Senior Report.

Maybe you can't tell by the expressions on the senior's faces whether they are glad to be back in school or not, so we'll give you the lowdown.

1. That sleepy look doesn't mean we're thinking of those mornings spent in bed during the vacation—we're just remembering dear old study hall.

2. If we sit and gaze at our books it doesn't mean we hate to open them. It's probably that we're trying to guess what's inside.

3. And when the 4 o'clock bell finally rings, the mad rush doesn't show that we're glad school's out for the day; it's just—it's just that Sadie Hawkins week is now on.

(P. S. We mostly had our fingers crossed, which doesn't mean we're superstitious).

Junior Report

Happy New Year! It's 1940. This week has been declared Sadie Hawkins' Week by the R. O. H. Girls, so here we go.

Evidently the Juniors had a swell time during the holidays. A small bit of snooping and it seems everyone did just fine even on Monday night, didn't you kids?

The Holidays have certainly spoiled some of us. Wasn't it hard to crawl out at 7:30 instead of 10:00 A. M.? Yawn, yawn, who said: "Wake up and live?"

Sophomore Report

You girls pay the bills and will we have fun. This is "Sadie Hawkins Week," and they are going to town. Although nearly everyone has a cold they still take in "Sadie Hawkins Week." That is all except those rural girls. Potts and J. R. were heard to be in Amarillo over the holidays. They came back with circles about their eyes. Egg-nog, parties, broken window glass, morning milkman, midnight shows, and stuff like that there.

Dalhart, ho hum, and three quarts of rum. Say, Mary Woodruff what you and Joyce Ann doing in Dalhart Saturday? Me, oh, I was just looking around for some new year eve, I mean some pals of mine. You ain't bird-dogging. We didn't mean to slight you, Betty, but we knew you would be there.

Seventh Grade Report

Well, here we are back in school this morning. Almost everyone has a bad cold and feel like they have not had a very good vacation because of having to stay in the house all week.

Mr. Graves says we should start the New Year right by having all our assignments up and making good grades. Of course, we always do. (Sometimes).

Third Grade

We have four absences this morning. We are just wondering if these pupils had too much Christmas.

All children seemed to have an enjoyable time during the holidays. However all seemed to be glad to be in school again.

We are planning to do some special review for our mid-term examinations which will be next week.

First Grade

We have four pupils out of school, one is sick, perhaps they are all sick.

Sixteen pupils are full of enthusiasm and ready to begin where we left off.

I'll do my best to keep them well here. I trust parents will do all they can at home to help these boys and girls keep well this cold weather.

Sixth Grade

Several students were absent when school was resumed this week. Those present seemed to be suffering with severe to minor colds. Perhaps we all enjoyed too much Christmas.

Midterm examinations are giving us all the headache. All prayers will be appreciated next week.

CURRENT PROGRAM AT THE ROXY

Closed until Friday night.
Friday and Saturday night—
"Law of the Pampas" with William Boyd.
Sunday and Monday night—
Loretta Young and David Niven in "Eternally Yours."

CONGRESS TAKES ON BILLION DOLLAR PROBLEMS

Promote Sea Hero

Vice Admiral R. V. Holt

Newly promoted from rear admiral to vice admiral in the British navy, Reginald Vesey Holt is a U. S. hero. He received the American Distinguished Service Medal for leading rescue of the crew of the U. S. gunboat Punay after it was attacked by the Japs in China two years ago.

College Students Return to Schools After Holidays

Having enjoyed the Yuletide season in their respective homes, local boys and girls, who are attending school at the various universities and colleges, returned this week to resume their studies.

Among those who spent the holidays with their parents were Hershel Harris, William Pendleton, Newton Foster, John Steel, Hugh Cartride, Walten Lasley, Alfred Pronger, Robert Murdock and Jas. Ullom, Texas A. & M. Miss Mildred Pendleton, Texas Tech. Miss Lorraine Ross, P. A. M. C. Miss Tommie Dee Bryan, W. T. S. C. Misses Mary Simpson and Roberta Wray, Amarillo Business College. Jack Dettle, Miss Elva Cartride andn Basikin Brown, Texas Tech.

Rites For Wilson Infant Are Held

Services for Andrea Jean, infant daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Walton Wilson of Boise City at Loretto Hospital in Dalhart, Wednesday, were conducted by Rev. Chapman at the Wilson chapel in Guymon Thursday. Interment was made in the Guymon cemetery.

Mr. Wilson is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wilson of this city.

Begin Task of Census Taking; Enumerators Busy on Four Phases

Enumerators are already busy on four of the seven phases of the regular ten-year federal census, it was revealed today.

They started Jan. 2 gathering statistics on business houses, manufacturing establishments, drainage and irrigation projects and mines and quarries.

Work gathering data on the population, housing and agriculture is to start April 1.

Throughout the district, which is comprised of 11 counties, the enumerators include Jack M. Roberson of Vega; L. Fred Mye, Tullia; Roy J. B. Noland, Dalhart; Earl W. Wilson, Hereford; Walter M. Pendleton, Stratford; and Raymond Lee McCabe, Fred H. Woodruff and George C. Wescoat from Amarillo.

Finn Donations Can Come Off Of Income Returns

Contributions to the Finnish relief fund can be deducted from income returns to "the full extent of the law," according to Edwin T. Shattuck, of Shattuck, Bangs and Davis, the fund's attorneys in New York City.

Shattuck said that Deputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue J. Mooney informed the fund that "contributions made to you by individuals are deductible by such individuals in arriving at their taxable net income in the manner and to the extent" of the law.

Shattuck authorized the following interpretation of Mooney's ruling: "Individuals may deduct net income for charitable purposes as computed without benefit of this deduction."

"Corporations can deduct up to five per cent of net income for contributions to non-profit, charitable corporations such as the Finnish Relief Fund, Inc., as computed without benefit of this deduction."

European War To Grow, Says Head Of United Press

Unless there is an unexpected peace break, the European war will be intensified until it is raging on a scale equal to the World War, is the belief of Hugh Baillie, president of the United Press.

A "quick knockout" in the war is unlikely, he said. "It is shaping up as a fight of attrition, siege and counter-siege. Another fact arguing a long war is the fact that the French, British and Germans, all believe they must win to maintain their existence."

He believes eventually air raids on Paris, London and Berlin will start, though so far no major European capital, except Helsinki, has been bombed.

Baillie believes there will be no peace overtures until there is another significant development in the war or in alignment of the belligerents.

It will be a miracle, he said, if Luxembourg, Belgium and Holland escape the war, because they are virtually in the middle of it. Norway and Sweden were neutral in the last conflict, but the Russo-Finnish fighting has brought war closer to them than ever before. Denmark also is directly in the war zone.

Jim Douglas To Post At Tyler

Jim Douglas, division highway engineer of Amarillo, will swap places with J. Guy Lott, division engineer at Tyler, it was announced today.

Gassed in the World War, Lott believes the high altitude of the Panhandle will benefit him, while Douglas prefers the East Texas climate.

Douglas came to Amarillo two years ago when he exchanged posts with W. J. Van London. This latest exchange was announced by State Engineer Julian Montgomery but he did not specify the date.

