Arrangements All Complete For A Merry Celebration Of Independence Day Here

MAGAZINE STORY TELLS OF TEXAS OPPORTUNITIES

HOLLAND'S MAGAZINE ARTICLE TRACES INDUSTRIAL GROWTH AND DISCUSSES UNDEVELOPED RESOURCES

Texas' tremendous industrial expansion during the past three decades, and the almost unlimited industrial opportunities afforded by its natural resources, is the subject of the article, “Texas—High Wide, and Handsome,” by Arthur Coleman in the current issue of Holland's, “The Magazine of the South.”

Pointing out the extreme diversity of the Lone Star State's industrial scene—the differing regions of East Texas, West Texas, the Gulf Coast, the High Plains, the Blackland Belt, and the Rio Grande Valley—Coleman declares that since 1900 the state has, industrially, been “going to town.” in production it has less than, in agriculture more than doubled. But meanwhile industry has reached the point where it employs more than twice as many wage earners. Pays them nearly five times as much in wages, and turns out products worth more than nine times as many dollars as in 1900.” From 1933 to 1935, he says, manufacturing output in Texas increased 57 per cent.

But this, the story goes on, is but a slight prelude to what Texas can have by developing its natural resources. Numerous examples are offered to show how Texans have developed and can develop these resources with Texas talent and capital. Coleman cites a long list of products made by smaller Texas industries, wisely located, utilizing in raw or processed form the native materials of the state, and established and operated by people living in the state—products ranging “from nosedrops to carburetors, and from soft drinks to Venetian blinds for automobiles.” He emphasizes that most of these were started with small capital.

Among the fields offering the greatest industrial possibilities, Coleman stresses furniture making, fruit and vegetable canning, leather goods, textiles and wearing apparel, manufacture of soaps and other cosmetics, processing the fish and oysters of the Gulf Coast, production of cheese and canned and powdered milk, and industrial utilization of minerals.

Plastics made from petroleum, Coleman points out, are not now produced in Texas. The state has an estimated eight billion tons of coal, large reserves of limonite and hematite iron, and sixty thousand

Picture Shows, Carnivals, Music, Base Ball Skating, Dancing

—The Clay County Leader
The Chamber of Commerce and the whole of Henrietta have made all the necessary and final arrangements for the coming celebration to be held this Monday. This year the Fourth comes on Sunday and for that reason Henrietta is holding their celebration a day late as are many other places. The Bank and most business are taking a holiday as is Uncle Sam for the Post Office will be open Monday from 8 until 9 o'clock only.

All arrangements are complete now for the entertainment to be offered on this day. At 9:30 or 10 o'clock Monday morning the Henrietta High School band under the direction of Rev. Paul J. Merrill will offer a band concert. Immediately after noon the base ball game will be held between the Bellevue Eagles and the Bluegrove Oilers. At 4 o'clock the contest will be held between the String Bands of the County. Thus far 7 string bands have made application for entrance in the contest. There are 2 bands from Bluegrove, 2 from Hurnville, 2 from Bellevue and one from Dean Dale. These bands will render their selections until shortly after six o'clock when the prizes of $15 for 1st place, $10 for 2nd place and $5 for each other band will be awarded.

The street dance will be held about 9 o'clock until—
The skating rink and Picture shows will be running at full blast all day long and a carnival is scheduled to arrive sometime Sunday to offer its various forms of amusement.

One of the largest crowds in history is expected here Monday so come early to stay late. There will be plenty of ice water at different business houses and all kinds of cold drinks and eats so don't fail to be here Monday. The Leader extends you an invitation to come around and see us while here on this great occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Henderson were called to Sunset Saturday because of the illness of Mrs. Bruce Henderson.

square miles of lignite (half of the national supply) And in addition to these, Texas has forty different minerals in quantities unlimited for industrial use, besides numerous others in limited but adequate amounts. Others he classifies as “unknown but worth investigating,” under which comes potash.

This story is the eighth in a series Coleman has written for Holland's on industrial opportunity in the South. There will be fifteen in the completed series.

W. O. W. Meet In Bellevue Wednesday

—The Clay County Leader
The Woodman of the world had an interesting meeting in Bellevue last Wednesday evening June 23.

