Miss Lillian Baskin is recovering from a severe illness.

Miss Elva Dunlap is improving after a long illness.

Grandpa Dunlap has been very low for several days.

The oil well reports are very encouraging. The casing is being put in the well this week, and we feel confident the well will soon come in.—Reporter.

EAGLE TO ISSUE SPECIAL EDITION IF FISHER OIL WELL IS A PRODUCER

O. E. Greathouse has been busy this week hauling casing from the well near Lometa to the Home Oil Company's well in the north-eastern part of the county. Casing was to have been hauled the first of last week, but on account of the condition of the roads it was impossible to haul it before now. As fast as it is arriving at the well it is being put down, something like 1,000 feet having already been strung.

It is the intention of the drillers to pull the 1300 feet of liner, set a concrete slab, then the small casing to near the bottom of the hole, thus shutting off the water and allowing operations to continue.

Those connected with the well think that when the 2800 feet of water now standing in the well is pumped off, that the well will come in a producer.

Should it fail, it is their intention to drill 400 more feet or to the 3500-foot level.

Considerable gas is reported to have been drawn up the first of this week while drawing slush from the bottom of the well.

Should this well come in a producer when the water is eased off, or anything of an exciting nature happen, the Eagle will rush a special edition free to all its subscribers on the first mail.

SONGS AND THEIR HISTORY AT THE METHODIST CHURCH SUNDAY NIGHT

The Hebrews Gave Much Attention to Music.

"The musicians of King Solomon's temple consisted of soloists, trained choirs, a great chorus of the people, and an orchestra. Some of the Psalms were chanted antiphonally, one choir responding to the other, while the refrain was sung by the great chorus of people. The grandeur and impressiveness of this part of the service was such as to make the most magnificent musical service of our day pale into insignificance.

Josephus, in his "History of the Jews," states that there were in the first temple 200,000 silver trumpets, 200,000 coats of finest silk, ordered by the king for the use of the singers, and 40,000 harps and psalteries made of purest copper. While these figures are doubtless exaggerated, they do indicate that the musical services were of such grandeur as to give rise to extravagant statements.

The author of Second Chronicles (5: 11-14) eloquently describes how the glory of Jehovah filled the house of God when the singers, arrayed in fine linen, with cymbals, psalteries, and harps, stood at the east end of the altar and with them 120 priests sounding trumpets; and the trumpeters and the singers were as one, to make a sound to be heard in praising and thanking Jehovah, saying, "For he is good, for his loving kindness endureth forever."

The members of the local Methodist church likewise believe in music as an instrument of worship. While we in no measure or manner propose to compete with the musical programs of King Solomon's temple, but in the enforced absence of our pastor, Rev. Josephus Lee, will offer to the public on next Sunday evening a unique and unusual musical program.

The evening hour, beginning at 7:30 o'clock, will be devoted to a musical program. There will be no sermon, but during the program there will be given a bit of history, or experience of the author, back of or responsible for some of the old hymns that are so dear to us and we all love so well to sing. The service will be a sort of study of some of the old church hymns.

The following is the proposed program.

- Program.
 Prelude—Orchestra.
 Prayer.
 Song by Congregation—"My Faith Looks Up to Thee."
 Chorus by Children—"Love Lifted Me."
 Song by Congregation—"Come Thy Fount of Every Blessing."
 Chorus—Choir.
 Solo, rendered by Mrs. W. K. Marshall—"Ninety and Nine."
 Song—Special by Men's Chorus.
 Song by Congregation—"Abide With Me."
 Duett, Mesdames O. H. Yarborough, W. K. Marshall—"Remember Me."

Trio—Mesdames S. P. Sullivan, J. A. Gillespie, O. H. Yarborough.
 Chorus—Choir.
 Song by Congregation—"What a Friend We Have in Jesus."
 Offertory—Orchestra.
 Doxology.
 Benediction.

DUREN.

Health is fairly good in this community at present. Was feared during the snowy weather the children would all be sick as child like all had to partake of the snow falling, but seemed to make them more healthy with heartier appetites.

Miss Sybil Guthrie our principal teacher here deserves double pay and to be highly praised for her attendance during the bad snowy weather. On Monday she came from her home which is 6 or more miles through the heavy snow storm. The snow got so heavy and deep they had to leave their car and she and her father walked rest of the way, near two miles. She arrived a little late, all covered in snow, but was there every day and taught both rooms, as the primary teacher, Mrs. Ratliff, was absent. Miss Sybil is very much interested in her pupils and school work and a teacher we should all be proud of.

Rev. Slate preached at his regular appointments here Saturday, Saturday night and Sunday. Rev. Johnnie Jones preached Sunday night.

Mrs. Will Perkins spent Saturday night and Sunday with her mother, Mrs. J. L. Farmer at Mullin who is very sick with pneumonia.

Miss Johnnie Hicks was a weekend guest of Mrs. Velma Lawson.

Mr. and Mrs. George Frenche of Bangs visited home folks last week.

Milton Casey of Maverick moved Cleave Warren and family down last week. They are to make their home on the old Ingram place.

Mr. Andy Dunlap and little niece are reported to be resting better the last few days. Mr. Dunlap has been very sick with serious kidney trouble and the little girl very low with typhoid fever.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Martin and family, also Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fletcher were visitors in the home of Tom Crockett and family Sunday.

Jim Green of East Texas has been visiting relatives here the past week.

Misses Alene Hamilton and Lou Ella Hodges were among the number to attend church here Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker Wigley were called to San Saba last night to be at the bedside of Cap. Crockett, who has been dangerously sick with typhoid fever.