$11,000 IN FARM FUND

Sherman county farmers and ranchers today received $11,000 in 1939 AAA benefit checks.

The county's total will be about $360,000, balance of which should arrive by April 1, it was learned from County Agent J. E. Crabtree.

Allies Confer With F. D. R.

Love Ends Diplomat's Career

Because the State Department frowns on marriage of its diplomats to foreigners, it hastily shifted Norman Christiansen, U. S. vice-consul in Mexico City, to Canada when he announced plans to wed Amalia Viesca Palma. But, throwing up his career for love, he resigned, returned to Mexico and wed the seniorita, with whom he is shown.

Son of Inventor is Named Secretary

Washington, Jan. 3—New secretary of the navy is Charles Edison, son of the famous inventor, Thos. A. Edison. He was sworn in yesterday as the 46th secretary.

He said he was "thrilled" with his new position, and said he recognized its tremendous responsibilities and that he would try to keep faith with them and with the American people.

Texan Made Under-Secretary Department Of Interior

Austin, Jan. 3—New under-secretary of the U. S. department of the interior, is Alvin Wertz, Austin attorney, former member of the Texas Legislature. He has specialized in oil and riparian rights. Reportedly, his appointment by the President has the full approval of Secretary Ickes and of Texas' two senators.

Defense Program One of Measures to Face Law-Making Body

Major problems facing the third session of the 76th congress which opened in Washington Wednesday include:

Whether to raise the national debt limit of $45,000,000,000. The national debt is rapidly approaching that limit.

What to do about Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's certificate plan and processing taxes.

Whether to continue the reciprocal trade policies. How to reduce federal spending. Whether to attempt to revive the $1,500,000,000 spend-lead measure, and the $800,000,000 housing program, both of which were approved by the Senate in the last session, but shelved by the House.

What to do about the $2,300,000,000 national defense appropriation that President Roosevelt is expected to request; and what to do about relief and WPA which is expected to require a $1,000,000,000 budget.

Whether the Wagner Labor Act and the National Labor Relations Board shall be overhauled; also, the Wage-Hour Law. Whether the Dies committee investigating un-American activities and the probe of the NRLB shall be continued.

And what shall be done with the perennial anti-lynching bill.

Mother of Local Druggist Dies in Oklahoma

Mrs. C. B. Yates, mother of Mr. D. L. Yates, local druggist, died Sunday, Dec. 31 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Vincent, in Texhoma.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Methodist church.

Interment followed in the Texhoma Cemetery.

Mrs. Eva Ullom Announces For County Treasurer

Mrs. Eva Ullom is announcing her candidacy for re-election to the office of County Treasurer of Sherman County this week.

In making her announcement she stated that if re-elected, she will endeavor to do her best to serve the public to the best of their interests. She will appreciate any favors shown her in the coming election.

Warns Nation Against Over-Optimism of European War Trade

Washington, Jan. 3—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace this week warned U. S. business to keep prepared for the shock of European peace though he did not indicate when he thought peace might be reached. He declared American farmers are in far better shape to meet problems arising from European peace than they were at the close of the World War.

Reds Go In For Camouflage Too

Taking a tip from the white-clad Finnish "ghost soldiers," who have wrought havoc among the invading Russians, the Red army has adopted similar camouflage. This picture illustrates how perfectly the white-clad Russians blend with the Arctic background. Even their dog is in winter dress.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Left orphans by a tragic automobile accident which claimed the lives of their mother and father, three sisters, Helen, Adele and "Limpy," are visited by their Aunt Olympia, politically minded wife of Senator Alencon Delaporte Slopschire. She insists that the girls return with her to Washington, to make their home with them. In addition to loving the girls, Aunt Olympia knows they will be a terrific political asset. Senator Slopschire has as his political opponent one Brother Wilkie, a minister, whose political campaign is furthered by seven "unspeakable brats" who sit on the rostrum with him while he makes speeches. Aunt Olympia and the Senator, kind and loving, nevertheless know that their three nieces will mean votes for the Senator. Senator Slopschire, a pleasantly foggy individual who depends on the astuteness of his wife, prepares for their coming. Though Limpy, the youngest, is 16, and Helen, the oldest, is 21, the Senator buys them all the toys and gifts he can find, feeling that "children" should be occupied. When they first meet their "Uncle Lancy," as he is to be known, the girls take him to their united bosom. Soon Adele, most beautiful of the sisters, meets Len Hardesty, publicity man for Brother Wilkie. Though it is Len's job to help defeat the Senator, he promptly falls in love with Adele.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

The Senator coughed deprecatingly. "She's joking, Adele. This is pre-election stuff. Before election day, she'll be telling me, with forceful, if inelegant, expletives, that if I ever run for anything again she'll divorce, and probably de-neck, me. This is before-the-campaign stuff."

"My very words," said Aunt Olympia complacently.

"I forgot my quotes," admitted Uncle Lancy.

"What a cocky little fool I was, Brick," Helen wrote home to Iowa, "to think I could learn this racket in one year. Aunt Olympia's been in it right from the cradle—or at least from the marriage altar—and she says it's still so much haywire to her. It seems to be mostly luck and 'getting the breaks,' and of course, seizing Opportunity before the Opposition gets hold of it. Aunt Olympia says if she didn't watch every breath the Senator draws, he'd get himself impeached before breakfast. But I am learning a little, I think.

"There's one thing I've learned, and this is important. We've got to get over that provincial feeling that political opponents are social lepers, to be snubbed and ostracized and passed by on the other side. Aunt Olympia says it is a sign of superiority to hobnob with the Opposition—except at the polls, of course. She says it is only little fry who carry political animosities further than the Congressional Record. And I must say, she lives up to her philosophy. I've met quite a number of Republican wives and they are very nice to me and ask me to their meetings and teas, and Aunt Olympia encourages me to go. Sometimes she goes with me.

"Really, Brick, they are amazing, Uncle Lancy and she. Take Len Hardesty for instance. He is here half the time, mooning over Adele mostly, but always showing up at the dinner table and the cocktail tray.

And last week who should breeze in unexpectedly but Brother Wilkie, the Governor, running against Uncle Lancy. He phoned and Auntie asked him to dinner and he came. They were lovely to him and Aunt Olympia asked him to ask the blessing."

Aunt Olympia was far deeper in the campaign than either the girls or the Senator realized. She spent two hours every morning carefully conning the important dailies from home and making notes of things to be attended to; cards of congratulations from herself and the Senator to everyone having babies or getting married; condolences for illness and death; approval of the activities of clubs and church organizations, with pertinent suggestions and offering co-operation; and she painstakingly, with well-concealed bitterness, received every constituent who happened to be in Washington and telephoned or called.

By the first of April Olympia had completed plans for the campaign entourage; deciding on a motor trailer to insure the domesticity of the family, with beds, kitchen and cozy dinette.

"We won't have to eat there much," she assured the girls kindly. "Just enough to get good photos of how domestic and homey we are, with you girls tripping prettily around at your work. We'll have Hilda send us a crate of cooked food every day."

"Doesn't she campaign with us?" "Oh, no! Except in the Scandinavian districts, where she sits at the table with us. . . . Not in the rest of the state. The average voter thinks if a Senator can afford a maid he's getting too much money."

