easy to see how the egg came to be a traditional Easter symbol. "The egg has long been a symbol of renewed life, especially in the pre-Christian spring festivals. In some faiths, it even symbolizes the beginning of the world."

"According to American folklore, Easter eggs really come to us from the Easter bunny. This tradition supposedly comes from Germany and France," Mellor explains. "Some French children still believe the rabbit runs to Rome to get eggs from the Pope."

Even though our custom of decorating and giving eggs at Easter is a symbol of resurrection, this custom actually started in China about 750 B.C., points out Mellor.

The specialist believes one of the most unusual eggs is the pysanka—a Ukrainian Easter egg. The highly decorated egg is developed with stylus, beeswax, dyes, artistic ability, and a lot of patience.

First, age eggs at room temperature for 24 hours before cooking to simplify peeling. Place eggs with small ends down during this period.

Prior to cooking, put eggs in a pan of warm water. This helps prevent cracked shells when eggs are placed in hot water.

Bring water to a rapid boil, using enough water to come one inch above eggs. Transfer eggs to boiling water with a spoon. Reduce heat to keep water just below simmering. Hold for 18 minutes.

Cool eggs promptly and thoroughly in cold water. This makes the shells easier to remove and helps prevent dark surfaces on yolks.

Be sure to use only clean, sound eggs—Grades Fresh Fancy, AA or A—for cooking in the shell," advises Mellor. "To prevent gray-green discoloration of egg yolks, avoid overcooking. Immediate plunging into cold water also helps prevent yolk discoloration."

Why not try baked ham with orange glaze for your Easter dinner?

Place a 10 to 14 pound smoked, baked ham, fat side up on rack, in open roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer so bulb reaches the center of the thickest part but be careful that the bulb doesn't rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water; do not cover. Bake at 325 degrees until thermometer registers 160 degrees for a "cook-before-eating" ham and 130 degrees for a "fully cooked" ham.

If you do not use a thermometer, allow 20 minutes per pound for baking a "cook-before-eating" ham and 15 minutes per pound for a "fully cooked" ham.

About 30 minutes before the ham is done, trim off skin and excess fat from top; spread with orange glaze and return to oven to finish cooking. Yield 14 to 16 servings. Orange Glaze
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon vinegar
3 tablespoons frozen orange juice concentrate
Combine ingredients, stir until smooth and spread over ham.

A Visit With Your County Agent

Powdery Mildew Control On Ornamentals

Now is the time to treat your ornamentals for powdery mildew.

Powdery mildew, the most destructive disease of roses, crape myrtles, Photinia and zinnias, is unlike other fungal diseases. It occurs under conditions of low moisture on the plant surface and relatively low humidity.

The disease attacks growing portions of the plant, thus weakening it and reducing yield. Young leaves develop slightly raised blister-like areas that soon become covered with a grayish-white powdery growth. As young leaves grow, they become curled and distorted.

Older leaves, however, develop large, white patches of the fungus with no leaf distortion. Tiny, black, fruiting fungal bodies are embedded in the mildew patches, especially late in the season.

Sometimes buds are attacked. They either fail to open or open improperly.

A flower blight is caused when the infection spreads to mature flower parts.

Powdery mildew fungus is most common when warm days follow cool nights. It occurs where air circulation is poor, such as in crowded, low areas. The fungus overwinters in diseased plant material on the ground and on young, growing points of plants.

Several steps can be taken to control powdery mildew. In the fall, remove and destroy all diseased annuals. Also, prune diseased parts of perennials to reduce the source of infection in the spring. Avoid crowding plants and planting ornamentals in damp, low areas.

In the spring, begin fungicidal applications when new growth develops or at the first sign of powder mildew. Applications can also be made during the flowering period to avoid blossom blight.

Apply one of the following fungicides at 7-10 day intervals or as needed: Acti-dione PM (cycloheximide), Benlate (benomyl), Karathane (dinocap) or sulfur (dust or wettable powder). Use sulfur at temperatures below 85 degrees F. or it will burn the plant. Be sure to follow the instructions on the products label.

When buying a pesticide and again prior to use, be sure to read the label carefully.