"I began taking Black-Draught over fifty years ago and my experience with it stretches over a good long time," says Mr. Joe A. Blake-more, a Civil War veteran and former Virginian, who is now a prominent citizen of Floyd, Texas. "It is the best laxative I know of for old people. . . A good many years ago, in Virginia, I used to get bilious and I found that was the best and quickest relief I could get. Since I came to Texas I have these bilious attacks every now and then—a man will get bilious anywhere, you know—and I find that a little Black-Draught soon straightens me out. After a few doses, in little or no time I'm all right again."

Thedford's Black-Draught is a purely vegetable liver medicine, used in America for over eighty years. It acts on the stomach, liver and bowels in a gentle, natural way, assisting digestion and relieving constipation. Sold everywhere.

Father—"Yes—why?"
"Well, Harold and I sat on it last night and Harold got paint on his trousers."

Mike—"Sure, the darlin' soul never said a word. An' I was goin' to have them two front teeth pulled out anyway."
She was just a tiny child, and her father was a minister. They had always lived in the East, but he had been called to another field in Oklahoma. They were to depart for that destination early the following morning. After the little girl had said her evening prayer, she appended: "And now, dear God, good-by, for I am going to Oklahoma!"
"I am afraid this is going to be rather painful, my little man," said the dentist kindly. "Want to take gas?"
"Not much, I don't," replied the youngster in the chair. "If I take gas, how can I tell the fellers how much it hurt?"
"The time will come," thundered the lecturer on women's rights, "when women will get men's wages."
"Yes," said a weak little man in the back seat, "that goes for next Saturday too!"
A London temperance orator was in the habit of holding forth in a workman's hall, and was constantly being interrupted. The next time he lectured in that hall he engaged a prize-fighter to sit in the gallery and keep order. He was contrasting the clean content of homelife with the squalor of drunkenness.
"What do we want when we return from our daily toil?" he asked. "What do we desire to ease our burdens, to gladden our hearts, to bring smiles to our lips and joy to our eyes?"
As the orator paused for breath, the prize-fighter shook his fist at the unruly members of the gallery and whispered in a loud undertone: "Mind yer, the first bloke wot says 'beer,' ut he goes!"

The Development of Our Railway Net in Texas

By Walter Splawn
Railroad Commissioner of Texas.
WALTER SPLAWN
Railroad Commissioner of Texas

Texans early recognized their need for adequate transportation facilities. As early as 1836, the first year of Texas' independence, the Congress of the (infant) Republic proposed the Texas Railroad, Navigation and Banking Company. Its capital was to have been five million with possible increase to ten million dollars. All through the forty's there was constant talk of railroads. A number of railroad companies were chartered during that decade, but Texas was too poor to build the desired railroads.
It was not until 1853 that twenty miles of railroad track were completed and put into operation near Houston. By 1861 there were about 500 miles of railroad completed in Texas, and about four-fifths of this mileage was built out from Houston.
Buffalo Bayou, Brazos & Colorado, from Harrisburg to Alleyton, 80 miles. Houston and Texas Central, Houston to Millican, 80 miles. Washington County Railroad, Hempstead toward Brenham, 21 miles. Galveston, Houston & Henderson, Galveston to Houston, 50 miles. Houston Tap and Brazoria, Houston to Columbia, 50 miles. Texas and New Orleans, Houston to Orange, 111 miles. Eastern Texas Railroad, Sabine Pass to Beaumont, 25 miles. San Antonio and Mexican Gulf, Port Lavaca to Victoria, 28 miles. Indianola Railroad, Indianola to Junction Point, 15 miles. Southern Pacific, Marshall to State Line, 27 miles. Memphis, El Paso and Pacific, Jefferson, 5 miles. Total mileage, 492.
These railroads, built before the Civil War, were located in the cotton and sugar lands. They furnished more dependable means of transportation than the Texas rivers.
We may ask how it was that Texas was able to construct about a mile of railroad for every thousand people by 1860. There were several sources of aid to these early roads.
First, the people of the State rendered some assistance by individual gifts. Committees were usually appointed by meetings of citizens along the route of the proposed railroad, who canvassed every one for cash contributions. Up to 1860, the Harrisburg line had expended $1,209,000; $24,000 of this amount, was given outright by citizens of five counties served.
Another source of assistance was the sale of stocks to people along the route. Of the $1,209,000 expended by the Harrisburg line before 1860, $312,000 had been procured in this manner. Frequently, planters would furnish the labor of their slaves and teams and take stocks of the company in payment.

In the third place, city and county bonds were issued for the benefit of the railroads. A statute in 1850 authorized such use of municipal credit. Under this law, San Antonio issued $50,000 of bonds and Bexar County, in which San Antonio is located, another $50,000. This was used in building 28 miles of road from Port Lavaca to Victoria.
A fourth source of aid to these early roads was the state. State aid took two forms. First, loans from the permanent school fund. In 1850 Texas relinquished her claims to the territory east of the Rio Grande River in what is now New Mexico to the Federal Government in consideration of $10,000,000 in United States bonds. Of this amount $2,000,000 was set aside as a permanent school fund. The State authorities decided that the bonds of the local railroads would be safe securities in which to invest the school fund. Besides the railway companies were finding it impossible to obtain money to pay for ties, rails, and equipment. Under a law passed in 1856 the railroads mentioned above borrowed $1,816,000 from the permanent school fund.

Here's What People Say About Tanlac

"If it had not been for Tanlac I would still be a sick, discouraged woman, for nothing else seemed to do me any good," says Mrs. Edward Gibbs.

All the advertising in the world and all the sales efforts combined could not have made the great success for TANLAC that has been attained, unless this reconstructive tonic possesses merit of the greatest degree. Over 40 Million Bottles of Tanlac have been sold and the demand today is greater than ever before.