There would be a sound truck for the Senator's speeches and in addition to their own big car, a couple of secondhand Fords for the staff, visiting reporters, et al. She fretted a good deal over the sound truck, having ideas of her own on that important matter. It must have microphones both inside and on the driver's seat: on the driver's seat to show the Senator off in good weather and inside "for rain; the Senator catches cold if he gets wet."

After consulting and personally inspecting every make of trailer and sound truck on the market, she decided to buy—from some home dealer, of course—old, run-down, antiquated cars that could be rebuilt.

"The shabbier the better—the outside," she explained to the girls. "To take some of the gravel off that 'Alencon' . . . New cars look royalistic. . . . But don't worry. We'll have the best and most modern engines installed under the rusty hoods; like Uncle Joe Cannon, with silk underwear under his homey homespun. We'll have them rebuilt from the tires up—the inside. Fortunately, the works don't show."

Aunt Olympia knew her Congressional Record better than her "Alice in Wonderland." She went straight back to the campaign.

She sent up to Maysville, her home town and the state capital, for a motor dealer and had him come to Washington—at the Senator's expense—to get her ideas. She had drawn rough drafts of what she desired, both in trailer and trunk, but the expert did not comprehend them readily.

"Why, it's as simple as a—logarithm," she said irritably. "For the sound truck we want a second-hand, run-down delivery wagon, an enclosed one, of course. Put in the best works you can get hold of. Get a good sound man to wire it, with miles on the driver's seat as well as inside. Build cabinets of shelves and drawers along the inside to put papers and books in. And leave room for a good easy chair for the Senator, because his feet swell before the end of the campaign. And put in long narrow windows on each side for ventilation. Isn't that simple enough?"

The Senator coughed deprecatingly. "She's joking, my dear," he said.

"What color you want this painted?" "I don't want it painted," she said exasperatedly. "No paint! I want rust and mud and scratches and dents, but no paint. If it's painted when you get it, you set fire to it or soak it in acid. Is that clear?"

The month of April she devoted pretty largely to planning the girls' campaign wardrobes. On these, she spared neither time, talent nor expense. She had the best dressmakers and designers in Washington at work. There were graceful, girlish dresses for afternoon and for dinner; there were sport clothes, bathing suits, riding costumes; there were fetching little costumes of finest gingham for their dainty housework about the trailer. Aunt Olympia persistently referred to these as their "cottons."

"Why cotton, Auntie?" demanded Limpy. "We don't raise cotton up there, do we?" "No, darling," said Aunt Olympia, beaming approval for her acumen. "We don't raise cotton, but we have nineteen large cotton mills and they employ at least ten thousand constituents."

Although all their dresses were what Aunt Olympia called "vote-getters" to the last ribbon and the smallest button, she reserved her most passionate interest for what she called their "wind-up ensembles. The Senator winds up with a huge rally. That's the big night. You catch a lot of voters—floaters, they are—if you handle the wind-up right. Your wind-up costumes are to be chef d'oeuvres; absolutely chef d'oeuvres."

"It can't be the same as hors d'oeuvres," Limpy assured her sisters. "Not even Aunt Olympia would expect them to eat us."

"I wouldn't trust Len Hardesty," said Aunt Olympia. "Not if Adele looks as well as I expect. . . . Let me see, that will be the first week of November. Fall dresses. Felt hats. Wide, sweeping black for Helen with little white doodads. Droopy white for Limpy with long black streamers."

"I suppose I'm to go bareheaded," said Adele.

"No, no, darling! Not quite. Teeny black and white something or other, with a bit of a veil and my only regret is that Len Hardesty won't be there to see it. He'd strangle the brats with his bare hands."

Helen did not follow the preliminary campaign activities as closely as her sisters. Studying the political racket kept her fairly busy. She read the Congressional Record conscientiously, if boredly. She spent hours visiting the Senator's committees and trying to make heads and tails of things which didn't make sense to an average intelligence like hers. She hung over the gallery of the House as if she had become a fixture there.

Aunt Olympia at last reached a stage of her preparations where she felt impelled to ask the Senator's advice.

"Del, how about a publicity man for our campaign?" "Why, we're going to have Dave Cooper. He's the best we can get, since Len's tied up. I've already spoken to him about it. He's working on it now."

"Yes, of course, for you," she said significantly. "But how about the girls here?"

The Senator wisely said nothing, but the girls rose to it.

"For us!" "We've had enough publicity to last us a lifetime!"

"Heavens, Auntie, do we rate a publicity man?" "Oh, he'll only be an assistant to Dave Cooper, but we'll need someone to handle our end of it. Dave'll be pretty busy. . . . We need someone more sentimental. For sob stuff. Heart interest. Human appeal. Let me see—ah! Del—what would you think of—well, what would you think of—say—someone like—Cecil Dodd?"

The Senator came to with a snap. "Cecil Dodd! . . . Cecil Dodd, my dear!" The Senator put on an extra pair of glasses to regard her more severely. "Why, Ollie, Cecil Dodd doesn't know the first thing about politics! He'd never get to first base. In fact, he'd never even get to bat. He's never been in a campaign in his life. Cecil Dodd—well, Cecil Dodd is what I call a sofa-sitter. But I've heard it expressed more forcibly and perhaps with more truth."

"Oh, he's not so dumb," Olympia rose to the argument. "He's chock-full of human appeal; full of adjectives; why, he knows adjectives I've never even heard of! He's the loudest exponent of youth and beauty in Washington. Do you remember those articles he wrote when Sissy Graves was killed in an airplane accident? A dozen people were killed—and some of them important—but he wrote about Sissy with so much heart appeal that everybody forgot all about the rest of them and made it her exclusive fatality. I know it brought tears to my eyes."

"I don't go in for tears in a campaign," he said, more on the defensive than the girls had ever seen him. "There isn't going to be anything milksoak about this campaign. It's going to be muddy."

"He's a fine dancer; he rides horseback and plays tennis and golf and has taken prizes for swimming and diving. Del, try to forget your personal, political aspirations for once in your life, and think of these poor dear children! Don't you want them to have any amusement? Do you expect them to listen to you make speeches and shake hands for six months with no exercise, no fresh air and no—no young companionship?"

This put a different light on the matter. The Senator took off both pairs of glasses and set to wiping one. "That's so," he assented. "I didn't mean to be selfish, my dear. The children come first, of course. . . . But I don't suppose we can get him. I don't think he could tear himself away from the sofas long enough."

"We can get him," said Olympia. "I've already spoken to him—just tentatively, you understand; asking why he didn't get into the political end of it and he said he wanted to but never got the breaks. We can get him." A happy smile rosied her face. "Wait till Len Hardesty hears this!"

Len Hardesty was not long hearing it. He dropped in on them the next night.

"Had to fly down," he said cheerfully. "Got to fly back, too. The Governor's going tightwad on me." "I'm glad you came, Len," said Olympia heartily, almost fondly. "I want to ask your advice about something."

A guarded expression settled over his face. "Oh, you do eh? Then you're up to something I'm against." He braced himself to receive it. "All right. Let's have it. It's dead wrong and you know it."

