often puzzle parents. Many children talk a lot because they have much to say. Others talk all the time because they're trying to get someone to listen to them.

For these children, parents can sit down for a minute or two -- several times a day -- and listen with undivided attention to what the child has to say. Do not water the grass, sew, read, or watch television while the child talks. This gives him a chance to speak to someone who is listening, and chances are he'll no longer feel a need to talk every time there is silence.

He'll learn not to interrupt, because he knows he'll get his chance to speak. Children can learn to take turns talking and not to interrupt while others are speaking. They learn this lesson best when parents make a real effort in allowing each child some time to talk while others listen to what he is saying.

A Tribute To Floyd Tubb

In the Old Testament, we read of King David's saying, upon the death of Abner, "A great leader and a great man has fallen today in Israel..."

How appropriate those words spoken in the long ago, are today as we pay our respects to Floyd Tubb.

Above all, Floyd was a kind man and he will live forever in the minds of us who knew him. His undying efforts to serve his fellow man will continue to be the motivating force in our lives.

Countless times, by the mere touch of his hand, he caused a child who might have been considered a failure in everything to soar to the heights of success. He overlooked the bad people and, by his encouragement, caused a multitude of undetected talents to be used.

He was never too busy to assist a teacher with the most trivial task. He knew the names and special problems of every child in his building. Surely, he in his own quiet way, produced more good teachers than any institution of higher learning the world.

If he could speak to us today he would admonish us to be zealous and steadfast in our profession as teachers -- the profession in which he believed, above all others. He would say that we put away all pride and high-mindedness and put the welfare of the child first, and that we ourselves be worthy of the trust that is placed in us as educators of children.

On Wednesday of last week, Joe D., Betty and Vicki Unfred flew to New Orleans for four days to attend the 26th Annual Reunion of the Third Armored Division Association.

The Reunion was headquartered at the new Marriott Hotel, located in downtown New Orleans just a couple of blocks from the Mississippi River dock front and the famous French Quarter of Old New Orleans.

Events of the week were kicked off Wednesday evening with a Canal Street ferry boat ride to the west bank town of Algiers where school buses were waiting to haul some 650 members and their families to the Gretna VFW hall for a real seafood dinner. Thursday the Reunion got an early start at 8 a.m. with free coffee and donuts, compliments of the Deep South Chapter who was hosting this year's reunion. At 8 p.m. the group boarded the S. S. President river boat for a cruise on the Mississippi which included a three hour dance and sight - seeing tour to the music of Bert Peck's "10". On Friday, the 27th, activities and attendance began picking up to a normal Spearhead Division tempo - some 1050 had registered by registration closing on Friday with another 150 by Saturday night, making this reunion the largest of its kind in the U. S. Army Alumni groups. At 9 p.m. Friday, the men met in a business session where Joe D. was elected to the Board of Governors to represent the Southwest Region of the Association. At noon the group joined unit buddies for luncheons at various locations throughout the City of New Orleans. Joe D's group met at Victoria Station, a unique restaurant with an early 1800 railroad motif. While the men were busy with these activities, the ladies were enjoying a luncheon in the Marriott, including a style show.

The last day of the Reunion was the busiest and best attended. Starting at 10 a.m. with a seven block march to the music of the 8th Naval District Concert Band, all able-bodied tried their hand (foot) at some close order drill. The memorial service was held at St. Louis Cathedral across from Jackson Square in the French Quarter. Concluding the whirlwind weekend was the annual banquet on Saturday evening which was served to a packed ballroom. All cheered enthusiastically when the French Consul General extended an invitation to the Association to bring their Reunion to Paris, France someday.

Joe D. reports most of his buddies have survived the years fairly well. The George Larsons of Sycamore, Ill., who visited here last year, were in attendance with their son, Tom. Another good friend, Russ Steele of Cincinnati was unable to attend due to his 24 year old son's involvement in an auto accident. The young man had remained in the wreckage some 10 hours and was unconscious seven days. Brain surgery was reported successful in a telephone conversation with the father on Saturday night.

Enroute to and from New Orleans the Unfreds visited with their daughter Nancy and son-in-law, Robert McCracken while changing planes at Love Field, Dallas. They returned home Sunday.