That TANLAC possesses merit and has brought relief to hundreds of thousands of persons is attested by the great number of testimonials that have been received by the company from people in every state of the Union and every province of Canada. There are over 100,000 such statements on file with the company, all ringing with sincere praise for TANLAC and what it has accomplished.

Here are excerpts from a few of the 100,000 statements on file:

Mrs. Edward Gibbs, Lancaster, Pa.—"For two years indigestion deprived me of nearly all the pleasure of living. It had not been for TANLAC I would still be a sick and discouraged woman, for nothing else seemed to do me any good."

Mrs. Mary A. Benson, Seattle, Wash.—"Following an operation my stomach and nerves seemed to give way and I became almost helpless. As a last resort I tried TANLAC. I began to improve from the very first, gained 29 lbs., and today am feeling fine."

O. E. Moore, Kansas City, Mo.—"My stomach seemed to pain me constantly, food seemed to do me no good, I would bloat up with gas, lost my strength, and could not sleep or rest. I was on the down-grade all the time. Tanlac corrected my troubles and put me in excellent shape."

Thomas Lucas, Petersboro, Ontario: "Well, sir, buying TANLAC was the best investment I ever made, for it built up my health and strength to where I haven't a complaint in the world."

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Kaake, Detroit, Mich.: "For more than a year our three children, age 2, 4 and 6, had been so peaked and lifeless that we were worried about them. Their stomachs were upset, appetites poor, color had left their cheeks, their nights were restless and during the day they would just mope around, taking no interest in play or anything else. They began to improve with the first dose of TANLAC, and today there are no more healthy children in Detroit."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 40 million bottles sold. Accept no substitute.

HAZING CANNOT BE DEFENDED.

(Phil H. Clements, in Farm and Ranch.)
Mills County, Texas.

Farm and Ranch:

I notice in your issue of February 2nd a communication from a young man who says he is a student in one of our State schools. I am glad you gave his letter space. The writer approves hazing and leaves us to believe that the habit is fixed in that particular institution.

If we would have us learn from him that no great progress can be made in the cause of education where hazing is not. He informs the people that a certain class of young Texans are not wanted in the school.

Recently, authorities of the school which the writer of the article is probably attending, denied that hazing now is practiced there, though admitting that some trouble had existed not so very long ago. Were they mistaken, or is the young man correct. The issue is joined between them, and the public has the right to know the facts in the matter.

Publicity should be expected and even demanded from every department of public activity supported by taxation. I do not think that the conditions in any of our great schools is so bad as the article in question would have us believe. Nor do I believe that any great number of young men who are accepting the benefits of the State's generosity, and pursuing their studies hold to the doctrines preached by this lad. He says he is a first year man. In that fact lies hope.

All boys entering one of our schools sign a pledge that they will not engage in hazing, thereby tacitly disapproving the practice. Has somebody forgotten his solemn promise?

Problem: If a boy of twenty forgets his pledge in two and one-half months, how little will he learn in three and one-half years.

I am tempted to say that anyone who now flies in the face of public opinion and approves brutal hazings is risking his reputation for loyalty, as the boy with his new Ford risked his life:

"He drove his Ford on the rails in front of the rushing train. Some remains were put in pails,

But they could not find his brain."

HEED THE WARNING.

Many Goldthwaite People Have Done So.

When the kidneys are weak they give unmistakable warnings that should not be ignored. By examining the urine and treating the kidneys upon the first sign of disorder, many days of suffering may be saved. Weak kidneys usually expel a dark, ill-smelling urine, full of "brick-dust" sediment and painful in passage. Sluggish kidneys often cause a dull pain in the small of the back, headaches, dizzy spells, tired, languid feelings and frequent rheumatic twinges.

Doan's Pills are for the kidneys only. There is no better recommended remedy.

Goldthwaite people endorse Doan's Pills. Ask your neighbor! Mrs. W. A. Richards, Goldthwaite, says: "I was troubled with a sore and lame feeling across the small of my back. When I stooped it was hard for me to straighten, as my back was weak. I had headaches and nervous spells and the action of my kidneys was irregular. I felt tired out in the morning. I got a box of Doan's Pills at Clements Drug Store and am glad to say they cured me. I highly recommend Doan's to sufferers of kidney trouble."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mrs. Richards had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.—4-8.

Largest Policy in World Insures Railroad Workers For Over Tenth of Billion

NINETY thousand railroad employees, insured in a single group, will benefit by a policy just issued for $110,000,000. This contract for over a tenth of a billion is the largest group insurance policy ever issued.

The contract was purchased from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company by the Southern Pacific Railroad and will cover all the employees of the system and its subsidiaries. It is estimated that the company will have to pay claims averaging $75,000 a month.

A group division office has been opened in San Francisco to handle this great co-operative project. The railroad's personnel will have the advantage of the company's welfare service, nursing service, policy-holders' service bureau and other distinctive features.

The extent of this work is evident from figures recently made public. Last year, Metropolitan health nurses made over 2,400,000 visits to the sick in 4,000 cities and towns. The company assisted in over 350 health campaigns and at present is giving its support to a nation-wide movement for the prevention of diphtheria by means of the Schick tests.

The employees of the great rail system, with their families, will receive the protection provided by these various activities. Their scope will extend up and down the Pacific Coast and throughout the Southwest and will affect the men and women who have played an important part in the development of that part of the country.

The history of the Metropolitan's Group Life Insurance plan dates back seven years. It has developed to such an extent that the company has 1,700 corporations carrying insurance for their employees. The plan is described as "a big co-operative movement between capital and labor."

Group insurance is making available valuable data on health, absenteeism, labor-turnover, accidents, and loss of life of individuals in American industry. The records, assembled in the Metropolitan's research department, together with the results obtained from surveys made of various occupations, may be procured upon request.