Olympia laughed happily. "Oh, it's really nothing or I shouldn't be asking your advice. It's a mere detail. It's about a publicity man for the campaign. You know those publicity gangsters better than we do."

Len, who had thought he was prepared for anything, was genuinely surprised. "Publicity man! Why, you dumb cluck, aren't you having Dave Cooper? If you're not, you'd better get him and get him quick. He's tops."

"Don't be silly, Len. Of course we're having him. . . . For the Senator. . . . But we've got to have an assistant. You see, there's going to be quite a cavalcade of us—what with the trailer and the tent and the sound truck and three cars. We don't want anybody to work day and night for us. We're not like some candidates, who expect a poor publicity man to live, move and have his being with seven brats and a trumpeting beldame."

"I smell a rat," said Len Hardesty. "You never gave me an assistant."

"But we're a much larger party this year, you silly dunce. . . . No, definitely, I am for your laboring classes and I will not have poor old Dave imposed on and worked to death, not even for the Senator. But we'll expect his assistant chiefly to handle our end of it, mine and the girls', when the Senator and Dave are off on their flying junkets and we're cooped up in the trailer. We'll need someone rather young and fairly presentable, don't you think? So he can be a sort of companion to the girls when they're dancing and riding and swimming? And you know yourself, Len, that fairly presentable publicity men are hard to get. I don't know that I've ever seen one."

"I'm sorry I spent the money to fly down," he said grimly. "If I'm to pick out a man for you, seems to me you ought to pay the bill out of your expense account."

"Unfortunately we haven't a percentage club, like the Governor," she disclaimed quickly. "Besides, darling, I don't expect you to pick him out."

"That's what I was afraid of," he admitted gloomily. "Now let's get this straight, Ollie. You speak of your cavalcade of cars. What's it to be? A campaign for re-election, or a specially conducted young ladies' tour with a presentable escort?"

"The election comes first, of course. But after all, the Senator—Uncle Lancy—and I cannot overlook our responsibility to these poor dear children. We must provide for them as best we can, even in the exigencies of a campaign. Who would you suggest?"

"I wouldn't suggest anybody. I'd suggest putting the girls in jail till I get rid of the Governor. They don't need an escort. Dave Cooper can handle them. True, he's no Don Juan! He's forty and fat and married and chews tobacco. But he can give you all the publicity you need and more than you merit."

"I was thinking of someone like—well, how about Cecil Dodd?"

"Cecil Dodd! Lord, Ollie, if you upholster your trailer in purple duvety and silken cushions you'll elect the Governor! . . . Cecil Dodd! . . . Ollie, we've had our occasional differences but I've always admired you as a straight shooting, shoulder-to-shoulder old trooper. . . . Cecil Dodd! . . . Do you want to shatter a young man's fondest illusions? . . . Cecil

"Do you want to shatter a young man's fondest illusions?"

Dodd! You're not taking him to play politics. You're taking him to gum up my works."

"He writes very beautiful and touching articles, Len Hardesty, and you can't deny it. . . . But I admit I want him especially as a sort of companion—a sort of chaperon for the girls. . . . When they do their playing. . . . I can't keep my mind on them every minute and run this campaign at the same time."

"No! So you save your calloused conscience by giving them this—this silk pajamaed pariah as a watchdog. . . . Well, if that's what you're up to, you count Adele out. She can't go. I put my foot down on that. You can sack him onto your innocent Helen and trusting little Limpy if you like—if that's your idea of Christian duty to young orphans—but I've got King's X on Adele and she can't go."

"Well, I'm glad you approve," said Olympia beamingly. "Have a drink, Len? Your seal of approval relieves me a lot. I wasn't quite sure about it in my own mind, but you've settled my doubts."

"Aw, Ollie, be a sport! Give a fellow a break, won't you? Remember what pals we've always been! Remember the life I'm going to lead with the brats and the trumpet yawning at me from every angle! (TO BE CONTINUED)

THE CHRISTIAN'S CONFESSION OF FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 16:13-24. GOLDEN TEXT—Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.—Matthew 16:16.

Many outstanding miracles had been performed by our Lord during His ministry in Galilee, and now as that period of His earthly work was drawing to a close He went with the disciples north into the great heathen center, Caesarea Philippi. Here He asked them life's greatest question, "What think ye of the Christ?" and Peter, blessed of God with true utterance, became the instrument for that confession of Christ upon which He could found His Church. Then there came from His blessed lips the prophecy of His death and resurrection which would make it possible for all who believe to become the sons of God and members of that Church.

I. The Question—Who is the Son of Man? (vv. 13-17).

The question of Christ was general at first, and in the answer we find that the people of our Lord's own day had a very high opinion of Him. They saw in Him the combined merits of the outstanding characters of their generation. They knew that He was no ordinary individual. He had made a striking impression on His own age, as indeed He has on every age of human history.

Observe carefully that such a confession of Christ is not sufficient. It is not enough to acknowledge Him as the great teacher, the perfect example, or the way-shower. To deny His divinity, to take from Him His place as Son of the living God is to make Him an impostor and a fraud.

The personal question which follows, "Whom say ye that I am?" is the supremely important question from which no man can escape. Neutrality is impossible. Whatever we do or fail to do declares our position. "What think ye of Christ?" is the touchstone which determines character, condition and destiny.

Peter by the grace of God had come to the place where he recognized the one with whom he was having blessed fellowship in service as the Messiah, the Anointed One, the Son of the living God. We too should be so responsive to the guidance and control of the Holy Spirit that He may be able to teach us spiritual truth, which flesh and blood can never reveal.

II. The Church—Its True Foundation (vv. 18-20).

Christ, the Son of the living God, is the rock upon which the Church is built. The confession by Peter of this fact is in response to the question of Christ, "Whom say ye that I am?" and hence clearly relates to Christ, not to Peter, or to anything in Peter's personality. He was indeed blessed in his confession of Christ, but it is Christ who is the rock upon which the powerful and glorious Church is founded.

It follows without possibility of denial that only that organization which truly represents Jesus as the Christ, the Son of the living God, has any right to call itself a church. Countless are the groups calling themselves churches which are nothing but social or intellectual clubs with possibly a slightly religious flavor, for they deny the deity of Christ. Why are they not honest enough to take their proper names and their rightful places in the community? Is it because they wish to have the financial support of God's people and bear the good name of the Church?

III. The Cross—for Christ and for Me (vv. 21-24).

The shadow of the cross falls across the little gathering of disciples as the Lord tells them of His impending death on the cross. Note that He rightly coupled with the fact of His death the truth of the resurrection, which gives it true meaning and which carries us beyond the darkness of Calvary to the light and beauty of Easter morning.

Peter who had a moment before spoken for God, now becomes the mouthpiece of the devil. From confessing his Lord, Peter turned to tempting Him to avoid the cross. That he "meant well" does not excuse Peter's folly, nor does it excuse the blundering though well-meaning misdirections which many are giving to the souls of men in our day. Had Jesus yielded to the solicitation of the Evil One through Peter, there would never have been any redemption from sin wrought out on Calvary's cross.