Mr. Bert Lyons, state drill captain was present with Mr. E. L. Mann district Manager. Five new members were initiated. Two for the Henrietta chapter and three for the Bellevue chapter.

After a business meeting, a delicious dinner was served. Then a social hour was observed and much fun, “Old time Woodman fun,” was had by all.

Streets Patched By City Yesterday

—The Clay County Leader
Yesterday the city employed some 5 or 6 men to work on the streets around the School House. Mr. F. E. Bates is in charge of all work on the streets and he said that the paving going north and south around the School House was put down just after a rain and due to this the foundation was unsoilid and the paving sank in a few places. Reports went in to Fort Worth that the paving was breaking up all over town but careful inspection will find that all except these few streets are in as good if not better condition as the day they were put down. Henrietta is fortunate in having, and should be thankful for her paved streets.

CONGRESS CANNOT ADJOURN ITS OBLIGATIONS

The Seventy-fifth Congress is predominantly Democratic. It owes a sacred duty to the American voters who smashed political party lines and elected it. In all honesty and good faith this duty must be performed. That duty is to stay in Washington until Congress has passed a full program of progressive legislation calculated to give America, not merely temporary recovery, but to provide a firm basis for the permanent solution of her problems.

We have arrived at a social and economic crisis in America which involves the rights of every man and woman who serves his fellow men.

We recognize the community of interest of all the creators of wealth the farmers, and the workers in factory and shop, mines transportation and distributors of the things men use. Their interests are the paramount interests of American life. To enact laws to increase their proportion of the national income is the primary duty of congress.

In the past three elections, the people voted decisively to go forward, not backward. The attempt to limit our work to getting back to the prosperity of '29 is a mistake. That prosperity was temporary and more apparent than real. We must enact such measures as will assure us against future panics and depressions and provide private and public security.

Powerful interests are carrying on a propoganda of great intensity to get the Congress adjourned quickly without enacting the legislation to which every Dem. is committed. This is no time to bend to the demands of the enemies of constructive legislation or to listen to the counsel of timid friends. If we should retreat under this pressure we would be traitors to the people's interest and justly deserve the condemnation which we should certainly receive. This Congress cannot adjaourn its obligations. The minimum legislative program which must be considered at this session of Congress is the following:

- (1) A federal minimum wage and maximum hour law.
- (2) As a companion-measure to the wages and hours bill the following measures for agriculture:
 - (a) Indefinite extension of the 3-1-2 interest rate on farm loans and mortgages.
 - (b) Legislation assuring the farmer cost of production plus a fair profit.
 - (c) Legislation which will at least provide a sound attack in solving the problems of farm tenancy.

(3) A large-scale national program of slum clearance and low-cost housing.

(4) Constructive amendments to the Social Security Act, to broaden its scope and especially to liberalize its old-age pension provisions.

(5) The President's suggested measure setting up eight regional authorities to plan and control the conservation and development of our natural resources in the public interest.

(6) Government ownership of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks.

(7) Adequate protection against floods to the people of the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys and other chronically flooded areas.

(8) Legislation to advance the decennial census to 1938 and to provide that the census include definite data of employment and unemployment, and in addition to a factual survey and study of unemployment in the United States with a report to Congress as a basis for future legislation.

(9) Passage of the most essential features of the President's plan for reorganization of the Executive Department.

(10) We stand with the President for judicial reform.

In addition to this immediate legislative program, we believe the first duty of Congress for the next session will be the scientific revision of the Federal Tax Structure.

No adjournment till our work is done. Our aim is full production, full consumption, and a job for every man and woman who wants to work.

The writer is a member of the steering committee of 15, representing the 123 members of the House, who believe the above program, in keeping with the Democratic platform, and the rule of right should be speedily enacted at this session of Congress, before adjournment.

THE CALENDAR

On Monday, the House passed a new Railroad Retirement bill and on Thursday, passed a tax bill upon the railroads and employees, making it effective. Tuesday, the House passed Mr. Sumner's "good behavior" Judge Bill, setting up an alternative manner to try Federal Judges charged with misconduct. Wednesday, the House defeated the Indian Claims Commission Bill and Thursday, passed the Municipal Bankruptcy bill. The Senate on Monday and Tuesday debated and finally passed the Relief Bill, which now goes to conference.