Good Government Speech Made by Neff Wed. Night

(Special to Goldthwaite Eagle)

Governor Neff, in a public address at Corsicana Wednesday night, March 5, speaking by invitation of a citizens' mass meeting, called to discuss good government and law enforcement, said, among other things, the following:

"The people of Texas have twice elected me to the second highest office beneath the American flag—the Governorship of Texas. This is an honor that can come to but few. In order that I may, in some measure, fittingly acknowledge the debt of gratitude I owe, and in part compensate the democracy of my state for the confidence reposed in me, I am always glad of an opportunity like this to discuss with the people the duties and obligations of good citizenship. I would indeed prove myself unworthy the honors bestowed upon me, if I did not now, and during the coming years, gladly work wherever and whenever I could be of greatest service in promoting the principles of good government, and in the making of my State and Nation a better place in which to live.

These are testing times for the American Republic. We are at this time witnessing in our national capital, a series of startling disclosures which tend to prove that trusted men, high in the political councils of the nation, have sold for money their official integrity and political influence to those who sought to procure without proper compensation the properties of this government. Those high in office, selected to be the guardians of our government, have, like the Praetorian Guard of ancient days, sold their country to the highest bidders.

Confidence in the honesty and integrity of official life has been shattered as never before in the history of the nation. The alarm clock has struck, and the people who own this government are awakening, and will drive the bribe takers and the sellers of political influence from the nation's capitol.

The only agency through which we can hope to return this government to the days of Jacksonian integrity, and thus restore it to the confidence of the people, is the Democratic party. The question is, will the party of Jefferson be brave enough, strong enough, and virtuous enough, to measure up to the imperative demands of these challenging days? Is Texas to take a part in the solution of our national problems?

Texas, being a perpetual star on the flag of democracy, has been inclined, in the past, to let rust gather on her party machinery when it comes to the selection of delegates to the national convention. This should not be the case in the presidential year 1924. In the selection of the forty delegates to represent this state, Texas democracy should function from the fields and the factories. From the rank and file of the people should come the forty delegates who are to represent this great commonwealth at the Democratic national convention. Our conventions, both State and National, should be democratized.

It is highly important that specific and absolute instructions as to principles, be given by the Texas Democracy to her forty delegates selected to represent the state in the national democratic convention. They should be instructed, not only to vote for, but to fight for those well-known principles of morals, of justice, and of government which have ripened in their finest essence on Texas soil, and which, during recent years, it has been the peculiar privilege of this virile and forward-looking state to courageously and victoriously espouse. They should be instructed to vote for and to work for the selection of a democratic nominee who honestly and constructively believes in the virtue, the validity, and the vitalizing power of the state and national prohibition laws; one who seriously and courageously believes in the rigid enforcement of all the laws, both state and national; one who consistently believes in the full participation of our womanhood in the making of our laws and in the governing of our country; one who has both the courage and the honesty to sweep the national capitol clean of every trace of official dishonesty and political corruption. No man whose personal ideals and public conduct does not square with these principles of honest government, honestly administered, should be made the party standard-bearer.

On May 27th, at Waco, the militant, law-enforcing, progressive Democrats of Texas will meet in convention to write a platform proclaiming the vital principles of our party. This same convention will select delegates to represent this state at the national democratic convention.

The candidate for the Democratic nomination for President who receives the vote of the Texas delegation should be in actual and sympathetic accord with the vital principles of our platform. Any candidate for the Democratic nomination who even expects to receive the vote of the Texas delegation must be able, in good conscience, not only to stand on the platform of the Texas democracy, but such a one should be in position, personally and politically, to successfully defend the platform at the national convention, and finally before the American people. The platform and the candidate must fit as a glove, without a rent of past political history, and without the necessity of patching or cleaning private conduct or public career. Texas democracy should not be tied to the chariot-wheel of any man who does not passionately believe in the ultimate success of national prohibition, woman suffrage, honesty in official life, and in the final triumph of right over wrong. The Democratic party cannot win a national victory in 1924 if led by one, whatever may be his public professions, who is directed by, or improperly associated with, the sinister influences of this country. No candidate who has, or who inherits, as the convention proceeds with its deliberations, the support of the corrupt powers or the wet influences, should receive the support of the Texas delegation.

"By their friends ye shall know them," is a splendid thought to keep in mind when the time comes to select the standard-bearer of the Democratic party. Our nominee should be neither machine-made nor machine controlled. No man now dares forecast what a day may bring forth in the world of politics. In view of the present chaotic political condition of the country generally, I believe that the precinct delegates, selected on May 3rd to attend the county conventions on May 7th, which in turn will select delegates to attend our state convention on May 27, at Waco, should be definitely instructed as to the fundamental principles of the party. Then, leave it to the good judgment of the state convention what further instructions, if any, should be given to the forty delegates selected by the state convention to attend the national democratic convention.

As good citizens we should all be present and take an active part in the selection of delegates at the precinct conventions on the evening of May 3rd, to the high end that the fundamentals of government which we have fought for in Texas and won during recent years, shall not be side-tracked.

BEAUTY THROUGH DIET AND EXERCISE

THE FIRST OF A SERIES OF FOUR ARTICLES

By BETH JEFFRIES

THE radiocrocinologists—not the goblins—will get you if you don't watch out! They are scientific physicians who abolish decrepit middle age and ugliness, by shooting some billions of light rays into one or more of the endocrine glands—nowadays supposed to be the real power plants of the body.

But the radiocrocinologists really only accomplish artificially what the sun does naturally.

So why wait for age, and the gentlemen with light rays to accomplish that which you can work out yourself with infinite pleasure? Sunlight is free, while the artificial light costs . . . well, enough.