But we observe in verse 24 that there is a cross for the Christian as well as for Christ. Obviously we can never bear His cross, He alone could do that, but we are to take up our own cross and deny ourselves and follow Him. Self on the cross—Christ on the throne—such is the secret of real discipleship.

Lovely Basic Dress Will Slenderize One

IT'S safe to predict that you've never worn a more truly becoming dress than this lovely, basic fashion (1878-B). It is beautifully designed to make your figure look slender and softly rounded. The front panels of the bodice are cut in one with the skirt, accenting height. Gathers at the side of the bodice take care of becoming bust fullness. The only trimming is a row of buttons down the front. The v-neckline is a perfect background for your pet jewelry. Those sash ends in the back may be tied in a flat bow, or to simulate a bustle. Velvet, wool broadcloth and flat crepe are materials in which this design makes up particularly well. You'll wear it with pride on important afternoon occasions. A step-by-step sew chart accompanies your pattern.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1878-B is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4 3/4 yards of 39-inch material for three-quarter sleeves; 4 3/4 yards for long sleeves; 4 3/4 yards for short.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of pattern, 15 cents (in coins).

CLOTHESPIN NOSE

Got a cold? Get two-way relief with Luden's! A Luden's on your tongue helps soothe throat—then, as it melts, releases cool menthol vapor. Your breath carries this to clogged nasal passages, helps open your "clothespin nose!"

LUDEN'S 5¢ Menthol Cough Drops

In Place of Gold

To store our memories with a sense of injury is to fill that chest with rusty iron which was meant for refined gold.—W. Secker.

Don't Aggravate Gas Bloating

If your GAS BLOATING is caused by constipation, get the DOUBLE ACTION of Adierka. This 35-year-old remedy is BOTH carminative and cathartic. Carminatives that warm and soothe the stomach, help expel GAS. Cathartics that act quickly and gently, clearing the bowels of wastes that may have caused GAS BLOATING, headaches, indigestion, sour stomach and nerve pressure. Adierka contains three laxatives and five carminatives to give a more BALANCED result. It does not gripe—it not habit forming. Adierka acts on the stomach and BOTH bowels. It relieves STOMACH GAS almost at once, and often removes bowel wastes in less than two hours. Sold at all drug stores.

Virginia Sue Kinard Married to W. Scott In Dalhart Home

Miss Virginia Sue Kinard, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kinard, and Mr. W. Scott Amend, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Amend of Canyon, were married Saturday at high noon at a pretty service performed at the Kinard home in Dalhart on Rock Island. Rev. Harold Scoggins, pastor of the Central Methodist church officiated.

An arrangement of poinsettias, tapers and Yule trees marked the place of ceremony in the living room.

The bride wore a becoming spring jacket-frock of royal blue crepe with a jeweled-clasp at the neckline. Her hat was of a matching shade of blue and the other accessories were of black. American beauty roses and valley lilies formed her bouquet.

Miss Myrtice Ellen Kinard, sister of the bride and J. D. Amend, Canyon, brother of the bridegroom were the attendants. Miss Kinard was wearing a frock of gold crepe and a corsage of yellow roses and sweet peas.

An informal reception followed the ceremony with Misses Ora Belle Strode, Vena Mae Moon and Marie Ellen Foltz, presiding at the lace-draped table.

Later the young couple left on a honeymoon trip, keeping their destination a secret. They will live in Perryton where Mr. Amend is with the Soil Conservation Service.

Mr. Amend formerly lived in the eastern part of Sherman county.

Army Air Corps Will Accept 1200

Fort Sam Houston, Jan. 3.—Interested in flying? 1200 air-minded young men between the ages of 20 and 26 are to be appointed as Flying Cadets in the "Army's West Point of the Air." New classes are scheduled to enter training in February, March and April of 1940 at the nine civilian schools which have been selected by the War Department to instruct Flying Cadets in the primary phase of flying. It is estimated that approximately 400 qualified applicants will be appointed for each new class.

This is a real opportunity for interested young men who desire to become Army pilots. Results attained by two classes of students, who recently completed the first three months of their training, have proven entirely satisfactory and have given assurance that the training program now under way
may be expected to provide the Air Corps with a large number of its required adequately trained pilots.

To be eligible, applicants must be unmarried male citizens of the United States between the ages of 20 and 26, inclusive, who have satisfactorily completed two or more years of college work or are able to pass written educational examination in lieu thereof. The examination consists of nine subjects, and includes United States history,
english, geography, higher algebra, plane and spherical trigonometry and elementary physics. If satisfactory evidence of completion of the necessary college credits in a recognized college is submitted, applicants are exempt from the educational examination.

Physical requirements are particularly exacting, due to the nature of the training, especially as to vision, hearing and the nervous system. The minimum height is 64 inches; the maximum, 74 inches.

These young men were formerly given all of their training at the Air Corps Training Center, San Antonio, Texas. But today, under the critical scrutiny of Air Corps
Officers, a 12-week course of primary flight training that consists of the technique of pilotage, first solo flights, first aerial acrobatics and first accuracy landings, is conducted at nine civilian schools.

Hundreds of interested South Dakota residents are contributing to the fund, which will guarantee the quadruplets a thorough education. However, the four children couldn't be bothered thinking about educational problems during their birthday.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Administration Prepares Fight For Reciprocal Trade Treaties In Face of Senate Opposition

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

COMMERCE: Trade Battle

Just before Christmas the state department found it wise to announce that no concession on copper tariffs will be made in its reciprocal trade pact with Chile. This set a precedent, because never before has the department divulged such information about an anticipated reciprocal pact before the treaty is consummated. Official reason was "widespread public interest," but behind it lay the vocal protests of copper producing states who would otherwise join in the hue and cry when the reciprocal program comes up for renewal in congress next term.

Basis of opposition is the claim that Secretary of State Cordell Hull's trade program breaks down tariff walls and permits foreign products. Under the "most favored nation" clause a concession on wheat from Argentina, for instance, would be granted all other nations holding reciprocal pacts with the U. S. It was rumored in Washington this month that President Roosevelt is girding himself for the toughest congressional fight of his entire administration, if necessary, to extend the act. It was even reported he would attempt to beat Republican critics to the gun by taking his fight to the country before the G. O. P. can make an open issue of it.

Entirely aside from the trade act's influence on U. S. economy, observers noted it was not without important political significance. Since reciprocal agreements are not subject to senate ratification, a lucrative source of legislative logrolling has been forfeited. Proud of his work, Secretary Hull maintains he is working to benefit the entire nation, not any small section. Whether his admittedly sincere policy will prevail is among the most important issues facing the new congress.

AGRICULTURE: Anschluss

Hungry for farm funds (see below) Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace has looked covetously on the well-tended $2,000,000,000 Farm Credit administration fund supervised by its governor, F. F. Hill. So conservative was Mr. Hill that there still remains a $600,000,000 FCA lending power which Mr. Wallace thought should be used to bring FCA's benefits to drought sufferers.

Alarmed, Mr. Hill pointed out that the $1,400,000,000 in bonds which he has sold to banks and private investors might be jeopardized by a "loose" policy of lending money that might never be repaid. Wall Street, calling the Wallace plan "inflationary," was equally alarmed.