A pesticide label contains a considerable amount of beneficial information. First, look for the EPA registration number which will indicate that the Environmental Protection Agency has found the material effectively controls certain pests (insects, weeds or diseases). The number also indicates that the substance is safe to use when directions are followed.

The next thing found on the label is the pest that this material is effective against. Only those pests listed can be controlled with this material.

Rate of materials to use is also on the label. This rate must be followed closely. If you exceed the recommended rate and problems occur, the company is no longer responsible. Also, you waste material and stand a chance of polluting an area with a chemical.

The pesticide label also lists the interval at which the materials should be applied. This may vary with materials but will generally be between 5 and 21 days. The label may indicate that this is a one-time application for a certain pest.

How soon can you eat a crop after a material has been applied? That information is also found on the label. On many labels there are special precautions such as washing fruit or not spraying past a certain development stage. Read these warnings closely.

Pesticides are safe when used as directed. Therefore, protect yourself and your family by using all pesticides with care.

YOU make the difference in your electric bill

With the cost of everything going up, it sometimes feels like we're losing control of where our dollars go. The one expense you and your family can help keep down this summer — your electric bill. You can make your home more energy efficient with simple improvements like weatherstripping, caulking and adding insulation, doors and windows. Teaching your family to use electricity wisely — like keeping the thermostat turned to an energy-saving 78° in the summer, changing filters on your air conditioner regularly, keeping lights and appliances turned off when not in use — will help keep your bill down. You and your family make the difference — it's that simple. Call SPS manager for more information and keep your summer bill low.

VA Checks Are Now Being Governed By A New Law

In the envelope with their Veterans Administration checks on March 1, all veterans and widows receiving pension benefits were furnished with a card to elect benefits under a new law passed by the Congress. According to Sid A. Lowery, Service Officer for Lynn County, all VA pensioners need counseling by someone familiar with the new law to determine whether they should change. They have the right to continue receiving under their current law of entitlement, or change to the new law which went into effect January 1, 1979. Once an election is made to change, a person cannot go back to their old law benefits.

Pensioners with little or no income may receive considerable increases in their benefits. Those with larger amounts of income may, following competent counseling, find they can receive larger monthly payments by remaining under their old entitlement.

Veterans Service Officers are only now being furnished with training seminars dealing with the complex provisions of the new law. Prior to this time, few Service Officers were familiar enough with the law to advise a person whether he or she should change to the new law. The training

PARKER PHARMACY
A common complaint among older people is itching skin, and the number one cause of the discomfort is simply dry skin. As a person ages, the oil secreting glands become less active, leaving the outer layer of skin dry and susceptible to cracking, scaling and irritation. Heated air, low humidity, rough clothing, exposure to sun and wind and chemical irritants aggravate the problem. Bath products that contain alcohol or heavy perfume can cause further irritation. Too frequent bathing, particularly with very hot water, further dehydrates already-dry skin. To restore the skin to better condition, pat it dry after washing instead of rubbing it with a coarse towel. Then, while the skin is still slightly damp, apply the type of oil, petroleum jelly or ointment your pharmacist or physician recommends.

Phebe K. Warner Study Club Met

Phebe K. Warner Study Club met for the regular meeting Tuesday, March 27, at Concord House in Lubbock. The program included a tour of the Ethan Allen galleries and a slide presentation on home decorating. Helpful suggestions were given on using accent pieces and accessories.

Following the program a luncheon was held at Hemphill Wells in the mall. Sixteen members attended.

Lowly Mule Topic For Rotary Talk

The importance of the lowly mule in the history of our country and the world is the subject of an evening and enlightening talk given by the Rotary Club Thursday by Archie Lubbock farm owner. Former Lubbock county commissioner, who made an extensive study of the hybrid animal.

He reviewed the history of the mule and the date which dates back to before the coming of the mule.

Among the instances where the mule has played an important part in history is the fact that the mule may have won the Civil War if sufficient mules had been available to bring supplies to the front. The mule was an important factor in deciding the war against Kaiser's forces.

He touched on the mule's role in mining, packing, and other important industries.

Mr. Lamb also told some humorous stories about the mule, including a mule named 'Old Defended' who was a friend of man.

He also displayed a number of pictures and articles dealing with the mule.

Many Rotarians and guests attended the program.

Calloway Huffaker, speaker of the program.