There is one great difference between the two roads to beauty and youth. That is the order in which the process works out.

The artificial light gives youth and then the desire and will to employ exercise and diet as hand-maidens. But, already possessing youth, the desire and will are there for the tapping, and using sunlight, exercise and diet is but the natural outcome of a wish for a better body.

So it would seem that the first requisite in the search for beauty is the interest and the will to do. Work up your interest. Find out the means. And then proceed along that line which best adapts itself to your particular demands.

Sometimes it is not easy to find the way, even though will and desire are there. Housewives are apt to let the round of daily duties absorb them. Girls in offices have so little time to themselves that a lone half hour is a pearl nearly without price. Women in the professions find themselves wrapped in a mesh of circumstance. But if benefit is reckoned against cost it will be a poor logician who cannot see that the time required to gain conservation of the powers that enable one to go along in the world is the finest of all investments. This is not an argument for the worship of the neglect of all duties. Too much attention to oneself is worse than none at all.

But granting that beauty and health are desired, and that the will to accomplish this is strong enough to enable you to pick out a little time for yourself each day, the end can be accomplished. Remember that ten minutes, half an hour, or better still, one hour a day is not too long a time to devote to the search for youth and beauty. An hour a week will show its good results in the years when crow's feet and adipose tissue are trying to gain a hold.

Let's take these handmaidens in their order. First and most important is sunshine. True we do not have it every day, but there are many sunny days when women spend their time in dark houses and apartment buildings and thereby deprive themselves of vitality for the physical body and encourage thoughts of morbidity.

Get out when the sun shines, even if it is merely to wheel a baby carriage, or to stroll in the park, or to go to the grocery store, or sweep the front walk, or chase a truant child, or journey to a card game or a department store. If the sun shines, walk in it. Sit in it. If you can, uncover your body and bask in it.

And while in the sunshine, think about it. Yes, think about it and what it is doing for you. Don't carry your unwashed dishes and mussed bureau drawers and unanswered letters with you. Leave them behind. Let the sunshine get into your brain just as surely as you let it enter your body. Meaningless prayers mumbled in a sort of chronic distraction never reach their destination. And even God's sunshine cannot pierce the shadows of the dark corners of a cluttered and worried brain; although it can soothe tired nerves and point the way to mental peace.

Best of all, of course, is the privilege of being able to have sunshine, and exercise and fresh air all at once. Golf, tennis, out door swimming, out door basket ball, hockey and cross country walking are only a few of nature's most efficient radiocrocinologists. The woman who can indulge in them and does not, is throwing away youth with one hand and gathering ugly old age with the other.

Next comes diet. Enough material has been written on this subject to fill a book seven and six

Let's Make Goldthwaite A Clean City During 1924

Spring will soon be here and the trees and grass will be resplendent in their new foliage. Nature will show us pictures of perfect beauty, a challenge to match her beauty.

Our self-respect makes us keep clean. We wash our hands and faces; we bathe our bodies. We do these things possibly without thinking of their effect upon our health. These efforts pay in better health. Do not let us forget that cleanliness of our homes and their surroundings, our villages, our towns, our cities, is just as necessary to our health and self-respect as cleanliness of our persons.

Many a town has good looking streets and the front of the houses and yards are immaculately clean; but what of the alleys and back yards? Piles of rubbish, manure, ashes, rags, boxes, cans are in evidence there and junk of all kinds clutter the vacant lots. Then a clean-up week is ordered and most of the population works for a few days cleaning their yards and houses.

Why not give your home and community the same treatment you do yourselves? If the rubbish was disposed of, every day or two, it would take an insignificant amount of time more than health and se. Flies cannot spread their young. Every one thing possible. Water should stand for for it is there

Everyone who is normal, should eat fruit and green vegetables, and fish. And no white bread. You who wish to be thin should avoid butter, potatoes, macaroni, rice, anything containing starch. And incidentally you shouldn't sleep too much. No naps. Sensible hours. No rich desserts and candy. You who wish to be fat should eat what you please, but you should avoid foods which seem harmful and upsetting. You might try eating very regularly, four or five times a day. Never put a full meal into a tired stomach. A good schedule is breakfast at eight, milk or fruit, or any tid bit at eleven, luncheon at one, tea at four, dinner at six. If only a bite of dinner is desired, eat that bite, then take nourishment before going to bed.

when the body is uncovered do we realize that it is too fat, or too lean, or too ill balanced. Again, many a woman can reawaken her whole interest in herself by beginning with the bath tub. Gloriously tinted and scented soaps are an aesthetic delight. Bath salts give one that luxurious feeling of ease and untold wealth, and from the whole gamut of creams and lotions at least one pet can be chosen by even the poorest and busiest of housewives or business girls. Indeed, it is not amiss to suggest that, for some, the first step towards awakening an interest in beauty via exercise and diet should come through the toilet accessory by way of the bath room. But the bath of habit is never so glorious as the bath of necessity. After a hard day at golf, or tennis, or even housework, the bath tub holds a special charm.

Exercise is something that one can get, no matter what the circumstances. A set of daily gymnastics is best, but if one simply cannot do these, then part of the daily work should be made into exercise.

Walking is exercise. Washing clothes is exercise, sweeping is exercise, even combing one's hair is exercise. One wealthy woman who lives in an apartment hotel where she cannot do very much, washes out two sets of underwear every day over a low tub. She makes an exercise out of it. She straightens up and down and up and down and sways back and forth. Then she makes a habit of stooping to pick things up from the floor without bending her knees. She has kept at herself for a year. At fifty she is as pink cheeked and agile as a girl.