But Henry Wallace was boss. In late December, Franklin Roosevelt found himself called upon to write Mr. Hill a letter: "In accepting your resignation, I want to express my very real appreciation of your services..."

Speculation on FCA's future immediately became rife. Under its new administrator, Dr. A. G. Black, the agency will no doubt lose its independence, tie in closer with the department of agriculture and provide a measure of supervision over the farm operations of its borrowers.

Farm Money

It is no secret that the administration is feverishly seeking to cut the corners in 1940's budget to make way for a $500,000,000 boost in defense expenditures. Most carefully scrutinized item is agriculture, whose party payments have cost $225,000,000 annually. The treasury's plight is further complicated by congress' failure to provide revenue sources for its farm appropriation the past two years.

Several weeks ago the treasury's Secretary Morgenthau met with agriculture's Wallace and a host of fiscal experts to iron out this problem. While the President told his press conference he would ask congress to dig up the money it "owes" the treasury for past farm payments, Messrs. Wallace and Morgenthau talked over the certificate plan, under which farmers would get their parity payments from consumers rather than the treasury.

How Mr. Morgenthau reacted to this plan was indicated a few days later. Although reports persisted that the President would ask congress to provide $1,050,000,000 in new revenue next year, his keeper of the exchequer started a mild rebellion that may burst into flames when the budget is finally announced. Said Mr. Morgenthau: "I haven't changed my views on consumer taxes; the taxes are now a little over 60 per cent and that's high enough."

Still unsolved was agriculture's No. 1 problem. Other problems:

Condition of crops in the winter wheat area, where an unprecedented drought remained unbroken, was officially stated at 55 per cent of normal. This would bring a crop the third smallest on record.

The bureau of agricultural economics estimated the farmers' income from his products in 1939 dropped to $7,625,000,000 from $7,627,000,000 the previous year.

Although 5,782,000 bales of cotton and cotton products were sold abroad under the export subsidy plan between August 1 and December 15, less than half of it has been shipped because of a shortage of ocean freight space.

CORDELL HULL Will he win?

PAN AMERICA: Neutrality

High sounding was the 300-mile "neutrality belt" thrown around the Western hemisphere when Europe went to war last September. Chief sponsor was the U. S., whose Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles promised his nation would take the lion's share of patrol duty. But by Christmastide the U. S. was feeling less altruistic.

Buried at Buenos Aires was Capt. Hans Langsdorff, who killed himself after scuttling his shell-battered pocket battleship Graf Spee off Montevideo. British ships, cheated out of the kill, sailed off for other illegal conquests. Roosting at a Florida port was the Nazi freighter Arauca, driven to shelter by a British cruiser. At New York's Ellis island were 577 survivors of the scuttled liner Columbus, whose Capt. Wilhelm Daehe charged a British boat had fired across his bow.

By this time Pan America was so aroused that Washington had its choice of enforcing neutrality or sacrificing prestige. With 20 other nations, the U. S. signed an ineffectual protest to the belligerents. Meanwhile Sumner Welles prepared for U. S. participation in the forthcoming Pan American conference, but Washington's enthusiasm was waning. While the state department said as little as possible, while the navy remained unenthusiastic about its job of patrolling a 3,000-mile coastline, Captain Daehe and his crew had a merry Christmas as Uncle Sam's guests.

THE WARS: In the West

Germany's eighth railroad accident since September 1 killed more people (62 dead, 30 injured) than were lost in several days on the western front, where an undeclared Yule truce held sway. As usual, there was more activity in the North sea. Britain, which was reported building a speedy fleet of "superplanes," adopted the Reich's trick of laying mines from the air. As the year ended, various forecasts had it that: (1) The next 12 months will bring a raging war; (2) the Netherlands will be invaded by Germany after its canals are frozen over; (3) Britain and France are planning a big naval drive on the Nazis.

In the North

It was an unhappy Christmas for Russia's atheistic Dictator Josef Stalin. Even unhappier were two of his stooges reportedly purged for failure on the Finnish front: Gen. K. A. Meretskov, Leningrad military district's chief of staff, and Otto Kuusinen, Finnish Communist who organized the "people's" government the day Russia began her ill-starred invasion. While Helsinki was evacuated in the face of a threatened Christmas air raid, the Finnish high command claimed its foe had been routed on all fronts.

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, and Pepsin-ize Acid Stomach Too

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach-relief, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how Pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

Any Child Will Love This Washable Pony

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS
THIS pony may be made of oil cloth or other waterproof fabric. It is stuffed with cotton or bits of soft cloth, and is a fascinating toy for a gift or to sell at bazaars.

Rule paper into 1-inch squares; number them; then draw pattern outlines, as shown. The pattern for the body is shown at A; the mane at B; tail C; ears D. The strip E joins the two sides of the body. The openings are for mane and tail. The projections show where ears are sewed. Cut two pieces for each ear, and the tail; sew together, padding slightly. Strip F is for bottoms of feet; and under part of body and legs.

The raw edges are sewn together on the right side as at the lower right, with heavy thread to match tail and mane.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears' 32-page Sewing Book No. 4, contains directions for making dolls; gift items for all ages; and novelties that have sold unusually well at bazaars. She will mail copy upon receipt of name, address and 10 cents in coin.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

When using soap dyes that come in cake form, put dye into soap shaker and shake until dye is right color. It will not then be necessary to strain dye.

To clean a griddle that has become crusted, put over a very hot fire and cover thickly with salt. After the salt has burned brown, the crust and salt will brush off together, leaving the griddle like new. After washing the griddle, grease well and heat before putting away.

To clean rubber sponges, put half an ounce of bicarbonate of soda in half a pint of water and soak them all night in this solution.

Salted meat requires longer boiling than fresh. Put it into cold water, quickly bring it to a boil, then let it simmer.

Prunes for Puddings.—Prunes lend themselves to almost any form of bread pudding. For this purpose it is well to soak them until the stones can be taken out easily, and then chop them.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—The Finns are going ahead bravely with their plans for this year's Olympic games, and Urho Kekkonen, minister of the interior, crowding 50, defeats another statesman in the 100-meter race, coming under the wire in 12.5 seconds. His time in a race against the same opponent 15 years ago, was 10.9. Recently, in the Trisathlon, 10 members of the Finnish parliament, some of them with a touch of frost over the ears, engaged in the 100-meter sprint, the broad jump and shot-putting events.

Mr. Kekkonen, a leader in Finnish politics since Finland gained her independence in 1917, is president of the Finnish Athletic federation and a fervent advocate and exemplar of physical fitness. When, in 1932, the Swedes disqualified Paavo Nurmi, the Finnish distance runner, as an amateur, the Finns slapped a boycott on the Swedes, and, for years thereafter, there was bickering in the Baltic, with Mr. Kekkonen out in front as a peace advocate. In 1935, the Finns refused to lift the boycott, but, under the shadow of foreign aggression, this was more or less forgotten and the sprinting statesman was in the lead for Scandinavian solidarity, in war and sports.