On Wednesday, the Senate passed the War Department Appropriations Bill, the Nuisance Tax Bill and these measures now go to conference.

On Thursday, the conference committee finally agreed on the Agriculture appropriations bill and this measure was finally called up and considered and approved in the House on Monday.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

—The Clay County Leader

Officers are to be elected July 4, 1937 at 7:15. This is the regular meeting time for the Christian Endeavor, but the members are specifically invited for this meeting because of the election. This group has been doing some mighty fine work and shall continue to do so with the aid of all the young people who can possibly be there.

Last Wednesday at two o'clock

Bro. P. J. Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Renfro, took their cars and Misses Marybelle Twyman, Naomi Shires, Kathleen Phuit, Othella Parson, Mildred and Frances Davenport, Margaret Long of Crowell, Helen Ellis, David Merrill, and Howard Warren of Joy and attended a meeting of the Christian Endeavor held at Port Arthur.

The meeting was held at the First Baptist church which has the largest auditorium in the city. Doctor Daniel Poling, World President of the Christian Endeavor and pastor of the Baptist Temple in Philadelphia was the main speaker on the occasion. The meeting closed Sunday afternoon and the group attending from here returned home Tuesday noon via Galveston, San Jacinto, Houston and Huntsville.

A very enjoyable trip was reported by every one and much benefit was derived from the meeting.

Q. When was the school for the deaf and dumb opened in Austin?
A. It was opened in rented buildings in South Austin, Jan. 2, 1857 with I. Van Nostrand, of New York as principal and with three enrolled, an appropriation of $10,000 having been made Aug. 20, 1856 for renting the buildings and getting the school in operation.

Q. Where, when and by whom was the "Dolores" colony located and what became of it?
A. On Los Moras Creek, 12 miles above its junction with the Rio Grande, some 25 or 30 miles from the present town of Eagle Pass, Dr. J. C. Beale, an Englishman, headed the party of 59, who reached there March 16, 1834. Because of crop failures, the colony was gradually abandoned, and the remaining eleven men, two women and three children started for the coast to return to England. On April 2, 1836 they were attacked by Indians, the men and an infant child were killed and the others taken into captivity.

Q. What led immediately to the strife that resulted in the explosion of the Cherokees from Texas?
A. The Texas Senate, in December, 1836, repudiated the treaty made by its commissioners on the ground that they had exceeded their authority and, in 1838, Texas began locating grants in the Cherokee country in disregard of the rights of the Indians, who resorted to raids to punish these over acts.

Q. Who was Juan Cortina and how was he regarded by Texans?
A. He was a Mexican general in command at Matamoras, of which town he was also mayor, and from 1859 to 1875 Texans thought him responsible for the many murders and thefts of cattle both in Texas and Mexico. His men grew bolder in marauding expeditions between the Nueces and Rio Grande until, in the 1870's they were shipping many shiploads of stolen Texas cattle to Cuba, through the Mexican port of Bagdad.

Neville H. D. Club

Neville H. D. Club met June 17, at the home of Mrs. Charlie Brister. After business was attended, Miss Stewart gave a very interesting talk on Bringing Food Preservation up to Date.

Success of any brining in making pickles depends on speed on fermentation. To hasten fermentation use 50 per cent of cane sugar and 50 per cent corn sugar in making up sweet pickles of Cucumbers, green tomatoes, and pepper.

Sweet corn and peas cannot use corn sugar, it turns dark. Corn sugar is cheaper than cane sugar, not so sweet and looks like starch.

There were seven members and two visitors present. Ice cream and cookies were served.

Installs Form or Subirigation

Two rows of tile 30 feet long have been installed by Betty Joe Brixey, garden demonstrator of the Halsell 4-H Club. Ends of No. 2 cans were cut off and these placed in the ground as tile of concrete are placed. One row of the tile is irrigating two rows of eggplant and the other row is irrigating two rows of tomatoes which have been producing enough tomatoes for the toll for the week.