Yet with exercise comes the same question of mental attitude as with sunshine. Concentrate on your work. Make your muscles act. Feel them stretch, think about what is happening to them. Breathe deeply. Don't let your body sag anywhere. Think of yourself as you would be. Don't overdo at the start but on the other hand do not take sore muscles, and a protesting lazy body as signals that you are hurting yourself.

Exercise without diet and sunshine, and a good mental attitude is about as useful as a phonograph without records. Sunshine and normal attitudes cost nothing, they give everything. And they slay the bogey old age. Not a medicine, fooling the million of our kind.

Habits That Shorten Life-Whisky-Over-Eating-Tobacco

1. The Whiskey Habit.—One of the things which, especially before the Eighteenth Amendment was written into our Constitution, took a large toll of our population was alcohol. Even now after we have national prohibition, alcohol (or some concoction containing alcohol) is carrying away a great many of our people every year. With bootleg liquor, or liquors that are said to be pure, no one knows the contents of a bottle, no matter what the label says. Bootleg whiskey is one article behind which there is no guarantee, for the guarantee of the lawbreaker is absolutely worthless. But continued use of the purest whiskey in the world will tend to shorten life. It hardens both arteries and liver. The children of alcoholic parents are subject to any affliction to which the flesh is heir, they have little resistance against any of the infectious diseases, and they may be warped in mind and body.

So much for the now dethroned King Alcohol. It is a poor beverage and a poorer medicine.

strike every Sunday at least, for we eat more on Sunday than any other day and has much less use for it. Serve cold food on Sundays, Mrs. Housekeeper, and very little of it, and your groceryman and doctor bills will be less and the welfare of your family will be greater. Friday should always be a meatless day.

2. Over-eating Habit.—This is one sin that 99 per cent of our people indulge in, and to my mind there is no one thing that has a greater tendency to shorten life. There is a Roman proverb that says, "More people die by the palate than by the sword." By taking too much food, and bolting it down without thorough chewing, our stomachs and intestines become overloaded, the digestive juices cannot digest great quantities of food, therefore there is always an excess of undigested food in the bowels that ferments and putrifies, and thus acts as a poison to the whole system. The clogging up of the system with undigested food puts an extra strain on heart, liver and kidneys, and finally we have some serious heart, liver, kidney or artery trouble. This poisoning process may be rapid as in cholera morbus and inflammation of the bowels or stomach, or may be slow, as in chronic diseases of the digestive system.

3. Tobacco Habit.—We know we are treading on dangerous ground when we mention tobacco as one of the things that shorten life, but that it does is a fact, especially when indulged in in youth. Tobacco is a drug and a stimulant, and the good Lord never intended for anybody to indulge in drugs and stimulants continually. Tobacco affects everybody, but not all alike. People 100 years old have been known to be in good condition for their age, although having used tobacco all their lives, but this was not on account of tobacco, but in spite of it. Every individual must be a law unto himself. If tobacco hurts you, cut it out. Anyhow, under no conditions, should people under the age of 21 use tobacco. See your doctor and let him give you honest-to-goodness advice about using tobacco, and follow his advice.

4. Worry Habits.—Continued worry tends to shorten life, both for the warrior and the "worrye." Do your lever best and don't worry about consequences, but leave them in God's hands. The things you worry about most almost never happen. Continued worry gets you in a low nervous state that often develops into melancholia, a form of insanity. You can't change anything by worry. There is always a brighter side to every question, so let's find it, and look at that side.—Dr. F. M. Register, in The Progressive Farmer.

amount of time and all would be repaid in increased health and self-respect. Flies cannot breed and raise their young if there is no filth. Flies spread typhoid, dysentery, etc. Every one should do everything possible to destroy this pest. Water should not be allowed to stand for any length of time or it is there that the mosquitoes multiply. The Anopheles mosquito is the only known method by which malaria fever can be contracted. Drain or oil all standing water; also punch holes in old cans and pails so that water cannot accumulate. The mosquito must have water or she cannot reproduce her kind. Therefore, no water no mosquitoes, no malaria. The water and milk supply of a community should also be kept

Cotton.—The present cotton situation is entirely beyond economic law and controlled by those who are opposed to the best interests of the farmer in the opinion of the president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation.

Mayfield-Peddy.—Sensational developments may result, according to a Washington dispatch this week, from discoveries made by clerks in the Mayfield-Peddy election of 1922 recount while the vote of Fannin county was being canvassed. Evidences of repeaters in behalf of Mayfield were found. There were 59 duplicated ballots in Fannin county and 102 in Ellis county, says the dispatch.

The Laney Well.

(Hico News-Review.)

A force of men under the guidance of Mr. Hillingsbum of Cisco came down to the Laney well last Tuesday and at once began preparations to get busy. The well was bailed out about noon Friday and actual drilling has been resumed and has been carried on steadily up to this writing. These gentlemen seem bent on going on to completion of this well. They are drilling down by the side of the big stem that was lodged in the well last fall, and hope that as soon as they can get it loose to remove it and drill the well in. Prospects for a gusher are still fine, and perhaps within a week or so we will be in the midst of an oil field.

SOLDIER BONUS BILL WILL BE REPORTED TO HOUSE

Washington, March 6.—Agreement to report a soldier bonus bill was voted 16 to 4 today by the House Ways and Means Committee. No action was taken on the form of the bill to be reported. Representative Bacharach, Republican, New Jersey, presented his plan for limiting compensation to paid-up insurance and other plans were discussed, but the committee decided to go into all of those tomorrow. John R. Quinn, national commander of the American Legion, yesterday presented the indorsement for the four-option bill passed last session. It provided cash payments to those entitled to less than $50; adjusted service certificates—a form of deferred payment, vocational training or farm and home aid options. While Bacharach was instructed to prepare figures showing the probable working of the insurance plan, considerable sentiment also was voiced, particularly from the Democratic members, for full cash payments along with insurance. Bacharach said the insurance plan would cost about $2,000,000,000 with the highest cost in any one year about $778,000,000. It would allow about $2.65 of insurance to each veteran for each day of service.