He helped suppress the Communist party in 1930, and with equal vigor drove against the Fascists in later years. In November of last year, the diet sustained him in his move to restrain the 373 Fascist and Nazi organizations in Finland, and their 18 newspapers, but, a month later, a Helsinki magistrate sustained his totalitarian opponents. He followed with a devastating expose of their subversive activities and had the nub of the argument when Germany made its deal with Red Russia, Finland's old bete noir. The Russians are now complaining bitterly that the Finnish sprinters, in the cabinet and out, insist on running in their direction. They seem to think it isn't sporting.

LONG before the Civil war, girls like Scarlett O'Hara were learning to curtsy and how to enter a ballroom in Athens college, at Athens, Ala. Along with news of Atlanta's grand swirl of crinoline and old lace comes word that Athens college, of prunes and prisms tradition, is putting in a big hosiery mill to be operated by the college girls. It will employ 100 students, at 25 cents an hour.

Dr. Eugene Rudolph Naylor, president of the college, thought up the mill plan and gathered funds for it. He says, "This is a liberal arts college, steeped in the traditions of the Old South, and the main purpose of this experiment is to give the students means to obtain a liberal arts education."

"And," he might have added, "silk stockings to match the education." Cactus colleges have been getting their turn in the spotlight for turning out lethal football. Dr. Naylor, an alumnus of several of them, has been working small-college innovations, of possibly greater interest and importance. He has been president of Columbia college of Milton, Ore., Woman's college of Jackson, Tenn., Logan and Athens colleges, dean of Logan college and professor at Wesleyan, and Emory and Henry colleges. He is a resourceful educator who thinks it's a good idea for girls to learn how much material and work goes into a pair of silk stockings.

MAKE MORE JAMS, JELLIES AND MARMALADES (See Recipes Below)

Bread 'nd Jam

Hot bread with jam or jelly is a special treat at any time. But what are you going to do when last summer's supply of jellies and marmalades runs low and youngsters clamor for "bread 'nd jam" for a mid-afternoon lunch? Make more jams and jellies, of course, from materials at hand right now!

Citrus fruits, dried fruits, and canned fruits, too, combine to make a delicious variety of mid-winter marmalades. Even the lowly carrot appears and contributes flavor and color to an unusual conserve. And don't forget, while the season is at its height, to make Cranberry Conserve, flavormore and gorgeously colored and good!

Of course you'll want feather-light, buttery rolls, and buns with which to serve your new supply of tasty jams and jellies. You'll find a store of tested recipes for hot breads in my booklet, "Better Baking"—recipes for flaky biscuits that melt in your mouth, for golden-brown, crusty muffins, and a wide variety of sweet rolls—the things you like to serve for Sunday morning breakfast and for afternoon tea.

A few such recipes appear below, with directions for making mid-winter marmalades, too.

English Muffins (Makes 12 muffins)

1/2 cup scalded milk
1 cup water
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
1 yeast cake dissolved in 1 tablespoon lukewarm water
4 cups general purpose flour
3 tablespoons shortening
Heat milk to lukewarm. Add water, salt, sugar, dissolved yeast, and 2 cups flour. Beat well. Let rise until doubled in bulk (about 1 hour.) Add shortening (softened) and remaining flour. Beat and knead well. Let rise again until doubled in bulk (about 50 minutes). Roll about 1/4-inch thick and cut with a round cutter. Let rise 1 hour or until very light. Place muffins on heated griddle, (4 at a time) and fry for approximately 15 to 20 minutes, turning frequently.

Raisin Buns (Makes 4 dozen)

2 cakes compressed yeast
1/4 cup lukewarm water
1 cup milk
1/4 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs (beaten)
5 cups sifted flour (about)
1 cup seedless raisins

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk. Add butter, sugar and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Add flour to make a thick batter. Add yeast and eggs. Beat well. Add raisins. Add enough more flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until satiny. Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise until double in bulk (about 2 hours). When light, punch down and shape into rolls. Let rise until double in bulk (1/2 to 3/4 hour). Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) about 20 minutes. Frost with confectioners' sugar icing.

Mid-Winter Conserve. Wash 1 pound of dried apricots in hot water. Drain and run through food chopper. Cover with juice of 2 oranges and 2 lemons. Let stand overnight; next day add 1 cup shredded canned pineapple.

To each cup of fruit add 1/4 cup sugar. Simmer slowly 1 hour or until mixture thickens. Stir frequently. Seal in hot jars.

Marmalade Rolls.

When preparing yeast dough for light rolls, take a portion of the dough and roll it to 1/4-inch thickness, then spread lightly with melted butter and orange marmalade. Roll, and cut in half-inch slices. Place slices in well-greased tea-size muffin tins. Allow to rise and bake for 15 minutes in 400-degree oven.

Cranberry Conserve.

1 pound cranberries
1 cup cold water
2 cups sugar
1/2 cup raisins, seedless
1 orange, seeded and put through food chopper with skin
1/2 cup broken walnut meats
Pick over cranberries carefully and wash. Place in saucepan and cook until cranberries start to pop. Add raisins and orange, and simmer slowly for five minutes. Add sugar and cook to jelly stage. Remove from fire, add broken nut meats, and pack immediately in hot sterilized jelly glasses. Seal.

Petticoat Tails.

Cream 1 cup butter, add 3/4 cup sugar slowly and beat well. Sift together 3 1/2 cups general purpose flour and 1 teaspoon salt and knead into butter mixture. When smooth, dough is formed, divide dough in half and pat each portion into a round layer cake pan (greased). Flute edges with dull edge of knife and prick top of dough with fork. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 25 minutes. Break in pieces to serve.

Scotch Marmalade.

6 cups carrots (sliced)
3 lemons
2 oranges
6 cups sugar
Put carrots, whole lemons, and whole oranges through the food chopper. Add sugar and cook slowly for about 1 hour. Stir frequently. The mixture should be thick and clear. Pour into sterilized containers and seal. To vary the flavor, add a little cinnamon, cloves or ginger tied in a spice bag.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Meringue is improved by a dash of salt and a little grated lemon peel. Use an electric beater instead of a spoon when beating fudge. It makes it creamier. Put the fork into the fat of steak when turning it. If put into meat the juices will escape. Sprinkle grated cheese over the top of scalloped tomatoes. It adds flavor and food value. Creamed soup should not be served at a meal when creamed vegetables or fish are served. A clove of garlic rubbed around the salad bowl will season the salad, but will not give it too strong a flavor.

To determine when a custard is done put a silver knife into the center. If knife comes out clean custard is baked. A space should be left between walls of a mechanical refrigerator and dishes containing foods to allow free circulation of air. This preserves the food.

POTATO VALUE ONCE DOUBTED

U. S. Pioneers Were Slow to Adopt Tubers.

By H. E. ESWINE
Frederick the Great, Louis XVI, the luck of the Irish, and the ingenuity of the French all were needed to popularize that white sheep of a black family, the potato, which had to go to Europe and back before it was accepted by our forefathers who prided themselves on their ability as pioneers.

Sir Walter Raleigh's claim of purveyor of potatoes to Queen Elizabeth is subject to dispute, but there is no argument about the original distrust of most Europeans for a plant that had as relatives the deadly nightshade and other dubious cousins. The Irish were hungry enough to take a chance and the potato flourished in their climate.