Plants Dwarf English Peas

"Plant Dwarf English Peas is what Miss Fannie Vaughn of the New London Home Demonstration Club says" Miss Vaughn found this spring that they were a heavier, earlier and a more sure bearer than the other 3 varieties of English peas which she planted. There were: Bliss Everbearing, Salad Peas, and the little early English Peas

Buffalo Springs H. D. Club

The Buffalo Springs H. D. Club met at the gymnasium. Mrs. Ruth Barnett was elected as delegate for Short Course and Mrs. Connie Graves as alternate. Those present were: Mesdames Bill Edwards, Connie Graves, Ruth Barnett, Lorena Williams, J. R. Starnes, Dannis Fuller, Jake Fuller and Edd Williams.

New London H. D. Club

The next best thing to fresh fruits and vegetables is proper preservation. There are 7 methods of preservation most of these are in use today. They are canning, drying, curing, pickling, brining, preserving and freezing which will become more in common use with rural electrification.

Numbers of varieties of fruits and vegetables are found in most of the gardens of club members of New London H. D. Club. Miss Stewart brought us a most helpful demonstration on caring for them for future use. Business meeting, reports and recreation were had after which Mrs. W. D. Blanton, the hostess served a most delicious plate lunch of sandwiches and ice tea. Members present were Mesdames A. Gore, E. Borgman, Misses Mattie and Fannie Vaughn, two visitors Mrs. Alton Moore and Miss Idell Blevins and the hostess Mrs. W. D. Blanton.

Declaration of Independence

A document drawn up by a committee of the American Congress, consisting of Thomas Jefferson, of Virginia; John Adams, of Massachusetts; Roger Sherman, of Connecticut; Robert L. Livingston, of New York; and Benjamin Franklin, of Pennsylvania. A draft was reported by this committee on June 28. On July 2 a resolution was adopted declaring the colonies free and independent states, and on July 4, the Declaration of Independence was agreed to, engrossed on paper, and signed by John Hancock, President. It was afterward engrossed on parchment and signed by the representatives of the states as below. The independence of the United States was acknowledged by France, Jan. 16, 1778, and by Holland, April 19, 1782; and provisional articles of peace were signed by England, Sept. 3, 1782.

The Declaration, as agreed to, follows:

A DECLARATION

BY THE REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, IN CONGRESS ASSEMBLED

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature, and of nature's God entitle them a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these, are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that, whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and, accordingly, all experience hath shown, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But, when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies, and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having, in direct object, the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world:

He has refused to assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people; unless these people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature; a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused, for a long time after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the State remaining, in the meantime, exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose, obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependant on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies without the consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of, and superior to, the civil power.

He has combined with others, to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation.

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them by a mock trial from punishment, for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing taxes on us without our consent:

For depriving us in many cases, of the benefit of trial by jury:

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses:

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies:

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering, fundamentally, the powers of our governments:

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever:

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is, at this time transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tyranny, already begun, with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow-citizens, taken captive on the high seas to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has exacted domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction, of all ages, sexes, and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions, we have petitioned for redress, in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Not have we been wanting in attention to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts made by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to our native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them, by the ties of our common kindred, to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They, too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war—in peace, friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the World for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name, and by the authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, Free and Independent States; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that as free and independent States they have full power to levy war conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things independent States may of right do. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

For O'Brien Film

The Clay County Leader
The airplanes, two dozen hand grenades, three sub-machine guns and a ton of dynamite and black powder were some of the incongruous items of property man was requested to obtain for a "western" picture.

Three war-like "props" were used by Director Ewing Scott during the filming of George O'Brien's new outdoor vehicle, "Hollywood Cowboy," an RKO Radio picture, at the Dorothy Theatre, Friday and Saturday, July 2-3.

The picture is described as an ultra-modern western and although the action takes place on the Wyoming plains, the unusual props are used in a sequence in which range cowboys battle with big city gangsters who intimidate cattlemen during a cowboy strike.

George O'Brien plays the role of a cowboy movie star on a vacation in Wyoming who is tempted by a pretty girl's smile to accept work as a cow-puncher on her aunt's ranch where his duties inadvertently involve him in a range war between the cattlemen and "shake-down" racketeers.

Ewing Scott directed the George A. Hiliman production and the supporting cast features Cecelia Parker and includes Maude Eburne, Joe Caits, Charles Middieton and Frank Milan.

The official copy of the Texas Unemployment Compensation Act, as amended March 24, 1937, is off the press and will be mailed on request to organizations or individuals interested.