Washington, March 5.—A two-fold soldiers' bonus plan providing options of full cash payments or paid-up insurance was proposed to the House Ways and Means Committee today by a committee of veterans representing House Democrats. Rep. Jeffers, Alabama, who presented the plan, argued the government owed former service men adjusted compensation which should be offered in the coin of the realm. If all veterans elected to take the cash payments, Jeffers said, it would cost $1,319,500,000, which could be met by a bond issue. He favored compensation for army officers up to the rank of captain. The same basis of figuring adjusted compensation used in the bill passed last session—$1 a day for home service and $1.25 a day for overseas service—would be applied in the plan and payments would be limited to $500 for home service and $625 for overseas service.

RAILROAD RATES UNJUST, SAY TEXAS CATTLEMEN

Amarillo, March 5.—Rail rates were attacked as being unjust; Congress was asked to pass the Capper bill restoring rate-making powers to the states, and the proposed amendment to the packers and stockyards act which would hamper "co-operative marketing of livestock," was opposed, in resolutions passed by cattlemen today in the closing business session of the Panhandle Livestock Producers' convention. The association demanded that pre-war railroad rates on livestock be restored.

MERRY WIVES CLUB.

The Merry Wives Club met in regular session Tuesday with Mrs. J. H. Randolph as hostess. The home was beautifully decorated in honor of St. Patrick. The perfect blending of the white and colors cast a soft light throughout the reception suite. The favored flowers were white roses. The dainty score cards were adorned with Irish lads and lasses and the score pads were huge shamrocks.

After several games of 42, embroidered covers were laid and refreshment plate passed consisting of salad, nut sandwiches, olives, white cake, and hot chocolate; the white and green mints were contained in dainty receptacles. Mrs. Neal Dickerson and Mrs. Randolph tied for high score for the club members, Mrs. Jake Saylor as guest.

Exercise in Hammock Helps to Reduce Weight

To exercise the parts of the body in which fat accumulates, and help users improve their physical condition, a revolving hammock has been invented. It is said to stretch the spine and the muscles, stimulate circulation, and reduce weight. The device consists of a metal framework, with stirrups at one end and head grip at the other. A strap goes under the chin. Canvas webbing, shaped like a "Y," supports the body.

Farms in Cities Predicted in Seventy-Five Years

Small farms within the city limits, double and triple-decked streets, and greatly enlarged traffic accommodations of all kinds, will be needed by New York within the next seventy-five years, it is predicted, to care for the 29,000,000 inhabitants who by that time are expected to call the city their home.

Navy's Electric Fleet Has Power for Giant Tasks

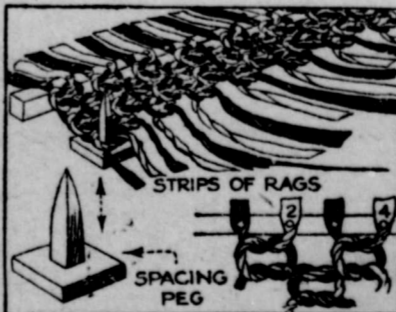

Electric energy generated by the six battleships propelled by electricity now numbered among the navy's fighting craft, according to engineers, if applied to other tasks, could furnish sufficient power to run 3,200 street cars or pull forty-eight pasenger trains. A mountain of solid rock 5,000 feet high and the same distance through the base, if placed on an immense jack, could be lifted by the force required to operate the vessels, at the rate of a foot a day. Connected to pumps, it is enough to drain Lake Michigan at such speed that the level would be reduced ten feet a year, or it could light, heat, and furnish power to 600 towns with populations of 5,000. Were it possible to use the energy in artillery, 200 tons of shells could be shot onto the moon each day.

Simple Method of Making Rag Mats

Excellent doormats can be made at home from strips of rag or burlap. The strips must all be of the same width and twisted until they are about the thickness of a finger. The strips are tacked, about 4 in. from one end, to a length of wood, and are spaced 3/4 in. apart. The width of the mat depends on the number of strips used, which must be an even number.

After fastening the length of wood to a table or bench, the strips are ready to be woven, which is done by tying them together with "square" knots until the mat is completed. The first knot is tied with the first and second strips, the second knot with the third and fourth strips, the third knot with the fifth and sixth strips, and so on to the end. The second row of knots is begun by tying the second and third strips, then the fourth and fifth strips and so on. The knots are all tied in the same way, and the method of doing this is plainly shown in the detail. A spacing peg must be used, so that all the knots will be of the same size; the knot is tied around the peg, which is then slipped out. The peg should be about 1 in. square and tapered to a point.

Lead-In Fits under Windows

Fitting under a closed window, a flexible lead-in now on the market should prove popular with radio fans. The lead-in is thin and flat, and can be bent to any shape to fit closely to the window ledges. It is covered with a fire-proof, insulating material which prevents grounding of circuits on wet window sills, and eliminates the necessity of drilling holes and fitting porcelain tubes in the window frames. Tabs are provided at the ends for soldering the down lead from the aerial and the lead to the instrument. The fitting will prove of special benefit to radio enthusiasts living in apartments, where the drilling of window frames is usually prohibited.

Preventing Windows from Steaming

Steamed and frosted windows are a source of annoyance to many housewives as the moisture not only obstructs the view but also soils the glass through the accumulation of dust when sweeping or cleaning. A cloth bag containing a few spoonfuls of tobacco, placed in the water used to wash the windows, will overcome this trouble and will also impart a clean, crystal effect that is very pleasing.