Frederick the Great found that soldiers had to be fed and that farmers objected to requisitions of grain if that left their cupboards bare. Potatoes would feed the civilians and release barley and rye for soldiers' rations, so potatoes got a "must" rating from the Prussian, and Germans got an early start in accepting orders gracefully.

The French were and are different. Parmentier, a Frenchman who had eaten potatoes and liked them in a German prison camp, arrived home with a determination to popularize this food. Louis XVI could see the advantage of having well fed subjects and gave his royal sanction to the scheme, but the subjects were suspicious.

Parmentier knew his countrymen and obtained a detail of soldiers to stand guard every day around a plot of potato plants. At night, the guard was withdrawn and the neighbors pilfered what they would not accept as a gift in the days before potatoes were guarded. The edibility of the potatoes was readily established and seed stocks were in demand.

There are several legends about the return of potatoes to the United States. One of them is that a group of Scotch-Irish colonists on their way to grow potatoes and flax in New Hampshire stayed over winter in Andover, Mass., and left with the settlers there some withered tubers. These were planted by the Pilgrim progeny and flourished.

The resulting crop of seed balls did not appear too appetizing but various attempts were made to use them as sauce or pie filling. New England stomachs rebelled and stayed rebellious until plowing season the next spring turned up some potatoes which had escaped freezing. Their escape from the elements was accepted as an augury of divine sanction for inclusion in a list of foods which was shorter than the blessings under which they were consumed.

Potatoes now are produced in nearly every county in the United States but the national crop is only a quarter of the yearly production in Germany. Russia harvests more than Germany, and France about equals our crop. Alcohol made from European potatoes may keep planes in the air when an exhausted gasoline supply would ground these eyes and weapons of warring nations.

Placing of Fertilizer Important Farm Item

The correct placement of fertilizers is of primary importance to farmers. Experiments show that fertilizers should be placed at about the same depth or slightly below the feeding roots, so as to permit the latter to reach the plant-food easily and quickly. The best results with grain crops is obtained when the drill has a fertilizer attachment which sows the fertilizer directly with the grain at the same depth. The planter for potatoes should be designed to place the fertilizer in a narrow band two to four inches away from each side of the sets and on the same level or slightly below the sets.

For garden crops the fertilizer should be placed in a narrow band on each side and two to four inches away from the plants, or when the plants will come up in the row, and about the depth of the feeding roots (which means two to three inches). Grain drills and potato planters with suitable fertilizer attachments for placing the fertilizer as described above have been available for a number of years, and there is now a hand implement on the market for fertilizing garden crops in the approved "band-way."

Shifts in Dairying

Ups and downs and geographical shifts in dairy production are reflected in statistics assembled recently by the bureau of agricultural economics. From 1930 to 1933 there was a definite upward swing in butter manufacture. For the next three years the trend was as definitely downward. Drouths of 1934 and 1936 were an important factor. A year without much change followed and then a sharp rise between the fall of 1937 and spring of 1939.

Soil Conservation District Commonplace

"A soil conservation district is just like a high line running past a farmer's place," declares T. V. Weaver, Manager of the Soil Conservation Service Demonstration Project near Stratford.

This comment of Weaver's is made in reply to the question often asked as to whether or not a farmer is required to carry out soil and moisture conservation practices on his land if his farm is included in a legally-constituted soil conservation district.

"A farmer within a district does not have to adopt conservation practices unless he so desires," Mr. Weaver points out. "That's why I like to compare a district with a high line. The farmer can hook onto the high line for electricity if he desires, or he can just let it go by. He can do the same with a district. "Another reason why a conservation district is like a high line is that if a farmer does not wish to use its resources the first year, he can 'hook on' later. The district, like the high line, will be there for him when he wants to take advantage of the opportunities it offers."

The program of a soil conservation district is decided upon by the farmers themselves, and its use is purely voluntary on the part of the individual farmer. Weaver points out. Work is done only upon request of the farm operator. The principal assistance which districts can receive from the Soil Conservation Service is the loan of available heavy equipment for building terraces and other structures, conservation surveys, technical aid in running terrace and contour lines, farm planning, and the furnishing of limited amounts of trees and seed.

John Nance Garner of Texas Lauded in New Campaign Song

DALLAS—A swinging melody and catchy words—in a new song about John Nance Garner, Vice President, has just been published under the title: "Cactus Jack," by the songwriting combination of Rex Lampman and Jack Foy.

Amateur song-writers have deluged the Dallas headquarters of the Garner-for-President campaign with new verses, of their own writing. The song has eight verses, but only four are printed herewith, as follows:

I
In Texas down by the Rio Grande
There's plenty of work for a good cowhand,
There's milk and honey and hot tamales,
And the sweetest bunch of "O by gollies."
The sky is wide and high and blue,
And you say to strangers "how de do."
There's room to breathe or to bet a stack,
There's the blue bonnet girls and there's Cactus Jack.

Chorus:
Cactus Jack, he's a-riding straight,
Riding straight for the White House gate.
Don't look away, don't look away,
You can't look away from Texas.

II
We'll tell you this about Cactus Jack:
He's quick on the trigger or a wisecrack,
Just as wise as an old horned toad—
There ain't very much he's never knowed!
He can hogtie a vesting quick as you wish,

If the river ain't dry he'll catch you a fish;
Cactus Jack with his old seegar,
He'll look right nice in that White House cart!

III
We'll tell you this about Cactus Jack:
He's got no time for a fraud nor a quack!
And when you see his spurs and hat,
You know there goes a Democrat!
He can uncork a speech, let freedom ring,
Slap the back of a British king!
Cactus Jack with his lariat,
He's going to rope the White House yet!

IV
We'll tell you this about Cactus Jack:
He's hit the trail and he won't turn back;
He's riding high and he's riding straight,
And he's headed for the White House gate!
From Amarillo to San Antonio
They'll tell you Jack has never been thrown;
Ki, yi, yippee! Cactus Jack!
He'll hang his hat on the White House rack.

McDonald, defeated in 1938 by Bascom Giles for land commissioner, will be a candidate again this year. The last campaign centered around the land department decision on most favorable bids on oil leases. In some cases the greatest cash bonus was held to be the best bid; in some of the greatest amount of royalty, and in others a sliding bid known as a logarithm bid was accepted. Acceptance of bids are now the duty of a land board.

Voters Face Confusion In 1940 Primaries

Texas voters are probably in for some confusion during the 1940 primary campaigns.

For instance, Lon A. Smith, present Railroad commissioner, is to be opposed by Lonnie Smith of Ft. Worth.

Confusion of names in primaries is not particularly new to Texas voters. Some deliberate attempts have apparently been made to confuse voters.

In 1938, Vernest O. Thompson of Dallas, tried but failed to force the State Democratic committee to place his name on the ballot as a candidate for governor along with Ernest O. Thompson of Amarillo, W. Lee O'Daniel, Wm. McCraw and about eight others.

Four years ago many voters were confused by the names of J. E. McDonald who ran for agriculture commissioner; and Wm. H. McDonald who ran for land commissioner. The ballots reflect the confusion but both men were elected.

Incidentally, many believe Wm.