B. Y. P. U. STUDY COURSE WEEK.

March 9-16 is B. Y. P. U. Study Course Week. The Goldthwaite B. Y. P. U. will take "Training in Stewardship." The books have arrived, and everything is ready to begin the study. Now let's have a good attendance Sunday evening, and get ready for a big week of profitable study together.

Do we want an A1 B. Y. P. U.? One of the requirements is that at least 50 per cent of the enrollment must take and pass the examination in at least one study course each year. Next week is the time of the year and perhaps the only time that the B. Y. P. U. will have an opportunity to meet this requirement.

The Trigger Mt. B. Y. P. U. plans to begin a study course soon. Byron Hays will teach the class. We wish the teacher and class a successful study course.

The editor shall appreciate news from the B. Y. P. U.'s of the county. We can encourage one another by knowing what each union is doing.

Electric Locomotive Is Victor in Tug-o'-War

Two monsters of the rails, one operated by electricity, or "white coal," and the other by steam, staged a spectacular tug-o-war at Erie, Pa., recently before railway officials from all parts of the country. Puffing and snorting, with its huge driving wheels turning ahead, the steam locomotive was pulled backward, despite its utmost effort to hold its own. Both engines were of the same weight. The steamer is one of ten built for service in Mexico, where it will haul freight over grades twice as steep as those usually found in the United States.

Men Outnumbered by Women in Census of World

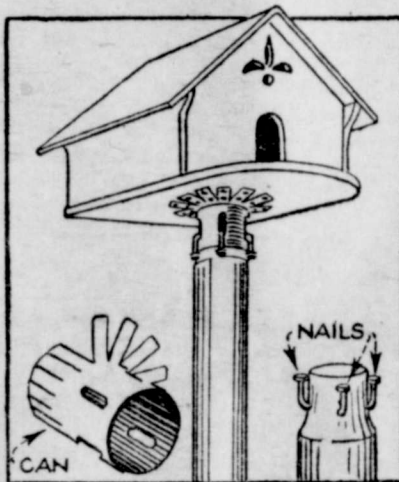

That there are more women than men in the world, is the conclusion drawn by a statistician after recent researches. Among the 475,000,000 inhabitants of the earth, there are 250,000,000 women, 25,000,000 more than the number of men, his figures show. In Germany there are 1,026 women to each 1,000 men; in Russia, 1,400 women to each 1,000 men; and in France and Belgium, respectively, 1,093 and 1,033 for each 1,000 men. The 1920 census reports for the United States show that there are 1,040 males to every 1,000 females in this country. The preponderance of women in foreign lands is believed to be partly explained by the death toll of numerous wars in the past few generations.

"Soap Holes" of Cowboy Days Become Valuable Clay

"Soap holes," once thought by cattle rangers of the West to be dangerous mines of worthless slime, have become mines of mineral clay of great commercial value. Bentonite, as the substance taken from the deposits is called, has been made into an ingredient to give body and weight to paper and to aid in the mixing of wall plaster and pastes. Soap makers experimenting with it are said to have found it possessed of good cleaning qualities and beneficial to the skin. Many of the clays and massage creams used by beauty parlors are mixed with it as a base. In the raw state it lies near the surface. Since it absorbs almost seven times its volume of water, it forms a soft, slippery mass where the deposits are in low ground.

Detachable Bird Houses

It is becoming quite the fashion for country, suburban, and even city dwellers to provide small bird houses in yards and parks. They are usually mounted on poles or in trees, and as they are securely fastened, it is not an easy matter to remove them when it is desired to paint, repair, or clean them, which is occasionally necessary. A method of mounting a bird house so that it can readily be detached is shown in the drawing. The top of the supporting post is trimmed down to fit loosely inside a No. 2 fruit can, which is cut and slotted as shown. The can is nailed to the underside of the bird house and slipped over the end of the pole. Nails are then driven into the slots and bent downward at right angles as shown, so that the can will not slip off. When removing the bird house the nails are turned to the position shown in the lower detail, when the can may easily be released by an upward pull.

Decomposition caused by contact of the cream with metallic surfaces in the churn produces an iron lactate that causes the "fishy" taste frequently detected in butter, government experts have discovered.

Miners' Wives Take To Bowling And Tennis; Recreation Big Factor of Mining Town's Life

Interest in athletic amusements is not confined to the young women in schools, colleges, or city clubs, but is constantly gaining ground in mining communities, according to a report gathered for the National Coal Association from bituminous mining regions. The chief interest among the women of the mining communities, says the report, is in the outdoor type of sport; but the development of community recreation buildings is adding devotees to bowling, the above picture being typical of "women's hours" in the alleys, in a town not far from where Jack Dempsey was once a "pin-boy". Among the men the most popular game, as in the case of most but reports indicate a growing interest among the younger generation of miners' wives in tennis. In one typical mining region, where the mining companies have had to construct the entire community, eighteen towns were found to have 24 tennis courts open for every body who wishes to play. These courts, like the bowling alleys, were constructed at the expense of the companies, and tennis representing a community are becoming more common each year. It was found in some other mining communities that the women favored croquet as an outdoor sport, while the card-playing fad had "as much popularity as elsewhere". In connection with community recreational activities, the report says, there is scarcely a town in the entire district surveyed which does not have a community Christmas tree, the companies heading the list of contributors for the entertainment which forms a part of the celebration. The recreational development is just one phase of a wholesale awakening on the part of the mine operators in the last few years to the importance of surroundings which will make for healthy and contented workers. And the conclusion of the investigators who made their report was that "social and recreational life in the mining town is equal to, and more often superior to that of the small independent town of the same population."
